Unknown Soldier Brings Message To Writer, Former Hereford Woman

The following is reprinted from a Ventura, (Calif.) newspaper and was written by Mrs. Grace F. Guthrie, formerly of Hereford, who is now taking an active part in civilian defense activities by serving as an air raid warden in Ventura. Of the following story, Mrs. Guthrie writes, "It's true and I thought this might help."

"He's a Venutra boy—a lad from junior college. Been away awhile—has seen Bataan, Corregidor, New Guinea and yes, Guadalcanal. A bullet stopped him there so he's home again. The wound has healed but he'll carry its mark when he goes back as he's anxious to do and expects to do soon."

"He sat in the hotel lobby, silently, apparently a stranger. Not different in appearance from dozens of other young men in uniform who pass in and out of hotels during any day now, there was yet about him an alert awareness that was noticeable. Presently a woman seated near him began an account of her trip to Ventura on a troop train. When she mentioned that the troops were a contingent of returning overseas soldiers, the young man was suddenly articulate:

"I was coming down here about that time, just back from overseas. I was lying on two coach seats thrown together for a bed—you see I wasn't well yet. That might have been my train."

The point was forgotten in the quick interest his statement aroused. Civilians are well schooled in the art of what not to talk about to service men, any phase of the war being taboo. But this boy—he was only that—he was different. He seemed to have grasped the fact that we needed the thing he could give by talking to us. So he talked, and he did give us just that. Questions were literally flung at him, and to them all he replied graciously, earnestly and modestly.

"Yes, we're afraid," he said, "every man gets the fear of God in his heart when he knows he's just going into battle. The fear passes when you're under fire—passes in a way. You're bewildered—afraid to stop and afraid to go on—so you just go on. You see your buddies fall, perhaps the one next to you—and you go on. You see the Jap and you know you must get him first. Your mind still functions. He may have his hands up, begging. You remember your training and he gets all that you have. I saw the best friend I had fall—but I went on. That's war. Every soldier understands that."

Asked about chaplains, he said: "They're swell. They're having a school for us out here now, trying to bring back some of the things we've lost. I'd call it the touch of civilization. You see, we forget everything like that. We eat and sleep and train to kill—and then we kill. We forget, because we have to forget."

There was a silence, then he continued, brightly: "I was lucky to get back to Ventura, lucky to get back at all. Out of nearly 200 in our detachment, 23 returned. We all want to go back and help finish the job. We've underrated the Japs, and we've got to do something about it and do it now. And we're ready whenever they need us. But I've a long furlough, 25 days."

His name? I don't know. The thing he was so outstanding that names had no importance. To me he will always be the Unknown Soldier who showed me so vividly the pitiful insignificance of a few bonds, a few hours work each week, and a few additional dollars in taxes."

It seems that the weed situation is getting out of hand from an editorial angle as well as from an agricultural standpoint. Last week, merely to acknowledge the loyalty of my many fine friends in Deaf Smith county, I jotted down a few of the splendid things they had to say about the weeds in my own victory garden. Now, it seems that A. M. Jackson, so-called champion weed grower of West Texas and editor of the Slaton Slatonite, is mad. He figures that I personally challenged him, "slapped him in the face with a weed as it were," and he is making a personal appeal to the loyalty of his own readers to support him in an apparently futile defense.

Here is what he says: "As for my claims, I can prove by Pete Pearson, local manager of the Southwestern Public Service Company, that my weeds are so tall that they have rubbed all of the insulation off the light wires that are strung over my garden. A Mexican sent out in July with a machete to gather my corn was last seen hacking his way through the small six foot weeds that border my potato patch. We have lost three dogs and a neighbor's pet pigeon named Homer got lost in our garden last May. And as to Mr. Gillentine's desk I will contest him every inch of the way, in fact I will dare him to find the top of my desk, much less to find the correspondence that I should have answered last February including two Income Tax inquiries that have since caused me some embarrassment.

Then the very idea of the people of Hereford claiming more varieties of weeds than Slaton makes me snicker up my sleeve. Why Abe Kessel's plot on Texas Avenue right in the business district looks like a weed nursery. It has climbing weeds, running weeds, weeds that nip at you when you pass by and weeds that eat tomatoes, potatoes and young corn; and I would also like to call attention to the fine exhibit of weeds that have grown up down the middle of the sidewalk from the business district to the Santa Fe station on Texas Avenue where strangers have reported dinosaurs and sabre toothed tigers stalking their prey. Other weed growers that deserve honorable mention are Leo's Farmall Shop, Crow-Harrel Chevrolet Used Car Lot, the City Park lot in the rear of the Slaton Motor Co., where the water tower has been completely obliterated. These are just a few of the outstanding weed cultivators of long experience but if necessary, we could call in most every citizen of Slaton and swamp such amateurs as those in Hereford. In fact Slaton can challenge the world. Mr. Gillentine, you have been extremely rash and I will accept nothing but 'unconditional surrender'.

Despite my modest assertions, this thing is really getting serious. Otto Bordenkircher thinks he started a feud by printing the stuff in The Star Telegram, then Lewis Nordyke put it on the Amarillo Radio Sunday morning. As a result letters are beginning to come in from people who actually believe that Slaton might have more weeds than Hereford. Of course, any person who took the trouble to investigate would know for certain that Hereford has more weeds than anywhere else, but the trouble is that a lot of skeptics won't investigate; they might even fall for this dribble Mr. Jackson is putting out.

With this in mind, I started a thorough investigation. First I went over to the utilities company to ask Sam Batton what he knew about this fellow, Pete Pearson, referred to in the slanderous Slaton article. Sam started out grinning when I mentioned the name, then he got to laughing so hard that he finally fell out of his chair. That's how absurd he thought Slaton's idle boasting.

"Do you know," said Sam, when he finally got his breath, "that they are still using light poles around Slaton—and with the present shortage of materials, too?" No sir, their weeds aren't even tall enough to use for light poles."

Sam started laughing again, so I left. Mr. Jackson mentioned seeing a dinosaur and tigers, so I got several of the more strong-hearted citizens on this angle. About noon Walter Spradley came running in out of breath with news that he had spotted a hairy ape. I grabbed a camera in one hand and a compass in the other and followed Walter up Third Street a few blocks until he suddenly halted and pointed to one of those jungle alleys. We checked the compass and stealthily made our way in a north-by-northeast direction. After an hour or so (we had covered 150 feet) we heard the noise which had put Walter on the trail. We broke through and saw the thing. Was I disappointed? It wasn't a hairy ape at all. It was only Homer Fox, leaning on a big weed—and surrounded by a covey of 200 half-grown Hungarian Partridges. Homer was right glad to see us, though; he said a pack of wolves had been giving the birds some trouble and he would be glad of our assistance.

I am still looking for a dinosaur, but I am about to give up hope. Furthermore, I haven't heard of any bear, elk, or tigers like Mr. Jackson boasts—and I don't think I will. These big animals do all right in open places like Slaton, but when weeds get big and close together like they are in Hereford these large animals just can't get around. I really think all of the larger animals became extinct in this community along toward the latter part of July. Anyway, we are not giving up. In fact, Hereford won't even count the weeds in the State Park. We're saving those for any future contest with Guadalupe. Furthermore, Mr. Jackson, I wish to point out that you put yourself in this embarrassing circumstance. No one disputed your boast of being the champion individual weed grower. You were the one who put it on a city-wide basis—and that's where automatically you lost out. You simply made a grave mistake and will have to suffer the consequences.

However, there is a bright spot in this talk of dense vegetation. G. W. Brumley used to go to the ranch each morning over a route along Fifth Street, passing the residences of Mont Baker and John Patton. Some months ago, these two popular play-boys put out patches of beans and Mr. Brumley has been watching them with the idea of getting a few on his way to work. However, it seems that John and Mont had the same idea; they both planted their beans in the shade of trees. Mr. Brumley says he sees them often, sitting in the shade and watering the beans stalks—but there are no beans due to the fact that they are planted where they never get any sunshine. On the other hand, Jim Lipscomb would say that Mont and John planted when the signs were wrong.

Lades of the South Hereford Home Demonstration Club are certainly on their toes. They made a quilt containing blocks for each of the 48 states, including the state flower, then sold the quilt. Altogether they netted approximately $50, which they are donating to the hospital in the Hereford Prisoner of War Camp.

Several farmers have dropped into The Brand office requesting that we publish warning to all dove shooters not to get mixed up and accidentally shoot any of the pheasant, Hungarian partridge or quail—because they are certainly going to file some charges if anything like this happens. Some of them read where a fellow from Borger mistook a doe for a coyote in Palo Duro Canyon the other day and killed the doe. Game wardens got on the job and it cost the offenders $433. Jim Maggard, State Game Warden, says he is sending some extra game wardens down here for the dove shooting season, which opens Sept. 1, and that rigid enforcement will be made on all regulations, including the shooting from automobiles, across roads, without plugged guns, etc. If you like to shoot doves and happen to have any shells, be careful. It is also illegal to shoot doves with a .22 rifle.

Taxpayers May Get Collector's Aid In Preparing Declaration

If you are required to file a declaration of your estimated income and victory tax for the year 1943 on or before Sept. 15, you may want to take advantage of a visit of Deputy Collector Warner of the Department of Internal Revenue, who will consult with taxpayers at the First National Bank all day on Friday, Sept. 3 to help them in preparing their declarations.

Generally speaking taxpayers required to file the Sept. 15 declarations are single persons earning more than $2,700 and married persons earning more than $3,500 from wages or salaries subject to withholding, or those who have incomes of more than $100 from sources outside of wages and salaries or persons whose 1943 wages subject to withholding are reasonably expected to be less than their 1942 wages as recorded on the 1942 income tax return.

Heavy penalties are imposed on persons required to file declarations who fail to do so or who fail to pay the required amount of estimated tax on or before Sept. 15. Penalties are also provided for substantial underestimations of tax due.

Persons who desire the help of the deputy collector must have available the following information:

A copy of his 1942 Income Tax Return.

Cancelled checks or other evidence of income tax paid on March 15, 1943 and June 15, 1943.

Estimate of victory tax deducted from wages Jan. 1, 1943 to June 30, 1943.

Estimate of withholding tax deductible from wages July 1, 1943 to Dec. 31, 1943.

Definite estimate of net income (gross income less allowable deductions) from all sources for the calendar year 1943.

Proclamation

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES

Proclamation

RECOGNIZING THE FACT that in carrying the war into enemy territory, we shall need greater amounts of money than any nation has ever asked from its citizens in all history, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do officially proclaim that on Thursday, the ninth of September, 1943, the Third War Loan shall be launched

As Commander-in-Chief, I hereby invoke every citizen to give all possible aid and support to this Third War Loan drive, not only so that our financial goal may be reached, but to encourage and inspire those of our husbands and fathers and sons who are under fire on a dozen fronts all over the world. It is my earnest hope that every American will realize that in buying War Bonds in this Third War Loan he has an opportunity to express voluntarily and under the guidance of his conscience, the extent to which he will "back the attack."

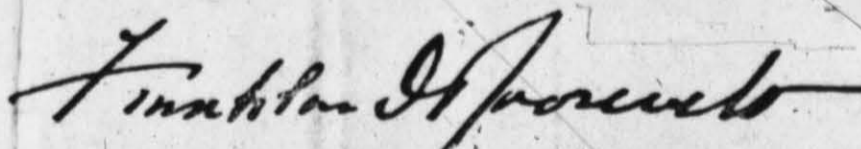

The American people supported well the first and second War Loan drives and in fact did even more than was asked of them. Our need for money now is greater than ever, and will continue to grow until the very day that Victory is won; so we must ask far more sacrifice, far more cooperation than ever before.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington, this twenty-sixth day of July, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-eighth

By the President:

CORDELL HULL
Secretary of State.

Hungarian Partridges Thrive In Sections Near Hereford

"In the Panhandle, particularly in the Canadian River Country, the nesting ground has been built to order for Hungarian Partridges," writes Eltinge F. Warner, publisher of FIELD & STREAM, in the current issue of that popular sportsman's magazine. A wire from Gene Howe, of Amarillo, quoted in Mr. Warner's article, says that numerous large coveys have been raised from the original planting of 150 pairs of these speedy game birds shipped in from Canada last March and April.

The partridge planting project was conceived in 1942, while Elt Warner, Tom Main of Alberta, Gene Howe of Texas and Lou Calder of Florida were enjoying a successful hunt near Brooks, Alberta. Hungarian partridges, plentiful in that area, furnished a big part of the sport. "We'd put up 20 or 30 coveys a day," Warner writes, and goes on to relate how they then and there planned to start the popular game birds in Texas, where along with other Southwestern States, the climate and nesting conditions are ideal. Warner and his hunting pals, led to every one they could find who knew anything about Hungarians, particularly Fred Green of Calgary, who imported the first Huns to Alberta 35 years ago. They read everything they could scrape together on the life and habits of the little foreigner, and among other things discovered that the hen lays her eggs in a small depression such as a hoof-print, or anything similar; that unless the soil is sandy and drains off rapidly, the water in these depressions rots the eggs. That is why the Hungarian partridge has not done well in many parts of the United States. But in the Panhandle, and in similar areas of New Mexico, conditions are ideal.

On every ranch where the Huns were released the owners have agreed to take care of them and see that the coveys get a fair chance to multiply, and to furnish the game commission with periodical reports on how the birds are doing. A FIELD & STREAM "game protective association" was organized, pledged to take care of the little band.

Murrell L. Buckner, Chairman of the Texas Game, Fish & Oyster Commission, and Gene Howe, a member of the commission, arranged for the distribution areas and supervised the plant-

Blueprint for Home Front Victory

Fighting on the home front is an all-out campaign for Fairmont, Minnesota's 7000, along with some 350 imported Jamaicans. Every one—ministers, public officials, women—is pitching in to reap the county's corn crop. At top you see the Rev. Wilbur Korfhage preaching in the field during a brief Sunday recess, while the lower picture shows older women sorting kernels as they move out of the fast-freezer on a conveyor belt. Girls act as field hands.

"We are in hopes," Mr. Warner says, "that three years from now there will be a short open season on Hungarians in the Southwestern states." He points out that the Huns are great migrants, and believes that the Texas stock will in time overflow into neighboring areas of similar climate and conditions, just as the birds migrated from their original planting all the way from Western Alberta through Quebec and Ontario, until now there are literally millions of these birds in Canada and our own Northwest.

So Gene Howe's wire is good news to Southwestern sportsmen who look forward to the time when Texas hunters can try their skill on one of the fastest, sportiest game birds of all—the Hungarian Partridge.

NEWS in the World of Religion
by W. W. Reid

The National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church has named President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull to use all possible influence to assure that adequate representation is given to the Christian church at a peace conference, which will follow the war. It is pointed out that "at former peace conferences the accredited delegates have been accompanied by special advisors and consultants on almost every subject except religion," and that, "the ordering of the future relations between nations and races on a basis of freedom and justice, and the establishing of a condition in the world in which peace can prevail, are largely dependent upon the acceptance of Christian principles as a basis of action." "Surely we are not so naive as to think of this frightful war as an accidental event, unrelated to causes which have been operating in the body of humanity," says Dr. Robert W. Searle of the Greater New York Federation of Churches. "It behooves us to give ourselves to diligent search for causes and to the winning for a reconstructed society from which these causes have been removed. Certainly no clergyman or any congregation that is not moved by this termination ought to ask if the right to the name and title of Christian is not forfeited by this act—The toleration of conditions which deny the Golden Rule in any human relationship, dereliction to love. And the sure to do our utmost to remove from society the causes of conflict is to be guilty of the path, the misery, the pain that await conflict brings."

Christians of India and of China, finding that they have much in common in their interest in the furtherance of the Christian faith and of democracy, have recently made plans for closer unity and understanding. The faculty of the Nanking Theological Seminary, now in temporary exile in West China, has asked the National Christian Council of India to designate an Indian Christian scholar to visit Chungking for a period of months, interpreting Indian life to the Seminary, the West China Union University, and other institutions housed there. It is expected that a Chinese Christian scholar will be sent to Indian Christian institutions in exchange.

Racial and religious barriers have been well broken down in carrying on of the Christoffel Home for the Blind in Iran. Orphan mission funds" of the Territorial and Inter-church International Missionary Council support the Home; the local sponsor is Bishop W. J. Thompson of the Christian Missionary Society (Anglican); the superintendent is Pastor Christoffel, a German missionary; the financial agent is Treasurer J. D. Payne of the Presbyterian Mission in Isfahan. Of the inmates, fifteen are Christian Armenians, and twenty-seven are Turks and Persians. The Turks and Persians were formerly all Mohammedans but eight have recently been baptized Christians. A group of Mohammedan merchants from Isfahan recently visited the home and made a generous contribution.

Despite the great demand upon every available passenger space in airplanes and ships travelling between America and the Far East; by members of the armed services and related economic and diplomatic services, the United States government is sending place each week to return seasoned missionaries of various churches to China and India. The attitude of the government is that these men, most of them with long experience as educators, physicians, or evangelists, are needed to maintain good relations between the East and the West. Missionaries returning from furlough are given ven "priorities" by interdenominational committees and leave "from an undisclosed port for an undisclosed port."

This story comes from a missionary in China; Six tons of Bibles and other Christian literature waited at a point on the occupied side of the Yangtze River for transportation across to Free China. The Buddhist transportation company which had brought them that far had a permit from the Japanese authorities in Hankow, but the last Japanese sentry refused to honor it. Weeks passed. The Lutheran missionary in charge of the shipment learned that the Japanese sentry was anxious to win the favor of the Catholic priest in the district. The aid of the priest, an Irishman, was enlisted. He rode in the first boat, the sentry made no objection, and the literature was carried across into Free China.

Council Hears Convention Report And Report on Marketing Venture

Hearing reports from the recent meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association, members of the Deaf Smith County H. D. Council met Saturday afternoon to approve plans for convention reports to each club and to consider a partial report of the marketing committee on recent activities in buying peaches for sale to home canners.

Mrs. Merlin Kaul will report on the convention to the Erio, Wythe and South Hereford clubs; Mrs. Kaul and Mrs. R. L. Campbell will report to the North Hereford, Bippus and Simms groups; the Fairview and Ford Clubs will hold a joint meeting on Sept. 15 at the home of Mrs. Campbell for the purpose of hearing the report, and Westway and Messenger clubs will have a joint meeting at the home of Mrs. M. S. Roe on Sept. 8.

Mrs. Ira Ott of the marketing committee reported that more than 400 bushels of peaches have been handled through the recent co-operative order; but a complete report on the transaction was held for a later meeting.

Miss Sadie Lee Oliver talked to the group about recent reports from the Dalhart Experiment Station giving concrete advice on fruit varieties suitable to this area. Among the facts listed:

Cherries will "make" four years out of five in this territory and recommended varieties are Early Richmond and Montmorency.

Grape varieties recommended: Extra and Beacon; for a red grape, the Catawba.

Cherry plums—Opata and Sapa successful in this territory.

Peaches—will "make" one year in five. Record of plums a little better.

Government figures reveal that there is a 22 per cent bigger spring pig crop than there was last year. Mr. Bateman points out, adding that the capacity of slaughter houses is limited, that a uniform supply of pork products is vitally needed now, and that transportation, refrigerator and shipping space restrict the quantity that can be handled without loss during the months of heavy slaughter.
