Kleindienst 'Not Guilty'

Former U.S. Attorney General Richard Kleindienst broke down in tears and sobbed. "I'm OK. I'm OK." as a Superior Court jury announced it had found him innocent on all 12 counts in his perjury trial.

Margaret Kleindienst sat with her arm around her husband's shoulder as the bailiff read off the verdict on each count Tuesday night. Daughter Carrie, 22, was crying alongside her mother.

Kleindienst's son, Wallace, one of the defense lawyers, rushed to shake his hand. "I'm glad it's over, and I will elaborate more tomorrow," the elder Kleindienst told reporters.

Drop in Durable Goods Orders Points to Economic Slowdown

By ROBERT BURNS Business Writer

A drop in August factory orders for durable goods the first decline this year points to a slowing of the economy and a slackening in demand for business credit, economists and analysts say.

Recent small declines in corporate loan demand were cited by bankers Tuesday as one reason they lowered their prime lending rates to 19.5 percent from 20 percent. They also noted a drop in their cost of acquiring money

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - President Reagan has told Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev he wants to establish a U.S.-Soviet relationship that recognizes the legitimate interests of both nations, the State Department says. "The United States is fully prepared to take into account legitimate Soviet interests, if the Soviets are willing to do the same with ours," said a State Department summary of a presidential letter which department spokesman Dean Fischer said was delivered in Moscow Tuesday.

The summary said this "framework of mutual respect" could lead to "a more solid and more enduring basis for U.S.-Soviet relations than we ever had before."

Reagan's conciliatory approach, after eight months of harsh anti-Soviet statements by his administration, appeared to try to set a constructive tone for the meeting here later today between Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. The meeting was called to arrange for negotiations to restrain deployment of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe. Reagan said he hoped the meeting, the highest-level contact so tion and the Soviets, will start a process leading toward genuine arms reductions.

Gromyko in an address to the U.N. General Assembly Tuesday said the Soviet Union is "prepared to hold negotiations on all areas of limiting the arms race and of disarmament." But he and the president each accused the other's government of stepping up the arms race in an attempt to achieve military superiority.

Reagan accused the Soviets of "an unremitting and commilitary prehensive buildup...which carries disturbing implications of a search on the part of the Soviet Union for military superiority," according to the summary of his letter.

Gromyko said the two nations have attained a military balance, the Reagan administration is "whipping up the arms race," and his government will match any such efforts.

The administration is under pressure from its European allies to work out an accord prior to the scheduled start of the deployment of medium-range U.S. missiles in West Germany, Italy and England beginning in late

Collision Claims Second Victim

An early-morning Sunday collision near the Black Community has claimed its second victim after Roberto Amador, 27, of Bovina, died late Monday night at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo

Amador was the driver of one of two vehicles involved in the head-on collision which occurred 6.7 miles northeast of Friona on U.S. 60 at 7:05 a.m. Sunday. Pronounced dead at the scene was Arthur C. Bentley, 73, of Hereford. Amador was transferred to the Amarillo hospital Monday from Parmer County Community Hospital in Friona. He suffered a broken hip, crushed chest, and a compound facture of the left leg in the accident.

Also injured in the accident were Bentley's wife Ellen, 61; his daughter, Barbara, of Amarillo; and a grandson, Alan Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sears of Hereford.

Services for Amador are pending with Schooler-Gordon Funeral Home in Dalhart.

Services for Bentley will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Rix Funeral Home Chapel. Burial will follow at West Park Cemetery.

Trace Of Rain Recorded Here

Most overnight rain reports for the county showed "just a trace" fell in Hereford and the surrounding areas.

Mrs. J.E. McCabe, located east of Dawn, reported "just a sprinkle," as did Mary Shipp at Barrett and Crofoot West, and Mrs. H.L. Hershey, 13 miles northeast of Hereford.

Winston Roundtree at Easter Fertilizer reported .1 of an inch. Bruce Coleman said they had a little over .2 of an inch of rain at Walcott.

Bobby Hammock at the Bootleg County Barn reported .14 of an inch of rain. KPAN radio said Hereford received .12 of an inch of rain overnight, which brings the total rainfall for September to 2.71 inches.

Kitchens Tops Grid Contestants

W.H. "Cuby" Kitchens hit exactly on last week's tiebreaker score of 27 to win the weekly Hereford Brand Football Contest first prize of $25 after missing just two games, the best record of the year.

Placing second and winning $15 was Harold Finch, who also missed only two games last week, but was off on the tie-breaker. Third place last week went to Jim Marsh, who missed three games, and hit closer on the tie-breaker to edge motherin-law Bobby Kitchens out of the money.

Cuby Kitchens missed the Minnesota Vikings' win over Detroit and the Chicago Bears' triumph over Tampa Bay, while Finch got both of those games correct, but missed in picking Georgia Tech over Florida and Notre Dame over Michigan.

Marsh also missed the Vikings and Bears wins, and also missed Canyon's win over Amarillo Caprock.

A total of $50 is available in prize money each week of the contest. This week's slate of games was presented in Tuesday's issue. Entry blanks must be turned into the Brand offie by 5 p.m. Friday to be eligible.

Weekly first prize winners will compete in the grand prize contest the final week of the year, with $150 in prize money available.

Suit Settled Out Of Court

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) - An out-of court settlement has been reached in a malpractice suit filed in state court against a San Angelo surgeon in the death of 58-year-old pa-

The suit against Dr. David Sadler was filed by relatives of Floy W. Luckett, also of San Angelo. Luckett died after a needle biopsy was performed in February, 1980, at St. John's Hospital on a lesion on one of her lungs, according to the suit.

Attorneys for both sides in the case declined to reveal terms of the settlement. The case had been scheduled to be heard this week in state district court but was settled before a jury could be selected.

The suit alleged that Sadler had been negligent in allegedly failing to take a medical history and perform an examination of the patient before making a diagnosis and performing the operation.

Sadler denied the allegations.

Judge Hears Testimony On Head Shop Law

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - A federal judge says he'll decide later this week whether Texas' new drug paraphernalia law is unconstitutionally vague and should be stricken from the criminal code books.

U.S. District Judge David O. Belew Jr. heard conflicting testimony Tuesday on whether the new law will act as a deterrent to drug abuse.

Dallas vice squad Cmdr. Donald H. Millikan told Belew the law would be tough to enforce because the statute prohibits sale of an item with the intent of using it to consume illegal drugs.

"In terms of making a case against a head shop, my personal opinion is that you'd have to have tangible proof of intent," said Millikan.

"Just because it (an item banned under the law) is there is not sufficient proof of intent," Millikan told

However, state Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, testified that the new statute "absolutely, definitely" will curb drug abuse. There are many ways to approach the (drug abuse) problem," he said.

"This is one I think is significant." Their testimony came in a suit filed by 50 tobacco shop operators who say the law is unconstitutionally vague and unenforceable.

A&M Student

BRYAN, Texas (AP) - Lawyers for a Texas A&M student on trial for capital murder in the stabbing death of another student contend that the victim blackmailed their client for money and drugs.

Defense attorney Doug Mulder produced former Secret Service handwriting expert James Lewis Tuesday, who testified that a list of drugs was written by Frederick Youngberg IV, Youngberg was killed in his apartment April 20. His body was found with 24 stab wounds and signs of rectal damage, police said.

Mulder, representing Joel Anciento Quintans, told a state court jury the note, which named several drugs including valium, was a shopping list of items Youngberg had demanded Quintans obtain by using his father's prescription pad.

Quintans' father is a Dallas heart

The defense contends that Youngberg also demanded $3,500. which Mulder says Youngberg badly needed to pay to cocaine dealers. Mulder says Youngberg threatened to tell police Quintans had stolen stereo equipment from him if he refused.

Military jets take off at 200 mph," the driver of the Countach says with a terse laugh. "If this car had wings ... "

He eyes the Ferrari Boxer and Vector Twinturbo V2 behind him in electronic rearview mirrors. The exotic cars in this high-speed caravan are barely visible out the Lamborghini's tiny back window: "It's the Italian philosophy of driving," he said of his sports car. "You don't have time to look back."

Indeed, looming suddenly ahead is a dreaded black and white cruiser of the California Highway Patrol. The distance eaten up in a second, the sports cars rocket past in a flash. As seen in the mirrors, the patrol car seems to be hurtling backwards as if shot from a cannon. Are its red lights turned on?

"Doesn't matter - might as well try to catch a Russian spy satellite," sneers the driver, who asks not to be identified. Nevertheless, some banzai runners take no chances - they've installed switches in their cars to flip off their tail lights and make their vehicles more difficult

By the time the patrol radios for help, the banzai runners will be hiding safely in some small town miles up the coast, slinking down back streets, maybe parking in a dark alley until things cool down.

Although they're hard to catch, banzai runners don't like to push their luck. Up and down the route, scouts with walkie-talkies and binoculars watch for police patrols when several cars make a run. The richest of the runners sometimes hire surveillance planes to watch for the highway patrol - especially its helicopters and planes. These patrol air units are the only real concern for banzai runners. An ordinary black-and-white is just no match.

The state police recently beefed up its air patrol along certain stretches of freeway favored by the banzai runners. Banzai is a Japanese toast to the emperor that is associated with Japanese servicemen who uttered it before going on suicide missions during World War II.

"Fast cars have always been a part of the American dream," he said, "and these cars ... these cars can make a man's blood boil.'

Rarewala concedes there is tremendous risk in driving such cars anywhere but on a racetrack. But he says that many drivers are highly skilled ex-race car drivers. The rest, he says, are the "newly rich," who take special pride and care with the expensive budget achievable. So far, this administration has called on small business people, farmers and many of the poor to accept bankruptcy while the multi-national banks have been siphoning the money out of her heartland. This can be remedied by an immediate windfall profits tax on interest income. Interest is the highest in this century, com-poor, and the truly needy unable to work are on the brink of disaster while the glitter of parties in Washington, D.C. goes on abated.

Senator Baker should submit his bill for windfall taxation of the bloated interest income of the big banks immediately. This will do much to get the U.S. Treasury back in the balance Volcker demands, as he gleefully stuffs Rockefeller's pockets with the life-blood of this nation, and makes it impossible for the Treasury to balance the budget.

Even private borrowing under this situation is often not productive, but rather a desperate attempt on the part of housing, auto, agricultural and other sectors to stave off bankruptcy until someone in Washington wakes up from their slumbers.

There is little time left, and the failure to deal decisively with the above measures will lead to an economic holocaust that will be irreversible. There are many "watchmen on the wall" (Ezekeil 33:34 who are sounding the alarm. So far, there is little listening.

History Group Met Monday

Project County History mitted after that date will not committee and other volunteers working on the history book of Deaf Smith County held special meetings Monday, at the E.B. Black House.Ron and Thelda Peters, editors of Craftsman Printing Co. of Lubbock, were here to meet with the group.

The morning session was spent with the committee that is contacing the business firms. The first contacts were made last spring and work is continuing on this part of the book.

It is the intent of the group to contact every business in the county to give each one the opportunity to purchase space to tell their story. This will of course have value as advertising, but the business history is really much more than just an advertisement. The business history will be an opportunity to tell when the firm started; why it located here; - outline the growth of the business and also tell about plans for the future.

The area representatives met in the afternoon. It was emphasized that the deadline for submitting family stories is Oct. 1 and that stries sub-be accepted.

Those people wishing to purchase space for a special memorial or tribute to someone may get further details by contacting their area representative or by calling the office at the E.B. Black House; 364-8371 or 364-4338.

It was also emphasized that book orders must be completed before the time that materials are sent to be published. Only the number of books ordered will be published.

Other items discussed were the design of the book cover, contents of general history section and the rural community histories.

Those attending were: Troyce Hanna, Kathryn Ruga, Marge Mehlberg, Sue Coleman, Marguerite Newell, Don Hicks, Harold CLose, Leta Kaul, Flora Homfeld, Mildred Hicks, Ola McBroom, Juanita Hershey, Billee Johnson, Alberta Higgins, Aileen Montgomery, Lucile Hughes, Marian Kreig, Nelda Ricketts, Juanita Owens, Garth Thomas, Major Schroeter, Andrew Kershen, and Homer

Committee Met With Editors

The Project County History Committee met recently at the E.B. Black House, with Ron and Thelda Peters, editors of Craftsman Printing Co. of Lubbock. They will close the family history section of the book, Oct. 1 and concentrate on other areas as they prepare it to go to press. Members of the committee who met are shown (seated left to right) Ron Peters, Harold Close, Thelda Peters. Standing left to right, Garth Thomas, Major Schroeter, Andrew Kershen, Troyce Hanna.

Why A Peace Corp In The 80's

Car Owners, Protect Yourselves!

Do you have "liability insurance" on your car or truck?

If you're in an auto accident and it's your fault, your liability insurance pays for personal injury you caused to the people themselves, and it pays for property damage you caused.

Texas law now requires "compulsory insurance" that is, under the law, all car owners MUST carry liability insurance, but beyond that, it's also a WISE thing to do, says Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

McCormack is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

> WHAT IF NO INSURANCE?

What happens if you do not have liability insurance?

Obviously, if you cause damage to persons or property, if they sue you and if you are found responsible, the court probably will order you to pay for the damages. If you have no insurance to pay the bills for you, then the money likely will come "out of your pocket," McCormack explains.

On the other hand, if you fail to prove that you are able to pay for damages you caused, either with the money itself or through a liability insurance policy - then you may be subjected to a penalty. This penalty might be a fine of not less than $75 -- or it could mean having your driver's license revoked if you are convicted of failure to maintain financial responsibility, the specialist adds.

WHO MUST PAY DAMAGES?

Who is responsible for paying damage claims in automobile accidents?

Almost always the car OWNER is responsible, Mc-Cormack says, even if someone else was driving the car at the time of an accident. "It is a universal rule that an automobile OWNER is liable (responsible), right along with the driver, in cases concerning negligent acts of the driver (if he was operating the car with the owner's permission).

That owner-responsibility rule includes the following situations:

1) when the driver is an employee of the owner and acting within the scope of his job duties 2) when the driver is acting as an "agent" of the owner, or when the driver is on an errand or mission for the owner 3) when the owner has entrusted the auto to a known incompetent or reckless driver.

PROTECTION FOR OWNER How can car owners lessen chances of being liable and how can they avoid costly lawsuits? McCormack offers three

-Allow only competent and safe drivers to operate the

-Maintain the car in highway-worthy condition. -Have an adequate liability insurance protection policy. HOW 'LIABILITY POLICY' WORKS

Libility insurance protects the insured individual (the car owner) from the risk of financial disaster resulting from his being found liable for injuries to others due to an accident, McCormack ex-

When a person buys liability insurance, his insurance compan agrees to protect him against accident claims, to defend him in court, and to pay damages to the person suing the car owner, if the car owner is found guilty.

This type of insurance does NOT provide for the car owner's OWN losses such as damage to his own car or personal injury, McCormack notes. (Another coverage, "collision," pays for damage to the car owner's own car.)

Liability insurance instead, protects the carowner FINANCIALLY - by defending him against the claims of those he has injured in an accident. Two parts usually comprise a liability insurance policy: bodily injury and property damage.

Under the bodily-injury section, it protects the car owner in claims involving injury to the "other car" driver and his passengers or injury to pedestrians injured in an accident with the car owner's

Under the propertydamage section, the policy protects the car owner damage to another person's property or automobile. HOW MUCH COVERAGE?

In Texas, the minimum liability limits are 10-20-5 meaning coverage up to $20,000 for ALL persons injured in an accident but limited to $10,000 for each individual and $5,000 for property damage.

Leader Training On Cake Decorating Today

Carol Odom, Gene Holden, and Louise Walker, CEA will be teaching a leader training on Cake Decorating on Wednesday, Sept. 23 at 10 a.m. in the Flame Room, Energas, Hereford. Carol and Gene are both members of Extension Wyche Homemakers Club.

The training is designed to give information to Extension Homemaker Club leaders so they may in turn present the same program to their individual clubs.

Everyone is invited.

EHCTasting Bee

Make plans to attend the annual tasting bee sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council. The event will be next Tuesday, Sept. 29, from 11:30-1 p.m. at the Banquet Room, Community Center, Hereford, according to Louise Walker, CEA.

Come out and enjoy homecooked food for $3.00 per plate. Cookbooks will be available for $3.00. They will contain recipes of all the food you'll be tasting. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national

All that is asked is that each one attending share the information with an organized group.

Information to be covered will be baking the cake, preparing the icing, decorating cakes and cutting up cakes.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

As Peace Corps celebrates its 20th anniversary, the question arises, "Why a Peace Corps in the 80's?"

The question should be discussed in newspapers and on TV, and I hope it will be, says Peace Corps director Loret Miller Ruppe. The focus now must be on the future, on the challenges of the 80's. The Peace Corps' way of volunteer, person-toperson, self-help projects should be foremost in the hearts and minds of all Americans.

There are too many people across the U.S. who, when Peace Corps is mentioned, say, "Oh . is that still around? I haven't heard of it in years."

How can this be? How can American now know? Why aren't they given the opportunity to stand up and be proud of a government program that has tapped the spirit of America?

This loss of knowledge of the work of our volunteers, I fear, has made us lose several generations of potential American volunteers at a time when they are needed more than ever. Peace Corps volunteers started thinking of being volunteers from the time they were 13 or 14 years old. But young people today, and American of all ages, are not aware of the fact that right now, overesas, there are 5,400 American volunteers working in 60 countries.

What are they doing? About 45 percent teach specific skills or academic subjects; 19 percent work in health ornutrition; 15 percent in agriculture; four percent in water supply and sanitation. They are living up to the true and basic mandate of the Peace Corps - promoting world peace and friendship by sharing America's talents and skills. Over 80,000 dedicated and committed Americans have served abroad in the past 20 After 20 years, I am proud to say that this is a government program that has worked. This is a cost effective venture that American taxpayers and business people can be proud of. You have every right to ask me, "How can you say it has worked. I haven't heard of the Peace Corps in years - and when I have heard of it, often it has been some incident - being asked to leave a country, for example."

If you were to ask, "Why a Peace Corps in the 80's?" I would tell you that I have meetings with ambassadors all the time. Each one tells me that they consider our Peace Corps volunteers and their work to be one of the most positive and ap-American preciated presences in the coutnries they have served in. They ask me to keep the same number of volunteers, or better yet, send more. Recently, Peace Corps sponsored a 20th anniversary conference in Washington, D.C. Nearly 2,000 former volunteers from all over the U.S. attended. I had the opportunity to meet with President Reagan the day before the conference. There, in the Oval Office, with a Peace Corps button pinned to his lapel, he told me of his deep interest in and commitment to the volunteer spirit of America.

In May, I traveled to Guatemala, Honduras and Ecuador. I barelywas off the plane in Guatemala City when I was driven quickly to the national building. There the Minister of Agriculture spent an hour extolling the work of the volunteers. He was especially interested in our fisheries program.

One of our most popular programs is fresh water fisheries; it has such quick results and success. The volunteers teach villagers to dig and stock ponds and thus assure a continuous source of protein. One has to realize that we are primarily located in countries where there might be a 50 percent infant mortality rate..50 to 70 percent malnutrition, a per capital income of $160 a conference, Prime Minister Seaga of Jamaica came to Washington, D.C., specifically to address us. He is a Harvard educated economist. He knows the Peace Corps, he was present at the searing in of the first group of volunteers in Jamaica, and he has followed our history closely. He said: "In this world of ordinary problems and ordinary folk, helping to build a water tank, teaching farmers in the field, bringing literacy to the unschooled, or mightier messages of international friendship than the treaties and concords with resolve conflicts and hostilities between states."

Hog Show Draws Crowd

Malcom Osbourn, Llano, showed the grand champion barrow and won $500 at the World Wide Barrow Show. Saturday, Sept. 19, at the Little Bull Barn in Hereford.

Co-sponsor of the show, Marcus Phillips, Hereford, said the show had 125 entries. "This was not as many entries as we had hoped for, but since this was the first year for the show we were pretty pleased," he said. "Next year we hope to have more."

Phillips and Ed Standle, Dimmitt, both vocational agriculture teachers, started the show so FFA members from Hereford and Dimmitt would have an alternate show from the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo.

'We decided not to show at the Tri-State Fair this year so the students needed another place to show their hogs," said Phillips.

Osbourn's Duroc Barrow, besides being grand champion of the show, was also named champion Duroc.

Reserve champion of the barrow show and winning $300 was the champion crossbred, shown by Gary Burnam, Reed, Okla.

Local winners in the barrow show were:

Kent Kirby, Dimmitt, showed the third-place, lightweight Duroc, and Gaines Howell, Dimmitt, showed the fourth-place barrow in the same class.

Mike Meiwes, Hereford, showed the second-place heavy-weight Hampshire.

Corbin Connell, Dimmitt, showed the first-place heavyweight Hampshire.

Molly Keating, He showed the second-place, light-weight crossbred, and Jarin Connell, Dimmitt, showed the third-place animal in the same division.

Phillips said half of the entries were from Oklahoma. "We hope this show was successful enough that next year we can have a show with 500 to 600 entries and a larger purse," he added.

"Historically, cattlemen's cocnerns have been almost exclusively captive of weather because weather, more than any other one thing, influenced success of their operations."

Although government legislation on health, nutrition, conservation, environment, soybean and grain embargoes, changes in beef grading and farm programs all had gradually become ranchers' concerns, it wasn't until the late 1970's that monetary policy became a serious threat for cattlemen, Riley stated.

Headworm, Bollworm, Greenbug Pose Threat

BY JULIE FOSTER Farm Editor

Headworms are still causing problems in sorghum, bollworms continue to pose a threat to cotton, and greenbugs, white grub and fall armyworm in wheat are being reported according to Carl D. Patrick, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

He said headworm infestations of four to five per sorghum head are still being reported from several areas south of the Canadian River. Robert Devin, Dallam county extension agent, reports economic infestations in his area. Patrick said producers should continue checking sorghum, especially late stands, for headworm and treat if an average of two per head can be found.

Methomyl at 1.5 pints is giving excellent control in most areas, he said.

Sorghum lodged from stalk rot has been reported in several counties in the Panhandle. The stalk rot in many cases is a result of stress on the plant from heavy greenbug infestations, said Patrick.

The greenbugs built up to economic levels during the wet periods in August, and insecticide applications had to be delayed because of the

"As a result," said Patrick, "many fields received considerable damage before the pest was brought under control. The stalk rot organism entered the stressed plants and caused the lodging we currently see."

Gray and Donley Counties continue to report heavy infestations of bollworms in cotton. Patrick said it is difficult to justify control of these infestations this late in the season. He said a major consideration in any control decision is the fact that lots of the cotton that bollworms are able to take out this time of

Wheat Producers Examine Insurance, Credit, Loans

Agricultural lenders in wheat-producing areas are taking a closer look at loan applications and particularly at the borrower's repayment ability, according to Ben A. Jordan, Jr., regional director of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. He said that wheat growers who carry insurance at least equal to their debt obligations are in the strongest position to obtain the credit they need.

"There are a number of reasons why applications for loans are receiving closer scrutiny this year," Jordan says. "One of these is the generally tight credit situation. Another is the combination of increased production costs and high interest rates. The more a farmer must borrow and the higher the interest rate he must pay, the higher the yield he must have in order to be able to repay

Still another reason is the scheduled expiration of the ASCS disaster payments program which some farmers who had crop losses last year used to repay their current

The widespread 1980 drought has also made it more difficult for many farmers to borrow money, particularly those who experienced losses and still come uncertainty associated have outstanding loans from a year ago or who had to refinance land or equipment. In either case, the result is a strain on loan repayment ability, says Jordan.

"Under the all-risk insurance now being offered for 1982-crop wheat, a farmer can choose insurance coverage that's roughly equal to the amount of money he will need to borrow. Or he can carry insurance that, in most cases, will cover his total investment in the crop.

"One of the attractions of the FCIC insurance program, which is now available in all counties, is that the government pays up to 30 percent of the premium cost. The net cost is further reduced by claiming the balance of the premium as a farm business tax deduction. In addition, policyholders who have a recordof few or small insured losses qualify for discounts," Jordan said.

having an insurance policy can make a big difference when it comes time to borrow money, according to Jordan. He said that most lenders today carefully analyze prospective borrowers' cash flow projections and insurance can eliminate up to three-fourths of the inwith such projections. "In fact, if he wishes to do so, a farmer can actually assign Country vs. City, Which is Best?

Is country living really more healthful than city dwelling?

Many Texans believe that country living is a healthier way of life - both mentally and physically - as compared to urban living.

Not necessarily so, says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist.

Shirer is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Rural communities are often considered to have cleaner air and water, fresher meats, produce and dairy products, a higher value system among the 'good ole country folks' and a generally better environment," she

"On the other hand, city dwellers have assumed that their way of life breeds stress and tension - and mentalhealth experts have tended to

"However, more and more evidence has begun to show that the health of city dwellers is as good - and possibly better on some counts-than that of country folks," the specialist reports.

Here are a few facts concerning the health of country living in Texas - and while rural residents still hold "a better record" than city dwellers on some things, the "problem topics" involve a sizable number of rural residents, Shirer says:

1) Rural living produces drug abuse, child abuse, wife beating and teenage pregnancy just as frequently as urban living.

2) Certain diseases often are more prevalent in rural communities - including TB, cerebrovascular disease, pneumonia, influenza, strep throat and scarlet fever, along with salmonellosis (food poisoning) and shigellosis (diarrhea), hepatitis and rabies.

3) Of all the suicides in Texas, 17 percent were in rural communities.

5) Rural youths also have been shown to be more likely to deal drugs for money than urban youth.

6) In 1979, there were fewer

1,413 rural residents - as compared to one for every 578 urban residents.

9) Also, in rural areas, there was one dentist for every 3,384 people - as compared to one dentist for every 2,231 people in urban areas.

J.R. Asks For Non-Smoking Ideas

Larry Hagman, star of TV's "Dallas" series, is asking people this month to write to him describing original ideas on how to quit smoking

The cost of medical care in the United States has rising faster this year than last. Figures for the first seven months of 1981 show an over-all jump in health costs of 12.6 percent, compared to 11.1 percent for the same period of 1980. The only major category in which increases do not equal or exceed last year's is dentists' fees. Higher labor costs and an increasing proportion of elderly patients are among the reasons for accelerating health costs.

Dormant Sinkhole Grows Overnight

"It's not an abyss or anything. It's like a sloping valley," said Gulf spokesman Mike Kumpf.

A Gulf contract worker noticed the enlarged hole in this oil field town east of Houston last Saturday while checking a salt water disposal well on a four-acre tract owned by Gulf. A road leading into the facility sunk about one foot and was crisscrossed by large cracks.

Celestine Fregia, 31, who now lives about 30 feet from the sinkhole, said she was awakened by yells to "get out because everything is caving

Inspectors from the Texa Railroad Commission, which regulates the state's oil and gas industries, have been watching the sinkhole since Saturday but still do not know what caused the ground to

"We haven't been able to relate it to any oil or gas of saltwater disposal at the mo ment. It could have been natural occurence. We just don't know," said Inspector Roy Gann.

Residents are convinced saltwater from the bring disposal well about 30 fee from the crater may have caused the ground to collapse by washing away some of the soil below the surface.

But Kumpf said the incldent probably was a natural

"We feel most likely it was a natural phenomenon which caused it, such as underground water acquifers washing out subsurfact structures," he said. "You have to realize that the sinkhole has been just sitting there since 1969 until Saturday, and we've had a disposal well near that site since 1925.

The cone-shaped depression, first discovered in 1969, grew from 30 feet to 250 feet wide and sunk from 15 feet to 30 feet deep, authorities said.

More Cuts Needed In Federal Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) Renewed pressure to cut federal spending will leave millions of food stamp recipients with lower benefits than originally anticipated, the administrator of the program acknowledges.

President Reagan will propose another $700 million in cuts by eliminating an April 1982 cost-of-living update of the basic food stamp plan, said the administrator, William Hoagland.

These cuts would come on top of the more than $1.5 billion that Congress slashed from the food stamp program last summer. As part of those savings, Congress authorized a three-month postponement of the cost-of-living adjustdollars a month in this program."

tional cutback, Hoagland told reporters that the entire food stamp program probably will cost up to $500 million more than the $10.6 billion the administration wants to spend next year.

If that $10.6 billion lid

Landmark House Moved To New Site

CATARINA, Texas (AP) -A landmark structure in this near-ghost town between Carrizo Springs and Laredo is gone - like most of the town's residents.

The Taft House, a mansion built as a ranch headquarters and later the centerpiece of one of South Texas' biggest land development schemes, has been purchased for restoration and moved to a ranch near here owned by former Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

"Our intent is to restore it, as accurately as possible, as it was when it was originally .built," Briscoe said.

To do that, he has employed the services of two restoration architects and a veteran house mover who once towed another mansion down Congress Avenue in Austin.

Looking at the structure, with dimensions of 74-by-56 feet even after two rooms and a perch have been removed, it appears a tremendous effort would have been needed to move it 15 feet, let alone the 15 miles to Briscoe's Catarina Ranch.

But Earl Bradford said he'd moved bigger ones, such as the Herschefield Mansion in Austin.

There must have been 500 people watching when we noved that one," Bradford said, showing a newspaper photo of his truck pulling what looks like a giant Vicoria parade float in front of the Texas capitol.

"Long as it's wood, I can just about move it," he said. A year of restoration awaits the house.

But its destiny is to be the center of attraction once again, dominating the other buildings of the Briscoe ranch headquarters.

The Taft House construction is typical of the period around the turn of the century, said architect John Klein. But a home on that grand a scale - in this kind of place is something Klein said he never expected. Its date of construction is disputed (either 1909 or 1912), but its builder was a well known figure in those days. Charles Taft was a rancher and businessmen whose other Texas property included the present site of Taft, Texas, near Corpus Christi.

His brother, William Howard Taft, was president of the United States.

Taft built the mansion as a winter home for his 235,000-acre Catarina Ranch. In those days, the view from the small rooftop 'widow's walk' deck consisted of horizon-to-horizon mesquite pasture.

The molded plaster ceilelaboráte wainscoted walls and twin fireplaces went largely unseen, for Taft himself never lived there before he sold the ranch about 1920.

The house's heyday came n 1926 when the ranch was sold again, to a Kansas syndicate that promoted Catarina as a virtual promised land of year-round farm-delivered. The Taft House's geometric inlaid hardwood floors felt the boot scuffs of hundreds of midwestern farmer "colonists," attracted to Catarina aboard chartered excursion trains. Shown a ready-made town including church, hotel, schools and stores - not to mention citrus orchards and truck farms with plentiful irrigation water - many colonists bought land and

Some say the population of Catarina reached 2,500 within three years after development began in 1926.

But the Depression intervened, and by the 1930s Catarina was in a deep decline from which it is yet to begin a recovery.

Today, fewer than 100 residents remain.

The Taft House remained, unpainted and derelict but still commanding attention astride an incongruous palmlined boulevard through a largely vacant downtown. The scene surprised motorists traveling along stark U.S. Highway 83, which branches from two lanes into the tree-lined boulevard in "the middle of nowhere."

For 20 years before Briscoe bought it, the house's main use was as a wintertime hunting lodge.

Guadalupe Ibarra, on whose small store the mansion's shadow fell each day about sunset, looked wistfully across the empty street after the movers came.

"It's really going to look different," the 51-year-old Catarina native sighed.

She said she has taken photos of the house, but she would be sad once it was Another lifelong Catarina resident said the move may actually be a kind of relief.

"I think it's fine of Briscoe to preserve it," said Merle Burns, whose father homesteaded some acreage nearby in 1908, before there was either a Taft House or a voted by Congress. Deputy Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng formally asked for congressional approval of that spending lid late Tuesday, according to Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee on nutrition.

"There's no way I'm going to go to the floor of the House with a bill that won't give me the money I need for this year (1982)," Richmond respond-

Richmond said he could support the proposed $700 million cut, but only if the administration agrees to accept a higher spending lid.

The spending ceiling is included in the four-year farm bill that is scheduled to go before the full House next week.

"Negotiations are going on right now," Hoagland said. Should an across-the-board administrative cutback be needed, the nation's 22 million food stamp recipients could begin feeling it by December, he added.

Under the food stamp law, the cost of the program cannot exceed budget targets. If it appears it will, the Agriculture Department can unilaterally reduce benefits so spending stays within the

Cost of Living

Decreases

In August

The Cost of Living in the Texas Panhandle decreased by 0.22 percent in August, an annualized rate of 2.65 percent. This is a reversal from July's increase of 0.96 percent. In August, increases in Medical, Utility, Clothing and Housing costs were offset by decreases in Food and Transportation costs.

Food costs decreased by 2.10 percent. In August, Produce, Meat and Shelf items all decreased. Overall Produce dropped by 7.17 percent. The largest decreases were seen in tomatoes, down 28.3 percent onions, down 12.0 percent and green chile prices, down 8.8 percent. Overall meat dropped by 1.97 percent with the largest decreaes seen in pre-Labor Day sales of processed meats like frankfurters, down by 14.3 percent; and pork prices, down 1.36 percent. Overall shelf items decreased by 1.15 percent. Cola and cheese showed the largest decreases. Since the first of the year, Panhandle Food costs have decreased by 3.23 percent.

Transportation decreased by 1.18 percent due to lowered gasoline prices. This is reversal from July's increase of 0.66 percent. Since the first of the year, Panhandle creased by 2.61 percent. Housing costs increased by 0.96 percent. This is the third month in a row that Housing costs have increased. Since May, Housing has increased by 4.03 percent.

Transportation costs have in-

Clothing costs increased by 1.02 percent due to increases in cotton shirts and socks. This is the second month in a row that Clothing costs have increased.

Utility costs increased by 1.06 percent due to a 1.99 percent increase in electric fuel adjustment charges. This is the first increase in electric charges since May. Gas and water rates have remained the same all year.

Medical costs increased by 1.52 percent. Since the first of the year, Medical costs have increased by 10.93 percent.

Thus far in 1981, the Panhandle Cost of Living Index has increased by 5.57 percent.

The Panhandle Cost of Living Index is prepared using 303 Panhandle price indicators. It is prepared monthly for Security Federal Savings and Loan by Leach Research, Inc. of Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Sutton Handcuffs Atlanta For 55th Career Shutout

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Few men since Gen. Sherman have done more harm to Atlanta than Don Sutton.

The Houston Astros pitcher won his 35th career game against the Atlanta Braves Tuesday night with a threehit. 3-0 decision at the Astrodome. It also was his 55th career shutout.

"There's really nothing to my beating the Braves," said Sutton, who has defeated them more than any other National League pitcher. 'I've given up more runs to them, too, but I just manage to get enough runs to win. There's no set formula. It's just like me losing 13 straight to the Mets when I first started."

Sutton, who has won six out of seven games in the second half to improve his record to 10-8 said he did not feel he was in top form.

"I didn't have my best stuff, but they just kept hitting them to somebody," Sutton said. "They drilled it but Tony (center fielder Scott) or Jose (left fielder Cruz) would camp under it for a long out."

After splitting the first two games, the Brewers and Red Sox complete their threegame set today. The Brewers move into Tiger Stadium for three games over the weekend, and the Tigers finish up the season in Milwaukee.

Wockenfuss, trying to shake a slump that had dropped his batting average to .209, tied the game 3-3 with a two-run homer off Mike Flanagan in the fourth inning, and his solo shot in the sixth, his seventh of the year, was the winning run.

Around the rest of the league, Cleveland downed the New York 6-4, Kansas City edged Minnesota 2-1, Seattle trimmed Texas 3-2, California blanked Chicabo 1-0 and Oakland swept a pair from Toronto, 3-2 and 4-2.

Tigers starter Jerry Ujdur gave up all three Orioles runs - two unearned - in the first two innings, and he was relieved by George Cappuzello, who stopped Baltimore on three hits the

Whiteface Spikers Edge Palo Duro 15-12, 15-13

Bump, Set and Spike!

Ginny Coronado (44) bumps to Suzanne Ramirez (11) so she can set up for spiker Jolynn O'Leary during Tuesday nights' victory over the Palo Duro Dons. The Herd Varsity went two games, 15-12 and 15-13, for the win. (Brand Photo)

Ginny Coronado was not about to let the Palo Duro volleyball team rain on her parade, so with the use of strong serving and excellent team play by the rest of the Hereford spikers, the Whitefaces held on to a hard fought victory 15-12, 15-13 last night at the high school gym.

PA Jefferson Holds Top Spot in 5A

Port Arthur Jefferson, Huntsville, Allen, Forney and Motley County were ranked tops in their classes in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll following the third week of competition.

Georgetown, ranked No. 1 in 4A a week ago, was upended by Belton 14-0 last week and dipped to the No. 10 in the latest balloting by Texas sports writers and sportscasters.

Defending 4A state champion Huntsville, which raked Strake Jesuit, 31-7, last week received 14 first place votes compared to three for runnerup Ennis and replaced Georgetown. Gregory-Portland moved up to third place, followed by Rockwall and Brownwood to round out the top five.

Waco Connally dropped from its 10th place position in 4A last week despite its 28-20 victory over Waco Robinson.

Andrews moved in as the 10th-rated team in 4A. Plano, which dropped out of the top 10 earlier this season, upset No.2-ranked Sherman 21-12 last week to drop to a tie for 10th this week with oncebeaten Temple.

First year coach Sharma Smith summed up the game with the facts that the Herd did not make costly mistakes and the team, consisting of four seniors and two juniors, used teamwork to pick up the win against the Amarillo

"I thought that after the first game, with it being so close and us having to come back from four points down, that the team would be too tired in the later stages of the second game, but those girls are tough competitors, and when they realized they had a chance to wrapup the match in two straight, it seemed to give them the energy they needed to take the second game as well," Coach Smith

Led by seniors Coronado, JoLynn O'Leary, Peggy Miller and Lisa Cortez as the spikers and Beatrice Moreno and Suzanne Ramirez as the setters, the Whitefaces twice came back from deficits to post the straight-set win.

"These girls are really good," Smith said. "They know that they are capable of competing with just about any team they face if they can just work together. And with district starting next week, we are rounding into the form we will need to compete for the title."

The Whitefaces will travel to Caprock tomorrow to face the Longhorns. With most of the pre-season games against the Amarillo teams, the Smith-coached Herd are not really aware of how the district competition will shape up.

'We know we have the ability to win district," Smith said, "but we will have to play our best to cpature the ti-

Best Team In Baseball To Miss Playoffs?

An AP Sports Analysis By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

Presenting ... drum roll, please, maestro...the team with the very best record in baseball, the Cincinnati

Take a bow, Manager John McNamara. Nice job. Enjoy the spotlight, though, because when the mini-playoffs begin Oct. 6, you guys could be sitting at home, finished for the Now how can that be? How can a team finish with the best record in baseball and still not qualify for the playoffs? Only in this abomination of a split season, where good is bad and up is down, could such silliness take place.

Cincinnati made the mistake of being one-half game behind Los Angeles when the strike hit June 12. In the interest of expediency. their 35-21 first-half record was sacrificed by the people in charge when play resumed. And even though the Reds (23-17 in the second half) had the best overall record in the two leagues going into Tuesday's games, they were assured of nothing. Unless they can catch Houston and finish first for the second half, or unless the Dodgers finishes second to LA, the Reds can head for home.

That's ridiculous.

Some baseball people, who aren't afraid of their shadows, speak their minds on the issue. One of them is Whitey Herzog, manager and general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. Herzog is a traditionalist and the Cards voiced opposition to the splitseason plan when it was first announced. Nothing has happened, not even his club's first-place standing in the second half, to change his mind.

"I think it's a farce," Herzog said the other day. "What are we playing for? There's no interest in it.

That seems to be the opinion of the Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies, Oakland A's and New York Yankees, who all earned playoff berths because they had the good sense to be leading their respective divisions when baseball went on its summer vacation.

Baseball is selling us terrific pennant races. Look at that - going into Tuesday's action, six games separated the six teams in the American League East. Toronto's annual also-rans were four games out of first place. Four teams were separated by three games in the American League West. Texas, playing under .500, is bidding for the

Swedish Women Say They're Far From Equa

By ANNIKA NILSSON Associated Press Writer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - Two decades after Swedish women won equality under the law, a depressed economy and a society resistant to change are making reality less than the law.

"It is still harder to be a woman than a man in this country," said Lisa Mattson. president of the Federation of Social Democratic Women. "It is true that the situation in. Sweden is improved, but it is still a long way before the situation is satisfactory."

A recent study indicates that sexual segregation in the labor market pushes women into lower-paying, less prestigious jobs, with only about 1 percent of managerial positions in the private sector filled by

Past surveys by the National Bureau of Statistics tend to back up the claim:

-In 1975, 50 percent of employed men worked in mining, manufacturing or construction. Less than 20 percent of female workers were in those industries. By contrast, 49 percent of working women performed public administration or other services - education, medical care and social welfare sectors employing only 17 percent of the male workforce.

-Women dominated 70 occupations in 1977, men 300.

-In the private sector, the average male worker earns 22.6 percent more than the average woman.

Major demands by Swedish feminists have been for daycare facilities for all children and for six-hour work days to make it easier to combine a job with home duties. These remain overwhelmingly women's work, despite official efforts begun in the 1960s to encourage load- same jobs," she said. sharing in the home.

But solving Sweden's sionally runs afoul of Ms. economic worries has top priority with most politicians, who say the country cannot afford costly social reforms expanded antidiscrimination programs right now.

Nevertheless, there have been gains.

A 1980 law bans sexual discrimination in hiring and promotion in public and private jobs and demands active efforts to promote equal opportunity in the workplace.

Equal opportunity ombudsman Inga-Britt Tornell, appointed to enforce the act, said it is too early to say whether the law will live up to its high expectations. Ms. Tornell has received 161 complaints about work discrimination or lack of active promotion of sexual equality, all but four of which have been settled by negotiation. The four contested cases are still pending in labor

One complaint involved Bishop Bertil Gartner of the Swedish Lutheran Church in Goteborg, who refused to allow female ministers to practice in his diocese. The church ordains women but permits male clergy to refuse to work with female colleagues under a so-called "conscience clause."

Ms. Tornell told the bishop to draft an equal-opportunity

Such complaints ideally should come from labor unions, Ms. Tornell said, adding, however, that she fears that nothing much can be expected from them until the 'middle-aged men who do not care about equality are down the subway stairs.

My first summer out of college I took a job as an unskilled laborer with a construction firm building houses in Vermont and gave deeper meaning to the qualifying adjective. Pushing a wheelbarrow full of concrete up an inclined plank to a floor-less second floor, I found, is not a skill that amateurs master on the first attempt. Profane and purple-faced at my incompetence, the foreman sent me off to a nearby quarry to help load a dump truck with gravel. The tool allocated for this job was a large coal scoop. Again, my aim was not up to my intentions. I missed the truck completely and hurled a shovelful of gravel into the truck cab where the driver was reading the racing form. Instinctively I knew that getting hit in the face with 20 pounds of wet gravel was not one of life's more welcome happenings. I dropped the shovel and lit out for the tree line before the enraged and nearly blinded driver could making headway in the more come charging after me.

The woods were lovely, dark and deep, and I had a mouthful of teeth that I sure wanted to keep. I never did return to pick up my check for a few eventful hours in the construction trade.

PUBLIC NOTICE ON REGISTERING

LIVESTOCK BRANDS The attorney general is reminding every citizen who has registered a brand prior to Aug. 30, 1961 that citizens must re-register each brand with the county clerk within six months in order to protect their right to it. If everyone follows the registration schedule set out by the law, county clerks will have a correct, revised set of records every ten years, and there should be no dispute about the correct ownership of livestock.

To register or re-register marks and brands, the livestock owner may obtain forms either by mail or in person from his or her county clerk's office. There will be blank spaces on the form in which to describe the mark or brand and the location on the animal where the brand is recorded.

The forms should then be mailed or delivered in person to the county clerk, who will keep the forms in an indexed bound volume or on microfilm for easy reference.

Spastic colon and gas

DEAR DR. LAMB Would you discuss abdominal gas? So many suffer cause gas. from this common painful ailment. No one seems to offer any relief. Apparently doctors are not aware of the excruciating pain and discomfort the patient is experiencing when they say, "It's only gas, nothing serious." These pains are severe and real, not imagpale.

I'm a 73-year-old female and have had pains in my abdomen and left side for years. I have had regular heckups and X-rays and that painful scope test and there is nothing wrong, "just gas." But what about my pain and discomfort? My distended abdomen sounds like a hollow drum when I pat it.

The usual answer is to try Maalox, try Gaviscon, try this, try that. I've tried so many without relief. I do take Metamucil in orange juice every morning. My bowels are very irregular and sometimes I am constipated. I really need some

DEAR READER Unfortunately, managing the common gas problem is a program of trial and error. You do need to understand that everyone produces gas from food fermentation or swallowing air. You can't completely avoid swallowing air if you eat or drink. The difference is that the gas in your case is trapped in your colon. Your story is one of having a spastic colon as well as gas. The trapped gas distends your abdomen and causes the pain. You will understand this better by reading The Health Letter number 6-8, Controlling Gaseousness, which I am sending you.

can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You should make a bigger effort to relieve your colon problems by developing regular bowel habits and per-haps by increasing your bulk intake.

Gas problems a e sometimes caused by milk intolerance. You can eliminate all dairy products for a few weeks and see if that helps. If so, and you continue to eliminate dairy products, you will need a calcium supplement.

Coffee, both with and without caffeine, can be a factor, as can tea, colas and chocolate. So can fat which is difficult for some people to digest, particularly as they get older. Antacids are useless in treating gas. They neutralize stomach acid and that is not the cause of gas,

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am very concerned about my father. He is 71 and has been taking medicine for high blood pressure for a number of years. For the last four or five months he has become very short of breath. His color is not too good, rather Does he have a heart problem and need a heart pill or could this be lung trouble? His breathing isn't bad if he is just sitting, but to walk any distance or do any of the work he always has been doing makes him very short of breath until he stops for awhile.

DEAR READER — He

needs to see his doctor. He may have developed weak-ness (failure) of the left side of the heart. This sometimes happens as a complication of high blood pressure. The weak heart is unable to pump all the blood out of the lungs and the lungs fill with fluid. At first these people can breathe normally sitting still and as the condition progresses they get short of breath with less and less activity. If that should be his problem some heart medicine restricting salt may help him a great deal. Regardless of the cause, he will need medical attention.

Years ago I had a complete hysterectomy. I have taken hormone shots until recently and now I take Ogen on a 27-day schedule. About a year ago my husband and I started having problems. I am 62 and he is 10 years younger. Sex is almost impossible. I Sex is almost impossible. I hate it and everything about

I thought I was a freak because up to a point all was fine. My gynecologist said I have senile vaginitis and prescibed some vaginal cream which hasn't helped one iota. I'm on my third tube. He told me it is a common condition but I simply cannot understand it. My husband is furious. Can you please explain it to me before I lose a good husband? DEAR READER - Yes, it is common in women who have an estrogen deficiency. puberty in response to estro-gen include development of cells that line the vagina to keep it lubricated. When the hormones stop, a woman regresses and these cells atrophy. The dry vaginal vault is easily infected and easily irritated. Hormone creams usually help. Some women also get aid with K-Y lubricant. Better see your gynecologist and tell him you need more help.
