Hart stuns Mondale in New Hampshire

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer
CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Gary Hart has trounced Walter F. Mondale in "can-tankerous" New Hampshire, an upset that transforms the Democratic presidential campaign from "catch-up to contest as the candidates look ahead to Super Tuesday."
Hart said the real competition is just beginning.
Mondale, a limping front-runner at best, predicted he would win the nomination despite Tuesday's surprise.
Hart, jubilant at trading his "darkhorse" image for the mantle of giant-killer, lingered this morning to thank voters who made it possible. The Colorado senator was then off to a campaign rally in Denver.

Mondale headed South, to the next major battleground, with stops in Georgia and Alabama where he will be tested March 13 by Sen. John Glenn and the Rev. Jesse Jackson in territory generally unfamiliar to Hart.
Primary night March 13 has been dubbed Super Tuesday because nine states, including Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Massachusetts and Washington state, all hold elections or caucuses on that date.

Minnesotan confident despite setback

"I am ready to contest every primary...I am ready to run this race and win," a somber Mondale told supporters late Tuesday.
Sen. John Glenn of Ohio finished third, described the results as "not so hot" for him, but that he wasn't even considering quitting. He has been challenging Mondale in Alabama, as has Jackson — fourth place here.

President Reagan beat Harold Stassen in a non-contested Republican primary. And he polled more write-in votes from Democrats than the final three finishers — Sens. Alan Cranston and Ernest Hollings, and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew.
The Democratic field is now likely to narrow. Cranston, disappointed in the Iowa caucuses last week and in New Hampshire Tuesday, was meeting with reporters to discuss his future later today.

Askew was another potential dropout. Hollings said he'd follow the election calendar South, where Mondale's defeat opens the race.
"Many people thought, including the front-runner, that this campaign would be over tonight," Hart said. "This campaign just begins tonight."
He added that "New Hampshire voters are can-tankerous, they're independent, they make up their own minds. They're also smart."

Reilly said it was not until Monday night that the Mondale camp realized there was a potential for a Hart victory. He said the campaign was considering conducting a post-election poll in New Hampshire to determine what went wrong.
"I have won one, I have lost one," said Mondale. His only public speculation on why he

Hart 39,062, or 40 percent.
Mondale 27,710, 29 percent.
Glenn 12,041, 13 percent.
Jackson 5,280, 6 percent.
McGovern 5,145, 5 percent.
Hollings 3,583, 4 percent.
Cranston 2,087, 2 percent.
Askew, 1023, 1 percent.
Others 884, 0 percent.
Reagan polled 5,032 write-in votes on the Democratic ballots, and rolled up 62,885 GOP votes; that was 97 percent. Perennial candidate

Even in triumph Hart faces problems maintaining his momentum. Without the financial and organizational resources of the Mondale campaign, he has been unable to file complete slates of delegates in some key states.
But the Colorado senator, after demonstrating his political skill in New Hampshire, brushed aside such considerations.
"I will not lose this nomination for tactical reasons," he said Tuesday.
One of Hart's rivals in the New Hampshire balloting was McGovern, whose 1972 presidential campaign Hart managed.
"I think it indicates that he's still a brilliant campaign manager," said the former South Dakota senator.
Hart led from the start of the counting Tuesday night, and widened his margin as about 100,000 New Hampshire Democrats registered their choices. His showing validated late public opinion polling that had showed him closing in on the front-runner.
Network exit polls said Hart won with a massive surge in the final days, winning heavily among those leery of Mondale's promises.

Grand jury to meet on Thursday

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer
An extended Deaf Smith County Grand Jury, investigating alleged misconduct in the Criminal District Attorney's office, is to meet on Thursday for the first time since Dec. 6.
District Clerk Lola Faye Veazy said Littlefield's Pat Boone, the district judge now assigned to all cases involving District Attorney Roland Saul and-or Jerry Smith, Sauls former assistant, has called the jury together for 1 p.m. Boone was placed on those cases in mid-January after 22nd District Judge

Examine attorney's office

David Wesley Gulley recused himself.
Meetings of the grand jury have apparently been delayed by a dispute over the subpoena of local financial records by the state attorney general's office. Linda Walden, an assistant attorney general, has met with the grand jury on several occasions.
On Feb. 3, Boone denied a motion to quash a subpoena filed by the Hereford State Bank, giving the attorney general's office permission to examine specific accounts concerning the law firm of Saul, Smith and Davis.

Boone had earlier denied similar requests by the local firm of Saul, Smith and Davis along with Jerry Smith, Donald L. Davis, Sue Smith, Joe Soliz, the First State Bank of Vega and Caryn's Hallmark of Hereford.
However, in each case the judge modified the subpoenas, giving the attorney general's office permission to view only specific accounts asked for, and ordering that the work be done on the premises.

The grand jury would have finished its term at the end of 1983. However, it was extended until March 31 to allow the investigation to continue. A second, regular grand jury was called in January to act on other criminal matters in the county.
On Feb. 17, the Texas Prosecutor's Coordinating Council filed a public reprimand against Saul with the Texas Supreme Court. Still pending against him and Smith is a

Events that are coming up on the community calendar include: Bluegrass Music Festival, March 10; Deaf Smith C of C Super Sports Weekends, starting this week; Key Club Chili Supper, 5-8 p.m. Friday; the Heart Ball, Saturday night at the Country Club; Satellite Center open house, Sunday afternoon; National Ag Appreciation Week, March 16-22; Appreciation Week for Big Brothers-Big Sisters Volunteers, March 18-24; Chemical People Task Force

Film, March 13; Blood Bank Drive, March 6 at HHS girls' gym; Hustlin' Hereford buttons on sale by Miss Hereford Pageant committee; Women's Division membership drive set in March.
All political candidates attending the breakfast were asked to stand and announce the office which they are seeking. These included: Garth Thomas, state representative in GOP primary; Nancy Hill, county commission, Precinct 1; Troy Moore and Larry Bain, Precinct 3; Bud Eades, city commission; Joe Brown, sheriff; and Nell Miller, tax assessor-collector.
Attendance was estimated at approximately 200 for the bi-monthly breakfast.

Cranston calls for peace

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Alan Cranston called for a "change in tactics" on the peace issue in New Hampshire Tuesday.
Cranston, the first man to enter the race more than a year ago, said, "I know the difference between reality and dreams. I know what to do and what not to do."
Cranston, whose campaign of "peace and jobs" finished second in the Iowa caucuses last week before falling out in the caucus the last spot in New Hampshire Tuesday.
Aides said he was about $1 million in debt and decided to quit.
In a statement he read at an early morning news conference, Cranston spoke out of anger and frustration and a "change in tactics" on the peace issue.
"I believe I have helped make the nuclear arms race of all the Democratic candidates and of the American people," he said before flying home to California.
"And I have helped make the peace issue a piece of the indictment against the Democrats will present to the American people."

lost was that apparently New Hampshire voters "want to keep the debate going ... and that's fine by me."
The final vote totals, with Harold Stassen got 2 percent and others got the rest. If the write-ins are factored in, Hart's vote drops to 37 percent, Mondale's to 27 percent.

Signatures awaiting verification

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor
As of 10 a.m. today, not one of the signatures on petitions calling for a "wet" election in Justice of the Peace Precinct 1 had been verified, according to David Ruland, Deaf Smith County Clerk.
However, most signatures have been checked over once and are now considered to be "possibilities," Ruland said. He explained every name on each petition must be double-checked to ensure all requirements are met. The process of re-checking the names, he thought, should take a day or two.
The drive for alcohol sales to be allowed in the precinct - which contains most of the county - was initiated by Art Reinauer, who wishes to operate a local winery. He chose to have the election be for packaged liquor stores only, with sales of all types of alcohol allowed. No saloons are permitted.
In order for the issue to come before voters, the county clerk's office had to receive signatures of at least 35 percent of those registered in the last gubernatorial campaign. As such, Reinauer needed 1,571 people to sign by Monday. According to Ruland, more than that number have so far been designated as "possibilities," though the leeway is probably less than 100 signatures.
Ruland and his staff are checking all names, addresses and voter numbers to see if they match voter registration cards. Reinauer might encounter trouble, Ruland said, in that a signer must fill out all the petition's requested information himself, not just write his name. Addresses and voter numbers may not be listed by anyone other than the person to whom they refer.
Even after the second check-through, county clerk staffers must make a random check of signature authenticity, Ruland said, "to make sure they aren't forgeries."
He confirmed most of Reinauer's petitions were turned in prior to the weekend, though a few trickled in Monday. Also submitted were 15 affidavits - three or four turned in Monday - by individuals wishing their names be taken off petitions. Reinauer, contacted by

Should take day or two farmer said, are probably going to be contacted by opposition forces in hopes of their voting against the wet proposal.
"The opposition is really worried it will come to a vote," he said, "because it will probably win."

Shots till offered free
Immunizations containing vaccines against several childhood diseases are again this month to be given for free at Deaf Smith County Health Clinic, 902 E. Fourth.
The shots are to be administered from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3:45 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. They are to help combat polio, diphtheria, lock jaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis), measles, rubella and mumps.

1983 bond sales listed
Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds in Deaf Smith County during all 12 months of 1983 reached $109,087, which was 128 percent of the goal of $85,000 set by the U.S. Department of the Treasury.
County sales in December alone reached $15,004. That was the third-highest figure in Texas District 1, which contains nineteen counties. Only Potter and Moore recorded higher totals in December, though they along with Hutchinson and Randall Counties purchased more bonds during the entire year than did Deaf Smith.
Sales of bonds in Texas during 1983 were $263,956,322, an increase of 22.7 percent over the same period a year ago. The sales represent 117.5 percent of the state's 1983 assigned dollar goal of $244,700,000.
Nationally, 1983 sales of Series EE bonds totaled $3,897 million, an increase of almost 20 percent over 1982 figures. They represented 111.3 percent of the nation's $3.5 billion goal. December sales amounted to $326 million, the highest sales for the month since 1979.

Police report tool theft
An estimated $250 worth of tools were stolen recently from an unlocked storage shed, Hereford police reported this morning.
Victimized was Doyle Collier of 406 W. Third. He reported the crime to police shortly before 9 p.m. Tuesday.
Meanwhile, police Tuesday made reports for three non-injury motor vehicle accidents, each of which involved more than $250 total damage. Among the incidents investigated were one apiece of burglary, domestic dispute, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and vandalism.

Nuclear plant up in air

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) — Builders of the South Texas Nuclear Project looked coldly on a suggestion from Austin city officials that studies look into stopping construction or converting the project to a coal-fired electric generating facility.

Austin, one of four partners in the power plant, made the proposal Tuesday in a quarterly meeting of the project builders.

"But they don't see the merit in either of the studies," city council member Roger Duncan said after he emerged from the meeting at the project site near Bay City.

One study would be a detailed risk assessment of whether the project should be continued. The other would consider in detail a proposal by Duncan to convert the project to burn coal rather than nuclear fuel to generate electricity.

Witnesses indicted for perjury

DALLAS (AP) — A grand jury has returned aggravated perjury indictments against three witnesses who testified during an investigation into a fatal police shooting.

Brenda Lee Frost, Victor Franklin and Lonnie Leyuas, all 17, were indicted Tuesday because their testimony before a grand jury contradicted physical evidence in the case, said Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade.

If convicted, all three face a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison.

The defendants' testimony concerned an investigation into the Nov. 7 fatal shooting of Michael Frost.

Ms. Frost was Frost's sister.

Police investigators told the grand jury that the shooting took place in the parking lot of a South Dallas apartment complex after a brief chase. Frost, a 20-year-old convicted robber, struggled with police Cpl. Melvin Cozby for control of the officer's gun, police said.

Passengers swam to safety

NEW YORK (AP) — Passengers on a Scandinavian Airlines jumbo jet that slid off a wet runway and into a 12-foot-deep creek say they "didn't have time to be scared" — so they calmly jumped out doors, slid down chutes and swam or rafted to safety.

"We just got in the life raft and paddled like crazy with our arms," said passenger John Marriage of Sydney, Australia, one of the 177 people evacuated from the plane Tuesday at Kennedy Airport.

Flight 901 was carrying 163 passengers and a crew of 14 from Stockholm, Sweden, via Oslo, Norway, when the DC-10 landed in drizzle and fog and skidded into the murky water up to its engines.

Despite the potential for disaster, only 10 minor injuries were reported, officials said.

Airline spokesman Herb Bauer said the cause of the accident "was most likely hydroplaning" — skidding on a wet surface. The National Transportation Safety Board was sending a team of investigators to the scene, and an airport official said the jet would not be pulled out of the muck for two or three days.

Threat could slow oil tankers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any Iranian attempt to close the Persian Gulf to oil tankers can be blocked by the U.S. Navy, but the threat itself might be enough to slow the movement of ships, according to Pentagon officials.

Since the Iraq-Iran war began in 1980, Iran has repeatedly vowed to shut off the gulf if its oil facility at Kharg Island is attacked, noted the officials, speaking Wednesday only on condition they not be named.

No Iranian attempt to close the Strait of Hormuz at the mouth of the gulf has actually been made, the officials noted.

Both Iran and Iraq have made a number of unverified statements about the war, the latest being a claim by the Iraqis that they had damaged tankers at Kharg Island in the northern end of the gulf. U.S. intelligence found no evidence to support those statements, the officials said.

More than 20 percent of the oil used by the non-communist world flows through the 26-mile-wide Strait of Hormuz at the bottom of the Persian Gulf. President Reagan said last week that "there is no way we could allow that channel to be closed."

No survivors found on plane

RAMSTEIN, West Germany (AP) — Rescuers reached the crash site of a U.S. Air Force transport plane in Spain today and found that all 18 people aboard — 17 American servicemen and a Spaniard — were killed, an Air Force spokeswoman said.

Capt. Lorrie Kropp, spokeswoman for the Air Force's European Headquarters at this NATO base, said the wreckage was discovered about two miles northwest of Borja, Spain, and "no survivors have been reported."

The C-10 had been missing since Tuesday night and the Air Force said it was carrying a crew of nine Americans, eight combat troops and a Spanish air force captain aboard when it took off during joint U.S.-Spanish maneuvers.

Iran blasts U.S. policy

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran said today that the U.S. military presence in the Persian Gulf is "an act of aggression and blackmail" and warned that Washington must take responsibility for any incident in the area.

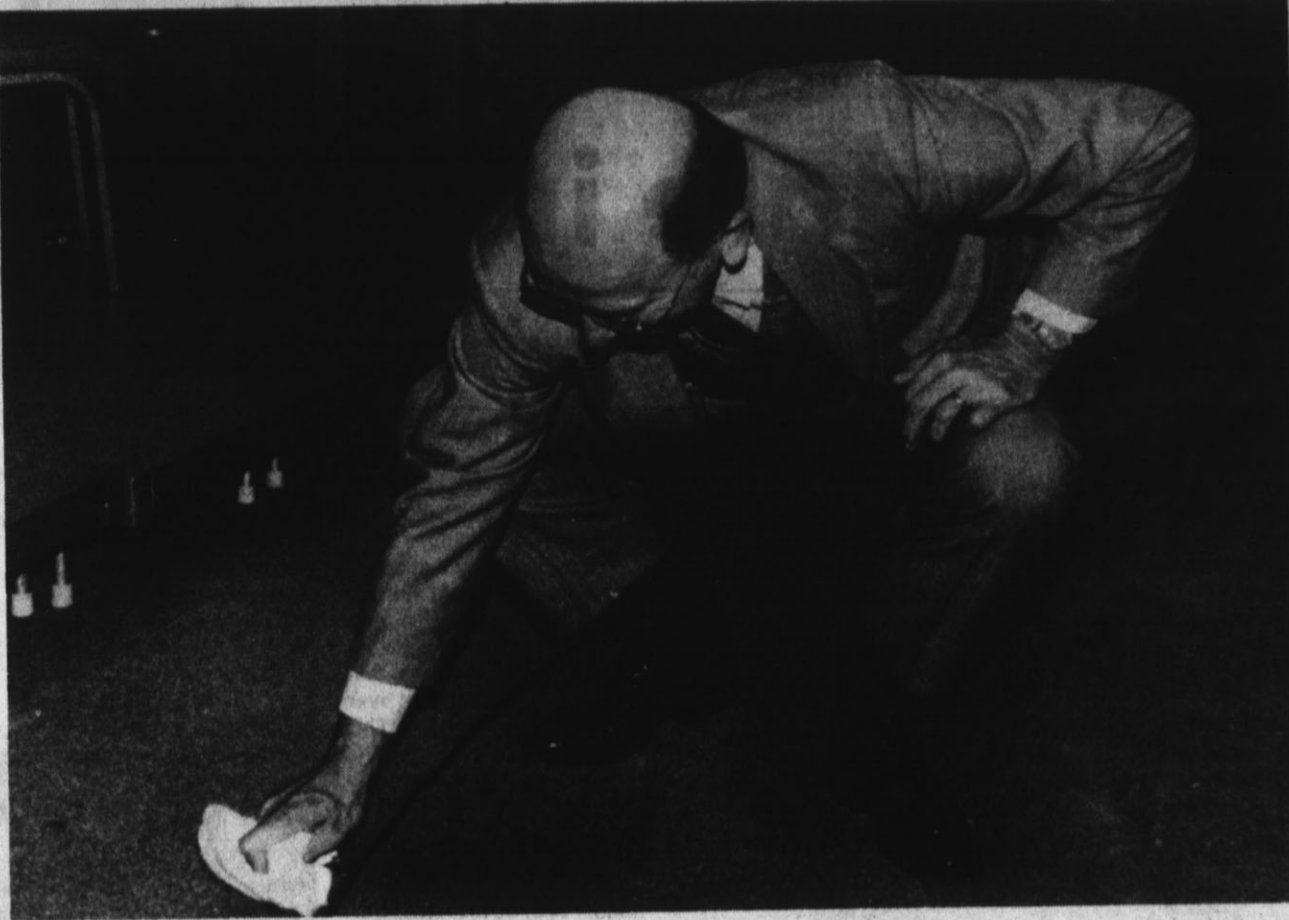

A statement by Iran's Foreign Ministry, broadcast on Tehran Radio, said conditions established by the United States regarding air and sea movements around the U.S. vessels violate international law and represent support for Iraq, with whom Iran has been at war for 3½ years.

"The Islamic Republic of Iran, considering its responsibility to protect its sea and air borders, will under no circumstances accept this and strongly condemns it," the statement by an unidentified ministry spokesman said.

The United States, which has five Navy ships in the gulf and 30 more in the Indian Ocean, has declared a five-mile safety zone around them.

President Reagan sent the flotilla into the gulf region in response to Iranian threats to close the vital Strait of Hormuz, through which 20 percent of the non-Communist world's oil trade passes.

On Sunday, one U.S. ship fired machine gun shots and flares at an Iranian frigate and an airplane to warn them off after they had approached too closely.

Hart cast as liberal, votes right

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer

Gary Hart, who speaks of new ideas and a "new generation" of leaders in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination, is often cast as a liberal or neo-liberal but his Senate record reflects a more centrist course.

The liberal Americans for Democratic Action assesses his lifetime voting record as being to the right of Walter F. Mondale, the man he upset to win the New Hampshire primary on Tuesday.

Hart has opposed the government bail-out of Chrysler Corp. and opposed gun control. And he has disavowed what he calls "old liberal clichés," and sometimes opposed big labor.

At the same time, he's kept a close watch on the interests back home, and even made Western-ness an issue. His black cowboy boots are often conspicuous beneath conservative suits, and he once said: "I plan to try for the West what Jimmy Carter did in the South. I intend to run as a Westerner and make a big issue out of that."

His appeal has worked at home. In 1980, Hart ran counter to the Reagan landslide in Colorado to win re-election to a second term.

When he announced his bid for president a year ago in Denver, Hart observed that being a long-shot candidate had its advantages.

"I do not envy the intense scrutiny Fritz will have for a long time," he said of Mondale.

His victory Tuesday may not confer on him the front-runner's mantle, but it assures one thing: Hart, no longer just a dark horse, will find himself in the glare of national scrutiny that Mondale has long endured.

Born Gary Hartpence 47 years ago in Ottawa, Kan., Hart's family later shortened its surname — some say at Gary's instigation, to make himself more easily recognized as a political figure.

Hart describes himself as "the son of dust bowl parents who never finished high school."

His was a strongly religious household, and when he graduated from high school he went to Bethany Nazarene College, a strict Christian school on the Oklahoma prairie where he played basketball.

He was by campus standards, liberal. "He was no Bible-thumper," recalled friend Walt Dinkel, now a mortician in Ottawa.

College chum Howard Oliver remembers Hart as "the kind of guy who knew where he was going and knew just how he was going to get there."

Yet it was not until he graduated and went to Yale Divinity School that his political interests were obvious.

"By the time we got to divinity school, my interests principally were theological and philosophical," recalls Tom Boyd. "But Gary wanted to read theology and philosophy — and Time magazine, too. He was interested in politics from the early days there."

suit asking for reprimand, suspension or disbarment filed by the District 13 Grievance Committee of the State Bar of Texas.

Gulley was taken off the cases after recusing himself in a Jan. 6 letter to Judge E.E. Jordan of the Ninth Administrative Judicial District in Amarillo.

He referred to canons from the Code of Judicial Conduct and a clause in the Revised Civil Statutes of Texas when making his request, saying a judge "should disqualify himself in a proceeding in which his impartiality might reasonably be questioned."

The statute referred to by Gulley says, "A district judge has the duty to recuse himself and seek the assignment of another judge where the removal from office of a local official is sought."

Gulley claimed "such an unfortunate consequence is within the ambit of that case."

Paul Harvey News

As our country's secretary of Agriculture, Earl Butz, said his greatest surprise was the discovery of what a "nothing job" he had.

He discovered that the most powerful man in the department was not the secretary — but an unnamed GS12 buried in the bowels of the department, who writes the language in paragraph 3, subsection C. That language becomes law!

Thus in one year, for every new law passed by Congress, unselected bureaucrats turned out 18 new regulations with the force of law.

Respected researchers Lichter and Rothman have looked inside the bureaucracy, have interviewed hundreds of administrators of government agencies.

Whatever you do next election day, civil service protected bureaucrats will continue to "run the government."

How? Top-level bureaucrats are overwhelmingly white, male, educated, well-off — and liberal.

Ninety percent of our nation's general public claims some religious affiliation. Among bureaucrats only 64 percent.

Twenty-one percent of the American public is left-of-center politically; 56 percent of the bureaucrats. And in the activist agencies — EPA, OSHA, EEOC — 63 percent.

They supported Humphrey in '68, 2-to-1.

In 1972, two of three supported McGovern.

They went 2-to-1 for Carter in '76.

So, however conservative the commander-in-chief may be, the troops are marching to a different drummer.

But this is interesting: When asked specific questions such as...

Is private enterprise fair to workers?

Should America move toward socialism?

Should there be more government regulation of business?

Should government take over large corporations?

Should people with more ability earn more?

In their answers to these philosophical questions the bureaucrats were less liberal — were more supportive of American society as is — than were leading journalists surveyed earlier.

Among today's activist bureaucrats 53 percent would give blacks preference in hiring. Only 40 percent would do the same for women.

Most bureaucrats believe that our country is most influenced by the media and by business. Most believe our country should be influenced instead, by intellectuals.

The bureaucracy, entrenched as it is, can be altered only by attrition and replacement. Four years from now our government might more nearly reflect the philosophy of its leader.

It doesn't now.

AP News Analysis

Democratic race becomes open war

By EVANS WITT AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight for the Democratic presidential nomination shifts to the South, where Walter Mondale and Sen. John Glenn have been battling quietly for months and the Rev. Jesse Jackson has his best chance so far at delegates.

Gary Hart, the Colorado senator who in New Hampshire Tuesday dashed Mondale's claim as the all-but-certain nominee, will have to move quickly to get started in states he's largely ignored.

The former vice president, stunned in the nation's first primary, is vowing tough fights in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Maine, Vermont and elsewhere as he strives to regain the front-runner's title.

Mondale's respected campaign organization and his union allies — embarrassed by the defeat — are the keys to future victories for the former vice president.

Hart, handicapped in some states by a lack of organization and enough delegate candidates, is looking to turn his victory into a flood of money and campaign help to match Mondale's head start in other states.

Sen. Alan Cranston of California and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew were considering whether to continue after finishing at the bottom of the heap in New Hampshire. But for the rest of field, the cry was "On to March 13," the first Super Tuesday of the campaign with five primaries and six caucuses.

Glenn, Jackson and South Carolina Sen. Ernest F. Hollings looked to the southern primaries that day for a win over Hart, Mondale or both. Former South Dakota Sen. George McGovern is looking at the Massachusetts primary for a boost.

"I think it's a whole new ballgame from here," said Glenn.

Tuesday belonged to Hart, but even before the applause has been stilled, he still has to face Mondale in three contests.

Maine's caucuses are on Sunday. Mondale swept a straw poll in the state last fall and was favored to do so in the real vote this week. But the Granite State vote could well sway the results of its neighbor.

Next Tuesday, Vermont has a beauty contest primary that is meaningless in delegates, but Mondale and Hart may try to give it symbolic significance. Only Askew and Jackson are also on the ballot there.

Sunday, March 10, Wyoming holds its precinct caucuses.

Then comes March 13, when 11 events will test every candidate and every campaign with 511 delegates at stake — nearly one of every eight who will be at the San Francisco convention.

If Hart continues to do well he might be able to overcome the technical and tactical problems of being short on delegates at this point. But it's the votes of delegates at the San Francisco convention that mean victory in the nomination fight, not primary votes.

Gemayel in Damascus for summit meeting

By FAROUK NASSAR Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel, seeking to save his government from a challenge by Syrian-backed rebels, flew to Damascus today to discuss Lebanon's future at a summit meeting with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Assad led the official welcoming delegation as Gemayel, accompanied by Foreign Minister Elie Salem and other aides, landed in a chartered plane at Damascus airport. The two leaders then headed for talks at Assad's presidential palace.

As Gemayel arrived in Syria, U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger was flying to the Mediterranean to visit U.S. Marines now stationed on Navy warships off the Lebanese coast after withdrawing from Beirut last weekend.

Weinberger, traveling from Britain after a two-day visit, planned to meet today with Navy and Marine personnel on ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet, said Sigmund Cohen, spokesman at the U.S. Embassy in London.

their minds in the days just before the election, Hart got 55 percent of the vote. Mondale picked up just 15 percent in the same period.

Nearly 60 percent of the voters said Mondale made too many promises, NBC said, and that group gave 52 percent of their votes to Hart.

Surprisingly, Hart and Mondale split the union vote, according to both the ABC News and the NBC News surveys. The NBC poll said only among union households actually contacted by a labor group did Mondale beat Hart.

The 47-year-old senator said he wasn't claiming to be the front-runner himself, but that he'd no longer be labeled a dark horse.

Mondale congratulated Hart, and said he would win the nomination anyhow. "New Hampshireites decided to delay the final decision on who should be the nominee for a while," he said.

Program Speaker

Becky Saunders, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Amarillo, will present a section of the seminar, "On the Road Again," on Tuesday, March 6, in the county library. She is to give tips on selecting a wardrobe for travel. The seminar is free and open to the public.

Free travel program slated here March 6

Local residents are invited to do a little arm chair traveling at a free program entitled "On the Road Again" scheduled at 10 a.m. Tuesday, March 6, in the Heritage Room of the library.

Becky Saunders, extension clothing specialist from Amarillo, will discuss the selection of a wardrobe for travel using fashions from The Pants Cage in Sugarland Mall.

Also on the program will be

Joan Coupe of the Hereford Travel Agency, telling about what a travel agency does, and Russ Noland of Delta Air Lines, who plans to show a film entitled "Packing for Travel."

The seminar is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Extension Service and the Family Living Committee. For further information, contact Louise Walker, county extension agent, at 364-3573.

Specialist warns consumers to check out tax preparers

COLLEGE STATION - With the income tax deadline growing nearer, the idea of simply having a tax preparer do the job becomes more attractive each day.

But, as with any service, it pays consumers to investigate before they select a tax preparer, says Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program.

Granovsky suggests the following guidelines for choosing an income tax preparer:

-Look for a tax preparation business that is open all year, rather than just the few weeks before income tax time. You may need to contact the preparer later if you are audited.

-Beware if an income tax preparer offers a "guaranteed refund," suggests you under-report your income or create non-existent deductions. You are still liable for any misrepresentation on your tax forms.

-The preparer should be willing to explain how your return was prepared, both to you and the Internal Revenue Service. The preparer should also explain how your return will be checked for accuracy will it be examined for problems in tax law interpretation or just for math errors?

-The tax preparer must be willing to sign your return, and should not ask you to sign a blank return.

Since taxpayers are responsible for the accuracy of their returns, it's important to choose a trustworthy tax preparer with training and experience, says Granovsky.

"Enrolled agents" are certified by the IRS after having worked five years as a tax auditor or having passed a federal exam. Enrolled agents, certified public accountants and attorneys may represent taxpayers before the IRS. The qualifications of other tax preparers may vary widely, says the specialist.

Whether you actually need a tax preparer or not may depend more on the complexity of your financial situation than your income level. Unless your financial situation is complex, she says, you may be able to get along simply by calling or visiting an IRS office, using IRS publication 17, or purchasing one of the many income tax books on the market.

Abundant Life

By BOB WEAR

One of the mistakes made by many of us is in our self-imposed unawareness of how BIG the 'little' things can be, from the standpoint of how they affect our total life situation. In the first place, we may be somewhat confused in our classification of BIG and 'little' things. In fact, it might be a good idea for us to think less and less about what is BIG and what is 'little,' and more about what is actually important in how it may affect our well-being.

The accumulated wisdom available to us reveals very plainly that each day of time is important, that each choice we make is important, and each act we perform is important. Even if we are not fully aware of it, we must understand that each day, each choice, and each act are significant, they have meaning. This is true because all of these have some influence on determining the general direction of one's life, and the general well-being of life. Since we have the privilege of making these choices, we have become fully accountable for our manner of life. To the extent that our thinking is being done well, we will be making the better choices and doing the better things.

We seem somewhat inclined to make some choices and perform some acts with the attitude that we won't count these. The truth being overlooked is that, wise or unwise, the choice and the action count and have their influence; regardless of our intentions.

We are free to make choices, and act with freedom; and all choices and actions have consequences. Therefore we must be guided by the best available wisdom.

In gymnastics

Local youngsters flipping out

By STAN GODEK Sports Editor

Aside from cartwheels and some basic tumbling in physical education classes, many West Texas schools do not have much of a gymnastics program for students.

But if one happens to stop by 132 S. Main on any given Tuesday afternoon, gymnastics thrives.

Kids from as young as 2 or 3 years old, to their upper teens, can be seen doing anything from back-handsprings to flips on the trampoline.

The Nichols are part of the United States Acro-Gymnastics Federation. Jack and Vicki Nichols are the instructors. The Nichols are affiliated with the Amarillo-based Nard's Gymnastics School.

The Nichols live in Amarillo but travel throughout the week to towns such as Hereford, Dumas, and Borger to instruct gymnastics to dozens of kids.

There are tumbling ramps, trampolines, and mini-tramps among other equipment used in the sessions. The Nichols charge $25 a month for four or five monthly lessons, and also sponsor clinics throughout the year at Nard's in Amarillo. There the kids get to workout in a full gymnastics facility.

Because most youngsters tend to get involved in other sports or cheerleading as they get older, Jack Nichols said "the 5 to 9-year-olds are the backbone of our business."

"Almost every town we go to we see at least three cheerleaders who were involved in our program. It takes a very special kid - one that is willing to keep hanging in there until he or she gets it right," he said.

The participants have the opportunity to advance in the gymnastic realm. There are district, regional, state, and national championships to compete for.

"The West Texas area had 66 kids go to the national championship in Cleveland last year," Nichols said.

There are other advantages for children to get involved in gymnastics, according to Nichols.

"It helps girls to get rid of their fear factor. Doing a back-handspring can be a pretty scary thought," he explained.

Particularly for boys, Nichols said his sport can prevent injuries in contact sports such as football.

"A kid can think when he's upside down. The first thing we try to do is get the kids to think for themselves. If they're not thinking then it's injury time."

"They get a sense of direction. They turn their body every direction possible without injuring it," Nichols emphasized.

It usually takes about three years for the average child to perfect the roundoff and back-handspring, he said, adding some do it in as little as three months.

In the recent Fourth Annual Nard Country Gym Area Team Meet in Amarillo, Hereford finished second out of nine area teams.

Results of Hereford individuals competing in the Area Team Meet:

- 3 to 5-year-old boys - Justin Tomison, first place; Tanner Murphy, second place; D.J. Warrick, second place; Rob Reinauer, third place.

- Girls - Stephanie Bixler, first place; Jeanine Russell, first place.

- 6 to 7-year-old girls - Bri Reinauer, first place; Holly Haxel, first place; Brandi Tomison, second place; Crystal Kelly, fourth place; Jessica Huffaker, fifth place.

- Boys - Cory Wagner, third place; Michael Kreighsauer, fourth place.

- 8 to 9-year-old boys - David Russell, first place.

- Girls - Mica Hatland, first place; Mendi Miller, first place; Donna Barclay, first place; Jennifer Holmes, second place; Pamela Price, third place; Tessa White, third place; Vanessa Gonzalez, third place.

- Girls 10-years-old and over - Chelle Cummings, first place; Brenna Reinauer, second place; Dana Haxel, second place.

Future Olympian?

Five year-old Jeanine Russell gets some practice on her back-handspring during gymnastics practice Tuesday afternoon.

Jeanine was one of many Hereford children who won events during a recent gymnastics meet in Amarillo Saturday.

Regarding Raiders

NFL seeks Court appeal

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — National Football League officials say they will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a federal appeals court decision upholding the move of the Raiders football team from Oakland to Los Angeles.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals handed the Raiders a significant victory Tuesday, ruling 2-1 that the NFL violated antitrust laws by conspiring to prevent the Raiders from moving to Los Angeles. It also ruled that the league has no power to block any future franchise moves.

"We're grateful for the decision by the federal Court of Appeals," said Raiders' managing general partner Al Davis in a statement issued through executive assistant Al LoCasale.

"Throughout this litigation, we knew we were right, that the National Football League operated in bad faith and unfair dealing as well as in violation of the antitrust laws. In fact, they have continued to act in bad faith, trying to drain us economically."

"The NFL has tried to maintain a cloud of uncertainty over our fans, which has hurt ticket sales and killed the building of luxury suites at the Los Angeles Coliseum," the statement said.

"The NFL continues to believe it should have the right to decide where it does business," said a statement issued by league Commissioner Pete Rozelle's office. "The league also believes it should be able, in making such decisions, to respect the loyalty of fans and communities that supported its franchises as well as Oakland did."

Rozelle's statement said the 2-1 split "emphasizes the need for Supreme Court clarification on the fundamental question of how the antitrust laws should be applied to sports leagues."

The ruling did not address the $48 million in damages that a Los Angeles jury awarded the Raiders' and the Los Angeles Coliseum. The court said it would rule later on that.

The three-judge panel said the lower court had correctly applied federal antitrust laws and the six-woman jury had sufficient evidence to decide that the NFL had conspired to restrain trade in its attempt to block the Raiders' move to Los Angeles.

"We believe antitrust principles are sufficiently flexible to account for the NFL's structure," the court said.

The NFL contended on appeal that it is a single entity rather than 28 franchises, and as such is not subject to U.S. antitrust law. But the court said Rule 4.3 of the NFL bylaws is, on its face, an agreement to control, if not prevent, competition among the NFL teams through territorial divisions.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal appeals court, holding that the National Football League violated antitrust laws by conspiring to keep the Raiders from moving from Oakland to Los Angeles, ruled that the NFL has no power to block any future franchise moves.

But the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in its 2-1 decision upholding a federal court in Los Angeles, delayed its decision on whether the NFL must pay the Raiders and the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum almost $48 million in damages awarded by a jury. The NFL said it would appeal the decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

College roundup

Sooners squeak by Tigers

By The Associated Press
Sooner or later Billy Tubbs knew he would show them in the Show Me state.

Tubbs and his Oklahoma basketball team had already clinched the Big Eight Conference title and the main objective facing the Sooners Tuesday night was to finally get the coach a victory in his home state of Missouri. They did — barely — leaving Columbia, Mo. with a 61-60 victory over the Tigers.

"You know, it's a funny thing," Tubbs said. "I was born in St. Louis, my dad was in the state legislature, and I finally won a game in Missouri."

The sixth-ranked Sooners had to stave off a late Missouri rally for the victory that improved their record to 25-3, 12-1 in the conference and ended a five-game losing streak at Hearnes Center.

David Johnson gave Oklahoma a 61-60 lead with 2:22 remaining and the Tigers held the ball for one last shot. A 12-foot jumper by Prince Bridges bounced off the back of the rim as the buzzer sounded.

In the only other game involving a member of the Associated Press' Top Twenty, No. 5 DePaul routed Evansville 96-65.

Missouri Coach Norm Stewart praised his team despite the loss. "I thought with one day of preparation after a double overtime game and a thin squad (nine players were in uniform), they really gave us a great effort," Stewart said referring to the victory over

Oklahoma State on Sunday. "They carried out our game plan real well."

Greg Cavener led Missouri, 16-12, 4-3, with 22 points. DePaul's romp over Evansville gave Coach Ray Meyer a chance to use the entire roster as they improved their record to 22-2.

"We've been aching and we've had some nagging injuries and the game gave us a chance to play some of our kids," Meyer said. Freshman Dallas Comegys led the Blue Demons with 17 points and four other DePaul players finished in double figures. The victory was the 23rd straight at home for DePaul, which has a 62-3 mark at The Horizon over the last four seasons.

DePaul jumped to a 6-0 lead, but the Purple Aces closed to within 11-9 before the Blue Demons ran off 13 straight points to set the stage for the rout.

Todd Scott led Evansville, 13-13, with 15 points.

Iona defeated Holy Cross 73-66 and St. Peter's crushed Army 66-41 in quarterfinal play of the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference tournament.

Steve Burt led the Gaels, 21-7, with 27 points, including a three-point play with 1:55 left that crushed a comeback by Holy Cross. Iona, seeded second in the eight-team tournament, will face St. Peter's, 22-4, Thursday in one semifinal. The Peacocks, who held a 41-9 halftime lead over the Cadets, were led by Tommy Best's 16 points.

Top-seeded La Salle and No. 4 Fordham will meet in the other semifinal.

In other games, Ed Pinkney's 26 points led Villanova to an 82-70 victory over Connecticut; David

Ponce scored 17 points as Nebraska beat Kansas State 63-56 and clinched a home-court berth in the first round of the Big Eight playoffs; freshman Gus Santos scored 20 points as Wichita State downed Drake 68-53; senior guard Doug Mills scored a career-high 27 points to lead Hofstra over Lafayette 67-62, and Mandy Johnson scored 15 of his 19 points in the second half as Marquette turned back Wisconsin-Green Bay 60-49.

Jackson, Solti set grammy records at ceremony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Multi-talented Michael Jackson's eight-award sweep behind his smash album "Thriller" set one record and classical conductor Sir Georg Solti topped another in a night of firsts at the 26th annual Grammy awards.

"Thriller," which has sold 25 million records to become the best-selling record of all time, earned Jackson seven awards Tuesday night, including album of the year and record of the year for the No. 1 single "Beat It."

The eighth award, best children's recording, was for his narration and singing on the album version of "E.T. — The Extra-Terrestrial."

Jackson went into the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences ceremony with 12 nominations in 10 categories. The previous record for most Grammys won in a single evening was held by Paul Simon, who picked up seven awards for the 1970 Simon & Garfunkel hit album "Bridge over Troubled Water."

Solti, who had won 19 Grammys before the nationally televised awards show, received another four, including best classical recording and best orchestral recording for Mahler's "Symphony No. 9 in D Major." With 23 Grammys, Solti now has three more awards than film score specialist Henry Mancini, who previously held the record for most Grammys.

In another Grammy first, 22-year-old trumpet virtuoso Wynton Marsalis won one Grammy for a classical work and another for jazz. A modest winner, he declined comparisons to such greats as Miles Davis and Dizzy Gillespie.

"I'm still like Miles Davis and Dizzy Gillespie were when they were 22 — trying to learn how to play," he said.

Solti's four awards were matched only by Quincy Jones, who earned three Grammys as Jackson's co-producer on "Thriller" and one as producer of the "E.T." album.

"Of all the awards I've got tonight, I'm most proud of this one," Jackson said of the "E.T." Grammy.

His other "Thriller" awards included best male pop vocal for the album, rock vocal for "Beat It," rhythm & blues vocal and song of the year for "Billie Jean," and producer of the year.

Jackson did not perform during the telecast, but viewers did see him dance in two Pepsi-Cola ads. He suffered much-publicized scalp burns during filming of one of the spots last month, but the injury was not apparent at the awards show.

The British rock band The Police kept Jackson from winning the two other awards he was nominated for. The band's elegantly simple ballad, "Every Breath You Take," beat out Jackson and Paul McCartney's "The Girl Is Mine" in the pop group category.

Police lead singer Sting took new song of the year honors for writing "Every Breath You Take."

Business Mirror

Timing, research key to success

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) — Timing is crucial for introducing a new product or a new business, but John Luther, a business development consultant, believes too many companies disregard the factor.

Luther is president of the Development Agency, a division of the Marketing Corporation of America. He has helped companies like Frito-Lay Inc. and Ogdan Food Products Corp. find ways to grow — usually by suggesting new products and acquisitions.

Stouffer Food Corp. and Coleco Industries Inc. are not clients, but Luther uses them as illustrations of his ideas about developing "business opportunities."

Stouffer, he notes, successfully introduced in the early 1970s a line of frozen gourmet foods, an idea that other companies had tried previously but failed. One factor in Stouffer's decision that the time was right was its reading of demographics, such as finding an increase in the numbers of working women, who have less time to prepare meals, Luther says.

On the other hand, Luther says Coleco, mainly a toy company, may be courting disaster with its new Adam computer.

Coleco knows toys as evidenced by its success with the Cabbage PatzKids dolls, Luther says.

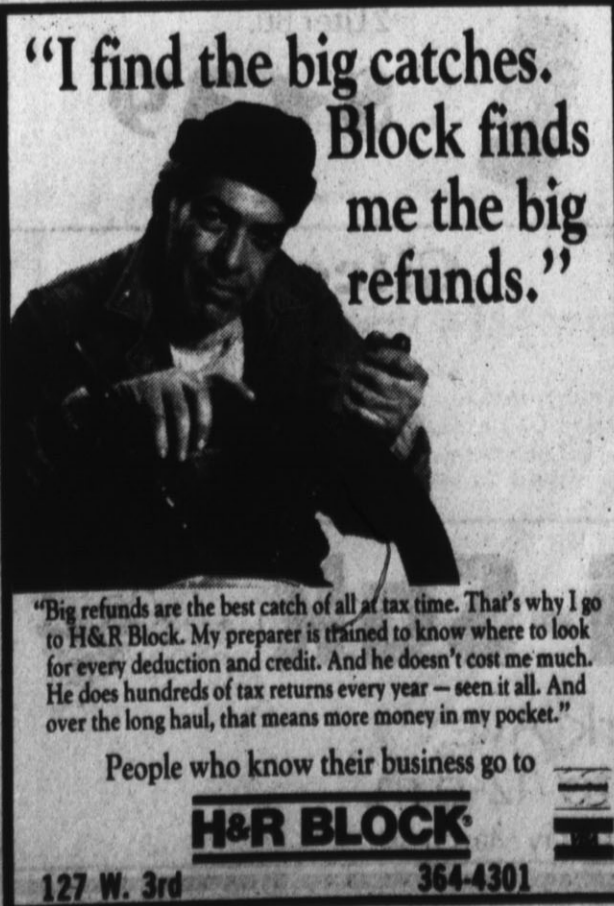

But he thinks Coleco gave the wrong answer to a basic question about the Adam: Does it have the right background and resources to be in the personal computer business in the long run? While conceding he is speaking just as an observer of Coleco, Luther believes the company did not do enough study before jumping into the computer market.

The Development Agency has been involved in adding the sandwich meat Steam-Ums to H.J. Heinz Co.'s line via an acquisition. It helped Ogdan build up the popularity of Heinz's Progresso lines by advertising.

Luther, 45, a former executive with General Foods Corp., uses Frito-Lay's acquisition of GrandMa's brand cookies to illustrate the thinking process his teams go through in making recommendations for business growth.

About five years ago, Luther says the agency was given the task of determining whether Frito-Lay, a salty snack division of PepsiCo Inc., should get into the sweet-snack business.

Musical program given for club Monday night

Several members of the Blue Grass and Old Time Music Association presented a musical program for the Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club at the organization's bean supper Monday night in the Flame Room.

The following guests were welcomed by the 38 members in attendance: Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. Tex McKnight from Hereford, and Mr. and Mrs.

Jack Jackson and Flicia Wolfe of Clovis, N.M.

The business meeting was conducted by Jack Nunley. Joe Williams reminded members of the Lubbock Gem and Mineral Show scheduled in April. The club voted to purchase a book for the library as a memorial to Betty Rice.

Ruby Mulkey provided the door prize for the evening and Cecil Lady was the winner.

The next meeting is scheduled March 26.

Ann Landers

Training best solution

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was horrified when I read "Colorado Reader's" suggestion on how to solve the barking-dog problem. He said, "Take the muff to a veterinary surgeon and have him do a little work on the dog's vocal cords."

To "debarb" a dog is cruel. They need vocal cords as much as humans need voices. Can you imagine the frustration of an animal that wants to express fear or warn his master of impending danger, such as smoke in the house or someone trying to break in?

Please don't let that reader's suggestion go without commenting on it. People will get the impression you approve.—Love My Pooch In Palo Alto

DEAR PAL: I didn't comment because I hadn't as yet researched the problem. Now, however, the facts are in and here they are:

My consultant is Dr. Shelly B. Rubin, past president of the Chicago Veterinary Medical Assn. Dr. Rubin said, "Most veterinarians do not recommend debarking. It is a painful procedure and, if not done properly, the result will be a pathetic sound, more irritating than barking."

According to Dr. Rubin, good obedience training is 90 percent of the solution. Of course, it is best to start when the animal is a puppy, but even older dogs can be trained. When the dog barks, tell him, "NO." When he stops, reward him by petting, speaking nicely to him and, if necessary, giving him a treat. If he barks again, repeat "NO" and walk away. Animals want approval and will behave well in order to get it.

The entire family must cooperate, but the results are well worth the effort. Dogs that bark all night and annoy the neighbors are telling the world their owners were too lazy or too ignorant to train them properly.

And now a reader in Middletown, N.Y., gives us an update on another letter you might remember.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read that Max the mutt has won a reprieve. He will not be put to death for barking and annoying the neighbors.

The judge who sentenced Max to death went overboard, to say the least, but he had priorities straight. He put the human ahead of the animal.

Now Max's happy owner will pay a $10 fine and the dog is free to bark his fool head off.

The same people who holler like hell about an unpainted house or the uncut grass across the street couldn't care less if their yapping hound is driving the neighbors crazy. I guess it proves that sensitive, quiet people don't stand a chance. Who said, "The meek shall inherit the earth?"—Sleepless In N.Y.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What physical feature of a man do you find most interesting?—Anchorage, Alaska

DEAR AL: His eyes. They provide an excellent clue to the way he feels about you. Next is his mouth; it reveals quite clearly the way he feels about himself.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex—Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Hit song popular for pair

NEW YORK (AP) — It seemed altogether fitting that on the day Ethel Merman joined and no doubt drowned out the angel choir, a top figure skater at the Olympics in Yugoslavia should perform her long program to the rousing notes of "I Got Rhythm."

This is the song that propelled the former Ethel Zimmerman to instant stardom in the Gershwin musical "Girl Crazy," which opened on Broadway on the night of Oct. 14, 1930.

The jazzy number helped win the gold medal for the Katarina Witt of East Germany and the fact that its refrain echoes beyond the borders of the West more than a half century later adds credence to the legend that Miss Merman at her boisterous best was the Voice of America without benefit of or need for elaborate antennas and relay stations. There was no way of jamming her sound waves.

On April 12, 1776, North Carolina became the first colony to instruct its delegates to vote for independence in the Continental Congress.

Junior student to compete in pageant

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer
Sylvia Vera, a 16-year-old Hereford High School junior, plans to compete June 2 in the Amarillo Miss T.E.E.N. pageant.

The pageant is the official tryout for the Texas Miss T.E.E.N. pageant planned for September in Dallas.

She is the daughter of Israel and Nina Vera and is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schlabs, Pat Brooks, Casa Ramirez and Sons, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Detten and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Schlabs Jr.

Panhandle pageant contestants reportedly are between the ages of 14 and 18 and represent 16 panhandle counties. The young women will be judged on scholastic and volunteer service achievements, appearance, poise, personality, speech or talent and a formal presentation. No swimsuit competition is required.

Contestants must have at least a "B" average in school and are asked to participate in the pageant's volunteer service program. Through this program, the girls are to become involved in community activities by contributing at least 12 hours of time to some worthwhile charity or civic work.

The winner will receive a $500 cash scholarship and an expense paid trip to compete in the state pageant. The state winner will represent Texas at a national pageant in Albuquerque.

Vera has been a Hereford Campfire Girl since first grade and has won prizes for her entries in the spring art festival. At St. Anthony's Church, she belongs to the Catholic Youth Organization, teaches fifth grade catechism and is a member of the adult choir.

School activities include competing on the math and science team, studying vocational office education and serving as drill team manager. She has also belonged to the pep squad and tennis team.

Vera has performed such community services as walking for the American Heart Association and Muscular Dystrophy. Her hobbies include painting, singing, dancing and all kinds of sports. She also likes to travel, camp and fish.

Vera plans to attend a secretarial college in Lubbock and later move to Dallas to pursue a career in fashion design and merchandising.

Stocks plummeting amid deficit debate

By The Associated Press

Bipartisan talks aimed at reducing the federal budget deficit broke up with no new meeting set, while deficit worries broke up Wall Street's rally — sending stock prices into a sharp decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks plummeted 22.82 points Tuesday to close at 1,157.14, after climbing 45.33 points over the two previous sessions. Stocks falling in price buried those advancing by a 3-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market had rallied late Monday as some of the nation's governors, after meeting privately with President Reagan, said the president might be willing to raise taxes if further spending cuts still failed to reduce the budget shortfall.

But after the market closed, the chief White House spokesman, Larry Speakes, emphasized that Reagan was not softening his opposition to higher taxes, especially if such a move would choke the economic recovery.

As the bipartisan talks broke up in Washington Tuesday, House Democratic leader Jim Wright accused the White House of "inflexible hostility" toward cutting military spending and Republicans rejected Wright's call for major new tax increases.

In other business and economic developments Tuesday:

—Atlantic Richfield Co. reportedly is poised to offer as much as $13 billion to rescue Gulf Corp. from Texas oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr.'s hostile efforts for control of Gulf. A source at Chase Manhattan Bank said it was arranging financing for the deal, which would be the largest corporate takeover ever.

—A government gauge of workplace efficiency rose at an annual rate of 0.9 percent in the fourth quarter of 1983, the Labor Department reported.

—Despite a drop in mortgage loan rates and an increase in family income, the median monthly payments for the buyer of a previously owned home rose by $9 to $601 a month in January, the National Association of Realtors said.

To cut deficit

Senate panel nears action on plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee is nearing action on details of a plan to erase $100 billion from record federal deficits by cutting spending and raising taxes for millions of Americans.

With bargaining slow between Congress and the Reagan administration over how to cut red ink from the budget, the Finance Committee is set to decide on more than 100 proposals, including a hotly disputed one to tax part of employer-paid health insurance premiums.

Another plan before the committee would bar upper-income investors from using "paper" losses to shield income from taxes.

The Republican-controlled Finance Committee seeks to split evenly between tax increases and spending cuts reductions of $100 billion in deficits now projected at $550 billion over the next three years.

In the House, the Ways and Means Committee, where Democrats have a majority, is starting its deficit reduction efforts by taking up a plan to raise taxes by $51 billion over three years.

Meanwhile, deficit-cutting talks between the administration and Capitol Hill continued Tuesday, with House spokesman Larry Speakes saying President Reagan's bargainers have "not yet abandoned hope" for agreement.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Tex., said he was not "willing to throw in the towel."

On Capitol Hill, the Senate defeated 55-38 an administration request for authority to decide whether to allow exports of nuclear technology to nations that have not signed the nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

Instead, the Senate adopted on a voice vote a measure that would ban all such exports.

The Senate is working on extension of the Export Administration Act, which already bars transfer of nuclear reactors and fuel to nations that have not signed the treaty. The new restriction would apply to spare parts, manuals, blueprints and other sensitive materials.

In other action, the Senate approved on a voice vote a measure to permit businesses to add a surcharge of up to 5 percent on credit-card purchases. The bill now goes to the House, where it faces key opposition from Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., chairman of the Banking Committee's consumer subcommittee.

When you were 20, there was nothing you couldn't do; after 40, it becomes just about your sole accomplishment.

Common household products may cause chemical stains

COLLEGE STATION—The next time a mysterious carpet stain appears, don't rush to blame the kids or the dog. It may be from some seemingly harmless product—like face cream—spilled months ago.
 Most people know that poor handling of foods, liquids and household bleach will damage household furnishings, says Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program.
 But few people realize that many common products containing chemicals can cause irreparable damage to valuable carpets, rugs, upholstery fabrics and other furnishings, she adds.
 For example, acne medications, fade or age creams, some foot care products and some pet shampoos contain benzoyl peroxide as an active ingredient. Benzoyl peroxide is a strong bleaching agent which can destroy most dyes used in carpet and upholstery fabrics, as well as pillowcases, sheets, towels and clothing, says the specialist.

Spills of some liquid plant foods or leakage from house plants can also cause color changes in carpet, says Owens. Spots of this kind typically develop near the backing and surface as a dull yellow stain days or weeks later.
 Some pesticides and insecticides can cause discoloration of carpet. If the spray is directed to the carpet instead of the baseboard, fading around baseboards may be evident.
 Even furniture polish can act as a catalytic agent to destroy red carpet dyes and create green or bluish discoloration. Because this usually occurs about the base of a piece of furniture, a stain can remain hidden until the furniture is moved, says the specialist.
 One fiber manufacturer has estimated that more than 50 household products can cause stains or spots on home furnishings, says Owens.
 The time between contact and appearance of the stain can be days or months until a change in humidity, temperature, moisture or sunlight activates the chemical reaction, she notes.
 While common stains like food, dirt or oily substances can usually be removed, chemical stains actually change or destroy dyes. Generally, nothing can be done to restore the dye to its original color.

 Today's dye stuffs represent the best that modern technology has produced. Yet there are few known dyes which are resistant to chemical degradation. As a result, chemical spots and stains are not covered under most manufacturer's warranties, says the specialist.
 From the consumer's point of view, says Owens, the only real solution to chemical spots and stains is careful use of all household products.

More women employed in computer-related jobs

EVANSTON—Computer science is an ever-expanding field with numerous opportunities for women. "Your Career in Computer Science," a brochure produced by DeVry Inc., (formerly Bell & Howell Education Group), outlines the careers that are in demand and the education needed for each.
 The booklet focuses on five types of specialists most needed in computer-related jobs: programmers, systems analysts, information processors, operations technicians, and service technicians. Educational and training requirements for each area are given.
 Also discussed are anticipated salary ranges, and the types of thinking patterns and personality traits that are common among those in computer-related careers.
 For a copy of this brochure, write DeVry Inc., Dept. 5802, 2201 W. Howard Street, Evanston, IL 60202. Ask for "Your Career in Computer Science."

Hundreds stranded

Massive storm blamed for 38 deaths

By DANA FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

Blizzard-force squalls battered Great Lakes cities with even more snow as a record-setting storm already blamed for 38 deaths lumbered toward New England today, leaving hundreds of travelers stranded while snowplows fought to "push back" an ocean with a teaspoon.

Nineteen of the deaths were linked to heart attacks brought on by snow-clearing efforts and there were six alone in Ohio's Cuyahoga County, where Deputy Coroner Lester Adelson warned that "Just like a gun, a snow shovel in the wrong hands is a deadly weapon."

Two children in New York State died of carbon monoxide poisoning, and police in Mason County, W. Va., said a 19-year-old mother of two was crushed to death when a boulder pried loose by ice crashed down a mountainside and slammed through a wall of her house.

More than 120 school systems remained closed today in southeast Michigan, where 7 inches of snow so far were whipped into drifts by 30 mph winds off Lake Huron.

"It's just unbelievable. It's almost impassable, like driving in a cloud," said Deputy Dale Meldrum in Michigan's St. Clair County, where motorists were urged to remain off the roads.

The storm that had crawled out of the Rockies on Sunday was centered over southeastern New York today, but it continued to spew snow as far south as Mississippi, Georgia and Alabama this morning.

Even before 40 mph squalls carrying an additional 6 inches off Lake Erie began to pick up early today, records for 24-hour accumulation fell Tuesday evening in Buffalo, N.Y., with 19.6 inches of snow on the ground, and in Cleveland, where the snow was 12.5 inches, just a few inches higher than the average 9 inches blanketing the state.

Private snowplowing contractors were pressed into service in Niagara, N.Y., as the snow topped 21 inches, and Interstate 90 was closed in Erie, Pa., when the snow hit 18 inches.

"When they get down the road it's open," said New York State Trooper W.M. Ryan of the snowplows. "Then they come back an hour later and it's closed. It's a little like pushing an ocean back with a teaspoon."

New England was getting mostly rain, but forecaster Nolan Duke of the Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo., said that would turn to 3 to 6 inches of snow as temperatures dropped today.

Roads remained icy throughout the Tennessee Valley, and police from Birmingham, Ala., to Tennessee and Kentucky warned motorists to use extreme caution, especially on bridges.

States of emergency remained in effect today in Indiana, where 48 stranded travelers were put up in National Guard armories, and in Ohio, where thousands of National Guardsmen were on alert and 729 were already assisting local cleanup and rescue efforts. At least 52 people needing kidney dialysis were to be airlifted to Columbus hospitals for treatment today.

In Illinois, where 60 mph winds pushed 16-foot waves on Chicago's Lake Shore Drive on Tuesday, police used snowmobiles to rescue about 100 motorists from stranded vehicles on the Calumet Expressway.

Congressman says networks responsible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a congressional subcommittee that has questioned television executives on election reporting says the networks behaved "more responsibly" in covering Tuesday's New Hampshire primary.

But Rep. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., chairman of a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee that held hearings Monday on network exit-poll projections, said the New Hampshire coverage still gave too much information before all the state's polls closed.

NBC declared Hart the winner at 8 p.m. sharp, when 90 percent of the polls were closed. ABC followed at 8:01 p.m., and CBS at 9:12 p.m.

In their 7 p.m. EST national newscasts, however, all three networks forshadowed the Hart upset. CBS made a flat prediction.

Here is what they said in those 7 p.m. newscasts:

ABC: "There are indications up here that something big and surprising may be happening, that Sen. Gary Hart may score an upset victory over frontrunner Walter Mondale." NBC: "A major upset appears to be taking shape in the New Hampshire primary. It appears tonight that Gary Hart is on his way to a clear-cut victory over Walter Mondale."

CBS: "In addition, based on CBS News interviews with voters after they cast their ballots, CBS News estimates that trend is likely to continue and Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado will win the primary by a comfortable margin."

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The state Board of Corrections continued its probe last week of the Texas prison system and learned:

—The Texas Department of Corrections overpaid architects $1 million for fees not called for in written contracts.

—Departed prison system director W. J. Estelle received a gift pickup truck paid out of prison employees "barber funds."

—It may be necessary to radically reshape the complex prison system bureaucracy, according to a management consulting firm's report.

The accounting firm looking into huge cost overruns in recent prison construction found some $1 million was paid for architects fees which did not correspond to the architects' written contracts.

If the attorney general permits, the Board of Corrections may sue for the overpayments.

The Board also wants to review the "barber fund," which is funded by voluntary employee donations. The name comes from the free haircuts and shoe-shines in the inmate-staffed prison barber shops which is utilized by employees who contribute to the fund.

Official Gifts

Contributions are supposed to be used to pay dues in organizations, and to underwrite employee parties, gestures of condolences, etc. But Board chairman Robert Gunn is unhappy with what he has learned about the way the fund is managed and wants a full review.

Gunn said he has been told the money was also used to buy gifts for retiring prison officials. Other state officials have heard that prison employees are pressured to contribute, and that the wardens, not employees, control how the dollars are spent.

Estelle was presented the gift pickup truck at his going-away party this fall, an acting prison director said.

The prison director's job should be divided into two jobs to handle the complex state agency and new offices should be created for planning and financial controls, according to a team of efficiency experts hired by the Board.

Televised Execution?

So far, prison officials haven't accepted a death-row inmate's two-week-old plea to have his execution televised.

But Texas Atty. Gen. Jim Mattox last week indicated he had no objection to broadcasting the execution and that the prison board had the authority to allow television coverage and to issue strict guidelines on handling the broadcast.

Convicted killer James David Autry has told the press that a televised execution would be a deterrent to crime, but Mattox apparently doesn't share that view, according to a spokesman.

The Texas prison system traditionally allows some press coverage, but has never permitted television or still camera photography in the death chamber.

Phone Rates Delayed

Meanwhile, Mattox also succeeded in delaying the proposed telephone rate hike by Southwestern Bell.

Mattox warned the Public Utility Commission that in his opinion, it would be violating state law if it rushed new rates.

The PUC members, who at first did not want to hear an appeal of the rate hike approval, agreed to listen.

Coastal Bonanza

Texas government won big last week—about $350 million—after a federal judge ruled the federal government had to share half of new offshore oil and gas lease money with the state.

The state's case was pushed mainly by former Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and his successor, Garry Mauro.

Mauro said about $215 million will go to the Permanent School Fund and $100 million representing interest money can be used by the Legislature for education.

Teacher Exams

While the Legislature considers whether teachers can get a raise, it also will debate whether to make public teachers take a competency exam. The president of the largest teacher organization in Texas, however, thinks that is an absurd idea.

The head of the Texas State Teachers Association, Dale Young of Fort Worth, implied that principals could tell which teachers were competent just by looking at the "bizzard of paperwork teachers submit every day."

Black Democrats

The Texas Coalition of Black Democrats meeting in El Paso last week surprised the state with narrow straw poll support for state Sen. Lloyd Doggett, seeking to replace retiring U.S. Sen. John Tower.

The funniest wise crack of the evening's featured guests probably came from Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower who told the convention, "This is the first time I've flown 800 miles west to speak to a bunch of East Texans."

Hance Endorsed

Meanwhile, Congressman Kent Hance, a U.S. Senate candidate, picked up a key endorsement in Southeast Texas from State Representative Mark Stiles. Stiles represents the 21st district which includes Liberty, Chambers and western Jefferson County encompassing the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Hance also denounced Bob Krueger's stand on immigration policy as being bad for businessmen and Hispanics. Responding to charges that he had flip-flopped on immigration issues, Krueger wrote Hance, "I support employer sanctions as long as such sanctions are part of a law that has sufficient guarantees that it would not discriminate against Mexican-Americans."

Hance said that position is still somewhat vague since most Hispanics insist there is no such thing as employer sanctions that won't discriminate against Mexican-Americans. "That's like saying he is for capital punishment as long as no one gets killed," Hance said.

Working The Crowd

Congressman Kent Hance is shown visiting with the crowd during the Hance Rally held Saturday night in the Bull Barn. Hance is campaigning for the U.S. Senate in the Democratic primary. He is shown visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bob Allison, and District Judge Wesley Gulley and his wife are on the right.

After statement

Convicted murder executed

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — Johnny Davis Taylor Jr., convicted of murdering a man to steal a car, went to his death in Louisiana's electric chair today saying "I've done a lot of wrong ... I guess this is the price I pay."

Taylor, the second killer executed in Louisiana in three months, looked directly at the nine witnesses behind a glass window in the death chamber and read a three-minute statement just before his death.

"Living has been hard, and now it's time to die," he said before turning to the guards and asking them to strap him in.

Taylor, 30, was convicted of the 1980 murder of David Vogler, who was stabbed repeatedly, his body stuffed in his own car trunk and his wife's car stolen.

Four alternating jolts of 2,000 and 500 volts shot through his body for a total of one minute, Warden Ross Maggio said. Twice smoke curled from Taylor's left leg, where electrodes were attached.

West Feliciana Parish Coroner Alfred Gould pronounced Taylor dead at 12:16 a.m. The eight leather straps on the chair were unbuckled and his body was wheeled away to a waiting ambulance.

The execution, the 13th in the nation since the U.S. Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976, came just eight days after Taylor's lawyers began their last round of appeals. The U.S. Supreme Court refused 6-2 to stop the execution Tuesday, and Gov. Dave Treen refused to intervene Tuesday night.

Taylor, of Prichard, Ala., was led into the cinder-block execution room just after midnight, wearing a gray sweatshirt, prison jeans and white sandals and holding a red bandanna. His head was shaved.

He delivered his last statement deliberately, saying he had found God and asking for help for "those out there who need help."

"I've done a lot of wrong, caused a lot of hurt. I guess this is the price I pay for it," he said.

He concluded, "That's it. Let's go."

Taylor's death came a little more than three months after the Dec. 14 execution of Robert Wayne Williams, the first person put to death in Louisiana since 1961.

Anthony Antone was the last previous person executed in the United States, on January 26, when Florida became the first state to put three people to death since the 1976 ruling.

In pipeline blast

Company employee hurt

HURST, Texas (AP) — A concrete company employee was seriously burned when the front-end loader he was operating apparently struck a gas pipeline, creating an explosion that rocked this suburban community between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Steve Andrews, 22, was listed in fair condition at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth with third-degree burns on his head and lesser burns on his upper body after the Tuesday morning accident.

Andrews' co-workers said he ran into the drivers' room at Pioneer Concrete of Texas Inc., screaming for help. Witnesses said employees extinguished Andrews' blazing clothes with a water hose.

One of the drivers told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that Andrews said, "Tell me how bad I'm hurt. Tell me if I'm going to die."

Andrews was taken by CareFlight helicopter to the hospital.

Authorities at the scene said Andrews was digging up stones when the loader apparently ruptured the Mobil Oil pipeline, which contained either propane or natural gas. The line was later shut off from a remote office, police said.

The 10:30 a.m. explosion, in the suburb between Dallas and Fort Worth, "sounded like a bomb going off," said John Roulston, a Pioneer driver.

Another driver, Danny Duckworth, said: "We were all sitting in there (the drivers' room) and didn't know what it was, but the way it shook the windows, we knew it was bad."

The Rev. J.D. Wade of nearby Friendship Baptist Church said he thought the blast was a sonic boom.

Black smoke billowed from the hole in the pipeline and flames shot as high as 100 feet into the air, firefighters said. A train headed to Fort Worth from Dallas on the Rock Island Railroad was stopped because of the intense heat and a portion of Texas Highway 10 was closed temporarily.

Firefighters, some from Fort Worth and neighboring suburbs, played water on a nearby plastics company, afraid the fire might spread there and form deadly gases.

During the construction of the Hoover Dam, concrete had to be poured continually for two years.

Arco said ready to buy Gulf

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Atlantic Richfield Co. reportedly is attempting to finance a takeover of Gulf Corp. with as much as $13 billion, in an effort to keep the company out of the hands of T. Boone Pickens Jr.

Rumors on Wall Street on Tuesday suggested the Arco offer might come quickly and be greeted favorably by Gulf's directors.

"I'm hearing ... that the offer will be made (today). It's my understanding ... that the Gulf board is planning another meeting for Thursday," said one analyst who asked not to be identified.

Spokesmen for Arco and Gulf declined comment on the speculation, but an executive at Chase Manhattan Bank who asked not to be identified said the bank was gauging interest among banks worldwide in lending from $10 billion to $12 billion for the deal.

Such a buyout would cut short Pickens' plan to oust Gulf's directors and possibly dismantle the company, but it would generate hefty profits for Pickens and his backers.

Gulf Chairman James E. Lee reportedly rejected Arco Chairman Robert O. Anderson's informal offer recently to acquire Gulf for about $70 per share, or $11.6 billion for all 165 million shares outstanding.

"Now there are indications that Arco's formal offer may involve as much as $13 billion," the New York Times quoted unnamed banking sources as saying.

"That's rumor. That's speculation, and it's our practice not to respond to rumors," Gulf spokesman Keith-Anderson said Tuesday.

Anderson also declined to say when Gulf's board would meet again.

A $13 billion offer would correspond to nearly $79 per share.

Pickens is offering $65 per share in a tender offer for 13.5 million shares.

The Times quoted sources as saying that Arco has asked Chase Manhattan to syndicate a loan with worldwide banks for up to $12 billion.

Arco's bid should be "warmly received," and may be in competition with Allied Corp., General Electric Co., Mobil Corp. and Standard Oil of California, the newspaper reported in Tuesday's editions.

Gulf's directors said Friday a friendly takeover is one option being studied in the company's defense against investors led by Pickens, chairman of Mesa Petroleum Corp.

Pickens' group already controls 21.7 million shares of Gulf stock. Another 13.5 million shares would give it a 21 percent holding and a launching platform for a takeover of the nation's fifth-largest oil company.

The investors say they'll propose a slate of directors to oppose the 13 incumbents at the annual shareholders meeting this spring and may liquidate the company at a profit for shareholders.

Pickens, whose group acquired its Gulf stock when the shares were trading in the mid-$40s, said he already has rejected Lee's offer to repurchase it at $70 per share. Gulf's directors, in urging shareholders not to tender stock under the Pickens offer, said Friday that they also were considering a merger, a takeover of another company, or the sale of assets and securities.

U.S. transport crashes in Spain, bodies recovered

ZARAGOZA, Spain (AP) — Rescue teams today recovered 14 bodies from the wreckage of a U.S. Air Force transport plane which crashed in a mountain range in northeast Spain, officials said.

The plane, a Hercules C-130, had been carrying 17 U.S. servicemen and a Spanish air force officer when it crashed Tuesday night, apparently while trying to make an emergency landing in bad weather.

Spain's directorate general of civil aviation said 14 bodies were recovered from the wreckage. The fate of the four missing was not immediately known.

The plane crashed in the fog- and snow-swept Moncayo mountains as it headed for Zaragoza following military maneuvers.

spokeswoman for the Air Force's European Headquarters in Ramstein, West Germany, said the wreckage was discovered about two miles northwest of the village of Borja, 45 miles from Zaragoza.

The Zaragoza air base, 175 miles northeast of Madrid, is used by the U.S. Air Force under a 1953 military cooperation agreement with Spain.

Freeze out food bugs

DEAR POLLY — Last summer, I found tiny black bugs in my oatmeal, macaroni, crackers, etc. Since then, I keep everything in that line in glass jars. My shelves have white paper on them. Must I replace it? What can I do to get rid of these bugs? I've never had this happen before. — MRS. D.

DEAR MRS. D. — You need to perform a thorough cleaning job to get rid of all traces of those little bugs. For starters, discard all containers of flour, baking mixes, cereals, rice and other dry products that are infested with pests. (Your uninfested supplies in glass jars should be OK.) Be sure to dispose of these items in tightly closed plastic bags and get them out of the house so that the bugs can't escape back onto your shelves. Don't forget that the larvae can lurk in package wrappings, too. Remove all shelf paper from cupboards and shelves and carefully discard it as well. Wash shelves and cupboards with a half-and-half solution of chlorine bleach (test to be sure it won't harm the finish first). Rinse thoroughly, then wash and rinse again to be doubly sure the insects are destroyed. Recover the shelves with new clean shelf paper if desired.

To prevent future infestations of worms and weevils, you can freeze all dry staples such as flour, oatmeal and baking mixes for 24 hours. This should kill the eggs or larvae lurking in these products. You should freeze new items immediately after shopping to prevent a fresh infestation.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter, "Homemade Remedies for Household Pests," with more ideas for keeping out flour worms, weevils and other bugs. Other readers who would like a copy of this newsletter should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1216, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Sprinkle sliced potatoes with a little flour before frying. The fried potatoes will come out beautifully golden brown. — MILDRED

Hit, Run Blizzard

These three vehicles were stuck in snowdrifts at Moreman and Greenwood Sunday after a hit-and-run blizzard snarled traffic on streets by open fields, knocked out electric power in some parts of town, and affected traffic on area highways. Only piles of snow were remaining Tuesday as a reminder of the late-winter blast.

SIPCO official is promoted

Donald R. Morrow Jr., quality assurance supervisor at Swift Independent Packing Co., has been promoted and is being transferred to Worthington, Minn., it was announced this week by B.H. Nary, manager of the Hereford SIPCO plant. Morrow will be the quality assurance manager of the Swift plant in Minnesota. He began working for Swift in Hereford in January of 1983 as a quality assurance inspector, then was promoted to a supervisory position. Born in Stillwater, Ok., Don attended Texas Tech University and West Texas State University. He holds a business degree from WTSU and is currently working on a master's degree in statistical analysis. Prior to coming to Swift, Morrow worked with his father, Dr. D.R. Morrow, at Blue Morrow Meats in Amarillo as a salesman and assistant plant manager. He and his wife, Annette, will move to Minnesota.

Reactive hypoglycemia

DEAR DR. LAMB — I just turned 30 a few months ago. During my yearly physical I told my doctor about my excessive fatigue. I was dizzy and at times extremely irritable, which wasn't normal for me. I had a six-hour glucose tolerance test and it showed I was hypoglycemic.

I try to follow my diet, and when I slip I really feel the effects. Can a person have hypoglycemia during a glucose tolerance test and really be a diabetic? Does having hypoglycemia mean that eventually one will become a diabetic? When having a hypoglycemic reaction should I eat something with sugar? I think people are confused about hypoglycemia.

DEAR READER — At least I can agree with your last statement. I recently received a letter from a young man who had a problem with anxiety, and some people would attribute his symptoms to hypoglycemia. The reason is that both anxiety and hypoglycemia stimulate the release of adrenaline.

The only proof of hypoglycemia is to demonstrate a low glucose level at the time symptoms occur. A glucose tolerance test, whether it's two or eight hours, that shows low values but is not accompanied with any symptoms, doesn't establish the diagnosis of hypoglycemia.

If a person has hypoglycemia, it doesn't mean he'll become a diabetic. A very small percentage of people who have hypoglycemia may become diabetic, but most do not. It's not the same disease. Unless the diabetic is taking insulin or oral hypoglycemic medicine, there is no way a hypoglycemic response can occur during a glucose tolerance test.

Reactive hypoglycemia is the common form that most people talk about. It's a mistake to use sugar if you have this form. There are other forms of hypoglycemia caused by tumors of the pancreas and other disorders.

In reactive hypoglycemia, the low blood glucose level only occurs after eating. It will not occur in the morning, even if you don't eat until noon. Eating something sweet because you feel low merely sets you up for cyclical rises and falls in the blood glucose levels.

To help eliminate some of your confusion, I am sending you The Health Letter 18-8, Hypoglycemia, The Low Blood Sugar Problem, in which I summarize the view of most medical authorities about hypoglycemia. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

With the proper diet and lifestyle, most people who have reactive hypoglycemia can eliminate their symptoms. The diet should cut out concentrated sweets, although recent studies have shown that sweet potatoes, not Irish potatoes, are OK. Rice is better than bread as a carbohydrate source and small, frequent meals also are helpful.

GORILLA FOR SALE

...or any other strange and wonderful thing you might need!

Going bananas over the clutter in your closet... or the disarray in your attic? Got a garage that drives you to distraction... or a garden that looks like a jungle? If it takes a safari to sift through those messy areas, then maybe it's time you turned them into cash... in the Classifieds! Why monkey around with white elephants that never get used, but could be of use to someone else? Just one ad in our Classifieds could clear out your clutter... and put money in your pocket! And, the Classifieds can do much, much more! From gorillas to gardeners, autos to acting schools... it's your best place to buy, sell or locate just about any item or service you want! It's easy to place an ad... Just call and speak to one of our friendly advisors!
