The jurors had been allowed to consider Duran's 1976 conviction for rape of a minor when choosing the punishment.

Earlier in the day Thursday, the jury was behind closed doors for less than an hour before pronoucing the guilty verdict. Duran had been charged with selling a pound of marijuana to an undercover law enforcement of-

Judge David Wesley Gulley pronounced the sentence. "I believe they took a strong stand against drugs.

"With verdicts like these, I believe those of us in law enforcement can make some headway against drugs in Deaf Smith County."

During the prosecution's closing remarks, Saul had told jurors he was not naive enough to think that one case would rid the community of a drug problem.

"But I'm just stubborn enough to think that we can do it," he said. "You by your verdict can send a message to other drug dealers and others wo would consider dealing in Defense attorney R.C. Hoelscher had attempted to prove during the two-day trial that entrapment had occurred as a result of the policeman's methods of getting Duran to sell the pot to

"He was aggressive, eager to make a big bust," Hoelscher said of the officer. "He did not just furnish the defendant an opportunity to commit the crime-he went on and on, encouraging and inducing him."

Duran had testified during a motion for entrapment that he usually only sold the drug in small amounts, and that the undercover cop had made several trips to his house, asking first for quarters and half pounds and then a pound of marijuana.

previously convicted of a felony, it would have two options for assessing punishment. The crime, a second degree felony, could have been punishable by life in prison and up to a $10,000 fine with consideration of the prior felony.

The other option provided for a sentence of five to 99 years and fine not to exceed $10,000. The jury chose that option in assessing the 40 year sentence.

The third possibility would have been a sentence for the drug sales conviction only, with punishment ranging from two to 20 years and the same range for a fine.

Duran was indicted by a Deaf Smith County Grand Jury on Feb. 3. The involved transaction was alleged to have occurred last Dec. 7 in Duran's home at 239 Avenue

Fun breakfast slated

Costumes are encouraged for those who attend the Crazy Days Fun Breakfast, slated Thursday at Hereford Community Center.

Mike Carr, executive director of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, said the 6:30 a.m. event will tie in with a summer sale planned by local merchants. The meal costs $3.75 regardless of age.

In addition to the "Parade of the Crazies," the chamber of commerce is to conduct games, make special announcements and bestow the Bull Chip Award on some "deserving" local citizen.

Carr said new chamber members and residents of Hereford will also be introduced.

Master of Ceremonies Doug Manning plans to bring along a mystery co-emcee to replace Lynton Allred, who has stepped down from the post. Reservations should be called in to the chamber office

(364-3333) by 5 p.m. Wednesday. First, second and third place winners are to be chosen during costume judging, with the business with the most employees to be recognized as well.

Police clear stereo theft

Hereford police reported this morning a stereo theft case was cleared Thursday, two days after the incident. Sometime Tuesday, a stereo worth about $90 was taken from the M.E. Moses store in Sugarland Mall. The merchandise was recovered and a juvenile arrested.

Meanwhile, three people were arrested Thursday for public intoxication. One of the three was made by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's department, which also investigated a $25 bike theft.

Police also picked up a juvenile and adult for shoplifting. Among other matters the force looked into were two domestic disturbances and one incident apiece of burglary, harassing telephone calls and theft of food

The House package, sent to the Senate on a 119-29 vote, includes a temporary appointed State Board of Education, teacher pay raises, competency testing for teachers and high school seniors and a funding plan aimed at helping poor

The elected board, blasted by Perot as the cause of many school problems, drew support from Rep. Bill Blanton, R-Farmers Branch, who said "the right to vote is a sacred privilege to the American people.'

But Rep. Doyle Willis, D-Fort Worth, who wrote the 1949 amendment that set up a board with one member from each congressional district, spoke against the current

The finance plan satisfied most members. Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, said the current system cheats property-poor districts, some of whom have sued.

"Until we do it," Colbert said of changing the plan, "we're in trouble in the courts, if not in our hearts and minds."

Rep. Al D-Beaumont, voted for the bill, but said, "We may have made it a little bit less unequal, but we havent tried to get the kind of equality our constitution requires."

Price also complained about competency tests for teachers. "Let's don't just single out teachers for this type of ridicule. I'll be here in January with a bill requiring competency tests for everybody who receives a license from Texas," he said.

The agreement that sealed the bill's approval apparently came from the four teachers' groups that frequently disagree. The Texas State Teachers Association, Texas tion, Association of Texas Professional Educators and Texas Federation of Teachers signed a letter backing the pay raise plan and the bill.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, won approval for the plan that sets up a minimum salary schedule plus a "career ladder" that rewards higher degrees and proficiency.

Peveto said the teacher groups agreed to the plan to avoid a "pure merit-type pay arrangement" proposed in other plans.

The student testing provision says high school seniors do not get a diploma if they fail a skills test.

The bill would give the State Board of Education power to review University Interscholastic League rules concerning extracurricular activities.

Of the 29 votes against the bill, 21 came from House Republicans. There are 36 GOP representatives.

LULAC to fight bill

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - One last attempt to kill a controversial immigration bill will be made this weekend by the nation's largest Hispanic organization, which contends the measure is "racist" and discriminatory to Mexican-Americans.

At a symposium on immigration Thursday, the League of United Latin American Citizens' executive director, Arnold Torres, said the organization's members "have one last chance" to fight the Simpson-Mazzoli bill that was approved by the House Wednesday.

In its current form, the bill would provide amnesty for illegal aliens who have resided in this country since before 1982, but it would make it a crime for U.S. employers to hire undocumented aliens.

LULAC, which is holding its annual convention in this predominantly Hispanic border city, has condemned the bill. Thursday's symposium was another opportunity for Mexican-Americans to voice their distaste for the

Jury deliberates fate of teen

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) - A South Texas teenager could spend the rest of his life behind bars if he is convicted of the baseball bat bludgeoning death of his "hardworking" mother.

An eight-man, four-woman jury Thursday began considering the case against Antonio Flores, 16, of Port Isabel, charged with crushing the skull of his mother with an aluminum bat in August.

State District Judge Harry D. Lewis told jurors they may choose between verdicts of innocent, guilty of firstdegree murder or guilty of voluntary manslaughter. After selecting a foreman late Thursday, jurors were scheduled to resume deliberations at 9 a.m. today.

In closing remarks Thursday, Assistant District Attorney Rick Lara placed a blood-stained baseball bat and a series of gruesome photos before jurors and recapped the circumstances of the crime.

Jose Moore, a 22-year-old senior from Jasper who is the fraternity's president, said Thursday members of Kappa Alpha fraternity at Sam Houston State University had decided to take the jockeys inside the house rather than argue publicly their right to display them.

'We really didn't want to take them in, but we felt that it was the best thing," Moore said.

The fraternity reached the agreement before university officials could consider the complaint of Stuart Williamson, a 44-year-old white rancher from Bedias, that the statues were offensive racist symbols.

Floods won't raise food prices

Spring rains that flooded more than 6 million acres of farmland in six Midwestern states caused damage to farmers expected to exceed $1 billion, but should have little immediate impact on food prices, state and federal agriculture officials say.

Crops washed away by up to 16 inches of rain in the last two weeks represent only a small portion of the corn, soybeans and sorghum planted nationwide, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The flooded acreage represents only about 4 percent of the estimated 82 million acres of corn, 65 million acres of sovbeans and 15 million acres of grain sorghum expected to be planted this year, according to the state-federal Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

House, senate approve savings

WASHINGTON (AP) - House and Senate negotiators have approved more than $11 billion in federal spending savings, including hike in premiums paid by Medicare beneficiaries, and are pushing toward agreement on nearly $50 billion in tax increases.

The actions, ending weeks of stalemate, increase the prospects that Congress will make good on a promised election-year "down payment" on trimming federal budget deficits.

Congressional tax writers were meeting today to negotiate the final version of a tax bill which will be incorporated in a larger deficit-reduction package.

In 10 days of deliberations, the negotiators have agreed on provisions that would raise more than $45 billion in taxes through 1987. The final goal is about $50 billion.

Mondale continues veep search

NORTH OAKS, Minn. (AP) - Walter F. Mondale is moving ahead with his search for a running mate and watching for a signal from Gary Hart that the Colorado senator is ready to end his presidential bid and acknowledge Mondale as the victor.

A top Mondale aide said Thursday that prospects for a meeting between the two rivals depend on whether there is a chance for progress.

"If it's a bleak landscape of divisiveness," said Mondale campaign chairman James A. Johnson, "there would be little chance for a productive meeting."

Toasts exchanged at Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP) - In a sharp exchange of toasts at the Kremlin, President Francois Mitterrand of France told Soviet leader Konstantin Chernenko that the case of dissident Andrei Sakharov "put into doubt" the Helsinki accords on human rights.

Chernenko, in his toast, told Mitterrand that the Soviet Union will not tolerate what it considers to be interference in its internal affairs and said lectures on human rights "only provoke an ironic smile."

Mitterrand's statement Thursday night was believed to be the first mention of Sakharov by name in one of the formal toasts at dinners hosted by the ruling Politburo for visiting dignitaries.

The French president also used his toast to mention the Soviet Union's medium-range nuclear arsenal targeted on pe. He told Chernenko that France considers Soviet ckets in Eastern Europe a threat to its security.

In his Kremlin speech, Mitterrand said Sakharov had become an issue in the West because his case represented a threat to liberties guaranteed in the human rights section of the Helsinki accords of 1975.

Consumer prices up only slightly in May

By SALLY JACOBSEN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) Consumer prices, restrained by the steepest drop in food prices since last June, inched up just 0.2 percent in May, the government said today.

Also aiding the moderation in the overall price increase, which rose at a rate less than half that of April, was a tiny 0.2 percent gain in gasoline

So far this year, inflation is running at an annual rate of 4.6 percent as measured by the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index.

That's slightly better than most analysts' predictions of a 5 percent inflation rate for all of 1984 and seemed to fly in the face of some predictions that the economy's surprisingly strong growth could kindle more serious infla-

Last month's 0.2 percent food price decline was the result of cheaper beef and veal, poultry, vegetables and

Over the last three months, food prices have tumbled at an annual rate of 1.5 percent. Food prices had held steady in April after falling 0.1 percent in March.

As for energy, the department said that, through last month, gasoline prices, which normally rise at the start of the summer driving season, were 11.8 percent below their peak level of March 1981. Gasoline prices had been up 0.4 percent in April and a full 1 percent in March.

For the last 12 months, prices overall have risen 4.2 percent. The price index had risen 0.5 percent of April and 0.2 percent of March.

Retail prices rose 3.8 percent last year for the best showing since the early 1970s. Prices rose 3.9 percent in 1982 after shooting up 12.4 percent in 1980.

Today's report was in line with Wednesday's preliminary estimate on the Gross National Product, the total value of the nation's goods and services.

That report, which projected the economy growing at a robust 5.7 percent annual rate in the current quarter, also estimated an inflation rate of 2.8 percent in the April-June period, the slowest climb in 17 years. Inflation, according to that measure, had been 3.9 percent in the first quarter.

Detailing May price activity, the department said:

-Beef and veal prices plunged 2.1 percent while poultry prices were off 1.9 percent. The cost of vegetables plummeted 7.7 percent and egg prices fell a sharp 6.7 percent. Pork prices were up 0.6 percent reversed April's decline and rose 0.3 percent.

The cost for meals eaten outside the home rose 0.6 percent. Alcoholic beverage prices held steady.

-Housing costs rose just 0.2 percent, one-third of the April gain. Costs were up 0.3 percent for homeowners and 0.4 percent for renters.

-Home heating and utility costs edged up 0.2 percent after a sharp 0.8 percent gain in April. Electricity bills rose 0.3 percent after surging 1.5 percent in the previous month. Natural gas prices were unchanged.

-Overall transportation costs were up 0.5 percent. New car prices were down 0.2 percent while used car prices continued rising sharply, soaring 1.2 percent.

-Medical care costs rose just 0.5 percent, the same as in the previous two months. Still, this has been the steepest-rising component of the overall index in the last 12 months.

-Clothing prices were up just 0.1 percent.

-Entertainment costs fell

0.1 percent. All the changes are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

If last month's 0.2 percent increase held steady for 12 straight months, the yearly while fresh fruit prices advance would be 2.4 percent.

'There's been little official lobbying because of Mexico's position of not intervening in the internal affairs of other countries," said Gustavo del Castillo of the Tijuana-based Border Studies Center of Northern Mexico.

He said the Mexican government for years has seen Mexican employment in the United States as an escape valve for high unemployment at home.

"The last thing it wants to talk about is illegal immigration because it reflects on the internal economic problems. So it keeps quiet and the flow continues.

But other Mexicans familiar with the issue say hoopla dies down over the measure, the border will return to normal and migration to the United States will be determined as it has for more than a century, by the force of supply and demand. "The demand for low-no way change the developing situation of the international labor market. You would have to build a 90-foot wall,"

American workers who need Mexican workers will resort to "clandestine" hirings, then pay the $2,000 fine called for in the legislation if they get caught, del Castillo predicted.

"Mexicans have been responsible for the economic development of the southwestern United States," said Romeo Flores, secretary of education in northeastern Nuevo Leon state. "Historically, Mexicans have moved freely back and forth across the border," he said. "They only have difficulties when the U.S. economy is in trouble." Leo Chavez, a research associate at the Border Studies Center, called the measure "anti-Mexican." Estimates are that about half of the 6 million or more illegal aliens in the United States come from Mexico. One of the greatest apparent fears in Mexico is that the measure will be used as a tool to freely discriminate against Mexicans and as an excuse for continuing to pay low wages. "The only thing left out in the law is an order requiring signs on buses saying Mexicans can ride but only in the rear," the Monterrey daily newspaper El Norte said in a recent editorial.

Carlos Tello, an economist who directed the Bank of Mexico under the previous administration of President Jose Lopez Portillo, which ended in December 1982, said the United States should deal with immigration by changing other laws.

"We have always argued that it's one thing to be undocumented and another to be illegal," he said. "To do an honest day's work for an honest salary should not be construed as something that should be punished. It should be dealt with." Tello said the United States should relax its import policies rather than resort to

'police measures." 'When the United States limits imports from Mexico, it causes unemployment in Mexico," he said. "To presuppose that you can solve the problem by addressing one of the manifestations undocumented workers - is faulty."

Tello said U.S. attempts to control immigration from the south are unrealistic.

"The U.S.-Mexico border is the only border on the planet where the First World meets the Third World," he said. "So even if people were to obtain jobs in Mexico and these jobs were to be relatively well paid, there would still be the attraction of the hot dog and the Coca Cola ... People are drawn to the overwhelming richness of the country

Denton rancher begins five-year sentence

DALLAS (AP) - Texas millionaire rancher Rex Cauble, preparing to start serving a five-year sentence on drug trafficking, said federal officials "can put me in prison, but they can't make me run.'

Cauble, who was convicted of being the ringleader of what authorities said was the biggest drug-smuggling operation in Texas, told WFAA-TV in Dallas Thursday that he was ready to begin serving time at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp today.

The 70-year-old Cauble's attorney, Mel Bruder of Dallas. said the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans had not ruled on a motion to delay the start of Cauble's sentence, pending a request for a new trial. Cauble's attorneys claim the government withheld evidence durtheir client's original

Earlier in the week, the appeals court denied a motion that sought to retain Cauble's nearly one-third interest in Cauble Enterprises, which jurors determined in 1982 was linked to the massive narcotics smuggling operation dubbed as "The Cowboy Mafia.'

In July 1982, a federal jury in Tyler convicted the Denton County rancher on drug smuggling charges. He received a five-year sentence for violating racketeering, banking and criminal travel

He was ordered to forfeit to the government nearly onethird interest in Cauble Enterprises, currently valued at about $83 million.

Federal prosecutors have said the forfeiture probably would be the largest ever under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act, under which the millionaire was prosecuted. Earlier this year, the U.S.

Supreme Court let stand the 1982 conviction, which had been upheld by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Cauble said that during the appeals he never thought about leaving the country, saying it would be "cowardly." "They can put me in prison, but they can't make me run," Cauble said.

Cauble originally had been ordered to report to prison May 22, but U.S. District Judge William Steger of Tyler later granted his request for a 30-day delay.

"It's not the end of the world. We'll be all right," Cauble said of his prison sentence.

He said his drug smuggling conviction was one of the "silliest things in the world anyone could accuse me of."

Bruder said Thursday night that if Cauble is imprisoned and the appeals court rules favorably on the motion, Cauble will be released.

Federal officials said Cauble would have to serve 40 months of his five-year sentence before he could gain

Ryan Burton laid to rest

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas (AP) — In a dimly lit funeral home chapel, about 100 people gathered for a memorial service for a 3-year-old girl who had been the subject of a nationwide search for nearly three years before her skeletal remain s were found

The parents of Ryan Nicole Burton — Bud and Helen Burton - wept as a Presbyterian minister tried to help them accept the death of their child.

last week

"You've gone through so much for so long to have the search for Ryan end like this ... God, how we wish it hadn't happened," the Rev. Andrew Channer said during Thursday's service in this West Texas town.

'Oh, we wish you hadn't had to suffer ... That no one would have to suffer what you've had to suffer. But it is becoming more prevalent in our society," he added. Ryan disappeared from her crib in the early morning hours of Sept. 6, 1981. She had been left with a babysitter. Her parents, after soliciting the help of Child Find, launched a nationwide search for the child. That search ended last Thursday when Ryan's skeleton was found in a fenced pasture a few miles from the Burton home. Channer, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church in Breckenridge, likened the loss of Ryan to his learning that his baby daughter suffered from a rare birth defect that would leave her mentally handicapped through life. "I can't understand the reasons behind life's tragic events. I believe God's loving hand was involved," he said. The discovery of the child's body has left the town bitter and concerned that a killer may be on the streets.

"We all understand your anger - we're all angry about this," Channer said facing the family. "We all want to know who did this.

"I know that God truly loves our children. Little Ryan was God's child. She was a gift to you from the creator ... and now he has taken her forever."

Leads Mets to win

Rusty Staub enjoys pinch-hit

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Rusty Staub is one of those baseball players who was fortunate enough to find a second career as a pinch-hitter. He hasn't been enjoying it, however, until this season.

"It makes you feel real good to contribute to a winning cause," Staub said Thursday after helping the New York Mets pull out a 10-7 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies. "Before, when I'd get a pinch-hit, it didn't mean that much because we weren't winning. But now I'm inspired. There's enthusiasm here. It's a positive atmosphere."

The 40-year-old Staub came off the bench and stroked a tie-breaking single as the Mets came up with three runs in the seventh inning to win the battle of National League East leaders. The Mets hopped back over the Phillies into first place by a half-game.

"This was a big plus, to come back and win after blowing a lead," Staub said. "What happens in this series is not life and death right now, but it does prove that we can stay with any club in the league. Now we have to prove

In other National League action, Pittsburgh beat Chicago 8-6, Los Angeles stopped Cincinnati 9-7, San Francisco trimmed Atlanta 5-3 and Houston crushed San Diego 11-5.

The Mets chased Charlie Hudson with a five-run fifth inning to take a 6-1 lead, but the Phillies jumped on New York starter Walt Terrell and relief ace Jesse Orosco for six runs in the top of the seventh to go ahead 7-6.

Then, against Bill Campbell, 3-2, in the bottom of the inning, Ron Hodges knocked in the tying run with a groundout and Staub, batting for Orosco, 5-2, later singled home the tie-breaking run.

Jim Kern replaced Campbell and New York added a run on Wally Backman's grounder as the Mets amassed their season high in both runs and hits. They had 17 hits off four Phillies pitchers.

"No one should be proud of a game like that," said Phillies Manager Paul Owens, whose club committed two errors and raised its season total to 79. "It's certainly not one to write home about."

Pirates 8, Cubs 6 Marvell Wynne's two-run double in the sixth inning snapped a 4-4 tie and carried Pittsburgh over Chicago.

With the Cubs leading 4-3, Tony Pena singled to start the Pirates' sixth and Doug Frobel drew a walk off loser Dennis Eckersley, 1-4. Jim Morrison bunted the runners up before Dale Berra was intentionally walked to load the bases.Pinch-hitter Johnny Ray's sacrifice fly scored Pena before Wynne's double capped the three-run inning, giving the Pirates a 6-4 lead.

Lee Lacy's seventh-inning sacrifice fly gave the Pirates another run and they scored once more in the eighth on an RBI groundout by Don Robinson. The runs helped the Pirates withstand a two-run ninth for by the Cubs.

Rick Rhoden, 5-5, earned the victory despite allowing 10 hits and a walk in six inn-

"Tonight was just like old times," said Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner. "We got some hits, had good pitching when we needed it and Teke (Kent Tekulve) came in to get the final out."

Dodgers 9, Reds 7 Steve Yeager's pinch-hit seventh inning powered Los Angeles over Cincinnati and ended the Dodgers' losing streak at seven games.

The Reds had built a 6-2 lead after four innings for starter Mario Soto, pitching while appealing a five-day suspension because of a ballthrowing incident in Atlanta. But Soto left in the sixth with a sore back, and Mike Scioscia singled home a run off reliever Bill Scherrer to cut the lead to 6-3.

Los Angeles then scored five times with one out in the seventh. Pedro Guerrero's double delivered the first run before Yeager came off the bench to smash his grand slam off reliever Bob

Olajuwon's agent seeks millions

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets made an astute move when they sent Moses Malone and his multimillion dollar contract demands to the Philadelphia 76ers, reasons Mike McKenzie, who represents No. 1 draft pick Akeem Olajuwon.

Although McKenzie was rebuffed by the Rockets in their first negotiating sesthe Houston businessman remained optimistic Thursday that the Rockets would eventually sign the 6-11 University of Houston All-American, completing a two-year talent bonanza.

"Mo made about $3.2 million in one year with all his fringe benefits," McKenzie said. "They (Rockets) bypassed all that so it looks to me like they made a good

"They elected to let Mo go and in exchange they got three players in Ralph (Sampson), Rodney McCray and Akeem. Now all we've got to do is get them to let him keep that jersey they gave McKenzie said a Wednesday night negotiating session resulted in a cold shoulder from Rockets owner Charlie Thomas and General Manager Ray Patterson.

"I really feel that in two or three weeks they are going to call and say let's get together again, but we will not be back to them, it's their move,' said McKenzie, who is representing Olajuwon along with attorney Pat Ellis.

McKenzie said the package that he and Ellis presented to the Rockets Wednesday was similar to the the four-year $5.4 million contract the Rockets paid Ralph Sampson last season when Sampson was the No. 1 overall pick.

"They wanted us to make our best offer and that's what we did," McKenzie said. "They set some stipulations. They wanted it to be a straight cash deal with no deferred payments and no

"We went there with the intention of making a deal but Charlie said we didn't leave any room for negotiation."

McKenzie said he was aware of the Rockets' salary cap and that was the reason they structured the contract

"We told them we would start low so they would be able to go out and get them some guards to go with Ralph, Akeem and (Rodney) McCray," McKenzie said. "But no deal is a good deal unless both sides are happy."

McKenzie said he did not want to make comparisons between Sampson and Ola-

Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson said Olajuwon simply was asking for too much money.

"The bottom line is the amount of money they proposed is too high," Patterson said. "In all negotiations, and particularly with a No. 1 pick. it takes time for both parties

Brewers, Sutton defeat Tigers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Jack Morris or Dave Stieb, AP Sports Writer

There's nothing wrong with Don Sutton that a few runs wouldn't cure . . . and a few is what Milwaukee finally got him. But it was just enough for the Brewers to nip the Detroit Tigers 4-3.

The 39-year-old Sutton, who was backed by only two runs in his previous four starts and had a personal five-game losing streak since his last victory May 15, held Detroit to one hit over the first six innings Thursday night. Then he got strong relief help from Rollie Fingers to notch his 270th career triumph.

"He's pitched well, but we haven't done anything for Lachemann, "We had just eight runs in his seven losses. You can't expect to win like that. He's pitched a lot better than his 4-7 record."

The Brewers haven't been doing much winning this season, but they now boast at three-game winning streak, including two victories in Toronto.

"I can't remember the last time we've won three in a row." Lachemann said (it was more than a month ago). "That gave us a big lift, especially against this ballclub right here. Everything they do turns out right. You're never sure until you get into the clubhouse after the game that you've won."

In the only other American League games, Toronto downed Boston 5-2, New York beat Baltimore 5-3 and That's three good games in a Cleveland blanked Minnesota

Jim Sundberg's thirdinning homer off Juan Berenguer gave Sutton and the Brewers a 1-0 lead and Milwaukee made it 3-0 in the fifth on Bobby Clark's single, Sundberg's double, a wild pitch and Ed Romero's sacrifice fly. They added what proved to be the winning run in the sixth on a walk and Ben Oglivie's double for a 4-0 lead.

Detroit scored all its runs in the seventh on a walk, Chet Lemon's RBI double that chased Sutton and Larry Herndon's first home run of the season off Rick Waits.

"I'm a realist," said Sutton, who spent 16 years with Los Angeles and is the Dodgers' all-time leader in eight pitching categories. "I know that I'm near the end of my career. I don't have many good fastballs and curv.eballs, but I'll keep doing this as long as I don't embarrass myself and the club I'm playing for.

'There's three kinds of pitchers in baseball. There's a who can make you win; those who can make you lose and those who can give you a chance to win. I'm one of those who can give you a chance.'

The comebacking Fingers, who allowed one hit over the final 2.1-3 innings for his 12th save, said he has "no pain in the arm whatsoever. Every now and then I have to have a day off. But each day it's getting stronger. All I want to do is be able to get back and pitch decent and maybe people will stop asking me that question."

Blue Jays 5, Red Sox 2

Willie Upshaw drove in two runs, including the tiehim," said Manager Rene breaker with a ninth-inning single, as Boston's longest losing streak since 1977 went to eight games.

Luis Leal, who blanked the Red Sox on two hits last Saturday, threw only 81 pitches in firing a four-hitter and outdueling rookie Al Nipper, who allowed five hits over the first eight innings before being knocked out in the ninth.

Willie Aikens' RBI single and a sacrifice fly by Buck Martinez produced Toronto's other runs in the ninth. The Red Sox tied the game on Mike Easler's eighth-inning

"The guy (Leal) pitched a good game, it's that simple," said Boston Manager Ralph Houk. "Another loss. He's a tough pitcher. He wasn't as tough as he was in Toronto, but he still had good stuff. row for Nipper, but it seems we don't score when he pitches."

Yankees 5, Orioles 3

Don Mattingly ignited a three-run first inning with a two-out single and doubled home the lead run in the fourth while Shane Rawley, a last-minute starter, allowed three runs in the second inning and held the Orioles scoreless thereafter until giving way to rookie Clay Christiansen with two out in the eighth.

Loser Scott McGregor retired the first two batters of the game before Mattingly singled and Don Baylor homered. The Yankees added another run when Dave Winfield singled, Toby Harrah walked and Brian Dayett singled. With the score tied 3-3 in the fourth, Butch Wynegar singled with two out and scored on Mattingly's double. The Yankees chased McGregor and made it 5-3 in the sixth on a single by Bobby Meacham and Willie Randolph's double.

Rawley said he was over the "sinus condition," which

For Olympic Games

U.S. athletes clinch team berths

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Carl Lewis competed a sensational triple in the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials, while Mike Tully helped stamp the American pole vaulters as a force to be reckoned with at the upcoming Games.

Lewis finished off his fiveday reign in the sprints and long jump with a sizzling 19.86-second victory in Thursday's final of the men's 200 meters to clinch his fourth Olympic berth.

Earlier in the week, the 22-year-old Lewis handily won the 100, in 10.06, and the long jump, at 28 feet, seven inches. And he had warmed up for the 200 final with a 19.85 clocking, third fastest ever, in qualifying.

Tully soared to an American record 19 feet, three-quarters of an inch and came close twice while attempting a world record height of 19-334.

In Thursday's other finals on the fifth day of the eightday trials, Judi Brown rewrote her own American record in the women's 400-meter hurdles with a 54.93 clocking, and Georgia Tech freshman Antonio McKay turned in the fastest men's 400 meters in the world this year, 44.71.

Lewis' outstanding week put him in both Olympic sprints, the 400-meter relay and the long jump, thus giving him a chance to duplicate Jesse Owens' four gold medal haul of 1936.

'If I compete at this level in the Olympics, I will do very well," Lewis said, adding that his combined performances during the week were "my best in all my events."

stands alone among current long jumpers, said, "I don't see why it will be any different for me in the Olympics; the same people will be there." Queried about his future after the Olympics, Lewis, selected by pro football's Dallas Cowboys and pro basketball's Chicago Bulls during their respective drafts, said he thought the Bulls picked him only for publicity, but added of the Cowboys, "I'll wait until after the Games and see how serious they are." Kirk Baptiste, Lewis' teammate at the University of Houston, finished second in the 200 final at 20.05, while Thomas Jefferson of Kent State, was third at 20.37 to earn the final Olympic berth. Roy Martin Jr., a 17-year-old high school student from Dallas, just missed a berth as he finished fourth in 20.43.

Tully, a 27-year-old former world record holder who's made a successful comeback, became the third American to clear 19 feet as the U.S. vaulters, who had lost their traditional international prominence, continue to rally.

Doug Lytle cleared 18-83/4 for the second berth on the U.S. team, and Earl Bell, who had gone a national record 19-014 earlier this month, got the third and final spot with a 18-43/4 effort. Billy Olson, who has cleared 19-014 indoors, finished seventh to miss a berth on the team.

Tully's vault put him in a tie for fourth place on the alltime performers' list. Only world record holder Sergey Bubka (19-31/2) of the Soviet Union, xx19-11/2) and Pierre Quinon of France (19-114) have gone higher. The Soviets' Vladimir Polyakov also has cleared 19-034.

In the women's intermediate hurdles, Brown said her race wasn't exactly perfect, despite the record.

"I had an awful race," she said. "My steps weren't right, I was terribly nervous, and I was just thankful I cleared the last hurdle.

'After that, it was just to make it to the finish line," said Brown, a 22-year-old former Micuulte student.

Angela Wright finished second in 55.33 and Sharrieffa Barksdale, the former American record-holder from the University of Tennessee. took third in 55.58 to get the other two hurdles berths.

Getting along

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please repeat your column, "The Ten Commandments of How to Get Along with People." I read it every day for years whenever I opened the medicine cabinet, and as you can see, my copy is faded and torn.-Faithful In Florida

DEAR FLORIDA: Here it is. Thanks for asking.

THE TEN COMMAND-MENTS OF HOW TO GET ALONG WITH PEOPLE

1. Keep skid chains on your tongue. Always say less than you think. Cultivate a low. persuasive voice. How you say it often counts more than what you say.

2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what the cost.

3. Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging word to or about somebody. Praise good work, regardless of who did it.

4. Be interested in others: their pursuits, their work, their homes and their families. Make merry with those who rejoice; with those who weep, mourn. Let everyone you meet, however humble, feel that you regard him as a person of importance.

5. Be cheerful. Don't burden or depress those around you by dwelling on your aches and pains and small disappointments. Remember, everyone is carrying some kind of burden.

6. Keep an open mind. Discuss but don't argue. It is a mark of a superior mind to be able to disagree without being disagreeable.

7. Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves. Refuse to talk about the vices of others. Discourage gossip. It is a waste of valuable time and can be destructive and hurt-

. 8. Take into consideration the feelings of others. Wit and humor at the expense of another is never worth the pain that may be inflicted.

9. Pay no attention to illnatured remarks about you. Remember, the person who carried the message may not be the most accurate reporter in the world. Simply live so that nobody will believe him. Disordered nerves and bad digestion are a common cause of back-biting

10. Don't be anxious about the credit due you. Do your best and be patient. Forget about yourself and let others "remember." Success is much sweeter that way.

Inductees to be honored here

The public is invited to visit the National Cowgirl Hall of Center this weekend during the annual induction activities. Several of the 1984 cowgirl and Western heritage honorees are expected to be in attendance, along with ten past honorees.

Art work by featured artist Kenneth Wyatt of Tulia will be on display Friday and Saturday at the hall of Fame, 515 Avenue B. The inductees are to be honored at a reunion supper at 7 p.m. Friday on the patio at the Hall of Fame, hosted by the fine arts and welcome committees of the Women's Division, Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Entertainment is to be provided by Annette Morgan, singing a selection of Western songs, and violin students of Elizabeth Criner.

The honorees are to be officially inducted at a noon luncheon in the Hereford Country Club on Saturday. Bill Allen, chairman of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame Board of Directors, will emcee the program, during which Arvella Lauderback, president of the Women's Division, Mayor Wes Fisher, Dolores Foster of Arrowhead Mills, and Rex Easterwood, vicepresident of the Chamber of Commerce, will welcome the honorees and present them with gifts.

Also at the luncheon, a portrait of Bernice McLaughlin, a past Western heritage honoree from Clayton, N.M., will be unveiled. The painting by Gary Hammett is to be the cover portrait for the 1984 issue of Sidesaddle magazine. The honorees will be introduced during the Rhinestone Roundup Saturday evening, which is to be held at the Hall of Fame. Hors d'oeuvres are to be served at 8 p.m., with a ranch supper following at 8:30 p.m. After the honoree's are introduced at 9 p.m., the Diamond Horseshoe Auction will

New chairman a rarity

NEW YORK (AP) - John Reed, the new chairman of Citicorp, is a rarity. Not so much because he never made big international or business loans at the bank-centered financial institution. Or, that at 45 he may be young for the More unusual is that Reed is a long-term thinker and doer in a business world in which time often is measured in bits, such as weeks or months, rather than in chunks, as in years or decades.

In the past couple of decades, short-term has become the American way of life. In many companies the president must produce profits within a year or be ready to quit. And the focus is even shorter in the stock and bond markets.

Instant gratification. Results - Now! Who knows what tomorrow will bring, so let tomorrow take care of itself. Time speeds up and in terms of activity, each day is like an old-fashioned century.

Research and development, which takes years to pay off but then may pay off big, is pushed to the rear at major corporations, and money is spent instead on sales and marketing, where the results show up within the year.

Executives rise through the corporate hierachy by demonstrating short-term results, knowing that when the negative consequences of their high-strung performance are discovered they will be ensconsed in another, bigger job.

Professor Eugene Jennings, insightful analyst of executive behavior, calls attention to the irony of the chief executive who sets longrange policies for his company, gets fired when results do not show up quickly, and is replaced by a short-term thinker who then benefits from his predecessor's ef-

The payoff time is short today. Impatience is often considered a virtue. And that makes Reed's appointment all the more rare.

Reed's vision of banking's future included huge investments in technology to capture the accounts of America's households, while many other large banks, honoring tradition, continued to lend to business and other institutions.

Short-term, his actions were viewed as a disaster. One move - flooding the country with credit cards cost perhaps $80 million in bad-debt writeoffs. Consumer banking at Citibank, centerpiece of Citicorp, fell deep into the red.

But over the longer term his actions have paid off, and consumer finance at Citibank is expected to contribute hundreds of millions of dollars to earnings next year.

John Reed has been named chairman of Citicorp, in large measure, you may be sure, because he behaved in a way that has cost many other executives their jobs

Congress may turn thumbs down

the long and convoluted history of the MX missile, opponents often predicted Congress would vote against the nuclear weapon, a forecast which almost invariably proved wrong.

Now, however, even MX supporters say it is in trouble and they agree that Congress may eventually turn thumbs down on a weapon which has become the centerpiece of President Reagan's defense buildup.

A week ago, Vice President George Bush rushed to the Senate and cast a late-night vote to break a tie and kill, 49-48, a proposal to delay production of the MX in fiscal 1985 pending a study of prospects for the smaller 'Midgetman' missile.

"We were lucky to survive t," said Majority Leader Howard Baker.

Last year, Congress approved the first 21 of a planned 100-MX force. Reagan sought 40 more for 1985.

But the Democratcontrolled House cut the total to 15 and said they could only be built if the Soviets don't return by next April to the stalled nuclear arms control talks.

The Republican-controlled Senate, after rejecting the 1985 delay, voted for 21 missiles next year. The differences will be worked out in a House-Senate conference committee.

Reagan proposes putting the MX, which he has dubbed "Peacekeeper," into 100 Minuteman silos near Cheyenne, Wyo.

The 10-warhead weapon would replace some of the 1,000 Minuteman missiles, which have formed the heart of the land-based leg of the U.S. nuclear triad for two decades.

If the MX is turned down, it would be historic. Congress is reluctant to refuse a weapons system wanted by the White House, Reagan's only defeat was his request for nerve gas, and it never shot down a nuclear system since the atomic age began four decades ago. Congress voted against the MX once. In December 1982, WASHINGTON (AP) - In the House rejected money for the weapon because the chamber was unhappy with the "dense pack" basing plan, but that decision was later reversed.

> The biggest problem with the weapon is its basing mode. The Pentagon says it's needed because the Minuteman is theoretically vulnerable to a Soviet first strike.

But the MX would be just as vulnerable if it's stuck into Minuteman silos, say administration critics. The Minuteman silo option was only the latest of a long string of basing plans - the Air Force studied more than 30 - and the inability to agree on one is due chiefly to technology. Modern targeting systems are so accurate that any stationary target can be destroyed. Congress approved the $30 billion weapon last year because Reagan said he needed it to win Soviet concessions in arms control talks.

But the Soviets walked out of those talks and a number of congressmen have said during the hours of debate that they feel the weapon was worth little as a bargaining conflicts this week were basic. The Roman Catholic archbishop of New York says the practice of homosexuality is a sin, and gay rights activists say it is a blessing. The archbishop offers help, and the homosexuals demand respect.

Standoff continues between homosexuals, Catholic Church

The latest chapter in the standoff between the city's homosexual community and the archdiocese came Thursday when The Coalition for Lesbian and Gay Rights hung a petition on the statue of St. Elizabeth Seton at the door of St. x; .. s Cathedral, calling for a meeting with Ai-chbishop John J. O'Connor. The petition asked the head of the Roman Catholic archdiocese "to meet with lesbian and gay leaders in the interest of mutual understanding and respect for each others' rights.'

"We ought to be very clear on who the villian of this piece refrigerators, stoves, said James Levin, a city

> O'Connor drew the battle line this month when he said than violate church he could not comply with a 2-year-old executive order from Mayor Edward Koch. The order requires organizations doing business with the city to state that their employment practices do not discriminate against homosexuals.

The archdiocese receives about $60 million annually for social services it provides to the city, including care for disabled and emotionally disturbed children.

Both the mayor and lawyers for the church say the archdiocese does not discriminate against homosexuals. But O'Connor said the church cannot go on record in any way that could be seen as approving of homosexual activity.

"If they don't discriminate, why won't they certify that

DOES THAT ANSWER YOUR QUESTION?

Some Sadducees -- men who believed that death is the end of existence, that there is noresurrectioncame to Jesus with this: "The laws of Moses state that if a man dies without children, the man's brother shall marry the widow and their children will legally belong to the dead man, to carry on his name.

'We know of a family of seven brothers. The oldest married and then died without any children. His brother married the widow and he, too, died: Still no children. And so it went, one after the other. until each of the seven had married her and died, leaving no children. Finally the woman died also. "Now here is our question: Whose wife will she Jesus replied, "Marriage is for people here on earth, but when those who are counted worthy of being raised from the dead get to heaven, they do not marry. And they never die again; in these respects they are like angels, and are sons of God, for they are raised up in new life from the dead.

be in the resurrection! For all of them were married

"But as to your real question -- whether or not there is a resurrection -- why, even the writings of Moses himself prove this. For when he describes how God appeared to him in the burning bush, he speaks of God as 'the God of Abraham, the God of Issac, and the God of Jacob.' To say that the Lord is some person's God means that person is alive, not dead! So from God's point of view, all men are

'Well said, sir!" remarked some of the experts in the Jewish law who were stancing there. And that ended their questions, for they dared ask no more! Luke 20:27-40

Yummy ice cream DEAR POLLY - Summer is here and it is time for homemade ice cream. But how do you get the ice cream nice and creamy instead of hard, like ice milk? - MRS. McG. DEAR MRS. McG. - Homemade ice cream can sometimes be rather icy and less creamy than commercial ice cream, since most of us don't have the full range of stabilizers and fancy equipment in the commercial ice-cream maker's arsenal. But then, homemade ice cream usually tastes so much fresher and better that it's worth making anyway. Here are some tips to make it creamier. Have fu experimenting!

Ice-cream recipes containing a high proportion of butterfat will be richer and creamier than those with lower fat content. Select recipes rich in cream rather than those that rely mainly on milk. A favorite of mine is simply two cups whipping cream, two cups light cream, one cup sugar, one and one-half teaspoons vanilla and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Mix all ingredients and freeze according to your ice-cream maker's directions.

Some recipes contain a small amount of gelatin, which acts as a stabilizer and keeps the ice cream smooth and creamy. Try these, too.

Ice cream that is frozen more slowly has smaller ice crystals in it than ice cream that is frozen too quickly. Lowering the proportion of salt to ice (less salt, more ice) used to freeze the ice cream will slow the freezing process. The result should be a denser, creamier product. Too little salt will keep the cream from freezing properly.

Homemade ice cream stored in your food freezer tends to get icier than when it was freshly made. For the creamiest result, after the initial freezing in the ice-cream machine, ripen or harden the ice cream by packing the cream can in additional ice and salt right in the ice-cream freezer bucket for a couple of hours until you're ready to serve it. Ice cream can, of course, be stored in a conventional freezer, but avoid letting it melt or get too soft before doing so; that will make it even icier. - POLLY ne citizens of a free country never take their freedoms for granted, but have wisely provided a specific list of them in the set of rules by which they are governed. These freedoms include among other things the right of peaceable assembly, to speak and write whatever they see fit, and one of the most basic rights of all: to worship God in any manner they choose; a privilege consistent with the theory that freedom itself is man's God-given birthright. Be ever prepared to defend your your freedom against anyone who would take it away from you, and avail yourself of one of its principal blessings by attending the Church of your choice every week on the Sabbath. And thank God for your right to do so, wherever you are.

"Whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein...this man shall be blessed in his deed." -James 1:25

We owe it to our ancestors to preserve entire those rights, which they have delivered to our care: we owe it to posterity, not to suffer their dearest inheritance to be destroyed. -Author Unknown
