Reagan to Outline Cuts Tonight

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, trying to persuade Wall Street and pressure Congress about his economic program, will tell the American people tonight that his budget ax will fall "on many things that we wish didn't have to be cut." Social Security, however, apparently won't be one of them.

The 9 p.m. EDT speech, the president's fifth on national television, was intended to unveil a $16 billion package of 1982 budget cuts that was still being put together Wednesday night.

White House aides were unusually tight-lipped about Reagan's proposals.

"They've really clamped the lid on all of us here," said deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes. "They want to give the president the opportunity to have something in his speech."

The secrecy prompted speculation at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue that Reagan would take a new tactic in his drive to hold down next year's federal deficit to $42.5 billion and balance the budget by 1984.

One White House official, who asked not to be identified, said Reagan might solve the deficit problem simply by setting a higher target. Another suggested possibility was revamping the Consumer Price Index, which many experts say overestimates inflation, to reduce automatic cost-of-living increases for Social Security and other federal benefit programs.

Congressional sources said Wednesday that Reagan had abandoned his plan to save $2.9 billion through a one-time, three-month delay in next July's cost-of-living raise for Social Security recipients. That idea had been rejected in advance anyway on Capitol Hill.

But without the delay, the White House official said, Reagan was having trouble finding $16 billion in cuts.

In a brief Rose Garden appearance before a group of senior citizens, the president said Wednesday that to restore the economy to sound health he must slash "many things that we wish didn't have to be cut."

Later, after an evening barbecue on the White House lawn, Reagan said he was still writing the speech but "it's pretty well wrapped up."

He summoned his Cabinet for a preview this afternoon.

On the eve of the speech, the changes in Reagan's program appeared, from the reports of congressional and administration sources, to be shaping up this way:

—Social Security cost-of-living increases will be granted on schedule next July, but raises in some other federal pensions and veterans' benefits are likely to be postponed.

—Planned increases in military spending will be trimmed no more than $2 billion next year, despite wide expectation that Congress will try to cut more.

—Suggestions that tax cuts already approved by Congress be deferred next year will be rejected.

The administration was also under pressure in Congress and from mayors and governors to keep the general revenue sharing program for cities and local governments.

Arms Talks Will Begin Nov. 30

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Pledging to "spare no effort" to reach agreement, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko announced today their two nations will begin talks aimed at controlling nuclear arms in Europe on Nov. 30 in Geneva.

"Both sides believe in the importance of these negotiations for enhancing stability and international security and pledge to spare no effort to reach an appropriate agreement," they said in a joint statement.

Gromyko and Haig met for more than four hours Wednesday — three hours alone and one hour with aides — at the U.S. Mission across from U.N. Headquarters to discuss the missile control talks and other U.S.-Soviet differences. The talks represented the first high-level, U.S.-Soviet contact since President Reagan took office eight months ago and were characterized by a U.S. spokesman as being "frank and businesslike." A second meeting is set for Monday.

The statement issued here said the chief U.S. negotiator will be Paul H. Nitze, who, during the Nixon administration, helped negotiate a strategic missile agreement with the Soviets. U.A. Kvitinsky will lead the Soviet negotiators, the statement said.

The announcement was the first tangible sign of progress in the meeting, which came after months of vitriolic statements out of the Kremlin and the White House.

Haig did not meet with reporters after the meeting but, through State Department spokesman Dean Fischer, told reporters in a statement that "We touched on a number of international issues. ..." Gromyko did not comment.

In an effort to soothe U.S.-Soviet relations before the meeting, Reagan sent a letter to Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev on Tuesday saying he hoped the two countries could establish a "framework of mutual respect. Haig had said previously that successful meetings between him and Gromyko could help pave the way to the summit meeting proposed by Brezhnev last February.

Seeking Win No. 4

'Faces Host Canyon Friday

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

It had been eight long years since a Hereford football team won its first three games of the season, but the 1981 edition of the Herd is still running hot off the press, and is more than living up to the colorful dust cover wrapped around this year's volume by pre-season experts.

In 1973 the Whitefaces registered a 10-2 record enroute to a loss on penetrations in a 7-7 battle with El Paso Coronado in a regional contest. That much-remembered version of the Herd won its first eight games before letting a fired-up Snyder eleven hand them a 28-7 setback.

With names like James Harris, Dave Charest, Mike Crim, and Jim Marsh, just to mention a few, making the headlines, the 1973 crew chewed up Pampa 12-0, Palo Duro 37-7, and Borger 15-12 during their first three games.

The same three teams have fallen to the current Whiteface team, but by even more impressive figures with this year's bunch recording 21-0, 28-9, and 35-7 wins respectively.

Friday night at Whiteface

Stadium the Herd will attempt to keep a clean slate against the Canyon Eagles, who stand at 1-1 on the year after a 17-7 loss to Lubbock Monterey and a 32-8 shellacking of Amarillo Caprock last Friday night.

The Eagle offense, which features the Veer attack, will challenge the Whitefaces, who lead District 4-5A defensively, allowing only 113.0 yards per game to opponents.

"We haven't played a real throwing team yet," Herd mentor Don Cumpton said of the Eagles. "And it will be a challenge to stop their option and passing attack."

Campton, which got three touchdowns out of Louis Byers against the Longhorns last week, has what Cumpton calls "their best team in the

U.S. Advisers Attacked By Honduran Guerrillas

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — A left-wing guerrilla group says the shooting of two American military advisers and a bomb explosion at the Honduran congress was the start of its "armed struggle against Yankee imperialism."

The Lorenzo Zelaya Popular Revolutionary Command said it was responsible for the attack Wednesday on a U.S. Embassy van in which Army Sgts. Robert L. Smith, 30, of Marshville, N.C., and Russell L. McFall, 34, were wounded.

Three other Americans in the vehicle escaped injury.

A communique from the guerrillas also assailed Honduras' military government, calling it a puppet of the United States.

It was the first attack on the U.S. training team of 21 men who began arriving in this Central American country two months ago. The Honduran police posted extra guards at their headquarters.

Embassy spokesman Robert Callahan said Smith was wounded in the kidney and was flown to a U.S. military hospital in Panama. He was reported in stable condition.

McFall, whose hometown was not available, was treated at a local hospital for an arm wound and released, the spokesman said.

Smith is a liaison officer between the training team and the Honduran government and McFall teaches air-to-ground communications, Embassy spokesman Robert Callahan said.

Callahan said a guerrilla with an automatic rifle fired eight bullets into the van in which Smith, McFall and three other American advisers were being driven to their headquarters.

The police said at least three men took part in the ambush and escaped in a taxi. They also fired at the nearby home of Col. Rolando Mejia Garrigo, a former vice minister of communications, the police said.

The morning ambush coincided with a bomb explosion at the Legislative Palace that caused extensive damage but no casualties.

Police said an anonymous caller telephoned a warning (See ATTACK, Page 2A)

GOP Wants U.S. Crews in AWACS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders are telling the White House that its $8.5 billion arms sales to Saudi Arabia faces almost certain veto by Congress unless there is a written agreement to permit American crews in the cockpits of AWACS radar planes.

The administration's headcount in the Senate, The Associated Press has learned, shows 63 senators opposed to the deal unless President Reagan's proposal is rewritten to give Americans joint operational control.

The Saudis have agreed privately to some tactical restrictions on the surveillance planes but so far have refused to put any agreement in writing.

"Manning is very key," said a Republican congressional source, who asked not to be identified.

He added that the White House is "very much aware of the fact there are going to have to be some changes

Rainfall Varied Across County

Varied overnight rain reports show heavier rain was felt in the western portions of Deaf Smith County.

Clint Homfeld, Westway, reported 4.3 inches overnight. He said the rain began at 10 p.m. and continued through the night.

H.L. Hershby, located 13 miles northeast of Hereford, said they received .5 of an inch.

J.E. McCabe, east of Dawn, reported just a shower, and Nancy Godwin at Barrett and Crofoot West said they had .25 of an inch of rain.

At Easter Fertilizer, Winston Roundtree reported no rain.

KPAN radio reported .11 of an inch of rain for Hereford, bringing the monthly total to 2.62 inches.

If you're looking for some wholesome entertainment that can be enjoyed by both husband and wife, you might want to consider square dancing, according to our friend Ed Line.

The Merry Mixers, one of several local clubs, will be starting square dance lessons Oct. 1. The lessons will be on Thursday night at the Community Center. For full details, call 364-3597.

While Hereford has been fortunate in the quantity and quality of physicians, it seems we always need just one or two more. Local doctors continue their efforts to recruit help, but apparently we have not felt the pinch here as much as other communities.

According to reports in the newspaper at Dumas, some of the doctors on the hospital staff are miffed because the hospital board is using a subsidy to recruit more physicians in various specialties. The subsidy is in the form of a $3,000-a-month guarantee for six months.

The Perryton Herald reports that the hospital there offers the same subsidy except it covers a full year. A number of communities have gone to similar programs in an effort to recruit new doctors.

The Medical School at Texas Tech indicates that it won't be too many years before the supply of doctors will be sufficient to provide most area communities with enough medical protection. We hope that assessment is correct.

Turkish Office Seized; Hostages Being Held

PARIS (AP) — Three gunmen of the Secret Army for the Liberation of Armenia seized the Turkish consular office in Paris today, wounded at least one security guard and took about 40 people hostage, authorities said.

A statement from the organization delivered to The Associated Press in Beirut said the hostages would be executed unless all Armenian political prisoners and clerics were released from Turkish jails by 11 p.m. (5 p.m. EDT).

It asked French authorities to transmit the demands to Ankara and said if French forces intervened at the consulate the gunmen would "blow up the building and all those in it."

A Turkish Embassy spokesman, who declined to be identified, quoted Ambassador Adnan Bulak as saying: "We will not negotiate with terrorists. That is Turkish government policy."

The spokesman said there were no Armenian political prisoners in Turkey, though there were "extreme right and extreme left-wing political prisoners."

A witness who escaped from the building told reporters the leader of the gunmen, a short, thin, bearded man, fired shots at a Turkish security guard who tried to overpower him and wounded him at least once.

Two police officers who arrived on the scene immediately after the attack were taken hostage, police said.

About 2½ hours after the siege started, a woman dropped two notes out of a second floor window to police crouching against the wall of the building. It was not known if they were messages from the attackers.

The Turkish employee and several other people escaped from offices on the first and second floor. At least one was aided by a ladder supplied by police who ringed the building.

The consular employee, who declined to give his name, said he believed there were three or four gunmen involved in the takeover.

He said he was working in his office when he heard someone shout in French, "Don't move." Then, he said, several shots were fired.

Turkish students, who said they were in the center's students service office and escaped through the windows, claimed they had heard three or four shots fired inside the building.

A police spokesman said the gunmen claimed to be members of the Secret Army for the Liberation of Armenia, an underground group that has been waging a war of assassinations and bombings against Turkish (See SEIZED, Page 2A)

Board Begins Redistricting Task

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A five-man Legislative Redistricting Board begins work today on a task which the 1981 Legislature flunked — the redrawing of boundary lines for state Senate and House districts.

Staff members said at least 27 witnesses were signed up to appear today and about the same on Friday.

The board has until Oct. 28 to finish a redistricting job on the basis of the 1980 census.

No one is sure what happens if the board fails but most predict the matter would have to be settled in federal court.

Members of the Legislative Redistricting Board are Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton, Attorney General Mark White, Comptroller Bob Bullock and Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong.

Since Bullock is in a California institution being treated for alcoholism, he will be represented by his consultant Robert Spellings, former state deputy comptroller.

Bullock has promised he will be back for the final decisions.

The five-member board automatically was activated when Gov. Bill Clements vetoed a Senate redistricting bill approved by the 1981 Legislature. Clements said he vetoed the Senate plan because it did not set up a minority district in Dallas County.

Later an Austin district court, backed by the Texas Supreme Court, struck down the House redistricting plan because it unnecessarily split counties.

Martin to Enter

Plea in Austin

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Mike Martin, who says his case never will come to trial, was due in an Austin courtroom today to enter a plea to a charge of lying to a grand jury about his shooting.

Martin, R-Longview, was indicted on Sept. 3 for aggravated perjury after he denied to grand jurors that he set up the shooting.

Austin lawyer Frank Maloney said Martin would plead innocent. Maloney, a veteran defense lawyer who has represented several politicians, also said he might ask for a change of venue because of extensive publicity about the case.

The 29-year-old freshman legislator was wounded in the arm during the early morning hours of July 31. The indictment charges he planned the shooting near the camper he lived in during the summer session of the Legislature.

Charles Goff, Martin's cousin, said Martin asked him to be the gunman in a "controlled hit" meant to gain publicity for Martin.

Martin initially said he did not know who shot him. He later offered a tale of being the victim of a hitman from the "Guardian Angels of the Underworld," an occult group.

Delhi to Merge With Australian Firm

DALLAS (AP) — Delhi International Oil Corp. has agreed to merge with CSR Ltd., a Sydney, Australia-based firm, and will become a CSR subsidiary after a common stock purchase offer is made Sept. 29, company officials said Wednesday.

Delhi International is a Dallas-based oil and gas exploration and production company. A significant portion of the company's assets are in Australia.

Under the merger agreement, a CSR subsidiary make a cash tender offer of $78 per share next week for all outstanding shares of Delhi common stock. Delhi also has approved the proposed sale to CSR of 1.47 million shares of authorized but unissued common stock at the same price.

The merger proposal will be recommended to the Delhi stockholders by the Delhi board of directors. The company said its financial advisor, Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., termed the offer "fair and equitable" to the oil company's stockholders.

past four years."

Quarterback Jay Tipps led an offensive charge which amassed 336 yards against Caprock, which boasted of the best defense in District 35A at the time.

The Eagles, who had a week off after the opening-game loss to the Plainsmen, had ample time to prepare for Caprock.

This time around that luxury won't be afforded the Eagles, who must find a way to contend with the top offensive team in District 4-5A as well.

Herd quarterback Alan Wartes is close to hitting on half of his passes this year with a 22 for 45 performance. Wartes leads the loop by yards and bounds with 393 aerial yards, 300 markers better than runner-up Steve George of Plainview.

Wayne High of HHS leads the loop in rushing this week with 266 yards in three games. High breezed to 161 yards against Borger last week, and is averaging 88.6 yards per game.

The Whitefaces' receiving corps remains virtually in a league by itself with Hereford having the top three pass catchers in the loop, and another tied for the fourth spot on the list.

Split-end Rudy Hernandez tops the league with seven receptions for 186 yards. He also has picked up four touchdowns along the way. Mike Mason and Don Delozier gave HHS the number two and three receivers with five catches apiece. Mason holds an edge in yardage over Delozier, 86-56.

Hereford's Alfred Ball is tied for fourth on the list with three catches, good for 57 yards. Plainview's Kevin Moseley also has three receptions on the year.

In total offense, the Whitefaces are at the head of the class as well, averaging 378.3 yards per game on the basis of 725 rushing yards and 410 through the air. Wartes has thrown five TD passes, while scoring two by the run.

Defensively, the Herd has given up 259 yards rushing, and only 80 passing for a 339 total and a 113.0 average. Plainview is a distant second defensively, allowing their three opponents an average of 167.3 per contest.

Canyon is third among District 1-4A teams offensively, and ranks fourth defensively. The Eagles average 289.0 yards per game on offense, while are giving up an average of 212.0 markers.

Tipps has carried the pigskin 17 times for 124 yards, and is second in his district in passing with 182 yards after hitting on 14 of 25 attempts.

The Whitefaces of 1973 went on to whip the Eagles 28-11 during their banner year, and this year's bunch is coming off a close 18-16 win over the birds last year.

The game tomorrow is the last of a three-game home stand by Hereford, which opened on the road against Pampa. The Whitefaces will travel to Amarillo next week to test the Amarillo High Sandies.

Canyon will host Lubbock Dunbar, a 3-0 team heading into a contest with Lubbock High tomorrow night, next week.

The sale includes five Airborne Warning and Control System radar planes, plus missiles and fuel tanks to increase the range and firepower of 62 Saudi F-15 jet-fighters.

Facing an uphill battle, strategists working under White House chief of staff James A. Baker III view the Senate as their only hope for averting a congressional veto and would like the first test to occur there.

The sale will go through unless both the House and the Senate vote against it by Oct. 30.

The White House has all but written off the House, where hearings begin Monday. Foes of the arms deal said Wednesday that 260 members — 42 more than a majority — are on record against the sale.

"If the House votes first, we'd be crunched real good," said an official involved in the administration's lobbying efforts. "Recovering in the Senate after an overwhelming House vote would be very difficult."

But the administration's

Senate allies see little chance of slowing the House timetable.

"The House is going to beat us to the punch," said a Senate source. The Foreign Affairs Committee is expected to hold only two days of hearings, concluding next Tuesday and voting on Wednesday. A House floor vote is planned for Oct. 13.

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts, a Democrat badly beaten by Reagan on budget and tax votes, is a strong backer of Israel and a foe of the Saudi arms deal.

Searching for a successful strategy, top administration officials are meeting daily in Baker's office. His principal lieutenants are Undersecretary of State James L. Buckley and Max L. Friedersdorf, the White House's chief liaison to Congress.

Reagan's national security adviser, Richard V. Allen, said Wednesday that the White House is not ready to forfeit the fight.

The president reportedly had planned to phase out the program over three years, and at least some cuts are likely.

The new budget cuts were deemed necessary when persistent high interest rates led to revised forecasts that the fiscal 1982 budget, combined with the tax cuts, would produce a deficit $20 billion or more above Reagan's original goal of $42.5 billion.

That would jeopardize the president's promise to balance the budget within three years.

Unlike earlier budget battles, however, Reagan is running into opposition from some of his fellow Republicans who fear he is taking too much from social programs and too little from the military.

"The Congress is against what we're doing," said one White House aide, speaking anonymously. "They've got to be reinforced from back home. The congressmen received a heckuva lot of heat in their districts."

While Congress is wary of more cuts, financial analysts are demanding them.

William LeFevre of the Purcell Graham & Co. said

Wall Street was "looking for a proposal on the part of the president that not only are we going to have further budget cuts, but that they are doable."

"If he demonstrates the willingness to work with Congress, it can be done," LeFevre said, but he added: "I don't think he can do it in one night."

department reported. But prices for foods purchased in grocery stores rose 0.9 percent, the same as in July. The sharp advance in food prices reflected higher prices for beef, pork, poultry and fresh fruits and vegetables. Egg prices fell sharply to somewhat offset those increases.

For the eighth straight month, medical care costs rose, reaching a 1.3 percent increase in August, the same as in July. The continuing increase has meant the cost of medical care is rising at a faster rate than inflation overall.

Today's report said the unadjusted Consumer Price Index rose to 276.5 in August, which means that goods and services costing $10 in 1967 could have cost $27.65 last month.

The Labor Department also said real spendable earnings — after taxes and after adjusting for inflation — rose 0.4 percent in August, reversing three previous months of decline, for an average married wage earner with three dependents.

A second bomb warning was received later in the day, and the Constituent Assembly suspended work. But no bomb was found.

Honduras has been under military rule since 1972, but the assembly is writing a new constitution to restore democratic government. National elections are scheduled Nov. 29.

Although there has been much less political violence in Honduras than in neighboring El Salvador and Guatemala, dozens of small radical groups are operating in opposition to the government.

Something In Us Is Smarter

Dr. Karl Menninger, in his book "Sparks," expresses fascination with circumstantial evidence linking anxiety to head colds.

He does not presume to explain it.

There are phenomena which medical science has to accept without explanation.

Another example is warts. There's a scientist at Cornell University who thinks "warts are wonderful."

Professor Lewis Thomas, a pathologist, waxes almost poetic in describing the "splendor of the complexity of their architecture."

Under a microscope, he says, "the purposeful cellular arrangement sits there in a turreted mound of dense, impenetrable horn, impenetrable."

And yet "you can think them away."

I said he said, "you can think them away."

This special quality of warts, Professor Thomas considers more amazing than cloning or acupuncture and even less explainable. "One of the great mystifications of science."

This will not be news to your grandmother. She knew two generations ago that a wart could be rubbed with a gold wedding ring and made to disappear overnight.

Before specialists—when dermatologists were just called "doc"—the GP's tutored by sir William Osler learned to paint warts with gentian violet and assure the patient the wart would be gone in a week. They never saw it fail.

Several medical researchers, good clinical investigators with proper controls, have been fascinated by the wart.

One researcher took 14 patients with seemingly intractable generalized warts on both sides of the body. Under hypnosis it was suggested that the warts on one side of the body would begin to go away.

In nine of the 14 patients, all or nearly all of the warts had vanished on the suggested side — while on the control side there were just as many as ever.

Dr. Thomas suspects the unconscious mind needs carefully phrased specific instructions in order to cut off the blood supply to one wart while leaving another intact.

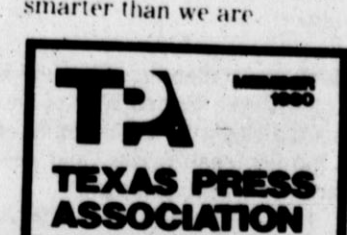

He believes that whatever the rejection process, it is not a haphazard, disordered occurrence. Whatever is responsible for wart rejection has the accuracy and precision of a surgeon.

This research raises some unanswered questions concerning human organ transplants. Are the intruding organs rejected by some mental process?

Is immunology something we might accomplish mentally?

After all, a mental process that can reject a wart selectively is both potent and technically advanced beyond our understanding. There is something in each of us that's smarter than we are.

Police Search For Forgery Suspect

Hereford police have issued a warrant on a suspect believed to have forged and passed two stolen checks at First National Bank here Wednesday.

Sgt. Joe Brown said bank tellers got the man's driver's license and a description of the vehicle. He said police later found that the vehicle had been reported stolen from Amarillo.

Police arrested five persons for public intoxication and one for driving while intoxicated. Six traffic citations were issued.

The Honors Program, established in 1962, is designed to motivate students qualified to accept the intellectual challenge to strive for academic excellence. Dr. Jim Kelly, TCU professor of chemistry, directs the program.

Invitations to join the Honors Program are extended on the basis of Scholastic Aptitude Test or American College Testing scores as well as academic promise illustrated by high school class rank.

Freshmen invited to join the program and their sophomore, junior and senior classmates already in Honors attend classes smaller and more academically demanding than those in the regular undergraduate program. Classes are designed for maximum interaction and discussion.

Ruppe Talks About Peace Corps...

Ambassadors from Peace Corps countries come to see me often and they echo their enthusiasm for America's volunteer work, says Peace Corps director Loret Miller Ruppe. The ambassador from Lesotho, Africa, was in my office recently; she brought greetings from her government and then said:

"We know America has economic problems, but it is our endless plea and earnest request that you do not cut down on the number of volunteers in my country."

If one still asks, "Why a Peace Corps in the 80's?" to them I say, ask Tunisia...ask Morocco...Thailand...the Philippines...Jamaica...ask all of our countries where our volunteers are serving. You'll find that our program overseas has been a wise investment.

Why do I use the term wise investment? Because that's what it has been. Did you know that developing countries have become the fastest growing customers of U.S. exports, tripling their purchases since 1973, and how buying more than one third of all U.S. exports?

One out of every three acres of American farmland produces food for export, much of it to the Third World. One point two million American manufacturing jobs now depend on exports to the developing countries.

And conversely, developing nations currently supply us with more than 40 percent of our imports.

The U.S. is increasingly dependent on Third World countries for essential raw materials, vital to our economy and security. We import from developing nations 85 percent of our bauxite and 93 percent of our tin. Our country earned more than $16 billion from our direct investments in the developing world in 1974. That same year, U.S. firms invested nearly $6 billion in that world.

The Peace Corps has educated 80,000 American in a second language. It is America's finest graduate school in international understanding.

Our graduate, Cal Williams now second vice president with Chase Manhattan Bank, addressed our 20th anniversary conference with suggestions that we strengthen an exchange between our private enterprise and the Peace Corps. "The values embodied in the Peace Corps, and the dynamism of American private enterprise, are the pillars on which to build a more just world," he said.

We now have two former volunteers in the Senate and three in the House of Representatives. A former volunteer was just named ambassador to Mali, Africa...a first for Peace Corps. We have Peter McPherson and 500 others working at U.S. Agency for International Development.

Robert Haas, a volunteer from Ivory Coast, is now helping the global development of Levi Strauss and Company as its senior vice president. Susan Silk is here, back from Venezuela and now executive director of the Columbia Foundation. We have Betsy White, a Pakistan volunteer and current leader at the Asian Foundation. And Clay Cole, serving in Columbia, is now vice president for all Latin American operations at Wells Fargo Bank.

A question, "Why a Peace Corps in the 80's?" must then be answered: Is peace simply the absence of war, or is it really the absence of conditions that bring on war? The conditions of hunger, disease, poverty, illiteracy, despair...

When infant mortality hovers at 50 percent and malnutrition between 50 and 70 percent...When a village's youth and men flee to the cities which have no jobs for them...

When women, for lack of wells, have to walk for miles to a stream for water and then search for several hours for wood to cook with...

When rain forests are stripped and no new planting done...

Then, let's face it, America, the world is not at peace.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

All the child psychology books I've ever read take you down the yellow brick road past puberty, serious petting, into mature relationships and leave you.

But parenting isn't like that. There are 30 million parents out there with kids between the ages of 18-55 who drift in and out of their lives like a revolving door.

The empty nest syndrome is overrated. I have heard of some parents who moved during the night to another city (and left no forwarding address). Others have installed pay showers. Still another parent I know waited until her son got up one night to use the bathroom, then painted his room pink and rented it to a pocket computer salesman.

No parent likes to change locks, but the situation is definitely getting out of hand. Children simply aren't leaving the home after school anymore as they did in the '60s. When they do, they multiply and come back ten-fold.

So how do you displace an aging teenager? It isn't easy. When our son's bedroom began to take on the appeal of a roadside zoo (complete with sawdust on the floor), we took action.

First, we set the table for two. This made him aware that he was not expected for dinner.

Second, we intercepted his mail, wrote "No such person at this address" and had it returned to the post office for forwarding.

We posted signs in the hallway reading, "OCCUPANCY BY MORE THAN TWO IN THIS HOUSE IS A FIRE HAZARD." We were considering telling him he would have to share his room with the family pet (and buying a wolf) when we came up with a daring but cruel idea. We stopped stocking the refrigerator.

I'll never forget the look of fear in that child's eyes standing in front of the refrigerator door (the hairs in his nose becoming frosted) saying, "Is that all there is?" If I live to be a hundred.

We never saw him again.

You hear a lot of dialogue on the death of the American family. Families aren't dying. They're merging into big conglomerates. Daughters and sons who are between roommates (legal and lethal) drift in and approach the desk like they're in a hotel asking, "Is my old room still available?" Cribs and strollers appear with babies. Cars and special menus are requested.

I rechecked my child psychology book the other day for the answer and wondered, "Is there life after the index?"

Lapidary Club Members View Film At Library

The members of the Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club met Monday evening at the county library and viewed the film being shown to the public. "The Great Plains Experience-The Land."

Members then met after the film in the Bicentennial Room of the library for a short business meeting presided over by Joe Williams, president.

Plans were finalized for the Rock Club trip to the Oklahoma Panhandle set for Oct. 16-18.

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter London brought the door prizes for the evening.

Hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Garth Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Ruland, and Joe Williams.

There were 34 members in attendance. The next meeting will be at the Energas Flame Room, at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 26.

Floyd After Golfing Honor In Hall of Fame Classic

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Ray Floyd, gunning for some of golf's major seasonal honors, hopes to make up ground on absent rivals this week in the $250,000 Hall of Fame Classic.

"As you grow older, these things take on a greater importance in your thinking," said Floyd, who is the race for Player of the Year, leading money-winner and, possibly, the Vardon Trophy for the tour's low stroke average.

"You know that these things, along with the majors you may be fortunate enough to win, are the highlights of your career," he continued.

"I want to give it my best shot. I'd be foolish not to. I'll play as much as I have to the rest of the year," Floyd said before teeing off in today's first round of the 72-hole chase for a $54,000 first prize.

At 39, he's enjoying the best season of his 19-year tour career. He's won four times, including three events on the American tour, and has a great opportunity to improve his position in all three seasonal races. None of his major rivals are playing in this event.

Tom Watson, Bruce Lietzke, Bill Rogers and Tom Kite are his chief challengers in the race for Player of the Year. All are among the missing this week. Watson is not expected to play again in the United States this year. Rogers has only one more American tournament on his schedule. Lietzke's schedule for the remaining three events is uncertain.

Kite leads both the money-winning race ($355,724) and the Vardon Trophy standings (an average of 69.94).

Floyd, with $347,676 in winnings, needs a finish of eighth or better this week to take over the No.1 money-winning spot. He also has a chance to make a move in the Vardon Trophy race. Lietzke is second with a 70.10 average and Floyd third at 70.24.

Floyd, a former winner of this event, needs to play the famed No.2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club in something under 200 under par — to make up important ground. And that is very possible, he said.

"It's one of my favorite courses and I'm continuing to play well," he said.

Among his major challengers are three members of the Hall of Fame: South African Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus and recently inducted Lee Trevino.

Also on hand are Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw and Jerry Pate, defending champion Phil Hancock, U.S. Amateur title-holder Nathaniel Crosby and Tom Weiskopf.

Matthews' Bat Topples St. Louis From National League East Lead

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Gary Matthews, whose sixth homer this month helped knock the St. Louis Cardinals out of first place, doesn't relish having to take his hot bat to cold Montreal for the National League East playoffs.

"It's just so cold up there in Montreal," Matthews said after his two-run homer and RBI single paced the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-4 triumph over the Cardinals Wednesday night. "It makes it a little bit harder to get up. I think really, within a short series, they (the Expos) would have the advantage."

The Phillies, who are automatically in the division playoffs because they finished in first place in the East before the players' strike, will meet the second-half winner starting Oct. 6. Montreal now leads by one-half game.

After reflecting on the question of who the Phillies would rather play, Matthews said, "Actually who you play is not significant in that anybody represents a threat in a short series. It was proven last week when St. Louis lost three games in New York."

What concerns Matthews and Manager Dallas Green is how the Phillies, 4½ games out of first in the second half, are playing.

Braves 3, Astros 1

Atlanta has been shut out four times in the second half of the season when Rick Mahler was the starter, but against Houston the right-hander made sure it wouldn't happen again.

Besides pitching a three-hitter, Mahler, 6-6, hit a two-run double in the fourth inning. The Braves also scored in the second on Matt Sinatro's RBI single.

Cubs 2, Mets 1

Mike Krukow, 8-9, pitched a two-hitter for eight innings and Dick Tidrow bailed him out of a ninth-inning jam to keep Chicago ahead of New York.

The Cubs scored both of their runs in the fourth inning off Ed Lynch, 4-4, when Ivan DeJesus tripled and scored when catcher John Stearns dropped a throw to the plate after a rundown. Steve Henderson hit a run-scoring single later in the inning.

Giants 8, Dodgers 4

Enos Cabell climaxed a four-run sixth inning for San Francisco with a two-run single and Joe Morgan hit a solo homer as Los Angeles lost its fifth in a row.

The Giants broke a 4-4 tie in the sixth as Milt May and Johnnie LeMaster singled in runs before Cabell's hit.

Gary Lavelle won his first game in seven decisions this year by getting the last two outs in the sixth after the Dodgers tied the score on Rick Monday's homer and a groundout.

Athlete of Decade To Be Chosen

An AP Sports Analysis By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer
The American Cancer Society is conducting its annual Athlete of the Decade poll with 10 pretty good...no, make that 10 pretty great...candidates. Picking among them is like splitting hairs.

How do you decide who was better in the period from 1971-1981? Do you give Pete Rose the edge over Kareem Abdul-Jabbar? Would O.J. Simpson's feats put him in front of Tom Watson? How about Bobby Orr or Willie Shoemaker, who has ridden more than 8,000 winners? And where do Pele, Chris Evert Lloyd, Bruce Jenner and Sugar Ray Leonard fit into the picture?

This is no simple task. The only easy part is that three previous winners — Muhammad Ali, picked for the period of 1968-1978, Jack Nicklaus (1969-1979) and Bjorn Borg (1970-1980) — are no longer eligible.

Those three winners had one thing in common. They each had enormous impact on their sports throughout the decade for which they were selected. Now, if you demand continuity and use that as a starting point, you can begin to eliminate some of the current candidates.

Leonard surfaced at the 1976 Olympics and did not become a professional champion until 1979. He is a hugely talented fighter and if he chooses to hang around long enough, he could be a legitimate decade candidate at a later date. But for the period from 1971-1976, he was unknown. Scratch him from this list.

The same goes for Bruce Jenner. He won the decathlon at the 1976 Olympics. That is a grueling test of a wide variety of track and field skills and a tribute to the man's abilities. But it is a one-shot event and hardly fits in as decade-long dominance.

OK, that's two down, eight to go.
Lloyd and Watson have had brilliant careers throughout the decade. But tennis (Borg) and golf (Nicklaus) have had other winners in this competition.

Pele brings an international flavor to the roster of candidates. But soccer remains a cut below other sports in America.

Now the list is down to manageable proportions with five athletes remaining.

Orr and Simpson were giants of their sports, both brilliant performers. Orr

Bum's Out After Fever

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans Saints Coach Bum Phillips is out of the hospital after a checkup following a fever, a team spokesman says.

"He's been sprung," said spokesman Rusty Kasmiersky after Phillip was sent home Wednesday night from Baptist Hospital.

Team physician Charles Brown sent Phillips to the hospital on Tuesday, and doctors could not determine what caused his temperature to soar up to 105 degrees, about seven degrees above normal.

Brown said there had been some concern that the coach's fever might have been linked to recent oral surgery, but "there is no real correlation."

"He had a root canal because of an abscess" more than a week ago, Brown said. "Coach Phillips completely recovered from that."

Kasmiersky offered a non-technical explanation: "He went home with no fever. They say they found nothing wrong with him. The fever was caused by something, they gave him something for it and it's over," Kasmiersky said.

Phillips was expected back at the practice field today. At practice Tuesday, Phillips wore a warmup jacket and long pants in the sunny, 80-degree weather.

Jack Cherry, an administrative aide to Phillips, said the coach left the practice field Tuesday with a fever of 102 degrees, and it had reached 105 degrees by the time he checked into the hospital.

revolutionized the game of hockey, changing the entire style of defensive play. Simpson was a running back of unmatched skills who set a single-season rushing record of 2,003 yards in 1973 and is second on the alltime list. But injuries interfered with the careers of both men.

Jockeys are a unique breed. Shoemaker's records are unparalleled in the craft, but his production depended in large measure on the horses he rode.

Yankees' Jackson Ejected After Fight With Pitcher

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer
Two of his teammates carried Reggie Jackson from the field. He was clapping his hands together and laughing.

The reaction of New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner several hours later was much less jocular.

"From here on, any pitcher who throws at a Yankee batter will be served with a lawsuit within 24 hours or during his next visit to New York — be it for pleasure or for work," Steinbrenner warned.

Steinbrenner's statement was prompted by two bench-clearing episodes and a fight between Jackson and Cleveland Indians pitcher John Denny over a brushback pitch Wednesday night.

After being knocked down and striking out in the second inning, Jackson postured angrily at Denny, and both benches spilled onto the field.

In the fourth inning, Jackson slugged a two-run homer off Denny, contributing to the Yankees' 6-1 rout of the Indians. After circling the bases, Jackson shouted and charged Denny, who had walked halfway from the mound to home plate.

Jackson knocked Denny to the ground, grabbing him around the neck, and the benches and the bullpens cleared once again. After Jackson was carried from the field by Bobby Brown and Oscar Gamble, both he and Denny were ejected.

In a slugfest of a different sort, the Oakland A's clobbered Toronto 6-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Rick Langford to move into first place in the AL West by two percentage points over Kansas City.

Benefitting from the Royals' 6-2 loss to Minnesota, Oakland became the only first-half winner in the major leagues to currently lead its division in the second-half of the strike-torn season.

Rounding out AL action, it was Baltimore 1, Detroit 0; Boston 11, Milwaukee 5; Seattle 2, Texas 1, and California 7, Chicago 3.

A's 6, Blue Jays 0
For the second straight night, Keith Drumright provided the lion's share of the Oakland offense. He drove in the winning run in Tuesday night's victory and had three RBI for Oakland Wednesday night as the A's completed a three-game sweep of Toronto.

Wayne Gross added a solo homer to back Langford, 11-9, who collected his third straight victory.
Drumright tripled home two runs in the second inning off Jim Clancy, 6-11, and his ground ball brought home a run in the fourth.

Twins 6, Royals 2
Gary Ward had three hits and scored three runs, and Dave Engle added a solo homer in the first inning to help move the Twins within 2½ games of Oakland.

Ward also drove in a run with a triple in the fifth, scoring on Engle's sacrifice fly.
Pete Redfern, 7-8, and Doug Corbett combined on a seven-hitter with Corbett picking up save No. 15.

The Twins have won two of the first three games in this four-game set that will be completed today.

Mariners 2, Rangers 1
Seattle shortstop Paul Sena homered to start a two-run rally in the seventh inning and make amends for a fourth-inning error that allowed Texas' only run to score.

Glenn Abbott, 4-7, and Shane Rawley combined on a four-hitter for the Mariners as Rawley earned his third on a single by Terry Bulling and scored as Julio Cruz grounded into a doubleplay.

That leaves Rose and Abdul-Jabbar, both marvelous candidates with impeccable credentials. They have led two different teams in their respective sports to world championships and both are certain Hall of Famers. Never mind the decade. These two are among the best performers the world of sports has seen in any decade.

Pick one and leave the other? No way. We'll take them both, thank you, and be grateful they've passed our way.

The Hereford High golf team will play its first dual competition Saturday here against Berger and Amarillo High. Coach James Salinas said the team has a lot of experience back from last year and hopes to finish higher than last season's third place district win. Competing Saturday are, from left, David Dudding, Brett Barrick, Scot Skinner, Paul Jorde and Frankie Garcia.

Plan to Allow Pros in Olympics Under Study

BADEN-BADEN, West Germany (AP) — Lord Killanin, former president of the International Olympic Committee, began the 11th Olympic Congress today with a scornful attack on former President Carter over the United States' boycott of the 1980 Games in Moscow.

He described Carter's action as ill-advised and unprepared, and accused him of trying to sabotage the Moscow Games.

Killanin recalled the problems of his term of office, and the IOC's efforts to resist political interference.

"Little did we realize that the Olympic movement and the Olympic competitors were to be sacrificed by the ill-advised, unprepared action of the president of the United States of America, who endeavored to sabotage the Olympic games in Moscow — the Olympic games, the property of us all here and not that of the Soviet Union."

The speech set the stage for a congress during which talks are to be held on the subject of permitting professional athletes to compete in the Olympic Games.

While speakers from the International Olympic Committee, the National Olympic Committees and the international sports federations talked about the problems of the games Wednesday, IOC members were studying proposals for open Olympics.

The plan, prepared by the IOC's Eligibility Commission, keeps the door closed on money prizes in the Games.

It proposed that all athletes, whether professional or amateur, be allowed to compete in the games for medals only. The IOC could approve the plan next week, in time to change the whole character of the Games in Los Angeles in 1984.

A report from the commission, presided over by Willi Daume of West Germany, spoke of the changes that have come over the world sports scene.

It said sports meets had multiplied, standards had increased and athletes had to prepare more and more intensively for top-class competition, often training for many hours each day.

"The true amateur cannot be identified with the present-day champion," the report said.

The report drew conclusions about financial rewards for athletes that would have astounded the late Avery Brundage, president of the IOC from 1952 to 1972, and others who have upheld the ideals of amateurism.

"Money itself is not degrading unless it is wrongly acquired," the commission reported. "If openly declared, the athlete has every right to receive it."

The report declared that present-day athletes are not amateurs and at the same time are not true professionals.

"They are simply paid athletes," it added.

In an effort to reconcile this situation with the ideals of the late Baron Pierre de Coubertin, founder of the modern Olympic Games, the commission recommended the adoption of two principles:

—Total unselfishness by athletes.
—An absolute ban on commercial interference in the Olympic.

Daume's commission proposed that participation in the Olympics be open, without any form of discrimination. But the athlete, usually paid, would compete for medals only.

"By trying to win it, he will prove his identity of the Olympic ideal," the report said. "He will enhance his reputation and his supremacy, and his future income."

The International Amateur Athletic Federation, at its congress in Rome last month, made no secret of athletes who take under-the-table payments. It said there was an accepted going rate for Olympic medallists and European champions at various meets.

Tech, Baylor Open Play In SWC

DALLAS (AP) — An attractive card of non-conference games faces the Southwest Conference this weekend, as well as conference matchups between Texas Tech and Baylor and SMU and TCU. Texas hosts Miami in a battle of nationally-ranked and unbeaten teams, while Arkansas takes on Mississippi at Jackson, Rice is at LSU, Texas A&M hosts Louisiana Tech and Houston returns home to play Utah State.

Here's Saturday's lineup, as all nine SWC teams are in action for the second straight weekend:

MIAMI, Fla. (2-0) at TEXAS (2-0), 7 p.m. CDT — Two of the nation's outstanding defenses have carried both teams high into the rankings — Texas fourth and Miami 14th. It is the second straight SWC opponent for the Hurricane, who defeated Houston 12-7 last week. Texas defense led its 23-10 victory over North Texas State last week with tackle Kenneth Sims getting four quarterback sacks. UT soph John Walker ranks fourth among SWC rushers, 23rd nationally at 117 yards a game and will split tailback duties with recuperating A.J. "Jam" Jones. Texas is No. 2 nationally in total defense and rushing defense, but its average yield of two yards per play leads the nation. The Hurricane starts seven seniors, three juniors on defense.

TEXAS TECH (1-1) at BAYLOR (2-1), 7:30 p.m. CDT — SWC opener for both could be run vs. pass. Bears blitzing Louisiana Tech for 303 yards last week and Tech last in SWC pass defense with yield of 350 yards per game. Baylor emphasized passing last week in effort to loosen up defenses for '80 rushing champ Walter Abercrombie and No. 2 rusher Dennis Gentry with Quarterback Jay Jeffrey hitting 14 of 21 passes. Tech's Anthony Hutchison has replaced Abercrombie as SWC rushing leader at 154 yards per game to rank eighth nationally. Former Baylor end '80 Jerry Moore makes first trip to alma mater as opposing head coach, while Baylor's Grant Teaff was long-time assistant at Tech. Bears have won last two meetings to take 20-16-1 series lead, while Tech has 12-9 advantage in SWC play.

SMU (3-0) at TCU (1-1), 7:30 p.m. CDT — Game matches several national leaders, including top SWC runners against top SWC receivers. SMU's Eric Dickerson and Craig James second and third in SWC rushing and 12th and 19th nationally, with both over 100 yards in last five games. Frogs' Stanley Washington nation's No. 1 receiver with eight catches per game for 309 total yards, teammate Phillip Epps a top long threat and Quarterback Steve Stamp second nationally in passing efficiency with 70 per cent completions. SMU's Russell Carter eighth in nation in interceptions with four in three games as Mustangs lead SWC with ten thefts. Series is a dead heat—28 victories each with seven ties.

ARKANSAS (2-0) vs. MISSISSIPPI (3-0) at Jackson, 7:30 p.m. CDT — One of two games this week involving SWC in battle of undefeated teams. Arkansas gained 38-7 victory over Northwestern last week. Arkansas used three Quarterbacks — Tom Jones, Bill Pierce, Brad Taylor — in rolling to SWC season high of 569 yards total offense. Razorbacks lead SWC and seventh nationally in offense, second in rushing, also seventh nationally in defense and eighth in pass defense. Gary Anderson SWC's ninth-leading rusher at 82 yards a game as Razorbacks have subbed freely in first two games (for instance, eight players have scored points, but Hogs have only six TDs). Ole Miss leads series 14-13 or 15-12, since 1914 game was disputed.

RICE (0-2) at LSU (1-2), 7:30 p.m. CDT — One of the SWC's most active rivalries. Tigers hold 32-13-5 series lead over Rice, with 19-2 advantage at Baton Rouge. Rice coach Ray Alborn is changing lineup after 0-2 start, starting freshman Kevin Trigg ahead of Antonio Brinkley at running back and giving junior cornerback Terry Neely first start. Tigers recovered from opening losses to Alabama and Notre Dame to take 27-24 win over Oregon State at home. Tiger quarterback Alan Risher guided 80-yard drive in final two minutes for come-from-behind victory. Freshman RB Eric Martin has 80 yards on nine carries and Jesse Myles has 93 on 19. Senior receiver Orlando McDaniel good at the bomb, has 21.4-yards-per-catch average over career, veteran tight end Robert Hubble has but one reception in two starts, backup tight end Deron Miller leads team with four catches.

LOUISIANA TECH (1-2) at TEXAS A&M (1-1), 7:30 p.m. CDT — The Aggies are back home after trips to west and east coasts netted 1-1 start. Second straight SWC foe for pass-happy Louisiana Tech after falling to Baylor, 28-21, in game which produced over 600 yards in air game. A&M led Boston College 12-7 before Aggie errors helped BC to 13-12 win. A&M back Earnest Jackson one of five SWC runners with better than 100-yard average. Tailback Johnny Hector seventh in SWC at 90.5 per game. Louisiana Tech Quarterback Matt Dunigan hit 29 of 53 for 307 yards against defending SWC champ Baylor. Bulldog kickoff returner Ronnie Williams, fourth in nation with 34.2-yard average, Aggie Billy Cannon No. 2 in SWC with 21.6 average.

UTAH STATE (2-1) at HOUSTON (1-1), 8 p.m. CDT — The main question for both teams is quarterback — for Houston, Lionel Wilson replaces Audrey McMillian, whose shoulder separation ended his season early for second straight year; for Aggies Chico Canales is out with back injury. Cougar offense shut out in 12-7 loss to Miami last week. Cougars third in SWC total defense, second in rushing defense, third in pass defense and have allowed foes to convert only three of 25 third downs into first downs. UH offense built around running of Eddie Wright and Allen Polk, while Lonell Phea ranks second in SWC receiving with four catches per game. Aggie speedster Fred Fernandes is the biggest threat to UH defense after catching a 39-yard pass and returning a punt 63 yards for touchdowns in 31-18 victory over Weber State, while Maurice Turner rushed for 120 yards.

YMCA Volleyball Meeting Tonight

The Y.M.C.A. sponsored co-ed volleyball league will hold a meeting this evening at 7 p.m. at the YMCA office, Weldon Knabe, executive director announced.

The league, which has enjoyed tremendous success in the few years that it has been offered will be for church teams only. Each team will play an equal number of men and women.

In last year's league, the first round was won by the St. Anthony's team coached by Dale Smith, with St. Anthony's, this time coached by Joe Lindeman, taking the second round title. Knabe reported that over 100 individuals participated in the league last year and there is the hope that more churches will become involved in the league. Each church can enter as many teams as it wishes in each round.

The meeting will give the team representatives the chance to familiarize themselves and their teams with the league rules and to also decide what nights they want to play on. The league will begin as soon as all of the details are finalized, Knabe reported.

West Orange Trio Named To Honor Roll

By The Associated Press — West Orange Stark's James Jacobs and James Cartwright are not only the 1-2 punch on the school's sprint relay team, they also make a good combination on the football team.

Jacobs, a senior with little playing experience prior to this season, rushed 158 yards on 18 carries and Cartwright gained 102 yards on 19 carries last week as No. 9-ranked Stark ripped Beaumont French 43-0.

Backup quarterback Sam Moore added 101 passing yards on eight of 14 completions as the trio earned mention in The Associated Press Scholboy Honor Roll.

Stark has shutout three straight opponents, not surprising to Coach Dan Hooks who anticipated an outstanding defense. But his inexperienced offense turned each game into a rout, outscoring three opponents 104-0.

"We knew we'd have a good defense this season, but didn't know about the offense," Stark Coach Van Hooks said. "But you can see what the two running backs have done and the offensive line really performed in all three games."

Legal Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE ON REGISTERING LIVESTOCK BRANDS
The attorney general is reminding every citizen who has registered a brand prior to Aug. 30, 1981 that citizens must re-register each brand with the county clerk within six months in order to protect their right to it. If everyone follows the registration schedule set out by the law, county clerks will have a correct, revised set of records every ten years, and there should be no dispute about the correct ownership of livestock. To register or re-register marks and brands, the livestock owner may obtain forms either by mail or in person from his or her county clerk's office. There will be blank spaces on the form in which to describe the mark or brand and the location on the animal where the brand is recorded. The forms should then be mailed or delivered in person to the county clerk, who will keep the forms in an indexed bound volume or on microfilm for easy reference. B.F. CAIN, County Clerk Deaf Smith County 40-29

Ann Landers

Reaction Was A Shocker

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I consider myself fairly sophisticated, although I have been good-naturedly needed by friends as being a bit on the Victorian side.

For several months I have been enjoying the company of a gentleman with whom I share many interests. We go to museums, the theater, films, ethnic restaurants, etc. Sometimes he treats me. Sometimes I treat him. Now and then we go Dutch. We have developed a very pleasant relationship, and he has certainly enhanced my life with his wonderful sense of humor.

And now the problem: The man has a "gentleman friend." I have met him, and he is a nice person. I casually mentioned this to a woman I work with. The reaction was a shocker. She said she had heard some gossip about our being seen together and that I certainly must be desperately lonely to go to the "fag-bag" route. She also intimated that there had been some talk at the office—and a lot of raised eyebrows.

I am really shaken. Does this type of companionship make me appear as "desperate," as my colleague says. I don't want to be made fun of. Please reply.—Puzzled In A Big City

DEAR PUZZLED: Your colleague is a petty, vicious, small-minded, pea-brained fool. She is also probably lonely and envious of the good times you are having. A well-rounded person can have all kinds of friendships. Ignore the snide remarks and enjoy yourself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15 years old and have just finished my first year of high school. I knew high school would bring pressures, but what is going on at home is a lot harder to deal with. Please tell me what to do.

My mother is a biochemist. My father is a consultant for several companies and owns three gasoline stations. He is never home at night except to sleep. I have gotten used to it, but my mother hasn't. They have no social life together, so Mom is alone alot.

She hates her job and has to travel an hour and a half five days a week to work and back. When she gets home (about 6:30 p.m.), she cooks dinner for my brother, sister and me. Right after dinner she "unwinds" (her expression) with "a little white wine." The truth is she gets dead drunk and passes out regularly.

My brother and sister, who are older, have social lives of their own. So they leave the house right after supper and couldn't care less about Mom's problem. I've talked to my grandma about it, and we don't know what to do. This has been going on for three years—and it's getting worse. Please help me.—All Bottled Up

DEAR BOTTLED: If your mom would go to Alcoholics Anonymous after supper instead of to the wine cellar, she could make a new life for herself. If she refuses to go, I suggest that you and your grandmother join Al-Atteen. It will help you behave toward your mom in a way that might get her to face up to her problem and go to A.A. (P.S. Keep me posted.)

CONFIDENTIAL To Looking To You For A Sense of Direction: Obviously you want a ring on your finger and that piece of paper in your hand. HE is looking for a "learner's permit." Just stick to your convictions, dear. There are not many like you around these days. Someone so special should be respected and appreciated.

Today in History

Today is Thursday, Sept. 24, the 267th day of 1981. There are 98 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Sept. 24, 1688, France's Louis XIV declared war against the Holy Roman Empire.

On this date: In 1905, Sweden agreed to Norway's independence.

In 1963, the U.S. Senate ratified a treaty with Britain and the Soviet Union for limiting nuclear tests.

In 1966, a mob ransacked and burned the Portuguese embassy in Leopoldville in the Congo.

And in 1979, the Justice Department said President Carter's brother, Billy, had taken preliminary steps toward declaring himself a foreign agent of the Libyan government.

Ten years ago: In a crackdown on suspected spy activity, Britain ordered 90 Soviet representatives to leave the country.

Stewarts To Report On Their Trip To Brazil

Ray and Arless Stewart will be speaking at the 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. services of the Dawn Baptist Church Sunday. The Stewarts will be reporting on their recent trip to Recife, Brazil, where they participated in one phase of a special mission to Brazil.

The Brazilian Baptist Convention and the Baptist General Convention of Texas are co-operating in a united effort to promote evangelism and church growth in that South American Country.

The two year campaign is designed to help celebrate the bicentennial of Baptist work in Brazil.

Texas cities are paired with Brazilian cities and Baptist couples from Texas travel to Brazil to work with churches there. Couples from the Amarillo and Lubbock area are going to Recife, a city of about 1.5 million on the northeastern coast of Brazil.

The Stewarts, along with several hundred Baptists from the Panhandle left Amarillo on Sept. 2 and traveled to Recife. They returned to their home in Dawn Sept. 18.

While in Brazil the Stewarts visited in the homes of unchurched Brazilians and explained the change that faith in Christ had brought into their lives. They presented each person with a copy of their testimonies, which had been translated into Portuguese.

They participated in local church services. Their ingenuity was sometimes tested since their guides often did not speak English. However, Arless said, "The Lord was watching out for us, because whenever we had to have someone who spoke English—we found someone."

The Stewarts will speak at 11 a.m. and show their slides at 2 p.m.

The afternoon service will meet at the Dawn Community building.

The church is located in Dawn thirteen miles east of Hereford on Route 60. The community building is across from the church.

Energy Institute Under New Direction

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — With its budget slashed by more than half, its staff cut almost a third and its activist director dismissed, the Solar Energy Research Institute would seem to be just a shadow of its former self.

That's just the way Dr. Harold Hubbard, the acting director, wants it.

The new emphasis for the federally funded SERI is on lab work, not public advocacy of solar energy.

"We're going to produce a yeasty research and development environment here — one that won't be confused with an advocacy group or a special interest group," Hubbard said.

"We believe national energy policies should be set — we just don't think that a laboratory is the place for that kind of work."

Under Hubbard's direction, SERI better reflects the policies of the Reagan administration, which wants to end direct federal subsidies for the solar energy industry.

Congress founded the institute in 1974 in an effort to spur solar energy research. But it was not until 1977 that the Kansas City-based Midwest Research Institute formed SERI and actually began work here, under contract to the Department of Energy.

A good way to illustrate the differences between the "old" SERI and the new is to look at the difference in philosophy between Hubbard, the scientist, and ex-director Denis Hayes, the lobbyist.

Hubbard, in a recent interview in his office overlooking the Rocky Mountain foothills, declined to comment on the Reagan administration's emphasis on nuclear energy and its cutbacks in spending for solar power.

"That's all politics, and I don't feel qualified to weigh the relative merits of one philosophy over another," said Hubbard, who has a doctorate in analytical chemistry from the University of Kansas.

"There are many ways to encourage the development of solar energy without direct subsidies. We will do the best here with what we have. My job is to make effective use of our resources and do useful things. I think SERI should cease to be a political animal."

Hayes, on the other hand, has made a career of being a political animal. A history graduate of Stanford University, he helped organize Earth Day in 1970, headed the Solar Lobby and the Center for Renewable Resources and worked as a senior researcher with the Worldwatch Institute in Washington, D.C.

In 1978, he planned Sun Day to increase the nation's awareness of solar energy. The following year brought him to the $60,000-a-year post at SERI.

Wearing blue jeans and cowboy boots, Hayes sat crosslegged on the floor of his unfurnished office not far from SERI and described himself to a reporter as "a Ralph Nader-type of guy."

Under Hayes, who was asked to resign from SERI in June, and his predecessor, Paul Rappaport, SERI did solar research but also spent much time and money producing demonstration projects and voluminous studies of the social and economic impacts of solar energy.

"We thought it was in the national interest to push the country into solar energy at a faster rate, and that's what we tried to do," Hayes said. "Our goal was to get someone on the producer side to make solar technology, and then get someone on the consumption side to use it."

For instance, Hayes said, the institute paid a glass company to make a sort of heat-resistant glass for contractors and greenhouse operators, who in turn had tested it and reported the results to SERI, said Hayes.

SERI also spent $100,000 to build 12 solar homes in the Denver area that 100,000 people visited in a single open-house weekend. The houses were sold and SERI now monitors their dual solar and conventional power systems.

But all that was before the election of November 1980.

Secretary of Energy James Edwards has made it plain he has no use for SERI's demonstration projects, objecting to the "pressure" put on contractors to build solar homes. "This administration is not going to distort the marketplace with demonstration projects," he told Hayes this spring.

Hayes began running into trouble with the Reagan administration early on. One major source of friction was a SERI study he commissioned on future federal energy policies. Its conclusions were vastly different than those of the administration, and the Department of Energy criticized its methodology.

"After that I said in a speech that having the DOE criticize our methodology was like being called ugly by a frog," he said. "In retrospect, I realize that might not have been a wise thing to say."

Hayes was forced out soon after the speech. Since then the budget has been cut from $120 million to $50 million and staff reduced from 950 to 650, eliminating a department that was studying alternatives to fossil fuel.

Hubbard said SERI will concentrate on the development of photovoltaics, banks of silicon cells that convert radiation in the sun's rays to electricity. The institute will also work with windpower and to develop wood and liquid fuels from vegetation and animal wastes.

"What we hope to have here is a relatively elitist, small group of high-powered scientists and engineers concentrating on some long-range problems," Hubbard said. "We'll produce the technology and lay it down for the politicians so they can decide how to allocate the resources."

Early Season Football Boosts ABC Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC, with a boost from a couple of key early season professional football games, won the networks' prime-time ratings race for the first time since mid-May, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

ABC's special Thursday night game between Philadelphia and Buffalo was the week's sixth highest-rated program, with the regular "NFL Monday Night Football" broadcast, a game between Oakland and Minnesota, 13th.

In all, ABC had six of the week's 10 highest-rated shows, and that contributed to an average score for the seven-day period ending Sept. 20 of 16.9. CBS was No. 2 at 15.5, and the previous week's winner, NBC, third at 14.

The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 16.9 percent of the nation's homes with television were tuned to ABC.

Though ABC held a majority of the Top 10 programs, CBS has the two highest-rated, including "60 Minutes" in first place, and three of the first four.

The rating for "60 Minutes" was 21.6. Nielsen says that means of all the nation's TV-equipped homes, 21.6 percent saw at least part of the newsmagazine.

NBC, though third in prime-time, won the evening news sweepstakes for the second week in a row. NBC's "Nightly News" finished ahead of "World News Tonight" on ABC and CBS' "Evening News."

Only four shows in the week's Top 20 were new. In addition to the two football games on ABC, the same network spotted an episode from the new series "Best of the West" in seventh place and a new made-for-TV movie double feature, "Code Red" and "Our Family Business," tied for 10th with a repeat from CBS' "M-A-S-H."

NBC had four of the week's five lowest-rated programs, including "NBC Magazine" 55th, "Games People Play" 57th, "Anson 'n' Lorrie" 58th and "Marie" 59th. CBS' "The Future: What's Next" was No. 56.

Here are the week's 11 highest-rated shows:

"60 Minutes," with a rating of 21.6 representing 17.6 million homes, and "Dukes of Hazzard," 21.5 or 17.5 million, both CBS; "Three's Company," 21.1 or 17.2 million, ABC; "Alice," CBS, and "Diff'rent Strokes," NBC, both 20.7 or 16.8 million; "NFL Football Special: Philadelphia vs. Buffalo," 20.2 or 16.4 million, and "Best of the West," 19.8 or 16.1 million, both ABC; "Love Boat" and "Too Close for Comfort," both 19.7 or 16 million, both ABC, and Movies—"Code Red" and "Our Family Business," ABC, and "M-A-S-H," CBS, both 19.5 or 15.9 million.

The remainder of the Top 20:

"The Jeffersons," CBS; "NFL Monday Night Football: Oakland vs. Minnesota," ABC; "Quincy, M.E.," NBC, and "One Day at a Time," CBS, tie; "Dallas" and "House Calls," both CBS, and Movie—"The Shootist" and "Archie Bunker's Place," both CBS, and "Little House on the Prairie," NBC, three-way tie.

El Paso Humanitarian Acknowledged

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Almost every Sunday for the past 14 years, Ray Villarreal has crossed the border into Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, and delivered shoes and artificial limbs to the unshod and crippled.

Villarreal makes his living examining feet, filling prescription's for corrective shoes and fitting people with artificial limbs.

Last Sunday, he saw 38 Juarenses who sought his help free in their efforts to walk properly again.

"Last Sunday was a hum-dinger," he said Tuesday. "I put a leg on a man. He hadn't had a leg in 22 years. He was crying and everything."

The 54-year-old El Pasoan said he began his service after a chance meeting with a Juarez youngster.

"I used to be a deacon at Western Hills United Methodist Church," he said. "You know, I passed the plate. One day, a kid came in and asked if I could look at his brother in Juarez. The boy couldn't cross the border because he didn't have a passport."

"I said, 'Well, it will make me miss church, but I'll do it,'" Villarreal said. "I saw the kid and told him to see me here next week and I'll have your shoes. When I got there the next week, the kid had brought me some more people."

Villarreal's been missing church a lot since then, but his charity work has not gone unnoticed.

Next Sunday will be only the 19th Sunday that he hasn't made a trip to Juarez in the past 14 years. He will be in New Jersey where he will receive the "Humanitarian of the Year Award" from the Italian-American National Hall of Fame. Villarreal will be only the eighth person to be inducted into the hall, joining the likes of Jerry Lewis, Joe DiMaggio and Jimmy Durante.

"They told me the national press will be waiting for me at the airport," he said. "I'm not that good of a speaker. I just get out and help. That's all."

Villarreal, who was given the "Mankind Award" by the El Paso Sertoma Club in 1977, also gives shoes and clothes to needy children in Juarez and El Paso at Christmas.

"I buy them when people go out of business, at closeouts for two or three bucks apiece," he said. "Then I save them for Christmas. I bought 1,000 pair the other day and put them away."

The clothes come from churches and civic groups all over the Southwest, he said.

"People are real generous," he said. "I have a little jar on my desk. People who come in the store drop in a quarter, fifty cents or a dollar. It adds up."

"I still pay about 10,000 to $12,000, maybe $20,000, of my own money every year," he said. "But I'll tell you something, I've found that money is round. Spend it in the right direction and it will come back to you."

Diamond poverty

Lesotho in southern Africa is one of the world's poorest countries. But several 100-carat diamonds have been found in the first diamond mine opened in the former Basutoland since it became independent in 1966. One, the "Lesotho Brown," weighed 601.25 carats.

Traveling Robot Startles Airport

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — He chatted with admirers, tipped the skycap and professed love to a ticket agent and a metal detector. Then with a blink of his lights, the most high-powered business traveler Newark International Airport ever had was on his plane to Miami.

The first person to cross his path was a stunned-looking ticket agent handling passengers for Eastern Airlines Flight 7.

With lights flashing from his head, Sico, a 6-foot-1 aluminum and fiberglass robot, booked two seats in first class, saying his companion would be along shortly.

Then, to the shock and delight of the passengers in the airport Monday, the robot said to a passing ticket agent: "You are beautiful and I will never forget you. I mean that from the bottom of my main transistor."

As the onlookers hurried to take pictures, Sico told a man trying to change film rolls: "I know how difficult cameras are to handle. I used to date one. I think her name was Polaroid. Boy was she fast."

Off the robot rolled on its four wheels down the boarding ramp and into a waiting plane. Sico took a seat in row 1-A, and was followed shortly by the rest of the Miami-bound passengers, including Robert Doornick of New York, the man behind the machine.

Sico is one of four robots, worth an estimated $250,000 each, created by International Robotics Inc., a 5-year-old New York corporation. Doornick said his company is developing the robots for use in research laboratories. Among other things, the robots are designed to handle dangerous chemicals.

The company also hopes the robots may be useful in coaxing autistic children to communicate.

To get research money, the corporation leases the robots for promotional campaigns. Sico was on his way to a performance before automotive executives at the Miami Convention Center. The airport performances also help publicize the machines.

The robots travel with controllers such as Doornick, whose clothing conceals buttons for 90 commands, including walking, moving the head and arms and emitting appropriate beeps, buzzes and sentences.

Some of the speech is recorded, but Doornick can transmit sounds to a computer in the robot by speaking softly into a hidden microphone in his shirt cuff. The words are passed through a synthesizer that turns human-sounding talk into the voice of a robot.

By now, Doornick said, Sico is a veteran of airports.

Typically, he said, the robot is dropped off at an airport door with its luggage.

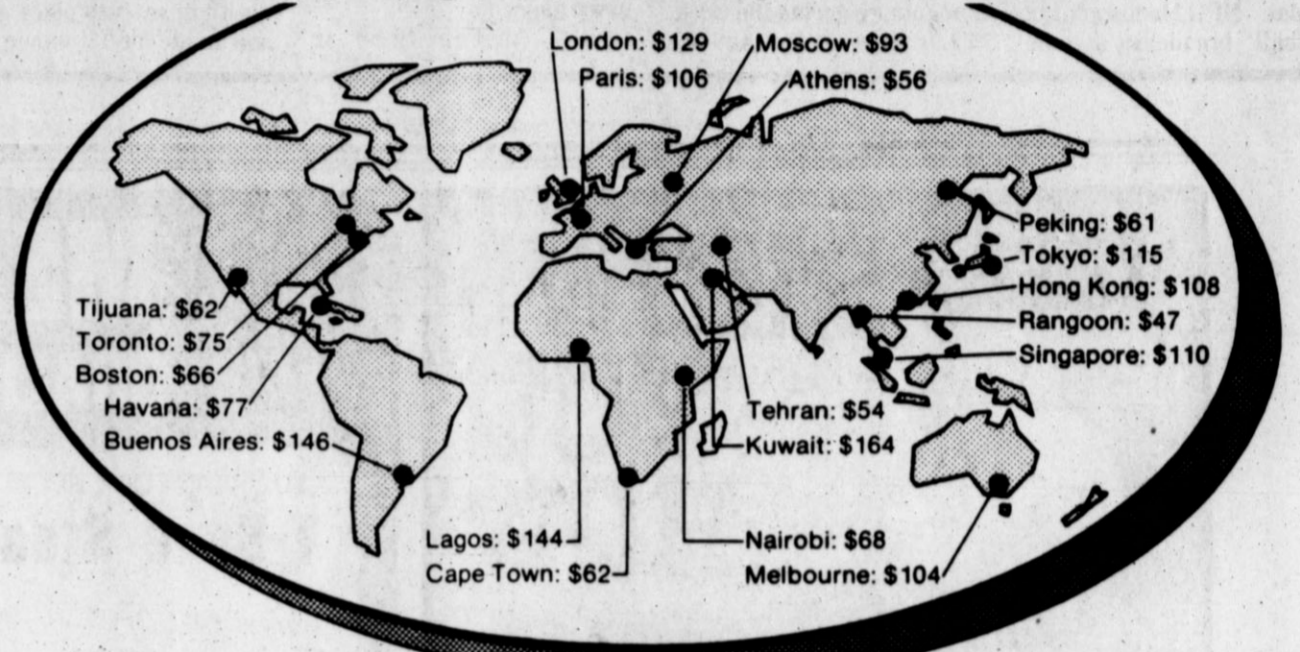

Remaining within sight of Doornick, it then calls for a skycap to take the luggage to the ticket counter. Once at the counter, the robot hands the skycap a few dollars from one hand and the ticketing agent a credit card from the other.

If the agent, who usually's warned in advance of the visit, asks for a signature, the robot suggests the receipt be placed on the floor for an identifying "tire mark."

WHAT IT COSTS TO LIVE WHERE

Daily Living Expenses in Major World Cities

Source: U.S. State Department

NEA/Mark Gabrenya

What is the world's most expensive city? Kuwait, according to the State Department, which sets a daily expense allowance of $164 for personnel posted to the Persian Gulf sheikdom. Several South American and African capitals, such as Buenos Aires and Lagos, lead the traditionally costly European centers. The bargain in Europe is currently Athens. Boston has that distinction within the United States (both Washington and New York are budgeted at $75 daily). But the world title is held by Rangoon, Burma, at a diplomatic rock-bottom of $47 a day.

Venezuelan Towns To Be Moved In Search For Oil

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — If a town has oil under it, move the town.

That's the principle behind a massive project to shift a string of towns sitting on an oil field on the eastern shore of Venezuela's Lake Maracaibo.

Bachaquero, Lagunillas, Tia Juana, Ciudad Ojeda and Mene Grande sprouted along the lake some 50 years ago when foreign concessionaires were operating at a peak and it seemed the oil would gush forever.

It didn't matter back then whether a town was built on a potential oil field, said Antonio Casas Gonzalez, a director of the national oil conglomerate Petroleos de Venezuela who is heading the project to "reorder" the lake's eastern coast.

Casas estimates the production potential for the now-populated region is roughly equivalent to what has been produced in the coastal area in the last 40 years — at the rate of 600,000 to 900,000 barrels a day. That means 8.5

billion to 12.5 billion barrels of crudes ranging from heavy to high-quality super-light.

Not only are the deposits rich, but the towns sitting on them tend to be poor, Casas said. They grew rapidly and haphazardly outside fenced-in oil camps as people flocked to the area looking for jobs. Makeshift wooden shacks and brick box-houses sprang up and many stayed there.

Because there was no urban planning, transportation, schools and other services are deficient, Casas said. The sky in the area is often heavy and gray with pollution, and where other towns have parks, these are likely to have barren black patches.

The keystone of the moving plan, which is being coordinated jointly by the government, the municipalities involved and Petroleos, is the construction of an entirely new, model city, to be called El Menito. Petroleos de Venezuela will move its regional offices to the site to lure its employees away from existing towns.

El Menito will grow slowly, Casas said — he estimates its population will be 40,000 by the year 2000 — and will be carefully designed to avoid problems such as pollution and insufficient services.

Casas admitted such a large-scale project would encounter obstacles but said he thought it would work because the oil company is working closely with the town leaders on every step and because to people living in depressed areas a move would mean an improvement in quality of life.

No town has been earmarked for extinction, he said, but the goal is to shift the "human settlements" so more oil reserves will be available.

Petroleos de Venezuela has an initial five-year budget of $116 million for planning El Menito. Casas said the city's building will be financed almost entirely by the private sector.

Reagan To Face Nation In Economic Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — The more President Reagan says about his economic program, the more Social Security becomes central to his budget cuts. And the more that happens, the more trouble he seems to get into.

Tonight, he will try to make it all OK.

The problem is this: How do you tell people you are going to delay the anticipated increases in their pensions — raises that were intended to help them cope with inflation? And once you tell them that, how do you make them like it?

When the president appears on television screens across the nation at 9 p.m. EDT tonight, he will need to do more than outline, once again, why he wants to cut back the planned increases in the coming federal budgets.

He must use the address to muster enough support that Congress, showing signs of balking at pensions cuts, will once again return to his side with enough Democrats in the bunch to assure success.

Finally, after having no trouble winning significant majorities in the Democratic-controlled House in earlier battles, Reagan may have his work cut out for him.

A week ago, Reagan left no doubt that the cost-of-living increase scheduled to go into effect July 1 for Social Security recipients would have to be delayed. Alice Rivlin, chief of the Congressional Budget Office, said that by postponing the increase for three months, the government could save $2.9 billion in 1982. But on Monday, Reagan was told by Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., and House Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., that Congress would not go along.

Approval of the Social Security changes would be "extremely difficult, extremely difficult," said Michael Johnson, an aide to Michel. The trouble, he said, would be "with people on our side of the aisle."

That message from Capitol Hill forced Reagan and his aides into a series of lengthy meetings as they tried to decide just what he would announce tonight.

Budget director David A. Stockman and his aides kept looking at Social Security. Over the long term, it appeared to be one program whose spending Reagan would have to trim to meet his pledge of balancing the federal budget in fiscal 1984. To balance the budget, Reagan has said he must cut anticipated spending increases by $75 billion in 1983 and 1984.

From the Capitol comes advice not to do it at the expense of Social Security. "We feel we have a good crack at making the budget cuts as long as Social Security isn't part of it," Johnson said.

From Wall Street, where Reagan found a few constituents last November, comes the advice to make the budget cuts — any way possible.

So the president is caught in the middle.
