You can tell who the well-informed people are. They interrupt a lot.

The annual Mid-Plains Pioneer Celebration is scheduled here Saturday, with the class of 1939 starting a special reunion time Friday.

We ran a piece about reunions about year ago, but we think it bears repeating. It was penned by someone celebrating a 30th class reunion.

Reflections
Reunions are a competitive sport. At early reunions, classmates compete with each other about jobs and incomes. At the 20th, it's spouses and children and vacation homes while regarding, with envy or glee, classmates' waistlines, hairlines and wrinkle-lines.

As we approach our 30th reunion, we enter a new phase of competition—the one described by Woody Allen when he remarked: "Ninety percent of life is just showing up."

It is said there are three ages of classmates—youth, middle age, and "you haven't changed a bit." But change is the name of the game, Consider:

We were before VCR's, frisbees, American Express and $1.50 gasoline, but we had the hoola hoop. For us, time-sharing meant togetherness, not computers; a chip meant a piece of wood; hardware meant hardware, and software wasn't even a word.

In our time, closets were for clothes, not for coming out of; bunnies were small rabbits, and rabbits were not Volkswagens. We were before training bras, and we thought deep cleavage was something butchers did. We were before Mr. T, Rocky, Flintstone vitamins, disposable diapers, and Merrill-Lynch.

When we were in Hereford High, pizzas, frozen orange juice, instant coffee and McDonald's were unheard of. We thought fast food was what you did during Lent. We were before FM radio, tape recorders, electric typewriters, word processors, Muzak, disco dancing, and that's not all bad!

Almost no one flew across the country, and trans-Atlantic flight belonged to Lindberg and Amelia Earhart. India, Pakistan, Indonesia, and the Philippines were not independent countries, and we were before the cataclysm of nuclear fission.

We were before panty hose, drip-dry clothes, icemakers, clothes dryers and student beer busts. We were before unmarried members of the opposite sex took trips together, before men wore long hair and, for the most part, before premarital sex. Anyway, we got married first and then lived together.

In our day, cigarette smoking was becoming fashionable, grass was mowed, Coke was something you drank, and pot was something you cooked in. We were before day-care centers, house husbands, and fulltime baby-sitters. When we had a baby, it was a 7-day hospital event, not something you did on your way to work.

In the 1950s, American schools in our part of the country were not desegregated; blacks were not allowed to play in the major leagues; "Made in Japan" meant junk, and the term "making out" referred to how you did on an exam. We had "Five and 10" stores where you could buy something for a nickel or dime.

For just one nickel, you could buy a Coke, make a phone call, or buy a stamp to mail a letter. You could buy a new '56 Chevy for $1,500, but who could afford it? A pity, too, for gas was 25 cents a gallon. If anyone had asked us to explain CIA, NATO, UFO, NFL, BMW, Ms. or ERA, we would have said it's alphabet soup. We were not before the differences in sexes were discovered, but we were before sex changes. We just made do with what we had. And we were the last generation that was so dumb as to think you needed a husband to have a baby.

But the late 1950s were super days. We had Elvin, Fabian, Jerry Lee Lewis and Ricky Nelson. We could go to a dance at the Community Center or go to the Double K for a vanilla Coke. We played 45 rpm records and learned to do the "stroll." Unlike the break dances of today, we knew how it felt to have your partner hold you close, or we could rock and roll with Little Richard.

We didn't have to deal with consciousness-raising or sensitivity training. We didn't have to jog or like pasta sauce, pump our own gas, or practice yoga.

We have witnessed and dealt with the above changes, and we have returned for our reunion in 1986 to reassure ourselves that there are some things that never change—our ability to have a good time, and our pride in and love for our classmates and our Alma Mater! See you at the class reunion!

SW Bell files new rate plan

After weeks of discussion with cities, chambers of commerce and consumer groups across the state, Southwestern Bell Telephone Tuesday submitted its "Texas First" economic development proposal to the Public Utility Commission.

Under Texas First, Southwestern Bell would commit to no increase in the basic monthly rate charged for local telephone service for five years. During the same period, the company would under take an ambitious network modernization program aimed at upgrading switching in almost 200 Texas cities.

The proposal also calls for elimination of four-party telephone service, reduction in two-party telephone rates, expansion of local calling scopes in some metropolitan areas, and a reduction in rates charged to long distance companies in Texas with the intent that cost-savings be passed on to their customers.

The company will invest some $344 million and forego an additional $359 million in revenue to implement Texas First. In return, it is seeking the opportunity to earn 11 to 13 percent on its Texas investment, replacing the current regulated ceiling of 12 percent. If, after careful expense management and sales stimulation, the company surpasses the 13 percent mark, it proposes to share half the amount with its Texas customers.

According to Paul Roth, president of Southwestern Bell's Texas Division, the company's proposal has received support from diverse groups across the state. Roth said his company is aware of more than 780 letters and resolutions endorsing the concepts of Texas First. Included in that number are endorsements from some 127 cities, 169 chambers of commerce and economic development organizations, and 37 consumer and special interest groups throughout the state.

The Texas First plan, according to a leading economist, will not only launch widespread telecommunications modernization and improve the process of telephone regulation, it also will result in significant benefits to the state and to Southwestern Bell's customers.

Filing testimony on the company's behalf, Dr. M. Ray Perryman lauded the proposal, saying it could save the average Texas household as much as $9.41 during its first year, and $39.77 in 1993. In terms of relative savings, low income families in Texas would realize the greatest savings under Texas First, Perryman said. The Baylor University economics professor also said construction work required to upgrade central offices in the state under Texas First could create over 700 jobs in the outside marketplace and infuse some $260 million into the Texas economy over the next five years.

Besides submitting its Texas First plan, Southwestern Bell also responded to a commission-initiated inquiry into the reasonableness of its current earnings and rates. According to financial data filed by the company, its return on investment for the twelve-month period ending Dec. 31, 1988, was 12.39 percent, or 0.36 percent above the current allowed ceiling. The company indicated that although earnings were slightly above the allowed rate, they were substantially below the current cost of capital. Information submitted to the PUC also indicated that the company's return would drop below 12 percent if Texas First were adopted as proposed.

Calling Texas First a model for telephone regulation in the future, Roth contrasted the plan with the traditional rate-setting process.

The PUC filing to which Southwestern Bell responded asked the company to justify its earnings levels. In its response, the company pointed to investments of similar risk, and indicated a fair return would be near 13 percent on investment.

"In today's traditional environment, some $292 million in rate increases would be needed for us to achieve that earnings level. That would equate to about a $68 per year increase in one-party local residential rates," Roth said.

Roth quickly stressed, however, that his company is simply responding to a PUC staff inquiry and is not seeking a rate increase.

"We are not asking for a rate increase—'not yet anyway,'" Roth said. "Under the current outmoded regulatory approach, we have been asked to put forth our best estimate of revenue shortfalls. That's what we've done."

"But we're also saying there's a better way—one that offers us the incentive to improve our earnings, offers our Texas customers the promise of a first-class communications network at affordable rates, and maintains regulatory control. It's called Texas First," he said.

"Of course, if Texas First gets stuck too deep in the ditch, the only way out may be the traditional rate case tow truck," Roth said.

He expressed optimism, however, nothing company officials are continuing serious discussions.

Government issues AIDS book

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government issued a new AIDS prevention guide today specifically intended for parents and other adults to use in counseling young people about the disease.

"Too many of our young people are dying from AIDS and unless we take immediate action the epidemic will continue to spread among this very vulnerable population," said Health and Human Services Secretary Louis W. Sullivan.

The new guide is packaged in a folder containing a number of loose pages bundled in three categories - one aimed directly at adults emphasizing the importance of young people learning about AIDS, one with specific information on the disease itself, and the third with material written for various age levels that parents can pass on to their children if they desire.

The publication is being accompanied by radio and television public service spots encouraging parents to call the National AIDS Hotline - 1-800-343-AIDS - if they wish to have copies mailed to their homes.

The prevention guide is the cornerstone of the third year of the Public Health Service's education campaign entitled "America Responds to AIDS."

"I ask the people of America - parents, guardians and others - to take one simple, direct action to protect our children's health: to sit down and tell them how they prevent infection with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS," said Sullivan.

More than 18,000 of the nearly 95,000 Americans who have been diagnosed with AIDS were between 20 and 29 years of age when the diagnosis was made. Because a person can be infected with the HIV virus as long as 10 years before symptoms of AIDS appear, scientists believe a significant number of people in that age group were infected when they were still teen-agers.

Dr. James Mason, head of the Public Health Service, emphasized that the new guide is carefully tailored so parents can decide how to present the subject to their children in a way that takes into account each family's own values.

PHS spokesman Jim Brown said 500,000 copies of the new guide have been printed in English and 100,000 in Spanish. The television announcements promoting the guide have been produced in both English and Spanish.

Demos jockey for Wright's job

WASHINGTON (AP) - As quickly as rumors began sweeping the Capitol that Jim Wright might soon step down as House speaker, they were followed by House speculation on the fights likely to ensue over Democratic leadership posts.

At least nine names, led by Majority Leader Tom Foley of Washington, were mentioned Wednesday as various scenarios emerged for how the Wright succession could play out.

Foley was regarded as the overwhelming favorite to become speaker should Wright step down. But potentially tough fights could emerge for the posts of majority leader and majority whip.

"There is near unanimity of support for Tom Foley," said Rep. Pat Williams, D-Mont.

"I don't think the Angel Gabriel could beat Tom Foley," said another congressman who insisted on anonymity.

But that didn't halt speculation that a "clean sweep" slate would emerge to challenge all the incumbent members of the Democratic leadership.

Under that scenario, Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri would run for speaker. Joining him on a slate would be Rep. Ed Jenkins of Georgia as a candidate for majority leader, and Rep.

Bill Gray of Pennsylvania, currently chairman of the House Democratic Caucus and the only black mentioned as a candidate for a top leadership post, for majority whip.

Other names mentioned were Rep. Beryl Anthony of Arkansas, chairman of the House Democratic campaign committee; Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, Ways and Means committee chairman; Rep. John Dingell of Michigan, chairman of the Energy and Commerce committee, and Rep. Mike Synar of Oklahoma.

One rumor was that Wright would announce his resignation effective next Wednesday and even that timing was considered significant in any leadership fight.

The next meeting of the Democratic Caucus is scheduled for Wednesday and if that is the day Wright steps down, the assembled Democrats would vote that day for their choices for the leadership posts.

The theory was that a quick vote would favor incumbent leadership figures such as Foley and Rep. Tony Coelho of California, the Democratic whip. Challengers would have little chance to round up support because most House members would be scattered across the country for the long Memorial Day weekend.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, May 25, the 145th day of 1989. There are 220 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Ten years ago, on May 25, 1979, 275 people died in America's worst air disaster when an American Airlines DC-10 crashed at Chicago's O'Hare airport.

On this date:

In 1787, the Constitutional Convention was convened in Philadelphia after enough delegates had shown up for a quorum.

In 1803, American essayist and poet Ralph Waldo Emerson was born in Boston.

In 1810, Argentina began its revolt against Spain.

In 1935, baseball great Babe Ruth hit the 714th and final home run of his career, for the Boston Braves, in a game against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Forbes Field.

In 1946, Transjordan (now Jordan) became a kingdom as it proclaimed its new monarch, King Abdullah Ibn Ul-Hussein.

In 1961, President John F. Kennedy asked the nation to work toward putting a man on the moon by the end of the decade.

In 1963, the Organization of African Unity was founded, in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

In 1976, U.S. Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, admitted having had a "personal relationship" with Elizabeth Ray, a committee staff member who claimed she'd gotten her job in order to be Hays' mistress.

In 1985, more than 11,000 people were killed as a hurricane and tidal wave devastated Bangladesh.

In 1986, an estimated 7 million Americans participated in "Hands Across America," forming a line across the country to bring attention to and raise money for the nation's hungry and homeless.

In 1987, a jury in New York acquitted former Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan and seven other construction executives of fraud and grand larceny.

Five years ago: CIA Director William Casey dismissed as "politically motivated" a House subcommittee report that he had obtained briefing materials from President Jimmy Carter's 1980 re-election campaign.

One year ago: Acknowledging it failed to persuade General Manuel Antonio Noriega to give up power in Panama, the Reagan administration announced it would not engage in any more talks with him.

Today's Birthdays: Jazz musician Miles Davis is 63. Author Robert Ludlum is 62. Former opera singer Beverly Sills is 60. Country singer-songwriter Tom T. Hall is 53. Country singer Jessi Colter is 46.

Senate approves health care bill

AUSTIN (AP) - A bill to reverse the decline in rural health care has been approved by the Senate, and its sponsor says it should lead to the reopening of hospitals and to the development of better hospitals for people in the country.

Sen. Chet Brooks predicted that the bill "will have the greatest impact on health care, generally, and rural health, in particular, than anything we've been able to develop in this Legislature for the last 30 years."

The so-called rural health bill approved Wednesday was the Senate's response to what has been presented as a worsening crisis: Texas leads the nation in hospital closures, with 65 closing since 1984, and obstetrical care has been curtailed or abandoned by 61 percent of general and family practitioners.

Causes of the crisis, according to a task force that began work 14 months ago, include a disproportionate number of Medicare and Medicaid patients in rural hospitals and liability insurance rates that have skyrocketed by as much as 1,592 percent since 1984.

Brooks, D-Pasadena, said a "sticking point" in a health bill approved earlier by the House was the "area of liability."

The Senate version, which was returned to the House with amendments on a 30-0 vote, would provide for the state to cover the first $100,000 of malpractice awards related to obstetrical and emergency care, and the first $25,000 for other types of care.

The plan would apply only to physicians who contribute more than 10 percent of their practice to charity care, which also would qualify the physician for insurance premium discounts.

Herd readies for B'wood

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

After an appetizer of Panther, The Herford Whitefaces will be going for a full course of Lion as the take on Brownwood in a best-of-three series Friday and Saturday at Chaparral Stadium in Lubbock.

The Herd has a successful past on the artificial turf of the ballpark, with a 4-1 record there over three years. The lone loss was in last year's bi-district series with Pecos, which the Herd came back to win.

Game 1 of the series is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday with Game 2 set for 1 p.m. Saturday. Game 3, if necessary, will start immediately after Game 2.

Admission for the games will be $3 for adults and $1 for students. Saturday's admission will be good for Game 3 if it is played.

There will be no advance ticket sales. All tickets will be sold at the gate.

The Herd (23-2-1) heads into the series ranked second in the state in Class 4A. District 7-4A winner Brownwood (21-10) comes in after going the distance in two three-game series.

The Lions downed Pflugerville in bi-district action and held off Everman in the area round.

Herd coach T.R. Sartor said he will start the same lineup that played against Fort Stockton in Friday's Game 1 with Jason Scott (13-0) on the mound. Clint Cotten (6-0) will pitch for the Herd in Game 2 with Scott taking his place in center field. In case of a third game, Sartor said either Russell Backus (1-0) or Fidel Ceballos (3-2) will get the nod.

Brownwood's third-year coach Mark Howeth hedged against committing to a set lineup, but said the Lions will probably use the same nine that played against Everman.

The most used lineup for the Lions has been Brian Davis (batting .369 with 6 HR and 33 RBI) in left field, Kurt Jones (.328, 13 RBI) in center, Mitch Stovall (.376, 4 HR, 33 RBI) at third base, Sammy Kasberg (.396, 26 RBI) at first, Mike Smith (.385, 4 HR, 33 RBI) pitching, Gene Brandstetter (.320, 17 RBI) in right field, Ernesto Rivera (.269, 17 RBI) at shortstop, designated hitter Lewis Vasquez (.257, 13 RBI) batting for catcher Jess Rathke, and Kyle Montague (.210, 8 RBI) at second base.

Howeth said the Lions have been able to score runs in several ways and not just rely on the long ball or speed.

"The middle part of the order is real strong," he said. "And our lead-off and number two hitters run well and get on a lot, so we can do several things with them."

Smith (11-5, 3.42 ERA) got the win in the third game against Everman on Saturday with only one day's rest after winning the first game.

Howeth said Smith might start Friday's game, but the final decision would not be made until game time.

"He (Smith) has good control," said Sartor, who traveled to Weatherford for the third game of the Everman series. "He throws the basic pitches -- fastball, curveball, slider -- and changes speed, changes location real well."

Other pitchers for the Lions have been Rathke (5-0, 2.96 ERA) and Montague (4-5, 2.44 ERA).

Howeth said Smith will move to second base when not pitching, whether Rathke or Montague takes the mound. Rob Beal will come in to catch when Rathke pitches.

Howeth has had the Lions in the playoffs all three years he has been at Brownwood. In 1987, the Lions lost to Fort Worth Brewer for the trip to the state tournament and were ousted by Everman in zone playoffs last year.

"I don't think (last year's early exit) has had any effect on this team," he said. "When you get into the playoffs, it's a matter of which team happens to be hot."

The 1989 Brownwood team is young but experienced. While they start five juniors and a sophomore, seven players returned from last year and two starters played as freshmen on the 1987 team.

Howeth, who did not have an opportunity to scout the Whitefaces, said "I don't know how we'll match up or how we'll do against a pitcher that's 13-0 (Scott), but, like I said, it's just a matter of who's hot."

Sartor said the Herd will depart as soon as school lets out Friday and stay the night at Holiday Inn South in Lubbock.

A&M opens playoffs

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - Jackson State coach Robert Braddy accepts the luck of the draw in having to face nationally No. 1 ranked Texas A&M in the first round of the NCAA Central Regional playoffs.

"A&M has a great club and it will be a tough task but we are not in awe of them," Braddy said. "We are all 0-0 now. Only one team will leave here."

Sixth-seeded Jackson State, 32-18, has never won a game in two previous tournament appearances and will be the underdog against the Aggies, 55-5.

The Aggies will take a school record 55 victories into the regional tournament after winning last week's Southwest Conference tournament on the same field.

"We've been ranked No. 1 for much of the season and we had a good club last year, so I'm not surprised we had a good season," Johnson said.

"I am surprised that we had only five losses. To play 60 games and have five losses defies the laws of probability."

"We have a solid team but you've also got to have some magic and luck and we've had our share this season," Shortstop Chuck Knoblauch, third baseman John Byington and second baseman Terry Taylor have been the heart of the Aggies the last three seasons.

"They've done remarkable jobs for us but people don't realize that we've got a very well balanced team," Johnson said. "We've had good seasons out of everyone this year."

O'Rand team wins first Wednesday scramble

A team composed of Jeff O'Rand, Lupe Tijerina, Dean Herring and Dwayne Robbins carded a 29 yesterday to win the first Wednesday Scramble of the summer at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Each member of the team earned $36 in golf merchandise for the victory. Three teams shot a four-under par 31 for the runnerup spots. The scramble is played each Wednesday at 6 p.m. and is open to all interested golfers.

The Kiwanis Club Golf Tourney will be played at the course Friday, beginning at 8 a.m.

Bates now a proud, proud, proud father

DALLAS (AP) - Although he's hit some opponents hard enough to make them see double, Dallas Cowboys defensive back Bill Bates was seeing triple when his wife gave birth to three babies.

Denise Bates had triplets Wednesday at Humana Hospital-Medical City in Dallas.

The babies were about eight weeks premature, but Dr. Briant Herzog said the two boys and girl as well as their mother were doing fine.

As for Bates, the player said pro football hardly compares to becoming the father of triplets.

"After playing football, you are really spent," said Bates, who joined the Cowboys as a free agent in 1983. "But playing professional football is a piece of cake compared with having triplets."

The three are the couple's first children and were named Graham William, Brianna Gail and Hunter James.

Royals crown Texas, 6-4

ARLINGTON (AP) - Kansas City Royals reliever Tom "Flash" Gordon bristled last week at criticism from the Texas Rangers that he was a "two-pitch pitcher."

Those two pitches were quite sufficient Wednesday night as the 5-9 rookie struck out six of the seven batters he faced to earn his first big-league save and help the Royals break a six-game losing streak, 6-4 over the Rangers.

While Gordon downplayed the motivational factor of the Rangers' critics, Royals manager John Wathan felt Gordon used the pointed comments to his advantage.

"I think he did," Wathan said. "Gordon did a superb job. You've got to give him credit. He's a gamer. There's been only one time this year where he didn't have his good stuff."

Gordon struck out veteran Buddy Bell with two outs in the eighth with three straight curveballs after falling behind 3-0, then struck out the side in the ninth to preserve the victory for starter Bret Saberhagen, 4-4.

"I love those situations," said Gordon, who pocketed the ball he used for only his second pro save. "When the game's on the line, I'm ready."

"I have the hard curve and the fastball and those are the pitches I use. They (the Rangers) were just trying to work on me a little."

In three appearances against Texas this season, Gordon hasn't allowed a hit in 7 2-3 innings. He's allowed one hit and one run in 12 1-3 innings over his last five appearances.

"Someday I'll be a stopper," Gordon said. "Right now I'm just trying to help us win some games."

Saberhagen recovered from a 2-0 first-inning deficit, allowing three earned runs over 6 2-3 innings before Gordon took over as the Royals snapped their longest losing streak of the season.

"It wasn't so much that we lost that many, but it was how we lost them," said Frank White, who went three-for-four. "We lost three games on ninth-inning homers. In your mind, when those things happen you think you haven't won in two weeks."

Saberhagen struck out four and walked one. Rangers starter Jamie Moyer, 3-4, lasted only 3 2-3 innings.

The Royals took a 4-3 lead with a three-run fourth, highlighted by Danny Tartabull's two-run single.

White followed with a run-scoring double that knocked out Moyer.

Rangers pitchers walked four, two of whom scored. Texas also made two errors and allowed a run to score on a passed ball.

"They've got to earn it," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said. "We're not making them earn it."

"You're only as good as your starting pitching. We're five games over .500 and that's how good our starting pitching is."

Chicago sweeps Astros

HOUSTON (AP) - The Chicago Cubs didn't come into Houston thinking revenge, but they left town feeling vindicated.

Since being swept in three games against the Astros earlier this month in Chicago, the Cubs have won eight of their last nine games while moving into first place in the National League East. The Cubs wound up their three-game sweep of the Astros with a 3-1 victory.

"We evened it up, and it feels great," said winning pitcher Greg Maddux, 3-6, who went eight-and-two-thirds innings, narrowly missing his third complete game of the season.

"I don't care about the complete games. I just hope the three-game sweep will help our confidence."

Despite their recent success, Cubs manager Don Zimmer was very skeptical that Chicago could sweep Houston. "I've seen it happen here, but not a whole lot," Zimmer said.

Actually, Houston has suffered through a 10-17 home record this year consisting of a sweep earlier this year by Montreal and a current four-game losing streak.

"Their pitching has to have something to do with our slump," said Astros second baseman Bill Doran, who extended his nine-game hitting streak with a single in the eighth inning making 17-37 for a .459 average during the stretch.

"They just outplayed us the last three games. I don't know why we can't play better here. It's very frustrating, but we're just not getting the job done here," said Doran.

It wasn't easy for Maddux, who gave up eight hits and four walks. "I struggled a little, but when I did, they didn't get the big hit," Maddux said.

Although Maddux has been supported by only 19 runs in his nine starts, he still praised his team's offense.

"We've been getting clutch hits, and that's why we're winning," Maddux said.

With two outs in the third inning, Damon Berryhill singled and moved to third base after two walks. Shawn Dunston drove him and Lloyd McClendon in on a single.

"They've (Houston) got one of the best pitching staffs in baseball," Dunston said. "Anytime you win three in a row here, you've accomplished something."

In the sixth inning, the Cubs knocked out Houston left-hander Bob Knepper, 2-6. Rhyme Sandberg opened with a single, went to third on a hit by Mark Grace, and scored on Berryhill's double play ball.

The Cubs are now 12-3 against left-handed starters, and Zimmer thinks it's partially because star right-handed hitter Andre Dawson is on the disabled list with an injured knee.

"Early in the season, other teams were ducking left-handers on us because of Dawson," Zimmer said. "But we've seen a ton of them lately, five in a row at Atlanta and Cincinnati, and we beat all of them because we have a good stock of right-handed hitters."

The Astros avoided what would have been their first shut out of the season by scoring a run with two outs in the ninth. Gerald Young singled in Ken Caminiti. Reliever Mitch Williams stepped in and picked up his 12th save in 15 opportunities by striking out Rafael Ramirez after taking him to a full count.

"All of our guys (pitchers) would get w's, if we could just score in more than one inning," Houston manager Art Howe said. "It's a pretty difficult position to pitch in."

Sandberg knows how the Houston batters must feel. "We didn't score any runs in Chicago, similar to what happened here, except it went the other way," Sandberg said.

Zimmer definitely feels better since the Cubs turned the tables on the Astros.

"I don't know how you could feel any better," Zimmer said, "to win five of six on this road trip is a tremendous lift. Teams have ups and downs in the season and this is a big upper for the Cubs."

Thomas not pleased with Detroit's effort

CHICAGO (AP) - To the Detroit Pistons, winning isn't everything. It's also the way you do it that counts.

"I don't like the way we're playing," said guard Isiah Thomas, whose 33 points in Detroit's series-tying victory over Chicago Tuesday night weren't enough to make him happy.

"We're not executing," he said. "We're not screening, we're not catching the ball, we're not passing it."

Maybe not, but the Pistons did contain a flu-weakened Michael Jordan to get a 100-91 victory over the Bulls, sending the Eastern Conference finals to Chicago for Game 3 on Saturday and 1-1. Jordan, averaging 37.1 points a game in the playoffs, made just nine of 20 shots from the field.

Not good enough, according to Pistons center Bill Laimbeer, who had plenty of time for reflection Tuesday after getting ejected near the end of the third quarter for a pair of elbowing fouls.

"We're not in the proper mental frame of mind needed to win," Laimbeer said. "It's an individual and collective frame of mind. It's not something that I'm going to elaborate on, but we were very fortunate to win Game 2."

With Games 3 and 4 at Chicago Stadium, one of the noisiest arenas in the NBA, Pistons forward Dennis Rodman said his team was glad Game 2 was at the Palace after losing Game 1.

"We're not hitting on all cylinders," he said. "If we played this way in Chicago, we'd have lost by 20 points."

Chicago coach Doug Collins, whose team has won three straight series openers on the road, isn't making predictions on the next two games, but his confidence is clearly growing.

"We eliminated a team with 57 wins in round one and a team with 52 wins in round two," Collins said. "Now we're trying to beat a team with 63 wins. Since we only had 47, I don't think anyone has done any odds-making in our favor."

The Bulls, who surprised Cleveland and New York in the first and second rounds, shocked the Pistons 94-88 in the series opener on Sunday. Winning the first game on the road was key to Chicago's first two series victories.

Collins gave his club the day off on Wednesday and planned a reduced workload for two ailing players, Jordan and Scottie Pippen, before Saturday's game.

Pippen missed the fourth quarter Tuesday after injuring his left foot. On Wednesday, the Bulls said Pippen suffered a bruised arch, but X-rays and a CAT scan proved negative. He is expected to play Saturday.

"We need the rest more than we need the practice," Collins said.

One key for the Bulls has been the play of power forward Horace Grant, who had 16 points and 20 rebounds in Game 2.

"I promised myself that I was going to do two things in this second game," said Grant, who fouled out of Game 1 with four points and seven rebounds.

"First, I was going to stay in the game. I was going to play tough defense. But I was going to play smart and stay out of foul trouble. Second, I was going to concentrate on going hard to the boards. I have to do that for us to win."

Suns aim to check LA

PHOENIX (AP) - "Threepeat" is the watchword of the Los Angeles Lakers, who are trying for their third consecutive NBA championship.

The Phoenix Suns would settle for a repeat of the regular season.

The Lakers lead the Suns 2-0 in the best-of-7 Western Conference finals as the series moves to the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum for Games 3 and 4 Friday and Sunday.

Phoenix swept Los Angeles in its three regular-season visits to the Coliseum, with no game closer than 15 points. The Suns have to duplicate that feat to stand any chance of derailing the Lakers, who've won all nine of their playoff games this year.

"We have to protect our home turf and then find a way to win one on the road," Phoenix coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said. "I wish it were different. Only a fool would not rather be 1-1 at this point. But we didn't get it done in L.A. So now, instead of having four chances to win one in the Forum, we only have two chances left. L.A. took care of its home turf."

The Lakers won Game 1 on Saturday and took Game 2 101-95 Tuesday night, stretching Phoenix's winless streak at The Forum to 19 games.

"We had high expectations for this series. We still have high expectations. They can't beat down our confidence," said Phoenix forward Tom Chambers. "I still think we can win in L.A. We just have to protect our home floor and win one of the two left there."

"They'll be playing a lot better at home. They'll have confidence," said Lakers forward James Worthy. "They are a much tougher team down there in the desert. We haven't done so well there this year."

The Lakers' 9-0 playoff mark equaled their own record for consecutive victories the Lakers set in 1982. They've won 14 in a row dating back to the regular season and 11 straight playoff games dating back to last year.

"Champions do not give up easily," Fitzsimmons said. "And the Lakers are playing like champions."

The Suns, who are 0-5 in playoff series against Los Angeles, were held under 100 points Tuesday night for the first time in 10 playoff games and on the fourth time overall this season.

"The fact that they got 95 points was a pleasant surprise to me," said Lakers coach Pat Riley. "The offenses were stuck in the mud. Our defense won the game."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been going with this man (I'll call him Rex) for three years. I am a person who does not enjoy arguing and will do anything to keep the peace. Rex enjoys a "good fight," as he calls it. No matter how hard I try to keep things on an even keel, he manages to get me involved in a major flap every three or four days.

The reason I am writing is because I am always the one who has to apologize. This burns me up because he is the one who starts the fight (usually by finding fault with something I said or did), and then I end up on my knees begging the big jerk to forgive me.

Rex hangs up on me regularly when we talk on the phone. I am always calling him back to find out what he's mad about. Last week I decided to talk to a therapist about our relationship. The therapist said that hanging up on me is Rex's way of dealing with frustration and that I should accept it.

The man is giving me ulcers and I am not kidding.--Lawrenceville, Ga.

DEAR GA.: You need two things--a new therapist and a new boyfriend.

A person who hangs up the phone when he's angry is not dealing with the problem, he is acting out in an adolescent (and rude) manner. Tantrums should not be tolerated. A competent therapist would not try to justify such behavior.

Unload Rex before he makes a nervous wreck out of you. No matter what you are getting from the relationship, it's not worth it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for nine years. We have two daughters. During the fifth year of our marriage, we separated and were apart 18 months. During that time, we both became more responsible and did a lot of growing up.

Last night, I asked my husband how he would feel about getting remarried on our 10th anniversary. I'm talking new rings, a wedding gown, a tuxedo, the whole bit. We would invite relatives and close friends. Of course, we would request that no gifts be given.

Am I crazy? My husband will agree if you say it's OK.--Pennsylvania

DEAR PENN.: The word from here is go for it! Why not? Fresh starts are all to the good. Best wishes the second time around.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you for saying that people who turn everything into a joke and trivialize substantive matters are attempting to distance themselves from the problem. You said they are perceived "jovial" when in reality they are insecure and troubled.

Please say something about people who laugh for no reason. I don't mean an uproarious whoop. I'm talking about a little ha-ha-ha at the beginning of a sentence, in the middle of a sentence and at the end of a sentence. For example, "ha-ha-ha. How are you? And then, "Oh, ha-ha-ha, I'm just fine." Two minutes later, "Ha-ha-well, yes, ha-ha, my mother is very ill."

Thanks for letting me unload a pet peeve.--Confounded in Confluence, Pa.

DEAR FLUENCE: What you describe is a speech pattern born of a nervous habit. The "ha-ha" helps to relieve the tension. This habit usually starts in the teen years, lasts a lifetime and is virtually impossible to overcome.

An alcohol problem? How can you help yourself or someone you love? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Accent on Health

In recent months, the Texas Department of Health (TDH) has intensified its efforts to combat the rising incidence of health fraud in Texas.

According to TDH investigators, the sale of bogus "health aids," unapproved drugs and gadgets, is a thriving industry in the state. While some of the products are merely useless, posing only monetary loss to the victim, others can be dangerous, even deadly.

Dennis Baker, director of the Division of Food and Drugs, said, "Many of the products openly sold as health aids are illegal, if only because their labels or accompanying literature mislead consumers about their effectiveness. Other, more dangerous products fail to disclose their potential hazards or side effects, as required by federal law."

Baker said, "In the three months ending in a raid on a San Antonio company May 8, our investigators carried out 35 separate actions against distributors and retailers of illegal drugs, devices, or food products. While the action we took in San Antonio was important because of the size of the company's operation, the illegal inventory we found was typical."

The action involved investigators from the TDH Division of Food and Drugs, the San Antonio police department and district attorney's office, the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, and the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA), following a six-month TDH investigation.

The authorities embargoed the entire inventory of the company's headquarters and packaging plant.

Michael's markets about 100 so-called health aids, primarily through health food stores nationwide, with estimated profits in excess of $1 million.

Among the company's most popular sellers are: "Manpower," alleged to restore virility; "Arthro Tabs," sold as a treatment for arthritis; "Circu Tabs," said to remove toxic metals from the blood; and "Diab Tabs," purported to provide natural insulin for diabetics.

Ken Davis, chief investigator for TDH, said, "Such drugs as 'Diab Tabs' are extremely dangerous to consumers. Not only are the contents of them unknown without further testing, but people with real health problems such as diabetes might choose to substitute these pills for their prescribed medications."

Also, included in the embargoed inventory were bulk quantities of vodka, which the company used to mix "tinctures" for mouthwashes, gargles, and sinus sprays. The company has no permit to use the alcohol in its products.

Davis said that several state and federal charges against the company owner, Michael Schwartz, are pending.

New club officers installed at Cowgirl Hall of Fame

The Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center was the setting for the final meeting of the Hereford Study Club with Virginia Winget and Addie Cunningham serving as hostesses.

Following the salad supper, the installation ceremony was held. The ceremony centered around the theme of the responsibilities of each office, spelling out the word

"Thanks". Cunningham installed Doris Bryant as president; Gracie Shaw, vice president; Betty Gilbert, secretary-reporter; Jean Ballard, treasurer; Willie Braddy, historian; Gladys Setliff, correspondence secretary; and Cunningham, parliamentarian.

The women will resume their meetings Sept. 21.

In 1926, Gertrude Ederle became the first woman to swim the English Channel.

HAVE FUN at the Movies

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

There are just too many good movies already in the theaters to recommend any of the bad films released this week. In summary:

"FIELD OF DREAMS": The Kevin Costner baseball film that will make your heart sing. Rated PG. Four Boxes.

"SAY ANYTHING": Starring John Cusak and Lone Skye. A jewel of a comedy/love story that is very enjoyable. Rated PG-13. Three Boxes.

"MAJOR LEAGUE": Starring Charlie Sheen, Tom Berenger, and Corbin Bernsen. This film is locker room humor with big league laughs. Rated R. Three Boxes.

"CRIMINAL LAW": Starring Kevin Bacon and Gary Oldman. A spellbinding thriller. Rated R. Three Boxes.

But this week's new films...

"SCANDAL": Starring John Hurt. This story, about the 1963 downfall of England's Conservative Party brought about by the Profumo "sex scandal", is pure trash. There is nothing noble about governmental ideology in this movie - only the sordid details of the excesses of men and women who have no morals. The movie was first given an X rating but was later upgraded to R.

The rating should have stayed X-XXX. Unless trash and filth is your bag...An Upside Down Box.

"LISTEN TO ME": Starring Kirk Cameron. This is a film that wears your ears out. The whole movie is a dull debate about losers purporting to be intellectuals. Terrible script. Rated PG-13. An Upside Down Box.

"CHECKING OUT": Starring Jeff Daniels. Checking Out is a trite farce about dying too soon that fails. It is not only NOT FUNNY - it's a crashing bore. Rated R. An Upside Down Box.

Head for the rental stores....

RENTAL MOVIES

"MADAME SOUSATZKA": (1988) Starring Shirley McLane. Shirley McLane plays a "magnificent relic" of a piano teacher who shepherds a group of hand-picked prodigies and is wonderful in the role. A daring departure from anything she has ever done before. A role that brought her an Academy Award nomination and, many believe, a performance that should have garnered the Oscar. She is literally festooned with fringed shawls and clanking beads as she portrays the essence of faded glory. A splendid story of hope, dreams, friendships, and music. Rated PG-13. Four Boxes.

"THINGS CHANGE": (1988) Starring Don Ameche and Joe Mantegna. This delightfully told story, full of wiseguys, is about a Chicago shoeshine man named Gino, played by Don Ameche, who agrees to confess to a mob murder he did not commit. Before turning himself in, Gino is coached in his role by a not so tough mobster named Jerry, played by Joe Mantegna, at a Lake Tahoe resort. While there, Gino is mistaken for a godfather and the fun begins. Joe Mantegna is at his best and Don Ameche was never more charming. You'll enjoy this stay-at-home-film. Rated PG. Three Boxes.

"AU REVOIR LES ENFANTS": (1988) Director (and Candice Bergen's husband) Louis Malle's personal story of two young boys, one of them Malle and one a Jewish friend who is hiding from the Nazis, at a Catholic boarding school in occupied France during World War II. "It's a work that has the kind of simplicity, ease and density of detail that only a filmmaker in total command of his craft can bring off, and then only rarely." (New York Times newspaper review of the film when it first opened.) You will reflect on the difficulties of growing up and forging relationships long after you've seen this excellent film.

Rated PG. Four Boxes.

Difficult to find but worth the search is a children's video....

"A JOURNEY THROUGH FAIRYLAND": A young music student is led by a fairy named Florence, to the accompaniment of Tchaikovsky, Debussy and Rimsky-Korsakov, into a land of giant flowers. The music alone makes it worth the viewing. Not rated, but certainly a G, and because of the fabulous music, truly a "film-for-all-ages." Four Boxes.

"AND THEN THERE WERE NONE": (1945) With Louis Hayward, Barry Fitzgerald, and Walter Huston. A British film in black and white that is a highly entertaining adaptation of Agatha Christie's novel, Ten Little Indians. This decidedly superior English version of the well-known novel has an unbeatable cast. Ten people are summoned to a mansion on an isolated island by an unknown person. Supposedly, each was responsible for someone's death, but did not have to pay the penalty. One-by-one, the guests are knocked off, in ways suggested by the famous nursery rhyme.

You've seen this tale many times over, but this one is worth the trip again. The film benefits from a witty script and light-touch directing. It's fun trying to discover the murderer's identity, and this mystery is just as interesting the second time around, when you can watch the killer closely and see how cleverly the audience is manipulated by Agatha Christie and the director. Not rated, but a G. Four Boxes.

'See No Evil' good comedy

"Big" proved last year that a movie can follow those with similar themes and still succeed. "Like Father, Like Son," "Vice Versa" and "18 Again" had all explored the comedy of age transference. Tom Hanks was so inspired in

"Big" that the movie sold twice as many tickets as the other three combined.

A month ago, "Dream Team" hit the market with rollicking tale of four escaped mental patients who solve a murder in Manhattan. I;

there a chance for another movie about handicapped people who solve a murder in Manhattan?

The answer is a resounding yes. "See No Evil, Hear No Evil" is a perfect comedy, brilliantly conceived and superbly executed by two comic artists at the peak of their talents.

In most cases, multiple writing credits denote trouble; a script that has had so many detours usually ends up leading nowhere. "See No Evil" credits five: "Earl Barrat & Arne Sultan and Eliot Wild & Andrew Kurtzman and Gene Wilder" (the ampersands apparently connect writing teams) from a story by Barrat, Sultan and the producer, Marvin Worth. You can bet that co-star Richard Pryor made some contributions as well.

The plot: a couple of strangers are witness to the murder of a bookie in an office building lobby. The complication: one of the witnesses is blind, the other is deaf.

The complication is what makes "See No Evil" such a delight. The blind Dave is Richard Pryor, street-smart and proud, unwilling to let sightlessness destroy his spirit. Wally, the deaf one, is Gene Wilder, fey and soft-spoken, but given to flights of terror.

Together they compensate for each other's handicap as they seek a solution to the murder for which they are accused. Their adventure leads them to the merciless mastermind of an international plot and a climax that is the least convincing element of the movie.

"See No Evil," the third pairing of Wilder and Pryor, confirms their place alongside such inspired teams as Stan and Ollie, Bud and Lou, Bing and Bob. Arthur Hiller contributes mightily to the film's success: his direction keeps the action moving without becoming too frantic.

"See No Evil" is a Tri-Star release with an R rating, mostly for Pryor's dialogue. (Does he really need all those expletives?) Running time: 101 minutes.
