Hereford school year starts Tuesday

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

Longer school days, the continued implementation of mastery learning and tightened rules on high school absences headline the coming Hereford Independent School District year, which begins Tuesday.

Students attending the three intermediate institutions - Bluebonnet, Shirley and West Central - are to show up for classes the same time as last year: 8:30 a.m. The final bell is not to ring until 3:20 p.m., however, which is five minutes later than in 1983-1984

Junior high students at Stanton are to report for instruction at 8:20 a.m., with classes not completed until 3:35 p.m. La Plata Junior High School times are five minutes later at each end. A total of 25 minutes have been added to the junior high school first time at both facilities (7:15 a.m. 'at Stanton, 7:20 a.m. at La Plata) for ninth graders only. World history and Spanish are the options at Stanton, while La Plata's staff is to provide instruction for Spanish only.

Hereford High School's first-period bell is to sound at 8:25 a.m., with the tardy bell following five minutes later. Lunches are to be served at 11:45 a.m. and 12:45 p.m. and final classes are supposed to be dismissed at 3:35 p.m.

The HHS principal, Bill McCarley, wished to point out students may have no more than four unexcused absences in any course. A failing grade will otherwise be awarded. There were no specific regulations on unexcused absences last year, he said, save attending at least 71 days.

Absences due to extracurricular activities, such as sports or band, are limited to 10 per student for the entire year. Should his maximum number of extracurricular absences be used up, McCarley explained, a student will simply have to miss any further out-of-classroom events.

Raymond Schroeder, principal at La Plata, said his school's major change this coming year involves mastery learning. Such a method is to be universally used beginning in the fall of 1985, but La Plata and other schools in HISD are trying to try out mastery programs this year. That way, Schroeder explained, needed changes can be spotted before the system becomes man-

Those students who received free lunches last year, Larry Wartes claimed, may still get meals without charge until a check on their new application shows they no longer are eligible. Bus routes, the HISD assistant superintendent said, are to remain basically the same as last year.

Care of indigents costly here

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

Deaf Smith General Hospital will have lost an estimated $350,000 the end of its current budget year due to patients not capable of paying their bills

Indigent care problems abound in Texas, which contains hundreds of thousands of people - many of them seasonal farmworkers - too poor to afford needed medical assistance According to James Bullard, DSGH administrator, his hospital has a proportionately bigger problem with indigent care than does an average Texas health facility

The $350,000 loss expected in revenues this year represents about budget. "We have historically in the DSGH to lose $350,000 last few years budgeted about $285,000." Bullard said, explaining the actual difference is made up in

For the 1984-1985 budget year, which begins Oct 1, no specific amount has yet been designated. Indigent care costs are, though, to come out of a 20-percent loss in revenue Bullard anticipates for the coming twelve-month period.

Twenty percent of the $4.9 million expected to be owed DSGH next budget year amounts to almost $1 million. Outside of indigent care, the 8 percent of the local hospital's rest of the "bad debt" is foreseen to come from those who can but will not pay their hospitalization bills Efforts are being made in the state to develop some sort of support system for indigent care. Bullard said two agencies are now looking into the matter, including the governor's Task Force on Indigent Care. There is also the Texas Hospital Association Indigent Care Committee, of which Bullard is an ex-officio

The THAICC met July 28, Bullard said, to draft recommendations for indigent care. In its 11-page report dated Aug. 17, the group asks the state legislature to increase Medicaid funding so more poor people could receive medical attention.

Among the expanded services would be maternity care Genetic counseling, early pregnancy diagnosis, transportation, labor delivery, postnatal care and dental aid would be among the maternity areas in which indigent patients could receive assistance. Also proposed by THAICC are stepped-up health education and preventive care systems. There would also be more accesible programs for health screening and early detection, mental health counseling and dental services.

The availability of loans and scholarships, THAICC contends in its report, should rise to accomodate low-income and "educationally disadvantaged" students. Grants would be based on geographic need and previous aid to an area. Other recommendations made by Bullard's group include providing more basic and advanced life support units to hospitals which need them. Furthermore, a feasibility study should be performed on a state-wide "911" emergency telephone number system. Some sort of "fair share" formula should be implemented to pay for indigent care, the report maintained. It said all Texas hospitals have a reesponsiblity to support indigent care, and suggested a pool be one way to raise the necessary funds.

"The state," TCAICC stated, "should undertake a comprehensive effort to develop cost-containment strategies to ensure that medical indigfency does not increase because of rapidly escalating health care costs.

It also called upon those receiving indigent care benefits "to contribute to the costs of their care to the extent they are able to do so.'

According to Bullard, the legislature in Florida ordered hospitals each contribute 1 or 2 percent of their gross revenues to a state indigent care fund. Such a system would create havoc in Texas, he cluding DSGH - could not afford to relinquish that percentage of revenues

The Florida system, Bullard said forces patients who can pay their bills to shoulder the burden of rate increases due to the indigent care system. All taxpayers would pick up the slack should cities or counties be called to contribute instead, the administrator added.

Though proposals and recommendations are being offered concerning the multi-dimensional and complex indigent care program, no action is likely to occur before the next legislative session starts in January Bullard said he and others are "pessimistic" of what might eventually be decided

Police release monthly report

Hereford police handled 328 offenses during August, including 58 thefts and 28 assaults, according to a monthly report released Fri-

There were also 25 cases of driving under the influence, 20 vandalisms, 19 harassments, 18 public intoxications, 15 burglaries and 14 disorderly conducts. One hundred eighty-seven incidents were cleared, though some could have been from previous months.

Motor vehicle accidents totaled 28, with two injuries resulting. The number of moving violations cited was 474, with a vast majority of those charges resulting in guilty pleas.

Driving under the influence of alcohol (driving while intoxicated) was the most frequent arrest made in August, when 20 people were picked up for DWI. Sixteen were booked for public intoxication, 14 on traffic charges and six on warrants. Juvenile arrests amounted to 12, 59 fewer than the adult total.

The August report also claimed policemen logged more than 23,000 miles in their vehicles. The dispatcher's desk fielded 5,513 entries.

Book donations welcomed

Book donations are being welcomed through this month by Friends of the Deaf Smith County Library, a group which has planned its annual book sale for Sat., Oct. 13 in Sugarland Mall.

"This sale," according to Mildred Fuhrmann, "enables the Friends to provide needed assistance to our library and helps to make it one of the finest libraries in the area. We are asking that your club support this event wholeheartedly.

The organization is requesting one of two contributions be made to the book sale effort. The first is donating works by taking them to either the mall, Moore's Jack and Jill or the library. Secondly, the group would appreciate anyone interested to purchase books at the

Free shots to be offered

Once again, free immunizations against childhood diseases are to be offered this month at Deaf Smith Public Health Clinic, 902 E.

The shots are to be administered every Tuesday and Thursday from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3:45 p.m.

Childhood diseases which the immunizations are to guard against are diphtheria, lock jaw (tetanus), measles, mumps, polio, rubella and whooping cough (pertussis),

Players accuse Continental

HOUSTON (AP) - The signatures of some 71 National Football League players appeared in a full-page national newspaper ad accusing Continental Airlines of being unsafe, but at least seven players deny giving permission for their names to be used.

Continental, operating under the protection of a federal bankruptcy court for nearly a year, says the ad in USA Today is part of a 10-month-long campaign by the striking Air Line Pilots Association to discredit the Houston-based carrier.

According to the ad, which appeared Friday under the headline "NFL Pros Won't Fly The New Continental," the players are concerned that at Continental, "managers care more about money than safety."

"Many of the old pros have been locked out and rookie captains and flight attendants have been hired at cut-rate wages to take their place," the ad said.

PUC hears power line arguments

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawyers opposing a proposed transmission line that would stretch over six counties contend "it's just not right" for the federal government to order the line built if it might endanger

The Public Utility Commission, troubled over how far its authority extends in the case, has postponed a decision for two weeks.

"What troubles me is the (federal) order is so specific," PUC Chairman Philip Ricketts said Friday.

The commission had been scheduled to act on the proposal to string a 155-mile direct current line from north of Huntsville to the South Texas Nuclear Project near Bay City. The panel put off a decision until Sept. 14.

Ricketts said because of "complexities" and "significant questions in my mind," a delay "might be extremely helpful" in determining how to best serve the public interest.

Lawyers for Episcopal Church members and groups of landowners argued Friday that the federal government can't make the PUC approve a power line that might threaten the health and safety

Verdict could hurt producers

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - An independent energy producer says he will appeal a gas rights verdict against him because it would mean bankruptcy to him and other independents.

On Thursday, a jury decided that Harlow Corp. of Amarillo, owned by Bill Harlow, produced 187 million cubic feet of natural gas that belonged to Dorchester Gas Producing Co. The gas was valued at Harlow attorney Broadus Spivey said that District Judge Robert Montgomery's jeopardized the future of oil and gas regulation in Texas by not allowing the Texas Railroad Commission to present its rulings and standards on the issue during the trial.

We feel that the judge determined that the court's authority superceded the regulatory authority of the Railroad Commission, Spivey said, adding that the verdict would be appealed.

At issue was whether Bill Harlow's gas was "casing head gas," the term for gas produced along with oil, or "free gas," which is gas from a different layer of the earth not mixed with oil.

Dorchester, which had the rights to the free gas on the tracts near Pampa in question, claimed gas produced by Harlow was not casing head gas. The jury deliberated five hours before returning a 10-2 decision in favor of Dorchester.

Memories of KAL crash linger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The investigation into the Soviet Union's shooting down of a South Korean airliner a year ago is closed, but administration officials say the pain of the tragedy will never be forgot-

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said the Soviet action of Sept. 1, 1983 has placed an "indelible stamp in people's minds" and on relations between the two superpowers.

He criticized Moscow for doing nothing to compensate families of the 269 victims, including 61 Americans, and for not responding to appeals to make the Pacific air route near the Soviet border a safer

It was after South Korean Air Lines Flight 007 strayed across the border over Soviet territory that it was shot down.

But Shultz said in an interview with The Associated Press that even though the Soviets haven't met their international obligations, there are "overriding reasons for ... the importance of continuing negotiations on things like arms control and having a relationship with the Soviet Union.'

This is President Reagan's feeling as well, he said.

Gunman captured Saturday

LEWIS RUN, Pa. (AP) - A "highly dangerous" gunman wanted in a four-day spree in which he allegedly took two families hostage, shot four people and stole vehicles, guns and money was captured early today, authorities said.

Police, aided by bloodhounds and helicopters, continued searching for his companion, authorities said.

Donald F. Biauce, 27, was captured by state and local police at 1:30 a.m. in northwestern Pennsylvania and taken to jail in Bradford, said Bradford Officer B. Davis. Police said Biauce was not immediately charged. State Police Lt.

Andrew Shedlock called Biauce "highly dangerous." Authorities were still hunting for Donald Kinney, 19, who police believe is from Texas. He was last seen at about 2 a.m. in the Lewis Run area, which abuts the densely wooded Allegheny National Forest, Davis said. Labor Day weekend campers had been warned to stay out of the northern area of the forest while the manhunt con-

Airline schedule changes okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) - With the government threatening to curb commercial flights to ease runway congestion, the airlines are preparing for a series of meetings next week to try to reduce delays at six busy airports.

The way was cleared for the meetings Friday when the Civil Aeronautics Board reluctantly gave the carriers temporary authority to jointly adjust flight schedules, despite protests from several carriers that competition would be harmed.

Airline executives were to meet Wednesday to try to hammer out a scheduling agreement that would ease congestion during peak travel hours at the Atlanta airport. Similar sessions will follow the rest of the week to discuss flight scheduling at Denver, Chicago, Newark and the two New York City airports.

Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole said she is "confident the airlines can agree on revised schedules" to ease the delay problem and that direct government intervention would not be needed.

The Federal Aviation Administration warned two weeks ago that it would impose restrictions on flights during peak travel periods at the six airports if the airlines did not act.

Third satellite to be let go Saturday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) -The successful launching of a third communications satellite would give Discovery's maiden voyage a space triple play that would help restore customer confidence in the space shuttle as a delivery wagon.

The shuttle's crew planned to launch the third satellite of its mission today — the Telstar 3 owned by American Telephone & Telegraph

AT&T, which is paying NASA $10 million to transport the satellite into orbit, plans to use it to expand its television, data transmission and other space communications services.

Successful deployment would make the Discovery astronauts three-for-three, following successful releases of satellites on Thursday and Friday for Satellite Business Services and Hughes Communications Services Inc.

Astronauts Steve Hawley and Richard Mullane were responsible for the satellite launchings.

Meanwhile, Judy Resnik, America's second space woman, later today was to start three days of tests with a thin collapsible solar panel, unfurling it to a height of 10 stories out of the cargo bay, raising and retracting it several times to evaluate its performance. It is forerunner of a device being developed to convert the sun's rays to electricity to power permanent space stations.

The first two successful satellite launchings were good news for NASA, which has had trouble lately with the shuttle's image as a reliable satellite carrier. With this flight, the space agency has committed itself to a launch rate of one a month for the next 15 months, accelerating it to 16 a year after that.

As Discovery whirled through its second of six days in space, commander Henry Hartsfield and pilot Michael Coats reported the third and newest of NASA's shuttles was perforing very well, except for a few "nitpicky" items: a sensor that didn't work, an antenna that sounded false failure alarms and some housekeeping items.

Before going to sleep, the crew added other complaints: a jammed camera, hydrogen gas bubbles in their drinking water and a dirty cabin.

Charles Walker, the McDonnell Douglas engineer who is on board to manufacture a hormone, reported some technical problems with his drug-making machine. Mission Control termed its first hours of operation a "mixed bag."

Hughes Communications paid NASA $17 million to carry its Leasat satellite into space. It is the first of four Hughes will lease to the Navy for $16.7 million for each of five years. The astronauts almost had to postpone the Leasat launch after the temperature on one of its battery packs climbed to 86 degrees Fahrenheit, just shy of the 90-degree vention. There are some strong arguments for that belief, but we would have to rank air conditioning right up there with television.

Air conditioners went out, briefly, at the newspaper plant this week and it was a major disaster for most employees. It does no good to point back to the "good old days" before central air and heat. Besides, we had windows to open back in those days.

It's difficult for the younger generation to imagine how it was before the days of air conditioning. It is true that people sweated a lot more, but the introduction and widespread use of air conditioning goes a lot deeper than that - it has changed our way of life.

Since refrigerated air became popular, people have had a tendency to stay inside more and more, and this has had an effect on outdoor activities. There are more sporting events at nights; not as many picnics as before, and we have a tendency to rush from our air-conditioned homes to air-conditioned offices and shops and stores.

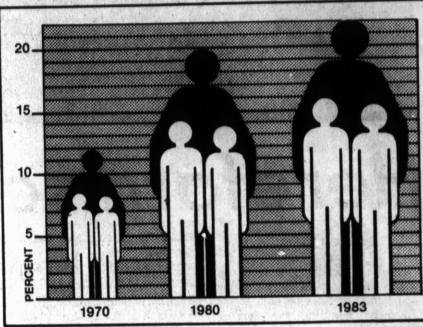

It's difficult to realize that this marvelous comfort was not converted from a luxury to a necessity until after World War II. The watercolled air conditioner was popular prior to World War II, then 74,000 room air conditioners were sold in 1948. That number jumped to a million in 1953.

It was also around 1953 that the auto air conditioner became feasible, and they caught on quickly. Stores also discovered in the '50s that they could increase their sales by having central air conditioning, and now no store would consider doing business without some kind of cooling.

Sir Edmund Hillary of New Zealand reached the South Pole in a 1958 overland trek - the first since Robert Scott's feat 46 years before.

Physical training by cadet corps suspended

By ANDREW M. WILLIAMS Associated Press Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - The commandant of Texas A&M University's Corps of Cadets has suspended physical training after the death of a cadet who was rousted from his bed and forced to run and do calesthenics until he suffered a fatal heat streke.

"We are committed to taking appropriate action to determine the facts surrounding this incident and all forms of physical training have been suspended pending a study of the supervision and a determination that the training is properly controlled," Col. Donald Burton said Friday.

Burton said that in January 1983 he had issued an order outlawing socalled "motivational exercises," such as the one forced on Bruce Goodrich.

"The majority of this stuff was indeed knocked off," Burton said. "But periodically, you'll always have some cadet who tries to get it started damned fools."

A preliminary autopsy showed quirement was dropped in the 1960s. Goodrich, 20, of Webster, N.Y. died of heat stroke, Dr. J.C. Lee said.

Although the exercises were conducted in early morning hours, the student's body may have had difficutly shedding heat because of 77 degree temperatures and 79 percent humidity, Lee said.

Goodrich and his roommate, John McIntosh, were awakened early Thursday by three juniors in their unit of the corps and taken out for "motivational exercise" that included nearly an hour of running, pushups and sit-ups, officials said.

Goodrich was taken by police to St. Joseph Hospital in nearby Bryan after McIntosh, who was not injured, could not revive him. Goodrich died at the hospital later Thursday.

Both cadets had transferred to A&M this semester. Such students are known as "frogs" in the corps and are frequently subjected to such harassment, students say.

The three students overseeing the exercises could face suspension or expulsion if they are found guilty of violating university policy, officials said. School administrators refused to identify the trio.

Bob Wiatt, director of security and traffic for Texas A&M, said he expected to offer evidence to a grand jury for investigation. The panel likely would be asked to consider charges of involuntary manslaughter or negligent homicide, McIntosh and other members of the corps refused to talk with reporters Friday. Ronnie Crocker, commander of another unit in the cadet corps, said he was under orders not to talk about the episode and felt he was bound to obey them unless he resigned.

The Corps of Cadets is a 2.150-member predominantly male group which wears uniforms, short hair and generally follows military tradition. Some, though not all of its members, are under contracts to the armed services.

The corps originally was managain. If something positive doesn't datory for all students at Texas come of this (the fatality), we're A&M, a 36,500 school about 90 miles northwest of Houston, but the re-

Gen. Ormond Simpson, assistant vice president for student services, said the corps was "in mourning. Cadets would march into the football stadium for today's game with the University of Texas-El Paso to only a muffled drum beat as opposed to the music of a full band, he said. They also would wear black armbands on their uniforms.

Burton, commandant of the corps for about two years, said he ordered a stop to a number of corps practices in January 1983. Among those was "quadding," during which a cadet was spread-eagled beneath an upperstory dormitory window while other cadets dumped between his legs the contents of garbage cans filled with hot and cold water.

Dillard Stone, a graduate student who was second in command of the corps in 1980, said Burton's was the most wide-ranging order he knew of, but said similar regulations were on the books but not necessarily followed during his time in the corps.

Many fall movies scheduled

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - If you're fed up with Hollywood ghosts, gremlins and teen-age sex comedies, take heart: the fall movie season promises a bumper crop of goodies for those who can think and eat popcorn at the same time.

More than 40 new movies are set for release through Thanksgiving. That's an unusually high number of films in a period traditionally restricted to the "serious" pictures that usually get crunched in the summer and Christmas seasons by "Ghostbusters"-type blockbusters.

Potentially big-grossing films such MGM-UA's "2010," the sequel to "2001: A Space Odyssey"; Universal's "Dune," based on Frank Herbert's science fiction classic; and "City Heat" from Warner Bros., which teams Clint Eastwood and Burt Reynolds, won't appear until Christmas.

In the meantime, audiences can expect adult dramas starring Sally Field, Jessica Lange, Charles Bronson, Paul McCartney, Nastassja Kinski, Nick Nolte, Katharine Hepburn and Howard E. Rollins Jr.

Film executives say this glut of autumn movies is a testament to, Hollywood's robust health. U.S. and Canadian box office returns are already on a record pace this year, with a total of 150 films expected to be released.

"The last couple of falls there's been a lot of product," said Tom Sherak, distribution president at 20th Century Fox. "The reason for that is this industry is very healthy right now, and there are lots of pictures being produced."

Adding to the heavy fall turnout was this summer's Olympics, which caused distributors to delay the release of some films. A crowd of big films battled it out earlier in the sum-

Films such as "Supergirl" were scared all the way back to Thanksgiving.

Distributors tend to think small in the fall when much of their audience is in school. Virtually no movies are released for vast numbers of theaters, as is typical of summer and Christmas, and advertising and promotion efforts are relatively modest.

But the fall season usually produces a big-grossing sleeper or two, and for the discriminating moviegoer the pre-Thanksgiving releases are about as close to art as Hollywood ever comes.

"A Soldier's Story" and "Amadeus" head the fall parade.

"A Soldier's Story," which stars Howard Rollins Jr. in Charles Fuller's Pulitzer Prize-winning off-Broadway drama, originally titled "A Soldier's Play," concerns a murder in an all-black Army unit. It opens in a small number of theaters Sept. 14.

"Amadeus," based on Peter Shaffer's Broadway hit, stars Thomas Hulce as composer Wolfgang Mozart. It opens Sept. 19.

Sally Field stars as a young widow struggling to maintain a Depressionera Texas farm in "Places in the Heart," due Sept. 21. That same weekend, Charles Bronson, Jose Ferrer and Theresa Saldana appear with "The Evil That Men Do," in which Bronson plays a mob hit man coming out of retirement.

The following weekend features "Irreconcilable Differences," a family drama starring Ryan O'Neal, Shelley Long and Drew Barrymore. The film was originally set for midsummer release.

Nick Nolte is scheduled for two

ITS ONE-OWNER WAS A LITTLE OLD LADY FROM PASADENA WHO ONLY DROVE TO TIJUANA ON SUNDAYS TO PICK UP ILLEGAL ALIENS...

Taxes are on the minds of most citizens these days as the demand for government services expands and the pressure to secure new tax money to finance these services gets more intense. We can talk about cutting government spending all we want, but it will never work as long as people keep demanding more from their government.

This is true on all levels-local, state and national. On the national scene, politicians continue to use a familiar political ploy that seems to have worked well in the past. Walter Mondale has come out with a plan to tax the rich, close tax loopholes and help the poor.

Mondale, and many others who preach this philosophy, know very well that the overwhelming majority for the federal treasury comes from middle class Americans.

The only realistic way to gain significant income tax increases is to soak the middle class, and all politicians know this. Three-fourths of our tax revenue is generated by Americans whose taxable income is below $30,000.

Most of us are concerned about more tax increases, but we wouldn't be so frustrated if we thought the taxes were going to help others who are not so fortunate. The problem is that we have an uneasy feeling that our money is more likely to be wasted. There are no easy answers, and there ain't no free lunches!

Easy to vote

Both the Democrats and Republicans are conducting a drive to register the voters in Texas before the Nov. 6 presidential election and these campaigns have been somewhat successful in that a lot of new voters have, been registered around the state.

It should not be necessary to point out how important it is to cast a ballot in these 1984 elections. Voters of Texas in particular face some clear-cut choices in their candidates, especially in the race for U.S. Senator as well as the presidential race itself.

Voter registration is easy in Texas, perhaps too easy. If it were more difficult, perhaps people would take this privilege more seriously. All that is necessary now is to fill out a voter registration card and send it to the local tax assessor.

The voting registrar application blank is required by law to be printed in Spanish as well as English. While the right to vote is restricted to U.S. citizens, the voter registration card does not require proof of citizenship other than one space which requires listing of the location where naturalization papers were received. Thus a person who speaks no English and may or may not be a citizen can easily cast a ballot unless challenged, and this is not very likely.

Most of the mistakes on the political front in this country have taken place when the people with the right to vote simply did not bother to do so. Whenever there has been a real turnout of voters, usually they make the right decision as to their candidates.

Our right ot vote was purchased with the sacrifice, the hardship and even the lives of those who secure this opportunity for every citizen of the United States over 18 years of age.

With this right comes great responsibility. People should make some effort to learn about the candidates and the issues and vote their convictions.

It was easy to qualify to vote and even easier to cast the ballot.

The Penultimate Word

GETTING RID OF JUNK

I need to change houses. The only way I have ever found to get rid of the junk in my house is to move. I need to move every five years. Any longer between moves and the junk overwhelms the house.

Right now, every place something can be stacked is stacked. It may be that having a lot of stuff makes me think I'm well off. It may be that I am just too lazy to haul the stuff to the dumpster. I need to back a "semi" up to the house and fill it up.

There is a basic law of human nature involved in all of this. The law is that nothing can be thrown away immediately. Left-over food must be placed in the refrigerator until it is molded and then it can be thrown away. We keep clothes until they are so old no one can use them, jars and cans until they fill the garage, and old broken appliances until we are absolutely sure they will not miraculously cure themselves.

Wandering through my junk, I decided there are two catagories of junk. things that are hard to get rid of:

Old shoes-I keep them like old friends. Socks-I have tons of single socks waiting

Then there are things almost impossible to get rid of:

Readers' Digests-No one ever throws them away. I have 30-years worth of these little gems stored all over the place. I think the idea is that as long as they are there, I will never be out of reading material for the bathroom.

National Geographics-No one reads the things. We take them because they lend culture and education. I was given a set by my father-in-law. He had them bound by the CCC during the depression. I gave them away during one move and have never gotten over the guilt of doing so. They would never have been read, but somehow their presence meant I was educated.

Old cameras-I have a closet full. As the technology improves, I buy new ones. The old ones go in the closet. I have one old box Brownie, some Instamatics, three movie cameras and who knows what else. These will survive moves and garage sales from Oh well, maybe my kids can throw the stuff away after I'm gone!

Just what is a conservative?

By RICHARD L. LESHER President

for long-lost mates.

WASHINGTON - Just what is a conservative? I ask for two reasons. First, the American political landscape is divided into liberal and conservative camps, and it pays to know the players. The second, and a more personal reason, is that as a spokesman for free market economics I am often referred to as a conservative. What is it that people mean when they attach that label to me or to others?

Webster's dictionary defines a conservative as one "tending or disposed to maintain existing views, conditions, or institutions." A conseraddition to those mentioned above, there are numerous "dark horses such as Delaware Gov. Pierre S. "Pete" du Pont IV, Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth H. Dole and

Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind. (The Doles have developed a collection of jokes about an all-in-the-family ticket. "I don't know if Elizabeth will accept me as her vice president,' quips the senator.)

Although public opinion surveys conducted far in advance of elections are of dubious value, Bush leads the field in all polls taken to date.

For example, the Dallas Morning News surveyed slightly more than 1,000 of the 4,470 convention delegates and alternates and found that Bush had the support of 47.7 percent

Kemp with 25.6 percent, Baker with 16.2 percent, Mrs. Dole with 5.7 percent, Sen. Dole with 5.4 percent, Lugar with 3.4 percent and Lehrman ty is called the Partido Revoluvative so defened is a defender of the cionaria Institucionaliz or the Party status quo, an opponent of change. of the Institutionalized Revolution. Or as Ambrose Bierce worte in The Mao Tso-tung spoke of the "perma-Devil's Dictionary, a conservative is nent revolution." We conservatives "a statesman who is enamored of exin America also support a permanent isting evils, as distinguished from revolution, but a revolution of and for the liberal, who wishes to replace them with others."

But is today's conservative an aplogist for the status quo? I don't think so. I don't know anyone who considers himself a conservative who is happy with an $850.5 billion federal budget, or a federal government that employs more than 2.8 million workers to tell us how to run our lives, or the hordes of government agencies and reams of government regulations and red tape which throttle progress and innovation.

Quite the contrary, it is the American liberal who sings the praises of government spending programs run amock, who believes that every government regulation has the authority and sanctity of tablets handed down on Mount Sinai. It is the liberal who screams "no new tax cuts, no budget cuts, no innovative programs to reduce the size and scope of government." Liberals stand athwart the path of history and yes, "stop." Worse, our liberal friends would go back, regress, to the good old days of the late 1970's."

Two hundred years ago in Europe liberals were the agents of change and progress, and the conservatives wished to maintain the established order. Today, the roles have been reversed.

Should those of us who believe in limited government, the free market and property rights continue to march under the banner of conservatism or should we come up with a new name since we do not wish to 'conserve" the status quo?

I think those of us in the movement to push for economic growth and job creation through lower taxes, low inflation and a free economy should retain the label conservatie and, indeed, revel in it. Not because we fight to conserve the ideals and principles that animated the American revolution and were enumerated in

Save money by spending?

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm discusses European travel this week, in his own peculiar

Dear editor:

According to an article I read last night, Americans are setting some sort of record this summer for traveling to Europe.

The article said this is partly due to the fact the dollar is worth so much more than foreign currency that American travelers are saving money by going now.

I guess so, but anybody who thinks he can save money by spending it probably ought to run for Congress.

Travelers come back enthusiastic about what they saw in Europe, like ancient castles, houses with thatched roofs, scenic views, native customs, tombstones or famous people, boat rides down celebrated rivers, museums, post cards, etc. I haven't seen any figures on how many Europeans are traveling to the United States this year, but I've always had a theory there ought to be a balance of tourism, with as many of them coming over here to look at us as us going over there to look at

It's true we don't have any ancient castles to look at, but I'd like to point out I've got some land out here that's just as old as any they've got over there, I can step outside my front door and walk on land that was built the same their's was. Some people call this benighted.

Yours faithfully,

I believe that Texas is turning into a socialist state. I feel as if we are being ruled, or rather "dictated" by particular wealthy persons of Texas who have nothing better to do than to spend their money on making everything messed up in our public school system.

I show angus heifers. I make A and B grades. In the past I have shown my heifers at the State Fair of Texas, Houston, Ft. Worth, San Antonio, San Angelo, Lubbock, Abilene and Austin. My father takes the cattle to the shows for me, then my mother brings me down in time to wash my cattle, and dress them, and exhibit. I try not to miss any more school than

The reason I think the Bill to limit excused days absent to five a semester is a mistake is because of the benefits we the youth of today get from the shows. You meeet people who you would probably never meet if it weren't for these stock shows. These are agriculturally involved families with common interests, agriculture of today, to improve breeds of cattle to feed the people of tomorrow. You also feel the urge of competition. When you see your friends in the show ring, it is exciting to see then striving to win, and doing the best they can. That proves that they care about their animals,, and have come to compete.

Many students go to college on scholarships they get from the shows. I know several students who have full scholarships from a major

I truly belive Governor White is passing this education legislation for his own benefit, and hasn't thought about others involved. He has probably never watched a stock show, much less observed the preparation involved in getting an animal ready for the show. If he has never done this, then how does he know that it is for the benefit of our Texas public schools to cut down on extracurricular activities? It may be for his benefit, but it cerainly isn't for the well rounded student. This Bill is taking away the privaledge that we the involved students have.

I realize the importance of grades. I'm not diagreeing with that in any way. It is a shame, but some people could care less about school and the only reason they are in school is to play sports. Because of this Bill there will be many high school drop-outs who will never have a chance to get a

District 3-5A preview

Five teams promise excitement in race

By DENNIS BALL Sports Editor

Can football fans of District 3-5A schools expect the same excitement in 1984 as they saw last year?

Probably, and maybe even more so. Maybe even another four- or fiveway tie for the district champion-

Hereford High School coach Jerry Taylor agrees with that and believes the 1984 3-5A title is up for grabs among all nine 3-5A schools.

"Usually there is one team on the schedule you know you can beat," he has said. "I don't see that this year,

"Everybody has a chance." Most fingers are pointing to Amarillo Palo Duro in 1984 as the favorite, however. But like the coach said, don't count anybody out.

The people to whom those pointing fingers belong have good reason to indicate Palo Duro as the district

For one thing, Palo Duro has incentive to win it all in 1984. Last year's Palo Duro team finished with a 6-3 record, good enough for only fifth place in league competition. The Dons certainly must be disgusted that a .667 winning percentage could do no more for them.

The Dons plan on having a even better record in 1984.

"Based on the spring, I'd have to say we have a better team this fall,"

Gerry Smith, a 5-9, 163-pound alldistrict selection last year, is back to lead nine returning starters on offense. Gray led the district in 1983 in receiving. He had more than 800 yards in total offense, scoring 11 touchdowns.

Another standout back is 1983's sophomore of the year, Ernie Williams. The 5-9, 180-pound tailback joins quarterback Cal Hero as a backfield returnee.

Reggie Byers and Patrick Wetzel are back on the offensive line.

Hereford

Don't count Hereford out of the picture. The Whitefaces play one of the toughest schedules in the school's history, something coach Jerry Taylor thinks will prepare his team for the district race.

Granted, on paper the season might not look too bright for the Herd, especially on offense. Only one offensive starter returns to join five Mike Scott (5-10, 160) directs an inexperienced offense against such non-district foes as San Angelo Central. Scott was named player of the year in 3-5A ball a year ago.

If the offense can put some points on the board this fall, the defense should be more than formidable. The five starters return from a squad that allowed only 7.6 points per game for 10 regular-season games in 1983.

That defense is headed by linebacker Lee Brockman (6-3, 210) and noseguard David Parsons (6-0, 190). Both are pre-season picks to make the Top-O-Texas Football magazine's Super Team.

Dennis Chandler, August Castillo and Sammy Suarez also return to key the defense.

If the Herd can stay healthy, look for the Whitefaces to be in the thick of things near the end.

Amarillo High

Amarillo High may have one of its best teams ever heading into the 1984

The Sandies will be hard pressed to improve on last year's mark, however. High tied for the district championship in '83, sporting a 7-2 regular-season record.

Offense is the big question mark for coach Larry Dippel's team. Only one back returns, fullback Thomas Huyck, a 5-8, 182-pounder. But he's a good one to have back. Huyck is a pre-season all-state pick by Top-O-

The quarterback position still was up in the air as of the end of the summer. Don Riggan (6-1, 176) and Scott Brown (5-11, 158) are competing for the job of field general.

Defensive back Jeff Kelley, a 6-0, 178-pounder, leads returners from one of the top defenses last fall in District 3-5A. Dipple must be proud of Kelley, too.

"Our secondary is definitely one of our strong points," he said. "(To be a top contender) We're going to have to have some guys come through for

Plainview

The Bulldogs know what it takes to be a winner in District 3-5A.

Plainview has tied for the district crown the last two years. This year may not be any different, and Plainview citizens will be the first to see.

Plainview plays Palo Duro, Hereford and Amarillo High at always-tough Bulldog Stadium. So whether they need it or not, the 'Dogs will have a definite home-field advantage in 1984.

Ronnie Bradic was an all-district choice as a junior in 1983, as was linebacker David McAdoo. They will lead their respective squadrons again in league play this year. Coach Greg Sherwood says McAdoo "may be one of the best in the state" at his position.

Plainview has a tradition of fielding a strong kicking game. If Sherwood and his staff can find a replacement for last year's alldistrict kicker, Moises Castillo, fans can expect the kicking game to be a vital element in the 'Dogs success.

Lubbock Monterey

Plainview is not the only team to tie for the district championship the last two consecutive years.

Monterey has accomplished the same feat, going 6-1 the final seven ball games of 1983.

Closing 1983 on a sort of winning note may provide momentum for the Plainsmen. But if the year-end winning streak isn't enough incentive, three of five starters from the interior of the offensive line are back.

Guards Grayson Craft (5-9, 190) and Bruce Drake (5-11, 195) join tackle Jody Gestes (6-0, 200) as a returning nucleus. Whether the inexperienced backs of the Plainsmen have good speed should be tested in the open field with Craft, Drake and Gestes opening line-of-scrimmage

Five defensive starters are back in 1984 to give coach James Odom a little more experience to build around. Mike Cushman, a 5-10, 210-pounder, and Greg Rowe, 5-10, 185 pounds, anchor the defensive line at the end positions. Linebacker John Fenter (6-1, 210) joins as a returning defensive starter.

Mike Jenkins sparks a defensive secondary which returns two starters. The 5-8, 135-pound Jenkins teams with Tyson Hodges (5-10, 145) as defensive backs.

Chris Moore, the 5-7, 185-pound tailback who keys the Mustangs' running attack, is sure not to be overlooked again this year.

McEnroe advances in U.S. Open tennis

NEW YORK (AP) - It was supposed to be the most competitive, exciting match of what has so far been a very predictable tournament.

But it took top-seeded John McEnroe just 114 hours to demolish budding Swedish star Stefan Edberg 6-2, 6-0, 6-1 Friday night and move into the third round of the U.S. Open Championships.

Today, No. 2 men's seed Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia plays Jimmy Brown, and Mats Wilander of Sweden, the fourth seed, faces Bill

Also today, the top three women's seeds are in action - Martina Navratilova facing South Africa's Jennifer Mundel, Chris Evert Lloyd playing Bettina Bunge and Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia opposing Anne White.

"People were talking the last couple of days about how good a match this was going to be and I'm sure Stefan put a lot of pressure on himself," McEnroe said.

"I think you've got to perform, do a little something, before people start talking about great matches, saying this is the best one of the tournament," McEnroe added after he easily defused the 19-year-old Swede's one big weapon, his serve, and methodically took him apart on the center court.

"I think people are jumping the gun a little bit," he added. "He's got to work on a lot of parts of his game.

When you get in trouble and it hasn't happened to you before, you start to panic. He panicked ... You learn from your mistakes. You learn from your losses. That's what I've tried to do.". Minutes later, when Edberg was

The same of the sa

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports asked what he'd learned from this loss, he permitted himself a sad smile and replied: "I learned a lot."

Jimmy Connors, the No. 3 seed and two-time defending champion, was a 6-3, 6-3, 6-2 winner Friday over Brian But Jimmy Arias, an early departure at the Summer Olympics' demonstration in Los Angeles, also got a quick ticket out of New York when Gene Mayer swept him 6-4, 6-2, 6-3 - the first men's seed eliminated here. Shortly thereafter, No. 11 Juan Aguilera of Spain joined him, a 6-4, 7-6, 6-3 loser to Robert Green. As usual, the New York fans were vocal in their support of Connors. "Y like the atmosphere, the crowd, reaction," he said. "This is a very sportswise town, so you can't fool them. You can't beg for their support. You have to earn it." In contrast, he said, the fans in Paris "just want to see good tennis. They're not as intense as here. And Wimbledon - what can you say? Your guts fall all over the court and you have to clean it up yourself."

At one point, Connors and Gottfried, who have known each other for more than 20 years, wound up faceto-face across the net after a brisk rally. Connors won it - then they took the "en garde" position as though about to fence with their rackets.

Other seeded men moving up were No. 7 Johan Kriek, 4-6, 7-6, 6-2, 6-2 in a 21/2-hour match against Balazs Taroczy of Hungary; No. 9 Henrik Sundstrom of Sweden, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0 over Ricky Brown; No. 13 Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia, 7-6, 6-3, 6-4 over Australian Paul McNamee, and No. 16 Joakim Nystrom of Sweden, 7-5, 6-3, 7-6 over India's Ramesh

Effective at season's end

Rangers general manager gets ax

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - The Texas Rangers refused comment on published reports that their general manager has been fired, effective at the end of the season, and will be replaced by team's farm director. "All we're going to say is 'no comment," team spokesman Burton Hawkips, said on the report concerning General Manager Joe Klein.

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram, which quoted a source close to team management personnel, reported Friday that Klein will be replaced at the end of the season by Tom Grieve, now the farm director for the American League baseball team.

The Dallas Morning News reported in today's editions that a press release would be issued Mnoday.

"I suppose everything we have to say will be said there," said majority owner Eddie Chiles. "We'll tell the whole story there. Unfortunately, this weekend kind of caught us."

The Rangers are in sixth place in the Western Division.

The News said Stone and Klein were not getting along quoted sources saying that in the last two weeks Klein "had lost all his power" and "had his hands tied, frustrating him greatly."

Klein told the Star-Telegram Thursday that its report was "premature," and declined comment. He could not be reached by the Associated Press Friday.

It was Chiles who in 1982 fired thenmanager Don Zimmer, and asked him to coach three more games before leaving.

Club president Mike Stone also would not discuss the report, saying the Rangers are instituting a new policy of not commenting at all on such reports.

"The only thing I will say is 'no comment' at this time," Stone add-

Grieve, contacted at Wichita. Kan., where he had just finished firing Tom Burgess, as manager of the Oklahoma City 89ers of the American Association, said he could not comment on the report.

"This is a cop-out, but I just can't comment on it," said Grieve.

Manager Doug Rader said he did not know anything about the matter. During his nearly two-year tenure, Klein has made several trades and transactions, but few have been successful and several have been controversial

Klein traded Jim Sundberg, who made the American League All-Star team this season, for .158 hitting Néd Yost. His trade of pitchers Mike Smithson and John Butcher for outfielder Gary Ward was named 1984's worst deal by several national publications at mid-season, though Ward's recent hot streak will allow him to finish the year with respectable numbers.

Klein, who succeeded Chiles and interim General Manager Paul Richards on Oct. 4, 1982, after Eddie Robinson had been fired earlier that season, is the Rangers' fourth fulltime general manager since the franchise moved from Washington in

3-5A z

Moore was only a second-team alldistrict choice last year after gaining nearly 750 yards in nine games. He scored five touchdowns.

But they say good players are noticed on good teams. Last year's Coronado squad was a dismal 4-5.

Under the direction of first-year coach Kenneth Wallace, though, winning is something to which he has grown accustomed. Wallace hopes to bring his winning ways across town in Lubbock from Dunbar (where he coached last year).

Wallace welcomes back quarterback Kyle Allison to be in charge of Wallace's new-to-Coronado I Formation. The 5-9, 180-pounder will be added threat to run from his backfield position.

With Moore and Allison set to gear a ground attack, the Mustangs might just run over a few people.

Any of these teams - Palo Duro, Hereford, Monterey, Plainview, Coronado - could take the top two district spots into the playoffs. More than likely, the remaining teams in District 3-5A will be fighting among themselves to stay out of the cellar.

Amarillo Tascosa

The Rebels winning percentage over the last two years is a dismal .333 in 18 contests, with the future not looking a whole lot brighter.

With the only bright spot (quarterback Brad Pemberton) in Tascosa's offense gone, the Amarillo school will have to rely on its defense if it hopes to finish close to .333 in 1984.

Six strong starters return to the defensive unit. Tommy Wilson (5-10, 180) and Ricky Urguhart (6-0, 185) are back at the tackle positions to anchor the interior line. Linebackers returning are Joe Stafford (6-1, 190) to the strong side, and Randy Messer (6-2, 200).

James Galloway, a 5-11, 175-pounder, is back at end, and 5-9, 170-pound Scott Cottrell plays again at strong safety.

Even though Pemberton is gone, coach Duane Huey believes the Rebels' running game will be improved. Huey welcomes the return of two running backs, Arthur Guerrero (5-10, 190) and Wood Norvell (5-10, Thirteen total lettermen return.

Amarillo Caprock

Nineteen lettermen return to Caprock from last year's squad, something sure to please coach Ray Bassinger.

However, Bassinger has to come up with players to for three key positions in the offense: two backs and a split end.

Although the receivers and running backs may be inexperienced, running with confidence should pose no problem for Caprock. All five interior linemen return.

From tackle to tackle, those players are Scott Liles (5-10, 220), Sam Murdock (5-11, 180), Tony Rodriquez (5-9, 180), Tim Carroll (5-10, 195) and Doug Roberts (6-2,

The five linemen should provide plenty of protection for quarterback Bryan Young to look for his young receivers. The 5-11, 175-pounder is another returnee.

Two starters are back on defense, Jeff Gray (6-3, 200) and Mario Garcia (5-10, 155) at end and safety, respectively.

Caprock will have to put more points on the board in '84 to offset its inexperienced defense.

Lubbock High

Fans of the Westerners have had to get used to seeing their team finish near the bottom of District 3-5A the last few years, and unfortunately for LHS fans, 1984 may not be any different.

YMCA Champs

St. Anthony's Catholic Church team No. 2 won the YMCA co-ed softball tournament, completed Aug. 30. Games have been played since early July. Members of the winning team are pictured above, front row from left: Andrew Garza, Richard Stengel, Wade Easley and Lonnie Perez. Middle row: Brenda Yosten, Phille Garza, Colleen Meya and Renee Zinzer. Back row: Reed Parsell, Shirley McCulloch, Ann Bowes, David Zinzer and Darwin Manning. welcomes a host of lettermen to the team. The first-year coach plans to rely on his backfield to produce an extra number of points this year, referring to 1983's output of only 5.1

points per game. Quarterback Tommy Gonzales (6-2, 185) and fullback Trey McClendon (5-10, 190) should provide the necessary leadership, however, to accomplish that task. Both are returning starters.

The closest thing Lubbock had to an All-District selection in 1983 returns for action this fall. Defensive tackle Ken Whitfield (6-2, 220), an all-district honorable mention pick a year ago, must provide the needed leadership to a defensive squad which allowed nearly 30 points per outing in 1983.

Whitfield will be joined by another honorable mention selection, Alvin Hargers (6-4, 210). Both players are

New coach Henry Galindo expected to see action at the end

It's hard to climb out of the cellar in just one year, and Lubbock High fans probably will find out just how tough it is.

Dimmitt fun run opens Saturday

Harvest Days Run begins its 10-K, 5-K and one-mile fun run or walk at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 8 in Dimmitt.

Entrants must pay a fee of $7 by Sept. 7. Entries may be paid at 200 E. Bedford in Dimmitt. Penalty for late registration is $1 and is payable the day of the races at Dimmitt City Hall on the southeast corner of Courthouse Square.

Trophies will be awarded to the overall male and female winners in each race and to the top three finishers in each division.

Men's divisions for the 10-K and 5-K are for ages 19 and under, 20-29, 30-37, 38-44 and 45 and over. Women have two age divisions in the races, one for 19 and under and one for 20 and over.

In the one-mile fun run or walk, divisions for men and women are for ages 12 and under and an open division. Awards will go to the oldest man and oldest woman who finish the race.

A few hills line the fast and looped course. Mile markers are posted every mile, with water stations are located at one-, three- and five-mile roads and streets. For more information, call the Harvest Days Run headquarters at 647-3286 during the day, or 647-3231 at marks. Runners will travel on paved

TEXAS JUNKMAN
ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — FrankTanana, Texas Ranger southpaw, was a fast ball pitcher with blazing force only a few years ago. But the heat went out of his fast one.
"Once you lose your fast ball," Tanana said, "you either learn how to pitch or find another profession."
Now labeled a "junkman," dugout jargon for pitchers who throw slow, breaking stuff, Tanana says he has learned how to keep the hitters offbalance.

We can live with the mistakes made at the Olympic Games. Nevertheless, a participant in the 1988 Games has to wonder what the rules are. If the referees don't play by the rules, why should he?

Even when the refs do play by the rules, though, the rules may not have any merit, as was the Brett case. And all of the inconsistencies - in rules, players, former players and other things - in sports today should concern everyone who enjoys them.

Couples opens two-shot lead

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) - Fred Couples, the winner of two PGA Tour events in his four-year career, knows that checks and trophies are awarded on Sunday and what you have done before that doesn't really mat-

Not willing to rest on a one-shot lead after one round of the $300,000 B.C. Open, Couples attacked the tricky greens of the En-Joie Golf Club Friday, shrugging off mistakes and carding a 1-under-par 70 which gave him a two-shot lead over a group of four golfers halfway through the 72-hole event.

After an opening 66, Couples' 36-hole total was 6-under 136.

"At times I get a little aggressive with my putting, but I didn't miss any short ones," Couples said. "If I can shoot 6-under the next two days, I should (win), but to do that, I'll have to make some putts like I've done the first two days.'

Couples, 24, is the biggest 1984 money-winner in this Professional Golfers' Association event with $313,701 in 23 tournaments - fourth on the money list - and is at the top of his game. Ironically, Bob Gilder, one of the four tied for second, has watched his game sour.

Eric Mullins Oiler rookie anxious

HOUSTON (AP) - He could have been studying for a career in medicine this fall but instead he is preparing to do surgery on National Football League secondaries as a wide receiver for the Houston Oilers.

It's all a surprise to rookie sixthround draft choice Eric Mullins of Stanford, who will begin his pro football career with the Houston Oilers Sunday against the defending Super Bowl champion Los Angeles Raiders in the Astrodome.

Owens describes movement

Stephen Ministry offers care

Staff Writer

What comes to mind when one thinks of a long-term commitment to care for another person? For Ray Owens, music minister and membership nurturer at First Christian Church, the Stephen Ministry does.

The Stephen Ministry was named after Stephen, the first deacon of the early Christian church and a martyr. The ministry was developed in 1974 by Kenneth Haugk, a Lutheran pastor and clinical psychologist, who saw a need for people who would be willing to help another person through a difficult time.

"The most unique aspect of the ministry is the one-to-one relationship and the long-term care," Owens

The program is designed to give Christian caring to those in need and is actually practical theology.

"When a crisis comes, some people need long-term care, not just a couple of visits from someone," Owens said.

The ministry addresses needs of people who are hospitalized, grieving, lonely, experiencing the loss of a job, struggling with their faith with God, and many other problems.

Owens and other members of First Christian recognized another need in 'Many of our members needed to know what their roles are in the church. While we were attending a seminar in Garden Grove Community Church in California," Owens explained, "we heard of the Stephen Ministry and thought it was exactly what we needed.

"When we returned from the seminar," he added, "Patricia Weldon (church member) and I attended the leadership training conference for the Stephen Ministry in Kansas City for two weeks."

The conference, taught by Haugk and his staff, covered a variety of topics, with the participants' denominations ranging from liberal to conservative.

Training, however, does not stop at the leadership training level. In Hereford, training starts Sept. 22 for the lay members of the church in an all-day workshop and continues every Thursday for six months from 7 to 9:30 p.m. After six months, training will be every other week for 18

Teaching the curriculum here will be Owens, Weldon, Bill Devers - now in charge of the Good Shepherd ministry - and Elva Devers. Fifteen to 20 are expected to enroll for the training.

"Those participating tend to have had lots of pain in their past and realize what it could've meant if someone had been there for them," Owens explained.

The training will include such topics as "feelings," "listening," "confidentiality," "use of prayer and the Bible" and other specialized Initial training is not all, though. Continued training is especially important.

"We have support groups which meet to help other ministers."

Owens said. "Confidentiality is really important, though, so when groups share their experiences, they only mention the situation, not the name of the person."

Most important of all, however, is learning how to listen, Owens said.

"We listen with a caring ear...Our call is not to give advice but to listen."

Individuals who want to participate in the program must be willing to make a two-year commitment that consists of training and caregiving. After six months, they will be commissioned by the church to do ministry work.

Not only does the Stephen Ministry aid those in need - it also benefits the ministers.

"The personal growth of the ministers is phenomenal," Owens said. "People discover new meaning to life as they give of themselves to others."

The church pastor makes all assignments of ministers to someone in need, and each lay minister has only one person to counsel at a time.

Stephen Ministries are spread throughout the United States and into Canada, with several churches in Texas using it. The headquarters in St. Louis, Mo., distribute materials as they are developed to the participating churches.

The ministry is interdenominational. Training sessions in Hereford are open to anyone to audit at any time. For more information, contact Owens at the the church office,

HECE program at HHS begins

Students at Hereford High School have the opportunity to take part in a home economics course which mixes classroom education and on-the-job training in a variety of occupations.

This class of home economics cooperative education (HECE) is open to junior and senior students for the fourth year and Kris Dollar is serving as the HECE teachercoordinator. She will be responsbile for the selection and placement of students and is to coordinate the classroom and job experiences.

The work experience of HECE will be provided for students through part-time employment at cooperating businesses in Hereford. Occupational areas include child care and guidance, clothing managment production and services, food management production and services, home furnishings and institutional and home management.

The course is designed for one or two years and carries three credits Patriarchs Militant and Ladies each year. Students will receive pay comparable to that paid beginning workers in the same occupations. Participating in this type of course will enable students who desire to for practical and useful training of become occupationally competent to enter full-time employment upon graduation from high school. HECE claims to help the school and community provide a well-rounded education in occupational areas that would otherwise not be possible. The young adults. An advisory committee of local citizens and business people has been established to assist the home economics departments and Dollar. Interested students should call Kenneth Helms, vocational director, or Dollar at HHS, 364-0617.

Church film workshop set for Sept. 21-22

"Possibility Principles for in the community by recruiting, Growth," a film workshop, will be conducted by Wilbert B. Eichenberger at the First Presbyterian Church from 7 to 10 p.m. Sept. 21 and the next day, Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The five films feature Dr. Robert H. Schuller, senior pastor the Crystal Cathedral of Garden Grove, Calif., and the internationally televised "Hour of Power," as he lectures on the church campus during the Institute for Successful Church Leader-

The workshop is designed specifically for pastors and the lay people of the local church. Churches of all denominations are invited to bring or send a delegation. The focus of the workshop is to be to share with all churches how the church can become most effective as a mission training, and mobilizing the laity. Eichenberger, executive director of the institute, said that these are the same five lectures born out of Dr.

Registration for the workshop is $35 per person. Tickets will be sold in advance only and may be purchased from any deacon of First Presbyterian Church or at the church office. A nursery will be provided at no charge. For more information, contact the church at 364-2471 or 364-2574

Mexico battling drug trafficking

MEXICO CITY (AP) - For years, Mexico has been a source of marijuana and opium to the United States, but the government, mounting what one drug agent calls "a war without end," is waging an uphill battle to wipe out the illegal crops for good.

U.S. officials say Mexico once was the No. 1 supplier of marijuana to Americans, but the bottom fell out of the market when the government in 1974 began spraying the plants with herbicides - notably paraquat and

Despite the fall from notoriety as the No. 1 supplier, drug cultivation has remained a persistent problem and officials estimate that 10 percent of the marijuana smoked in the United States comes from Mexico.

"They are growing more marijuana than before, but we are destroying more than before also," one Mexican drug agent said. "It is a war without end."

President Miguel de la Madrid has made the anti-drug war a major priority of his administration.

'Please Don't Hurt My Kids'

TODAY, MY DAUGHTER who is six years old, started to school for the first time. Her brother was with her, but he's only nine himself, and he still looks pretty little to me. Their cocker spaniel, whose name is 'Scott', sat on the front porch as they waved "goodbye" and started Dear Driver, LAST NIGHT WE TALKED ABOUT SCHOOL-my daughter and I. She wondered what the teacher would be like...she hoped she would sit beside Mary (the little girl next door). She said her "letters" off to the halls of learning. for me-just to be sure she knew them. Oh, we talked about a lot of things-tremendously vital, unimportant things. Then she tried on her plaid pinafore to show me...and then to bed. "Princess Elizabeth" (thats her doll) cuddled in her right arm. You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut, or her hand gets banged, I can fix it-but when she and Brother start to school, when they walk across the street, they're in your hands. THEY'RE NICE KIDS, both of them. They like to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoon. But I can't be with them all the time. I have to work to pay for their clothes and education. So please help me look out for them. Please drive carefully past the schools and intersections-and please remember that children do run PLEASE DON'T HURT MY KIDS! from behind parked cars.

Markley, Gardner nuptials exchanged

Wedding vows were exchanged by Karen Markley and Corey Gardener of Plainview during an afternoon ceremony Friday at First Christian Church of Dimmitt. Roy Barringer of Hereford, former pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Hawkins of Route 3 and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerrel Gardner of McLean,

The church altar was decorated by a spiral candelabrum which was flanked by ferns. Kay Ballard served as maid of honor and Terry Gardner served his brother as best man.

Escorting guests were Shan Powell and Brandon Cox, both of Dimmitt.

Michal Flowers of Tulia served as pianist playing principal wedding selections including "Truely" "Through the Eyes of Love" and "We've Only Just Begun".

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Willis Hawkins, the bride wore a candlelight gown of Andrea lace over satin. It was fashioned with a Victorian neckline, puffed threequarter-length lace sleeves with scalloped edging and matching scalloped edging at the hem of the mid-calf-length dress.

The illusion veil of candlelight net was also edged in lace and was gathered at a silk floral wreath that the bride purchased in England. She carried a bouquet of white spring flowers and pink roses trimmed with pink ribbon.

The bride also wore an heirloom necklace belonging to her late grandmother, Mrs. Glenn La Plant.

The bridal attendant wore a mauve taffeta mid-calf-length dress designed with Cinderella puffed sleeves and round neckline. She carried a single

Many American families have for allow more frequent and natural years experienced tense lifestyles, communication between parents and marked by long work hours away from home, lengthy commutes in heavy traffic and a fractured family life. But developments in computer technology may now make it possible for more families to have a homebased, family-oriented lifestyle.

Computer technology means that parents can work anywhere and anytime. They can also work freelance or for a salary. Once recent survey revealed that over six million people are already working from their homes.

It's estimated that by the year 2000 a third of our population will be working from home, at least part time. What kind of impact will working at home have on families? Interviews with families already involved in computer work-at-home arrangements indicate the following.

- Families have more freedom to create their own lifestyles. So working at home can either be good or bad - it's up to the family members. If you like being around your family, you'll probably enjoy it.

- There's more family interaction. Frequent breaks from the computer children. - Families see more of each other. Commuting time is now spent at home. The family has more common knowledge of what goes on in each member's day. Spouses may lunch together and parents greet children as they return from school even if only briefly.

Men become more involved in domestic chores. Because of their presence in the home, more fathers are available to deal with household emergencies, children's illnesses

Women may manage a family and career more easily, feeling less guilt and worry about their children.

- Children are more involved in their parents' work. They overhear business discussions, observe their parents at work and are more aware of work and money matters.

Despite the adjustments that have to be made by these families, they seem convinced that their lifestyles have improved and that family and work are being brought together

Lee Washington exchanged wedding vows Friday evening at Frio Baptist Church with the Rev. Jack Abendschan of Wesley Methodist Church officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dobbins of Route 3 and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Washington of Route

A 16-branch candelabra with a horse shoe at the base of each candle and trimmed with fresh greenery and baby's breath decorated the church. Two 16-branch spiral candelabra flanked the center candelabra. Pews were marked with white satin bows with pom-poms and Carla Leverman, the brides sister from Irving, serve as the matron of honor and Earl Washington served his son as best man.

Ushers were Richard Dobbins, the brother of the bride, and Rod Cleveland, the cousin of the groom. Doug and Myndi Janovec sang "Just You and I" and "We've Only

Just Begun" accompanied by

Darlene Richardson on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white wedding gown of organza and chantilly lace with Venice lace and satin ribbons. The gown featured an off-theshoulder neckline of ruffled chantilly lace and organza edged in satin ribbing that flowed over the shoulder to a low back accented with an organza flower and satin streamers at the waist. The fitted bodice and natural waist was of chantilly lace overlay and Venice lace applique with sequins. The full organza skirt has a deep knee-length ruffle which was accented at the top with chantilly lace and rows of satin ribbin and flowed into a semi-cathedral-length train.

Her finger tip-length veil was attached to a wreath of white silk flowers and pearls.

The bride's cascade silk bouquet was of periwinkle blue, gray and white roses, mini carnations, stephonates and baby's breath, and was tied with lace and picot ribbons. She also wore pearl and diamond drop earrings.

The matron of honor wore a periwinkle blue tafetta dress and carried a nosegay of periwinkle blue, gray, and white mini carnations, Carrol DeAnna Dobbins and Don roses, pom-poms and baby's breath. The couple's mothers each wore a corsage with double white orchids and baby's breath framed with periwinkle blue.

Mrs. Bret West invited guests to register at the reception held in the church fellowship hall. A white rosebud decorated with greenery and baby's breath trimmed in periwinkle blue adorned the table.

Robin Baldwin and Mrs. Walter Paetzold served the bride's cake, while Michell Burfield and Tammy Lookingbill served refreshments. The bride's threetiered cake was served on the table with her Bible that was a gift from the groom's grandmother. The bride's bouquet was placed on the Bible with candles surrounding it.

The groom's chocolate cake with a chocolate horse shoe on top was served by Renee Rutherford, cousin of the groom from Lubbock. The groom's table was decorated with a bronzed sculpture and a horse shoe bouquet of mini carnations, pompoms, greenery and baby's breath.

Others assisting at the reception included the bride's aunt, Loleta Vinson; cousin of the groom, Paula Bagwell; and Joann Burfield, Bonnie Baldwin, Patsy Sparkman and Wanda Nall.

Leaving for a wedding trip to San Antonio the bride wore a berry and gray silk dress with gray accessories.

The couple will make their home after Sept. 4 in Hereford.

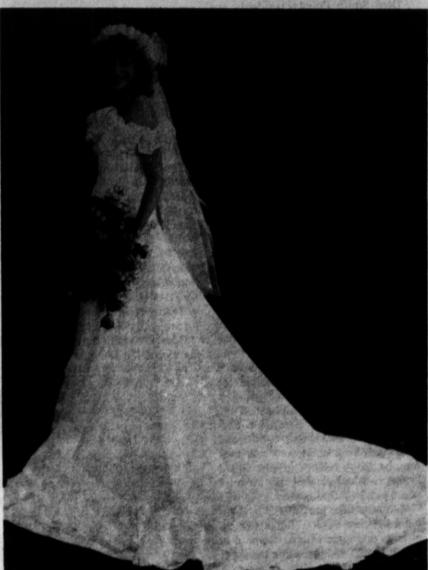

The bride, a 1983 graduate of Hereford High School, attended West Texas State University and is currently employed by M and W Carrot.

The bridegroom, a 1981 Hereford High School graduate, attended Frank Phillip in Borger and Amarillo College. He is currently employed in Hereford.

Besides Hereford, guests came from Amarillo, Dumas, Irving, Claude, Muleshoe, Tulia, Dimmitt

4-H recruitment night scheduled

Deaf Smith County residents are invited to attend the annual 4-H Recruitment Night, scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday in the banquet room of Hereford Community Center.

The event will feature local 4-Hers and 4-H clubs, special guest Robert Devin, 4-H and youth specialist Delbert Hollis, 4-H council members and "many more," according to Susan Rainey and Brad Morrison, county extension agents.

According to the agents, the annual Recruitment Night promises to be exciting. This year, a private donor has donated $100 worth of door prizes which will be given out at the end of the evening to four lucky young people. The 4-Her who rings the most new people to join 4-H will receive special recognition and be honored during the evening.

Formed to help young people learn how to do new things through learnby-doing projects, 4-H has no membership fee to pay, but each member is usually responsible for financing his or her own projects.

The organization is a phase of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Membership is open to boys and girls ages 9 to 19. However, a new membership ruling allows third graders, whether they are 8 or 9 years old, to join this year.

Members take part in 4-H by joining a 4-H club. Such a club is a group of boys and girls who participate in 4-H projects led by volunteer 4-H leaders, run their own club, elect officers and develop their own club program with the help of the leaders. Improving leadership and citizenship are two of the claimed benefits of 4-H club membership. Several community service projects are conducted by clubs and leadership is gained by helping others. Education is its forte, as 4-H explores many things from rabbits to rockets, canning to camping and shooting sports to veterinary science. The 4-H club emblem is a four-leaf clover with the leter "H" on each leaf. The four letters stand for head, heart, hands and health. Leaves of the clover are green and the Hs are white. The white stands for purity and the green - nature's most common color - symbolic of youth, life and growth. Publicity from 4-H of-develop useful skills and apply them. Health - To develop habits of good health.

Members select and conduct their projects with the approval and support of parents. Encouragement and much of the resources needed for project work are to partly come from parents. "The understanding parent," Rainey said, "is often the force that helps 4-H members through their beginning years of 4-H and sets the stage for a fulfiling and enriching experience as senior 4-H

By DIANNE PIERSON Library Director

Bestsellers are featured this week at Deaf Smith County Library. The featured books are "The Miko" by Eric Van Lustbader and "The Fourth Protocol" by Frederick For-

The incredible saga that began with Van Lustbader's "The Ninja" now continues with "Miko." A revered sensei is brutally murdered by his favorite student, the only female student in this ancient dojo in the mountaintops of Japan. The murderess is a Miko, a sorceress, indescribably beautiful, overpoweringly sensual, possessing incomprehisible powers. She plans to use her powers to destroy Nicholas Linnear.

Much has happened to Nicholas since his awesome triumph over Saigo in "Ninja." He is still very much in love with Justine Tomkin, Tomkin has killed his best friend, Lew Croaker, Nicholas hopes that he can now use his position to prove it. As Tomkin's top advisor, Nicholas must return for the first time in years to Japan, where he becomes embroiled in something bigger and more important than he's ever imagined: an epic power play by the Communist Chinese to take over one of Japan's top computer firms.

Van Lustbader links a mysterious connection from long ago to the simmering passions of today. His wonderful sense of Japanese history and customs as well as his brilliant rendering of his characters' pasts make this link truly compelling. In "Miko," he raises the Oriental world of honor and death to a new level of terror and sensuality.

Also available this week it "Protocol." It is Forsyth's most ingeniously constructed and tensely paced novel since "The Day of the Jackal." A meticulously executed jewel robbery in London on New Year's Eve sets off the action with deceptive simplicity. Soon, however, readers are introduced to a train of plot and counterplot that will carry them to the highest councils of Kremlin leadership. It also carries them to the countdown of a contrived accident which could change the face of British politics forever and trigger the collapse of the Western Alliance.

r 'It is to prevent this "accident" that agent John Preston runs a course that will take him thousands of miles, cost him endless bleak hours of surveillance and lead him to doubt the loyalty of some of Her Majesty's most sensitively placed servitors.

but much to her displeasure, he has . A master storyteller, Forsyth has gone to work for her father. Convinc- also authored "The Odessa File," ed that the billionaire Raphael "The Dogs of War" and the short story collection "No Comebacks."

Also available this week are "Him With His Foot in His Mouth and Other Stories" by Saul Bellow, "Bubble, Bubble, Toil and Trouble" by Shirley Lueth and "Folk Quilts" and how to recreate them by Audrey and Douglas Wiss.

LISTEN, WORLD! God, all night long I miss him. Lying half asleep - my conscious memory lost. I wonder if he tossed the blankets off. Or if the rain is blowing on his sill. Or if he's ill - my baby.

And often waking, I find myself beside his bed, Stopping to kiss the little tousled head that is no longer there.

I stand and stare with streaming

At that smooth pillow and unruffled Remembering slowly, that my son is

All day long I listen for his step, His whistle and his sweet, uncertain

I listen until the silence tightens 'round my throat. Oh God, you know I'd give my life to hear his voice again.

To feel, once more, the touch of his young, eager hand. To stand and watch him play,

And feel the pride leap in me like a flame. I'd give my life, I say - and yet I wouldn't. I must stay right here and do my job, till I have earned the right to go away. The time has passed.

I loved him - yes! But love is not a To satisfy one's private pride and joy. No - love's a part of that eternal plan By which God manifests himself to

And we who love must also dare to keep the faith

When those we love are lost, Lest weaker spirits, watching, cry out that love's not worth the cost.

Forgive our fears! And so, my Father, take my grief to-There is a nobler duty facing us that day as tribute to the glory you sent

It is our proud and shining mission to Love's rare, abiding pride and

We, only, who have lost, can know that love is worth

Whatever it may cost.

APEX The pricing on international flights is certainly more uniform that on domestic flights. The reason is that the International Air Transport Association (IATA), a powerful industry trade organization, acts as a pric-ing cartel by recomending fare levels for most international airlines. In turn, the prices on given routes are then approved by the respective governments. Since nearly all major international carriers belong to IATA, al air fares as there is domestically. Amidst the "recommended" prices, however, is the Advance Purchase Excursengers at least 50 percent of the standard coach fare on international round trips Most APEX fares require 21-day advance

Mary Carter elected as chairman

Members of the Texas Extension Homemakers Association met recently in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library before council convened to elect a new TEHA chairman.

Mary A. Carter of Ford Club will serve as chairman and delegates chosen to attend the state meeting Sept. 18-20 in San Angelo include Carter, Gayle Carter and Johnnie Messer. Alternates for the convention are Nell Pope, Clara Trowbridge and Helen Caraway.

North Hereford Club members served as hostess for the meeting with nine clubs represented and six clubs having 100 percent attendance.

Also, during the business session, it was announced that the yearbook committee will meet at 2 p.m. Sept. 26 at the library. A recommendation was made to change the fall luncheon from Oct. 1 to Oct. 9 at the communi-

Messer gave her report on the float that was in the Town & Country Jubilee parade. It won two awards.

Before the close of the meeting, club presidents gave their semiannual reports and agents also presented reports.

Mangione cuts MacLaine song

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - When Chuck Mangione wrote a song about Academy Award-winning actress Shirley MacLaine for his new album. he had no idea she'd actually record

But she did, laying down a raspy, laughing and obviously impromptu rap over a funky Mangione instrumental called "Shirley MacLaine," one of seven songs on the LP, "Disguise," which was released this month.

"She was like a jazz musician. She has incredible time. Her rhythm was absolutely wonderful," Mangione said during an interview in his den at Gates Music, Inc. - his home base.

Mangione, 43, first met Miss MacLaine in April after a performance of her one-woman Broadway show. It was the week she celebrated her 50th birthday.

"I hid behind erdresing room door, and when she came out I honked 'Happy Birthday' at her," he said.

The flugelhornist-composerarranger recorded "Shirley the Brazilian-born musician best MacLaine" and was going to have known for his jazz-rock hit version of

The next night, Mangione said, Miss MacLaine came to the Manhattan studio with her own idea - an upbeat rap she said would lift Mangione's spirits after the sad song that precedes it, "She's Not Mine to Love (No More)."

"Hey, Chuck!" the rap begins. "It's me, Shirley. MacLaine. 'No

The producer was Eumir Deodato,

"Also Sprach Zarathustra (Theme from 2001)." Mangione says one advantage of the collaboration is that it allowed him to play his horn more than usual.

"In the past I was so busy producing and organizing that I would write myself out of the music as a player," he said. "When you got down to your part there was one track left of the 24, or whatever."

'She's NotMINE Love (No More)," a highlight of the album, includes lyrics richly sung by Mangione's friend, Don Potter.

The family-minded Mangione also includes tributes to his daughter, 'Diana 'D'," and his sister, "Josephine." Mangione said he will play

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Dabney Coleman has been the perfect picture of an overbearing, boorish bully in his movies and TV series, "Buffalo Bill." But underneath all that bravura is a shy and reserved man.

"It's true," said the actor as he chain-smoked cigarettes and drank espresso before lunch at a stylish San Fernando Valley cafe.

"I've been shy all my life. Maybe it stems from being the last of four children, all of them very handsome, including a brother who was Tyrone Power-handsome. ## 'Jigsaw' thought okay

"THE JIGSAW MAN" is a puzzle, all right: What's Laurence Olivier doing in this pot-boiler?

Chewing the scenery. Lord Olivier has a jolly time while appearing serenely oblivious to the inanity of the enterprise.

Olivier plays Adm. Sir Gerald Scaith, who is chasing a former head of British intelligence, Sir Philip Kimberley (Michael Caine), who has worn out his welcome in Moscow and has been sent back to Britain - with a new, younger face - to fetch microfilms of KGB payrolls going back 30 years. Kimberley stashed the film before he defected; the KGB offers him 1 million Swiss francs to retrieve it.

Kimberley, however, fancies $1 million, or maybe 1 million pounds. Once in England he defects, then escapes from the British, dodging gunfire from both sides.

The script hinges on the characters' gradual discovery that Kimberley, supposedly dead, is back among them, and on identifying a mole still burrowing in MI6. And it's all wrapped up with a romantic side plot, melancholy flashback and chase scene.

Curiously, no one seems at all put out with Kimberley for his treachery. Though his daughter (Susan George) has a wet-eyed moment asking why he didn't write. Scaith admires the defector perhaps because Kimberley at age 62 has such energetic karate moves while Scaith, presumably the same age, wheezes and shuffles like a man

Olivier's age. It is a pleasant enough film, but no better than 12 dozen TV shows which have worked the same territory in an old wooden building beside U.S. 1 highway could be called "the resurrected church." To the 2,000 residents of this island city between Key Largo and Islamorada, it's an historic community center now used by local clubs and charitable organizations.

To John and Lois Stormont, it represents a labor of love.

There's nothing ostentatious about the building or its furnishings, nor is it particularly old as churches go. But for the Stormonts and others who helped in its restoration, it is a part year after her marriage. of the keys' history they believe should be preserved.

Town Association and purchased the decrepit structure for $1,000. The money was raised by the Stormonts, friends and sympathizers who put on bake and yard sales, held raffles and asked for donations.

The original church was built in 1890 and was called Barnett's Chapel.

"This was farm country and the church was the focal point for everything," explains Mrs. Stormont, a Grand Rapids, Mich., native who came here from Miami in 1973, a

The original church was washed away in the Sept. 2, 1935, hurricane, the most intense of modern times. It struck the midsection of the keys with maximum winds estimated at more than 200 mph. Over 400 people perished.

TAVERNIER, Fla. (AP) - The formed the nonprofit Old Tavernier demolished homes, they built this one and called it the Tavernier Methodist Church," she explains. In 1959, the Methodists moved to a new building and it was sold to the Masonic Lodge, which used it until Mrs. Stormont learned it was up for sale again in 1981.

She laughs now when recalling the problems the association encountered after the building was purchased.

"First we bought this 75-by-100foot lot on U.S. 1. That cost $26,000. Then we had to move the building 15 feet from the one it was attached to and that cost $1,000," she explains.

Later that year, it took an additional $4,000 to move the building across the busy highway into a vacant lot. And, finally, it took another $4,000 to transport it three blocks to where it is today.

John Stormont supervised the restoration and did much of the work, aided by volunteers while the town's women continued with their fund-raising activities. Stormont works as an electronics repairman and the couple operate a mail-order underwater movie and slide business from their home. They have an 8-year-old son, Stephen.

Cattleman success keys given

COLLEGE STATION-Cattlemen who succeed in today's tough economic environment will be those who become more consumer and market-oriented and use the best management techniques to produce beef more competitively, according to a past president of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Sam Washburn of Fowler, Ind., said profit opportunities still exist for ranchers willing and able to invest, work , innovate and meet today's hanging consumer demands.

His observations were bsed on a recent study of a special advisory committee to CNA called "The Future of Beef." This report, he said, shows that beef remains by far the most trongly preferred meat.

Washburn, who addressed the Purebred Breeders Symposium at Texas A&M last week, said a most important change has been the maturing" of the meat industry in eneral, and the beef business in particular.

Meat is no longer a growth usiness, as it was from the 1950s through the 1970s, and average per capita consumption of all meat has eveled off at around 200-205 pounds, cetail weight, according to the feport. "This leveling off signals a highly ompetitive situation," Washburn aid. "Future beef industry growth will depend on population growth, expansion of exports, development of ew beef uses and products, progress n the competitive relationship between beef and other meats, improving beef's acceptance, and capturing greater share of the available market for meat."

The committee's analysis showed that most ranchers can improve their efficiency and performance just by using technology and techniques now available.

"Efficiency of production and marketing will have to improve for individual cattlemen and the industry. Narrowing of the price spread between beef and its competitors for the consumer's protein dollar is necessary for future profitability," he said.

Research will bring further advances in beef production, processing and marketing but the greatest advances of this decade will result from increased adoption of techniques and processes already available.

He also urged more unity in carrying out industry programs.

Also addressing consumer con-cerns about beef was Anne Anderson of Austin, a registered dietitian who has given leadership to conusmer education programs of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, Dairy Council, Inc., and the Beef Industry Council.

The industry has developed its long-range consumer marketing plan with the contemporary beef consumer in mind, Anderson explained. Called "1990-Planning to Get There Profitably," it is designed to make the best use of available resources. and to anticipate future trends, she

"This industry-wide commitment involves promotion, public relations, education and research. In education, the program conducted in the nation's public schools-including the fifth grade in Texas-will reach 47 million of tomorrow's consumers during the next six years. Research also is having high impact as new positive information about beef becomes available," Anderson said.

A six-year research study conducted in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture showed that beef is lower in calories than was previously thought, lower in cholesterol and still an excellent source of protein, B vitamins and minerals-all good news for consumers, Anderson said.

A new product commanding interest is restructured meat, or meat which has been shaped and formed into a different, more palatable product. This technology offers many exciting possibilities in the years ahead, she commented.

The Purebred Breeders Symposium was organized by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, and Texas A&M's Department of Animal Science, in cooperation with 15 cattle breed associations.

any size of ranch operation, Maddux said, and those who fail to take advantage of it are missing a good thing.

Good management necessary

"Good planning is a desciplinarian that brings an operation face to face with unpleasant facts that we sometimes ignore. Some of us fail to prioritize, and scatter our resources on a little of everything," Maddux told the ranchers.

He believes that the planning process provides a better way for ranch management or family members to reach agreement periodically on six basic phases of the planning process.

These basics, he said, are where you are at present, where you want to go, how you want to get there, when you wish to arrive, who is going to "drive," and how much the trip will cost.

Maddux and his family own and operate an integrated cattle business (cow-calf, stocker and feeding operation) in southwestern Nebraska.

had a part in developing." Dr. Atkins was in charge of small grains and flax research for Texas A&M University from 1930 to 1969, when he retired after 40 years of service. During that time, he and his associates developed and released 16 varieties of wheat, 14 varieties of oats, 5 varieties of barley and 3 of

The research group was also responsible for the development of the firs hard red winter, semi-dwarf varieties-Sturdy and Caprock. These and newer varieties have now replaced all the tall varieties formerly grown. They also developed the storm resistant varieties-Tascosa, Caddo and Quannah.

The first variety relesed for the Panhandle was Westar, which in 1949 was grown on 1.5 million acres. Tascosa has been grown on about 500,000 acres eachyear since 1965. The semi-dwarf varieties are now grown on millions of acres.

"The development of the semidwarf wheats is prhaps my most significant accomplishment," Dr. Atkins said. "This variety makes possible the high yields of wheat."

His research group is credited with the development of winter hardy, disease resistant oat varieties enabling farmers to seed oats for winter pasture and grain. Prior to 1940, only spring oats were grown in the colder parts of the state. Likewise, the barley varieties-Wintex, Texan, Cordova, Era and others-came from the research group.

The discovery of greenbug resistance in barley led to the development of Era, Will and others. Cold tolerant flax varieties Caldwell, Dillman and Mac were developed to provide cold tolerant varieties for South Texas.

After Dr. Atkins retired in 1969 from Texas A&M, he "hit the road running" and worked for Grain Research Associaties, a group of Texas seedsmen, developing TexRed and Maverick, two new semi-dwarf wheats and three spring wheats for South Texas.

Since 1969, he has worked as breder and consultant to Warner Seed of Hereford and others. Also, under contract with Texas A&M he researched the history of wheat in Texas and published a monograph recording on the growing of wheat since 1682.

While serving on the Texas A&M faculty, Dr. Atkins was advisor to some 30 masters and Phd degree students from the United States and 10 foreign countries. These students now occupy important positions in the U.S., Korea, India, Pakistan, Panama, and Egypt. He was awarded the Professor Emeritus status upon retirement and the Fellow award of the American Society of Agronomy in 1958.

George Warner, left, of George Warner Seed Company, admired the shadow box of Dr. I.M. Atkins, right, which contains the tools he has used in his work of improving wheat and other small grains. Atkins' tools were immobilized upon his second retirement. He has recently been a consultant for Warner's company.

Soybean competition slated

COLLEGE STATION-Texas Soybean growers have a chance to win some awards by producing a top crop this year.

All they need to do is enter the Texas Soybean Yield Contest sponsored by the Texas Soybean Association and Elanco Products Co. in conjunction with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"The constest is designed as an educational tool to stimulate interest in soybean production and to promote production efficiency," said Dr. Travis D. Mill, extension service agronomist. "Benefits include the development of worthwhile cultural information, cooperation within the industry to increase production efficiency, and recognition of individuals who achieve superior Interested producers should contact their county extension agent for contest rules and entry forms, the agronomist pointed out. All entries must be in by Sept. 1.

Economist believes

July's cattle report positive

COLLEGE STATION-The midyear cattle inventory startled many analysts, but the July cattle-on-feed report was encouraging, according to an economist in livestock marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The mid-year cattle inventory, which compared current numbers to those a year ago, showed total cattle and calf numbers down 1 percent, beef cows down 1 percent, milk cows down 2 percent, beef replacement heifers down 3 percent, and the 1984 calf crop down 2 percent.

"These estimates seem conservative, considering the drought conditions that have plagued much of the nation since January," pointed out Dr. Ed Uvacek. "With all northern winter liquidation caused by excessive snow and the southern liquidation due to drought, these estimates still show that we have had no further reduction in beef cow or eplacement heifer numbers. It's hard for me to believe these Uvacek attributed these questionable estimates to the drastically reduced sample size for the mid-year cattle inventory imposed in 1982. Because of this reduction, the reliability of the estimates and their ability to provide meaningful information has been severely reduced, he contended.

By the year's end, when a larger and more comprehensive survey is taken, Uvacek predicted that the inventory will show a substanctial loss in cattel numbers, particularly in cows and replacement heifers.

'The encouraging news in July cattle-on-feed report was the 5 percent drop in feedlot placements during the second quarter," Uvacek said. "Assuming that many of these calves were of standard size, this gives us some feel for marketings in the fourth quarter of the year."

Since the seven major cattle feeding states showed the greatest drop in June placements, fed cattle supplies should be light in the last quarter, particularly toward the end of the year, Uvacek believed.

The report also indicated a slightly higher level of fed cattle marketing during the second quarter, which was somewhat surprising to Uvacek. "It came despite a seven-state marketing gain of 4 percent in April and May, and a reported drop of only 1 percent in June. This emphasizes the misleading inference that can be imputed from the seven-state totals," he said.

"Fed cattle prices should display some gradual strength in the near future," Uvacek said. "Fed beef is expected to become less available as the year progresses. That, in addition to a drop in pork supplies and a demand spurred by improved economic conditions, should allow beef prices to improve."

The economist also foresaw a fairly tight supply of feeder cattle late this year due to massive herd liquidations, and this should allow feeder prices to move upward.

Rural theft tops urban crime

COLLEGE STATION-There was time when farmers and rachers din't worry much about locking foors on their barns or homes. Unfortunately, times have changed so such so that the rural crime-particularly theft-is now outpacing urdan crime.

Despite the rapid increase in rural rime, farmers and ranchers still do not take many steps to prevent theft, did Dr. J. Fred Cross of Stephenville, a community development specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Tractors, in particualr, are a major

3. Lock in gear. Many tractor thieves use tilt bed trucks or trailers and a inch line to load a tractor. If the tractor's transmission cannot be put in neutral, then the wheels will not turn readily, making loading difficult. A hinged

A long shanked, heavy duty padlock, such as on used to lock motrcycle wheels, also can be used to lock the gear shift and steering wheel together to keep the tractor in gear and to prevent steering. 4. Chain the wheels. A heavy duty hardened chain and good padlock

Dr. Carl Patrick, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, reported that heavy numbers of adult moths have been caught in light traps throughout the area and that these numbers appear to be increasingly causing a continual pressure for insect buildup.

As corn silage is harvested, this will place more pressure on sorghum, cotton and soy beans. The pest that we call the sorghum headworm is also called the cotton bollworm, corn earworm and soybean podworm. As the corn is removed, the moths will lay their eggs on these other crops and, since the sorghum acreage is greater, the greatest potential for population
