

Daniels maintains funds should come

For proposed center

By REED PARSELL

"I don't have any doubt we can raise the money," Director Margie Daniels said about Hereford Senior Citizens Association's intentions to have a $500,000 center constructed this year.

A money-raising campaign for the building has been scheduled for Feb. 20 through March 3. "We don't want any federal funding," Daniels said. "We want strictly local funding. It's a local project."

Ground-breaking ceremonies were to be held today at 2:30 p.m. The proposed 12,500-square-foot structure is to be located on Ranger Drive north of Westgate Nursing Home and the Catholic cemetery.

weekdays, when food is prepared.

The proposed building would have a dining room big enough to accommodate 400 people at one time. In addition, it would have sliding walls to many of the side rooms (see architectural plan) which, when opened, would give senior citizens room for even bigger gatherings.

"We can't have large activities because of the restricted space," Daniels explained about the Fourth Street center. Parties and some banquets have been held in the old gymnasium, she said, but a poor sound system, lack of sufficient temperature control and the hassle of moving many pieces of furniture detract greatly from those occasions.

Another need of HSCA is more rooms in which to conduct various classes, projects and other activities. The proposed center would have, among other things, designated spaces for games, storage, snacks, crafts, quilting, ceramics, administrators and conferences. There would also be a room for physical fitness, an activity Daniels said will receive more attention than it does now.

Plans for the project have been formulated for some time, with a major problem proving to be finding an acceptable site. Last summer, HSCA officials thought they could lease some land at the corner of Moreman Avenue and Ranger, but an appeal by the neighboring King's Manor Methodist Home, Inc. thwarted that action.

Formed eight years ago, HSCA moved to its current 406 W. Fourth St. location in June of 1976. Though Daniels admitted the 3,000-square-foot center "was a good place to start," the senior citizens have now "outgrown" the structure and would benefit greatly from the proposed move.

The conference room is also intended to be used for a project Daniels said she is "very excited about." She hopes it will contain taping facilities for area senior citizens to record interesting aspects or occurrences of their lives.

Vast improvements are anticipated for the rest rooms and entrances. As shown in the drawing, men and women would choose from two bathrooms apiece, a contrast to the poor facilities they must now cope with on Fourth Street. The doorway between the south-side rest rooms is supposed to be self-opening, with it and the other entries designed to be more efficient than the current single door.

The garage would house the two vans now owned by HSCA, though Daniels said the group is applying for another van specially designed for transporting handicapped senior citizens. The vehicles have many uses, including taking people to medical facilities, theatres or other types of entertainment.

Last weekend, she explained, 24 boarded the two vans and saw "Ten Times" at West Texas State University.

Though Daniels does not foresee any difficulties with raising the needed funds, she said any shortage would probably be applied for through various area foundations.

Most of the ideas for the new center, Daniels said, have come from observing and listening to the area's senior citizens. Approximately 750 people are members of HSCA, with around 1,500 having participated in programs last year and about 2,470 county residents eligible for the group.

From what she has gathered, Daniels said, HSCA has more community support than any other senior citizens group in Texas. There are hardly any local organizations, she claimed, with which HSCA has not worked at one time or another. She also had special praise for those who volunteer their services.

House-to-house fights reported

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

Between government, Shiite troops

Government troops and Shiite Moslem militiamen fought house-to-house today with guns, bayonets and swords at a key gateway to Beirut, police said. At least 28 people were reported killed in those battles and in artillery barrages around the city.

Police also reported 100 people wounded since the heavy fighting broke out Thursday, including an Italian soldier and a French soldier serving in the multinational force in Lebanon. The two soldiers were wounded by stray rounds.

American and British troops in the multinational contingent were not involved in the fighting and suffered no casualties.

"The nearest shell that landed around the airport was 1,000 meters away from our position," said Maj. Dennis Brooks, a spokesman for the U.S. Marines based at Beirut airport.

The shelling shattered windows at the residence of U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew, but no one was hurt there, an embassy spokesman said.

Dozens of people were buried in the rubble of buildings collapsed by shots from tank canons or lay bleeding on street corners that ambulances could not reach, police said. These victims were not counted in casualty figures, which police began compiling when the fierce ground fighting broke out Thursday afternoon.

Three Lebanese army soldiers and two militiamen were among those reported killed.

Hospitals appealed urgently for blood donations.

Beirut airport, where 1,350 U.S. Marines are stationed, was reopened at midmorning. It had been closed to traffic for 15 hours after the fighting began at the Galerie Semaan highway entrance to Beirut on the south.

Lebanese army troops and members of Amal, the nation's largest, Shiite Moslem militia, battled in hand-to-hand combat at several shell-ravaged apartment buildings overlooking the gateway, which is part of the Beirut-Damascus highway, police said.

Individual funds exist

Additional information has been provided by friends of the families of Phillip Carnahan and Larry Lomas concerning memorial funds established at local banks.

To accommodate those who were acquainted with one family but not the other, separate funds have also been set up. Originally, a joint account was opened at each local bank, with donations to be divided equally between the two families.

The two men, who were brothers-in-law, were killed late last Friday night in a one-truck accident north of Hereford.

The memorial funds are being handled by Irene McKinster at Hereford State Bank and Liz Hodge at First National Bank.

Dziuk wants competition

"It's always better to have a bit of friendly competition in the primary than not," Al Dziuk, Democratic chairman for Deaf Smith County Precinct 1, said Thursday.

Dziuk, who has been involved with political campaigns at many levels from several years, was referring specifically to the 86th District State Representative's race. Juston McBride, former county agent, is the only announced Democrat while Amarillo's Roger Ponce and Garth Thomas of Hereford have filed on the Republican side.

"More ideas can be generated that way," Dziuk explained. "Of course, any non-winners can get behind the winners 100 percent in the general election, to beat the Republican."

He was concerned at the apparent lack of interest in the representative's post, which encompasses Deaf Smith and Randall Counties.

Curry position corrected

Thursday's Brand incorrectly stated Tim Curry is chairman of the grievance committee representing District 13 of the State Bar of Texas and investigating former local district attorney Jerry Smith.

The committee is actually chaired by A.J. Robinson, an Amarillo attorney.

Curry heads another group - the prosecutor's coordinating council - which is also looking into allegations against Smith and current 22nd District Attorney Roland Saul. Curry is from Fort Worth.

THURSDAY'S HIGH: 53 (normal high this date: 51 record: 81 (1934))
OVERNIGHT LOW: 26 (normal: 24 record: -1 (1905))
OUTLOOK: Low tonight in the lower 20s, Saturday's high expected to be around 55.

Thomas runs for representative

BY KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Listing six programs and issues which he considers as "being urgent and in need of improvement," Garth Thomas on Thursday filed for the Republican nomination for 86th District Representative.

The 86th District encompasses Deaf Smith and Randall Counties and is currently represented by Bob Simpson, who announced late last year he would not seek re-election.

Thomas, 64, is Deaf Smith County Republican Party Chairman and a retired federal employee. He joins Amarillo businessman Roger Ponce in the race for the nomination. On the Democratic side, retired Deaf Smith County Extension Agent Juston McBride also announced on Thursday his intent to run.

Thomas placed education at the top of his list of important issues, saying "results have gone down, down, down for the last 20 years since Washington and the NEA (National Education Association) people got control - parents and local boards must regain this responsibility."

He also criticized the condition of Texas highways, saying "better designs, better construction, better landscaping and more roadside rests with facilities are needed."

A member of the Buffalo Lake Water District Board, Thomas said "we must have a statewide system to impound all surface runoffs near where rain falls and to distribute the excess laterally or pump it upstream to higher elevation impoundment facilities."

Criminal justice is "a mess," he said. "Jury verdicts must be sustained and the public rights again made superior."

Commenting on "sky rocketing costs" of energy, Thomas said, "We need to develop new sources through our university system and our agricultural economy must have a lower cost way to pump water."

Some claiming EDB overreaction

By RON SIRAK
Associated Press Writer

Although the Environmental Protection Agency today tightened rules on the use of EDB and all 50 states have been asked to test grain-based products for the cancer-causing pesticide, some state and industry officials say the reaction is overreaction.

"I do not believe the situation represents any sort of emergency," Dr. Robert

As EPA tightens rules

Bernstein, Texas health commissioner, told a state Senate subcommittee Thursday. He described cigarettes as "a thousand times more potent than this thing."

The EPA ban announced today forbids the use of the pesticide in fumigating stored grain and grain milling machinery against insect infestations. The agency has prohibited EDB use as a soil fumigant.

The rules "will eliminate about 97 percent of the chemical's agricultural use," said EPA director William Ruckelshaus.

The environmental agency also recommended maximum allowable standards for residue levels in grain-based products. Residue levels should not exceed 30 parts per billion in ready-to-eat foods such as breads and cold cereals; 150 parts per billion for products, such as cake mixes, that require cooking; or 900 ppb in raw grain intended for human consumption, the EPA said.

Because EDB decomposes rapidly, Ruckelshaus said he expected residue levels in raw grain "will begin to decline almost immediately."

Florida, California, Massachusetts and Hawaii have already taken action, including recalls, against food products found to contain detectable levels of the pesticide, which has been widely used to fumigate grain crops for more than 30 years.

Some officials felt the four states were overreacting.

The Democratic Chairman of Voting Precinct 3 has joined the race for Deaf Smith County Precinct 3 Commissioner.

George Zetzche, 50, a 17-year resident of the precinct, came to the Panhandle around 1950 from his native Bowie. "I like the people and want to help keep this area the special place that drew me here to live," he said.

A graduate of Bowie High School, he served in the U.S. Army during the Korean Conflict. He attended West Texas State University and bought his first farm land in Precinct 3 in 1962.

He and his wife, Frances, are charter members of the Hereford Young Farmer and Young Homemakers chapters and helped organize the state organizations. Zetzche won the Young Farmer of the Year awards at both the local and area levels. He was instrumental in the development of the local Junior Livestock Show.

The couple has four children including Joe Don, who still lives at home and attends Hereford High School.

The family is active in Temple Baptist Church, where Zetzche serves as a deacon and Frances is church pianist.

Monday is the filing deadline for the May 5 primary elections.

White looks at prison personnel

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says "personnel" is among the state prisons' biggest problems, but the prison board chairman said any talk of mass firings is "a bunch of malarkey."

White called the board to Austin on Thursday for a two-hour, closed-door session. Before the meeting, the governor told reporters he had a "little agenda of things" to discuss.

"Personnel is the primary thing. It appears from all the allegations that there are individuals who have not conducted themselves properly," said White.

But after the session, board Chairman Robert Gunn of Wichita Falls told reporters not to look for mass firings or resignations.

"I don't foresee any great housecleaning. I am not going to even predict any changes at all right now," Gunn said.

Trooper was shot five times

RICHMOND, Texas (AP) — A Texas state trooper slain Oct. 11 suffered five gunshot wounds, including one from a shot fired between 6 and 24 inches from his face, a medical examiner testified at the trial of the officer's accused killer.

Dr. Aurelio Espanola, deputy chief medical examiner in Harris County, made the judgments based on powder residue he found while performing an autopsy on Russell Boyd, who was gunned down Oct. 11 after pulling over a car for a traffic violation on Texas Highway 6 near Hempstead.

Espanola's testimony came Thursday at the trial of former lawn mower repairman Eliseo Moreno, who also is accused of killing five other people in a 160-mile crime spree that evening through southeast Texas. If convicted in the trooper slaying, Moreno, of Donna, could be sentenced to death.

Growers look for silver lining

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — A series of speakers told growers from throughout the Rio Grande Valley that oranges and grapefruit may be lying dead on the ground but the citrus industry is very much alive.

About 200 growers attended a two-day conference Wednesday and Thursday, sponsored by Texas Citrus Mutual, to discuss aspects of rebuilding citrus orchards destroyed by this winter's freezing temperatures.

The meeting presented information on crop insurance, disaster loans, tax advice, replanting and maintenance suggestions and a lot of encouragement.

Texas Citrus Mutual represents about 3,500 growers many of whom believe the gray winter skies that brought the devastating freeze may prove to have a silver lining.

Unemployment at record low

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's civilian unemployment dropped to 8 percent last month, the lowest since October 1981, as a record 103.9 million people held jobs, the government reported today.

The 0.2 percentage point decline from December's seasonally adjusted 8.2 percent was the fifth straight monthly improvement in the rate.

The ranks of those officially listed as jobless dropped from 9.2 million to just over 9 million last month.

Since unemployment hit a post-Depression peak rate of 10.7 percent in November 1982, the rate has dropped by 2.7 percentage points and 4.2 million Americans have gone to work.

Challenger makes fourth launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The shuttle Challenger returned to orbit this morning, carrying five astronauts on an adventurous mission to test a $10-million jet-pack that for the first time will put man in free flight across the vacuum of space.

If the weather is as cooperative next weekend, the shuttle is to make its first Florida-to-Florida round trip, landing here in eight days.

The "Buck Rogers flight" began with a rumbling on-time liftoff at 8 a.m. EST. The 100-ton shuttle flashed to life and rose swiftly on 7 million pounds of thrust generated by its powerful engines.

With Vance Brand in command, Challenger darted into partly cloudy skies and twisted out over the Atlantic Ocean on a southeast heading, its trail of fire and smoke visible for miles to the tens of thousands who watched liftoff from ocean and riverfront viewing spots.

It was the 10th shuttle launch in three years, the fourth for Challenger.

Gang attacks oil camp

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — A gang of heavily armed men attacked an oil camp run by Chevron in southern Sudan, killing three workers and wounding seven. The other workers were evacuated and the Sudanese army took control of the site.

Sudan charged that neighboring Ethiopia staged the attack Thursday, but company officials in San Francisco blamed "bandits" and survivors reportedly said Sudanese secessionists were behind it.

About 20 men armed with heavy weapons opened fire on the camp, then four of them charged into it and sprayed gunfire at the workers, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported. It quoted an official Sudanese spokesman in a dispatch from Sudan's capital, Khartoum.

Shultz denies Ortega's words

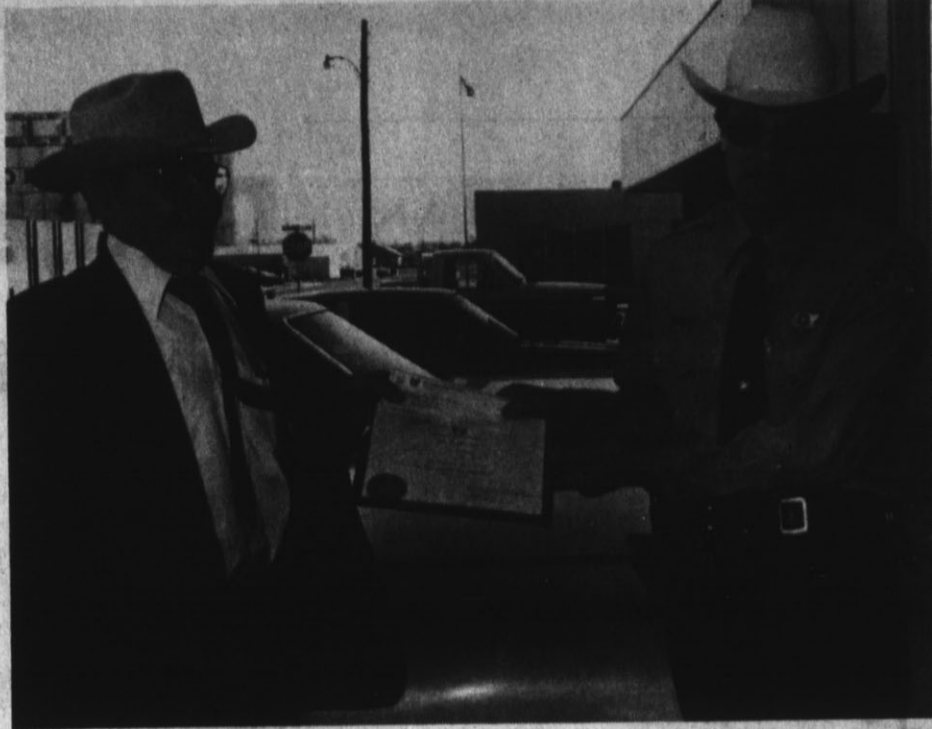

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz says Nicaragua's leftist government is jeopardizing its own security by harassing the church, the press, and the nation's Indian population.

At a news conference Thursday, on the eve of his departure for Brazil, Shultz said the Sandinistas have betrayed their revolution and are trying to blame the United States for problems of their own making.

Shultz said Nicaraguan junta leader Daniel Ortega and his colleagues "must be worried, and if I were them I'd be worried too."

He made no reference to the U.S. support for the anti-Sandinista rebels fighting in Nicaragua.

Shultz denied an allegation made Wednesday by Ortega that the Kissinger commission on Central America had secretly recommended the United States invade El Salvador and Nicaragua to protect American interests in the region.

Awarded For Work

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Deputy Loy Smith was recognized by the Hereford Elks Lodge recently for what it termed "outstanding service" in the performance of his duties. Smith was instrumental in a theft investigation that led to the arrest last month of two Canyon men suspected of stealing at least $7,000 worth of veterinary medicine from a local feedyard. Elks Trustee Wally Shelton presented Smith, pictured at right, with a certificate of appreciation and a check good for a dinner for two.

House to vote on Marine withdrawal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans are predicting the House Foreign Affairs Committee will vote for prompt withdrawal of U.S. Marines from Lebanon, but efforts continue to tone down the resolution to attract GOP support.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the committee, scheduled a vote today in the hope of getting the measure to the floor before an 11-day congressional recess that starts Feb. 10.

Rep. William S. Broomfield of Michigan, the ranking Republican on the panel, denounced the measure approved by House Democrats in their caucus as a partisan move. But he predicted party-line approval in the committee.

"What the Democrats are advocating is just a political expression affecting a presidential election," Broomfield said. "The skies are greased. We can see that."

Broomfield said he would wait until the bill reaches the floor to offer an alternative he hoped would attract bipartisan support, adding that Republicans are "not all ... happy with the policy" of the administration in Lebanon.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the subcommittee on the Middle East and a prime architect of the resolution, said he would not be surprised if it was changed by the committee, but he did not know what the changes would be.

The preamble to the resolution describes administration policy in Lebanon as a "failure" and says it has hurt chances for peace in the Middle East and caused "widespread confusion among the American people."

Hamilton said much of this language was added to gain the support of Democrats who preferred a resolution setting a specific deadline for pulling out the Marines instead of merely urging their "prompt and orderly" withdrawal.

Lawrence Eagleburger, undersecretary of state for political affairs, told the committee during a five-hour hearing Thursday that passage of the resolution "would certainly make it very likely" that the Lebanese government would collapse.

The resolution, which calls for President Reagan to report within 30 days on his progress toward getting the Marines out, was also introduced in the Senate Thursday by Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., who said it had the backing of most Senate Democrats.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, meanwhile, told the House Armed Services Committee that a withdrawal of the Marines would encourage the perception "by Syria, by the Soviet Union, by Iran that ... we had been forced to do so by terrorist acts."

"I think this (a withdrawal) can come about ... as the Lebanese army is trained and equipped, and they can move into some of these positions" occupied by Americans and other elements of the multinational force, Weinberger added. He did not give any timetable.

Congress approved and the president signed last fall a resolution authorizing the administration to maintain the Marines at their posts, as part of a multinational force, for 18 months.

Jury still deliberating over Grandstaff verdict

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Jurors tried unsuccessfully for a second day to reach a verdict in the $5 million wrongful death suit filed by the widow of a cowboy shot to death by law enforcement officers who said they mistook him for a fugitive.

U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson told the jury to try again today to reach a decision on who shot James C. Grandstaff, whether police had probable cause to arrest him and if the use of deadly force against the 6666 ranch foreman was justified under Texas law.

Grandstaff, 31, died Aug. 11, 1981, when he was shot by police outside his house on the ranch, which is near Borger in the Texas Panhandle.

Defendants in the case were the city of Borger; Borger police officers Bailey Roberts, John Ray, John Wayne Turner and John Robert Alonzo; and Hutchinson County Deputy Ricky Morris.

Grandstaff's widow, Sharon, testified her husband went to investigate after the couple awoke about 4:45 a.m. to the sounds of police shouting in a nearby pasture.

After learning police had chased a fugitive onto the "weed," he got into his pickup and drove 100 yards from his house into the pasture to help them, his wife testified.

Officers said later they believed he was a fugitive from Oklahoma who had fired at them during a chase that began in Borger.

The fugitive, Lonnie Cox, surrendered later to authorities.

The judge ruled earlier that a directed verdict be granted in favor of the counties of Carson, Gray and Hutchinson, and that they be dismissed as defendants in the suit.

Each dismissed party is entitled to recover from plaintiffs court costs, including copies of documents and other expenses, but not attorneys' fees, Ms. Robinson ruled.

PEARL FOUST

PLAINVIEW — Services for Pearl Foust, 58, a former Hereford resident, will be at 2 p.m. today at Trinity United Methodist Church with the Rev. Tommy Ewing, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Plainview Memorial Park under direction of Lemons Funeral Home.

She died Wednesday. Mrs. Foust, the former Pearl Prachar, was born in Stonington, Colo., and grew up in Castro County. She attended Hereford schools.

She moved to Big Lake after 1944 and to Plainview in 1945. She was a secretary at Estacado and Coronado Junior High Schools from 1955 until 1960, and was a member of Trinity United Methodist Church, where she taught a children's Sunday school class for many years.

She was a 20-year member and past president of Beta Sigma Phi and had been elected Valentine queen. She married Luther Foust in 1944 at San Angelo.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Walter of Plainview; and four brothers, J.C. and Bill Prachar, both of California, Frank Prachar of Florida and Ray Prachar of Spearman.

HAZEL M. RODRIGUEZ

Hazel Marie Rodriguez died early Friday morning in her home, 240 North St., at the age of 60. The body will be cremated.

She was born Nov. 16, 1923, in Oklahoma and married Ramon Rodriguez in 1962 in Plainview. They came to Hereford in 1965 from Floydada.

Survivors include her husband; a daughter, Priscilla Ferris of Topeka, Kan.; her father, Herbert Waller; her mother, Lena Palmer; and two sisters, Fay of Norman, Okla., and Rosalie Long of Perry, Mo.

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — Over heated objections from defense attorneys, a prosecutor put together a chart before jurors graphically illustrating nurse Genevieve Jones' suspicious track record in a Kerrville pediatrician's office.

All infants younger than 2 who had a history of illness and who were subjected to intravenous solutions or injections prepared by the vocational nurse inexplicably went limp and stopped breathing, the chart showed. One of them died.

Ms. Jones, 33, is on trial for the murder of 15-month-old Chelsea McClellan, who died Sept. 17, 1982, after a trip to Dr. Kathleen Holland's office. Prosecutors claim Ms. Jones injected the child with an overdose of a powerful muscle relaxant, succinylcholine.

It was the first time Kerr County District Attorney disclosed whether there were any young, potentially sick infants under Jones' care who did not show the symptoms of succinylcholine injections.

The chart, compiled from Ms. Holland's records, showed there were not.

"Doctor, every time a Jones I.V. was used, the child went down?" Sutton asked Ms. Holland.

"Yes," she responded. "And every time a child with a potentially serious illness got an injection prepared by Jones, the child went down?"

"Yes."

Prosecutors have been tight-lipped about a possible motive in the bizarre case, but have begun hinting that they believe Ms. Jones was undertaking a "plan" to inject infants with the drug and then appear as a heroine by reviving them.

The medical records from Ms. Holland's office were first presented to state district Judge John Carter without the jury. Defense attorney Burt Carnes objected to the evidence as inflammatory, prejudicial and irrelevant since the case histories of children not stricken while under Ms. Jones' care had not been presented.

But Sutton angrily responded, "This goes to show the motive and the intent of Genevieve Jones. Every time she got the opportunity on a child with the right symptomatology, that child was down."

"I don't see how you can make anything more relevant than this statistical information," Sutton said.

Carter agreed, saying quietly, "It is relevant."

The jury then returned and heard the statistical data from Ms. Holland.

Earlier in the day, Ms. Holland cried while explaining how Ms. Jones suggested throwing away an opened vial of the Anectine — the trade name for succinylcholine.

Ms. Holland said she found two punctures in the seal of a bottle of the drug, which she said she had never used.

"I said to her (Ms. Jones), 'How am I going to explain this?'" and she said, "I don't think you should explain it at all. Just throw it away," Ms. Holland said.

The executive board of Ms. Holland's hospital had begun asking questions about mysterious respiratory failures of the physician's patients, and about use of succinylcholine in her office.

"I think you should tell them (hospital officials) we lost it," the pediatrician quoted her nurse as saying. "We lost it before and they don't have to know we found it," Ms. Holland said Ms. Jones told her.

"I told her that medically, professionally and legally I couldn't do that. For my own peace of mind, I couldn't do that," said Ms. Holland, crying.

It was the 11th day of testimony in the trial and the sixth day on the stand for Ms. Holland, who previously had calmly and unemotionally responded to hours of questions from the witness stand.

Ms. Jones also is charged with injuring seven children, including Chelsea. Prosecutors Wednesday won permission from Carter to introduce evidence from the other cases.

Amid numerous objections from defense attorneys and a rejected motion for a mistrial, Ms. Holland recalled how five infants being attended by Ms. Jones suddenly fell limp, stopped breathing and were revived with emergency measures.

Police seek bombing motive

DALLAS (AP) — A tip from a nephew of one of two men led to their arrest in connection with the bombing death of Ward Keeton and might explain why a pipe bomb was placed in the newspaper vending box the victim frequented about the same time every morning.

Marshall Dewayne "Dodie" Williams, 21, a former step-son of the victim, surrendered to police early Thursday and is being held on a $50,000 bond on a holding charge of investigation of murder. Although he was advised of his rights by County Judge Charles McClure, no formal charge has been filed.

reaction "contrived hysteria for which there is no basis in fact and which could end up costing the consumers in higher food prices."

And despite the EPA's request for testing of grain products, many states have taken a "wait-and-see" attitude.

"There is no reason to go out and randomly sample for EDB unless we have some direction as to where to look," Jerry Hill, of the Arkansas Health Department, said Thursday.

In North Dakota, officials have collected retail food products such as cake mixes, but have held off on testing until the EPA acts.

"Until then, we don't know what levels to be concerned about," Charlene Seifert, of the Laboratories Department, said Thursday.

"I just don't see how the grain could be seriously contaminated," said Steve Daugherty, of the Iowa Corn Billy Jeff Cornett, 35, of League City, who was arrested in LeMarque Thursday night on an arrest warrant issued by Dallas Municipal Judge Nita Lambert, was being transferred to Dallas early today. Ms. Lambert set his bond at $250,000.

A U.S. magistrate who issued a search warrant for Williams' house in the Dallas suburb of Mesquite said that a tip led authorities to the men.

"They had a tip. One of the boys who lives at the house told them their uncle made the bomb," said U.S. Magistrate John B. Tolle.

"One of the boys said their uncle made the bomb in the garage because he was angry with Mr. Keeton over a debt," Tolle said.

The debt was related to those "services rendered," sources told the Dallas Morning News.

Keeton, 60, was killed by an explosion from a pipe bomb shortly after 5 a.m. last Friday as he pulled a newspaper from a Dallas Morning News rack on the parking lot of his far North Dallas apartment complex.

Sources told the newspaper that they believe the bomb was constructed from steel pipe and common smokeless gunpowder.

Tolle said he issued a search warrant early Thursday after an earlier search of the house, with Williams' consent, turned up wood chips identical to wood fragments found at the scene of the bombing.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

May we take this means of passing along a "thank you" note to some public servants?

Just to say "thank you" seems inadequate to all of you who spent last Friday helping your fellowman. Many of you risked your lives, left your home and spent the night in the cold doing jobs you volunteered to do.

You were professional and proficient and compassionate. Our community suffered a great tragedy in the loss of two fine young men. As we watched our firemen, law officers and ambulance crews at work, we noticed how many of them are young men who are doing their community a service.

With the caliber of people you are, Hereford has to be the most blessed community in the world. From our hearts, we sincerely thank all of you. Rocky Lee & Bobby Owen

Observing Celebration

February is the month that the Boy Scouts of America celebrate its 74th anniversary. Mayor Wes Fisher is pictured signing a proclamation declaring Feb. 5-11 as Scouting An-

Scouting Anniversary Week to be observed

Beginning Sunday, the Boy Scouts of America celebrate its 74th anniversary by observing Scouting Anniversary Week. Mayor Wes Fisher signed a proclamation Thursday afternoon for the observance to be held locally.

A council spokesman said the week will open and close with religious services. Scout Sunday will be observed this Sunday and the Scout Sabbath will be held on Feb. 11.

1984 is "Catch the Scouting Spirit." Special emphasis is being placed on appreciation ceremonies for more than one million adult volunteers who are registered, nationally, with the Boy Scouts of America.

Volunteer adult leaders serve at all levels of the BSA in 413 councils across the country. Volunteers also given invaluable service to the movement through their involvement on executive boards and committees at regional and national levels.

An estimated 249 Tiger Cubs, 2,061 Cub Scouts, 1,371 Boy Scouts and 1,199 Explorers of the Llano Estacado Council join their counterparts across the country in marking the anniversary week.

Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers will participate in religious services at their places of worship and will be encouraged to wear their uniforms for the occasion.

"We've more than 2,000 volunteers working with young people in our council," said Kurt Claussen, district Scout executive for Tierra Blanca district. "This year, we would like to take time out and let them know how much we appreciate their services to our community and nation."

Film flight no fancy

DEAR POLLY — I'm going on a European vacation soon and I'm really worried about my photographic film being sent through the airport X-ray machines. I've heard that these machines can destroy your film. Is this true? Is there any way the film can be protected? — KAREN
DEAR KAREN — It is true that the airport X-ray screening can fog film. It doesn't always, but it is possible. You can avoid the problem by requesting visual inspection of the cases carrying your film, thus avoiding the exposure to X-rays.

This is usually no problem in U.S. airports. However, some foreign countries will not honor such a request.
If you want to be doubly sure that your film will arrive in perfect condition, go to a camera shop or photographic supply store and ask for lead-lined protective pouches. These are reusable and will protect your film from the airport security system's screening X-rays. — POLLY

Speaking of Sports

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

Later this month, Feb. 25 to be exact, Sugar Ray Leonard will climb out of retirement and into the boxing ring to tangle with Kevin Howard of Philadelphia in a welterweight bout.

This may sound like just another fight if it were not for the fact that Leonard has not fought in the ring since retiring early in 1982.

Leonard retired because of a detached retina he suffered in winning a title bout against the Motor City Cobra, Thomas Hearns of Detroit. Leonard claims the eye is all healed and he can't wait to start pummeling opponents again.

One wonders why a man who has suffered such an injury would want to continue such a violent sport. It can't be that he needs the money. Leonard has already amassed more than $30 million in the ring.

Sugar says he's driven by his "competitive spirit." In other words, he believes he has unfinished business. He wants to be recognized as the greatest boxer in whatever division he decides to fight in.

At the age of 27, Leonard has time to fight, and win, the welterweight, junior welterweight and middleweight titles by the time he reaches 30.

What we have here is a miniature Muhammad Ali, a man whose ego is almost as big as his mouth. Ali came out of retirement four times. He was successful at winning the heavyweight championship three of those times.

Chances are Leonard also will be successful in his comeback attempt. His record speaks for itself, 32-1, with 23 knockouts.

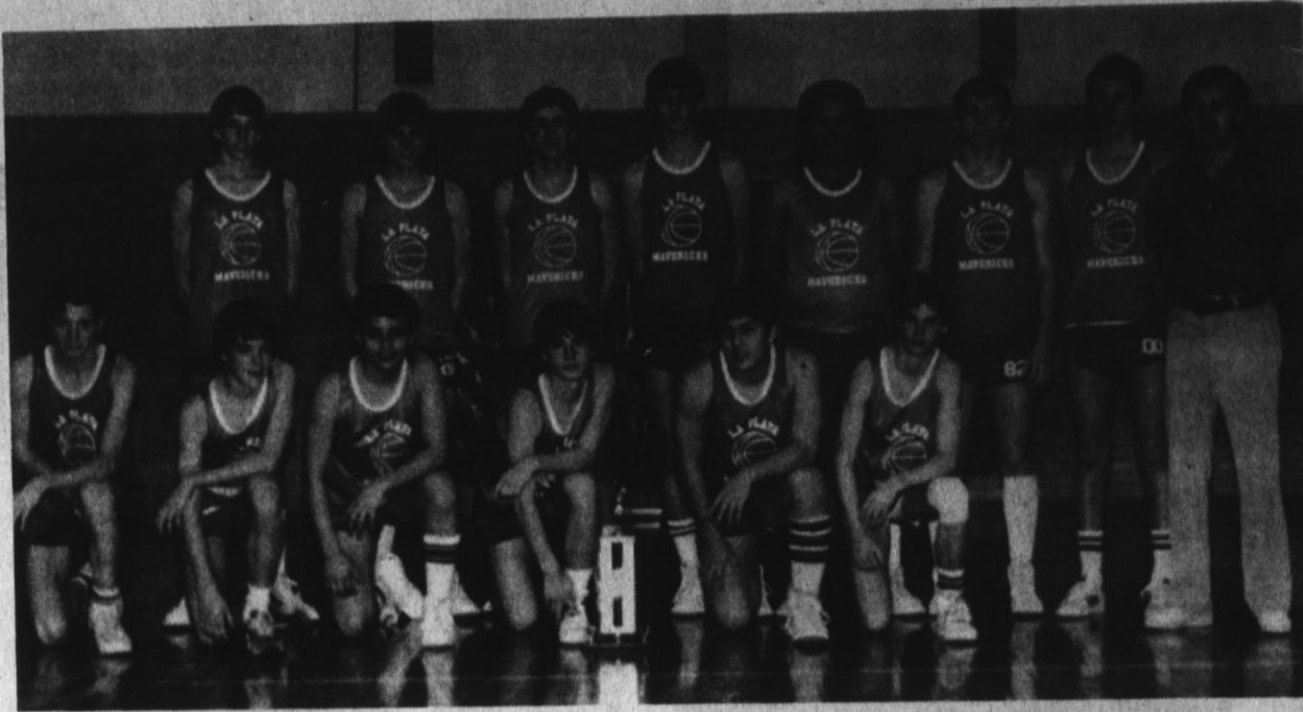

With Leonard back, it can do nothing but help the maligned sport of boxing. He's one of those charismatic personalities which only come around every decade or so.

He will receive $3 million for the Howard fight which is a mere pittance if one considers how much he would receive in future fights.

Boxing analysts have speculated that a showdown between Marvelous Marvin Hagler and Leonard for the middleweight title could create a purse of $20 million for each.

Howard will only receive 10 percent of what Sugar Ray pulls in from this month's fight. But that will be the most Howard has received in his 19-4-1 career. And it probably will be the most he ever will receive unless he knocks Leonard out.

Wouldn't it be nice if Howard did knock him out and Sugar had to end his career on a "sour" note.

Down the stretch

Hoop races taking shape

By STAN GODEK
Sports Editor

The District 3-5A basketball races are beginning to take a definite shape. The boys varsity teams have five remaining games while the girls have three contests remaining.

Barring any upsets, it looks as if the Amarillo High School boys will claim first place.

The Sandies lead Monterey High by two games. AHS is idle today so it can sit back and watch as the rest of the teams vie for the other positions.

Monterey, for all practical purposes, has second place wrapped up as it leads Caprock and Palo Duro high schools by three games.

Things are much tighter in the girls district race. Amarillo and Palo Duro lead the pack with one loss apiece. The Dons seem to have the better chance of winning the race.

Palo Duro has its remaining three games against teams in the lower half of the district, while AHS must play a tough third-place Monterey team at Monterey.

As far as Hereford teams are concerned, the boys have an outside shot at finishing the season at .500. The Herd would have to win tonight's contest at Tascosa High and then its remaining four games to accomplish this.

The HHS girls are presently in a heated fourth-place battle with Tascosa and Plainview High. The Whiteface girls almost have to win tonight's game against the Rebels to lay claim to fourth place and a .500 season.

The Hereford girls will play Monterey, a team they have never beat, Tuesday.

In tonight's boys and girls varsity action Caprock will play at Coronado, Palo Duro will host Lubbock High, and Plainview will be at Monterey.

La Plata boys win tournament

La Plata's Junior High School's boys basketball team was awarded the championship trophy for this past weekend's Canyon Tournament.

The Mavericks won big the first game, 80-36, over Plainview Red. Mark Bullard was top scorer with 12 points. Bobby Baker netted 11, and David Manchee and Todd Shire each tossed in 10.

Friday's victory over Canyon White was sparked by Shire, who came off the bench to score a game-high 19 points.

In the championship game on Saturday against Canyon Purple, the Maverick's were led by Baker's 14 points, Arthur Valdez threw in 11, and Shire also had 11 tallies as La Plata won the contest 80-67.

"The Canyon tournament was a good tournament for the kids. They learned a lot and played some real good teams," coach John Nino said Wednesday.

"One thing about this team - they have a lot of desire and they don't give up," Nino added. "In my four years of coaching here, this is the best team to date, record-wise and talent-wise."

The Mavs are 15-0 on the season and 8-0 in district competition. The team will host Plainview Blue Monday.

Sampson key to success

Rockets becoming winners in the NBA again

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The Houston Rockets are becoming winners again, and to no one's surprise Ralph Sampson is taking a bigger role in the team's recent success.

The 7-foot-4 rookie center scored 34 points, 27 of them in the second half, Thursday night as the Rockets beat Dallas 123-107 for the seventh National Basketball Association victory in their last eight outings. Sampson had 16 points in the fourth quarter when Houston outscored the Mavericks 39-29 to turn a close game into a rout.

"He's always going to be part of the game plan,"

Houston Coach Bill Fitch said. "When we get the ball to Ralph and move inside with our game, if nothing else, it improves our outside shots."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Detroit beat Washington 139-129, Utah bombed Phoenix 116-95 and Golden State defeated San Antonio 117-107.

Sampson hit 15 of his 26 shots against the Mavericks, including 11 of his last 13. Seven-foot Caldwell Jones added 14 points and 14 rebounds for the Rockets.

"We can't contain those big guys," Dallas Coach Dick Motta said. "We never have been able to."

"That's our strength,"

Fitch said. "Their strength is that they're very fluid. They're excellent shooters and they execute what their coach wants them to. If you're going to beat them, you're going to have to take advantage of the things you have an advantage in."

It was the second straight 30-point game for Sampson, who had 33 points in Kansas City on Tuesday night. It also was one point short of his career high of 35.

Dallas held Sampson to seven points and two rebounds in the first half to take a 52-48 halftime lead. But Sampson and Phil Ford each hit 11 points in the third quarter to help the Rockets build an 84-78 margin.

Sampson opened the final quarter with a tip-in and a free throw to give Houston an 87-78 lead and then scored nine points in an 11-2 run that gave the Rockets a 107-90 bulge with 4:45 to play.

The Rockets, who are 20-26 this season after finishing 14-68 in 1982-83, held Mark Aguirre, who averaged more than 35 points in three previous games against Houston, to 19. It was the first time in the last 35 games that Aguirre scored below 20 points.

Rolando Blackman led the Mavericks with 25 points and Jay Vincent added 20. Lewis Lloyd had 19 points and 10 rebounds for Houston.

Pistons 139, Bullets 129

Isiah Thomas had 10 of his 16 assists in the first period as Detroit took a 43-35 lead and went on to win at Washington.

The 10 assists by Thomas, who also finished with 25 points, was a record in any period by a Bullets opponent and the 43 points was the most against Washington in any first quarter.

The Pistons, who got 29 points from Bill Laimbeer and 25 from substitute guard Vinnie Johnson, never trailed after going ahead 14-12.

The Bullets, who were led by Jeff Ruland with 35 points, cut a 14-point deficit to 125-118 with 2:56 left, but two free throws apiece by Thomas and Johnson restored a comfortable margin.

Jazz 116, Suns 95

Utah beat Phoenix for its 16th straight victory in Salt Lake City as Adrian Dantley scored 15 of his 35 points in the fourth quarter.

Darrell Griffith added 27 points for Utah, which now leads Dallas by 3½ games in the Midwest Division. Rickey Green had 17 points and 11 assists for the Jazz.

Utah, after jumping ahead 35-21 at the end of the first period, didn't get a field goal in the first six minutes of the second quarter as the Suns outscored the Jazz 16-1 to lead 37-36. But an 11-2 spurt by Utah gave it a 51-46 edge at halftime and the Jazz led throughout the second half, with a 20-5 spree making the game a runaway in the fourth quarter.

James Edwards led Phoenix with 20 points.

Warriors 117, Spurs 107

At Oakland, Golden State snapped a five-game losing streak, beating San Antonio behind 34 points and 15 rebounds by Purvis Short.

Short scored seven points and Eric Floyd five of his total of 20 down the stretch. The Warriors had a 14-4 run in the final two minutes to give them the victory.

George Gervin led all scorers with 40 points for the Spurs, who led 83-72 late in the third period after scoring 12 consecutive points. But Golden State ran off 15 in a row to regain the lead.

U.S. speedskater prefers old threads around Olympic Village

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) — Most of the United States Olympic team parades around the athletes' village in crisp, new denim pants and handsome red, white and blue jackets with USA in black letters across the back.

Not Erik Henriksen. He has the standard issue wardrobe, but America's best hope for a speedskating medal favors well-worn jeans and a jacket that says "REO Speedwagon," for the rock group from his hometown of Champaign, Ill.

At next Wednesday's opening ceremonies, the Americans will also wear cowboy hats as part of their official team uniforms. Henriksen is liable to show up in his red St. Louis Cardinals baseball cap, because that's his team and that's his style.

Four years ago, America's speedskating Eric was Heiden, who won an unprecedented five gold medals at Lake Placid, N.Y. Now, the name is spelled with a "k" and this Erik is no great fan of the other one.

"He disappeared from our sport for four years," said Henriksen, who was an alternate on the 1980 team. "He hurt the sport because of what he didn't do."

In Henriksen's view, Heiden's success at Lake Placid could have been translated into stronger financial support and wider participation for speedskating. Instead, the star of the 1980 Games turned his attention to competitive cycling and medical school studies at Stanford.

"There has never been a better skating performance in 10 days' time," the 6-foot-3 Henriksen said. "But as far as his level of maturity, I don't think he grasped how much speedskating in the United States depended on him. His visibility would have given the sport more visibility. We could have used a personality, someone who could get the sport exposure the way Arnold Palmer did for golf."

"The team here now received no support from somebody with its greatest achievement, no help in fund raising, no help in coaching. He has done nothing to make the sport more visible. In no way should he be credited with developing speedskating in the United States."

"When your father is an orthopedic surgeon (like Heiden's), money may not be a great concern. But it is for other people."

Henriksen's father is curator of exhibits at Museum of Natural History on the University of Illinois campus. "He's curator of the Avery Brundage collection" of Olympic memorabilia, said the lanky 25-year-old skater who holds a history and pre-law degree from the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee. The collection (Brundage was an Illinois alumnus) is at the World Heritage Museum, also on the Illinois campus.

Paying his way in the sport has not been easy for Henriksen. He finances his skating in a variety of ways, some of them innovative.

"I am a jack of all trades. Construction work. Whatever. I've even been a cook at some semi-fine restaurants."

REO Speedwagon's sponsorship helps pay part of the freight. Henriksen also is good at bartering. As he talked, he fingered a skate charm that hung around his neck. "I traded a skating skin to get this," he said.

Local Church Roundup

CHRISTIAN ASSEMBLY

Harry and Jo Fisher will be the featured speakers at services Saturday and Sunday at Christian Assembly Church, located on South Main Street one mile south of Highway 60.

Saturday services will consist of a covered dish luncheon at the church at noon and an evening service beginning at 7:30. Sunday services will be held at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The public is invited to attend any or all of these services.

"The Fishers are well known in Hereford," exclaimed the Rev. Waylon Bruton, pastor of Christian Assembly Church, "they have a unique prophetic ministry and will certainly be a blessing to all who attend."

FIRST BAPTIST

Ray Holcomb, who is to lead a vocal freedom seminar Saturday at First Baptist Church, will be the guest soloist at First Baptist Church during the 11 a.m. morning worship service on Sunday. Holcomb is presently the minister of music at First Baptist Church, Pineville, La.

Equipping seminary expands to a two track program beginning Sunday. Track one is a seminar on basic life issues such as priorities, integrity, prayer and attitudes, following the book, "Strengthening Your Grip" by Charles Swindoll.

A six week film series of the same title is scheduled Sunday nights, March 4 through April 15.

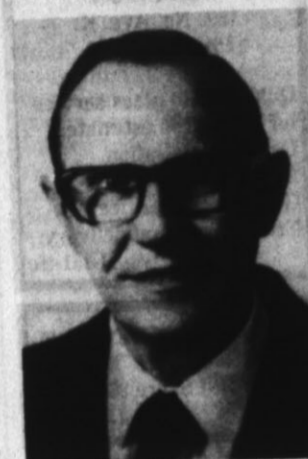

Track two on Sunday nights is for young married couples and young parents. "Making Good Marriages Better" will begin Sunday. Also on track two will be a seminar on family budget and financial planning, April 1 through May 6 on Sunday nights.

Dr. Greenfield will be returning with his wife, Carole, to lead a weekend Family Life Conference April 27-29. Along with sessions on building a Christian home and parenting skills will be such offerings as "What Your Wife Wishes You Knew About Her" for husbands, and a sequel for wives about their husbands.

A memorial Bible project has begun, with a goal of 200 Bibles for the sanctuary to be used during worship. Cost is $3.50 per Bible. Each will have space provided for the name of the person being memorialized. Anyone wishing to purchase one or more of these Bibles may call the church office.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

Rev. Roy Copelin

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Copelin, missionaries to the Republic of the Philippines, will be guest speakers at the Church of the Nazarene during the 6 p.m. service on Sunday.

The Copelins are currently on furlough and are holding services across the United States and Canada.

Copelin, a native of Illinois, received his A.B. degree from Pasadena College and his B.A. degree from Nazarene Theological Seminary. He was ordained on the North Dakota District. His wife was born in Pennsylvania and attended Pasadena College.

The couple have three children, Carolyn Marie, Ray Edward, and Kathleen Joanne.

In 1954 the Copelins were appointed as missionaries for the Church of the Nazarene to the Philippines. They arrived there in August of the same year. Both have served as teachers in the Bible College and Copelin has also served as director of the college, and from 1980 to 1983, as mission director.

"You will be inspired by the deputation service which will include a message, slides, items from the field and dress of the Philippines," according to the Rev. Bob Hufaker, pastor.

The youth department of the Nazarene Church will sponsor a spaghetti supper at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 11. Tickets may be purchased for $3 per person from any of the teens by Wednesday, Feb. 8. Valentine pictures will be taken for $2 each for those wishing to participate.

Following the spaghetti supper Pete Carlson will present a concert in the sanctuary at 8 p.m. Admission will be $2 at the door.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

Johnny Ray Watson will present a concert of praise from 6 to 8 p.m. Sunday at Hereford Community Church. No admission will be charged but a love offering will be taken.

Child care will be provided for children ages 3 and under.

Singles are a boon to the restaurant business, the Conference Board reports. Americans in their 20s and early 30s who live alone or with another person spend up to 6 percent of their budget eating out.

For citrus industry Growers plan strategy

MALLEN, Texas (AP) — A series of speakers told growers from throughout the Rio Grande Valley that oranges and grapefruit may be lying dead on the ground but the citrus industry is very much alive.

About 200 growers attended a two-day conference Wednesday and Thursday, sponsored by Texas Citrus Mutual, to discuss aspects of rebuilding citrus orchards destroyed by this winter's freezing temperatures.

The meeting presented information on crop insurance, disaster loans, tax advice, replanting and maintenance suggestions and a lot of encouragement.

Texas Citrus Mutual represents about 3,500 growers many of whom believe the gray winter skies that brought the devastating freeze may prove to have a silver lining.

Dr. Chan Connolly presented a paper which explained that citrus growers and investors over-plant in expectation of the destructive freezes which occur about every 11 years. When no freeze occurs, supplies of fruit increase and prices decline.

Although about 10 percent of the Valley's 8 million citrus trees may have been destroyed, those growers who get back in production rapidly stand to make a handsome profit while demand outstrips supply.

But it will take three to four years to get production back to normal, said Dr. Richard Hensz, director of the Texas A&I Citrus Center.

Those who must replace trees, may also find a way "to make lemonade from lemons" as they say," said Hensz.

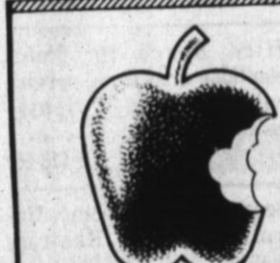

Old varieties of oranges and grapefruit can be replaced with improved varieties with greater yields. Growers can adjust what is grown to shifting consumer tastes, growing more Navel and Valencia oranges than grapefruit to meet demands, he said.

Citrus scientists predict that the yield produced on 70,000 pre-freeze acres can be grown on 40,000 acres when planted with higher-yield trees.

Regardless of their particular situation, growers seem committed to rebuilding their orchards, Hensz said.

"And Texas needs the citrus industry," Hensz said. "It is more labor intensive than other types of agriculture. Without this industry we'd have a depression in this Valley that we'd never come out of."

Growers are now waiting for warm weather to assess the tree damage wrecked by weather which brought below freezing temperatures to the Valley Dec. 24-26 and again Dec. 28-31.

Ann Landers Teenagers in trouble

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It seems that everybody has an opinion these days on what is wrong with the nation's schools, but nobody has bothered to ask the students.

I am a high school senior and have seen so many bad things happen to our nation's "future leaders." In the past year two girls in my room had abortions. Another gave up her baby for adoption. My best friend tried to commit suicide. (A boy in her class succeeded.)

I have watched my former sweetheart go from a hard-working achiever to an irresponsible drug addict. He dropped out of school and is now dealing the stuff to junior high kids. I myself slipped from As to Bs to Cs and Ds. My problem was alcohol. I am now going to Alcoholics Anonymous and straightening out my life. Some people don't realize A.A. will take teenagers, but they do.

No teacher, principal or parent ever offered to help me with my problems, although they must have surely have noticed I was falling apart. (If I hadn't read about A.A. in your column, it never would have dawned on me to go.)

I realize it is not the teacher's job to counsel students on their problems, but it would be wonderful if teachers offered some suggestions and showed concern. Kids need to know somebody cares. Teachers they respect can do a lot more for them than their own parents. These days a lot of kids come from single-parent homes and that parent is exhausted or indifferent or unable to cope with his or her own problems.

Ann, please print this letter

Women's Aglow meets tonight

Jo Fisher from Wichita Falls will be the guest speaker for Women's Aglow Fellowship at 7:30 p.m. today in the Community Center banquet room.

Mrs. Fisher and her husband, Harry, have a unique ministry coast to coast, operating in the gifts of the spirit.

Look at it this way: If man were meant to fly, there would have been no reason to invent insurance-selling machines.

and ask teachers who care about kids to extend a helping hand when they see students who are in trouble. - A Voice For Millions.

DEAR VOICE: Some teachers DO recognize the signs you describe and have taken it upon themselves to help these kids.

As for those who do not, they would probably say, "You can't help kids unless they let you know they are ready to accept help." Or, "I tried to get to this student or that one, but they resented my interference and denied there was a problem."

In most cities there are crisis intervention centers and counseling services for teenagers in trouble as well as many organizations eager to help. I urge all young people who have an alcohol problem to do as you did...join A.A. It's in the phone book under Alcoholics Anonymous. Those who have other kinds of problems should contact the Salvation Army, YMCA and YWCA for counseling. Drug-abuse centers (in the phone book) have been extremely effective in getting kids back into the mainstream.

Thanks for a provocative and useful letter. I am sure you have done more good today than you realize.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Why is it that I never seem to have enough time to do the things I really want to do? Others who have more kids and bigger houses find time for hobbies. What's wrong with me? - Pokey Polly.

DEAR POLLY: We all have the same amount of time - 24 hours a day. It's how we decide to spend those hours that makes the difference. "Priorities" is the key word. If it is important to you to enjoy a hobby, schedule it -- like you schedule the laundry.

KIS is here!!

KIS is the "keep it simple theory" for film processing, and we have it here at Bill Bradley Photography. If you have ever had film to be lost after taking it to be processed, your worries are over. We process each roll of film here in our studio within 24 hours. It is printed on good quality paper, and delivered quickly to you, the next day in most cases.

We are now approaching our 24th year in the photography business, and to help celebrate this occasion, we offer you a free 5x7 print of your choice for each roll of 35mm film you bring in.

How to survive tax audit

By Robert Metz
(Last of 14 articles)

Short of a scratch on a new car, there is almost nothing that can spoil your day like a letter from the Internal Revenue Service asking for an audit.

If you get such a letter, be thoroughly familiar with your tax return before you leave the house to head for the district office.

Generally, the IRS agent will concentrate on items that were checked on the form letter informing you of the audit. Study your entire tax form, but concentrate on the items that the IRS has questioned.

If the IRS is asking for proof of deductions make sure you have it. Paid bills, canceled checks, paycheck stubs showing union dues check-offs are just a few of the many items that can help you.

If there is some item of proof you can't find, don't concede the point right away. If you no longer have a receipt for your attic insulation, for example, you might be able to get a subsequent letter from the contractor who installed it. Or the agent may accept some secondary form of verification. Generally, the agent may accept your word on a deduction or two if you fully verify other questioned items.

Under no circumstances should you ignore your appointment. If the chosen time is inconvenient, call the IRS and reschedule.

What you wear can be important, too. It is better to underdress than overdress. Work clothes might be preferable to Sunday best.

The attitude you wear is even more important than the clothes you put on. Remember, the agent is only doing his job.

If you treat the agent like an enemy agent you're in trouble. Agents are used to taxpayers asking why they don't go after the millionaires who pay "little or no tax." Like any human being, the agent may look harder for flaws if challenged that way. The unreasonable taxpayer is likely to pay more.

On the other hand, don't try to make a friend of the agent. He's there to defend the Treasury and you're there to defend yourself.

Don't say too much, volunteering information the agent wasn't looking for. You might just open new lines of inquiry. Just answer the auditor's questions simply and fairly.

If the agent requests proof of a deduction and you have neglected to bring it but know you can obtain it quickly, tell him that. He'll arrange for you to come back and save you tax you don't owe.

Let's say an item is disallowed. Arguing that it was never disallowed in the past won't wash. Yet the agent is anxious to avoid extra paperwork in your case. The agent may be open to some honest trade-offs, willing to forego proving all the added tax you might owe if you are willing to forego proving all added deductions you might take.

If you and the agent agree on all issues, the agent will tell you how much it's going to cost you and then suggest you sign an agreement form. Remember this: Once you've signed, you lose your rights to appeal. So, you may wish to delay signing to allow yourself plenty of time to study the agreement, unless, of course, the amount in question is small. This housekeeping note: If you do sign, make sure all the numbers are written on the papers before you do.

Once you agree to a settlement, you'll receive a report by mail, along with a bill for the additional tax plus interest. If coming up with the additional cash all at once would constitute a hardship, ask the IRS to set up an installment payment schedule. The IRS will not volunteer to give you such a schedule — you have to ask.

But let's assume you don't agree to settle — that at some point in the inquiry you feel you are not being treated fairly or that the agent is not crediting proper documentation. You have a right to ask for a hearing before the IRS appellate level. Sometimes moving up to another level will restore a sense of balance and hasten some sort of a compromise. In any case, it will give you the opportunity to present your arguments to a higher authority.

At the appellate level, you will encounter more experience and, perhaps, a better chance of compromise. Many observers say that at the district level, IRS representatives see things as black and white. At the appellate level, the IRS personnel recognize gray areas and know that give and take hastens compromise.

Throughout the process, keep in mind that the IRS people are as eager to close the matter as you are. They have a quota to meet.

If you lose but are still convinced that you are right after your appellate level hearing, you have two more avenues open to you.

You can take your case to the U.S. Tax Court. If the total amount in question is less than $5,000, your case can be handled under the so-called small tax case procedures.

We all have times when things go wrong,
And Fortune's in reverse;
Yet we're expected to be strong,
Though things could not get worse...
A strength of which the Scriptures name
Examples plain to see:
Like Job, whose faith remained the same
Throughout adversity.
So why not go to Church this week,
Whichever one you choose,
And listen to the Bible speak;
There's not a thing to lose!
Then, what those passages command
You'll follow to the letter;
And let God take your life in hand,
To change it for the better! —Gloria Nowak

are more than conquerors
