Demolition Bids May Be Held Up

On the basis of this, Steck and other community leaders were hopeful that an opportunity yet would be given to local interests for securing at least some of the buildings ticketed for demolition.

The vetch is from six to nine inches in height and is already forming nitrogen-fixing nodules on the root system. Most of the soils of area are lacking in nitrogen, and wetch is very effective in supplying it. The seed should be inoculated, however, to get the best results.

Man Denied Bail As Wife-Slayer

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Dec. 18 (AP) -A 46-year-old brewery worker was held without bail today after pleading guilty to the fatal shooting of his bride of 12 days as scores of Christmas shoppers looked on.

Thomas H. Grant calmly dismissed a question of whether he wanted an attorney with the statement: "I don't care," when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ralph McLaughlin.

Police blamed jealosy for the slaying of Mrs. Helen Grant, 33year-old waitress, but no motive was discussed at the hearing.

Grant surrendered to police Monday night a few minutes after the mother of four children by a previous marriage was killed in the shopping district.

Services Have Been Expanded During Decade

Early in 1947, the Nalley Funeral Home will observe its 10th aniversary in Big Spring with greatly enlarged facilities as evidence of confidence earned in that decade.

These, as other improvements, have been made with an eye to service, Nalley pointed out, for thoughts for the convenience and comforts of families and friends were uppermost in the planning.

In enlarging and redecorating the Nalley Funeral Home, the chapel was increased in size by more than 700 feet of floor space. A companion improvement was the enclosure of the outlet to the Patrick's Day and fireerackers on encased in glittering metallic pa. gift, Caroline's reminds. Through Bernard Baruch, head of the American commission, the United States moved for immediate action on its proposal, and Great Britain seconded vigorously. The preponderance of the UN delegates were in favor, but Russia, like an experienced line backer on the field of play, stepped in with a plea to delay action-and succeeded in preventing an immediate vote.

There is reason for hoping, however, that the issue may soon be faced in the UN. One of the chief objections heretofore was that Russia would not agree to an inspection pro-

The Russian position of holding out for a national system of controls is less teneable because of its inventory agreement on military forces.

It is highly important that there be international understanding on the development and use of atomic energy, and mere efforts to outlaw it as an instrument of war are unneccessary. The sooner provision is made for turning this incalculable force into constructive fields, the better off the world will be.

Focal Point In Studying Planning

Before long, the proposed city zoning program will begin to take more definite shape. It is anticipated, on the basis of recent meetings, that the zoning and planning commission will make suggestion for alterations in the engineer's original proposal.

After this is done, hearings will be called and the public given ample opportunity to view the proposals, register objections, make suggestions. It goes without saying that this will be a highly important session and one in which the maximum number of people should participate.

Following this, the commission again will shape up proposals for presentation to the city commission, which in turn will hold its own hearing and determine if it wishes to proceed on a zoning and planning program.

Whatever the final plan, it will be nothing short of a miracle if it does not draw fire. It will be impossible to please all.

However, if one factor is kept in mind, arguments may be kept to a minimum except for pure personal interests. That factor is that the zoning and planning program must take into consideration what the picture might ultimately be-not altogether, what it is today. After all, this is the real objective of the program, and without making this one of the paramount issues, the program would lose much of its meaning.
