

Freight Train Is De-railed Here Monday

A west-bound Santa Fe freight train was de-railed three miles east of the Hereford railroad station Monday afternoon, and held up traffic on the main line for more than five hours.

The tie-up occurred when a wheel broke on one of the freight cars. The freight had slowed down to clear the track for another train when the break occurred and only one car left the tracks.

The break-down might have caused a serious wreck if it had occurred when the freight was travelling at full speed, according to Joe Beyer, local Santa Fe agent.

A wrecker was brought from Amarillo to clear the tracks, but traffic was tied up on the main line for more than five hours. The wreck occurred at about six o'clock Monday evening, and the tracks were not cleared until after eleven o'clock.

No one was injured. The wrecked car was loaded with potash, Santa Fe officials reported.

Paving of Highway 51 to Dimmitt Is Near Completion

Paving operations on Highway 51 between Hereford and Dimmitt are nearing the final stage as engineers prepared this week for pouring the black-top which will complete the highway.

When the present construction is completed, the international highway will be paved solidly between Hereford and Dimmitt. The gap between Dimmitt and Lamb county line still remains to be paved.

However, contracts have been let and construction started on a short gap in Castro county on

American Legion Enlists Its First Woman Member Here

Elsie Wilkins Smith, former member of the Navy Waves, became the first woman member of the Hereford American Legion Post at a recent initiation ceremony, and was also the first 200th member of the local post.

Now Mrs. Billy Smith of Vega, she was formerly Miss Elsie Wilkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Wilkins of Hereford. She served with the Waves at the Naval Training Station at Hunter College, New York, during the war as a stenographer, and received her discharge from the service at Philadelphia on January 27, 1945.

She enlisted in the service at Dallas on May 13, 1944.

Although a few women were in the armed forces during the first World War, none were ever inducted in the American Legion here, and Mrs. Smith became the first woman member from World War II. She was the 200th member of the local post.

Demands For Telephones Are Growing

Despite the fact that the company has installed a record number of telephones in Hereford in recent months, there are still 135 applicants for telephone service on the waiting list and the number is growing daily, according to officials of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

Southwestern Bell, in an advertisement in this issue of The Brand, issues an explanation for the inability of the company to supply demands for service.

"It has simply been impossible to manufacture and install additional equipment fast enough to keep pace with the biggest demand for telephones in Hereford's history," company officials said.

On V-J Day, 70 persons were on the waiting list for telephones in the city. Since that time, 141 telephones have been installed, but the number of applicants has far exceeded the supply. Some of the 70 who were without phones on V-J Day are still on the waiting list, and the number has jumped to 135.

Expansion of the already overloaded system is underway, officials explain, but due to shortage of materials, the job is requiring considerable time.

Returned servicemen and people whose service qualifies them as essential to the health and welfare of the community—such as doctors—receive priority on the available phones wherever there are existing lines to serve them.

Cull Poultry to Save Feed Says A & M Expert

The present ceiling prices on corn, wheat and other grains and protein concentrates means that heavy culling must be done in farm and commercial flocks if poultrymen hope to stay "in the black" on egg production, according to S. A. Moore, poultry husbandman of Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

"It takes around 11 pounds of feed to produce a dozen eggs from a hen that is laying at the rate of 80 eggs per year," Moore said. A 200-egg hen will lay a dozen eggs on 5 pounds of feed.

The poultry specialist estimated that 3½ million Texas hens, or about one out of seven in the average flock, was costing her owner money instead of bringing it in.

While culling "boarders" from the flock is always good business, it is especially necessary now because of the feed situation, he said. Many low-producing hens in poultry flocks are eating feed at the rate of four to five pounds per month, so two birds culled out now will save a sack of feed in the next year.

The feed so saved can go to relieve the food and feed shortage elsewhere, on two young birds can be raised up to production on what one old one would eat in the meanwhile.

Newly Organized Chapter Charters Bus for Occasion

Thirty-eight girls of the Hereford Rainbow Assembly attended the Grand Assembly of the Rainbow Girls of Texas at Khiva Temple in Amarillo last week-end, and received recognition from the registration chairman as being the largest group in attendance from any chapter in the State.

Nearly 1300 girls were registered for the three-day meeting which opened last Thursday at the Shrine temple. Included in the group were 32 grand officers. Seventy-two Texas cities were represented, as well as delegates from Hawaii, New Mexico, Arkansas, California, Kansas, North Carolina, North Dakota and Michigan.

A special bus was chartered Friday to take a group of 36 girls from the Hereford chapter to Amarillo for the assembly. Two others, Joan Jett and Martisha Ramey, accompanied by Edna Jett, made the trip by car. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson and Mrs. Grace Thomas were in charge of the bus.

Nine girls from the local chapter, with their Mother Advisor, Mrs. A. L. Manjeet, remained in Amarillo for the entire three-day session. They were Helen Ann Pitman, Wex-

Of interest in Hereford is the June 16 wedding of Miss Charlotte Word, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard R. Word, and William L. Mr. Mathers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Mathers of Canadian.

Flower-lined paths led to an arch of white flowers and green smilax against a natural background of tall stately poplars. Music for the wedding was of special interest as three of the selections were composed by the bride's mother. Mrs. Grace Bennett of Amarillo played a prelude, Mrs. L. E. Landreth of Clarendon sang and Mrs. Word

Veterans Can Get Surplus Material Through Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 23.—Commencing Thursday, July 11, World War II veterans can be certified for the purchase of surplus war materials in Lubbock instead of having to make the time consuming trip to Ft. Worth. According to M. M. Calvin and C. W. Holcomb, representatives of the district office of the War Assets Administration in Ft. Worth, two WAA officials will be at the American Legion Home, 910 Texas Avenue Thursday and Friday of every other week, their first appearance being July 11 and 12.

This schedule will be maintained as long as veterans indicate a desire for the service.

While conferring with officials of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, the American Legion and area Veterans Administration Office, Calvin and Holcomb said that certification of veterans for station wagons, staff cars, and typewriters was halted as of June 1. As property becomes available those veterans holding certificates longest will

SOME GOOD NEWS ABOUT CANCER

★ Approximately one in four of the 158,000 lives lost each year in the United States from cancer could be saved if the knowledge already in existence could be made available to all—assuming that the knowledge is acted upon promptly. Here are the danger signals:

1. Any lump or thickening, especially of the breast.
2. Irregular bleeding or discharge from any of the body openings.
3. Any sore that does not heal.
4. Persistent indigestion.
5. Sudden changes in the form or growth of a mole or wart.
6. Hoarseness persisting for two or three weeks.
7. Regional pain.

Only in the early stages can cancer be successfully arrested. At the appearance of suspicious symptoms see your doctor at once. For prompt, expert prescription service, call on us.

Medicine Chest May Be Booby Trap Says Cox

AUSTIN, Texas, June 15—There are many persons who naturally hoard anything and everything including old clothes, boxes, and other useless articles, some of which constitute no greater danger than a possible fire hazard, but a very real danger is present when this tendency is applied to hoarding old medicine in any form.

Most medicine finds itself into the home through a doctor's prescribing it for some specific illness. For the sake of safety, left-over medicines should be destroyed immediately when they have fulfilled their purpose and never be stored in the medicine cabinet for future un-prescribed use in case of another illness, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Self-medication with the use of left-over drugs which were of great benefit to some previous illness can sometimes turn a simple ailment into a very serious condition of actual poisoning," Dr. Cox said. "This is particularly true of the indiscriminate use of sulfa drugs which have been prescribed for some previous specific condition. "It is wise to use medicines as indicated for the illness for which they are prescribed by your doctor, and when they are no longer needed, destroy the remaining medicine immediately," Dr. Cox said. "Even if you expect a return of the same condition at some future date, it would be better to obtain new medicine if the condition recurs than to retain this old medicine in the cabinet and subject the members of your family to the danger of using it unwisely."

Adding Salt to Water Will Save Heat Cramps

AUSTIN, Texas, June 17—If your work is such that it causes excessive perspiration, add a pinch of ordinary table salt to each drink of water you take to help prevent heat cramps. This is advised by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, to prevent a possible increase in the number of heat victims as the Texas thermometer hits 95 degrees and above.

Laborers, mechanics, farmers, and white collar workers whose work causes them to sweat profusely, are in danger of having their body salt content become deficient with resulting heat cramps or heat fog. Salt is a prominent constituent of sweat; the body may lose as high as 40 to 50 grams of salt during hot days.

In industry, a method of preventing heat cramps is to take a tablet of pure salt or a mixture of salt and dextrose with each drink of water. Workmen whose duties require muscular exertion should be especially careful to add more than the usual amount of salt to what they eat and drink.

Salt deficiency may be prevented by taking salt in various ways. Where prepared tablets are not available, table salt may be added to each drink of water. Milk is a source of salt and will help to make up for the deficiency caused by sweating.

Heat cramp is characterized by pains (cramps) in the abdominal region, headache, and in severe cases, by nausea and vomiting. The body temperature remains about normal, likewise the pulse rate. Body salt losses occur without the knowledge of the individual until there is a deficiency; then the abdominal muscles begin to cramp.

Why 135 Hereford People Are Waiting for Telephones

THE REASON IS that it has not been possible to manufacture and install additional equipment fast enough to keep up with the biggest demand for telephones in HEREFORD'S history—despite the most active construction program we've ever undertaken.

On V-J Day, 70 people in Hereford were on the telephone waiting list—a backlog equal to nearly four years of pre-war growth.

Since then, we have gained 141 telephones in Hereford. We have installed FIVE times as many telephones since V-J Day as we did in an average year between 1935 and 1940.

Yet today, 135 people here still do not have service. Many of them are people who were waiting on V-J Day.

ONE BIG REASON for this is the vast number of new applications. Many of them are from returning servicemen who, as heads of families, are entitled to preference, as also are people whose service qualifies as essential to the health, welfare, and security of the community. As lines and equipment become available in a central office, all other applications are filled in the order in which they are received.

WE ARE HARD AT WORK on an expansion program to enlarge the telephone system here, to put in the switchboards, the cable, the wire, and all the other things needed to make service available to those who want it. The job is so big that it takes time.

In the meantime, we are doing everything possible to s-t-r-e-t-c-h the telephone system here to serve the maximum number of people. We are limiting new residence connections to party lines . . . we are loading the system beyond the capacity for which it was engineered . . . and are resorting to emergency, temporary measures, wherever possible, to install additional telephone equipment ahead of schedule.

Much as we'd like to, we can't tell most people waiting for service just when it will be possible to connect their telephones.

But of this you can be sure—

WE ARE HARD AT WORK. We are doing everything we can to furnish telephone service—at the earliest possible moment—to all who are waiting. If there is anything we can do to make our progress faster, we shall do it.

Veteran Vaughn Exercises Priority But All He Gets Is the Exercise

The Veteran's Housing picture is not so rosy as it's been painted by government officials in charge of the program, as one Hereford veteran has discovered.

Carlos Vaughn made application with the Federal Public Housing Authority at Fort Worth for priority to buy one of the buildings from the Hereford Prisoner of War Camp for the purpose of building himself a home. Vaughn, a World War II veteran and member of the Hereford American Legion Post, had hoped to solve the lumber shortage by exercising his "veteran's priority" to buy one of the barracks at the camp.

From the FPFA came a reply in several hundred well-chosen words, all adding up to "NO."

"Under the law," Vaughn was advised, "this authority is not authorized to sell any of this housing (POW Camp buildings declared surplus last January) but must use it solely for the purpose of converting the same into veterans housing and conveying it to cities, colleges, and other local non-profit organizations to be managed and operated by them in strict accordance with the provisions of the Veterans Emergency Housing Program."

In his letter, J. H. Gaylord, acting director of the FPFA regional office at Fort Worth, advised Vaughn that "it is contemplated that 20 units will be converted from this housing and transported to the City of Hereford for use under the Mead Resolution to house distressed veterans and their families."

This was cold comfort to Vaughn, who needs a place to live now and, in addition, had already learned that, due to the complex regulations regarding construction of these housing projects, it is extremely unlikely that the City of Hereford will be able to accept the proffered housing.

"It is further contemplated," Gaylord wrote Vaughn, "that the other housing made available to this agency will probably be transported to other regions where the need for veteran's housing is acute, and erected there for the purpose of housing veterans."

Veteran Vaughn is still looking for some house-building material, and from the gleam in his eye, one gathers that he'd be happy to start the foundation with the first FPFA employee who turns up around here.

Crime Does Pay, Court Records Show, But It's the County That Collects

Crime does pay . . . and pay . . . and pay . . . according to records of fines assessed in county court this year.

County court records for the first half of 1946 show an impressive total of criminal cases, the majority of which have been on liquor violations of one type or another.

Since January 1, a total of 56 criminal cases have been tried before Judge Fred W. Baird.

Of these, fifteen were for drunk driving, and fines assessed ranged from $50 to $200, plus costs. Costs in county court cases are ordinarily between $20 and $25.

Nine persons were convicted of public drunkenness, and the fines were $1 and costs in two cases, $10 and costs in four, and $25 and costs in the remaining three.

Swindling with worthless checks brought four persons before the court, with fines from $1 to $10 plus costs.

Ranking next to drunk driving in point of numbers were the 13 persons convicted of possession and sale of liquor in dry territory. Three of these cases are still pending. In the others, fines ranged from $100 and costs to $250 and costs.

Two persons were fined for driving without license, and fines of $25 and $50 were assessed.

Transportation of liquor for sale in dry territory accounted for four charges, one of which is still pending. One man was fined $100 and costs, the other two were nicked for $250 plus costs.

Another, charged with possession of un-taxed liquor, was fined $100 and costs.

Three persons, charged with speeding, were fined $25 and costs. Another, charged with burglary, drew a two-year jail sentence.

Two charges of vagrancy were filed, and two truck operators, charged with overloading their vehicles, were fined $1 and costs in each case.

In addition, the county has confiscated three automobiles, with a total value of $3,000, and an undisclosed stock of confiscated liquor.

Hereford Band Sells School But Local Teacher Finds Schools Fail to Measure Up in Excellence

By Corinne Jennings

Hereford's High School band, on one of its tours, sold Hereford to a prospective teacher; one who was then in her training days. She made up her mind that she wanted to come to Hereford to teach after seeing and hearing the band. She kept this in mind as she worked toward her degree.

In 1946 she received her degree from West Texas State at Canyon, and set about to make this ambition materialize. After teaching two years in another Texas town she attained her goal and came to Hereford. She has taught here the last four years.

She liked the school, the town and its people so well that she married a local boy and now calls Hereford her home.

The community, its history, its opportunities and possibilities are extremely interesting to her. She is the kind of teacher the people of this town need for their children. She likes them and they like her because she is interested in them and their welfare. She takes an active part in local clubs and affairs.

BUT Hereford has let her down!

The Hereford High School band is good advertising for our school and town. But many things in our school fail to come up to this standard.

Classrooms Overcrowded

Last fall, with the opening of school there were enough pupils in the two sections of the grade which she was to teach, for three sections or more. The situation was met by the two teachers having chairs brought up from the basement for those without seats. The children used their notebooks for desks. In time, a third section was worked out, still leaving 35 pupils for this teacher.

She is wondering if she will have this same situation again this coming fall. But her chief worry and concern is, and has been, the many things the children are being denied in the way of equipment in the class room and outside her own class room.

Books Out of Date

Her teaching equipment is made up of a few worn dictionaries, the latest having been published in 1937. Any equipment or machinery of that date is considered obsolete—so are those dictionaries and other books which make up that class room library.

Compton's Encyclopedia of 1935 edition is their best reference book. The books that make up their library now on hand, are of science and history that are far too advanced for the grade.

Most of these books were gathered up by the children wherever they could find them scattered throughout the school building. They were eager to have a room library. Their teacher says there is nothing in them inductive to the children's reading interests as not even the pictures are interesting.

This past year, several of the children brought their own books to school from home, to be used or loaned, but these were taken home at the end of the school year.

The maps in this class room are of Europe, Asia and the United States, and all are of 1937 date. None of the maps fit in with the subjects that are taught in that room. Texas history is taught but they have not a Texas map.

Playground Too Small

The playground is another big problem. The ground is so small for the number that must play there that there is no chance for group play according to age, size, or interests.

More playground equipment is needed, but at this time it is not feasible say the teachers because they claim, a doctor and a nurse would have to be on hand constantly during the play time to take care of the casualties that would occur because of the extreme crowded conditions.

The youngsters "actually hunger" for school programs says this teacher but there is no assembly hall large enough for them. If they have anything in that line they must borrow the high school auditorium and the distance between the two schools does not make this practical.

The cafeteria at the Central school also works under a handicap—lack of space—and the High School does not even have a much needed cafeteria. The women who do the work at the cafeteria deserve a lot of credit for the well cooked and balanced meals that they serve. Many months of the past school year averaged over 5,000 meals per month.

The town of Hereford, an Independent School District, in the county of Deaf Smith lies within one of the wealthiest counties of Texas. According to the 1943 school census, Deaf Smith county was one of the richest counties having $5,000,000 income per scholastic. Statistics also show that this county had a 90% to 100% regular attendance in that

Try Home-Grown Feed to Solve Dairy Problems

Plenty of good roughage is about two-thirds of the job of feeding a dairy cow and G. G. Gibson, chairman of the A. and M. College Extension Service, urges use of more good home-grown roughage. With supplies of concentrates short and the prices high, every effort should be made to replace as many pounds as possible with good roughage.

Highest quality hay is pasture with the water taken out so that it can be stored until needed. This means that hay should be harvested at as near the best stage for grazing as possible.

The difficulty lies in the small yield obtained at this stage which is best for grazing. By allowing the plants to reach the point where they are beginning to bloom, more tonnage will be obtained without sacrificing too much feed value. The man who waits to harvest hay until the plants have matured loses very much feed value although the yield might be higher. The season yield will be less, however, because plants cut when mature will not keep growing as plants cut earlier will do.

Although it does not take the place of hay and pasture, silage can be used to advantage on every farm. Silage is another source of cheap nutrients which can replace some of the high year which is considered a very good average and one to be proud of. In fact, Hereford has everything in its favor for fine schools and fine teachers.

This teacher came here as Miss Lillie Loyd Jackson and remained as Mrs. Weldon Poff.

The crop that yields the largest tonnage per acre should be used for silage. The better the feed that goes into the silo, the better the silage that comes out. Three tons per cow will be good feed insurance when grazing is short.

Record Spud Crop This Year Sends Price of Potatoes Down; Harvest Starts Here July 1

A record-breaking crop of potatoes is in prospect in the United States this year, according to a report from the Department of Agriculture, and that old depression-born song, "Potatoes are cheaper, tomatoes are cheaper, now's the time to fall in love" may become the nation's theme song once again.

Potatoes will certainly be cheaper, according to economists of the Texas Cooperative Extension Department, at College Station, as the gap between supply and demand is radically narrowed.

Predicting a crop of between 70 and 75 million bushels of early potatoes this year, Extension service observers report that "such a drop is about 10 to 15 million bushels more than our people can be expected to eat." Last winter the government recommended a goal of 52 million bushels of early potatoes, but farmers planted more acreage than expected.

The local situation will follow the national trend closely, according to local potato growers.

Howard Gault, president of the Deaf Smith County Potato Growers Association, estimates that about 6500 acres in this county have been planted in spuds . . . 500 to 700 acres more than last year.

However, Gault believes that the yield per acre will be slightly less than last year, although he adds that it's still too early to make any accurate estimate.

The 1945 spud crop ran well over one million bushels in Deaf Smith county, and estimates place the yield between a million and a million and a quarter bushels this year.

Fifteen hundred and 52 carloads of potatoes were shipped by rail from this county last year, and growers estimate that the equivalent of more than 300 additional carloads were shipped by truck. Average carloading is about 600 bushels.

Spud harvest will get underway in this county during the first week in July, and the big movement should be started by the second week in the month, Gault predicts.

Market price on early potatoes is already down to government support levels, and may go lower under the impact of the heavy early crop. Prices on late potatoes, however, may not be affected so strongly.

Early spuds cannot be stored, and are of no value for overseas shipment; but any surplus of late potatoes will find a ready market abroad.

A considerable market for the early spuds will be furnished by distillers for the production of alcohol, since usual grain supplies have been virtually cut off by the heavy demands in famine areas abroad.

Potato growers face a shipping problem, however, in marketing the early crop at distilleries, since potatoes consigned to distillers and malt plants cannot be shipped in refrigerator cars under an ICC order which provides that all potatoes shipped to such industries must be loaded in box cars or cattle cars.

Use of Potatoes for Ensilage May Be Solution to Feeding Problems

With a record potato crop on the way this summer, and a general shortage of grain feed for livestock in prospect, many farmers are considering the use of potato ensilage as a solution to the winter feeding problem.

Experiments conducted during the past year by Texas and Colorado Agriculture Experiment stations have indicated potato ensilage, if properly prepared, can be used successfully as feed for all livestock.

Potatoes can be used as feed either in the raw state, dried, as ensilage (either raw or cooked) and with or without the admixture of forage crops for beef and dairy cattle, horses, swine and poultry.

Ensilage of raw potatoes is usually done with the addition of 2 to 5 percent of ground corn or ground barley, or by placing forage such as alfalfa, grass, or corn fodder in alternate layers with the chopped potatoes.

According to the Texas Experiment station, potatoes can be ensiled successfully by washing off excess dirt, running them through a silage cutter along with 250 to 300 pounds of dry hay for each ton of potatoes, and storing in an ordinary type of tower silo or in a well-drained trench silo.

Potato silage has a feeding value for dairy cattle a little less than corn silage, the experiment station reports. It may be fed in amounts up to 30 to 35 pounds per cow per day.

Partly because of their bulkiness and partly because of the danger of animals going off feed, of scouring, and of suffering from indigestion, most authorities caution against changing the ration to a high level of potato or of feeding excessively high levels of potatoes. Apparently, the report states, potato silage can replace other silages in the rations of cattle and sheep also receiving normal amounts of hay and concentrate feed. In the hog ration, half of the grain can be replaced by cooked potatoes. Poultry have been fed rations in which 30 per cent of the feed was cooked potatoes.

Possibility that cull potatoes, which are ordinarily of little value to growers, can be used in this area for livestock feed has been suggested. Additional information in regard to potato ensilage can be obtained from the county agent's office.

Potato Crop Will Aid Shortage of Wheat Products

COLLEGE STATION, June 25.—The early crop Irish potatoes now abundant in local markets can be of paramount value in filling the gap caused by the world shortage of wheat and wheat products, says B. F. Vance, state director, Production and Marketing Administration.

In urging housewives to serve this seasonally abundant food more often, he said one small serving of potatoes can replace a piece of bread in well-balanced diets. Increased use also lessens demand for the less plentiful processed foods and makes it possible to release greater sup-

Waiting is tough on us, too

For months we've been hoping to present each and every one of you with the new Packards you've ordered, and have been waiting for so patiently.

Last fall, the outlook was good. Packard was confident it would double its pre-war output in 1946. (The factory is equipped to turn out far more than that.)

Look what has happened! Then came material shortages. Parts shortages. For reasons completely beyond its own control, Packard was able to keep its assembly line moving only nine days in the first quarter of this year.

In the meantime . . . Our friends have kept calling us up and asking, "Hey! Where's that new Packard I ordered weeks ago?" Many of these are old friends—Packard owners since 'way back.

But to make life more complicated, everybody seems to want one of these grand new Packards. Over 65% of the people out to buy new Packards are now driving some other make.

Honest, it's gotten so we have to answer the telephons or look our friends in the face. But . . . Your patience will pay off!

One of these days, the shortage of parts and materials is bound to ease up. And when it does, those twin-assembly lines at Packard will really roll.

Anyway, you can depend on this: As fast as the factory slips cars to us, we'll do everything we can to deliver yours at the earliest possible moment.

So, we hope you'll be patient a little longer. We're doing the best we can, and so are the folks at the factory!

Mr. Vance said that while early potatoes doubtless would be welcomed by peoples abroad, their low keeping quality makes it impracticable to try to ship them. Those spoiling in transit wastes valuable shipping space which could have been filled with wheat and other foods of good keeping qualities, he added.

"Even if they will not stand up under long hauls, we can consume them, quantities here at home as an alternative for the more readily exportable cereals," he explained.

Through the latter part of June, production is expected to reach 52,000,000 bushels. Based on current crop conditions, the total crop in early commercial areas up to September 1 may establish an all-time record as high as 70 to 75 million bushels.

Sexton-LeGrand Wedding Vows Are Solemnized at First Baptist Church

In the First Baptist Church, Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, Miss Billie Sexton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sexton, became the bride of George L.

LeGrand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie LeGrand, with Rev. R. H. Cagle officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Wayne Evans, organist, played a prelude of nuptial music and accompanied Ellen Posey who sang, "Till the End of Time." Mr. Evans played the traditional wedding marches.

The altar was decorated with white and pastel midsummer flowers with tamarix and honeysuckle in the chancel. Tall white baskets filled with white and pastel blossoms and white graduating standards holding white tapers flanked the altar.

Mrs. R. L. Dowell Jr., the bride's only attendant, wore an aqua crepe dress with corsage of white carnations. Waldron Melton was best man. Ushers were G. D. Calson and Johnny Harris and candles were lighted by R. L. Dowell Jr. and Rayton Evans.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white dress of soft crepe made with sweetheart neckline and peplum effect at the waistline. Her off-the-face white hat was flower trimmed and featured a shoulder length veil. The only ornament she wore, was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the bride-groom, and the bridal bouquet was an orchid atop a white Bible tied with white satin streamers.
