Nuclear waste site search delayed

By REED PARSELL Managing Editor

More delays are occuring in selecting a site for the nation's first highlevel nuclear waste dump, according to a governor's staff member.

Steve Frishman, director of the Texas Nuclear Waste Programs Office, said Thursday nothing in the repository site selection process appears likely to occur prior to the November elections.

The next step is to involve the two possible dump locations in the Texas Panhandle. Deaf Smith and Swisher counties each contain candidate sites which are to be narrowed to ninesquare-mile areas. Such a refinement is to make them more compatible with the seven other locations being considered for the repository.

Last spring it was proposed by the U.S. Department of Energy, which is in charge of the project, Deaf Smith's 300-square-mile and Swisher's 180-square-mile sites be reduced to nine square miles apiece. A series of DOE "information exchanges" and state hearings followed, with criticism of the reductions and the project in general predominately heard.

The specified area in Swisher County, four miles north of Tulia, encompasses Roll-A-Cone, a firm recommendation, the DOE hopes to which employs 35 and is among the area's largest. Richardson Seed Company, one of the leading producers in its field, lies within the proposed Deaf Smith location, which is about 19 miles northwest of Hereford.

Sometime near when the Texas sites are narrowed down in size, the DOE is to release its environmental assessments of all nine candidate locations. The involved states' governments have asked for 90 days to review the documents, Frishman said.

Therefore, it should be early next spring before the Secretary of Energy will be able to recommend five of the nine sites for further study, Frishman said. He guessed one location will be selected from each involved state-area.

Of the nine sites under consideration for the dump, three are in the Mississippi-Louisiana Gulf Coast region, two each in Utah and Texas and one apiece in Nevada and Washington.

Following the Energy Secretary's quickly further narrow the repository candidates to three. Frishman, however, said he foresees complications in such a move.

"We're projecting there's going to be substantial time" between the reductions to five then three candidates, he said. A "judicial review" of the environmental assessments used for the Energy Secretary's recommendations, Frishman claimed, might prompt legal action. He said the DOE is "marvelously optimistic" to think no lawsuits will be filed.

In addition to the governor's office, some members of the Texas legislature are investigating the DOE's search for a high-level dump site. Earlier this week, the House-Senate Joint Study Committee on Hazardous Waste Disposal met in Lubbock to go over recommendations it plans to present to the legislature.

One of the recommendations, according to Frishman, is another com-

Chamber directors eye forum

Plans for a "Candidates Forum" on Oct. 18 were discussed when directors of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce met in a regular monthly session Thursday afternoon at the C of C board room. speak. In other business Thursday, directors heard an update from Steve Frishman, director of the Governor's Nuclear Waste Programs office, on the Department of Energy's continuing search for a nuclear waste repository. Frishman termed the project as being "in limbo" at this time.

In response to questions from directors, Frishman said his office is placing primary importance on the dangers of polluting the Ogallala water formation should a site be chosen in Texas. He added that his office was having difficulty evaluating the situation because of a lack of specific information and data from DOE.

> C of C directors also heard an industrial development report from Mike Carr, executive vice president. Carr said officials of Valley View Energy were moving along with plans for constructing a facility here to use manure in firing an electrical plant. He added that the chamber has been talking to two other industrial prospects in recent weeks.

> Carr reported that work on the Cowboy Country Club west of town was proceeding and there is a possibility of a camper and RV park being built in the area. Plans have also been announced for a convenience store in that area, said Carr.

> The C of C manager informed directors of the recent visit of an official with the Sesquicentenial Wagon Train project. The wagon train will travel around the state during 1986 and is scheduled to arrive in Hereford on May 15 of that celebration year with about 100 to 200 wagons in the train. They will stay at Veterans Park overnight and local events will be planned in conjunction with the program.

> Directors also approved a financial report. Attending were Bobby Owen, Bob Sims, Rex Easterwood, Steve Nieman, Jim Arney, Charles Bell, Gary Phipps, Rosie Griffin, Irene McKinster, Danny Boyer, John Stagner, Carr and secretary Toni Shakocius.

Union leaders called for an immediate halt to strikes at 17 GM plants which had idled 111,000 of the company's 350,000 UAW workers nationwide and cost GM an estimated $30 million a day. But some local leaders said they would oppose going back to work because of disputes over local issues.

UAW President Owen Bieber and chief union bargainer Donald Ephlin issued a statement at 2:10 a.m. EDT announcing the agreement, but they refused to divulge details.

"It is an excellent settlement that makes more secure than ever in history the jobs of our UAW-GM members, while providing much deserved economic improvements immediately and in the years ahead," the union officials said.

GM Vice President Alfred Warren, speaking later at a news conference, said "there were two winners - the United Auto Workers and the General Motors Corporation. I have never seen a better win-win situation."

"Our customers will benefit from this agreement through increased competitiveness of the corporation, as will our shareholders, suppliers and the many communities in which GM has concentrations of facilities and employment," he said.

Warren said the company was 'confident" that the agreement would be ratified quickly by the union's membership. Bieber and Ephlin said the 11-member national negotiating committee unanimously recommended ratification.

The first step toward ratification takes place Wednesday in St. Louis when the UAW leadership unveils the specific terms to the union's General Motors Council, a 300-member advisory board of local union leaders. Ratification votes by GM workers would occur afterward and would take about a week.

Both Bieber and Warren refused to disclose details of the pact until it is presented to the council.

As to the 17 strikes, Bieber said, We're going to be advising the local union leadership that we want them to return to work immediately."

The tentative agreement "inaugurates an unprecedented job security program with far-reaching new protections for our members against job loss due to outsourcing, the introduction of new technology, plant consolidations and the movement of work ... it also includes commitments from the corporation to maintain production and create new job opportunities in the United other advances. The profit sharing plan will also be continued."

the strike had caused it to lose production of 45,600 vehicles.

State tax law seminar slated

Local residents with questions about changes in state tax laws can get answers during a special seminar planned next Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Deaf Smith County Courthouse law library.

"The state sales tax rate is going up," explained State Comptroller Bob Bullock in a press release, "and a number of new items and ser-vices will be taxable for the first time beginning Oct. 2. We are holding seminars across Texas so that these changes won't come as a surprise to anybody.

J.D. Caproni, a taxpayers' representative at the field service office in Amarillo, is to be in charge of the Sept. 27 meeting. The public is invited to attend at no charge.

Caproni, who was in Hereford Wednesday, said those who cannot attend the seminar may phone him in Amarillo at 355-9733 or call the comptroller's toll-free tax hotline at 1-800-252-5555.

Zoning change overruling upheld

Construction of duplexes on Fifteenth Street between Blackfoot Avenue and Avenue F is not to be allowed, Hereford City Attorney

Earnest Langley has ruled. Monday night, city commissioners voted 3-1 to overrule a zonin commission recommendation the area in question be changed from "A-Family Dwelling" to "B-Two Family Dwelling." There was a question raised at the time, though, whether such an overruling required support of 75 percent of the commission. Wes Fisher, mayor and fifth member of the commission, was unable to attend Monday's gathering. Thursday, he said he would have voted with Joe Reinauer in support of the zoning change.

As interpreted by Langley, however, Fisher's vote would not have made a difference in the matter. A simple majority is all that is re-quired to reject a zoning commission recommendation, he found. According to Dudley Bayne, city manager, the zoning commission has the right to repeat a rejected zoning change suggestion at any time.

Officials to tour flood area

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Local officials say they will show representatives from the governor's office damage across far South Texas resulting from four days of unrelenting downpour that left an estimated 75 percent of the region under water.

Representatives from the governor's emergency management division were expected to tour eastern Cameron and Willacy counties today, officials said.

Information gathered by the state team will be submitted to Gov. Mark White, who may then declare the inundated counties a state disaster area and ask for similar status from the federal government.

County officials Thursday toured Brownsville, Harlingen, Port Isabel, South Padre Island and Los Fresnos by Coast Guard helicopter and "saw an enormous amount of damage," said County Judge Moises Vela.

"Half to 75 percent of Cameron County is underwater," he said.

Nearly two feet of water fell on eastern Cameron and Willacy counties between Sunday and Wednesday, forcing the evacuation of families living in low-lying neighborhoods.

Group criticizes 'Religious Right'

AUSTIN (AP) - An advertising campaign is being launched to tell Texans that the so-called "Religious Right" wants more influence on the government than the nation's founders intended, a Texas civil liberties organization says.

"The Religious Right is fatally out of step with traditional American values," Michael Hudson, Texas coordinator of People for the American Way, said Thursday.

"The Religious Right resorts to moral McCarthyism, where all who disagree are labeled anti-family, anti-Christian or unpatriotic. There is not one Christian way to evaluate political issues," Hudson said.

Hudson said the Texas group, part of a non-profit, non-partisan national organization, plans four events next month in Austin, San Antonio, Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth area to raise money for a $1 million national advertising campaign.

Some TV commercials compare the words of the nation's founders - including George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and James Madison - to the words of current conservative relgious leaders including Revs. Jerry Falwell of the Moral Majority and James Robison of the American Coalition for Traditional Values.

Victim's father has no ill will

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - The father of a Texas A&M Corps of Cadets member who died in a hazing incident Aug. 30 says he has no ill will against the university or the corps.

In a letter published Tuesday on the editorial page of The Battalion, the Texas A&M student paper, Ward Goodrich of Webster, N.Y., thanked those who took part in his son Bruce's memorial service.

"To those who may be burdened by guilt or remorse over their involvement in the incident, and to their families, I hope it will be some comfort to know that we harbor no ill will in the matter," Goodrich wrote. "We know that our God makes no mistakes. Bruce had an appointment with his Lord and is now secure in his celestial home.'

Meanwhile, 13 corps members from the unit Goodrich belonged to have been asked to schedule meetings with Bill Kidler, the Texas A&M disicplinary officer.

Speech often interrupted

News Roundup Hecklers confront Ferraro

DALLAS (AP) - After a warm fundraising breakfast at the Fairreception at a downtown Dallas fundraiser, Geraldine Ferraro confronted some of the worst heckling of her campaign on the campus of the University of Texas at Arlington.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate's campus speech was repeatedly interrupted by several hundred sign-waving pro-Reagan dmemonstrators.

Gov. Mark White, who stepped to her side several times during the heckling, later tried to downplay the rowdy scence.

"We're doing our part for education reform in Texas. There are just a few students we haven't taught manners to yet," he told reporters.

But the campus crowd also included Ferraro supporters. Chants of "Ger-rey! Ger-rey! Ger-rey!" competed at several points with 'Reagan! Reagan!"

The Queens, N.Y., congresswoman faced down her hecklers and pressed on with her speech. At one point, unable to finish a sentence about Reagan's record, she turned to the hecklers and said:

"I want to tell you - if I had a record like Ronald Reagan's, I wouldn't want anybody to talk about it either."

Earlier this week, her running mate, Walter F. Mondale, was confronted by a similar crowd of pro-Reagan hecklers at the University of Southern California.

During a campaign stop in Vermont on Thursday, Vice President George Bush said he had no knowledge of the USC heckling incident and added, "I don't like it and it invites retaliation." Bush was loudly heckled by nuclear freeze advocates during Thursday's stumping.

Ms. Ferraro began the day with a mont Hotel that attracted an enthusiastic crowd of about 3,500, nearly twice what the organizers expected from this conservative, strongly Republican community.

A small crowd of mostly antiabortion demonstrators marched outside the downtown hotel, but inside, the crowd cheered and applauded with vigor.

In speeches at both events, Ferraro criticized Reagan administration foreign policy.

"Like every mother in this country, I did not raise my son to die in an undeclared war for an uncertain purpose," she said in Arlington.

"Let's have a president that sends in the diplomats before he sends in the Marines," she told her first audience.

The success of the fundraising breakfast delighted campaign officials, who admit the Democratic ticket is a serious underdog in Texas. "Things are about to take off," said an exultant Dwayne Holman, the head of the Mondale-Ferraro; campaign in Texas.

The Dallas trip is Ms. Ferraro's second visit to Texas. She campaigned in Austin, Houston and San Antonio last month.

Holman said Thursday he hopes to bring her back to Texas at least three more times.

"I think Ferraro sells well in Texas," he said.

The organizers said the breakfast raised $175,000, mostly through the sale of $40 tickets.

Meese controversy to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) - The fight over the nomination of Edwin Meese III to be attorney general is far from over despite a special prosecutor's finding of no criminal wrongdoing on the part of President Reagan's long-time friend and adviser.

The president says he still wants Meese in his Cabinet if there is to be a second Reagan administration, but Democrats in the Senate say they are not finished scrutinizing both Meese's ethics and the policies he'd pursue if he became the nation's chief law enforcement officer.

Meese welcomed Thursday's report of special prosecutor Jacob A. Stein that found no basis for a criminal prosecution on charges he used his position to get government jobs for friends who helped him financially.

But the president's counselor said the "long ordeal" had made its mark on the way he would conduct his official life.

"The experience has taught me a great deal about the special circumstances of official life in Washington and the need for constant vigilance and sensitivity, not only to actual conduct, but also to how conduct may be perceived," the nominee said. He read a statement to reporters at the White House but refused to take any questions.

Good news on inflation predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Inflation, which remained under control while the economy was racing ahead earlier this year, is even more likely to stay tamed now that economic growth is slowing, analysts are predicting.

There are no signs on the horizon that rapidly escalating prices which battered the economy just a few years ago - are in danger of reappearing, these economists say.

More news on the inflation front will be revealed today when the government releases its report on consumer price increases during August.

In advance of the report, economists were predicting the change would be in line with a string of modest increases in past months.

"Inflation is not a hot topic," said Thomas Thomson, chief economist at San Francisco's Crocker National Bank. "It's hard to build a case that inflation is going to become a problem anytime soon."

Rainy season plaguing Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Heavy rains are causing havoc over most of the country and forecasters predict that the unusually harsh rainy season this year might be prolonged by as much as one more month. Sunshine has been a rare occurrence in Mexico City since the start of the rainy season in June, but tropical storms and depressions off both the Pacific and Gulf coasts have blanketed most of the country with clouds for more than two weeks.

Downpours have caused rivers to overflow in Veracruz and Guerrero states, leaving several people dead and tens of thousands flooded out of their homes.

Two hurricanes in the Pacific, Norbert and Odille, were bringing heavy rains Thursday to most of southwestern Mexico. Federico Acevedo, a meteorologist at the National Weather Service, said Odille was hovering about 200 miles south-southeast of the state of Colima and could head for the coast.

Earlier this week, before its winds reached hurricane strength, Odille hit the state of Guerrero, leaving 11 people dead.

"Mr. Reagan, where's the plan," was the line the Democratic presidential nominee was repeating Thursday as he criticized the president on federal budget deficits, jobs, education, civil rights and arms control.

But the rhetoric on both sides was tempered by the tragedy in Beirut, where a terrorist's suicide truckbomb again claimed American lives Thursday. Twenty-three people died in the explosion at the U.S. Embassy annex, two of them U.S. servicemen. Vice President George Bush, cam-bombing and sidestepped questions about whether Reagan's policies might be a factor in the terrorist attack. "I would not give these terrorists any excuse for what they've done.'

Reagan was following a normal White House schedule today with no political events planned.

Mondale was holding a strategy session with Hispanic leaders in Washington today before heading on to Montgomery, Ala., for his weekly foray into the South.

Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro was in Southern California before heading nic, and toured a factory and campaigned with former President Gerald R. Ford at a rally in Ford's hometown, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mondale spoke to a union audience in Seattle, where he invoked the variation on the "Where's the beef" question Mondale used so successfully against Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado in the Democratic presidential primaries.

Then it was to suggest Hart's "new ideas" lacked substance; this time, it was to demand a response to Mondale's own proposal to cut the federal deficit by two-thirds through a tax increase and spending cuts.

Ms. Ferraro was unable to complete a sentence about Reagan at one point and shot back at her hecklers, "I want to tell you - if I had a record like Ronald Reagan's I wouldn't want anybody to talk about it either."

The Democrats have been particularly dogged by hecklers and protesters lately, but Reagan dismissed suggestions that his people were organizing them.

"Good Lord no," Reagan said. "I wish people wouldn't do it. But I suppose if the speaker has a right to be heard, they've got a right to be heard."

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Rescue teams have "found all the bodies we will find" in the wreckage of the U.S. Embassy annex, but some victims of the devastating suicide bombing may never be located, a U.S. official said today.

"There are people we're not going to find any part of," the official said. Police said 23 people were killed and 60 wounded in the blast Thursday. Lebanese state radio said as many as 40 may have died.

Obituaries

JAMES GALE MCLAURY

Services for James Gale McLaury, 31, will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in Browns Chapel of the Fountains with the Rev. Bobby Cox, pastor of University Heights Christian Church, officiating.

He is survived by his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Annis of Hereford.

Burial will be at 3 p.m. Saturday in Aspermont Cemetery in Aspermont. Mr. McLaury was killed Wednesday afternoon when the car he was driving slammed into the rear wheels of a tractor-trailer truck on Texas Highway 136 just north of the Amarillo city limits.

He was born in Borger and was a life-long resident of Borger. He was a horse trainer.

Other survivors include his father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McLaury of Borger; three sisters, D'Aun Brown of Eastland, Cindy Seagroves of Borger and Tammy Creacy of Fritch; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Day and Homer McLaury, all of Sudan.

It was impossible to determine how many Lebanese visitors or visa applicants were at the annex when a van filled with explosives and driven by a suicide commando blew up, said the U.S. source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The American casualty toll stood at two killed and 21 wounded, with five treated and released Thursday afternoon. None of those wounded "is in a life-threatening situation," the source said.

mittee of House and Senate members be formed to look specifically at the high-level nuclear waste disposal issue. The group would help oversee dealings with the DOE and stay in "close contact" with the governor's office, Frishman said.

Another suggestion is any resolution objecting to the DOE's selection process be jointly signed by the legislature and governor. Frishman, who applauded the recommendation, said, "I'm finding that the legislature, in general, has the same policy approach as we do."

Meanwhile, Frishman's TNWPO is examining preliminary information about the environmental assessments. It is also attempting to have the DOE answer some questions raised during public hearings late last spring.

The Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 calls for detailed site characterization studies of the three final candidate locations. Scientific crews would be dispatched to each area, with investigation to include the drilling of an exploratory shaft.

Frishman chided the DOE for making mistakes "all over the place" in what he feels is its rushed search for a dump site. The Energy Department has been especially deficient in public involvement and consulting with state governments, he said.

The DOE project manager for Texas, Linda McClain of Columbus, Ohio, said this morning during a when the Panhandle sites would be reduced to nine square miles apiece. "We're still going through the reviews of the report," she said, explaining DOE officials in Washington, D.C. would examine the findings after her office was finished.

McClain confirmed there is to be a 90-day period for comments following release of the environmental assessments. She said she expects the specific Texas locations will be finalized prior to completion of the assessments.

Former champ recovering

Ali claims greatest

NEW YORK (AP) - Muhammad Ali, his words slightly slurred, has demonstrated the ailment which landed him in a Manhattan hospital hasn't affected his wit - or, the former heavyweight champion says, his good looks.

"I'm still pretty, and I'm still the greatest in the world," Ali, 42, told a throng of cheering fans after emerging Thursday from his hospital room.

Ali, who was diagnosed as as having Parkinson's syndrome, was joined on the steps of Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital by the Rev. Jesse Jackson. Jackson said he came to visit Ali because the ex-boxer was "a hero to a generation."

"I think it's a great honor for a great man like Jesse Jackson to take time out to visit a peasant like me," said Ali.

Later Ali flicked a few smiling verbal jabs, in one instance hoisting the former presidential candidate's arm and announced, "This is the new presidential ticket."

The three-time champion also told business associate Larry Kold he was pleased about grabbing more headlines than another Jackson Michael.

He was "very happy that at last this week he is more famous than Michael Jackson," Kold related.

Parkinson's syndrome, or Parkinsonism, is not progressive, not contagious and not fatal, said Dr. Stanley Fahn, the neurologist treating Ali. The former heavyweight boxing champ should be able to live "a normal life" with medication he began taking recently, the doctor said.

Parkinson's syndrome is related to Parkinson's disease, but is less severe.' Fahn said Ali has a mild case.

Ali, who entered the hospital on Tuesday, said doctors "took brain scans, they checked my blood, checked my urine - checked everything, and they're still looking. If this hospital was as great as I was in boxing, they would have found it a long time ago.'

Fahn said Ali may already have been suffering from Parkinson's syndrome during his 1980 defeat to heavyweight champion Larry Holmes, and possibly during earlier bouts.

But Fahn said it is impossible to say whether the disease was caused by head blows during Ali's 21-year boxing career, and the only way to know "is if an autopsy is done" after the former champion's death.

Fahn said the illness should not affect Ali's intelligence or memory, and medication is rapidly curing his symptoms, which include sluggish speech, loss of facial expression, slowness of motion and some trembling of the hands.

Iowa-OSU battle heads Top 20 wars

By The Associated Press

Iowa was considered to have the best defense in the Big Ten this year as all their starters returned from the 1983 Hawkeye team that went 9-3 and allowed 189 points. Don't tell that to Iowa Coach Hayden Fry.

"I have no sympathy for Coach (Earl) Bruce whatsoever in regard to his young team," Fry said of the Ohio State coach who will lead his fifth-ranked and 2-0 Buckeyes against No. 14 Iowa Saturday.

"Any time you give a major college football team a goose egg on the scoreboard, you've really done something," Fry said of Ohio State's 44-0 victory over Washington State last weekend.

Fry's squad wasn't goose-egged last weekend, but it did drop to 1-1, losing to Penn State, 20-17.

"You just have to line up those three big down linemen, who are all seniors," Fry said. "They've been around. He has some young people in the back end, but they're great athletes. They run extremely well."

Fry's team does some things very well offensively as well as defensively. Led by junior quarterback Chuck Long, who has completed 28 of 45 passes for 425 yards and four touchdowns, the Hawkeyes rolled up Virginia and Southern Mississippi is 59 points in the opener against Iowa suffered a double fracture of his right leg in spring practice.

Tomczak led the Buckeyes to touchdowns on each of the three possessions he played against Washington State, connecting on five of seven passes for 55 yards. Bruce said Tomczak is "90 percent ready for Iowa."

There are three other games this weekend pitting members of the Associated Press Top Twenty: No. 1 Nebraska is at No. 8 UCLA; No. 2 Clemson visits No. 20 Georgia and No. 15 Florida State takes a short trip to face No. 4 Miami, Fla.

In other games involving members of the Top Twenty, sixth-ranked Brigham Young is at Hawaii; William & Mary visits No. 7 Penn State; Houston travels to No. 9 Washington; North Carolina and 10th-ranked Boston College meet at Foxboro, Mass.; Baylor is at No. 11 Oklahoma; San Diego State visits 12th-ranked Oklahoma State; North Texas States goes cross-state to face No. 13 Southern Methodist; Wisconsin travels to 16th-ranked Michigan; No: 17 Southern Cal is at Arizona -State; Maryland visits No. 18 Westat No. 19 Auburn. Third-ranked Texas is idle.

Miller fires 64, takes home trophy

TYLER, Texas (AP) - Fort Worth's Lindy Miller shot a course-record 64 Thursday to win the Northern Texas PGA Sectional Championship at Hollytree Country Club.

Miller's three-day total of 15-under-par 201 placed him 10 strokes ahead of runnerup Rives McBee of Dallas, who had a 2-under 70 on Thursday to go with earlier rounds of 70 and 71 for a 211.

Bob Smith of Dallas finished third, firing a 71 Thursday for a 54-hole total of 215.

The win, Miller's first since 1978, netted him $1,750 and exempts him from qualifying for next year's Byron Nelson Classic in Irving and LaJet Coors Classic in Abilene.

DON'T KISS $8,938 GOODBYE

That's how much you could lose just on resale value if you don't buy a John Deere

Looking for a big discount when you buy a tractor? Don't get stuck with an even bigger discount when you want to trade.

Always consider resale value when you price a field tractor. Because the differences among brands may sometimes be bigger than ANY purchase incentive.

Compare John Deere with our two leading competitors. According to the Spring 1984 Official Guide of the National Farm and Power Equipment Dealers Association, the average 5-year-old John Deere 4440 sells for 106 percent of its 1979 list price. One leading competitor averages 87 percent of its 1979 list price. The other averages 73 percent.

What's that mean in dollars? Add the John Deere gain on original price to the competitor's loss. The John Deere advantage is as much as $8.938!

North Hwy 385

Is this only true of one model? No. Every 40 Series 90- to 180-hp tractor has an average resale price that's higher than its new price five years ago.

Is resale your only John Deere advantage? No. Don't forget the remarkable fuel efficiency of today's 50 Series John Deere Tractors. And don't forget our unmatched reputation for high quality and high reliability. See your John Deere dealer. He'll be happy to explain the big difference between a low-price tractor and a low-cost John Deere: 100-hp 4050, 120-hp 4250, 140-hp 4450, 165-hp 4650 or 190-hp 4850.

Herd travels to Lubbock

The Hereford Whitefaces travel to Lowery Field in Lubbock today for a District 3-5A football game against the Lubbock Westerners at 7:30 p.m.

The game marks the first road trip for the Whitefaces and the third consecutive home game for the Westerners. The contest also will be battle to stay out of the league cellar. Both teams are 0-1 in conference play, 0-2 overall.

The Herd has no fewer than nine players who are not full speed heading into the game. And once again, Hereford's opponent is healthy, according to Lubbock coach Henry Galindo.

Hereford's Mike Scott, David Parsons, Dago Valdez, Dennis Chandler, Chet Bunch, Chris Rowton, Freddie Gamboa, Albert Tijerina and Danny Castillo all are hurting. Some of the players are to see action tonight, however.

Tommy Gonzales, Lubbock's guarterback, has completed 12 of 25 passes for 185 yards thus far in the season. The under-50 percentage mark doesn't reflect Gonzales' ability, though, according to Gary Wilhelm.

"They have a really fine quarterback," the Hereford defensive coordinator said.

When Gonzales goes on top, he could be looking to Alvin Hargers, a 6-4, 210-pound tight-end. Hargers was an honorable mention choice on the all-district team a year ago as a junior.

Lubbock has lost 24 consecutive games. The Westerners last win over Hereford was in 1979.

The Westerners line up in a slot-I formation much of the time on offense and a 2-5 on defense. Hereford counters with its veer offense and 5-2 and 6-2 on defense.

In NL West

By MIKE CLARK AP Sports Writer The wisened baseball veterans who led the San Diego Padres to their first-ever National League Western Division championship mixed their jubilation with a warning that the real baseball season is just beginning.

"We have some momentum, although you don't want to peak too late and you don't want to peak too e$rly," San Diego Manager Dick Williams said Thursday after the Padres clinched a berth in the NL Championship Series with a 5-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants. The Padres' victory and Los Angeles' 6-2 triumph over secondplace Houston gave San Diego a 101/2-game lead with 10 games remaining.

Added relief ace Rich Gossage: "It's a game of mountains and valleys, and when you're sitting on top of a mountain, it feels pretty good. But we're only part of the way up."

other games Thursday, the In downtrodden Pittsburgh Pirates beat East Division leader Chicago 7-6, Atlanta ripped Cincinnati 9-3 and St. Louis got by Montreal 3-2.

The Hereford Brand-Friday, September 21, 1984-Page 5

Williams, who managed Boston to an American League ennant in 1967 and won world championships with the Oakland A's in 1972-73, reveled in his latest success.

"Believe me, gentlemen, it's a great feeling," he said. "I'm 10 (actually 11) years older than I was the last time his happened. You can never have enough of this."

Among the keys to San Diego's title drive were former New York Yankees Gossage and Graig Nettles and former Dodger Steve Garvey. The trio tangled in three World, Series, with the Yanks winning in 1977 and 1978 and Garvey's Dodgers prevailing in 1981.

"At the beginning of the season, I didn't know what to think," Nettles said of the Padres' prospects. "But after a while, I realized we were good enough to play with anyone in our division. Not to be a pessimist, but even if we lost in the playoffs, this would be a very successful season."

In 1900, people were coming from all walks of life to Hereford - looking for a better way to live. These pioneers were looking for a small community that would survive the hard times. They wanted to raise their families in a safe environment and be able to retire with their spouses, secure in the knowledge that their children would have the same opportunities for success which they had.

When our bank was chartered, we made a commitment to Hereford and the surrounding community. We still hold that same strict policy. We've set out to become a part of Hereford and a part of the people in the Texas Panhandle. We believe that a strong community needs a strong bank. That's why people have counted on the First National Bank of Hereford for over 84 years. It's this kind of dedicated service that has made us the bank with the pioneer spirit.

Songwriter to perform gospel music Sunday

Contemporary gospel music will be performed by Danny Wolfe, songwriter, at First Christian Church Sunday.

Wolfe will lead "Understanding the Lord's Prayer" at 9:30 a.m. during the School for Christian Living and will also share some of his songs from his musical "Walk on Water" during the worship service scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m.

The songwriter was reared in Stephenville and graduated with honors from the University of Texas where he was an All-Southwest Conference football player and captain of the university football team.

When he was 25 years old he began composing as a result of an aptitude test. He composed a number of national hit songs in all fields of popular, country and contemporary rhythm music. He also expanded the one-store family nursery in Stephenville into on the nation's largest chains of retail garden centers.

After becoming a multi-millionaire in his early thirties, Wolfe began to feel that his life was empty. During the troubled time, he came to know the Lord and has written gospel music and a musical, "Walk on Water."

POLLY'S

Seal stains

Impotence has several causes

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband is 35 and in good health, but lately our lovemaking has almost dwindled down to nothing. He just doesn't have the desire any more. He says that before we go to bed he thinks about what he wants to do and how it will be, but by the time we turn off the lights and set the alarm and climb into bed, he just doesn't feel like it any more.

We averaged about four times a week. He had a vasectomy about 11 years ago, and I read the other day that after a long period of time, this can make a man impotent. Is this true, and what can be done about it? I asked him to have a physical, but he said a doctor would tell him it is all in his head. Please give me the information I need. I miss that closeness very much DEAR READER - The initial reports suggesting that a vasectomy may lead to impotence much later have not been supported by other, better studies. Put another way, there is no evidence that a vasectomy will cause a man to become impotent so that is not your husband's problem. In the past, many doctors would tell a patient with impotence that it prevent the stain bleed-through you've experienced. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I am an avid was psychological; however, it is now pretty well known that impotence is frequently a symptom of a medical problem. Any man, particularly one as young as your husband, who develops impotence needs a careful medi-cal examination - not just for impotence, but in the interests of his overall health. Unrecognized diabetes should not go neglected, if that should be the cause of your husband's impotence.

Your husband may be more willing to see a doctor if he understands this, so I am sending you The Health Let-ter 18-6, Help for Impotence. Maybe you can encourage him to read it. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I own a motel and I do most of the cleaning of the rooms myself. Is it possible to get herpes from handling the dirty towels and sheets and cleaning the toilet and shower, especially if the customer has it and it is in the contagious stage? I have read that it can stay on things like this for up to four hours after contact

DEAR READER - Studies have shown that the herpes virus can persist for more than four hours on moist surfaces. But that doesn't mean these live viruses can cause you to get herpes. To get into body and start an infection, the virus must breach the surface of the skin. Just getting the virus on the surface of your skin is not enough. Friction erodes the skin surface's protective barfier and allows the infection to occur. That is why sex is such a good way to transmit genital herpes.

So if you don't rub yourself with the used towels and sheets, there is no reason to think you would get herpes. If you are worried about it, wear rub-ber gloves for added protection until you are done with your cleaning. However, I really don't think that is DECESSARY. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Alcohol

Alcohol taken in large doses can dull sensation and impair muscular coordination, memory and judgment. Taken in larger doses over a long period of time, alcohol can damage the liver and heart, and cause permanent brain damage. A large dose of alcohol taken at once can interfere with that part of the brain that controls breathing, and respiratory failure can result.

THE WAY TO WORSHIP GOD

We cannot understand some things Until we humbly pray. God will reveal His will to all Who seek His will, to obey.

Great men's words confuse us about The way to worship God. The way is plain for all to see Such preaching does seem odd.

Some say you should not shout, or play-Instroments of any kind. But David danced to instroments, While Michal mocked and whined.

David was not perfect, although-"A man after God's own heart." But he knew how to kneel and pray When his heart began to smart.

Some say worship in your closet, In there, just you and God, Open up your heart and mind Before the throne of God.

But that is not the way at all I heard a great man say You should go to church and be quiet And hear the preacher pray.

Another said that is not worship! Emotions must get unfurled You must clap you hands and say A..MEN While shouting to ALL the world.

Then one who seemed much wiser, said, "It's an individual matter. Pray from your heart right where you are To God, our creator."

Others say sing and shout and play, As David in delight-With many kinds of instroments Danced with all his might.

But there's away you can't deny Just thank God every day For his love and daily blessings And daily kneel and pray.
