By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The American battleship New Jersey, the largest warship afloat, fired its 16-inch guns on positions in Syrian-controlled hills east of Beirut today, U.S. officials said. It was the first time the New Jersey, the world's only operational battleship, had opened fired since it arrived off the Lebanese coast in September.

USS New Jersey

State-run Beirut Radio said the New Jersey and other American vessels were firing at targets near the village of Tarchich east of Beirut, and north of the Beirut-Damascus highway. There was no immediate word on damage or casualties.

The destroyer Tattnell and the guided missile cruiser Ticonderoga fired their 5-inch guns Tuesday against Syrian anti-aircraft batteries in the same area.

The naval bombardment action followed clashes earlier in the day between the Lebanese army and anti-government militia in Beirut's southern districts. State radio said two soldiers and one civilian were killed.

In Tripoli, PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's loyalists traded mortar and automatic weapons fire with rival Palestinians following two evening attacks by Israeli gunboats. The loyalists later fired on Israeli reconnaissance jets but scored no hits. The firefights violated a five-week old cease-fire accord.

Four mortar shells landed about 100 yards from the headquarters of the British contingent of the multinational force in Beirut, but a British spokesman said the 97-man unit suffered no casualties.

The state radio reported "heavy clashes with all kinds of weapons" at midday in neighborhoods along the "green line" dividing Christian east Beirut from the largely Moslem western sector.

Warplanes flew over the capital about midday Wednesday, but their origin could not immediately be determined.

A rocket-propelled grenade crashed at the U.S. Marine base as Druse and Christian militia men clashed nearby.

"We had one RPG round impact on our northeastern perimeter," said Marine spokesman Maj. Dennis Brooks. "No casualties nor damage were reported, and no fire returned."

Local radio stations said leftist Druse clashed with rightist Christian militiamen, firing mortars anti-tank weapons and small arms in the hills overlooking the Marine base. But the fighting tapered off at dawn.

The Tripoli fighting broke out Wednesday morning and one mortar round slammed into the guard post of the Lebanese army officers' club in the city's Kubbeh neighborhood, wounding two sentries, the state radio said.

The radio said it could not be determined who broke the five-week-old ceasefire between Arafat loyalists and Syrian-backed Palestinian mutineers besieging the port city in north Lebanon.

Pentagon officials in Washington said the cruiser Ticonderoga and the destroyer Tattnell hurled a total of 35 70-pound shells on Tuesday at an anti-aircraft position in territory held by pro-Syrian Druse militiamen.

The retaliation came almost immediately after two Navy F-14s drew at least two surface-to-air missiles and "multiple rounds" of anti-aircraft fire from an area about 12 miles from the coast, the officials said.

Single parent assisted by fund

Mrs. P is a single parent with four children, and she works hard trying to support them without any outside help. This has been difficult, and she hopes the Christmas Stocking Fund can provide warm clothing for the children at Christmas time.

It was because of less-fortunate families such as this that the Christmas Stocking Fund was formed in Hereford several years ago as a non-profit organization to help make Christmas brighter for needy families.

Contributions for the CSF totalled $3,847 Tuesday afternoon, but much more is needed. The fund reached about $8,500 last year and helped numerous families with food,

Christmas Stocking total now at $3,847; reached about $8,500 last year clothes and payment of utility bills.

Contributions can be made to The Hereford Brand, Box 673, or taken to the newspaper office. Recommendations on needy families should go to the CSF screening committee in Room 101 of the Courthouse.

Evans seeks career in modeling

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

If "popular opinion" is any indication, Stacy Evans may be headed for a successful modeling career.

It all began about a year ago when a friend thought he recognized Evans in a magazine advertisement for a sports equipment manufacturer. It was not Evans, but it started him to thinking.

Not long after that, he met David Dillard of Canyon, who was then lieutenant governor of Texas Key Clubs. Dillard had modeling experience and also thought Evans had potential.

His potential noted

"Then last summer," Evans said, "I was in Dallas having knee surgery. I stayed with my brother, whose wife works for a cosmetics company. She introduced me to Angela Norton, who is with the Kim Dawson Agency in Dallas, and from her I learned a lot about the business."

Evans said she plans to spend his spring break in Dallas talking to agents and finding out what his prospects are. "From Angela I learned some things about the industry that do not appeal to me, but I think the good things would outweigh the bad."

He loves meeting new people and says the social aspect of being a model appeals to him. "Modeling keeps a person busy," he added, "and I like being on the go all the time."

Young Evans confessed to being a dreamer. "Modeling is just one of the things I think about when I contemplate my future," he admitted. "I feel that I am always progressing and I believe modeling could be an important learning experience for me."

A 17-year-old son of Buddy and Marie Evans and a senior at Hereford High School, Evans is an active member of Key Club. He plays baseball and last year belonged to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

"I'm an average person," he said, "but I'm interested in just about everything." Evans also has a real interest in people and a genuine concern for the welfare of others.

"I believe that everybody can be my friend," he said, "and I always try to see the good side of people. I think it's important to let others know you appreciate them."

That attitude of caring may be what earned him the title of "class favorite" the past two years in a row. "He talks to everybody," said a fellow HHS student who worked with him in the recent all-school play. "It doesn't matter to him what kind of clothes you wear or what other people have said about you. He's the greatest."

"My mother has always relied on the golden rule," Evans explained. "And I guess it has become a part of me as well." Evans spoke often of his parents and how they have influenced his decisions.

In many ways wise beyond his years, Evans expressed a quiet confidence in himself and the choices he has made to live a wholesome life. "I know that what I believe is right, and I don't have to worry about what others think."

"I like one-on-one conversations with my friends," he continued. "It is then that we can talk about important things, and maybe help each other."

Evans said college is a definite consideration, and he has thought about medical

Officer safety prevents program

Of taking home drunks

"I do not encourage my officers to pick up drunks at parties," said Hereford Chief of Police Don Brush. He commented this week on programs launched in other cities that offer a free ride home in a police car to holiday parties who feel they have had too much to drink to drive safely.

"The safety of the officer may be at stake," he explained. "When we deal with someone who is intoxicated we never know what will happen. Besides that, taking the person home does not guarantee he will stay there, especially if no one else is at home. "Another problem with being available to private parties is that it would take us away from the streets where other things might be going on." Brush said he encourages the host to take his own guests home, or find rides for them. He suggested letting them stay the night as another possibility.

Holiday home watching service that is provided by the Hereford Police Department. Brush said anyone who plans to be away during the holidays should call the dispatcher to be added to the surveillance list. The police department records information such as day of departure and return and who to call if there is a problem spotted. Brush said an officer will cruise past the house twice a day, or will get out of the car and circle the residence on foot if the homeowner prefers. He also suggested taking such precautions as having mail stopped, asking a neighbor to watch the house and investing in timed light switches. Thefts from cars increase this time of year as would-be

Wednesday's Local Roundup

Board to discuss lawsuit

A class-discrimination lawsuit filed recently against it by the local Texas Rural Legal Aid (TRLA) office is to be discussed Thursday by the Hereford Independent School District Board of Education.

The regular meeting is to commence at 5 p.m. in the HISD administration building, 700 Union.

Two weeks ago, TRLA announced it was filing the suit after the local school board decided not to act on a proposal calling for introduction of single-member election precincts. So far, the board has not publicly commented on the suit.

Other matters to come before the school body include appointment of a juvenile board member, acceptance of the audit report, change meeting times and evaluation of the superintendent.

Turkey shoot scheduled

The Easter Lions Club is planning another turkey shoot on Saturday. Ivan Block, chairman of the turkey shoot committee, said the event is to begin at 1 p.m. at Easter Center.

The club plans to give turkeys and bacon as prizes. Easter is located 10 miles south of Hereford.

Several items stolen

Approximately $3,700 worth of items were stolen within the last two weeks from Jim Clarke, 605 S. Main, Hereford police reported this morning.

Taken from the residence, which Clarke told police is often unlocked, were four guns worth about $1,650, a $550 diamond watch and a $1,500 necklace. There are no suspects in the case, according to the police.

There were two incidents reported Tuesday, one apiece of open door and threats. There was one arrest for shoplifting.

Condition of men same

The condition of two men injured last Friday night during a murder-suicide incident was unchanged today, according to Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator James Bullard.

Tuesday, 32-year-old Calvin Henderson was returned to surgery and his condition fell from serious to extremely critical. He was shot late Friday with a shotgun and suffered several wounds to the right side of his body.

Bullard said Lewis Woolbright, 40, remains in serious condition.

The two were allegedly shot by Gene Wiggins, 51 of Dimmitt, who is also suspected to have killed Polly Woolbright at her Hereford residence before turning the gun on himself.

Woolbright was reportedly upset at not being able to see the Woolbright's niece, Doris Chevers.

State

Lawsuit would benefit state

AUSTIN (AP) — An agreement could be signed in the next few days in the $1.7 billion lawsuit filed against Mobil Oil Co. last year by the state of Texas and oilman Clinton Manges, according to published reports.

The settlement would net the state about $100 million, while Manges would receive up to $300 million, the Houston Chronicle and The Dallas Morning News reported today.

In addition, the proposal calls for Mobil to sell its leases on Manges' property to Shearson-American Express Inc. for an undisclosed amount, the Chronicle reported.

The Chronicle quoted sources close to the negotiations as saying the money Mobil received from American Express would be used to pay Manges and the state.

Space shuttle fire studied

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A fire feeding on leaking fuel erupted in a rear compartment of space shuttle Columbia just as it was landing last week at Edwards Air Force, Calif. and the problem must be studied and understood before another flight of the winged spacecraft, officials said.

Johnson Space Center officials said in an announcement Tuesday that the fire occurred two minutes before Columbia landed last Thursday and that it was followed a few minutes after landing by an explosion that destroyed two fuel line valves.

Neither the six astronauts nor Mission Control were aware of the fire and explosion. The landing appeared normal. The fire damage was discovered on Friday, the day after the landing, when technicians removed a panel while preparing Columbia for a ferry trip across the country.

Astronauts aboard Columbia were not endangered by the fire or explosion, which took place in the stern, far away from the crew compartment, officials said.

Texas losing drug battle

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Texas has neither the manpower nor the resources to slow down the increasing drug traffic into Texas from Mexico and other Latin American countries, the head of the Texas Department of Public Safety has warned.

Col. Jim Adams told a congressional committee Tuesday that his agency has been fighting a losing battle.

Despite cooperation from federal and local authorities, Adams said, "the immensity of the problem sometimes overwhelms us. We're still dealing with only the tip of the iceberg."

He said marijuana smuggling is a continuing problem, but now lawmen are concerned with the increase in cocaine traffic in the state. The illegal trade may be relocating in Texas because of crackdowns in Florida, Adams said.

More than 140 pounds of the drug was confiscated in two recent cocaine seizures, he said.

Williams executed today

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — Robert Wayne Williams, a choir-boy gone bad, went to his death in the Louisiana electric chair today praying that his execution would be a deterrent to future executions.

Williams, 31, also insisted in a brief final statement that he never intended to kill Willie Kelly, the 67-year-old A&P supermarket guard he shot in the face with a shotgun during a 1979 robbery.

The condemned man entered the death chamber at the Angola state prison at 1:01 a.m. and was pronounced dead 14 minutes later after five jolts of electricity coursed through his body, sending up smoke and sparks.

The U.S. Supreme Court had refused late Tuesday to spare Williams, but did block today's scheduled execution of a Georgia man, Alpha Otis Stephens.

Federal drinking age opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal by President Reagan's commission on drunken driving to cut off federal highway aid to states that won't set a minimum legal drinking age of 21 is in trouble at the White House and elsewhere in the administration.

Reagan spokesman Larry Speakes said the White House supports a nationwide minimum age of 21 for the legal purchase and possession of alcoholic beverages but regards it as "a state action that should be taken, not a federal action."

Jim Burnett, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, who has campaigned in state capitols across the country for a legal drinking age of 21, said the proposal to withhold federal highway funds in order to force states to act would only cloud the issue.

International

Soldiers die in Guatemala

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist guerrillas claim 10 U.S. military helicopters crossed the border into El Salvador from Honduras, while in Mexico City, Henry Kissinger said the United States should stay out of strictly local conflicts.

In Guatemala, officials say 25 guerrillas and six soldiers died in fighting provoked by an ambush attempt.

American and Honduran authorities denied the rebel claim Tuesday that helicopters from the Big Pine II joint maneuvers in Honduras crossed into El Salvador.

The guerrillas' clandestine Radio Venceremos said the incident took place at about noon Monday in the northeastern province of Morazan, a longtime rebel stronghold about 105 miles northeast of San Salvador.

Korean pilot unaware of course

MONTREAL (AP) — The pilot of a South Korean airliner shot down by Soviet fighters apparently never knew that he was off course, that the Soviets tried to intercept him or that his Boeing 747 was finally hit by an air-to-air missile, aviation investigators concluded.

The 113-page report by eight technical experts on the staff of the International Civil Aviation Organization, also noted "a considerable degree of lack of alertness and attentiveness" by the flight crew of the doomed jumbo jet. The report was released Tuesday night.

Korean Air Lines flight 007 was shot down just before dawn Sept. 1 over the Soviet island of Sakhalin near Japan, killing all 269 people aboard. The Soviets contended the plane was on a spy mission for the United States.

Lorenzo testifies

Airline can't borrow

By ANDREW M. WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Continental Airlines asked a federal bankruptcy court to dismiss the company's request for federal protection from creditors, said officials of his company met with pilots union representatives Sept. 23, a day before filing papers in bankruptcy court.

Lorenzo testified Tuesday that his airline had borrowed $80 million from Texas Air Corp., the parent company, and $276 million in all since Texas Air took over the carrier 1 1/2 years ago.

"That's how Continental was able to get by even though it was reporting millions of dollars in losses," Lorenzo said.

But he said lenders realized it did not make sense to risk money on Continental until the airline's soaring costs were brought under control.

Lorenzo, testifying at a hearing in which unions are asking a federal judge to dismiss the company's request for federal protection from creditors, said officials of his company met with pilots union representatives Sept. 23, a day before filing papers in bankruptcy court.

He said a meeting was scheduled for Sept. 24 at which airline officials were to make a last-ditch effort to reach an agreement under which pilots would give back $60 million in wages and benefits to the company.

"I still held out hope that the meeting scheduled the following morning might produce an agreement," Lorenzo said. He said he viewed the Chapter 11 filing in federal bankruptcy court as "the end of the line and the last resort. I was very concerned that it had never been done before. I was very concerned about being able to hold together a management team."

Lorenzo said a late-night call from union officials let the company know that Larry Baxter, an official with the Air Line Pilots Association, would be unable to attend.

The Sept. 24 session was scrapped and that day, the airline grounded its planes and filed court papers to reorganize its debts.

The company resumed business two days later with salaries of some workers cut by more than half, its route system trimmed by two-thirds and only a third of its 12,000 employees.

Union attorneys claim that bankruptcy motion was made only to escape the airline's union contracts.

Something Different

By KIM THOGMARTIN

He asked not to be identified, so just for this article I will call him Pete. Pete's family has learned to protect his anonymity and he never talks about it to his friends or co-workers.

You see every December, Pete dons his red and white suit and assumes the role of one of the world's best-loved characters. "Once a year, every year, I become Santa Claus," he said. "When I put on that suit I'm not me, I'm him."

But Pete is not the typical shopping mall Santa. "I'm not doing it to promote toys," he explained. "When I walk into the room, I tell them I am there to love them, and to tell them about the birth of Jesus."

Santa Claus can play a proper role in a religiously-oriented celebration of the holiday, Pete feels. He said the key is in how you treat the children and what you say to them.

"I am careful about asking the children what they would like to have. There are some homes where they probably won't get what they ask for, so I do not make a lot of promises. I tell them Santa Claus cares and he will do his best."

Pete does his best to hold every child on his lap when he pays a visit. Last Sunday he held 500 little people in a little over an hour. "I don't just walk in and start throwing bags of candy at them. Kids do not like to have things pitched to them. They like to touch you."

Pete gives away fruit, nuts and candy bought with donations from local merchants. At first he bought everything himself, but as his list of places to visit grew so did his family. His wife and seven children help him bag the treats and he always takes at least one family member along to help.

Pete said if he could afford to give every child a toy he probably would, but he would continue to give each one the personal attention he does now. "The visit is what is important, and the chance to talk to them about the real meaning of Christmas."

Last year there was an outbreak of chicken pox in December, and Pete was asked to visit some of the homes where the sick children were. "We knew we would take the disease home, and we did. Two of our children got it, but we heard no complaints about our decision to visit those kids."

Pete said that because it is a family project, his children have become more aware of others who have less than they do. He does the best he can for them on Christmas morning, and it is always a sacrifice, but his children seldom ask for gifts.

Last year someone tried to pay him for visiting their Christmas party. He jumped in his car and took it back. "I just cannot take money for doing this. I never have and I never will." He's been doing it 13 years now.

"I may not make it to church every Sunday, but I believe. And that is why I do this, so the children will know."

Deliberately, judge decides

Nun murders were hidden

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired U.S. district judge commissioned to investigate the murders of four American nuns in El Salvador three years ago has concluded that the killings were deliberately covered up by military and civilian officials in that Central American country.

The State Department has classified Judge Harold R.

Tyler Jr.'s report secret, but knowledgeable sources described his findings Tuesday.

They are: —That there was "ample evidence" that five El Salvador national guardsmen accused of shooting the Maryknoll nuns are guilty.

—That there was an attempt to cover up the murders not only by military officers in El Salvador, but also higher-ranking government officials.

—That there was no evidence that the order to ambush the church women along a road in rural El Salvador came from higher-ups in either the army or the government.

The New York Times, meanwhile, said in today's editions that Tyler's report also rebuts criticism that the Reagan administration failed to press for swift prosecution in the case. Tyler detailed the assistance, including that of the FBI, that the administration gave the Salvadorans in the case, sources told the newspaper.

State Department spokesman Alan Romberg said Tuesday that the report has been classified while officials decide if its public release would jeopardize the legal rights of the five national guardsmen who have been held for trial for over two years in El Salvador.

"Our overriding concern in this case has been and will continue to be that the guilty be brought to justice," Romberg said.

BRUSH

burglars search for Christmas packages inside. Brush said it is best to put packages in the trunk of the auto. "There is no such thing as a lock that cannot be broken, but it is still better to make it more difficult for the thief," he explained.

Brush said the crime rate does not increase drastically in Hereford during December, but there are always thefts associated with the holidays and he suggests taking extra precautions and keeping everything locked.

school. "I don't expect to make decisions for the rest of my life now, but I have lots of ideas. I have some very personal reasons why I think modeling could play a part in my future."

A firm believer in self-motivation, Evans said he has definite feelings about what lies ahead for him. "You can be whatever you want to be," he concluded, "and I feel that I will be successful."

Ann Landers Happy but not in love

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you believe it is possible to have a happy marriage without love? I didn't think so until I read the views of Dr. John Hudson, past president of the American Assn. of Marriage and Family Counselors.

For openers: In approximately 25 percent of all marriages that were described as "happy," one or both parties said they were not in love, according to Dr. Hudson.

He offered the following suggestions for couples who bemoan the fact that they are not starry-eyed and believe they are missing something terrific:

(1) It is foolish to go through life feeling cheated because you are not head-over-heels about your mate. Being in love is greatly overrated, considering it is such a short-lived experience.

(2) Stop envying couples who appear to be madly in love. People who make a public display of their devotion behave differently behind closed doors.

(3) Don't assume that your life would be free of conflict if only you and your spouse were gaga about each other. The problems would still be there because problems are an inevitable part of living. According to Dr. Hudson, couples who fight together stay together, whether they are in love or not, provided their fights help resolve their difficulties.

(4) Don't work hard at falling in love. You can't make it happen. A love you have to talk yourself into will never be the real thing.

I hope you will print this, Ann. A great many couples need the information. Too bad I didn't have it 15 years ago. — Older But Wiser in Bay City, Mich.

DEAR BAY: Dr. Hudson's remarks are realistic and practical. Thanks for sharing them with us.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a guy 17 years old. I have this friend, Joe, who lies all the time. At first I thought he was just trying to make an impression, but his lies are becoming more and more ridiculous.

Now I think Joe actually believes the stories he tells. Is this a sign of some kind of mental illness? I am finding it harder and harder to get along with Joe because I don't believe a word he says. He has very few friends and I feel sorry for him.

I am counting on you for some answers.—New York, N.Y.

DEAR N.Y.: Joe sounds like a pathological liar. This is a form of mental illness. Individuals who suffer this affliction actually believe the stories they tell. In other words, they are unable to separate fact from fiction.

Joe needs professional help. He also needs friends. Stick with him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of a three-year-old daughter. When we went marketing, she screamed constantly because she hated to ride in a shopping cart.

Recently I bought a child restraint harness. She love sit because she can walk "like a grown person." I've received nasty glares, and some women have even told me it is cruel to tie a child up like a dog. How do I respond?—A.W. In Nashville

DEAR A.W.: If the harness works for you, ignore the glares and continue to use it. As for the comments, simply smile and say, "I've found this is the best solution, thank you."

Olympic gifts

As late as 1912, at Stockholm, victors of the modern Olympic Games were crowned with wreaths fashioned from leaves — in addition to receiving trophies and medallions. Olympic champions in Berlin in 1936 were awarded oak-tree saplings, suitably potted for replanting in the victor's homeland.

Not As It Appears

These opposing varsity basketball players are not imitating the Washington Redskins' "Fun Bunch" with a "high five." Rather, Hereford High School senior Cathy Bartels is trying to block a pass by Plainview's Ramona Black. Host Hereford won the Tuesday night contest 55-54.

Whiteface boys lose to Plainview

HHS fems win big game

By REED PARSELL
Coach Larry Sowers termed it "the biggest win we've had in a long time," but Tuesday night's triumph over visiting Plainview was certainly not an easy one for varsity girls from Hereford High School.

Trailing by 12 points at one stage in the second quarter, HHS charged into the final stanza ahead 40-37 and the last 14 seconds in front 55-54. However, Plainview had the ball and, from the way the seasaw affair was going, seemed to have an advantage.

Ramona Black, however, missed a 15-footer from the free-throw line with three seconds left, not even touching the rim with her shot. It appeared Teresa Phibbs, an HHS senior guard, got a piece of the attempt.

Plainview's Cynthia Hemphill grabbed the rebound, though, and was fouled while putting up an errant seven-foot jumper from the left baseline. Hemphill would normally have gone to the foul stripe for two shots, and she had so far connected on 5 of 6 from that spot.

Her trip was in doubt since the referees were not certain whether the shot and foul occurred before the clock wound out. In such cases, the official scorekeeper rules whether time elapsed, and Gene Brock felt it had. Hereford 55, Plainview 54.

"It was clearly out of her (Hemphill's) hand when the whistle blew," Plainview mentor Paul Price wailed to Sowers after the contest. "I'd bet my life on it."

"I didn't see it," Sowers later commented. "Everybody I talked to said it wasn't even close," meaning time had run out long before Hemphill vaulted the ball.

The official result gives Hereford a contending District 3-5A mark of 3-1. The only undefeated district squad, according to Sowers, is Amarillo-Palo Duro. The Dons, who downed the Whitefaces earlier this season 58-54, Tuesday handed Lubbock-Monterey its first district setback, 58-56.

HHS has a chance to improve its 3-5A standing Monday when it hosts Amarillo at 7:30 p.m. in the local high school's gymnasium. The Sandies mauled Amarillo-Caprock 82-39 Tuesday.

In the meantime, the Whitefaces are to play at least three games in the coming weekend's San Angelo Tournament, opening with San Angelo-Lakeview at 11 a.m. Friday. Sowers said there is a chance his girls could play four times during the two-day affair.

Tuesday's thriller began with Plainview slowly building a lead, which stretched to 32-20 a few minutes before halftime. "We started out about as cold as I've seen us," Sowers said. "I think maybe we were too prepared mentally when we started."

By the end of the second period, HHS had cut the Plainview lead to 35-28. During the third quarter, the visitors could net just two free throws while Hereford, hitting six field goals, jumped ahead 40-37.

The Whitefaces appeared to be nailing down the victory when, almost two minutes into the final stanza, Phibbs made a three-point play to put HHS on top 47-42. Plainview proceeded to erupt for six straight points, grabbing a 48-47 lead after a 15-footer by Black from the free-throw line.

Natalie Sims, playing her first-ever varsity tilt for HHS, then kept her team close by hitting three straight field goals. It was senior Cathy Bartels' rebound and four-footer with 14 seconds remaining, however, that allowed Hereford to go ahead for good.

Bartels led all scorers with 16 points while adding nine rebounds. Hemphill (15 tallies) and Black (14) topped all Plainview players while Sims threw up 10 for the Whitefaces. Hereford was 5-for-8 from the line while PHS was 12-for-20.

Hereford had to cope with a minor ankle injury to junior Stacie High and a potentially-serious knee injury to senior Jan Harwell. Both starters had been hurt prior to Tuesday.

Sowers said he hoped Harwell can play again soon. Her injured knee has been operated on twice before, he claimed.

Hereford's male team loses big

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
The girls' game was a real nail-biter, with the outcome in doubt until the final tick of the scoreboard clock. The boys' game was different.

If there was any doubt about Plainview's dominance over Hereford here Tuesday night, the Bulldogs dispelled that idea by outscoring the Whitefaces 22-9 in the third period and rolling to a 70-49 triumph in the District 3-5A encounter.

The defeat was Hereford's second in district action against no wins, while the game was the 3-5A opener for the visiting Bulldogs. Hereford is 4-7 on the season, while Plainview is now 5-4.

The Herd trailed by 14-5 after the first quarter, but the Whitefaces battled back with a 15-point second period. Hereford was still in striking distance at halftime, trailing by 30-20.

But the Bulldogs increased the margin with a hot third-quarter performance and took a 52-29 advantage going into the final stanza of play. The Herd never gave up, fighting back with 20 pints in the fourth period but they cut the final margin by just two points.

Jeff Streun and Lee Brockman paced the Hereford scoring attack with 12 and 11 points, respectively. Randy Williams was the hot shooter for Plainview as he took game scoring honors with 26 points. Richard Senter chipped in 12 points for the winners.

Hereford's junior varsity had scored a 47-42 win over the visitors in the preliminary contest.

The Whitefaces don't see action again until next Tuesday when they host the Amarillo Sandies in another district game. After Christmas, the Herd will be entered in the Berger Tournament, Dec. 29-30. The girls will be entered in the San Angelo Tourney this weekend.

Stanton's 7th and 8th grade boys finished second in the Hereford Junior High Basketball the past weekend, while the 9th graders took third place. The 9th-grade Dogies scored a 42-39 win over Canyon White in the first round, lost to Plainview Blue by 43-41 in the second round, then defeated Dimmitt by 59-47 for third place.

The 8th graders had a bye in the first round and downed Canyon White, 41-17, in the second round. Cross-town rival La Plata beat the Stanton team in the finals of the 8th grade division.

The Dogie 7th graders opened with a 37-25 win over Canyon Purple, then defeated the Plainview Red team by 36-30. Plainview Blue captured the division title, however, downing the Dogies by 57-29.

"I bet my life on it," Sowers later commented. "Everybody I talked to said it wasn't even close," meaning time had run out long before Hemphill vaulted the ball.

Georgia State stuns Tennessee

By The Associated Press
Before the game, the Georgia State basketball players read that they were supposed to be cannon fodder for Tennessee. That was news to the visiting Panthers. Tony Graham hit a 15-foot jumper with four seconds remaining Tuesday night as winless Georgia State surprised previously unbeaten Tennessee and 7,000 disbelieving fans, 52-50. "I think what happened was that there was a newspaper article that was cut out of today's paper which had some quotes saying the game was a mismatch," said Georgia State Coach Tom Pugliese. "It was posted in the locker room, and I think the kids took this game a little differently."

Only three Top Twenty teams were in action Tuesday night, and all three won. Sixth-ranked Memphis State stopped Mississippi 73-55. No. 8 Boston College beat Rhode Island 83-74 and 13th-ranked St. John's routed Manhattan 62-39.

Georgia State, a member of the Trans America Athletic Conference which had lost its first five games this season, trailed 48-43 with just over five minutes remaining.

Then Graham sank two free throws and Eric Ervin scored on two layups as the Panthers took the lead at 49-48. Graham then made another foul shot before Tennessee's Willie Burton, who finished with 23 points, dropped in two free throws to tie it with 24 seconds left.

That set up Graham's winning jumper that sent the Volunteers to their first loss in five games.

Top Twenty
Memphis State's two big guns, Bobby Parks and Keith Lee, sparked the Tigers to victory. Parks scored 20 points and Lee added 16, along with 17 rebounds, as Memphis State raced to a 12-2 lead in improving to 5-1 this season.

Michael Adams tallied 26 points and Jay Murphy scored 21 as Boston College recovered from a slow start. The Eagles, 6-0, trailed 14-8 before rallying to assume a 37-28 halftime lead. Boston College outscored Rhode Island 23-8 from the foul line as one Ram player fouled out and four others accumulated four fouls apiece.

Freshman Willie Glass scored 14 points and Mike Feigenbaum, who quit the team less than two weeks ago because of a lack of playing time, had 11 for St. John's, now 5-0. Jeff Allen contributed 13 more for the winning Redmen, who scored 10 straight points to open a 41-24 lead.

In other games, freshman Marcus Bolden tallied 25 points, 18 in the second half, to trigger Texas past Georgia Southwestern 77-60. Texas led their NAIA visitors by 36-30 at halftime before pulling away to a 55-38 margin.

Sophomore forward Derrick Gervin, the brother of National Basketball Association star George Gervin, scored 20 points as Texas-San Antonio topped Baylor 79-70.

Forwards Jerome Mincy, with 20 points, and McKinley Singleton, with 16, led Alabama-Birmingham past Mississippi State 55-53.

Kenny Wilson had 25 points and three other Davidson players scored in double figures as the Wildcats cruised past the University of the South, 78-66.

Jeff Meriwether scored 17 points, six in the final four minutes, to help Long Island hold off Providence 72-65 and hand the Friars their first loss in six games.

Pistons, Nuggets fire 'em up

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer
The Detroit Pistons and Denver Nuggets may have given new meaning to the word "shootout."

The Pistons beat the Nuggets 186-184 in a three-overtime, 3-hour, 11-minute marathon Tuesday night that set National Basketball Association single-game records for most points by two teams and one team, assists and field goals.

"Not only have I never even remotely been in any game like this, but I've never seen or heard about anything like this," Pistons Coach Chuck Daly said. "This will certainly go down as a game I won't ever forget."

In other games, it was Portland 102, Seattle 89; New Jersey 133, Golden State 122; Houston 129, Phoenix 110; Chicago 96, Milwaukee 88; Utah 107, Cleveland 105; Atlanta 94, Washington 89 and Boston 102, New York 100.

The previous scoring record for one team was 173 points Feb. 27, 1959 by the Boston Celtics in a regulation game. The two-team scoring record came when San Antonio beat Milwaukee 171-166 in another triple-overtime contest on March 6, 1962.

The 93 assists broke the previous record by four and the 142 field goals was six more than any other game in NBA history.

Five players scored 35 points or more and three established career highs for points. The Pistons had to overcome career highs by Denver's Kiki Vandeweghe, who had 51 points, and Alex English, with 47.

Isiah Thomas, who had a career-high 47 points and 17 assists, scored eight straight points late in the third overtime.

Rockets 129, Suns 110
The Rockets broke open a close game at Houston by outscoring Phoenix 37-25 in the third quarter, with Caldwell Jones scoring 14 points during the period.

Jones finished with 24 points and Ralph Sampson 22 for Houston, which continued its assault in the fourth quarter by hitting 10 of its first 13 shots for a 121-100 lead. The Suns, who trailed only 61-60 at halftime, got 23 points from James Edwards.

Dominique Wilkins scored 27 points as Atlanta won its first game on the road after 10 straight losses.

Dan Roundfield added eight of his 21 points for the Hawks in the fourth quarter, when they tenaciously held on to a slim edge. Atlanta led 74-67 going into the period, and never let the Bullets get within three points in the quarter.

Celtics 102, Knicks 100
At New York, Boston's Cedric Maxwell was credited with the game-winning points with five seconds left when Knicks center Marvin Webster was called for goaltending on Maxwell's layup.

Maxwell scored 22 points and Dennis Johnson 26 for the Celtics, who won for the fifth straight time.

Several Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers received blue ribbons at the District I 4-H Food Show Saturday in Amarillo. Standing, from left, are Polly West, who will go on to compete in the State 4-H Food Show in June in the senior nutritious snacks and desserts category; Cin-

Local 4-H'ers earn blue ribbons

Six local 4-H members were blue ribbon winners in the District I 4-H Food Show held Saturday in Amarillo. Polly West, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill West, was a top winner in the senior nutritious snacks and desserts category. She, along with three other 4-H'ers from the Panhandle District, will compete in the State 4-H Food Show in College Station in June.

Her Chicken Chutney Tarts received a first place ribbon and rosette and a plaque donated by the Morrison Milling Co. of Denton. Miss West, a junior at Hereford High School, has been in 4-H for eight years and is a member of the 4-F's 4-H Club. Others from Deaf Smith County who placed at the district level were Stacey Kemp, Jennifer Hicks, Camille Betzen, Jill Dutton and Cindy Meiwes. Each received a first place ribbon in the competition, and Miss Hicks and Miss Betzen placed in the top four of their division category. Miss Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hicks, won with Homemade Granola Cereal as her entry in the junior breads and cereals category. Miss Betzen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Betzen, won with Granola Chews, which she entered in the junior nutritious snacks and desserts category.

CANCER ANSWER LINE

American Cancer Society M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

Question: What are the signs of cancer of the ovary?

ANSWERline: Ovarian cancer is often "silent," showing no obvious signs or symptoms until late in its development. The most common sign is an enlarged abdomen caused by the collection of fluid. Sometimes there is abnormal vaginal bleeding. In women over 40, vague digestive disturbances (stomach discomfort, gas, distention) which persist and cannot be explained by other causes may indicate the need for a thorough checkup for ovarian cancer. These symptoms are, of course, most often no cause for concern. However, what would be a normally enlarged ovary in a premenopausal woman could be cause for concern in a woman after menopause.

Question: What is Hodgkin's disease and what are its signs?

ANSWERline: It is a cancer of the lymphatic system, and was named after Thomas Hodgkin, an English physician who first described it in 1832. About 56 percent of the cases of Hodgkin's disease occur between the ages of 20-40; less than 10 percent before the age of 10 and less than 10 percent after 60. More than 7,000 Americans develop it each year; about 2,600 die from it annually. The most common first sign of Hodgkin's disease is a swollen lymph gland, usually in the neck, less often in the armpit or the groin. Infection or a disease other than cancer can cause a lymph gland to become enlarged.

Surgeon says Emphasis on prevention

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Denton Cooley, a pioneer heart surgeon, says medicine is shifting its emphasis toward early detection and surgical repair of heart disease. Cooley, speaking Tuesday at ceremonies marking the start of construction of an addition to the Texas Heart Institute, said more and more cardiac operations are being performed now to prevent heart attacks rather than to wait and try to repair the damage after an attack has occurred. Cooley said there now are about 5,000 open-heart operations at the institute annually, and he predicted the volume would increase. He said 50,000 open heart operations have been performed at the Texas Heart Institute. The first, Cooley said, was in 1967. The patient was a 49-year-old man who was dying following a massive heart attack. He lived only six weeks after surgery. The 50,000th open-heart operation at the institute was in February, the surgeon said. The patient was a 46-year-old man who received surgery to prevent a major heart attack. "The comparison between these two patients and their need for surgical treatment is striking and exemplifies the trend toward earlier operations in patients with major heart disease," Cooley said. New techniques under development, he said, hold promise for earlier and more accurate diagnosis of heart trouble. These include a system called nuclear magnetic resonance that will be able to look inside of the body and detect disease "at an earlier stage than is currently possible." Such techniques will lead to an increase in the requirements of medical care and the burden on surgeons, he said. Cooley said heart transplantation has returned as a treatment alternative in extreme cases because of the new antirejection drug cyclosporine. The drug prevents the immune system of patients receiving new hearts from rejecting the organs. The drug has been used on 19 cardiac transplant patients at the Texas Heart Institute. "The future for heart transplantation seems much brighter than before," said the doctor.

Abundant Life

By BOB WEAR

Success in living is not as elusive as it is often made to seem. According to some notions, there is no such thing as success, and according to other notions success is for only a few special people. There is, however, a better view, a view that places success within reach of all. There is success in seeing the value in a regular, steady, useful and honorable routine of work and living. Of course, we must resist the pressures which are generated by the faulty and often unreal expectations which issue from the vain imaginations of the human mind. Accepting and maintaining the best available value system will help us maintain the perspective for success, personal success.

It is an observable fact that the happy, productive people are those who have a rather simple, steady pattern of work and living; and are wise enough to realize that there is nothing else. These are the contented folk, because in this general life pattern the good life becomes a reality. To be a steady, dependable and industrious worker in some kind of useful service is a great accomplishment. The pressures of faulty standards of life will spoil one's living experience. People who submit to these pressures are never satisfied. They push and drive and scheme and claw and scratch, but never seem to find whatever they thought they were seeking. Of course, this is not to say that there is any merit in being lazy, in being a poor manager, or in not caring.

The smart people are those who accept the true realities, who do their work, take care of their money, behave themselves, and are thankful for the supply of their needs. They do not envy the people who have more, and do more and are more capable and they sympathize with people who are not doing so well.

Finally, success is largely a condition of one's mind and is something different for different people.

Students at the International YMCA training school in Springfield, Mass., played the first official basketball game — on Jan. 10, 1892. It was invented by Dr. James Naismith to provide indoor exercise between the football and the baseball seasons. Naismith used a peach basket in the gym. Players had to use ladders to retrieve the ball after successful shots.

Planting Tree

Several King's Manor Nursing Home staff members and a large number of residents from the Manor and Westgate were in attendance for the memorial tree planting service held recently at the home. A tree was planted in memory of Alma Cross, a resident of the Manor for 10 years, who died in October.

Ethics Commission makes deal

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Ethics Advisory Commission, which can advise politicians and legislators on what the law says but cannot investigate complaints, is preparing for the 1984 elections.

At an organizational meeting Tuesday the nine-member body agreed to coordinate its efforts with the secretary of state's office, which already oversees statewide election matters. "We run the risk of having a workload that we can not carry if we try to operate independently," said Rep. Jim Turner, an author of the measure that created the commission last May. "The secretary of state's office is ready to carry that load."

The commission voted to approve an interagency contract with Secretary of State John Fainter's office to furnish staff work for the commission in return for a $120,000 appropriation to the commission.

Page Keeton, former dean of the University of Texas Law School, was named commission chairman at the organizational meeting. Harold Hammett, Fort Worth attorney and legal counsel for the Texas Democratic Party, was elected vice chairman. The commission will issue advisory opinions on questions of submitted by anyone involved in politics and legislative matters.

Despite protests from former Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert Calvert, the commission agreed to provide secrecy for persons requesting commission opinions, unless they specifically approve their names being made public.

Production of major crops down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cotton farmers are harvesting an estimated 7.62 million bales this year, a 2 percent improvement over prospects a month ago, the Agriculture Department says.

Even so, the 1983 harvest — which was about 87 percent complete by Dec. 1 — will be the smallest since 1967 when production dropped to 7.44 million bales. And the 1967 harvest was the smallest since 1895, according to USDA records.

The new estimate, based on surveys from the first of the month, is 36 percent below the 1982 cotton harvest of nearly 12 million bales, the department's Crop Reporting Board said Monday.

The burley tobacco harvest was estimated at 452.7 million pounds, down 44 percent from last year's record of 809.7 million pounds. Yields were estimated at 1,559 pounds per acre, compared to 2,379 last year.

No new estimates for 1983 production of other major field crops were included. Most of those, however, were down sharply from last year because of drought or federal acreage curbs, or both.

The corn harvest, for example, was last estimated in November at 4.12 billion bushels, less than one half of the record 1982 harvest of 8.4 billion bushels. Other feed grains and soybeans also show sharp declines. This year's wheat crop reduction was relatively small because the harvest occurred before most of the drought damage.

As a result of tighter supplies, prices of many commodities — including cotton and feed grains — are up substantially from a year ago. Cotton prices at the farm in mid-November, for example, averaged 66.7 cents per pound, compared to 59.9 cents a year earlier.

Planting of the U.S. winter wheat crop for the 1984 harvest was virtually complete by Dec. 1.

"Most of the Great Plains and Corn Belt crop had germinated and emerged," the report said. "However, progress was still behind normal in portions of Kansas and Colorado because of continued dry conditions during the month (of November)."

The Dec. 1 estimated yield and production of upland cotton in key states, included:

Alabama, 402 pounds per acre and production of 180,000 bales at 480 pounds each; Arizona, 1,100 and 660,000; Arkansas, 495 and 320,000; California, 985 and 1,980,000; Georgia, 501 and 120,000; Louisiana, 632 and 540,000; Mississippi, 640 and 900,000; Missouri, 377 and 73,000; New Mexico, 607 and 62,000; North Carolina, 366 and 45,000; Oklahoma, 224 and 140,000; South Carolina, 383 and 55,000; Tennessee, 335 and 150,000; and Texas, 335 and 2,300,000.

In a related report, the USDA said world grain production in 1983-84 is forecast at 1.6 billion metric tons, up nearly 13 million tons from the estimate in November but still 5 percent below the record set in 1982-83.

"The increase over last month is mainly based on new information concerning harvested Northern Hemisphere crops and also reflects good weather in the Southern Hemisphere where crops are in the vegetative growth stage," the report said.

However, grain production estimates for the Soviet Union and the United States were unchanged from a month ago.

The report said global wheat estimates were raised almost 4 million tons from last month's forecast to 485 million tons, 1 percent above last year's record.

"New information prompted significant upward revisions in the size of the Chinese and West European harvests," it said. "Recent favorable weather led to an increase in the Australian production forecast to a record 19.5 million tons."

However, the forecast projection for Argentina was lowered to 12 million tons from 12.5 million because of hot, dry conditions.

World production of coarse grains such as corn and sorghum was estimated at 686 million tons, an increase of 4.5 million from November but still 12 percent below last year's record.

The report cited "significant upward revisions" in the output of coarse grains in China, India, Mexico, Indonesia and Canada. Lower adjustments were made for Eastern Europe and Nigeria.

Global rice production estimates were boosted almost 5 million tons from last month to a record level of 431 million tons. The report listed improved harvest prospects for China, India and Vietnam.

Cotton producers take look

In the thick of the 1983 harvest, many cotton producers on the Plains have not taken the time for a hard look at all the details of the 1984 cotton program.

"But those of us who have, said Plains Cotton Growers Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, "are sharply critical of both the program in general and of two features in particular that appear to be especially difficult for High Plains producers."

Looking just at the big picture, Johnson states, the 25 percent voluntary acreage reduction program, with no provision for payment in kind or other means to reduce the adverse effect of the limit on payments, "doesn't offer enough incentive for producer participation."

"Without a payment in kind program or other paid diversion, we are concerned that producers will plant too much cotton, add 800,000 to a million bales or more to the 1984 carryover, and push the industry right back into an oversupply situation."

There is still hope however, the PCG executive believes, that something can be done to change two of the mandated procedures for 1984 that otherwise will serve as definite disincentives to program participation on the High Plains.

Johnson refers first to the Department's ruling that for 1984 reduces the floor under farm payment yields from 90 percent of the previous year's yield to 80 percent. This change, he explains, will result in a serious loss of payment yields on the High Plains where yields already have been depressed by repeated weather-induced crop failures in recent years.

"Reduced yields mean reduced program benefits," Johnson points out, "and that means even more of our producers may be tempted to ignore the acreage reduction program and plant every available acre, hoping to recover from the market what this ruling would take away."

The other program feature that hits hard at the Plains, PCG is telling the Department, involves program sign-up rules. In previous years, producers have been asked to "enroll" in programs early in the year, but were given the option to withdraw at any time before July 15.

But in 1984 USDA in effect has made the early sign-up (January 16 to February 24) irrevocable.

"Our producers can't possibly know in February what management decisions will best fit the conditions that exist at planting time in May or June," Johnson states.

And special hardship could fall on producers with both cotton and feed grain bases, he continues, explaining that if such a producer signs up in both programs and loses his cotton late in June, he will be denied the opportunity to replant failed cotton acreage to grain sorghum without paying prohibitive damages.

County Young Farmers host area Field Day

By JIM STEIERT
Special Contributor
The Hereford Young Farmers are to play host to some 60 Young Farmers of Texas members from across the Panhandle Friday during the annual Area I Young Farmers Field Day.

Ray Schlabs of Hereford is Area I Young Farmers president and will welcome area members as well as state officers to Hereford.

The local field day is set to include a tour of the Holly Sugar Corporation's Hereford plant, a noon luncheon hosted by the Hereford YF chapter at the Hereford community center and a leadership conference following the luncheon. Tour participants are to meet at the community center Friday at 10 a.m.

Area field days are held each year to give Young Farmer members from this region an opportunity for an up-close look at a major agribusiness industry within Area I, which stretches from the northern Panhandle to Lubbock and eastward to Childress.

Texas Young Farmers are agriculturalists under 36 years of age who operate local organizations with objectives of education, leadership, service and recreation.

Chapter educational programs center on current problems in modern agriculture. Members also work to develop their own leadership abilities, provide needed local community services and sponsor recreational activities for the young farm families and others in the communities. Local sponsorship is through the agriculture departments of local schools.

Friday's tour will allow Area I members to follow locally-grown sugar beets from initial slicing through final processing and packaging as table ready sugar at the Holly Sugar Corp. plant. Calvin Jones, agriculture manager at the Hereford plant, will serve as tour guide for the field day.

Friday afternoon's leadership conference is supposed to feature presentations by state Young Farmers officers on activities in the various areas of the state. The leadership conference is aimed at promoting more active Young Farmer chapters and greater involvement by individual members.

Following Friday's leadership conference, Hereford members are to hold a final meeting to check signals on the fundraising pheasant hunt set for Saturday and Sunday. Chapter members will be guiding 82 hunters during the course of the event, staged as a fund-raiser to defray expenses of the annual HYF Junior Livestock Show. Proceeds will also finance agriculture scholarships presented by the local chapter.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Finding osteoporosis

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there a test to determine whether or not osteoporosis exists in a 61-year-old woman? I recently broke the narrow bone next to the large bone in my leg, close to the ankle.

I'm 5 foot 10 and 185 pounds. So I'm not surprised I broke something when I slipped and fell, landing on my ankle.

The physician's assistant said there was osteoporosis, but not abnormally so. Could he tell by the X-rays?

Should I take calcium supplements to guard against further deterioration of my bones? By the way, I went from a full cast to a walking cast in five weeks, which the physician's assistant thought was faster than it usually takes.

DEAR READER — The best way to find osteoporosis is to look at the X-rays. The decrease in bone density is readily apparent. And you may be interested to know that a very high percentage of fractures in people older than 50 are related to underlying osteoporosis, which weakens the bones.

The exact cause of most cases of osteoporosis is not known, but it is commonly associated with a decrease in absorption or increased loss of calcium in people past middle age. For that reason it is now commonly believed that women in particular, after age 50, should get more calcium than younger people. A daily intake of 1.5 grams or more is often recommended.

A good way to get your calcium is to drink a quart of fortified skim milk each day. The fortified skim milk contains much more calcium than ordinary whole milk.

I'm sending you The Health Letter 6-10, Osteoporosis: Bone Softening, for more details. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You also should make sure you get plenty of sunshine and adequate amounts of vitamin D. Women after menopause often can be benefited by estrogen. Current thinking is that when given with progesterone, along with careful clinical follow up, most women actually are healthier if they have hormone support than if they don't. In view of recent studies, the cancer scare is not what it used to be.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 16-year-old boy. Within the last six months, my nipples have swollen. I lift weights and heard that this may be caused by chest-muscle development. Is this true?

If it is, is there something I could do to get rid of this problem without stopping weightlifting? If it's not from weightlifting, what is it from and what can I do?

DEAR READER — No, weightlifting will not cause you to develop nipple enlargement. If your program includes exercises that enlarge the pectoral muscles, your chest will be larger, but not the nipples, which rest on top of the layer of chest muscles.

Nipple enlargement or glandular development of the male breast is an entirely different problem. Many young men have temporary enlargement, or even lumps. These are related to hormones and are quite common. It does not mean you are less masculine than those who do not have this problem. In most cases, the enlargement disappears. In other instances, where a fat pad persists under the nipple, if the condition is extreme, surgical removal can be considered.

New Officers

Jeanette Ramey, vice-president; Clara Brown, standing in for Nell Norvelle who is the new treasurer; Edwina Thomas, historian; and Wilma Clark, who will serve as secretary.

Garden club members view two slides

Two slide programs, entitled "Let's be Merry" and "Christmas at Home," were viewed by members of the Bud to Blossom Garden Club at a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. David Duncan. Each member was asked to tell about her favorite landscape, and most told about those of the holiday season.

A brief business meeting was conducted, along with a report on the northern zone meeting held last month in Tulia.

Several members in the club plan to deliver oranges and grapefruits to the Satellite Center a holiday gift from the membership.

Naoma Spann gave an environmental series on "The Gardener and the Christmas Gift Poinsettia." She presented several horticultural tips about poinsettias.

To produce blooms for another year, care should be given to temperature, light and moisture. Rapid changes in temperature and extreme heat from heaters will deplete the life of the plant, she noted.

Even if the leaves have fallen, the plant can be brought into bloom again for another holiday season. The poinsettia should be transplanted into a large pot with drainage and fresh potting soil. The old soil should be gently washed away from the roots, and a rootone or fungicide should be applied to prevent disease, said Ms. Spann.

When potting, gently sift the new soil mixture over the fragile roots, being careful not to break plant surfaces or roots, she stressed, adding that the plant should not be pruned until it becomes established in the new pot.

The soil should be kept slightly damp and the plant should be grown in good light. It should be fertilized every other month with a rose food containing a systemic insecticide starting in the month of

In ratings

'60 Minutes' helps CBS to No. 1

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The ever-popular CBS newsmagazine show "60 Minutes" was the clear winner in the weekly Nielsen television ratings, as the network took a commanding lead with seven of the Top 10 programs in the week ended Dec. 11.

In taking the No. 1 spot, "60 Minutes" beat out "Dallas," "The A-Team" and "Dynasty," the A.C. Nielsen Co. said Tuesday. Overall, CBS had a 17.8 rating, compared with ABC's 16.5 and NBC's 14.4.

The networks say that means that for an average prime-time minute, 17.8 percent, or 14.8 million, of U.S. TV households were tuned to CBS.

It was only the second first-place finish of the season for "60 Minutes," whose rating was 29.4. CBS' "Dallas" was second at 27.3 while NBC's "The A-Team" was third with 27.1. For the season, CBS continued its commanding lead, with an 18.3 rating, while ABC stayed in second with 17.5 and NBC was third at 15.1.

Only one special, "All Star Party for Frank Sinatra," on CBS, cracked the Top 10 for the week. Ol' Blue Eyes drew a 23.0 rating for ninth place. While "The A-Team" was the third most popular show of the week, the animated "Mr. T Special" finished dead last, in 70th position with a 6.8 rating.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — My toilet tank sweats so much that I usually have puddles of water on the floor around the toilet. I know it's not leaking. The problem is just condensation. Do you know of any way to solve this? — KATHERINE

DEAR KATHERINE — Fabric tank covers will absorb most of the condensation. However, if you don't like the way they look, you could try the following: Remove all the water from the tank and dry it (inside and outside) thoroughly with paper towels. Then, using silicone adhesive (available at hardware stores under a variety of brand names), attach a lining of half-inch-thick plastic foam (such as Styrofoam), cut to fit the inside of the tank. Allow the adhesive to dry for several hours, then refill the tank with water. The insulation provided by the plastic foam should minimize the condensation on the outside of the tank. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — School has started and I anticipate a lot of mail from my grandchildren in California. Here's what happens: When they bring home completed papers of addition, spelling or fantasy drawings, the children write to me and their grandfather on the reverse side. We not only get a note from them, but can see their progress in school. This happy Pointer came about after a tearful 9-year-old Alana once discovered some of her precious papers in the wastebasket at home. Now they're sent off to an appreciative audience in Pennsylvania instead. — ADELE
