Justice may decide school issue

AUSTIN (AP) - As Gov. Bill Clements continued wrangling with lawmakers about how to overhaul the school finance system, former Texas Supreme Court Justice William Kilgarlin prepared to write a reform plan for them.

Kilgarlin was appointed by State District Judge Scott McCown to formulate a plan that could be imposed on schools, if Clements and lawmakers don't come up with court-ordered reform legislation by June 1.

But Kilgarlin, who wasn't on the Supreme Court when it ordered reform last year, said after being appointed as court master Wednesday that he hopes his plan won't be needed.

"The answer rests with the Legislature and the governor: Pass a tax bill, pass a law that satisfies the Supreme Court requirement," said Kilgarlin.

Kilgarlin said he doesn't have the power to impose new taxes, so he would have to redistribute current funding to meet the court order to make more money accessible to poor school districts.

"Ultimately, that can't mean anything but taking from the rich and giving to the poor," he said. The $13.5 billion-a-year school finance system relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal funds.

McCown also appointed two associate masters to help develop the backup reform plan: Jose Cardenas, former superintendent of the Edgewood school district in San Antonio; and Billy Walker, a school finance expert who served on the Governor's Task Force on Public Education.

Kilgarlin and Cardenas were nominated by poor schools in the education finance case, while Walker was the state's nominee.

The Democratic-controlled Legislature is in its third special session on school finance. This session was called after Clements, a Republican, last week vetoed a half-cent sales tax increase needed to fund a $555 million reform plan adopted last session by lawmakers.

On Wednesday, Clements promised to veto a reform plan approved 100-41 by the Texas House. That bill goes to a conference committee to work out differences with a $555 million Senate bill that Clements also opposes.

The House and Senate bills are almost identical to last session's reform measure, with one major exception.

In response to Clements' no-new-taxes stand, the House measure doesn't contain a funding provision. If new education money isn't approved, state funds could be funneled from property-rich to property-poor school districts.

But Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, sponsor of the House bill, said she wouldn't favor that approach. Reducing state aid could require higher property taxes or school budget cuts.

"I would call it 'dumbing down,'" said Ms. Glossbrenner, D-Alice, head of the House Public Education Committee.

"Folks, if we let the court take over the schools, all we have left to do is operate road maintainers and put down caliche."
--State Rep. Larry Warner

After the House approved its school finance reform bill, Clements said, "Members of the Texas House today have moved us one step closer to a court-imposed master of public education."

Among other items, Clements said the plan by lawmakers "is literally a vote for an income tax and higher property taxes" to fund it.

But Hobby said the blame lies with Clements if the courts take over school finance. By his veto threat, he said, "The governor has, in effect, announced that he wishes to abdicate in favor of the court."

He and other lawmakers have said Clements' desire to avoid a state tax increase would force higher property taxes to pay for education.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said he wants to continue trying to compromise with Clements. "It's not over until it's over," Lewis said.

Rep. Larry Warner, D-Harlingen, warned against allowing the court to take over the school finance system. He noted that the state prison and mental health-mental retardation systems already have been under court oversight.

"Folks, if we let the court take over the schools, all we have left to do is operate road maintainers and put down caliche," Warner said.

Secret: Something that is hushed about from place to place.

Many poor people feel that their problems would be solved if only they had more money. The rich feel that way, too.--The Lion

Voters rejected the economic development sales tax proposition in Hereford by a big margin in Saturday's election. Personally, we were disappointed that voters didn't approve the measure. We suppose the mood of people about taxes had something to do with the outcome, and it was apparent that some foes of the proposal had no trust in the city commission's supervision and appointment of a five-member board.

So, back to the drawing board. The chamber's industrial development committee will continue to work on economic development, without a doubt, and it will be with little funding, as in the past. Hopefully, we'll have some new faces involved in the volunteer force to help on economic development. Some of the critics of the "group that's been in charge" need to provide some new leadership. Membership in the "Civic Duty Club" is open to all.

It was refreshing to see one group propose positive action this week. Led by Frank Ford of Arrowhead Mills, the Hereford Area Food Council announced plans Tuesday that could add an additional 400 jobs in the next year. Those jobs would come through expansion in value-added agricultural industries in the community. The possibilities look good, and Larry Malamen of MW Carrot was to announce plans today for a proposed freezer plant. Details of the plan should be revealed in Friday's Brand.

A report on the Fed Cattle Survey in Tuesday's paper included a listing of the larger feed lots by capacity, and we overlooked West Plains Feedyard in Parmer County. Some of the owners live in Hereford, so the error was quickly brought to our attention.

West Plains has a capacity of 72,000 head, making it the largest in the "Golden Triangle" of Deaf Smith, Parmer and Castro counties. Bar G Feedyard is next at 65,000. If you add Barrett-Crofoot's east and west yards together, however, you come up with 95,000.

The Southwestern Public Service Co. survey shows that Deaf Smith County is the top cattle-feeding county in the nation, and Hereford is the undisputed Cattle Feeding Capital of the World!

Roses for mothers

Katie Donaldson and Aaron Mowery present roses to their mothers, Debbie Donaldson and Diane Mowery. Several area churches will be participating in this year's Mother's Day Rose benefit for the Problem Pregnancy Center. Churches participating include the Church of the Nazarene, First Christian Church, St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Community Church, St. Teresa's of Friona, and Palo Duro Baptist Church south of Wildorado. The rose is an international pro-life symbol. The roses will be available at the churches on Sunday for a donation for giving to wives, mothers and grandmothers.

DSGH takes teamwork

Deaf Smith General Hospital is several departments that must act in unison for optimum patient care.

In this continuing series highlighting the hospital during Texas Hospitals Week, we'll look at other departments and services at the hospital.

LABORATORY

In the modern laboratory at Deaf Smith General Hospital, tests can be done on any bodily fluid to help determine what exactly is wrong, or not wrong, with a patient.

The lab is also in charge of blood banking in Hereford to make sure there is an adequate blood supply for whatever needs arise.

The laboratory has two new pieces of equipment used by the six-person laboratory staff. An electrophoresis unit enables the lab to determine, far sooner than previous tests and analyses, whether someone has (or has not) suffered a heart attack. When someone has a heart attack, certain enzymes are released into the bloodstream.

A new chemistry analyzer allows the DSGH lab to do more testing at the hospital that used to be taken to Amarillo or somewhere else.

The laboratory is actually several labs. There's a microbiology area where bacteria is cultured and identified so a doctor can treat a certain disease. The hematology area does blood work of all types, including cross-matching blood and screening different types of antibodies. The chemistry area is where the bulk of the work is done, with over 50 different tests performed for a variety of needs.

HOUSEKEEPING

The housekeeping staff "is probably busier than anybody else," said Lupe Padilla.

The department is responsible for cleaning and caring for all of the facility, from emptying office trash cans to cleaning surgical suites. They must also make sure closets are stocked so they are ready for most any need.

"We have to work with all of the employees to make sure everything is clean and we use the right procedures and cleaning agents," Padilla said. The 14-person staff must work "together as a team. The job isn't easy, but we have to work together and work with a smile."

RESPIRATORY THERAPY

Many illnesses can be determined and treated through respiratory therapy work.

"We can't diagnose everything but we can give some detail," said Ronnie Pena. The work ranges from routine therapy for asthma, pneumonia, emphysema and other breathing-related disorders, to seeing if the patient is getting enough oxygen in needed areas. Sometimes patients are placed on ventilators if they're not breathing properly.

"We assist in emergency room situations if we are needed, but our main job is routine therapy and other clinical functions we provide for the community," Pena said. "We've been doing a lot of outpatient work to treat a variety of problems."

The respiratory therapy department has a four-person staff that is at the hospital from 6:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. weekdays and on call at all other times.

What's a few trillion to them? Telescope off a few miles in the universe

WASHINGTON (AP) - It was a math mistake everybody has made in a checkbook, but in this case it caused the Hubble Space Telescope to miss its target by trillions of miles.

Somebody added when he should have subtracted. Or vice versa.

Embarrassed NASA scientists gave that explanation Wednesday for the failure of the telescope to find two bright stars. The telescope missed its target by one-half degree - about the width of a full moon as seen from Earth.

"When we were trying to point the telescope to the center of a pretty rich star field with a high probability of acquisition we were really off to one side of that," said Jean Olivier, deputy manager of the Hubble project for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Because of the math error and other problems, scientists won't be able to take the first star pictures with the telescope until next week, NASA said. When the Hubble was launched from the space shuttle Discovery on April 25, they expected the first picture within a week.

In the latest glitch, the telescope was looking for two stars of a certain brightness in the star cluster, but failed. Such guide stars are necessary to tell the telescope precisely where it is pointing; without them it is disoriented.

Astronomers relied on star charts made in the 1950s when they designed pointing instructions for the telescope, Olivier said. But the stars have moved since then from Earth's vantage point. The mistake was made when the scientists factored in the extent of that movement.

They corrected in the wrong direction.

"Instead of subtracting it they added it or vice versa," Olivier said.

"Instead of going from 18 arc minutes back to zero we went from 18 to 36 or close to 37," he said. "That was the fundamental problem."

In the language of astronomers, an arc minute is one-sixtieth of a degree in the 360-degree pie that makes up a circle.

The mathematical error threw the telescope's aim off by a half-degree.

Engineers still are puzzled by a slight jitter in the telescope when it is commanded to roll and by some unwanted motion as the instrument moves from the shadow of Earth into the sunlight. But they are going ahead with focusing tests and other planned setup activities.

To date more than $2.1 billion has been spent on the telescope and ground facilities. The Hubble has been ready for launch since 1985, maintained at a cost of $7 million a month. Hundreds of engineers and astronomers have been involved in planning for the telescope's 15-year mission.

Bargaining begins on Bush's budget

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional Democrats are putting a top critic of President Bush's tax policies in charge of their negotiating team seeking a deficit-reduction pact with the White House.

House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., will serve as chairman of the talks and will preside except when Bush himself is in the room, House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., said Wednesday.

The talks were set after Bush assured congressional leaders there were "no preconditions," not even his previous pledge of no new taxes. White House officials say that without action the federal deficit next year could be double the $64 billion allowed under the law.

The president has proposed a $1.23 trillion budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Failure to cut the deficit could force huge domestic and military spending cuts under the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law that neither party wants, and the Democrats quickly agreed to the talks. But there is no clear path to agreement on spending restraint and new revenue sources to avert the cuts.

Gephardt on Wednesday spoke modestly of his perceived role as chief Democratic critic and chief peacemaker in what could be testy talks.

"I don't know I qualify for either role," he said. If the budget summit, scheduled to begin next Tuesday, "is just a political high-ground exercise, then it won't go anywhere," he added.

"The test is: can anything be done for the country in this area."

Chance of rain

Tonight will be partly cloudy and not as cool with a low near 50. South winds will be 10 to 20 mph.

Friday will be partly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High near 80. South to southwest winds will be 15 to 20 mph and gusty.

This morning's low at KPAN was 40 after a high Wednesday of 65.

Two persons arrested

Hereford police remanded a man, 29, to jail when he could not pay fines on an outstanding traffic warrant for no liability insurance on Wednesday. Deputy sheriffs arrested a man, 32, for theft by check.

Reports on Wednesday included a $400 clarinet stolen in the 700 block of La Plata; $380 bicycle stolen in the 200 block of Northwest Dr.; a pregnant woman was slapped in the face when she became ill and said something was wrong with her baby, and officers called for an ambulance which took her to the hospital; two men got in a scuffle at a recent dance and now one of the men won't leave the other man alone, so officers told the man who causing trouble charges will be filed if he does not leave the other man alone; a mother told police she had seen her son, who was on foot, being chased down by another student, who was driving a pickup, but the son told police they were just horsing around; a woman filed charges against another woman for coming to her home in the 500 block of Irving and threatening her; a man asked the police to remove a woman from his motel room, in the 500 block of West First, but changed his mind and decided to let her stay with him; goats and pigs grazing on a neighbor's land northeast of town; and harassing telephone calls.

Firefighters put out a dumpster fire in the 300 block of Elm on Wednesday night and responded to a smoke scare in the 400 block of Ranger at Golden Plains Care Center.

Hereford police issued 15 citations on Wednesday.

Recycling group to meet

The Hereford Recycling Coalition will hold a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the Hereford Community Center.

Among other things, the group will choose its official name.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, May 10, the 130th day of 1990. There are 235 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On May 10, 1869, a golden spike was driven at Promontory, Utah, marking the completion of the first transcontinental railroad in the United States.

On this date:

In 1774, Louis XVI ascended the throne of France.

In 1775, Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain Boys captured the British-held fortress at Ticonderoga, N.Y.

In 1865, Union forces captured Confederate President Jefferson Davis in Irwinville, Ga.

In 1933, the Nazis staged massive public book burnings in Germany.

In 1940, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain resigned, and Winston Churchill formed a new government.

In 1968, preliminary Vietnam peace talks began in Paris.

In 1981, voters in France elected Socialist Francois Mitterrand president over incumbent Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

In 1984, the International Court of Justice in The Hague decided the United States should immediately halt any actions to blockade or mine Nicaragua's ports. The United States already had said it would not recognize such a ruling.

Ten years ago: The government's Chrysler Corporation Loan Guarantee Board gave conditional approval to $1.5 billion in federal loan guarantees to the financially ailing automaker.

Five years ago: President Reagan was greeted by Vice President George Bush as he returned to Washington from his four-nation tour of Europe.

One year ago: In Panama, the government of Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega announced it had nullified the country's elections, which independent observers had said the opposition won by a 3-1 margin.

Floods strand livestock, threaten more people

DALLAS (AP) - Over 1,000 cattle, stranded by river flooding that caused hundreds of people to evacuate homes along the Red River, were getting hay by helicopter today as workers shored up leaking levees with more sandbags.

"We have a couple more potential problems on the levees and need additional manpower and additional sandbags," said Dave Hall, director of the Texarkana Office of Emergency Services. "The river is still rising. It hasn't crested. So we are in a holding pattern."

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers brought 30,000 sandbags to shore up levees along the river, where Hall said about 200 people had been evacuated from rural areas north of Texarkana, on the state's northeast corner. Water earlier broke through the top of a 60-foot-long levee section.

"We have put in excess of that on the levees already," said Hall. "If we can hold the levee, we won't have many more evacuations or problems. But if the levee goes, no telling how many homes could be affected."

He said as many as 400 volunteers, National Guardsmen and Bowie County officials were monitoring eight other "hot spots" on the river levees where water was breaking or seeping through. The river is seven feet above flood stage, he said.

A Chinook helicopter from Austin brought hay for stranded livestock in Northeast Texas, said David Haun with the governor's Division of Emergency Management in Austin.

At least 600 cattle were lost in flooding north of Texarkana and more than 1,000 head were stranded by high water there, according to Agriculture Secretary Jim Hightower.

In the surrounding county, an estimated 65 percent of 4,500 acres of wheat was destroyed, Hightower said, and corn crops were also under water.

Heavy rainfall and flooding in the past two weeks caused between $500 million and $700 million in damage to agricultural production in North, Northeast, East and Central Texas, he said.

The high water has claimed 12 lives in Texas and one in Oklahoma.

"Delays in harvesting, disease problems, smaller yields, reduced quality, washed-out crops, drowned livestock - all of these rain-caused problems will inflict severe financial damage on Texas producers," said Hightower.

After touring flood damage along the Red River with a team of disaster management officials, he said that more accurate estimates of crop and livestock losses will come when flood waters recede in 10 days to two weeks.

Downstream from rain-soaked areas, meanwhile, riverside residents were bracing for high water after the worst flooding in more than 70 years. Along the Trinity River at Long Lake, 33 homes were damaged, said Haun.

"People northeast of Houston are also aware that the water is coming down to them," he said. "Right now, it is just a slow-moving wave of water coming down through Liberty and Polk counties."

As many as 300 people have voluntarily left their homes in three low-lying subdivisions in Liberty County, where as much as four feet of water flooded homes.

Two shelters were opened after record flooding was expected to hit the area west and southeast of Liberty between Sunday and May 19, said Jim Mitchum, county emergency management coordinator. About 7,000 people living in the county's flood-prone areas were warned of high water.

Already, the road that links the city of Dayton Lakes and its 200 residents to main highways was under water, he said.

"A lot of the people are going to get out but a few chosen ones will stay in their homes - against our wishes," said Mitchum.

The dam on the Trinity at Lake Livingston, which normally releases 20,000 cubic feet per second, was already moving 33,900 cfs downstream. "We are going to 75,000 to 85,000 on the 13th to 19th of the month," he said, adding that level will be maintained through the end of May.

Mitchum said livestock owners in the county moved about 400 cattle to higher ground.

Flood victims have begun cleanup efforts in hard-hit Dallas neighborhoods, where health officials warned a bumper crop of mosquitoes that carry the encephalitis virus were expected to hatch.

Correction

In an April 18 article on Earth Day activities in Hereford, the Brand mistakenly reported that the Nazarene Church in Hereford would be flying an Earth Day flag.

The report was incorrect. The Brand apologizes for the error and did not intend to offend anyone.

More senior pictures needed for special edition

If your Hereford High School senior's name is not on the following list, it means the Hereford Brand does not have a copy of their senior picture for our annual graduation edition later this month.

In the past, Hereford High School personnel have helped to make sure the Brand had all senior pictures. This year, it's been left up to each senior to bring their picture to the Brand offices at 313 N. Lee.

The Brand can best work with a black-and-white picture, but a color picture will work. Polaroids are not acceptable.

If your senior's name isn't on this list, we don't have a picture:

Hobby: raise taxes to fund health, welfare

AUSTIN (AP) - Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says the financial crisis in Texas' health and welfare system is more serious than funding problems faced by public schools.

"The human services problem is really much more critical than the education problem," Hobby said Wednesday in the harshest assessment yet of the welfare system by a state official.

"People could die," he said, unless Gov. Bill Clements directs lawmakers in the current special session to solve a deficit in a state program for chronically ill and disabled children.

State officials predict that about 4,000 poor children suffering from cystic fibrosis, hemophilia, cancer, AIDS, and other diseases, will lose services on June 1, when the program runs out of money.

Run by the Texas Department of Health, the program faces a $13 million budget deficit in the current fiscal year. Department administrators say the shortfall could double in the next fiscal year.

During a breakfast meeting, Hobby urged the Republican governor to include welfare funding issues on the agenda of the Legislature's current special session.

"I certainly mentioned the problem in the human services area," said Hobby. But Clements "didn't really respond to it," he said.

Raising taxes is the only realistic way to finance the shortfalls in the health departments, said Hobby, a Democrat. Other lawmakers have suggested transferring funds within the state budget to make up the deficits.

The Legislature is meeting in its third special session to solve inequities in public school finance. The Texas Supreme Court ruled that the system of financing schools is unconstitutional.

A state district judge has imposed a June 1 deadline to revamp the system.

This week, state Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein notified legislative leaders of the June funding cutoff for the Chronically Ill and Disabled Children's Program, saying the projected deficit left him no choice.

But other officials said money could actually run out sooner because of an April ruling by Attorney General Jim Mattox that made an additional 1,700 sick children eligible for benefits.

Now You're Cooking

BY KAY CRISMON
Staff Writer

Many women say there is nothing as rewarding as becoming a grandparent. It brings back the memories of motherhood, makes one become more active, and fills the heart and home with an extra abundance of love.

One person who will agree with this sentiment is Oma Lee Lassiter. She and her husband, Jimmy, have three grandchildren: Carley, Sabra and Zack.

"The best part of all is that I can spoil them and return them to our children," she says. "Christmas time was just beautiful this past year. We couldn't even find the kids for all the wrapping paper. Birthdays are really special, it's just like a family reunion with gifts and food galore," she explained with a special gleam in her eye.

Even though she is employed with a fulltime job, she still finds time to take her grandchildren for walks. Carley and Sabra are three years of age and enjoy walking, but one-month-old Zack gets a free ride in the stroller.

Lassiter paints her granddaughters' T-shirts and enjoys making them things. She says they really appreciate anything "Meme and Poppa" do for them.

"I really enjoy cooking different types of cakes for the grandchildren. Birthdays are extra special because I can prepare their favorite cake."

Casseroles are the meals she prefers preparing. "My children are beginning to acquire a taste for casseroles. When they were growing up, it was hard to get them to eat casseroles. Now, they love them," she commented.

Beauticians attend seminar

Cookouts are a special time for the family. This is when Lassiter's husband gets to do the cooking.

Mrs. Lassiter has been employed by Hereford Credit Union for 30 years. She began her career as a teller, then advanced to secretary, bookkeeper, loan officer and is now collection manager.

Lassiter shares a variety of family recipe favorites:

Tater Tot Casserole

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 medium onion-chopped
- 1 (1 lb.) pkg. of tater tots
- 1 can cream of mushroom soup
- 1 (4 oz.) can green chilies-chopped
- 1 cup grated cheese

Fry hamburger meat with onion until nearly done, stir in green chilies and spread in a loaf pan. Top with tater tots, spread soup over tater tots. Add the grated cheese on top and bake for 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

Corn Casserole

- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/2 cup cracker crumbs
- 1 can cream style corn
- 1/4 cup melted oleo
- 1/4 cup chopped green peppers
- 1 T. chopped onion
- 1 T. celery
- 1/4 cup Picante sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Combine eggs and milk; beat until well blended. Add cracker crumbs to this and set aside until all liquid is absorbed.

Add remaining ingredients, except cheese, to cracker crumb mixture stirring well. Spoon mixture into greased 1 quart casserole.

Bake 45 minutes at 350. Sprinkle with cheese while still hot.

Pecan Upside Down Cake

- 1 cup chopped pecans
- 1/2 cup Karo
- 2 T. oleo softened
- 2 cups bisquick
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 tsp cinnamon
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg slightly beaten
- 1 tsp. vanilla

In 9" round cake pan combine pecans, syrup and oleo. Mix the rest of ingredients and pour over pecan mixture. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. Loosen edge with knife and invert onto cake plate. Serve warm

Cherry Salad

- 1 can cherry pie filling
- 1 can Eagle Brand milk
- 1 large carton cool whip
- 1 cup miniature marshmallows
- 1 15 1/4 oz. can crushed pineapple-drained
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- 1 cup angel flaked coconut

Mix together and refrigerate at least 2 hours before serving.

Although Antarctica is the highest, coldest, most desolate place on Earth, it irresistibly draws visitors and is a growing international tourist attraction. Some 3,000 tourists visited last year.

Antarctica, an immense continent, wasn't seen by humans until the early 19th century, National Geographic says.

Trip tips suggested

Whether you vacation in the U.S. or abroad this year, common sense can help protect your health.

Dr. Karl Goodman, a New York-based travel/health expert, says that the most frequently asked question by travelers is, "What do I do about traveler's diarrhea?" Dr. Goodman recommends taking Imodium A-D Caplets, the new easy-to-take and easy-to-pack form of Imodium A-D, the antidiarrheal. For many people, Imodium A-D Caplets provide relief with just one dose. However, if diarrhea persists after medication and especially if it is accompanied by fever or blood in the stool, one should see a doctor as soon as possible, because this may be an indication of a more serious problem.

According to Dr. Goodman, to avoid diarrhea while traveling overseas, there are a few basic tips: -Don't drink tap water or use ice cubes in your drinks. Try to drink only bottled or hot beverages.

-Eat only those fruits that you have peeled. Avoid fruits that don't need peeling.

-Avoid eating uncooked vegetables, including salads.

-Do not eat undercooked or raw meats, fish, shellfish or poultry.

-Avoid unpasteurized milk or other dairy products and foods sold by street vendors, including ice cream.

It is very important to get inoculations when traveling to some foreign countries. Dr. Goodman recommends using United States health sources for inoculation information as many of the foreign consulates will downplay the need for inoculations in their particular countries. It is far better to be overprotected rather than underprotected when traveling to high-risk locations.

For traveling healthy, Dr. Goodman also suggests taking along an all-purpose travel health kit that contains:

-Five percent tincture of iodine (two drops purifies a glass of water in about 15 minutes).

-Imodium A-D Caplets to combat acute diarrhea.

-Sunscreen of at least 15 SPF to protect from sunburn.

-Insect repellent to combat insect bites.

-Over-the-counter pain relief medication.

And, if you take prescription drugs, take along a list of the generic names since brand names of drugs can vary from country to country. It is also a good idea to take an extra set of prescriptions for critical drugs.

Salad supper planned

The Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently with nine members present. Vice president Ruby Lee called the meeting to order.

Report of Parliamentarian was read by Noel Hutson from the book of Beta Sigma Phi. Installation of officers and a city council meeting will be held May 14 in the Reddy Room at 7 p.m. Members are to bring a salad.

Prior to the meeting a baby shower was held for Glenna Calaway and daughter, Heather Nicole Calaway.

The next meeting will be a backyard birthday party at Janice Betzen's at 7 p.m. May 17. Members are reminded to bring food items they signed up for.

Members present were Camille Beville, Calaway, Wanda Huscman, Hutson, Ruby Lee, Marris Leverett, Gay MacClaskey, Dee Ann Matthews, and Donna Weaver.

COLOSSAL STATUE

RHODES, Greece (AP) - The Colossus of Rhodes, an enormous bronze statue of Apollo the Sun God, towered over the harbor here in pre-Christian times.

Standing almost 120 feet high, it was counted among the seven wonders of the ancient world.

The huge statue, completed after 12 years' work in 280 B.C., stood for less than 60 years. It was destroyed by an earthquake in 224 B.C. and no trace of it remains today.

Hopping team wins chip-off in Pizza Hut Wednesday Scramble

After two teams tied with a 30 in the Pizza Hut Scramble Wednesday, a team composed of Rick Hopping, Keith Kelso, Brett West and Bob Hughes won a chip-off contest to claim first prize.

The team of Paul Lovan, David Workman, N.D. Kelso and Lois Jones also recorded a score of 30 in the nine-hole scramble. Three teams posted a 31.

Each member of the winning team earned a $45 gift certificate at the golf shop and a dinner for four at the Pizza Hut. David Workman was nearest the pin on No. 6, and Tommy Weaver had the longest drive on No. 7 and each was awarded a dinner for four at Pizza Hut.

Players were treated to free pizzas at the end of the tourney by Pizza Hut, which has started sponsorship of the Wednesday scramble. Doak's Thriftway also provided soft drinks. The last-place team, with a score of 35, won a pizza each. Members of the team were Dennis Sacia, Carlos Mendez, Lynn Jones and Lillie Shipman.

Pampa, Estacado to play here Friday

Hereford will be the site Friday of a one-game playoff between the Pampa Harvesters and the Estacado Matadors for the District 1-4A baseball title.

The game, which will start at 3:30 p.m., will be played at Whiteface Field. Admission to the game is free.

The playoff was necessitated after the teams tied for the district crown at 14-2. Estacado, which will be the home team, comes in at 17-7 on the year while the Harvesters are 22-2 overall and ranked No. 9 in the latest Class 4A poll by the Texas High School Baseball Coaches Association.

Diaz claims Canon AFB Grand Championship

Four students of Crox Taekwondo Studio in Hereford finished in first place in either sparring or forms Saturday at the Canon Air Force Base Open Tournament at Clovis, N.M.

Domingo Diaz claimed the title of Grand Champion at the tournament and the five-foot tall trophy that went with it by placing first in both categories. Brian Torres, Robert Jimenez and John Arsula each finished first in sparring in their respective divisions.

The four, along with Sammy Ruiz and Marie Crox will compete in the Texas State Junior Taekwondo Championship on Saturday in Dallas. The event is a qualifying tournament for the National Junior Olympic tournament scheduled for July 4-7 in Fort Worth.

Players go topless for sick teammate

ROSENBERG, Texas (AP) - When a group of athletes at Lamar Consolidated High School got together and shaved their heads this week, it was more than a senior stunt - it was a gesture of compassion toward a friend.

Nine seniors and a sophomore sheared their once-full locks in support of classmate and teammate Lance O'Pry.

O'Pry, a senior and District 23-4A center for the Mustang football team, was diagnosed four weeks ago with testicular cancer. He entered the hospital and his buddies visited en masse.

But his friends wanted to do more. "He said one of the things that bothered him was he would lose his hair," said Johnny Harris, a safety and tight end for Lamar. "We just wanted to make him feel comfortable. We all pretty much stick together in all we do."

The message touched O'Pry. "It really moved me," O'Pry said. "It's one of the deepest ways they could have shown their friendship."

"I didn't know they were going to do it until last week. I was in the hospital, and Jeff (Peacock) said they had been planning on doing it for a few weeks. It was definitely a shock to me."

Peacock originated the idea, told a few guys, and the word spread.

O'Pry, who is now out of the hospital but must return periodically for chemotherapy, joined the would-be barbers Monday at Donnie Reed's house. They went to work armed with clippers and a mirror and three hours later each was sporting a "designer original," Peacock said.

Tim Schnabel left with a horseshoe-shaped cut; Kori Eskeline had a zigzag design; Peacock got a reverse Mohawk (shaved on the sides and down the middle with parallel streaks of hair on the upper sides).

Harris tried to emulate Charlie Sheen in the movie "Major League" with three connecting triangles buzzed into the back of his head; Seth Chambliss had his sides shaved completely and left the top intact; and Reed, Jason Hardin, sophomore Kris Hardin, Doug Foster and O'Pry went with your everyday Mohawk.

Mac Jones, uneasy with the idea of an amateur job, did not accompany the rest, and instead had his hair cut professionally. It was trimmed like Chambliss'.

"We started off today with crazy hairstyles," Foster said Tuesday. "We wanted to do something crazy before we shaved them off."

And while their intent was appreciated, the designer originals fall outside the school dress code, according to principal Kay Dawes. So the dynamic "do's" were shaved clean Tuesday morning with some help and supervision from football coach Don Landes and trainer Jim Davidson.

"They had a very honorable cause, and it would have been OK," Dawes said. "But if we allowed them to keep them, we would have had numerous kiddos out of compliance with the dress code the next day."

"I giggled most of yesterday. When they came in yesterday morning, it was a hoot. Those kids were sticking together and giving Lance a lot of support at a critical time in his life. I think it was a super gesture."

Landes said, "They're certainly a unique group. I don't know if we have had a similar situation to occur since I've been here. I don't think we've ever had this many this close. I really do appreciate their closeness."

There was no grumbling from the athletes, when told they had to rid themselves of the designer originals.

"I knew the administration probably wouldn't go for it, but it was fun last night," O'Pry said. "This weekend they were planning on shaving it all anyway."

O'Pry, who is planning on entering Baylor University in the fall, attended school this week after receiving the first of four chemotherapy treatments last week at M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston. Doctors told O'Pry his tumor was one of the most common forms of cancer among men his age and that it is "almost 100 percent treatable," he said.

O'Pry said the support from his friends and family has been overwhelming.

"With the combination of my faith in God and great friends I've got, my family - my parents and sister - I haven't had to worry about it," O'Pry said. "There are literally people throughout the country, friends and relative, praying for me."

"I'm thankful for everybody in the community pulling for me," he said. And shaving for him.

Cumpton to speak at Bovina banquet

Don Cumpton, head football coach and athletic director at Hereford High School and a Bovina native, will return to his home town May 18 as guest speaker for the Bovina High School Athletic Banquet.

Cumpton, a 1963 graduate of Bovina High, owns a 72-27-2 record in eight years as head coach of the Whitefaces and a career mark of 109-60-4 over 16 years. Cumpton has served two stints as head coach of the Herd, 1979-82 and 1986 to present, in addition to terms in Sanford-Fritch, Mulshoe and Abilene.

Tickets for the banquet, which begins at 7:30 p.m. at the Bovina High cafeteria, are $8 each if purchased by May 13 and $9 at the door. Tickets are available through members of the Bovina Booster Club.

What if it had been different?

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

Bobby Thomson and Ralph Branca were in New York recently to promote a baseball video.

They are tied together in one of the golden moments of sport - those moments that have become timeless by being captured on tape, by becoming hand-me-down tales from fathers to sons for generations.

But, what if ...?

What if Thomson's "shot heard around the world" had been nothing but a loud foul that Oct. 3, 1951?

(Branca was brought in to face Thomson in the bottom of the ninth inning to protect the Brooklyn Dodgers' 4-2 lead over the New York Giants in the decisive game of a three-game playoff for the National League pennant. There were runners on second and third with one out).

What if Branca had then walked the bases full, only to have Giant hopes dashed when a rookie, who was in a dreadful slump, ground into a double play?

Answer: Thomson and Branca would not have become as familiar on the banquet circuit as rubber chicken and stringy beef. The rookie named Willie Mays would have become a member of the Hall of Fame.

What if the 460-foot-smash by Vic Wertz had tipped off the glove of Mays, who was racing toward dead center field at the Polo Grounds, in the eighth inning of the opening game of the 1954 World Series between the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants?

(The score was tied 2-2 at the time. The Giants scored three in the 10th and went on to sweep the Series).

Answer: The Series could have had a different outcome, certainly a different length. Wertz wouldn't be the answer to the trivia question: who hit the ball for The Catch? Mays would be in the Hall of Fame.

What if Jack Dempsey had gone to a neutral corner after knocking down Gene Tunney in the seventh round of their heavyweight championship rematch Sept. 22, 1927, at Soldier Field in Chicago?

(The rule that a fighter scoring a knockout had to go to a neutral corner before the referee began counting was a recent one. Because of Dempsey's failure to immediately abide by rule, Tunney was able to beat the 10-count after having been down for 14 seconds and go on to win a 10-round decision).

Answer: Tunney would have been the man who won the title from the great Dempsey on a fluke. Dempsey would have been the first man to regain the heavyweight championship. Dempsey would never have gained the popularity that the "long-count" loss enabled him to achieve.

What if guard Jerry Kramer had failed to get traction and had not made that block for Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr in the "Ice Bowl"?

(Starr nudged his way into the end zone for a 21-17 victory over Dallas in the closing seconds of the NFL championship game Dec. 31, 1967, at Green Bay).

Answer: Dallas quarterback "Dandy" Don Meredith would not have had to sing "Turn out the lights, the party's over" because the party would still be going on. Kramer would not have written the diary-style book "Instant Replay," and would have sung "Turn out the lights ..."

to himself, not on national television as Meredith did. Guards who miss key blocks don't sing on TV. Come to think of it, neither do guards who make blocks.

Hadnot passes ACT

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - Butch Hadnot, one of the state's most recruited high school running backs, passed the NCAA academic requirements and is eligible to play for the University of Texas this fall.

Hadnot scored 18 on the ACT college entrance examination, the Beaumont Enterprise reported. The NCAA requires a score of 15 for eligibility.

The 6-foot-2, 221-pounder from Kirbyville got word Monday of his score, the newspaper said. Hadnot will be running in the 100 meters at this weekend's state track meet at the UT.

It took three tries for Hadnot to fulfill the academic requirement on the ACT. If he hadn't made it, Hadnot would have been ineligible for a Division I scholarship and would have played football at Kilgore Junior College.

"I've said all along that when the day comes that I make my test scores, I'm going to be the happiest guy in the world," Hadnot said. "And I am. It's all over now."

In 1989, Hadnot rushed 2,144 yards on 337 carries, and scored 24 touchdowns. His career high school yardage was 3,124 with 42 touchdowns.

Hadnot picked the Longhorns over

Texas Tech, Arkansas, Texas A&M, Texas Christian, Louisiana State and Houston. He originally had pledged to Tech, but on signing day changed his mind.

6-2, in meeting of division leads

By The Associated Press

It's a long, long way from May to October, which isn't the way the song goes. The Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds, however, are very much in tune these days.

They met Wednesday night as National League division leaders for the first time since Aug. 24, 1975, and the Pirates won 6-2, with Bobby Bonilla's run-scoring double triggering a four-run sixth inning.

"Yeah, it's early ... but you can win pennants in the first half of the season as well as the second half of the season," said Wally Backman, who singled home the Pirates' final run.

"Maybe we're playing over our heads," added Andy Van Slyke, who was 3-for-4, drove in the go-ahead run with a third-inning grounder and singled and scored on Bonilla's sixth-inning double. "Maybe we can play over our heads for the next five months. We're playing close to perfect baseball right now."

In other NL games, it was St. Louis 11, San Diego 5; Philadelphia 10, Houston 1; San Francisco 4, New York 2; Montreal 5, Los Angeles 3, and Chicago 4, Atlanta 0 in a 4 1/2-inning game.

Six Pirates had RBIs as Pittsburgh won its fifth in a row and 15th in 18 games and ended the five-game winning streaks of the Reds and Jack Armstrong. Jay Bell had a triple off Armstrong (5-1) and scored twice, while winner John Smiley (3-3) allowed seven hits over six-plus innings before giving way to Bill Landrum, who pitched three hitless innings for his fourth save.

Winner Rick Horton (1-1) worked 3 2-3 scoreless innings in relief of John Tudor, who lasted only 1 1-3 innings and left trailing 5-0.

Phillies 10, Astros 1

Pat Combs sparked in his hometown debut with eight scoreless innings and benefited from six Houston "errors" as Philadelphia snapped a seven-game Astrodomo losing streak.

Combs (2-2), who grew up in Houston and resides there in the off-season, outdueled Mike Scott (1-3) in his first Astrodomo appearance. He yielded five hits, walked three and struck out five. Scott allowed nine hits and eight runs - four earned - in 4 2-3 innings. His ERA is now 6.27.

Cardinals 11, Padres 5

St. Louis, which scored only eight runs in losing its previous five games, erased a 5-0 deficit with seven runs in the fifth inning and added four more in the sixth.

The first eight batters reached base in the fifth. Ozzie Smith and pinch-hitter Denny Walling drove in the first two runs with singles and Vince Coleman's two-run single made it 5-4 and chased loser Andy Benes (2-3). The Cardinals had six singles and two walks in the inning.

Giants 4, Mets 2

Robby Thompson and Kevin Bass spoiled Bob Ojeda's first start of the season by homering during a four-run first inning as San Francisco snapped New York's four-game winning streak.

Bob Knepper (1-1) won his first start of the season and ended the Giants' losing streak at three. He gave up two runs on six hits in 5 2-3 innings. Jeff Brantley pitched 2 1-3 innings and Steve Bedrosian worked the ninth for his fourth save.

Expos 5, Dodgers 3

Kevin Gross won his fourth straight decision by limiting Los Angeles to five hits in 8 1-3 innings and red-hot Andres Galarraga drove in two runs. It was Montreal's fifth win in six games and the third loss in a row for the Dodgers, who committed four errors, giving them nine in the past two games.

Gross (4-1) last won four decisions in a row from May 27-June 17, 1988, when he was with Philadelphia. Dodgers starter Fernando Valenzuela (2-3) left after four innings, allowing four runs, two earned.

Cubs 4, Braves 0

Ryne Sandberg and Domingo Ramos hit two-run homers and Les Lancaster yielded four hits in a game shortened to 4 1/2 innings by rain. Lancaster (2-1), making his first start since June 4, 1988, struck out two and walked none. He got the final out in the top of the fifth, making the game official, just before thundershowers halted play.

In the Cubs' third, Jerome Walton singled with two out and Sandberg hit his fourth home run of the season. Curt Wilkerson singled with two out in the fourth and Ramos hit his first homer since April 8, 1989. Ramos was subbing at short for Shawon Dunston, who injured his groin on Tuesday. Both homers came off Pete Smith (2-2).

By The Associated Press

The Seattle Mariners just continue to get a headache from Roger Clemens' aspirins.

"His reputation is a factor. You have a tendency to give him more credit, but he just doesn't give you much to hit," Mariners second baseman Harold Reynolds said Wednesday night following a 4-1 loss to the hard-throwing Boston right-hander.

It was Clemens' sixth straight victory over Seattle, and the 100th major league victory of his career. "It's only fitting I got my 100th win against Seattle," Clemens said. "They're a team I started my career against."

In other American League games, it was Detroit 2, Milwaukee 1; Oakland 2, New York 1; Toronto 4, Chicago 3; Cleveland 7, Minnesota 3; Texas 9, Kansas City 3, and Baltimore 9, California 1.

Clemens (5-2) gave up only four hits to the Mariners, a solo homer and a single to Alvin Davis and two singles to Edgar Martinez. He snapped a two-game losing streak, both losses coming to Dave Stewart and the Oakland Athletics.

Carlos Quintana and Luis Rivera hit consecutive home runs in the seventh inning for Boston and Tony Pena added a solo shot in the ninth.

Tigers 2, Brewers 1

Lou Whitaker and Lloyd Moseby hit consecutive two-out home runs in the first inning, helping Detroit snap a four-game losing streak in a game called after eight innings by rain.

Whitaker hit the first pitch from Chris Bosio (3-1) into the right-field seats at Milwaukee's County Stadium. Moseby followed with a drive over the fence in left field. Greg Brock doubled in Milwaukee's run in the bottom of the first inning off Dan Petry (3-1).

Athletics 2, Yankees 1

Rickey Henderson's bases-loaded walk in the 11th inning gave the Athletics a three-game sweep and their ninth win in 10 games.

Henderson scored from second on Carney Lansford's grounder in the eighth, then walked on four pitches in the 11th off Eric Plunk (2-1) after Oakland loaded the bases on two singles and a walk.

The Yankees got their run in the first on a single by Steve Sax, Roberto Kelly's double and Don Mattingly's RBI grounder off Dave Stewart, who failed to win for the first time in seven starts this season despite allowing only six hits in 8 1-3 innings.

Blue Jays 4, White Sox 3

Nelson Liriano drove in two runs, including the go-ahead tally with a single in the sixth, as Toronto erased a three-run deficit to beat Chicago for the 1,000th win in the club's 14-year history.

Liriano, whose RBI double triggered a game-tying, three-run rally in the fourth, singled with the bases loaded in the sixth.

Frank Wills (2-1) got te win with 2 2-3 innings of hitless relief. Duane Ward pitched the final two innings for his fourth save of the season.

Edwards (0-1) took the loss, hurting his own cause with an error that started the Toronto rally in the sixth.

Indians 7, Twins 3

Tom Brookens' first RBI of the season scored the go-ahead run in the sixth as Cleveland beat Minnesota, ending the Twins' winning streak at six games.

Cleveland's Sergio Valdez (1-0) gained a victory in the first AL start of his career.

Mitch Webster hit a two-run homer for the Indians and Kent Hrbek homered for Minnesota. Brookens doubled off Twins starter John Candelaria (3-1), scoring Cory Snyder to break a 3-3 tie. The Indians added insurance in the ninth on a two-run double by Chris James and run-scoring grounder by Candy Maldonado.

Rangers 9, Royals 3

Charlie Hough survived six walks in the first two innings and went on to pitch six innings of two-hit ball as Texas snapped a three-game losing streak.

Julio Franco went 3-for-3 and Ruben Sierra had two hits, including a homer, to lead a 14-hit attack in support of Hough, 3-1.

Storm Davis, 1-4, was the loser for the Royals, who had won three straight before Wednesday night.

Orioles 9, Angels 1

Randy Milligan's two-run single in the fifth broke a scoreless tie and carried Balumore over California behind Pete Harnisch's eight-hitter.

Milligan's single triggered a four-run, two-out rally as the Orioles finally took advantage of an erratic Mark Langston, 2-3, who tied a career high with eight walks in six innings.

Cal Ripken hit a two-run homer for the Orioles and became only the third shortstop in baseball history to reach the 200-homer plateau. Ernie Banks had 293 and Vern Stephens 213.

Fitzsimmons, Jackson learn to dress for NBA playoff success

By BILL BARNARD

AP Basketball Writer

The Phoenix Suns and New York Knicks are convinced they can't win tonight if only their coaches are dressed properly.

Suns coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, a natty dresser who always wears a shirt, tie and coat courtside, forgot his dresser clothes and borrowed a golf shirt for Tuesday night's game with the Los Angeles Lakers.

After a 104-102 victory gave him his first coaching victory ever in 38 tries at the Forum, Fitzsimmons was not going to be convinced his attire didn't play a role.

"I've worn $85-$95 shirts in here and not won," Fitzsimmons said, grinning. "I may keep this shirt forever. Yes, I'll certainly wear it again Thursday night."

While the Suns take a 1-0 lead into Game 2, New York coach Stu Jackson had some sartorial problems in the Knicks' series-opening 112-77 loss to Detroit.

Jackson didn't have the lucky navy blue sport coat and tan slacks that he wore in the Knicks' three dramatic first-round victories over Boston because the outfit was at the cleaners.

"I'd worn it for so long that it was starting to smell bad," said Jackson, who wore a black sport coat and gray slacks Tuesday night. "It had to go to the cleaners, but there wasn't enough time to get it back out."

Jackson said he'll wear the clean outfit tonight when the Knicks and Pistons meet again at the Palace.

"I feel a little undressed without them," he said.

Tonight's other game has Portland taking a 2-0 lead into Game 3 of the Western Conference semifinals at San Antonio.

Wednesday night's only game saw Chicago defeat Philadelphia 101-96 for a 2-0 lead in the Eastern Conference.

The Knicks will need more than the proper attire against the defending champion Pistons, who shot 52.2 percent while their tenacious defense held the Knicks to 35.6 percent.

Detroit dominated New York in every phase. The Pistons frontcourt outscored New York's 35-25, in backcourt points 32-12, and bench points 45-40.

It was the 11th consecutive playoff victory for the Pistons, dating back to last year, leaving them just two short of the NBA record set by the Los Angeles Lakers (1988-89).

"We just have to forget about that game when we go out there Thursday night," Jackson said.

Bulls 101, 76ers 96

Chicago rallied from a 16-point deficit to beat Philadelphia behind Michael Jordan's 45 points.

The Bulls, who trailed 54-38 in the first half, were down by 11 before a 19-7 surge carried them to a 78-77 lead after three quarters. Chicago never lost the lead in the final period.

Rookies Stacey King and B.J. Armstrong scored the Bulls' first 10 points of the final period as Jordan rested for 3 1/2 minutes. Jordan returned in time to score 11 of Chicago's last 13 points, keeping the 76ers at bay.

Hersey Hawkins led the 76ers with 23 points, Johnny Dawkins had 18 points and 13 assists and Charles Barkley 16 points and 19 rebounds. But Barkley's 76ers teammates had only 14 rebounds.

Bobby Richardson went to bat 11 times for the Yankees in a 1962 game that lasted 22 innings.

Create a cooling effect with plants

If you'd like to create a "cooling" decorative effect indoors during the summer months, stock up on lush houseplants. This recommendation comes from the Garden Council, whose members include leading firms and professionals representing the lawn and garden industry.

Council members say that outdoors, foliage has the invaluable role of providing shade, and the indoors, a garden of houseplants will make rooms look less warm than they are.

For example, full cascading ferns evoke the feeling of a cool forest, and small ivy-covered trellis for dressing windows conjures up the sense of an evening on the back porch.

According to several studies, indoor greenery also helps people relax. And that's the marketing secret behind those peaceful interior landscapes you find in shopping malls. Shoppers find the plant-filled environment calming and they slow down, spending more time in the stores and more money on store merchandise. In offices, workers claim that plants improve the appearance of the workplace and reduce tension.

Create the atmosphere you prefer by rearranging the plants you have or by planning new arrangements. Use the plants as room accents; don't place them where they'll fade into a dark corner. A few large plants can be the main decorative elements in a room.

Pay attention to light requirements. Plants that need a certain amount of light must be in an area that will provide such conditions. If your rooms don't receive sufficient natural light, install artificial lighting. Once you've established the right lighting conditions, put plants with similar light needs together in that area.

New containers for your plants can also change the look of a room. Retailers of lawn and garden goods carry a wide assortment of pots in various sizes, colors, styles, and textures. For a country look in the kitchen, use baskets and wood containers. In the bathrooms and bedrooms, use painted ceramic pots.

And remember, if you're trying to decide on colors for your pots, select the darker colors such as blue, green, or violet. These are better for creating a cooling effect.

Broken trees serve purpose

What good is a broken shade tree? Aside from obvious uses such as firewood or habitat for small animals and insects, scientists at The Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories in Charlotte, N.C., are using trees broken off at the trunk by Hurricane Hugo to learn why some trees fractured while similar nearby trees withstood the full fury of the storm.

Close inspection of large trees of different species revealed that, almost without exception, those that fractured at the trunk had suffered at least some loss of structural integrity at the break point due to internal wood decay.

The purpose of the study is to find ways to measure trunk weakness in standing trees in order to predict structural failure of large trees in populated areas so that protective measures, up to and including tree removal, can be undertaken before fracture occurs.

The extent and pattern of decay, as well as trunk diameter at the fracture level, were carefully measured and plotted. Reduction in trunk strength due to decay was calculated, using formulas developed by the U.S. Forest Service and the Bartlett Laboratories.

Information provided by Hugo's legacy is being used to find acceptable ways to test living trees for the presence of decay without causing injury.

Everyone recognizes that not all shade trees can be protected from damage in the face of a massive storm like Hugo, but it is possible to eliminate at least some of the hazards in advance. Using the new detection and evaluation methods, many valuable shade trees can be strengthened to better withstand lesser storms, and potential hazard trees can be removed and replaced before breakage occurs.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Complaining "the truth is not coming out," former tennis star Bjorn Borg stormed out of a courtroom where he is suing a magazine for printing allegations he used cocaine.

The weekly Z had published allegations by Borg's former girlfriend Jannicke Bjorling, who was in a custody dispute with him over their son. Z's chief editor Jorgen Widsell said three sources reported Borg had used the drug.

The five-time Wimbledon champion left the courthouse in a fury Tuesday after the judge denied his attorney's request to call an unlisted witness.

"This is enough for me. I'm leaving," said Borg, who denies he abused drugs.

Spring clean your freezer

When it comes to spring cleaning, closets, garages and kitchen cabinets are usually top-of-mind. But one area most in need of a breath of fresh air could be the freezer.

In many homes, a peek into the freezer would likely reveal a snow-covered frozen turkey, frost-encrusted containers of ice cream and mystery bundles of leftovers from occasions past. Although it may be too late to save these foul freezer dregs from the garbage, there are ways to prevent them from wasting precious freezer space in the future.

First, begin by taking inventory of what currently exists in the freezer. Discard those food items that have changed color or texture dramatically and that appear to have been damaged by "freezer burn," identified when light, off-color spots appear on food. Be sure to inspect foods closely that have been in the freezer for more than three months.

Once the freezer is cleared of unsalvageables, plan future freezer loads with efficiency in mind. To keep foods from premature freezer damage, freeze no more than three pounds of food per cubic foot of freezer space. This will allow for proper air flow, ensuring that each food item remains adequately cooled.

Keep frozen foods stored at 0 degree F. and always keep the freezer at least two-thirds full to help maintain the ideal freezer climate. Each time the freezer door is opened, the air surrounding the food becomes warmer and requires recooling. Thus, the better stocked and packed your food is, the less chance there is for premature thawing.

Frozen foods that have been thawed at room temperature should not be refrozen. The quality of the food—taste, texture, color—suffers when it has been frozen and thawed more than once. In addition, some foods are best left out of the freezer as freezing them will only ensure the loss of taste and texture. For example:

- Cooked egg whites toughen.
- Raw tomatoes become soggy.
- Greens wilt.
- Mayonnaise, sour cream and cottage cheese separate.

-Light cream, yogurt and butter milk lose texture.

-Custards and puddings become watery.

-Cooked potatoes become soft.

Foods best suited for freezing are those that come prepackaged in resealable freezer bags. All freezer wraps should be moisture-proof, vapor-proof and airtight.

Other tips to help smart freezer packers include:

-When packaging food for freezing, label and date the item so that you can locate the food again quickly and organize your freezer contents by type of food.

-For on-the-go families, cook larger than usual quantities of food, then freeze remaining portions for later, easy-to-prepare meals.

-When placing new food in the freezer, put it at the back or the bottom and move the older food to the top or front so it will be the first used.

-For the most economical freezer usage, all frozen foods should be used within the year.

Annual festival held

Students compete in festival

This year marks the 67th observance of National Music Week which concludes Sunday. The theme is "Music-It's Place in the World." Recently local music students participated in the Greater Southwest Music Festival in Amarillo.

Tracie Gilbert and Stephanie Walls received II Rating in piano solo; Brenna Reinauer and Jo Jo Lytal, II Rating in vocal solo; and Scott Shaw, I Rating in violin solo.

Those receiving I Rating in vocal solo were Heidi Hafliager, Brianna Reinauer, Shelia Teel, Misty Dudley, Carrie Wilkerson, Vanessa Gonzalez, Mandie Tijerina, Chelli Cummings and Mary Varner.

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - Former astronaut Alan Shepard and helicopter pioneer Igor Sikorsky are among six men to be enshrined Thursday in the National Museum of Naval Aviation's Hall of Honor.

Shepard, 66, a retired rear admiral, was the first American in space in 1961. He walked on the moon in 1971.

Sikorsky, who died in 1972, was an aircraft builder in Russia and designed commercial seaplanes after emigrating to the United States. But he is best known as the father of the helicopter industry.

Lodge holds meeting

Hereford Rebecca Lodge #228 met recently with 16 members present. Noble Grand Rosalie Northcutt presided at the business meeting.

Cards were signed for ailing members and friends. Five visits to the sick, 13 cheer cards and two flowers were reported.

District Deputy President Susie Curtisinger and Lodge Deputy Sadie Shaw planned a joint school of instruction for the next meeting.

In attendance were Anna Conklin, Erma Loving, Jim Loving, Genevieve Lynn, Stella Hershey, Marie Harris, Jo Irbeck, Dorothy Lundry, Leona Sowell, Lydia Hopson, Peggy Lemons, Ursalee Jacobsen, Curtisinger and Northcutt.

NEW YORK (AP) - Veteran rockers Crosby, Stills & Nash are returning to the road this summer for a four-month North American tour of more than 60 cities.

David Crosby, Stephen Stills and Graham Nash will be backed by a five-piece band for the tour, which will include stadium dates and smaller outdoor shows.

The tour, supporting the group's soon-to-be released "Live It Up" album, begins June 1 in Austin, Texas, and ends in September in Canada. CS&N's managers announced Tuesday.

Dairy delights suggested

Diet with dairy: That's the message from nutritionists, who say the newest calcium-packed and protein-rich dairy products meet consumer demands for reduced calories, fat and cholesterol.

Some 1,300 new dairy products have been introduced over the past year, industry experts say, many of which have the weight- and nutrition-conscious consumer in mind. Lower fat, cholesterol and sodium versions of cheeses offer full flavor and texture. Nonfat yogurt flavored with non-caloric sweeteners and nonfat ice cream have been developed for calorie watchers. Also, there's a lactose-reduced cottage cheese for people who are lactose intolerant. All are designed to meet special nutrition requirements without sacrificing flavor.

Other new dairy products offer innovative variety and convenience as well as good nutrition. Flavored butters range from garlic to fruit to Vermont maple syrup. Cheese spreads are now made with smoked salmon, fresh vegetables and a variety of herbs and spices. There are even non-alcoholic milk cordials! Quick and easy to prepare are microwavable cheeses that are individually portion-wrapped and frozen yogurt on a stick.

The first town meeting, later to become famous throughout New England, was held in Faneuil Hall, Boston in 1743.

According to recent estimates there are about 40,000 different varieties.

SPRUCE FORESTS
DUDLEY, N.C. (AP) - The timberland in the United States supporting pines, spruces, cedars and other softwoods covers more area than the Gulf of Mexico.

Softwoods outnumber hardwoods, such as maples, oaks, poplars and hickories, and cover some three-fifths of the volume of all timberland, according to Georgia-Pacific Corp. Nearly 70 percent of the softwoods are in western forests and more than 90 percent of the hardwoods are in eastern timberlands.

HAPPINESS AND WEIGHT
NEW YORK (AP) - Happily married women gain an average of 18.4 pounds in the first 13 years of marriage, while unhappy wives gain an average of 42.6 pounds during the same time, according to marriage therapist Richard B. Stuart.

Michael Feuerstein, a member of the Nutri-System National Health Sciences Advisory Board, comments: "These figures support the common clinical observation that many women turn to food when emotional support is weak. Any kind of emotional stress increases the likelihood of overeating, so if people want to lose weight they must learn better ways of managing stress."

Garden for perennial beauty this spring

A border of flowering herbaceous perennials adds a distinctively elegant touch to your garden. That's a bit of gardening guidance from the specialists on the Garden Council, a national group of firms and professionals representing the lawn and garden industry.

In winter, the perennials lose their foliage and revert to root or bulb. Their hardy root system enable them to survive the cold by hiding underground through frost, snow, and harsh temperatures to bloom again year after year.

Sun-tolerant perennials include carnation, aster, chrysanthemum, geranium, hibiscus, peony, poppy, crocus, daffodil, tulip and narcissus. Lily of the valley, bleeding heart, primrose and lungwort are examples of varieties that bloom in the shade.

Growing seasons vary according to location, so find out when the blossoming season occurs by consulting retailers of lawn and garden goods. Their staff will provide information specific to your area and help you pick a mixture of perennials to keep your garden blooming from the first spring days to the end of fall.

Plan your garden by mapping out the bed or border you wish to plant, making sure to mark the placement of perennials according to growing season. When you're finished, you'll know precisely where each plant will be, which ones will bloom together, and how they will look.

By planning this way, you can make sure that you mix early-spring bloomers with those that bloom in fall. As the spring flowers fade, the fall plants begin blossoming—and your garden activity of color and scent continues.

And you can use your plan or map to arrange color. For plant placement, consider how colors and heights of plants will look together in various patterns. A good rule of thumb: Place tall, brightly colored plants in the back and short, dark ones in front.

Hot colors like red, orange, and yellow jump out, while greens, blues, and violets tend to fade into the background. To get a sense of how those colors will interplay, use a color wheel. You may decide on a monochrome scheme for uniform color or a polychrome arrangement of dramatic contrasts.

Include in your mixture of heights, colors, and growing seasons the shape and texture of the plant's leaves and bark. These are also important design elements that add interest and beauty when properly placed. And they continue to do so through the winter season.

A major consideration in designing a garden of perennials is style. Decisions about beds, borders, growing seasons, color schemes, plant heights, and foliage shapes and textures must be part of an overall formal or informal design.

An informal garden is asymmetrical. Its natural feeling is accomplished with flowing lines and continual curves that wind around pathways, sitting areas, and other established sections. Much planning goes into creating this casual look, in which every element from color to texture must change continually, blending in new combinations with nature's cycles.

Formal designs are simple, classic, and symmetrical, consisting of straight lines and arcs. This approach makes it easy to map out and, ultimately, to "plant a formal garden. The garden's central point is marked with an object such as a pool or statue. Around it and throughout the design, squares and rectangles are repeated, forming an orderly pattern of geometric shapes.

For more assistance on planning your garden and selecting perennials, visit retailers of lawn and garden goods. If you're too anxious to wait for the plants to grow and the colors to gradually appear, buy your perennials in one-gallon containers or flats. But if you're patient enough to watch the beauty unfold slowly, start at the beginning with seeds, bulbs, and bare-root plants.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I went to the doctor for a checkup after I experienced tightness in my chest and pain in my left arm. The doctor sent me to the hospital for a stress test and an echocardiogram. I was at the hospital for an hour and a half.

The next day my doctor called and said everything looked fine. Of course I was relieved. The tightness and pain, he said, were due to stress. Ann, I didn't know what stress was until I received the bills. The doctor charged me $350 for a 20 minute appointment. The hospital bill was $1,500 for a test that ran an hour and a half. The bill from the doctor who read my echocardiogram was $165.

We do not have medical insurance, because we can't afford it. For a family of four in our area, it cost $600 every three months.

We told the hospital and doctor that we could pay $75 a month. They both said it wasn't enough. They want to be paid in full.

How do the insurance companies, doctors and hospitals expect working people to come up with that kind of money? What do poor people do? Is getting sick and requiring medical attention only for the wealthy?

What can people in this country do to get decent, affordable medical attention and health insurance? I told my husband that the next time I get sick, I will either stay at home and get well or die at home.

Working people are up against it. This is a serious crisis. Any suggestions? You seem to be the only one who cares. -- Upset in Alton, Ill.

DEAR AL: I discussed your letter with three Chicago physicians. They said when tests are done in a hospital, you should expect to pay about 50 percent more. They also said you were grossly overcharged.

If you had those tests in the office of a Chicago doctor, the bill would have looked something like this: $200 for the echo and $125 for a one-hour physical, assuming you were a new patient.

There is no easy solution to this problem. It appears, however, that sooner or later Congress is going to come up with a national health insurance plan that will ensure coverage for everyone. Expensive? Yes, but if we can find billions for foreign aid and military hardware, surely we can find funds to take care of our own people.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am still angry as I write this. Last night on TV a woman who had been raped was interviewed. She is legally blind and lives in Chicago. She identified the rapist by feeling his hands and face and enlisting her sense of smell.

In spite of clinical evidence and identification of the rapist by the victim, the defense kept asking who she did not struggle. This line of questioning suggested that because the woman didn't fight her attacker, she was a willing participant.

Why is it that women must be severely beaten or killed before the public believes she has been raped? Yet some authorities say the woman should not fight back. Who is right? -- B.R., Tulsa

DEAR TULSA: The natural inclination is to fight back, and most experts recommend it, but the time, place and circumstances can make a difference. If the attack occurs in a secluded area where no one can hear or come to the rescue, it is probably best to submit. (P.S. Dear Judge: It would be a better, safer world if rapists were put away for a long, long time.)

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about the drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

Guidelines suggested for deciding seafood quality

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) - The Southeastern Fisheries Association has published the "Seafood Product Quality Code" to help protect buyers from poor seafood.

The guide lists under separate headings every type of domestically produced seafood a buyer may encounter in the United States. The comprehensive entries are easy to read, and include a product name, description and most important, guidelines for determining seafood quality.

"As with all commodities, whether it's shoes, whether it's cars, whether it's houses, the best quality control safety influence is buyer control," said Steven Otwell, the project's technical consultant. "Educated buyers don't buy poor quality and unsafe products, so we thought we would educate the buyer."

Otwell, a professor of seafood technology at the University of Florida, said the manual is unique because it incorporates the experience of people who have handled seafood over many years.

Seafood buyers throughout the nation are buying the book to learn how to minimize the risk of buying poor seafood. The manual costs $35.

Although it is targeted mainly for large-volume buyers, such as wholesalers, retailers and restaurant owners, the manual is also available to consumers.

Otwell says the time is right for the seafood manual.

Seafood consumption continues to rise, according to the Statistical Abstract of the United States. In 1970, the average American ate 11.8 pounds of seafood. That figure was 14.4 in 1985, and by 1987, it was at 15.4.

"One of the biggest problems we noticed back in 1987-86, was seafood quality and safety was becoming more and more of a topic of concern," Otwell said. "Things really exploded in 1988 when people started saying there is no inspection of seafoods and seafood will make you ill."

The Southeastern Fisheries

Association, whose membership includes virtually anyone having anything to do with the seafood business, went to the University of Florida for advice about how to build consumer confidence.

Otwell said seafood is monitored by federal inspectors, but not in the same way as beef and poultry. Beef and poultry are inspected on a continuous basis. The frequency of seafood inspection is based on the need for inspection.

"Seafoods are indeed subject to inspection, but due to the nature of how they're produced, where they come from, and how they're distributed and their diversity, all these things make seafood so much more different than red meat," Otwell said.

Since 60 to 70 percent of the seafood eaten in the United States is imported, the association also is starting a two-year project to include foreign seafood entries in the manual.

KILLER CLOTS
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - When you cut a finger or scrape a knee, your blood's ability to clot stops the bleeding and begins the healing process. But when a blood clot forms at the wrong time or place, it can cause a stroke or heart attack.

Doctors now have several treatments available to dissolve harmful clots. To make the best choice about which one to use with each patient, they need to know about the clot's structure and contents.

Scientists at the University of Rochester are working on a new method using ultrasound to detect the features of clots, such as the percentage of red blood cells in a clot, as well as the strength of the fibrin network which holds clots together.

Applications available for Amarillo Air Show Aug. 11-12

The Texas Aviation Historical Society, Inc., is pleased to announce that the annual Amarillo Air Show will be held on Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 11 and 12.

All community organizations of the Panhandle of Texas and the surrounding areas, are cordially invited to present an application to participate in Amarillo Air Show '90 concession sales. Spaces for vendors requiring electricity are limited.

All community non-profit and for-profit organizations who participated in Amarillo Air Show '89 and whose applications are postmarked or returned to the TAHS office, Hanger 4, Tradewind Airport, by Tuesday, June 4, will be given priority for the item(s) sold last year and on new requests. Every effort will be made to accommodate each organization's request. Priority for new requests or needs will be given to non-profit organizations. If a non-profit organization cannot meet a need, for-profit organizations will be considered.

The Society retains the right for all beverage sales. In addition, the Society will sell caps, T-shirts, patches and posters. Applications by organizations wishing to sell similar items will be considered by the Board of Directors Air Show Committee on an individual basis.

In addition, sponsor chalets are available. These chalets, located at show center, provide shaded seating and other special amenities for your convenience and the entertainment of your guests.

For more information write to Texas Aviation Historical Society, Inc. P.O. Box 59720, Amarillo, Texas 79159 or call (806) 372-6999 between 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Betty Crocker

Q. Can coconut be moistened after it has dried out? how long does it keep? Mrs. C.K., Brownsburg, IN

A. Moisture can be restored by placing coconut in a strainer and steaming briefly over hot water. For immediate use, soak coconut in milk in a cool place and strain before adding to recipes. Dried coconut keeps about 18 months, unopened, stored in freezer. Once coconut has been opened it will keep for about one month in a tightly-sealed moisture-proof container at room temperature.

Q. Can all baked goods be baked on the same setting of the oven rack position? J.B., Bonham, TX

A. Middle rack position allows for even heat and air circulation around pans for almost all cakes, breads and cookies. Exceptions are souffles, chiffon and angel food cakes that are best when baked on the bottom rack position.

Q. What is a substitute for unbleached flour? Mrs. A.S., Sheboygan, WI

A. All-purpose flour can be equally substituted for unbleached flour. The two flours are nearly identical except that all-purpose has been whitened.

Do you have a question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, MN 55440

TIP OF THE WEEK: When microwaving vegetables, either add salt to water before adding vegetables or salt after cooking. Salt sprinkled on vegetables before microwaving may cause vegetables to toughen.
