Apartments sued for discrimination

Tenants of Blue Water Garden Apartments have filed a class-action complaint in Federal District Court, claiming the management of the federally-subsidized complex is guilty of racial discrimination.

Attorneys for Texas Rural Legal Aid are representing the plaintiffs, who ask for injunctive and monetary relief against Blue Water Garden managers Lewis and Carol Orthman and the Maxwell Management Corporation.

Representing the plaintiff class are Flora Agüero, Opal Lee Walker, Dolores Martinez and Helen Ruth Stotts. Agüero and Martinez are Hispanic, while Walker and Stotts are black.

TRLA attorney Randall Marshall said the court action came after the Orthmans failed to respond to a list of grievances submitted to them Aug. 14 by a newly-formed Blue Water Garden Tenants' Association.

Included on the list were tenant complaints of invasion of privacy, failure of the management to make repairs repeatedly asked for and objections to curfews and restricted visitation privileges allegedly enacted by the management.

The complaint was filed Tuesday. On Wednesday, U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson set Oct. 1 as the date for a preliminary injunction hearing. Robinson also ordered the Orthmans to provide the plaintiffs with copies of a number of documents relating to rental policies at the apartments.

Citing the Fair Housing Act of 1968, the Civil Rights act and the Rehabilitation Services Act, the plaintiffs are showing six specific causes of action.

Walker, who has lived at the complex at 612 Irving St. since 1974, says her health and safety have been threatened because the management failed to repair her ceiling, windows and air conditioning and did not exterminate rats and roaches.

An additional claim made by Walker is that she asked for and was refused a rent adjustment when her income was reduced. She reported to be living on Social Security in the amount of $298 a month since June of this year.

Martinez, who is disabled and has a young daughter, leased an apartment at Blue Water Gardens in March of last year. She claims the Orthmans have failed to move her to a downstairs apartment although she requested the transfer soon after moving in to a second-story unit.

Martinez also complained about maintenance problems similar to those mentioned by Walker.

Stotts, who now lives in Amarillo, was reportedly eligible for participation in the Section 8 Housing Program when she applied for housing at Blue Water Gardens. She was denied admission and has accused the managers of rejecting her on the basis of race.

The complaint also accuses the management of maintaining racially segregated housing by assigning apartments to new and transfer tenants on the basis of race, and maintaining and repairing those apartments on the basis of race or national origin.

Agüero, a rent-subsidized tenant with three minor children, is the spokesperson for the tenants association. Marshall said this morning that two days after the association delivered the list of grievances to the Orthmans, she was served with an eviction notice.

On Sept. 7, Walker was given written notice to vacate. She has denied the allegations made in her eviction notice, and both women are still living at the complex.

Based on those notices, the plaintiffs claim the defendants "have retaliated and continue to retaliate against plaintiffs and the class they represent for seeking to pursue rights secured them by the federal laws."

The tenants are asking for an unspecified amount in actual, compensatory and punitive damages as well as attorneys fees.

They also are asking the judge to declare that the Orthmans have engaged in racially discriminatory actions and to "permanently enjoin" them from doing so in the future.

Marshall said Blue Water Garden is represented by the Hereford law firm of Witherspoon, Aikin and Langley.

Local Roundup

Elections to not have write-ins

Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland reported this morning there will be no certified write-in candidates for the local elections in November.

Wednesday was the deadline to file as a write-in candidate, Ruland said. The only locally-contested race is that between Democrat Troy Don Moore and Republican Bill Allen for the county commission seat being vacated by Bruce Coleman.

Candidates for Deaf Smith County sheriff, constable, tax assessor-collector and county commission Precinct 1 are all running unopposed on the Democratic ticket.

Tax expert here Wednesday

Area taxpayers are to be able to have their financial questions answered Wednesday, when a representative of State Comptroller Bob Bullock is to be in Hereford.

J.D. Caproni is supposed to meet with Deaf Smith and Oldham county residents from 10 a.m. to noon in the county judge's office of the courthouse, located between Sampson and Schley avenues on Third Street.

"Questions about taxes, the filing of tax returns or assistance on returns," a comptroller's office press released claimed, "can be handled quickly and efficiently in these face-to-face meetings."

Those taxpayers unable to see Caproni Wednesday may have their questions answered by telephoning the comptroller's office at 1-800-252-5555.

Ruland's body rejects kidney

Doctors at Methodist Central Hospital in Dallas removed a transplanted kidney from 17-year-old Cody Ruland this week after discovering that his body had rejected the organ.

Ruland had received the kidney from his mother, Karen Ruland, about three weeks ago. He will now be placed on dialysis again and plans to return to Hereford next week.

His aunt, Kee Ruland, said the hospital is running tests in an effort to determine why the young man's body rejected the kidney. She said it will be at least a month before doctors can consider another transplant.

Karen Ruland recovered quickly from the surgery and has been staying in Dallas with her son.

The family is to be assisted with medical expenses by a benefit concert planned Sept. 29 in Hereford. The Panhandle Bluegrass and Old Tyme Music Association, along with the Beta Sigma Phi sorority, are to sponsor the 7 p.m. event in Deaf Smith County Bull Barn. Tickets are now on sale and will also be available at the door.

Man reports theft of tools

Retired rancher James Bullard had more than $1,300 worth of tools stolen from his pickup sometime between March 24 and July 5, but did not tell Hereford police until Wednesday, the local law enforcement agency reported this morning.

The decision to inform police was for insurance purposes, according to the report. Bullard resides at 122 Northwest Dr.

A stereo worth an estimated $225 was taken from Dora Alvarez, 319 Lake St., sometime between 1:30 and 3 p.m. Tuesday. Police said there is one suspect in the case.

Five arrests were made Wednesday, including two for public intoxication. Incidents investigated by police included a 15-minute kidnapping, two minor thefts and a prowler in the 100 block of Pecan Street at about 9 p.m.

WEDNESDAY'S HIGH: 90 (normal: 83 record: 95 (1955))

OVERNIGHT LOW: 85 (normal: 58 record: 46 (1959))

OUTLOOK: Partly cloudy tonight with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. The low is expected to be in the lower 60s and winds are to be southeasterly, 5 to 15 miles per hour.

A 20 percent chance of precipitation is also predicted for Friday, which is expected to contain cooler temperatures than today. The high is to be only in the upper 70s, with winds to be initially southerly - later northerly - 10 to 20 miles per hour and gusty by noon.

Diana rips into North Carolina

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Hurricane Diana blasted into coastal North Carolina today with 110-mph winds and blinding rain, ripping down a water tower, lifting cars off the ground, turning roof shingles into projectiles and sending whitewashed waves down flooded streets.

No injuries were reported today, and the hurricane's only serious casualty has been a man who died of a heart attack.

The first Atlantic hurricane of the season ended a day of indecisive spinning offshore when it suddenly charged the coast Wednesday night. The eye of the storm touched land at 1:15 a.m. at Fort Fisher, south of Wilmington, the National Weather Service reported.

Tower downed, cars lifted

At the wind's peak, transformers began blowing up like a chain of fireworks, filling the air with sparks. Columns of water swirled in the darkness and trees bent to the ground.

"We've heard a lot of popping, lights flashing, thundering, lightning," said the Rev. Gerald Massey, one of about 50 people stranded at St. Paul United Methodist Church three blocks from the sea in the island community of Carolina Beach.

"It seemed like some of the windows wanted to come out at you," Massey said. "One of the windows on the back blew out, but we put a piece of plywood over that."

Many residents who had evacuated Tuesday returned Wednesday to survey damage to their homes and were caught along with sightseers by the storm's lurch to land.

"A lot of people were riding around to see what they could see," said New Hanover County Sheriff Joe McQueen. "When the storm began to move ashore, they had to send people out on four-wheel drives and buses to get them back to the shelter."

McQueen said deputies and National Guardsmen were dispatched to check reports of looters at a shopping center west of Wrightsville Beach. The reports said "people are breaking windows out and stealing radios and things," McQueen said. "Unfortunately, we just have some people who want to steal."

Wilmington police said they would not respond to calls for emergency evacuation until the storm had passed, and the National Weather Service cautioned people to stay away from windows and remain on lower floors of buildings unless they were flooded out.

"It is no longer safe for anybody to be outdoors throughout the Cape Fear region of North Carolina. You should not venture outside for any reason whatsoever," the weather service warned today.

"The major impact of the hurricane is being felt along the beach sections from Cape Fear northward to Wrightsville Beach," the weather service said.

The storm raked Wrightsville and Carolina Beach with winds of up to 90 mph and gusts topping 110 mph, the weather service said. Tides swelled 10 feet above normal.

A water tower at Carolina Beach was blown down, according to officials at Emergency Operations Command in Wilmington, and television station WWAY had its broadcast tower nearly ripped free.

After power was knocked out in Wilmington, fire trucks fanned out around the city as numerous reports of fires believed to have been caused by downed power lines were received. Winds compressed by high buildings downtown created whitewash on water in the streets, drove shingles through the air and lifted emergency vehicles checked for downed power lines.

In South Carolina, Myrtle Beach City Manager Richard Marvin said emergency shelters were reopened to coastal residents at 1:30 a.m. today because of Diana's approach. Emergency officials asked for a voluntary evacuation of low-lying areas and oceanfront residences in Myrtle Beach, he said.

Long lines of cars pulled up outside the evacuation shelter at the Myrtle Beach Convention Center. By 4 a.m. the center was full with an estimated 1,200 people and police were routing evacuees to other shelters, authorities said.

Diana had churned over the Atlantic for most of Tuesday and Wednesday before moving west toward land, catching unawares both residents who had left shelters and sightseers attracted by the hurricane's fury.

Shuttle commander confident

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The space shuttle Discovery overcame a buildup of ice and a bumpy landing on its maiden voyage and should put NASA back into "business in style," the craft's commander says.

"Discovery is a very clean vehicle," Henry W. Hartsfield said at a news conference Wednesday at the Johnson Space Center.

When Hartsfield brought Discovery to a landing last week, he said, a collapsed strut on a landing gear forced the craft to the right and he had to use heavy rudder controls to keep it on the runway.

The short pull to the right "caught me by surprise," Hartsfield said, adding that he was able to control it with 25 degrees of rudder, only two degrees less than the maximum available to him.

The astronaut said that if the rudder control had been insufficient, there were other means of keeping the winged craft on the dry lake bed runway at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Hartsfield said he discovered during the final approach to landing that he was 3,000 feet low at one point and attributed this to his "inattention" to certain instruments on the craft.

Open beach jury to be picked

AUSTIN (AP) — The first full legal test of Attorney General Jim Mattox's effort to stop the rebuilding of hurricane-damaged homes on Galveston beaches is getting under way in an Austin court.

In action on preliminary motions Wednesday, several defense motions to dismiss the case against Robert Matcha were overruled by state District Court Harley Clark.

"This is going to be an interesting case," Clark told the panel of prospective jurors as he warned them not to eavesdrop when reporters and TV crews interview witnesses in the corridors.

Jury selection was scheduled to begin today. Attorneys estimated the trial would last about three days.

The trial of Matcha, a University of Houston chemistry professor who owns a rental house on West Galveston beach, is the first of 12 cases filed by Mattox.

The state claims the damaged homes are now on the public beach because Hurricane Alicia in 1983 shifted the vegetation line, which defines the limits of the public beach.

Parents spend night in jail

HOUSTON (AP) — The parents of a teen-ager charged in the murder of a mail carrier spent the night in jail for repeatedly refusing to testify before a grand jury investigating the slaying. Their son remained free on bond.

Bernard and Odette Port surrendered to the Harris County sheriff's office Wednesday afternoon, shortly after a lower court received the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals' affirmation of a contempt of court ruling.

Attorneys immediately asked a federal judge to release the couple, arguing they were unjustly jailed "because they exercised a valid parent-child privilege which precludes the state from compelling them to testify involuntarily against their son."

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda tentatively scheduled a hearing on the request for 5 p.m. CDT today.

The Ports, who are Jewish, contend their religion bars them from testifying against their 17-year-old son, David, and they have refused to answer questions by grand jurors investigating the June 7 slaying of letter-carrier Debora Sue Schatz, who disappeared while delivering mail in the Ports' neighborhood.

Kentucky miner hopes dwindle

SHIELDS, Ky. (AP) — Rescuers worked through the night trying to reach a miner trapped 1,600 feet inside a coal mine near where the bodies of three others were found after a huge slab of rock fell in, a state official said.

State Mines and Minerals Commissioner Willard Stanley said it has not been determined if the fourth miner trapped inside of Bon Trucking Co.'s No. 2 mine was still alive.

"I wouldn't say there is no hope," Stanley said. "But I'd say it would be a remote possibility."

At least three other miners in the vicinity of the cave-in managed to escape, although one of them was injured, officials said.

One of those miners, Rick Simpson, said he had sensed danger. "I told them we're going to get killed if we don't get out of here. I heard the timbers crack and heard the top breaking and I was off."

As he went by the other miners, he said, "they looked at me like I was an idiot or something."

Airline problem dip foreseen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials, alarmed in recent months by mounting complaints about airline delays, predict the problem will subside dramatically as a result of airlines shifting hundreds of flights to ease congestion at six of the nation's busiest airports.

After marathon negotiations over eight days, the airlines and the Federal Aviation Administration reached an accord Wednesday night on more than 1,000 schedule changes aimed at spreading flights farther apart and away from the most popular travel times.

The agreement also for the first time put a ceiling on the number of departures and arrivals at Newark International, one of three airports serving the New York area where some of the worst delays have occurred.

"The new schedules will mean fewer delays for air travelers by assuring that fewer planes compete for the same gates and runways at the same time," said Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole.

Pope backing funding of schools

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland (AP) — Pope John Paul II says parents have a legitimate claim to tax dollars to help pay the cost of religious schools and declared: "We cannot leave God at the schoolhouse door."

In a major statement on religion and schools Wednesday night, the pope said society should "support with public funding those types of schools that correspond to the deepest aspirations of its citizens."

His speech came during a day-long visit to Newfoundland, a rocky island province at the eastern tip of North America.

The pope did not specifically address the issue of prayer in public schools under debate across the border in the United States, where President Reagan recently said separation of church and state should not be construed as "freedom against religion."

Earlier Wednesday, the pope blessed a fleet of fishing dories and said Mass for about 80,000 people pelted by rain.

By the end of the evening, at a youth rally, the pope was smiling and tapping his feet as the youngsters belted out the tune, "Singin' in the Rain."

The pope was scheduled to fly today — the fifth day of his 12-day Canadian pilgrimage — to New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, maritime provinces to the southwest.

Ferraro probe to end before elections

By DAVID GOELLER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House ethics committee, mindful of a political deadline, will complete its investigation of Rep. Geraldine A. Ferraro before the Nov. 6 presidential election, says a source knowledgeable about the campaign.

Furthermore, the source added, it's possible the inquiry into her financial disclosure statements could be shelved if she amends the statements and provides the committee with data she has refused to give it over a six-year period.

The source noted that in its other disclosure case this year, the panel gave Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, the chance to amend his statements before it completed the process that led to Hansen's formal reprimand by the House on July 31.

Hansen refused the offer on the ground that such action would hurt his appeal of a U.S. District Court conviction in April for filing false disclosure statements, according to the source, who spoke only on condition he not be identified by name.

The source made the comments Wednesday after the ethics committee voted 12-0 to investigate allegations made against the liberal Democratic vice presidential candidate by the Washington Legal Foundation.

The conservative public interest law group charges that Ms. Ferraro violated the Ethics in Government Act by not revealing her husband's assets and liabilities on the required disclosure forms she has filed annually since coming to Congress in 1979.

The CBS Evening News, meanwhile, reported the Justice Department has opened a preliminary investigation to determine if federal law was violated by Mrs. Ferraro's request for an exemption from including details of her husband's finances in her House financial disclosure report.

Judy Pond, deputy director of public affairs at the Justice Department, refused to confirm that report, saying: "No comment." Diane Nine, a press aide to Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale, said she was unable to reach Ferraro press secretary Barbara Dixon or other campaign officials for a response.

The foundation also alleges that Ms. Ferraro failed to disclose information about herself, including more than $60,000 in capital gains and interest in 1978 and income of $2,962 in 1981 from a real estate firm she owns with her husband, John Zaccaro.

In announcing the ethics investigation, committee chairman Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said the panel was making "no judgment of any kind as to the validity of the allegations."

"This committee will now conduct a preliminary inquiry ... to ascertain the merit of the allegations," said Stokes, who characterized the probe as "analogous to a grand jury" investigation.

Senator requests 'just say kind words'

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A beleaguered state Sen. Carl Parker, when asked by well-wishers what could be done to help him fight pornography and prostitution charges, urged them to "just say kind words."

Parker, one of the Legislature's most powerful members, vowed Wednesday to continue his duties in Austin despite indictments charging him with wholesaling obscene materials and supervising a prostitution ring.

He kept a scheduled public appearance Wednesday night in Beaumont at a banquet, attended by several hundred people, called "A Southeast Texas Celebration of Women in Texas Inc."

Parker, who received polite applause when he was introduced, presented a proclamation from Gov. Mark White to banquet organizers about Women in Texas Week.

The banquet's keynote speaker,

Sarah Weddington, former legislator and currently director of the Texas Office of State-Federal regulations, skipped over the indictment controversy and called attention to Parker and his role in the special session's education reform bill.

Well-wishers came up to shake the senator's hand, and when one asked what could be done to help, Parker replied: "Just say kind words."

During the summer's session, the Port Arthur Democrat was instrumental in shepherding Gov. White's education reform bill through the Senate.

Earlier Wednesday, Parker declared at a news conference that "I'm not guilty" of the charges leveled at him the day before by a Jefferson County grand jury.

Parker is charged with aggravated promotion of prostitution, wholesale promotion of obscene material and aggravated perjury. The perjury charge involved an appearance Friday before the Jefferson County grand jury.

The veteran legislator said the allegations left him "stunned and heartsick, because I know what these charges will put my family through in the coming months. I have been wrongfully accused and that hurts."

Parker said he will plead innocent to the charges, but declined to discuss the specific allegations against him.

Parker, a 21-year veteran of the Legislature and chairman of the Senate Education Committee, is the second person to be indicted in connection with the investigation of Happy Times Video Co.

Authorities on April 19 confiscated 409 videotapes described as pornographic from Happy Times. The company operated out of a house owned by Parker, and Daniel Lee, the only other person indicted by the grand jury. Parker, 50, has said previously he sold his share of the house to Lee on June 5. He has said he knew nothing of Lee's activities.

Another indictment said Parker "did intentionally and knowingly own, invest in, finance, control, supervise and manage a prostitution enterprise located in Jefferson County, Texas, that used at least two prostitutes..."

The indictment against Lee lists the same charge, date and prostitutes.

All three charges are third-felonies punishable by a maximum of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine each. Parker surrendered to authorities Tuesday morning and was released after posting $15,000 bond.

McGrath said an arraignment hearing will be held in District Judge Leonard Giblin's court within 10 days.

Paul Harvey

Reagan looks unbeatable in November

Paul Harvey, you travel almost constantly, what do you hear? How's the campaign going?

I do travel a great deal, purposely during an election year. I have supplied the 300 newspapers which carry my column an "advance" election evaluation for the past 10 national elections.

It is those travels which have made it possible for me to anticipate each election outcome (including the so-called Truman surprise) at least five days in advance.

These words are NOT this year's prediction; your editor will receive that column on Oct. 31.

This, instead, is an "interim report" based on what I've overheard to date.

Historically, when there is a big voter turnout it is a "protest vote." The outs are rallying to vote the ins out.

To mobilize this "vote against," Fritz Mondale is seeking to characterize the incumbent president as being cold and uncaring, indifferent to human needs.

So far that accusation has won some cheers; there is little evidence it has won many converts.

Lions hear report on Swift

By O.G. 'Speedy' NIEMAN Publisher

Facts and figures on one of Deaf Smith County's largest single industries—Swift Independent Packing Co.—were spelled out when Ron Barnes, beef department manager, presented the program at the local Lions Club meeting Wednesday at Hereford Community Center.

SIPCO employs 300 to 350 people with an annual payroll of about $8 million. The plant receives about 28 trucks of livestock a day and slaughters approximately 350,000 head each year, Barnes said.

The company spends around $4 million a week on the purchase of cattle, he said. About 75 to 80 trucks are outbound each week with packaged meat.

If you think your utility bills are

President Reagan's campaign theme makes his audiences feel good — about their country, themselves and about him.

"Patriotism, prosperity and peace-through-strength."

He asks, "Are you better off than four years ago?" and most audiences believe they are.

Even the disparity in the candidates' ages, the president has managed to dismiss.

"Age is a factor in this election," the president concedes, "because the Democrats' ideas are too old!"

And a fast-maturing electorate is more encouraged than otherwise by his "seniority."

So what I overhear this pre-election time is little different from what George Gallup's pollsters have been hearing: Reagan by a comfortable margin; perhaps by an overwhelming margin.

What considerations could change that? What could happen in the next eight weeks which could favor the Mondale-Ferraro ticket?

Historically, the "upset elections" were those in which voters had talked one way and voted another.

Or, said another way, the ones who responded to the pollsters did not reflect the underground vote of pent-up resentment.

The resentment may have been against an alienated incumbent or a pompous challenger.

President Reagan — face it — for all the campaign rhetoric — so far cannot be hit with anything that does not bounce off.

This is to take nothing away from Mondale-Ferraro.

If Reagan is at all beatable, Ted Kennedy would have tried.

Strike deadline nears in GM-union quarrel

By EDWARD MILLER AP Auto Writer

Detroit (AP) — United Auto Workers union President Owen Bieber says General Motors Corp. has "not addressed" the union's job security demands and the two sides remained far apart — with a possible strike deadline just over a day away.

Bieber's remarks at a news conference Wednesday shattered the optimism some union officials expressed earlier this week after GM presented its proposal.

Bieber, his bargainers having spent more than a day in off-and-on questioning of GM negotiators, called a news conference to blast the company and its 20-page document.

"We're going to have to see some very significant movement of the job security issue if we're going to settle this thing by midnight on Friday," Bieber declared.

"If the corporation fails to adequately address the range of job security issues, including future jobs and outsourcing, then I'm sorry to say that I see us heading for the ditch."

GM spokesmen said chief company bargainer Alfred Warren would not comment on Bieber's remarks.

Neither side has been willing to disclose the specific contents of the GM proposal or how it would affect the 350,000 workers represented by the UAW.

But officials of a smaller union that is bargaining with GM, the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, said they received a similar document and were confused by it.

It is complex and contains "terms that have never before been used" in IUE contracts, union Secretary-Treasurer Ed Fire said.

The contract expiration with the IUE, with 25,000 GM members at nine U.S. plants, is the same as the UAW's — 11:59 p.m. EDT Friday. However, its contract says it must give three days' notice before it legally can strike.

The UAW has demanded that its new contract contain a ban on plant closings; curbs on GM's use of foreign and non-union labor — called outsourcing; tough limits on overtime, to make room in the factories for laid-off workers; and union rights to review GM's plans on where it will build its cars.

"You really know nothing about caring for children until you have foster children."—Charlene Connally

Charlene and her husband, Terry, have lived in Hereford for four years and for most of that time have been foster parents.

"We started in January of 1982 (being foster parents) after Terry came home one day and suggested it," she said. "Our kids were just about all grown, only LaDonna was still in high school, and we had four empty bedrooms."

The Connallys' three children are Tammy, 23, who currently lives in Wichita, Ks., and works in business; Keith, 21, who is attending Mid-America Nazarene College in Olathe, Ks., and majoring in education; and LaDonna, 20, who is also attending Mid-America Nazarene College and working for a major in art.

With three children of their own, the Connallys definitely knew the problems and joys of raising children before they made the decision to become foster parents.

"We really weren't worried about becoming foster parents," Charlene said, "because I had worked with children all of my life."

"I knew children could be helped because I had been hurt as a child and made to feel like I was no one."

When the first foster child arrived, LaDonna was a senior in high school and the other children were home in the summer.

"Our kids really enjoyed the children and they were very supportive," Charlene said.

"They learned an awful lot, too. It made them more determined to be careful of who they date," she explained.

The Connallys presently have four foster children which gives them a total of 10 since they started. Three of the ones in their home now are sisters and the ages of all four are 3, 4, 5 and 9. One of the girls they have had for 14 months and the other three for seven months.

"You really have to be able to give yourself love to the foster children," Charlene said. "You must be able to give them up."

Charlene also explained that foster parents need lots of energy and a sense of humor.

"Most importantly, however, foster parents must be willing to accept the children's parents no matter what they have done in the past to the kids," Charlene emphasized.

The main goal of foster parents is to get the children back in their home, according to Charlene.

"It's best to keep the children with one parent or the other," she said, "because if you don't it creates a vacancy that causes problems when they're older."

"You have to love them with all your love, but you have to be willing to let them go. And that's really hard sometimes, it takes some maturity."

Charlene also said that she and Terry come to know the children's families.

"We must accept the parents as they are and not try to change them," she explained. "We certainly can't judge them because if we had walked along the path they have and stepped on all the same stones, we could very well be in their position. They must change on their own."

Charlene said that some of the parents had changed their homes to be more like hers.

"One lady filled her entire house with plants because she saw all of my plants and knew that her child had liked living here," she explained.

Charlene and Terry are unique in that they allow the parents to visit the children in their home because it's a better atmosphere.

"The only alternative to meeting here is the courthouse or the corridor of the jail and that's just not a good atmosphere for the kids," she said.

Charlene said that one of the hardest things was to get the children to interact with others.

"So many of them have been hurt in the past and they need to talk about what has hurt them before they can sleep at night and interact with others," Charlene said. "They must also learn to like themselves."

The Connallys also work on motivation.

"I'm hard on them," she said. "I push them. I say 'You can do it, you can come out of it.'"

"We teach them how to play and get on the floor and laugh and giggle with them. We sing songs and try to teach them to take teasing."

The Connallys also introduce the children to things like birthday parties and happy times, and tell them when something they have done is good.

"We correct them, too," Charlene said. "And we always explain why we are correcting them."

The Connallys also feel it is important that the kids be able to say "I love you."

In working with each of the children, Charlene stressed that they must be able to see the different needs of the different children and then work through those needs. Once the needs of the children have been met, there is a good chance that they are ready to go back to their parents.

When children are ready to return home, they usually interact with their parents and seem to miss them. They also act like they would like to go with them when they leave after a visiting session.

"The parents must realize, though," Charlene emphasized, "that if the children have been with foster parents for a while, they may need to visit the foster parents every now and then."

When it is time for the children to leave, however, the Connallys make a "big deal" out of it. They let the children pack their own clothes and then go outside to wait for the parents.

"The accomplishments that these kids make is so rewarding to us," Charlene said. "They come here so troubled and unable to play with toys and then we look outside one day and they're playing and singing in the yard."

It's safe to say that the Connallys know just about everything when it comes to caring for children.

In the little extra time that the Connallys have, they participate in the foster parents organization which meets once a month.

"We see films and listen to speakers which help us learn to handle the children better," Charlene said.

The foster parents association is becoming tax exempt, making any donation tax exempt, according to Charlene. The organization takes contributions, divides the money between the foster children and then gives that money to the foster parents for Christmas presents.

"We take the money and buy each child one toy and then spend the rest on clothes so they will have something to wear," she said.

She said that there was definitely a need for cuddly dolls, educational toys, and for someone who would sponsor activities for a child such as gymnastics and piano.

The Connallys are also members of the Church of the Nazarene in Olton where they previously lived. Charlene enjoys growing plants and gardening which she says is good for her nerves. She also paints, quilts and sews.

"I sew an awful lot," Charlene said. "I make lots of pillows with pockets in them because the kids like to hide things in them."

Terry teaches at LaPlata in the vocational department.

Charlene shared some of her children's favorite recipes. The pizza is one that her girls love and one that her son started making when he was in high school. The foster children that are presently in the Connally home would not eat fish when they came, but they would eat the tuna patties. So, Charlene started making them frequently.

The cake is one of her own children's favorites. She said it freezes well and is especially good with a fudge icing.

STIR AND ROLL PIZZA

2 C. flour
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
2/3 C. milk
1/4 C. salad oil
1/4 C. ketchup
smoked sausage (as much as you want)
1 lb. shredded mild cheddar cheese
1/2 lb. shredded mozzarella cheese
chopped bell peppers

Mix the flour, baking powder and salt. Add milk and salad oil. Stir until it forms a ball and then place on pan and press into shape.

Spread ketchup on dough and add the chopped or sliced smoked sausage. Place cheddar cheese, mozzarella cheese and bell peppers on top.

Bake at 425 degrees until it just begins to turn brown and is bubbly, about 20 minutes.

TUNA PATTIES

3/4 oz. can tuna
4 or 5 eggs
1 C. crackers, crumbled chopped onions
chopped peppers

Mix the tuna and eggs together and then add the crackers, onions and peppers. Heat 1 tbsp. of oil per patty in a skillet. When hot, place the patties in the skillet and cook two to three minutes on each side until they are a light golden color.

and add to the egg mixture. Add remaining flour. While stirring, add the boiling water.

Grease and flour the pan. Bake at 350 degrees for five minutes and then turn over to 325 degrees and bake until done, about 30 minutes. Cake is done when the middle springs back when touched.

Commuters

The average American took 22.5 minutes to go 11.1 miles to work in 1979. The average one-way commuting time and distance ranged from 10.8 minutes and 0.7 miles for those who walked, to 60.1 minutes and 34.2 miles who travelled by rail.

Fellowship meetings set

Pat Stanton of Rays of Hope Ministry will speak during the women's Hereford Aglow Fellowship along with the men's fellowship group FGBM Friday and Saturday at the Community Center.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday, and Saturday there will be a catered supper at 7 p.m. with the meeting beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Stanton opened the Rays of Hope offices in 1975. The office is now a place for counseling, intercessory prayer and for carrying on all the general work of Rays of Hope.

Most of Stanton's time now is spent ministering in miracle services, seminars and churches. She and her husband, Jay, also conduct miracle services at Trinity Church in Lubbock.

Palo Duro to play Herd Friday

Tough defense arrives in Hereford...again

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

Fans must be careful not to mistake Palo Duro High School for San Angelo Central when the Dons come to town for a ball game Friday.

Palo Duro brings to town a defensive squad which held Covis scoreless last week while limiting the three-time defending 4A New Mexico state champs to 163 total yards. Herd coach Jerry Taylor realizes the significance of that statistic and agrees that defense is the strong suit for Palo Duro.

"They looked good against Clovis, especially on defense," he said Wednesday. "It seems like everybody has a good defense."

"They are as big and physical as San Angelo. Their linebackers are very similar."

The Palo Duro-Clovis game ended in a 0-0 deadlock.

Friday's ball game is the District 3-5A opener for both teams. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

"It's a big, big ball game for both teams," Palo Duro coach Doug James said. "Our defense is definitely stronger than it was last year, but we need to get some consistency going with our offense."

The Amarillo school gained a total of only 179 yards last week. However, the Dons had several chances to win the game, James said.

One such chance came when The Dons were inside the Clovis 20-yard line midway through the fourth quarter. A fumble killed their hopes of a score, though.

"We will have to be able to throw the ball against Hereford," James said. "Last week, we only completed three of 15 passes."

Cal Hero, a 6-1, 175-pounder, is the player James is counting on to throw Friday. The junior quarterback isn't guaranteed a free ride, however, James said.

"If Hereford's defense is as tough as I think, we're not going to have an easy time," James said.

A similar situation concerns Taylor. The status of Mike Scott, Herd's first-string quarterback, is doubtful. The senior signal-caller suffered a lower back bruise in last Friday's game midway through the fourth quarter.

"It (Scott's playing) doesn't look very promising," Taylor said. "There is still a slim possibility he will play."

If Scott can't go for the Whitefaces, junior Stefan Hacker will step into the quarterback role. Hacker has had little experience at the position, playing only a series of downs in a scrimmage against Estacado and finishing the fourth quarter against Central.

Taylor said, however, he would not be afraid to throw against Palo Duro. "I won't be hesitant to throw the short ones if the situation dictates," he said. "But you know, we're going to try to stick to the same game plan—we need to establish the running game."

Palo Duro puts forth a 5-2 defensive setup against Hereford's veer offense. When the Dons are on offense, Hereford fields a 5-2 and a 6-2 defense against a wing-T and an I formation.

The wingback in Palo Duro's attack, Gary Smith, concerns Taylor.

"He can do everything," he said. "Smith is tough on reverses, options, catching passes. He's a super player."

If Hacker turns out to be the quarterback, the Herd backfield will feature Alan Dudding and Vincent Brown as running backs. Rodney Torres will fill the wingback slot.

Defensive end Dago Valdez also is listed as questionable for the game. Valdez injured his shoulder in Tuesday's practice, Taylor said.

"Well, we're all healthy," James said of his Dons. "We're just going to try to stay in the ball game."

Flag football deadline nearing

Boys in the first through sixth grades may continue to register through Monday for flag football at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA in Sugarland Mall.

A fee of $8 for Y-members and $14 for non-Y-members will be charged. The registration cost includes a football shirt, adult supervision, awards and the use of necessary equipment. The athletes must furnish their own shoes.

The use of helmets, shoulder pads and cleated shoes will not be permitted.

A prepared statement by the YMCA said the league specialized in wholesome competition while teaching the fundamentals of team play and good sportsmanship.

For more information, contact Weldon Knabe, general director of Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, at 364-6990.

Wednesday final day for volleyball

An organizational meeting of Church League Coed Volleyball participants set the deadline as Wednesday for teams to register.

Any church that wishes to have a team needs to contact Weldon Knabe, general director of Hereford and Vicinity YMCA in Sugarland Mall, at 364-6990.

'SWC Call'

Radio program begins today

DALLAS—Fred Akers, head football coach for the University of Texas, and Watson Brown, the new Rice Owls head football coach, are the featured guests tonight on "Southwest Conference Call."

The hour-long program, which begins at 7 p.m., is hosted by sportscaster Frank Gieber and features two SWC coaches each week. The format of the program gives SWC fans the opportunity to call and talk football with the conference coaches. Each head coach will appear on three broadcasts during the course of the season.

Callers from the state of Texas can phone 1-800-223-8255 to speak with the coaches. Out-of-state callers may participate by calling 1-800-527-8255.

The broadcast will be carried by KKYV-radio in Amarillo, 1090 AM.

This week's college games

Writer says TV football eye-catching

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

The biggest winners in college football this season will be the television networks and the armchair fan.

Thanks to the U.S. Supreme Court ruling that killed the lucrative NCAA-ABC-CBS TV plan once and for all — at least for 1984 — the networks are saving money by paying the schools less. And on most Saturdays a viewer can stay glued to his set for more hours than the final day of the U.S. Open Tennis.

For example, this Saturday features Washington-Michigan (noon, EDT, CBS-TV), Oklahoma-Pitt (3:30 p.m., EDT, ABC-TV) and Auburn-Texas (7:30 p.m., EDT, ESPN). And that doesn't include all the regional and conference TV packages.

While Saturday's schedule also includes such appetizing fare as Penn

State-Iowa and Miami-Purdue, Nebraska will be putting its new No. 1 ranking on the line, so to speak, at home against Minnesota. And the line says Nebraska is a 38-point favorite.

So why is Coach Tom Osborne worried? Seems that last year, Arkansas had an open date the week before it played Texas and Coach Lou Holtz and four assistants traipsed to Nebraska for two days.

"They looked at all our cut-up reels (of film)," Osborne remembers. "They came over and looked at each play — our 41-pitch and 34-trap — over and over. We talked about it and tried to tell him everything."

Dave Eichelberger

Game concerns golfer

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dave Eichelberger knew he could be in for some tough times when he began to change his game a couple of years ago.

"My golf game," he declared in massive understatement, "is not precisely state-of-the-art at the moment."

"In fact, it's downright awful," the outspoken Eichelberger said before teeing off today in the first round of the $300,000 Milwaukee Open.

"I am caught in the middle, the netherlands of golf," he said.

"I'm not where I used to be. And I'm not where I want to get to. Now, I can't get back to where I was and I sure haven't got to where I want to go. I'm somewhere in the middle and it's not a lot of fun. There are very few giggles around here, where I am right now."

Not only are the giggles few and far between as Eichelberger tries to restructure his game, so are the checks.

Now in his 18th season as a touring pro, and with five titles (including two victories in Milwaukee), two $100,000-plus seasons and a respectable career behind him, Eichelberger is immersed in the golfing horrors. He's missed the cut in 19 of 27 starts this season, including 10 of his last 12. His high finish for the year is a tie for 44th. His stroke average is near 75. And he ranks a distant 185th on the moneywinning list with $5,287, a figure that doesn't even begin to cover expenses.

"I am so broke," he said, "that if steamboat rides were 10 cents apiece, all I could do is run up and down the bank and yell, 'well ain't that cheap!'"

But the funny man called Berger by his fellow pros is determined to continue with his experiment, which started a couple of seasons ago as he approached age 40, often a traumatic landmark for professional athletes.

"I wanted to get something, a game, a swing, that would last a little longer, let me play longer," said Eichelberger, 41.

YOU AUTO KNOW

Don Henslee

Q. I've heard the argument about changing filters every time you change your oil — or not changing them for so many years. I'm really confused. Can you settle it for once and for all: Should the filter be changed every time the oil is?

A. The basic argument for not changing the filter with each oil change is monetary: It costs less. At least, at first glance it does. Consider, however, that when you do not replace the filter, you are leaving a pretty sizable amount of dirty, broken-down oil in the engine. This immediately mixes with the new oil, quickly lessening its useful life. Many mechanics believe it is almost more critical to change the filter frequently than it is to change the oil. The point is, the longer a filter stays in place, the more clogged it gets, with the end result being the oil doesn't get filtered.

'Glitter' to premier tonight on ABC

NEW YORK (AP) — In "Glitter," the new ABC series that begins tonight, ABC and its top producer, Aaron Spelling, sprinkled their fantasy dust on the subject of journalism and turned it into a "Love Boat" with weekly deadlines.

You won't find any ink-stained wretches or stale coffee here. No indication that reporters painstakingly build stories by making phone calls, working sources and asking hard questions.

Where's "Lou Grant" when we need him?

"Glitter" complete with laugh track, lush settings, arrested sexual attitudes and the world's most beautiful people, is in the distinctive style of Spelling's other anthology hits on ABC, "The Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island." As he did last year, Spelling has seven series on ABC this season, including "Dynasty," "Hotel" and "Matt Houston."

The tone of this fluffy, juvenile series is accurately depicted by one of ABC's promotionals, in which "Glitter" stars David Birney and Morgan Brittany are putting the finishing touches on some epic. They're working late at night, as reporters are wont to do, fueling their creative juices with food. Only they're snacking by candlelight.

With a smile, he asks if she's cooling off. She says no, that she's just overwhelmed by working for such a wonderfully glamorous magazine. "Pass the soy sauce and write," he says.

If Woodward and Bernstein projected the image of dogged investigative drudges ferreting out corruption, the reporters at this People-type magazine create a decidedly different picture. They're cocktail party jet-setters who turn "Glitter" into a glitzy, chic version of "The Dating Game."

"Glitter" is about a contemporary magazine, which sends its team of reporters to the world's glamour spots to hobnob with the world's most glittering stars. Each week, the cardboard regulars and guest characters will be embroiled in superficial puzzles of the heart.

60-ish roommate, a grumpy widower named Henry Warnimont — the sweet quotient is excessive. Even Punky's dog is overly cute.

Punky is played by Soleil Moon Frye. Henry is George Gaynes, the white-haired leech in "Tootsie." She's a squatter in the building he's managing, and he reluctantly takes her in.

Class meets for salad supper

The Kingdom Seekers Sunday School Class of Avenue Baptist Church met Tuesday evening in the Reddy Room at Southwestern Public Service for a salad supper.

Coy Tice was hostess and year-books were handed out and reviewed. The open prayer was led by Pauline Landers. Judy Grigg, teacher, gave the devotional entitled "Step by Step."

Roll call was answered with "How I spent the summer."

Members present were Tice, Landers, Grigg, Trudy Gray, Erma Bain, Shirley Brown, Juanita Houle, Luella Thomas, Fanny Townsend and Maxine Coleman.

The next meeting will be Oct. 9 in Wilma Bryan's home.

An ocean fish called the "grunt" actually makes grunting sounds when taken from the water.

The latest in TV's fascination with odd couples sharing the same roof is "Punky Brewster," NBC's new for-kids-only sitcom starting Sunday night.

Diabetics better be careful with this series about a 7-year-old cutie pie named Punky Brewster and her

In ratings

CBS back in first

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Long-time ratings champion CBS won first place in the Nielsen ratings for the week ended Sept. 9 after a summer season that saw the network in third place more often than first.

The top show was NBC's "The A-Team" and CBS' highest-rated show was a rerun of the movie "The Shadow Riders," which took fourth place. Altogether, CBS won seven of the Top 10, expanded to 11 places because of a tie.

It was CBS' first victory since the week ended June 24. Since the end of the regular season in April, which CBS won, the network has been first five times, tied for first once, and in last place eight times (including last week).

ABC, first for six straight weeks, fell to second. NBC was third.

CBS won the week with a network average of 13.1 in the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey. ABC was second with 12.4 and NBC was third with 11.9. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 13.1 percent of the homes with televisions were tuned to CBS.

The five shows at the bottom in descending order: NBC Major League Baseball Pre-Game, NBC

Reports "Defense in Space," ABC's "20-20," NBC's "Summer Sunday, USA," and CBS Reports "High Technology."

CBS was first in the evening news show division, with ABC second and NBC third. The ratings: CBS 10.6, ABC 9.6, NBC 8.8.

Here are the week's top 10 shows:

1. "The A-Team," NBC, a rating of 20.1 or 17.0 households.
2. ABC Monday Night NFL Football, Dallas vs. Los Angeles, 18.9 or 16.0 million.
3. Movie—"Coal Miner's Daughter," ABC, 18.5 or 15.7 million.
4. Movie—"The Shadow Riders," CBS, 17.6 or 14.9 million.
5. "Simon & Simon," BS, 17.0 or 14.4 million.
6. "The Jeffersons," CBS, 16.7 or 14.1 million.
7. "Rippled," NBC, 16.6e or 14.0 million.
8. "Alice," CBS, 16.4 or 13.9 million.
9. "Tapper John, M.D.," CBS, 15.9 or 13.1 million.
10. "Magnum, P.I.," NBC, 15.4 or 13.0 million.

Rudyard Kipling won the Nobel Prize in literature in 1907.

Special Donation

Hereford Lions Club President B.J. Gililland presents a check for $62 to Donald Hicks of Kings Manor Nursing Home. The Hereford Lions donated the money from proceeds of a special fund-raising effort.

Art association begins new year with supper

During the first meeting of the season, members and guests of the Hereford Fine Arts Association gathered for grilled hamburgers, salads and desserts at the home of Eldon and June Owens.

Following the meal, Mrs. Owens, president, conducted a brief business meeting. Jolene Bledsoe reported on the success of the Jubilee of Arts held in conjunction with the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee in August. She termed the show a great success with a number of the artists requesting that booths be reserved for them for next year's show.

Jean Lyles distributed the new year books and discussed the various programs in the coming months. She also reminded each member that the association has been invited to be the guest artists for the month of November at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

Each member was urged to bring a piece of their work to the Texas Art Gallery. Euman Luyles agreed to see that they were delivered to the Hall of Fame at the appropriate time.

Members also voted to contribute $100 to the United Way Campaign. A discussion followed concerning a letter received from the District Attorneys' office about the legality of using raffle tickets as a method of raising funds. No definite action was taken at this time.

Members and their spouse or guest in attendance were Bob and Venita Wear, the Owens, A.R. and Melba Dillard, Ronald and Mildred Furhman, Charles and Linda Minchew, the Lyles, Shirley Wyssman, Arlie Fay O'Hare, Alvo and Louva Kersey, Eugene and Norma Hendon, Louella Cowser, Ruby Lee Hickman, Bledsoe, Gary Hammett and Mary Aguirre.

The next meeting will be Oct. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the art room of the Community Center. The guest speaker will be Bill Allen, a local certified public accountant, and he will speak on the tax laws as they pertain to the selling of art works.

Registration forms available for event

A "Wheels for Life Bike-a-thon" to benefit St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital is being planned locally to coincide with similar bike-a-thons across the country.

The event, open to all ages, is scheduled to be at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 29 at Sugarland Mall.

Registration forms may be obtained from local schools or at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office.

Sponsors donating a sum for each mile completed are enlisted by riders. Those who raise $25 receive a St. Jude t-shirt and when $75 is raised, the rider receives a barrel tote bag and a t-shirt.

Volunteers are needed to help coordinate the local bike-a-thon. Anyone interested in working with the project should contact Sammee Mazurek at 276-5262.

Rebekah Lodge votes donation for United Way

Karroll Rettman presented "What Is A Grandmother?" as written by a nine-year-old boy for the Light of Faith altar program at Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 Tuesday evening.

Noble Grand Lydia Hopson presided over business as reports were made on the sick and bereaved. Sixty-four visits to the sick and 20 cheer cards were reported for the week.

A donation was also voted for the United Way Campaign of Deaf Smith County.

Numerous recipes have been turned in for the Rebekah Lodge Cook Book. Anyone who has not yet turned a recipe in, please do so as soon as possible.

Roberta Combs served as hostess. Members present were Hopson, Rettman, Anna Conklin, Susie Curtsinger, Ola Hacker, Bessie Lawrence, Thama Pearson, Ada Hollabaugh, Peggy Lemons, Faye Brownlow, Nellie Beauford, Edna Mather, Beth Hall, Ruth Rogers, Verna Sowell, Irene Merritt, Helen Bishop, Leona Sowell, Dorothy Lundry, Kee Ruland, Guy Lawrence and Gene Bishop.

Ann Landers

Talk to psychologist

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for 42 years. He is 70 and I am 59. Our sex life was always wonderful. We have been completely faithful to one another and have had very few problems.

Three years ago we stopped having sexual relations. I asked him what the trouble was and he said he just didn't feel like it—that sex at our age was foolish and he didn't want to be bothered anymore. He asked me not to make any demands on him because he felt uncomfortable rejecting me. So, I have let him alone.

Last night the truth came out. He suddenly told me the reason he has lost interest is because I had grown to look exactly like my mother. I never was so hurt in my life. My mother is now 80, a beautiful woman. I have known for a long time that my husband was not particularly fond of my mother (and vice versa) but I was shocked at his announcement.

He won't see a counselor or a clergyman (too ashamed). Please tell me if there is anything I can do.—Devastated In New Mexico.

Sign me—Grateful For A Second Chance In Wyoming

DEAR WYOMING: I agree. The word vegetable, when applied to a person who no longer has his faculties, is degrading. A human is not a tomato, a carrot or a head of lettuce after his mind has ceased to function.

I have warned my readers in the past about discussing a patient's condition when they believe him or her to be unconscious or anesthetized. Too often the patient is sufficiently alert to pick up some of the comments—and does. Remarks that reflect hopelessness can be extremely demoralizing. Watch it, folks.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This morning a booklet arrived at our home written by Ann Landers. It was titled, "Alcoholism: Hope and Help." I did not send for the booklet but I recognized the handwriting as that of my cousin.

I am not an alcoholic. I have never missed a day's work because of drinking and I have never passed out. I wish you would say something in your column about people who offer unwanted "help." I was highly insulted.—No Problem In Detroit

DEAR N.P.: I agree that uncollected advice is generally unwelcome, but I'm sure your cousin meant to be helpful.

Obviously, you are unaware that many alcoholics have never missed a day's work because of drinking nor have they ever passed out. Alcoholism is an insidious problem that it wears many faces. Read the booklet anyway; it's a good one.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism—Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Taco supper to be hosted by seniors

A taco supper, hosted by the senior class at Hereford High School, will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday at the HHS cafeteria. Tickets are priced at $2.50 per person and may be purchased from any senior student or at the door.

The menu includes tacos, salad, beans, cobbler, tea and coffee.

Hospital auxiliary meets

The Hospital Auxiliary gathered in the Flame Room Monday evening for the annual salad supper.

Theda Seiver, president, conducted the business meeting during which a letter from the Deaf Smith County Library and the United Way was read.

Members were encouraged to attend the district meeting in Amarillo on Sept. 24. Betty Brooks and Peg Hoff were welcomed as new members while Ina Walk was present as a guest.

Members present were Jane White, Bertha P. Dettmann, Karen Barela, Lucille Gibbins, Mary Lou Spinhirne, Bonnie Sublett, Etoele Manning, Mary E. Williamson, Helen Brown, Anna Stuidt, Baxter London, Gwen London, Seiver, Grace Covington and Reinart.

The number of one-parent families doubled from 3.3 million in 1970 to 6.6 million in 1981, when they comprised 20 percent of the nation's 31.6 million families with children. Two-parent families dropped 2 percent in that time, but still comprised almost 80 percent of families with children.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheik Ahmen Zaki Yamani said Tuesday that oil producers need to maintain "discipline" to keep the price of petroleum from falling. Yamani said oil producers are in a good position to keep the market stable since inventories of consumer nations are relatively low and the Iran-Iraq war has reduced those countries' production levels.

Oil producers should refrain from selling at a discount and should stick to their production quotas, Yamani said at a news conference. "Any additional production that goes to the market will force the price to go down," said Yamani, who is considered the most influential figure in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The Saudi minister, who is on a two-day official visit here, said he did not foresee any increase in oil prices until after 1986.

Speaking after a meeting with Mexican President Miguel de la Madrid, Yamani praised Mexico for its cooperation with OPEC in keeping its production below full capacity and its prices close to those of the cartel. Mexico is not an OPEC member.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The head of the telephone workers' union said employees of the government-controlled telephone company will not walk off the job if a strike deadline is reached Wednesday, but he said they would wear armbands and carry placards as a sign of protest.

The telephone monopoly is currently under operating control of the government, which means employees face instant dismissal if they go on strike.

The Department of Communications and Transportation seized control of the company by executive order last Friday because of rapidly deteriorating service due to work slow-downs and wildcat strikes. The union has requested an across-the-board raise of 20.2 percent, but management representatives have said they will refuse to go beyond the 18 percent increase limit for federal employees.

The company said it was working to get service back to normal, including repairing fallen lines. The "bottlenecks" in international calls have been reduced and the number of calls going through has greatly improved since the government took control, the company announced.

normally operates like a private company, although the government owns an overwhelming majority of its stock.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The price of milk went up 19.5 percent Wednesday, a move the government said was delayed four months to benefit consumers.

Pasteurized milk — one of the many products subject to government price controls — now will cost the equivalent of about 36 cents a quart. The last price increase was made in January.

The Department of Trade and Industrial Development said the increase was necessary because of the increase in prices of cattle feed.

OAXACA, Mexico (AP) — Nine Roman Catholic Church bishops have sent a report to Pope John Paul II on the serious problem of drug trafficking in the southwestern states of Mexico.

According to the newspaper El Universal, the 31-page report expresses the bishops' concern that peasants are being victimized by the planting, harvesting and sale of poppies and marijuana in the region.

GAO says Farmers overpaid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government overpaid millions of dollars to farmers who took acreage out of production under 1983 farm programs, according to a U.S. General Accounting Office report.

The report, prepared in response to a request by U.S. Rep. Berkeley Bedell, D-Iowa, said the overpayments were the result of the average yield formula the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service used for calculating the payments due to farmers.

Farmers were supposed to be paid in cash or commodities based on an estimate of the yield they would otherwise have had. But since farmers naturally chose to set aside their least productive acreage, their historical average yield was higher than the yield they would have gotten from the set-aside acres, the report said.

"Our work on wheat and sorghum in Texas confirmed that a similar condition existed there also. However, since we did not take a statistically valid sample of farms in Texas, we cannot provide statewide projections," the GAO report said.

The Agriculture Department has already revised its procedures, and 1984 payments will be based on production of the specific acreage involved, the GAO report said.

ASCS spokesman Charles Riley said the GAO report did not mention the difficulty officials have in determining whether or not acreage had previously been irrigated, but that the agency had agreed to review its procedures.

Irrigated versus non-irrigated land is what the GAO report meant when it referred to less and more productive acreage, he said.

The effect of the change in the formula is hard to estimate, Riley said.

"It's very hard to compare one program to another," he said. "Eighty-three was one heck of a big participation. Eighty-four is down."

ASCS analyst Charlie Cunningham said 61 percent of wheat farmers and 57 percent of corn and sorghum farmers participated nationwide in 1983. In 1984, he said, about half the number are participating in 1984 set-aside programs, Cunningham said.

In Texas, about 20,000 corn and sorghum farmers are participating in 1984 programs, compared with 44,000 in 1983. The number of participating wheat farmers dropped from 45,000 to 25,000, he said.

Wagon Train to come through Hereford

The Texas Wagon Train Association will sponsor the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train which will come through Hereford on May 15, 1986 in honor of Texas' 150th birthday.

The theme of the wagon train is "Circle Texas for the Past and Future." And circle Texas it will.

The train will begin in Sulphur Springs on Jan. 2, 1986, and finish its trail in Fort Worth at the Stockyards on July 3, 1986. In all, the wagon train will travel 2,800 miles and pass through many cities including Longview, Nacogdoches, Austin, San Antonio, El Paso, Midland, Odessa, Amarillo, Wichita Falls and Denton.

"The Texas Wagon Train Association is not only interested in preserving the western heritage of Texas," Jan France, executive director, said,

"but also in providing the citizens of Texas, young and old alike, with a living exhibit of their western heritage."

Each town will host the wagon train in its own unique way, France added. Some of the plans being made to host the train are country and western dances, a pancake breakfast, fairs, bus tours of the town and pot-luck suppers.

France said that she believed that the individuals who will participate in the train will be people who place a high value on historic preservation and who will be willing to live as an exhibit of our western heritage.

The train will travel between 20 and 25 miles a day.

Tutors will accompany the wagon train for mandatory classroom instruction, but the space currently is limited to 20 children. Students will bring their school work from the teachers at the school they are attending and the work will be sent back to the school for credit.

France stressed that those interested in taking part should register as soon as possible. The fee is $15 per person or $25 per family.

Participants are responsible for their own meals and for supplies for the teams and wagons.

"The public can join for a day or a week if they have a wagon or a horse," France said. "But they still must register. Anyone who will take part in the train must register."

Already 200 individuals have registered to take part in the wagon train.

"We're making this the major event of the year," France said. "This is the only event that is sanctioned by the state of Texas as an official activity and it is the only sesquicentennial wagon train."

The association is also selling miles to help fund the wagon train. Each mile is $150 except for mile number one, 150, 1836, 1986 and the last mile which are selling for $500 each. Individuals purchasing miles will receive a plaque and will have their names posted in the souvenir magazine.

To sponsor a mile, send a check or money order to Western State Bank, Texas Wagon Train-Mile, Denton, Tx, 76201. You may specify the mile you want.

According to France, the Texas Wagon Train Association is a non-profit organization and will rely on official sponsors, private donations, registration fees and the sale of wagon train souvenirs to fund this historic event.

Walt Garrison will be the honorary state wagonmaster with assistant wagonmasters Tom Landry and Billy Bob Barnett.

For more information and for registration forms, contact Mike Carr at the Chamber of Commerce at 364-3333 or write to the Texas Wagon Train Association, P.O. Box 323, Sulphur Springs, Tx., 75482.

Meeting welcomes teachers

Classroom Teachers and Association and Hereford Educators Association met Monday evening at the Community Center to honor all teachers new to the Hereford Independent School District this year.

A covered dish dinner was served to approximately 130 people.

During dinner a fashion show was presented by Berta Ottesen of The Vogue and Rosie Griffin of the Sports Stop. Those modeling were Bobby Boyd of West Central, Majorie Lasiter of Central office, Marie Garcia of Northwest, Mary Dzuik of Bluebonnet, Judy Bullard of Aikman, Ruben Vargas of the high school, Rita Soliz of Stanton, Brent Royce of La Plata, Nita Fondy of Shirley and Judy Schumacher of Tierra Blanca.

As the 35 new teachers attending the dinner were introduced by Tricia Sims, CTA president, and Billie Birdwell, HEA president, they were given a "goody" packet courtesy of Mike Carr of the Chamber of Commerce.

The speaker for the evening was Aurora Dominguez of Stanton who is serving this year as State vice-president of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association. She urged all teachers to get more involved in voicing their concerns to the legislators in preparation for the January legislative session. Dominguez also encouraged teachers to prioritize their time in order to be more effective in their teaching.

Door prizes were given to some of the new teachers and Helen Rose presented Kathy Raughton and Deann Clifton each with a Community Concert membership.

Anna Marie Bautista won a $25 savings account from Hi-Plains Savings and Loan and Pat Privitt won a membership to HEA.

Special guests attending were Dr. Harrell Holder, superintendent; Henry Amar and Cal Jones, board members; Billie Poteet of Panhandle, District 16 TCTA director; Bill McCarty, high school principal, and Raymond Schroeder and Terry Russell, junior high principals.

Teachers were urged to attend a meeting on Sept. 24 at Borger where Jeretta Thompson, State TCTA president, will speak on amendments being written for the education bill passed in the 1984 Special Session.

At Legion Hall

Jesko family reunion meets

The family of Stephen and Martha Jesko met for their annual reunion Sunday at the American Legion Hall with 78 family members present.

In 1908, the Jeskos moved to a place 15 miles south of Friona where they farmed and ranched until Mr. Jesko's death in 1925. Mrs. Jesko died in 1945. They have twelve children.

All of the children have owned land and have farmed and ranched in the community their parents started. The land is still being farmed by some of the descendants.

Special recognition went to Ida

Jesko as being the only great-great-grandmother in the family. Matt Albracht was also recognized for being chosen from 15 contestants to attend Boy's State.

Family members present enjoyed a picnic dinner with visiting afterward.

Those in attendance from Hereford were Christine Novak, Duane and Theresa Jesko Albracht and sons, Matt and Mike, Ida Jesko, Herman and Carolyn Hund and their sons, Patrick and Michael, Bill and Tina Hund Adams and children; Verna and Tanja, Sally Jesko and Jimmy and Beverly Jesko.

Also, George and Deborah Jesko Bullard and children, Marc, Chris, Erin, Joshua, Brent and Amanda, Doug and Becky Jesko Sanderson and children, Russel, Richard and Megan, Jim Bob Jesko, Gary and Bernadette Jesko Wright and children, Stephen and Sarah, Evelyn Koelzer Blankenship and son, Mike, and Charles and Jackie Jesko.

Other towns represented were Amarillo, Lubbock, Muleshoe, Friona, and Bovina.

Group gathers for candy-making program

Young Homemakers of Texas met Tuesday evening at La Plata Junior High to listen to a program on candy making by Karen Smith.

Smith demonstrated several different types of molds to use with chocolate and various techniques used in coloring.

Melinda Henson, president, called the meeting to order after which members discussed the area convention in August. Plans for participating in an Arts and Crafts show later in the year were also discussed.

Secret Sisters were revealed and new ones drawn. The devotional was given at the close of the meeting.

Members present were Mrs. W.T. Burelsmith, Henson, Gail Blain, Linda Ward, Shelly Schilling, Kelly McCabe, Dawn Wright and a guest, Donita Behrends.

Earlier in the week, the group gathered for a social with a Hawaiian theme. Leis were given to everyone and food representing the islands was served. Afterward, members participated in games.

The next meeting will be Oct. 2 at La Plata Junior High at 7:30 p.m. The program, entitled "Jazzing Up Your Wardrobe with Accessories," will be presented by La Jean Henry, owner of Pants Cage.

Anyone interested in attending a meeting may call Linda Ward at 364-3554 or 364-6112.

New Arrivals

Larry and Elaine McNutt are the parents of a son, Wade Prescott, born at 12:58 a.m. Sept. 8. He weighed 7 lbs. 6 1/4 oz. and was 20 1/2 inches long.

He has two brothers, Bryant and Eric.

Grandparents from Hereford include Dona and Neil McNutt and Thomas and Annette Albracht. Great-grandparents from Hereford are Mrs. C.J. Albracht and Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Berend.

Only one President so far has held a Ph.D. degree — Woodrow Wilson.
