Senator Asking Release Of Funds

A bill co-sponsored by Senator Bill Sarpalius which would mean additional money for the counties of the Texas Panhandle passed the Senate last Wednesday. Senate Bill 151 will allow the distribution of idle road building funds to counties.

The money, which will amount to $7.3 million for all 254 counties each year, has been left in the lateral road fund since the Board of County and District Road Indebtedness was abolished in 1979. The board was created in 1932 to help counties raise money to build roads. The board was also empowered to distribute the money in the lateral road fund to the counties based on a statutory formula.

Sarpalius explained the reason for the new legislation. "There are two main reasons for this bill. One is that the money is now sitting idle because there is no authorization for the distribution of it. The other is that while the state highway fund has a permanent escalator clause built into it, county road funds have no such protection at the state level."

Distribution of the fund, according to Sarpalius, will be based on a combination of three factors: one-fifth on the basis of county area, two-fifths on the basis of rural population, and two-fifths on county road mileage.

"The 26 counties in our district should fare well under this distribution system, because we have counties with large areas and substantial rural population," he said. Sarpalius also was quick to point out that this bill would not result in any new taxes. Cont. Page 6, Col. 4

Area Merchants Face Check Writing Change

Do you customarily write a check when you go to the local grocery store to shop...or for that car part, gasoline, a new item furniture or a household item? If so, you may have found a difference during the past week to 10 days. You may have had to provide your driver's license information before your check would be accepted.

With more than 100 'bad checks' currently on file in the Muleshoe City Police Department, and many of these found to be next to impossible to file on in court, new check cashing procedures are being instituted in Muleshoe. In the past, a lack of information on the checks has caused a tremendous backlog of checks on file with law enforcement agencies, forcing changes in the check policies followed by local merchants.

Muleshoe's Acting Police Chief Jerry Hicks explains the new check policy in this manner: "Last week, the Muleshoe City Council was informed of the steadily deteriorating check situation here, which affects not only Muleshoe, but each and every city, large and small."

"When we have adequate information available it is not very hard, nor does it take very long, to apprehend the bad check writer. But, when they use a counter check, and do not include any address, and have an illegible signature, the check may be impossible to file for prosecution."

"We are in no manner trying to make it harder for the majority of our citizens who are honest and hard-working, and who have written checks in Muleshoe for years," continued Chief Hicks. "But, in order to cut down on some of the loss to our merchants, a loss which they must invariably pass on to the honest customers who shop with them, we must have a firm policy for writing checks to eliminate the few who consistently write the bad checks."

"At this time, we would like to ask for the continued support of our residents, and your patience, when you are required to take a couple more minutes in your favorite store to show your driver's license new process. Municipal Judge Linda Huckaby has made available at City Hall or the Police Department a memorandum noting the check procedure and policies.

(See Letter, Page 6)

Judge Huckaby informed the merchants that in order for a check to be filed, it must contain a driver's license number or Texas Department of Public Safety Identification Card

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Republican Governor Bill Clements, who has often said he sees no difference between running a large corporation and running state government, last week demonstrated he is going to keep that game-plan to bring unruly Democrats to heel.

And he didn't do a bad job, either, despite indications the Legislature is getting its back up at the former oilfield worker who went on to found one of the world's largest oil drilling companies.

In short shrift, Clements backed down the House and Senate on the issue of an emergency pay raise for state employees... and he tried to grab the momentum from Atty. Gen. Mark White on the issue of racial discrimination in Texas universities.

White was Texas' hero in January after he flew to Washington and stalled off punitive federal action for alleged racial segregation. Following his visit, the U.S. Department of Education agreed to a six-month reprieve to allow Texas to divert more funds to predominantly black colleges.

Perhaps angered that White had stolen a political march on him, Clements declared last week he alone will control future dealings with the Education Department, and he fired off a letter to the Reagan Administration reiterating that point.

Clements apparently was angry at the success of White's mission which saved Texas between $250 to $300 million in federal funds from being cut off. Clements views White as a potential opponent in the 1982 gubernatorial race, and wanted to reserve negotiating action to his own advantage, a source in the Governor's office said.

Emergency Pay Raise

Last week's emergency pay raise bill affected only state employees, but it was significant as the "opening guns issue" between the Legislature and Clements. Clements probably won.

The basic play: Clements had wanted a 3.4 percent pay hike, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby countered with a 6.8 percent figure. Clements settled for a 5.1 percent compromise and vowed to veto a higher figure.

Nevertheless, the emergency pay raise bill by Sen.

Lloyd Doggett passed the Senate at 6.8 percent and was sent to the House. A House Appropriations Committee amended to 5.1 and sent the bill to the House floor for debate. Several attempts failed to jack it higher, until the House finally agreed to 5.1, but with a $75 floor instead of the governor-approved $50 floor. It was a "dare" to veto and the votes to override were apparently almost enough (two-thirds majority).

But the bill was tailored to the Governor's wishes in conference committee, and the confrontation never appeared. Even if Clements had signed the "dare," he could have saved face and state money by postponing the pay raise by a month.

The real losers would have been state employees who depend only on the Legislature for a raise, unlike in private enterprise. As their equivalents in private enterprise will probably agree, a $25 point of difference pales against the vivid background of double-digit inflation.

Agriculture Bills

Already introduced this session are several bills to seek help for Texas agriculture.

A bill by Rep. Bill Keese, D-Somerville, would strengthen the rights of farmers and other landowners in cases where cities and utility companies use eminent domain laws to obtain land of right-of-way easements. Keese complains that some 170 types of governmental bodies have eminent domain rights.

Pete Patterson, D-Brookston, has a bill to keep foreigners from buying farm and ranchland, and to require present alien owners to register their claims with the state.

Patterson is worried about the huge amounts of prime farmland taken out of production, not only by foreigners but by developers and expanding urban areas.

State Senator Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, has authored a bill to outlaw the state inheritance tax which often forces persons who inherit family farms and businesses to sell them to pay the tax.

A farm bill by an urban legislator, Sam Hudson, R-Dallas, would give farmworkers the right to bargain collectively with growers. The bill is being pushed by the Texas Farm Workers Union, a group which often makes below minimum wage. Opponents say farm product prices are so low now that the industry cannot afford a hike in labor costs.

Further design improvements on corn-to-alcohol fuel plants may soon be announced, according to the Department of Energy, which has begun tests on an energy efficient design at a small scale alcohol fuels plant in Idaho. The test plant, using current technology, can be used as the design basis for constructing plants or as a reference for comparison against other fuel producing designs. Corn is the feedstock for distilling 25 gallons of 190 proof alcohol per hour when the plant is operational. The alcohol content will be increased to 200 proof after six months of testing. Operational testing of the fully automated plant will begin early this year, with four-hour per day, single operator maintenance expected. Construction was accomplished with the public sector in mind, using off-the-shelf components. Once testing is completed, data will be available from the DOE free of charge to persons or groups interested in building small plants. Wooley

Take Steps To Obtain Statements

Taxpayers who want to file an earlier tax return for 1980 should take steps now to obtain statements of income, such as Forms W-2, for wages, or Forms 1099, for interest or dividends.

District Coordinator Visits AAUW

Mrs. Carole McGilvary, district coordinator from Hereford visited the Muleshoe Branch of American Association of University Women Monday, February 2 at 7:30.

Guests were Mrs. Kenneth Precure and Mrs. McGilvary.

Often times taxpayers find themselves filing closer to the April 15 deadline than they had originally intended when they could have avoided delay by contacting the issuer of the statements to make sure they are being sent. Receiving these statements earlier and filing before the deadline normally speeds up the issuance of refund checks.

A copy of Form W-2 from each of the taxpayer's employers must accompany his or her return. After February 2, taxpayers who have not received their Forms W-2 should contact their employers and request the form. If taxpayers have not received statements by February 17 they should call their local IRS number of assistance.

While Forms 1099 need not accompany the return, the payment information on them is generally necessary for the taxpayer to complete the return. Taxpayers who are otherwise ready to file should call the issuers of the Forms 1099 to verify the amounts. Taxpayers can rely on their own records, if kept accurately.

Add combined flour, corn meal, baking powder and salt alternately with milk and juice, mixing at low speed on electric mixer just until dry ingredients are moistened and well blended. Stir in peel. Pour into prepared pan; sprinkle with remaining nuts. Bake at 350°F. about 1 hour and 20 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool completely on wire rack. Makes 9x5-inch pound cake.

 --If Alternative 7 is approved, the capital expenditure requirements for Bailey County in the peak year of construction would be $5,413,000 and $1,395,000 for Alternative 8. These figures are in some ways misleading, since they represent the expenditures for the peak year only, and not the total amount of capital expenditures required.

--During the peak year, it is projected that Bailey County will require 537 additional housing units under Alternative 7, and 193 under Alternative 8. Long term projections show that none of these units will be utilized by MX workers after the construction phase.

--School systems in Bailey County will need to hire 26 additional teachers during the construction phase in Alternative 7, or 4 under Alternative 8. These teachers would no longer be needed after construction.

--Alternative 7 would mean the hiring of 8 additional public safety during the number, as well as a current address of the check writer.

The Texas Department of Public Safety Identification Card can be issued to a non-driver, who does not have a driver's license, explained the officers.

Judge Huckaby noted in her letter to the merchants, "We ask that you keep in mind that we are not a collection agency and that you are filing a Criminal Complaint against another person. Each case will be handled according to the Law of the State of Texas. Restitution is not an automatic process."

In the meantime, local officers are asking the co-operation of the residents in Muleshoe, and explain that the temporary inconvenience to the shopper is intended in the future to mean a savings to every shopper.

construction phase, or 1 during the Alternative 8 construction. None of these would be needed following construction.

Alternative 7 would also involve the relocation of approximately 1,400 families living in rural areas. No livable dwelling may be located within a 2,965 foot radius of any of the 4,600 shelters for missiles which would be built under Alternative 7 or the 2,300 shelters planned for this area under Alternative 8. None of these relocations would involve city dwellings. The acquisition of land and the removal of dwellings would be under the direction of the Army Corps of Engineers. There would be attempts made to purchase the property at "fair market value." If such attempts should fail, the property would be condemned and the residents given 90 days to vacate the premises.

"One of the major problems which the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture has with the Impact Study is the attitude taken toward our groundwater resources," according to Chamber Manager John Gulley. According to the study, "...Where irrigation is decreasing it is unlikely that surpluses in water availability will be generated by those declines. It is more likely that production costs associated with competition for water are already reducing the viability of marginal agricultural production thereby decreasing use levels. This problem does not preclude water use for MX in any way, however, since MX represents a high value use which can easily compete for water availability in a free market economy. It does suggest, however, that in many areas MX uses will occur at the expense of irrigation agriculture or other low value uses."

The impact study shows that in the eight years of construction (1981-1989), water use for the MX project will total 82,931 acre/feet in Alternative 7. To put that number into perspective, that is approximately 70 times as much water as was consumed by the City of Muleshoe in 1980.

According to Gulley, another problem was brought out in the hearings on the MX System which were held in Portales in December is that it is expected that the introduction of the large number of workers into the area would result in some drain on the labor market due to the wage scale which would be approximately union scale for manual laborers. There would also be the problem of hiring additional employees during a time of severe labor shortage to handle the additional pressures on businesses.

"There are many unanswered questions concerning what condition our part of the country would be in after the construction phase of such a project is completed. There are a number of indications to be found in this study that we would all be in for a considerable amount of adjustment economically and socially if this system were to be located in our area," according to John Gulley.

Additionally, SB 151 appropriates all the money which has accumulated in the lateral road fund since the last distribution and the $7.3 million to be allocated to the fund for fiscal year 1982. Thus the total amount to be distributed, according to the formula, for the fiscal year 1982 will be in excess of 120 million for all 254 counties.

The county president said the Texas Farm Bureau was instrumental in passage of the bill limiting taxation of agricultural land in the last Legislature and will be working to protect farmers' interests this session.

Part of the Farm Bureau Week official proclamation, signed by Judge Williams, reads:

TV COMMENTARY
 By Bente Christensen

WALTER Cronkite bows out as the CBS Evening News anchorman next month. Though CBS continues to lead NBC and ABC in the evening news audience ratings, the margin is down and the arrival of Dan Rather causes speculation.

NO matter how one cuts it, Rather is not a fatherly figure like Cronkite and represents a gamble by CBS. Cronkite's news program seemed to be that of an authority, and seemed almost official-such was his image.

RATHER, however, is a brash pusher. The question is whether CBS can hold its lead with that kind of a personality. Both NBC and ABC have hired news department personnel from CBS for two years, and see this as their chance.

THOUGH this year's Superbowl game drew an audience estimated at about 100,000 million (seeing a minimum of a few minutes of the game), the starting time of the telecast has brought criticism.

SOME fans, hearing or seeing that the telecast would begin at four p.m., figured play would begin shortly thereafter. But there was a two-hour preliminary, filled with commercials. Too much! Of course, the network (NBC this year) liked it, and sold plenty of commercial time.

TED Turner's TV network featured a Saturday night football pick-the-winner show this past season. On the final telecast Alex Hawkins, the former pro, was among those asked to select the winner of Superbowl XV.

HAWKINS said it would be no contest, that Oakland would make the big plays and be relaxed, would run away with the game. That's what happened. (The Eagles were favored by three points.)

BBI Informs

Local Businesses

The BBB of the South Plains has launched a new effort to try and curb the large number of errors in advertising, relevant to the Truth in Lending Act. The BBB has been contacted by Juretta Smith, Regional Federal Trade Commission in Dallas, and informed it that the FTC plans to crack down on abuses of this law. The greatest errors locally is the failure of businesses to reveal all the terms of a loan offer when they use one of the "kicker" terms in an ad. Other problems include the quoting of add-on rates and the use of the abbreviation, APR, for annual percentage rate.

The BBB hopes to inform local businesses through direct contact of their oversights and hopefully keep local businesses from getting into trouble with the FTC who sometimes do more than just issue a warning.

NEW YORK -- Standard Oil Co. of California, Shell Oil Co. and Union Oil Co. of California raised wholesale heating oil, diesel fuel and gasoline prices 1 to 3 cents a gallon following similar increases a day before by several large refiners.

Healthy Beef Cattle Need More Protein

While protein supplementation is one of the largest out-of-pocket expenses in a cow-calf operation, it is one of the most necessary supplemental feed ingredients when other feed sources are low in protein.

Animals with low protein diets lose their appetite, develop a rough appearance, become weak, and have lowered resistance to disease. The end result is reduced growth, reproduction and calf weights, points out Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The need for protein supplementation results as nutrient composition in forage changes with the seasons. Therefore, nutrient intake varies. Once grass stops growing and loses its green, lush appearance, it becomes coarse and fibrous. Crude protein contents may fall from 12 to four percent or less, and forage dry matter digestibility may drop from 65 to 35 percent. These nutrient compositions vary greatly over time and supply cattle completely different diets due to seasonal changes.

Spring and summer diets are usually adequate for beef cattle needs while fall and winter diets are lacking in nutrient composition contends Tanksley.

Cattle cannot eat enough poor quality forages to obtain needed nutrients. Winter grass is old and fibrous, low in nutrients, and more slowly digested. Thus, consumption is lowered and the animal receives even less nutrients as a result of lowered intake.

Added protein increase digestion of fibrous material, notes Tanksley. It not only helps balance an animal's protein needs, but increases forage intake due to increased digestibility of the forage.

Since protein is required for growth and milk production, protein requirements for heifers and lactating cows are higher than for dry pregnant cows. Lactating cows require twice as much crude protein per day as dry, pregnant cows and 26 percent more than heifers. Ruminants such as cattle can synthesize much of their needed protein from low quality protein and NPN (non-protein nitrogen) sources such as urea and biuret when sufficient amounts of readily available carbohydrates are present in the rumen. Other supplements include cottonseed meal, soybean meal, and a wide variety of commercial dry and liquid supplements.

Protein supplements are available in many types and forms—cubes, cakes, liquids, self-limiting meal products and others to follow different feeding methods. These will vary in nutrient and composition and a producer should calculate protein cost in each. This cost figure and feeding and labor costs will help him select the most efficient supplement.

When balancing forage rations with supplementation, dry matter (energy), vitamins, minerals and protein are all considered. Most often, available protein is deficient, but sometime energy is also lacking. When energy is low, some grain may be fed along with protein to make up the difference in what is supplied from forage. A good low fiber, high protein range cube will probably be sufficient, suggests Tanksley.

The person who has no appreciation of the beautiful in life hasn't been properly educated.

With energy costs zooming just any center pivot won't do.

The whole equation changes. The few hundred you can save buying a cheaper pivot can be eaten up in the first year by rising energy costs alone. That's why the right match-up of power, pipe sizes and pressure can make all the difference in the world.

At Valley, we have the latest technology. We'd like to talk to you and show you before you buy any center pivot. Because just any center pivot won't do, especially if rising energy costs are a concern.

Hostages, 1979-81

The now-concluded hostage crisis demonstrated the weakness of the Carter Administration foreign policy better than any other event of the past four years.

That's because the Carter approach was a high-minded, naive, be-nice-and-they'll-be-nice policy. It would be fine if the world respected such American idealism, but it doesn't. The communists and others take advantage of amateurishness.

That was evident from the first. Mr. Carter's new ambassador to Russia could hardly get in a word with the Russian leaders while Carter talked idealistically about dissidents in Russia (and was morally right of course). The Russians soon sized Carter up as an inexperienced, well-meaning amateur, who had been elected on a pledge to reduce the military, and acted accordingly.

It wasn't until mid-term that the Russian takeover of Afghanistan woke Mr. Carter from his dream. At about the same time the radicals in Iran deposed America's friend, the Shah, taking U.S. hostages. All through the hostage crisis, which never should have been allowed to develop, Washington reacted weakly. The radicals had Carter sized up accurately.

No Iranian hostages were seized here, nor were Iranians deported. And little progress was made, until Ronald Reagan called the kidnapers barbarians, and indicated he wouldn't take a milgute-toast approach to the kidnapping and holding of U.S. citizens by any foreign nation. This really ended the hostage crisis--persuading the Iranians to negotiate with the Carter Administration right away.

In a last burst of hoped-for vindication, Carter Administration officials tried to make the most of the release--after over a year of ineffective policy and one badly botched rescue effort that cost eight Americans their lives. They acted almost jubilant, and Carter rushed off to Germany for a last bit of limelight, in an effort to sell as a personal success the end of this long-running humiliation--which Reagan's tough words had resolved.

Of course, all Americans are glad for them and their families that they are back home--some earlier than they would have been otherwise. It's now time to get on with the business of running the nation and building a more respected foreign policy.

Your Heart

The American Heart Association continues its national education campaign to create public awareness and recognition of the early warning signs of heart attack.

Since heart attack is the greatest killer in the United States (more than 660,000 annually), all should be interested in telltale signs which give the first indication of its approach. The AHA says the most common warnings are (1) Prolonged, oppressive pain or discomfort in the center of the chest; (2) Pain radiation to the shoulder, arm, neck or jaw; (3) Sweating accompanying the pain, perhaps nausea, vomiting or shortness of breath.

These symptoms, the AHA says, often subside and return again at a later time. Those experiencing the symptoms should call a doctor at once, because the first hours of a heart attack are often the most critical, and the time in which the most can be done to limit damage.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—Judging by the subject matter of pre-filed bills, the issue of landlord-tenant relations will be of major concern to the 67th Legislature.

House Bill 81, by Representative Sam Hudson of Dallas, outlines two specific duties of a landlord in addition to those already established by law. They are to maintain in good and safe working order all heating, ventilating, and air-conditioning equipment and to exterminate all rodents and vermin at least once a year. Should the landlord fail to carry out these duties, a tenant may file suit for damages or termination of the lease or both.

Safety provisions for renters, as well as hotel patrons, are called for in House Bill 92. If this bill is adopted, a person who owns an apartment house or hotel will be required to provide deadbolt locks on all outside doors and security locks on all windows. In addition, adequate lighting must be maintained between the parking area of the apartment house or hotel and the entrance to each apartment or hotel room.

Another piece of legislation concerning landlord-tenant relations is House Bill 67 by Representative Hudson. This bill adds a restriction whereby a landlord may not remove the contents of a premise abandoned by a tenant unless at least 5 days before the removal the landlord mails to the tenant written notice of his or her intent. Specific provisions for sending such notice are outlined in the bill.

The House Business and Industry Committee, in its interim study on landlord-tenant relations, made several recommendations that will most likely be presented to the 67th Legislature in the form of proposed legislation. The recommendations concern rental agreements and the disclosure of apartment owners' names and address, landlords' rights in entering leased property without notice in certain instances and the interruption of utilities to a residential premise while it is being occupied by a tenant.

United Feature Syndicate

These bill and recommendations will be discussed by House members in hopes of making the rights of landlords and tenants more equitable and effective for all concerned.

NEW YORK -- Several of the nation's largest refiners boosted wholesale fuel prices as much as 6 cents a gallon, a day after President Reagan announced he had ended federal oil-price controls eight months ahead of schedule.

NEW YORK -- A selling wave sent gold prices sliding below $500 an ounce for the first time in almost 10 months, but late hectic trading in New York sent prices back up on fresh fears of unrest in Poland.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

The removal of remaining controls on production and marketing of domestic oil and petroleum products was good news indeed for Texas and for the rest of the nation.

Texans have known all along that we could be much more energy self-sufficient if we encouraged rather than shackled the energy industry. By ordering decontrol, President Ronald Reagan reaffirmed this basic fact about our free enterprise system.

There is no question that our easily accessible oil reserves are on the decline. Remaining supplies for the most part require expensive recovery processes. It is the height of irresponsibility to expect our producers to make that effort without assurance that their investment, and a reasonable return, can be recovered. Ending the practice of keeping oil prices artificially low also will serve to encourage development of other potential sources of energy, which also are expensive to produce.

Regrettably, there are no magic formulas for ending our energy problems. Decontrol in itself will not end all our potential shortages. But ending counterproductive and needlessly complicated regulations will free the energy industry to concentrate on producing oil instead of on following the mish-mash of government mandates.

And the beneficial effect of decontrol will be partly offset by the continuation of the so-called Windfall Profits Tax.

This tax was a classic example of political expediency winning over sound reason and economic reality. Its very existence could cost the U.S. up to two million barrels of oil a day.

In my view, it must be repealed immediately if we are to see any real prospect for breaking our dangerous dependency on foreign energy.

Further, we must unlock the vast reserves that lie under federal lands. It seems that some bureaucrats have forgotten that federal lands belong to the people and not the bureaucracy. These lands must be allowed to serve the people by yielding their energy, with reasonable but not excessive environmental consideration.

However, President Ronald Reagan's action in signing the decontrol order during his first 10 days in office is a signal that during the coming year we can expect a change in attitude toward private enterprise.

For too long, Washington has put too much faith in the abilities and wisdom of government and too little faith in the ability of American men and women operating in private industry to serve the best interests of this nation.

This attitude has hampered the energy industry and virtually every other segment of the economy. I am pleased to say that officials here seem to have finally heard the message from home that government is not the answer.

'Cutting Energy Cost' 1980 Yearbook Title

"Cutting Energy Costs" is the title of the 1980 Yearbook of Agriculture. The 408 page book is designed to help bring down energy costs of farmers, foresters, homemakers, communities and the food industry, says Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas

A&M University System. The new yearbook published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture offers something for everyone, believes Tanksley, since energy costs have cut into everybody's income.

Farmers especially have been struggling to hold down their production energy requirements so that Americans can continue to get their food at a reasonable cost. In fact, a new agricultural revolution may be in progress—one in which agriculture's own renewable energy supplies may be used increasingly to fuel farm machinery, heat farm buildings, dry grain and serve many other purposes, notes, Tanksley.

Some of agriculture's renewable energy supplies already are being used in gasohol to fuel the family car. Four sections of the new yearbook are agriculture and forestry, family living, communities and alternative energy sources. Authors are specialists mainly from USDA and state land grant universities, says Tanksley.

Some of the topics featured are how to grow crops with less energy, the do's and don't's of home insulation, how your community can cut energy bills and turning farm wastes into usable energy.

A copy of "Cutting Energy Costs" may be purchased for $9.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C., 20402, or from U.S. government bookstores in a number of cities. Members of Congress have limited allotments of the book for free distribution.

Farmers Seed Record Wheat Acreage for '81

AUSTIN—Texas farmers have seeded wheat for pasture in a record number of acres and can expect a record production as well in the spring of 1981, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service estimates indicate a 13 percent increase in seedings over last year with 7.7 million acres. "Harvest, barring a repeat of last year's drought, is expected to surpass the 1979 record with a total of 154 million bushels," Brown said.

The previous record for production was 138 million bushels. The past record number of acres was set in 1946 with 7,587,000.

Despite scattered rains and snow in the Plains area, many fields there remain moisture stressed and are producing only limited grazing. Seeding in all states has created a record high of 63.9 million acres of winter wheat, 11 percent more than last year's 57.4 million acres. U.S. production is projected to be 1.98 billion bushels.

"Exports have been somewhat sluggish in the past months," Brown said. "But with world stocks of grain for the fiscal year of 1980-81 estimated to be down by 20 percent, we are expecting export sales to pick up."

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

Reports

AUSTIN -- Inflation, no stranger to any of us these days, has become a major problem for state employees and teachers. Government, like any employer, always has to try to balance economy with pay high enough to attract and keep good employees.

In the past few years, state employees have fallen behind in this balance. In response to this, the Legislature has passed an emergency pay raise for state employees of 5.1 percent, with a minimum raise of 50 dollars. This measure should go into effect for the February pay period.

Teachers have not been forgotten, either, although they will not receive a raise through this bill. There are two proposals to give raises to teachers. Senate Bill 63, introduced by Sen. H. Tati Santiesteban would increase teachers' salaries 33 percent over the next two years beginning September 1, 1981. The Legislative Budget Board has recommended a 11 percent increase for teachers' salaries, again effective September 1, 1981. We are studying both of these proposals to decide which one, if either, best suits the needs of both teachers and taxpayers.

The whole issue of compensation for state employees and teachers is a difficult political problem. We need good employees and teachers. State employment has become, in many cases, a training ground for private industry. Many employees are leaving their state jobs after they learn a skill, and when they leave, they cost the state money. Any businessman can tell you that training an employee is a very expensive proposition. Last year, for example, turnovers in classified positions alone cost the state about $42 million. While we will never be able to eliminate that expense entirely, this pay raise will help us save money in the long run.

Teachers, also, are leaving. The hardest teachers to hire and keep are those in science and mathematics because private industry pays them much more than the state. There can be no question today that our children need a good education in the sciences and mathematics more than ever before.

On the other hand, the state must operate on a balanced budget, and the inflation that pushes up the cost of everything we buy also makes the cost of state government higher. We must find a balance between spending too much and not spending enough to keep our good employees and teachers. As prices continue to rise and the population of the state continues to grow, the problem of more efficient state government will be with us throughout the eighties.

Texas are taxed by their state less than the citizens of all but ten other states. One thing we need to keep in mind is that low taxes are an advantage for several reasons. Not only do citizens who pay lower taxes have more money, but a climate of low taxes attracts business to our state, which in turn increases the prosperity of all of us. The pay raise the Senate approved will not raise taxes. If it has, it would have thrown the balance too far in the other direction.

For more information, call or write: Senator Bill Sarpalius, State Capitol, Austin, Texas 78711 or Phone (512) 475-3222.

 COLLEGE STATION -- Armed with facts that suggest hardening of the arteries may begin in third- and fourth-

 Rev. M.S. Brown, Pastor

Sometimes the desire to run out the door and chuck it all is overpowering when we are confronted with the mess of an after-dinner table!

Sometimes, insight lets us see that our lives are quite a mess too. In fact, things seem such a jumble, that our reaction to this truth, if acknowledged, is, "What's the use?"

Well, of course, the only thing to do with the dishes is to take them to the sink, put them in hot water, and wash them with a good cleansing agent until they shine.

Less obvious, perhaps, is what to do with a messed-up life. We invite you to seek an answer in church this week. You are sure to find there the Power who will help you with your problems, a power who cares immeasurably for your soul.

"Casting all your care upon him, for he careth for you." 1 Peter 5:7

"And the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain." Isaiah 40:4b.

Friday "Favorite Food
Day" the kitchen made Russ Duncan, Marie Patton and Alma Shofner's favorite food. Tuesday was Ora Robert's favorite food day.

Sunday morning Mr.
Alex Williams came to have Bible study with Lura Northcutt, Alma Henley,
Jose Garcia, Ora Roberts,
Marie Engram, Archie
Scarlett, Lottie Hall, Russ Duncan, Charlie Garth and Marie Patton.

The American Blvd.
Church of Christ came to sing to the residents Sunday afternoon. Residents attending were Alma Henley, Chellie Bradley, Lula
Embry, Edith Bruns, Bulah
Connell, Bertie Hendrix, Russ Duncan, Annie Brown, Charlie Garth, Lura Northcutt, Ora Roberts and Marie Engram.

Tuesday afternoon the Hospital and Nursind Home Aux. worked about four hours in the beauty shop giving the ladies a shampoo and set. Ladies having a shampoo and set were Grace Kemp, Lura Northcutt, Alma Shofner, Ora Roberts, Chellie Bradley, Edith Bruns, Rosemary Pool, Doshia Dykes, Alma Henley, Mattie
Heard, Russ Duncan, Marie Patton, Bertie Hendrix, Annie Brown, Lottie
Hall, Ruby Huloe, Bertie Phelps and Maggie London.

Mattie Heard went out to her granddaughter's, Sherry Reid, for Sunday dinner. C.T. and his family were there too. Mrs. Heard was visited by Mrs. Luther Hall, Mrs. Frank Hall. She is expecting a visit from her daughter who lives in Nevada. Mrs. James Gray and Karl Dean visited her too.

Alma Henley was visited by Celso and Stanley Sunday. They took Mrs. Henley out for dinner. Mrs.
Shipp visited also.

Russ Duncan and Marie
Paton were visited by June Gore and Mrs. Stovall.

Bertie Hendrix was visited by Sherry, Hilbert Lee Ann, Jerry Hutton, Cordelia Cochran, Lona and Calvin Embry.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhill Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek offers his two cents worth on the problem of public schools this week.
Sounds inflationary.

Dear editor:
Because some kids are coming out of high school unable to read a parking ticket or balance a check book, teachers naturally are blamed and there's a move on in some areas to test them. This was tried in one big city and a third of the teachers failed.

I got to thinking, not only should beginning teachers be tested, but maybe the colleges who certified they were qualified to teach ought to be tested.
Then the colleges should demand tests for high schools that are sending them unqualified students, and high schools should look to grammar schools, and they to boards of trustees, and trustees to parents, whose only recourse would be to blame their parents, and they their parents, on back I guess to George Washington.

Nobody has asked me, but my notion is that the first duty of a school is to teach a kid to read and write and possibly to figure in case the battery on his pocket calculator runs down. After that, kids can expand in whatever direction their talents invite and their teachers can stimulate. No need to try to make classical scholars out of all of them.

Naturally writers want them to continue to read, just as tire manufacturers and filling stations want people to drive cars, the I.R.S. wants people to make money and lawyers want people to squabble.
The extent and value of a person's so-called booklearning can be vastly overrated. I know lots of intelligent un-fooled people who lead successful and enjoyable lives who, after getting out of school, haven't read more than two or three books in their whole life. But they do know what's going on, by way of newspapers and radio and TV and their natural ability to think for themselves.

One trouble with schools today is they've mistaken buildings for schooling.
It's like Congress thinking
if it puts up a new office building for itself it's automatically a better congress. The problems facing the country are not the color of the wallpaper in the White House. No telling how far Abe Lincoln would have gone if his one-room school house had been air-conditioned. I'll bet the bus he rode to school wasn't even heated in the winter time.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.
