

Reagan Challenges Soviets To Curtail Nuclear Arms

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan challenged the Soviet Union today to take "a giant step for mankind" by joining the United States in a sweeping reduction of nuclear and conventional arms in Europe and around the world.

In a speech televised live to Europe and the United States, Reagan said he is prepared to cancel deployment of Pershing II and ground-launched cruise missiles to NATO forces if the Soviets dismantle their SS-20, SS-4 and SS-5 missiles.

"This would be an historic step," Reagan said. "With Soviet agreement, we could together substantially reduce the dread threat of nuclear war which hangs over the people of Europe."

"This, like the first footstep on the moon, would be a giant step for mankind."

In a speech that went beyond the strategic situation in Europe, Reagan also said:

—He had instructed Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. to discuss the timing of U.S.-Soviet negotiations on strategic weapons as soon as possible next year. Reagan said he had told Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev "that we will seek to negotiate substantial reductions in nuclear arms which would result in levels that are equal and verifiable."

—The Soviet Union has been asked to help reduce the levels of conventional military forces in Europe. "The Soviet Union could make no more convincing contribution to peace in Europe — and in the world — than by agreeing to reduce its conventional forces significantly and constrain the potential for sudden aggression," Reagan said.

—Brezhnev also has been asked to send Soviet representatives to a new proposed conference to develop ways to "reduce the risks of surprise attacks" by enhancing stability and security in Europe.

"All of these proposals are based on the same fair-minded principles: substantial, militarily significant reductions in forces, equal ceilings for similar types of forces, and adequate provisions for verification," the president said in a prepared speech before the National Press Club.

Said Reagan: "My administration, my country and I are committed to achieving arms reductions agreements based on these principles. Today I have outlined the kinds of bold, equitable proposals which the world expects of us. "But we cannot reduce arms unilaterally. Success can only come if the Soviet Union will share our commitment; if it will demonstrate that its often-repeated professions of concern for peace will be matched by positive action."

Even before Reagan's speech, some U.S. officials predicted privately that the offer would be rejected by the Soviets. (See CHALLENGE, Page 2A)

Reagan Said Losing Footing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan may be losing his footing as the king of Capitol Hill, with Republicans and Democrats alike acknowledging that it will be harder for him to gain further congressional victories on his economic program.

"You can only march the troops to the trenches so much," said Republican Rep. Silvio Conte of Massachusetts.

Conte was one of 18 House Republicans who helped defeat a move Monday to cut 5 percent from a continuing spending resolution that Reagan's congressional allies say is over budget and could face a presidential veto.

Reagan actually asked for 12 percent cuts but relented Tuesday and said he would take 5 percent. But that move fared no better in the Republican-run Senate Appropriations Committee, which refused to trim even 2 percent.

"A lot of them want to show their independence," Conte said of the House

Republicans who voted against the cut. "They feel they've been pulled around by the nose enough. There was a strong feeling out there that...we've done our job" by supporting the first round of budget cuts.

"We're back to normal now," House Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas said. "The significant difference was not that we lost 29 Democrats — that's par for the course — but rather that Republicans lost 18 of theirs. They did not march with that lock-step precision" seen in earlier votes.

Rep. Harold Hollenbeck, R-N.J., who sided with the Democrats on the key vote, said it was going to be far more difficult to keep a united Republican front than (See FOOTING, Page 2A)

Hospital Revenues Reportedly On Rise

Revenues are up, according to the financial report of the Deaf Smith General Hospital.

The hospital reported an $18,374 of revenue over expenses for the month. Jim Bullard, administrator, said the report was "real encouraging to us" since the hospital has been operating in a deficit the past few months.

Bullard said due to his staff's management the hospital has been able to come out of the slump despite the low hospital census. The census averaged 37 for the month, about three below the break-even point.

Bullard said at Monday's meeting the board reviewed an audit which examined the hospital's resuscitation and emergency rescue skills.

Bullard said the board also heard about the prospect of two doctors moving to Hereford. The physicians will be in town during December to tour.

Senate Panel Ignoring Pleas for Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is ignoring President Reagan's efforts "to meet Congress halfway" on his proposed budget cuts, increasing the likelihood that he will veto a multibillion-dollar emergency spending bill.

"Excessive appropriations measures simply cannot be tolerated — not now nor in the future," Reagan declared Tuesday in a letter to Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee.

Reagan said he was "prepared to meet Congress halfway" and accept a 5 percent across-the-board spending reduction instead of the 12 percent he originally requested.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, however, totally ignored the president's conciliatory gesture. Instead, the panel rejected, 18-8, a proposal to cut spending by 2 percent. That would have saved as much as $9 billion from a measure estimated to cost $415.3 billion.

The committee's approval of the massive spending bill, needed to keep the government from technically running out of money over the weekend, cleared the way for action by the full Senate today.

The House on Monday turned down a Republican-led move to reduce spending by 5 percent when it passed its own $440 billion version of the measure, which must be enacted by midnight Friday to keep the government running.

Congressional Democrats and Republicans alike have said they expect Reagan to veto the bill when it reaches his desk, probably Friday.

"The clear signal from the administration now is they want to veto this thing," said one Republican source, who asked not to be identified.

There was general agreement in Congress that the president has the strength to sustain a veto.

The chairman of the Senate panel, Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said that if Reagan vetoes the measure, Congress "will have to stay in session...around the clock" rather than taking its scheduled Thanksgiving recess late this week.

At issue is "a stopgap measure that will allow the government to spend money through the end of the fiscal year past Sept. 30, or until the regular bills which provide money for the federal government are passed."

Texas Water Development Board Wants Federal Clean-Up Help

By JACK KEEVER Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Water Development Board has decided to seek nearly $2.5 million from the federal government to devise plans for cleaning up three industrial waste sites, including a Harris County tract that was acquired in 1967 for a state park.

The board's staff report indicated two of the sites in Crosby, Harris County, could contaminate the San Jacinto River and the third — near Dallas — might threaten Mountain Creek.

C.R. Miertschin, director of enforcement and field operations division, said, "The Environmental Protection Agency is encouraging the states to take the lead" in cleaning up industrial dumps. "We can reduce the completion time and overall costs," Miertschin told the board.

Harry Whitworth, a lawyer for the Texas Chemical Council, joined the board's staff in recommending approval of the applications for federal funds.

"The public pressure is such that the work will be done," Whitworth said. "The only question to be resolved is whether the state will take the lead in this or the federal government."

The money for feasibility studies on cleaning up the waste sites would come from the EPA's "Superfund."

Studies of each waste site would determine the extent of contamination and the best options for cleaning them up.

The applications included: — $328,000 for the abandoned Bio-Ecology Systems, Inc., site at Grand Prairie. The 11.2-acre tract was authorized in 1972 by the Texas Water Quality Board, which later found that Bio-Ecology was violating its permit. Following litigation with the state, Bio-Ecology filed bankruptcy proceedings in 1978, according to the board's staff.

Shallow ground water is being contaminated, the staff said, and additional wastes "have been dumped on the property which are subject to 'wash off' during major rainfall... into Mountain Creek." — $1,669,000 for the Sikes pits on 25 acres north of Texas 90 and southeast of Jackson Gulley in Crosby. During the late 1960s and early 1970s, the staff said, the

Private Investors Wanting Shuttle

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A group of private investors has approached the Reagan administration to propose buying a space shuttle in what would mark the beginning of major private-sector involvement in the nation's space program, one person involved in the venture says.

Officials at the Space Transportation Co. of Princeton, N.J., want to buy a shuttle similar to the Columbia and rent it out to an operator — either the National Aeronautics and Space Administration or a private entity, the Dallas Morning News reported today.

"Essentially, there are a lot of people paying a lot of money for satellites to do what a shuttle can do cheaper," said William H. Sword Jr., who with his father is part of a Princeton investment firm organizing the planned venture.

"We think private business will be able to handle all that future business more efficiently than the government," the younger Sword told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from his home in Cranbury, N.J. today.

"Personally, I have for a long, long time felt that private commitment of funds for space is the key to the success of the U.S. space program," the Dallas newspaper quoted Dr. Klaus Heiss as saying. He is guiding the company's effort to purchase a shuttle.

The firm recently presented its proposal to the administration's science adviser, George Keyworth, who heads a federal study on long-range space policy, the News said.

"We think now, particularly in the current budget environment, that private financing is a key symbol, and in fact, more than a symbol, of space policy in the 1980s," said Heiss, who directed economic studies from 1969 to 1971 leading to the original shuttle program.

The shuttle purchase "is feasible and we want to seriously, quietly and diligently pursue whether... the administration and the aerospace community and the financial community can be persuaded that indeed that is a viable option," he added.

Government officials would not comment on the proposal, other than to say discussions did take place between the company and members of the government's office of science and technology policy.

Friday Deadline On Grid Ducats

Hereford Whiteface fans have until 4 p.m. Friday to purchase advance tickets to the Herd's bi-district clash with Palo Duro Saturday according to HESD Assistant Superintendent Larry Wartes.

Wartes said the tickets cost $3 for adults and $1.50 for students prior to the game, and can be purchased at Troy's Sweet Shop. All tickets after the deadline must be purchased at the gate Saturday at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium in Canyon, and will cost $4 each for both students and adults.

The 10-0 'Faces will tangle with the Dons at 2 p.m. Saturday in the first round of the state football playoffs.

Cowgirl HOF Sets Open House Sunday

The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center will hold an open house of its newly-acquired home in North Hereford from 1-5 p.m. Sunday.

The public is invited to stop by the structure at 515 Ave. B, recently donated to the hall by Marsh and Debbie Pittman.

"The Hall of Fame will not be moved to the new location until after the first of the year, but because of interest expressed in this gift to the hall, the board of directors decided to show the home before the official opening next Spring," HOF president Margaret Formby said.

The 6,000-square foot showplace, located on three acres of land, will replace the Hall's current headquarters located in the basement of the county library.

Over 2,800 people have visited the Hall of Fame over the past year. The Hall features exhibits on 41 women that have been enshrined into the Hall since its inception.

Realtor Banquet Slated Tomorrow

Melvin Jayroe will be installed as the president of the Hereford Board of Realtors when the realtors hold their Annual Banquet at 7:30 Thursday night at the Hereford Country Club. Jayroe will be installed by outgoing board president Mark Andrews.

Jayroe, owner of Top Properties, Inc., of Hereford, is the Region I Vice President of the Texas Association of Realtors. He will install the additional new local officers, which include Lloyd Sharp, vice president; Carolyn Gallagher, secretary-treasurer; and Charlie Hill, director.

Other outgoing officers include Jerry Hardin, vice president; Brenda Parks, secretary-treasurer; and Billie Sonnenberg and Jim Mercer, directors.

Artist Kenneth Wyatt, of Tulla, also known as an outstanding humorist, will be the featured speaker at the banquet. Various awards will be represented at the affair, including the prestigious "Realtor of the Year" award, won last year by Betty Gilbert.

Fun Breakfast Features Wares

Hereford merchants get the chance to display their Christmas wares early again this year at the Deaf Smith

Breakfast beginning at 8:30 a.m. Thursday at the community center.

The third annual special breakfast attracts a large crowd each year. "This particular breakfast has really grown the past two years," Chamber exec Mike Carr said. "We hope many of our merchants will take part as they have in the past."

Co-mcees Doug Manning and Lynton Allred will be on hand to direct the program for the breakfast, including the presentation of the "Bull Chip of the Year" award.

In addition, the usual drawings for Deaf Smith County Bucks will be held. Available are $225 dollars in the chamber members drawing, and $100 in two separate drawings for all those in attendance.

Some of the merchants with displays will also conduct drawings for various items of merchandise.

Four new directors have been elected to the 1982 board. They include Danny Boyer, Irene McKinster, Bobby Owen and John Stagner.

Reporters Chased

With Shotgun

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Houston Chronicle newsmen investigating the source of a last-minute campaign accusation told police they were chased from a yard by a man firing a shotgun Tuesday. No one was hurt.

Reporter Raul Reyes and photographer Buster Dean had gone to a residence in the exclusive River Oaks area in hopes of finding out who sent more than 100,000 Western Union Mailgrams on Monday.

The letters, which cost more than $200,000 to send, accused Controller Kathy Whitmire, a runoff candidate for mayor, of embracing strong sympathies with the gay community.

Mrs. Whitmire's opponent, Sheriff Jack Heard, denied any connection with the Mailgrams, which were signed only "Concerned Houston Citizens." District Attorney John Holmes said they may be a violation of a state campaign law against "dirty tricks."

Officials Not Sure

Why Rig Caught Fire

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Officials at a gas processing plant say they don't know what caused a tractor-trailer rig to catch fire, seriously burning the driver.

William Marc Davidson Jr., 27, of Marshall was transferred to Parkland Hospital's burn unit in Dallas after being initially treated at a Longview hospital, police said. He was listed in serious condition late Tuesday night.

Davidson, who works for Arkla, was loading natural gas condensate into the 6,500-gallon trailer at the company's Willow Springs plant when the fire began just before 5 a.m. Tuesday, plant superintendent W.T. Friday said.

Friday said Davidson jumped out of the truck when the fire started but didn't make it out in time to keep from being burned.

"I've been working around plants like this since 1947 and it's the first time I've seen a fire. It's just a freak accident," said an Arkla spokesman in Longview who asked not to be identified. "There's no way of telling at this time what caused it."

Limestone To Be Used As Coal Scrubber

HOUSTON (AP) — A newly announced process will allow plants to use limestone to remove sulfur from coal rather than expensive, inefficient scrubbers in exhaust stacks, officials of two firms say.

Spokesmen for Conoco Coal Development Co. and Stone & Webster Engineering Corp. said Tuesday the idea has been tested successfully and will be installed in a Conoco chemical complex in Lake Charles, La.

"The major benefits of this process are its flexibility and control of the steam output," said Ben Johnson of Stone & Webster, the exclusive licensor of the new technology. "It can be turned up or down depending on demand just like a gas or oil-fired boiler."

In the process, called solids circulation fluidized-bed combustion, sulfur is removed and recovered during combustion. In a conventional coal-burning plant, sulfur is removed by scrubbers installed in the exhaust gas stacks.

Suspect Arrested

In Infant Abduction

UNIVERSITY PARK, Texas (AP) — Police say a tip last week led to the arrest of a woman accused of abducting an 8-month-old boy when she pushed his mother out of her car and drove off as the screaming woman clung to the car door.

Inell Josephine Sutton was arrested Tuesday in connection with the kidnapping and a related shoplifting incident, said University Park Police Chief David Beidelman.

She remained in city jail after being arraigned before Peace Justice Fletcher Freeman, who set bond at $50,000 on the aggravated kidnapping charge and $1,500 on the theft charge.

Beidelman said Ms. Sutton was arrested Tuesday morning by officers who were waiting for her to return to her south Dallas home. He said police received a tip about the suspect last Friday.

"We received some information as to who the (tipster) thought the person was," Beidelman said. "It gave us something to go on and it got hotter and led to the arrest this morning."

The child, Jeffrey Smith Doggett, was found unharmed five hours after being abducted Nov. 11.

Houston Elects First Woman Mayor In Runoff Tuesday

HOUSTON (AP) — Kathy Whitmire, a petite accountant who drew support from moderates, liberals, blacks, and gays, won a decisive victory to serve as Houston's first woman mayor Tuesday.

The 35-year-old widow won 62.5 percent of the vote to defeat Sheriff Jack Heard in a runoff election victory hailed as a "new day for Houston."

She harped on her campaign promise to run Houston like a business and referred to that promise in her victory statement, vowing "to bring a better quality of life into every neighborhood in the city of Houston."

"It was so many months ago when we started planning this effort," the bespectacled, 5-foot-1-inch winner told 1,200 jubilant supporters. "So many people said, 'You can't do this. It won't work.' But the faithful grew and grew and I am proud of all of you."

She relied heavily on volunteers and spent less than half the $1.5 million spent by the Heard campaign.

"This is a new day for Houston," said Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, who watched returns come in from the Whitmire campaign headquarters. "I think the nation is going to know who the mayor of Houston is."

When she is sworn in in January, Mrs. Whitmire will join Jane Byrne of Chicago and Dianne Feinstein of San Francisco as other women mayors of major U.S. cities. Houston is the nation's fifth largest city with a population of more than 1,594,000.

In final returns, Mrs. Whitmire won 170,772 votes to Heard's 102,385. She scored most heavily in black precincts where she got more than 90 percent of the vote.

Mrs. Whitmire was endorsed by the Gay Political Caucus and took 88 percent of the vote in Houston's Montrose neighborhood, where there is a heavy concentration of homosexual residents.

Heard, 63, a career law enforcement officer who appealed more to conservatives and vowed to get tough with criminals, won in affluent white precincts, where he was given 56.3 percent of the vote.

The sheriff conceded the race shortly before 9 p.m. CST and telephoned congratulations to Mrs. Whitmire. In the Nov. 3 election Mrs. Whitmire got 36 percent to Heard's 24 percent. Together, they ousted incumbent Jim McConn, who was accused of cronyism and losing control of the Sun Belt boom town's explosive growth during his two two-year terms in office.

Mrs. R.L. Wilson, left, and Mrs. R.L. Ethridge are shown preparing for the 12th Annual Hereford Garden Club Bazaar, which will be held Friday at Sugarland Mall.

The event, which will run from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., will feature canned and baked goods, silk flowers, potted plants, Christmas items, and white elephant tables.

Challenge

Stratton, R-N.Y., chairman of the House Armed Services subcommittee on military nuclear systems, dismissed it as "a propaganda ploy" to put the Soviets on the defensive in European theater nuclear force negotiations beginning Nov. 30 in Geneva.

All previous arms control agreements have no more than limited increases in nuclear weapons. One U.S. official, asked why the zero option is even being proposed if the Soviets are unlikely to accept it, replied, "To make clear we are willing to go that far."

U.S. negotiators are prepared to discuss other options, including mutual reductions in planned and in-place missiles.

Reflecting the importance placed by the administration on the new strategy, Reagan's speech at the National Press Club was to be beamed live via satellite to European television stations. And most of the cost was to be paid by the U.S. government to help make sure the message reaches the broadest audience possible.

The administration is eager to counter the growing political impact of the European anti-nuclear movement and what U.S. officials see as a Soviet propaganda campaign to play on European worries about nuclear war. The Reagan speech comes four days before a scheduled visit by Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev to the West German capital at Bonn.

Administration officials, asking not to be identified, said the timing was coincidence but one added, "We've been very much aware the trip is taking place."

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt is promoting a Reagan-Brezhnev summit meeting to help clear the air in Europe on nuclear weapons issues. Although administration officials have said such a summit is likely next year, there is no indication Reagan is ready to announce it now.

U.S. arms control officials say they expect the theater force negotiations starting in Geneva to be complex, time consuming and tough.

If the "zero-option" plan fails, a more limited, fallback position is said to include an attempt to win

Soviet acceptance of the planned deployment of 572 American nuclear warheads on Pershing II missiles in exchange for removal of more than 900 Soviet warheads now in place on SS-20, SS-5 and SS-4 missiles.

U.S. officials said that would produce a relative nuclear balance in Europe between the superpowers. And since the United States now has no medium-range nuclear weapons in Europe, any reduction in the Soviet force would be a gain for the West.

Actor Bleeds to Death After Drunken Fall

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor William Holden hit his head on a table after a drunken fall in his apartment, then lay down and bled to death, the coroner reports.

"It may seem strange to us, but the telephone was never picked up," Coroner Thomas Noguchi said Tuesday. "It seemed that Mr. Holden was not aware of the severe injury to himself."

The 63-year-old movie actor, who won an Academy Award for the 1953 film

"Stalag 17" and starred recently in "Network" and "S.O.B.," was found in a pool of blood beside his bed Monday. He had been dead four or five days, Noguchi said.

Noguchi said at a news conference that Holden tripped or slipped on a bedroom throw rug, hit the sharp corner of a night table and began bleeding heavily from a 2½-inch cut on the right side of his forehead.

Noguchi said bloodstains were found on Holden's bed, along with eight to 10 bloodied tissues, indicating that Holden lay down and tried to stem the flow of blood. The coroner estimated that Holden was conscious for five to 10 minutes after falling, and during those few minutes he apparently rolled over and fell off the bed.

He died within a half-hour, Noguchi said. "The actual death was caused by loss of blood," Noguchi said. "There were no other injuries and at present there is no sign of foul play." Officials had said Monday that Holden appeared to have died of natural causes, but a coroner's investigator who asked not to be identified said Tuesday that officials hadn't noticed the forehead gash at first because the body was partially decomposed.

Noguchi said Holden's blood fluid contained .22 percent alcohol, a level that would have required him to drink "eight to 10 shots" of liquor at once, or more over a period of time. In California, an alcohol blood level of .10 percent is enough for a drunk driving arrest.

An empty quart bottle of vodka was found in the kitchen trash can.

Holden apparently was last seen alive by another actor, Glenn Ford, Noguchi said. He declined to comment on the nature of the meeting.

No funeral plans had been announced.

He is survived by two sons, Peter and Scott, from his marriage to actress Brenda Marshall, which ended in divorce. The couple also raised a daughter, Virginia, from Mrs. Holden's previous marriage.

Heroin Lab Run Under Guise Of Construction Company

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A family of alleged narcotics dealers ran a heroin lab in Mexico, celebrated successful deals by getting high on cocaine and used a construction company as a front for the operation, a former insider has testified.

Ricky Lee Bowman, who parted ways with the Montemayor family in 1979, described to a federal court jury Tuesday how his stepfather and other relatives ran heroin, cocaine and marijuana from Mexico into the United States.

"The construction company was used as a cover-up," said Bowman, now a federal informant who said he will get at least $20,000 for his cooperation.

Bowman said his stepfather, Benito Montemayor, took orders for drugs by telephone.

"He would ask, 'How many loads of black dirt do you want?' or 'white sand,' said the 23-year-old high school dropout and former mental patient.

Bowman said "black dirt" meant brown heroin and "white sand" meant white heroin or cocaine.

He testified at a civil trial in which Benito and Matias Montemayor are suing to recover more than $1 million in property seized from their McAllen homes April 28 by federal narcotics agents.

Matias Montemayor is in federal custody on a federal firearms violation. Benito Montemayor has been wanted on a federal cocaine charge since October. Both are Mexican nationals who moved to McAllen in 1978.

Seated with Matias Montemayor during the trial has been Manuel Montemayor, in custody on a cocaine charge. Manuel Montemayor is listed as an officer of Montesa, the Mexican construction company that Bowman alleged was used as a front for drug deals.

Agribusiness Seminar Set

The Sixth Annual Golden Spread Agribusiness Seminar will be held Friday at the Villa Inn, I-40 and Grand, in Amarillo.

Registration is at 8:30 a.m. and the cost will be $15 a person.

Morning speakers begin with Dr. Kenneth Bader, chief executive of the American Soybean Association, who will speak on "Exports: Can We Live Without Them?" He is followed by Dr. Samuel Crul, dean of the college of ag sciences at Texas Tech, who will speak on recent developments in ag research.

Luncheon speaker is Randy Russell, special assistant in the department of economics in the USDA. Russell will discuss the current farm bill.

During the Luncheon the Top Hand award will be given to a lifelong devotee of farming.

Afternoon speakers to Larry McDonald, vice president and manager of the agribusiness loan department of Valley National Bank, Phoenix, Ariz. Joining him is Paul Engler, president of the Cactus Feeders, Inc.

Royce Bodiford, Amarillo Chamber of Commerce vice president, will be mediator for the seminar.

Both sides acknowledge that Southern conservatives, most of whom represent booming economic areas, are more likely to agree with the president on budget cuts than the liberal-to-moderate Republican Gypsy Moths, many of whom represent districts with high unemployment and faltering economies.

Sikes family "allegedly charged $5-$10 per truck to Houston industries for disposal in the sand pits on this tract." Investigators estimate that 15 acres are contaminated with at least six inches of sludge, while 5 acres contains five to 20 feet of waste.

Shallow ground water is being contaminated, the staff said, and "some contaminants have been recorded in adjacent drainage ditches which discharge into the San Jacinto River." Low levels of contaminants have been found in the air.

Bridal Shower

Miss Cummings Honored With Shower Saturday

A Bridal Shower was given Saturday afternoon in the home of Arvilla Lauderback in honor of Georgia Cummings, bride-elect of David Crume. Receiving guests were Miss Cummings; her mother, Mrs. Joe Cummings; her grandmother, Mrs. Frank Cummings of Littlefield; the groom's mother, Mrs. Lloyd Crume; and Mrs. Lauderback.

Katie Hyatt, daughter of Mrs. Cathy Hyatt, asked guests to sign the bride's book.

The bride's colors of burgundy and white were used at the serving table. A cream cloth with lace insets over pink covered the table, and burgundy napkins were used. Burgundy silk flowers in a brass container provided a centerpiece for the table.

The appointments were silver and crystal. A family friend, Mrs. Clinton Massie, of Amarillo, made burgundy and white mints.

Ann Landers

Don't Settle For Less

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a male, 34, with a good education and a fine job. I am looking for a wife, but what I am finding has left me completely turned off.

I dated eight girls last year. Every one has had at least six or seven lovers. They talk about it openly as if it is not at all unusual. I have had one sexual relationship in my life, and it was someone I was in love with and had hoped to marry.

The young women I dated were all under 24 years of age, well-educated and from nice families. No barties or pick-ups.

Please tell me if I am a fool to think there must be something better out there.—Bargain Basement Blues and nephews. Everyone was most cordial, but I have a question to ask.

Why do people keep plastic covers on their furniture when they have company? These folks also have cellophane over their lampshades that should have been removed when they brought the lamps home from the store.

I can understand protecting the furniture when young children visit, but we were rather special guests. What's the answer?—Mitchell, S.D.

DEAR S.D.: If I knew the answer to that question, I would also know why some women wear hair curlers downtown.

Musical Set For Tomorrow Night

The musical production, "Fiddler on the Roof," will be staged at the Hereford High School Auditorium tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. The West Texas State University Touring Theatre production is being sponsored by the Culture Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Tickets may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce Office and at the Hereford State Bank for $3 each.

Two local students will be involved in the production. Sherry Strain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strain, will play the part of Shandel and is also a member of the chorus. Jeffery A. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smith, will be doing all the lighting and special effect designs.

The musical is a family-oriented production geared to people of all ages.

Husbands Guests At Thanksgiving Dinner

LaPlata Study Club met Tuesday evening at Hereford Country Club. Husbands of members were guests for a Thanksgiving dinner.

Tables were decorated with miniature turkeys and burnt orange votives.

Following the meal, members had a short business meeting. Mrs. Ken Rogers, president, conducted the meeting. The ladies voted to help with a project supporting the Lung Association. They will operate a booth at Sugarland Mall on Dec. 16.

The Christmas party for Dec. 15 was also planned. It will be held in the home of Mrs. Howard Johnson and members will each take a gift to exchange.

The group played Bunco for entertainment. Mary Helen Akew and Buck Hall won and awarded prizes.

Attending the Thanksgiving party were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Truman Hasselrigg, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Jayroe, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. O.G. Nieman, Mr.

Juana Valdez is starting her teaching career in her hometown of Hereford as a bilingual kindergarten teacher.

A graduate of Hereford High in 1977, Ms. Valdez attended West Texas State University and graduated with a B.A. in education with certification for bilingual education and a kindergarten endorsement. She is working on her Master's degree in Spanish.

She is a member of the Classroom Teachers Association and Texas State Teachers Association.

"Every child has the right to a good education," Ms. Valdez believes. "To provide this there must first be good teachers. As the saying goes, 'The teacher makes the student.'"

"Teaching is a wonderful profession," she said. "The rewards come from the children themselves. No monetary value can be placed on the joy one experiences at seeing a child write his name the first time or learn a new word. Every day brings its own rewards."

When out of the classroom, Ms. Valdez likes to read, make latch hook rugs and watch football. She is also an avid tennis fan. She lives at home with her two brothers, two sisters and her parents.

Club Studies Pioneer Women Of The Plains

The Lone Star Study Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Jessie Mae Dodson, with Ruby Stevenson serving as co-hostess. Hilda Havens gave the treasurers report, and cards were signed for sick members.

Evadna Cox gave a program on "Early Pioneer Women of the Plains." She stressed the high ideals of the pioneer women, and emphasized the hard work they did in their daily lives, noting that most pioneer families lived in dugouts because of the shortage of trees for lumber. The endurance of the pioneer women through the long, cold winters and the problems involved in getting schools and churches started were also discussed.

Other members attending included Opal Bookout, Onelta Davidson, Bertha Detmann, Margaret Ann Durham, Wilma Goetsch, Sue Henslee, Bibby Morgan, Lucille Naylor, Grace Tinnin, Zoe Williams, Faye Williams, Winnie Wiseman, Ruth Womble, Nellie Blue, Ella Higgins, and Mildred Elliott.

The next meeting will be a Christmas program and gift exchange in the home of Ursalee Jacobsen. Members are reminded that a donation will be made to Girl's Town at that time.

Panhandle Residents Tour

Robert and Alice Thompson will be at home temporarily, following their latest Trailways assignment, a nine day visit to Hawaii. They report an enjoyable time, with 25 residents of the Panhandle area on the tour.

Among those making the trip were Janis Ramackers of Hereford, and her mother, Fredda Whitlow of Happy. Also, Loyd and Venita Lovel, former residents of Hereford, now of Lubbock. The others on the tour were from various places across the Golden Spread. The Thompsons enjoyed a reunion with Cherry Ann Forrest Harrison, and her husband, Dr. Joe Harrison. They live on the island of Maui, where he has a medical practice.

Cherry Ann grew up in Hereford. She is the daughter of Leo and Elizabeth Forrest of Lake Tanglewood, and a sister of Bedford Forrest of KVII T.V. Dr. Harrison grew up in Dimmitt, and is well-known in Hereford.

'Shannon' Not Same Old Cop Show

NEW YORK (AP) — As television has matured, the action-adventure genre has changed from Western shoot-em-ups to urban cowboys: same heroes, same battles; different hats, different horsepower.

With about a dozen modern law-and-order types on TV today, each looks for a unique hook to hang its Stetson on. There's gritty authenticity in "Hill Street Blues," smily wheelies on "CHiPs" and slimy crime in "Strike Force."

Kevin Dobson's cop in "Shannon" on CBS tonight has found more sophisticated slants than most of the others. It's these distinctions that allow Dobson, once Telly Savalas' whipping boy as Crocker, to be more than just the "Son of Kojak."

Jack Shannon is a recently widowed detective who leaves New York to work and live in San Francisco, ostensibly so he and his son can be closer to his wife's parents.

ABC had a long-running hit with "The Streets of San Francisco," and the city's hills and bridges do make for some creative chase scenes. But "Shannon" takes the physical layout one better by focusing on a lifestyle as well.

In New York, Shannon had just one gear, forward, but he discovers in San Francisco that they like to use neutral, too. This culture shock is an effective running theme in the pilot movie, which will be the series' third episode next Wednesday.

In the pilot, Shannon meets resistance from the laid-back San Francisco cops, who aren't impressed by his ways. When he says he'll have his coffee regular, they wink. When he's not satisfied with a crime collar that he doesn't think fits right, they blink.

Tonight's episode was not available for pre-screening, but last week's opener, spending much of the time in New York City, was less interesting than the pilot because it lacked the cultural conflict.

Another feature of "Shannon" is that he's a homemaker of sorts, raising his son as best he can between shifts and on the weekend. Dobson, a tough-talking, swaggering actor, looks a bit awkward around these scenes but some humanity and warmth come through anyway. It's a "Courtship of Eddie's Father" without laugh tracks and bikinis.

Not that there won't be women. Dobson was recently seen in a TV movie as Mike Hammer, the James Bond of the detective set, so he's bound to someday have some action on the side. But in pilot, the show finds another novel niche: Shannon becomes the first impotent TV cop, at least for one episode.

Actually, it's a very effective, tasteful scene. Shannon, still grieving for his wife, meekly offers his regrets. His bedmate is understanding to a point. "Is there no room in the almighty male ego for a night off, for time out?" she says. "I respect faithfulness. But do you think she still wants it from you?"

Andorra

Tucked into the Pyrenees mountains between France and Spain, Andorra has enjoyed effective sovereignty since 1278. Officially a principality, it has two nominal co-princes to whom it pays annual tribute — the president of France and the Spanish bishop of Urgel. Actual government, however, is conducted by a 24-member Council-General.

VOCT Chapter Makes Plans For 1981-82

The Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas (VOCT) Chapter No. 569 held its Monday evening to make up a calendar for 1981-82. By developing a calendar for the year, student members develop leadership abilities and plan for participation in work while educational, recreational and vocational activities.

The Chapter calendar for 1981-82 will be as follows: NOVEMBER — The Club will help a needy family for Thanksgiving. DECEMBER — The club will buy toys for a needy family to help them have an enjoyable Christmas. A Christmas party will be held.

JANUARY — A skating party and a fund raising activity is planned.

FEBRUARY — The club will hold a banquet.

MARCH — The Chapter will participate in the Area VOCT Contest.

APRIL — State VOCT Contest will be held.

MAY — An Employer-Employee Banquet and an end of school picnic are planned.

Banquet Set For Tomorrow Night

Featured speaker at the King's Manor Founders Day Banquet tomorrow night is M. Joe Helms of Galveston, one of the most knowledgeable persons in the field of geriatrics today. He is presently serving as president of the American Association of Homes for the Aging and is immediate Past president of the National Association of Health and Welfare Ministries of the United Methodist Church.

A Secretary for the Texas Association of Homes for the Aging, he was a delegate to the White House Conference on Aging, and is serving presently as a member of the Mayor's Senior Citizens Advisory Committee of Galveston.

Founders Day is a big event in the life of King's Manor, ending a year of work for the Founders Association. Outstanding entertainment has been arranged, and everyone is invited to come and enjoy the festivities at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

K-Bob's will be catering a steak dinner with salad bar. The public is invited to come early to tour the Manor and visit with residents.

Technology Effects Discussed

Paris Bryant presented a program entitled "Taking Hold of Technology" to the Hereford Branch of the American Association of University Women on Monday evening at the Flame Room.

After Ms. Bryant presented some of the changes in everyday life that will be effected by the advancement of technology, the club discussed advantages and disadvantages of a highly technical and computerized world.

President Carol Armer presided over the business meeting. She read the updated By-Laws and they were accepted. Thanks were expressed to the hostesses Virginia Garner and Bertha Dettmann.

The club planned for the preparation and sale of a crafts book. Refreshments were served from a table decorated with a Thanksgiving theme.

Other members present included Naomi Hare, Lucille Hughes, Judith Kelley, Marge Mehlberg, Rosemary Shook and Della Stagner. Jeanette Ramey, a guest, also attended.

The next meeting will be a Christmas tea held in the home of Ms. Mehlberg on Saturday, Dec. 12 at 3 p.m.

The 12 to 18 hour forecasts of the weather bureau are considered 85 percent accurate.

Inmate Facing Possible Execution For Murder Of Four

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Prison officials consider the "Incident at Turkey Creek" a simple case of an inmate willing to kill to get out — a three-time loser who drowned a warden and gunned down a prison farm manager.

Eroy Edward Brown should be executed for the April 4 murders at the Ellis Unit near Huntsville, prosecutors will argue in January.

Defense lawyers present a case of self-defense involving a prisoner being taken to the "bottoms," an inmate willing to kill to prevent a beating by Texas Department of Correction officials.

"It will come down to a story about the bottoms," said defense lawyer Bill Habern.

"It's no secret our case is a self-defense case. The bottoms is a place where people are taken to be beaten," he said.

Brown's Galveston trial could evolve into a revealing view at how the TDC runs its prisons, and it could give Texans an inside look on how prisoners are treated in a 30,000-inmate penal system already criticized by a federal judge.

Brown, 30, is charged with capital murder in the slayings of Ellis Unit Warden Wallace Pack and prison farm manager Billy Max Moore.

Pack, a 19-year TDC veteran who rose to warden of the largest unit, drowned in Turkey Creek on the Ellis Unit. Moore, a 13-year TDC veteran, was shot to death.

TDC records filed with the Court of Criminal Appeals give a glimpse of the state's case, including accounts by several TDC employees of the slayings one report labeled the "Incident at Turkey Creek."

The accounts allege the incident began when Brown created a disturbance.

"I heard inmate Brown yelling, 'God damn, I want a furlough. I want ... a woman just like everybody else,'" wrote TDC worker William Adams Jr.

"He said, 'I want to see Billy Moore.' I asked inmate Brown what he had been drinking and he said nothing but water. I told him he had been doing something and he told me he had been smoking weed," said Adams.

Officer Robert De Young, who arrived at the scene after the shooting, said Brown told him, "A man's got to do what he's got to do."

TDC employee Billy Matlock also said it was the denied five-day furlough that set off Brown's rage.

"I heard him say, 'I was damned tired of fixing flats in the rain and not being able to make a furlough,'" said Matlock.

Three days after the killings, Gov. Bill Clements discussed the case privately with TDC Director W.J. Estelle.

"The original disciplinary action started at a work site when this inmate was unruly and causing problems. The farm boss put him in his pickup truck and was taking him out," Clements said after talking with Estelle.

Pack routinely was called in, according to Estelle. A fight ensued and Moore was killed with Pack's gun.

Estelle said Pack was wounded, and drowned in a subsequent scuffle with Brown. Habern indicated he will offer a different version and will raise some questions about the TDC accounts.

"The policies and procedures of TDC will be an issue," he said.

Habern said several inmates contacted him about testifying about the bottoms, several probably will be witnesses for the defense.

Estelle, after his meeting with Clements, said he had never heard the phrase "a trip to the bottoms" — an inmate's term for being taken out for punishment.

He said federal agents determined Brown handled the gun that killed Moore.

But Habern complained that no tests were run on the bodies of the dead men.

"It's very strange that they planted those two bodies without any type of tests ... to see if they fired a gun or fired first," he said.

Habern also is upset at TDC's handling of Brown after the slayings. The lawyer said he had to get a judge's order to allow him to meet privately with his client. Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, also will represent Brown.

There also are questions about TDC's treatment of inmates who might testify for the defense. A Nov. 30 hearing will be held "so we will have the opportunity to prove the harassment TDC inmates (who are talking to us) are receiving," said Habern, who wants protection for those inmates.

In July, Brown was transferred from TDC to the Galveston County Jail. The trial is set for Jan. 11 in Galveston, where it was moved from Huntsville.

It will be an unprecedented trial for Texas and a difficult one for the defense lawyers. Their client has a long history of problems with the law. The victims were the first TDC officials to be killed by an inmate.

In the only other similar incident in recent years, a building major at a state prison in Houston County died in 1980 of a heart attack during a fight with an inmate, according to TDC spokesman Rick Hartley. Charges in the case still are pending, he said.

Brown, whose mother and father served time in TDC, made his first trip to prison in 1968 on a burglary conviction. He was released in 1971, but returned in 1974 after stealing 57 suits from a Temple store.

The Fort Worth native was paroled to Waco in 1976. In October 1977 he was arrested for robbing a Fort Worth hotel clerk of $87 at gunpoint.

The emotion the slayings aroused within the TDC is evident in a report filed by prison worker Jerry Dickerson, who watched as Moore's brother identified the farm manager's body.

"He raised the blanket which was over Warden Pack, shook his head and recovered him. When he crossed the bridge ... he uncovered that body and then I heard a loud cry or groan, then I saw (him fall) to his knees crying, then I realized that the other man was Billy Moore," said Dickerson.

Liz Jones and Carmen Wynn combined for 35 points and completely dominated both the offensive and defensive boards as the Amarillo High Sandies cruised to a 52-41 win over the Hereford Whiteface feds in the season-opener for both teams at the La Plata gym Tuesday night. Wynn collected 13 second-half points to lead the Sandie charge after Jones experienced foul trouble, but the outcome of the game was never in question after AHS raced to a 24-17 halftime lead.

"We just got killed on the boards," HHS coach Larry Sowers said. "We knew coming into the game that we would probably not play anybody better or bigger than they are inside, though."

The Whitefaces had a little trouble with the full-court press the Sandies threw at them throughout the game as well. "We had more trouble with the press than we'd like to," Sowers said. "We weren't making the right decisions on who to get the ball to."

Amarillo took an 8-7 lead after the first period as Jones hit for four points. Deborah Rogers led the Herd in the period with three points, but Jones' eight-foot jumper from the baseline gave the Sandies a 2-0 lead, and the winners never lost the advantage the rest of the way.

The Sandies got six unanswered points as the second period began as Wynn hit a layup and Jones hit a pair of buckets to give AHS a 14-7 margin. The Herd fought back from there and AHS held an 18-15 advantage with 4:41 left in the half as Cathy Lane hit two free throws for Hereford and Lori Albracht connected on two long-range buckets, while Amy Schumacher added a basket from eight feet out.

Amarillo got four points from Wynn in that stretch, and the 6-1 leaper added four more points as AHS increased the gap to seven points at intermission.

Wynn, Jones and Julie Chancellor each tallied four points in the decisive third period as the Sandies increased the lead to 36-23.

The Whitefaces put together a charge of their own in the final period after AHS had taken a 45-29 lead with 2:44 left. Albracht hit a free toss and successive steals and layups by Schumacher and Albracht made it a 47-34 game with 2:15 remaining.

Rogers got stuffed by Wynn under the basket with 1:41 left, but she got the carom and muscled her way in for the two-pointer to cut the lead to 11 points at 47-36.

The Herd got two points from Lane and three more from Albracht from there, cutting the AHS lead down to nine points at 50-41 with 12 ticks left. But, Tomi Hollis hit a pair of free throws with five seconds to make it a final 52-41 count.

"We shot the ball fairly decently when we got the opportunity," Sowers said. "We've got to get Cathy (Lane) to put the ball up more. She missed a couple early and stopped shooting."

Albracht topped the Herd with 12 points in the game, while Lane finished with 10 points and Rogers capped nine. Joyce High and Schumacher each added four points to the total, while Cheryl Walterscheid closed out the HHS effort with two.

Wynn's 23 points was tops in the game, while Jones added 12 to the AHS total. Hollis also added eight more for AHS.

In junior varsity action Tuesday night the AHS girls took an exciting 51-47 win over Hereford in overtime. Amy Noyes had 18 points in the loss for HHS, while Paula Mason canned nine points, Laura Kosub had eight, and Teresa Phibbs had six.

Lori Bock led the AHS JV with 14 points, with Robin Reed adding 11.

Noyes and Mason hit six and five points respectively in the fourth period as the HHS JV staged a rally to erase a 38-28 AHS lead after three stanzas.

The 'Faces knotted the game at 43-43 in regulation, but were outscored 8-4 in the Jane Upton Bell recalls as if it were only yesterday the long transcontinental train ride from Philadelphia to Los Angeles with her dad nearly 30 years ago.

"Dad hated airplanes and refused to fly," she said. "When we got off the train we were met by Pete Roselle, who, instead of booking us into our hotel, whisked us off to a beautiful club where we had lunch."

Present at the lunch were Jane; her dad, Bert Bell; Dan Reeves and Bob Hope, who were partners in the ownership of the Los Angeles Rams, plus Roselle, a lowly press agent for the Rams who subsequently succeeded Bell as commissioner of the National Football League.

Mystically, the luncheon party — minus Bell and Reeves, who are no longer alive — are reunited next Sunday in a two-hour TV special which carries the long-winded title of "Bob Hope's Stand-Up-and-Cheer for the National Football League's 60th Year — An All-Star Comedy Salute to America's No. 1 Spectator Sport" (NBC 8-10 p.m. est).

The title alone takes up two pages in the TV guides.

"I think that meeting really was the germ of the idea," Bell said from her home base in Los Angeles.

The grandiose special came out of her own head. A successful director and producer, she is the producer putting all the pieces together. She persuaded Hope to go along. Then she got approval from Roselle.

"I thought it was great," said Hope, a sports buff who boxed as a kid, put some of his excess cash in the Rams and Cleveland Indians baseball team and is sponsor of one of the pro tour's top golf tournaments.

While declining to reveal the plot, both Jane and Bob let the cat out of the bag in warning fans that the salute to the NFL will not be a dull re-creation of old games.

It's going to be jazzed up, as only Hope can do it, and, besides a few many film clips, will feature some real live human beings who won't be wearing helmets and pads, principally Elizabeth Taylor, Barbara Mandrell, Susan Anton and Howard Cosell.

Liz Taylor plays the first woman football commissioner. Hope has fun with Cosell of whom he says, "Howard Cosell is the one man Will Rogers never met."

"It's a sort of spoof but more a fun look at history," Bell says. "We have some amusing situations. It has pace and variety."

AHS Clouts Herd, 82-39

"We just didn't play well at all...we'll have to work a little harder," said HHS boys coach Bobby Decker following his team's 82-39 loss to the Amarillo High Sandies Tuesday night.

Amarillo High got 22 points from Tony Gilbreath, and dominated the boards throughout the game enroute to the win in the opener for both teams in Amarillo.

"We didn't play very well against their press, but there were some bright spots despite the loss," Decker said. "After we settled down in the second half we shot the ball a little better, and with some more work I think we'll be competitive."

Hereford got 16 points from Gary Long in the loss, while Steve Welch and Kyle Schuder each tossed in eight. John Keating added seven points to the cause.

In addition to Gilbreath's 22 points, the Sandies had three other in double figures with Brian Vincent scoring 14, Lance Simpson adding 12, and Raynard Scott hitting for 10.

Amarillo cruised to a 27-7 lead in the first quarter as their full-court press baffled the young Whitefaces, none of whom had any varsity experience heading into the contest.

The hosts led 45-18 at the half, and blitzed the nets for 20 third-quarter points as they increased the margin to 65-24 after three periods.

The 'Faces played the Sandies virtually even in the final eight minutes, scoring 15 points to AHS' 17. Long scored eight of his 16 tallies in the final period, while Welch added four.

The Herd travels to Amarillo again Friday for a matchup with Palo Duro. The HHS sophomores will play the Don JV beginning at 8 p.m. with the varsity match to follow.

Tar Heels Top First Cage Poll

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

The North Carolina Tar Heels, runners-up to national champion Indiana in the NCAA tournament last season, were selected No. 1 in The Associated Press' preseason college basketball poll, announced today.

In a nationwide ballot of sports writers and broadcasters, the Tar Heels received 25 of 61 first-place votes and 1,138 points, 19 points ahead of second-ranked UCLA.

Despite losing second-team All-American center Al Wood from a team that went 29-8 last season, Dean Smith will start his 20th year as coach at North Carolina with an explosive mixture of veteran and rookie talent.

Returning from Smith's 1980-81 team are three starters — 6-foot-9 junior forward James Worthy, 6-9 sophomore center Sam Perkins and 6-3 senior guard Jimmy Black. Smith also recruited five top freshmen, including 6-4½ guard Michael Jordan of Wilmington, N.C., in an effort to win his first NCAA title. The Tar Heels lost to Indiana, 63-50, in the NCAA final last March.

UCLA, 20-7 last season, gathered 20 first-place votes and 1,119 points, and Kentucky, coming off a 22-6 campaign, was a close third with eight No. 1 votes and 1,041 points. Louisville, with four first-place votes, was No. 4 with 1,017 points, and Georgetown collected two first-place ballots for a distant fifth with 861 points.

First-year UCLA Coach Larry Farmer, who played for the Bruins when they went 30-1 from 1970 to '73, has all five starters returning from a roster that had no seniors on last season, including 6-foot-10 senior Mike Sander and 6-11 junior Rod Foster. Farmer's only Rodney in his rookie year will be how quickly to bring along 7-foot freshman Stuart Gray of Granada Hills, Calif.

The Bruins advanced to the second round of the NCAA East Regionals last season before losing 78-55 to Brigham Young.

Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall must try to meld 6-11 sophomore Mel Turpin into his early-season lineup while 7-1 center Sam Bowie recovers from a broken shinbone sustained on Oct. 15. The Wildcats were 22-6 last season, losing to Alabama-Birmingham, 69-62, in the Midwest second round.

Louisville, 21-9, lost a 74-73 heartbreaker to Arkansas on a last-second halfcourt shot by U.S. Reed in the second round of the Midwest Regionals, ending the Cardinals' 1980-81 season. Coach Denny Crum, however, returns four starters, including seniors Derek Smith and Jerry Eaves, who were around for Louisville's national championship in 1980.

Georgetown, 20-12 last year and an upset victim of James Madison in the first round of the NCAA playoffs, hopes to improve mightily on its record with the help of 7-foot freshman Patrick Ewing of Cambridge, Mass., the most sought-after center in the country last year.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Wichita State, 26-7, 794 points; Virginia, 29-4, 739; DePaul, 27-2, 701; Iowa, 21-7, 700, and Minnesota, 19-11, 513.

The Second Ten consisted of Tulsa, 26-7, 482 points; Indiana, 26-7, 405; Wake Forest, 22-7, 382; Alabama-Birmingham, 23-9, 285; Missouri, 22-10, 273; Georgia, 19-12, 233; Louisiana State, 31-5, 204; Arkansas, 24-8, 196; Notre Dame, 23-6, 148, and Alabama, 18-11, 140. Indiana and Arkansas received the other first-place votes.

Besides Gray and Ewing, there was another blue-chip high school freshman recruited this year, and he went to Wichita State. Greg Drilling, a 7-1, 240-pounder from Wichita, will work on the frontline with Antoine Carr and Cliff Levingston, a pair of double-figure scorers, to make the Wheatshockers one of the beefiest teams in college ball. However, Wichita State is on NCAA probation and thus is ineligible for any postseason play.

Virginia, which, along with LSU, made up the rest of the Final Four last March, is led by 7-4 junior Ralph Sampson, and DePaul will try to overcome the loss of Mark Aguirre with the likes of Teddy Grubbs, Terry Cummings and Skip Dillard. Iowa is paced by 6-6 senior Kevin Boyle, and Big Ten rival Minnesota has 7-2 junior Randy Breuer.

Houston Cougars May Re-Awaken Cage Fans

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston super guard Rob Williams can see the run-and-shoot glory days returning to Hofheinz Pavilion, the arena packed with screaming basketball fans and the Cougars running up and down the court looking like freeway traffic.

Williams' fantasy could become fact. The talent-laden Cougars return their entire starting lineup this season in addition to highly publicized freshman Abdul Akeem Olanrewaju, who last played for the Nigerian national basketball team.

Added rebounding strength could mean more fast-break basketball for the Cougars, a welcome relief for sleepy fans, who still remember last year's slow style of play throughout the league.

"You can't run unless you have the board strength and we will be strong (rebounding) this year, so you're going to see us running a lot more," said Williams, a third-team all-American last year. "I think my assists will go up this year because of it."

Houston was the conference favorite in a poll of writers and broadcasters but it was a close race with the Arkansas Razorbacks.

The Razorbacks, who won the regular-season race by three games over UH and Baylor, will build around two-time all-SWC center Scott Hastings plus three other starters, Keith Peterson, Tony Brown, and Darrell Walker.

Texas returns all five starters including LaSalle

Thompson, the SWC's leading rebounder with a 12.3 average. Texas A&M lost forwards Vernon Smith and Rynn Wright, but returns Rudy Woods, the Aggies' all-time leader in field-goal percentages and blocked shots.

Baylor, 15-12 last year, will try to rally around Terry Teagle, who averaged 20 points last year and needs 551 points in his senior year to become the all-time league scoring leader.

Texas Tech hopes to improve on a 15-13 finish last year with seniors Clarence Swannegan and Jeff Taylor and sophomore guard Bubba Jennings; Darrell Browder, the conference's No. 4 scorer last year, returns to give Texas Christian a scoring threat; Rice returns five starters including forward Ricky Pierce, the league's No. 2 scorer and Southern Methodist will look to James Piehler and David Gadis for scoring punch.

Houston's Clyde Drexler, newcomer of the year as a freshman last season, led the Cougars in rebounding, and junior Larry Micheaux, a center last year who may see action as a power forward, was second.

Drexler was the league's No. 2 rebounder last season while Micheaux and Michael Young were among the top 10. UH also returns starting guard Lynden Rose.

Bowl Picture Clearing Up

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN AP Sports Writer

The Sugar Bowl has the No. 1-ranked team but the Cotton Bowl has control of the bowl picture.

A lot of people are waiting for the Cotton Bowl to make up its mind and invite either fourth-ranked Alabama or No. 10 Southern California. But the Cotton Bowl can't make up its mind and says it won't have any further announcement until bowl-picking day Saturday.

"We're really struggling with the choice," John Scovell, president of the Cotton Bowl, told The Associated Press Tuesday night. "It will be either Alabama or Southern Cal...and that's in alphabetical order."

"The only comforting thing is that there's no downside. Both schools represent the very best in college football. We expect to be there between now and Saturday. We expect to go into Saturday with some priorities. The holdup is which team is the best for us — it's that simple."

Southern Cal has football tradition, a record-breaking runner in Marcus Allen and television desirability, meaning all the TV sets in the populous Los Angeles market.

Alabama has football tradition and a legendary, record-holding coach in Bear Bryant.

But, said one source close to the bowl picture, "Southern Cal has the biggest clout of anybody, and that includes Bryant."

Southern Cal also still has an outside chance to go to the Rose Bowl, plus a chance to get beaten badly by UCLA on Saturday.

"We'd just as soon wait until those two conditions are eliminated," Scovell said. "But we're not playing the 'what-if' game. We're trying to do what's in the best interests of the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 1."

Wayland Officials Start 'W' Club

PLAINVIEW, — A membership drive whose primary purpose is to boost attendance at home basketball games has been launched by The "W" Club, recently organized booster organization for Wayland Baptist University athletics.

A joint effort of Wayland officials and other interested Plainviewians, The "W" Club is seeking 100 members during the 1981-82 season, according to Harley Redin, president.

"We hope the club will eventually become as big a force in support of Wayland athletics as The Red Raider Club is for Texas Tech University," said Redin, former coach of the Wayland Flying Queens, who was elected president at the club's initial meeting recently.

Other officers for the current year are Wayne Adair, vice president, and Joe Payne, treasurer. Tom Hall, assistant to the sports information director at WBU, was named executive vice president and secretary of the group.

The Club has established four levels of membership in the organization, Regular, Blue, Gold and Lifetime. "Regular" membership is given to persons for donations of $25 to $99 and entitles them to a membership card, window sticker featuring the club logo, and copies of the 1981-82 Pioneer and Flying Queens media guides.

"Blue" membership is given for donations of $100 to $499 and entitles members to

The Cotton Bowl's reluctance to make a quick decision raised the speculation that (1) it would invite Southern Cal if the Trojans beat UCLA and (2) that CBS-TV, which obviously would prefer the huge Los Angeles market, had expressed a desire for USC.

"We're not putting any pressure on the Cotton Bowl," a CBS spokesman told The AP.

However, a Pacific-10 Conference spokesman said, "I think USC expects a decision tomorrow (Wednesday)."

Barring any last-minute upsets, the Sugar and Orange Bowls are set. The Sugar Bowl picked third-ranked Georgia over Alabama as the host team, even though the two can tie for the Southeastern Conference championship, with top-rated Pitt as the visitor. The Orange Bowl has second-ranked Clemson, the Atlantic Coast Conference king, against No. 5 Nebraska, the Big Eight champ.

The Fiesta Bowl is waiting for the Cotton Bowl's decision, since it, too, intends to invite either Alabama or Southern Cal. If it's USC, the opponent will be No. 13 Penn State. If it's Alabama, the Fiesta will have to turn elsewhere since Bama frounced the Nittany Lions 31-16 last Saturday.

The host team will be the Southwest Conference representative. Should Texas beat Baylor and Southern Methodist defeat Arkansas on Saturday, Texas will go. If Arkansas beats SMU and Baylor upsets Texas, then it will be Arkansas. SMU can win the SWC title but is ineligible for a bowl game.

The Rose Bowl races hold the keys to numerous other bowls. Michigan, Iowa and Ohio State in the Big Ten and Washington State, Washington, UCLA and USC in the Pac-10 are all in the running for the Rose. On Saturday, Michigan plays Ohio State, Iowa meets Michigan State, Washington faces Washington State and UCLA goes against USC.

If Michigan and Washington State win, they will meet in the Rose Bowl. That probably would send Washington to the Holiday Bowl against the Brigham Young-Utah winner. Washington probably would go to the Holiday Bowl if it beats Washington State and UCLA goes to the Rose Bowl by beating Southern Cal.

And don't discount the possibility that Washington State, one of the Cinderella teams of the year, could get shut out of the bowls if it loses to Washington.

Schmidt Satisfaction Not Heightened by Award

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mike Schmidt said he didn't feel any extra satisfaction in becoming only the third National League player ever to win consecutive Most Valuable Player awards.

"Extra satisfaction? Not really," the Philadelphia Phillies third baseman said Tuesday, shortly after he was notified that the Baseball Writers Association of America had voted him NL MVP.

"I don't know how you can measure satisfaction. I'm about as satisfied as I possibly can be, whatever the numbers are, second time, third time, first time. An MVP award is something that darn few people ever get the chance to enjoy," Schmidt said at a news conference.

The only other consecutive winners of the NL MVP award were Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs in 1958-59 and Joe Morgan of Cincinnati in 1975-76.

"As far as the number of guys, the number of people who have won it, back-to-back, or the number of times I'm really not concerned with that right now. I know there are some good names, and to be included along with Morgan and Banks...is quite an honor."

Schmidt was an overwhelming choice in the balloting by two writers from each National League city. He is only the eighth to accomplish the consecutive double since the voting began in 1931.

Schmidt, who was a unanimous choice in 1980, the year he also won the World Series MVP honor, received 21 of a possible 24 first place votes, and 321 points from the panel.

Montreal's Andre Dawson was runner-up, and like Schmidt listed on all 24 ballots. Dawson received two first-place votes and a total of 215 points. The only other player to get a first-place vote was rookie pitcher Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who was selected the NL's Cy Young award winner by the writers last week.

The other five consecutive winners were in the American League — Roger Maris, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Hal Newhouser, and Jimmy Foxx.

Other top 10 finishers in this year's balloting were Cincinnati's George Foster (146), Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati (108), Valenzuela (90), Montreal's Gary Carter (77), Dusty Baker of Los Angeles (65), Bruce Sutter or Se-Lus (59), Steve Carlton of Philadelphia (41), and Tom Seaver of Cincinnati, Pete

Rose of Philadelphia and Chicago's Bill Buckner, each with 35 points.

"It sure is fun coming up to these press conferences after the MVP Award is announced. I hope I can do it again next year," said Schmidt, 32.

Schmidt said one of the reasons for the success he enjoyed this year and the year before was learning to deal with pressure.

"I learned to go to the plate relaxed and not feeling that I have to do it," he said.

Schmidt accumulated impressive statistics in the strike-shortened season. In 102 games he hit 31 home runs and drove in 91 runs, leading the majors in both categories. He averaged a career high of .316 and led the league in seven offensive categories.

The 31 homers gave Schmidt 295 for the past eight years, top production for any major league player over that period. Last year he hit 48, breaking the record of 47 for a third baseman set by Hall of Famer Eddie Mathews.

Schmidt, who is a .359 lifetime hitter, but one of the game's premier sluggers, credits teammate Pete Rose and former Manager Dallas Green for much of his success.

"The example he set for me as a major league ball player I believe is second to none in all of the game today," said

Schmidt. "The two greatest years I've had as a player were under the management of Green," Schmidt said.

"Young people, nowadays, imagine that money is everything, and when they grow older, they know it," Oscar Wilde

Kings Break Losing Skein

By GARY MYERS AP Sports Writer

Take an Otis Birdsong and Scott Wedman away from any team and the results would be predictable — and poor.

The Kansas City Kings, perhaps the hardest hit of any National Basketball Association club since free agency was instituted five years ago, have been experiencing the post-Otis and Scott blues.

Tuesday night, they broke a four-game losing streak in the fifth game of a brutal seven-game road trip with a 124-110 victory over the New York Knicks.

The Kings are a new team this year after the departure of Birdsong, who was eventually traded to the New Jersey Nets for high-scoring forward Cliff Robinson after he had signed a $1-million-a-year offer sheet with Cleveland; and Wedman, who went to the Cavs in a similar type deal for a No. 1 draft pick which was turned into Kevin Loder.

Last week, Kansas City Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons traded last year's starting center, Sam Lacey, to the Nets for Mike Woodson, now the Kings starting shooting guard, and a 1982 No. 1 draft pick.

In other NBA games Tuesday night, the San Antonio Spurs defeated the Dallas Mavericks 112-105; the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Washington Bullets 99-95; the Boston Celtics defeated the Chicago Bulls 98-95 and the Houston Rockets beat the Indiana Pacers 102-82.

If their performance against the Knicks is an accurate indication, the Kings, 3-8, will be a good team before the season is over. Forward Reggie King, who really came around in last year's playoffs, hit 15 of 22 shots against New York — 3-8 with a three-game losing streak — on his way to a game-high 33 points.

Center Bill Cartwright led New York with 31 points.

Spurs 112, Mavericks 105

Mark Olberding scored eight of San Antonio's final 10 points and teammate George Gervin had a game-high 38. The Mavericks pulled within two points, 105-103, with 2:30 left, but failed to score on their next five possessions. Rookies Mark Aguirre and Rolando Blackman combined for 44 points for Dallas, 1-9, which dropped its eighth straight. The Spurs are 8-1.

Bucks 99, Bullets 95

Quinn Buckner's 17 points led Milwaukee to its fourth straight victory. John Lucas led Washington with 18 points. Milwaukee turned the game into a rout in the third quarter, using a 15-4 spree in the opening five minutes to go up 72-51. The lead grew to 84-61 at the quarter as Washington could convert only 6 of 23 shots and score only 14 points in the 12-minute span.

Celtics 98, Bulls 95

Larry Bird scored a game-high 29 points and Robert Parish added 21 as Boston, 9-1, won its eighth straight. The Celtics have not lost since Oct. 31, the second night of the season. Boston opened an 89-84 advantage in the fourth quarter, but baskets by Chicago's Artis Gilmore and David Greenwood closed the gap to a point. The Bulls stayed close until Bird's long jumper with 3:24 left and a hook shot by Kevin McHale with 1:55 left gave Boston a 97-91 lead.

Rockets 102, Pacers 82

Allen Leavell and Elvin Hayes each scored 17 points as Houston improved to 4-5. The Rockets took the lead for good in the second period when Indiana went nearly five minutes without a field goal and made only two shots from the field in 11 minutes. Indiana, paced by Billy Knight's 15 points, got no closer than seven points in the second half.

Holly Keeps Close Tab On Beet Sugar Production

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

Farmers want top dollar for their crops and at Holly Sugar the crop has to be proven top quality before the top dollar is paid.

During the 14-hour unloading period, each truckload must submit a bag of sample beets for testing at the "tear house." During an evening shift, beginning at 6:30, the beets are run through a short processing for analysis.

At the tear house the beets are labeled and put in bins on a conveyer belt. Each bin is weighed with tops, end roots and dirt. The beets are then crowned (tops cut off) and washed for a second weighing to determine how much of the truckload is unusable. Results of each weighing is tallied on a slip with the bin.

The sample beets are then boiled to a thick pulp stage and sent into the laboratory. There the juices are analyzed through a Rudolph polariscope to determine the sugar or sucrose percentage of the crop. The more sugar, the less the nitrogen, and Holly wants high sugar-content beets, just as the farmer does.

The slip is again marked with the chemical content and shipped to the business office. The weight and sucrose content factors are figured with a formula to determine the amount to be paid to the farmer.

While testing is done only during one shift, beets are processed into sugar 'round the clock.

Truckers make mountains on the prairie by dumping the beets in a storage yard at the plant. The beets are next loaded into the washing flume, and regulated in a flow to the factory.

When the beets are cleaned they are shredded into cassettes, which look like unfried hash browns, and thrown into the difuser where the actual "cooking" is done.

The difuser at Hereford's Holly Sugar plant is the largest one—and the only one—of its kind in the world. The defuser boils 2,500 tons of beets and water at a time.

The raw juice containing the sugar is then purified through carbonation. Lime and carbon dioxide gas are added to the juice and filtered through a revolving drum, removing the solid particles and impurities.

The thin juice is boiled again to thicken and it is filtered again through a series of vats. The refined thick juice forms sugar crystals by being boiled under vacuum in large tanks. The liquid and crystal mixture is called fillmass.

The fillmass is spun in high speed centrifugals (drums which operate using centrifugal force to spin out the moisture—much like a washing machine wrings clothes) to separate the sugar crystals.

The product is now pure white sugar. A further purification separates sugar from molasses (which is used as cattle feed.) The granules are then "blow dried" in long rotating drums.

Ten hours after the beets hit the flume, the granules are ready for market.

But it's not just the sugar that is sold. The unrefined molasses is mixed with cattle feed as well as the pulp. Farmers often allow cattle to graze on harvested fields full of chopped beet leaves.

Holly Sugar is used mostly in the food industry: packing, freezing, baking and soft drink production. About 15 percent of the sugar ends up on tables at home under the Shurfine label. Safeway brands are also packaged for generic sale.

Quality Checked

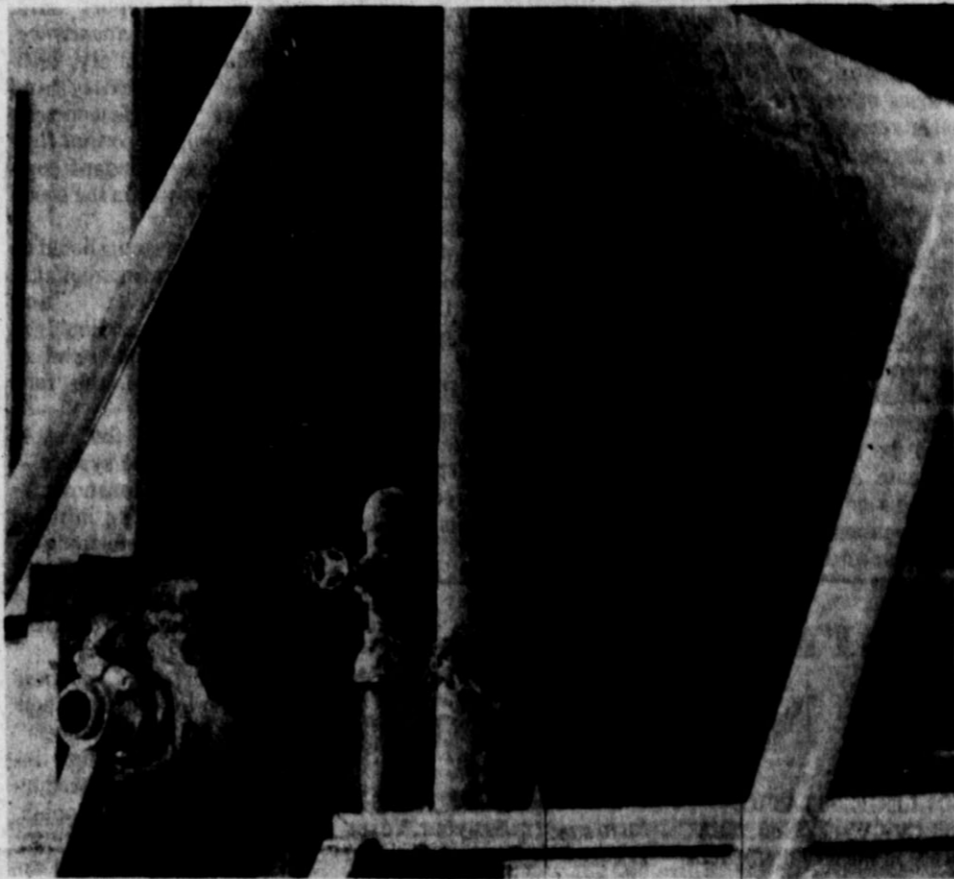

The Rudolph polariscope gives a nitrogen reading from sample beet juices to determine what the sugar content of a crop of beets will be. All beet crops are tested for individual readings and the quality of the beet, along with the weight of the load, is used to determine what price a farmer will be paid.

Close Tab

Comparison of each stage of filtering is one way Holly keeps tab on the purity of the sugar beet juice. Each stage on each shift keeps a sample of the day's work to be compared to a tube of clear water.

First Filtering

Chunks of lime are scraped off the edge of a drum where raw beet juice receives its first purification. The first filtering rids the juice of impurities and solid pieces of use by lime and carbon dioxide.

Petr Receives Service Award

COLLEGE STATION - Dr. Frank C. Petr of Amarillo, agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, received the prestigious Texas Superior Service Award in ceremonies at Texas A&M University Friday.

It was presented by Extension Director Daniel C. Pfandtler during the Headquarters Staff Conference of the agency at Texas A&M University.

Petr was cited for "superior leadership and exceptional personal dedication in assisting county Extension agents in the panhandle to promote the adoption of new crops, cultural practices and adapted varieties."

Petr has served as agronomist in the Panhandle District since 1968 and as field crops coordinator for the Panhandle Economic Program (PEP), the area resource development program, for 10 years.

The agronomist has worked closely with the Texas Wheat Producers Board, Texas Corn Growers Association and Area Grain Sorghum Producers.

He also has assisted county Extension agents, result demonstrators and program building committee in planning and conducting more than 100 result demonstrations each year in new varieties, fertilization, cultural practices and chemical weed control.

A native of Montana, Petr has worked with the Extension Service in Texas for 13 years in the role of agronomist. Before joining the Extension Service, he was instructor and assistant in agronomy for the Montana State Experiment Station and Montana State University. He also served as research agronomist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Research Service.

His bachelor's and master's degrees in agronomy are from Montana State University, while his Ph.D. in crop breeding is from Iowa State University.

Beef Research Could Spark Industry

By Robert L. Hancy
TAES Science Writer

The multi-billion dollar beef cattle complex in Texas has been marginal in profitability in recent years. High prices for money and virtually every other production cost, coupled with relatively low market prices for beef, have resulted in low returns for many in the beef cattle industry, Texas' largest source of agricultural income.

A greatly expanded program of research by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station into virtually every aspect of production, processing and marketing is expected to result in increased efficiencies and help improve the economic outlook according to Dr. Zerk Carpenter, Head of the Animal Science Department at Texas A&M University.

"The Beef Production Systems research is a well-coordinated, comprehensive, team approach to defining and providing answers for problems in the areas of production, management, feeding and processing," says Carpenter.

"The five major areas of research include biological efficiency, nutritional management, feedstuffs processing, marketing, and consumer preferences for lean beef.

To determine lean beef product acceptability for the consumer market, research will define the market value, consumer market preference, and marketing and processing technology for the lean beef produced by the various management and production systems designed to produce it.

Biological types and adaptability research is needed,

Carpenter says, since various biological types of cattle are likely to respond differently to variable management systems (nutritional, sex type, forage versus grain).

Economists will compare costs and returns for production of choice beef versus lean beef.

Beef cattle feeding and nutrition studies will evaluate systems of forage and grain resource use. Beef production systems will need to make better use of forages and by-products.

Performance criteria research-in the area of Systems Analysis and development of bio-economic models for alternative breeding and resources management systems will result in the most efficient, economical production of lean beef.

Product processing and improvement will examine the quality, palatability and yield of beef from various management and production systems.

Lean beef is likely less resistant to abuse in product handling, merchandising and preparation than is beef with greater levels of fatness, Carpenter says.

Market research will concentrate on consumer preference or acceptance of traditional grades of beef and lean beef, using consumers and trained panels to evaluate it.

Results of this research will provide important guidelines for producers of beef cattle and wholesale and retail firms, regarding the type and quality of beef acceptable to consumers.

Block to Visit Mexican Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary John R. Block plans to visit Mexico next month to talk over matters of mutual concern.

Crus. In Mexico City, Block will meet with the Mexican minister of commerce and U.S. agribusiness representatives before concluding the visit on Dec. 16.

Block told reporters Monday, however, that "no overriding issue" is on the meeting agenda.

Practices Destructive to Food System Can Be Stopped

By DON KENDALL, AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans have a "window of opportunity" to stop soil erosion, chemical pollution and other threats to the food supply, a new private study says.

 "The destructive practices that are undermining our food system can be stopped," said the report, which was released here Monday. It was the result of a project initiated last year by Rodale Press Inc. of Emmaus, Pa. Rodale Press publications include The New Farm, a monthly magazine that helps promote organic farming — the production of food with the minimum use of chemicals — and small, family-type operations.

 "We can build a sustainable food system that conserves resources instead of destroying them," the report said. "But this window of opportunity is closing rapidly. Every day, our choices become more limited. Small farms and food companies, once gone, seldom return."
 Much of what the report says has been said before, particularly regarding the loss to rich topsoil to erosion, the depletion of ground water and the gobbling up of highly productive land by urban sprawl.

and by this learning will see "the value of such actions as supporting area farmers and consuming more fresh, locally grown fruit and vegetables," the report said.
 The food industry "can give preference to farmers who use sustainable methods: applying fewer chemicals, minimizing soil destruction, rotating crops," the report said.

 As its part, the federal government can "help develop a more sustainable food system by ending subsidies to non-sustainable agriculture, including policies that encourage groundwater mining, land speculation and huge farm debts. At the same time, programs for soil, water and farmland conservation can be strengthened and enforced."

'Make It Yourself With Wool' Competition Set for Lubbock

LUBBOCK — Approximately 40 contestants from 2 South Plains counties will compete in the District 1 "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest Nov. 21 at Texas Tech University.

Open to males and females, ages 10 to adult, the contest focuses on the beauty and versatility of wool, encourages the use of wool, and recognizes outstanding skills in sewing, knitting and crocheting.

The annual competition is sponsored by the American Sheep Producers Council Inc. of Denver; the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association and its auxiliary; and the Delaine Sheep Breeders Association of Texas.

District junior, senior and adult winners will advance to state competition Dec. 5 in Denton. On the state level, a junior and senior winner will be selected to represent Texas at national finals in Portland, Ore., Jan. 20-24. Preteens compete at the district level only.

Judging of garments is based on workmanship, design, fashion coordination and appearance. The poise and personality of the contestant in front of the judges is also considered.

Garments must be constructed entirely by the contestant and must be loomed, knitted or felted fabrics of not less than 70 percent wool. Accessories and trimmings, interfacing, linings and underlinings may be other fabrics.

Judging will be from 8:15 to 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Home Economics auditorium. Home economics students will conduct the 11:15 a.m. grand finale in which contestants model their garments. The event is open to the public.

Judges for this year's contest include Denise Thompson, a former contest winner; Dr. Shirley Stretch and Lynne Richards of the Texas Tech clothing and textiles faculty; Kay Caddel, research associate with the Texas Tech Textile Research Center; Martha Robertson, an area cotton farmer's wife and seamstress; and Ellen Sours, a clothing and textiles graduate student. Contest director is Myra Timmons of the Texas Tech clothing and textiles faculty.

Voyles Named American Farmer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. Bruce L. Voyles of Vega joined an elite group of Future Farmers of America today. Voyles received the highest FFA degree of membership—that of American Farmer. Along with 779 other outstanding FFA'ers, the Vega FFA chapter member was honored at the 54th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Always a highlight of the convention, the American Farmer Degree ceremony included the presentation of a certificate and gold key to Voyles as he walked across the convention stage in front of thousands of FFA members. Immediately following the ceremony, the members heard an address by farm broadcaster Orion Samuelson.

The American Farmer program is sponsored through the National FFA Foundation by J I Case, A Tenneco Company; Federal Land Banks; the Chevrolet Division, General Motors Corporation; Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.; and Production Credit Associations. Their contributions made possible cash travel awards to Kansas City, a special breakfast to honor the recipients, and the gold key.

Farm-City Week Set Nov. 20-26

COLLEGE STATION — Farm-City Week, Nov. 20-26, focuses on the involvement of farm and city people as partners in growing, processing, marketing and consuming food and fiber.

"In Texas, movement of food and fiber from field to factory to the family table provides jobs and income for about a fourth of the working force," points out Dr. Carl Anderson, marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.
 "One out of every 30 Texans is a farmer or rancher, and 30 percent of the state's retail trade business is directly associated with agricultural production and selling of food and fiber products," says Anderson.

Many businesses, financial institutions and individuals are involved in providing supplies, credit and services to farmers and ranchers and in processing and marketing agricultural commodities.
 While the overall cost of living has increased about 11 percent from a year ago, food prices in the grocery store have increased 6.4 percent and apparel has risen less than 5 percent, notes the economist. This compares with an increase of nearly 13 percent in housing, 16 percent in fuels, 11.5 percent in medical care and 25 percent in public transportation.

"Americans spend far less of their take-home pay on food than people in other countries of the world," Anderson points out.
 "Together, farm and city people make the best food and fiber team in the world," he believes. "This gives a country the capacity to feed its own people and to export for economic gain as well as for humanitarian purposes."

With more than $3 billion in farm exports last year, Texas is one of the leading states in shipment of agricultural products abroad. Texas led the nation in shipments of cotton, cottonseed and animal fats; was second in meats and meat products, hides and skins; and third in rice, peanuts and peanut oil.

On a national scale, farm exports total about $44 billion. Anderson estimates that production from about one out of every three acres of cropland is exported. Leading customers are Japan, Netherlands, Mexico, China, Canada, Germany and Korea.

"Farm exports support more than a million jobs, and the added business stemming from agricultural exports about equals the value of products shipped," says Anderson. "Exports help both farm and city people make a living. At the same time, they boost the economy and offset some of the cost of imported oil."

Chemicals May Halt Predators

COLLEGE STATION — Predators continue to inflict heavy losses to livestock, poultry and other wildlife, pointing to the need for an effective remedy.
 That remedy could come in the use of toxic chemicals, but use of such materials, particularly Compound 1080, is not yet sanctioned by the Environmental Protection Agency.

However, some inroads are being made toward legalizing the use of these chemicals, points out Dr. Dale Wade, a wildlife specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Information presented at recent informal hearings may warrant the EPA to open formal hearings before an administrative law judge.

"If such hearings do come about, they would include information on the use of the 1080 toxic collar to protect sheep and goats as well as possible use of 1080-treated baits," notes Wade.

While such hearings might finally lead to an effective predator control technique for ranchers, they likely would not be completed in time to allow use of toxic chemicals during the coming winter season, adds the specialist.
 "Coyotes continue to cause the heaviest losses to livestock and poultry, and their populations are increasing," says Wade. "They have been a problem to sheep and goat producers for many years, but now they also are causing increased losses in cattle. And the problem is no longer confined to western states; several eastern states now report increased coyote populations and significant livestock losses."

In addition to preying on livestock and poultry, coyotes also have inflicted heavy losses in pronghorn antelope, mule deer and other wild species in recent years, adds Wade. This has led some state wildlife agencies to support the use of toxic agents against predators.

"With ranchers currently operating at low profit margins or even losses due to poor prices, livestock losses to predators are a major concern," points out Wade. "Furthermore, these losses will ultimately be reflected in reduced meat supplies at higher prices."

An added factor is the loss of agricultural land to other uses when small operators can no longer survive production and predator costs. When this happens, producers, consumers and the whole nation suffers, contends the specialist.

Milk Output Down

AUSTIN—Texas dairymen have an excellent productivity record, reports Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown. However, the state's booming population has created a sharp gap between milk production and consumption, with much of the milk being supplied from outside Texas.

"In Texas, milk output in relation to population has dropped sharply, due to the tremendous influx of people into the state," said Brown. "Texas now produces less milk per capita than any other southern state, and this means that there is a market for much more production within the state."

Brown noted that within certain geographical areas of the state, there are wide discrepancies between production and consumption. In 1980, for instance, over 67 percent of the state's total production of raw milk was centered in the northeastern portion of the state. However, only 33 percent of Texas' population lives within this area.

"Due to many economic pressures, the number of dairymen in Texas has declined steadily, and is now down to less than 2,600," said Brown. "Dairymen have improved their productivity greatly, but production has been outpaced by the state's huge population growth."

Cotton Producers Can Expect Deficiency Help

For the first time since the current farm law was enacted in 1977 cotton producers in 1981 can expect to receive price deficiency or "target price" payments, according to officials of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

"Although some producers still are skeptical," says POG President Gary Ivey of Rails, "unless there is a surprising and dramatic upsurge in market prices between now and the end of this year, payments will be made, probably in March or April of next year."

The per-pound amount of the payment will equal the difference between the 1981 target price of 70.87 cents per pound and the weighted average price paid to all U.S. farmers for all cotton during the 1981 calendar year. The per-pound figure will be multiplied times each farmer's payment yield (as established earlier this year by county ASCS offices) times planted acres to determine the total payment due. However the total will be subject to the $50,000 limit on payments to any one farmer for all crops. Also, planted acres could be factored down slightly for producers who planted more cotton this year than last.

For the months January through July this year, the weighted average price received by all farmers for cotton came to just over 73 cents per pound. The price for each month is weighted by the volume of cotton sold by farmers during that 30-day period.

Beginning with July, the average price paid to farmers each month has fallen below the 70.87-cent target price, and since most cotton sales normally are made during the latter part of the year, these lower monthly averages will carry more weight when the annual average is figured.

The July average price was 70.02 cents per pound, August dropped to 65 cents and the September price averaged only 68 cents. The price paid for all cotton going into the market, including cotton delivered on forward contracts, is figured into the averages. Cotton entering the loan, however, is not considered sold until redeemed and therefore is excluded from average price calculations.

The per-pound payment will thus be determined by two things, the monthly market price averages and the volume of cotton sold during the last half of this year compared to the amount sold earlier.

Using historical figures on monthly sales and assuming market prices will remain near current levels, some have estimated the payment will fall in the five to seven cents per pound range.

Producers with questions or needing more complete information are urged by POG to contact their county ASCS offices.

Slaughter Sheep, Lambs Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of sheep and lambs being fed for slaughter in seven major production states totaled about 1 million head on Nov. 1, down 8 percent from 1.09 million on feed a year ago, the Agriculture Department says.

Officials said Monday that 834,000 head were placed on feed during September and October, down from 941,000 in the same period of last year.

The number of sheep and lambs in feedlots as of Nov. 1, by states, compared with year-earlier inventory levels, included:

Arizona, 41,000, 5 percent more; California, 230,000, 35 percent more; Colorado, 250,000, 39 percent less; Iowa, 105,000, 25 percent more; Nebraska, 90,000, 18 percent less; Texas, 160,000, unchanged; and Wyoming, 125,000, 4 percent more.

the abundant life Let's Not Be Picky

Bob Wear

ALL OF US may be "picky" about some things; however, this is not necessarily harmful to us or others; but it can be. With some, it may be a picture that is not hanging straight; or their hair being messed up; or the color combination of clothing they wear; or some such concern. This kind of "picky" may seem strange, when it differs from our kind of "picky"; but it not be a serious problem.

IT IS NOT WRONG to want a picture hanging straight; or our hair well-groomed; or the right color combination of clothing. Of course, it is possible to make a nuisance of ourselves, if we make too much of such things. We must not do this.

WE ARE PICKY, when we are "fussy" or "finicky"; easily upset, or easily irritated; when we require or give extremely close attention to details; or when we are fastidious, when we are overly difficult to please. Of course, in some instances, "close attention to details" is justified; but even this must be done in a reasonable manner. We must not be excessively exacting, or overly meticulous in taste or standards. If we are, we make ourselves and everybody else miserable.

WE CAN BE "picky" in ways that make us failures in life, and we do this by making ourselves chronic fault-finders. In most of these instances, the views and actions are marked by and reflective of narrow interests and sympathies. Such behavior indicates small-mindedness, and is unreasonable. This approach to life produces a whole lifetime of unhappiness.

THERE IS NO PERFECTION in human beings, or in the things we do. Reality dictates that we should expect some faults in people and the things that people do, and it is very important that we learn to live with these; as they appear in us and others.

IN SOME THINGS, there will be "completeness"; there will be some "proficiency" and some "efficiency;" for which we are thankful, but, in general, there will be some flaws, and the "picky" people always make these too big and too predominant. To find fault is easy; to do better may be difficult. "Plutarch.

THE MOST CERTAIN WAY to be forever dissatisfied with our "work," our "friends," our "loved ones," our "everything" is to be "picky." We must accept people and jobs, and the other aspects of life, more or less, as they are; making improvements when we can, of course; but these must come from emotion, positive and wise evaluation and not from the "picky," miserable gloom of fault-finders.

THE MOST IMPROVEMENT we can make is in our own lives, and this requires a wholesome, understanding and positive approach.

Domstad, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee. The New Mexico Republican has been a leader of the Senate forces insisting that the second round of federal budget cuts take more from defense and less from social programs than was proposed by the Reagan ad-

According to Poll Both Creation Theories Should Be Taught

NEW YORK (AP) - Three of four Americans believe that both the scientific theory of evolution and the biblical theory of creation should be taught in public schools, according to the latest
Associated Press-NBC News
poll.

In addition, Americans believe teachers and librarians should have more say than either parents or school boards in deciding what books and materials should be used in public schools.

In the poll, 1,588 adults were telephoned in a nationwide scientific random sampling Oct. 25-28.

In response to the question,
"Do you think public schools should teach only the scientific theory of evolution, only the biblical theory of creation, or should schools offer

both theories?" 76 percent said public schools should teach both theories.

Eight percent said only the scientific theory, 10 percent said only the biblical theory and 6 percent were unsure.

People with children 17 or younger were slightly more likely than other respondents to say both theories should be taught.

Louisiana and Arkansas have enacted legislation requiring that biblical creationism be taught parallel to scientific evolution, and other states are considering similar measures.

An American Civil Liberties Union court challenge to the Arkansas law is set for trial Dec. 7 in Little Rock. The ACLU claims the law violates the principle of separation of church and state.

In choosing books and curriculum material for public schools, 53 percent in the latest AP-NBC News poll said school officials should pay more attention to teachers and librarians than to parents. Thirty-two percent said officials should pay more attention to parents and 15 percent were either undecided or said both.

Respondents who identified themselves as liberals were more likely to say teachers and librarians, while conservatives were more likely to say parents.

People who said they have children 17 or younger and people who have no minor children were equally likely to prefer teachers and librarians to parents.

In response to a related question, 62 percent said
librarians and teachers,

rather than school boards,
should have the final say in banning controversial books from public school libraries and classes.

Again, parents of school-age children were equally likely as other respondents to say teachers and librarians
should have the final say in book banning.

The U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to consider a landmark case stemming from the Island Trees, N.Y., school board's 1975 banning of nine books from the high school library, including Bernard Malamud's "The Fixer," Kurt Vonnegut's
"Slaughterhouse Five," and
"Best Short Stories by Negro Writers."

Five students challenged the suit, claiming the banning violated constitutional guarantees of free speech.

A study of nearly 2,000
librarians, school officials and superintendents earlier this year indicated that efforts to censor books occur in about a fifth of the nation's schools each year, succeed in about half the cases and are often initiated by teachers or other school officials seeking to avoid criticism from parents.

The study, done by professional publishing, education and librarians' associations, said books subjected to censorship pressures in the last year include "Blackberry Pie," "Catcher in the Rye,"
"1984," the American Heritage Dictionary and
"The Merchant of Venice."

As with all sample surveys,
the results of AP-NBC News polls can vary from the opinions of all Americans
because of chance variations in the sample.
