

Woes Temporary Reagan Says

High Interest Rates Hurting Economic Program

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan says his administration and its economic program are being hurt just-like everybody else by high interest rates stemming from the Federal Reserve System's tight-money policies. But Reagan says the problem is temporary, caused by economic conditions inherited from the Carter administration, and is sticking to his prediction that interest rates will fall by the end of the year. On a rare outing from the secluded ranch where he is vacationing, the president also told a California Republican gathering Thursday night that both Libyan pilots shot down by U.S. jets over the Mediterranean last week were rescued. He also pledged to build the MX missile, although he said he hasn't decided where and how it will be based.

Interest rates, now hovering at 20 percent for short-term borrowing and at 17 percent for mortgages, have driven up the federal deficit and hampered Reagan's quest for a balanced budget by 1984.

After checking with Reagan later, however, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the president was referring to interest rates.

Reagan said interest rates have soared because the market for private capital "is strained by the fact that the federal government is going into that market and competing for this investment capital." That's "just the plain law of supply and demand," he said. Noting that his budget and tax cuts won't take effect until Oct. 1, Reagan said, as he has before, that he believes interest rates "will be coming down before the first of the year."

Answering questions from the audience, Reagan said, "Let me point out one thing. The Fed is independent, and they're hurting us in what we're trying to do as much as they're hurting everyone else."

The remark appeared to refer to the Federal Reserve, the government's central bank, which has followed the administration's urging in seeking to restrict the growth of money in the belief that too rapid an expansion is infla-

Rates Blossoming As Real Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — High interest rates, called a side-effect of President Reagan's cure for inflation, now are showing signs of becoming the worst economic woe themselves.

sumers also are starting to regard interest rates as the economy's leading problem, particularly people who are unable to buy a house because of record mortgage rates.

Sen. Larry Pressler, D-S.D., said last week that interest rates could be the "sleepier issue" of the 1982 congressional elections unless they come down soon. "I am very much concerned that we are going to be identified as the party of high interest unless the issue is addressed at a high level by the president," Pressler warned other Republicans.

Reagan acknowledged the concern Thursday night at a California GPO fundraiser but said the government suffers, too, because high interest rates drive up the federal deficit.

The latest quarterly survey conducted for the National Federation of Independent Businesses says inflation, the leading economic enemy of the 1970s, has given way to interest rates as the top problem of companies.

The president of the National Association of Home Builders, whose members have been especially hard hit, complained this week that "exorbitantly high interest rates are replacing inflation as the nation's No. 1 problem."

And the U.S. Chamber of Commerce says it is receiving more calls about interest rates than inflation.

Hinckley Enters Innocent Plea

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Hinckley Jr. pleaded innocent today to charges of shooting President Reagan and three others and was pronounced competent to stand trial.

Marine brig to the federal courthouse to await his arraignment.

In a firm voice, Hinckley responded "not guilty" after the 13-count indictment was read to him as he stood, sometimes straight, sometimes crossing one leg over the other, before U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker.

Five of the 13 charges in connection with the March 30 shootings carry a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Heavy security, including metal detectors and bomb-sniffing dogs, was in place for today's appearance at the same federal courthouse where the Watergate trials were held. Extra contingents of police were called and the belongings of people entering the building were searched.

Justice Department spokesman Tom DeCair said Hinckley was moved by "surface transportation" from the Quantico, Va., Marine base to the lock-up at the U.S. District Court building, avoiding reporters and spectators and arriving shortly after midnight Thursday.

Hinckley's white bullet-proof vest showed through his dark blue suit. His attorney, Vincent J. Fuller, told the judge in response to a question that "in my opinion and the opinion (of defense psychiatrists) Mr. Hinckley is presently competent."

Hinckley was indicted Monday and charged with the shootings of Reagan, White House press secretary James S. Brady, Secret Service agent Timothy J. McCarthy and Washington policeman Thomas Delahanty.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger M. Adelman told Parker "there's no information he's not competent" and added that a sealed psychiatric report on Hinckley "provides the basis also to find him competent."

In the Reagan shooting, Hinckley was charged with attempting to assassinate the president, assault with intent to kill with a dangerous weapon, assault with a dangerous weapon and use of a firearm in attempting to kill the president.

Before dawn today, Hinckley, a 26-year-old former drifter, was moved from a the Brady shooting, the charges were assault with intent to kill while armed and assault with a deadly weapon. Hinckley was accused in the shooting of Delahanty with assault on a police of-

So. African Forces Leaving Angola

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — South African forces were withdrawing from Angola today after killing "many hundreds" of black nationalist guerrillas during five days of fighting, the South African military command said.

Africa after completing a "limited task" in Angola, the South African Press Association reported.

Defense commander Gen. Constand Viljoen said advance South African units already had returned to neighboring South-West

South Africa's domestic news agency quoted him as saying the withdrawal "will be completed soon" provided no further attacks are made on South African forces.

State Gross Sales Up By $9.9 Billion

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock has reported that gross sales in Texas for the first quarter of 1981 totaled $70.8 billion, $9.9 billion higher than the same period in 1980.

Viljoen said his troops killed "many hundreds" of guer-

Bullock said the figures were compiled from reports submitted by 255,407 reporting outlets across the state.

Gross sales reported in the state's other major urban areas include: Dallas County, $10.1 billion, up from $9.2 billion in the first quarter of 1980; Bexar County, $3.1 billion, up more than $200 million over the first quarter of 1980; Tarrant County, $3.76 billion, down slightly from the $3.78 billion reported in the first quarter of 1980; Travis County, $1.2 billion, an increase of about $168 million from 1980's first quarter.

According to the comptroller the 345 reporting outlets in Deaf Smith County showed $67,190,912 in gross sales. That compares to $39,144,156 reported by the 197 outlets in Castro County and $17,622,728 reported by 148 outlets in Parmer County. First quarter sales in 1981

Cumpton Pleased With Herd Effort in Clovis Scrimmage

CLOVIS — It was a leather-poppin', bone-jarring good time, and the visiting Hereford Whitefaces didn't show any respect for the press clippings of the Clovis Wildcats as the two squads got together for a scrimmage at Leon Williams Stadium here Thursday night.

season opener at Pampa next Friday. "We haven't worked on goal-line defense much at all," Cumpton said. "But, that's what scrimmages are for... to see what needs to be improved on before the games start counting."

One fact which brightened the picture for the Herd was the fact that they failed to commit a turnover in 80 offensive plays, while the Wildcats lost the handle on at least three occasions to the swarming Whiteface defense.

what we did against Clovis we could have a real good defense."

"I thought our effort was real good," Herd coach Don Cumpton said following the workout, his team's first against outside competition. "Our players really tried to play hard, and I was pleased with the way we hit them."

"We executed well both offensively and defensively," Cumpton said. "Of course, we made some mistakes, but that's to be expected this early in the season, and we can correct those."

While the Herd seemed to win the war, the 'Cats put up a good battle as can be expected of the perennial New Mexico grid power.

"I think their coaches were pleased with their effort in the workout," Cumpton said. "They came at us, and it was a good scrimmage for them." The Whitefaces strap it on for real next Friday against the Harvesters in Pampa. The District 3-5A club handed Hereford a 20-7 defeat in the season opener last year, and the Herd is out to reverse that decision this time around.

When the smoke had cleared, the Whitefaces held an edge over their New Mexico counterparts as far as getting the ball into the end zone goes, but that wasn't the main reason the party was staged in the first place.

The Hereford offensive backs turned in a solid performance, showing why the coach feels that depth there will help carry the load during the early-season games.

"I thought we were more physical defensively than we have been in two or three years," Cumpton said. Our aggressiveness was outstanding, and if we can build off of

"We were pretty well pleased with all aspects but our goal-line defense," Cumpton said. "In fact, that was probably the most disappointing part of the whole night."

"Our backs hit the hole well, and then read the blocks well also," the coach said. "And, all four of our quarterbacks executed well for it to be this early in the season."

The Deaf Smith County Juvenile Department will again be registering bicycles Saturday on the parking lot of the county court house as it continues a program suggested by a local scout. Boy Scout Shannon Wilburn came up with the registration idea as part of his requirements to make Eagle Scout.

Bike Registration Continues

The juvenile office registered bicycles last Saturday, and will be at it again from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. tomorrow.

The bikes will be engraved with either the driver's license of the owner or of his or her parents. Each bicycle's serial number will be recorded and kept on file in the juvenile office.

A sticker proclaiming the bike as registered will be put on each bike registered, hopefully to act as a deterrent to the two-wheeler being stolen.

A total of 43 bikes had been stolen in the county through July of this year.

Motion To Dismiss Lawsuit To Eliminate Windfall Tax Denied

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Ewing T. Kerr on Thursday denied a government motion to dismiss a lawsuit aimed at eliminating the windfall profit tax on oil.

That means government lawyers now must file a response within 30 days to the lawsuit, which was filed on behalf of the states of Texas and Louisiana by the Denver-based Mountain States Legal Foundation, a conservative public interest law firm.

Roger J. Marzulla, foundation president, said that with Kerr's decision behind it, the foundation has cleared its first obstacle to resolving the lawsuit.

"We are now free to address the real issue: that the windfall profit tax actually is an unfair burden on domestic oil production, and increases reliance on foreign oil," he said.

Marzulla said that if the tax is not eliminated, it will return $227.3 billion to the federal treasury by the end of 1988. The tax currently is bringing the government more than $1 billion a month, he said.

"The most devastating impact of the tax is upon independent producers and the two and a half million royalty owners," Marzulla said. "Many of these owners are ranchers and farmers who have relied on their royalties to help make ends meet in agricultural operations, but now 70 percent of their royalty income is gobled up by the windfall profit tax."

Police Arrest Teens After Shots Fired At Patrol Car

MESQUITE, Texas (AP) — Three teen-age boys were taken into police custody Thursday after they allegedly fired several gunshots at a patrol car attempting to stop their stolen vehicle for a traffic violation, authorities said.

The youths, described as being in their mid-teens, were driving the car along a side road near U.S. Highway 80 in Mesquite about 5 p.m. when a patrol car gave chase. The youths allegedly answered the patrol car's flashing lights with several shots from a handgun or handguns.

The youths stopped their vehicle and attempted to flee on foot, but two of them were taken into custody within minutes, police said. The third youth was arrested about 1 1/2 hours later after a search that involved a Department of Public Safety helicopter and a Dallas Police Department canine unit.

A search of the abandoned car yielded several shotguns and rifles and a box filled with jewelry, police said.

The Van Zandt County Sheriff's office was investigating the incident for possible links to the rape, beating and robbery Wednesday of a 65-year-old woman, a sheriff's spokesman said.

Senate Subcommittee Drafts 'States' Abortion Bill

DALLAS (AP) — The Senate judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Orrin Hatch has begun drafting a revised version of a proposed constitutional ban on abortion that would enable states to regulate abortion, a Dallas newspaper reported Friday.

The compromise measure is intended to broaden the political appeal of the proposed constitutional ban and is considered likely to win more votes than either current versions of the amendment or a pending bill that would outlaw the medical practice by defining life as beginning at conception, The Dallas Morning News said.

The "states rights" version might also be more palatable to the Reagan administration, which opposes abortion and endorses states rights as the foundation of a "new federalism," the newspaper said.

Anti-abortion groups are expected to lobby heavily against the proposal, however. The groups see the states rights approach as a means by which some states might legalize abortion "havens" — as some did before a 1973 Supreme Court decision legalized abortions on demand.

The language of the new bill reportedly will contain a section preserving the right of the federal government to make decisions on abortion, The News said.

Supporters of the states rights approach say it is appealing because it would let the people of each state decide the issue, and end the congressional controversy over when life begins. The bill also would end arguments over whether to make exceptions for women who are impregnated during acts of rape or incest.

Panel Recommends Doubling Of Medfly Quarantine Area

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A panel of government farming experts urged California to double its fruit-fly quarantine area, while state officials considered seeking damages from the federal government for the spread of the pests.

State authorities have taken no action on the recommendation Thursday by an advisory group of federal and state agriculture experts that a 3,600-square-mile quarantine area be established around the site of latest Mediterranean fruit fly finds in Baldwin Park, a Los Angeles suburb.

The state has already quarantined 3,249 square miles, mostly in the San Francisco Bay area where the infestation had been limited before the new find.

Los Angeles County officials will put into effect today a 165-square-mile quarantine. Agricultural officials said residents inside the area will be on their honor not to carry produce outside it. No checkpoints will be set up.

The panel reached its decision during a closed meeting in Los Gatos. No explanation for the recommendation was given by the panel members, who did not respond to reporters' questions.

Meanwhile, authorities in the state's capital said they may seek damages from the federal government or a Peruvian laboratory for the release in the state of 50,000 supposedly sterile medflies from the lab. Billions of sterile flies were released in an effort to interfere with the pest's breeding cycle.

The state auditor is trying to find out if the Peruvian flies actually were fertile when they were released as part of the eradication program. The flies were obtained by the state through the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The investigation could establish whether California has legal grounds to recover damages from the Peruvian lab or the USDA.

Jerry Scribner, on-site medfly project director, said, "I am personally convinced that the release of non-sterile Peruvian flies played a significant part" in spreading the infestation.

Aerial pesticide spraying over parts of Alameda, Santa Clara and San Mateo counties started July 14, a month after the Peruvian fly release.

The medfly hopped from Baldwin Park in Los Angeles County from the north and has emerged in Oakland, adding a new city to the infested region. Aerial spraying in Oakland began today. The area around Baldwin Park has also been sprayed.

In all, seven counties in the state are affected and aerial pesticide spraying of the pesticide malathion has covered 1,178 square miles.

The southern outbreak, 260 miles south of the main Santa Clara Valley one, heightened concern that Southern states could join Japan in clamping restrictions on California's medfly-susceptible produce — estimated at $4.7 billion a year.

Japan is being asked by the U.S. Agriculture Department to accept lemons from California — a $67 million export to that nation — without fumigation, medfly project spokesman Richard Steffen said.

Japan, which imports primarily citrus crops from California, is refusing all produce from the state until USDA documents the state's fumigation program, Steffen said, adding that the process should take a few days. Japan has said it plans to accept only treated produce from counties outside quarantine.

Wallace Eyes 'Today' Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Wallace, the man who could be king of morning television, is not thirsting after Tom Brokaw's job on the "Today" show. Get this: He's not even sure he wants it.

"I'm ambivalent. I have my doubts," said the 33-year-old Wallace, whose four-day audition as Brokaw's replacement ended today. "I'm a reporter, and I like being in the street. I'm not sure I want to go into the studio."

Wallace knows that being NBC's morning man is a plum. "It's an exciting prospect to be able to influence 10 hours of TV a week, setting up the agenda, raising issues and bringing people to the public for the first time."

"I wouldn't relish getting up at 4:30. But I do have two small kids, and I'd be home at a regular hour. Of course, I'd have to go to bed the same time as my 6-year-old. So it's pretty much a wash."

Don't construe this uncertainty as a lack of aggressiveness or ambition. CBS correspondent Mike Wallace is his father, and the genes are there. He's also been influenced by his stepfather, Bill Leonard, president of CBS News.

"From my father, I gained a sense of energy, a striving to do the best you can. From my stepfather, I got a sense of the long haul, that it's not a 100-yard dash; it's a marathon, and what counts most is the general quality of your work."

Wallace says he began living with the Leonards when he was 9, but his father was always around. "It wasn't a spice thing. My mother met Bill after my parents divorced. It was all very civilized.

They like and respect each other, and I grew up feeling I had two fathers."

It was almost preordained that he would follow their footsteps. "There was no pressure, but the world of journalism was always around and I guess it would have been impossible not to be affected."

He remembers, as a boy of 16, the envigorating feeling of fetching coffee for Walter Cronkite at the Republican Convention in 1964. "That's when the bug bit. It sure seemed like a terrific way to make a living."

He went to Harvard and worked at the school's radio station. When he was arrested during a campus demonstration, he was allowed one phone call. He made it to his public. "This is Chris Wallace, reporting from custody," he said.

He worked at the Boston Globe and then to WNBC-TV in New York, where he proved his versatility. He did interviews and the local news inserts at 7:25 and 8:25 on the "Today" show. He eventually made the jump to the big network, where he's done lengthy pieces for the "Nightly News" and NBC's magazine show.

He became most visible in the past year, when, 16 years later, he scooped Uncle Walter and broke the story that George Bush was Ronald Reagan's running mate. That was the high; the low came earlier this year when he rushed onto the air to say President Reagan was undergoing open-heart surgery, which was vastly different from the open-chest surgery doctors were performing.

Hinckley has appeared in the federal courthouse twice before, for a preliminary hearing hours after the shooting and on April 2 when his case was sent to a grand jury after a psychiatrist's preliminary report said he was "presently competent to stand trial."

From that time until being transferred to the Marine brig at Quantico early this month, Hinckley was at the federal correctional facility at Butner, N.C., a cross between a prison and a

There he was examined by psychiatrists for the prosecution, the defense and Chief U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant, who received a report on Hinckley's competency but placed it under seal.

"As far as we have been able to learn, both of their pilots were picked up from the sea and there was no loss of life in that incident," Reagan said. "But it wasn't the first time that they have done things of this kind. We just feel that a principle was involved."

Administration officials said previously that at least one of the two Libyan pilots was believed to have been picked up.

Asked if he had heard from Libyan leader Moammar Kadhafy since the incident, Reagan replied: "No, but I noticed he has not gone home yet. He's still traveling."

The president said he has several options on how to base the MX missile, a major part of his plan to upgrade the nation's strategic weapons system, but has yet to decide.

"I don't know where we're going to put it, but we're going to have it," he declared.

Reagan said his biggest surprise since taking office has been leaks of government information.

"I've gotten so that I address some things in the Cabinet meetings to the chandelier," he quipped. "I'm sure it must have a microphone in it."

But there has been one big pleasant surprise, too, he added: "After all the horror stories about the job, I'm kind of enjoying myself."

cost of borrowing money is persisting at record levels despite a significant decline in the inflation rate.

Inflation is now running just under 10 percent a year, down from 13.3 percent in 1979 and 12.4 percent in 1980. But short-term borrowing rates are sticking at 20 percent or higher and mortgage interest rates have climbed in recent months to a record 17 percent.

Administration economists say the high rates are a painful but necessary side-effect of Reagan's plan to bring inflation down by restricting the growth of the nation's money supply.

This tight-money policy has produced high interest rates, but only temporarily, according to the administration, which insists interest rates are bound to fall sooner or later as inflation continues to recede and as the president's tax cut encourages increased personal savings that can be tapped for lending.

So far, however, high interest rates are persisting longer than the administration had expected, and businesses are starting to hurt.

"High rates are really the dog that has its teeth in a company's legs now," says William C. Dunkelberg, a Purdue University professor who surveys the 500,000 firms that belong to the National Federation of Independent Business.

Withdrawal

rillas and seized or destroyed "high quantities" of land mines, weapons and ammunition. He said eight South African soldiers died in the fighting but that he could not say how many Angolan casualties there were. SAPA said some Angolan units attacked the South Africans but were repulsed.

Viljoen's statement was the first detailed South African comment on the military action, which South African defense spokesmen had described as a follow-up operation against Angolan-based black nationalist guerrillas fighting for South-West Africa's independence from South Africa.

The general disputed Angolan claims that tens of thousands of South African troops had entered the Marxist-ruled country, and that Angolan soldiers resisting the assault destroyed a South African tank.

Angop, the official Angolan news agency, said the Angolan Defense Ministry announced that its troops shot down a South African fighter-bomber and a helicopter Thursday during the second day of bombing attacks to soften up the town of Ngiva for a ground assault.

The dispatch from Luanda, the Angolan capital, said a South African armored column was on the outskirts of Ngiva, 20 miles from the border with South-West Africa (Namibia). It said one tank was destroyed in "violent combat."

Angop also reported that South African planes and troops destroyed the town of Xangongo, 62 miles north of the border, and captured a strategic bridge on the road to Huila province. A spokesman for the South African defense forces refused to comment on the Angolan claims.

A South African newspaper, the Johannesburg Star, said military analysts it did not identify told it the South African forces were attempting to knock out radar installations at the bases in Angola of the South-West African People's Organization, or SWAPO, the army of guerrillas that has been fighting for 15 years to end South African rule in their arid, mineral-rich homeland between South Africa and Angola.

South Africa's white government denied Angola's charge that it sent two armored columns into southern Angola on Monday as the prelude to a large-scale invasion to seize Angolan territory. South Africa said it was a "follow-up operation," like other raids its forces had made in the past to destroy SWAPO bases.

South Africa has administered South-West Africa, or Namibia, as the rest of Africa and the United Nations call it, under a League of Nations mandate given it after World War I. The U.N. Assembly voided the mandate in 1966, but South Africa has refused to give up the territory on its northwest border. The United States, Britain, West Germany, France and Canada have been trying without success to get South Africa and SWAPO to agree on a plan for elections and independence.

Angola's representative at U.N. headquarters in New York delivered a request Thursday for an urgent meeting of the Security Council to demand the withdrawal of all South African forces from Angolan territory.

Only Living Panda Bred In Captivity Leads Sheltered Life

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Five weeks after its birth, the only living panda bred normally in captivity is still leading a sheltered existence, isolated with its mother in an air-conditioned cage and kept away from a multitude of Mexican admirers.

On a closed-circuit TV screen at Mexico City's Chapultepec Zoo, the tiny creature born July 21 looks somewhat like a big white rat. It has grown to 2 pounds 10 ounces, 12 times its weight at birth, and is just over a foot long. But still unable to walk or open its eyes, it lives on its belly, nurses every hour, and struggles futilely twice a day to stand up.

"La Cria is growing normally and doing fine," said Dr. Gabino Vazquez, the zoo's administrator.

La Cria, which means suckling in Spanish, is what the caretakers are calling their baby until the Mexican government decides on a name.

Six zookeepers take turns watching La Cria on the TV monitor around the clock. They refuse to go near the baby, or to put it on public view, until it gets old enough to stray from the mother, Ying-Ying, a milestone expected in December, Vazquez said. Even Pe Pe, the father, is kept in a separate cage.

The precautions are being taken to prevent a repetition of the tragedy that befell the first offspring of Ying-Ying and Pe Pe. Viewed by visitors from the time of its birth on Aug. 11, 1980, it was crushed to death by Ying-Ying eight days later. Veterinarians say the spectators may have made her nervous.

The panda is a black and white mammal of the raccoon family that grows to 300 pounds. There are only about 250 in the world, most of them in the wilds of southern China or northern Burma, the rest in zoos. Successful breeding in captivity may help save them from extinction.

The Chinese have produced at least one cub in captivity by artificial insemination. But Ying-Ying and Pe Pe, gifts of the Chinese government in 1976, are the only pandas that have bred normally in captivity. Mating efforts at the London, Moscow and Washington zoos have failed, although London Zoo officials said this week that their female, Ching Ching, may be pregnant by artificial insemination.

Vazquez warned that pregnancy tests which London Zoo officials said would be done on Ching Ching could endanger the chances for a normal birth "because any testing makes the animal extremely nervous."

Chapultepec Zoo officials didn't test Ying-Ying, but they suspected the baby was coming when she started building a nest of bamboo shoots. They attribute the successful mating to Mexico City's 7,300-foot altitude, similar to that of their native Chinese highlands, and to a high-protein liquid diet that makes their sex hormones work better.

Local Man Arrested On Charges of Theft

Hereford police arrested a 20 year-old man, address unknown, Thursday night after police Sergeant Vernon Hope noticed something awry at Womble Oil Co., 208 S. Main. Taken into custody at the scene was a suspect identified by police as Mike Blankenship.

Blankenship was charged with theft of over $10 and under $20 in the incident which occurred around 9:30 p.m. last night. According to the report Sgt. Hope noticed the man on the premises, and further investigation showed a lock had been cut from one of the gas pumps there. A lock-cutting tool was found in the back of the Blankenship vehicle, and he reportedly admitted taking some gas.

Some youngsters caught eating grapes off vines at the residence of John Claypool, 402 Union, yesterday afternoon were chased from the scene by Claypool who noticed the youths eating the fruit.

Ann Landers

Wants the Best

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a businesswoman, age 47, divorced for 18 years, considered attractive and have been dating a man for four months whose wife left him after 24 years of marriage. The divorce will be final in October.

After Bill's wife left, I was introduced to him by a mutual friend and have grown to love him. He says he loves me, but since he has been married so long he feels he should not be in a hurry to make a commitment.

His friends as well as his two grown children have met me and like me, but they all caution him not to rush into marriage again and to look around.

Although he is quite sure I am perfect for him, Bill feels that perhaps they are right. He wants to date others and make sure he's getting the best woman available, even though he doesn't want to risk losing me.

Should I encourage him to date others to make sure he has found the best woman available, or should I ask him to decide one way or the other? - E.

DEAR E.: By all means, encourage Bill to look around. Tell him you'll be looking too. If he finds someone he likes better, consider yourself lucky he didn't feel obligated to marry you and meet her later.

If Bill shops around and comes back to say, "You're the best," the marriage will be much more solid. You'll both know he wasn't dragged to the altar with a gun in his ribs.

DEAR ANN: Thanks for nothing. I wasted my postage. You told me to take classes, do volunteer work, get involved.

I have taken so many classes that I'm nearly broke. I also go to free events sponsored by the library, the botanical gardens, the natural history museum. What else is there?

From the letter you sent, I gather all I have to look forward to is a life of miserable public service. I seem destined to be one of those wretched lonesome old ladies who eventually sticks her head in the oven - and her friends could never figure out why. Why didn't you level with me and say, "You are doomed. The situation is hopeless, so get used to it?"

I wanted some alternative to dating services and ads in newspapers, but I see there are none. If something terrible happens to me, as a result of answering an ad in a paper or a magazine, I hope you hear about it and realize it was all YOUR fault. - No Fan

DEAR NO FAN: If the tone of your letter to me is an example of the way you approach new friends, I'm not surprised you are lonely. No one wants to be around a person who is hostile, cranky and unpleasant.

I repeat my initial advice: Stay away from lonely hearts clubs and blind ads. They can be dangerous. Better to be lonely than swindled, beat up or dead.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I did the dumbest thing in the world and have been paying for it ever since. I can't eat or sleep or think straight.

I was crazy about this guy I'll call Len. We had a fight three months ago. I was mad as hell, so I wrote a letter to Len's dad and told him what a rotten son he had.

Now no one in the family will speak to me, and Len thinks I am a terrible person. Please tell me how to get over hating myself. - Dumb Bunny

DEAR BUNNY: Write another letter to Len's father and apologize. You may not get the forgiveness you seek, but you'll feel better.

A non-sense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage - What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today in History

Today is Friday, Aug. 28, the 240th day of 1981. There are 125 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On Aug. 28, 1833, the British Parliament banned slavery throughout the British Empire.

On this date: In 1928, an all-party conference in Lucknow, India, voted for dominion status within the British Empire.

In 1973, an earthquake struck southwest of Mexico City, killing 500 people and injuring 1,000. In 1974, two orbiting Soviet spacemen cut short their mission and returned to earth without making a planned space-station linkup.

And in 1977, Syria's President Hafez Assad said he was ready to sign a peace agreement ending the state of war with Israel.

Ten years ago: a Greek ferryboat caught fire in the Adriatic Sea, killing at least 25 of the 1,000 passengers who abandoned ship.

Five years ago: Two U.S.

Air Force Starliner transport planes crashed in separate accidents while trying to land in Britain and Greenland.

One year ago: President Carter unveiled his election-year economic package, calling for a $27.5 billion tax cut in 1981.

Today's birthdays: Actress Ingrid Bergman is 64 years old. Entertainer Donald O'Connor is 56. And baseball star Lou Piniella is 38.

Thought For Today: A wise man changes his mind, a fool never. - Spanish proverb.

Immanuel Church Plans Bible Club

By Ed Brown

"Who am I?" "Why am I here?", and other questions bother young people as well as adults. The new series of Junior Bible Club meetings, beginning Wed. Sept. 9, 6-7:45 p.m. are open to any boys and girls whose parents want them to receive free of charge a basic, thorough course in the main Bible teachings which have been believed and taught since Jesus' time.

Since adolescence is a time of tremendous change, for hundreds of years Christians have preferred to allow boys and girls to start this most important study of their whole life, before entering teen years.

At Immanuel, with parental consent and encouragement, boys and girls 10 through junior high years are invited and enrolled in the Junior Bible Club. The meetings are only during the school year, and there are no meetings when school is out for a holiday.

The Junior Bible Club members learn and enjoy practicing "sword drills" of the Bible books, personalities described in the Bible, as well as great events.

The club organizes, with a president, vice president, secretary, and recreation chairman. There is a play break, when recreation and refreshments may be shared. "Learning, understanding, and living what God says in His Word is basic to this course," says pastor Ed Brown, instructor. No boy or girl is to be pressured to accept anything. "The 'God is for You' series, now acclaimed in churches across several states, is the course of study for one year. The other is the summary of Bible teachings called "Small Catechism."

The adult bible discussion also begins, God willing, Wed. Sept. 9, at 8:00 p.m. The group, if small, is to meet in pastor Brown's study. The discussions are informal. Questions are welcomed. Answers will come, if they can be found, from the Bible. Brown is convinced that the Bible is God's truth in every word and statement, and that God speaks to our daily needs and offers what we need for daily life. Immanuel congregation is committed to the same belief.

The adult Bible discussion is to meet for 17 times, each time with a different topic. "How did things begin?" "How did trouble start?" "How does God teach today to get out of trouble or void it?" "How can I be sure of being forgiven by God?" "How can I know there is a place in heaven for me? What did Jesus and His word say directly about the Lord's Supper, baptism, the end of the world, and many other vital subjects are to be discussed. "Come," says pastor Brown. "Try us out."

Coffee Bean Diet Inhibits Cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — A diet rich in coffee beans inhibits the growth of cancer tumors in experimental animals, researchers at the University of Minnesota Medical School have found.

Luke K.T. Lam said Thursday at a meeting of the American Chemical Society it is too early to tell whether coffee inhibits cancers in people.

The researchers fed a diet consisting of 20 percent green coffee beans to a group of laboratory rats and the same diet without the coffee beans to another group of rats.

The animals were injected with a potent carcinogen that causes breast tumors. Those fed the coffee-bean diet developed fewer than half as many tumors as the rats on the beanless diet, Lam said. Lam's work is part of an effort by Lee Wattenberg of the University of Minnesota to find substances in the diet that block the development of cancer.

"Human beings are being bombarded with carcinogens day in and day out," Lam said. The researchers, trying to discover why more people don't die as a result of exposure to those carcinogens, decided to look at diet.

They previously reported cabbage and brussel sprouts contain substances that inhibit cancer.

In their research with coffee beans, the researchers ruled out caffeine as the agent responsible for the tumor inhibition, Lam said, and eventually traced the effect to a chemical called kahwiol palmitate. Other chemicals also seemed to play a role, Lam said, but that one was the most active.

Lam said the chemical appears to be related to a jump in an anti-cancer enzyme found in many animals and people.

The researchers studied the effect of other substances on the enzyme, called glutathione S-transferase. They found roasted coffee beans also stimulated its production but not as much as green coffee beans.

Instant coffee and instant decaffeinated coffee had an even smaller effect, Lam said.

If the scientists could prove the jump in the enzyme was responsible for the reduction in the rats' breast tumors, it would make it easier to screen foods for their anti-cancer effect, Lam said.

Meanwhile, a different group of specialists warned that a March report by Harvard researchers linking coffee drinking with cancer of the pancreas should not be taken too seriously because the research was poorly done.

The objections to the study, from a Yale team headed by Dr. Alvan R. Feinstein, were spelled out in today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"I am persuaded that the study hasn't adequately adhered to scientific principles," said Dr. Ralph Horwitz, a Yale team member.

Morris May Not Be Aaround

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Garrett Morris, Southwestern Bell's enemy on the Public Utility Commission, might not be around to cast his traditional dissent when PUC rules on the phone company's latest rate hike request.

Morris' six-year term ends Monday. He wants another term, but as a Democrat who has been active in high-level campaigns, his chances of reappointment by Republican Gov. Bill Clements seem slim.

"I have enjoyed the service and would appreciate consideration for reappointment," Morris told Clements in a July letter.

Clements' brief reply said, "Presently, I have not made a decision with respect to this appointment but will certainly consider your desire to be reappointed."

Tobin Armstrong, Clements' appointment secretary, said Morris would serve past the Monday deadline, until a new appointment is made.

Consumer groups hesitate to hail Morris, 66, as a champion of the ratepayers, but they do acknowledge Morris has cast some memorable dissents on the three-member board. Morris, who served as the commission's first chairman when it opened in 1975, endeared himself to Ma Bell detractors in January when he said, "I would deny the rate increase in period, in toto."

He was outvoted 2-1 and Bell got a $114 million increase.

"I have thought we could do a better job on regulating Southwestern Bell. I thought we allowed them too much in the last two rates cases," he said in a recent interview.

Bell is back before the commission now, seeking a record $469.8 million increase. The second week of what could be a six-week hearing before a PUC examiner opens Monday.

Is Morris, a veteran of three other state boards, a consumer champion? Not really, says Carol Barger of Consumers Union.

"I think he has been one of the more creative members we've seen on the commission," she said. "On the one hand he's been helpful to us. On the other hand he has not been able to garner that second vote."

Former Commissioner Al Erwin said that's Morris' biggest problem.

"Garrett does have very strong opinions ... the only thing lacking is an ability to try to convince someone else that he is correct," Erwin said.

Clements' file on the $50,900 post includes about three other applicants.

Several PUC watchers tabbed Texaco lawyer George Schalles of Houston as a possible front-runner.

However, the business of predicting appointments is much less than an exact science.

Schalles, a Republican and former PUC assistant general counsel, applied in 1979 when Clements picked Moak Rollins of Austin to replace Erwin, who resigned. Schalles, 33, told Clements in a letter that since then he has "remained closely involved in energy regulatory matters at both the state and federal levels."

Schalles' application is backed by recommendations from Pat Oles of Clements' staff, who said a Clements' appointee to another state board "strongly recommends him."

"He was tops on PUC staff," Oles' memo said.

Other applicants for the post include Robert Wright, energy manager for Union Carbide in Victoria, and Sloan Kirk Jr., a San Saba rancher.

Muggings of Foreigners Bad For Business in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "German Tourists Attacked." "Youth Gang Robs Chinese Tourists." "British Woman Wounded."

The dismaying headlines point up a problem which has seriously tarnished San Francisco's glittering reputation: its all-important tourists are getting mugged.

Most of the attacks are occurring in the city's Western Addition, a high crime area of rundown Victorian houses, vacant lots and low-income housing projects that lies in the path running from the well-trafficked downtown area to the lush and popular Golden Gate Park.

This month, for the first time, police are breaking down statistics to show how many tourists become victims of violent crimes in the Western Addition. Their first sampling showed that 28 tourists — 17 of them from foreign countries — were robbed in the first nine days of August.

"Going in there is like going into a war zone," said officer Mike Farnham, who regularly patrols the area. "And sending some innocent tourist in there thinking he's out for a walk to Golden Gate Park is like turning a kitten loose on the freeway."

Tourists, particularly foreign tourists, are easy marks for the bands of youths who strike like urban pirates and disappear into the low-income housing projects in the area, officials say.

"Criminals would rather rob a tourist," Rotea Gilford of the Mayor's Criminal Justice Council said. "They know the victims are not going to be here to testify against them, and the chances of being prosecuted are less."

Tourists are also lucrative targets. One family of German tourists lost passports, airline tickets home, $150 in cash, $1,500 in travelers checks and a valuable camera.

Sometimes they lose more. A British woman needed surgery after being shot in the chest and left arm during a holdup. This month, an 18-year-old German girl was beaten and raped by a young man who had befriended her after she got off a bus.

Once tourists walk among the housing projects along Fulton and McAllister streets, "they're gone," said Deputy Police Chief James Ryan. "We've had a number of purse snatches and muggings, situations where our men on stakeout have seen the crime go down a quarter of a block away. It wasn't close enough; the crooks still got away."

The problem, police say, is that visitors simply are not aware of the danger that lurks in the Western Addition.

"Tourists are not asking for advice at their hotel or finding out where they can go that is safe," said police spokesman Henry Friedlander. "Somewhere at the hotel desk they should be told, 'If you go out, let us make some recommendations.'"

Some hotels may actually be adding to the problem by handing out maps that inadvertently lead tourists into trouble. One map distorts the two-mile distance between the Civic Center and Golden Gate Park, making it look like a 10-minute stroll.

Another map appears to reduce the distance to four blocks. In fact, the route to the park is 21 blocks long and runs right through the Western Addition and the dangerous Fillmore District.

Chet Rhodes, marketing director of the San Francisco Conventions and Visitors Bureau, says bureau maps are now drawn to scale and advises that tourists should check with hotels or the bureau if they are planning a walk.

News about tourist muggings is the last thing San Francisco needs now. Tourism, the city's biggest business, was off 6.9 percent overall last year. This year, foreign tourism is down 20 percent, said George Kirkland, executive director of the visitors bureau. He added that it isn't clear how much is due to unfavorable monetary exchange rates and how much to reports of violence.

"I don't believe the violence has increased, but I think media coverage has, and as that happens, it's very bad," Kirkland said.

"It think it's bound to hurt tourism unless we can show that we are doing something about it and that a lot of the attention it's getting is not justified," Gilford said.

Gilford's council has been talking with representatives with the Western Addition and plans a "massive meeting" soon with community leaders and residents to examine the problem.

And police have "definitely escalated our manpower in the area," Friedlander said. When officers see people who look like tourists or appear to be lost, he said, they offer directions and advice.

Crew Repairing Bad Structural Welds

HOUSTON (AP) — A crew has been working for months to repair welding flaws in structural steel delivered to the South Texas Nuclear Project, a spokesman says.

The bad welds may cost $1 million to repair, said Don Beeth, nuclear information director for Houston Lighting and Power.

The flaws were in structural steel, mostly large I-beams, delivered to the project by the American Bridge Division of U.S. Steel Corporation, Beeth said Thursday.

Houston Lighting and Power is the controlling partner in a four-member team building the nuclear project near Bay City, 70 miles southwest of Houston.

"We consider it a significant problem in terms of cost and magnitude, but not in terms of safety," Beeth said of the welding flaws. "Most of the material was not installed in buildings but was still in the laydown yard."

The beams held several thousand welds, but Beeth said he did not know what percentage had been found defective. He said a crew from Brown & Root, the project's chief contractor, has been working for months to repair the bad welds.

"We understand the material was adequately inspected by American Bridge and customer's representatives, and was found by the customer's representatives to meet the customer's specifications," an American Bridge spokesman said.

Examiner 'Sorry' For Wrong Suicide Ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — A county medical examiner who issued a mistaken murder-suicide ruling that took 19 months of investigation to overcome has told the Harris County Commissioners Court that he regrets the error.

Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk issued the ruling in a 1979 case, theorizing that Diana Wanstrath shot her husband, John, and 14-month-old adopted son, then turned the gun on herself.

"I'm truly sorry," Jachimczyk told the panel Thursday. "I can assure you it was not an off-the-cuff decision. It was not an arbitrary decision. And for sure it was not a capricious decision or a malicious decision."

Allen Wayne Janeka has since been convicted of capital murder in the baby's slaying. In a related case, Markham Duff-Smith, accused of hiring Janeka, was convicted of capital murder for paying for his mother's 1975 slaying.

The prosecution argued that Duff-Smith plotted to inherit the Wanstraths' wealth.

The apology came after friends of Mrs. Wanstrath, angered over the damage done to her reputation by the erroneous initial ruling, demanded an investigation of the medical examiner's action.

Seargeant Not So Nervous For Second Baby Delivery

BALCH SPRINGS, Texas (AP) — Becky Cook says she never planned on natural childbirth, but then she probably wouldn't anticipate delivering in the back seat of a car with a police sergeant for a midwife.

Sgt. B.W. Smith said he was beginning to feel like a veteran after the infant girl was born Wednesday. Two years ago, he delivered another baby in the driveway of a Balch Springs home.

"I was a little more nervous about that one," he said. "I felt more comfortable with this birth since I knew I had done it before."

Three hours before gave birth, Mrs. Cook said she went to St. Paul Hospital in nearby Dallas.

She said after nurses told her the pains were from false labor, her family drove her to the home of in-laws in Balch Springs.

But she said the pains persisted, so her husband, Michael, tried to drive her to the hospital but got only as far as the police station.

"I kept saying, the baby's coming soon, the baby's coming soon," Mrs. Cook recalled. "But he (Smith) was very calm. He looked at me and said, 'Well, if it does, it won't be my first delivery.'"

Mrs. Cook gave birth to a 6-pound, 4-ounce girl, named Sherry Deanne at 2:42 a.m. and then mother in child were taken by ambulance to the hospital.

"I hadn't planned on natural childbirth, but he (Smith) did just fine," Mrs. Cook said. "He seemed to know just what he was doing."

The first equals sign denoted by = was used by Robert Record in his algebra text The Whetstone of Witte, London, 1557. He chose the symbol because "no two things can be more equal" than two parallel straight lines.

The doctors even said he did a great job."

Valenzuela Back in Groove; Mets Rally to Beat Houston

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Fernando Valenzuela, already in the running for National League Rookie of the Year, the Cy Young Award and Most Valuable Player, could even make a case for Comeback Player of the Year if that award allowed turnarounds within the same season.

The sensational Mexican left-hander had been mired in a terrible slump after pitching five shutouts and compiling an 8-0 record and a 0.50 earned run average in his first eight starts this year. But in his next eight outings, his figures were 1-4 with a 6.51 ERA.

Now he is pitching again like he did in April, winning his last two starts, including a 6-0, four-hit victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday night. He also had 10 strikeouts, giving him 137 for the season, the most in the majors, as he improved his record to 11-4.

In other NL games, New York edged Houston 3-2, Montreal bombed Cincinnati 12-0, St. Louis nipped San Diego 3-2 in 13 innings and San Francisco trimmed Pittsburgh 5-4 in 13 innings.

Valenzuela may have slumped a bit after his tremendous start, but he never lagged as a drawing card.

Thursday night's game was his eighth start at Dodger Stadium, and his eighth sellout crowd at home, with 48,191 attending. Valenzuela is 5-1 pitching at home.

Ron Cey drove in three runs with a bases-loaded triple in the seventh inning and Steve Garvey, who has seven RBI in two games, knocked in two with a pair of singles.

Randy Martz, 4-6, pitched the first five innings and absorbed the loss.

Valenzuela, allowed only one runner past first in improving his overall ERA to 2.63.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the second when Bill Russell doubled, took third on the first of Valenzuela's two singles and scored on an infield out.

In the fifth, Garvey singled home two runs after an error by Cubs shortstop Ivan DeJesus.

Mets 3, Astros 2
New York rallied for two runs in the eighth inning on a run-scoring single by Frank Taveras and a game-winning double by Hubie Brooks to beat Houston.

Alex Trevino started the Mets rally with a one-out single off Houston started Joe Niekro, who was replaced by Joe Sambito. Trevino stole second and came home when Taveras singled, tying the game, before Brooks' double.

Tony Scott and Kiko Garcia singled home Houston's runs in the third inning.

Expos 12, Reds 0
Montreal won its third straight over Cincinnati, outscoring the Reds 27-1 in the series, as Ray Burris pitched a one-hitter for eight innings.

Cincinnati's only hit was a seventh-inning single by Ken Griffey, and Burris went on to his sixth victory in 11 decisions, although Jeff Reardon pitched the ninth.

Rookie Terry Francona knocked in the first three runs of his major league career with two singles, and John Milner hit a two-run homer and Warren Cromartie a two-run single in Montreal's six-run third inning.

Steelers, Chargers, Bills Favored in AFC Races

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

"It's just a brief interruption," Joe Greene was saying last year as the Pittsburgh Steelers were bowing out of the playoff picture for the first time since 1971.

Was it just that, or was it the end of an era?

We think Greene was right (we tend not to argue with 6-foot-4, 260-pound people, anyway). The Steelers, beset in 1980 by enough injuries to stock your average infirmary, will return to prominence in 1981, beating the Cleveland Browns (barely) to the top of the American Conference's Central Division while the Houston Oilers take a nosedive.

In the East, the Buffalo Bills will prove that 1980 was no fluke. Even without the services of top draft choice Booker Moore, suffering from a nerve disease, the Bills will trip up the often-confounding New England Patriots and win another division title.

In Oakland, the Raiders fans still have their team. Four months from now, will they still want it? The defending Super Bowl champions are due for a fall this year every bit as rapid as their rise of a year ago. And the San Diego Chargers, with a rushing game to go with their passing and a defense bolstered by, of all things, a new coach, should have the AFC West all to themselves.

Just how badly does Terry Bradshaw want to win the fifth Super Bowl ring the Steelers talked about last year? Remember, he was all too happy to chuck pro football until "The Stockers," his proposed TV series, crashed.

If he's still got that drive — on the field, that is — if he and the rest of Pittsburgh's key players (John Stallworth, Jon Kolb, Franco Harris, Mike Webster, Sidney Thornton, etc.) can stay healthy for a whole year, the offense will regain its stature as one of the league's fiercest. And if

Cards 3, Padres 2
George Hendrick gave St. Louis an early lead with a two-run double and then won the game with his 15th homer in the top of the 13th.

Hendrick's climactic homer came off San Diego's John Curtis, 2-6. Jim Kaat, 6-2, pitched the final 21-3 innings for the Cardinals, allowing one hit.

St. Louis had a 2-0 lead and Bob Forsch had a three-hit shutout after seven innings, but the Padres sent the game into extra innings with runs in the eighth and ninth on run-scoring singles by Randy Bass and Broderick Perkins.

Giants 5, Pirates 4
Jack Clark knocked in four runs with a three-run double and a solo homer. The home run won the game in the 13th inning. Clark hit a 3-1 pitch from Don Robinson, 0-2, over the center-field fence for his 11th homer, handing Pittsburgh its fourth straight loss.

Joe Morgan's one-out homer in seventh had snapped a 3-3 tie, but the Pirates tied it in the ninth on Jason Thompson's single, two groundouts and a single by Omar Moreno.

Pete Redfern, 4-7, threw a lose games that shouldn't even be close. And losing one of its best offensive weapons, tight end Russ Francis, can't help matters.

The Jets' defense is still one of the league's most inviting, particularly to those quarterbacks who like to throw long. Richard Todd, more self-assured and with a more wide-open offense to direct, should get them back to 500 or so.

The Dolphins are in transition, David Woodley handing off to Andra Franklin on offense and a bunch of new names coming together on defense. If Don Shula, a master rebuilder if there ever was one, can piece together a sound offensive line, Miami may pull off a few surprises. Don't expect any from Baltimore, though. Bert Jones will put the points in the board, but not the three or four touchdowns the Colts will give up each week.

Dan Fouts will probably throw for his usual 4,000 yards and Kellen Winslow, Charlie Joiner, Ron Smith and (when he returns) John Jefferson will catch their pass of passes. And with Chuck Muncie on the roster the entire year San Diego may also have its first 1,000-yard rusher since Don Woods turned the trick as a rookie in 1974.

Much of Oakland's success in 1980 — from the day Jim Plunkett became a starter until the day he was named Most Valuable Player in the Super Bowl — was built on that intangible called emotion.

Kansas City, the ultimate ground-game team a few years ago when the Wing-T returned to the game's lexicon, will rejoin the airwaves this year. And with a defensive unit coming together, the Chiefs could make things interesting.

Dan Reeves won't have the success in Denver that he did in Dallas with a multiple-set offense. Not this year, anyway.

Twins, Red Sox Win; Rangers Rap Brewers

OK students, the lesson for tonight is: there's no such thing as a sure thing.

The Detroit Tigers and Oakland A's learned that the hard way Thursday night and the beneficiaries were the Minnesota Twins and Boston Red Sox.

The Tigers, coasting along behind Dan Petry, leading Minnesota 3-0 heading into the bottom of the ninth, saw the Twins use an awesome attack of three walks, an error, a fielder's choice and a single to score four times and beat the Tigers for the first time in nine tries this season.

The A's built a 5-1 lead at Boston, only to see the Red Sox rally and take a 6-5 victory on Dwight Evans' two-run homer in the eighth.

Elsewhere, it was Cleveland 12, Seattle 2; Texas 5, Milwaukee 1; Baltimore 6, California 2; the Chicago White Sox 3, the New York Yankees 1 in a game called in the bottom of the eighth because of rain, and Kansas City 11, Toronto 5.

Twins 4, Tigers 3
Pete Mackanin delivered a two-out, two-run single to win the game. Petry walked Rob Wilfong leading off the inning. Gary Ward reached on an error by Lou Whitaker and, with a 2-0 count on Sal Butera, Tigers relief ace Kevin Saucier took over and completed the walk, loading the bases.

Saucier then walked Lan Faedo to force in one run and another scored on Dave Engle's fielder's choice. Mackanin singled to right-center off Dan Tobik. Faedo scored easily from second and Engle came all the way around from first, barreling into catcher Bill Fahey.

Fahey held onto the ball and the throw from right fielder Kirk Gibson appeared to be in... but plate umpire Jim Evans said Fahey never actually applied a tag to Engle.

Pete Redfern, 4-7, threw a six-hitter to win for the first time since May 3. He had lost six straight.

Gibson homored for Detroit.

Red Sox 6, A's 5

Evans' 15th homer of the season was his third of the year with a 3-0 count. It followed a walk to Jerry Remy.

Oakland scored three runs in the first inning on an RBI single by Cliff Johnson, a fielder's choice grounder and Shooty Babitt's single. The A's added two runs in the fourth on Mike Heath's homer.

Boston's first run came on a triple by Tony Perez and Carl Yastrzemski's infield groundout in the second. With one out in the seventh, Rick Miller singled and took third as Remy singled. Jeff Jones replaced Langford and walked Evans, filling the bases.

Indians 12, Mariners 2
Cleveland took a 2-0 lead against loser Mike Parrott, 3-6, in the first inning on Toby Harrah's two-run triple. The first of Jorge Orta's two-run doubles and Mike Hargrove's RBI single made it 5-0 in the second.

Von Hayes' RBI triple, Tom Verzyer's two-run single, Orta's second two-run double, an RBI double by Hargrove and a Harrah sacrifice fly accounted for a seven-run third for the Indians.

Indians pitcher Bert Blyleven and Seattle's Randy Stein engaged in a series of attempted beanballs in the third and fourth innings. Stein was ejected and Blyleven warned by umpire Terry Cooney.

"After being warned, you go out and keep everything low and away," said Blyleven, 9-5.

During the Indians' third a Stein pitch nearly hit Ron Hassey. Blyleven came back in the fourth and barely missed Bruce Bochte, then nailed Tom Paciorek with a change-up.

In the next inning, Stein sailed a pitch several feet behind Tom Verzyer and was thrown out of the game by Cooney.

Taiwan Goes After 5th Little League Title

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Taiwan goes after its fifth consecutive Little League World Series title Saturday against Tampa, Fla., in a pairing of last year's finalists.

Tampa rightfielder Derrick Pedro cut down a tying run at the plate Thursday to preserve an 11-10 victory over Barrington, Ill., that sent the Floridians into the finals of the 35th annual series.

Facing the South regional winners Saturday will be Taiwan's Tai-Ping team, which defeated Trail, British Columbia, 16-0, in another game Thursday.

Tampa's Belmont Heights squad lost 4-3 to Taiwan's Hau Lian team in the series final last year, which marked Taiwan's fourth straight victory and ninth since 1969.

Royals 11, Blue Jays 5

Willie Aikens drove in four runs, keying a five-run fourth inning off Ron Davis, then the rains came and the game was called before that inning was completed. Dave Winfield's double had knocked in New York run in the top of the eighth.

White Sox 3, Yankees 1
Greg Luzinski blasted a three-run homer in the eighth inning off Ron Davis, then the rains came and the game was called before that inning was completed. Dave Winfield's double had knocked in New York run in the top of the eighth.

Strong Field Set for City Golf Tourney

Another strong field combined with a freshly-manicured course and relatively fast greens should provide an exciting two days of play when the Hereford Men's City Golf Tournament is held this weekend at the John Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Course pro Mike Horton says the course is in good shape following recent rains, and that the greens are "fairly fast" for city linksmen aiming to take away the title won by Kelly Kitchens last year.

Kitchens overcame a two-shot deficit on the last three holes of play last year to nip defending champ James Salinas by one shot. Kitchens parred the last three holes for a 143, 36-hole total, while Salinas slumped to a trio of bogies over the final three holes for a 144 total.

Those two sharpshooters will again be challenged by a field which includes Terry

Russell, who carded a 146 last year in placing third in the tourney.

Horton said 25 golfers have already signed up for the tourney this year, and more are expected to do so before the deadline this afternoon. Entry fee into the tournament is $30, and golfers will be flighted according to handicap. Medal play will be used to determine champions in all flights.

Horton expects to have "four or five" flights this year for the tournament which covers the 6,480-yard, par 71 course located along Tierra Blanca Creek.

Play will begin between 10-11:30 both days of the tourney, and merchandise prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Other flight winners last year include Conrad Mullin (158) in the First Flight, Steve Nieman (167) in the Second Flight, and N.D. Kelso (169) in the Third Flight.

Cowboys Expect Oilers to Use Run

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys fully expect the Houston Oilers to jump back into their ground-oriented I-Formation for Saturday night's National Football League exhibition game in Texas Stadium.

"We wouldn't be surprised to see them in a two tight-end attack, even with John Reaves starting at quarterback," said the Cowboys' Ernie Allen, an assistant coach who scouts upcoming teams for Coach Tom Landry.

"With the Snake (Kenny Stabler) coming back you've got to figure they will want to start getting their blocking down for the regular season," he said.

With Gifford Nielsen out at least a month, John Reaves is expected to start for the Oilers.

Stabler, who came out of retirement to sign a two-year contract, will be in uniform and available, although he probably won't play.

"I made my decision to come back after Gifford was hurt," said Stabler. "This team deserves to win. The players on this team want to win really badly, and I hope I can help them."

Stabler helped the Oilers to an 11-5 record last year under Coach Bum Phillips, who now is at New Orleans.

New Coach Ed Biles, who was the Oilers' defensive coordinator under Phillips, designed a split backfield for this season which was designed for a more balanced pass-run attack.

All-pro running back Earl Campbell was not expected to carry as big a load as he had in the past.

However, Stabler's re-emergence signals the return to a ground control offense with percentage, short passes.

Jim Shofner, the former head coach at Texas Christian and now Oiler offensive coordinator, is re-drawing the Houston offense.

The Oilers are 1-2 in the preseason, the same record the Cowboys have compiled.

Houston lost 27-17 last week to Tampa Bay as Nielsen suffered his shoulder injury, and Dallas whipped Pittsburgh 24-14 behind the passing of quarterback Danny White.

The annual Governor's up matchup will be nationally televised and already is a sellout.

Dallas leads the annual preseason series with the Oilers 10-4, including victories the past two years of 20-13 and 16-13, respectively.

The Cowboys are 2-1 over Houston in the regular season.

Rutledge Sparks Rams Over Vikes

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) -

Reserve quarterback Jeff Rutledge came off the bench to direct second-half scoring drives as the Los Angeles Rams came from behind to defeat the Minnesota Vikings 34-31 in final exhibition game for both teams Thursday.

An Anaheim stadium crowd of 60,141 saw Rutledge, a three-year veteran from Alabama, complete seven of nine passes for 156 yards and two touchdowns as the Rams closed out their preseason with a record of 2-2.

Rutledge, pressed into duty

Walter M. Schirra Jr. was the only astronaut to fly in the Mercury, Gemini and Apollo space programs.

The state of Hawaii creeps toward Japan at a rate of about four inches a year, four times the rate of the North American continental drift.

Rubbing gold leaf with onion juice brightens it.

when starter Pat Haden went to the sidelines with leg cramps midway through the third quarter, fired touchdown passes of 38 yards and 22 yards to Preston Denard to put the Rams ahead for good.

This was Rutledge's first appearance since receiving a sprained neck in the game with the New England Patriot Aug. 10.

Up to that point, the Viking had established a 17-7 lead behind the play of linebacker Matt Blair, who returned an interception 99 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter, recovered a fumble in the third quarter to set up another Viking touchdown and blocked a Los Angeles extra-point attempt.

Steve Dils, who replaced starter Tommy Kramer after the Viking quarterback injured his knee, brought the Viking offense to life in the fourth quarter which fell just short.

Dils hit third-year tight-end Bob Briar with a 5-yard pass to make the score 34-24, and then running back Sam Harrell dove over from the one to bring the Viking within three points.

Dils finished the game completing 17 for 34 for 195 yards.

Dallas, Detroit, Rams Picked for NFC Titles

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Dick Vermeil showed the world - until last Jan. 25, anyway - that there's room in this world for the good old-fashioned work ethic. But will it work again, or will some other National Conference team reach the NFC graveyard, better known as the Super Bowl?

Barring an upset of gargantuan proportions, Vermeil's Philadelphia Eagles and the Dallas Cowboys will battle their way, unimpeded by the rest of the division, toward the championship of the East. The guess from this perspective is that it is the Cowboys who will get there, leaving a playoff wild card for the NFC's defending champs.

But that's not so bad. After all, the Oakland Raiders didn't do badly with the one they were dealt last year.

That's not to say, of course, that the Cowboys or Eagles will be the only challengers for the NFL title. There's the matter of the NFC's Central and West Divisions.

The Central is...well...sort of the poor relation of the conference. Even its champions are ragamuffins compared to the rest of the playoff teams. This year will be no different. The Detroit Lions will win the title. But they'll be long gone by the time their Silverdome home hosts the Super Bowl.

In the West, where Los Angeles is playing a Pat hand in Pat Haden, look for the Rams to regain the title they owned for seven consecutive seasons before Atlanta emerged as a contender. The Falcons will get the other wild card.

With one full season of unquestioned leadership under his belt, Danny White should be even more effective a quarterback than he was in 1980, when his 28 touchdown passes were exceeded only by Steve Bartkowski's for Atlanta and Vince Ferragamo's (now in Canada) for Los Angeles.

Running back Tony Dorsett could have his best year ever, if his attitude toward off-season preparation is any yardstick.

Defensively, the loss of free safety Randy Hughes certainly hurts, but it won't be anything resembling a fatal blow. The front four can be among the best in the league. After what Coach Tom Landry did with a team in transition last year, coming within one game of a trip to the Super Bowl, he's got to get the nod this time around.

Ron Jaworski "arrived" last year as a leader, and he showed that he could lead the Eagles to victory even without running back Wilbert Montgomery at full strength. He and towering receiver Harold Carmichael will team up again, and tight end Keith Kreple will get his share of passes.

But with fullback Leroy Harris out with a broken arm and the line showing a bit of age, there could be some problems for the offense. None for the defense, unless the zone-oriented secondary gets burned.

Not since the Sonny Jurgensen days have Washington's fans had so much passing to look forward to now that Joe Gibbs, formerly a pilot with Air San Diego, is the head coach. He'll open things up. And what of returning John Riggs plus Joe Washington and Terry Metcalf? If the defense stands up to the early pressure, the 'Skins will make the division race an interesting one for a while.

Ifing Jim Hart and super runner Otis Anderson had a good line in front of them, the Cardinals would command more respect. And if the Giants had a good line and a few running backs behind it, they'd have a chance for their first .500 season in a decade.

As a rookie, Billy Sims was exceptional. Imagine how good he'll be this time, with an offensive line in Detroit which is likely to improve. If Sims wasn't so good, Dexter Bussey (720 yards to Billy's 1,303) might get noticed. Quarterback Gary Danielson notices both. Ninety of his 244 pass completions went to them.

The Lions' defense, dominated by defensive end Al Baker, was spotty last year and Coach Monte Clark hopes to put together a more consistent one. The secondary is young and steady already.

Unless Vince Evans is a flop as the Bears' No. 1 quarterback and unless the departure to Canada of wide receiver James Scott leaves more of a hole than expected Chicago will rebound from its disappointing 7-9 season. Walter Payton is the NFC's Earl Campbell, winning one conference rushing title after another.

With Ahmad Rashad and Sammy White around, it's understandable that Minnesota quarterback Tommy Kramer would rely neman in front of him.

Tampa Bay quarterback Doug Williams still needs a more feathery touch on his passes - and he needs someone to hand off to once in a while. The Bucs' running game went nowhere last year. Injuries have been the scapegoat in Green Bay. If the healthy Packers don't make a move toward respectability, Coach Bart Starr will have to look for another excuse - or another job.

Ferragamo's shadow no longer haunts Haden and the smallish quarterback figures to get a vice grip on the Rams' starting job for a while. He's got star runners, star receivers and an all-star line in front of him. There's no reason for Haden to be anything but exceptional.

The inability to stop the pass - particularly in the final minutes of the playoff game against Dallas - was Atlanta's weak link on defense, and that link may be forged with the arrival of No.1 draft choice Bobby Butler, a likely starter at cornerback. Linebackers Buddy Curry and Al Richardson, sensational rookies a year ago, are the crown jewels of the defense.

Bartkowski passed for a league-high 31 TDs in 1980, throwing to Wallace Francis, Albert Jenkins and Junior Miller, while William Andrews remained the most anonymous 1,000-yard back in the league.

The Saints will no doubt be among the most-watched clubs in the league, not only because they're coming off a 1-15 season but because they've got Bum Phillips as their head coach and running back George Rogers, the NFL's top draft choice.

Akers Hopes No. 2 Grid Rating is Right

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Coach Fred Akers says the 1981 Texas Longhorns are "showing some of the same attitude" in pre-season workouts as the 1977 squad, which finished the regular season No. 1 in the nation.

"If we stay healthy and play up to our potential, we could have as good a football team as we've ever had," Akers said Thursday.

Akers' first Texas team in 1977 was 11-0 - scoring a school record 431 points - before losing to Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl and falling to No. 4.

"I think our team, in general, has the best attitude and more enthusiasm than any since I talked with you before the 1977 season," Akers told sportswriters visiting SWC schools.

Despite temperatures of more than 100 degrees on Texas' artificial turf, Akers said he "had not heard one complaint about how hot it is or how hard the workouts are."

Akers said kicking, especially punting, would be a "big, big, big part of our football team. And at this point, it is suspect until we prove it. Punting hurt us badly last year."

Akers said John Goodson "is the best practice punter in the country," kicking as "far and as high" as former Longhorn Russell Erxleben, who punts for the New Orleans Saints. Goodson, however, was inconsistent last year in averaging 38.2 yards on 58 punts.

Raul Allegre, a transfer from Montana, will do the placekicking, Akers said.

Akers said the "strength of the offense should be the offensive line," which averages 267 pounds and includes four-year starters Terry Tausch and Joe Shearin. Akers said Tausch, 6-foot-4 and 266 pounds, is even "more mobile" than Jerry Sizemore, a former Texas star who starts for the Philadelphia Eagles.

He described as "quite a blow" the apparent academic loss of second-team tight end Rick Hosto, who also was Texas' backup punter. Akers said he would know by Aug. 31 whether Hosto would be eligible.

More experience in the secondary and at end, along with veteran linebackers Bruce Scholtz and Doug Shankle, "should make us a very competitive defensive team," Akers said.

He said Scholtz, 6-6 and 240, "should be as good as anyone (in the nation)."

Akers said Kenneth Sims, 6-6, 265-pound defensive tackle, "unquestionably is the best we've had around here in four years, and if he keeps improving he might be the best we've ever had around here. Really, I think he's the best lineman in the country."

Akers said he hoped the No. 2 pre-season ranking by a national sports magazine "is accurate," but he noted Texas had been rated as low as fifth in its own conference. "You can draw out of a hat" in the SWC among Texas, Baylor, Houston, Southern Methodist, Texas A&M and Arkansas to determine "which is the toughest," he said.

"The team that wins it is going to have to stay healthy," said Akers. "The one who keeps the most players on the field has the best chance to win it."

San Antonio Gains Game on Amarillo

By The Associated Press

Singles by Jerry Benorf and Dale Holman and a passed ball helped the San Antonio Dodgers explode for four runs in the sixth inning Thursday night and take a 9-4 victory to tighten the race for the Texas League Western Division second half title.

The victory moved the Dodgers to within a game of Amarillo with only six games remaining in regular season play. The Dodgers won the first half championship.

The Tulsa Drillers swept a doubleheader from the Shreveport Captains and doubled their lead from two to four games in the race for the second half title in the Texas League Eastern Division. Tulsa took the first game, 8-0, and edged Shreveport, 5-4, in the nightcap. The winner meets Jackson, winner of the first half.

In other Texas League action, Midland edged Amarillo, 7-6, and the Arkansas Travelers shut out the Jackson Mets, 3-0.

Benorf had a two-run single for Amarillo and Holman drove in a run in the sixth inning outburst.

Joe Lansford had a two-run homer for Amarillo.

Gary Wheelock, pitching coach for the Dodgers who was recently activated as a player, was the winning pitcher. He is 1-0. Orel Hershiser pitched the last three innings for San Antonio to pick up his 13th save of the season. Dave Dravecky, 14-5, was the loser.

Ron Darling pitched a four-hit shutout as the Tulsa Drillers whipped Shreveport, 8-0, in the first game of a doubleheader. Darling, top draft pick this year for the Texas Rangers, is 3-2.

FAITH MAKES GOOD NEIGHBORS OF GREAT NATIONS

The boundary line dividing two countries can become a barricade of mutual hostility; but in the case of Canada and the United States it has always served as a bridge of friendship between two peoples with such trust, respect and understanding as to make the celebration of Canada-U.S. Goodwill Week quite unnecessary. Nowhere along the three thousand-mile borderline that spans our continent have security measures ever been needed, and the citizens on both sides may enter and leave each other's land whenever they wish. This is a fine example of the spirit of brotherhood that has been taught by every religious faith, in every land. Wherever you live, you will learn this by attending the Church of your choice.

A living proof to all the world of faith in brotherhood.

-Guy Willis Bilsland

"Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law."

-Romans 13:9, 10
