

GOP: SS Cuts Won't 'Sail' in House

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leaders are telling the administration that President Reagan's proposal to delay cost-of-living increases in Social Security and other pension and welfare programs "would not sail in the House." Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes confirmed Thursday that Reagan will propose cost-of-living delays of at least three months in nine pension and welfare programs, including

Social Security, veterans' retirement, unemployment compensation, food stamps and school lunches. Other officials reported that this new round of $13 billion to $16 billion in budget cuts for fiscal year 1982, which begins Oct. 1, also includes elimination of revenue sharing for state and local governments, cuts of 10 percent in non-defense programs, the abolishment of the departments of Energy and Education and the phasing out of 75,000 federal jobs.

Congressional sources said they expect Reagan to unveil his spending reduction plan in a nationally broadcast address from the White House next week, possibly as early as Tuesday night.

Although administration officials still seem to be refining exact details of the plan, its outlines appear set.

Under a strategy outlined by sources who asked not to be identified, the administration is hoping that the Republican-controlled Senate will attach the changes in the benefit programs to a bill to raise the government's borrowing authority to $1.079 trillion. The measure then would be sent to the House.

Without quick action on the legislation, the government's authority to borrow would, in effect, be lost on Oct. 1.

In addition, sources said the administration would attempt to force many of the other reductions on the regular appropriations bills now moving through the House and Senate.

Senate Republican leaders had urged Reagan earlier in the week to consider slashing Social Security, Medicaid and other benefit programs.

But when budget director David A. Stockman met privately Thursday with House GOP leaders, they told him "politely but firmly" that they do not favor attaching the entitlements to the debt ceiling bill, according to a House source.

The source, who asked not to be quoted by name, said the leaders told Stockman that the Social Security proposal "would not sail in the House."

Overall, the source said, the "program the White House has advanced is not the

Stage Co-Stars

Movies Not Like They Used To Be Says Actress Mayo

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

When it comes to quality of movies, actress Virginia Mayo believes they just don't make 'em like they used to. "I don't think they are very good," she said Thursday. "I go see a lot of them, but I don't like very many."

Miss Mayo was in Hereford Thursday with Archie Dwyer, her co-star in "Janus" playing at the Country Squire Dinner Theatre in Amarillo through Oct. 11. Miss Mayo plays Jessica opposite Dwyer as Gil in the three-act play.

She has performed that role once before in Houston.

Formerly a film star and pinup girl in the 1950s, Miss Mayo returned to the stage in the late '50s and early '60s.

In theater since she was a six-year-old being coached by her aunt at a drama school, she performed ballet, opera, dance, and comedy, until she was "discovered" by Samuel Goldwyn during a play.

She was with Goldwyn for five years, then signed with Warner Brothers, where she made over 40 films, including "She's Working Her Way Through College" and "The Girl from Jones Beach," which starred Ronald Reagan.

It is the quality of films today that Miss Mayo objects.

"It's disgusting what they (the producers and directors) do," she said. "They used to put on a good product without a lot of obscenity. Nowadays there is no code of ethics. They can put anything on. The producers are ruthless. They don't make anything for the adult mind."

The so-called social messages appearing in films such as "The China Syndrome" and "The Electric Horseman" are a result of the producers' freedom, and though Miss Mayo said both films were done very well she feels "entertainment shouldn't have a message."

She said the directors can't recognize talent and as an example said that Harrison Ford was an actor who, in her opinion, "does not have star quality."

"You just lose interest while he's on the screen. He looks like an old, tired Howard Hughes," she said.

Actors she considered talented were Robert Redford and Paul Newman, who also co-starred in one of her favorite movies, "The Sting." "The Silver Chalice" was Newman's first film and Miss Mayo recalls his uneasiness and inexperience.

"He was brought in to play the lead and they brought me in to test with him because the said he didn't know how to do a love scene right," she said. "The directors asked

Reagan 'Summit' Fine

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — President Reagan, calling his informal summit "just fine," is narrowing differences with Mexico over strife in El Salvador but facing slow progress on easing tensions with Canada over energy and pollution, aides say.

Reagan, in this Michigan city for the dedication of onetime rival Gerald R. Ford's presidential museum, met separately with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo and Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau on Thursday and invited them to breakfast this morning.

"We haven't changed the course of the world," Reagan said between meetings Thursday. "But we've had a good time."

Officials took pains to play down the summitry — focusing on today's museum ceremony instead — but Grand Rapids temporarily became host to two sitting presidents, a prime minister and a vice president, as well as former President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France and former President Ford, a native son.

U.S. officials emphasized the progress made during Reagan's approximately 45-minute meeting with Lopez Portillo. It was the first top-level contact between the two nations since Mexico and France issued a joint statement earlier this summer recognizing the leftist rebels in El Salvador as a legitimate political force.

The United States has vigorously opposed that initiative.

"I don't want to suggest we share a common view on that issue," said a senior American official, who briefed reporters on condition he not be identified. "But I think differences were narrowed, and there were discussions of future approaches which might be more compatible."

He described the conversation as "an extremely constructive exchange," though he said the two nations in general had "differences in approach, especially with matters pertaining to the hemisphere."

The 45-minute session with Trudeau was tougher, dealing with what the official called "very difficult, some would say intractable, problems."

"Our interest is in making progress," he said. "It just doesn't come as rapidly as some would like."

Nevertheless, the official said, both leaders expressed hope that the disputes would

Polish Airliner Hijacked by 12

BERLIN (AP) — Nine men and three women brandishing firebombs commandeered a Polish airliner with 49 people aboard on a domestic flight today, forced it to land in West Berlin and surrendered, authorities said.

In Poland, the hijackers were reported to have threatened to kill a stewardess.

The Soviet-built LOT Polish Airlines turboprop jet landed at Tempelhof Airport, an American military field in the western sector of this divided city, at 12:33 p.m. (6:30 a.m. EDT), according to U.S. officials.

Base spokeswoman Nora Praeger said no one aboard was harmed. After the hijackers surrendered, a bus ferried those aboard to the terminal where West German authorities began questioning them, officials said.

In Warsaw, the official

Chamber Finalizes New Teacher Fete

Directors made plans for the New Teacher Banquet, the next Fun Breakfast, and a public forum on constitutional amendments when the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce board met Thursday afternoon for a regular monthly session.

President Tom Burdett announced the New Teacher Banquet has been scheduled Sept. 29 at the Community Center. Businesses will sponsor a teacher and invite them to the banquet, which begins at 7 p.m.

The United Way of Deaf Smith County will be the sponsor of the Fun Breakfast, set for Oct. 1, it was announced by chairman Doug Manning. The breakfast starts at 6:30 a.m. that date and will include the usual fun, games prizes and presentation of the Bull Chip Award.

Lone Star Agency Buys Bovina Firm

Ken Rogers, owner of Lone Star Agency, Inc. has announced the purchase of the two offices of the Horn-Clayton Insurance Co. of Bovina and Farwell. The purchase became effective Aug. 30.

According to a news item in the Bovina Blade the move was "done in order to provide an increase in services to the people in Bovina and Farwell."

Ken Horn, manager of the Bovina office, will remain in that capacity under the re-organization. Horn had been manager and owner of the Bovina business since 1973.

No personnel changes are anticipated for the Bovina and Farwell offices.

According to Rogers the bookkeeping for all three offices will be done in Hereford, utilizing a data processing system. The regular business of writing insurance and handling claims will be handled in the individual offices, however.

According to Rogers and Horn no changes will be made in the businesses except to provide more service to clients.

A new feature of the combined agency for Bovina and Farwell clients will be a WATTS line, for 24-hour claims service.

YMCA Receives Anonymous Gift

A Hereford couple has made a contribution of almost $79,000 toward the building fund of the Hereford YMCA, it was announced Thursday by "Y" President Dickie Geries.

"The couple made the donation in hopes it would encourage the building of a YMCA facility in Hereford," said Geries. The donors asked that their names not be released to the news media.

Geries said the contribution was made with the stipulation that construction is started, or $500,000 is raised in the fund, by Jan. 1, 1984.

The money has been placed in a trust fund under the name of Hereford & Vicinity YMCA Foundation. The executive officers of the YMCA board will serve as trustees of the foundation, said Geries.

With these funds and money already available from the Kelton estate, the "Y" will currently have a total of about $136,000 in its capital improvements fund.

Geries said the "Y" is currently debt-free as far as the operating budget is concerned, and no money has been used from the interest earned on building fund money. The YMCA is a member of the United Way of Deaf Smith County and receives a portion of its operating funds from the community organization.

The gift from the Kelton estate was made to the "Y" in December, 1980, and came in the form of $32,889 cash and $22,064 in note receivables. The estate also made gifts to Big Brothers-Big Sisters, First Christian Church and Hereford Garden Club. All the donations tallied some $158,587.

The YMCA has not formally launched a fund-raising drive for a new building, Geries noted. "Naturally, the board is very excited about the new contribution, and we are hopeful that others will consider a donation to this worthy project."

Grigg A 'Pay as You Go' Man

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

C.G. "Buster" Grigg went to school with his kids.

"When I got out of high school I didn't want to see classroom," he said, but the pastor of Avenue Baptist Church found himself back to the books when he was 27. After 10 years without homework he was serious about studying. He quit his job, sold his house and went to college.

"I was nearly 25 when I became a Christian," the guitar-picking Grigg said, "and pretty quickly after that I started directing music at Big Spring."

About two years after becoming a Christian he was called to preaching ministry. "The exciting thing about it is that my wife, Judy, felt the call (into the ministry), too," Grigg said.

The couple attended Hardin-Simmons in Austin, where Grigg got a double degree in Bible and speech communications, of which he jokingly says is "hard to tell."

He also told about Judy's degree, "It's a special one they give at Hardin-Simmons. The P.H.T. - Putting Husband Through." His wife had to work to supplement his part time pastoring and carpentry jobs.

"I would have quit 10 times if it wasn't for her," he smiled.

Four years of college is hard on a family and Grigg didn't want to put his through three more years at a seminary, so he is continuing his education through correspondence from Luther Rice Seminary, Jacksonville, Fla. He lacks about 20 hours in completing his master's degree in theology.

Moving to Hereford only 10 months ago, the pastor has started a building program which the congregation has been dreaming about for nearly 20 years. He said "when it rains, it pours" into the old sanctuary used since 1946.

Grigg said when he first came here some members showed him extravagant building plans which were estimated at up to $300,000. Grigg simply felt the cost was prohibitive.

"Personally, I think paying 20 percent interest is not good stewardship of the Lord's money," he explained.

"I asked them if they had ever considered a pay as you

Protesters' Ranks Thinned by 900

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Their ranks thinned by more than 900 arrests, anti-nuclear protesters said they had only 300 people left to throw into an attempted blockade of the Diablo Canyon power plant today.

Police stepped up their resistance to the protesters on Thursday, the third day of demonstration, with helmeted officers twisting arms and using nightsticks to clear the non-violent demonstrators from the plant's driveway and main gate. Busloads of construction workers then entered with scarcely a delay.

The demonstration at the main gate of the still-unclosed and idle twin reactor complex consisted of a thin line of blockaders — bolstered by well over a hundred non-blockading demonstrators — who tried to prevent the workers from entering and leaving. On Tuesday, the first day of the protest, hundreds gathered in front of the gate and 700 construction workers had to be evacuated by helicopter.

On the sea side of the plant Thursday, protesters landed swimmers on a beach for the third day in a row, despite Coast Guard warnings to stay away. All 15 were promptly arrested, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Despite the reduced numbers of protesters L.A. Jerry Dooley of the San Luis Obispo County sheriff's department, said early today that police are not scaling down their operations.

"We don't see that we can deplete our ranks. They can still muster quite a crowd," he said. "We don't know what kind of support they can pick up from the outside or how many people can make it for the weekend."

Dooley said he could not predict when the attempt to blockade the plant might end.

Dooley said more than 100 people were arrested Thursday, bringing the total to 929.

The protest leaders say nuclear power is unsafe, particularly at Diablo Canyon, which is near an offshore earthquake fault.

About 200 arrested protesters were arraigned Thursday on misdemeanor charges of trespassing and failure to disperse. Most pleaded not guilty and returned to jail to await trial, virtually all of the rest entered no contest pleas and were fined up to $120. A handful met bail of $930 by posting $63.

The few released on their own recognizance were required to promise that they would not participate again in the blockade.

Immigration Officials Crackdown On Illegal Aliens

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Federal agents who have arrested nearly 700 illegal aliens in raids on businesses in three East Texas counties said the crackdown would continue for several more days.

Immigration and Naturalization Service officials said agents raided 20 Tyler industrial plants Thursday and arrested 135 undocumented workers.

Thursday's raids, combined with forays earlier this week into businesses in Smith, Gregg and Harrison counties, raised to 694 the number of illegal aliens arrested, said INS officials.

"This has just cut the surface of a very major problem with aliens in East Texas," said INS criminal investigator Easu Flores, who added the crackdown would continue for several more days.

Flores denied that the three-county area had been singled out for a major crackdown.

However, a spokesman at Rep. Ralph Hall's office in Washington said the action came after government officials received "numerous" letters from residents asking that something be done about the influx of illegal aliens into Northeast Texas.

Boy Accidentally Shoots Brother

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — An 10-year-old boy was accidentally shot in the face by his brother while the two youths were playing with a .38 caliber revolver they found in a drawer in their home.

Authorities said Jimmy Viera, of Laredo, was critically injured after the 11-year-old boy pointed the gun at his brother and fired a single bullet which hit the younger boy just above the left eye.

Officials at Santa Rosa Hospital in San Antonio said the injured youth underwent surgery late Thursday for the gunshot wound.

Police said Johnny Viera loaded one bullet into the gun and clicked the trigger twice before striking the live round.

The older brother phoned nearby relatives, who called an ambulance to the scene, officials said. The boys' parents, Johnny and Rosalinda Viera, were not home at the time of the accident.

Seven Killed In Two Wrecks

PECOS, Texas (AP) — Five men were killed Thursday in a grinding collision at an uncontrolled intersection of two rural county roads about 27 miles southwest of this far Southwest Texas town, officials said.

Department of Public Safety officials identified the dead as James Clifford Lamb, 39, of Lewisville; John E. Schmalzrid Jr., 29, of Weslaco; Roger Alan McCarthy, 47, of Houston; Terry Ray Troup, 36, of Katy, and Billy Michael Powell, 25, of Pecos.

State troopers said Lamb's car and a pickup truck driven by Powell, the only occupant of the second vehicle, collided at the intersection about 10:30 a.m.

The four men in Lamb's car died at the scene. Powell died several hours later at an Odessa hospital, officials said.

Meanwhile, officials said a man and a woman were killed Thursday morning in a two-car collision near Athens, in Northeast Texas.

Evangelist Graham Admires Youth For Dedication

HOUSTON (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says he respects a young man who raised a storm of controversy by dedicating his high school annual to Jesus Christ.

"I admire the person who did it even though I might not agree with him (for doing it)," Graham said here Thursday.

Several people called Stratford High School to complain about editor Miles Fain's statement of faith in Jesus Christ which appeared at the front of the yearbook. The annual was distributed last week.

Soviets Warn Poland To Control Solidarity

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Soviet Union called on Poland's Communist leaders to take "determined and radical" action immediately against the Solidarity labor federation.

The Polish government responded with a warning to the labor union that it was jeopardizing Poland's independence. In effect it was saying that Soviet troops might occupy the country if Solidarity's agitation for democratic political reforms continued.

The Soviet Communist Party and government, in a statement made public by the official Polish news agency PAP, accused the independent labor union of a campaign of anti-Sovietism aimed at liquidating communism in Poland and taking it out of the Soviet Bloc.

"We expect the (Polish Communist) leadership and the Polish government to immediately take determined and radical steps to cut short the malicious anti-Soviet propaganda and actions hostile towards the Soviet Union," said the statement, which PAP said Soviet Ambassador Boris Aristov delivered to Polish Communist Party chief Stanislaw Kania and Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski.

It was the toughest warning from Moscow since the Soviets in June criticized Kania and Jaruzelski for not putting a stop to "anti-socialist and counter-revolutionary" activity.

PAP did not say when the statement was delivered. But Jaruzelski called an emergency cabinet meeting Thursday and afterward issued the government's warning to Solidarity.

Meanwhile, the union on Thursday had issued a defiant statement of its own rejecting a warning of the day before from the Polish Communist Party's Politburo. Solidarity said it would not be stopped from its campaign for economic reforms to save Poland from "progressive economic ruin."

The Soviet statement said Solidarity's first national congress, which last week called for free parliamentary elections, worker participation in the management of state-owned industries and free labor movements in other communist countries, "became in effect a permanent tribune from which slanders and insults sounded" against the Soviet Union.

The Soviets called the federation's support of independent labor movements elsewhere in the Soviet Bloc a "revolting provocation."

The statement said the Polish leaders had been told repeatedly during the past six months to crack down, but the Soviets did not "know of a single case in which the initiators of the anti-Soviet provocations would meet with a harsh reaction on the part of the authorities and would be punished."

"The central committee and the Soviet government feel that further leniency shown to any manifestation of anti-Sovietism does immense harm to Polish-Soviet relations and is in direct contradiction to Poland's allied obligations and the vital interests of the Soviet Union," the statement said.

The appeals court decision came in an appeal filed by British author Michael Eddowes, whose attempts to open the grave have been thwarted by Oswald's brother, Robert.

The justices said Thursday that Robert Oswald had "no justifiable interest and no authority to institute suit in the trial court."

A surviving brother of the deceased does not have the right to control the remains of his deceased brother's body so long as there is a surviving wife, children or parents of the deceased," the court said in its opinion.

Robert Oswald declined to comment Thursday, but his attorney, Craig Fowler, said his client probably would appeal.

"He (Oswald) is willing to take whatever legal measures he has to prevent the exhumation," Fowler said.

The appeals court said Oswald's widow, who earlier withdrew from Eddowes' suit and filed a separate action to fight her brother-in-law's objections, is an "indispensible party" in any suit seeking to open the grave.

District Judge James Wright earlier had issued a temporary restraining order that put a stop to plans by Eddowes and Mrs. Porter to open the grave and determine if the body inside is really Oswald.

Eddowes maintains that the body buried in Rosehill Cemetery is that of a Russian imposter who assassinated President John F. Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

"I am tired of Mr. Eddowes' spy-imposter theory," Mrs. Porter said. "That is ridiculous. My concern is whether the body is still there. If the grave has not been tampered with, Lee's body will be there."

She said she would carry her efforts to open the grave to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

"Things don't happen very easily. I don't want to claim a victory until the day it's open," she said. "I hope it will be soon. We cannot live in suspense forever. The longer it continues, the harder it is on me."

go plan," Grigg said. "The deacon body liked it and the church people liked the idea so we started it."

The church plans to construct the frame of the 5,400 square foot educational building with money already in the building fund and complete the inside as cash comes in.

"We're doing it for need, not greed," Grigg said. "This way when the building is completed, we'll be debt free."

He doesn't claim to be the ramrod of the program though.

"The great thing about it is that the people are 100 percent behind it," he said.

news agency PAP said the hijackers had taken a stewardess hostage and threatened to kill her if the plane was not diverted to the West. PAP did not report the names of the suspected hijackers.

The Polish military mission in West Berlin demanded extradition of the hijackers and protested their being handed over to West German authorities, PAP added.

The twin-engine Antonov-24 was on a regularly scheduled flight from Katowice in southern Poland to Warsaw when it was commandeered, according to an airlines spokesman in the Polish capital. The spokesman said the pilot was forced to change course about 10 minutes before the scheduled landing at Warsaw.

There were unconfirmed reports that the plane was followed by at least one Soviet-built MiG jet fighter while it was in East German airspace. But American military sources said a helicopter of the type used by Soviet bloc forces had trailed the plane until two U.S. helicopters met it in airspace over the western sector and escorted it to a landing.

The hijackers' demands were not immediately known but it was believed they were seeking asylum.

It was the fourth hijacking of a Polish plane to West Berlin since December, 1980. Two other hijacking attempts, on Aug. 5 and Aug. 11, were foiled by the planes' crews.

Two Poles accused of hijacking LOT flights on July 21 and Aug. 22 are in jail in the western sector of Berlin and awaiting trial.

When I started this program in May, 1972, there were no other programs for the elderly or the sick. Now we have the Human Resources—different programs through the Community Action who were already in operation in 1972 and helped me to start Meals on Wheels. We also have the Home Health Agency and a great Senior Citizens Center with an outreach program.

Perhaps we have served our purpose. Ecclesiastes 3:1 says "To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the sun."

This has been God's program from the beginning and even though my heart grieves because of my own selfish desire to continue to serve, I know that He is truly able to keep all those without my help. I know when He chooses to close a door, no one can open it.

For these past nine years, I walked by faith, not by sight, looking forward with great anticipation to see the hand of the Lord at work.

I want to sincerely thank everyone who has stood with me in this walk of faith. For the faithful support through prayer, financial support, and for those ladies who have not "permanently sour" relations between the two North American neighbors.

The Canadians have been particularly concerned about "acid rain" — pollution crossing the border from U.S. industrial areas — and the United States has been concerned about Canada's new energy policy giving its own companies greater control over that country's oil and gas resources.

Trudeau has sought to accomplish the increased control through exploration and tax incentives aimed specifically at Canadian-dominated oil and natural gas companies. In the United States, complaints have been raised that this policy discriminates against U.S. interests and violates international trade agreements.

A Canadian official, who asked not to be identified, said Reagan expressed hope that he could contain pressure within Congress for economic retaliation against Canada.

The president told Trudeau he should recognize that the United States views Ottawa's energy policy as a serious matter with which Reagan must contend, the Canadian official said.

The prime minister replied that he was elected on the basis of that policy and no other issue had as much support in Canada, the official said.

The U.S. official acknowledged that the energy question had been "aggravated" and said several members of Congress "have expressed serious concern about it."

In addition to Reagan, Trudeau and Lopez Portillo, the dedication of the triangular, glass and stone Ford museum drew Vice President George Bush, Japanese Foreign Minister Sunao Sunoda and Cabinet members of the Reagan and Ford administrations.

In a speech prepared for the museum ceremony, Reagan saluted Ford, who defeated Reagan for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination and almost became his running mate at last summer's Republican National Convention, as "a good president who led us well, a good man who sought to serve others."

Hailing Ford's economic policies, Reagan said that "when he left office, the economy was again moving in the right direction with inflation shrunk to a yearly rate of 4.8 percent."

Gerald Ford healed America because he so thoroughly understood America," Reagan said. "His was and is an unquestioning belief in the soundness of our way of governing and in the resiliency of our people."

Gerald Ford healed America because he understood the adventure of America: her way of governing, her people, and the source of her strength as a nation."

There was excellent because Peter Sellers "is a natural comedian." She thought "The Electric Horseman" was excellent and "Seems Like Old Times" was not Neil Simon's best. Miss Mayo said "Ordinary People" was "ordinary" and was not impressed with Mary Tyler Moore's move from comedy to drama.

"I think it was practically her own character coming through," she said.

The most impressive actor she worked with was James Cagney in "White Heat" and "West Point Story."

me to work with him and his drama teacher on the scene. He did better on the second test.

Miss Mayo had her own problems to overcome when her film career was budding. "I used to have trouble at the very beginning. I was afraid of the camera. I had to work to get over that," she said.

"That camera came up and it was like a monster." Her fear was dissolved in one of her early films when Goldwyn loaned her out to RKO studios. "I was kind of free, and in a good part I liked and I just got used to it," she explained.

The switch from stage to film was transitional in performance style as well as location.

"When you are on the stage and you have a big part, you are on your own after rehearsal. In motion pictures you are at the mercy of your director," she said.

"Directors used to be tyrannical and bossy, but they program to make a stand on."

While Reagan can count on the 53-47 Republican majority in the Senate to be sympathetic to his proposals, the situation is different in the House, where Democrats hold a 52-vote margin.

Reagan was able to keep House Republicans in line and attract enough Democrats for victories in earlier budget and tax-cutting battles.

But House Republican leaders consider the president's latest proposals, as one GOP aide said, "politically undoable."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., declared that Democrats "don't intend to let him wreck the (Social Security) system." The House source said Republican leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois indicated he would "like the opportunity to offer the administration counter proposals."

Reagan decided to seek the additional cuts after projections showed the deficit for fiscal 1982 would be far above the administration's $42.5 billion target.

Michel and Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., are expected to meet Monday to discuss the matter.

Meanwhile, a group of about 30 moderate House Republicans — the self-described "gypsy moths" from the Northeast and Midwest — told reporters Thursday that they may abandon Reagan's package of budget cuts unless the $2 billion reduction in 1982 military spending Reagan decided on last weekend is increased to $9 billion.

Baker said Thursday that he expects an effort in Congress to increase the figure to $3 billion to $5 billion.

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., a past supporter of Reagan tax and budget cuts, said he won't support the latest reductions unless Reagan also moves toward monetary reforms. Kemp favors a return to the gold standard.

Sources said the cost-of-living delays would affect: —Social Security pension and disability payments, from July 1, 1982, until Oct. 1.

—Railroad retirement pensions, from July 1 until Oct. 1.

single case in which the initiators of the anti-Soviet provocations would meet with a harsh reaction on the part of the authorities and would be punished."

"The central committee and the Soviet government feel that further leniency shown to any manifestation of anti-Sovietism does immense harm to Polish-Soviet relations and is in direct contradiction to Poland's allied obligations and the vital interests of the Soviet Union," the statement said.

Court Dissolves Ban On Oswald Exhumation

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The widow of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald got support from a state appeals court in efforts to open her slain husband's grave, but she says a shovel — not legal maneuvers — will solve her problem.

The Texas 2nd Court of Appeals dissolved a temporary restraining order Thursday that blocked the opening of the grave and ruled Marina Oswald Porter has the right to exhume the body.

Mrs. Porter's attorney, Jerry Pittman, said his client may seek the necessary additional lower-court approval for an exhumation today.

"A shovel would solve my whole problem," she said Thursday. "I don't want all this fancy footwork and these legal procedures. I don't have all my life to fool with this."

Ann Landers

Don't Take For Granted

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am one of the fortunate women who can afford to drive a car these days. I don't mind picking up my friends who don't drive. But it is irritating to be taken for granted. May I make a few suggestions to help keep friendships together?

If someone you know has extended the courtesy of providing you with transportation—please:

1. Be ready and waiting at the time the driver is supposed to pick you up.
2. Don't expect the driver to pick up your friends. He/she has his/her route planned and may have agreed to pick up other passengers.
3. Don't ask the driver to stop while you run errands. (Mail a letter or pick up a loaf of bread or drop something off at the cleaners).
4. Don't linger to talk when being dropped off, unless the driver asks you to visit a bit.
5. Do not smoke in the car unless the driver does. Even asking for permission is bad manners. Some people who don't like smoke might be reluctant to say so.
6. Don't be a back-seat driver. If you feel the driver is unsafe, you should not be a passenger in that person's car.
7. If you are a frequent passenger, it would be gracious to send the driver an occasional gift. Send flowers or bake something special. Come up with some tangible evidence of your appreciation in addition to "Thank you."—Long Time At The Wheel

I will be forced to find another place to live if this problem is not solved. I do love it here, Ann, and need your advice.--M.S. In Philadelphia

DEAR M.S.: You should have no hesitation about telling the person in charge of the home exactly what you have told me. No resident should be permitted to inflict her pet on others. The woman should be told that she can keep the cat in her room, but it should not be permitted to roam around and jump on the other residents.

State Officers of TSDAR

'Betty Cracker' Bake-Off Scheduled After Game

Four Herd football players will face off in a "Betty Cracker" Biscuit Bake-Off Friday night immediately after the Hereford-Borger game, according to Ted Taylor, First Nazarene Church youth pastor. The Bake-Off is one of the after game Flicks-n-Things sponsored by the church.

Kevin "Leavenin'" Huffaker, Shannon "Crisco" Ritchie, Kent "Muffin" Finch and John "Bibs" Phibbs will enter the contest to see who can bake championship biscuits. Unlabeled ingredients will be put out on an open table and the players will mix their dough without the help of a recipe or grand-mother.

The big-league bakers will be judged on whether their bread is edible. While the biscuits bake, games will be set up. Any junior and senior high student may attend the free event. Soft drinks and snacks will be sold at concessions.

Prepared Childbirth Classes

Deaf Smith General Hospital will be offering a series of Prepared Childbirth Classes to begin Sept. 29 through Nov. 3. The classes will meet each Tuesday from 7-9 p.m. at the hospital.

Childbirth methods using Lamaze and Kitzinger will be taught along with other topics.

There will be a $25 fee for the six classes.

For further information call Carolyn Andrews at 364-2141 or 276-5240, or Donna Tidmore at 364-2141 or 364-8364.

Military Muster

Sgt. Roger Barrera, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raul G. Barrera of 411 Ave. J, Hereford, Texas, has arrived for duty at RAF Croughton, England.

Barrera, a telecommunications specialist with the 2168th Communications Squadron, was previously assigned at Grand Forks Air Force Base, N.D.

He is a 1974 graduate of Peru High School, Ind.

Colorful Class

books to children at the Norton Center. The students have made this an annual project. The students are doing this as part of a community involvement project. Mrs. Julie Helms is the instructor.

Exhibit on Display

An exhibit depicting "The Great Plains Experience" is on display at the Deaf Smith County Library. It is the first of six exhibits, and will be shown in conjunction with the films shown each Monday evening at the Library. The exhibits, which consist of local museum artifacts, have been prepared by Becky Walls, assistant librarian (shown on the left) and the selection of each as supervised by Lois Gilliland, Director of the Deaf Smith County Museum, standing at the right.

Hospital Notes

PATIENTS IN HOSPITAL
W.J. Albracht, Alma Ashton, Grover Durham, Anita Garcia, Inf. Boy Garcia, Stephen Gregory, Walter Hodges.

Secundino Murillo, Angie McClain, Inf. Girl Nava, Donnie Owerl, Francisco Perez, Linda Powers, James Ritchie, Dave Thompson, Baldamar Tijerina, Melinda White, Inf. Girl White, Betty Wosnitzky.

Cook Receives Award

Ricky H. Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.G. Cook, 509 Willow Lane, was recently chosen Southwest Regional Top Performer for Elanco Products Company.

This includes three states, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. There are 232 representatives in the United States and only six were chosen. Because of this honor he has won a trip to Lake Tahoe, Nevada, for a week in December.

Ricky resides in Lubbock. He has been with Elanco 1 year, 8 months. He graduated from Hereford High School in 1974 and from West Texas State University in 1979.

DEAR WHEEL: Good list. You are bound to hit some hot buttons out there, but you'll open the eyes of many who will profit from your suggestions. Thanks for the input.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a woman of 83 with a problem I hope you can solve. For the past two years I have lived in this lovely nursing home. I realize I am very lucky to be able to afford to be here.

Now for my problem, which will seem trivial to you because you hear so many every day that are worse. A woman moved in here several months ago and was allowed to bring her cat. I have a terrible phobia about cats. I really despise them. Cats affect me the same way rats or snakes affect other people. This woman lets her cat roam around everywhere.

When I am in the lounge and that cat appears, I become terrified. She often jumps on people's laps without warning, like a tiger. There are many cat lovers in this place, and they love to hold the cat and pet her. If this animal ever jumped on my lap, I would die of fright.

Hereford CowBelles Tour New Feeders Association Building

The Hereford CowBelles had lunch in Amarillo Tuesday and toured the new Texas Cattle Feeders Association Building as they held their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Roberta Caviness arranged the tour for the group.

The CowBelles died at the Steak 'N Ale restaurant, and were guided on a tour of the new TCFA building by Tommy Horndt, who also showed them a film entitled "Finishing Touch," concerning the cattle feeding industry.

The CowBelles' next meeting will be Oct. 20 at 11:45 a.m. at the Hereford Country Club. They will be discussing the upcoming Texas Cattle Feeders Annual Convention, to be held Nov. 8-10 in Fort Worth.

They will be honoring cowbelle of the year.

Mrs. Pauline Robertson, author of the book "Panhandle Pilgrimage," will speak to the group.

It will be guest day for friends and husbands.

The Texas CowBelles Convention will be held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Fort Worth in conjunction with the TCFA convention.

Return To Gold Standard Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mainstream analysts may sputter or laugh, but a small and increasingly influential group of conservative economists is pressing for a return to a national gold standard.

It's the best way, they say, to stop inflation's erosion of the dollar.

Heavy gold coins wearing out your pants pockets? A bag of yellow dust to pay your mortgage? Don't snort too soon. Some of these economists are the folks who brought you President Reagan's big three-year tax-rate cut — another idea once widely scorned.

With the Reagan economic plan ready to go into effect Oct. 1, some of the president's most ardent "supply-side" supporters are now arguing that a gold-based monetary system is absolutely essential to bring down the inflation and high interest rates that are stifling the economy.

The new U.S. Gold Commission, which meets Friday, contains enough skeptics to ensure that its final report will be no full-scale recommendation for the gold standard. But it could conceivably go part way. And the "gold bugs" are assured of getting more public attention.

Their theory has it that U.S. economic problems are largely due to the Federal Reserve Board's inability or unwillingness to control the supply of currency and credit, or to investors' unwillingness to believe that the Federal Reserve and the administration will keep trying to do the same, no matter what.

Jean Lyles displays new book.

Local Artists Publish New Book

Jean Lyles and her son, Charles Lyles, announce the publication of a new art instruction book, "Texas Scenes to Draw and Paint." This is the seventh book in their series of "Draw and Paint" books.

It contains color pictures, detailed drawings, and instructions to assist in painting windmills, cattle, oil wells, bluebonnets, and other Texas scenes.

It is being distributed on a nation-wide basis by Texas Gallery of Hereford.

Both Lyles are well known artists. Their work is represented in private collections throughout the United States.

Currently, their work is being shown by Texas Gallery in Hereford, the Hanging Tree Gallery in Midland, and Smith Ltd. Gallery in Ruidosa, N.M.

Charles and Jean are master instructors. They teach classes at Texas Gallery and also seminars in other shops.

Their schedule this year has taken them to various cities and towns in Texas including Lubbock, Lamesa, El Paso, Mineral Wells, Stephenville, Albany, Muleshoe, Fort Stockton, Pecos, Weatherford, and also to classes in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado and Kansas.

Currently they are booking seminars a year in advance.

American Humor Topic Of LAE Club Program

La Aflatus Estudio Study Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Tresha Hale to hear Mr. Brick Autry, Librarian at Rhodes Memorial Library, Dimmitt, speak on the "History of American Humor."

The Club Collect was lead by Emily Suggs.

Aileen Montgomery, president, conducted the business meeting.

Mr. Autry, introduced by Mary Williamson, began his talk with the humor of the American Revolution pointing out that things that were very funny at the time do not seem so to us, because we do not know the circumstances which caused it. He quoted Benjamin Franklin, David Crockett, and Jack Downing, who is the prototype for Uncle Sam, and ended his talk with a bit of little known humor from Will Rogers.

Co-hostess for the afternoon with Mrs. Hale was Opal Elliston.

Other members present were Alberta Higgins, Mary L. Whiteside, Allyne Johnson, Della Stagner, Lucile Hughes, Irene Markham, Pet Ott and Eva Gilliland.

The next meeting will be Oct. 6 at the home of Irene Markham.

Boring In On Bores

BOSTON (AP) — The seasonal menace of holiday cocktail parties, office bashes and charity wine and cheese get-togethers will soon be upon us, so the time already is overripe to master the self-defense art of warding off bores.

As in any competitive effort requiring a civilizing veneer of sportsmanship, the best defense is a good offense. One need not be rude, if one can out-bore them at the start of a conversation, sneak in a sucker punch of ennui that will catch them off guard.

The trick is to open up with some stultifyingly stuffy sentence, some ponderous belaboring of the obvious that will make a bore back off and seek another victim in the crowd.

But the menace must be dealt with quickly and lethally, because cocktail circuit bores, the most developed of the species, are predatory creatures with the unquenchable appetite of a gypsy moth for gnawing away at a chosen target and the sticking power of a Portuguese man-of-war. They grow more boring with the ages.

"Society," poetized Lord Byron, who rarely passed up a party and knew the subject of his scorn, "is now one polished horde, formed of two mighty tribes: the Bores and the Bored."

Bore avoidance in the busy uncharted conversational seas of a cocktail party is a matter of keen social navigation. One must take evasive action as soon as the menacing jaws of the species surface above the cheese dip and heave into sight — or sound, actually.

There is no lookout to cry "bore Ho!" but one must make for the boats immediately and hurl the first deadly dull harpoon, before the bore begins to blow.

Here are 10 yawn-tested opening lines guaranteed to make a bore skulk off and seek a more vulnerable foe.

1. "Sooner or later supply-side economics is going to have to seek a viable accommodation between European capitalism and Third World socialism, and a return to the gold standard is no solution."

2. "I'm so interested in what makes the other fellow tick, I had the undertaker take me down to his cellar the other day."

3. "These pictures of the grandchildren just arrived this morning and you wouldn't believe how they've grown even cuter."

4. "Take away the British accents from Public Broadcasting and what have you got but a lot of long-haired cello players?"

5. "Do you know the Seamus Heaney poem that begins, 'I was six when I first saw kittens drown'?"

6. "I like to start off the day with the Royal Canadian Air Force exercises and a real he-man breakfast."

7. "You wouldn't believe how long I've had this suit."

8. "Dreams don't add up to a puff of smoke: I agree with Auden that the subconscious is inherently boring."

9. "Gee, it was fun living in the same dorm again at the college reunion and seeing how fat and old some of the gang had got."

10. "I read in a business magazine last week that they now have computers which can keep track of overdue library books anywhere in the country."

The Truth About 55 mph

AS TOLD BY A TEXAS STATE TROOPER

There's been a lot said about the 55 mph speed limit. But I'd like to add something based on my 23 years on the road as a Texas State Trooper.

The law was passed to save gasoline, and it has done just that. But we discovered another benefit—the lower speed saves lives.

Why, in 1975, 16 per cent fewer people were killed because Texans were trying to slow down. But since then, we have started driving faster again on our freeways and state highways. In 1980, 4,424 people were killed. That's an all-time record.

Now I'm not trying to scare you. But I've learned that a person's chances for getting killed increase with higher speed, and driving too fast is one of our leading highway killers.

Why gamble by driving a little faster to get where you're going? Slower speed gives you more time to react...precious time to avoid danger and stop your car or truck. In fact, compared with 55 mph, your chance of being killed in a crash at 70 mph is more than doubled!

I hope you'll remember what I've said the next time you drive. I don't want to have to tell your family that you have been killed in a traffic accident.

Thank you

After Eighth Shutout

Valenzuela's Manager Looking for New Words

By MIKE HARRIS AP Sports Writer
Tommy Lasorda is never at a loss for words, but sensational rookie pitcher Fernando Valenzuela has even the voluble manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers searching for new superlatives for his young left-hander.

“Amazing, amazing, he's some pitcher, what games.” Lasorda sputtered after Valenzuela pitched a record-setting three-hit shutout Thursday night as the Dodgers beat the Atlanta Braves 2-0. “He's simply unbelievable. He just makes that big pitch when he has to have it.”

It was the eighth shutout of the season for Valenzuela, equaling the major league record set by Ewell Russell of the Chicago White Sox in 1913. Three National Leaguers — Irving Young of Boston in 1905, Grover Cleveland Alexander of Philadelphia in 1911 and Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets in 1968 — had seven shutouts in their rookie season.

The 20-year-old Mexican pitcher didn't seem all that impressed by the accomplishment, though. “It's another win for the team, that's what it means,” said Valenzuela through an interpreter when asked what the eighth shutout meant. “It pleases me to get records, but the main thing is I am winning.” Valenzuela, 13-4 with a 2.37 earned run average, leads the National League in victories, complete games (11), shutouts and strikeouts (162). He walked two and struck out six against the PBraves.

The husky pitcher, now hitting .259, also drove in his seventh run of the year with an infield single in the sixth inning. That gave him 15 hits in 58 times at bat.

In other National League games Thursday, St. Louis beat Montreal 7-4, Philadelphia nipped New York 3-2, Houston ripped San Diego 9-0 and Cincinnati tipped San Francisco 1-0 in 10 innings. The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cubs were rained out for the second straight day at Chicago.

Valenzuela held the Braves hitless until Bruce Benedict bounced a single between third and short with two outs in the fifth. The only Atlanta runner to get as far as second base was Royster, who singled with one out in the sixth and advanced on an infield out. But he was picked off by catcher Scioscia to end the inning.

THE HERFORD BRAND SPORTS

Red Sox Ready for Yankees

By DAVE O'HARA AP Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Bringing on the “Damn Yankees.” The Boston Red Sox, playing with an “all-for-one-and-one-for-all” attitude, are ready for the New York Yankees after sweeping the Detroit Tigers.

With Jim Rice driving in four runs with his 15th homer, a double and two singles, the Red Sox made it four in a row over Detroit in a 6-1 victory tant moved Boston to within one-half game of the Tigers in the American League East.

Baltimore closed to within one game and the Yankees, marking time in Boston while off, remained fifth, but now just 1 1/2 games back. “Before, we had a ball club with a lot of talent and didn't win” Rice said after the sweep of Detroit. “Now we've got a ball club that's joined together.”

“Believe me, they're playing for real,” said Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson. “Never in my wildest dreams did I think they'd beat us four straight here. But we'll regroup. I don't know what we'll do, but we'll regroup.”

“This series was important for us to get back into it (race), but I was hoping for three wins that would leave us 2 1/2 games back,” Ralph Houk said. “It would have been crazy to think of a sweep. We just got great pitching in this series.”

As for the series with the Yankees starting tonight, while Detroit invades Cleveland, Houk said: “I'm not thinking of the Yankees' series as much as I am of the 16 games we have left. That's the way I have my pitching lined up. However, I like our club's attitude. I'm an optimist, always have been, and I think the players have to be, too.”

In the only other AL action, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Cleveland Indians 6-2 as Scott McGregor boosted his record to 11-3 while tightening the division race even more.

The idle Milwaukee Brewers moved to within one-half game of the lead, just .004 points behind Boston.

SWC Picked in 7 of 9 Non-conference Games

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer
The Southwest Conference, off to one of its best starts since the 1960s, is favored in seven of nine non-conference football games Saturday.

The Rice Owls were 14-point underdogs to Missouri on the road and the Houston Cougars were a field goal underdog to the tough Miami Hurricanes, also an away game.

The No. 6 ranked Texas Longhorns were a 25-point choice over North Texas in Memorial Stadium; Arkansas was a 26-point favorite over Big 10 foe Northwestern; Texas A&M was a field goal selection over Boston College away; Southern Methodist was a two-touchdown pick over Grambling in Texas Stadium; Texas Tech was a one-point nod over New Mexico in Jones Stadium; Texas Christian was a 21-point pick over Texas-Arlington in Amon Carter Stadium; and Baylor was a 17-point favorite over Louisiana Tech at Shreveport.

The Houston-Miami matchup was the class of the card. “Last year our players thought Miami had the best football players we played against,” said Houston Coach Bill Yeoman. “They beat

Florida so they are just as good this year as we thought. “We will have to get 100 percent better if we want to play with Miami.”

He added “Miami has never been lacking for football players. They are a very, very physical team. It's just hard playing Miami. Every game is a real thumper.”

The Grambling-SMU game is a unique matchup, the first between the two schools. Eddie Robinson, the fourth winningest coach in the history of college football, will take his Louisiana Tigers on the field against an SWC team for the first time.

Eagles Deafeat Bills, 20-14

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — The hostile crowd was fine with quarterback Ron Jaworski, a hometown boy in enemy colors, when his Philadelphia Eagles met the Buffalo Bills Thursday.

Jaworski had all the friends he needed in his own offensive line, supplier of stand-up protection on all but one play while the Lackawanna, N.Y., native threw for 240 yards and two touchdowns in Philadelphia's 20-14 National Football League triumph over the Bills.

The game left the Eagles with a 3-0 record and marked Buffalo's first loss in three contests. “I'm a Bills fan,” said Jaworski, who completed 20 of 32 passes in his first regular-season appearance in Rich Stadium a few miles from his home.

Harold Carmichael early in the third period. The crowd of 78,331 also showed little affection for Jaworski, booing so loudly he had to step away from the line of scrimmage after a roughing-the-passer penalty on defensive end Sherman White with about five minutes to play kept alive a drive to Philadelphia's second field goal.

Bare-footed kicker Tony Franklin, who earlier booted one 29 yards, kicked a 46-yarder to round out scoring.

Jury Decides Celtic Case Today

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A jury returns today to decide whether Boston Celtics players Larry Bird and Dave Cowens attacked a San Antonio Spurs' fan last year, or whether the fan provoked the incident by spitting in Bird's face.

The jurors deliberated 45 minutes Thursday, then decided to return today to render a decision on the $825,000 lawsuit filed by San Antonio truck driver Johnny Merla, 27, a longtime member of the Spurs' Baseline Bums organization.

The jurors were asked to answer six questions to decide whether the Boston players or Spurs' fans provoked the incident. Merla alleged that Bird, an all-star forward, and former center-coach Dave Cowens spat on him and that Bird knocked him to the ground with a duffle bag after a Jan. 5, 1980, game at HemisFair Arena.

Laborers Work Organic Farms Through Sativa

By ROBERT LEE ZIMMER
Associated Press Writer
URBANA, Ill. (AP) — In the Midwest, where chemicals helped make corn the king, it isn't easy to track down an organic farm.

But organic farms do exist amid the rolling fields of Iowa and the flat, rich acres of Indiana.

It is also difficult for organic farmers to find workers they can afford.

But such people also exist, and a young botanist named Mark Boudreau has founded an organization to bring the two together. It's called Sativa, a botanical term meaning "cultivated" or "sown."

"The situation is room and board in exchange for work on the farm," said Boudreau. "The length of stay can range from a weekend to an entire summer — whatever the worker and the grower want."

Boudreau, a recent graduate of the University of Illinois, had worked on organic farms in Britain while studying there. When he returned to the United States in 1979, he patterned Sativa after a group that arranged his farm jobs in Britain.

"It's very difficult to find experience," Boudreau said. "If you're interested in organic agriculture, it's even difficult to get a formal education in it." Organic farmers eschew the use of chemical pesticides and artificial fertilizers.

Sativa has placed about 300 workers on 50 organic farms in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Missouri and Minnesota. Farm owners and workers pay $8 a year for the service.

"The idea is to immerse the workers in the environment of an organic farm and have them become part of the family," said Boudreau, who also runs an organic gardening program for the city of Urbana.

The organic farms range from tiny vegetable and berry patches to large cash grain operations. Workers might be asked to plant and harvest, feed or milk animals, scoop manure, repair buildings and equipment, clear land, cook and can fruit and vegetables or sell produce at local markets.

Living conditions at the 13 Illinois organic farms differ. One near Anna advertises "no hot water or indoor toilet." Another at Rushville encourages "natural medicinal practices, alternatives to present-day birth experiences, child raising and education." One at Freeport promises a "large brick house with adequate space for workers," and another at Cobden encourages workers to "bring musical instruments" and pledges to "help workers start slow process of searching for land in area."

Some farmers are vegetarians; others discourage the use of alcohol and tobacco; many welcome handicapped workers or those with children.

Unlike the highly specialized farms typical of the Cornbelt, organic farms are diversified. Farmers usually produce fruit, vegetables and grain, and raise meat or dairy animals. Some have bees for honey and maple trees for syrup.

"There is a greater tendency for a closed system on an organic farm," Boudreau said. "You grow the grain and feed it to the livestock and keep the manure on the land."

Boudreau said a common misconception is that organic farmers can't earn enough to make a living because of their relatively low crop yields. He said that even with yields slightly lower, organic farmers save money by not buying expensive fertilizer and chemicals.

He said many of them also save money by using alternative energy sources such as wind, solar, alcohol or methane.

Just as the farms vary widely, so do the people who want to work on them, Boudreau said. "There are some who just want a cheap way to get out of the city and into the country. But a lot of our members are thinking about getting their own land and raising food, so they want the practical experience."

Even for someone with a casual interest, working on an organic farm can be interesting and educational, said Boudreau.

"People learn to can one of these farms and they can use that skill in their kitchens in the suburbs."

Boudreau said organic farming offers better health by avoiding contact with chemicals. He said it also helps the environment and preserves its most valuable asset, the soil.

Flowing grass and manure back into the earth provides natural fertilizer and maintains the structure of the soil so it holds more water, does not pack into hard clumps and is not easily washed or blown away.

Common farming practice returns nothing natural to the soil and eventually will spoil it, he said.

Organic farming "restores the soil — it is a system that can last indefinitely," Boudreau said.

IRAN: The Revolution Rolls On

Almost three years after the fall of the shah, stability continues to elude the Iranian revolution. A growing and increasingly effective opposition demonstrated its ability to strike at the heart of the revolutionary regime with the assassination of the new president and prime minister. The primary conflict is between the religious leaders and the People's Mojahedin, young Islamic socialists, overshadowing quarrels with Kurds and other dissident minorities and the stalemated war with Iraq.

Surgery Not Always Best For Snake Bite, Reports Doctor

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Snakebite — though few die of it — can cripple and disfigure, and now a Texas Tech physician says hospital treatment might be worse than the bite if it includes surgery.

But doctors at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston say surgery has caused the number of amputations resulting from snakebite to drop to almost zero.

The conflicting views appeared in the September issue of Texas Medicine, the journal of the Texas Medical Association.

The articles said about 7,000 persons are bitten by poisonous snakes in the United States every year but less than 1 percent die.

"Surgery as the primary mode of management for the treatment of snakebite may be more harmful than helpful and may indeed be worse than the bite," says Dr. Edgar O. Ledbetter, chairman of the Department of Pediatrics at the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center in Lubbock.

Ledbetter urged aggressive use of antivenin instead of the common practice of cutting away tissue into which venom has spread.

Dr. Ted Huang, S.J. Blackwell and S.R. Lewis of the Galveston medical school's Department of Surgery, said records of 269 snakebite cases treated in the school's hospitals between 1952 and 1979 prove the value of surgical treatment.

They said 63 patients were treated between 1952 and 1970, when surgery became the primary method of treatment. The other 206 patients were treated after 1970.

"None of the ... patients who received primary care at our hospitals (after 1970) required antivenin," the Galveston doctors said.

Between 1952 and 1970, amputation of fingers was required in 31.9 percent of the cases involving the hand, and 10 percent of the cases involving bites to the foot resulted in amputations, they said.

"With a more aggressive attitude in removing tissues contaminated with venom, as we have adopted since 1970, the incidence of infection around the site of envenomation has been nil. The incidence of deformity has decreased to 0.49 percent," the UT Medical Branch surgeons said.

Ledbetter urged "medical management" rather than surgery, saying that in other states with large numbers of snakebites, physicians are getting "outstanding results" with intravenous injection of antivenin.

"The effectiveness of various snakebite antivenins has been well proven throughout the world where envenomations of a much more serious nature than commonly seen in the United States occur regularly. It is therefore surprising that a reluctance to rely on antivenin persists among many U.S. physicians," he said.

Risks of the surgical approach include infection, blood loss, accidents involving anesthetics, disfigurement and the subsequent need for reconstructive surgery later, Ledbetter asserted.

"Despite the proven effectiveness of medical management for most cases, surgical procedures will likely remain popular as long as emergency rooms are supervised by surgically oriented personnel and as long as other physicians remain reluctant to manage these victims medically," he said.

Huang, Blackwell and Lewis said in their article that they moved away from the use of antivenin and other "medical" therapies because of "our increasing concern over the morbidity (such as tissue death) encountered in patients who had received only medical treatment."

First aid for snakebite also has been a subject of considerable debate over the years, with various approaches — such as the use of ice — passing into and out of vogue.

Ledbetter said that since most snakebite victims reach a hospital within 30 minutes, "first aid measures are of relatively minor importance."

He said there are dangers in cutting into a bitten area to suck out venom, including infection and removal of excessive amounts of tissue fluids.

In India, wandering blacksmiths travel in bullock carts and operate roadside forges. They are descended from armorers who fled the fort of Chitorgarh in February 1568, the night before it fell to conquering armies. Shamed by their escape, they vowed never again to settle in houses. The Lohar caste follows this injunction today.

Guide Shows 99 Ways to Cut Taxes

Though the average taxpayer has put the Internal Revenue Service out of his mind for this year, he would be wrong to think the IRS has forgotten about him. Taxes are a year-round business, not only for the IRS, but also for the wise taxpayer—and what he does (or does not do) now will be reflected in next April's tax return.

On this subject, Tax Information Center, an Ohio firm specializing in year-round tax planning, has just published "99 Legal Ways to Slash Your Income Taxes." This guide, which is available without charge from Tax Information Center in New Concord, Ohio, is an effort to help American taxpayers realize they can reduce their tax burden month by month throughout the year.

According to the guide, the Internal Revenue Code allows many tax-saving techniques that most taxpayers aren't aware of. For instance, a trust created for one's children can significantly reduce the family income tax bite because the parents can loan (for 10 years and one day) some for their income-producing assets to a low-cost trust for the children's benefit. Income generated within the trust stays within the family, but is taxed at the children's and the trust's relatively lower rates. This also allows the trust creator to take advantage of unused exemptions belonging to the trust and the children.

Another point from "99 Legal Ways to Slash Your Income Taxes" is if the taxpayer mentioned above owns income-producing rental property, he can sell the land to the trust. The trust can then charge him ground rent for the land under the building. That ground rent will be tax-deductible to him and taxable to the children's trust at a lower rate.

For many business or professional people, the establishment of a corporation can open up a floodgate of deductions. For instance, annual company contributions to an IRS-approved corporate pension plan or profit-sharing plan are fully tax deductible (employees' voluntary contributions out of their own pay are not deductible to either the corporation or the employees, but grow tax-free). The company and employee contributions grow completely free of current income taxes on interest income, dividends, capital gains, etc., while assets are growing during the pre-retirement period.

Taxes and romance don't usually mix, but those planning to wed at year's end might be wise to consider the tax consequences. In many cases, a married working couple will pay more in taxes than the combined total tax liability of two single individuals. By postponing marriage vows from December until January, the couple will circumvent the "marriage tax" for at least one year.

These, and 96 other tax-saving hints, are contained in the tax guide "99 Legal Ways to Slash Your Income Taxes," published by Tax Information Center.

To obtain a free copy, send a stamped, self-addressed business size envelope (approximately 9 1/2 by 4 1/4 inches) to Tax Information Center, 68210 Boden Road, New Concord, Ohio, 43762.

SEE AUTUMN'S BEAUTY THROUGH EYES OF FAITH

The climax in our orbit of the sun is when at last the summer days are done. When shades of green give way to autumn's gold. The richest of the seasons will unfold. The leaves become arrayed in brilliant hue. Before their turn to disappear from view in brief descending spirals through the air. Propelled by winds that strip the branches bare. Through eyes of faith you'll see this all displayed. The wonders of this world that God has made are never more alive than in the fall. Through Church, you will appreciate them all.

— Gloria Nowak

"A land which the Lord thy God careth for; the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year even unto the end of the year."
— Deuteronomy 11:12

Some of us call it Autumn, And others call it God.
— William Herbert Carruth
