Attorneys given okay

To pursue cotton suit

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Cotton farmers met with attorneys for about two hours Friday in Friona, giving the lawyers permission to get started on legal proceedings aimed at recovering damages to their crops.

While the Texas Department of Agriculture has still not issued the results of its investigation, the TDA has agreed with Deaf Smith and Parmer County farmers that cotton in the area was damaged this summer by the weed killer 2,4-D.

Houston attorneys Benton Musslewhite and John O'Quinn and Richard Collard of Friona were named to represent the cotton growers, who must still decide if they will file a class action lawsuit or ask for damages on an individual basis. Musslewhite said so far 26 persons have indicated they want to be part of the lawsuit, which is about half of the farmers who reportedly received heavy damage to their cotton fields.

Also still to be determined is whether the suit will be in the form of a complaint, to be filed in federal court in Amarillo, or a petition that would go to the 287th District Court in Parmer County. Musslewhite said that will depend in part on what parties are named as defendants.

There are four possible defendants, Musslewhite said: the manufacturers of the 2,4-D formulations used, the local distributors, the applicators and the landowners who ordered the insecticide applied to their wheat and milo crops. Right now, he said Friday, it looks as if the manufacturers are most likely to be named.

"Our basic view is that the instructions and warnings were not adequate," he explained. "But our clients (the growers) will make the decisions about when and who we sue."

Unless they decide to opt out, all farmers who suffered damages would be included in the suit should the class action route be taken. Musslewhite said that would be the case even if the grower did not actively seek to be listed as a plaintiff. "Contamination by toxic chemicals is becoming such an important issue," Musslewhite maintained, "people have a duty to society to bring this to a halt. It's getting out of hand."

Musslewhite was one of several attorneys named to represent Vietnam veterans in the Agent Orange litigation, which was settled out of court last May.

Al Hernandez of the enforcement division of the TDA said Friday he hopes to turn the results of the field investigations over to the TDA's review committee by the end of this week. "We're looking at 30 days at the most, before we can release the information to the public," he said.

Musslewhite said the attorneys will proceed with the case and start gathering the background information they need, even before the TDA's results are released.

Valley View encounters delay

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer

Officials at Valley View Energy Corporation say they have met with "delays," not problems, in their attempts to begin construction of an electrical generating plant east of Hereford.

The company had hoped to begin building the plant, which would burn manure to fuel electrical generation, earlier this summer.

"Some of the details have taken longer than we anticipated," Valley View's legal counsel Bob Isaac said this week. "We're a little more conservative than some, I guess, and we want to take care of these things thoroughly before we start building."

Isaac said the issuing of revenue bonds is moving along right on schedule, and he is optimistic about negotiations with potential buyers of the electricity.

Mike Carr, executive vice president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, said he is not at all concerned about the delay. "We spoke with Valley View this week, and everything is fine. There are no problems at all, just a few delays."

United Way campaign starts on Monday

The United Way of Deaf Smith County kicks off the 1984-85 funding drive Monday, striving to get contributions and pledges totalling $128,150 to support 10 community agencies.

UW President James Self announced that division chairmen and volunteer workers had chosen not to conduct a breakfast or luncheon to launch the drive this year. "They felt that workers needed no motivation to solicit for this worthwhile program," Self said.

Goal established at $128,150

B.J. Gilliland, campaign chairman, has named leaders for eight solicitation groups. They include:

Harold Easley and John Fuston, agricult ure; Carol Legate and Terri Hutson, general; Mark Andrews and M.D. Gentry, major; Sid Shaw and Marilyn Leasure, metro; Terry Bromlow and Butch White, pacesetters; Ray Cowsert, professional; Temple Abney and Troy Moore, special; and June Owens and Helen Lee, Whiteface.

The campaign is scheduled to start Monday and be completed by Oct. 31.

Other UW officers include Jan Walser, vice president; Pauline Howard and Robert Mercer, treasurers; Jerry Baker, communications; Raymond White, Margaret Bell and Mark Andrews, budget & admissions; Raymond Artho, audit and evaluations; and Morgan Cain, publicity.

The participating agencies and their percentage of the United Way budget: Big Brothers-Big Sisters(10.53), Campfire(17.56), Boy Scouts(14.44), Family Services Center(1.52), Red Cross(14.83), Salvation Army(3.11), Senior Citizens(9.75), YMCA(19.12), Children's Rehab Center(.40), High Plains Epilepsy Foundation(2.89).

A brief description of the agencies and their area of service:

BIG BROTHERS-BIG SISTERS

This agency provides a unique one-to-one concept of friendship and role-modeling to children from single-parent homes. One adult volunteer works with one child. You can be a part of something BIG as a BB-BS volunteer! (Deane Jones, director).

RED CROSS

This agency provides emergency aid to victims of disasters, promotes disaster preparedness, assists military personnel with emergency communications and financial help. Programs in CPR, first aid and water safety assist in emergencies. The nursing, community and youth services promote local activities such as blood pressure clinics, programs at Westgate Nursing Home, toys for Christmas and Carrier Alert Programs. (Betty Henson, director)

SALVATION ARMY

This is an organization dedicated to providing aid whenever and wherever requested to anyone genuinely in need. While the Army is unable to provide longterm aid, its purpose is to help with immediate assistance in times of need. (Lola Faye Veazey, director)

FAMILY SERVICES

The Hereford Family Services Center is a community mental health center which provides counseling services for a variety of problems. Some of these include depression, parent-child problems, marital problems, etc. This center is here to serve our people just as the United Way is similarly dedicated. (Mike Moon, director)

HIGH PLAINS EPILEPSY

This association in Amarillo is dedicated to the belief that most children with epilepsy can learn to deal confidently with all life situations through proper medical care and parent counseling. To help to meet that goal, the association provides a full range of related services to the residents of Deaf Smith County. (Jeff Brown, local representative; Betty Brown, director)

SENIOR CITIZENS

The goal of this organization is to keep members socially active and still feel needed within the community. The group is excited about the new facility being constructed—one so desperately needed to better serve the senior adults of Deaf Smith County. (Margie Daniels, director)

YMCA

With the opening of the new YMCA facility later this year, programs will be initiated to expand the services provided to the people of Hereford. The programs served 800 in 1976 and grew to almost 3,000 in 1983. It is the goal of the YMCA to develop Christian character and to aid in building a stronger community through activities and services that contribute

A lot of folks don't like many provisions of the education reform bill, and it will cause some far-reaching changes on the public school front. How H. Ross Perot managed to author many of the changes escapes us, unless it's because he has the money to do what he wants.

Our newspaper friend up at Perryton, Harold Hudson, came up with this interesting news: Perot's daughter attends a private school and is spared the rules coming out of the new bill. It is interesting to note that Perot's daughter missed 23 days of school last year showing horses. Under the new rules for public schools, insisted upon by Perot, a student like his daughter would fail, no matter how good her grades. This seems to be a case of "do as I say, not as I do."

Regardless of how Perot educates his own children, he has managed to stir up a "hornet's nest" in the public schools. We think a lot of parents and citizens are going to be talking to their legislators about changes. At least, Perot seems to have aroused some more interest in public schools!

Perot seems to be obsessed with the idea that high school football players are missing too many days from the classroom. But it's more far-reaching than that. A survey by Texas A&M reveals that golf and marching band activities have required more time from the classroom than any other activities.

There is no question that students in Texas high schools have been missing some class time because of extracurricular activities. However, many citizens, and educators, place a high value on some of those activities. Maybe we can reach a balance and get on with the program!

Woman plea bargains in scam

HOUSTON (AP) — A volunteer for a group that contends federal income tax is unconstitutional has received three years' probation in exchange for a guilty plea and an agreement to testify against the group's leader.

Sarah Ballew, a 47-year-old Freeport woman who had been accused of preparing at least 3,275 bogus income tax returns as part of a tax rebellion, was allowed to plead guilty Friday to a single count of preparing a false return for herself in 1981.

Among other things, Taxpayers United argues income tax is against the law because paper money is not legal tender. The group also takes issue with the government's definition of the terms "employer" and "income."

U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor Jr. agreed to grant probation to Ms. Ballew after hearing that she has agreed to testify against David M. Martin.

In return for the plea, all but one count of a 120-count indictment against her was dropped. O'Connor could have sentenced her to a maximum of three years in prison.

Suicide ruling hard to accept

DALLAS (AP) — The family of a prize-winning fisherman who died of a shotgun blast one day before he was to testify about alleged bass tournament cheating finds it hard to believe he committed suicide, his brother said.

"It could have easily been an accident. My brother was to appear as a witness. He was not afraid of testifying. He had been interviewed on several occasions," James Davis said Friday after the Dallas Medical Examiner's Office ruled that Danny Ray Davis shot himself.

Davis said his younger brother had been in good spirits the day before he died. He said the family found it hard to accept the suicide ruling, largely because his brother had been seriously burned in a transformer explosion about five years ago.

"Danny was in intensive care for about 6 months. He just wanted to live too bad," said James Davis. "That's one of the main reasons the family would have trouble in understanding a suicide ruling."

Meese still good choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says Edwin Meese III is still his choice for attorney general and "barring anything unforeseen" the nomination will be resubmitted to the Senate if he wins a second term.

Reagan told reporters that he has "not changed my mind" about wanting Meese as the nation's top law enforcement official. The president's comments came when he was questioned about Friday's surprise announcement that the nomination had been removed from the Senate Judiciary Committee's agenda by Chairman Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

Thurmond said he feared that election-year politics would interfere with any further consideration of the controversial nomination. The move effectively killed any chance for Meese to win confirmation this year because Congress is scheduled to adjourn Oct. 5.

The Senate panel's vote on the nomination had been put on hold in March, pending the outcome of independent counsel Jacob A. Stein's investigation into Meese's financial affairs.

With the latest postponement, any further consideration of the nomination depends upon a Reagan victory in November. All nominations expire when Congress ends its two-year session, so the president would be required to resubmit Meese's name for Senate approval.

Cost of stamps to rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of mailing a letter is rising again, with first-class stamps set to climb to 22 cents next year under a recommendation by the Postal Rate Commission.

The U.S. Postal Service's board of governors could put the higher rates into effect even sooner, but had indicated previously that it would need the higher income in early 1985.

The commission's proposed rate is a penny short of that requested by the Postal Service last November, as is the recommendation for a 14-cent charge for post cards.

The recommendations released Friday also cover a wide range of other postal charges for various types of mail, including bulk-rate advertising, books, magazines and newspapers.

Postal Service spokesman D. Jamison Cain said his agency had no immediate comment on the recommendations.

Iranian plane hijacked today

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran's official news agency reported an Iranian passenger plane was hijacked today, and there were reports an Iranian flight was attempting to make an unscheduled landing in the Persian Gulf kingdom of Dubai.

The official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Cyprus, did not provide details of the reported hijacking.

But sources reached by telephone in the Persian Gulf island kingdom of Bahrain said there were reports that an unscheduled Iranian flight was attempting to land at Dubai in the United Arab Emirates and that it may be a hijacked airliner.

An Iran Air Airbus was hijacked last Aug. 28 while on a domestic flight between Shiraz in southern Iran to Tehran. It tried to land in Kuwait, but was refused permission and was taken by the hijackers to Iraq.

The air bus's 189 passengers and 11 crew members returned to Tehran last Tuesday after spending a week in the Iraqi capital.

President Doo-hwan returns

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Chun Doo-hwan returned from a historic three-day visit to South Korea's old foe Japan today, declaring there were new ties between the two pro-Western nations "based on reconciliation and mutual understanding."

Earlier, Japan pledged to support South Korea's efforts to ease tensions with Communist North Korea and to seek seats for both Koreans in the United Nations. The statement of support from Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone was part of a 12-point communique issued by Japan and South Korea.

In an arrival statement, Chun termed his three-day state visit, the first ever by a Korean leader to Japan, a success and said he hoped it would lead toward "a new era of friendship and cooperation."

Before leaving Tokyo, Chun met for farewells with Japanese Emperor Hirohito and had lunch with Nakasone and his wife.

The communique, translated by the Japanese Foreign Ministry, said Chun's visit "opens a new chapter" in the turbulent history of the two countries.

It did not refer to expressions of regret expressed by both the 83-year-old emperor and Nakasone for the "unfortunate past" — the period between 1910-1945 in which Japan harshly ruled the Korean Peninsula.

Report: some inmates get special treatment

HOUSTON (AP) — A report on Texas prisons shows that contrary to a federal judge's order, officials still give some inmates authority over others.

But the report, made public Friday by the office of the special master assigned to the case by a federal judge, said investigators found no evidence those "building tenders" used violence or had weapons, as they once did.

The report, issued by the office of special master Vincent Nathan, found numerous violations of a 1982 agreement to end the "building tender" system in Texas prisons.

Monitors for Nathan's office reported some special service inmates — those given extra chores by prison officials — were given special privileges at some units. Among those privileges were special breakfast periods and permission to own special clothing. Guards also ignored contraband owned by some of those inmates, the report said.

The report was based on examinations of 10 units of the Texas Department of Corrections.

"Although the exercise of authority by support service inmates at the 10 units audited by the monitor has declined dramatically (since the court stipulation), several problems in this area persist," Nathan wrote.

Prison spokesman Phil Guthrie, reached at his Huntsville home Friday night, said prison officials have not seen the report and did not realize it had been released.

But he conceded "there's probably some truth" to complaints in the report as described to him by a reporter.

"The reality is that in every prison system, given the subcultures that go on, there's going to be some of that," he said. What is tolerable to the courts, he said, "remains to be seen."

The report has been submitted to U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who in 1981 ordered sweeping reforms in the Texas prison system.

Some of the specific violations of the agreement include the use of support service inmates at some or most of the 10 units to relay messages to other prisoners and to inform groups of prisoners about group activities; to count other prisoners; to handle sensitive materials, such as medical records of other inmates; and to fulfill clerks' duties without direct supervision of prison employees.

One of the most meaningful marks of authority involves the control of the dials on the TV set, Nathan wrote.

"Watching television is one of the major recreational pastimes of many TDC inmates," the report says. As a result, the selection of television programs is a major issue in day rooms of many housing areas.

Nathan concluded in the new study that the second group of prison units studied should continue to be monitored.

MANURE

Meanwhile, a Hereford High School agriculture instructor who lives near the proposed site on Highway 60 has not given up on his fight to keep the plant from going up.

Monty Adams, who claims the air around his home would be polluted by the stockpiles of manure to be maintained at the facility, has appealed to the Texas Air Control Board and, more recently, the Environmental Protection Agency not to allow the plant to operate.

The Air Control Board has already issued a building permit to the Dallas-based energy company, with permission to operate to be granted once the board is convinced the facility meets requirements stipulated in the building permit. Emission control and frequent testing of emissions are two of the board's requirements.

Reagan clarifies religious remarks

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is attempting to deflect Walter Mondale's accusation that he is eroding the constitutional separation of church and state by using religion for political gain.

Showing irritation, Reagan accused reporters and his Democratic opponents Friday of distorting remarks about religion that he made at a Dallas prayer breakfast the day he accepted the Republican presidential nomination.

"In the sense that I said it in Dallas — which none of you have correctly reported — the correct words to use is there is a wall of separation (between church and state)," Reagan said.

"But some anti-religionists are trying to break down that wall," he added.

When asked about Mondale's quip that he evidently believes "God is a Republican," Reagan apparently took his cue from deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes.

"Do you think that God is a Republican, as Mondale charges?" a reporter asked.

On a tape recording made by ABC television news, Speakes is heard to advise Reagan: "Best don't answer that."

The president then responded: "I have no answer to any of those things that what's his name said."

The incident was similar to one last month when Nancy Reagan was heard muttering "doing all we can" as her husband appeared at a temporary loss to answer a question about efforts to revive arms talks with the Soviets.

Reagan then replied: "We're doing all we can."

Shouting over the engine roar of a Marine Corps helicopter waiting to head for the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., Reagan sought to clarify his Aug. 23 remarks at a Republican National Convention prayer breakfast.

Speaking then, the president said, "The truth is, politics and morality are inseparable. And as morality's foundation is religion, religion and politics are necessarily related."

"And what I was saying," the president said Friday, "was in the context that yes, definitely, there is a connection between morality and politics and should be — and too many neglect it."

He did not refer to his additional remarks in Dallas that religion and politics are "necessarily related."

Mondale plans to offer 'Reagan tax' for deficit

By DAVID ESPO Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter F. Mondale, taking the weekend off after five hectic days of cross-country campaigning, is putting the finishing touches on a budget plan that will include a "Reagan tax" to slash federal deficits.

Mondale said in Atlanta on Friday that his plan — first promised when he accepted the Democratic presidential nomination in July — will be made public on Monday in Philadelphia. He said once again that higher taxes are needed to curb the deficit.

"As I said in my acceptance speech, Mr. Reagan will raise taxes and so will I," Mondale said.

"What I should have said as well is that it is not my tax. Really, it's a Reagan tax because we've got to do it to get his deficits down. It's his tax."

Neither Mondale nor his aides would provide any details of the proposal, except to say that Social Security would not be affected.

But Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia, confirming what other Democrats have said, reported that the proceeds of the tax increase will be set aside in a special deficit-reduction fund, and not go for creation of new spending programs as Republicans charge and some conservative Democrats fear.

In addition, Mondale has said previously that he intends to scale back Reagan's military buildup and restore some of the spending cuts the president has won in environmental and other programs.

After campaigning in seven states and Washington during the week, the Democratic presidential nominee had no public appearances on his schedule for today.

His Sunday schedule includes attending church services and making his weekly paid radio speech.

And at the same time, Mondale is hoping his aides can conclude negotiations with the White House on face-to-face debates with Reagan. Campaign aides for both candidates reported Friday there had been little progress in their negotiations on the format and schedule of televised debates. The aides said they would hold daily meetings next week until an agreement is reached.

Mondale's deficit pledge is to reduce by two-thirds the red ink that would result in 1989 from current economic policies.

The deficit for the current year is expected to exceed $170 billion, and while the Congressional Budget Office says the red ink will be much greater in the future, although Reagan administration officials say the deficit will shrink.

Mondale coupled his announcement about his own budget plan with another call on Reagan to provide a plan of his own. "I demand that Ronald Reagan stand up as president of the United States and tell us what he's going to do to bring those deficits down."

"You can't run away from these issues," Mondale added.

At a rally in Chattanooga, Tenn., Mondale said: "Mr. Reagan refuses to take responsibility for bringing the biggest deficit in our history and refuses to tell us how he plans to reduce it."

Reagan says he has no plans to raise taxes, although he adds a president should "never say never."

Democrats blast Reagan administration, Republicans

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Sen. Gary Hart, denouncing the Reagan administration, roused Texas Democrats as state party leaders prepared to elect new officers and adopt a party platform.

Hart, the Colorado Democrat who was unsuccessful in his bid for the party's presidential nomination, said Friday the Walter Mondale-Geraldine Ferraro ticket "is an extraordinary national referendum on the future of this country."

Like the keynote speaker at the state Democratic convention, House Majority Leader Jim Wright, Hart also stressed the importance of the U.S. Senate race between Democrat Lloyd Doggett and Republican Phil Gramm.

Wright kicked off the convention by calling President Reagan the "Babe Ruth of deficit financing."

Democrats today were scheduled to elect state party officers, adopt a platform and vote on various resolutions. One of the resolutions proposes abolishing the September state convention, the second of two state party conventions.

Critics of the September convention say it is expensive and a waste of time.

Democrats met in a June state convention in Houston and then many traveled to San Francisco in July for the national presidential nominating convention.

Party Chairman Bob Slagle said the state conventions cost between $25,000 and $50,000 and said the party would be better off spending that money on registration and get-out-the-vote efforts.

The state convention delegates are expected during the two-day affair to adopt the national Democratic Party platform, with some added "Texas planks."

Wright, of Fort Worth, said that "the American people realize deep down inside there is something fundamentally wrong with the Reagan administration."

Wright, attacking the Reagan administration for cuts in social programs that were unfair to the average American, urged his party to offer voters something better.

"The American people want sense," Wright said. "It isn't good enough to criticize the Republicans. We've got to do better."

Wright also said Reagan had broken his promise to the American people to balance the federal budget.

The president "loves to babble on" about how Democrats "tax and spend, tax and spend," Wright said. "Isn't it fairer to tax and spend rather than borrow and spend?"

Highly educated American women appear to delay motherhood to accommodate their school and career goals. In 1981, among women 18 to 44 with four or more years of college, 47 percent of births were first births, and among those who completed at least five years of college, 55 percent were first births.

Energy secretary calls for abolishing department

HOUSTON (AP) — Donald Hodel, secretary of the Department of Energy, says he hopes the department is abolished if President Reagan is re-elected this fall.

Hodel, in Houston Friday, said the department could be brought under the Interior Department, where he once worked.

"I think it would make good sense," Hodel said. "I honestly believe if you'd combine our department with another department there would be savings over time."

The president has worked to eliminate the regulatory parts of the agency, Hodel said.

"That's really been done by my predecessor and the president," he said. "What remains are the laboratories, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the strategic petroleum reserve. All of those things will continue to be funded."

Hodel said two nuclear waste disposal sites planned for West Texas will probably not open because of residents' protests and the political clout of Texans in Congress.

Donald Hodel said the opposition of Rep. Phil Gramm, R-College Station, and public pressure will probably keep the two from opening. They are among nine under consideration nationwide.

"Gramm's opposition is well known," Hodel said. "That's why there's been such an exhaustive review process."

Hodel said several states may be willing to serve as depositories for nuclear waste in the near future, but he refused to say which states might be willing to go along with the idea.

"One of the safest activities ever undertaken by man will be the handling of nuclear wastes," Hodel told reporters at a news conference.

DOE figures predict a steady decline in consumer demand for oil products through the end of the century, Hodel said.

Although the department predicted in 1979 the price of oil could reach $75 to $90 per barrel, Hodel said DOE projections now show the price will remain relatively stable, rising to $35 from its current price of $29.

"I would think oversupply will take several years to work off," said Hodel, who added the worldwide glut of oil could continue into the 1990s.

In a speech earlier before a conference of women's business owners, Hodel said the president's national energy policy "is guiding us on the right course for America's energy future."

The government's goal, Hodel said, is to minimize federal intervention in energy markets and seek a "balanced and mixed energy resource system."

Caring More

Through the efforts of the United Way of Deaf Smith County, thousands of local citizens have benefitted over the years in areas of health, elderly care, child development, and recreation for all ages.

The United Way kicks off its annual campaign drive Monday and "Caring More in '84" is the slogan for the fund-raising effort. The UW has not reached its goal in several years, so it will take "more caring" for the drive to be a success.

It is difficult to understand why we have problems reaching our UW goal. Hereford and Deaf Smith County have exhibited their generous support of so many programs and projects over the years, yet this one goal has not been reached.

The community has often contributed more than its share, per capita, to a number of national campaigns. The United Way provides one of the best methods for us to really see the benefits of our gifts.

Let's put the UW drive over the top this year!

Cost of COLA

To a lot of folks the word COLA means a soft drink and a delicious one at that. To others it means a nice increase in the government check they receive every month and represents a gift from America's taxpayers.

The COLA means a Cost of Living Adjustment and is an automatic boost in Social Security or government retirement checks based on the government cost of living index. Congress, in a generous and vote getting mood passed the COLA provision in 1977 as a means to help Social Security recipients and government pensioners cope with the continued cost of living as brought about by inflation.

At the time they put a cap on the COLA and it would not go into effect if the cost of living index did not go above 3 per cent.

Thus there was no COLA in 1984. But it being an election year, the Democrats rushed to pass a bill giving a COLA raise anyway, and the president, not to be outdone in an election year, eagerly signed it.

So everybody who gets a retirement check from the government also gets a raise.

Much of the red ink in the federal budget comes from these COLA adjustments. When inflation was in double digit figures, the COLA made some sense. In a period when inflation has been pretty much brought under control it does not make sense, especially when it is sinking the federal financial ship of state.

Not only those who draw a Social Security check but all of the civil service retirees, veterans, retired military personnel, retired judges, retired congressmen, aid to dependent children, all get a boost in pay.

Most federal retirees are now making more in retirement than they ever did while working, thanks to a generous COLA system.

The only answer is to boost taxes on the working people and this will be done come the first of the year when those with a paycheck will find it smaller because of the tax bite taken out of it.

As the Years Turn

75 YEARS AGO

Beginning next Thursday, Hereford will celebrate the 11th anniversary of her birth by taking three days vacation from business. The Hereford Concert Band has made all the arrangements for the entertainment of the people. The first and second days will be under the management of the band, and the third day will be the old-time basket picnic.

After three or four trials, a number of auto enthusiasts met at the office of Pitman and Yost last Friday and perfected an organization for the purpose of establishing rules in driving autos, to secure some future date for a race meet and to promote good roads.

50 YEARS AGO

Cattle will be bought in Deaf Smith County Friday and Saturday in the government drought relief program. A total of 382 head were purchased last week here. Of this number, 275 were accepted for shipment and the remaining 107 were condemned and killed.

With 294 pupils enrolled in high school and departmental grades and books already issued, school is ready to start in full swing Monday morning here.

25 YEARS AGO

With enrollment figures expected to climb sharply this week, more than 2,100 student in Hereford Public Schools will occupy seats Monday on opening day of the 1959-60 term. Hereford public schools will labor on Labor Day, according to the announcement made this week by Superintendent Fred Cunningham. Due to the lateness of the holiday this year, students will not be given the day off.

Deaf Smith County maize growers this week kept their fingers crossed as they planned their combining attack on fields about the middle of the month.

10 YEARS AGO

Residents of the Finlan subdivision—commonly called the Labor Camp, literally had their water cut off over the weekend, posing a tense and touchy situation which apparently involved a shooting incident Saturday.

A 1974-75 budget of $1.5 million was approved by Deaf Smith County Commissioners Monday afternoon, following a busy morning.

1 YEAR AGO

Hereford's one-month-old all-time record for water use was shattered during the period from July 18 to Aug. 17, according to City Manager Dudley Bayne.

More than 233.5 million gallons were used by local residents for the recent 31-day period. That represents a 13 percent increase of 206.8 million gallons consumed from June 18 to July 17, last summer. Bayne said, the average monthly water use was around 120-125 million gallons.

The Penultimate Word

AGING WITHOUT GRACE

Someone asked me if I like the age I am. I said, "I like my age now a lot better than the age I am going to be."

I do not know what happened to me. I think of myself as a young man of about 30. Last week my daughter became 30. Now, of course, I started early (I married my den mother), but somehow the time slipped away. I am now old enough to talk about the good old days and make all kinds of comparisons between the then and the now.

The other day I had an opportunity to buy a chance on an old classic car. The folks who were selling the chances raved on about how wonderful this old car was. How they do not build them now like they did then. I went to see this jewel, expecting an antique. The car was a 1954 Ford. I was married and the father of a child in 1954. I told them what they could do with their chances.

Somehow, I am not ready for the cars of my early adulthood to be old classics. I got rather snotty about it all. I told them that in 1954 people were saying, "They don't build them like they used to," so what's the big deal about a '54 Ford?

The worst thing about getting older is no one will let us slip up on it nor slide by without notice. The whole world seems intent on being sure we are properly informed of our fate. It is as if it is not enough to get old; we have to constantly be warned so we can properly dread the prospect.

Little children are called upon to participate in this conspiracy. One day they are rug rats sucking their thumbs and raising a fuss. The next day they invite us to their wedding.

Even our peers turn against us. Last week, the alumni magazines from our alma maters were full of news about our new jobs and successes. This week the same magazines tell about our retirements.

Our bodies certainly participate. Nothing works anymore. We ache in places we did not know we had. Our hair begins a race between turning grey and turning loose. Shaving becomes a tricky process of digging hair out of wrinkles, and we get sore necks from bobbing our heads looking for the right focal in our glasses.

Writing this article became so depressing I decided to watch TV. I flipped to a channel featuring Dick Cavett doing one of his historical flashbacks called "The Way We Were." The year he was featuring was 1956.

Something good is happening in China

WASHINGTON - I do not know how to swear in fluent Mandarin Chinese. Nor could I disrupt polite conversation in Cantonese Chinese of the Shanghai dialect. Yet I suspect that only a few years ago the word "profit" in any language would have raised more than a few eyebrows in Communist China. Even veiled references to "incentives" and "private property" would likely have caused proper Communist Party members to drop their chopsticks.

Yet, when I visited Mainland China five years ago and discussed the formerly subversive economic ideas - free markets and private property - that have made America the world's preeminent economic power, my Chinese hosts kept me up late with intelligent, probing and sympathetic questions.

Something is happening in China. Something good. Since Mao's death in 1976, the Chinese economy has been inching away from the Stalinist model of centralized bureaucratic control that hobbled China's progress for the previous three decades.

In rural China, where 800 million of the one billion Chinese live, the formerly collective communes are giving way to the "responsibility system" where, according to the government-controlled China Daily, the new principle is "from each ac-ording to his abilities, to each according to his work." If this sounds a lot like capitalism, well, don't tell the Chinese government because it has masked this fundamental shift as correcting a "misunderstanding of Karl Marx."

The former communes pay a fixed sum and then find their surplus taxed at a flat 25 percent. What remains looks an awful lot like what General Motors or an American farmer would call a "profit." This the Chinese farmers are free to reinvest.

In addition, some land has been distributed and is actually privately owned; and the 8 percent of arable land that is privately owned produces over 20 percent of China's agricultural output.

These reforms have doubled the per capita income of China's farming families in just five years.

The economic liberalization since 1976 has not been limited to agriculture. China now allows individuals to start small businesses with up to 11 employees and today there are 1.5 million entrepreneurs scattered across China.

Why has China decided to edge away from the failure of socialism? Has the CIA been dropping copies of Milton Friedman's books into the suburbs of Peking? Or sailing Sears and Roebuck catalogues up the Yangtze River?

I doubt it. But the leadership of China was not able to ignore the success of Taiwan and Hong Kong, which have had relatively free economies over the last 40 years and now boast per capita income eight and 14 times greater than their mainland counterparts.

For 30 years the Chinese people have been saddled with a government committed to policies that stifled economic growth and smothered the natural abilities and talents of the Chinese people. Now, with modest but significant steps toward rewarding talent and hard work, the Chinese people are discovering that incentives do matter.

Well, the underdeveloped world can learn from the Chinese experience. But it should learn the same lesson that China spent so much blood and wasted lives to learn the key to economic growth is to respect private property, cut taxes and provide incentives for economic production to individuals and businesses.

If Mao had read Adam Smith and not Lenin, he could have saved his people much pain and suffering.

Bootleg Philosopher

Political convention unique event

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm reports on the Republican convention this week, more or less.

Dear editor:

It's sort of like a disorganized high school pep rally with nobody directing the cheers.

At the Republican convention, every time a speaker mounted the rostrum and prepared to unleash his oratory, delegates would begin yelling and stomping. Sometimes they held him up for 10 or 15 minutes. I got the impression they didn't want to hear what he had to say. Then when they saw they couldn't head him off and were in for it, they quieted down. But let him pause at the end of a sentence, even to just take a sip of water, and the yelling busted out again.

If you want a convention to run on time, don't allow your speakers to pause between sentences. Delegates don't pay any attention to what a speaker's saying, but if he pauses they think he's said something worth yelling about.

I was completely bumfuzzled during the acceptance speech of Mr. Reagan (sic).

There are some mighty thirsty delegates here, I said to myself, because at every few sentences he spoke they interrupted and began yelling, "Four More Beers!"

It was explained to me they were saying, "Four More Years."

Some pundits say political conventions are now out of date and unnecessary, that the platforms and the nominations are like some hay I've got out here on the ground - already out and dried, that all a convention does is bale it, regardless of the protein content.

Nonetheless, there are politicians already laying plans for the conventions four years from now, and cities angling for the job of hosting it.

Incidentally, one of the interesting things about the Republican convention in Dallas was the security fence erected around the convention hall to keep the protesters out and the delegates in. There was some concern at first over whether it was strong enough. I could have relieved them of that worry easily.

You see, I've got a cow out here on my place that's the world's champion fence-breaker. She doesn't pay any more attention to a fence than a politician does to a promise. I could have shipped her to Dallas and had her turned loose inside that fence. If she couldn't break through, they'd have known that fence was strong enough. I wouldn't have charged much for the loan of her.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor,
May I please have some space in your newspaper to send greetings from the people of Bordertown to the citizens of Hereford.

As you are probably aware, the towns of Bordertown and Hereford have been paired in the Twin Towns Project as part of the celebrations of the 150th Birthdays of the states of South Australia and Texas in 1986.

Some weeks ago I received an information kit from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce which listed the names of many groups and organizations in Hereford. I have taken the liberty of pairing some 37 of these groups with organizations with similar interests in Bordertown and have requested the Bordertown people to make contact with their Hereford counterparts.

It is understood that several letters have been forwarded and that others will be sent in the near future. If any Hereford organizations are interested in corresponding with a similar group in Bordertown I would be happy to make the necessary arrangements. All letters or requests would be acknowledged within one week of receipt.

Bordertown has a population of 2000 and is the local government administrative centre of the District Council of Tatiara which covers an area of 2500 square miles and has a population of 7000. It is situated on the main highway between Adelaide (the capital city of South Australia) and Melbourne (the capital city of Victoria).

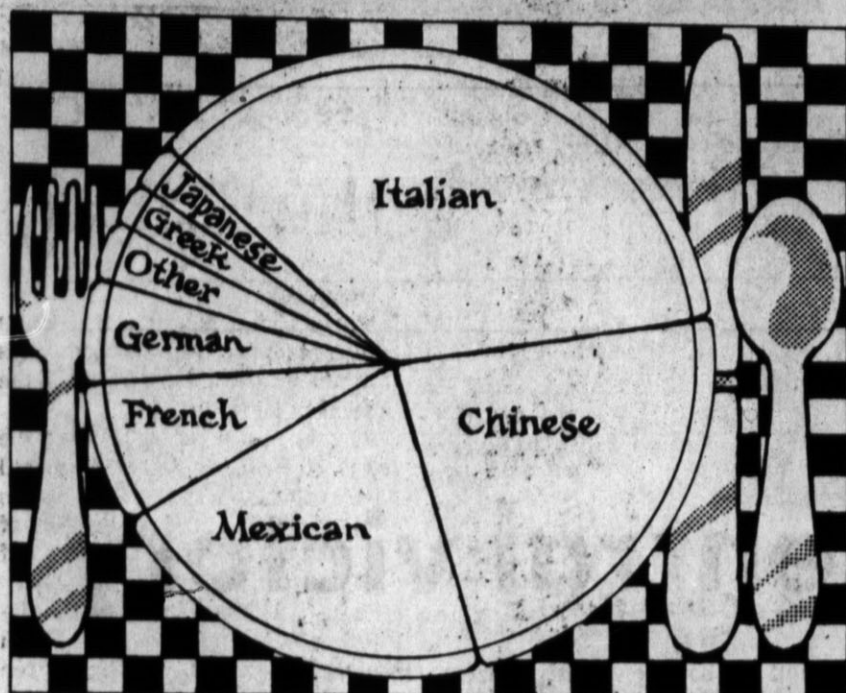

If any group or club is interested in knowing more about Bordertown, it is suggested that they contact me and join the Twin Towns Project. I am sure that the exchange of ideas, information and greetings between our two towns will prove to be good fun and especially rewarding for those persons most actively involved.

Best Wishes,
Ralph Winter
Asst. District Clerk

Governor views list of 45 nominees

AUSTIN (AP) — Handed a list of 45 names from which he must select 15 for the new State Board of Education, Gov. Mark White said, "You have 45 of my best friends, I think that's what you've got."
"I don't envy you at all your final selections," said House Speaker Gib Lewis.
Lewis, chairman of the Legislative Education Board that selected the nominees presented the list to White on Friday in a ceremony in the governor's reception room.
"I'm personally familiar with almost every single one of those individuals, and I certainly endorse the recommendations," White said. "I now have the very difficult problem of picking among friends and that choice will not be easy, because I think we can go down the list and literally pull the name from a hat on any one of them and wind up with a very good, very capable Board of Education."

The governor must choose one board member from the three nominees in each of 15 districts.
White glanced at the three nominees from District 10, and said, "Just look at that group. Will Davis of Austin I've known since 1958. Ruth Denney (also of Austin) I've known since 1956. She was my drama teacher. And Dr. John 'Mack' Prescott of College Station has been a personal friend and client of mine since 1969, so if you think this is going to be an easy shot for me, you're wrong."
At White's urging, a special legislative session this summer abolished the 27-member elected Board of Education and substituted a 15-member appointed board that will revert to an elected board in 1988.
The new board was part of the educational reforms enacted by the Legislature in response to declining student performances on standardized tests.

Asked if he would give more consideration to nominees favored by H. Ross Perot, chairman of the Select Committee on Public Education that recommended many of the educational reforms, White replied, "No, no, certainly not. I'm going to consider all of them."
"I think you're going to find that every person that will be selected and every person on this list will stand in their own light, and I don't think they're going to be subservient or persuaded to vote one way or another or to make decisions based on anything other than the facts presented to them," White said.

Lewis, who said his four top choices did not even make the list, added, "I don't think any person could be considered a Ross Perot person per se."
White said he would try to maintain at least five minorities on the smaller board, but said, "I cannot promise that."

Breadfruit is a staple food to people of the Pacific's tropic islands. The part that lies between the skin and the core looks like new bread. It makes an excellent pudding when mixed with coconut milk.

Developer gets kick out of political gifts

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin developer James C. Moore says he gets more kick out of giving land away for political causes than taking a trip to the Riviera.
"I'll say this for Jim Moore. He's come up with an innovative way of making campaign contributions," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, one of the latest beneficiaries.
Moore, who recently made a million-dollar land gift to the Texas Democratic Party, said Friday he is giving away three more valuable parcels of undeveloped real estate west of Austin.
The new gifts have not been appraised.
"The way I look at it, a lot of people waste their money on trips to the Riviera," said Moore, 34. "I'd rather put mine to work for a good purpose."
Moore said his new beneficiaries would be Hightower; the Democratic Small Business Council, a group organized by Dallas financier Jess Hay; and a Minneapolis group known as the League of Rural Voters.

The three parcels are being carved out of 228 acres Moore owns along the Pedernales River near Hamilton Pool, a scenic area west of Austin. The parcels adjoin the 27 acres given the state Democratic party, which was appraised at $600,000 to $1 million.
Moore, a native of Lufkin who formerly was a lawyer and developer in Houston, says in addition to developing a low-density community he plans to build a major center for show horses.
Moore first surfaced as a political contributor with sizeable gifts to the campaign of state Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, in the Democratic primary. Moore financed and helped produce television commercials attacking Doggett's runoff opponent, Kent Hance.
Moore also paid for a direct-mail appeal from U.S. Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., to Rio Grande Valley voters on Doggett's behalf.

Herd loses season opener

Kicking game, defense key Central victory

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor
On a night when defense was to be the key, 21 points were scored at

Whiteface Stadium Friday, all of them by San Angelo Central High School. But that's a little misleading, because defense was, indeed, the key to forming a 21-0 win by San Angelo over Hereford. Mistakes in the kicking game followed by good defensive play led to Central touchdowns in the second and third quarters, with the Bobcats sustaining only one drive for a TD.

"It was a big, big play," Jimmie Keeling said.

Central's coach was referring to Brian Ross' 52-yard punt in the second quarter. Hereford's Alan Dudding was positioned about the 20-yard line attempting to field the kick, when the ball sailed just out of his reach. When it was all over, Hereford was set up with a first-and-10 at the Herd 7-yard line.

After four plays netted only seven yards and a Mike Scott punt traveled a net total of 20 yards, Central used 2:05 and five plays to get into the end zone.

C.L. Bowman crossed the stripe for the 'Cats, and Richard McKnight added the extra-point.

"That play really hurt us," Herd coach Jerry Taylor said. "After that, we gave them the ball back on about the 35, and they got a quick TD."

The next big mistake came the opening kickoff of the second half. Central received the second-half kickoff and had the wind to its back. Bowman fielded the kick on his 22 and moved toward the middle of the playing surface. He cut to his left and raced 78 yards for another touchdown. The score was quickly 14-0 with 11:49 left in the third.

The Herd didn't fold to the bigger San Angelo team just yet. Dudding got his turn at returning kicks next. He returned the ensuing kickoff to the Central 49-yard line, where Scott took over.

Scott lead his offense to the 9 on passes of 16 yards to Kurt Simon and eight yards to Sammy Suarez.

He also picked up a crucial third-down play on a sneak which netted four yards.

Three straight incompletions inside the 10-yard line, however, turned the Herd away empty-handed.

Scott later went down with an injury and was taken from the field on a stretcher. Taylor said he had hopes the injury wasn't serious, but that Scott was taken to Deaf Smith General for precautionary measures anyway.

"If we had just made the field goal thought we played good defense, but we're not good enough offensively.

"We've got to get better."

Central's offense made just 161 yards of total offense, 122 on the ground and 39 through the air. Hereford countered with 147 yards, 32 rushing and 115 passing.

Bobcat quarterback attempted only six passes, completing three. Central rushed 44 times, however, and Tim Reibe picked up 53 yards on eight of those carries.

Quarterback sacks for much lost yardage accounted for a great deal of the Herd's meager rushing total. Receivers were covered well all night, forcing Scott to run.

The Whitefaces attempted 29 passes, 22 of them by Scott, six by backup quarterback Stefan Hacker and one by punter Sammy Suarez when a deep snap was too high to reach. Rodney Torres caught three passes for 24 yards, and Suarez had five for 41.

San Angelo's only offensive firepower began with 1:17 left in the third quarter. Central took the ball on its own 36 and used 5:13 before Bevans Hoffman broke several tackles between the 7 and paydirt for the final six pointer.

This week's NFL games

Patriots attempt to overcome Miami stigma

By DAVE GOLDBERG AP Sports Writer

When the New England Patriots last won a game in Miami, Babe Parilli was their quarterback, Jim Nance their leading rusher and Gino Cappelletti was catching passes and kicking field goals.

It was Nov. 27, 1966, they were the Boston Patriots of the American Football League, and they beat the Dolphins 20-14.

The Pats, 0-16 in Miami since then, will try again Sunday to beat the Orange Bowl jinx in hopes of gaining credibility as a challenger to the Dolphins in the American Football Conference's Eastern Division.

Both the Patriots and the Dolphins are 1-0, but the Dolphins were far more impressive in their opener, romping over the Washington Redskins 35-17 behind Dan Marino's five touchdown passes. New England opened a 21-0 lead over the Buffalo Bills, then hung on for a 21-17 victory.

There are 11 other National Football League games Sunday.

Buffalo is at St. Louis, Dallas at the New York Giants, Denver at Chicago, Detroit at Atlanta, Kansas City at Cincinnati, Minnesota at Philadelphia, Tampa Bay at New Orleans, Cleveland at the Los Angeles Rams, Indianapolis at Houston, Green Bay at the Los Angeles Raiders, and San Diego at Seattle, where Franco Harris may see his first action since leaving Pittsburgh in a contract dispute.

Washington is at San Francisco on the Monday night game.

The New York Jets played the Pittsburgh Steelers Thursday night.

Pats Coach Ron Meyer defies conventional wisdom by suggesting that he'd rather let his defense play to Miami's strength — the passing game of Marino, Mark Duper & Co. — rather than the relatively thin running attack, which produced only 86 yards in 30 carries against Washington.

New England will have to do that shutting down without inside linebacker Clayton Weishuhn, who injured his left knee against Buffalo. Miami also is thin at linebacker, with A.J. Duhe on injured reserve and Earnie Rhone banged up.

Dallas and the Giants, both 1-0, were the only two NFC East teams to win last weekend and both did it in uncharacteristic fashion.

The Cowboys beat the Rams 20-13 Monday night despite five turnovers, as Gary Hogeboom threw for 343 yards in his first start and a suspect secondary limited Los Angeles' Vince Ferragamo to 11 completions in 33 attempts for 84 yards.

The Cowboy secondary will have to contend this week with Phil Simms, who returned from nearly three years of injuries to throw for 409 yards and four touchdowns in a 28-27 victory over the Eagles. Wide receivers Bobby Johnson and Byron Williams combined for more than 300 yards and three touchdowns.

The Cowboys may try to offset the loss of injured wide receiver Tony Hill by throwing more to Tony Dorsett, who caught 10 passes for 66 yards against the Rams.

It's the old immovable force-irresistible object collision at the Los Angeles Coliseum between the Packers and the Raiders. The force is Green Bay's passing attack of Lynn Dickey to James Lofton, John Jefferson and Paul Coffman, as powerful as ever in last week's 24-23 victory over St. Louis. The object is the Raider secondary, led by cornerbacks Mike Haynes and Lester Hayes. The Raiders limited Houston's Warren Moon to 156 yards in their 24-14 victory last week.

San Diego goes into Seattle off a 42-13 shellacking of Minnesota in which the usually charitable Charger defense limited the Vikings to 201 yards while the offense rolled for 526. The Seahawks shut out Cleveland 33-0, but Curt Warner, the AFC's leading rusher last season, went down with a knee injury and is probably lost for the season. Warner's place on the roster has been taken by Harris, who was cut by the Steelers after holding out for more money.

Monday night's contest between San Francisco (1-0) and Washington (0-1) figures to be a shootout. The Redskins generated no pass rush against Miami, leaving the secondary vulnerable to Marino's bombs to Duper, and go this week against another skillful quarterback in Joe Montana. But the 49er defense is missing cornerback Eric Wright and defensive end Jeff Stover, himself filling in for holdout Fred Dean.

Atlanta, with William Andrews gone for the season with a knee injury, got a big boost last week from Gerald Riggs, his replacement, who rushed for 202 yards in a 36-28 upset at New Orleans. But against Detroit, which lost 30-27 to San Francisco on Ray Werschling's last-second field goal, the Falcons may be without offensive tackle Mike Kenn, out with a calf injury.

John Elway, who bruised his shoulder in last week's 20-17 win over the Cincinnati Bengals, is an unlikely starter for Denver. Gary Kubiak, who took over and engineered the winning touchdown drive, is his replacement. Chicago, which romped over Tampa Bay 34-14 last week, is diversifying its attack as Matt Suhey shares ball-carrying duties with Walter Payton.

Philadelphia woke up a half too late against the Giants, coming from a 21-6 deficit to within one point as Ron Jaworski found Mike Quick for two touchdowns. Minnesota never woke up at all in its loss to San Diego.

Buffalo was another second-half team last week against New England as Joe Ferguson went 27 for 40 for 263 yards. The Cardinals lost by a point to Green Bay as Neil O'Donoghue missed what could have been a game-winning 45-yard field goal on a play originally designed to be a fake.

Kansas City will again go with Todd Blackledge, who is replacing the injured Bill Kenney at quarterback. The Bengals' Cris Collinsworth caught 10 passes for 141 yards against Denver.

Tampa Bay got almost no offense against Chicago, generating just 254 yards — 74 of them on one play, a scoring pass from Jack Thompson to Gerald Carter. New Orleans is hoping for a better performance by its defense, which allowed Atlanta 249 yards on the ground.

The Cleveland-Rams game matches the two losers of Monday games. The Rams got off to a 13-0 lead against the Cowboys but couldn't capitalize on five turnovers and Eric Dickerson's running. The Browns did almost nothing right in their 33-0 loss to Seattle.

Houston will be hoping for a stronger performance from Moon.

The Colts, playing their first regular-season game in their new home in Indianapolis, stayed in their loss to the Jets all the way, but the offensive line had trouble protecting quarterback Mike Pagel and gave up the clinching touchdown on a fumble following a sack.

Not This Time

Hereford noseguard David Parsons grabs Bobcat running back Bevans Hoffman just behind the line of scrimmage in Friday night's action at Whiteface Stadium. Hoffman scored in the fourth quarter on a bruising run from the 7-yard line. Also in pursuit for Hereford are August Castillo (15) and Patrick Phibbs (48).

Flag football sign up continues at YMCA

Registration for flag football continues through Sept. 17 for boys in the first through sixth grades at Hereford and Vicinity YMCA in Sugarland Mall.

Young athletes in the first and second grades are to play at 5:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning in October. Third through sixth graders are scheduled to play Saturdays, with the first game Sept. 29.

A fee of $8 for Y-members and $14 for non-Y-members must be paid and includes a football shirt, adult supervision, awards and the use of necessary equipment. Boys must supply their own tennis shoes.

The use of such football gear as helmets and shoulder pads will not be permitted. The boys will not be allowed to wear hard or cleated shoes.

A prepared statement by the YMCA said the league specialized in wholesome competition while teaching the fundamentals of team play and good sportsmanship.

"We believe flag football offers the excitement of competitive football while minimizing the danger of injury to the players."

Tour veteran, rookie tied for Boston lead

By DAVE O'HARA AP Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Lanky George Archer, who will be 45 on Oct.

1, and Joey Sindelar, a 26-year-old PGA Tour rookie, were set to go head-to-head today as co-leaders after the third round of the $350,000

Bank of Boston Classic. Sindelar, a three-time Ohio State All-American from Horseheads, N.Y., was the new kid on the block.

Archer was a 20-year veteran on the tour.

Sindelar, who turned pro in 1981 but didn't qualify for the tour until last fall, shocked the field and most observers Friday by firing a 7-under-par 64, just one stroke off the Pleasant Valley Country Club's course record.

However, his 36-hole lead at 135 didn't last long. A few minutes later, Archer, who started on the tour when Sindelar was just entering grade school, charged home with a 66 and a tie for the lead.

He went on a birdie spree on the 7,119-yard golf course carved out of central Massachusetts woods. He had five without a bogey.

"If I had shot a 70, it still would have been a good round," said Archer, healthy after being plagued for several years by wrist and back injuries. "A couple of years ago I never thought I'd be playing golf the way I am."

"The daily exercise program has helped a lot. I'm not getting tired in the last two rounds of tournaments. It's been the key to making a lot of money ($129,000) this year, even though I'm still looking for my first win (since 1980)."

Sindelar, who calls his father "my only teacher," had an eagle-3 with a 25-yard chip shot on the fifth hole. He also had five birdies, including one on the 18th green after he got "a lucky break" when his tee shot hit a tree and bounced back into play.

"That turned a 6 into a 4," Sindelar said.

Falling For You

Hereford running back Alan Dudding loses his footing as he sweeps left end Friday night. Dudding picked up just 14 yards on eight carries all night as the Herd ground game was shut down.

Tech boosters set promotion event

The Red Raider Club, Texas Tech University's athletic booster organization, is to kick off festivities associated with the Tech-University of Texas-Arlington football game Sept. 15 with a "Big Red Feed."

The event is designed to provide entertainment and food for families while raising money for the Tech athletic scholarship fund. The affair takes place at 4:30 p.m. in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum, adjacent to Jones Stadium.

The Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang is to provide the "feed" portion of the day's program—a complete barbecue meal. The Pepper Martin Band, also from Odessa, has the entertainment portion. The band will play music from 4-5 p.m. and from 5:30-6:30 p.m.

From 5-5:30 p.m., the Lubbock Square Dance Association takes the floor.

Kickoff for the game is at 7 p.m. Tickets are priced at $8. For more information, contact Bill Tynan, "Big Red Fee" publicity chairman, at (806) 885-3410 during the day or (806) 797-2596 in the evening.

On the Ball

By DENNIS BALL
Sports Editor

No fewer than 31 changes have been added to the NCAA football rules in 1984, the same rules that govern both high school and college grid play.

The rules changes may come into play several times throughout the year. Enforcement will vary, however, depending on the particular rule and the particular official.

Rules changes range from field playing surface restrictions being added to a defensive pass interference exception added. One rule change even concerns media personnel and communication prohibition.

No longer may members of the media and-or their equipment be inside the team area - between the 25-yard lines extending 12 feet from the playing field - during the game. The only way reporters may get information and photographers may take pictures is near the ends of the football field.

Journalists aren't pleased with the rule because it isn't in their best interests. But David Nelson, secretary-editor of the NCAA Football Rules Committee, and his crew can't please everybody.

How is a person expected to keep up with all the changes?

"We've got enough to do just trying to coach football," Hereford High School coach Jerry Taylor said. "They (the officials) know more about what's going on with the rules than we do."

Officials must attend weekly meetings to discuss rules and interpretations, at least one clinic per year and live with memories of blown calls all year long.

An official seems to please only half of the fans at any given time. Supporting fans of both sides are concerned with the calls, then half agree with the call and half don't.

A new rule that directly is related to fans in 1984 should be made known to all. That is, some fans now are subject to enforcement of the rules.

"All players, substitutes, coaches, trainers, cheerleaders in uniform, band members in uniform, mascots in uniform and other persons affiliated with the teams are subject to the rules and shall be governed by the decisions of the officials," the rule book states.

Looks like some of the fans now can be penalized, via their team. Ever wonder what the difference was between offside and encroachment?

Encroachment occurs when an offensive player is in or beyond the neutral zone after the snapper touches the ball. Offside occurs when a defensive player is in or beyond the neutral zone when the ball is snapped or is not within the restraining lines when the ball is free kicked.

Too many men in the backfield? This year, a player must be farther away from the line than questionable to be considered in the backfield. To be legally in the backfield, a player's head must not break the plane drawn by the rear-most part of the nearest player.

So many new rules. There is no way, unless a person studies/week after week as the officials do, to keep up with all variations involved. Let the officials call the game.

In U.S. Open tennis

Lloyd, Navratilova to meet in finals

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd once won 56 consecutive singles matches, a feat unmatched in the history of modern women's tennis.

Twice, Martina Navratilova has won 54 in a row. The second of those two runs is still alive. And she has beaten Lloyd the past 12 times they have met.

In all, they have battled across the net in 60 matches. Each has won 30.

The last 18 times they've met, it's been in a tournament final.

Now it is the 1984 U.S. Open, and they're at it again.

Two weeks ago, Navratilova was seeded No. 1 and Lloyd No. 2 in the field of 128 women here and, despite some upsets along the way, they are where everyone expected them to be, in the final following Friday's victories — Navratilova 6-4, 6-1 over Australian Wendy Turnbull, Lloyd 6-2, 6-2 over Canadian Carling Bassett.

Also today, Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia played Pat Cash of Australia and top-seeded John McEnroe faced two-time defending champion Jimmy Connors in the men's semifinals.

The men's doubles championship was decided Friday as Tomas Smid of Czechoslovakia and John Fitzgerald of Australia defeated Swedes Anders Jarryd and Stefan Edberg 7-6, 6-3, 6-3.

The women's doubles final will be played Sunday, and Navratilova has another, longer, streak going there. She and Pam Shriver have won 68 consecutive matches going into the final against Anne Hobbs of Britain and Turnbull. Navratilova and Shriver defeated Betsy Nagelson and Anne White 6-4, 7-5, while Hobbs and Turnbull beat Christiane Jolissaint of Switzerland and Marcella Mesker of the Netherlands 6-4, 6-1.

Lloyd's streaks — her 56 in a row and the dozen successive losses to Navratilova — are not on her mind, she said after her victory over Bassett put her into her ninth U.S. Open final in the past 10 years.

"I want to win because I'm No. 2 and she's No. 1," Lloyd said.

"If I'd never beaten Martina in my life, then I'd go into it thinking — I mean, it's such a psychological thing if you play someone and you've never beaten them. You're at such a disadvantage. But I have beaten Martina and even though right now she's playing great tennis, in the back of my mind I remember the times that I have beaten her.

"I don't think she's invincible. I think she's a great player, a great champion," Lloyd said. "But nobody's invincible. McEnroe's not invincible and Martina's not invincible."

Navratilova would not talk about the streaks, nor would she comment on yet another match against Lloyd, except to say: "I should be able to control the tempo."

Warriors challenge Air Force Academy

The Hereford Warriors try to get on the winning track today when they meet the United States Air Force Academy prep school in a semi-pro game in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Game time is 1:30 p.m. MST.

The Warriors were to leave Hereford Saturday afternoon. The meeting between the two teams was designed as a make-up for the Warriors. They were to play host to Dimmitt last week, but Dimmitt cancelled.

After returning from Colorado, the Warriors have little time to rest before traveling to Kimbrough Stadium in Canyon to meet the West Texas State University junior varsity.

Thursday's game begins at 4 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Gun shoot today

Officials at the Hereford Gun Club invite all shotgunners to a shoot at 1:30 p.m. today at the Gun Club.

Prizes will be awarded for competitive shooting, but the emphasis of the event will be on practice.

Major League roundup

Detroit Tigers move closer to playoffs

By JONATHAN VITTI Associated Press Writer

The countdown has officially started on the Detroit Tigers' launch into the postseason.

The Toronto Blue Jays, fed a steady diet of the Tigers' dust this season, hoped to start a late-season miracle Friday night. But they couldn't hold a 4-0 lead. The Tigers, powered by two three-run homers — one by Kirk Gibson in the eighth inning and the winner by Dave Bergman in the 10th — stole a 7-4 victory.

Their magic number is now 13. Any combination, etc., etc. "We knocked two games off the magic number tonight and it feels great," said Bergman, 4-for-5 on the evening.

After Detroit's 35-5 start, many wise old baseball experts waited patiently for the Tigers to come back to earth. They're still waiting.

The Tigers lead the American League East lead by 9½ games with just 21 games remaining.

Royals 5, Mariners 4
Steve Balboni, making his first start in 10 days, crushed a towering three-run homer to power Kansas City.

Balboni, who had been sidelined with a pulled muscle since Aug. 28, unloaded in the sixth inning off Matt Young, 4-7, bringing the Royals from behind to maintain their share of the lead in the AL West.

The Royals trailed 3-1 with one out in the sixth when Frank White and Don Slaught singled. Both scored on Balboni's 22nd home run of the season.

Twins 7, Rangers 3
Tim Teufel and Tom Brunansky homered and drove in three runs apiece. Teufel's homer in the fourth inning tied the game 1-1 and was Minnesota's first home run in 83 innings.

Brunansky belted a three-run shot in the sixth to put Minnesota ahead 4-1. Brunansky's 29 homers are the most for a Twin since Harmon Killebrew's 41 in 1970.

Frank Viola, 15-12, struck out a career-high 11 batters, gave up 11 hits and walked none in 8 2-3 innings. The Twins, winners of only four of their last 15 games, held on to keep pace with Kansas City.

Mets 10, Cubs 0
Dwight Gooden's performance was a show-stopper, but was it a Cub stopper?

The New York Mets' sensational right-hander tossed a one-hit, 11-strikeout masterpiece at Chicago Friday night, but the 10-0 victory nonetheless left the Mets six games behind the Cubs in the National League East title chase with 21 games to play.

"It was just a whipping, and we've got to go on to Saturday ... Thank God it counts as only one game," said Cubs Manager Jim Frey.

"No one shed any tears in here," added Cubs third baseman Ron Cey. "We've got our ace (Rick Sutcliffe, 13-1) going tomorrow, and I like our chances."

Astros 6, Padres 4
Garner drove in runs with a single in the first inning and a ground ball in the third before sealing San Diego's doom with a two-run triple in the fifth off Padres starter Tim Lollar, 10-12.

Reds 1, Dodgers 0
Dave Parker walked leading off the ninth inning against Dodger reliever Ken Howell, 2-5, then stole second to set the stage for Knickey's single. John Franco, 5-0, got the win in relief with last-out help from Ted Power, who earned his sixth save.

Giants 5, Braves 4
Dale Murphy's league-leading 31st homer in the eighth inning gave Atlanta a temporary 4-3 lead. When Braves starter Pascual Perez left in the bottom of the inning complaining of back pains, the Giants scored twice off reliever Gene Garber, 2-5.

A One-Arm Tackle

Central running back C.L. Bowman breaks through the middle of the line of scrimmage during first quarter action at Whiteface Stadium Friday night. An unidentified Hereford defender manages to get one arm around Bowman, however, and drag him down for little gain.

Physicians' panel finds serious hunger in SW

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The Southwest has a serious problem with hunger and Texas in particular is not doing a good job relieving it, says a panel of physicians traveling the country to examine the situation.

Six doctors with the Physician Task Force on Hunger in America appeared at a news conference Friday to say they were especially moved by "how extensive the problem is," said Dr. Larry Brown of the Harvard School of Public Health, chairman of the group.

Texas, he said, was "not doing a good job," since its average monthly stipend of $148 dollars to a family of three with dependent children ranked 45th in the nation.

In Houston, for example, "emergency food demand (in food programs and soup kitchens) is up

1,000 percent over 1980 and we're quite shocked and distressed to find out that all evidence is that it is continuing to grow," Brown said.

The project is financed by the Field Foundation. The doctors have already surveyed New England and states in the Southeast and now are heading for the Midwest. They have been in Texas and New Mexico all this week.

The team recited a litany of food shortage problems, although firm statistics were lacking in many cases.

"We clearly have seen that health is placed in jeopardy by hunger and inadequate nutrition, especially among those high risk or vulnerable population, the elderly, pregnant women and young children and infants," Brown said.

The Albuquerque, N.M., food bank reported a 100 percent increase in demand for food since 1983. Five of 10 the emergency food programs in New Mexico began in the last 18 months. In El Paso, a soup kitchen reports 4,000 people per month, up from 2,500 a year ago.

"I was struck at the irony of a middle class neighborhood, with neatly kept lawns, where people don't have enough to eat," he said, referring to a visit this week to Pasadena, a community southeast of Houston whose economy has been hit hard by the slump in the petroleum industry. "We saw a lot of once-stable families now in shaky circumstances."

Government food programs, which nearly eliminated food problems in the 1970s, are not enough now because they have been scaled back, he said, and the private sector could not handle the growing number of hungry.

"Where programs are in place, they made a big difference," Brown said. "The situation would be far worse if it were not for soup kitchens and pantries."

"Our view initially is that we don't need new bureaucracy and programs. We need to use programs that worked so well in the past."

Brown said the main item each of the task force members relayed to him was that poor people "don't want more food stamps. They want jobs."

He told of an unemployed teacher identified only as Robert, who was surprised that President Reagan had designated a teacher as the first non-scientist to ride the space shuttle.

"I don't want to go to the moon," Brown said the teacher told him. "I want to go to work."

Brown said it was "most astonishing" that the economic recovery was not reaching down to the lower end of the middle class.

Jose Rodriguez, a physician from El Paso, said "a lot" of illegal aliens who had children born in the U.S. — and thus were U.S. citizens — were reluctant to apply for government benefits because they feared they would lose their jobs. Others, he said, were being exploited by employers who withheld federal taxes and benefits but failed to pay those amounts to the government.

The task force will present a full report of its nationwide tour in January, Brown said.

Texas' first alligator hunting season opens

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Texas' first alligator hunting season in 15 years is under way, as anxious gator hunters reel in their lines throughout 10 southeastern counties hoping to capitalize on the occasion.

The season opened Friday and will continue until Sept. 23 with a total of 780 alligators scheduled to be harvested. About 100 people received licenses to hunt.

Alligators were placed on the state's endangered species list in 1969 after hunters eager to sell the reptile's hide seriously depleted the numbers of the reptile.

But the species has thrived under its protected status to the point that the alligator has become a nuisance in residential areas near the marshy southeast Texas coast.

"We won't be able to solve the nuisance problem with this hunt," said Kirby Brown, manager of the Murphree Wildlife Management Area near here. "We just thought it was time to begin harvesting a limited number of alligators."

The state's alligator population has reached about 100,000, Texas Parks and Wildlife surveys show.

"We've taken gators from from interesting places, dog houses, gardens, swimming pools," Brown said. "People do tend to get a little excited. We had a lady call and say she had a 12-foot alligator in her garden. We sent out a crew and it turned out to be 2 to 2½ feet."

Game wardens cautioned, however, that alligators can only be harvested on the private lands of owners who have purchased tags from the state. Landowners may use the tags themselves or sell them to hunters.

Game officials conducted surveys earlier this year to determine the areas of heaviest alligator populations and have allocated certain numbers of alligators to be taken from various sections.

Portions of Brazoria, Calhoun, Chambers, Colorado, Fort Bend, Jefferson, Liberty, Matagorda, Orange and Victoria counties will be involved in the first season.

The recommended method for catching the alligators, Brown said, is to suspend the baited hook above the water line. The alligator snaps up the bait, swallows it and the hook sets in the reptile's stomach.

The catch can then be pulled to the surface and shot, Brown said.

Lawyers still deadlocked on settlement

HOUSTON (AP) — A deadlock on the issue of student transfers will apparently dash hopes for a proposed out-of-court settlement in a 28-year-old desegregation lawsuit, sending attorneys for the NAACP and the Houston school district back to court Monday.

No negotiations were scheduled for the weekend to patch up differences over the settlement drawn up 10 days ago, officials said.

The trial is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. Monday before U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor Jr.

Neither side would say officially Friday that the agreement has been scrapped.

"I don't think you can say that until 10 o'clock Monday morning," said Patrice Johnson, a local volunteer attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. "We're still keeping an open mind."

But she said her side has no immediate plans to try to break the stalemate.

Company faces $2.3 million fine for dumping

DALLAS (AP) — The Diamond Shamrock Corp. faces one of the largest fines ever proposed by the Environmental Protection Agency, $2.3 million for alleged illegal dumping of 1,228 tons of PCB-contaminated waste.

EPA spokesman Roger Meacham said the agency took the action against the Dallas chemical and energy company after "an intensive year-long investigation" in which EPA officials "began seeing things that didn't add up."

Meacham said Friday that if the $2.3 million fine is upheld, "it would be one of the largest fines the EPA has proposed for PCB violations nationwide."

He said the complaint was hand-delivered to Diamond Shamrock officials Thursday, but company spokesman Ken Haseley said Friday that the company wouldn't comment until officials reviewed the complaint.

The complaint charges the company's Green's Bayou Plant in Houston with illegally dumping 1,228 tons of waste laced with polychlorinated biphenyls between September 1979 and November 1980.

PCBs, once widely used as an insulator and coolant chemical, have been associated with reproductive disorders, cancer and disfiguring skin disease and can accumulate in human tissue, Meacham said. Their use was banned in 1979.

The EPA charged that the PCBs were dumped at the Texas Ecologists Corp. site in Robstown, near Corpus Christi, and the Chemical Waste Management Inc. site in Port Arthur.

Meacham said that neither site was authorized by the federal government to handle wastes with PCB-concentrations greater than 50 parts per million, Meacham said. He said only that concentrations found at the sites was greater than that.

"The EPA is now evaluating the situation at each site by working closely with the staff of the Texas Department of Water Resources in Austin," he said.

Tom Milligan, a spokesman for the state agency, said it is unclear whether the two toxic dumps knew that the Diamond Shamrock waste contained PCBs. He said both sites are primarily landfills, although the Port Arthur dump also has an injection well.

Milligan said a preliminary examination of state records indicated that "waste codes that Diamond Shamrock put on the shipments did not show the presence of PCBs."

The EPA complaint also charges Diamond Shamrock with improper storage of PCBs and failing to label PCB containers, Meacham said.

Meacham said the EPA investigation began in May 1983 after a routine inspection of the Green's Bayou plant.

"EPA's review of company records showed that a total 2,188 tons of waste were actually disposed of,"

he said. "However, a five-year statute of limitations prevented EPA from citing the company for the total amount of waste disposed."

EPA investigators combed through Diamond Shamrock records and concluded the documents "show that the PCB waste was sent to the two disposal sites."

Meacham said Diamond

Shamrock has 20 days to file a written response to the EPA complaint.

PCBs are covered under the Toxic Substances Control Act of 1976. Meacham said regulations governing their disposal became final in May 1979.

Haseley said the Houston plant became a joint venture in 1983 with SDS Biotech of Painesville, Ohio.

Gil Moody and Bart Kaderly of the Texas Department of Agriculture's International Marketing Division report that more than 25,000 visitors recently passed through the TDA-sponsored exhibit of Texas food products at the New Orleans World's Fair. Among the 57 producers and processors which participated in the TASTE OF TEXAS exhibit were Pioneer Flour Co., which passed out 15,000 servings of biscuits and gravy, and Texmati Rice, which did the same amount of business with its products.

TDA's Metrology Lab at Austin, generally regarded as one of the finest weights and measures facilities in all the United States, recently hosted a four-day seminar for the National Bureau of Standards. Representatives from Oklahoma, Arkansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Louisiana, Kansas and Texas were on hand learning how to operate the calibrating equipment which helps keep your grocery store scales, gasoline pumps and agricultural scales accurate.

Meanwhile, Bruce Hobbs, TDA's Egg Program Administrator, has conducted his own advance training session at Texas A&M University. Hobbs worked for three days with 10 other TDA egg specialists on the procedures to follow for auditing dealers and wholesalers to verify proper payment of fees, monitor labeling, grade eggs and assist packers in locating and correcting any problems they may have.

The Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States was founded in 1789.

Twenty-nine Texas counties are now in various stages of forming Agriculture Development Corporations, according to State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower in a speech to the Texas Association of Counties. TDA's Ag Bond Program was enacted by the 1983 Legislature to make low-interest loans available for farmer and rancher-owned businesses to process and market their raw agricultural products. "The concepts of new seafood processing plants along the Gulf Coast, processing fresh vegetables in the Winter Garden area, a cheese manufacturing plant in the dairy country around Sulphur Springs, a beef processing plant in Central Texas and a potato chip plant in the Panhandle are very real possibilities worth hundreds of millions of dollars in new business for Texas," Hightower said.

Bob King, Director of TDA's Office of Natural Resources, testified before the Texas House County Affairs Subcommittee on Low Level Nuclear Waste. King's testimony concentrated on the need for increased farmland and water resource protection and spoke to the alternatives now available to landfill for storage of radioactive waste.

Meanwhile, Vaughn Cox, TDA's Pesticide Safety Investigator, has just completed a tour of the Panhandle and South Plains with TDA's new pesticide training program for farmworkers. The program is narrated in Spanish and has been shown in Crosbyton, Floydada, Plainview, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Dimmitt and Hereford. The program will be presented in other parts of the state in the coming months.

Darrell Ketchum, TDA Grain Warehouse Administrator, reports that checks totaling more than $95,000 were mailed to 39 Brady-area grain farmers in the final settlement of TDA's lawsuit against the Farmers-Ranchers Cooperative. The suit was filed in early 1983 after TDA inspectors discovered a massive shortage of grain at the facility.

CAR BUSINESS EXPENSES
The IRS permits you to take a tax deduction for the business use of your car. It uses a flat mileage allowance of 20.5 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles a year and 11 cents per mile after that. However, if you prefer, instead of taking the flat rate, you can add up the actual operating expenses (gas, insurance, repairs) plus depreciation. Under current rules, which are expected to change sometime in 1984, the cost of a car used totally or partially for business can be depreciated over three years, 25 percent is depreciated in the year of purchase, 35 percent in the second year and the remaining 40 percent in the third year. This can be done regardless of how long you expect to use your car or how late in 1984 it was purchased. A business-use car can be used as an investment tax credit for up to 6 percent of its cost. There are a lot of people who have small businesses and use their personal car without realizing that it is a tax deduction. RICK ROBERTS, CPA knows the ins and outs of the tax business. ## Farmer-owned coop outlook thought good

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tough austerity policies by many of the nation's farmer-owned cooperatives have been effective in moving them financially into the black, says the Agriculture Department.

Despite a decline in total business, co-op profits rebounded sharply in 1983 after dropping in 1982 for the first time in six years.

Overall, "net margins" or profits rose 24.2 percent in 1983 to $1.06 billion from $854 million in 1982. However, the margins still trailed the 1981 mark of $1.4 billion.

Randall E. Torgerson, ad-

Applicator exams change

The Texas Department of Agriculture's Amarillo office announced this week it is changing the testing procedures for the certified applicators exams.

The testing is for those who wish to do commercial and non-commercial ground or aerial application of pesticide or insecticide formulations.

Beginning Sept. 13, the test will be given on the second Thursday of each month by appointment only. Two testing times are to be held each exam day: at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Only 10 persons can take the test at a time.

The TDA said anyone who needs to test for a license should call the Amarillo office at (806) 358-7285 and make an appointment in advance of the testing day. He should also specify which time he wishes to test.

After the tests are completed and graded, according to the TDA, scores will be mailed to the applicant within seven days.

administrator of the department's Agricultural Cooperative Service, said Wednesday in a report that combined sales of all farm cooperatives totaled about $66.7 billion in 1983, down from $69.2 billion in 1982 and a record $71.5 billion in 1981.

Torgerson attributed rising profits to improved management, cost-saving initiatives and lower interest rates.

The decline in net margins in 1982 was the first since 1976 and only the second downturn in nearly 30 years. The drop in sales was the first since 1954.

Total cooperative business volume includes marketing or the value of products sold, such as fertilizer, chemicals, fuels, feed and other supplies to members and patrons. It also includes earnings from related services such as trucking, storage, cotton ginning and grain drying.

Iowa, at $5.76 billion, accounted for the largest business volume in 1983, followed by California, $5.39 billion; Minnesota, $5.33 billion; Illinois, $4.46 billion, and Wisconsin, $4.02 billion. The five states accounted for more than 37 percent of total co-op business.

Other billion-dollar co-op states in 1983 included:

Arkansas, $1.21 billion; Florida, $1.5 billion; Georgia, $1.22 billion; Indiana, $1.91 billion; Kansas, $2.52 billion; Michigan, $1.79 billion; Missouri, $2.35 billion; Nebraska, $2.53 billion; New York, $2.27 billion; North Dakota, $1.92 billion; Ohio, $2.64 billion; Pennsylvania, $1.85 billion; South Dakota, $1.23 billion; Texas, $2.08 billion; and Washington, $1.51 billion.

Dairy volume reached $16.8 billion, up 6.3 percent. Grain and soybean products declined 11.1 percent to $16.2 billion.

Advisor compliments team

Youngsters do well at Tri-State Fair

Members of the Hereford FFA Show team captured several top honors during livestock judging at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo.

Chapter advisor Marcus Phillips said the show was one of the most successful ever for the team. "The members of the show team all worked together to attain successful results," he said.

In sheep judging, Robbie Phillips showed the first place heavyweight cross while Cheryl Schlabs had sixth place in that division.

Polly West came in first in the first medium wool class with Kenny Chambers capturing second.

Jeff Hicks received second place in the second medium wool class while Jill Dutton and Jennifer Hicks placed ninth and 11th in the fourth class.

Jeff Hicks and Phillips placed third and fifth in the sixth medium wool division while Phillips and Schlabs had fourth and seventh sheep in the seventh class.

In the medium cross division, Jennifer Hicks placed third and West fourth.

In lightweight fine wool judging, Dutton had a third place entry and Chambers captured fourth with his sheep.

In barrow judging at the fair, Dutton had the first place heavyweight hog and the second place lightweight animal.

Phillips showed a reserve champ Class 2 hog and a fifth place lightweight barrow.

Jeff Hicks and Chet Bunch also entered the barrow show.

Rickie Vogel had the only steer entry from Hereford FFA, showing a sixth place heavy steer.

Deaf Smith County 4-H members also made a good showing at the Tri-State Fair, with Jeremy Myers showing the reserve champion exotic feeder steer. Rickie Vogel entered the reserve champion market steer. Other entrants were Chris Grotegut, sixth place in Class 3 exotic feeders, Loren Lookingbill, third in Class 4. Grotegut had the fifth place steer in Class 4.

Also in the market steer division, Kristi Powell placed fifth and Chris Urbanczyk came in ninth.

Winners in the ladies lead-line sheep show were Trisha Teal, Jennifer Hicks and Susan Rickman, who placed second, fourth and fifth in the junior division.

Kristi Powell placed second in the intermediate class of the show which includes judging of both the sheep and a wool garment modeled by the girls.

Other 4-H members doing well in the lamb show were Shaunn

Rickman, sixth in Class 2, Monica Grotegut, second in Class 3 and Cory Newton, eighth in Class 4.

Teal had the ninth place lamb in class 5 and Donna Grotegut placed tenth in Class 6. Patrick Newton entered the fifth place lamb in Class 7 while John David Rickman placed seventh in class 9. Shaun Rickman was fourth in Class 10.

According to legend, the Japanese empire was founded by Emporer Jimmu in 660 B.C. But records of a unified Japan date from 1,000 years earlier. Chinese influence was strong in the formation of Japanese civilization. Buddhism was introduced before the 6th century.

Milder weather brings relief to various areas

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Temperatures moderated some over Texas this week and, along with widely scattered rains, brought welcomed relief from hot, dry conditions in parts of the state.

However, the rains did not break drought conditions in western, central and southern sections where crops and livestock are continuing to suffer, said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Although good rains of 2 to 3 inches fell in scattered locations along the coast and in parts of East, South Central and Southwest Texas, the entire state still needs a general rain, Carpenter said.

Ranchers are continuing to haul livestock to market in record numbers due to the lack of grazing and stock water. A record number 18,000 Angora goats were sold at the Junction auction last week.

And feeding of livestock remains commonplace. Many ranchers are having to buy hay for continued feeding; most of the hay is being shipped in from neighboring states due to the lack of hay production in Texas. Ranchers in many western counties have been feeding livestock continuously for almost a year now, said Carpenter.

Many producers are hoping they will get good grazing from small rains this fall and winter to take some of the pressure off livestock feeding. Wheat seeding is under way in the plains, and producers in other areas are getting land ready for planting, Carpenter noted.

Cotton harvesting continues to dominate the farm scene, with operations active from the Upper Coast to the Red River in North Central Texas. Yields have ranged from poor to good, depending on where summer rains fell, Carpenter said. Crop prospects remain bright in the South Plains where more than half the state's cotton is grown.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Most crops are making good progress although some need rain. Sorghum headworms and corn earworms are active in many fields. Sugar beets are making excellent progress and harvesting should start soon. Harvesting of cucumbers, carrots, melons and cabbage is under way, and hay making continues.

SOUTH PLAINS: Crops continue to progress well as soil moisture is good over most of the region. Bollworms remain a problem in cotton although the crop looks good. Grain sorghum is turning color, and sugar beet harvesting will start soon. A lot of corn is being cut for silage. Good alfalfa cuttings continue. Cucumbers and peppers are being harvested. Wheat seeding continues.

ROLLING PLAINS: Ranges and crops continue to improve where recent rains fell, but much of the area remains dry. This year's cotton crop is short due to limited plantings during the dry spring. Cattle marketings remain heavy in many counties because grazing and stock water are short. Farmers are getting land ready to plant wheat. A fifth cutting of hay is being harvested in Fisher County.

COLLEGE STATION: Fisher County.

NORTH CENTRAL: Cotton harvesting is active but yields are down due to the dry season. Scattered rains helped some peanuts and pastures, but most of the area remains dry. Pecans and pastures, in general, continue to suffer from drought stress. Livestock feeding continues due to lack of grazing.

NORTHEAST: Scattered rains helped some but a general rain is needed. About half the grain sorghum crop has been harvested; yields are down due to the dry summer. The corn crop also is short. Cotton bolls are opening. Hay remains in short supply and quality is low. Land is being prepared for winter pastures. Cattle marketings are increasing as grazing declines.

FAR WEST: Crops and ranges got a little boost from scattered rains the past week, but the entire area remains dry. Cotton looks good although insect problems are numerous in some locations. Cattle marketings are increasing as grazing conditions decline.

WEST CENTRAL: Drought conditions continue over the region despite a few scattered rains. Cotton and grain sorghum are in poor shape. Peanuts are being irrigated heavily and look fair. Ranchers continue to buy hay to feed to livestock due to the lack of grazing. Sheep and cattle numbers are down sharply.

CENTRAL: Foliage feeding insects are a problem in peanuts; dryland peanuts are suffering from moisture stress. Cotton harvesting is active, with yields generally down due to the dry summer. The pecan crop also will be short due to dry conditions. Livestock feeding continues as grazing is nonexistent in many counties. Farmers are preparing land for small grains.

EAST: Despite scattered rains, the region remains dry. Hay making remains limited due to the dry summer. Peanut harvesting is about to start; yields will be down due to dry conditions. Producers are culling cow herds due to poor grazing. Fall gardens and the pecan crop need rain as do pastures.

UPPER COAST: Good rains over much of the region should boost soybeans, peanuts and fall grazing. The rains caused some slowdown in cotton and rice harvesting. Watermelons continue to move to market, and hay making remains active, with some third cuttings. Seasonal marketing of cattle is increasing.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Cotton harvesting is in full swing; scattered rains this week caused some interruptions. Fall gardening is active, and farmers are getting land in shape for planting small grains. The pecan crop and most pastures continue to suffer from lack of moisture.

SOUTHWEST: Sporadic rains of up to 3 inches caused some flooding and erosion, but the region remains in the grips of a drought. Livestock marketings continue at a record pace; a record high of more than 18,000 Angora goats were sold at the Junction auction last week. Cotton and peanut harvests continue, with fully irrigated fields producing good yields. Sheep and goat shearing and livestock feeding continue.

COASTAL BEND: Despite good rains of 3 to 4 inches in a few locations, most of the region continues to suffer from drought. Disaster aid has been requested for Kenedy and Kleberg counties. Harvesting of cotton and rice is about complete; yields are down due to the dry weather. Hay making remains limited, so hay supplies are short. A lot of hay is being shipped into the area as livestock feeding continues due to the lack of grazing. Record numbers of cattle continue to move to market.

SOUTH: Harvesting of an excellent cotton crop is virtually complete although ginning of modulated cotton continues. Hay making remains active; hay supplies are good. Fall vegetable planting continues. Livestock conditions generally remain good, with marketings light.

Egg production up this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest Agriculture Department statistics continue to show an upturn in U.S. egg production from the relatively low levels of last winter.

In July, a monthly report said Wednesday, production was estimated at 5.74 billion eggs, up 2 percent from 5.65 billion a year earlier.

Laying hens on hand as of Aug. 1 were shown at 274 million, a 2 percent increase from 270 million a year ago. Their rate of lay averaged 67.4 eggs per 100 birds, up from 67.1 on Aug. 1, 1983.

FOR BETTER COTTON PROFITS, TRY NARROW ROWS. That's the advice of a University of Missouri cotton breeder who says adapting planters to narrow rows could be the key to a short cut for higher cotton profits. Studies conducted by the cotton scientist at the University's research center near Portageville Mo. indicate producers can obtain as much as a 25 percent increase in lint per acre with 30-inch rows as opposed to the conventional 38-to-40-inch rows, if incorporated with short season production systems. Research in California and Arizona have reported similar findings. Interest in the 30-inch row concept is especially high in areas where crops such as sorghums are grown utilizing the same equipment. Although he admits that 30-inch cotton rows may not be the answer for all growers, the Missouri researcher says more and more areas will give the method serious consideration.

AIM Fall Style Show scheduled Tuesday

(Photos by Sandy Pankey)

The public is invited to attend the Alpha Iota Mu Fall Style Show scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Community Center.

Admission price is $2.50 per person and tickets may be purchased from any AIM member or from the merchants involved in the show, Helen's, The Pants Cage and Etcetera.

Refreshments will be served during the evening event and three door prizes will be offered. They include a kitchen wallhanging donated by the Craft Corral, a decorated cake and a floral arrangement in a brass planter from Cabochon.

Ruby Sanders is chairman for the style show and other committee members are Beckie Fry, Cindy Garth, Jackie Fangman and Holly Bixler.

Proceeds from the second annual style show will go toward decorating and furnishing the children's playroom at Deaf Smith General Hospital. Elaine McNutt is drawing the wall mural in the room and paints are being donated by Accents Unlimited.

New fall and winter children's clothes from Helen's will be modeled during the Alpha Iota Mu Fall Style Show. Looking pretty as a picture are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Stacey Bixler, three-year-old Michelle, at left, and six-year-old Stephanie.

This season's fashions are both pretty and practical. Sharon McNutt, at left, is wearing a corduroy divided skirt, big plaid shirt which is belted by a webbed military style belt, and a French beret. Pete Hodges is attired in a wool spectator's suit with matching scarf and a red wool sweater. Both ensembles are from the Pants Cage.

The children's playroom at Deaf Smith General Hospital is being completely decorated and furnished by members of the Alpha Iot Mu Sorority. Chapter

A stylish jacket completes any fall-winter wardrobe as Pants Cage owner, Lajeane Henry, at left, explains to sorority members, Jackie Fangman, center, and Nancy George.

DONNA SCHILLING, BRYAN REINART

Wedding planned

Donna Schilling of Dimmitt and Bryan Reinart of Route 3 plan to exchange wedding vows Nov. 10 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Hereford.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Schilling of Dimmitt. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Reinart Sr. of Route 3.

Holden conducts formal opening

Both Legion and Auxiliary members enjoyed watermelon and cantaloupe served by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Carlson and Frankie and Cindy Barrett.

The formal opening was conducted by Gene Holden, president, and Edwina Thomas introduced Schalan Atkinson, who spoke on the U.S. Constitution.

It was noted that Sept. 17 is Constitution Day in America. Atkinson expressed her devotion to the document, saying, "The Constitution is very much like the Bible. You must experience the meaning of it, so it will not just be words. The life of the Constitution today is what we breath into it. It is a dynamic product of growth, not a hot-house of abstract thought."

During the business session, Holden asked for annual reports from various committees. It was announced that the membership committee, assisted by the board, is to host a joint membership dinner at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 18 in the Legion Hall.

A program committee was appointed which consists of Thomas, Argen Draper and Mary Williamson. It is to compile a yearbook for the unit. Also, a memorial contribution was sent to M.D. Anderson Hospital honoring a longtime member, Alice Cox.

In a previous meeting, new officers were installed by Pet Ott. She used the theme "Love, Friendship and Service" and presented each new officer a single link of chain showing how a group will grow in strength as she connects with her friends and co-workers.

Those installed included Holden, president; Betty Jo Carlson, vice president; Clara Trowbridge, secretary-treasurer; Carol Lohr, chaplain; and Sue Blanton, sergeant-at-arms.

A past president's pin was presented to Alice Gilliland for her past two years of service as president.

G.E.D. Testing

Ann Landers

'Hookers' applaude lady

Dear Readers: A few weeks ago, I printed a letter from a Mrs. Hooker who enlisted my help to restore respectability to the family name. (She was sick and tired of seeing "hooker" used in newspaper stories as a substitute for "prostitute.")

I was inundated with letters from other Hookers applauding her efforts and urging me to undertake the crusade. I also heard from a prostitute who did not like being called a hooker because it suggested that she used a hook to get customers. "Not necessary," the respondent wrote, "I'm well-known here and have not solicited in years."

My mail this week has been fascinating. Here's a sampling.

From El Paso:

Dear Ann Landers: While I sympathize with all the decent people named Hooker, I wonder if they realize they have plenty of company. What about folks named Pratt, Fanny, Butts, Duff, Flake, Crumm, Jerke, Fink, Sapp, Nutt...I could go on forever. Believe me, the best defense is a sense of humor. - Texas Fan

Dear Texas: I agree. And now please read the following letter from another reader.

Dear Ann Landers: I am sure you will receive many replies to that letter from respectable people named Hooker complaining about the abuse of the family name. Having been a newspaper copy editor for many years, I pride myself on accumulating information of questionable value.

I remember hearing that the term Hooker came from a Civil War general, Joseph Hooker, so I hit a couple of source books. The Morris Dictionary of Work and Phrase Origins refutes this claim. Here is the explanation:

"Our research indicated that the work appeared in print at least once in 1859, the year before the outbreak of the Civil War. But it seemed wise to get a really authoritative answer, so we wrote to Bruce Catton, the nation's foremost authority on the Civil War.

"It was pointed out that Gen. Hooker's reputation was not the best. In fact, he was called 'a man of blemished character to whose headquarters no self-respecting man cared to go - and no decent woman could go - a combination of barroom and brothel.'"

Here is Catton's comment: "That business about Joe Hooker and the soiled doves of the Civil War pops up every so often. I agree with you that the term hooker did not originate during the Civil War, but it certainly became popular then. During those war years Washington, D.C., developed a district somewhere south of Constitution Avenue. This became known as Hooker's Division, as a tribute to the proclivities of Gen. Joseph Hooker. The name has stuck ever since." Sincerely, Allan L. Gaul, Executive Editor of The Telegraph-Herald, Dubuque, Iowa.

Dear Boss in Dubuque: Thanks for the classy research. Another erudite reader, John R. Merrick, an attorney in Kennett Square, Pa., pointed out that Funk and Wagnalls was in error when it blamed Gen. Hooker for muddying the Hooker family name. Merrick also consulted William and Mary Morris' Dictionary of Word and Phrase Origins and sent documentation identical to yours.

So thanks to you both, along with all others who wrote. I haven't had so much fun with the mail since I received that letter from the woman who did her housework in the nude.

Family reunion held recently in Hereford

The Hereford descendants of Henry Hight Finch and Missouri Ezell Finch hosted a family reunion here recently at the American Legion Hall.

Family members from Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas enjoyed a weekend of several planned events, including a pot luck outdoor meal in the home of Reece Dawson and a noon meal and evening sandwich meal at the Legion Hall.

During the weekend event guests were entertained at a style show with family members serving as models. Among the fashions displayed included a wedding dress, bridesmaid dress, a man's 1940 suit, a World War I Army uniform and a World War II sailor suit. Following the style show, Pet Ott's hats were modeled.

The family reunion concluded with a breakfast and noon luncheon also held in the American Legion Hall.

Finch came to Texas from Alabama soon after the Civil War. His ancestors came from England more than 300 years ago, settling in Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia. Hight taught school throughout Texas.

Those attending from Hereford included Martha, Todd and Jeff Shire; Reese and Rosene Dawson; Ira and Pet Ott; Ethel L. Logan; Preston, Jason, Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clark; Mr. and Mrs. Reese Dawson Jr.; Tim Dawson and Sherry Seales; Shane and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Dawson; and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clark. Other areas represented were Childress, Donna, Dallas, DeSota, Lubbock, Groom, Seminole, Crosbyton, Midland, Manor, Amarillo, Houston and Bayton.

Also represented were Lancaster, Calif.; Stanridge, Calif.; Damascus, Ark.; Englewood, Colo.; Hobbs, N.M.; Jal, N.M.; and Norman, Okla.

Museum tour slated for Sept. 24

Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will be touring the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon on Sept. 24. The group will leave Hereford at 12:30 p.m. and return by 3:30 p.m.

Reservations should be made by Sept. 20 at the chamber office.

There will be a special showing of Apache and Wichita Indian artifacts on loan from the Oklahoma Museum.

All members and guests are welcome.

Railway traffic between India and Pakistan ended for 11 years when war broke out in 1965, but trade between the two countries is now brisk. However, passenger traffic between India and East Pakistan, now Bangladesh, has been suspended for nearly 20 years by sporadic border violence.

Reception to honor former teacher

By LISA BALL
Staff Writer

The respect and love of Miss Crawford's students has always meant a great deal to her, and those feelings will be reciprocated during a reception honoring her 84th birthday Sunday from 3 to 4 p.m. in the Lamar Room at King's Manor.

The reception is given by Marguerite Brown Ridgeway of Kansas City, Mo., a former student of Miss Crawford.

Miss Crawford taught English and speech at Hereford High School from 1928 to 1946. In 1946 she left to teach English at Amarillo High School and then completed her public school teaching at Tascosa High School from 1960 to 1966. Beginning in 1960, she supervised the reading lab at West Texas State University for seven summers.

In 1966, after 44 years of teaching in the public school system, Miss Crawford established a reading clinic in Amarillo which she operated for 18 years.

"Many of my students were high school seniors on their way to college who wanted to improve their reading comprehension and speed," she explained.

In 1950, she received her Masters degree in special, remedial and regular reading from Northwestern University in Illinois.

"The improvement I saw in my pupils was the most rewarding aspect to my career," Miss Crawford said. "The letters of appreciation meant more to me than the pay checks did at times."

"As a matter of fact, I'm still getting letters from students," she continued.

Frequently her pupils came to her for counseling.

"I had sympathy and love for them," she said. "I understood their problems. Sometimes children's problems are bigger than adult's and they don't know how to handle them."

Miss Crawford still reads and loves every minute of it. While in Amarillo she was active in the Amarillo senior citizens group. She also enjoys playing the piano and oil painting.

"I never had much time for painting, though," she said. "I always had so much work to bring home with me at night."

She was also involved with the church. She taught a Sunday school class and supervised the youth meeting in the evening.

Miss Crawford moved to King's Manor about two months ago.

"I had heard that King's Manor is one of the best retirement homes in Texas," she said. "The hardest thing for me was to get rid of everything except what would fit in one room."

So far, though, she has enjoyed living at King's Manor.

Craft books are featured this week at the Deaf Smith County Library.

If you need a special gift for someone on your Christmas list, you can come into the library and check out a craft book on three-dimensional needlepoint, embroidery or cross-stitch.

"Three-dimensional needlepoint" by Gale Litvak is a comprehensive introduction to the realm of three-dimensional needlepoint, contemporary needlecraft at its most exciting. This craft utilizes plastic canvas, which is a recent innovation.

Unlike traditional woven canvas, which frays, plastic canvas can be cut into self-contained shapes that may be assembled to create wonderful objects. Stitching is quick because the canvas mesh is large, and since the plastic cannot become distorted, neither blocking nor mounting is required. In addition to its other virtues, most plastic canvas needlepoint is washable and hard-wearing.

The exciting things you learn to make in "Three-Dimensional Needlepoint" include unusual picture frames, charming candlesticks, a sophisticated shell box, beautiful butterfly placemats, a trio of toy dinosaurs and a unique three-story doll house. Each of these projects is a delight to make, to give as a gift or to keep and treasure.

Also available this week is Erica Wilson's "Children's World." From the world of fantasy, Wilson, America's foremost embroiderer, brings us 37 original needlework projects based on the delightful world of characters from childhood classics.

Here are "stories in stitch" from Peter Rabbit, the Muppets, Babar, Kate Greenway, Winnie the Pooh, the Water Babies and the Flower Fairies. These childhood friends have been transformed into quilts, cross-stitch and crewel panels, pillows and cushions, tote bags and sewing baskets, hand puppets and wall hangings.

All needlecrafters will find something to their liking for their own special techniques. And nearly every idea can be transformed from one needlecraft technique to another. "Children's World" bring to life through stitches the friends of our youth, to be enjoyed by us, our children and our grandchildren.

"Country Samplers" by Quelta Ann Hurt is a complete how-to guide and source of inspiration in one. It is a book filled with ingenious ideas and the latest techniques for creating sensational samplers.

Based on 30 winners from a sampler contest held by Progressive Farmer Company in 1979, the book offers you complete instructions on how to reproduce these samplers. To aid you in personalizing a design, the 30 winning samplers are divided into 359 motifs arranged in categories such as alphabets and numbers, animals, architecture, crops, fruits, flowers, etc.

"Country Samplers" is 48 pages of magnificent full-color photographs of some of America's most beautiful needleart. Also available this week are "Voices in a Haunted Room" by Philippa Carr, "Seven Silent Men" by Noel Behn, "They Cage the Animals at Night" by Michael Burch and "Beauty Begins at 40" by Barbara Coffey.

LIBRARY EVENTS:

Within an area roughly the size of West Virginia, Scotland offers fjords, glens, moors, mountains, prairies, heaths, bogs, woodlands, rills, alpine lakes and even Gulf Stream nourished palm trees on its island of Arran. This scenic kaleidoscope breaks down naturally into three divisions (and several clusters of islands). The divisions are the Southern Uplands, the Central Lowlands and the Highlands. The highlands offers one of the most glorious holiday areas in the world. Granite mountains and plains, split across the center by Loch Ness and Loch Lomond, sprawl over more than half the country's terrain. Grouse, deer, salmon, trout and hare abound in purple moors, flashing streams, turquoise lakes and cool forests. It is a truly rich land for the traveler.

Are you planning a honeymoon? At HEREFORD TRAVEL CENTER we know you will want it to be rich with romance, adventure, shared interests and hassle free. Our honeymoon experts will handle all the troublesome details for you - the bookings, airport transfers, visa requirements - and present you with an easy to follow itinerary so you can have a truly glorious beginning to a wonderful marriage. There is never any additional charge to our clients for our services. Your costs are the same as if you booked directly. We are located at 144 W. 2nd, 264-8113. Meet major credit cards honored. Open: Mon. - Fri. 8:30 to 5:30, Sat. 9 to 12.

La Afflatus meets to begin new year

The members of the La Afflatus Estudio Club met recently in the home of Lydia Hopson to open the new club year.

After brunch was served by the yearbook committee, the work program was discussed by Jennie B. Terrell, vice president. The study will be "Trends of Interest."

Della Stagner discussed "Megatrends" by John Nesbitt, the author whose book was selected the year's theme by the program committee.

The members answered roll by relating happenings the past summer. Letters were also read from Friends of the Library and District Attorney Roland Saul. Members were reminded of the invitation from the Bay View Study Club to attend the 75th anniversary celebration on Sept. 20.

Members present were Terrell, Stagner, Allyne Johnson, Alberta Higgins, Lila Jewell, Tresa Hale, Eva Gilliland, Aileen Montgomery, Emily Suggs, Bea Hutson, Mary Williamson, Pet Ott, Lucille Hughes and Hopson.

The next meeting is to be Sept. 18 in Jewell's home with Hutson as co-hostess. Ott is to present the program "Women with Influence."

Stained glass on display

Lisa Jackson of Amarillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Williamson of Hereford, has on display her stained glass etchings at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

She has been making the pieces since 1981 when she learned the art through a class at Amarillo College. She makes contemporary and Victorian pieces but prefers southwestern tribe designs.

The display is the first of its kind at the Hall of Fame and is to remain on display through this month.

Problems of child abuse discussed Wednesday

Several programs to help educate parents and children about the problems of child abuse were discussed when the Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board met Wednesday in the County Commission Courtroom.

Carolyn Johnson, board chairman, announced that film strips have been received and programs will be available to parents and children. The film strips are designed for different age levels. Mrs. Johnson plans to make a program available to each school.

Cindy Burnam, child welfare worker, outlined two books on parenting which she uses in her job. The board decided to purchase several copies of the books, "Child Discipline: Guidelines for Parents", and "Growth and Development through Parenting."

Board members nominated Bill Devers to be appointed as a new member. His name will be submitted at the next county commissioner's meeting. A new member is needed to replace Beverly Jayroe who recently moved to Amarillo.

A foster parent, who was a guest at the board meeting, urged the group to protest a proposed Department of Human Resources rule that would prohibit spanking of foster children. She said many foster homes would close and it would be difficult to find foster parents if discipline was taken away.

The board voted to send a foster parent couple to a state convention in Galveston to testify against the proposal and to attend a seminar on coping with children.

Members present for the monthly meeting were Mrs. Johnson, Avis White, Rev. Ron Cook, and Lavon Nieman. Absent were Bill Johnson and Laura Walker. Several ex-officio members attended also.

Wilbert Eichenberger to conduct workshop

"Possibility Principles For Growth" will be the film workshop conducted by Wilbert B. Eichenberger at the First Presbyterian Church from 7 to 10 p.m. Sept. 21 and the next day, Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Registration is $35 per person. For further information concerning fees, contact the church at 364-2471 or 364-2574.

The five films feature Dr. Robert H. Schuller, senior pastor of the Crystal Cathedral of Garden Grove, Calif., and the internationally weekly televised "Hour of Power," as he lectures on the church campus during the Institute for Successful Church Leadership.

The workshop is designed specifically for pastors and the lay people of the local church. Churches of all denominations are invited to bring or send a delegation. The focus of the workshop is to share with all churches how the church can become most effective as a mission in the community by recruiting, training and mobilizing the laity.

Eichenberger, executive director of the institute, said that these are the same five lectures born out of Schuller's desire to share growth principles with neighboring churches which he has been giving to thousands of church leaders from more than 50 denominations over the past decade.

For more than 13 years, Eichenberger has been on the staff of the Robert Schuller Ministries, having served as director of pastoral care and administrative assistant to Schuller.

Senior class supper set

Hereford High School senior class students are to host their class taco supper from 5 to 7 p.m. in the HHS cafeteria.

Tickets, which are priced at $2.50 per person, may be purchased from any senior student or at the door. The menu is to include tacos, salad, beans, cobbler, tea and coffee.

In November 1982 the voting-age population totaled nearly 170 million five million more than the previous congressional elections in 1980, and 29 million more than the elections in 1978. The large increase resulted from the lowering of the national voting age from 21 to 18.

Military Muster

ARMY AND AIR FORCE HOMETOWN NEWS—Airman Augustine Rodrigues Jr., son of Augustine and Elma Rodriguez of 312 Crest St., Hereford has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the supply field.

He is a 1984 graduate of Hereford High School.

All kinds of people are brown bagging these days! Fifty-five percent of all American households in fact! As further proof of this growing trend, 36 billion sandwiches—72 billion slices of bread—were carried in brown bag lunches last year.

Small-fry, teenagers, dieters, busy execs and older adults—all carry lunches for one reason or another. Some bag it because they want control over the quality and quantity of what they eat, some want to cut costs or save time and others carry lunches to control calories. Whatever the reason, the basis for most carried lunches is the sandwich.

Immortalized by the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, who had his valet slap some meat between two slices of bread so that the Earl wouldn't have to leave his gambling table, the sandwich is, of course a culinary institution. And, with good health and nutrition becoming a top priority for Americans across the county, it's not hard to figure out why the sandwich is more popular than meats, poultry or other protein foods, fruits, vegetables, cheeses or other dairy foods, and the margarines, fats or oils also necessary for a well balanced diet.

Nutrition experts recommend that we eat a wide variety of foods from each of these major food groups each day: cereal/bread group; meat/poultry/fish/eggs/legumes/nuts groups; dairy products group; vegetables group; fruits group; oils/fats/margarine group. The recommended number of servings for each food group differs with age, weight, lifestyles and physical activity.

Children, because they are growing, need more basic nutrients than adults in relation to body weight. Adolescents have special nutritional needs because of accelerated growth and increased activity. Teen-age girls, often preoccupied with weight control, need to be especially careful to consume a diet that meets their individual dietary needs.

Dieters need to choose wisely from the various food groups to be sure that the fewer calories they're eating still provide the essential nutrients in their diets. Busy execs pressured by demanding schedules, should pay attention to well-balanced diets to ensure the stamina needed to meet their fast-paced lifestyles. Older-folks, too, have special nutritional needs. Because of changes in body composition and the tendency to be less physically active, the essential nutrients must be packed into fewer calories.

With nutrition experts recommending that lunch make up one-third of our daily nutritional quota, it's clear that what goes into the brown bag is important. Two slices of mixed-grain bread, used to package favorite sandwich fillings, supply important nutrients, including complex carbohydrates, protein, B-vitamins, iron, phosphorus and calcium, as well as dietary fiber. And, all of this with only about 70 calories per slice!

Lunch Box Cheese Sandwich Special
Youngsters will enjoy this crunchy, mildly-seasoned sandwich. It's a new twist on the ever-popular cheese sandwich. Tomato slices are optional. Sliced pickles are a nice addition too.

2 slices bread
¼ tsp. corn oil margarine, softened
¼ C. shredded mild Cheddar cheese
2 Tbs. celery, minced
2 tsp. mayonnaise
¼ tsp prepared mustard
2 to 3 tomato slices (optional)

Spread one bread slice with margarine. Combine cheese, celery, mayonnaise and mustard. Spread mixture on bread slice. Top with tomato slices. Close sandwich. Makes 1 sandwich.

Florida Ham Special

Here's a tasty sandwich treat for the senior set. A hint of ginger and orange complement the ham and Neufchatel cheese filling. While moderate in calories and fat, this lunchtime "package" supplies important protein and complex carbohydrates to the day's diet.

2 slices bread
¼ tsp. corn oil margarine, softened
2 Tbs. (about 1 oz.) Neufchatel or cream cheese softened
1 tsp. frozen orange juice concentrate
½ tsp. ground ginger
1½ slices (½ oz.) fully-cooked lean ham, about 95% fat free. Lettuce leaves

Spread one bread slice with margarine. Blend cheese, juice and ginger. Spread on remaining bread slice. Top with ham and lettuce. Close sandwich. Makes 1 sandwich.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Lion of the Month

Bernard Roberson, left, was recognized as "Lion of the Month" by Hereford Lions President B.J. Gilliland during the club's regular weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday. The veteran Lion was cited for his participation in club activities and projects.

Church women welcome president

Church Women United of Hereford will have a fellowship gathering and covered dish luncheon Sept. 17 at 10 a.m. in the Ward Parlor of First United Methodist Church to welcome the state president, Mickey Gergeni, and the 1985 State Assembly chairperson, Lucille Wilkson.

Mrs. Gergeni, guest speaker, will bring highlights from the Ecumenical Assembly held at Purdue University in July.

Special information on the 44th State Assembly will be given by Mrs. Wilson. The assembly will take place in Amarillo on Sept. 26, 27 and 28 and Hereford's participation in the assembly will be discussed.

All men and women are invited to attend. Anyone who cannot attend the morning's activities are urged to come to the luncheon to meet Mrs. Gergeni.

A nursery will be provided.

Eating a wide variety of foods is the best way to ensure your body is supplied with needed nutrients.

Home health care topic program

The Wyche Extension Homemakers club met Thursday at the Community Center and listened to a program on home health care.

The program was given by Dorris Morgan who is in charge of Home Health Care and one of her trainers, Lucille Lindeman. Morris reported that people recover faster and enjoy life more with home health care.

"Choosing Friendship" was the club opening exercise read by Argen Draper and Clara Trowbridge, president, presided over business. The roll call was answered by "What I make for Christmas," while Mildred LaFever, secretary-treasurer, served refreshments.

Members present were Carol Odom, Audrey Rucker, Lorena Ward, Novella Hewitt, Ethel Logan, Gene Holden, Pet Ott, Louise Axe, Draper, LaFever and Trowbridge. Mary Lou Abendschan, a visitor, was also present.

The next meeting will take place Sept. 20 at 2:30 p.m. with Novella Hewitt acting as hostess.

Physical fitness orientation at WT

'Shape-Up', a physical fitness program sponsored by West Texas State University, will begin its third year with an orientation session on Sunday at 2 p.m. in Room 206 of the Virgil Henson Activities Center at WTSU.

Persons who are interested in participating in the program for the fall semester, but who are unable to attend the orientation session, may register at the office of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at the Activities Center.

Shape-Up involves individuals who exercise and attend lecture sessions together and individually at least three times each week at the center. Students conduct stretching and exercise sessions and participants choose such activities as swimming, jogging, racquetball, aerobics and others.

Mary Hill, assistant professor of physical education and coordinator of Shape-Up, will also present lectures of fitness and nutrition and plans to add information and exercises concerning stress management.

Flower Arranging

Patricia Robinson, master flower show judge, explained the steps to arranging flowers during a floral arranging seminar

Thursday at the Community Center. The seminar was sponsored by the Bud to Blossom Garden Club.

Breakfast opens Garden Beautiful's year

The Garden Beautiful club gathered Sept. 7 in Dorothy Noland's home for its opening meeting.

Noland and co-hostesses Louise Axe and Jo Rudd Burney served a buffet breakfast before the meeting was called to order.

For the opening, some of the members offered garden tips for this season. While reading the minutes from the last meeting, the secretary stated that the spring tour of homes netted $388.25. Of that amount, $300 was given to the Hereford Senior Citizens association and a rose bush to each of the hosts of the homes: Wayne Winget, Bill Hutson and Jack Bradley.

Ruth Bartlett's resignation letter was read and the club gave her a life membership in honor of her long service to the club. Also, a rose bush was given to the memorial garden in memory of Lillian Lookingbill, a thank you note from Margaret Young was read and Gwen London was placed on the associate membership roll.

Helen Spinks, president, read the invitation from the Bay View Club to their 75th anniversary tea on Sept. 20 in the J.W. Witherspoon home.

Yearbooks were passed out and Audine Dettmann showed a book by Bertha Hood, a life member of the club, which told of her life and the changes in living that have occurred during her lifetime.

Members present were Mmes. W.P. Axe, Bruce Burney, W.T. Carmichael, M.L. Clin, Ray Cowser, C.V. Darden, E.W. Dettman, Bill Emmons, J.T. Gilbreath, Charles Newell, Charlie Noland, S.H. Sides, Joe Story and J.W. Witherspoon. Two guests, Jean Dowell and Hilda Haven, were also present.

The next meeting is supposed to be Oct. 5 in Ruby Carmichael's home.

Ann Lennox weary

Eurythmics dazzling America

By DOLORES BARCLAY Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Annie Lennox, lean and lithe, was in no mood for chatter as she huddled on a worn sofa in an office at RCA Records. But her musical partner, Dave Stewart, eyes hidden behind sunglasses, was a talking machine extraordinaire.

Together, as the British musical marvel, the Eurythmics, Miss Lennox and Stewart have been dazzling American audiences with their magical melodies and an ensemble of 10 during a six-month tour.

They were understandably tired as they stopped in New York for a recent concert. Miss Lennox, in fact, was hoarse — partly from singing her soul out on such songs as "Sweet Dreams (Are Made of This)," "Here Comes the Rain Again" and "Love Is a Stranger," and partly from an interview overdose.

Her hair was close-cropped blond instead of orange spikes. She wore little makeup, which allowed her gentle, almost lyrical beauty to show. But her bare feet shouted neon pink toes. And instead of sporting the androgynous costumes the media loves her to wear, she had clothed herself in a simple black sleeveless shift with a rope of pearls.

The 29-year-old artist appeared with Boy George of Culture Club on a Newsweek magazine cover earlier this year on the androgyny trend. And during February's Grammy Awards presentation, Miss Lennox chose to wear a '50s ducktail wig complete with sideburns, don a man's suit and wear a moustache over her lip. It was all in fun.

But the music is hardly frivolous. There's a sweetness in life — and also decay — as their first Eurythmics record, "In the Garden," explores.

"What we tried to do was make music about reality," Stewart said. "A lot of groups make music about fabricated reality. A lot of people live outside reality."

Miss Lennox joined in: "Some people seem to be very comfortable in their lives, they don't ask many questions about their existence. We were always interested in observing things. That's what an artist does."

Though the Eurythmics were nominated as best new artists — losing out to Culture Club — they have been around for some time. Miss Lennox first worked with Stewart in 1977 when they had the band, the Tourists. They had met in a restaurant where she was a waitress.

Together, they have explored the full range of pop music, from blues to folk to funk.

"We actually consider ourselves to be pop writers," Miss Lennox said. "All we're really concerned with is making music — music that's most inspiring and uplifting. We're not interested in mediocrity."

Statue typifies work

Indian artist blends cultures

By ISAAC A. LEVI Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The figure with its stark, abstract curves vaguely resembles a woman's torso supported by what could be a mouth racked with pain. It is topped by a bowlful of screaming, hungry children.

The small, bronze statue, called "The Crushing Burden," typifies the work of Amar Nath Sehgal, a native of India who has lived in New York, exhibited in Paris and who subtly blends Eastern and Western cultures in his art.

The 30-inch, highly stylized figure has been placed in the main hall of the Mexican Foreign Ministry. It was commissioned by the United Nations as a gift to the Mexican government for hosting the U.N. International Conference on Population in August.

"It shows Mother Earth being crushed under the burden of burgeoning humanity," the artist said in an interview. "If by the year 2000 there are so many people on this earth that there is hunger, starvation and mass migrations, what is the use of living?"

Like most of Sehgal's works, "The Crushing Burden" carefully balances its mass against the space around it.

His pieces usually are free flowing and subtly harmonious, expressing only by insinuation the joy, anguish, pain or other emotions he seeks to convey.

He has exhibited in museums and galleries in North America, Europe and Asia. At 62, Sehgal still is soft spoken and always bemused.

Despite his renown as an artist — he is also a painter, tapestry maker, woodcutter and poet — Sehgal has never had any formal training in art. "I am self taught," he said.

He was born in Campbellpur, a town near Peshawar, the third of seven children of a prominent Hindu family that was forced to move to New Delhi in 1947 by the bloody secession of Moslem-dominated Pakistan from India.

His lawyer father wanted him to study law. "I became an engineer, and then an industrial chemist, instead. But, in truth, I always wanted to be an artist," he said.

Sehgal chucked away his job in exact science and boarded a freighter out of Bombay for New York, where he landed Jan. 7, 1949, almost penniless.

Other artist friends also helped him, he said. But homesickness drove him back to New Delhi in 1953, where he took a $30 a month job teaching art in a plush high school. He married Shukla Dhawan a year later. They have two boys, Araman, 29, and Rajen, 25. Both work in the United States as financial experts.

For Sehgal, fame came in 1965 when the Paris Museum of Modern Art exhibited some of his works.

"It grew slowly," Sehgal said. "But I have a very comfortable existence ... At first my family ... used to call me crazy, but they don't anymore. They're very proud of me."

Lone 'Oz' quarter survivor

Bolger wants to resume work

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Ray Bolger, lone survivor of the merry quartet who followed the yellow brick road, has undergone hip surgery at the age of 80 and is planning to return to work.

Every day Bolger's long-legged gait takes him around two lengthy blocks near his home. "I can walk without a limp now," he said proudly. "And I swim every day. The doctor says there's no reason I couldn't dance again. But I'm 80, and how much more dancing do I want to do?"

Ray Bolger has danced all his life. He started in his native Boston, hoofed through repertory and vaudeville, starred in Broadway shows ("On Your Toes," "By Jupiter," "Where's Charlie?"), movies ("The Great Ziegfeld," "April in Paris") and television ("Where's Raymond?" "Washington Square").

But his most indelible performance came in 1939 as the scarecrow in "The Wizard of Oz." Only he and Margaret Hamilton remain of a cast that included Judy Garland, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Frank Morgan and Billie Burke.

Until a year ago, Bolger was busy giving concerts all over the country, reminiscing about his long career, singing "Once in Love With Amy" and other Bolger songs and doing his inimitable soft-shoe.

"Then one night I was doing a concert in Coronado (Calif.) on a kind of makeshift stage," he recalled. "I stepped down from the stage and there was nothing there. My right hip felt funny. I tried to do another show but I was not up to par, and I had to cancel."

A doctor who took X-rays told Bolger his hip had "just wore out," said Bolger. He underwent surgery on May 29 and has recovered amazingly fast.

The dancer talked about his long career at the Beverly Hills home he shares with his wife of 55 years, Gwen.

He was under contract to MGM while "The Wizard of Oz" was being prepared.

"I fought for the role of the scarecrow, but the word around the studio was that Buddy Ebsen was going to be cast for it," said Bolger. He eventually won the scarecrow role and Ebsen became the Tin Woodman. Because of poisoning by the metallic makeup, Ebsen was replaced by Jack Haley.

Did Bolger know he was taking part in an enduring classic?

"Not at all. I knew that I was involved in a strange kind of adventure," he said. "Everything had to be invented for the picture — the effects, the sound, the Technicolor. It was all new. But when the reviews came out, it was a terrific disappointment. The picture got terrible notices.

"It was only when the 'The Wizard of Oz' came into the home with television that it redeemed itself. Then it was no longer a picture, it was an institution. After all, 'The Wizard of Oz,' carries the message that there's no place like home. After Dorothy runs away from home, she realizes what a mistake she has made."

Satellite equipped to detect extreme ultraviolet radiation

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Hot, white dwarf stars, undiscovered space objects and keys to understanding the evolution of stars will be among the targets when a space shuttle launches a satellite equipped with telescopes to detect extreme ultraviolet radiation. The Extreme Ultraviolet Explorer satellite, scheduled to be launched into Earth orbit from a shuttle in December 1988, is patterned after the Infrared Astronomical Satellite, which has given astronomers vast information about objects that emit infrared light. "Any time you look at a region of the spectrum that you've never looked at before, you discover new things," said Don Bane, spokesman for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which will manage the project for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "With radio astronomy

(which detects radio waves), we discovered things that optical (visible light) astronomers never dreamed of, like quasars, pulsars and black holes," Bane said Friday. "With IRAS, we found stars being born, stars dying, dust clouds out in space and stars forming in the middle of and behind those dust clouds. We also found the first direct evidence of solid, cool material surrounding a star, like a proto-solar system." Extreme ultraviolet radiation is part of the spectrum of electromagnetic radiation. X-rays, extreme ultraviolet and ultraviolet are at the shorter wavelength end of the spectrum. Bane said the extreme ultraviolet satellite's mission will last 13 months: one month to make sure the equipment works properly, six to map the sky for sources of extreme ultraviolet radiation and six more "to make long-term observations of selected objects." Those objects include any new sources of extreme ultraviolet radiation detected by the satellite's four 15.7-inch telescopes, and the 10 objects now known to emit such radiation, including hot white dwarf stars, binary or double stars, the sun, Jupiter, Saturn and Titan, Saturn's largest moon, Bane said. Bane said the hot white dwarfs "are stars in the dying stages and have shed all their outer layers. Only the hot, very dense core remains." Double or binary stars, paired by the extreme gravitational forces they exert on each other, are "tearing each other apart," he said. A jar of honey, still in perfect condition, was found in an Egyptian tomb, where it was placed over 3000 years ago.

Open container law tabled Monday

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer
A proposed resolution that would create an open container law and give city policemen authority to patrol private parking lots did not satisfy the close scrutiny of Hereford City Commission members during Monday night's regular meeting.

The commission voted to table the proposal pending further research and consideration. City Attorney Earnest Langley drafted the resolution, which has the police department, which has complained about its inability to control drinking and congregating in private parking lots along Main Street and Park Avenue.

Would include parking lots

"The police came to me and asked if 'public area' should be more broadly defined," Langley told the court. "We found out that a place dedicated to public use, but not owned by the public, could be defined as a public place."

Langley suggested to the commissioners that the code be changed to include "any publicly permissible parking lot," or one maintained for the express purpose of inviting the public to park there, as a public place.

Fund suggested for county hiring lawsuit

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Writer
To satisfy the claims of Hispanics who say they were denied employment because of their race, attorneys for the county have suggested that a fund of $50,000 be established to compensate those people.

Proposed settlements submitted Friday plan which it claimed would "correct discriminatory employment practices against Hispanics." It also called for the creation of an "internal arbitration procedure" that would consist of a three-member panel designed to hear "complaints of discriminatory treatment in the work force."

Attorneys for the county also claimed that "such awards must be limited to persons who could have filed a charge with the EEOC (Equal Employment Opportunity Commission) at the time the class representative filed her EEOC claim."

sons who suffered discrimination on or after December 12, 1981. "TRLA, however, is still looking for class-wide relief back to that March 6, 1979 date given in the class definition. "All class members are presumptively entitled to relief," TRIA attorneys maintained, "subject only to a sufficient showing of injury within the class definition."

Fourth of July

Wednesday, the United States is to celebrate its 208th birthday. The U.S. and Texas flags flying above, located on Plains Avenue, will be joined by millions of others throughout the nation in observance of Independence Day.

Local Roundup

Strain appeals his sentence

Hereford farmer Robert Strain, convicted of felony theft and sentenced to seven years probation by a 22nd District Court jury, has appealed that conviction to the Seventh District Court in Amarillo.

Watch reportedly stolen

A watch worth around $285 was stolen from Sylvia Adame, 435 Paloma Lane, at approximately 12:30 a.m. Wednesday, Hereford police reported this morning.

Wednesday to be Brandless

No Hereford Brand will be printed Wednesday, as the paper is honoring the national Independence Day holiday.

Five 'not guilty' pleas made

"Not guilty" pleas were entered Monday in 22nd District Court by five people indicted on drug charges last month by a Deaf Smith County grand jury.

Possible Tornado Damage

Weldon Stephan's rural home, located about eight miles south of Hereford, may have had a tornado go over it at about 9 p.m. Sunday. The above damage is in his backyard. His wife, Betty Stephan, said she had never seen stronger winds in the 51 years she has lived in the area.

Crops wrecked by storm

By REED PARSELL
Managing Editor
A Sunday evening hail storm "pretty well wiped out" crops in a three-by-six-mile area just south of Hereford, according to the Deaf Smith County manager at Easter Grain.

Easter area ravaged Sunday

plained, due to the extremely muddy conditions. Though corn and cotton may have been "wiped out," there is some chance sugar beet and milo crops will have time to come back out.
