The mock disaster will be totally unexpected as to the exact date or time, or the nature of the disaster, and it will involve the entire hospital staff. The drills are conducted in preparation of a survey for the Joint Commission on the Accreditation of

A walk-through disaster drill was conducted in three separate sessions for Deaf Smith General Hospital personnel on Friday. Here, hospital employees practice a three man carry, which would be used to evacuate patients with severe fractures or who had undergone extensive surgical procedures. The walk-through was held in preparation for a mock disaster to be staged at the hospital in the near future.

Senators pass dump resolution

Compiled from Staff and Wire Reports

State senators Monday unanimously passed a resolution opposing the nation's first high-level nuclear waste repository being placed in Texas.

Deaf Smith and nearby Swisher counties each contain areas being considered by the U.S. Department of Energy for the dump. There are seven other candidates in five other states.

According to DOE guidelines approved Friday by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the field is to narrowed to five later this year. The president is to then choose three for detailed site characterizations before a final site is named sometime in the early 1990s.

"Of course, we're pleased (by the resolution," commented Tonya Kleuskens, chairman of People Opposed Opposing placement in Panhandle Wasted Energy Repositories (POWER), a group mostly made up of county residents. "We've certainly felt our state was behind us for the last couple of months.".

"Our answer is no, no, no, when it comes to locating a nuclear waste site here," said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, co-sponsor of the resolution.

"With this resolution, we are saying to the (U.S.) Department of Energy, 'Look elsewhere," he said Monday. "We're speaking about high-level nuclear waste. That's the really hot stuff," added Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin.

Federal law allows governors and state legislatures to veto putting a nuclear dump in their states within 60 days of the president recommending a location to Congress.

The Senate's resolution, adopted without opposition and sent to the House for action, would exercise that veto and empower the lieutenant governor and House speaker to register the veto if the Legislature isn't in session when a presidential decision

It also orders the Texas Water Commission to deny the Department of Energy permission to drill a test shaft needed before locating a dump site, and it orders other state agencies "to protect the environment and the rights of property owners."

Sen. John Montford. D-Lubbock, a co-sponsor of the resolution, said he was

The resolution said construction of a nuclear dump would threaten the region's water supply by putting radioactive waste beneth the Ogallala and Santa Rosa aquifers.

It also said the area could be a future energy source, so oil and gas drilling there might disrupt a nuclear waste site if one were located

"The rush to develop an underground repository is being carried out not to solve public health and safety problems, but instead to relieve the nuclear power industry of the acute embarrassment that the waste disposal problem still has not been solved," the resolution said.

Grand jury gets extension

A Deaf Smith County grand jury which has met since January has been granted a 45-day extension to continue its consideration of cases now before it.

Lola Faye Veazy, district clerk, said this morning the extension was approved by the district court Monday. While Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul would not comment on the nature of the cases now before the jury, the panel did issue four additional drug-related indictments after meeting again Monday. Andrew Garcia, arrested earlier this month on felony drug sales charges, was re-indicted on two charges of delivery of a controlled substance. Both indictments are for felony violations. Also re-indicted was Rafael Chavez. A third man, not yet arrested by authorities, was indicted on similar charges.

Saul said the indictments this month have resulted from an extensive investigation by local law enforcement officers and the Metro Squad, a special crimes unit that includes undercover drug investigations.

The extended grand jury expects to meet again on July 16. Meanwhile, a July term grand jury will be impaneled

Inmates testify against Spence

WACO, Texas (AP) - A five-time Texas prison inmate testified that capital murder defendant David Wayne Spence admitted killing three teen-agers, including two girls, but did not confess to authorities because "dead people couldn't talk."

Jessie Ivy, who is currently serving a 35-year sentence for aggravated robbery, told a state district court jury Monday that Spence told him he and Gilbert Melendez, also charged with murder, took turns raping the girls, while forcing the third teen-ager to watch. Ivy said Spence told him he then killed all three.

"He said that he was guilty, but that dead people couldn't talk," said Ivy, who has been convicted of forgery, burlary and armed robbery.

Spence, 25, is accused of the slayings of two Waxahachie girls, Raylene Rice and Jill Montgomery, and a Waco teen-ager, Kenneth Franks.

Police still baffled by killings

HOUSTON (AP) - After the gruesome discovery of an elderly couples' bodies cut in pieces and stuffed in a refrigerator, officers wanted to question the couple's son, Charles Frederick Rogers.

But Rogers, 43 at the time, who lived an obscure life in his parents' home, disappeared after the June 23, 1965 killings and no one has seen him since.

There has been no sign of the former Shell Oil Co. employee since that night, when police officer C.M. Bullock, called to the house by a worried relative, opened a refrigerator door to find the remains of an 81-year-old man and a 79-year-old woman.

"It just looked like a bunch of meat," said Bullock, now a captain with the Houston police department.

Men criticize administration

WASHINGTON ((P) - A citizens panel that includes six former civil rights commissioners today accused the Reagan administration of a "concerted attack" on affirmative action programs that promote minority hiring.

The private Citizens Commission on Civil Rights concluded in an 184-page report that the administration has tried to dismantle the legal apparatus for enforcing affirmative action goals.

The study called on Reagan to "re-examine the opposition of his administration to the affirmative action policies developed and implemented by his five predecessors."

The Justice Department, the report said, should stop trying to overturn court decisions that sanction numerical hiring plans intended to remedy job discrimination.

tinental Airlines has apparently won its battle to throw out its union contracts, but that victory does not ensure success for the airline still mired in bankruptcy proceedings by any means, analysts say.

Candace Browning. airlines analyst with Oppenheimer & Co. Inc. of New York, said Monday "the jury is still out" on Continental's prospects until the airline industry goes through a flat period.

"The real test is going to be during the next recession," Ms. Browning said. "Right now, they're in a very good airline environment" and Continental's fares on many routes are the lowest available, she said.

"But when traffic dries up, they (the fares) might be matched across the board,"

she added. Robert Joedicke, airline analyst for Shearson Lehman-American Express, said even the seasonal letdown after Labor Day could be enough to strain "some marginal carriers." Analysts said Continental can be optimistic because of U.S. Bankruptcy Judge R.F. Wheless' ruling last Wednesday approving the carrier's decision to abrogate its contract with the Air Line Pilots Association.

The group agreed the airline can expect similar success in its actions concerning the machinists, flight attendants and transport workers unions.

confident that they can handle the situation if the need arises.

The floor plan of the local hospital was discussed with the employees, before they actually walked through the building on Friday. The leaders explained where they should report and what their duties were to be in the case of different types of disasters.

If a tornado were to strike, for example, they would need to know what areas to stay away from and what parts of the building are safest for the evacuation of patients.

Discussion was held on the alert notification system which would go into effect in the event of a disaster, who to report to, proper traffic flow, and decisions as to which patients should be evacuated

Andrews and Morgan said it is essential that all employees are prepared for a disaster, not just the nursing staff and physicians. During the walk through, the employees practiced evacuation techniques, and were shown how they should move patients who were unable to

The women strssed that people of this community also need to be aware of safety procedures in the event of a disaster. Morgan suggested that they formulate disaster plans for their own homes, planning points of exit and safety areas.

"When under a tornado warning, it is best not to flock to the hospital for protection, but to stay in one's own home and find cover there," said Andrews. Besides, the available space is needed for those who are really in need of hospital care.

They remembered a real disaster, when a tornado struck in the early 1970s, and how people came to the hospital and stood in front of the large glass windows in the lobby, which was the worst possible place to be in a tornado. "Fortunately, the tornado skipped over the hospital that time," Morgan said.

"In the time following a disaster," Andrews explained, "there will be designated places where people can go to obtain information. Traffic into the hospital will be controlled by the sheriff's department."

The last mock disaster conducted at Deaf Smith General involved a truck accident with a chemical spill, and there have been several real disasters involving traffic accidents since that time.

Mock disasters aid the hospital administration in better the next time and how to become more efficient.

"The drills help us learn strong points are, and how we can imrpve," Andrews can improve," Andrews remarked. "All of this is to prepare us to take care of the needs of our community in the event that a disaster strikes."

Having the opportunity to select the colors, wall and floor coverings and other decor in their new home made moving to Hereford twice as much fun for Mary Marrow and Beth Burran, sisters of longtime resident Lois Gililland.

The women said it was a challenge combining two households and getting settled in their newly built house, especially coming from two different directions.

Beth, whose daughter, Nancy Wilcox, resides in Hereford with her family, arrived in town from Lubbock the end of April. Mary finished the school term in Sunray, where she taught special reading in the primary grades, before retiring and coming here the last of May.

Mary taught school for 35 years and Beth taught 15 years. "Our father was a college professor and all three of us have been teachers. Lois taught in Hereford before becoming director of the Deaf Smith County Historical Museum," noted Mary.

The women decided to move to Hereford and share a home because they "thought it would be fun. And it is - we love it already," smiled Beth. The sisters were raised in Canyon and both studied at West Texas State University.

Beth went to Clovis, N.M., to teach junior and senior English, and after her marriage resided there and in Lubbock, where her husband was a professor in the architecture department at Texas Tech.

Mary spent about 20 years in McLennan County near Waco, where her husband was a dairy farmer, and then moved back to the Panhandle after he passed away.

Both women were somewhat familiar with Hereford as they had been here to visit relatives on numerous occasions. "I feel like I belong here," stated Mary. "Everyone we've dealt with has been so cordial."

Board members at the museum hosted a coffee for the two newcomers recently, and about 70 persons registered. "We really ap-

Shortly after moving here, Beth began doing volunteer work at the Operation Good Shepherd clothes closet.

She was involved with Meals on Wheels in Lubbock, and Mary has also assisted with that program in the summer months. "It was very rewarding. For many of the people, it is their only contact during the day," said Beth.

Mary was very active in her church, as a Sunday school teacher and member of the Methodist Women. She and her sister have joined the First United Methodist Church here.

They both like to read and walk. "We plan to enjoy our retirement, whatever we get involved in," smiled Mary.

The women hope to travel later on. Beth did quite a bit of traveling with her husband when he was alive.

Mary, Beth and Lois went to England, Ireland and Scotland together last summer, and spent approximately 18 days sightseeing and enjoying the countryside. "We had such a good time," said Mary. "You can't imagine how green Ireland is until you

Hernandez homer sparks Mets

By DICK BRINSTER AP 8-3, who became the first Met Sports Writer

An impatient Keith Hernandez couldn't find a pitch to his liking, so after fouling off eight offerings from Jim Kern he simply lashed the ball the other way.

It carried farther than anyone would imagine, considering Hernandez is not known as an opposite-field power hitter, and came to rest beyond the left-field wall for a three-run, fourth-inning homer that propelled the New York Mets into an 8-1 lead Monday night.

They parlayed that into a 10-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies to move into a one-game lead in the National League East race.

"It wasn't the pitch I wanted," Hernandez explained, noting that Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium is an inviting hitter's park. In most other parks it would have been a sacrifice fly, he figured.

"I'm hitting consistently now like I did when I had my good years in 1979, 1980 and 1981," said Hernandez, who also doubled and scored three runs. "Also, it helps when the No. 1 (Wally Backman) and No. 2 (Mookie Wilson) men are getting on base."

Hernandez, who shared the NL Most Valuable Player Award with Willie Stargell in 1979, finished the night hitting .307 with 35 runs batted in. He has 13 RBI in his last 14 games and is 11 for 22 in his last six games.

"He's simply been outstanding," said Mets' Manager Davey Johnson. "He's just a quality hitter. When he's swinging good nobody hits bet-

Elsewhere, San Diego shelled Los Angeles 9-4, Pittsburgh blanked Chicago 3-0, St. Louis edged Montreal 5-4. Cincinnati shaded San Francisco 2-1 and Atlanta and Houston split a doubleheader, with the Astros winning the opener 8-5 and the Braves taking the nightcap 6-4.

The Mets took a 2-0 lead in the second whenMike Fitzgerald singled and, after two strikeouts, winning pitcher Ron Darling singled and moved to second when left fielder Jeff Stone bobbled the ball. Fitzgerald, who had advanced to third, scored when catcher Ozzie Virgil dropped the relay throw for another error. Darling moved to third and scored on Backman's single.

They made it 4-0 in the third on the double by Hernandez, two walks, and a basesloaded, two-run single by Ron

After the Phillies picked up a run in the third on a single by Stone and Von Hayes' double, the Mets added four more to decide the issue.

Phillies' Manager Paul Owens described the game as "another one I wouldn't write home about."

Starter Charles Hudson, 7-5, lasted only three innings. The victory was the fifth straight victory for Darling, pitcher to accomplish that since Jerry Koosman in 1976. Padres 9, Dodgers 4

Carmelo Martinez, Terry Kennedy and Graig Nettles homered to lead a 19-hit assault by visiting San Diego that snapped a four-game Los Angeles winning streak.

Tim Lollar, 7-5, got the victory as the Padres won their third straight game to extend their NL West lead to four games over Atlanta. The Dodgers fell 51/2 games behind in losing to San Diego for just the third time in nine meetings this season.

"Last year we beat them 12 out of 18, but when it was all over with, they were ten games ahead of us in the standings," Padre Manager Dick Williams said. "It's what you do over the 162-game haul that counts."

Pat Zachry, 4-2, relieved starter Rick Honeycutt in the fifth inning and gave up Martinez's ninth homer, a threerun shot. Nettles' homer, a two-run blast in the seventh, was his 11th. Kennedy hit his seventh leading off the

Pirates 3, Cubs 0

Ailing Bill Madlock slugged a pair of solo home runs and Jose DeLeon, 5-4, hurled a four-hit shutout while fanning nine Chicago batters. Madlock, facing elbow surgery at the end of the season, connected twice off Chuck Rainey, 5-7.

"I never try for home runs in this ballpark, and that's why I'm successful in Wrigley Field," said Madlock, a four-time batting champion who entered the game hitting .251 with just one home run.

Astros 8-4, Braves 5-6

Catcher Mark Bailey cracked two home runs and drove in the game-winning run with a grounder as Houston extended Atlanta's losing streak to five in the first game.

Mike LaCoss, 2-0, pitched five innings to win the opener. Frank DiPino halted an eighth-inning rally by the Braves to collect his eighth save. Len Barker, 6-7, took Rick Mahler, 6-2, scattered four hits over 7 1-3 innings and walked just one batter in pitching the Braves to victory in the nightcap with Donnie Moore collecting his fifth

Bruce Benedict keyed the decisive five-run second inning with a two-run double. Dale Murphy hit his 17th homer for Atlanta, while Terry Puhl belted his first for Houston. Mike Madden, 2-3, was the loser.

Cardinals 5, Expos 4

Willie McGee raced all the way home from first on a bases-loaded single by Darrell Porter to cap a five-run, third-inning rally by St. Louis.

Porter's blow greeted Montreal reliever Dan Schatzeder after the Cardinals battered Montreal starter Steve Rogers, 3-6. The comeback enabled Cardinal righthander Joaquin Andujar, 12-6, to become the National League's first 12-game winner. Bruce Sutter earned his 17th save with two innings of shutout relief.

Reds 2, Giants 1

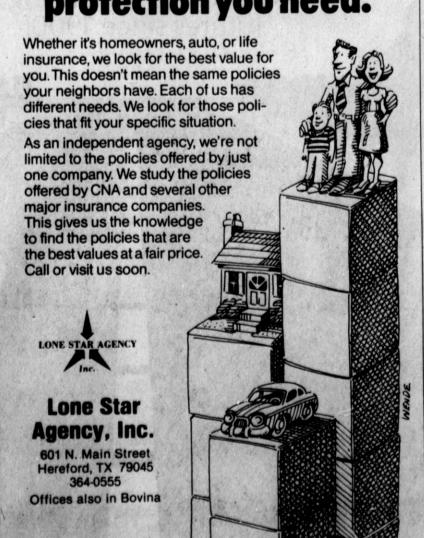

Wayne Krenchicki's oneout homer in the top of the ninth inning spoiled an outstanding performance by San Francisco's Bill Laskey, 4-7, who went the distance and extended his walkless streak to 36 2-3 innings.

Karate tournament successful

How Hereford Competitors

Fared At Tae Kwon Do

By STAN GODEK Sports Editor

Despite the fact that several athletes had made reservations but did not show, Saturday's Texas Panhandle Tae Kwon Do Open Karate Championship was indeed a success, according to local instructor Loopy Crox.

"Everyone was pleased with the location, the facility and the arrangements," said Crox of the Bull Barn.

Efforts are underway to create a West Texas Black Belt Karate Association with Hereford to serve as the central location. The Bull Barn would host championship tournaments for competitors from New Mexico, Oklahoma and West Texas annually.

"We haven't formally made arrangements (for the new association) until we get certificates later this year. But all representatives of the karate schools have agreed to make the purpose of the Black Belt Association for Olympic training," said Crox.

It has been anounced by the world Olympic committee that the martial arts will be a new event for the 1988 Summer Games in Seoul Korea.

When the new association is established, there will be no need to travel to Lubbock or other places to determine which competitors are potential Olympians.

It's the American League West, but it's sometimes called the "American League Worst." Only four games separate the seven teams from top to bottom and the first place team is only game above .500.

So it's no surprise that literally anything can happen in a division like that. Such as the last place Texas Rangers holding a 4-0 margin over the first place California Angels after their first four meetings of the season.

The fourth victory came Monday night, a 5-4 victory that took 11 innings.

The Rangers had a miserable start this season, but they swept a three-game series in California last week and took the opener of a three-game series here Monday night.

"We don't ever think about anybody else," said Rangers Manager Doug Rader. "We're just fighting our own war. We don't give the other team a thought.'

"We may not be as talented as the other teams, but we've got heart," said Rangers third baseman Buddy Bell.

"After a rough start like we had, to come together and play like this is just outstanding," said Texas first baseman Pete O'Brien, who went 4-6 at the plate and had the game winning hit in the 11th inning. Bell had a single, a triple and hit a game tying homer in the seventh inning for the Rangers. It was Bell's third homer of the year. "It's unreal, isn't it," said Rader. "O'Brien had an California reliever Doug Corbett, 2-1, was the loser.

The Angels opened the scoring in the third when Rod Carew slugged a two-run double to left, scoring Dick Schofield and Gary Pettis, who had walked and singled, respectively.

Bell brought Texas within one in the third when he tripled off the left field wall and scored on a wild pitch.

The Rangers scored two to go ahead, 3-2, in the fourth on a Curtis Wilkerson single and run-scoring doubles by Ward and Parrish.

California bounced back in the sixth to go ahead 4-3 by scoring two runs. Reggie Jackson doubled to open the inning, advanced to third when Brian Downing hit into a fielder's choice. Third base umpire Ted Hendry waited a moment before calling Jackson out. Plate umpire Drew Coble came running down the line to call Jackson

With Jackson and Downing at the corners, Joey McLaughlin relieved Rangers starter Dave Stewart and walked Rob Wilfong to load the bases. Downing and Jackson then scored on consecutive singles by Pettis and Carew.

Net top seeds advance

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - In sharp contrast with last year's tournament, when a host of seeds went tumbling out on opening day, this year's Wimbledon tennis championships began much kinder to the top players.

Just one seed was tripped up in Monday's first-round matches - No. 10 Anders Jarryd of Sweden, felled by Scott Davis of Santa Monica, Form appeared in little danger today. The women's competition - celebrating its centennary - was to take Center Court with Martina Navratilova opening defense of her title against Peanut Louie, the 23-year-old righthander from San Francisco.

The British bookies have made Navratilova, the French Open and Grand Slam champion, the most prohibitive favorite since World War II to regain her crown and begin her quest for yet another Grand Slam collection of Wimbledon, the U.S., Australian and French titles.

Perhaps the only extraordinary development took place off court, when top seed and defending champ John McEnroe called an official of the All-England Lawn Tennis club "very nice" and then declared to reporters that from now on, he was going to "let my racket do the talking.'

The kind words were for Buzzer Hadingham, chairman of the All-England club.

'We're excited," Gamblers Coach Jack Pardee said. "In six days we'll have a real battle in the Astrodome against the Arizona Wranglers. We're not in awe of them but we have respect for them.

"We have a week to work and I'll be surprised if we're not tuned up and ready. TEY'VE PLAYED THE BEST FOOTBALL IN THE USFL for the past f1 e weeks."

Fowler plunged one yard, Kelly tossed a 21-yard touchdown pass to Scott McGhee and Toni Fritsch kicked the first of three field goals for a 17-0 first garter lead from which the Showboats never recovered.

Record-breaking quarter back Jim Kelly retired to the sidelines for much of the se cond half. "We wanted to keep the momentum," Kelly said. 'We need all the help we can going into the playoffs." Fowler dove two s in the second quarter for a 24-0 halftime lead, rookie GecNeil returned a punt 43 yards for a third quarter touchdown and Fritsch added 37 and 29-yard field goals in the fourth quarter.

The Showboats, finishing their season with a 7-11 record, averted a shutout with six seconds to play of Alan Duncan's 18-yard field

Spots on polyester

DEAR POLLY — Can you please tell me how to remove grease spots from polyester? I have tried a paste of cornstarch and water to no avail. Unfortunately, the blouse has been washed and has gone through the dryer, which gets quite hot. - ROZEL

DEAR ROZEL - I'm afraid that if the blouse has been washed and dried, there may be nothing you can do. Probably the best remedy would be to try a commercial spot remover. Or you might try hand-washing the spot with a little hand soap or dish detergent, which sometimes will remove spots missed in the general laundering process. (This, by the way, is quite good for removing fresh grease spots from washable fabrics.) Soaking in an ammonia-andwater solution may also help. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Sesame seeds added to a tossed green salad are delicious.

I also toast them for a few seconds and add them to pie dough for pumpkin chiffon pie. This is very delicious, with a

I also sprinkle toasted sesame seeds on baked potatoes, along with the margarine or butter. - MRS. B.T.

DEAR MRS. B.T. - Your nutty-tasting Pointers sure struck my fancy - and my taste buds. For some fresh ideas for perking up family meals with sesame seeds, you'll receive our Pointer of the Week award: a copy of "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." Others who would like this book can order it for $6.50. Make check payable to POLLY'S POINTERS and send to POLLY'S POINTERS, Box 1216, Dept. 55, Cincinnati, OH 45201. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - Dip a new broom in hot salt water before using. This will toughen the bristles and make it last

D.S.C. 4-H Member "Beef on the Hoof" is a popular term for cattle but, it is not half accurate and badly low rates the contributions that the cattle industry makes to the quality of life in these United States.

For example a 1000 pound market steer yields approximately 432 pounds of beef. Nearly all the remaining weight is recovered as byproducts, edible and inedible. Most important of the edible by-products are those commonly known as variety meats. The nutritional value of liver, heart, brains, sweetbreads and tongue has long been acknowledged. Many gourmets consider them delicacies.

Inedible beef by-products affect the quality of our lives in a wide variety of ways, many of which surprise most Probably the best known of these by-products is the hide. It gives us three types of leather: latigo, suede, and tooling. What you may not know is it also supplies felt, and even more surprising, a base for insulation in our industrial oils and lubricants and tallow for soap. These fats also supply glycerine used in explosives, face and hand creams and even lipstick!! Bones, horns, and hooves also supply important by-products. Bones are ground into animal feeds and fertilizers.

Cattle are walking storehouses for a variety of life saving, life improving drugs. More than 100 individual pharmaceuticals, currently known and in use, perform such vital functions as helping to relieve allergies, making childbirth safer and aiding diabetics.

The pancreas furnish us with the best known medicine derived from cattle. Insulin is used to treat sugar diabetes. There are five million diabetics in the United States alone and 1.25 million of them require insulin daily. It takes the pancreas from 26 cattle to keep one of these diabetics alive for a year. Also from the pancreas comes the drug glucagon that helps to counteract insulin shock resulting from an overdose of

In the case of some pharmaceuticals, it has become less expensive to make synthetic ones than to refine it from animal resources. However, in many cases, another animal by-product must be used in the process. In many areas though, the protein drugs such as insulin. are so complex that chemists tempting a synthetic.

The value of beef byproducts cannot be adequately measured in dollars and cents. Americans eat 77 lbs. of beef per year. We take it for granted that we can go to the market and purchase beef at a cost within our budget. Due to research by the beef industry in our country the REAL value of the good things in cattle besides beef is that it allows American consumers to put beef on the table at an affordable price.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was stopped cold by "The Phone Never Rings in California." That mother sacrificed everything for her children when they were growing up and now they ignore her. My story is just the opposite.

Our mother gave us nothing. She nagged Father until he moved out. She then insisted he left because he couldn't stand us kids. We were made to feel guilty about everything.

We wore clothes from the Salvation Army but she had her hair done in a beauty shop every week. Her morals were rock-bottom. We never knew who would show up at the breakfast table. Sometimes there were three different men in a week.

Now she is old and lonely. We check with each other to make sure one of us goes to see her every few days. We all phone regularly. Although she was a lousy mother, we love her and treat her with respect. I become more and more puzzled about how to raise my own children. Any thoughts?-San Bernardino

DEAR SAN: I don't pretend to know the answer to this one. Obviously, you children learned compassion

DEAR VAN NUYS: You make some good points. Fatties sometimes stay fat to spite the one who is constantly nagging them to take off weight. They find it a highly effective weapon. When the nagging stops, the weight loss begins.

Estrogen for menopause

DEAR DR. LAMB - To all women suffering from menopause who are undecided as to whether they should use hormones or not, I say, do so now without further

I endured hot flashes, cold sweats and depression for more than five years.

My gynecologist finally started me on the estrogen and progesterone treatment. I feel 10 years younger, renewed energy, no more hot flashes or bouts of depression. I intend to stay with this treatment for as long as I can.

DEAR READER - A lot of women would agree with you. So would more doctors now that more studies are available on the effects of female hormones. A lot of the fear about estrogen and cancer has been minimized by more up-to-date studies. The big scare about uterine cancer was always a mountain made from a mole hill. Estrogen was associated with endometrial cancer but that's really not that common. In 1983 the estimated deaths from endometrial cancer of the uterus was only 3,000 for the United States. And that doesn't mean from use of hormones. The estimate for new endometrial cancers was 39,000 so you can see that most women who develop endometrial cancer, regardless of the cause, don't die from it.

New studies show that women using a combination of estrogen and progest-erone oral contraceptives had only 50 percent as many endometrial cancers as nonusers (Journal of the American Medical Association Volume 249, page 1591, 1983). Such new information may have prompted your doctor to prescribe estrogen and progesterone for you. There are many advantages to replacing the estrogen a woman loses from the menopause. These include helping to prevent bone loss as well as avoiding symptoms such as hot flashes. I've discussed these problems in the Health Letter 5-12, Menopause, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 57-year-old man suffering from tic douloureux. My face has been causing me a great deal of pain. The pain comes at intervals - about every five to 10 minutes when it strikes. The pain is always severe, but fortunately only lasts a matter of seconds. When the pain strikes it's so severe I must twist my face all up.

Is this a permanent condition for the rest of my life? What should I do about it? DEAR READER - The chances are you will continue to have such attacks. They can be brought on by such minor events as brushing one's teeth. The pain is caused by pain fibers of the trigeminal nerve from the brain to the face area. That's why it's also called trigeminal neuralgia.

Your doctor can prescribe medicine that may help prevent the attacks. Carbamazepine is most commonly used but others are sometimes helpful, too. If your pain can't be controlled with medicines then you should consider surgery.

There are two surgical procedures commonly used. In one the pain fibers are selectively destroyed. This may not be permanent. In the other a cushion is placed around an area of the trigeminal nerve. Inside the skull there is a place where the nerve root may be trapped between beating arteries. The pulsations injure the nerve. By cushioning the nerve to protect it, the pain may be stopped. Your neurologist can help

HOUSE DESIGN by Larry Farnsworth

This two story, two bedroom plan Model B659 offers a dramatic but pratical setting for vacation or year-round good living. Built of block and wood, with plenty of glass to allow full enjoyment of scenic vistas, it blends beautifully with its large house-spanning family room, with sliding glass doors and a commanding fireplace, complete with raised hearth. At the back, is a second bedroom and a large utility room, ready for washer and dryer installations and roomy enough for sewing and ironing, too.

The upstairs is conveniently reachable from within and without. And note and across that hallway is another bedhow the outside stairway and the front-ofthe-house balcony deck to which it leads add their own touch of drama to the exterior lines of this house. Complimenting the whole is the deep overhang of the roof which shelters the deck and the wide expanse of floor-toceiling glass in the living room's picture window and sliding doors. Obviously, Entry on the ground floor leads into a too, this deck provides shelter in turn for the ground floor window and door areas.

Open-raftered, if desired, the living room dining area, too, boasts a massive hearth, plus a convenient dining counter which separates the step-saving Ushaped kitchen from the dining end of this house-spanning area. A full bath is located at the back, off the rear entry hall, room, with a roomy closet efficiently utilizing the space over the stairway. There is an extra storage closet too, in the hall beside the rear, outside stairs. All in all, Model B659 gives extremely good value for the homebuilding dollar. It enjoys both the economy inherent in a two-story design and the imaginative planning which has crammed plenty of liveability into a minimum amount of
