amendments in balloting today. Of the 750,000 Texans expected to go to the polls today, Secretary of State David Dean predicts 300,000 will be in Houston, where a mayor and city council are being elected. He says the balance will consist largely of voters in Dallas, where a school board will be elected, and Austin, where voters will decide whether to sell the city's share in the South Texas Nuclear Project. The proposed amendments range from a long-range water development program to a plan that would let an 81-year-old East Texan keep his farm.

with a minimum of $5,000, in addition to the $50,000 writeoff provided by the 1978

Tax Relief Amendment. Exemptions would be up to 40 percent through 1984, 30 percent from 1985 to 1987 and 20 percent thereafter. Another $250 million in state bonds could be issued for the Veterans' Land Program under No. 7. The proposal also would raise the maximum interest rate from 6 percent to 10 percent.

McCarley Named Top Administrator

Bill McCarley, Stanton Junior High principal, has been named "Administrator of the Year" by the Hereford Classroom Teachers Association.

McCarley was elected by secret ballot by CTA members. He is now eligible for state honors as an administrator.

McCarley, a West Texas State University graduate, started his career in education by teaching math at Stanton from 1961 to 1967. He spent the next two years as assistant principal at Old Central. He was assistant principal at Stanton a year, then returned to Old Central as principal.

In 1975 he was the first principal of West Central, then in 1977 returned to Stanton as principal.

City Fathers Discuss Increasing Deductible

The question of insurance coverage continued to be the topic of discussion for the Hereford City Commission Monday night at its regularly scheduled meeting.

The question concerned the fact that the price of the insurance had risen for the city as well as the employee, thus causing the city fathers to raise the deductible amount.

Since the item was a topic not on the agenda, the commission could not act on any of the decisions or ideas presented. Commissioners R.W. Eades and Emory Brownlow stated though that the city, as well as the employee, could save money if the higher deductible of $200 was adopted. Previously, the city has had a $50 deductible.

In other business last night, the commission adopted a zoning change request to change lots 1-14 of the Chaparral Addition from "A-Single Family" to "B-Two Family" zone.

Also the 100 block of South Roosevelt was closed off after the request by George V. V. Segal, Arrowhead Mills and T.J. Power companies was brought before the commission.

In the appointment of a member to the Juvenile Board, the commission went along with the motion by Eades to appoint Calvin Jones, agricultural manager at Holly Sugar, to the board, to replace George DeBoer, who moved.

The matter pertaining to the rededication of the Warren Addition back to the city was tabled for the second consecutive meeting as details were not available to the board.

Turnout Light

Election officials at the Precinct 5 polling place located at the community center were less than swamped early today as voters cast ballots on the seven proposed constitutional amendments. Catharine Russell (seated left) and Lola Curtsinger said that only 15 voters had cast ballots as of 9:30. In background is precinct Judge James Gentry, catching up on some reading. (Brand Photo by Kelly Cherry).

Early Voting Light

Voter turnout in Deaf Smith County was termed "real slow" for the most part in a random sampling of the various precincts this morning. Only one precinct judge contacted said that the turnout was good.

Citizens are deciding upon seven proposed amendments to the state constitution, including two of special interest locally. Those include amendment No. 4, a water trust fund, and number 5, the exemption of livestock and poultry from ad valorem taxation.

"It's going pretty good," Precinct 11, Judge Raymond Higgenbotham said of traffic at Northwest Elementary School. Higgenbotham reported that over 100 voters had cast ballots as of 10:30 a.m. today. He said that around 1,800 voters were in the precinct, one of the largest. In contrast, Mrs. Frank Zinser reported that only three ballots had been cast in Precinct 3, where only "35 or so" voters are registered.

Mrs. Juanita Higgins, Absentee Precinct Alternate judge, said that 37 absentee ballots were cast for the election, while Precinct 1, Judge Cecil Boyer said that the turnout was "very light" with around 80 voters having showed up.

County, City Get Drink Tax Rebates

AUSTIN, Tex.—State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday said checks totaling $9.2 million are being sent to 300 Texas cities and 214 counties as their share of rebates from the state's mixed drink tax for the 1981 third quarter.

Deaf Smith County received $1,519.56 as its rebate from total tax revenue for the period of $10,130.43. The City of Hereford's share was $1,325.01, from $8,833.41 in revenues.

Bullock said mixed drink taxes collected during July, August and September will also net the state's general revenue fund $22.5 million.

He said the third quarter payments are estimated allocations based on past payments for cities and counties because the Alcoholic Beverage Commission is tabulating third quarter tax collections.

Bullock said adjustments, if any, to cities and counties would be made on the fourth quarter report.

Taxes on mixed drinks during the first and second quarters this year totaled $58.9 million.

Texas cities and counties receive a 15 percent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized mixed drink sales.

The 10 percent gross receipts tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and the city-county rebates are sent out quarterly by the Comptroller's office.

Local Living Cost Below Average

Hereford's cost of living ranks 6.9 percent below the national average for the last quarter, according to an index prepared by the American Chamber of Commerce Researchers Association.

The living cost is based on 44 items and services including groceries, housing, utilities, transportation, and health care.

In Hereford, the six component indexes were 100.2 percent for groceries, 88.7 for housing, 87.7 for utilities, 93.4 for transportation 87 for health care and 96.1 for miscellaneous goods and services.

Of the Texas cities surveyed, Hereford was third lowest in overall cost of living. Lubbock was 11 percent below the national average and Texarkana was 10 percent below.

Midland was highest with 13.8 percent above the average, followed by Houston with 9.9 percent above and Plano at 8 percent above.

Among the 12 cities of more than 500,000, New York had the highest with 37.4 percent above the national average. Indianapolis, Indiana was 6 percent below the average.

United Way Contribution

The United Way campaign in Deaf Smith County will emphasize the employee division during November, and Raymond White, left, made a presentation to UW President Jim Bullard

Monday to help the drive. Bullard cited White Implement Co. employees for their participation in the payroll deduction plan over the years.

UW Drive Turns To Business, Employees

The United Way of Deaf Smith County turns its attention to general business and employee divisions this month, hoping for widespread participation as the volunteer workers seek to reach the goal of $125,000.

Jim Bullard, president and drive chairman, announced Monday that workers have been soliciting advance and special gifts and have sent mailouts to the agricultural section.

"We are nearing the $50,000 mark," reported Bullard. The advance gifts division includes contributors of more than $500, and the special gifts division includes those who give $100 to $500.

Workers have started the general division drive, aimed at contributors of $100 and below, said Bullard. Special emphasis will be put on the employee division this month, with volunteers seeking to enroll employees on the payroll deduction plan. Bullard pointed to White Implement Co. Monday as an example of employees making the United Way work through payroll deduction. "We picked up a pledge for $1,198 from 14 fulltime and 2 part-time employees at White Implement."

That's an average of $74.87 for each employee." Bullard added that this type of contribution represents more than many firms contribute. The pledge did not include the gift from the company or the president.

"We use them as an example because the implement company employees have been giving their fair share for years," stated Bullard. "They feel like they're an important part of the community and are doing their fair share." Raymond White, president of White Implement, said his employees "challenge employees of all businesses in Hereford to participate on the basis of fair-share giving through payroll deduction." Bullard said the $125,000 goal represents a bare minimum for operation of the 10 agencies in the United Way of Deaf Smith County. These agencies include Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Boy Scouts, YMCA, American Red Cross, Camp Fire, Family Services Center, Salvation Army, Senior Citizens, Children's Rehabilitation Center, and High Plains Epilepsy Association. The UW campaign steering committee this year includes Bullard, Bud Eades, Mark Andrews, Gerry Hollinger, Janice Faulker, Jane White and Tom Simons.

Prison Standoff Ended Monday

GRATERFORD, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania's biggest prison remained in a state of emergency today as guards prepared a cell-by-cell search to find out how a gang of prisoners got the four guns they used to terrify hostages for six days.

The standoff ended Monday night when the seven inmate captors released the six remaining hostages from the kitchen of the State Correctional Institution after firing their guns to empty them of ammunition.

The hostages were unharmed and officials agreed to the inmates demand that they be transferred from the maximum-security state prison to an undisclosed federal prison.

Chuck Stone, a Philadelphia newspaper columnist called in by the governor's office to negotiate the release, said the burst of gunfire "sounded like cannons." "Then they came out with their hands up. The hostages came first carrying the guns," Stone said.

Gov. Dick Thornburgh announced later in Harrisburg that he would form a commission to study the hostage-taking, which followed an unsuccessful escape attempt by a group of prisoners. He said the commission will help insure that action is taken on tougher jail sentences, more cells, and other "lessons" drawn from the siege.

The governor also blamed Community Legal Services for putting the suspected inmate ringleader, Joseph "Jo Jo" Bowen, 35, of Philadelphia, back in the prison's general population in 1975.

quate conditions, and NASA Administrator James Beggs said, "It should be clear and beautiful tomorrow." Rain would force a postponement of the fueling, and the liftoff, because of fears of an ice build-up on the external fuel tank.

The astronauts stopped at the launch pad just hours after a large service structure was rolled away, leaving Columbia bathed in floodlights and poised for a second triumphant tour of space.

Engle and Truly drove to the pad from their crew quarters about 6 a.m. and spent an hour there, inspecting the 122-foot-tall vehicle.

They then took off in a modified jet to practice emergency landings on a nearby 15,000-foot runway. They would use the strip only if their shuttle engines quit early and they could not get into orbit.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials remained optimistic about the weather, even though it was overcast and raining this morning. Beggs told NBC News that "the weather forecast is good. It just looks a little bad right now."

A hour later, Carlson wryly noted that forecasters had been predicting improvement for days, but so far there'd been little.

Carlson said a dozen of so apparent countdown problems had been explained (See LAUNCH, Page 2)

One Fourth Failed

To Register For Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost one of every four 18-year-olds required to register for the draft in 1981 has failed to sign up, but Selective Service Director Thomas K. Turnage predicts compliance will improve.

"The year's not over yet," he said Monday. "There's no reason to believe this year will be any different than previous years. We anticipate compliance will climb above 90 percent."

As of Sept. 1, according to Selective Service System records, 1,336,000 men born in 1963 were supposed to have registered for possible military service, but approximately 307,000 — or 23 percent — did not.

That is the highest number since Selective Service began keeping detailed records, surpassing the approximately 225,000 who failed to register in both 1973 and 1974 in the wake of the Vietnam War.

Former Commissioner

Pleads Guilty

MARSHALL, Texas (AP) — A former Cass County commissioner has pleaded guilty to charges stemming from a wide-ranging federal investigation into an alleged road materials kickback scheme.

Talmadge Harold Jordan of Marietta pleaded guilty Monday to two counts of mail fraud. Jordan was charged with four counts of extortion and 24 counts of mail fraud, but as part of a plea bargain, 26 other counts were dropped after Jordan entered his plea before U.S. District Judge William M. Steger.

Jordan was one of 17 former and current Northeast Texas commissioners and three vendors indicted on charges they schemed to extort county funds through fictitious purchases of road construction and maintenance materials.

He was charged with placing fictitious purchase orders with a road materials vendor and scheming to split the money with him. Jordan pleaded guilty to receiving $137 and $108 from the vendor, Dallas Thompson of Arlington, who also pleaded guilty but who has not yet been sentenced.

Jordan faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in jail and a $10,000 fine for each count. No sentencing date was set.

Begin Will Lobby

Against Arabian Plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin is launching a new lobbying campaign in the United States against the proposed "rabian peace plan, which Begin says would destroy the Jewish state."

Meanwhile, the head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, Yasser Arafat, arrived in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, today to discuss unspecified modifications to the Saudi plan, sources said.

Begin, in a speech Monday to the Knesset, Israel's Parliament, called on the opposition Labor Party to join in him in fighting the plan. He proposed a bipartisan delegation to the United States and Western Europe "to explain the justice of our cause."

Opposition leader Shimon Peres said his party would join the delegation if the arguments it would make were agreed on in advance.

Leader Tells Court

KKK Met Regularly

HOUSTON (AP) — A paramilitary arm of the Ku Klux Klan that operates in southeast Texas has met twice a month for six years, one of the group's leaders has said in a federal court deposition.

Robert John Sistente's statement was included in legal arguments filed Monday by the state of Texas in seeking a federal court order to close any Klan paramilitary training camps in the state.

The brief also quotes former Klan Grand Dragon Louis Beam as saying the group, the Texas Emergency Reserve, stopped most training last March.

Sistente and Beam are among the owners of land used for Camp Puller, a training site near Anahuac that is one of the targets of the state's battle against the Texas Emergency Reserve.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald ordered the Klan to stop harassing Vietnamese fishermen in the Kemah-Seabrook area last May. Texas Attorney General Mark White intervened in the suit, seeking the order to close the camps under a state law prohibiting military activity by any private organization.

When Golf Is A Shot In The Dark

Golf instructors teach fledgling golfers and remind even the best golfers of certain fundamentals.

One of them is that, after you are in position over the ball, you look at the target and, in your mind's eye, you anticipate the flight of the ball.

Now look back at the ball, and keep that picture in your mind—the preferred trajectory of the ball from where it is to where you want it to go.

Then begin your swing. Imagine playing golf in the dark; in dark so dark you can see neither the ball nor the green — nor even the fairway.

It can be done. There are golfers who play in the dark who enjoy the game more than you do.

In several cities this weekend there will be tournaments exclusively for blind golfers.

In December in Palm Springs, Calif., our nation's best dozen blind golfers will converge, for the fifth year, for the Blind Golfers' Classic.

The tournament at Mission Hills Country Club in Rancho Mirage is hosted by the Braille Institute.

Locally based professionals and some celebrities will participate — but the superstars of this classic are the competing blind golfers and their coaches.

Before I tell you the kind of score it will take to win, let me explain how blind golfers golf.

Each sightless golfer has a coach — frequently a wife or other relative — who positions the ball and advises the player of distances and possible obstacles.

From there on the sightless golfer is on his own. He, even as you and I, learns to "envision" the flight of the ball or the roll of the putt before striking the ball.

Chuck Mayo, a qualifier

every year, explains:

"Full shots, with woods and long irons, are easy. It's the half shots, from 70 or 80 yards out, that require finesse."

Each season he trains and practices to hone a keen competitive edge for the Classic. As a member of the Blind Golfers Association he performs in charity exhibitions and regional competitions.

His handicap? Don't expect a facetious response to that question. He scores about like I do — his par is one over the normal par on each hole — and last year he was good enough only for fourth place! The winner, attorney Pat Brown, shot an 89!

The eagerness with which the blind golfers anticipate these events — the fun they have, the excellence of their shotmaking, the camaraderie — combine to make each tournament an inspiration to everybody.

Last year former President Gerry Ford was there. He joined others in a driving contest — blindfolded!

The experience taught much respect for the golfers who play in the dark and still accomplish excellence.

Police Investigating Senior Center Burglary

Police say they have no suspects in the break-in of the Hereford Senior Citizens Center and the incident is still under investigation.

Sgt. Joe Brown said the building was entered from a roof window which had been broken. The subject(s) broke several other windows and entered the main office.

Two typewriters, two vacuum cleaners, a camera, a citizen's band base radio and an undetermined amount of meat was reported missing. No monetary value has been set on the loss.

Hereford police are questioning several suspects in connection with a prowler incident on west Second Street Monday.

Officers said a woman reported that she saw a man on the roof of an apartment, then he began to beat on her window and demand that she let him in. She said she saw a knife in his hand and that he was bleeding. She screamed for him to leave and when she started to leave her apartment, he left through the window.

Several prowlers have been reported in the same neighborhood recently.

A woman on the 200 block of Hereford Street told police that at about 4 a.m. she heard a noise at her front door. When she checked she found a subject cutting her screen. A woman on Thirteenth Street reported that she heard several gunshots early Monday, but officers did not find anything.

Other weekend reports include theft of auto parts on the 300 block of Star and a broken windshield on Pecan Street.

Four girls reported that while driving near Third and Main, a couple of males harassed them and one of the males fired a gun at them, striking the car. Police are still investigating.

Police issued four citations and went on nine police calls.

Pioneer Corp. Honors Eight Employees

Pioneer Corporation (NYSE) honored 222 area employees, including eight from Hereford for periods of service ranging from five to 45 years at an awards dinner in Amarillo Monday evening.

K. Bert Watson, president and chief executive officer of the corporation, presented each of the honorees with his or her respective service award.

Those honored from Hereford included Ellis W. Keeter (2 years), Gladys K. Hallows, Donald R. Houle, and Jack G. Nunley (10 years), and Lee A. Hartley, Delores A. Hodges, Luzia R. Liscano, and Peggy J. Williams (5 years).

In addition to corporate personnel the employees honored representatives of five of the corporation's eight principal companies, including Pioneer Production Corp., Pioneer Gas Products Co., Pioneer Nuclear, Inc., Energas Co., and Westar Transmission Co.

On Nov. 10 Watson will recognize 27 Midland area employees for service, and 64 employees will be honored from the Lubbock area on Nov. 11.

Telephone Tip Helps Find Fugitive

A confidential telephone tip to the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's department Sunday helped locate a man in California who is wanted on five warrants, including two for murder, out of Lubbock.

According to the sheriff's office, a local resident called the department and told Deputy Loy Smith that Eugene Craddock had left exas and was living under an assumed name in California. He told Smith that Craddock was hospitalized in San Louis Obispo, Calif. and gave all the information he knew about Craddock.

The informant reportedly knew Craddock before he left Texas. Smith called Lubbock to confirm the identity of Craddock, then authorities in California were notified. Craddock will be taken in custody when released from the hospital.

Craddock's girlfriend called the Hereford resident after he had been saying the phone number of the resident while in a coma. She called the number and through physical description and identification of some tatoos, the Hereford resident knew it was Craddock.

Craddock was hospitalized after being shot four times by a jealous husband. He is wanted on warrants for murder, violation of parole, bond forfeiture on organized crime and issuance of a bad check.

DHS Needs Temporary Homes

The Texas Department of Human Resources is looking for Alternate Living Homes for adults in the Panhandle area.

Debbie Hunter, caseworker for the Pampa office, is in charge of locating area residents who are interested in sharing their homes with adults who are aged or disabled.

Hunter said, "One woman we helped to place was 76 and living alone. She had fallen and broken a hip. During the healing process, she went into a nursing home, but it became too expensive. An Alternate Living Home was the answer to her problem."

The Alternate Living Home owner must provide supervision, three meals per day, transportation and other needed services for their residents.

To assure the safety of clients, the home must have fire, health and building code inspections.

Although the owner of an Alternate Living Home receives about $12.00 per day for each client, the job is confining and requires a great deal of patience.

Any person interested in supplying an Alternate Living Home should contact Debbie Hunter at the Department of Human Resources, 655-1863 or 1541 N. Hobart Street, Pampa, Texas 79065.

murdering a Philadelphia policeman and later a Philadelphia prison warden and deputy warden, had been segregated from other inmates. Thornburgh said Community Legal Services won a court order releasing Bowen from segregation that was approved by the previous administration over objections from prison officials.

Authorities said they hoped a search of the cells of all 2,000 inmates would provide clues to how the convicts involved in the hostage-taking acquired a .22-caliber revolver, a .38-caliber revolver, a double-barreled, sawed-off shotgun and a single-barreled shotgun.

"Weapons are obviously a very important part of the investigation. The institution remains in a state of emergency," Correction Bureau spokesman Kenneth Robinson said.

The drama began Wednesday when at least four inmates tried to escape over a 30-foot wall with a makeshift rope. A tower guard foiled the escape by firing a warning shot. The inmates returned three shots, fled to the kitchen and took 38 hostages, including 32 inmates and six prison staffers.

Twenty-nine inmate hostages were released or escaped during the weekend, but three inmates chose to stay behind with the captors holding the prison employees hostages, authorities said.

Several shots were fired during the siege, including one last Thursday when a state trooper was bruised by what officials say was probably a ricocheting shotgun pellet.

Following their release, the three prison guards and three kitchen workers taken hostage were immediately brought to the infirmary, and prison physician Dr. Kemal Dincer reported "everybody's perfect." Two diabetics among the hostages had received insulin and urine tests throughout the ordeal.

The freed staff hostages all returned to their homes Monday evening after being whisked away from the prison in cars. Troopers in riot gear left the prison, many of them smiling.

About two hours after the surrender, the seven handcuffed convicts were taken by bus to their new prison, and one was seen in the bus smiling and holding his manacled hands over his head.

Officials identified the other primary hostage takers as Calvin "Pepper" Williams, 31, Lawrence Ellison, 26, and Leroy "Gentle Ben" Newsome, 27, all of Philadelphia. The other inmates involved were identified as Drake Hall, 34, Philadelphia, and Otis Graham, 33, and Frank St. Clair, 32, both of Montgomery County.

Bowen at one point in the negotiations "used a whole series of expletives and put his hands on the sawed-off shotgun," said Stone, a Philadelphia Daily News senior editor who has successfully arranged the surrender of about 12 people to police in the past. "I thought, 'Here it goes.'"

The convicts had presented Stone with 12 handwritten demands Sunday in their first meeting. Clarifications increased the number to 19 Monday.

Prison guard Gregory Ward, 34, of Philadelphia was the first hostage freed Monday, followed by kitchen workers James Holiday Jr., 31, of Philadelphia, Eric Mohn, 33, of Boyertown and Wesley Lowery, 57, of West Chester; then guard John Bozek, 34, of Norristown and guard L. Lorenzo Alleyne, 54, of Philadelphia, Stone said.

away by NASA engineers. Pre-launch activities continued smoother than preparations for Columbia's maiden flight in April.

The launch pad was busy early today as work crews checked power, environmental, navigation and communications systems, removed unnecessary equipment and made the cockpit ready for the crew. The schedule called for a 12-hour, 10-minute "hold" beginning in the morning, with the countdown resuming in the evening to prepare for the critical loading of fuel.

After midnight, crews will load the ship's huge external tank with 526,000 gallons of volatile fuels to drive the three main engines.

Engine and Truly are to pilot the spacecraft for 5 days, 4 hours, 10 minutes — more than twice the duration of the first mission. They have a flight plan that is more ambitious than the first, as they do tests to further stretch the limits of the ship's capabilities.

The astronauts — Engle, 19, an Air Force colonel, and Truly, 43, a Navy captain, have waited years for their first space journey.

The astronauts' families will watch the liftoff from a special viewing site at the Kennedy Space Center.

The astronauts are to return to Earth Monday, landing at Rogers Dry Lake at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., at 11:40 a.m. EST.

Majority Favors 'Sin-tax' On Cigarettes, Booze

NEW YORK (AP) — A majority of Americans favor raising federal taxes on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages, according to the latest Associated Press-NBC News poll.

The proposed "sin taxes" were endorsed both as a means of raising tax revenues and to discourage smoking and drinking, according to the Oct. 25-26 telephone poll of 1,598 adults in a scientific random sampling.

Fifty-two percent said they think federal taxes on cigarettes should be raised, while 41 percent said they should not.

The 52 percent who said cigarettes taxes should be raised broke down this way: 7 percent said taxes should be raised to increase revenues, 11 percent to discourage smoking and 34 percent both.

Fifty-five percent said federal taxes on alcoholic beverages should be raised, while 41 percent said they should not.

The 55 percent who said alcoholic beverage taxes should be raised broke down this way: 11 percent said taxes should be raised to increase revenues, 9 percent to discourage drinking and 35 percent both.

The Senate Budget Committee recently drew up a number of proposals to raise taxes next year, including one which would double the excise taxes on cigarettes, liquor, wine and beer.

The proposed increases, which Senate leaders say will be considered next year, would raise the price of a pack of cigarettes by 8 cents, the price of a gallon of liquor by $10.50, a barrel of beer by $9 and a gallon of wine by 34 cents.

Sixty-two percent of the poll respondents said they drink alcoholic beverages, while 32 percent said they smoke cigarettes.

People who said they smoke and those who said they drink were less likely than non-smokers and non-drinkers to say either cigarette or alcoholic beverage taxes should be raised. One-fourth of the smokers said cigarette taxes should be raised, and half the drinkers said alcoholic beverage taxes should be raised.

The poll said single and divorced people were more likely than married people to say they smoke and drink.

Protestants were more likely than either Catholic or Jewish respondents to say they are teetotalers; and people with more education and higher incomes were more likely to say they drink.

And while people with children 17 or younger were less likely than other respondents to say they smoke, they were also more likely to say they drink.

Kim Brackett is not just an ordinary newcomer; she has recently succeeded Louann Morgan as president of the Newcomers Club in Hereford. Kim and her husband, Larry, and their son, Nicholas, who is almost four, moved to Hereford last October.

Just one week after arriving in Hereford, Kim was invited to a meeting of the Newcomers Club, and since then she has been active in the club. "I sure didn't think I'd be president when I joined the club," says Kim, but adds that she is glad to be involved with a club that works to acquaint newcomers with the town, and tries to create an informal, friendly atmosphere in a new town.

"Newcomers Club doesn't take much time," says Kim, and is basically a place where you can make friends, and ask questions when you need to know where to go or who to see for something in town. The programs usually introduce newcomers to some activity or organization that is active in Hereford.

The club normally meets the second Tuesday of each month for lunch and a program. Meetings are held in a local restaurant, the community center, or a member's home.

Next month will be a little different, as the club is planning to watch a demonstration by Joy Gibson, home economist from Amarillo, in the Flame Room at Energas. She will be there on Monday, Nov. 9 at 2 p.m., and again at 7 p.m.

The December meeting will be a Christmas party, with a gift exchange and dessert potluck, at the E.B. Black House.

"I'm working on some more ideas right now to try and get more people to come to the meetings," Kim comments. She would like to see a greater awareness of the club here in town, which could be accomplished to a greater degree by people recommending the club to those they know are new in town.

Places where new people go first, like the electric company, the telephone company, the bank, and the newspaper office would be ideal places to heighten awareness of the club's existence, she says. The club leaves brochures in some of these places right now, and club members are encouraged to try and find other newcomers that they can bring with them to the meetings.

Besides working with the Newcomers Club, Kim has been helping her husband, Larry, fix up their home. "Larry's job with Santa Fe Railroad did involve quite a bit of traveling, comments Kim, "but since we've moved to Hereford, we won't be traveling."

The Bracketts purchased a home on Lee Street in April, and are busy redecorating it, hoping to be finished by Christmas as their new baby is due Jan. 6.

"I think the house will be real nice when we get it all fixed up," says Kim. "So far we've done the bedroom and about half of the kitchen."

"This is something I've always wanted to do," she says, "to buy a house and make it personal—a reflection of myself. I wanted a house that was different."

Some of Kim's other hobbies include sewing, crocheting, refinishing furniture, and making things for her home, such as pillows and curtains.

Shortly after moving here, Kim took a tile painting class. It was something she had always wanted to do, and she said that she really enjoyed it and would like to do more of it when she has time.

Ann Landers

Must Be Unusual Case

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Not long after you published those two columns on abortion and took the pro-choice stand, I read a story in the Dallas-Morning News that cast the pro-life movement in a different light.

It seems a 12-year-old girl became pregnant after she was gang-raped in Oklahoma. The girl, three months pregnant, had contracted venereal disease as a result of her terrible experience. She wanted an abortion, and physicians said her life would be in danger if she was allowed to have the baby.

The mother of this 12-year-old, however, took the matter to court to prevent an abortion on religious grounds. She is a member of the Church of the Holiness. Her contention was that the child was too young to make the decision on her own and, as the mother, it was up to her to decide.

Fortunately, the Supreme Court of the state of Oklahoma had the good sense to rule against the mother, but there may be further developments.

I thought this news story was a good example of how far some people will go when they become dedicated to "a cause." Sign me—Reason, Return To Our Land.

DEAR REASON: While many pro-life people have said NO pregnancy should be interrupted for any reason (incest, rape, or clinical evidence that the child is defective), I believe it would be unfair to use this example as typical of the pro-lifers' stand.

The Oklahoma mother is unquestionably a religious fanatic—to put it mildly. A mother who would go to court to deny her 12-year-old gang-raped and venereal-diseased daughter an abortion must be considered a most unusual case.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I ran into a sorority sister I hadn't seen in a long time. When she spoke to me I was stunned. Her face was disfigured from an accident, or maybe she was burned.

I blurted out, "My God, what happened to you?" She replied, "I'd rather not talk about it." I feel so awful I could bite off my tongue. What can I do to make myself feel better?—Ashamed Of My Big Mouth

DEAR ASHAMED: Your reaction was natural, but a thinking person would have been in better control of her mouth. Learn from this experience the wise carpenter's adage: "Measure twice—and saw once."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband reads your column every day. Maybe if he sees himself in print it will make a difference.

People are always telling me how lucky I am to have a mechanical genius for a husband. The man can fix anything—radios, TVs, CBs, vacuum sweepers, disposals, etc. The problem is that six nights out of seven he is away from home—fixing something for somebody.

I have complained about this dozens of times but he says, "It's my hobby. I enjoy the challenge and, besides, I am helping people."

All this is true and I suppose it's a lot more respectable than chasing skirts or getting drunk with the boys, but it's more than a hobby, Ann—it's an obsession. I can't say that I hate him, but I don't love him the way I used to. Do you see any way out?—Wife Of A Genius in South Chicago

DEAR WIFE: An obsession is pretty stiff competition, but do try. The man needs praise, adoration and ego-massaging. A loving, sexy wife has got to be more fascinating than a broken toaster. Try it, instead of complaining, and see what happens.

Christmas In November

Christmas is only 7 weeks away! Are you ready?

To help you prepare for the upcoming holidays, the Oldham County Extension Homemakers invites you to their annual "Christmas In November" program to be held Monday, Nov. 9, at 6:30 p.m. at the County Barn in Vega. Public tasting follows the program.

Eva Venable, Southwestern Public Service home economist, will be presenting a "Festive Foods" program, and Beverly Harder, Arrowhead Mills home economist, will compliment her program on "Healthy Holidays" by demonstrating how to make bread in a food processor.

Be prepared with festive, healthful holiday table ideas for your family this season. The public is invited and there is no charge for the program.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Former Hereford Student In Band

SAN MARCOS -- Joel Wilbanks, formerly of Hereford, is among the 130 members of the 1981 Southwest Texas State University Bobcat Band. The son of Darwin and Johanne Wilbanks, now residing in New Braunfels, Wilbanks plays the trombone in the band.

The Bobcat Band, under the direction of Thomas H. Waggoner, is a featured attraction of SWT's home football games and at a select few games on the road. A smaller group of musicians from the full band will also play at Bobcat basketball games.

An SWT Music Department ensemble, the band features a combination of precision marching student musicians and a marching flag corps.

After hosting area high school bands at "Band Day" on Saturday, Oct. 17, the band's next major performance was in a special halftime show at Homecoming, Oct. 31.

Drum major for the 1981 band is Kenny Ellis of Fredericksburg. Featured twirler is Tammy Hannah of Yoakum.

Rehearsals Continue

Sunday evening rehearsals are continuing for the Hereford Chamber Singers and others who will be participating in the presentation of Handel's Messiah.

The concert will be Dec. 6 in the Hereford High School Auditorium, and will consist of the Christmas portion of "The Messiah," including a number of solos.

The performance will be directed by Bill Devers, and accompanied by Elva Devers on piano and Jan Walsler on organ.

The small metal hoop that supports a lampshade is known as a "harp."

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Maybe the heartlands of America still speak 100 percent English, but in the larger cities, it's getting tougher and tougher to move about without an interpreter.

Don't get me wrong. I will buy anything touted by a foreign accent from yogurt to moisturizer that promises to erase my face. Somehow, I seem to feel people from another country know what they're talking about and would not lie to me.

But I'm talking basic communication. I am here to tell you there is not one English-speaking cab driver in the entire state of California. Last week, I climbed into a cab driven by Boris Szorgyoklov who was born in Odessa, Russia.

The word "Hello" was cookie time for Boris. It made me wonder how he had come to an American freeway behind the wheel of a Japanese car.

I could only surmise he arrived in this country and went to a placement bureau where a sociologist gave him a test. At the end, the sociologist said, "You cannot speak a word of English. You have never driven a car in your entire life. You come from a rural community. You are qualified for only one job: driving a cab in Los Angeles."

The week before, I got an Arab cab driver who could speak only four words: "I am not rich!" As he snapped a $20 bill out of my hand for a ten-minute ride, I taught him three more new words: "You're getting there."

Obviously, there is logic as to where non-English-speaking immigrants are hired. Putting them in charge of room service phones in large hotels seems to be a great outlet. Another favorite is answering the buzzer from your hospital room when you are having difficulty in sleeping—sitting up—breathing.

And is there any greater fear than to have a hairdresser with a pair of scissors over your head who does not understand one word of what you are saying? Or how about the surgeon who asks in perfect Spanish, "Is this the patient?" (Suppose we all look alike to them.)

I'll never forget the woman I met once in South America who told me she sent her son to this country to learn how to speak English fluently.

"Where is he?" I asked.

"Miami, Florida," she smiled.

It figures.

The Good Timers Square Dance Club enjoyed an evening of dancing Friday to the calling of Roger Thompson of Amarillo. Highlighting the evenings activities were two giant pumpkins which appeared to dance with club members.

After dancing, refreshments were served from tables gaily decorated for Halloween. Decorations were prepared by Johnny and Betsy Kuper.

The Good Timers will hold their next dance this Friday. Members are urged to be present to finalize plans for the first anniversary dance which will be held Nov. 14.

Area Representatives Meet

Area representatives for the Project County History met Monday to discuss book orders for "The Land and its People," a limited edition book containing individual family histories from this area.

The following area representatives were in attendance Monday afternoon at the E.B. Black house: Marian Kreig, Diedra Drake, Lazelle Fowler, Violet Reinauer, Aileen Montgomery, Lucile Hughes, Pet Ott, Flora Homfeld, Juanita Hershey, Alberta Higgins.

Mildred Hicks, Marge Melberg, Kathryn Ruga Elzora Brown, Joyce Hanna and Leta Kaul.

These area representatives are members of the telephone committee which will be calling people who have turned in stories for the county history book and asking them if they have ordered their books.

Meeting with the representatives were Ron and Thelda Peters, from Lubbock, representing Craftsman Publishers, the company which will be publishing "The Land and its People."

American Tea Hard To Come By

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)

To tea lovers, a cup of their favorite beverage can call to mind exotic names and faraway places: Darjeeling, Oolong, Ceylon, India, China, Summerville.

Indeed, Summerville, S.C., is the home of the Pinehurst Tea Plantation, an anomaly in American agricultural history.

At the turn of the century, the 100-acre plantation produced tea so fine that it beat out centuries-old Oriental blends and took first place at the 1905 St. Louis World's Fair.

Pinehurst tea was sold in New York and as far west as Chicago. Pinehurst even developed "tea tablets," a forerunner of instant tea, for use by campers and travelers.

Now all that remains of the great Pinehurst plantation are several rows of tea bushes at the Coastal Experiment Station of Clemson University and scattered bushes in the yards of Summerville residents.

Still, Pinehurst represents proof to tea experts that the plant can be grown in this country.

"I do believe firmly that quality tea in quantity could be produced in South Carolina," Ron Robbins, a Clemson horticulture professor, said. "I think that coastal areas from South Carolina on through Louisiana and maybe Texas would be suitable areas."

There's only one obstacle, say agricultural scientists: tea would be far too expensive to grow here in competition with the Far East and Africa. Foreign tea is cheap because the labor needed to handpick tiny little tea leaves is cheap.

As far back as 1899, the then-owner of Pinehurst, Dr. Charles Shepard, noted the cost of producing tea in America would be high because of the "comparative dearthness" of labor.

Shepard wrote, "At Pinehurst, colored children do the picking, and very satisfactorily. A free school is maintained for them, every pupil of suitable age and size is required to pick; others are excluded from the gardens."

"The older children earn from 30 cents to 50 cents a day; the younger ones in proportion."

Robbins noted, however, that "U.S. labor was inexpensive at the time" and that "child labor was not looked down upon as it is now."

Tea's South Carolina connection goes back to 1800, when French botanist Andre Michaux planted tea at Middleton Bagony along the Ashley River, about 15 miles northwest of Charleston.

In 1848, Dr. Junius Smith, convinced tea was a crop that would work in the South, bought a farm near Greenville to experiment with tea cultivation. He was badly beaten three years later during a robbery and died of his injuries two years after that, but not before he had brewed and enjoyed tea from his plants.

After that, according to a recent article by Robbins in the Clemson publication Agri-Search, the federal patent office and Department of Agriculture "imported tea seeds and plants throughout the South for trial."

"The U.S. government went so far as to send Robert Fortune, Britain's primary authority on the tea industry in China, to collect tea seeds from the Orient," he wrote.

In 1880, Congress appropriated money for an experimental tea farm near Summerville. But the experiments were discontinued when a less enthusiastic commissioner of agriculture took office.

At the same time, Dr. Charles Shepard had started his own Pinehurst Experimental Tea Garden near Summerville. Shepard belonged to the Agricultural Society of South Carolina, which had been trying to stir interest in tea.

Federal agriculture people began working with Shepard, and his tea garden became the Pinehurst Tea Plantation.

Shepard described the leaves of one tea variety, his black tea, as having a deep cherry red color. "They were decidedly fragrant and delicate tasting compared to imports from high elevations in hot climates," he wrote.

Robbins attributed part of Pinehurst's success to a tariff on imported tea "to support the Spanish-American War." By 1899, when Shepard wrote his report, that tariff was no more. In 1915, the doctor died and Pinehurst closed its doors.

The huge Thomas J. Lipton Co. is apparently still working on an American tea. Since 1963, Lipton has operated a hush-hush, 127-acre experimental farm on Wardlaw Island just outside Charleston.

Mack Fleming, Lipton's top man there, won't say much about what's happening but it's a safe bet they aren't growing cotton.

"It's an industrial thing," Fleming said. "It's sensitive."

At least one other person grows drinking tea in South Carolina — Tom Birch, an agricultural economist at Clemson. Lest the tea lover become excited about potential new taste treats, Birch cautions that he makes his tea rarely because processing tea leaves into a brewable form is a complex four-step process.

"I make it now and then as a novelty" from Formosa Oolong tea growing outside his house, he said. But he notes that storebought tea is a blend of 28 to 30 varieties of teas.

"People ooh and aah over" his tea, but Birch describes it as "horrible."

"What I produced is just real bitter," he said. "It has an aftertaste."

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 3, the 307th day of 1981. There are 58 days remaining in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Nov. 3 1534, England's parliament transferred to Henry VIII all judicial and political powers formerly exercised in England by the pope.

On this date: In 1935, a Greek plebescite recalled exiled King George II.

In 1946, power in Japan was transferred from the emperor to an elected assembly.

In 1970, Marxist Salvador Allende became president of Chile.

And in 1979, thousands of soldiers, policemen and civilians lined the funeral procession route of South Korea's assassinated President, Park Chung-Hee.

Ten years ago: Secretary of State William Rogers passports would be denied Americans refusing to take an oath of allegiance to the Constitution.

Five years ago: President Gerald Ford conceded victory to Jimmy Carter, pledging his "complete and wholehearted" support.

One year ago: Presidential Jimmy Carter and Republican Ronald Reagan, wound up the campaign with the election one day away.

Today's birthdays: Baseball hall-of-famer Bob Feller is 63. Actor Charles Bronson is 59.

Thought For Today: Conformity is the jailer of freedom and the enemy of growth. — John F. Kennedy, U.S. president (1917-1963).

The peanut is really a bean, not a nut.

Downsizing The Dream

NEW YORK (AP) — Houses, cars, government bureaucracies, corporate staffs, incomes and financial goals all share a word these days that you won't even find in the dictionary. They are being "downsized."

The word seems to be a euphemism for being forced to do with less, a grudging concession to economic reality, an attempt to make the best of a world which no longer indulges its people in easy luxuries.

If you have to accept less, then make it the fashion, make it the "in" thing. Pity the boor who lives in the old Victorian house with massive rooms, or the wastrel who rides around on eight big cylinders.

The trend probably began with the automobile or the chocolate candy bar, but now "downsizing" has been embraced by so much of society that it might eventually be used to describe the decade of the 80s.

President Reagan is a downsizer, and the federal bureaucracy is his patient. He has plans to eliminate two departments, energy and education. He hopes to cut the budget. He plans to curtail regulation.

In Reagan's view, the bureaucracy grew too fast, from 1.1 million civilian federal workers in 1940 to nearly triple that in 1980, accompanied by a rise in payrolls from less than $2.2 billion to more than $50 billion a year. Downsizing that is a keystone of his program.

It is in state governments and in private enterprise also. These are days in which hardnosed efficiency experts thrive and sinecured employees suddenly have to prove their worth.

But not all that goes is waste. As downsizing becomes the vogue you can be certain there will be excesses. The good may go with the bad. Valuable programs and people will be sacrificed. Short-run efficiencies may be at the expense of potential long term gains.

Still, downsizing has strong appeal today for state governments whose budgets are overloaded and private sector companies whose executives' staffs have developed a bulge just below the top level, a result in part of having stockpiled talent for the big boom that didn't come.

Accompanying these obvious examples of downsizing is the feeling that human aspirations and goals also have been lowered. It cannot easily be demonstrated, but every now and then a survey suggests it is extensive.

CC Girls, Carrasco Qualify For Regional

By MARC HERRING
Staff Writer
Roller-coaster emotions were the order for the day last Saturday, as the Hereford High School cross country teams competed in Lubbock at the district 4-SA meet. On the up side, the girls earned a trip to regional competition as did Fernando Carrasco for the boys, while on the down side, the trip for the boy's team was dashed due to injuries.

The girls, with Dana Cabiness, Olga Alaniz, Yolanda Alaniz, Kellie Howell, Deborah Rogers, Allyson Thomas and Linda Sermino competing, finished in second with a total of 54 points to earn their first ever trip to the regional competition.

Cabbiness crossed the tape in sixth place, with other finishes being ninth, 10th, 13th, 19th, 20th and 22nd.

Carrasco, who has run better and better each week according to Coach Martha Emerson, finished in third place overall, to land one of the individual spots for the regional race.

For the boys, the other runners were Edward Flores in 12th, George Arroyos in 15th, Eliseo Rameriz in 18th, Cesar Valdez in 19th; Chris Kahlich in 21st and Kyle Schuder in 27th. This year turned out to be one of 'what if' for the boys as they constantly fought off the injury bug to keep competing. The final blow came with a thigh injury to senior captain Arroyos, which kept him from practicing and running at his best.

Prior to the injury, Arroyos had the second best time in the district, but finished in 15th for the district run.

"We can compete this coming week in the regional meet," Emerson said. "The girls are running pretty good right now, and if we can get some good practice in, well you never know."

Cabbiness, who has run a sub 13 minute two mile twice this year will have to duplicate the event, as well as some of the other runners if Hereford wants to make the trip to the state meet in Austin.

"Our plan for the regional meet is to just have everybody run their best race ever on this course, (Lubbock) and let the places take care of themselves," Coach Emerson said. "To qualify as a team we would have to have everyone on the team get under 13 minutes, and I just don't know if we can."

Carrasco on the other hand, will have a tough time making the trip to Austin since the qualifying will have to be on an individual basis only. To go to state, he will have to be one of the top ten runners to finish, and this year harbors some excellent talent in the El Paso schools.

"Fernando will have to run around 16 minutes or better for the three mile course if he wants a shot at the state meet," Emerson said. "I think he can do that, but he will have to really run his best."

The regional meet will have the girls running at 9:30 Saturday morning, with the boys to follow at 10:30.

YMCA Co-ed Volleyball Has Catholics Topping Divisions

After four weeks of the first half of the YMCA sponsored co-ed volleyball league, the three teams of St. Anthony's church have a decisive monopoly on the top sports of the standings.

In the two divisions, the teams coached by Larry Alley and Jeff Loerwald lead one, while the team coached by Dale Smith leads the other division.

Other teams to post winning records include the Bob Wagner-coached First Presbyterian with a 3-1 mark, while in the bottom group, the First Baptist Church is in second place with a 3-1 mark.

There are 13 teams in this half of the league which will end its season November 19. Following the regular games, a tournament will be conducted to determine the champion.

Weldon Knabe, executive director of the 'Y', which is a part of United Way, said that there were 123 adults participating in the league. Play for the teams is on Monday and Thursday nights at Shirley gym.

Each team is sponsored by a local church, with the members of the team being a member of the church or of a church that does not offer a team. Churches in the league include First Presbyterian, First Nazarene, Central Church of Christ, Avenue Baptist, St. Anthony's, Faith Assembly of God, First Baptist and Trinity Baptist.

The Catholics have the most teams with three, while the Presbyterians have two, as do the Nazarenes and Church of Christ.

If a team is interested in getting into the league for the second half of play, contact the YMCA at 364-6990 or go by the office at Sugarland Mall.

Uh, Where's The Ball

Confusion seems to be the order of the day for the St. Anthony's team coached by Dale Smith in the YMCA volleyball league. A set to the front line appears to have eluded the team as they play in the co-ed action. Although confused on this play, the team is doing the confusing as they lead their division with a perfect 4-0 record.

Saber Incident Draws Apology

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M University officials and student leaders apologized Monday to Southern Methodist University for an incident Saturday where an Aggie cadet waved his saber at SMU cheerleaders.

Col. James Woodall, Corps of Cadets commandant, also announced that cadet officers of the day will no longer wear sabers at football games.

Woodall said new regulations will be implemented to reduce the possibilities for any such future incidents.

It was an officer of the day — who traditionally is responsible for keeping A&M students clear of the field — who pulled his saber to get the cheerleaders to leave.

Texas A&M President Frank E. Vandiver said he is sending a letter of apology to Dr. Don Shields, SMU president.

"We deplore the regrettable behavior exhibited at the football game Saturday," Dr. Vandiver emphasized, "and it certainly is not indicative of the normally exemplary conduct of our fine student body."

Dr. John Koldus, Texas A&M's vice president for student services, said he also is sending a letter of apology, along with one from Cadet Colonel of the Corps Kelly Castleberry, A&M's top-ranked cadet.

Koldus said a formal hearing has been initiated as a result of the incident and will be carried out in accordance with prescribed university procedures.

The incident occurred when SMU cheerleaders went on the playing field during the game. Such action violates a Texas A&M policy stipulating that only players, officials, performing bands and A&M yell leaders are permitted on the playing field during a game.

SMU representatives were reminded of that policy in preparation for the game, Koldus said, but the cheerleaders' action certainly did not warrant the resulting response.

Dodger's Steve Yeager Accepts MVP Award For Cey And Guerrero

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent

Three talented Dodgers. See how they run. See how they hit. See how they fly. See how they don't fly. As a result, only one of the three who were named to share the Series MVP award showed up to claim the prize.

Third baseman Ron "The Penguin" Cey stayed home. Doesn't want to him to take chances with the head that caught one of Goose Gosage's 94-mph scorches on the helmet in Game 5.

Outfielder Pedro Guerrero flew all the way to his home in the Dominican Republic where he became involved in an automobile accident that prevented a continuing flight to New York.

So, veteran catcher Steve Yeager was left to accept the honors, not for just himself but also his teammates, at Sport Magazine's annual presentation ceremonies at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

All three got wrist watches as well as handsome gold trophies — symbolizing the top performances of the 1981 World Series in which the Dodgers upset the New York Yankees, four games to two.

The prize until recent years used to be expensive sport cars. Such would have been economically unfeasible this year when the MVP vote of writers resulted in a first-time triple tie.

So we're left with one Dodger, Yeager. Hear how he talks.

First of all, he said he owes his share of the MVP award to a bunch of Yankees — Ron Guidry, Tommy John, Rudy May, Dave LaRoche and Dave Righetti.

"Thank God, the Yankees had a lot of left-handers," said the 32-year-old receiver, aware that had it not been for that fact, he probably would not have been in the lineup.

During the season, Yeager appeared in only 42 games, going to bat only 86 times, knocking in only seven runs and finishing with a batting average of .209. He was a rarely used stand-in for the younger Mike Scioscia.

Scioscia, 10 years younger almost to the day, hit .276 during the season, batting left-handed. Yeager hits from the right side, thus Manager Tom Lasorda's decision to go with percentages.

Yeager batted .286, got the game-winning RBI in two games including a home run, and a game-tying hit in another. His overall average for World Series play is .298 with four home runs and 10 RBI.

Yeager, a loose, friendly man with hair hanging down the back of his neck and peering at his audience through tinted spectacles, praised his missing teammates.

"Ron showed a lot of courage, coming back to play after he was hit," he said, adding that Guerrero and the rest of the Dodgers displayed character in struggling from behind to win all the post-season series.

Yeager disputed the contention that the Dodgers beat a bumbling, inferior Yankee team, agreeing with Steve Garvey that the Los Angeles won the World Series, that New York didn't blow it.

"We beat a good ballclub," he said. "They were tough to get out."

Scrimmage Gives First Look Of Girl Cagers

Up and In

Lori Albracht puts up an outside shot in the scrimmage Monday night against the Dimmitt Bobbies. Albracht, along with the other varsity members went three quarters against the Dimmitt team as well as three quarters against the defending Class A state champions Nazareth. (Brand Photo by Marc Herring)

"I'm glad that we got the chance to scrimmage" was the thought of head basketball coach Larry Sowers, after the unveiling Monday of the 1981-82 edition of the girls basketball team showed some bright spots as well as problems.

"We had been working in practice all along with playing in a zone situation on offense and last night all we saw was man-to-man, Coach Sowers said. "We will really have to do some work on playing against a man defense if we want to play as well as we're capable."

The new edition of the Whitefaces, who have big shoes to fill since last year's squad compiled an impressive 24-5 record, faced the defending Class A state champions, Nazareth, and Dimmitt in a controlled scrimmage at the La Plata gym.

This year's team shows more height than last year's as Amy Schumacher, Joyce High, Lori Albracht, Cathy Lane and Deborah Rogers filled the five starting spots. Schumacher, Albracht and Lane were all starters from last year's team.

Other varsity members include Stephanie Foster, Sheri Ellis, Staci Rhodes, Angela White, Cheryl Walterscheid and Gail Bartles. Kerri

Walterscheid, who is out with a knee injury, is also listed as a member of the Herd.

"We didn't look particularly impressive," Sowers said. "I don't know if it was my fault, or the girls for not being ready, but the Nazareth team just wore us out. Of course they are a very good team, and are returning three from last year's state championship team."

"We will need to work some more on the man-to-man offense, but most of the teams that we face in non-district run the zone, while all of the district teams run a man defense, so we will just have to work both into our workouts."

The scrimmage format had each team face each other three times for a 10-minute quarter. In scoring terms, the Whitefaces came out on top of the Dimmitt squad everytime, but came up short each time against the Swifts.

"Some of our problem is that we have not been able to have everyone in the gym, since sickness and injuries have kept one or the other out," Sowers said. "With everyone healthy now, we can start working more together."

The Whitefaces will travel to Levelland next Tuesday to face Levelland and Dimmitt in another scrimmage. The following Tuesday will see the Herd open season play, facing a tough Amarillo High team, one that won their district last year.

"We expect the Sandies to run a zone-type defense, so we want to keep working against that, but we have to be prepared to go against a man defense, just in case," Sowers said.

The team will open with three home games before going on the road for the first time against Pampa, November 24.

New District Includes Amarillo Schools

Realignment Seen As Satisfactory For Hereford

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

With the announcement that Hereford, along with the rest of the current District 4-5A schools, will join the four Amarillo 5A schools in a new District 3-5A next year, Hereford head coach and athletic director Don Cump-ton looks for the new loop to be very competitive.

"I think it'll be alright for us," Cump-ton said Monday. "I think it will help us not only in football, but in all sports as well it should be a good, competitive district."

The University Interscholastic League (UIL) announced its latest realignment of districts Monday, placing all of what is now District 4-5A in the same loop with the current District 3-5A, minus the Pampa Harvesters, who have been moved down to Class 4A, and have been placed in District 1-4A along with Berger, Brownfield, Canyon Dumas, Levelland, Lubbock Dunbar and Lubbock Estacado.

Other Panhandle area teams changing classification for the 1982-83 school year include Canadian, from District 2-2A to 1-3A; Phillips, from 1-2A to 1-1A; and Vega, from 3-2A to 2-1A.

All classifications are based on enrollment figures for the 1979-and 1980-81 school years, and will remain in effect for two years.

Combining the two 5A districts in the Panhandle came as no surprise to Cump-ton. "We had received indications that this is the way they were going to go," he said.

In fact, the schools involved had already met concerning the probable change, and had already drawn for schedules for next year's football campaign. Cump-ton said the new scheduling and alignment will be verified by the schools concerned at a meeting tomorrow morning in Plain-view.

Beginning with the 1982-83 school year the playoff setup will change to allow two teams from each district to enter the playoffs.

Cump-ton, as most of the area coaches, liked the new format. "The way they have it set up; with the top two teams from each district going to the playoffs, it puts you in the position where if you lose even two district games you're still not out of the race," he said. "I think it will keep everybody involved longer and keep interest at a peak."

The HHS mentor added that teams from the same district would not meet before the quarter-final round if they both made it that far.

"As it is now in a small district if you lose one you're out of it," Cump-ton said. "We found that out last year, and some other people are finding it out this year."

The Whitefaces will be playing virtually the same teams next year as this year, with the main difference being Amarillo Caprock, the only team in the new alignment that the Herd hasn't been playing the past few years.

Cump-ton said the new lineup will change basketball schedules considerably, however. "In the past we haven't started district play until late January. Now, we will have to begin probably just after Christmas," he said.

With a 9-team district all loop members will have a non-district game the first week of play, and then will have an additional open date for another non-loop contest sometime during the rest of the season. Teams which draw the second open date late in the year may have trouble finding another team to play, leaving some of the teams with the probability with having just nine games on their slate.

The open date positions will be verified at the meeting tomorrow morning in Plain-view. Cump-ton, while refusing to officially say that the Whitefaces had drawn the earliest open date next year, said that the Herd had drawn a "good" schedule.

HISD Superintendent Dr. Harrell Holder also indicated last week that Hereford had drawn an attractive schedule for next year.

Following is a partial list of districts involving area schools:

CLASS 5A

District 3-Hereford, Plain-view, Amarillo High, Amarillo Caprock, Amarillo Palo Duro, Amarillo Tascosa, Lubbock High, Lubbock Monterey, Lubbock Coronado.

District 4-Abilene, Abilene Cooper, Big Spring, Odessa High, Odessa Permian,

Grasmick Wins

Herbert Grasmick, 115 Juniper took top prize in The Hereford Brand Football Contest last week with three misses and a guess of 34 points on the tie-breaker score. His effort gets the $25 top prize.

Not far behind is a repeat winner of previous weeks, Dr. H.R. Johnson, also with three misses but with a tie-breaker guess of 31 points, just one point behind Grasmick. Third prize goes to Bobbie Nunley, who just edged out Joani Kalka on the tie-breaker score. Both also missed three games. Nunley guessed 41 points while Kalka picked 44 points. The actual total score of the NY Jets-NY Giants game was 33 points. Nunley gets the $10 and Kalka gets honors.

Entrants missing only four games were Debbie Hampton, Joaquin Gamez, Larry Wartes, Danny Boyer, Pat Goforth, Darwin Manning, Leland Shelton, John Stagner, Marie Cogdell, Bobbie Kitchens, Jim McNaney, all of Hereford, and Eddie Thompson of Bushland.

Keep the entries coming. A new contest appears in today's Brand.

Denver Broncos Hang Onto 19-17 Victory

By JOHN MOSSMAN AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — A 19-3 lead with 8½ minutes remaining ought to be safe, and the Denver Broncos apparently thought so, too.

But they hadn't taken into account the Minnesota Vikings' two-minute offense, which produced two quick touchdowns in the closing minutes and nearly a winning field goal. But when Rick Danmeier's long field-goal try fell short on the final play, the Broncos escaped with a 19-17 National Football League victory Monday night.

"You have to wind up and hit it just right, and I just didn't kick it far enough," said Danmeier.

Danmeier's chance for a winning boot was made possible by an ill-advised decision by Denver Coach Dan Reeves, who ordered his team to go for a first down on fourth-and-one at the Bronco 40 with three minutes remaining. "I may have done some stupider things in my life, but I must have been real little when I did them," said Reeves. "Thank God it didn't cost us the game."

Minutes earlier, the Vikings, using a hurry-up, no-huddle offense, had scored to draw within 19-10.

Reeves' decision backfired as fullback Larry Canada was stopped for no gain by defensive end Randy Holloway. Two plays later, the Vikings made it 19-17 on Tony Galbreath's second TD of the quarter.

The Vikings got the ball one more time with 2:09 left. With Tommy Kramer finding, the open receiver repeatedly, they drove to the Bronco 26. On third down, Ted Brown was dumped for a 2-yard loss by Denver cornerback Perry Smith, and Danmeier came on for the 46-yard field goal effort, which fell about 5 yards short.

Smith, who started the game in place of Louis Wright who had suffered a strained calf muscle in pre-game warm-ups, said he was just trying to make a solid tackle on Brown's run. "On something like that, you either make it or miss it. I made it."

"We were surprised they went into the hurry-up offense so early. We couldn't get set on defense, and they hurt us."

The first half ended in a 3-3 tie as Danmeier and Fred Steinfert traded field goals. Denver went ahead 6-3 midway through the third period when Steinfert, mired in a season-long slump, connected from 49 yards out.

After a Minnesota fumble at the Denver 6, the Broncos marched 94 yards for the game's first touchdown, which came on Rob Lytle's 5-yard run with 10:16 left. Three plays later, cornerback Aaron Kyle intercepted, setting up Craig Morton's 15-yard TD pass to Steve Watson with 8:32 left.

The Vikings then staged their furious rally. "We knew our only chance was to put the ball in the end zone quick," said Kramer of the decision to go to the two-minute drill so early. "We were trying to get it close enough to kick a field goal at the end, but Denver has a very fine defense."

The victory raised Denver's record to 6-3, while Minnesota dropped to 5-4.

Baseball Free Agents

Include Yank's Jackson

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

Major league baseball teams in need of a seasoned slugger now can contemplate Reggie Jackson.

Those seeking a veteran starting pitcher can include Ray Burris in their considerations. For those who covet a reliever, there's Sid Monge.

Those three, plus seven others, declared their free agency Monday, serving notice they intend to go through the re-entry draft on Nov. 13. Any player who has declared his free agency — there are 29 so far — can sign with his old team until midnight Nov. 10 or after the draft. In the meantime, he can talk to any other team, but not about money.

Jackson, 35, is going the free agent route for the second time. After playing out his contract with Baltimore in 1976, Jackson signed a five-year, $2.9 million contract with the Yankees. In his stormy stint with New York — he has had run-ins with former

New York Manager Billy Martin, team owner George Steinbrenner and Yankees third baseman Graig Nettles, among others — Jackson helped the team to three pennants and two World Series titles.

He had his worst season as a Yankee this year, hitting .237 with 15 home runs and 54 runs-batted-in. Steinbrenner has never indicated whether he is serious about re-signing Jackson and has not talked contract with his right fielder since spring training.

Also opting for free agency Monday were Montreal right-hander Burris; Cleveland left-hander Monge; righties Larry Christenson of Philadelphia and Jesse Jefferson of California; outfielders Jeff Burroughs of Seattle and Tom Poquette of Texas, and infielders Ron Jackson of Detroit and Bert Campaneris of California.

Jackson and Campaneris do not carry a professional compensation price tag because they are second-time free agents. Infielder Bobby Grich of California, outfielder Joe Rudi and pitcher Bill Campbell of the Bronx also are going to the re-entry draft for the second time so the team which signs them will not be required to compensate the club which loses them.

Jackson is the second key Yankee signifier his intention to go for free agency. Left-handed starter Ron Guidry filed last week.

Guidry would require compensation under the terms of the agreement which ended the 50-day players' strike this summer. Premium players, as defined by a complicated mathematical formula worked out during the strike, require their former clubs to be given a replacement player from a draft pool stocked by major league clubs which participate in the draft.

One player who decided not to become a free agent is Phil Garner, who signed a three-year contract on Monday for an estimated $1.8 million with Houston. Garner, 32, was traded to the Astros by Pittsburgh late in the season.

Pittsburgh Panthers Move Into Number 1 Spot, Penn State Drops After Loss

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Panthers moved into the No. 1 position today in The Associated Press college football poll, the first time in the poll's 46-year history that six teams have held the top spot in a single season.

Michigan, Notre Dame, Southern California, Texas and Penn State also have been No. 1 this season, but failed to hold the lead. The years with five No. 1 teams were 1950, 1958, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1965 and 1977.

Penn State was the latest No. 1 team to fall, losing 17-14 Saturday to Miami of Florida. That opened the door for Pitt, a 29-24 winner over Boston College, to move up from second place. The Panthers received 49 of 65 first-place votes and 1,283 of a possible 1,300 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

This week's poll is the 500th, not counting preseason polls, since The AP ratings began in 1936.

Last week, it was Iowa State, Nebraska, SMU, Washington State, Michigan, Iowa, Florida State, Washington, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Iowa State dropped out of the Top Twenty by losing to Kansas State 10-7. Washington State was bumped out by Southern Cal and Iowa fell out after a 24-7 loss to Illinois.

Replacing them are Miami, Ohio State and Southern Mississippi. Miami, which was as high as 13th earlier in the year, returned after defeating Penn State. Ohio State, which had been as high as seventh, had been out of the rankings for three weeks.

But the Buckeyes made it back with a 45-33 triumph over Purdue.

Southern Mississippi, which blanked North Texas State 22-0, made it for the first time this season. The Golden Eagles have a 6-0-1 record, the only blemish being a 13-13 tie with Alabama. The Top Twenty teams in

The Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season's record and total points. Points based on 20-19-18-17-16-15-14-13-12-11-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Thurman Feels Eagles After Him

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Dennis Thurman says he will probably be a marked man when the Dallas Cowboys and Philadelphia Eagles tangle again Dec. 13 in Texas Stadium.

The Cowboys' cornerback knocked Eagle wide receiver Harold Carmichael out of a game last year to end his 127-game reception streak. Thurman decked quarterback Ron Jaworski Sunday in Dallas' 17-14 National Football League victory and was flagged for spearing with his helmet. Jaworski left the game in the fourth quarter with sore ribs and a bruised left arm and did not return.

"I probably will be (picked on) by the Eagles...they'll probably try to get me on the specialty teams," said Thurman Monday.

"I didn't know tackling with the helmet was illegal...but if I had to do it again under the same circumstances I would probably have done the same thing," Thurman said. Thurman tackled Jaworski just after he threw downfield. "I'm not a dirty player," said Thurman. "Everybody knows that...I didn't mean to hurt Ron. I sent word with a couple of Eagle players that I was worried about Ron."

Jaworski said after the game. "I don't know if the hit he put on me was late or not...I don't worry about the hits. They're part of the game."

Thurman also knocked running back Wilbert Montgomery down near the sidelines on a tackle the Eagles thought was late.
