State's goals stated

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Roland Saul Friday told jurors in the Robert Strain trial that the state "intends to prove to you that he (Strain) had stolen items in his barn, that he bought most of them from Thomas Martinez and that he knew they were stolen."

Strain, 52, is charged with felony theft. The prosecution is headed by Saul, criminal district attorney in Deaf Smith County.

Saul made his opening remarks when the jury was ushered in at about 10 a.m. His comments followed a ruling by 22nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley that the search warrant used to gain entry to Strain's barn last Aug. 15 was legal and properly prepared.

Gulley also gave prosecutors permission to introduce evidence supporting their claim that Strain had purchased stolen merchandise on occasions other than the one named in the indictment now being tried.

Furthermore the judge ruled oral and written statements offered by Strain the day of the raid were "freely and voluntarily made." Law enforcement officers, Gulley said, had not intended to frighten or coerce Strain as defense attorney Travis Shelton had suggested.

"This is not an isolated incident," Saul told the jury. "This had been going on for many months."

First to take the witness stand was Texas Ranger

Warren Yeager, who recalled for jurors the events of Aug. 15. Yeager was one of three Texas Rangers present when allegedly stolen merchandise was taken from Strain's barn to the Little Bull Barn in Hereford.

It was during Yeager's testimony that a written statement given Aug. 15 by Strain was read to the court.

Dictating the statement to Yeager, Strain told of meeting Martinez "three or four years ago." He said the Lubbock man was a cousin of Daniel Martinez, a former employee of Strain's.

Strain indicated that Martinez first offered to sell him things two years ago, beginning with small shop tools and later bringing larger items such as farm equipment and a stock trailer. He testified that he also bought guns from Martinez.

Later in the trial, Shelton offered a sentence deleted from the statement as it was presented by the district attorney's office. Saul said his office was legally permitted to take out the sentence because it was one that they "did not wish to vouch for." Saul objected to Shelton having the sentence read, but Gulley overruled the objection.

"Thomas always posed as a legal trader to me, and I did not know that any of the items I bought from him were stolen," Strain had told Yeager.

investigation. He said manager Tony Cortez identified the pistol last week.

Cortez then testified that the pistol was stolen on Feb. 17, 1982 and that he was able to identify it by the serial number.

Witnesses the remainder of the afternoon included many of the farmers whose remarks were heard in the pretrial activity. The men told of reporting thefts from their farms and later picking the merchandise up in Hereford following Strain's arrest.

Longest on the witness stand was Dawn farmer Ted Richardson, a friend and neighbor to Strain who said the two had once owned equipment together. Under cross-examination by Shelton, he said he was often in Strain's barn and was never prevented from entering the structure.

Richardson had acquired an air compressor from Strain shortly before the raid, one which turned out to be stolen. Another friend of (See STRAIN, Page 2A)

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says it is useless to try to hold a person to anything he says while he is madly in love, drunk, or running for office.

Five-year-old Terry was one of the boys recently confined to his bed with chickenpox at the Boys Ranch Clinic.

There was another problem, however, according to a story from the Boys Ranch Roundup monthly newspaper. Terry would not stay confined. Like a whirling dervish, he was running all over the ward, climbing and jumping with the kind of wild abandon known only to five-year-olds.

For the third time that morning, the nurse remade his bed, and finally in exasperation, she asked:

"Terry, if you were the nurse and I was the little boy patient, and I had caused you all of this trouble, what would you say?"

Terry thought long and hard, then replied, "I wuv you wittle boy patient!"

One of the joys of driving the highways and byways years ago was to watch the Berna Shave signs that kept a running dialogue along the side of the roads of this country.

The childhood days of watching for Berna Shave signs come back to haunt us even now as we are on the road and looking for unique signs and messages.

Most of the time now it's bumper stickers, but the bumper signs will never compare with Berna Shave...there's not enough bumper space. Berna Shave would spread them out for several hundred yards - maybe a half-mile or so if it was a long, catch saying.

Really unique signs are tough to find these days since signboards have been eliminated to a great extent. But, a friend of ours recently noted signs he had discovered various places and businesses around a territory he covered.

In New Mexico, a sign read: "4,029 people died of gas in this state last year. Two inhaled, it, 27 put a lighted match to it, and 4,000 stepped on it."

In a barber shop: "Hair cut while you wait."

In a reducing salon: "Flabby will get you nowhere."

On a church: "Please come in psalm time."

In a photo lab: "Some day your print will come in."

On a plumbing truck: "Take me to your leaker."

At the florist: "Light up your life - plant bulbs."

At a sign shop: "I made signs before I could talk."

In a men's store: "No one else could suit you."

At a bank: "It makes cents to get your dollars here."

In a music store: "Gone Chopin, Bach in a minuet."

The psychology instructor had just finished a lecture on mental health and was giving an oral test. Speaking specifically about manic depression, she asked: "How would you diagnose a patient who walks back and forth screaming at the top of his lungs one minute, then sits in a chair weeping the next?"

A young man in the rear of the class raised his hand and answered, "A basketball coach?"

Moscow goal of peaceful Californian

By STAN GODEK
Staff Writer

Although it exists, people would just as soon not think that with a push of the button, we could all be blown into oblivion or be affected some other way by thermo-nuclear war.

Relations between the Soviet Union and the United States have reached the lowest point in memory. Whoever is to blame, something must be done.

Dale James Outhouse, 26, is committed to world peace. To prove his point, Outhouse is in the process of walking 8,500 miles from California, to Washington D.C., and then through Europe and (if the Soviets allow him) to Moscow.

Outhouse passed through Hereford earlier in the week and had made his way to Canyon as of Saturday. Outhouse will be joined by other walkers throughout the journey but he is the only one who would complete the entire trip.

"We're trying to convey a spiritual and moral perspective. There are many major problems in the world, the arms race, hunger and ecological problems. All of us must come together and understand the destructive potential of certain nations," Outhouse said.

He said he is gathering letters and other messages from people and will deliver them to President Reagan and Soviet officials in an effort to get a "people to people message" into the world's political realm.

"The Soviet Union is perceived as our greatest enemy today," so it should be approached by the people since leaders have failed to create any disarming of nuclear bombs.

"We all have a common denominator, we're all trying to deal with this incredibly dangerous problem," said Outhouse. "The Soviets and Americans are going to have to live together or all perish together... all governments must uphold human dignity."

Some people have scoffed at Outhouse's group "A Walk of the People" and a Soviet official recently sent a telegram saying it would be unwise or futile to attempt to cross the Soviet border en route to Moscow.

Outhouse is scheduled to arrive in Moscow October of 1985. But he and others walking through Europe will have no visas and no guarantees that the Russians will grant him entry into the Communist country.

When he was asked what would the peace walkers do if denied entry, Outhouse said,

Williamson hoping for HISD post

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor

Describing Hereford as "a garden spot" compared to his native Odessa, Marc L. Williamson was here last week to apply for a local school district administration post.

The Fredricksburg Middle School principal has been recommended by Dr. Harrell Holder, superintendent of the Hereford Independent School District. Board members are to consider the nomination at either their regular June meeting or a special session in the meantime.

Williamson, 30, would replace John Walch as HISD assistant superintendent for instruction. On July 1, Walch is to become superintendent of the school district in Mason.

During his six years at the Fredricksburg school, Williamson also served as assistant principal. His other professional experiences include language arts teaching at the sixth-through-eighth grade level and an administrative internship at a middle school in New Braunfels.

After graduating first in his class at San Marcos High School, Williamson achieved a 3.89 undergraduate grade point average at Southwest Texas State University. His graduate work at STSU yielded straight "As" and a major in educational administration.

One matter with which Walch's predecessor must deal is the district's recently-enacted reading program and its mastery learning concept. During a lunch meeting with school board members last week, Williamson was frequently called to explain how such matters were implemented and received at his current school.

For the last three years, he explained, there have been standardized mathematics and reading programs at Fredricksburg. Placement of students in levels indicated by testing, he said, proved difficult at first. Williamson claimed, however, parents and their kids are now "accepting it much better."

Middleton commits suicide

Deaf Smith County resident Don Middleton, 42, apparently ended his life with a .22-caliber rifle shot to his chest Friday between 11:15 and 11:30 a.m.

County Coroner O.K. Neal, who also serves as justice of the peace, ruled the chest injuries were self-inflicted. The suicide was committed at Middleton's residence in Wildorado, located north of Dawn. Though still alive when an ambulance arrived, he was declared dead on arrival at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

More details concerning Middleton and his survivors are to appear in an obituary in either today's or Tuesday's Brand. Rix Funeral Home is handling the arrangements.

Commissioners to gather

Hereford City Commissioners are to consider five items at their regularly-scheduled 7:30 p.m. meeting Monday in City Hall, 224 N. Lee Ave.

Following approval of their May 7 minutes, city fathers are to request bids on radio equipment. Then, representatives from King's Manor Methodist Home are to discuss plans regarding expansion.

The gathering is to conclude with the establishment of a public hearing on paving and authorization of bids for a submersible pump for a water well.

Absentee voting detailed

Absentee voting is to run just seven days for those wishing to cast their ballots ahead of the primary run-off elections scheduled for June 2.

Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland said absentee voting starts Wednesday and should conclude May 29. Voting is to be conducted from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, at the county clerk's office.

Those who are over 65, plan to be out of town or are physically handicapped are allowed to vote absentee, which can be handled through the mail.

Williamson and his spouse, Laurie, have two children.

Krueger concedes race defeat
AUSTIN (AP) — Democrat Bob Krueger, who finished third in the U.S. Senate contest, says he will not seek a statewide recount because he is convinced the ballot totals will not change.
"I just don't think those votes were cast on election day," the former congressman told a Capitol news conference Friday.
Krueger's decision clears the way for a June 2 runoff between U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock and State Sen. Lloyd Doggett of Austin for the Democratic nomination. Hance led Doggett by only 273 votes.
The winner meets U.S. Rep. Phil Gramm of College Station, who easily won the Republican nomination, in the November general election.
Krueger said he would support the Democratic nominee in November but it was too soon to say if he would endorse either Hance or Doggett.

Lucas charged in three slayings
LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A prosecutor says it's "sort of scary" that self-proclaimed mass killer Henry Lee Lucas was able to remember details of slayings that took place as far back as 13 years ago.
Lucas was charged Friday with two counts of capital murder and one count of murder after taking law officers back to the scenes of the stabbing deaths of three Lubbock women, said Lubbock County District Attorney Jim Bob Darnell.
"It's sort of scary that anyone can recall in vivid detail the circumstances that happened 14 years ago and, not being familiar with the community, being able to direct people to the location 10 to 15 years later," Darnell said.
Lucas is charged with murder in the 1971 stabbing death of Naomi Miller Martin and capital murder in the 1975 slaying of Deborah Sue Williamson and the 1976 killing of Elizabeth Price.

Groups say Hance distorts issue
AUSTIN (AP) — A spokesman for an Hispanic organization charged Friday that U.S. Senate candidate Kent Hance has "shamefully distorted" the facts on immigration to gain votes at the expense of Mexican-Americans.
William Velasquez of the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project was joined at a news conference by spokesmen for two other Hispanic organizations, the Mexican-American Democrats and the American GI Forum.
Although critical of Hance, who is in a runoff with state Sen. Lloyd Doggett for the Democratic nomination, the spokesman said their organizations had not endorsed a candidate.
Velasquez said Hance "has shamefully distorted the facts in this case and has achieved his intended goal: he has polarized the Texas electorate and has gotten the citizens of Texas to go at each other's throats over the issue."

Automaker sought $50 million
LOS ANGELES (AP) — In testimony that drew gasps from the packed courtroom at John Z. De Lorean's drug trafficking trial, a government informant testified that the celebrity automaker boasted of using cocaine money to start his sports car company.
James Timothy Hoffman, a confessed drug smuggler and the prosecution's controversial key witness, also accused De Lorean of eagerly seeking a $50 million heroin deal to rescue his falling car company.
The 59-year-old automaker, charged with conspiring to distribute $24 million worth of cocaine to save his sinking business, smiled and shook his head in disbelief. Outside the courtroom, chief defense lawyer Howard Weitzman accused Hoffman of lying and said it was "ludicrous" to think De Lorean would have bragged of starting his company with drug profits.

Raytheon to close manufacturing
LEXINGTON, Mass. (AP) — Raytheon Co. says fierce competition and price wars have forced the closing of its computer division, which lost $6.2 million in the first four months of this year, and the layoff of 1,600 workers worldwide.
Over the past 13 years, Raytheon Data Systems Co. has produced and sold data terminals, word processors and related systems for industrial, commercial and government customers. Customers include some 165 airlines that have purchased 200,000 units around the world.
"As we look ahead we no longer see a profit opportunity for Raytheon to continue to serve these markets," said Raytheon Chairman Thomas Phillips in Friday's announcement. "We have concluded that the best alternative in the interests of the company, its stockholders and its customers, is to phase out this portion of our business."

Duarte heads for Washington
SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President-elect Jose Napoleon Duarte wrapped up a three-nation Central American trip and prepared to go today to Washington for a meeting with President Reagan.
President Reagan on Friday characterized Duarte as "a man who has dedicated his life to achieving democracy and reform for his homeland." Duarte, a moderate Christian Democrat, was elected May 6. He and Reagan were scheduled to meet on Monday.
Duarte returned to El Salvador on Friday from Costa Rica, where he conferred with President Luis Alberto Monge. On Thursday, he met with the heads of state in Honduras and Guatemala.

No troops in Central America
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid says he has been assured by President Reagan that no U.S. combat troops will be sent to Central America.
De la Madrid returned Thursday from a four-day trip to Washington, his first official visit to the United States. While there, he conferred with Reagan and addressed a joint session of Congress.
"President Reagan told me that it is not his intention to send North American troops to Central America," de la Madrid said in a 30-minute televised speech Friday night.
"I am very glad I reiterated the conviction of Mexico that the intervention of those people and the use of force is not the solution."

Iran-bound ship sunk today

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A merchant ship sank today after being attacked in the Persian Gulf waters southwest of Iran's Kharg Island, shipping sources in Bahrain said.
The 17,000-ton bulk carrier, the Fidelity, was carrying steel destined for Bandar Khomeini, an Iranian port, the sources said. They said it was possibly hit by Iraqi warplanes 24 hours before it sank. Sources in Bahrain and Dubai said that a Spanish supertanker escaped an attack at the same time.
Iraq announced early Friday it had hit two "big" naval targets near Kharg.
Lloyd's Shipping Intelligence in London, which receives shipping casualty reports worldwide, said the ship was hit by an unidentified missile, and was believed to have been attacked either late Friday or early today.
Lloyd's said the Fidelity was of Panamanian registry, but sources in Bahrain said it flew a Panamanian-flag but was of Greek registry.
The Bahrain sources said 21 crew members were rescued and 12 others escaped in lifeboats. A Lloyd's spokesman said it was not known immediately how many crew members the vessel was carrying.
Lloyd's agents in Bahrain issued an alert that said: "Please send any help. All ships please keep a sharp lookout. Need helicopter assistance search."
Marine sources in Bahrain, Kuwait and Dubai said the first signal picked up from the Fidelity indicated it was ablaze late Friday and the last signal, received at 1:40 a.m. today, said clearly it was sinking.
They said that Panamanian-registered bulk-carrier, the Cathy Mylo, rescued some of the crew members. Iranian helicopters reportedly some crew members, also.
The sources said the Fidelity was hit in Iranian territorial waters southwest of Kharg.
Attacks by both Iran and Iraq on Arab and Western oil tankers have increased sharply. The United States has offered air cover to the vessels of gulf Arab countries.
Iran has threatened to close the gulf's Strait of Hormuz, through which passes percent of the non-communist world's crude oil. The United States has repeatedly declared its commitment to keeping the strait open.
In Kuwait, the Cabinet of Ministers discussed the gulf tanker situation at its third emergency meeting in six days under the emir, Sheik Jaber al-Ahmed.
Meanwhile, the operations director of the Kuwait Oil Tanker Co. said that "air protection is necessary" for tankers in the gulf.
Tim Stigrod said the company's 23 tankers will "continue to operate in the gulf despite the recent attacks" on the Kuwaiti oil tankers Umm Qasbah and Bahra last Sunday and Monday.
Iranian warplanes have been blamed for the attacks on the Kuwaiti vessels and a Saudi Arabian tanker.
In earlier boasts, Iraq has claimed attacking two Saudi tankers near Kharg. Attacks by both Iran and Iraq on oil tankers in the gulf have increased sharply. The Iraq-Iran war began after Iraq invaded Iran in September 1980 in a dispute of the only Iraqi waterway into the Persian Gulf, a key route for oil tankers.

The six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council has blamed Iran for attacks on two Kuwaiti oil tankers this week and planned to take its complaints to the Arab League at its meeting in Tunisia today.
The council has not mentioned Iraqi attacks on tankers.
Council members are Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Oman, United States and any nation that jeopardizes free navigation in the gulf.
Iraq belongs to the 21-nation Arab League. Iran is a Persian, not an Arab, nation. The other gulf allies are officially neutral in the Iran-Iraq war, but they are reliably reported to have given more than $35 billion for Iraqi war efforts against Iran.
Speaking in Tunis on Friday, Arab League Secretary General Chadli Klibi deplored the attacks on the Kuwaiti tankers.

These were honored for the third and fourth 9-week periods. The students were presented with pens by Lion President Ed Line.

Mondale, Hart knock each other

By JERRY ESTILL, Associated Press Writer
Walter F. Mondale, accusing Gary Hart of talking a better fight than he fights on arms control and the environment, challenged the Colorado senator on Friday to repudiate his support for the nuclear weapons buildup proposal.
Hart, meanwhile, continued to hammer at Mondale's labor connection as the two leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination aimed their tit-for-tat campaigns at New Jersey voters.
The Rev. Jesse Jackson was on the other coast, slogging through the horse stables at Hollywood Park in Los Angeles and decrying a racing industry he said is "built on the shoulders" of underpaid and maltreated exercise boys and grooms.
New Jersey and California are the most populous of the five states holding primaries June 5 to allocate the last batch of popularly elected delegates before the Democrats' July national convention.
On the Republican side, Richard Wirthlin, principal pollster for President Reagan, told the party's national executive committee Friday that his data shows Reagan leading both Mondale and Hart.
Wirthlin said the president's margin over Mondale was 51 to 43, while it was Mondale said the nuclear buildup — where two old weapons would be scrapped for every new one built — is "at war with the freeze" and has the support of the Reagan administration.

The former vice president, campaigning in a state where toxic waste is a major issue, also giggered Hart on the environment — saying the senator failed to vote on the superfund bill to clean up toxic waste dumps.
"He didn't attend one hearing," said Mondale. "He was missing and didn't vote on the bill when it passed. If that's his commitment to the environment and cleaning up toxic wastes as president ... God help us."
Hart spent most of Thursday touring waste dumps in the Garden State and told New Jersey voters he would ask Congress to increase the superfund tenfold if elected president.
On Friday, just before leaving New Jersey for Idaho and California, Hart got in another yank at Mondale for the way he has handled his association with state groups working on his behalf who accepted contributions from labor political action committees.
Mondale said Thursday he is putting $400,000 in an escrow account to refund the money once a mechanism for doing that is worked out with the Federal Election Commission.

WALKING
"We have to wait and see what happens at the border. If not allowed entry, we might start a fast or a sit-down."
There is no political motive for the walk except world peace. "We're not endorsing specific issues like the freeze... We're not pointing the finger at who's in the White House. We're all part of the problem and part of the solution too."
The walk is being financed through donations from people and certain churches, who give shelter, food and contributions.
"I've had people stop off the highway and give contributions," said Outhouse, a former political science major.
He said he has been blessed with "good walking feet" and the most difficult thing is battling the elements such as sand storms, high winds and rain.
Anyone can take part in the walk but there are certain rules. No alcohol and drugs are allowed, and walkers must be committed to non-violence.

Vows exchanged in afternoon ceremony

Rosa Linda Rodriguez and Eduardo Govea, of Hobart, Ind., exchanged wedding vows Saturday afternoon in Veterans Park with Joe Valdez, minister at the Spanish Church of Christ in Dimmitt, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rodriguez of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Govea of Mesa, Ariz.

Darlene Rodriguez, the bride's sister, served as maid of honor and the bridegroom's father was best man.

Bridesmaids included Sheila Trujillo, Delia Mungia, Dana Trevino and Rosemary Valdez of Lubbock, a cousin, Frank Abalos, Irvin Hudges, David Ortiz and Joe Belgara of Lubbock, a cousin, served as groomsmen.

Veil carriers were J.J. Gaytan and Jessica Arredondo. Mary Louise Cantu was flower girl and Lance Ortiz was ring bearer.

Steve Gilbert and Sheri Blevins sang "Endless Love" and "There is Love."

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a white chiffon formal wedding gown featuring silk ribbons and appliqued trim, high collar and lace bodice with a V-shaped ruffle, and leg-omutton sheer sleeves trimmed with appliques. The chapel-length train was enhanced with rows of lace ruffles.

Her lace-trimmed floor-length veil was attached to a beaded lace headpiece, and she carried a white lace fan with attached arched bouquet of burgundy and pink roses trimmed with baby's breath and greenery.

The bride wore gold earrings accented with small diamonds and cultured pearls.

Her attendants were attired in floor-length pink bridal original gowns designed with one ruffle at the bottom extending across the front at an angle and ending at the waistline. Each carried a silk rose trimmed with baby's breath and greenery and tied with a burgundy bow.

The flower girl's dress was styled the same only in burgundy. She carried a glass basket filled with white, pink and red roses.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Central Church of Christ. Guests were registered by Sarah Alonzo.

Hope Torres served cake and Vickie Ortiz served punch. Others assisting were Nina Vera, Elena Cortez and Matilde Hernandez.

The bride's padrinos and madrinas included Messrs. and Mmes. Jerry Camerillo, cake; Jimmy Moreno, pillows; Willie Rodriguez Jr., cake; Felix Mungia, arch; Ray Guerrero, photo album; marcario Arredondo, bride's bouquet; and Zepeda, knives and bride and groom cups.

Two 3-layered bride's cakes were centered by a small white arch covered with greenery and white silk flowers and topped with wedding bells. Bride and groom figurines descending a white carpeted staircase were attended by bridesmaids, groomsmen and veil carriers. A fountain placed behind the arch showered the bride and groom.

The groom's one layered chocolate cake was hexagonal-shaped and centered with vines and fresh, dark grapes.

As the couple left for a wedding trip to Mount Pocono, Penn., the bride wore a summer-spreed checkered dress with an angled ruffle at the bottom. The couple will be at home after May 30 at Quantico, Va.

Out of town guests included the bride's brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rodriguez Jr. of Canyon and Bennie Rodriguez of Fort Bragg, N.C.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of Hereford High School. She is currently serving in the United States Marine Corps stationed in Quantico.

The bridegroom is a 1976 graduate of Hammond High School in Hammond, Inc. He is presently serving in the United States Marine Corps Reserve.

Louise's Latest

By LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent
I know Mother's Day has come and gone but I'd like to share with you a few things about last Sunday. I got my first real Mother's Day gift. Cards and gifts made in kindergarten and children's groups don't count.

On Saturday my two middle children, Bryan and Allison, biked downtown. They picked a card and got a single yellow carnation. The florist charged them just what they had which I'm sure was much less than she sells her carnations for. My neighbor nurtured the posey in her refrigerator till Mother's Day.

On Mother's Day, both hastily got ready for Sunday School which is unusual - the haste, that is. They had to go outside a minute. In they came with the most beautiful flower I've ever seen. My older son Stuart's comment was "What kind of weed is that" about the airy green foliage. The card was so sweet.

It was a sweet day. At that age I would never have had the nerve to set out on my bicycle and $2 in my pocket to buy my Mother a gift. They were so cute. I know they were doing something for me but it was top secret until Mother's Day.

To top the day off, David (husband) called later in the afternoon to wish me a happy Mother's Day. I was unable to be with my newest son, Ronald, but I heard him sing on the telephone.

I feel it's hard to put in words what I felt but maybe you Mothers can understand what I'm trying to say. It was a special day. That lone yellow carnation will be remembered forever. A thousand dollars couldn't have meant more - well maybe. No, indeed, my flower was priceless.

U.S. health care not all that bad

The hospital business in recent months has been turned upside down.

And how does anybody translate into shirt-sleeve English the legalistic, legislative and procedural factors which confront and frequently confound health-care professionals: Diagnostic-related groupings, prospective pricing, cost-containment...

During an election year "the bottom line" can become an obsession. So be it. Hospitals are trimming fat. Eighty percent of hospitals are presently practicing shared services and group purchasing.

More than a thousand hospitals are sub-contracting to professionals housekeeping, laundry, materials management, food service, plant operation and maintenance...at an annual savings of incalculable millions.

Hospitals thus served, in energy costs alone have saved $15 million in two years.

In-patient hospital expenses last year increased 14.2 percent in one quarter.

This year's increase is running only one-third that.

Within five years, 40 percent of all surgeries will be performed the day the patient enters the hospital...

Or will be performed on an out-patient basis, with no hospitalization at all.

Understand something: Hospital expenses will continue to increase faster than most other things - if only because they are doing their job so well - keeping us alive longer - so that there are ever-more elderly Americans requiring health care.

And the hospital has to hire two people - at ever increasing wages - to care for every one of those.

Yet, I know of five hospitals which have lowered their room rates this year from 15 to 25 percent.

Much of the hospitals' overburden in recent years has been our fault...

When we, without any valid medical purpose, used hospitals to warehouse elderly relatives...

When we opted for less than necessary elective procedures...

When we, with our ceaseless threat of malpractice lawsuits, required hospitals to run a plethora of surplus diagnostic tests.

Health care professionals have been too ethical, too polite, to blame us for their problem.

That consideration notwithstanding, this, to me, is the "bottom line":

In 1950 children with cancer had virtually no chance of surviving. Today 50 percent do.

This is "the bottom line": Life expectancy in our lifetime has gone from 47 years to 74.6.

Medical, nutritional and sanitational sciences have added a full year to your life in the last 48 months.

Said another way, during the last four years, an additional year was added to your lifetime.

We have been demanding self-discipline of our medical institutions, and it's right that we should.

Dare we practice what we preach?

Starting now, we can live a healthy, active hundred years - if we want to.

Because most of what hospitalizes and-or kills us is self-inflicted, resulting from misuse of drugs, venereal disease, over-drinking, over-eating.

No...

The bottom line is not the fact that health care for Americans absorbs 9-to-10 percent of our nation's GNP.

The bottom line is that - for all that it costs and for all that it isn't - health care in the United States is the finest in this world.

National Hospital Week coincides with the birthday of Florence Nightingale.

Were she to survey any hospital today, she would be less hypercritical than we of imperfections.

She would be awed.

And I think she would be proud.

As the Years Turn

75 YEARS AGO

Last Sunday the churches tested the question of "hats off in church." At the Baptist Church, the vote was taken and resulted in the "no-view" victory, both the men and women voting for "hats." The vote stood with the men, 22 to 14 against removal, with the women, 31 to 21 against removal.

At the Methodist Church, the "hats off" scored a victory, resulting in a unanimous vote for "hats off."

At the Christian Church, no vote was taken, the pastor announcing that the board with many of the members, the ladies concurring, that the large hats hindered the service and therefore requested that the women remove their hats.

At the Presbyterian Church, the ladies voted 19 to 16 in favor of "hats off" but only about one-third participated in the voting.

50 YEARS AGO

A half dozen projects manned by relief labor are underway in the county. More than a dozen men are employed building bleachers and improving the grounds at the high school athletic field. Two community gardens are well underway.

Deaf Smith County joined in the Panhandle-wide fight to get the area's just dues in the way emergency drought relief. The fight, sponsored by Gene A. Howe of the Amarillo News, has been taken direct to President Roosevelt.

25 YEARS AGO

About $65,000 worth of equipment and services was approved by Hereford Rural High School District trustees during a special meeting Friday night.

Light to heavy rainfall, seasoned with a sprinkle of hail, left varied amounts of moisture in Deaf Smith County Thursday. Hereford's official rain gauge at City Hall recorded .76 of an inch.

10 YEARS AGO

Southwestern Public Service Co. announced Wednesday afternoon it will seek a general rate increase of 10 percent to be effective as of the September billings.

Hereford City Commission at its Monday meeting approved building a 12 unit hanger at the municipal airport and awarded the construction contract to Hallmark Builders of Amarillo for its low bid of $76,387.

1 YEAR AGO

Roving packs of killer tornadoes truck twice in southeast Texas, leaving 10 people dead, dozens injured, hundreds homeless and thousands without electricity, while rains continued to soak storm battered Mississippi and Louisiana today.

Hereford is in dire need of blood donors-about 700 to replace the quantities used since the first of the year.

The Penultimate Word

Readers of this column have chuckled, pondered, and enjoyed the rantings and ramblings of Doug Manning as he has poked fun and made us think about people and happenings. It is long over-due that his turn has come to be on the hot-seat. Therefore, his article space has been hijacked so someone can finally get the last word.

Being an off-spring of Doug Manning has been a learning experience in how to view life with a slightly off-beat sense of humor. There has rarely been any neutral ground of opinion surrounding him. The simple phrase, "Oh! You're Doug Manning's daughter," could imply effusive praise or cold censure, depending on the voice inflection. I learned very early in life when to own up to my heritage and when to pretend that I was an orphan.

I learned the art of self-acceptance from being raised on the Velvetten Rabbit rather than Dr. Spock.

I learned the thrill of accepting risks by staying in the same house with Dad while he was attempting to do anything mechanical.

I learned the warmth of a close-knit family when we would gather around on Christmas Eve and sing "Please Daddy Don't Get Drunk This Christmas."

I learned the meaning of unconditional love when I could come home one more time from a crisis—a broken down car at 3 a.m., choosing the wrong college, a marriage dissolving, a job fallen through—and never hear, "I told you so!"

I learned to tackle life from the "orange-crate theory" as Dad left a 30-year career to launch into unknown waters.

I learned that the highest praise parents could receive comes from four independent and diverse women with their own adult lives who can't wait to "come home."

Happy Birthday, Dad! I love you and am proud to be one of Doug Manning's daughters. I only hope someday you'll get to hear, "Oh! You're Glenda Wells' father!"

U.S. Chamber Voice of Business

'Central reality' of tax cut benefits hard to argue

WASHINGTON - A recent "It's Your Business" program, the U.S. Chamber's syndicated television show, focused on the "Future of Conservatism."

I was joined by Representative Jack Kemp of New York in arguing that the low-tax, low-inflation economic policies of the past three years have successfully generated five million new jobs, increased the real income of Americans after a decade of decline, and restored America's faith in herself and her future. Kemp and I both predicted that the American people would repeat their 1980 mandate for pro-growth economic policies on November 6, 1984, by sending more conservatives to Congress.

The producers of the program earned their paychecks by finding two unreconstructed liberals to argue for higher taxes, for more government, and for the idea that big government is the friend of the taxpayers. Arguing that the American people would reject the economic policies that brought us the recovery and real growth were Senator Howard Metzenbaum (D-Ohio) and Joseph Rauh, a liberal activist.

The test of a good debater is his ability to argue forcefully for an untenable position, and Metzenbaum and Rauh acquitted themselves admirably. The central reality of the tax-cut-inspired economic boom, however, made their job difficult.

To make the point that government too often hinders economic growth and stifles individual initiative and opportunity I suggested that if Thomas Edison were to invent the light bulb today, the evening news would lead off with Dan Rather somberly announcing that "gloom and despair hit the candlestick industry today." I went on to suggest that the next morning we would find Metzenbaum introducing legislation to tax electricity, and Rauh would begin the campaign to subsidize the candlestick industry.

I am indebted to Richard DeVos, co-founder of the Amway Corporation, who presented that scenario in a recent speech. In a few words, it succinctly states three problems that plague our efforts to continue the present economic recovery.

First, it is only too believable that the news media would treat a breakthrough such as the invention of the light bulb not as a liberating force for progress but as a "problem." We have seen the press coverage of the economic recovery focus not on the tremendous increase in employment but on remaining pockets of unemployment. And polls show that many Americans believe that inflation - which has dropped from the double-digit levels of 1979 and 1980 - has worsened. The news media is simply not doing a credible job if so many people can be so misinformed about an issue as critical as inflation.

Second, my suggestion that Metzenbaum would immediately move to tax electricity is, sadly, all too close to his reaction to increasing energy costs in the 1970s. Oil prices were rising and Metzenbaum's response was to raise taxes on oil. New technologies and new inventions create jobs and wealth. They are to be welcomed as unadulterated good news, not beaten into the ground with taxes and ham-handed regulations. If Thomas Edison had faced the assaults of official Washington - the reams of red tape and thousand-page tax laws - I fear he would have spent more time puttering in the garden and less time giving us the tremendous benefits of his great mind. How many potential Thomas Edisons are there today who have decided that it simply isn't worth the hassle?

Third, the idea that Rauh would push for massive subsidies to the threatened candlestick industry is taken from the speeches of liberal politicians who continue to push for subsidies for industries and companies challenged by economic change. In an efficient economy, resources, both capital and labor, must be free to move from old industries to new ones, not locked into place by politicians living in the past.

Bootleg Philosopher

Television News

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith grass farm reports on television's reporting this week.

Dear editor:

According to a national survey, a large percentage of people get their news from television, but there has been no national survey on where television gets its news.

For example, let a crisis break out-it doesn't matter what it is, one will do as well as another and if it doesn't another will be along in a few days anyway-and on the evening news you can hear television reporters telling you what the world's reaction is.

"The reaction in London is gloomy," one will say, and my reaction is, where do you go to find out what London's reaction is? Especially when two-thirds of the people of London probably don't know there's a crisis underway and might not be gloomy if they did.

Nonetheless, the network will bring in commentators from other major cities, each telling us what the reaction is in his area: Washington, Moscow, Peking, Paris, Rome, Chicago, etc. A commercial always comes on before they get around to telling us what the reaction is in Hereford.

The other evening a network commentator, reporting from El Salvador on the big election down there, said "One major difficulty here is that a lot of Salvadorians don't know what they're voting for." He went on to explain that's characteristic of underdeveloped countries.

I got to thinking about that, then about some of the people we've elected in the United States off and on over the years and you know what? You don't have to live in an under-developed country to not know sometimes what you're voting for.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

IN WASHINGTON

Robert Walters

A lot is not enough

By Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - To understand the philosophy of executive compensation within many leading corporations, it's necessary only to recall Mark Twain's attitude toward bourbon - too much is never enough.

The current debate over executive compensation was touched off by U.S. Trade Representative William Brock, who recently criticized the lavish salaries and bonuses paid to officials of the country's major auto producers.

Brock, the government's leading authority on international trade, questioned why the auto industry so generously compensates its executives at a time when it claims it needs special protection against Japanese imports.

Although Brock's comments were limited to that issue, they coincide with the publication of a report and a magazine article that provide a far broader - and even more dismaying - view of executive compensation.

The research report, "From Pay to Perks to Parachutes: The Trouble with Executive Compensation," was prepared by the Democracy Project, a New York-based public interest organization. The magazine article is Business Week's annual survey of executive compensation.

Last year, when the auto industry claimed to have barely begun recovering from the debilitating effects of a long recession and aggressive foreign competition, executive pay soared to levels aptly characterized by Brock as "unbelievable" and described by United Auto Workers President Owen F. Bieber as "obscene."

According to Business Week, Ford Motor Chairman Philip Caldwell received almost $7.3 million in 1983, making him the country's second highest paid businessman. Ranking ninth on the same list was Ford President Donald E. Peterson, who received almost $3.8 million.

The magazine also notes that General Motors Chairman Roger B. Smith was paid almost $1.5 million while GM President F. James McDonald received more than $1.3 million in 1983. They were among 5,807 GM executives who received almost $182 million in bonuses last year.

The Democracy Project report notes that, in April 1982, GM employees represented by the UAW were pressured into signing a contract that required them to make about $2.5 billion worth of wage and benefit concessions.

Now, however, GM officials have received one-year bonuses, averaging $32,300 per executive, in addition to their base pay. The average bonus, Brock notes, is larger than the total yearly pay earned by most blue-collar auto workers.

GM is not alone in promoting a double standard that cuts pay for workers while generously increasing it for their bosses. In 1982, for example, International Harvester demanded $100 million worth of concessions from unionized employees after rewarding its executives with $6 million worth of bonuses.

Greyhound last year imposed a 7 percent to 8 percent pay cut on about 12,700 employees while paying its senior executives 7 percent to 10 percent more than in 1982.

Braniff International told its approximately 11,500 employees in 1981 that they would have to accept a 10 percent pay cut to keep the airline flying. It simultaneously increased the salaries of 864 managers and executives by 11.4 percent.

The Democracy Project report legitimately questions "why firms assume that endlessly raising executive pay will improve performance but that other workers need no such incentive."

A UAW executive echoes those sentiments: "It's ludicrous to say that a man earning $500,000 a year needs an incentive to do a good job and a man who earns $15,000 doesn't."

A few progressive companies offer financial rewards for improved productivity, regardless of whether it occurs in the executive suite or on the assembly line.

Others have followed guidelines offered by respected management consultants who suggest that the highest paid executive in any firm should earn no more than 25 times as much as the lowest paid employee.

But there also unfortunately are greedy executives who embrace what might be called the Cracker Jack philosophy of compensation - the more you get the more you want.

Ann Landers

Behavior questionable

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Something must be done to improve the quality of judges who sit on various benches all over this country. I am enclosing a clipping from our local paper about an incident that occurred in Milwaukee. It made me see red. Here it is:

A Milwaukee County judge told a rape victim to stop crying on the witness stand or he would dismiss the charges against the man accused of assaulting her.

Circuit Judge Ralph G. Gorenstein told the 21-year-old woman, "Either you collect yourself and behave like a mature adult or I'm going to dismiss the case for being prejudicial. The female response to a tough situation is inappropriate in a courtroom."

The woman began to cry during cross examination in the trial against a Cuban refugee who was found guilty of second-degree sexual assault. The man forced his way into the victim's home and raped her.

Gorenstein, whose remarks were made without the jury present, told the woman it was prejudicial to the defendant "for you to sit there and bawl your eyes out."

What is your reaction to this incident, Ann?—A Syracuse Reader

DEAR READER: I find such comments outrageously sexist, and wonder what kind of justice can be meted out by a judge who thinks like that. If anyone in Milwaukee has additional information on this case I would like to know about it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was a divorced woman with a child when I married Ralph. He had two children who lived with their mother. Ralph and I had two children.

Our life was wonderful until Ralph's children decided they wanted to live with us. They said their mother was crazy. Ralph and I said, "Fine."

It was a disaster from the beginning. They stole from the neighborhood stores, fought with our children, wouldn't respect a curfew, and refused to be part of the family. They would not accept hugs or kisses or even an arm around the shoulder.

We did our best to make a pleasant home for these children. All efforts failed. After six months they decided to live with other relatives. That was seven weeks ago. Now Ralph tells me they want to come back here because they don't like the rules in that other place.

My husband wants to take them back but I hate the thought of it. Our family life is now serene and quiet and I just can't face going through all the troubles again. Both his children are over 18 and if they come back to live with us I know we will have a rerun of all the agonies and stressful situations—a crisis every hour.

I love my husband and don't want him to feel I am not being fair to his kids. Please, Ann, give me some good old Landers wisdom. I want to do the right thing, but what is it?—See-Saw in Canada

DEAR SEE: Sit down with Ralph and his children. Have in hand a list of house rules and regulations. Tell them they must sign an agreement to live within the guidelines you've set up or leave. Explain no excuses will be accepted and there will be no second chance. Make it stick. Good luck.

Parents, what should you do if your teenager is having sexual relations? Ann Landers' new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It - A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," give non-sense advice on how to handle this delicate situation. For each booklet, send 50 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

New Mexico artist featured

The feature artist for the month of May at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center is Kathryn Clark from Roswell, N.M.

She was raised in Minnesota where trees and lakes provided the materials for her paintings and she taught classes in oil and ceramics. Her paintings have been featured at the Swedish American Institute Gallery in Minneapolis and at the St. Paul Arts and Science Building in St. Paul, Minn.

Ms. Clark moved to Roswell in 1970, and began teaching oil painting classes to 'senior folks' in 1972. Her classes grew from eight students in her first session to 116 students in the spring session of 1983. She has also taught ceramics and pastels.

In 1983 she received an award for her pastel in the National Artist Show held in Roswell. This year she received a first award for a pastel in the same show. She has had several one man shows, both in Minnesota and in Roswell.

Ms. Clark is a realistic painter, using both oil and pastel media. She prefers landscapes, old buildings and historical areas.

She finds that the Southwest, with its beautiful sunrises and sunsets, mountains and earth colors lends itself to a varied choice for her paintings.

Rangers pitching provides 2-1 win

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Believe it or not, his 0-6 start this year was not the most depressing period in Dave Stewart's pitching career.

It was even worse two years ago with the Los Angeles Dodgers, says the Texas Rangers' right-hander.

"The Lord saw me through the bad breaks. Now I'm getting good breaks. It usually works out that way," the soft-spoken Stewart said Friday night after Gary Ward's two-run home run lifted the Rangers to a 2-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

The victory, Stewart's second in a row, raised his record to 2-6 and reaffirmed his faith.

"When you go through some bad times, it makes the good times a lot easier to deal with," he said.

Stewart scattered five hits through seven innings and Dave Schmidt picked up his first save with two innings of relief as the Rangers spoiled the return of two Royals all-stars, third baseman George Brett and center fielder Willie Wilson.

Brett, who injured his knee in the final spring training game, doubled and scored in his first at-bat and later tacked on a pair of singles.

Wilson received a standing ovation from the crowd of 27,573, the largest of the season, when he made his first appearance before the home crowd. Wilson played for the first time on Wednesday night in Chicago after his drug-related suspension was lifted by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

"It gave me goose bumps," Wilson said of the crowd's greeting. The outfielder, one of four members of the 1983 Royals to serve three-month prison terms on federal misdemeanor cocaine charges, was hitless in five at-bats.

"I had no thoughts at all on how the crowd would receive me," he said. "It's just a shame I couldn't get a hit for them."

Brett said he was "nervous."

"In fact, scared," he said. "I didn't know what to expect. Nobody knew what to expect. I swung four times and hit the ball good three times."

His slicing double with two out in the first was followed by a bloop RBI single by Hal McRae. Bud Black, 4-3, nursed the 1-0 lead into the eighth when Billy Sample singled with one out and Ward, who was hitting .187 at the game's outset, slugged his fourth home run.

"It's the same thing," said Kansas City Manager Dick Howser. "When you're not scoring runs it's difficult to win. Black pitched a helluva game. You give up only two runs, you're supposed to win."

Texas Manager Doug Rader was ejected by second base umpire Rich Garcia when he argued a controversial call in the fourth.

The Rangers had the bases loaded with one out when Ned Yost grounded to second baseman Frank White, who shoveled the ball to shortstop U.L. Washington covering second.

Washington's throw to first base for the double play was late, as the run scored. But Garcia ruled the runner, Dave Hostetter, had tried to interfere with the throw, and ruled the double play.

"It was a bad call and I don't want to talk about it," was all Rader would say.

-A's-Tigers, 2-1 — Kirk Gibson's single drove in two runs in a five-run first inning as Detroit beat the Oakland A's 8-4 in a rain-shortened game Friday night, improving the red-hot Tigers' record to 30-5.

Dan Petry, 6-1, allowed seven hits, walking two and striking out four in the 5 1-3 innings that the game lasted.

Alan Trammell started the Tigers' first-inning rally by walking off Bill Krueger, 1-1, then Barbaro Garbey singled and both moved up on a double steal. Trammell scored on Lance Parrish's single and Larry Herndon singled Garbey across. Chet Lemon walked to load the bases. But Gibson singled in Parrish and Herndon. Then Marty Castillo singled Lemon home to give the Tigers a 5-0 lead.

Garbey homered in the second, chasing Krueger.

Mike Davis hit a home run in the Oakland third. In the Tigers' third, Darrell Evans homered off Chris Codrillo.

Dwayne Murphy belted his homer in the Oakland fourth. Joe Morgan walked, Dave Kingman singled, then Carney Lansford doubled Morgan home and Kingman scored on a grounder by Mike Davis to cut the Tigers' lead to 7-4.

In the Detroit fourth, Trammell walked, stole second and scored on Parrish's two-out single.

The game was called after a delay of one hour, 21 minutes.

The Twins led 5-0 in the first and never trailed against Mike Brown, 1-5. Teufel started the flurry with his solo homer. Kent Hrbek and Dave Engle singled, Randy Bush hit a grounder, but first baseman Mike Easler's throw to force Engle at second was wide, loading the bases.

Brunansky then doubled home all three runners, advanced to third on a pass ball and came home on Gary Gaetti's sacrifice fly.

The Red Sox came back with two runs in the second. Mike Easler doubled, scoring Tony Armas from first, and then came home on Marty Barrett's single.

Cubs down Astros with late rally

CHICAGO (AP) — Gary Matthews was standing on first base saying his prayers as the crowd boomed. Matthews' prayers were answered when Leon "Bull" Durham doubled to right center to score him with the tying run.

"Yes, I thought the ball was going foul and so did you," Matthews said Friday after the Chicago Cubs had rallied for two runs in the ninth inning for a 7-6 victory over the Houston Astros.

The Cubs had blown a 5-1 lead and Houston took a 6-5 lead in the ninth on Enos Cabell's pinch, "two-out homer."

Matthews led off the bottom of the ninth with what appeared to be a foul fly, but a 16-mile-an-hour wind blew it fair and the ball eluded shortstop Craig Reynolds and left-fielder Jose Cruz.

The fans noticed Matthews had not been running and they jeered, figuring if he had run he would have been on second base.

"No excuse," said Matthews, "I should have been running, but I was pulling for the ball to go foul, because I thought if it came back it would have been caught. Fortunately, Bull came through. I was praying that he'd hit one out of the park or in the gap."

Durham hit the gap, Matthews scored the tying run and Keith Moreland bunted Durham to third base. Frank DiPino relieved loser Dave Smith, 0-1, and walked the next two batters intentionally to fill the bases.

DiPino got Larry Bowa on an infield pop, but pinch-batter Gary Woods walked on four straight pitches to force Durham home with the winning run.

Durham had been the center of attention throughout the game. He and Mel Hall each drove in a run in the first inning with sacrifice flies. Durham's two-run homer followed by a solo shot by Hall in the third gave the Cubs a 5-1 lead.

But the Astros battled back with three runs in the fifth and another in the sixth to tie the game before Cabell put them ahead in the ninth.

"We've had too many one-run games and have come out on the short end too often," said Manager Bob Lillis, whose Astros are now 5-12 in one-run games.

"You hate to lose a game like that when you come back like that," said Lillis, "but that ball should have been caught."

Lillis was referring to Matthews' pop which blew fair.

"The guys have played in the wind before and haven't had trouble, but it didn't look like that today," said Lillis.

"I should have caught it," said Reynolds.

Several bright spots

Junior high district concludes

The junior high district golf season ended Friday with the fourth round played in Borger. La Plata finished third in the final standings and Stanton came in fifth out of six competing schools.

Bright spots came from individuals from the city's two junior highs. Stanton's Keith Anderson shot 77, Friday's lowest score for 18-hole Borger Huber Golf Course. Bobby Baker won the district medalist race for the four rounds with a score of 327. Anderson was third with 335 and the Dogies' Johnny Urias was sixth of more than 70 players competing in the district. Kathy Neil and Paula Moore, both from La Plata, shot 48 and 53 respectively for nine holes. The two scores were lowest amongst all competing girls.

Coach Mike Fields said the best overall golfers were from Hereford. "If we combine the best scores (from La Plata and Stanton), (Hereford) would have won the district."

Baker, Anderson and Urias among others could improve the HHS boys golf program, according to Fields.

The rest of the La Plata scores from Friday were: Baker's 88; Jason Bullard's 83; Michael Albracht, 91; Jay Chapman, 94; Heath White 95; Todd Schroeder, 103; Scott Simons, 106; and Dustin Hubbard and Darren Nikkel each shot 110.

Stanton scores include: Urias' 90; Chad Larkin, 105; Jay Beene, 107; and Billy Burnam shot a 109.

Must win situation

Suns upend Lakers, 135-127

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—In "must win" situations, the Phoenix Suns usually turn to Walter Davis and the all-star guard seldom disappoints.

Friday night, Davis and backcourt mate Kyle Macy scored six points apiece in overtime as Phoenix beat Los Angeles 135-127 and cut the Lakers' lead to 2-1 in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

The Suns can even the best-of-seven Western Conference finals with a win in Game 4 here Sunday.

"We've got to go back to LA tied at 2-2 (for Game 5 Wednesday night). It can't be 3-1," Davis said. "We are confident we can win. We play well on our home floor and we weren't going to let LA come in here and push us around. They know they're in a fight now."

Phoenix was blown out in the first two games of the series — 110-94 Saturday and 118-102 Tuesday night. Both were at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif.

"This finally proves to everybody that we can beat the Lakers," said Suns Coach John MacLeod. "After those two 16-point losses in LA, there was some doubt that we could beat them — even in our own minds. The papers said, 'Sure, the Suns upset Portland and Utah in the other rounds but they can't upset the Lakers.' Well, we'll see about that."

Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley, however, said his club is "still in the driver's seat. We want that one on Sunday. We should have had this one, but they took the starch out of us in that overtime."

The Lakers forced the extra period at 119-119 on Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's sky hook with 22 seconds left.

Macy sank his six points in the first 1:24 of overtime for a 125-121 Phoenix lead and Larry Nance's layin made it 127-121 with 2:52 to go.

A layup by Earvin "Magic" Johnson cut Los Angeles' deficit to 129-127 with 1:25 left.

Davis hit a bank shot 22 seconds later and he and Maurice Lucas sank two free throws each in the final seconds to seal the victory.

"Kyle got us going. He had the first six points on two layups and a jump shot from the corner. That got us a good lead," Davis said. "We held on from there and I penetrated a couple of times for baskets inside."

Davis finished with a career playoff high 34 points while Nance had 23, Lucas 19, James Edwards 18 and Macy 12.

Abdul-Jabbar led Los Angeles with 31 points. Rookie Byron Scott added 26, Johnson 21, Michael Cooper 12 and James Worthy and Bob McAdoo 10 apiece.

Los Angeles trailed by eight at 105-97 with 8:45 left in regulation before rallying for the tie with Abdul-Jabbar notching 10 fourth-period points.

Woman scours city for stray animals

HOUSTON (AP) — Celina Kirk feels like a firefighter trying to douse a raging blaze with a garden hose.

Ms. Kirk spends her days in a bright yellow pickup truck, cruising the winding streets of Houston in the seemingly hopeless task of rounding up the city's estimated 450,000 stray dogs and cats.

Health officials in the nation's fourth-largest city say the animal problem is of epidemic proportions. Even more threatening is the potential rabies threat, since more than 80 percent of the animals lack the proper shots.

"People are more a problem for me than animals," says Ms. Kirk, 32, proclaimed by Animal Control Center officials as the city's top animal control officer. "The main thing I worry about is the citizen."

"You have to know how to talk to the citizen," she said. "It's not easy. I try to be nice, but sometimes I have to buckle down."

Indeed, she and about a dozen colleagues fanned out over sprawling Houston must watch out for angry pet owners upset over the removal of their dogs, or fending neighbors irate over animal complaints telephoned to city officials.

They also must hand out warning notices to pet owners who ignore the city's leash law, and sell $5 licenses to owners whose pets have no tags. The owners of unlicensed animals are not too difficult to find, since just a little more than 1 percent of the city's animals are licensed.

The problem is so severe that city officials talk about tonnage — 7½ tons a week — when they refer to the amount of animals destroyed each week.

And for all the grief from the public — and personal danger from the public and animals — animal control officers start out with salaries of $12,000.

Garbage collectors, for example, draw starting pay of $15,000 a year, says Robert Armstrong, director of the Houston Animal Control Center. Armstrong is pushing city administrators to boost his $2 million budget by another $1 million.

State law mandates that dog and cat owners must get their pets vaccinated against rabies at 4 months of age, then once every year. City ordinance stipulates that animals must be licensed and leashed if not in a fenced-in area.

"If I don't see an animal, I'm bored," Ms. Kirk says. "That's what I'm here to do. I have sympathy for the dog I'm picking up. They don't like being in cages. But they can't be running all over Houston."

Armed with only a rope and a metal "choke stick" — and with knowledge gathered in specialized classes that led to state certification — she has on occasion returned to the animal control center with so many strays that "my truck would be down on its axle."

More than 1,600 people were bitten by animals in the city last year, a number officials believe is only about a third of the actual bites. And rows of cages in the animal control shelter are filled with dogs of all sizes who have bitten people.

"My dog doesn't bite," is the most frequent comment Ms. Kirk hears. She even was told that when an owner handed her a Black Labrador female that was being separated from a pack of eight other dogs. The Lab bit her.

"I was told she was just like a little pussy cat," Ms. Kirk recalls. It's the only time in three years on the job she's been bitten, she said.

Armstrong blames the problem of "urban wolves" on the attitudes of dog breeders in the United States.

"The American dog breeder is stupid," Armstrong says. "Americans always find a home for the runt of the litter." In Europe, he says, only the dogs that continue the favorable traits of the breed are kept. Runts of the litter are destroyed.

Ms. Kirk, who has no pets, draws the line at retrieving dogs, cats and raccoons. Asked what she would do if confronted by a tiger or similar animal, she responds quickly: "Call for help."

Officers installed at meeting

Installation of officers was held when members of Young Mothers Study Club met recently at K-Bob's Steak House.

The meeting was called to order and roll call was answered with "Your favorite television commercial." Following the meal and the reading of the minutes from the previous meeting, installation of officers for the new club year was given by Kathy Boyd.

Theme for the installation was the red rose and each of the new officers was presented a long stem red rose as a writing on the rose was read and various duties of each office was told.

Becky Stovall will be president; Jeanne Lomas, vice-president; Pam Wagner, secretary; and Doris Artho, treasurer.

Carla Hollinger, former mother of the year recipient, presented the coveted award to Jeanne Lomas. She was given an engraved silver compact from club members.

Off the Runway

By ANNE WINSTON
Kay Unger thinks the more confidence a woman has in herself, the more fun it is to design for her. That means Kay's having more fun these days with her St. Gillian collection, because today's woman is a self-assured individual. After 16 years of designing, Unger has seen both herself and her customer change. She not only understands her customer better than she did when she began, but also she likes her. "I like her a lot," noted the impish, dark-eyed designer. "I like her because she's excited about clothes and she's excited about herself. I think the fact that, for the most part, she's paying for her own clothes gives her a totally different attitude about what she wants to wear. She's not so conservative because she has a lot of confidence in herself."

For summer, Unger has put emphasis on the casual dress. "It's fun. It's a little less expensive. It's often looser, more comfortable...it hits the fashion at the time." Another favorite summer look is layering, done to meet

Abundant Life

Bob Wear

ONE OF THE most foolish practices in which we can engage is 'talking about others' critically, or in an uncomplimentary way. What we say will usually be repeated, and always to our hurt, and probably to the hurt of the one being talked about.

THE PERSON to whom we talk about others usually prefers that we not do it. Many of these people will lose confidence in us, and are likely to assume that we also talk about them to other folk. One fact is certain, we are always the loser.

THERE MAY BE some sort of special situation in which it is necessary that we discuss other people, and what they have done or have not done. Even in this situation, we must be very discreet and very cautious.

THERE IS no reason why we should run the risk of having others dislike us because of something we have said to somebody about them, something that should not have been said. We never know when others will be in some position to help us or hurt us, and there are other good reasons to be discreet and kind in our talk about others.

WE CANNOT build up ourselves by tearing others down. In fact, the best way to improve our life situation is by building up other people, when and wherever we can do so.

BOTH THE good and the bad we think and say about others will find ways to affect our lives, the good for our good, and the bad for our loss. A well-formed wise concern for self and for others is our great need.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Eggs can be devilish

DEAR POLLY — How does one successfully (and I mean without breaking the yolk) separate an egg yolk from the white? I pour the yolk from shell to shell, allowing the white to run out, but when doing this, I break the yolk at least half the time. Help! — JANET

DEAR JANET — The easiest way I know is simply to dump the egg into the palm of your hand, cup the yolk gently and let the white run through your fingers. Gourmet shops and gadget counters often carry egg separators that do the job fairly well. And Mary from Ohio offers another method: She breaks the egg into a funnel. The white glides through and the yolk remains in the funnel.

If you're separating a number of eggs, it's safest to do each one into a small dish, then add the white to the others in a larger bowl. This way, you won't ruin the whole batch if one yolk breaks. If you should get a little yolk in your egg whites, try scooping the bit of yolk out with a piece of eggshell.

Campaign Comments

Lynn Jones Democrat for Commissioner Precinct 3

Construction will soon begin on rebuilding the county jail. The county needs to have a Commissioner who is experienced in construction. I am qualified in that capacity. The Commissioners' Court should not just act on the recommendation of the architect and general contractor, they should be able to make an independent evaluation. The public's interest needs to be protected against over pricing and excesses that could occur without a Commissioner who is knowledgeable in the field of construction.

I ask for your vote on June 2. for responsible county government.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Depressed after surgery

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband had triple bypass surgery six months ago. He's doing fine and is back to work, but he's depressed. He heard on TV that heart surgery didn't prolong life; if treated by medicine or surgery, the life span is 10 years.

He's drinking too much beer, although only about once a week. He's only 47. I was warned about depression before he left the hospital. How long does this last? Also, there has been a personality change.

DEAR READER — Your husband either misunderstood what was said on TV or it was poorly presented. The point of such comments is that the life expectancy for most patients after heart attack is about the same whether they are treated medically or receive a coronary bypass.

A recent study by the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute of 780 patients showed that at the end of five years 90 percent of those treated medically were still alive, compared to 92 percent of those treated surgically. That's a good survival rate for either approach. Of course, many of those patients will live much longer.

Even before the days of coronary bypass you could find instances of post-heart attack patients living more than 20 years. The future outlook is often dependent upon how well the patient adheres to a good program. Your husband's depression is to be expected. Most patients are depressed after a heart attack, as are many patients after various forms of surgery. And personality changes often occur during a depression.

DEAR READER — Of course vitamins are necessary. But the very best source for vitamins is in wholesome foods. When it comes to vitamins, nature's way beats pills almost every time. I'm suspicious that people who try to meet their nutritional needs with pills rather than a well-balanced, healthy diet may not be getting something their body needs that we don't know about yet. That includes trace metals and maybe even undiscovered vitamins. After all, there was a time when no one knew that vitamins existed. If you can swallow food and drink juices you can get all the vitamins you need that way.

Now the exceptions. Some people have vitamin deficiencies and need supplements and that may require pills, or even injections of B-12 for pernicious anemia. A young woman such as yourself may need extra iron. Since you don't like pills your doctor may suggest a liquid iron preparation for you if you really need some supplemental iron.

grade). Registration is set from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday, June 9, at the city pool. Cost is $3.50 for the two-week session.

Breath control and breathing are essential skills for all levels of swimmers. In addition to children's water safety classes, an adult session is scheduled from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. June 11-22. Registration will be held at the first class period and cost is $3.50 for the two-week session. All water safety instructors are volunteers, and Betty Henson, Red Cross director, noted that volunteer babysitters are needed to take care of the instructors' children. Interested persons may contact her at the Red Cross office.

Rose Goheen demonstrates a non-swimming rescue using a ring buoy. This is one of the techniques used in advanced lifesaving, for which a session begins at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the city pool. Those planning to take the class should be at least 15 years of age, strong swimmers and in good physical condition. The 21-hour class will be held on Mondays through Fridays. Cost is $3.50 for pool fee and $4.25 for the book.

Water safety instructors and aides, from left, Margot Sims, Elaine Taylor, Rose Goheen and Stacy Schroeder, discuss upcoming classes. Anyone interested in becoming an aide for any swimming class (must have at least intermediate level skills) should contact Mrs. Taylor at 364-5333 or call the Red Cross office. A water safety instructors class is being planned for later in the summer. To become an instructor, the swimmer must have completed the advanced lifesaving class, which starts Monday.

Mitchel Taylor executes a stride jump, in which swimmers are taught to enter the pool keeping their head above the water so they will not lose sight of the victim during a rescue attempt. Lifesaving techniques are stressed by the American Red Cross to prevent drownings and to give swimmers the capability to help others who are in trouble in or around the water.

'Country Caravan' music show scheduled June 9

A fast-paced entertainment package of country music hits, singing and dancing called the "Country Caravan" will be in Hereford for a performance Saturday, June 9, beginning at 8:30 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

The 1984 edition of the music show produced by South Plains College features 34 current and classic country music hits performed by a talented cast of college faculty and students, dancing by the Caravan Cloggers and a brand new Nashville-style brass section called the Caravan Brass.

The show is being sponsored again this year by Hereford Lions Club. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students and are available from any Lions Club member.

The Lions will present a half-beef to one lucky adult ticket holder and another half-beef to a student ticket holder. The winners do not have to be present to win.

"We've tried to incorporate many contemporary country music hits like Alabama's "Sweet Country Music" and Janie Fricke's "He's A Heartache" into a high quality variety show," says John Hartin, "Country Caravan's" general director and instructional coordinator for South Plains College's two-year program in country and bluegrass music. Intermixed with the contemporary are classic standards like Patsy Cline's "Crazy" and Jim Reeves' "He'll Have to Go," and country gospel melodies like "The King is Coming."

Making their debut this season, the Caravan Brass will be featured on popular tunes like "Tijuana Taxi" and "Spanish Flea." The quartet will also perform a Mexican fiesta number with the Caravan Cloggers to "The Magic Trumpet."

The Cloggers themselves, now in their second season, will perform four rousing dance numbers which include an opening clog and square dance to "Sally Goodin," a medley of traditional Texas dance steps, a Mexican fiesta number, and the country jitterbug.

Three SPC faculty members form the heart of the "Caravan" show band. Hartin, featured on electric guitar and vocals, is a veteran of all eight of SPC's country music road shows. Tim McCasland, SPC bluegrass instructor and an acclaimed multi-instrumentalist, is featured on pedal steel, guitar, banjo and vocals. Randy Ellis, SPC sound technology instructor, plays bass guitar and is featured on vocals as well. Ellis also supervises the show's sound system and the road crew.

"Country Caravan's" success depends upon a number of factors — song selection, the pace of the show, musical arrangements, and choreography. It is Hartin's job to select the songs for the show and control the pace of the performance as well.

"I look for a strong lyric hook and powerful tunes that have survived being played on the radio six to ten times a day and have remained popular," he says. Hartin selects about 75 percent of the show's material from the top of the country music charts, and the remainder from material that he says "is as fresh today as when it was written 20 or even 40 years ago."

The show's pacing is critical, too. "If I am not careful, the show may wind up like a teeter totter, all up and jumping, kicking and hot. Then it may slow down, drag along and sound melancholy," he says.

He aims instead for an "interesting mix of melodic highs and lows, seeking an empathy with the audience." The audience, of course, is the deciding factor; and getting them involved in the show is the key, he adds.

Why does the magazine subscription run out a week before a continued story concludes?

Wave your spoon at the waiter! It'll be a nice change for him from all those frantic hand signals people make when they want the check.

To achieve this end, Hartin uses some marketing psychology and years of observation. "The audience goes through five psychological stages while watching a performance. First they are just looking at you. Then they go from hearing to really listening to appreciating what is happening on stage. Finally, they actually want to hear more. When fans are still getting out the blankets and unfolding lawn chairs, we don't play a piece with a lot of orchestration and extensive arrangements. It doesn't work," Hartin says.

McCasland serves as music director for the show and arranges the music for each song. He is also director of the show's country band.

"Tim is able to pick out the really successful elements of a song and adapt those elements to an arrangement for the band," says Hartin. "It may be a particular melody, a rhythmic pattern, something which has escaped the rest of us."

"I guess I have a street sense of what is good," explains McCasland. "I listen for the intrinsically important parts in an arrangement and adapt that to the needs and musical abilities of the show."

Leann Ellis, instructor in speech at SPC, is in charge of choreography, costumes and the show's script. She researched DJs Almanac, Billboard and Mix magazines for the top-40 type information she needed for the script. She has also designed costumes for the quartet, Nashville style brass section, the dancers, back-up vocals and a basic cast costume.

"Each segment of the show must have its own distinctive flavor," she believes. And the show must be flexible as well. "Our first performance last year was in Orlando, Florida, and it was also my first time in charge of this part of the show. One of the dance numbers just wasn't working, so we revamped it until it clicked."

Mrs. Ellis is also in charge of the Caravan Cloggers. "We feature the dancers four times throughout the show, and they get a chance to do some really interesting routines. We want to build excitement with the routines, so the audience will be looking forward to the next one," she says.

Two young vocalists who captivated audiences last season return for their third and final performance with "Country Caravan." Darrell Thrash of Ropesville and

Kathy Tutt of Muleshoe are featured soloists and team up for the popular television series theme "Yellow Rose."

The remaining cast members are newcomers, but they pack energy and talent. Featured vocalists will include Denise Ehlers of Tahoka, who will also play trumpet and dance; Ann Allison of Carbon, vocals and keyboard; Debbie Adams of Bentonville, Ark., vocals and dancer; Metta Amos of Lamesa, vocals and dancer; Todd Collins of Bloomsbury, N.J., vocals, mandolin, fiddle, guitar and harmonica.

Additional instrumentalists include Alex Torrez of Floydada, percussion; Joe Mendez of Levelland, trombone; Mitch Word of Levelland, trombone; and Randy Beck of Levelland, trumpet.

Poppies to be distributed by auxiliary on Wednesday

"In Flanders Field the poppies blow, between the crosses row on row." Thus reads one line of a well-known poem, "In Flanders Field." The little red memorial poppy will be seen in abundance in Hereford on Wednesday as members of the American Legion Auxiliary will be distributing the flowers to honor all of the veterans who served, with a special tribute to those who gave their lives for their country.

The auxiliary offers the poppies to the public, asking each person to give generously for the privilege of wearing one. During World War I the soldiers who fought in Flanders Field remembered the acres of poppies blooming in the Spring.

After the veterans returned home and formed the American Legion, some of the auxiliary members made crepe paper poppies to decorate the food booths at the national convention. The parade watchers literally tore the poppies from the booths, tossing money in cans or other containers.

Thus the poppy was adopted as the national flower of the American Legion and all proceeds received from it go to the welfare of the veteran or his family.

The Hereford unit was organized in 1929 and offered the first poppies to the public in 1930. One of the charter members, Mrs. Gladys Smith, is always willing to do what she can anytime for this purpose. She was one of the first few to be on the streets in 1930.

The poppies will be headquartered at Hereford State Bank beginning at 9 a.m. Members may pick up supplies before Wednesday from the poppy committee, headed by Mrs. Ira Ott.

The auxiliary is also making 2 poppy arrangements for the dining tables at Westgate Nursing Home and King's Manor Retirement Home.

"We ask that you please be kind to these devoted members, some of whom are Gold Star mothers. They work long hours for the comfort and welfare of those who are disabled and in need," stated Mrs. Ott.

The Hereford unit members will also assist the Legion in placing American flags on the more than 500 veterans' graves in the Hereford cemeteries.

The existence of the continent of Antarctica was announced by Charles Wilkes of the United States in 1840 after exploring the region.

Poppy Arrangements

Several members of the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary gathered recently to make arrangements using red memorial poppies for the dining tables at Westgate Nursing Home and King's Manor Retirement

Area institutions to begin project

AMARILLO — Class of 1984 seniors from all areas of the Texas Panhandle may have the opportunity this summer to prepare for fall entry into college or technical school.

Amarillo College, Texas State Technical Institute, Frank Phillips College, and Clarendon College have cooperated in designing a pilot project, the On-To-School Program, under the sponsorship of the Panhandle Job Training Partnership.

The schools have arranged for up to 50 eligible graduates to enroll in on-campus courses which serve as a bridge from high school to college. Students will also be provided part-time employment during the project.

Loretta Kindsfather, director of the project, said seniors who want additional education but have not made career choices and need financial assistance will be considered. Eligibility is also based on family income guidelines specified by the Job Training Partnership Act.

The project, scheduled to begin in mid-June, will offer vocational counseling and testing, financial assistance packaging, and on-campus jobs, in addition to a curriculum of college preparation courses. Courses will include human relations, communications, college reading techniques, strategies for learning, job skill training, and basic mathematics.

Class of 1984 graduates living in Amarillo should contact Rita Wells at Texas Employment Commission, 1206 W. 7th or phone 372-5521 no later than May 29.

Graduates from all other areas of the Panhandle can contact Lena Tennison at Texas Panhandle Community Action, P.O. Box 32150, Amarillo, or phone 372-2531 no later than May 29.

Applications will be processed as completed. Interested individuals should apply as soon as possible.

Brorman, Blankenship repeat wedding vows

MRS. JOHN DAVID BLANKENSHIP
...nee Julie Ann Brorman

Wedding vows were repeated by Julie Ann Brorman and John David Blankenship, both of Adrian, Saturday at Immaculate Conception Catholic Church of Vega with Father Di Benedetto officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brorman and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Blankenship, all of Adrian. Jeanne Brorman, sister of the bride from Adrian, served as maid of honor and Ray Skaggs of Adrian was best man.

Bridesmaids were Vila Hughes of Adrian and Carol Rohrbach and Lee Harwell, both of Amarillo. Britt Pounds of Amarillo, Pat Blankenship of Adrian, brother of the groom, and Gary Smallwood of Lubbock served as groomsmen.

Flower girls were Jennifer Brorman, sister of the bride, and Denise Batenhorst, cousin of the bride and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Batenhorst of Umbarger. Ring bearer was Jason Hale, nephew of the groom and son of Mr. and Mrs. Monty Hale of Phillips. Louis Unger and Michelle Unger vocalized wedding selections, accompanied by Lydia Grey, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white chiffon gown with scoop neckline and fitted raised cap sleeves. It featured a seeded pearl bodice of Venice lace with drop waist. The gathered chiffon skirt extended into a chapel-length train.

Her full-length veil of illusion flowed from a seed pearl beaded cap and featured a scalloped edge with lace motifs scattered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins.

She carried a bouquet of cattleya orchids and white rose buds with stephanotis set in boxwood greenery with aqua and white picot ribbons tied in love knots. The bride wore pearls given to her mother by her father for their wedding.

The bride's attendants were attired in full-length gowns of aqualine silky oracy taffeta featuring a square neckline with fitted bodice and full, above elbow-length sleeves. A pleated cummerbund accented the gathered skirt. They carried white long-stemmed roses with baby's breath.

A reception was held in the Parish Hall following the wedding ceremony. Laury Franks of Lubbock registered guests.

Cake and punch were served by Katrina Campbell and Susanne and Cindy Pohrbach, all of Amarillo, and Betty Skaggs of Adrian.

The couple will be at home in Amarillo after a wedding trip to Red River, N.M.

The bride graduated from Adrian High School in 1981 and attended Texas Tech University. She is currently a senior level student at Amarillo College Nursing School.

The bridegroom is a 1980 graduate of Adrian High School and also attended Texas Tech. He presently attends West Texas State University as a senior chemistry major.

Between the Covers

By DIANNE PIERSON
Library Director

Two very stimulating and entertaining biographies will be featured this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. The biographies are "Past Imperfect" by Joan Collins and "Knock Wood" by Candice Bergen.

Joan Collins is the internationally famous actress whose career has brought her to a new peak of stardom as Alexis Carrington Colby in Dynasty—a role which might have been created for the tempestuous, strong-willed and passionate woman that she is herself.

In "Past Imperfect," she tells the truth candidly divulging her "past imperfect" past. Her book is outspoken, witty, daring and full of life. British-born and beautiful, Joan traces through her childhood and early years in England to the swift transition to one of the world's sexiest, most sought-after young actresses.

In a career spanning over 25 years, from Hollywood to Europe and back, in over 50 movies and numerous TV and stage appearances, through three broken marriages and many relationships, Joan's humor, beauty and talent have remained intact and undiminished.

Few women have lived such an exciting and dramatic life; fewer still have written about it with such candor, wit and headline-making honesty. "Past Imperfect" is the glittering life of an extraordinary, courageous and beautiful woman.

"Knock Wood" by Candice Bergen is a book all about growing up—about the comedy of expectations that ruled Candice's early life, about the ironies that attended her exotic rites of passage.

She stepped out into a world that offered her a wealth of options: adolescence in Swiss boarding schools; at 19, a plum role in Sidney Lumet's "The Group"; quick entry into the profession of photojournalism, no dues required; automatic acceptance among the fine, fast company of the moment. But always Candice carried the conviction that her gifts were untested and her luck unearned.

"Knock Wood" is the extraordinary record of Candice Bergen's coming of age. Bergen was classified a "Star" at birth; in rejecting that easy victory, she has given us an absolutely stellar book.

Other new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library are "Maeror" by Edward I. Koch, "Jack and the Beanstalk" by Ed McBain, and "What The Heart Keeps" by Rosalind Laker.

LIBRARY EVENTS: 10 a.m. - Thursday - public story hour - Heritage Room.

Watson to give concert

Former Hereford resident Johnny Ray Watson will present a benefit concert to assist with medical expenses for Delfine Fox at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the sanctuary of First Church of the Nazarene.

Everyone is invited to attend. There will be no charge for the concert; a love offering will be taken.

Watson, a basketball star in high school and college, has been in full-time music ministry since 1972. He has traveled across the United States and to several foreign countries presenting the gospel in song and has recorded three albums.

He and his family moved to Pflugerville, near Austin, earlier this year.

To farmers this week

Rain offering some help

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — The outlook for scattered rains over Texas at midweek offered a glimmer of hope for farmers and ranchers who have been caught in the grips of a severe spring drought.

Some scattered rains fell early in the week over the Rio Grande Valley and parts of South and Southwest Texas but did little to relieve dry conditions. At midweek light rains were falling in the Fort Stockton, Uvalde and Lubbock areas.

The rains, although light, are the first hopeful sign for a change in the drought that has been plaguing farmers and rancher, said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

All of the state needs a good soaking rain immediately for young crops and pastures that have been suffering from moisture stress, said Carpenter. The yield potential of some crops has already been reduced. Rain would also give a boost to the maturing wheat crop in northern counties and in the plains. Wheat harvesting is active in southern and central areas, with yields down due to the spring drought.

Farmers in the Rolling Plains and West Central Texas (San Angelo area) are waiting on rain to plant cotton and grain sorghum. Dryland cotton farmers in the South Plains also need rain to plant, and farmers in Southwest Texas (Uvalde area) still need rain to plant dryland crops.

Cotton, grain sorghum and soybean planting is active on irrigated land in the Panhandle and South Plains, and cotton planting continues in the Trans-Pecos area.

Massive selling of cattle and other livestock continues over much of the state, particularly in western areas where grazing is virtually nonexistent. Many ranchers are trimming herds to the "bare bones" to avoid high feed bills, Carpenter said.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Planting of cotton and grain sorghum remains active on irrigated land. Dryland farmers need rain to plant. Wheat is heading and continues to look good on irrigated land. Corn planting is complete, with early fields up to stands. Some farmers are baling wheat and alfalfa for hay. Ranges need rain.

SOUTH PLAINS: Soil moisture remains extremely short over the area, with dryland farmers waiting on rain to plant cotton. Planting of cotton, grain sorghum and soybeans is active in irrigated counties, with some cotton up to 50 percent planted. Early planted corn is making good progress. Ranchers continue to feed livestock.

ROLLING PLAINS: The wheat crop continues to deteriorate under hot, dry conditions, and ranges are as brown as in the winter months in many counties. Farmers are waiting on rain to plant cotton and grain sorghum. Alfalfa hay continues to be harvested in Wilbarger County. Culling of cow herds continues due to lack of grazing.

NORTH CENTRAL: Young corn, cotton and grain sorghum need rain as do most pastures. Rain would also help wheat as the crop moves toward maturity. Some producers are feeding hay to cattle due to poor grazing. Peaches are sizing well.

NORTHEAST: Most of the area could use a good rain to boost young corn and grain sorghum as well as pastures and hay crops. Some first cuttings of hay are under way. Gardeners are harvesting greens and onions. Some sweet potatoes are being replanted. The peach crop continues to look good.

FAR WEST: Hot, dry conditions continue to plague farmers and ranchers. Cotton planting in irrigated areas continues. Onions are making excellent growth and cabbage is about ready to harvest. Most livestock are holding up well despite declining ranges. Shearing of sheep and goats is about complete.

WEST CENTRAL: Farmers and ranchers remain concerned about drought conditions. Farmers need rain to plant cotton and grain sorghum. Wheat is turning color but the crop will be short—only about 30 percent of normal. A lot of wheat has been grazed out. Large numbers of livestock continue to move to market due to lack of grazing. Supplemental feeding of herds continues. Peach and pecan crops look good.

CENTRAL: Young corn, grain sorghum and cotton are under moisture stress along with pastures and ranges. Farmers are waiting on rain to plant peanuts. Some farmers are planting hybrid sudans for hay, but rain is needed to get the crops up. Cattle marketings are above normal as grazing conditions continue to decline.

EAST: Corn, hay crops and pastures are suffering from dry conditions. Irrigated vegetable crops are doing well and the peach crop looks good. Livestock remain in good condition but grazing is declining.

UPPER COAST: All crops and pastures need a good soaking rain. Field work is fairly limited, with rice farmers flushing their fields and soybean farmers waiting on rain to plant. Wheat harvesting continues, with fair yields. Cattle are losing weight as grazing declines.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Crops remain in a stressed state due to lack of moisture. Wheat harvesting is in full swing, with fair to good yields. However, a lot of wheat has been grazed out or cut for hay. Early peaches are turning color. Livestock sales continue above normal due to lack of grazing; some supplemental feeding continues.

SOUTHWEST: The area has received some light rains, but the moisture did little to relieve drought conditions. Most irrigated crops are doing well but dryland crops are suffering. Actually, only about 20 percent of the dryland crop acreage has been planted. Wheat and oats were hard hit by the drought; most fields were grazed out or baled for hay. Onion harvesting is active, with yields 70 to 80 percent of normal. Early estimates peg the pecan crop at 50 percent of normal. Livestock marketings continue due to no available grazing.

COASTAL BEND: Despite a few recent scattered rains, crops and ranges are in a critical state due to prolonged dry conditions. Cotton is squaring and grain sorghum is heading. Corn is maturing too rapidly and yields will be short. About 75 percent of the wheat has been harvested, with low to fair yields. Early peaches are maturing. Ranchers are continuing to cull herds due to poor grazing conditions.

SOUTH: Scattered rains over the Rio Grande Valley will help some crops and pastures, but more moisture is needed. Cotton is squaring and most grain sorghum is headed. Irrigated cotton, corn and grain sorghum are making good progress. Onion harvesting has peaked while melons are nearing the harvest stage. Peach harvesting is about complete. Cattle sales are up due to declining range conditions.

TWENTY TO SIXTY BUSH-EL YIELD INCREASES? That's almost unbelievable, and at least one extension weed specialist didn't believe those figures for corn yield — at first. Those increases came from fields which were row cultivated and even greater increases were experienced in row cultivated no-till fields. The tests were conducted in 1983 and, because of the significant yield increases, again in 1983 — just to make sure. The biggest spread, according to the Illinois scientist occurred in 1982 when 60 bushel increases were obtained by cultivation of no-till corn. On conventionally tilled acreage, increases were 18 to 20 bushels. Furthermore, in the test plots, beans which followed corn increased yields by 7 bushels an acre. Apparently, cultivation improved weed control slightly while opening up the soil for more aeration may have helped, too.

Contends economist

Government regulations boost prices

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — About $2.18 of the cost of serving a 20-pound turkey can be chalked up to government regulations and policies, says an Agriculture Department economist.

Harold Jones of the department's Economic Research Service says the regulations and policies — ranging from inspections to taxes — add about 10.9 cents to each pound of turkey. That's one-eighth of last year's average retail price of 91.7 cents a pound.

"There's no question that regulations do impose a certain burden, but there are substantial benefits to society as a whole and to particular groups because of them," he said.

Jones is based at the University of Georgia and specializes in the economics of the poultry industry. His findings were in a new issue of Farmland magazine distributed Thursday by the agency. According to the report, Jones found that "a host of federal agencies — and a packet of regulations — cover every step of producing and marketing turkeys" in this country.

"Although the turkey industry is not heavily regulated in comparison with other industries, it does reflect the wide variety of rules that affect businesses in this country," Jones said.

Today's regulations evolved from perceived needs, he said. And new regulations emerge all the time because of the changing concerns of society.

"Some satisfy safety, health or environmental demands, such as the required inspections of freshly killed turkeys to ensure that only wholesome birds reach the dinner table," Jones said.

Some regulations, such as the variable freight rates handled by the Interstate Commerce Commission, are in the category of economic regulation. The purpose may be simply to improve efficiency or to avoid monopoly.

Still others fall into the category of social regulation, which involves equal employment opportunities and the payment of Social Security taxes.

Jones said that economic regulations add an estimated

4.1 cents per pound to the cost of producing and marketing a consumer-ready turkey. The oldest is the 1887 interstate regulation of railroads. The 1930s produced additional regulatory programs, such as production and price supports for many agricultural commodities.

"Although there are no direct economic controls on production or prices in the turkey industry, other forms of economic regulation affect output," he said.

The second category — social regulations — adds another 4.1 cents per pound of turkey, Jones said.

Among those are Social Security, income taxes, public work projects and public aid programs.

Huge supplies projected by federal government

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although wheat farmers have signed up to idle about 20.8 million acres this year, the Agriculture Department continues to project huge supplies and downward pressure on market prices in the new wheat marketing year that will begin on June 1.

During an initial sign-up earlier this year, wheat farmers agreed to idle 17 million acres under the 1984 acreage program. The program was reopened to wheat producers after Congress provided some improved incentives, including cash payments for some of the land taken from production.

The reopened sign-up added 3.8 million acres to the 1984 "conservation reserve" of wheat farmers, which is USDA's term for idled land which must be put to approved conservation use.

In another look at the wheat situation since the sign-up results were announced on Tuesday, the department's Economic Research Service said the outlook for 1984-85 continues loaded on the supply side.

"Winter wheat output for 1984 may be nearly two billion bushels for the second consecutive year," the report said. "Conditions on May 1 put the estimated harvest at 1.98 billion bushels, only 1 percent lower than in 1983."

Further, the report noted that despite this year's cool, wet spring and reduced yield prospects, farmers intend to idle less wheat land than they did in 1983, when they took 28.2 million acres from production — 7.4 million acres more than they have signed up to idle in 1984.

The report said that spring wheat producers generally will participate less in this year's program than they did in 1983, which "indicates larger 1984 durum and other spring wheat output."

According to tentative projections by USDA, total wheat production this year will be around 2.55 billion bushels, up 5 percent from last year but still 262 million bushels below the record harvest of 1982.

"The heightened output, when added to near-record carryin stocks, means further building of U.S. stocks, given expected declines in domestic use and exports," the report said.

"On the domestic side, heavy wheat use for livestock feed may continue into the summer, but slacken thereafter if the 1984 corn harvest reaches or exceeds the forecast 7.8 billion bushels."

Last year's corn harvest, reduced by the government's acreage program and the drought, was only 4.2 billion bushels. As a result, feed prices have risen this season, so much that livestock producers in some areas have turned to wheat instead of corn.

Wheat exports will be held down by conditions that have hurt shipments the last couple of years, including another record world harvest, aggressive marketing by exporting nations, continued financial constraints in many markets and the impact of a strong U.S. dollar, the report said.

Thus, the outlook "suggests that wheat prices may be hard pressed to remain much higher than the $3.30-a-bushel loan rate," it said. "The season average price is forecast to be between $3.20 and $3.50 a bushel, compared with $3.50 in 1983-84."

Accent on Agriculture

By DENNIS W. NEWTON County Extension Agent

As the warm weather comes, farmers begin to get antsy about getting certain crops planted. The soil temperature is sufficient now to plant just about any crop that we can grow in Deaf Smith County.

Insects however, do not just attack the crops we grow but can also cause a severe problem on livestock. One such pest is the fly. Flies attacking cattle include the horn fly, face fly, horse fly and house fly. These pests are a constant annoyance to cattle, resulting in weight loss and reduced milk production in lactating cows.

One of the best methods to control these pests are pyrethroid cattle ear tags. These devices, which contain permethrin, fenvalerate, and flucythrinate, have been widely accepted by the livestock industry throughout the United States. These devices have been labor saving as well as very effective in controlling horn flies and other flies as well as certain species of ticks for periods of up to 4 months.

However, within the last two years in certain localities, control from pyrethroid tags has been less than expected. Pyrethroid resistant horn flies were suspected and to date have been confirmed in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Louisiana, Nebraska and Oklahoma. In most cases these resistant flies are isolated in certain localities where horn fly pressure is quite high year after year and a history of pyrethroid ear tag use exists for three or more years. Pyrethroid resistant horn flies have not been confirmed in Texas, but there have been reports from County Extension Agents and others of decreased control. The problem of pyrethroid resistance is surely around the corner or if not already a reality.

To help prevent possible resistance, the use of alternate methods of control may be practiced. These include sprays, dust bags or systemic insecticides rather than ear tags. Research indicates that horn flies revert back to a susceptible form after only a single year of using the mentioned alternative methods.

If you use the ear tag method, and observe a problem with adequate control, please contact the extension office so that a sampling of the population can be taken to determine the level of resistance.

Farmer exports to be bigger this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new report by the Agriculture Department says farm exports now are expected to be worth $38 billion in the fiscal year that will end on Sept. 30, up $500 million from an earlier forecast made in February and 9 percent more than in 1982-83.

The value of farm exports rose to record levels for 12 consecutive years to a peak of $43.8 billion in 1980-81 before declining to $39.1 billion in 1981-82 and $34.8 billion in 1982-83.

But the report Thursday said the actual volume of shipments will decline to about 142 million metric tons from 144.8 million in 1982-83. However, officials said the latest forecast was up two million tons from indications in February because of better prospects for shipments of feed grains, soybeans and cotton.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds.

Shipments of "coarse" grains, which include corn and other feed grains, were projected at 56.1 million tons valued at $8.6 billion, compared to 53.8 million tons worth $6.58 billion last year.

"Several countries, notably (South) Korea and South Africa, have been importing low-grade wheat for feed use," the report said. "Nevertheless, South Africa, Korea, Japan and the Soviet Union have purchased large amounts of U.S. feed grains."

"We'll be backing your IH dealer and you... for many years to come."

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE AGRICULTURAL COMMUNITY:

During February and March a large number of North American farmers toured the International Harvester tractor plant in Rock Island, Illinois and our combine plant in East Moline, Illinois.

These farmers saw two of the most advanced agricultural equipment manufacturing plants in the world. They also saw some very dedicated IH employees and sharing the spotlight with the right mixture of automated machine tools and robotics. This combination has evolved over the last few years as a result of our company's continuing efforts to produce quality products... and to produce them more efficiently.

We take great pride in the equipment we produce. It is designed and built to meet the demanding needs of today's farming practices and to provide you with the maximum return on your machinery investment in terms of productivity, efficiency and resale value.

In a recent open letter to the agricultural community, I noted that our company has just completed financial and operational restructurings that give us a foundation upon which to build a stronger company. That process is already underway.

Your local IH dealer is proud of what has been accomplished with his help thus far. He is also proud of the International equipment he has to sell. We ask that you give your dealer a chance to show you how good this productive machinery really is.

Your dealer plans to be around a long time to serve you and, working together, we plan to be backing him—and you—for many years to come.

Sincerely,

ABC still first

'V' helps NBC get second

By JERRY BUCK AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC's earthenly repelled the reptile invaders from outer space as "V: The Final Battle" took the top two places in the Nielsen ratings for the week ended May 13.

Still, ABC claimed its fourth straight week as the winning network. NBC was second and CBS was third.

The final episode of "V" was the highest-rated show for the week. In second place was the second chapter. Despite the victory by the earthlings, reptilian femme fatale Jane Badler escaped to return in the fall when "V" becomes a regular series.

Over at ABC's "Happy Days," the Fonz and friends took their leave in the Top 10 after 11 years as one of TV's most popular situation comedies. The final one-hour special episode was 10th, its first time in the Top 10 since August 31, 1982, when it was also 10th. After the appearance of NBC's "The A-Team" the show's ratings fell off sharply.

ABC's "Dynasty" came in third with its cliffhanger show ending the season. CBS' "Dallas," building up to its own cliffhanger this week, was fourth. In sixth place was another CBS soap opera, "Falcon Crest," also bound for summer suspense after this Friday.

Jane Fonda's television dramatic debut in the ABC movie "The Dollmaker" captured fifth place. Its Mother's Day opposition on NBC, "Family Secrets," tied for 16th place.

Others in the Top 10: NBC's "The A-Team," seventh; ABC's "Hotel," eighth; NBC's "TV Bloopers & Practical Jokes," ninth; and ABC's "Happy Days," 10th.

ABC's "The Last Days of Pompeii" lost out to NBC's "V," which ran directly opposite it for three nights. The third episode was in 13th place and the second episode was in 15th place. The week before the opening chapter was in sixth place, just behind fifth-place "V."

NBC's "Hill Street Blues,"

working toward this Thursday's wrapup in which Joyce splits with Frank, was in 11th place. NBC's "Cheers," completing a two-part show in which Sam and Diana split, managed only 31st place.

ABC won the week with a network average of 16.2. NBC was second with 15.3 and CBS was third with 14.0. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 16.2 percent of the TV homes were tuned to ABC.

The five shows at the bottom in descending order were NBC's "The Yellow Rose," CBS' "AfterMASH," the NBC movie "The Omen," CBS' "Four Seasons," and NBC's "Doug Henning's World of Magic."

CBS stayed ahead among the evening news shows, with NBC second and ABC third. Here are the ratings: CBS 11.6, NBC 9.5, ABC 8.9.

Youngster makes large impression

By JOE EDWARDS Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Kevin Moore hangs out in a bar until midnight on Friday and Saturday nights. He's 9 years old.

Kevin spends his weekends playing a mean fiddle at the Nashville Palace — a country music nightclub and bar only a mile from the famous Grand Ole Opry.

Kevin traveled that mile one night and got to play on the 58-year-old country music show — one of the youngest performers ever on the Opry stage.

Opry star Stonewall Jackson saw Kevin play at the Nashville Palace one Friday night and invited him to make a guest spot on the revered country music show the next evening.

"We went backstage and I got nervous," Kevin recalled. "When I played I could tell I was nervous. But then I remembered to 'do my thing.'"

He also has performed on the Nashville Network's "Nashville Now" show on cable TV and was taped for a Jim Stafford TV special.

All this attention hasn't made this 4-foot-9, 75-pounder too big for his britches. He still likes to play football and soccer in his backyard — after music practice.

This cute, courteous youngster doesn't have time for much else.

Kevin practices on the violin, piano and mandolin for 2½ hours every day. He has a 45-minute lesson in classical music every Wednesday. And on Mondays, he plays for two hours with the Vanderbilt University Youth Symphony.

All this gives him a repertoire ranging from Brahms' "Lullaby" and "The William Tell Overture" to such country classics as the kick-up-your-heels "Orange Blossom Special" and "Jambalaya."

On Friday and Saturday nights, he plays for about 30 minutes at the nightclub. His 7-year-old brother Joshua and 11-year-old brother Jason do a rousing clogging routine as Kevin closes the show with the "Orange Blossom Special."

Huey brought up rocking

By LISA LEVITT Associated Press Writer

MILL VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Mama was a beatnik, so she weaned baby Huey on Otis Redding, Big Brother and Bobby Womack and let him cut his teeth on early Bob Dylan.

She fed him rhythm 'n' blues with his Cream of Wheat when he was just a tiny, tow-headed tad in Marin County. So you might say that Huey Lewis was raised to rock 'n' roll, even though he's a pretty unlikely-looking superstar.

Lewis, whose platinum LP, "Sports," with his group The News is in the Top 10, is just a touch too normal: The eyes are a little too blue, the jaw a little too square, the hair a little too neat and brown.

'The Natural' thought good

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer

"THE NATURAL" is an allegory of evil vs. innocence played on a baseball diamond. The innocent is Robert Redford, a farm boy who shows promise of becoming an all-time great pitcher.

But he is felled by a strange tragedy before his career can begin: A mysterious woman attracted by his athletic prowess shoots him.

Fifteen years later, Roy Hobbs (Redford) turns up as an average rookie for a hapless New York major-league team. He proves a sensation as hitter and right fielder until he is assailed by the forces of evil. They include the venal club owner (Robert Prosky), a seductive blonde (Kim Basinger), a corrupt gambler (Darren McGavin) and a vindictive columnist (Robert Duvall).

But Hobbs has supporters in his battle: Glenn Close, the woman he left behind on the farm; Wilford Brimley, the gruff, honest manager; Richard Farnsworth, the understanding coach.

"The Natural" is based on a Bernard Malamud novel, and hence is no ordinary sports story. Mystic elements intermingle with the realism of the baseball scene, and the mixture is sometimes perplexing. Barry Levinson directs the superior cast with great skill, although he sometimes plays pivotal scenes in the dark.

Redford, returning to the screen after four years, provides the major strength for the film. His strong presence is felt throughout, though you might wonder how bright Roy Hobbs could be. He is ever forgiving of Miss Basinger, even when she poisons him, and he can't figure out, as the audience does, that he is the father of Miss Close's 15-year-old son.

Rated PG, mild swearing, adult themes.

But what Huey Lewis & The News lack in outrageous trappings, they more than make up for with humor, chutzpah and heart — putting them a cut above the norm in a world full of calculated, computerized musical monotony.

The LP "Sports" has spent 21 weeks on the charts and was No. 5 as Lewis and The News left Mill Valley for a worldwide concert tour through September. Their videos of "Heart and Soul" and "I Want a New Drug" are among the most popular on Music Television.

Gone forever are the days when nobody had heard The News except the gang down at Uncle Charlie's in Corte Madera.

"I get autographed everywhere," Lewis said. "It used to be, you could have 20 hits and people didn't know who you were. But now, with MTV, it's really immediate." Lewis and keyboardist Sean Hopper played with a popular Marin County band called Clover. The News — Lewis, Hopper, lead guitarist Chris Hays, bassist Mario Cipollina, saxophone player and guitarist Johnny Colla and drummer Bill Gibson — evolved five years ago out of Monday night jam sessions at Uncle Charlie's and $6,000 in seed money Lewis received from a British record company for a disco version of "Exodus."

"In the same way that before, I didn't have a chip on my shoulder because we were getting no recognition when we were good, I take this success with a grain of salt," Lewis said.

If June is the honeymoon month, Bermuda is the most popular honeymoon destination. Here young couples discover Old World charm in white-roofed, pastel homes, meandering country lanes, ocean coves and trim landscapes. The Bermudians are friendly; there is a paradise, boasting a number of top-ranked courses. Charter boats go out after game fish; sailboats can be rented, and shopping features fine British woolsens, china and crystal. In short Bermuda is as close to Utopia as the 20th Century has known. This is the reason that honeymooners return years later to find their paradise unchanged.

Statistics indicate that more visitors return to Bermuda than to any island in either the Caribbean or the Bahamas.

Our main job here at HEREFORD TRAVEL CENTER is to provide you with knowledgeable answers to all your travel questions. Whether your travel plans include a romantic interlude in Bermuda or a business trip across the country talk with us. There is never any additional charge to our clients for our services. LOOKING AND FEELING BETTER

QUESTION: Why do so many people go to the bother and expense of switching from eyeglasses to contacts?
ANSWER: There are practical and optical advantages to wearing contacts. However, this is not the primary reason why so many people have switched and are switching to them. According to a recent survey, appearance is the single greatest reason for making the change. Contacts have no unflattering frames to obscure and change the appearance of your face, nor thick lenses to enlarge or diminish the appearance of your eyes.

Looking better (and seeing better) also seems to bring a psychological lift to people. Many contact wearers say they feel less inhibited and more confident after switching.
