

Gov. Clements promises to veto bill

From wire reports
Texas Gov. Bill Clements is likely to veto a proposed state sales tax increase to help fund public education.

Clements blamed legislators for sending the funding issue back to state courts on Tuesday. Legislators are near the end of a second called session to figure out a new way to fund public education after the present system was ruled unconstitutional. The State Supreme Court gave the state government until Tuesday to come up with a new system.

Legislators finally endorsed a sweeping, $55 million reform plan last week, and proposed combining cuts of $114 million in the state budget and raising the state's part of the sales tax from 6 cents to 6 1/2 cents.

The governor complained that the legislature had fought over budget trimming recommendations for two months before reaching the compromise.

"Their answer is to raise our sales tax to an all-time high. In fact, they want to make it the second highest in America. I won't accept that and neither should you," said Clements in a speech broadcast from his Capitol office.

The Legislature's plan "treats all schools in every part of the state fairly," said Sen. John Montford (D-Lubbock), adding it is supported by rich and poor schools, urban and rural districts.

"Governor, let's not kid ourselves. Good schools with good teachers cost money. Being a responsible leader doesn't mean sticking your head in the sand," Montford said in a televised response.

Meanwhile, Attorney General Jim Mattox accused Clements of playing a dangerous

"brinkmanship" game with the courts. "There's absolutely no doubt that the governor has brought us into this crisis. And it would appear that the governor is going to keep us in this crisis," said Mattox.

But the governor said Mattox was "showboating," and predicted the Supreme Court's Tuesday deadline would pass without incident or school closings.

"Just be calm, be cool. I'm going to veto the bill and we'll (the Legislature) be back in session," said Clements.

He said he believes state District Judge Scott McCown of Austin will extend the Supreme Court's deadline, allowing a third special legislative session to keep working on school reform.

Lawmakers have been in session since Feb. 27, and Clements wants another session

"Just be calm, be cool."
--Gov. Clements

to begin Wednesday.

Mattox, the state's lawyer in this case, said he hasn't made a final decision on what action to take in court.

But he indicated that he may give the judge the reform plan the Legislature has approved - and hope the judge would allow more time for lawmakers to find a way to fund it.

"It is conceivable that were this district court to really want to act in a really hardball fashion, that he (McCown) would stop the high school seniors from graduating until sometime later in the year," said Mattox.

With the court deadline looming, Supreme Court Justice Oscar Mauzy said he sees little excuse that Clements and lawmakers could give to the court on Tuesday.

"I don't know what in the world they (the state) can use as a reason. There is no reason," Mauzy told the Houston Chronicle. "They're run out of soap. I can't believe the attorney general's office can go in there with a straight face and make an argument for that."

Clements told reporters, "I don't think that he's a good lawyer, I don't think he's a good judge and I didn't think he was a good legislator. Other than that I don't have any opinion of Mr. Mauzy."

EDC gives audit; funds will transfer

By SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

If the economic development proposition is approved by voters on May 5, the Economic Development Council plans to transfer its assets to the new corporation, it was confirmed by Mayor Wes Fisher Wednesday.

Proposition 1 on the city ballot May 5 will ask voters to determine whether or not the city sales tax would be increased by one-half percent to fund an economic development proposal.

Fisher said the EDC assets would include office equipment, furniture and supplies, as well as the balance of funds contributed by the city and county.

R.W. (Bud) Eades, volunteer director of the EDC, reported the council had a fund balance of $48,987.53. With no funds committed for 1990, the office no longer employs a secretary and the board is at a standstill.

With the Economic Development Council (EDC) being made an issue in the upcoming city election on Proposition 1, EDC director Tom LeGate Friday issued a financial statement to The Brand.

The report, prepared on a cash accounting basis, covers the 21-month existence of EDC, from August 1988 through April 1990. The report shows EDC had revenues of $108,145.97; expenditures of $59,158.44, and a current balance of $48,987.53.

Revenues included contributions from the City of Hereford, $47,951; Deaf Smith County, $48,000; and Hereford Independent School District, $3,667. A furniture and equipment donation from the Waste Deposit Impact Committee was valued at $2,828; interest income totaled $2,882.49; a note on a postage machine added $2,125.48, and there was a $692 refund for a seminar and on insurance.

A major part of the expenditures went for an office manager--$27,054 for salary and $1,823.48 in payroll taxes--accounting for 49 percent of the total over 21 months. Office furniture was listed at $10,308.48, and telephone and travel amounted to $7,225.21. Office supplies amounted to $1,128.19; advertising $1,683.66; printing $955.08; accounting $2,135; insurance $1,457; equipment lease $1,885.50, plus other miscellaneous items.

LeGate pointed out that the replacement value of office furniture and equipment, which would be transferred to the proposed corporation, would add $15,000 to $18,000 on top of the cash balance of $48,987. Some more interest on the money will also accrue, said LeGate.

The EDC budget had estimated approximately $100,000 a year for office operation--including salaries for a professional director and an office manager. That total did not include office rent, as the office was rent-free at City Hall.

The EDC did not hire a professional director because there was no long-range funding plan, said LeGate. Eades served as a volunteer director for about a year. LeGate reported the office has a prospect list and names of persons contacted. LeGate explained that some did not appear as good prospects for the community, and others need to be followed up on at some time in the future.

Eades and LeGate said they had copies of the EDC financial statement if anyone was interested in obtaining one.

Dentist ready for toothache-less challenge

By CINDY POTTORFF
Staff Writer

The town without a toothache is getting a new dentist.

Dr. Charles A. Hennessey has purchased the dental practice originally started by Dr. George Heard. Dr. Heard was the dentist who did the original study of why there were very few toothaches in Hereford. That study, published worldwide, led to Hereford being named "The Town Without A Toothache."

Hennessey bought the practice, located at 909 East Park, from Dr. Wes Owen early this month.

Dr. Owen, who practiced dentistry in Hereford for 33 years, thinks Dr. Hennessey will do an excellent job.

"It's with mixed emotions that we leave all the wonderful people we've known and served all these years," explained Dr. Owen. "But there comes a time and this is the time (to retire). And with Dr. Hennessey to take over, I feel real good about it."

About a month ago, Dr. Hennessey and his wife, Susan, moved to Hereford from Amarillo. They took over Dr. Owen's practice about three weeks ago.

Susan runs the office while Dr. Hennessey, who she affectionately calls Charlie, practices dentistry. Mrs. Hennessey has worked in bookkeeping and accounting for several years and is only about 20 hours short of having a business degree.

Moving to Hereford and starting a dental practice are big steps for newlyweds married Jan. 18, especially when they have never worked together before. But it seems to be working well for the Hennesseys.

"We had our first business meeting Tuesday night and I told him we have to do this more often," Susan said. "It was fun and I got a chance to tell him what's going on business-wise and he got a chance to let me know what he had planned for some of the patients."

Starting a new practice is difficult and the Hennesseys get discouraged from time to time. But they keep each other's spirits up.

"What's great about our marriage is that when he's down about the business, I'm up," Susan explained. "And when I'm down, he tells me things are looking up, we're going to get new patients. It's like a seesaw. One of us balances out the other."

The way people in Hereford have welcomed the Hennesseys helps keep their spirits up, too.

"People told us that when you first come in, people will be a little standoffish because they're real close knit to their own," said Susan.

"We haven't found that," said Dr. Hennessey. One of Dr. Hennessey's patients invited the couple to dinner. "I just kind of glowed and floated and told Charlie about it," said Susan.

The Hennesseys

Dr. Charles A. Hennessey and his wife, Susan, stand in front of his office at 909 East Park Avenue. The Hennesseys bought Dr. Wes Owen's dental practice earlier this month.

When asked what he plans to do now that he's retired, Dr. Owen said, "I plan to floss and pursue other interests." On a more serious note, Owen said he plans to pursue other business interests. Exactly what those interests are will be revealed at a later date.

Early voting period will end Tuesday

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Absentee voting ends Tuesday for the city, school and hospital board elections to be held next Saturday.

Drawing the most attention are the hospital board race, with ten persons seeking the four available spots, and a sales tax proposition that would fund economic development in Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

City voters also have a choice for the at-large positions on the city commission. Incumbents Paul Hamilton and Terry Langehennig are being challenged by Ron Weishaar and former commissioner Emory Brownlow. Incumbents Bud Eades and Irene Cantu, who serve specific areas, are running unopposed.

The Deaf Smith County Hospital District board election has the expiring terms of Craig Smith, Margie Ford and Frank Zinser plus a new seat on the board. The new seat was created by the Texas Legislature last year and will increase the board to seven members.

Ford and Zinser are retiring from the board. Joining Smith on the ballot are Donita Rule, Dr. Stan Fry Jr., Valerie Fellhauer, Bert Parker, John Perrin, Diane Hoelscher, Boyd Foster, Nancy Hill and Janie Granado.

For the Hereford school board, incumbents John Fuston, Dennis Newton and Sylvia Flores are unopposed.

Absentee voting will be held Monday and Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the county clerk's office in the courthouse. Saturday's elections will be held at the Hereford Community Center.

Leaf rust hurts area wheat crop

Area wheat producers finally got some badly-needed rains in the last two weeks, but the rain may have boosted the chance for rust in the wheat crop.

Prospects were for the best wheat crop in at least three years in the region. The crop has been devastated the last two years by the Russian wheat aphid and ill-timed freezes. There have been spotty problems with the aphids, and there is some wheat streak mosaic in the area.

Center will help children

It shouldn't hurt to be a child.

That is more than some motto, it's a position that the Hereford Child Welfare Board and the Regional Council of Child Welfare Boards is hoping to get across during April during Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Billboards across the region are promoting the position, and lollipops with the slogan "We Care-Lick Child Abuse" have been distributed in elementary schools.

The Hereford Child Welfare Board has invited parents to eat lunch with their children at local schools, where parents can register for a chance to win a family weekend package in Amarillo including a suite at the Howard Johnson Plaza Hotel, a hand-stamp from Wonderland Park, games at Putt-Putt Golf, movie passes and other prizes.

Monday from 5:30-7:30 p.m., there will be a public reception in Amarillo at the Bridge, 15th and Polk. It's the first children's advocacy center in the state.

The Bridge is a project of the Panhandle Coalition for Child Abuse Prevention and offers a safe, home-like setting. There, victims of child abuse can be interviewed and observed by social workers, law enforcement officers and prosecutors. The newly-remodeled facility will be open for tours during the reception.

All area citizens are urged to become partners for prevention in the fight against child abuse. Child abuse is costly to everyone because of long-term effects on society. It is estimated that treatment for serious physical abuse costs child welfare agencies, hospitals and rehabilitation facilities almost $500 million a year. On top of that figure are problems associated with a history of child abuse including substance abuse, juvenile and adult crime, family violence and poor social adjustment.

Local persons wanting to help with child abuse programs may contact the county judge's office.

Rev. Brendan Sherry of Amarillo. Burial will follow in Holy Family Cemetery by Foskey-Fleming Funeral Home of Dimmitt. Rosary will be held at 8 p.m. Sunday in the CCD building. Mr. Wagner was born April 6, 1920 in Hereford. He moved to Nazareth in 1946. He was a farmer. He attended Hereford schools and was a veteran of World War II. He married Winifred Wilhelm on May 1, 1946 in Nazareth.

Police arrest 4 on Friday

Hereford police arrested four persons on Friday, including two men, both age 21, for driving while license suspended; and two men, ages 17 and 21, for public intoxication.

Reports included gunshots heard in the 300 block of Ave. J; harassing phone calls; a car had paint scratched and lights broken in the 100 block of Ave. K; a car was burglarized on the high school parking lot, with property found in a nearby dumpster; theft of a 12-pack of beer; and $4,000 worth of tools and other goods were taken from a building on N. 25 Mile Ave. Police issued 19 citations and investigated a minor accident Friday.

Survivors include his wife; two daughters, Linda Nowak of Waldorf, Md., and Bonnie Wethington of Groton, Conn.; three sons, Lonnie Wagner of Morton, James Wagner of Fort Worth and Kenny Wagner; six brothers, including Lester Wagner of Hereford; three sisters; and 11 grandchildren.

ROBERT DOYLE LAMINACK

April 26, 1990
Robert Doyle Laminack, 66, of Amarillo, died Thursday, April 26, 1990.

His survivors include a daughter, Donna West of Hereford.

Services were held Saturday in Temple Baptist Church in Amarillo with the Rev. Richard Dickerson, pastor, and the Rev. Robert Field, pastor of South Georgia Baptist Church, officiating. Graveside services followed in Llano Cemetery under the auspices of Amarillo Lodge No. 731 AF&AM.

Mr. Laminack was born in Winnsboro. He moved to Amarillo in 1947. He was a U.S. Navy veteran, serving in World War II. He married Gwen Gilberath in 1950 at Winnsboro. He and his brother, Hap, established Amarillo Floor Company in 1950. In 1958, he acquired sole ownership. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Texas Home Builders Association. He was a Baptist.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Robert Doyle Laminack, Jr., of Amarillo; five daughters, Donna West of Hereford, Debra Corbin of Portland, Ore., Beverly Hogan of Boston, N.Y., Anita Piper of Amarillo and Stacie Laminack of Amarillo; four brothers, Paul Laminack of Paducah, J.H. "Hap" Laminack of Sulphur Springs; Billy Laminack of Winnsboro and Bennie Laminack of Houston; and two grandchildren.

The family requests memorials be to the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center.

WHEAT

The problem arises from planting wheat earlier for more grazing, according to Extension Service specialists. A mite lives in the winter in johnsongrass and volunteer wheat, then attacks young wheat once it comes out of dormancy.

Rust will kill young plants, inhibit foliage and root growth, thereby reducing yields.

Grain in rusted plants may be of little nutritional value because it will not have starch or other nutrients.

Wheat streak mosaic has a similar effect, slowing the rate of growth, stunting the plant and reducing total yields.

Every part of the squirrel's field of vision is in perfect focus, not just straight ahead as with man.

A completely blind chameleon will still take the colors of its environment.

DENTIST

The fact that their dental practice is picking up is encouraging the Hennesseys.

"I'm busier than I thought I would be, but a lot of them are recall patients from Dr. Owen," Dr. Hennessey explained.

Hennessey is impressed with the work that Dr. Owen did. "He's been doing fantastic dentistry, from what I've seen, the patients that come in here," Hennessey explained. "He's done a real good job. Thirty-three years he's been at it...we just hope to continue, take up where he left off."

"But we've had lots of new patients. We've had our fair share of people calling in. That gentleman (a man who had just left the office with his two boys) had never been anywhere in town, I think, but came to the office."

Dr. Hennessey likes working with children. "I like kids," he said. "They're good little patients. I can treat about 95 percent of kids but there's that 5 percent...they're really better off with specialists. But I've found over the years that about 95 percent of the problems can be taken care of within the limits of the general dentist. That is cheaper than a specialist, whose fees are higher, usually. We try to make it where families can (afford to) keep their kids fixed up and stuff like that."

Susan has an 8-year-old daughter, Jennie, from a previous marriage. Jennie is crazy about Charlie.

"When we go to pick her up, she hugs Charlie before she hugs me," Susan said. "I think she could handle discipline from him. I think, more than anything else, it would hurt her feelings because she values his opinion so much."

"I called her the other night and she didn't want to talk to me. She wanted to talk to Charlie and told Charlie that she'd lost one of her back teeth," Susan said, smiling.

Dr. Hennessey grew up in Victoria, and Mrs. Hennessey grew up in Skellytown.

Dr. Hennessey got his undergraduate degree at the University of Texas in Austin and attended dental school at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio from 1982 to 1987.

After he graduated from dental school, Dr. Hennessey joined a private practice in San Angelo. After 17 months, he left looking for better opportunities. From there, he went to San Antonio for two-and-a-half-months. He moved to Amarillo in March 1989 and joined a private practice.

"About January of this year, I started looking seriously at getting out on my own," Dr. Hennessey said. "I've been out of school three years next month. It's time to get off on my own and do things my own way and we're real excited."

Why did the Hennesseys decide to come to Hereford?

"Basically, it's an ideal location," Dr. Hennessey explained. "It's exactly where...I'm from South Texas. We would come through the Panhandle on vacation on our way the mountains. I love going to the mountains, so it's a lot better location than the coast, for seeing the mountains, going to the mountains...a heck of a lot closer."

"There were a couple of offices for sale that weren't close to the mountains that he really didn't want to look at because he wanted four seasons," Susan said. "This was something new to him. He wanted four seasons and he wanted to be within a day's drive of the mountains."

"You can't beat the people, either," Dr. Hennessey said enthusiastically. "We've met some fine people. Going to Kiwanis, they're great guys. And her with the Women's Division of the chamber of commerce, great."

The Hennesseys also are looking forward to getting involved in church and going to football and baseball games.

The Hennesseys met in Amarillo. Susan was Charles' patient. As he cleaned her teeth, gave her fillings, and gave her a root canal they got acquainted.

So when Susan says she thinks Charlie was made for dentistry because he has "such a touch", she's speaking from experience.

"He broke his vow," Susan explained. "He had vowed never to go out with patients. And he had never done it. But when it's right, you can't argue with it."

Dr. Hennessey knows that going into his own practice means there aren't any real rigid hours.

"There's no hard rule about hours, really," said Dr. Hennessey.

Dr. Owen was open three and a half days a week and was not accepting new patients because he was getting ready to retire.

"We're at that stage in our lives where we're ready to go, go, go," Susan said. "We want all the new patients we can get and we're basically kind of biting at the bit."

In addition to extending Dr. Owen's hours, the Hennesseys making a few changes to the office. For the time being, the changes are limited to getting new chairs for both offices, putting in some lights, and getting a new film processor. Later on, they may make more changes.

If someone is in pain, Hennessey will work them in even if it means staying late at the office.

"We're here to stay and become integrated into the community," Dr. Hennessey said. "We want people to know that they can count on us, we're not going to pick up and leave. And that we're here if they need us in an emergency."

Knowing how to shop for quality products...that's only one of the many benefits 4-H members get from taking part in the consumer education program.

4-H members in the Deaf Smith County Consumers Education Program were involved in learning experiences that would benefit them throughout their lives. 4-H'ers participating in the Consumer Decision Workshop were Julia Schlabs, Erin and Cady Auckerman, Amber Vasek, Lori Paetzold, Angela Gamboa, Karon Harder, Jami Parker, and Amanda McMeen. The bi-county workshop held in conjunction with Oldham County was led by Jennifer Hicks, 4-H Teen Leader. 4-H'ers advanced to the district competition in the Consumer Decision Contest in Amarillo at Western Plaza Mall on April 7th. Participation awards were presented to Jennifer Hicks in senior division, Cady Auckerman in intermediate division and Amber Gamboa in junior division.

Youth involved

The planting of a silver maple tree by the youth of First United Methodist Church was the highlight of the Earth Day celebration at the church. Church members gathered with the youth on the playground following an all-church picnic. The youth purchased the tree with funds obtained from an aluminum can collection drive. Following the planting, Ken McLain gave instructions on how to care for the tree. Youth involved were Patrick Hayes, Jeff Carlson, Wendy Warrick, Jill Ruland, Kristin Calkins, Hayley Lockmiller, Heidi Ruland and Kathleen Cooper.

Parents needed to decorate

Parents of Hereford High School seniors are asked to help decorate for the senior prom planned May 12.

Work nights will be held each Tuesday and Thursday at 7:30 at Sugarland Mall.

New officers elected at La Madre Mia Club meeting

La Madre Mia Study Club met recently at the Hereford State Bank for the annual salad supper-election party.

Hostesses were Lavon Nicman, Debbie Bentley, Betty Lady, Barbara Manning, and Carolyn Baxter.

The salad supper was served from tables set for four with white cloths, colorful napkins, and bud vases filled with lilacs as centerpieces.

Wendall Clark, Lynton Allred, Craig Smith, Roger Williams, and Terry Bromlow campaigned for Merle Clark for president.

The installation dinner will be May 10. Carolyn Baxter will install new officers. Club members will be participating in the Deaf Smith County Unit of the American Cancer Society's annual residential campaign drive set from 2-5 p.m. today.

New officers elected were Merle Clark, president; Mysodia Smith, vice president; Debbie Bentley, secretary; Judy Williams, treasurer; Nancy Paetzold, historian; Past President Carolyn Baxter, parliamentarian; and Nicki Walser, reporter.

Members attending were Joyce Allred, Baxter, Francine Bromlow, Clark, Mary Herring, Lady, Manning, Gladys Merritt, Nicman, Paetzold, Susan Robbins, Lucy Rogers, Smith, Georgia Sparks, Betty Taylor, Marlene Watson, Williams, Bentley, and Walser.

We're always happy when one of our employees receives a special honor...

UNION HEALTH PLANS AND CHIROPRACTIC CARE

If you belong to a union whose benefits include a health plan, you may be entitled to chiropractic care. Many of the major international, national, and local labor unions include chiropractic services in their health and welfare plans. So do many of the major industrial employers.

As a healing arts practitioner, the doctor of chiropractic concentrates on a drugless or "natural" approach to health care. Through gentle manipulation of the spine, he works to correct any misalignments that may be interfering with the flow of nerve impulses from the brain to other parts of the body. Interference with the nerve supply may affect your body's organs and cells and prevent them from functioning normally. This may be the cause of pain and discomfort, not only in your neck and back but in other parts of your body as well.

The doctor of chiropractic knows that pain-killing drugs only mask the symptoms of ill health. They don't cure the cause. By restoring your body's spine and nervous system to normal functioning, this may be the treatment you need to feel well again.

Prop 1, and trust

Economic development is everyone's responsibility. Hereford can no longer rely on private donations alone to aggressively pursue new business and industry or to help local businesses expand, and that's one of the reasons we think Proposition 1 in the May 5 city election makes good economic sense.

Proposition 1 will ask voters to approve a one-half percent increase in the city sales tax with those funds to be used for economic development. The tax would be paid by people who live and who shop in Hereford and who obviously have an important stake in seeing this community attract more jobs. Goods and services currently exempt from the sales tax would continue to be exempt. Here is an opportunity to draw more revenue from a broader source, which should be attractive to property owners who complain they are having to shoulder an unfair share of the burden.

The city has explained how the funds will be used, as prescribed by state law. The precise use of these funds will be up to the five-member board appointed by the city commission. To us, a key factor would be the people appointed to this board. The commission has indicated it wants the "five best-qualified people" on this board, and voters would need to make sure their input is heard.

From statements made by opponents of the proposition, it appears that trust in our public officials is a prime objection. They express concern about who will be appointed to the board, how the money will be spent, and how the EDC failed to attract new industry. The foes are right about one thing: there are no guarantees. But we have to believe the city commission will be fair and above board, and that EDC directors did their best, under adverse circumstances, to make that agency successful.

If used wisely, the money generated by this fund will be a significant tool in helping existing businesses expand, attracting new industry to Hereford or Deaf Smith County, creating more jobs and, thus broadening the tax base. Hereford clearly needs an economic boost. The latest estimates by the Census Bureau show we've lost 6.4 percent in our population since 1980, and many counties in the Panhandle have lost that much and more.

We support a vote FOR Proposition 1. But however you feel, please remember to vote, by absentee through May 1, or on election day, May 5.

Census Not The Disaster It's Hyped Up To Be

The national census is not supposed to be a political issue, but some politicians seem intent on making it one.

This criticism is counterproductive. It tends to undermine public confidence in the Census Bureau and cause people to disregard their civic duty to return census questionnaires.

Census officials had expected a 70 percent return of mailed questionnaires, but so far the figure is 63 percent. Some politicians seized on this to criticize the bureau.

...What the Democrats seem to be doing is pressuring the Census Bureau to hype the count in big cities. The larger the count there, the bigger the advantage for the Democratic Party that controls most cities. Census figures are used to lay out congressional district lines and determine how much local governments get in federal financial aid...

If the big-city mayors and other political critics really want to help, they ought to urge every American to cooperate with census takers.

Genetic Advance On Alcoholism

What may prove to be a breakthrough in scientists' understanding of alcoholism has been reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The discovery ultimately could help alleviate the suffering caused by misuse of alcohol.

(The) finding - that a particular gene is associated with alcoholism - is bound to fuel the ideological war over the causes of destructive drinking. It will bolster champions of the theory that alcoholism is a disease and provoke those who view drinking as a sin...

Perhaps a time will come when doctors can alter a person's genetic makeup and remove an extra susceptibility to alcohol addiction.

That will be a great day. It will eliminate what is apparently some people's built-in disadvantage in learning to use alcohol responsibly.

THE VOICE OF BUSINESS

AN EXCESSIVE INCREASE

by Dr. Richard L. Lesh, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

WASHINGTON — The 20 percent rate hike sought by the U.S. Postal Service is excessive and totally unjustified.

If the increase receives final approval, postal costs will have risen 46 percent faster than the rate of inflation between April 3, 1988, the date of the last increase, and next January when this one is scheduled to kick in.

Nor is that statistic a mere blip on the screen. Since 1958, the cost of postage stamps has risen 70 percent after adjustment for inflation. That compares with a 36 percent increase in the price of blue jeans or a ticket to a baseball game. During the same period, the inflation-adjusted price of many basic commodities has actually declined: 80 percent for televisions, 40 percent for milk, and 22 percent for gasoline.

But the cost of postage just keeps soaring higher and higher with no commensurate improvement in the quality of service. To the contrary, the Postal Service has recently unveiled a plan to deliberately reduce first class delivery standards. Approximately 5 percent of the mail now delivered overnight will take two days, and about 5 percent of the mail now delivered in two days will take three days.

In sum, the Postal Service is demanding an exorbitant increase in rates to sustain a reduction in service. It is only through the magic of government-imposed monopoly that such miracles are made possible.

The impact of the increase on business will be substantial. The cost for a bank to mail a statement will rise 11 cents; department store flyers will jump from 13.2 cents to 15.8 cents; and sending a utility bill that has been presorted and specially coded will shoot up from 20 to 24.3 cents. This increase will cost business at least $6.2 billion in direct costs which must be passed on to the consumer.

The Postal Service is trying to appease the public by claiming the rate increase will only cost consumers $10 more a year each. Give us a break! Postage is part of every household's budget, and postal costs are factors in the price of virtually every consumer item. The actual impact will be $8 billion, or $88 per household per year.

The major responsibility for this excess lies squarely with the postal unions. They have demanded a steady stream of pay increases bringing the total cost per worker to more than $40,000, twice the average for all workers in the private sector. Even worse, restrictive work rules make it virtually impossible for the Postal Service to reap the benefits of its massive investment in new technology. For example, it is common practice for postal employees to use old inefficient machines because union rules specify that 90 percent of the employees must work full time.

If this excessive increase goes through, it will only encourage further excesses at the expense of the public.

B.L. Jones

Dear editor,

It must be great to be a new business wanting to locate today. Many counties and cities have voted tax abatement policies and tax levies for industrial development. I understand that some prospects are offered up to 15 years with no property taxes, land to build on either cost or lease-free, loans and even cash grants.

Any new business desiring to locate in this area is offered great incentives from competing counties. If we don't compete on the terms of our neighbors our chances are small. I understand our leadership wish to be competitive in this declining economy.

I think the decline is far from over. I want jobs and increased purchasing, also cash flow in Hereford just like everyone else does.

I am also a taxpayer and served many years on tax equalization board. Every time anyone or anything becomes tax exempt or tax abated the existing taxpayers get their load increased.

We are being asked to pay perhaps $300,000 more taxes to create ongoing new agency, staff, etc.; provide favored loan funds if not gifts and free or favored land location.

All this money will be spent whether we get new industry or not. If we do not secure new business, any services it or its people require will increase the taxes of current taxpayers. Then, depending on the nature of the new enterprise, it may well be in direct competition with an existing business. The existing business would then pay his share of property taxes, plus the sales tax to entice the new business to come here, plus a portion of the taxes abated to the new company.

Perhaps the new enterprise would not compete with current taxpayers.

My question is this: if a new business won't pay their equal share of our taxes, do I want them here bad enough to pay my part of the $300,000 a year to entice them here? Then I must pay more taxes to support them if and when they do locate in Hereford.

I doubt that local government will have much better results taxing and spending us into prosperity than our federal government has had.

Bruce Coleman

Dear Editor:

My family moved back to Hereford because a good employment opportunity existed. But this is a rare example as there are very few opportunities and little incentive for a family to relocate to Hereford. This is why I believe Proposition 1 is vital to the future of our community.

Answer the following:

1) Is your residence or other real estate worth more today than it was five years ago.

2) Is your business growing or are your employment opportunities numerous

3) Have your property taxes remained constant and do you expect them to stay there.

4) Can you name more people that have moved into, or out of, Hereford

The answers are clear and so are the solutions. We must have an organized and funded effort to help our existing businesses expand and attract new industry to Hereford. Let's expand our tax base, create jobs and increase our property values. A vote For Proposition 1 will certainly head us in the right direction.

I also urge everyone to become informed in a factual manner. As I read some of the negative ads concerning Hereford and its future, I wondered first, why we have some businesses with out-of-town ownership (Canyon, Dimmitt, etc.) funding these ads and second, where this group has been when the work of economic development has been taking place. It is very easy to sit on the sideline and be a critic.

Contrary to some of these same ads, we are a competitive community with hard working individuals, ready to challenge Pampa, Borger, Plainview and any other community, so don't be told otherwise. Let us also remember we had no voices when Holly Sugar was being recruited, we had no voices when the cattle industry was being organized here and now we have some more no voices. Aren't we glad these negative attitudes haven't prevailed in the past and aren't we hopeful they won't dominate us in the future.

In closing, let me say there is but one guarantee, a no vote will stop Hereford from reaching its full potential. Vote for Hereford and its future, vote for Proposition 1.

Sincerely,
James McDowell

An AP news analysis

Kemp key player in Bush lineup

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jack Kemp, according to Jack Kemp, is a bleeding heart conservative supply side progressive suburban Republican, and never mind the commas. That compound description comes in one burst.

Kemp is an activist in a relatively passive administration. And glad to be there, he says, on the team, not the pitcher or the catcher but nevertheless fielding an important position in the George Bush lineup. It is a politically delicate position because he inherited a Republican scandal.

"I'm not the Republican National Committee chairman, as I tell anybody who wants me to come in to speak in their district," Kemp says. "I'm the secretary of housing and urban development."

As the boss of the Cabinet agency that bequeathed this administration a Reagan-era scandal over political influence-peddling and federal grants, Kemp says he has rationed his role in the 1992 congressional campaign.

"Do I go? Yes," he said over his rapidly cooling salmon lunch. "Am I careful? Yes... I don't want this to be confused with the Republican committee, as it was in the past."

Nor, Kemp said, should he be confused with the candidate he was in the past.

Not now, anyhow.

He is purposefully vague about the political future, saying that he likes what he's doing, sees it as an opportunity for Republicans to demonstrate that they care about the cities and the poor and can improve the lot of both.

Kemp waves off the observation that the Republican administration wants to spend less; not more, on the construction of housing for the poor. He says that's not the way to do it, that tax and other incentives will spur private investment while the prospect of owning their homes will help the poor break out of the welfare and project housing cycle.

It's the same supply-side theory Kemp advanced as the House sponsor of the tax cut that eventually became the centerpiece of Reaganomics. Now he argues for President Bush's proposal to cut the capital gains tax rate, saying it will benefit low income Americans by creating jobs and opportunities, and for the enterprise zone plan he pushed as a member of Congress.

That program would waive the capital gains tax altogether, and provide other tax breaks to attract investment into economically blighted districts.

Critics call it trickle-down Republican economics. Kemp told Congress it would open a Niagara Falls of economic growth in depressed neighborhoods. And he tells Republicans that if they show a real and lasting commitment to dealing with the problems of low-income Americans, theirs will become the majority party.

Kemp is pushing that mission, and not quietly. He says he wants this administration to wage war on poverty, with different methods but about the same goals as the one attempted by Lyndon B. Johnson. That slogan isn't popular with everyone around the Cabinet table, but Kemp isn't deterred.

"I try to be pithy in my advice," he says, smiling.

Kemp is not in a job he sought, but now that he has it, he tells audiences he was born for it. His first choice, of course, would have been the presidency. He sought the 1988 Republican nomination with conservative backing, but limped in the primaries and quit the race early. He was on the list of vice presidential prospects, and would have, relished the nomination Dan Quayle got. In the Cabinet he would have preferred Treasury.

But HUD is working out. For all the headaches that go with the earlier ethics and influence scandals, those problems made it an agency in need of change, reform and repair, and that makes Kemp's role more visible.

While he won't speculate on a possible next step, Kemp said "it is no secret" that he would not want to stay at the department through eight years of a Bush administration. Then he quickly adds that "I want to stay on the team," for as long as the president wants him.

Kemp says he's a team player, part of what he describes as the outer circle of the Bush administration. "I don't expect to be on the inner circle," he said. The real insiders were with Bush before his nomination; in those days Kemp was an opponent.

He said he harbors no thoughts about running for president again - an obligatory disclaimer for a political figure in his situation.

"I've had three great careers," said Kemp, 54, a professional football quarterback, then a nine-term New York congressman before he joined the Bush Cabinet. "I have absolutely no thoughts of '96."

"I'll be 61 or 62," he said. "I'll be too old."

Bush was 64 when he was inaugurated.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to respond to "Family Friend" who was critical of the teen-agers who went to the mortuary to pay last respects to a classmate.

She said there must have been at least 200 teens present and that it wasn't possible for a young person to have 200 close friends. The assumption was that the kids were simply curiosity seekers who had no business being there. The writer also complained that the teen-agers cried out loud, hung onto each other, jammed the parking lot and not one of them had the good sense to walk over to the family and offer condolences.

I am a teen-ager who has lost three good friends and two teachers in the last two years. None of these people died of natural causes. The shock was awful. The only way my friends and I could deal with the pain was to go to the mortuary and cling to each other as we said our last goodbye.

Thanks for sticking up for us, Ann. You were right when you said young people have a feeling of immortality and when one of their own dies, it's a terrible shock. If you print my letter, please sign it -- Still Sad in Columbus

DEAR SAD: I've received a great many letters from teen-agers and adults who were upset with "Family Friend." Most of the outrage came from parents of teen-agers who had died. Here's a sampling of what I've been getting:

FROM DAVIS, OKLA.: Since I am the mother of a teen-ager who died of unnatural causes, I believe I am qualified to respond to "Family Friend" with some authority. When my daughter died, it was a great comfort to know that so many of her friends cared enough to come to the funeral home and visit her one last time. Not all who came were close friends, but that was all right. I don't believe teen-agers are "curious about death." They would rather not think about it at all. As a parent who is still grieving, let me say it helped a lot to see so many young faces gather at the mortuary.

DAYTON: I lost my son in a construction accident. He was 19. His death was sudden and tragic. I was in such a daze I didn't know who showed up at the mortuary, but I was moved by the hundreds of names in the guest book. Even if those people weren't close friends, they cared enough to come.

SAN JOSE: Our teen-ager was killed by a drunk driver. Our grief was made worse by anger and rage -- that this beautiful child should be taken from us by a man who was so intoxicated he couldn't stand up. I'm glad you said teen-agers have the right to congregate at a funeral home. Their presence gave us strength.

WOODHAVEN, MICH.: I am a 17-year-old who is concerned about the way teen-agers are looked at by adults. The letter from "Family Friend" was a good example. One of our own died last year, and a lot of kids went to the funeral even though they didn't know the parents. Was that wrong? Our class sent a lovely floral offering that was funded by our class treasury. It made us feel better, and we hope the family appreciated it, even though a lot of us were "strangers." Thanks for sticking up for us, Ann. We needed that.

VOTE FOR RON WEISHAAR CITY COMMISSIONER AT-LARGE

Dear Hereford Citizens,

My name is Ron Weishaar and I am running for City Commissioner-At-Large in the May 5th election.

My wife, Jan, and I moved to Hereford in 1976 after I graduated from Emporia State University with a degree in business administration. We now have four children, ages 2 to 13, and reside at 102 Rio Vista. We are members of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, and I am a member of Rotary. I am in the cattle feeding, grain-trucking, and commodity brokerage businesses along with operating All Star Sports Center on Main Street.

I am now serving on the boards of directors of the Y.M.C.A., Cowgirl Hall of Fame, and Hereford Community Concert Association. I am a past school board member of St. Anthony's School and past president of Hereford Men's Golf Association.

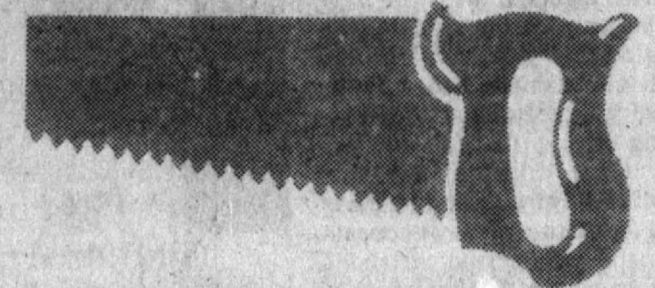

As you can see from a little of my history, I am firmly rooted in Hereford, and I have a very viable interest in Hereford's future. My #1 goal for Hereford is to improve the quality of life for everyone. Let us all work together to make Hereford a better place to live and raise our families.

If you feel as I do, it is time for new leadership in Hereford. I will make myself accessible to everyone in Hereford as it takes interaction between people to accomplish anything. I am personally asking you to vote for me for City Commissioner At-Large. Election is May 5th, and absentee voting is now under way.

Scott named ENMU's Greatest Greyhound

Former Hereford quarterback Mike Scott has been selected "Greatest Greyhound" by the faculty of Eastern New Mexico University in Portales.

Scott, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Scott, is a 1985 graduate of Hereford High School.

Don Carthel, head football coach at ENMU, presented the award at a Student Affairs Awards Banquet on the ENMU campus.

"Mike came to us in 1986. He was red-shirted that year, coming off a baseball scholarship to Ranger Junior College," Carthel said. "He led the opposing offense that fall and was chosen 'Most Valuable Junk Yard Dog.' Mike did an outstanding job of learning the offense of our opponents.

"He came off the bench in the fall of 1987 as our No. 5 quarterback to bring us from behind and win three of our football games.

"Mike Scott is a winner. He never gives up. This past fall, he led our squad to a 10-3 season."

Mike is currently doing his student teaching at Hereford Junior High, teaching earth science with cooperating teacher Leona Schilling. He will receive his BS degree with honors in Biology on May 11. Mike plans to return to ENMU in the fall as a graduate assistant coach to work with the football program and to pursue a master's degree.

Castillo fourth at I-4A; Roddy, relays qualify for finals

Teresa Castillo of the Hereford Lady Whiteface track team placed fourth Friday in the 3,200-meter run at the Region I-4A meet in San Angelo.

Castillo was timed in 12 minutes, 15.85 seconds for the race, just .15 seconds of her district-winning time.

In running preliminaries at the meet, Daphne Roddy advanced to the finals of the 200 with a season-best 25.00, fourth-best in the prelims.

Roddy and Castillo teamed with Jill West and Minerva Salazar on the 800 and 1,600 relays to record the best times of the year in both races.

The foursome clocked a 1:45.22 in the 800, fourth-best qualifying time, and 4:06.04, third-best in the field, in the mile relay.

In the field events, Cande Robbins finished sixth with a throw of 110 feet even while Shantel Cornelius was just out of the scoring in seventh at 107-8.

For the boys, Phillip Betzen did not place in the discus nor did Brad Mason in the pole vault.

Boys' shot putter Benny Gonzales and Lisa Zepeda in the girls' 800 were to compete Saturday.

Herd JV, Canyon split 2

The Hereford Whiteface JV picked up a split of their doubleheader Friday with Canyon at Whiteface Field, taking the first game 8-7 while the Eagles won the nightcap 8-5.

Herd JV 8, Canyon JV 7

Courtesy runner Rolando Ramirez scored the winning run from second base on a strikeout that should have sent the game into extra innings.

Ramirez, running for catcher Michael Campos after a two-out walk, stole second and came the rest of the way around when Canyon catcher Deeter Prater failed to handle strike three to Vince Castillo. Castillo reached first safely to end the game.

Sammy Casarez picked up the win in relief, allowing only one batter to reach on an error in two-thirds of an inning. Herd starter Andy Kalka allowed seven runs on eight hits with five walks and six strikeouts.

Isaac Padilla took the loss for Canyon, giving up only the winning run on a hit and two walks with seven strikeouts in three-and-a-third innings in relief of starter Jeremy Burke.

Hereford picked up runs from Jamie Galan and Rene Cano in the second to go with a five-run outburst in the fourth.

Campos started the big inning with a single and, with two outs, was followed by Cano with a double, a walk to Jason Tatarevich, and RBI singles by Mark Kreigshauser, Henry Gallardo and Kalka.

Canyon JV 8, Herd JV 5 (5 innings)

The Eagles salvaged the split by scoring four runs off both starter Castillo and reliever Jerry Rincon.

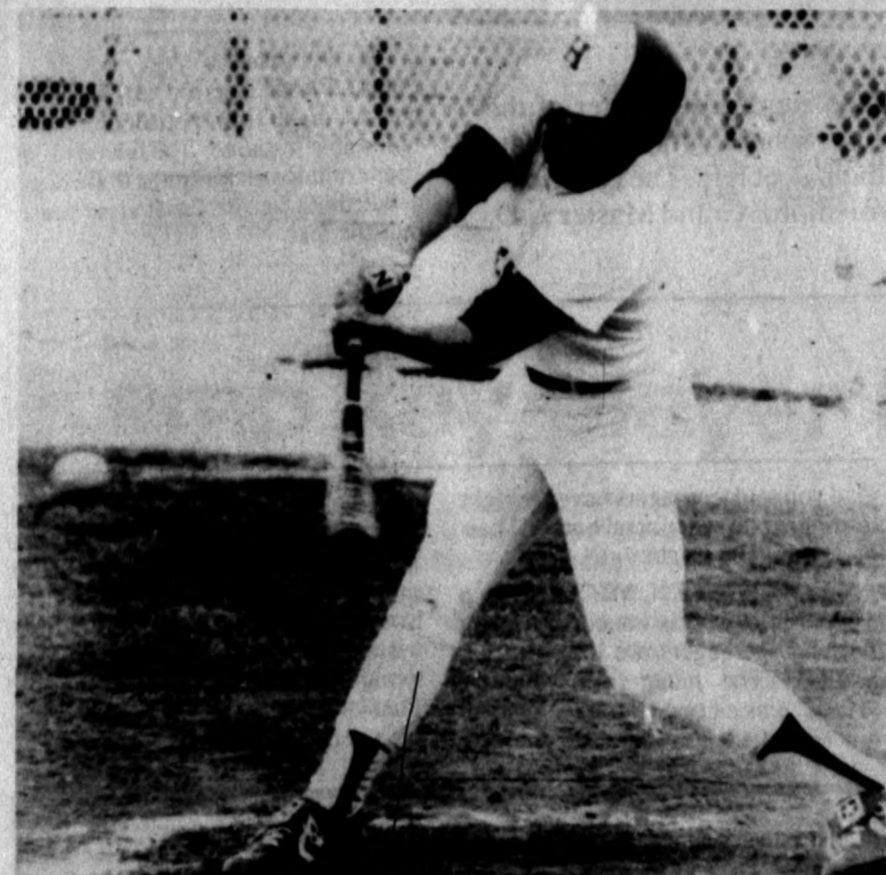

Canyon touched Castillo for two runs in each of the first two innings and added three in the fourth off Rincon.

Castillo gave up five hits and five walks with three strikeouts in three innings while Rincon had four hits and a walk with four strikeouts in two innings.

Burke started his second game of the day and allowed four runs over three innings plus for the win. Mike Gaines got the final six outs for Canyon.

Hereford got single runs from Cano in the first and Michael Melendrez in the third and picked up two more from Richard Wilbanks and Rincon in the fourth. Rincon scored the final Herd run in the fifth.

Is it a hit yet?

Andy Kalka of the Hereford Whiteface junior varsity raps a single to right during Friday's doubleheader with Canyon. The Herd JV gained a split of the twinbill, winning the first game 8-7 while the Eagles took the nightcap 8-5.

Cowboys bring polo onto prairie

By BILL DISESSA
Houston Chronicle

HOUSTON (AP) - Hoofs pound the dirt amid the whoosh and clatter of slashing mallets as two riders atop spirited mounts vie for a ball.

The horses grind together like angry mustangs, their robust hindquarters straining under the force. Then one spins elegantly on cue and his rider slaps the ball into a goal through the sudden breach.

The playing field in the Pasadena Fairgrounds rodeo arena is no country club, and many of the players can't afford thoroughbreds.

T-shirts, blue jeans and battle-scarred football helmets make up the players' wardrobes, and they prefer cold beer over fancy French wines after games.

Welcome to cowboy polo, Texas style.

Played statewide and throughout the Southwest, it's a rough-and-tumble version of English polo. Ralph Lauren probably didn't have the sport in mind when he bottled his Polo cologne.

If English polo is for the blue-blooded, cowboy polo is for the blue-collar.

"They call theirs the sport of kings. Ours is poor man's polo. You just saddle a horse and train it and you're ready to go," said Herman Thiele of Pasadena's San Jacinto Polo Club.

"With English polo, you have trainers, exercisers and whole stables of horses."

Teammate Larry Jowers said many of the club's members are laborers or construction workers.

"But we've had some doctors and lawyers. Cowboy polo is for the average guy who has a horse and wants to compete for the self-satisfaction. There's no money in it," added the 48-year-old Houston electrician.

Jowers said the sport has few similarities to English polo.

"We both ride a horse and try to hit a ball through a goal, but other than that we're as different as tea and crumpets," he said.

Cowboy polo matches are played in 260-by-120 foot rodeo arenas with 20-foot goals at each end. Traffic cones often mark both goals. The playing field has five zones, with one player from each team in each zone. Three players per team roam the entire field in the English counterpart.

Explained Thiele, "English polo is more of a horse race. Our horses can turn around in the bed of a pickup truck and use short bursts of speed. We also have a lot of maneuvering sideways and backward. A lot of times goals are scored between a blocking horse's legs."

He likened the sport to hockey on horseback.

Players may use only two horses per game, which has four 15-minute chukkers or periods. Most players ride quarter horses.

A player is penalized if his horse rams another horse headfirst, but one mount may legally push another up to 5 feet. Hooking another player's mallet also is forbidden.

A small wooden ball and a foot-long mallet head are used in English polo, compared with an inflatable 12-inch rubber playground ball and a small mallet in cowboy polo. The striking surfaces are almost equal in both sports.

Headgear isn't required in cowboy polo, but most safety-conscious players wear football or lacrosse helmets. Some even don construction hats. Cowboy chaps often are worn on players' legs and horses are equipped with Western saddles, stirrups and limited padding.

"Your average trail rider has everything he needs to play polo," Jowers said.

Thiele said cowboy polo originated in the early 1950s when some Florida ranch hands got the idea of knocking around a rubber ball with mallets made from small palmetto trees.

Palmetto polo players eventually organized, but in 1959 some teams split into a new group called the Cowboy Polo Association.

Today, cowboy polo is played from Mobile, Ala., to San Diego, with several teams that compete for trophies in annual championships. Pueblo, Colo., will host the 1990 double-elimination tournament Aug. 15-18, and a match was scheduled this weekend at Pasadena's Fairgrounds.

Texas has cowboy polo clubs in Pecos, San Angelo and Fort Worth, besides Pasadena. The San Jacinto Polo Club, whose 14 members practice twice a week at Pasadena Fairgrounds, has won 12 titles since 1974.

Thiele credits the team's success to teamwork, training in the humidity of southeast Texas and aggressive play.

"The horses get a good workout and they're in top shape by August. They follow the ball just like they would a calf at the rodeo," he said.

"As for me, I do a lot of faking on the field. I know what the other man is looking for and when he commits, I get him."

The sport has a small but dedicated following. Thiele said interest is growing. He has had requests for rule books from Ohio, Kansas and Missouri.

Cowboy polo teams have no female members, but last year's championship tournament included a women's game. Most of the players were wives and daughters of members of the men's teams.

Phil Haas, secretary of the Cowboy Polo Association, said some people consider the equestrian sport too hard to follow and others believe it's too hard on horses.

"There's a lot of physical contact, but the horses actually like it. It's a lot rougher on the riders," said Haas, who lives in Parker, Colo. "I've been playing 15 years and I've seen broken jaws, noses and ankles. The people who don't wear helmets suffer the head injuries."

Thiele, who retired as president of a Houston construction company in 1986, said training and practice keep serious horse injuries to a minimum.

Rider injuries are another matter.

During a 1974 tournament, Thiele said, a 1,445-pound horse fell and rolled over him, breaking seven of his ribs - four in two places.

"The doctor told me my ribs looked like an accordion," said the Pasadena resident, who despite the injury is his polo club's oldest member at a fit 71.

"It's definitely not a sport for the meek. I know one guy with a pretty mean horse. He'd fall off and the horse would kick him every time before he got to the ground."

That made him a little more inclined to stay on, Thiele added.

Ryan Pollard of Alvin is the San Jacinto Polo Club's youngest member. At 13, he's a year younger than his palomino, Sunny.

LA moves past Rockets

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) - James Worthy bounced the ball off his foot and out of bounds. Twice. Magic Johnson threw a couple of passes to vacant spots on the court.

The Los Angeles Lakers, the NBA's best team during the regular season, got off to a Keystone Kops start in the playoffs.

But the Lakers finally settled down and wound up with a 101-89 victory over the Houston Rockets Friday night.

"That was the worst I ever played," Johnson said, shaking his head over his poor start.

"I thought our two leaders, Earvin (Johnson) and James, were just too excited at the start," Lakers coach Pat Riley said. "We didn't have the kind of poise and efficiency I thought we would have."

Worthy and Johnson were both poised and efficient in the second half, after the Lakers trailed most of the first two quarters. Worthy finished the game with 34 points on 17-of-22 shooting, and Johnson had 23 points and 14 assists.

In other playoff openers Friday night, Utah defeated Phoenix 113-96 and Chicago beat Milwaukee 111-97.

Today's games had New York at Boston and Indiana at Detroit, followed tonight by Denver at San Antonio and Dallas at Portland.

On Sunday, it's Milwaukee at Chicago and Houston at Los Angeles in the afternoon, with Cleveland at Philadelphia and Phoenix at Utah in night games.

Worthy had eight points as the Lakers took control in the first 2:44 of the final quarter, as Los Angeles reeled off a 12-1 string to go ahead 81-68.

On the defensive end of the court, the Lakers manhandled Houston center Akeem Olajuwon, literally and figuratively. He was held to 13 shots and 13 points, and also required three stitches.

Olajuwon returned with his fresh stitches to play the second half.

"Worthy's elbow hit me," he said. "All I know is I finished the play."

Olajuwon said the Lakers' defense was just too good against him. Mychal Thompson was the primary defender, but he got a lot of help double-teaming the Houston center.

Otis Thorpe led the Houston scoring with 21 points and Vernon Maxwell had 20.

Jazz 113, Suns 96

Stomach flu limited Phoenix guard Kevin Johnson to nine minutes and no points, allowing Utah to pull away in the first first-round playoff series since 1974 matching teams with more than 50 victories.

Karl Malone, held to four points in the first half and 21 points, 10 under his season average, for the game, ignited a 9-0 third-quarter run that carried the Jazz to a 72-58 lead with less than four minutes remaining.

After Utah took its largest lead at 103-87 late in the game, Phoenix rallied to within seven behind Mike McGee's two 3-pointers, but failed to score in the final 2:04.

Reserve Dan Majerle scored 23 points for Phoenix, making up somewhat for the loss of Johnson, who averaged 33 points in four games against the Jazz during the regular season. John Stockton had 16 points and 17 assists for Utah.

Jeff Hornacek had 20 points and Tom Chambers had 19 for the Suns, the fifth seed in the conference with a 54-28 record. Utah was 55-27 and the fourth seed.

Bulls 111, Bucks 97

Chicago beat Milwaukee for the 12th time in 13 meetings and took a 1-0 lead in the series behind Michael Jordan's 38 points and Scottie Pippen's 17 points, 13 assists and 10 rebounds.

The Bulls broke the game open in the fourth quarter with a 13-2 run that produced a 96-82 lead with 6:31 left.

"We turned up our defense a notch," Jordan said. "Our fourth quarter defense unleashed everything. We started to rebound and got our transition game going."

"You work hard all year to get the homecourt advantage and you don't want to lose it in one game," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "I was impressed with our overall performance. Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen were terrific."

"I wasn't doing the things I wanted to do in the first half," said Pippen, who had only two points, one rebound and six assists in the first half. "I had to do something. I was happy with my rebounding and my defense."

Johnson makes right moves in draft

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
IRVING (AP) - You've got to like Jimmy Johnson's style. Not his hairdo, necessarily, but the way he's willing to wheel and deal with the NFL heavy hitters.

Most NFL critics have concluded that the Dallas Cowboys coach and general manager got the best of the Minnesota Vikings' in last year's Herschel Walker trade.

The Vikings couldn't figure out how to use Walker in 1989, while the Cowboys own three former Minnesota players and were able to use their first round draft choice to get Emmitt Smith, the superb 20-year-old running back from the University of Florida.

To get Smith, Johnson had to trade up from 21 to 17 to get Pittsburgh's slot. And he was up against other teams trying to do the same thing. Atlanta player personnel director Ken Herock tried to trade up from the 20th position to get Smith. Johnson beat him to the punch.

By most estimates, Smith is an impact player who's a good shot to be Pro Bowler some day.

Smith is a dynamic inside runner with the speed to break for long touchdowns such as the 96-yarder he made against Mississippi State.

"This guy takes your breath away, and you don't get it back until after he scores," said Dallas backfield coach Joe Brodsky. "Terrence Flagler is a good running back. This guy (Smith) is a great running back."

Flagler and defensive end Dan Stubbins were picked up in a trade from the San Francisco 49ers before the draft began.

In Smith and Flagler, the Cowboys will now have a one-two punch at tailback, which could take some of the heat off rookie quarterback Troy Aikman.

Johnson found a way to reduce the pressure on Aikman even more by getting a defense-stretching speedburrer at wide receiver, Alexander Wright of Auburn, who can fly the 40 in 4.27 (times on grass in cleats).

In the draft, the Cowboys got a running back and a wide receiver who were generally rated in the top two or three at their positions.

The 1-15 Cowboys, of course, need defensive help. But a team that was shut out three times last year has to acquire all the offensive firepower it can muster.

"We had no running threat last year and didn't have a receiver with the speed to stretch the defense deep," Johnson said. "Smith also is a tremendous receiver and Flagler can catch the ball. In Wright, we have someone with world class speed. He can catch the ball, too. Now, we can keep teams honest."

The Cowboys signed an NFL-high 16 Plan B veterans, including Chicago wide receiver Dennis McKinnon and Los Angeles Rams guard Tony Slaton and 29 free agents.

The Cowboys traded away a lot of their draft picks because they are close to the 80-player camp limit.

"We went for a lot Plan B players and free agents because they are more of a known quantity," Johnson said. "This year's draft won't be ranked high because we did not get a large number of players."

Scout Walt Jaworski said the Cowboys getting Smith was like the old era stealing Tony Dorsett in the 1977 draft. Dorsett led the Cowboys to one Super Bowl victory.

The Dallas defense could use a heavy shoring up, particularly in the defensive line and linebacker.

Johnson drafted somebody he knew, University of Miami defensive lineman Jimmie Jones, who wasn't a starter in 1989 but has enough raw talent to make Johnson want to take a chance on him as a tackle. The Cowboys burned a third round draft pick Jones.

Cornerback Stan Smagala of Notre Dame was a fifth round pick and could use his 4.45 speed to be a good player in the nickel defense.

Kenneth Gant of Albany State, a cornerback taken in the ninth round, and linebacker Dave Harper of Humboldt State, taken in the 11th round, were longshots. The Cowboys hope they can help on specialty teams.

What Johnson did in the 1990 draft was try to help preserve the health of Aikman, who took a battering last year (recall he was knocked out in the Phoenix game) from defenses who ignored the run and pass-rushed on almost every down.

There's no doubt Dallas could have used a James Francis, the linebacker machine from Baylor.

But the Dallas offense gave the defense no rest in 1989. Dallas' time of possession was only 25:34, which means the defense had to play some nine minutes more than the opposition.

Johnson made the right moves to get Dallas on the scoreboard in 1990.

Shooters having a blast

By RAY SASSER
The Dallas Morning News
DALLAS (AP) - When Jerry Dubusschere posted the notice for a skeet league on the bulletin board at Oryx Energy Corp., he was hoping for enough to field four, five-person teams. The response exceeded Dubusschere's wildest hopes, and Oryx fielded 10 teams in its first skeet league, which began in January.

"I was surprised," said Dubusschere, himself a serious skeet shooter. "The biggest initial concern from most of the people participating in the skeet league is that they'd never shot skeet before."

designed for everybody, whether they're good shooters or not."

Bruce Abernathy's wife works for Oryx, which makes him eligible to compete in the league. Abernathy is another devoted skeet shooter.

"The people involved in skeet are no different from anyone else," Abernathy said. "In our league, we've got lawyers, engineers, accountants and secretaries."

Abernathy points out that skeet is an extremely safe sport. He has fired more than 25,000 rounds, indicating a lot of hours on a skeet range, and is unaware of an injury accident.

"It's also a sport where women can compete on equal footing with men," Abernathy said. "Between 10 and 20 percent of the shooters in the Oryx league are women. In fact, the novice women I've seen shoot usually do better than novice men. Smoking a clay target provides instant gratification for the shooter, particularly a novice."

That's certainly the case with Roxann Prihoda, who shoots in the Oryx league with her husband, Paul.

"The family that shoots together, stays together," Paul said, joking.

Roxann gets excited over each broken target, and this night has much to be excited about. She breaks 14 of the 25 clay birds, a personal record. Paul, a bird hunter rather than a serious skeet shooter, breaks 15 targets and is just about as excited as his wife.

"Being good," Linda Bainum said, "is certainly not a criteria for shooting in this skeet league."

VOTE AGAINST PROPOSITION 1

This is a reprint of an article run in the Amarillo Globe News on Friday, March 30, 1990 by Globe News Columnist Bill Cox. WE THINK MR. COX MAKES A LOT OF SENSE!

Public money and private business don't mix

Amarillo voters would have had second thoughts about approving a new sales tax for industrial development if they had known that one of the first things done would be to try and make it all a secret as to leads being explored.

Some people who spend public funds can always advance reasons why certain operations, even though paid for by taxes, should be curtailed from public scrutiny.

I'm aware that confidentiality is considered imperative to stay competitive in this business of trying to lure big companies and industry to our town. Big business never has liked to operate out in the open. Big business is "private" enterprise. Private business is hard-ball; private business is cut-throat; private business is getting there "firstest" with the "mostest."

The key word is "private." Business with $6.5 million of public funds is another matter, at least should be, in my way of thinking.

But the Amarillo Economic Development Corp. board appointed by the City Commission is looking for ways to keep the identity of industrial prospects a secret. Absolutely necessary to make this thing go at all, some board members say. If that is the case - and most everyone concerned with bringing in new business seems to think it is - then we should have left it in the realm of the privately financed Chamber of Commerce, with any public funds withdrawn from that organization as well.

I firmly believe that anytime you are dealing with public tax money, you need to be open and straightforward in what you're doing with it. One suggestion advanced at a meeting of the board was to assign two board members to each project. This further isolates the operations, though other board members have said they want everyone on the board to be kept informed on all projects, and surely there is confidence among board members in their colleagues. I'm sure this is just a desire to keep a finger on the pulse of everything that is going on.

And that's how we, the general public, feel about it. Not that we wouldn't trust the members of the board. It's just sort of nice to know what prospects are being chased down to come to this town. My gosh, we might get a whole bunch more prisons or mental hospitals, and surely there are other avenues to travel.

It's sort of nice to know what is going on when it's your money that's being spent to accomplish all this.

It's difficult for me to agree with the statement attributed in a news story to board member Jack Sisemore, who was quoted as saying: "I want to make sure that the town is aware that we are working and working hard. We're not out to keep any secrets that would hurt our town. The only thing that we are going to do is keep a secret that would help our town."

He adds that residents deserve to know "that we are policing this effort," but then he elaborates, "I mean, we don't have to let anybody know what we're doing, but we at least need to say there are 15 things out here."

But what things? Just who are we taxpayers lending our monetary support to? What do they do, what do they have to offer? What kind of deal is going to be cut? Is this company we are courting the type of industry that we want for our town, even if it brings in a big boost to the economy?

Our presidents have long said they have to do some things confidentially for national security, for example. We elect them, so we should trust them to do what is good for America. That's true, especially in time of war when some things certainly have to be under cover, but I'm not so sure any elected official or appointed official always knows what's best for us, taken at blind faith and without any knowledge on our part.

School administrators and boards like to operate behind curtains of confidentiality when seeking a new superintendent, for instance. Even city commissions would prefer to keep prospective names confidential when looking for a new city manager or a police chief. Otherwise, say the secret guarders, it drives off potentially good applicants because they don't want to go public that they are seeking a job change.

I can see the logic to going along with an applicant's desire for confidentiality, but not the overall benefit to the public who are paying the salaries not to know who they might be getting, their backgrounds and their philosophies.

The economic development corporation board has talked about giving code numbers or names to prospects, which could conceal true identities when discussing them at meeting. This sounds more and more like a war to the death among cities out for good deals.

Paul Watler, an attorney and director of the Freedom of Information Foundation of Texas, has spoken against suggestions of confidential operation by the new Amarillo board. Strict limits on what a body using public money can discuss behind closed doors and what records can be kept secret are set by Texas Open Meetings and Open Records acts. The law permits a citizen to attend meetings of such groups and to have access to most information.

If such confidentiality is indeed necessary, let's return the job of seeking new industry to private enterprise such as the Chamber of Commerce. Let's pick up our new sales tax marbles and put them into an open operation, where we will have an exact idea on what our money is being spent.

Are we not hearing the same Reasoning here in Hereford?
 The committee for Proposition 1 still has not told us what they want us to buy!
 Lets not make the same mistake Amarillo did.
WE ENCOURAGE ALL VOTERS TO CAST YOUR VOTE ON MAY 5.
 Please read the City of Hereford ballot in its entirety.
 This proposition is at the very bottom.

NEW YORK (AP)—It's been 2 1/2 years since Joan Rivers' husband committed suicide but the comedian says she only recently was able to listen to a taped message he left her. "It was terrible, terrible because the voice is the voice of someone I loved who had already taken pills and was saying goodbye," she said in an interview published in Sunday's Parade magazine. "That's all I want to say but I will never listen to that tape again. Never."

Her husband of 22 years, Edgar Rosenberg, took an overdose of prescription drugs in August 1987.

Rivers said getting fired from her syndicated show on the Fox network and the negative publicity she received when she left NBC contributed to her husband's depression.

"He blamed himself for everything," Rivers said. "Edgar internalized it. He thought, like everyone else, that my career was over, and he thought he had brought it on."

Betzen, Williamson will compete in music festival

Texas Federation of Music Clubs has announced that two Hereford musicians will compete in the state junior music festival Saturday, May 12, at Texas Tech University School of Music.

Entering the competition from Hereford are Camille Betzen and Kristin Williamson, piano students of Evelyn Hacker.

Over 500 entrants will participate in the state festival in Lubbock. The entrants from across the state have earlier qualified by earning superior in one of the 12 district TFMC festivals this spring which involved over 5,000 participants in vocal, keyboard and instruments of the band and orchestra.

Adjudication by Texas Tech faculty and other judges from across the state is scheduled in all of these classifications at the Lubbock festival. All-state honorees will be presented in public honor recitals at 9 a.m., 10 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m., 2 p.m., 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. in Hemmle Recital Hall in the Texas Tech University Music Building at 18th St. and Boston on the campus. All state winners will be declared in each classification and will be awarded a plaque by Mrs. Max Ramsey, TFMC president from Midland and Mrs. Ince, board member of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

In addition to sponsoring the 12

Texas Junior Music Festivals annually, Texas Federation of Music Clubs offers scholarships to young musicians for lessons and summer music camps. The National Federation of Music Clubs offers numerous other scholarships to young musicians and to musicians in college and beyond and also sponsors many other projects for the advancement of music, such as National Music Week, May 6-13, which has been celebrated annually since 1923 across America.

Paula Brashear, director of the TFMC District II junior festival held annually in Lubbock, is in charge of the state competition. Coordinator of the competitions and recitals will be Anna Henry, special events coordinator of the Texas Tech University School of Music.

Extension Homemakers Council meets at library

Members of the Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council met recently in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library with the executive board serving as hostesses.

Sherrice Blackwell gave a reading called "The Shape I'm In" and Carmen Rickman led the members in the pledges of the Texas and United States flags.

Welcomed as visitors were Perry Keyes and Jo Lee.

Roll was called of the council officers and standing committees. There were seven clubs represented with five clubs having 100 percent attendance.

Beverly Harder, Deaf Smith County extension agent, stated there will be a program at 7 p.m. May 8 at Southwestern Public Service. Mary Blinderman will present a demonstration on Tex-Mex cookery.

Harder also expressed appreciation to the ladies that assisted with the Homemakers College and the recent District I meeting. She also thanked Corda Glover for helping.

The delegates were instructed to tell their clubs about a vote on conducting a papertwist doll workshop in the future.

There was no report by the T.E.H.A. chairman due to illness.

The next council meeting will be May 28.

Deepest Gratitude

To all our friends, the good people of Hereford and the surrounding area who were so generous with prayer and gifts - many and varied - during my wife Monica's illness and death. Me and my family drew much strength from your many signs of love. Heartfelt thanks and God bless each one of you.

Soil Stewardship Week

Nick Yosten, right, a Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District member, watches as County Judge Tom Simons signs a proclamation making April 29-May 6 Soil and Water Stewardship Week in Deaf Smith County.

Week shows role everyone plays in conservation

Emphasizing everyone's role in protecting soil and water resources for future generations, the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District is encouraging local churches, organizations and individuals to join in the nationwide observance of Soil Stewardship Week this week.

Carl Kleuskens, chairman of the Tierra Blanca SWCD, said that everyone needs to learn about the impact of their actions and the actions of those around us.

"Recognizing that, we can commit ourselves to individual and community action," Kleuskens said. "By using good erosion prevention practices, conserving water or simply planting a tree, we will each help make the world a better place for our children's children."

Since 1955, the National Association of Conservation Districts has sponsored the week in cooperation with nearly 3,000 local districts across the United States. It is one way to emphasize the importance of good stewardship of basic soil and water resources.

Funk, Bartels united in marriage Friday

MRS. STEVE BARTELS
...nee Sandra Lynn Funk

During a candlelight wedding ceremony Friday evening at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Sandra Lynn Funk became the bride of Steve Bartels.

Pastor Don Kirklén officiated at the marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Don and Marlene Nielsen of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of Leonard and Betty Bartels of 700 Ave. F.

The church altar was adorned with two double-heart candelabra flanked by two large bouquets of white gladioli, teal carnations and fresh greenery. Church pews were decorated with ivory and teal bows.

The bride's sister, Cheryl Eustace of Amarillo, was matron of honor and Tom Blasingame of Hereford was best man.

Serving as ushers were the groom's brothers, Bruce, Bill and Mark Bartels.

Joni Swanson, daughter of Jack and Jean Ann Swanson, was flower girl and ring bearer was the bride's son, Cory Funk.

Linda Davis, organist, accompanied Melanic Davis as she sang "The Wedding Song", "Only God Could Love You More" and "Household of Faith."

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a tea-length ivory taffeta designer's gown. It was fashioned with a high neckline of schiffli lace with bead and sequin accents. The fitted bodice, with a sheer coin dot illusion yoke, featured taffeta bows over the shoulders. The basque waistline came to points at the gown's back and front and was marked by a large box back bow. The large puff push-up sleeves of sheer illusion were decorated with schiffli embroidery. The full skirt featured a wide border of scalloped schiffli embroidery lace edge hemline.

The bride's headpiece consisted of an ivory satin bow surrounded by nylon netting.

She carried an ivory fan with ivory roses, carnations and lilacs accented with teal stephanotis, twedia and miniature carnations. Ivory pearls, and a fluffy teal and ivory bow with streamers finished out the decorations.

The matron of honor was attired in a tea-length teal satin gown fashioned with puffed sleeves and tiered bustle with a large teal bow in the back. She carried a smaller version of the bride's bouquet.

The flower girl wore a dress similar to the honor attendant's dress and carried an ivory lace basket with teal bows. It was filled with carnations.

The groom's sister, Christie Bartels, invited guests to register at the reception held in the church.

Cake was served by Gayle Nielsen of Hereford and Wendy Cornelius of Canyon.

Wendy Sanders and Jena Cherry of Hereford served punch and coffee.

The bride's table was decorated with an arrangement of white and teal miniature carnations, spider mums, and baby's breath and was covered with an ivory lace cloth and teal overlay. The groom's table was covered with a teal cloth.

The bride's three-tiered heart-shaped white cake with candlelight icing was separated with grecian pillars. It was decorated with large candlelight roses and rose buds and accented with candlelight leaves and ruffled garlands. The top borders were done in large reverse shells and the bottom borders were created with large shells accented with sweetpeas. The cake was topped with a glass heart enhanced with ivory lace, and teal and ivory ribbon.

The groom's chocolate heart-shaped cake was iced in chocolate butter cream and decorated with swirled garlands and large candlelight leaves. Centering the cake was a heart shaped candlelight frame which surrounded the couple's initials. Large reverse shells and ruffles bordered the cake.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev. They will make their home in Hereford.

The bride is a 1983 graduate of Hereford High School and is employed at First National Bank.

The groom, a 1981 HHS graduate, is employed for the City of Hereford.

Out of town wedding guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ewald Lueck of Fairview, Mont., and guests from Littlefield and Amarillo.

YOUR EYES

MORE LIGHT

As folks get older, they may need more light to see with. The pupil (the opening in the center of the iris which allows light to enter the eye) tends to get smaller in older people. This constriction allows less light to strike the retina than normally would be the case. Lens clouding from a developing cataract may also block light from entering the eye.

To counteract the loss of light transmission capability by the eyes, an individual can increase the intensity of room lighting, or move lamps closer to any visual task. For example, a lamp moved from six feet to two feet away from printed material provides nine times as much light on the page. Important: direct light so it comes over the left shoulder of right-handed persons, or the opposite for left-handers. This will avoid glare and avoid shadows from a pen or pencil if one is writing.

A flashlight will help vision in low-lighted areas, especially at night.

Increasing the intensity of light, however, does not deal with the basic cause of the problem. That should be addressed through optometric examination and treatment.

MRS. CLYDE BRORMAN
...nee Kelly Wells

Wells, Brorman nuptials spoken

Kelly Charlene McCollum Wells of Route 5, Hereford, and Clyde Brorman of Route 4, Hereford, were united in marriage late Saturday afternoon in Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Vega.

Officiating at the ceremony were Monsignor Pete DiBenedetto of Vega and the Rev. James Peach, pastor of Westway Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Wells of Route 5 and Howard D. McCollum of Borger. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. and Mrs. Alphonse Brorman of Route 4.

The church altar was decorated with two arrangements of caladias with touches of blue and a nine-branch candle tree candelabrum entwined with greenery. Also, enhancing the altar were royal blue family candles and a blue and white unity candle. Pews were marked by tulle net bows dotted with pearls.

Kristi Wells of Levelland served her sister as maid of honor and Joe Potter of Vega was best man.

Bridesmaids included the groom's sister, Corrina Brorman of Amarillo; Jean McCathern of Hereford; and the bride's sister-in-law, Trina McCollum of Spearman.

Groomsmen were the groom's cousins, Allen Frerick of Vega and Jeff Brorman of Lubbock, and the bride's brother, Robert McCollum of Spearman.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brother, Shannon Wells, and the groom's cousins, Greg Brorman of Lubbock and Randy Brorman of Adrian.

The bride's cousin, Ashley Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Davidson of Decatur, was flower girl and ring bearer was the groom's cousin, Kyle Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Barnett.

The groom's aunt, Mrs. Jerry Brorman of Vega, accompanied Beth Rohrbach of Lubbock as she sang "Walk Hand in Hand", "One Hand, One Heart", "God, A Woman and A Man", and "Surely the Presence."

Given in marriage by Tommy Wells, the bride wore a traditional white wedding gown of white organza. The wedding band neckline was covered in braided alencon lace and the sleeves were fashioned with bouffant puffs at the shoulders and extended fitted to the bride's wrists. Seed pearls, scattered on lace appliques, decorated the sleeves and fitted bodice of the drop waisted gown. The full skirt, which was adorned with a front lace applique, was trimmed at the hemline with a soft organza flounce and lace trim and swept into a cathedral-length train.

To complete her bridal ensemble, the bride wore a white lace covered satin hat dotted with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and rose buds enhanced with rings of pearls.

In keeping with bridal tradition, the bride wore her wedding gown as something new and a blue garter as something borrowed.

Bridal attendants wore blue chintz dresses fashioned with drop waistlines. They carried bouquets of mixed spring flowers in colors of white, blue and mauve.

Cindy Brorman of Vega, the groom's cousin, invited guests to register at the reception in the church hall.

The bride's cake was served by Amber Davidson of Decatur, the bride's cousin, and the groom's cake was served by Melissa Frerick, the groom's cousin.

Punch was ladled by Lynette Casseuty of Bellevue, the bride's cousin, and coffee was poured by Jackie Spinhirne of Vega.

The bride's four-tiered strawberry cream cake was placed on a table with a gold punch bowl and nut and mint trays. The groom's chocolate John Deer tractor shaped cake was arranged on a table with a gold coffee service.

Leaving on the wedding trip, the bride wore a green print ankle-length dress accented with a ruffle on the bodice and back and three ruffled tiers also at the back.

The couple will make their home at Route 4.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Hereford High School and attended Radiologic Technology School in Lubbock. She is currently employed at Family Medical Clinic.

The groom, a 1986 graduate of Vega High School, attended West Texas State University. He is presently engaged in farming.

Out of town wedding guests represented Florida, Colorado Springs, Colo., Decatur, Wichita Falls, Bellevue, Lubbock, Logan, N.M., White Deer and Amarillo.

The conversion of eight million fleet vehicles-five percent of the nation's total transportation fuel market-to natural gas would require about a trillion cubic feet of gas. This would result in saving 500,000 barrels of oil imports a day, translating into a reduction of about $4 billion annually in foreign energy payments.

Red Cross Update

BY BETTY HENSON

A special thanks goes to all of the volunteers of the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Without volunteers giving of their time and resources, the chapter would not be able to function.

A lifeguarding class will begin Monday, May 7, at 7 p.m. at Ruskins Pool in Dimmitt. Laura Carter will be the instructor. Lifeguarding is a new class that replaces advanced lifesaving.

This class will teach students who are going to be working as lifeguards the requirements and responsibilities of a lifeguard. The students planning on taking the course will be required to have First Aid and CPR before receiving their certificates.

A CPR class will begin Wednesday, May 9 at 7 p.m. at the Red Cross office. Cost of the class will be $10 which includes the book and the cost of materials.

Call the Red Cross office for information about any of the classes offered. The office is located at 224 S. Main St. and the phone number is 364-3761.

A disaster drill is scheduled for Monday and members are to meet at the Community Center after the announcement on cable TV by the Fire Chief.

The Disaster Committee will meet Thursday, May 17, at 8 p.m. in the Red Cross office. Anyone interested in working with the committee is asked to attend the meeting.

MRS. DAVID FRISCHE
...neeDeanna Kirkhart

Wedding vows were exchanged by Deanna Kirkhart of Canyon and David Frische of Dawn April 21 in St. Mary's Catholic Church of Umbarger. The marriage ceremony was officiated by Father Jim Hutzler of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Davis of Phoenix, Ariz. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Frische of Dawn.

The church altar was decorated with Easter lilies, pink bows and the unity candle which was encircled with pink and white roses.

Jennie Smith of Woodward, Okla. served as matron of honor and the groom's uncle, Robert Koch of Umbarger, was best man.

Serving as bridesmaids were Nancy Willis of Woodward, Okla. and Rhonda Kornele of Amarillo.

Groomsmen were the groom's brother, Frank Frische of Umbarger, and Mike Butcher, also of Umbarger.

Guests were escorted by the groom's brother-in-law, Charles Stocker of Umbarger, and the groom's uncle, Joe Koch of Canadian.

Serving as eucharist minister was R.D. Friemel and mass servers included Toby Schenk and B.J. Koch. Lector was Gene Schenk.

Organist, Rosemary Ramaekers, accompanied the groom's cousin, Mrs. Kim Birkes, as she vocalized "The Rose", "You Light Up My Life", "Wind Beneath My Wings" and "The Vows Go Unbroken."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore the traditional white wedding gown fashioned with a fitted bodice. The ruffled chiffon sleeves featured an accenting floral sheer from the elbow to the wrist. The high neckline of layers of chiffon was embellished with ruffles and lace. The chapel-length train, consisting of layers of sheer ruffling and lace, was highlighted with a satin back bow.

The bridal illusion veil was attached to the back of a bridal hat which was adorned with lace.

She carried a bouquet of white roses accented with small pink roses.

Bridal attendants were attired in teal-length dusty rose dresses designed with ruffles of chiffon around the necklines and accenting satin belts that tiered into back bows. Hats completed their ensembles. They carried bouquets of pink roses tied with ribbon streamers in colors of pink, white and silver.

The groom's niece, Crystal Stocker, invited guests to register at the reception held in the church parish hall.

Cake was served by Suzanne Butcher and Krista West and punch and coffee were poured by Ann Friemel.

Other members of the houseparty included Grace Friemel and Tina Batenhorst.

The main refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and held a three-tiered central wedding cake framed with double tiered cakes at each side which were joined with stairs leading to the main cake which featured a flowing fountain. It was topped with porcelain cowboy and bride figurines.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev. and will make their home at Dawn.

The bride graduated from Chaparral High School in Anthony, Kan. where she was involved in band and the Chaparral Singers. She was formerly employed with High Plains Hospital.

The groom, a graduate of Hereford High School where he was involved in the Rodeo Club and band, is self-employed.

Out of town guests included the groom's cousin, Klaus Grosseckadhofer of Langenberg, W. Germany, and the groom's friends, Willi and Ulrich Buecker, also of Langenberg. Wedding guests also represented Amarillo, Panhandle, Dalhart, Dimmitt, Gruver, Canyon, and Monroe, Neb.

Anniversary observed by Veleda Study Club

The members of Veleda Study Club celebrated the beginning of the club's 30th year with a surprise birthday party recently in the home of Marcella Brady. Guests were presented with party hats as they entered.

The club was organized on April 21, 1960. The name chosen at the organizational meeting was the Veleda Study Club. The meaning of Veleda is wise woman. The purpose of the club is to make more worthy citizens through proper use of knowledge acquired in cultural study and to develop more understanding through friendship with one another. The two charter members are still active, Juanita Brown and Brady.

President Norma Walden opened the meeting by leading the members in reading the club collect. She then read a short history of the club. Roll call was answered with presents.

The minutes of the previous two meetings were read and approved. Also, the yearbook committee announced the installation of officers would be held at the next meeting which will be a salad supper served by Something Special.

The yearbook committee, with Margaret Zinser serving as chairman, presented their report. The following slate of officers were elected to serve for the 1990-91 year. Elected as president was Della Hutchins; vice president, Betty Gilbert; secretary, Ruth Fish; treasurer, Betty Roberts; historian, Frances Crume; and parliamentarian, Norma Walden.

Zinser conducted a round table discussion of the famous or the infamous relative of each one's family tree. Some relatives had crossed over on the Mayflower, others had fought in the revolutionary war and others had died at the Alamo. Abraham Lincoln and Cynthia Ann Parker were named as ancestors. Many had ancestors coming to Texas in the early 1800s from the eastern states and from Europe.

Typical birthday games were played following the program.

Refreshments of chicken salad and strawberry shortcake were served by the hostess to the following members: Juanita Brown, Francis Crume, Bettie Dickson, Ruth Fish, Betty Gilbert, Della Hutchins, Betty Roberts, Norma Walden and Margaret Zinser.

The first public high school in the United States was opened in Boston in 1821.

Before applying for a loan, it pays to check your credit report. Many financial counselors advise reviewing credit reports every several years regardless of whether a loan is needed.

Consumers can obtain a copy of their credit report for a fee (usually under $20) from local credit agencies listed in the yellow pages of the telephone book. Consumers applying for a loan may want to ask the lender which credit bureau will be used and obtain a copy of the specific report from that bureau, since credit information may differ slightly from agency to agency. Reviewing credit reports not only allows reporting and challenging of errors, but can also allow preparation of explanations which will be required regarding existing or past credit problems.

Education programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) - Actress Elizabeth Taylor remained hospitalized in stable condition with pneumonia, her publicist said.

Miss Taylor, 58, who was admitted April 9 with a sinus infection to Daniel Freeman Marina Hospital, was transferred to St. John's Hospital and Health Center on Monday because of a persistent fever and pneumonia.

Inquiries to the hospital were referred to Chen Sam's public relations firm in New York City, where Taylor spokeswoman Lisa Del Favaro said Thursday: "She's stable. She's OK. We have nothing else."

Between the Covers

Mohammed, Nadia, Samir and three commandos carried provisions up the gangway, pulled the door shut and secured it... "The aircraft is ours" ... The captains earphones and other flight noise made him oblivious to cockpit intruders... Phase one, the hijacking of a Soviet military transport had taken 26 minutes, and nobody was the wiser.

At the sign from Mohammed, Achmed switched the radio to the international distress frequency. "Soviet courier flight number 79. Mayday Mayday" cried Mohammed in English, the international language of commercial air operations. "Losing altitude rapidly. Explosion..." Reducing power he went into a steep dive toward the dark choppy surface of the Red Sea. Just above the waves Mohammed pulled back hard on the stick and levelled off holding at an altitude of 500 feet.

Slowing the aircraft to 200 knots, the rear loading ramp opened with a shudder. In the cargo area Samir and his men heaved out several passengers, the loadmasters, followed by pieces of luggage. When bodies and wreckage were found, it would suggest that the plane had been sabotaged, and the rest of the bodies were trapped in the aircraft somewhere on the ocean floor. They had thought of everything.

So begins the book Mayday Man by William Beecher. This was the beginning of the plan that would change the course of history in the Middle East, and allow Egypt to resume her rightful place as leader of the Arab world. Mayday Man is full of intrigue and excitement and ends in such a sudden dramatic way that even Alfred Hitchcock would be proud.

The fast pace thriller Formula One takes the reader onto and behind the scenes of the exciting sport of car racing. This high-tech, high-risk sport is one in which a simple miscalculation can cost a driver his life. Forest Evers has retired after several near-fatal accidents he couldn't explain.

When a teammate's car explodes on the Suzuka circuit in Tokyo, Evers suspects foul play. Now in an effort to solve the mystery Evers must climb behind the wheel of a Formula One car, one thing he vowed never to do again. This book is a rare blend of international intrigue, action, gripping suspense and super-realistic details of one of the world's most dangerous and glamorous sports by Bob Judd.

One Man in Panama: How General Noriega Use the U.S. and Made Millions in Drugs and Arms by John Dinges, separates facts from myth to provide the first authoritative portrait of the man who provoked the wrath of his American sponsors and his own people.

The story begins with the recruitment of Noriega by the CIA in the 1960s and goes through the American invasion in December of 1989. John Dinges un-masks the "Maximum Leader", as Noriega calls himself, and shows him as a shrewd, brutal individual rising to power.

Using material never before available John Dinges tells the full dramatic story of those who helped Noriega become a rich man through the Medellin Cartel. John reveals the deceptions and blunders that led to America's largest military operation since the Vietnam War.

Hanover Place by Michael M.

Thomas is an unconventional family epic which depicts the world of high finance and high society as it was, as it is, and it may well turn out to be. Covering seven decades of depression, triumph, war and the tragedy, from the roaring 20s to the projected chaos of the 1990s.

This is a saga of "The Firm" Warrington and Company, a great house of finance and the two families who dominate that firm, the Warringtons and the Miles. Sharing the stage with them are the wives and lovers, heroes and knaves, fools and charlatans, great men and parasites all caught up in the great events of the times.

Hints from Heloise

Q. Do you have a recipe for making liquid jewelry cleaner? I read it once in your column, but now that I want it, of course I can't find it! — Dot Steinke, Montpelier, Ohio

A. Simply mix sudsy ammonia with an equal amount of water. Soak jewelry in it for a few minutes, then carefully clean around stones and designs with a soft toothbrush. Rinse well, dry and buff with a soft cloth.

CAUTION: Don't use this solution on gold electroplate or on jewelry with soft stones such as pearls, opals or jade. — Heloise

Q. I have an electric blanket that no longer works. I've heard you can take the wires out but I'm not sure how. Would you please give the directions? — Edna Warren, Bartlesville, Okla.

A. First make sure the blanket is unplugged. Feel for the wires at the end of the blanket and make tiny slits there, then snip the wires and pull them through the slits. You may have to enlarge some of the slits to remove thermostats.

Ethnic cooking sparks interest in lamb

The growing interest in ethnic foods in this country is a plus for the lamb industry. Lamb is the red meat of choice throughout the Middle East and Greece. The French, Italians and Spaniards also relish lamb, which they season with a range of herbs and spices. As Americans import these once foreign cuisines into their own kitchens, they also discover new ways to cook lamb.

According to the American Lamb Council in Denver, lamb sales in 1988 increased by a greater percentage than sales of any other red meat. Per capita consumption is small—1.5 pounds annually. The council predicts, however, that the figure will continue to rise.

Sue Simms, a San Angelo cooking instructor and restaurant consultant, lives in the heart of Texas sheep and lamb country. Her husband, State Sen. Bill Simms, is executive director of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association. When Sue Simms cooks lamb, her motto is the simpler the better. Fresh lemon, herbs and garlic are indispensable ingredients, she says, as are butter and a good olive oil.

"No matter how I'm fixing lamb, I squeeze fresh lemon over it," she said. "Lamb and lemon just go together."

Before she begins cooking, Simms removes most of the visible fat from whatever cut she is using. If a recipe calls for ground lamb, she grinds her own to make sure fat is at a minimum. "Lamb fat carries a strong flavor," she said. "It's important to take most of it off."

Meat that will be roasted, broiled or grilled is brushed with olive oil or butter. The choice of fat depends on the choice of herbs. If she selects oregano, Simms will complement it Mediterranean flavor with olive oil. If, on the other hand, she uses mint, she combines it with butter to make a paste, which is then spread on the lamb.

When grilling a butterflied leg of lamb, Simms likes to combine fresh garlic, fresh herbs and Dijon or a good creole mustard. After the lamb is cooked on one side, it is turned. The mixture is put on the top side to penetrate the meat while it cooks another 10 minutes.

Lamb is served pink inside. "This means cooking it to an internal temperature of no more than 160 degrees," said Texas Department of Agriculture home economist Carol Guthrie. "Rare lamb will register 140 degrees on a meat thermometer, medium will be 150 and medium-well, 160. If you're roasting a leg, remove it from the oven a few degrees before it reaches the desired temperature. It will continue cooking as it sits."

Guthrie suggests marinating lamb as another cooking option. "To marinate you'll need an oil, an acid and whatever herbs and spices you like. Rosemary goes well with lamb, and you can't overdo the garlic."

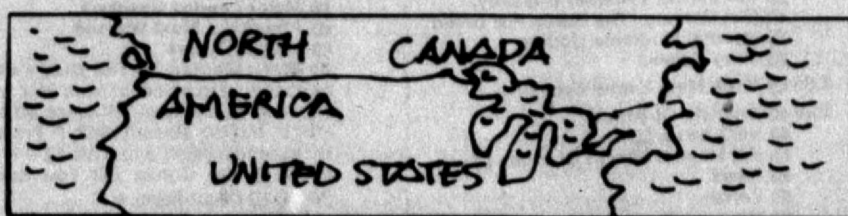

DIJON LAMB CHOPS

- 8 3/4 inch thick loin lamb chops
- 1 C. olive oil
- 1 C. brandy
- 2 T. fresh rosemary
- 2 tsp. seasoned pepper
- 4 minced garlic cloves
- 4 T. Italian bread crumbs
- 2 T. melted butter
- 1 C. Dijon mustard, divided

Place chops in shallow dish. Combine mixing well, olive oil, brandy, rosemary, pepper and minced garlic. Pour over chops. Cover and marinate in refrigerator six to eight hours, turning chops several times. Remove chops from marinade. Combine bread crumbs, butter, and 1/2 cup mustard; mix well and spread on top of chops. Broil 11 inches from heat for 10 minutes. Remove and add remaining mustard. Broil 5 minutes more or to desired degree of doneness. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 4 servings.

HAVE FUN at the Movies

EXCELLENT GOOD FAIR POOR DON'T WASTE MONEY

MIAMI BLUES: Starring Alec Baldwin, Jennifer Jason Leigh and Fred Ward. Miami Blues is a craggy, rumpled-looking, cops-and-vice movie with no pretensions of couch or kindness. It's all about crazy criminals, crooked cops, sex and violence. And yet, it's a film full of laughs. The sex is raw and the violence makes you wince while you duck the blood and gore. Still, most of Miami Blues is an oddball crime drama with a strange watchability. The characters are calculatingly eccentric; fortunately more eccentric than calculating. Alec Baldwin plays Junior Frenger, fresh out of prison; a man who wants everything in a hurry and lets no man or cop stand in his way. A hooker named Susie falls in love with him on their first "date" and they sort of "get married" on the spot. Susie wants the American dream the old fashioned way, picket fence and all. Junior wants the American dream anyway he can get it and that includes robbing, maiming and murdering. When Junior beats up detective Sergeant Hoke Moseley and steals his badge and gun, Junior starts playing cop. However, somewhere along the way he forgets which he is - the good guy or the bad guy; while Detective Moseley stays on Junior's trail, determined to get back his gun, badge and self-respect. Alec Baldwin is terrific as the "sweet" crazy criminal with the goofy grin and looney eyes. Jennifer Jason is sublimely delightful as the prostitute caught in Baldwin's web. And Fred Ward, as detective Moseley, almost takes the movie away from Baldwin with his off-center portrait of the cop that's always down but never quite out. The sex is raw; the violence is excessive. Rated R.

VIDEO RENTAL MOVIES

Greta Garbo
1905 - 1990

Greta Garbo is an acquired taste like olives and dry martinis. Of her twenty-seven films, only seven (all would be rated PG) are currently available on video. While they were filmed in black and white, and may only appeal to film buffs, all seven of them are highly recommended.

FLESH AND THE DEVIL: (1927) With John Gilbert. This is the story of a woman who flouts moral conventions at every turn by pursuing a third man while married to two others. The sensual pairing of sultry Garbo with suave John Gilbert (with whom she is rumored to have had an offscreen affair) electrifies the screen. And talk about surprise endings!

Three Boxes

ANNA CHRISTIE: (1930) With Charles Bickford and Marie Dressler. Garbo is mesmerizing and Marie Dressler hilariously memorable in this early sound classic adapted from Eugene O'Neill's play. The tag line for it in 1930 was, "Garbo speaks" and, speak she does, uttering the famous line, "Gif me a viskey, ginger ale on the side, and don't be stingy, baby", while portraying a woman with a shady past.

Four Boxes

ANNA KARENINA: (1935) With Fredric March and Basil Rathbone. The forever fascinating, peerless Garbo is surrounded by a superb supporting cast headed by Fredric March. In this version of Tolstoy's classic story of a married woman madly in love with a military officer, Garbo's masterful command of the role is one of her greatest screen triumphs; a true film classic.

Four Boxes

NINOTCHKA: (1939) With Melvyn Douglas. "Garbo laughs", proclaimed the ads of its day; and so will you in this classic screen comedy.

You are under arrest, being filmed, and may be bleeped

LAS VEGAS (AP) - "Cops" producer Paul Stojanovich was out of breath as he whispered the cryptic instructions.

"We're about to do a drug bust," he told a reporter. "I'll meet you at the Peter Pan Motel, Room 38."

Minutes later, in a seedy area bathed by the neon glare of the downtown area's Glitter Gulch, Las Vegas Metro Police burst into Room 38. A startled drug seller and his customers found themselves under arrest - and the subjects of the "Cops" film crew.

"Cops" is a new genre of cop show: live-on-tape action, courtesy of the culprits. Boy, wouldn't Joe Friday have been jealous.

The half-hour series is leading Fox Broadcasting's Saturday night lineup, averaging a 7.0 Nielsen rating and a 13 percent share of the viewers in its time period, according to the network's audience estimates.

It still lags well behind its competition - which currently consists of ABC's new "H.E.L.P.," NBC's "ALF" and CBS' "Paradise" - but Fox ratings tend to be lower because the network has fewer stations carrying its programs, a total of 130, compared to more than 200 stations for each major network.

The evolution of "Cops" dates to 1981, when Stojanovich tailed a narcotics unit to produce a show called "Cocaine Blues."

He approached the networks with the "Cops" idea two years ago, and Fox bought the concept, airing the first episode in January 1989.

"Cops" since has visited a host of cities, including Miami, Portland, Ore., New Orleans, San Diego and Los Angeles, and recently filmed a series of shows in the Soviet Union.

Police departments across the country kept suggesting Las Vegas - the neighbor of North Las Vegas, the locale of NBC's new "Nasty Boys" police series - so Stojanovich and company came here in January for two weeks of filming.

The officers bursting through the Vegas motel room door found a gun on the premises, but no shots were fired. The "Cops" camera crew, wearing bullet-proof vests, was right behind as officers broke into the room.

"Most of our guys have done combat or heavy news," Stojanovich said of the crew members. "These guys are good."

Sunday's Home of the Week

JUSTIN McBRIDE

Realtors celebrate Home Week

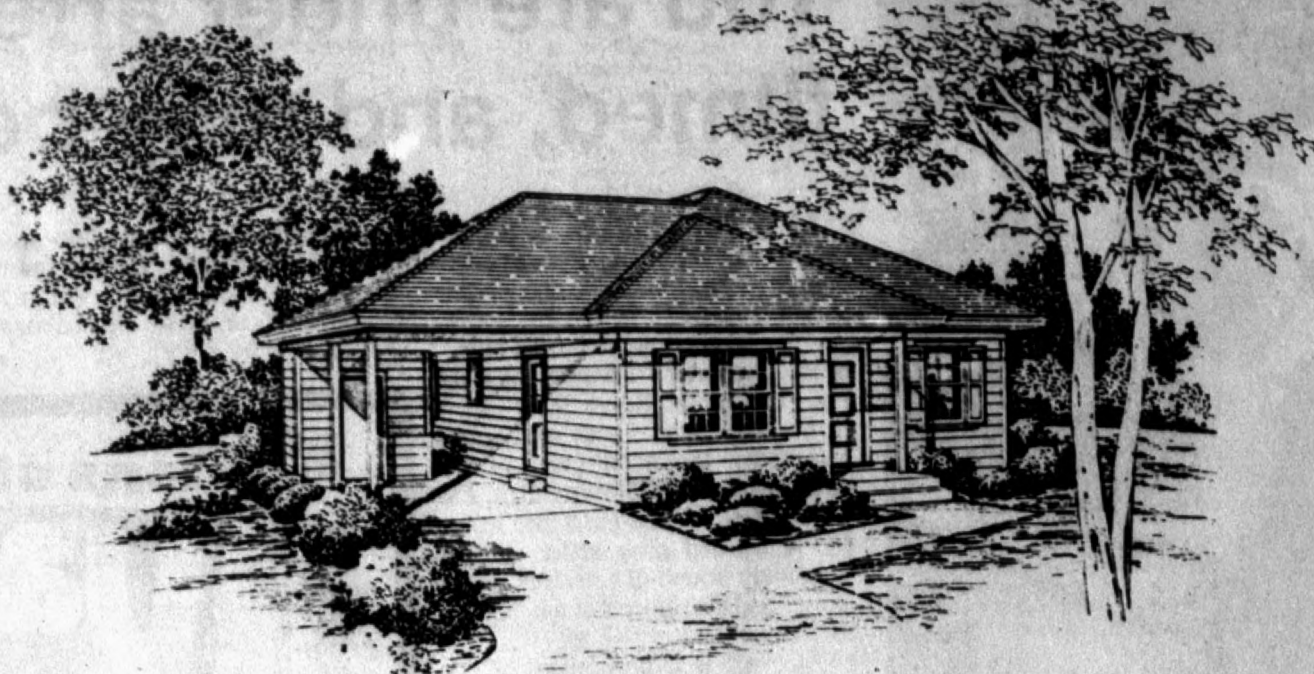

The Hereford Board of Realtors, the voice for real estate in Hereford, has issued a call to the community to join in the celebration of American Home Week, today through May 5.

During this week the board and its members will speak out on the issues affecting real estate, private property and the public interest.

There will be "open house" at several locations across Hereford on Sunday in celebration of the week with agents on hand to explain home ownership and other aspects of real estate.

"Homeownership, the cornerstone of this community, remains one of the most rewarding investments available," said Justin McBride, president of the Hereford Board of Realtors. "American Home Week allows the board to display its dedication to the preservation of the right to own, transfer and use real property."

The Hereford Board of Realtors is one of more than 1,800 boards in the United States that comprise the National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association and the voice for real estate. The association represents nearly 800,000 members in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Tiny Home Features Two Full Baths and Separate Laundry

BUILD A HOME ON A SMALL BUDGET

BY W. D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

The great room for this plan is notably acceptable for family gatherings and the dining area is spacious too. Dining for large groups may expand to the great room or the kitchen since both are open to the large dining room. The kitchen is provided with excellent cabinet space and adjacent work surface and is adjacent to the carport.

A full bath with tub is central, shared by two of the bedrooms and daytime use. A private bath is shown for the master bedroom, which includes a garden tub, shower stall and two lavatories. Washer and dryer space is from the central hall behind bi-fold doors and attic storage is accessible by way of the disappearing stair shown here.

A cottage exterior style is shown, constructed of horizontal wood siding and shown with a hip roof style.

This is a computer generated plan. The plan number 290. It includes only 1,244 square feet of heated area. All W.D. Farmer plans include construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information write to W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

Realtors are important

Just as every tissue isn't a Kleenex, and every copier isn't a Xerox, not everyone handling real estate transactions is a Realtor.

Ask a friend: "What's a Realtor? If the answer is "A person in the real estate business," the answer is only partly correct.

A Realtor is a professional in real estate who subscribes to a strict code of ethics as a member of the local Board of Realtors, the Texas Association and the National Association. The term Realtor is an established, registered trademark.

Both the home buyer and seller can have confidence in those who've earned the right to use the trademark. Only a person who has qualified for membership may do so. He or she has the accumulated knowledge of more than 65 years of tradition.

If your transactions are conducted with Realtors, you will know that they are pledged to strict business conduct in their relations with each other and their relations with the public.

Buying and selling a home, land, investment or business property can be a frustrating and trying experience.

Most people are not experts on being property evaluators. Most persons aren't financial experts, nor are they aware of the latest developments in financing or real estate contracts.

Realtors are specially trained to do this job for you. A few of the services a Realtor provides are:

- Expertise on property values.
- Experience in the best way to phrase advertisements to attract customers.

- Effective sales techniques which stress the strongest qualities about each property.

- Knowledge about available financing terms.

- A pre-qualifying service which screens people, who want to buy property from those who are "just looking," which can be extremely tiresome and frustrating for a property owner.

--Advice on preparing the property for sale, suggesting improvements that aren't costly but make a big impact.

--Information on negotiating price, terms and possession and the countless other details in pulling a deal together.

--Wide exposure for the property if the Realtor is a member of the local board's Multiple Listing Service.

A Realtor is the professional best equipped to handle real estate transactions because of the experience and ethics, as well as continual education on real estate matters as a member of the Hereford Board of Realtors.

Cant' buy new? Why not trade

If buying a house in today's tighter economic times seems too difficult, consider a trade.

Trades certainly don't happen often, but they offer an additional option to discuss with your agent. Some of the benefits to consider are: interested lookers who feel they would be unable to sell their present homes; the seller may net more money on the trade than on an outright sale; and fewer difficulties may arise when two parties are committed to buying each other's homes.

While exchanges offer important tax advantages, their biggest benefit is avoiding the need to convert property into cash. If the seller's objective is to merely change properties, a cash sale is only one step in the process. The seller must still find and purchase new property. If the seller does not need cash, why go through a two-step process when it can be accomplished with one exchange?

Writing in a recent issue of Texas Realtor magazine, Jack Harris from the Real Estate Center at Texas A&M University suggests that in an exchange it may be easier to get the seller's "price" since it is reflected in the amount of property received. The taker for the property may not have to raise cash for a purchase (or not as much cash) or arrange new financing if the loan is assumable.

It may not even be necessary to set a price for the exchanged property, but the parties must agree to some equalization of value. Sometimes an exchange can be a simpler, more straightforward transaction than a sale and reinvestment.

Tax advantages add to their usefulness, rather than being the essential motivation. For the investor who wants to pyramid accumulated equity into larger holdings, exchanges are ideal. Deferment of taxes on gains prevents dilution of equity through the transaction. The exchanger gets the full advantage of equity in the trading-up process.

If you're looking for a very specific type of property, it may be difficult to structure an exchange; however, if you are willing to consider a property that is better than what you have, though not ideal, chance of finding a match are improved.

Exchanges allow for creativity in structuring a transaction. In slow markets introducing investors to real estate is hard, yet that is often needed to arrange cash sales. Exchanges allow transfers meaning more market activity and more leeway for property owners in restructuring investment programs.

Exchanges do not depend on liberal lending policies and available funds. Financing generally is transferred with the properties.

Don't close any doors that may lead to your dream home.

Real Values In Real Estate

Now's your chance to take Advantage of the excellent Real Estate values offered by HUD

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

- All properties are offered subject to availability.
- Only properties listed in this advertisement are available for sale.
- Purchasers must obtain their own financing for all sales.
- The listing price is HUD's estimate of fair market value; HUD reserves the right in its sole discretion to accept offers less than the listing price, but only the highest acceptable offer will be considered.
- All properties listed are "eligible for an FHA insured mortgage," unless specified as "cash."
- Explanation of "Status Notes:"
 1. * Property may contain lead-based paint hazards.
 2.  Flood insurance required.
 3.  Property has defective paint which, if not yet treated as prescribed by HUD, will be treated prior to closing.
 4. * Structural damage may exist.
- HUD reserves the right to waive any information or irregularity in any bid.
- HUD reserves the right to reject any and all offers or to withdraw a property prior to bid opening.
- HUD properties are sold in "as is" condition.
- Some properties may not meet city codes. Purchasers will be solely responsible for code compliance.
- HUD will not pay for a title policy.
- Earnest money deposit is $500.00.
- Bid openings are public.
- If bids are not accepted on listed properties, they will automatically go to Extended Listing status after the bid opening. All Extended Listing offers will be opened each workday after 2:30 p.m.
- HUD properties are offered for sale to qualified purchasers without regard to the prospective purchaser's race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Interested persons should contact the broker of their choice to obtain further information, to see, or to bid on any of the properties listed.
- Brokers/Agents should call the HUD/FHA office in Lubbock, Texas, 806-722-7276, for information on becoming a HUD-certified broker.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL PURCHASERS AND HUD—PARTICIPATING BROKERS:
A contract has been awarded for sales closing services in the Hereford area to Attorney Beau Bouler, 6601 I-40 West, Bldg. 1, Amarillo, TX 79106, Phone: 806-358-7681. Office hours 8:30-5:00, Monday-Friday. Brokers should contact Joan Schilling to coordinate a closing time. Mortgage companies should call Joan Schilling at 806-358-7681 to provide information for Deed preparation. Broker's questions other than those making arrangements to close a sale should be directed to the Lubbock HUD office.

EXTENSION OF SALES CLOSING DATE
HUD requires that all sales be closed within 60 days of contract acceptance date. The closing agent has been instructed to cancel any outstanding contracts on the 61st day. If an extension is needed, prior to the 60th day, Brokers must request an extension on the form provided by HUD, together with certified funds for $270.00, representing a 15-day extension, at $18.00 per day. This must be received by the 60th day, or the sale will be canceled. Contact the closing agent designated on the contract.

HUD IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR ERRORS OR OMISSIONS THAT MAY APPEAR IN THIS AD.

Happy hunting.

It's garage sale season, the time when everyone is offering bargains or looking for bargains. Turn your unwanted goods into treasure with a Hereford Brand Classified Ad. If your garage sale is on Friday and Saturday, bring in your classified before 3 p.m. Wednesday so it will be in the Thursday and Friday issues of the Brand. Give it to Janey Allmon at the front desk. For a two-day, 20-word ad it costs just $4.80. Don't forget: if you live in the city of Hereford you must have a garage sale permit. You can get your permit at City Hall, then drive a half-block to the Brand and put in your classified ad. If you don't know how to word your ad, Janey can help you. She can help you have a very successful garage sale!

Discussing observance

Church Women United members, from left, Nancy Wilcox, Laura Schlabs and Janie Banner, discuss plans for May Fellowship Day, Friday, May 4. The observance will begin with a covered dish luncheon at 11:45 a.m. in the Antonian Room at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. A worship will follow the meal. The public is invited to attend the service which will have the theme "Justice With All Your Mite". A special invitation is extended to all pastors of the community.

Residents plan Fellowship Day

Hereford residents are finalizing plans for May Fellowship Day, Friday, May 4. The annual event, sponsored by members of Church Women United, brings women of faith from varied Christian denominations to share issues of concern and strengthen relationships.

The special observance, hosted by St. Anthony's Catholic Church, will include a covered dish luncheon at 11:45 a.m. followed by a worship service to be held in the Antonian Room. A nursery will be provided.

This year's May Fellowship Day service is entitled "Justice With All Your Mite" and will focus on the issue of the increased poverty in America and the connection of personal faith with economic realities.

Local residents participating in the event include Judy Cloud, song leader, Janie Banner, program leader, and Cathy Revell, accompanist, representing St. Anthony's Catholic Church; and Nancy Wilcox, celebration chairperson, Community Church.

All pastors of the community are encouraged to attend the celebration.

Study materials for May Fellowship Day 1990 were written by an ecumenical group of lay and ordained CWU women from Hartford, Conn. They drew upon their shared experiences working with women and children in poverty to create a May Fellowship Day event that challenges church women to examine how justice is or is not done in their communities and to use their own "mite" to bring about changes where they live that will result in greater economic justice for the poor.

This year's event is one of three ecumenical days of celebration sponsored by CWU: World Day of Prayer, the first Friday in March; and World Community Day, the first Friday in November.

May Fellowship Day became a formalized observance in 1945 and acts as a catalyst for building healing relationships within the local community. CWU is an ecumenical movement that brings Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women together into one community of prayer, advocacy and service. Unified in a common faith in Jesus, CWU works for the elimination of poverty of women and children and issues of peace and justice.

NEW YORK (AP) - Actress Katherine Hepburn has begun writing her memoirs and expects to be finished about August.

"I am full of prayer and hope it will be interesting," she said Thursday in a telephone interview from her Manhattan townhouse. She declined to give details of the book, tentatively titled "Me."

The book will be released in 1991, publishing house Alfred A. Knopf announced.

Residents' daughter honored

Clara Darlene Stovall, daughter of Calvin (C.L.) and Viola Stovall of Hereford, was recently selected as the Outstanding 1988-90 Medical Laboratory Technology Major at Amarillo College. She was presented the award during the AC Honors Convocation.

Stovall was chosen by the professors of Medical Laboratory Technology, Celistia Hudspeth and Carol Betige. The award is based on a grade point average of 3.7 and the desire and ability to succeed.

Stovall will graduate from AC May 11. While attending college, she served as president of the Medical Lab Technologist Club (MLT); was treasurer of MLT; was elected to the A.C. Student Association; and served as representation chairperson on the executive board of the A.C. Student Association.

Ways to protect environment

Those big, rotten timber piles you see on wharves may soon be a thing of the past. For two years, Los Angeles has been testing a prototype fender pile made from recycled plastic. During those years, the plastic pile has seen many of its wooden neighbors come and go. As a result, to cut costs in maintaining existing wharves, Los Angeles is considering replacing damaged timber with plastic fender piles.

In landfills, where approximately 80 percent of our solid waste is disposed of, plastic liners are used to protect against groundwater contamination. Water and chemical resistant, plastic liners prevent leachate from escaping. Plastic caps and foam applied to the top of landfills reduce vapors and odors, protect the landfill from insects, birds and rodents, and help extend the useful lifetime of the site.

As proof that what goes around comes around, two types of quality plastic fencing are now made entirely from recycled plastic.

Keep light bulbs clean, dirt absorbs light and energy.

SAY "NO" TO MORE TAXES

VOTE NO TO PROPOSITION 1

ON MONDAY FEBRUARY 19TH, your city commissioners voted to call an election for May 5th for us Tax Payers to decide whether a half-cent (1/2) sales tax should be added to our already high taxes of 7 1/2%. This tax raise is to be used ONLY for funding the "Economic Development"

This group has already spent thousands of dollars with no results-but they want us to give $300,000, and more for them to spend as they have in the past. Let's be realistic - quit trying to compete with Amarillo and Plainview. Let our chamber industrial committee get back to work and get some results.

If the state imposes a 1/2% sales tax for education and this 1/2% for the "Fund" is voted in - we will be paying 8 1/2% in sales taxes!!

You, as a registered voter must get out and vote against this tax raise on May 5th. If you don't vote then this group will probably push the tax raise on us.

JOIN US AS WE VOICE OUR MUTUAL CONCERNS ABOUT WHAT WE FEEL IS A TOTALLY UNWARRANTED TAX INCREASE.

MAY 1990

Work is underway on the first phase of the $625,000 expansion project at Hereford Senior Citizens Center. A $50,000 challenge grant has been awarded by the Mabee Foundation, and HSCA continues its fund raising for the project.

Paving has now been completed around the Senior Center, for which we owe a debt of gratitude to Appian Corporation. Once again, the munificence of a community business is viewed with great appreciation.

In reply to our request for a grant from the Mabee Foundation, we have been notified this week that HSCAA has been awarded a challenge grant of $50,000. A challenge grant is one wherein we must raise a certain amount of the total sum ourselves before receiving the grant amount. Since our building goal, covering both phases, is $625,000, we must raise funding of $575,000 and then the Mabee Foundation will provide us with the remaining $50,000.

Now, this is indeed a challenge since our total building fund at this time reaches only $359,743. That means, friends, that we all must arouse a great deal of enthusiasm and generate sufficient effort to collect the remaining $215,257. No small task, for sure, but we have been confronted with such a challenge before, and as a result of everyone working together, we now enjoy our present Senior Center. The Mabee Foundation has greatly contributed towards helping us attain our goals and is most deserving of our thanks for it also awarded us $50,000 towards this present facility.

SENIOR PROM

Make plans now to attend your Senior Prom on May 19th. Tickets available at the Center. Enjoy dancing or just listening to music by Sandy Caison Walden's "Two's Company".

CHOIR NEWS

The Senior Citizen "Young at Heart Choir" gave its "Sugar Sticks" program at the Centennial Retirement Home on April 4th. Twenty-seven singers travelled to Amarillo for this event. Other performances included those at West Gate and Golden Plains Nursing Home. Regular Thursday choir rehearsals were held during the month.

Something to sing about this month was the arrival on April 12 of Brenden Edward Sobczak, son of Steve and Machell, joining big brother, Tyler.

Golden K Report

Golden Kiwanians all join in giving thanks to Senior Citizens for use of their facilities for the two garage sales and the chili supper.

Were it not for loan of the building in back of the Center for the garage sale, and the Center kitchen, these fund-raisers would have been impossible, says Grant Hanna. Further thanks to all those who helped with the sale, Kiwanians and wives. Because a good many people worked together, Golden K had three successful projects.

HSCA shares Center with friends

Visitors to our Senior Center in March numbered many. We of HSCA are very proud of our Senior Center and enjoy sharing it with family and friends.

Doug Vangilder of Oklahoma City came with Larry and Genevia Summers; Vic and Rita Beehler of Sandpoint, Idaho, with Bertha Tiefel; Marie and Lawrence Houck of S. Lake Tahoe, California, Larry Boston, Amarillo, and Ray and Anna Sumner, Graham, Washington, with Ted Sumner; and Bill and Maye Byers of Ft. Worth with H.J. Edwards.

Ida Jesko brought guests Kathie, Kay, Jeff, Dave and Douglas Cato, all of Eastland, Texas. With J.W. and Inez Witherspoon was Lou Ann Brady, from Denton. Separate visits with Donnie Owen were from Gwynne and Ruth Owen, of Trinidad, Texas, and Mrs. Homer Owen, of Waco.

Visiting Thelma Hutson from Friona was Leland Hutson, from Lubbock, David Minson, and Evangelist Mirl Fielder from Lonegrove, Oklahoma. Helena and Larry Loerwald of Westminster, Colorado, and Abby Loerwald of Amarillo came to the center with Tup and Hope Loerwald.

Joining us from Canyon were Oliver and Willie Diggs, guests of Charles and Mary Duvall; J.B.

Sowell, Leona Sowell's son who resides in Houston; Sherri and Kevin Baldrige from Dimmit, guests of Earl Vaughn; and, Nancy Templeton and Lorretta Warnuth, both of Lubbock, guests of Clo Green.

Meet the staff

In September, 1986, a representative from Texas Rehab came by my office. He said he had a client who needed a job and help. I asked him what her problems and needs were and he said she was deaf and did not talk much. I told him I felt very inadequate and had no special training to deal with this handicap, and also I didn't know if I wanted this added responsibility.

He said he could pay for part time salary for 3 months if I agreed to help.

I finally told him I would try for the 3 month period and with the help of my staff, our volunteers and our seniors see what we could do for her.

I think about what a blessing we would have all missed if I had said no! Carolyn has been as much help to us as we have to her. Besides the physical work she does she has shown us all what love really is! She teaches us all what is really important, caring about and for one another.

CAROLYN HUTCHESON

Clayton from Bovina. Lester and viola Wanger brought Amy and Aaron Wagner, of Amarillo, to meet us.

Grant and Troyce Hanna had guests from Pilger, Nebraska, Edgar and Gertrude Roe; Jolene Bledsoe brought guest Mary Garrison, visiting from Richardson. Visiting Cecil and Ella Oglesby were J.R. and Bobbie Oglesby, of Logan, New Mexico, and Lela Mae Price of Amarillo. From Lubbock came Stephen Wiggins to see Dick Gholson and Mary Francis Hardin to visit Dorene Rose. Bill and Madeline Kelly, Amarillo, joined Verdon and Billie Watts.

Other visitors to the center included Anita Moon, Lancaster, Washington, guest of Ira and Pet Ott; Gertrude Jones, Claude, guest of Helen Parsons; Kammi Hill, Amarillo, guest of Nancy Hill, Bro. Lenis Sennett of New York City, guest of Elmer Reinart; and Emma Lee Bailey, Seminole, guest of Irene Merritt.

Margaret Young had family visiting from Tyler, Jess and Evelyn Walker, and family of Martha Lueb came from Amarillo, Al and Rosa Lueb. Royce Wimberly, Amarillo, visited with Ralph and Jane Packard; and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. Uhan Hare, all of Amarillo, with Marie Stringer and Clovis Seago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kreighauser travelled a distance from Peoria, Illinois to be with Harold and Emelene Kreighauser, and Neva Miller travelled from Arlington to be with Naomi Hare. Randall Vaughn came from Amarillo to spend time with R.L. Hickman. Ken Anderson, Missionary from South Carolina, spent a few days with the harlan Resch family.

Sue (Kirby) Noakes, neice of the Carl Perrins, visited from Athens, Georgia. Felix and Mae Gasper, from Downs, Kansas, and Wayne Stagner, from Wytheville, Virginia, travelled to be with Owen and Lillie Stagner.

Joining us at the center with Peggy Clark was Shirley and Leo Bartholow, from Cheyenne, Wyoming; with Andrea Pesina was Castula Felan from Burlington; and, with Lois Ethridge was Nedra Wickerson, from Paris, Texas.

Coming from Lindale to be with Hilda Havens were Argus and Cherry Havens; from Amarillo to see Olga Harris, John Cox; from Denair, California to see Miles and Ella Caudle, Francis and Nettie Perry; and to be with Joe Fite, Mr.

and Mrs. Joe Fite of Amarillo.

Visiting clergy included Jim Cory, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church, who sat with members of his congregation, Ira and Pet Ott; and Don Kirklen, Minister of Immanuel Lutheran Church, and wife, Betty, who sat with members George and Lela Kemerer.

Pauline House had guests from New Mexico; Onita Luce and Juanita Wall from Texico and Steve and Bea Owen from Clovis. Rosalie Davis, of Portland, Oregon, joined us with Bill Stocker; and, Jimmy and Judy Auten of Louisville, Kentucky, came with Thelma Auten.

Cawthon Bryant brought guests Sarah Burgess, from Tulia, and Josephine Lawyer, from Sun City West, Arizona. A visitor from Nebraska, Lucille Jenkins, attended with Leone Buckley; Barbara Harrison, Dallas, Albert Harrison, Amarillo, and J.W. Hollabaugh, Amarillo, with Dick and Seletta Gholson; and Tom and Kathy Cooper of Plano with his mother, Bessie Story.

Lyle Brown and Mark Latham, both of Amarillo, came to the center with Lyle's mother, Clara Brown. With Ray Clay were D.E. Clay of Midland and Rena Hill of Amarillo. With Lucy Martin was Bunny Gatcher, Amarillo, and with Ed McCreary, Francis Kirvold, from Mesa, Arizona.

Dr. Bill Carmichael, Sherry James and children, Ashley and Christopher, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carmichael were guests of Pete and Wila Carmichael and all attended the funeral of Wilma's sister, Dorothy H. Brown, in Muleshoe. Our condolences to the Carmichael family.

Margie's notes

BY MARGIE DANIELS
Executive Director

The month of May is really exciting! We have so many things to look forward to. Our new building is on its way up! I know it's really hard, with the parking lot in a mess and one door out of commission, but our participation is still good. I appreciate your coming on out and facing it with us.

On Saturday evening, May 19th at 7 p.m., we will be having our very first Senior Prom. Remember when you were a senior kid? Did you get to go to the banquet and prom? If you did, you know how you looked forward to it, and, if not, how much you wanted to go. Your remember how much fun it was looking for just the right dress or (you men) the nice suit? Remember looking forward to the dinner and the best music ever! Remember walking in to see who was there? We want this to be a very good evening, so please get your tickets soon. The band will be Sandy Caison Walden and Gary.

Thursday, May 24th, is our birthday social, and Friday, May 25th, is our Pancake Supper. You know the supper serves several purposes. First, it's one of our fund raisers and it helps with operating expenses. Then, it is also Pioneer Weekend. The classes of 1935 and 1940 will be having their class reunions in designated areas of the building. Also, people can come to the Center and enjoy the evening with out-of-town friends and relatives who have come for the Pioneer celebration at the Bull Barn on that Saturday. It is such a wonderful week. I love to see the old friends greet one another. It's a happy and fun time at the Center.

The staff--Dodi Brookhart, Mary Ann Resch and volunteer Geneva Summers and I--went to Dallas to the Joint Conference on Aging, where the host agency was AARP. The general session speaker was Zig Zigler. He is really a great motivational speaker. All of the workshops were good. Next year the conference will be in Amarillo, and the host agency will be the Texas Association of Senior Centers. I'm president-elect of the TASC and will be chairing the good conference. It will be an opportunity for the seniors of the Panhandle to be able to attend such a conference. It will be held at the Civic Center so there will be enough room for a good representation of our Centers and members of AARP.

HSCA will be sponsoring a "Festival of Trees" Nov. 15-18. This also will be a lot of work but can be a beautiful and exciting experience. It can be a good fund-raiser and bring more people to our community for the holidays.

See you at the Center!

You don't have to give up your vision for the sake of growing older.

But sometimes, our eyes need a little more help than they used to.

Let us ease the burden and hassle involved with filing claims!

We are now able to file all your applicable Medicare claims.

Golden Line Dancers

By Olga Harris

Never let it be said that the weather can dampen the spirits of our Golden Line Dancers, as they set out for Amarillo in the rain to entertain at the Amarillo Nursing Center on March 29th. Each performance seems to create some lasting friendships. On April 12th, the group performed at Canterbury Villa in Dimmitt.

Our get-well wishes to Jane Packard, Wilma Carmichael, Betty Jo Carlson and Virginia Holmes. We're happy to have Helen Spinks back with

She is a delight to work with and so eager to learn something new. She's faithful, responsible and no versatile.

She always knows where everything is; helps set up for parties and special events. She is the person authorized to check in and receive merchandise delivered by vendors; prints labels on the computer and labels all merchandise received for inventory control; puts data for the nutrition program, attendance and personal information in the computer. Carolyn is a person who sees things that need to be taken care of and she does it.

Since coming to work at the center she has been certified in CPR, First aide and also has got her drivers license.

After 3 months, Texas Rehab Representative said her counselor was thrilled with her progress and he could fund her salary for 2 additional months. When a staff member retired I put Carolyn on us after a confinement at home due to a broken wrist, resulting from a fall on the ice.

Our sympathy to Martha Lueb in the loss of her nephew, Wilma Carmichael in the loss of her sister, and Betty Jo Carlson in the loss of her brother.

We now have 14 enthusiastic dancers in the beginner's class, meeting every Monday and Friday at the Center from 1:15 to 2:15. They are having more fun than they ever thought possible—and that's what it's all about. An exercise that's fun!

staff for part time and a First Baptist Church Sunday School class paid the same amount Texas Rehab had. They did this for about 2 years.

Carolyn has gained a confidence in herself she never had before. She meets people well, also has flown by herself to Wyoming to visit Rhonda Sedgewick at her Ranch. Also flies to Dallas for weekend visits with friends and relatives.

Knowing Carolyn as I now do, I wasn't surprised a few weeks ago when she came to me with a note saying "I want more schooling in computer." Also, she has asked for classes in reading comprehension. We are now working on this project.

When I think of Carolyn I think of the Golden Rule "Do Unto Others as You Would Have Them Do Unto You." She certainly applies this to her way of life. We are all so thankful to have Carolyn Hutcheson on our staff. She makes a wonderful difference in all of our lives.

Make your reservations now to attend "TEXAS" with Hereford Senior Citizens! We have made arrangements to attend two performances: June 15th and Aug. 3rd. All tickets are $10 a person and the barbecue is $6 each. Call Rosemary at 364-5681.

When they told me I needed oxygen at home I said "No tanks!"

Because of changes in Medicare reimbursement, I was told I had to pull a heavy, bulky tank around on a cart for oxygen portability.

Instead, I called the folks at LINCARE. They have a revolutionary portable oxygen system weighing as little as a woman's handbag. It's so inconspicuous, I feel good about going out in public again. The best part is that it IS reimbursable by Medicare and most private insurances.

For Information: call the number below. LINCARE is so sure you will love your new freedom... they will arrange an in-home trial without obligation.

Poetry contest offers prizes

Santa Cruz, CA--Poetry prizes worth $11,000 will be awarded to 152 winning poets in a new poetry contest sponsored by the American Poetry Association.

The grand prize is $1,000, and there are 151 other cash and publication awards. All adults who write poetry are welcome to enter. Entry is free.

"Three of our recent winners were seniors, so seniors are specially invited to enter this contest," said Robert Nelson, publisher for the association. "Experience and maturity shine in their writing."

Interested poets may send one original poem, no more than 20 lines long, name and address on the top of the page, to American Poetry Association, Dept. CO-44, 250-A Potrero St., P.O. Box 1803, Santa Cruz, CA 95061. Poems postmarked by June 30 are eligible to win. A new contest starts July 1.

Each poem will also be considered for publication in the American Poetry Anthology, a hardback collection of contemporary verse.

Since 1981 the association has awarded over $165,000 in contest prizes to 3,100 poets.

Tax-Free or Taxable Income: Which Is Best?

With Federal Income Tax paying time just behind us for this year, I thought it would be a good time to review the different aspects of taxable income vs. tax-free income.

First, the only type of income that is truly free from Federal Income Tax is the income generated from municipal bonds. A municipal bond is a bond issued by a state, county, city, school district, hospital district, or some other political entity at, or below the state level. The income from these bonds can be taken and used, or reinvested, and is not taxable to the bond holder.

The question then arises as to who should own municipal bonds. There are many factors involved in this decision, and it varies from person to person; but from strictly a tax standpoint, here are the numbers. For a taxpayer filing a single return, income between 0 and $18,550 per year is taxed at the 15% rate. At this tax rate, a 7% municipal is equal to a taxable yield of 8.25%. So in most cases, for a person in the 15% tax bracket, there is little or no advantage to investing in a municipal bond. But, when the same person's income exceeds $18,550, they jump into the 28% bracket. In the 28% bracket, a 7% tax free yield is equal to almost a 10% taxable yield. At that point, the investor gains a clear advantage with tax-free bonds. The same calculation applies to couples filing a joint return, but the 15% bracket runs from 0 to $30,950; with the 28% bracket kicking in at that point.

I hope this is helpful. As I said earlier, there are many things a person should consider before investing in municipal bonds, or anything else for that matter--LEARN THE FACTS, and then apply them to your situation.

Knee joint vulnerability often leads to injury

THE KNEE

The knee is a modified hingeline joint which provides support for us while at the same time propelling us forward. It has numerous muscles, joint structures, tendons and bony surfaces in this complex joint. Since it is in the mid-portion of the leg, it is quite exposed and vulnerable to many disorders and injuries.

Treatment of knee conditions can include two approaches. The first approach is usually non-surgical.
 For a variety of knee conditions, physical therapy, medications, injections and splints may be helpful. These conditions are usually milder and less acute. These less severe conditions are often reversible with early treatment.
 These conditions include sprains, bursitis, tendinitis, gout, muscle weakness, various minor injuries and some deformities. Examination, x-rays and follow up will usually diagnose these conditions. Accurate treatment and hopefully good results will follow.

A second approach to knee problems is surgical. There are some conditions for which only surgery is helpful. Nonsurgical measures may be tried and if they are not helpful, surgery may be indicated. Sometimes tight structures need to be surgically loosened.
 At other times, crooked or misplaced structures need to be realigned, repositioned or transferred.

 Bones sometime need repair, remodeling or grafting. The knee sometimes has a bowleg or knock knee configuration. When this is sufficiently symptomatic, surgery may be helpful. Finally, in advanced arthritis, the knee has extensive "wear and tear" changes throughout the knee. Most of the joint surfaces are worn out and movement may be very painful. This may lead to loss of motion as well as instability, causing the knee to give out. In such cases, total knee replacement may be necessary. This artificial knee joint usually produces excellent pain relief, improved motion, increased strength, and finally better walking ability.

Hints from the kitchen

By Mary Ann

By Charlotte R. Clark
Nutritionist

Many ponder about nutrition recommendations as set forth by the Surgeon General or the Food and Nutrition Board. What are the "recommended daily dietary allowances"? These are allowances designed by the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council as guidelines for the maintenance of good nutrition of practically all healthy people in the USA. These allowances are intended to provide for individual variations among most normal persons under usual environmental stresses. Diets should be based on variety of common foods in order to provide other nutrients for which human requirements have been less well defined.

The question arises in everyone's mind, "what is a gram?" and "what exactly does 30% of calories from fat mean?". For starters, a gram is a measure of weight--1/28th of 1 ounce to be exact, which is the weight of a paper clip. One gram of fat is equivalent to about 1/4 teaspoon measure. If a potato chip label states it is 10 grams of fat per 1 ounce serving, one can quickly calculate that the chips have almost 1 tablespoon of fat per serving.

Neither the weight of food nor its measure can predict calories. For example, 1 pound of spinach has 73 calories and fills a half-gallon container. One pound of roasted peanuts measures about 3 cups and has 1,762 calories.

Fiber and water add weight to food but not calories. Calories come from carbohydrates and protein (each 4 calories per gram), alcohol (7 calories per gram), and fat (9 calories per gram). High-fat foods are high in fiber, water, carbohydrates, protein, or even alcohol.

Nutritional goal setting, regardless of age, health, occupation, income or ethnic background, should become an important part of every individual and family lifestyle. There is probably a place for every food you enjoy in your eating plan. You may have to eat some less frequently and in smaller portions. How often and how much depends on one's dietary needs and preferences. A registered dietitian (RD) can help you evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of your current eating habits.

The American public has the tools with which to become more aware of terms such as cholesterol, body fat, fiber, sodium, sugar and nutrition. One needs to read labels, become more aware of information available to the consumer, and evaluate food choices. Remember, Noah didn't build the ark in a day, and one can't expect to revamp habits overnight!

'Manor' Notes

King's Manor Methodist Home is well known for the quality care that it provides and one of the key elements contributing to this recognition is the Dietary Department. Directed by Gwen Whittaker, an eighteen year employee, the department is comprised of fourteen others, each lending his or her own expertise, as they prepare over 400 meals a daily. Many modified diets must be prepared and continuous monitoring of the resident's dietary needs and progress is noted. Add to this the preparation of food for special events ranging from receptions and small parties to large dinners and banquets, and the versatility of the staff becomes quite evident.

The meals are attractive and nutritious and "whet" the appetites of all. Chef Rosalinda Tijerina, with over thirteen years previous experience as chef of Hereford Country Club, is directly responsible for the finished product, continually checking taste, attractiveness and overall appeal of meals. Rosie personally prepares many decorative and elegant items for the special events.

Jacob Miller specializes in the preparation of main course meats and vegetables, Jo Hill does salads and desserts, and Steve Romero is the pastry specialist.

Long time employees include Irene Bauler, 19 years; Jo Hill, 11 years; Irene Limas, 14 years. Others on staff include: Jennifer Harbison, Alice Haynes, Donna Hill, Elvia Marquez, Elvira Mendoza, Rebecca Ramirez, and Vicki Rodriguez. Many of these employees have 5 to 10 years of service.

The month of May will be busy as dietary prepares for Older Americans Month and National Nursing Home Week. Already, preparations are underway for the Annual King's Manor Barbecue set for Saturday, July 7, 1990.

KEMERERS MOVE

HSCA's loss--George and Lela Kemerer have moved to Paris, Ill., and their address is Box 481, zip 61944. Following a temporary location, they will be moving to a retirement complex known as Lutheran Village. We'll sorely miss George's recitation of "Dan McGrew", only one of his many suspenseful and humorous tales, as well as the Kemerer's generous donation of time to the community.

There are three ways we can go together. First, we can be like popcorn in a paper bag and explode at each other. Second, we can be like ice cubes in a refrigerator and freeze together. Third, we can be like a box of chocolates in the summer sun and melt together. If you think dit doesn't pay to stick together, consider the banana--as soon as it leaves the bunch, it gets skinned!

Cruise vacations offer variety

By JOAN COUPE
Hereford Travel Agent

For VALUE, VARIETY AND YOUR SATISFACTION, NOTHING ELSE MEASURES UP TO A CRUISE VACATION! Every day, more and more people are discovering the all-inclusive pleasures of a cruise vacation. More singles, families, couples, honeymooners, second honeymooners and groups of friends are sailing away on the vacation of their lives.

Last year alone, more than three million people enjoyed cruise vacations. When you add it all up, it's easy to see why.

The price of your ticket includes all of your meals--and in-between snacks. All your daytime activities and fun, nighttime parties and entertainment. Plus, a relaxing voyage to some of the most exciting and exotic places in the world.

You'll find a cruise ship is a floating resort. With all the things a fine resort has to offer, and more. You'll meet new friends--people like yourself--who share the same tastes and interests. And, you can spend your days and nights being as lively or leisurely as you like.

The hassles of an ordinary vacation are completely eliminated in one neat little package. You don't have to worry about making dinner or nightclub reservations. Running to make connections. Packing and unpacking. Or expensive surprises at restaurants and nightclubs. You can just lie back and be completely pampered. Or go non-stop. Dine like never before. Enjoy one great show after another. Let your cares float away.

It's no wonder that more people are taking cruise vacations than ever before. And it's no wonder that, once they get a taste of cruising, they come back for more. Again and again.

See your travel agent for complete information on all the various cruise ship itineraries available. For the best values, book at least 90 days in advance of your intended departure. Common questions regarding a cruise vacation:

Isn't seasickness a problem? Not really. The most popular cruise areas boast some of the calmest waters in the world. In addition, stabilizers on modern ships, advance availability of accurate weather information, and development of effective preventative medications have, for the most part, eliminated the incidence of motion discomfort.

Are there medical services on board? Virtually every cruise ship (except for some smaller vessels operating in coastal waters) has a fully-equipped medical facility and staff to handle almost any emergency.

What's an air/sea cruise? A "Fly/cruise" vacation package includes either free or much reduced airfare along with your cruise ticket. These money-saving options are available from most major North American cities and include transfers between the airport and ship as well as baggage handling.

Is there a charge for the entertainment? Never. On a cruise vacation, the entertainment is on the house. There's no cover. No minimum. No charge for an admission ticket. The shows are live. The movies are first-rate. The variety is limitless.

OTHER VACATION IDEAS: Copper Canyon or Texas/Lajitas on the Rio Grande. Baltimore and the Eastern Shore-Cape Cod-Spring and Autumn in the Carolinas-Pennsylvania Dutch Autumn-Arctic Adventure-Yorkshire and the lake District.

Before planning your next vacation, visit with your local travel agent. They can save you time and money and give you guidance in choosing the right vacation for you!

Eye Openers

By Sue Elliot, M.Ed.
Education Coordinator
Currie Eye Institute

I am frequently asked, "What is the difference between an Ophthalmologist, an Optometrist, and an Optician?" They all work in the vision-care field but they differ in their education and specialties.

An ophthalmologist is a physician specially trained in treating illness, disease, or injuries of the eye as well as performing eye surgeries. They can also prescribe glasses or contact lenses if needed. Generally, this specialist has spent over 11 years in training for their profession.

Another vision specialist is a doctor of optometry. Eight years of schooling train them to perform complete eye examinations, diagnose eye disease and, if needed, make appropriate referrals, prescribe corrective lenses, or prescribe and fit contact lenses.

An optician is a skilled individual who has been trained to work with the eye doctor to properly fit you with glasses that meet the requirements as designated by your prescription. They grind lenses, fit glasses, and works with an eye doctor in the proper fitting of contact lenses. No college is required for this specialty.

Protect your vision with regular eye examinations.

The Community: Part 2

What is a community?

A community is a group of people who have something in common, shared by all. In our case, it's that we live in the same area. Our children go to school together. We attend the same churches, yell at the same ball games, play dominoes at the same senior center or domino hall.

Our taxes go into the same pot, to provide us with water systems, fire and police protection, roads, schools and hospitals. We share the same wide open spaces, the beautiful sunsets, the clear open skies at night. We cherish the small town atmosphere.

Most of us have chosen to live here even though we may have originally come from some distant place. Our community grows on you. The longer you stay, the harder it is to leave. Here we can raise our kids and know our neighbor, grow our gardens, or keep a horse.

The Hereford Brand is a vital part of this community. We read the local paper for news we can't get anywhere else, for ads we won't see anywhere else. The Brand feels the pulse of our community--city and county commissions, school board, hospital, senior citizens, school kids. It gives us honor rolls, lunch menus, birth announcements, weddings, ball games, chili suppers and church events. When we read the local newspaper, we see ourselves, our community, reflected.

If the local newspaper didn't tell us those things, nobody would. Not the Globe-News, not the Avalanche-Journal, not channels 4, 7 or 10. This isn't their community, it's ours. The local paper is not the center of the community. You are. But every community needs a good local newspaper.

Tips on foot problems

By Dr. Grant Cettie

What are orthoses?

Just what are those devices that are inserted into footwear and what is their purpose?

Foot orthoses, as they are called, help an individual stand, walk or run in a more normal, efficient and comfortable manner. The use of orthotic devices is a conservative approach to many foot problems and is a highly successful, practical treatment form.

The orthoses take various forms and are constructed of various materials. All are concerned with improving foot function and minimizing stress forces that could ultimately cause foot deformity.

Foot orthoses fall into three broad categories: those that primarily attempt to change foot function; those that are primarily protective in nature, and those that combine functional control and protection.

Even though orthotics may look like old fashioned arch supports, the one thing they are NOT is arch supports. True biomechanical orthotic devices do not work on the principle of "supporting" the arch.

To custom-fit an orthotic, two office visits are required: one to have a plaster impression of your feet made and the second for fitting and evaluation of the orthotic after it has been made in a laboratory. The lab fees range from $200 to $300 and are not usually covered by insurance companies or Medicare, as they are considered as preventative foot care.

An orthotic is not a cure-all for every foot problem. Over-the-counter foot aids—arch supports, heel cups, cushion insoles, etc.—may alleviate some foot problems and pains but these foot aids are sold by shoe size only, so their benefits are not predictable.

Tips given for sleep

On any given night, one of every three men, women and children is tossing and turning. Come morning, millions of sleepless souls are starting the day on empty.

If you suffer from daytime fatigue, here are several factors that may be to blame:

Poor Nutrition -- To keep energy levels up, try five small meals throughout the day rather than three large ones. Above all, start with a nutritious breakfast. Proteins-- meat, eggs, cheese--are energizers that rev you up, while complex carbohydrates--vegetables, whole grains, pasta--can help wind you down.

Lack of exercise -- Daily workouts promote alertness and unwind body and mind so you sleep better and feel more energetic.

Inferior bed -- Sleep problems are often bed problems. If you're sleeping on a mattress and foundation that's more than eight to ten years old, you really should consider replacing it. Invest in a quality sleep set.

Drugs -- If you start feeling wearier after starting on a medication, talk with your doctor. Some medications may contain caffeine, so also ask about the best time to take a drug.

Medical problems -- If you are so tired you cannot function normally during the day and if your fatigue persists for more than two or three weeks, see your doctor. A complete medical examination could turn up silent sicknesses, such as iron-deficiency anemia or a thyroid imbalance, that can sabotage your staying power.

The process won't be available to every amateur photographer with a bad lens or shaky hands, however: sophisticated equipment worth tens of thousands of dollars is needed to remove the blur.

Consumer groups want "funeral rule" strengthened

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jeanie Karklin says she saved $1,500 on her mother's funeral because a federal rule required the funeral director to give her an itemized price list. She calls the rule "a godsend."

The same rule required funeral director Timothy Simms to hand a price list to the parents of a 4-year-old boy killed in a car accident. Simms felt it was "a tasteless thing to do" in the hospital emergency room.

Six years after it took effect, the so-called "funeral rule" is under review by the Federal Trade Commission, and consumers and the funeral industry are split on whether it should be renewed or repealed. The review began in May 1988 and FTC staff recommendations are expected this spring.

Consumer groups want the rule strengthened, arguing it gives people important information to help them make one of the biggest purchases of their lives at a time of stress and bereavement. "It costs next to nothing, provides a great deal of consumer information and may have led to prices going down," said Lee Norrgard of the American Association of Retired Persons.

The nation's largest association of funeral directors, meanwhile, says the rule unnecessarily regulates day-to-day business practices, increases costs and hinders funeral directors' ability to serve grieving customers sensitively.

"The rule has placed an undeserved and unwarranted stigma on the nation's funeral directors as unscrupulous and deceptive businessmen," the National Funeral Directors Association told the FTC, calling for repeal.

The rule took effect in 1984 after more than a decade of debate and investigation into funeral practices, and after the NFDA sued unsuccessfully to block it. But after living with it for more than five years, some funeral directors and smaller trade groups are amenable to retaining it.

"Our membership's living with it very well," said Connie Ryan, president of the Wisconsin Funeral Directors Association and director of Ryan Funeral Home in Madison. "We haven't had any difficulties."

The rule requires funeral directors to give customers an itemized price list at the start of discussions, an itemized final statement of costs, and to give price information over the phone if asked. It also lets consumers purchase only what they want rather than packages that may include unnecessary extras, and prohibits funeral directors from misrepresenting state requirements for caskets for cremation or the embalming of corpses.

Americans each year arrange more than 2 million funerals. With costs averaging $3,000 before burial fees, a funeral may be the third most expensive consumer purchase after a home and a car, according to the FTC.

When people are aware of their rights under the rule, they are able to be more selective in their funeral purchases, even if they decide to spend as much money as they would otherwise, said Clifford Brownstein, executive director of the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies.

The association, which represents 150 memorial societies nationwide that help people get information and make plans, is calling for better enforcement of the rule and its expansion to businesses such as cemeteries and crematories.

Robert Hardin, executive director of the NFDA, said the price disclosure requirements have hindered funeral directors, done nothing to benefit consumers and contribute to higher prices by adding paperwork and training demands.

The FTC's own study disproved its theory that consumers would spend less and shop around more with the rule, he said, adding that most people select a funeral home because they had a personal experience with the home or because of its reputation, not based on price.

"The whole concept of the FTC back in 1984 was to try to change the social mores of this country and to try to convince the consumer that they're shopping for a car when they're shopping for a funeral," Hardin said. "It's not a consumer product. It's a very professional consumer service."

AARP is pushing to extend the rule to cemeteries and to expand regulation of the booming "pre-need" business, in which people buy in advance to finance funeral or cemetery goods and services. Some pre-paid contracts, often sold by telephone, direct mail and door-to-door, aren't covered by the funeral rule.

Minimum standards would ensure that consumers know what contracts cover, how the death benefits increase over time, how secure the investments are and whether contracts can be canceled or transferred if people move, Norrgard said.

The FTC has shown little inclination to get involved in additional regulation of pre-need contracts, but Norrgard expressed hope these sales might be the subject of a separate rule-making procedure later.

Dental Implants Are Improving With Time

IMPLANTS FOR DENTURE WEARERS
By Stan Fry, Jr.
D.D.S.

Difficulty tolerating your lower denture? Dental technology has come a long way since George Washington's wooden false teeth, but a few of us find dentures to be a problem. That's where dental implants come into the picture.

Dental implants are attached to artificial teeth and placed permanently into the jaw. Therefore, you may chew that delectable corn on the cob with confidence, as well as many other foods you've avoided. These implants are metal and hold the teeth firmly in place just as a root system holds its natural teeth. Amazingly, the implants may be even sturdier.

We call the procedure to accomplish dental implanting, Osseointegration (Osseo means bone and integration means to unite). We would also like to mention that in using this process, the living jawbone grows naturally around the implanted dental supports.

Implants may or may not be right for you. If we have aroused your curiosity, discuss dental implants with the dentist on your next visit, or give him a call to discuss the possibilities.

VOTE FOR PROPOSITION 1

A VOTE FOR PROPOSITION 1 IN THE CITY ELECTION MAY 5 IS A VOTE FOR:

- A one-half percent city sales tax with revenue to be used for economic development
- Promoting expansion of existing business and industry
- Establishing a loan pool for small businesses
- Providing venture capital for business start-ups
- Helping create more jobs and broadening the tax base
- Providing incentives for employers to move to Hereford
- Creating a management board of the five best-qualified citizens, appointed by the City Commission which is elected and responsible to the voters
- Giving Hereford a competitive position with towns of comparable size who are actively pursuing new jobs

VOTE FOR A WELL-CONCEIVED PLAN THAT WILL GIVE US THE OPPORTUNITY TO MOVE FORWARD!
VOTE FOR PROPOSITION 1 IN THE MAY 5TH CITY ELECTION.

CATO OIL AND GREASE JT-8 SUPER HEAVY DUTY MOTOR OIL

Mystik JT-8 in multiviscosity grades offers protection over wide temperature ranges. The modern shear stable polymer used produces true SAE 10W/40 and 15W50 motor oils that stand up to prolonged use. They allow quicker starting in cold weather with less battery drain. The lubricant flows easily and lubricates vital engine parts faster. At high temperatures, Mystik JT-8's special viscosity index improver works to maintain good oil film strength and assures protection against excessive engine wear.
