

Reagan Admits Hard Times Coming

By BILL ADKINSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, predicting an economic upturn by summer, says the government "must stiffen its spine and not throw in the towel" on his program of tax and budget cuts.

While conceding the nation faces "hard times" in the coming months, Reagan insisted at a nationally broadcast news conference Tuesday that "our plan for economic recovery is sound." "I am determined to stick with it and stay on course and I will not be deterred by temporary economic changes or short-term political expedi-cy," he declared. In the meantime, however, Reagan vowed to veto any budget-busting legislation and refused to endorse a Senate Republican plan seeking higher taxes over the next three years to balance the budget. The president admitted that government red ink probably can't be eliminated by 1984, as he promised, and said it shouldn't be done with tax increases.

He said he will defer until January his own specific proposals for $3 billion in selected tax increases and $2.6 billion in cuts in government benefit programs, while pushing for 12 percent cuts in other non-defense spending.

Reagan acknowledged that his administration had not anticipated the recession that is wrecking his economic forecasts but maintained that it isn't his fault.

"Our program has only been in effect for some 40 days," the president said. "And you can't cure 40 years of problems in that short time. But we believe we've laid a firm foundation for economic recovery in 1982.... I think we're going to see a pickup in the economy... in spring or (at) the latest early summer."

Senate Democrats, however, accused Reagan of deliberately deceiving the public about the economy.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., said the administration is pursuing an economic policy that amounts to the "Hoover nonsense that prosperity is just around the corner.... Just wait until next spring." On other topics at his fifth news conference since moving into the White House, the president:

—Refused to back off an earlier comment that sparked widespread protest in Europe, saying he still believes it is possible for a battlefield exchange of nuclear weapons to occur without triggering global war. —Complained that the news media exaggerated reports of discord among his foreign and defense advisers following an allegation by Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. that an unidentified White House official was trying to discredit him. "We are not in disarray with regard to foreign policy," he said. "We're a very happy group." —Said he had no answer to whether there is a NATO contingency plan to fire a nuclear warning shot in the event of conventional war in Europe. Haig said last week that there was such a plan. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said there wasn't. —Argued that the B-1 (See REAGAN, Page 2)

Fuel Leak Jeopardizes Shuttle Launch Effort

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A leak in Columbia's huge external tank jeopardized Thursday's scheduled effort to launch the space shuttle on its delayed return to space. Launch pad technicians today also were troubleshooting an instrument needed for space-to-ground data analysis.

Either problem could force a scrub — the second in as many weeks. Today's countdown was still on course at mid-morning and officials hoped the problems could be corrected during an 11-hour scheduled "hold" later in the day. The launch target is 7:30 a.m. EST on Thursday.

The problem with the data unit was discovered late Tuesday night and a replacement was quickly flown to the Cape from the Johnson Space Center in Houston. It also failed, but NASA spokesman Hugh Harris said, "there's a better than even chance we can fix it."

He was not so confident about the fuel tank trouble. "We haven't got a handle on it yet," Harris said.

The data device — called a Pulse Code Modulator — acquires and analyzes data on board Columbia and transmits the data to mission officials. The fuel tank holds most of the propellant necessary to drive Columbia into orbit after its initial boost from solid fuel rockets.

A drop in helium pressure brought the tank leak to NASA's attention. The leak must be located and repaired before the tank is loaded overnight with supercold liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen propellant.

The problems interrupted a trouble-free countdown. National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials had been a little concerned about the weather but pleased with the shuttle and its many complicated systems. A week ago today, Columbia was 31 seconds from liftoff when a problem with the ship's hydraulics system forced a postponement.

Last week's scrub has already cost NASA an estimated $1.5 million to $2 million. Acting comptroller Tom Newman says the extra costs are mainly for extra fuel, overtime and travel expenses and charges from contractors for repairing last (See SHUTTLE, Page 2)

School Board Pays Tribute to Phillips

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

The Hereford Independent School District board of directors Tuesday voted unanimously to enter a formal statement into the minutes paying tribute to Bill Phillips, the late assistant administrator to HISD.

After the tribute was entered, James Gentry, board president, announced that donations were being accepted by the board to be given in Phillips' name to the Boy Scouts of America.

Phillips, a longtime employee of HISD, died of cancer last month.

Dr. Harrell Holder, superintendent, said Phillips' duties were currently being undertaken by several staff members.

Bobbie Kitchens, 17-year business office employee, was appointed as director of business for the HISD office. Her upgraded position will include general office management, hiring and training of personnel responsibilities. She will work under Larry Wartes, assistant superintendent.

The board faced more grim enrollment numbers Tuesday night, which will result in grim monetary figures when the average daily attendance is computed for state funds.

Hereford's enrollment dropped 238 from this time last year, with a dip of 70 for the past month.

Wartes said if enrollment will maintain, and attendance, which is at a record 96.3 percent, keeps a high average the district will be able to save some money when the ADA is computed. Coupled with the passage of Amendment 5 earlier this month, which will exempt cattle and poultry from property tax, the board will be forced to make some changes for the next fiscal year.

The board also approved a 15-member textbook committee to select textbooks for the system to be used next year.

The professional staff members to serve are, Dr. Holder, chairman, Wanda Payne, Charles Lyne, Joe Stone, (Chairman), Joe Stanley, Jim Clements, Dorothy Boydston, Adelle Clements, N.D. Kelso, Martha Layman, Margaret Bell, Dan Dudley, Mary Kline and Severo Reyna.

Thirty-one additional teachers and administrators will serve as advisors to the committee.

The committee will recon- (See SCHOOL, Page 2)

Israeli Crackdown Expected To Hamper Autonomy Talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli crackdown on new Palestinian unrest in the West Bank and East Jerusalem increased the prospect that there would be no progress in the Israeli-Egyptian autonomy negotiations resuming in Cairo today.

Israeli military authorities jailed three influential Palestinians Tuesday, confined others to their towns and sent troops into the streets of the Arab city of Ramallah to prevent a merchants' strike. However, the army could do nothing about Arab shopkeepers and students in East Jerusalem who went ahead with the strike. Israel captured the Arab part of the city in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War and then annexed it, so it is not under military jurisdiction.

Arab youths stoned a bus in Jerusalem, injuring the driver and a woman passenger. A curfew was imposed on Qalqilya, 15 miles northeast of Tel Aviv, after two Israelis were injured by an exploding bottle thrown into their car.

The strike was called after a week of scattered demonstrations by West Bank Palestinians protesting the Israeli occupation and Defense Minister Ariel Sharon's plans to replace military authorities with civilian administrators.

The board of trustees of Bir Zeit University, the West Bank's leading Palestinian educational institution, said the change was an attempt "to disguise the visible ugly face of occupation."

The 2,000-student university was closed last week after students hurled stones and barricaded themselves in a building.

Egyptian sources in Cairo said Egypt's representatives were expected to complain about the Israeli crackdown at the resumption of the attempt by Egypt, Israel and the United States to negotiate a plan for autonomy for the 1.3 million Palestinians in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

The negotiators are nearly 18 months past the May 1980 deadline set in the Camp David peace agreements for adoption of an autonomy plan.

At their last meeting last month in Israel, the negotiators began talking about establishment of an autonomous council for the Palestinians. Israel's chief negotiator, Interior Minister Yosef Burg, said Sunday Israel hoped to get a "memorandum of understanding" on the council.

Egyptian sources said the Egyptian negotiators would insist that the proposed council have authority over East Jerusalem. Israel is certain to refuse this since the Israeli Parliament enacted a law saying the reunited city would never be divided again and would be the capital of Israel forever.

Stockman Raps 'Supply-Side' Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Budget director David A. Stockman, in a startling magazine article, describes the "supply-side" tax cut embraced by President Reagan as a disguised version of traditional Republican "trickle-down" economics which favor the richest Americans.

The December issue of Atlantic Monthly quotes Stockman as saying the three-year tax cut was a "Trojan horse" aimed at lowering the top income tax rates.

The objective was to find a politically acceptable way to lower the top rate from 70 percent of each dollar of eligible income to 50 percent, and the solution was to lower all tax rates, Stockman said, according to the article.

In a statement late Tuesday, Stockman's office said the article "creates an impression that is wrong and grossly misleading."

The article, which circulated through Congress on Tuesday, drew criticism from congressional Democrats, many of whom opposed the tax cut on the grounds it was slanted too heavily in favor of the rich.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., called Stockman the "best off-Broadway show we've ever had," while Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., accused the former Michigan congressman of being involved in "one of the most cynical pieces of performance by a public official since the Vietnam era."

Reagan, asked at the conclusion of his news conference for his reaction to the article, replied that he would have to check it out with Stockman.

The tax cut enacted by Congress this year reduces individual tax rates 25 percent across the board over three years.

Unions Want Controllers Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several unions, claiming flight cutbacks are limiting travel by union officers and harming collective bargaining, say they will ask a court to order the rehiring of 11,500 fired air traffic controllers.

The unions, spearheaded by the United Auto Workers, are being joined by consumer activist Ralph Nader in a lawsuit expected to be filed Thursday, labor officials said.

UAW president Douglas Fraser and Nader scheduled a news conference later today to give details of the lawsuit.

Nader confirmed Tuesday night that he plans to be a plaintiff in the suit but said his primary concern is "safety and the efficiency of the air traffic control system." He accused the Reagan administration of trying to stigmatize the fired controllers for life.

Despite the renewed effort by the unions, the Reagan administration is showing no sign of softening its hardline stand against the controllers, who were fired after launching an illegal strike Aug. 3.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis acknowledged Tuesday that the dismissal and subsequent reductions in air traffic have "produced problems for both (airline) operators and travelers."

But Lewis told a group of commuter airline executives in New Orleans that the government's decision to fire the controllers was one of principle. "We cannot permit (See UNION, Page 2)

Accident Victim Dies in Amarillo

Russell Edwin Carver, a 33-year-old Canyon man injured in a traffic accident Tuesday morning east of the Hereford Airport, died in an Amarillo hospital Tuesday afternoon. Carver reportedly suffered major multiple trauma injuries.

Carver, according to state troopers investigating, was alone heading west when his car slammed into the rear of a beat truck on U.S. 69. His car was wedged underneath the truck.

Services for Carver are pending with N.S. Griggs and Sons Funeral Directors in Amarillo.

Carver was born in Smithville, Mo., and moved to Canyon 11 months ago and was district manager of the automotive and sporting goods departments at K-Mart.

He was a former Eagle Scout and was a member of St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Lubbock.

Survivors include his wife, Linda; two daughters, Christie and Jeannie; two sons, Russell and Michael; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Carver of Lawrence, Kans.; a grandmother, Mrs. A.B. Carver; a brother, Mark Carver of Excelsior Springs, Mo.; and a sister, Mrs. Connie Ury of Maryville, Mo.

after officials reviewed police reports about Garrett having argued with a priest at Alamo Catholic High School. Police Sgt. Walt Yerger — already aware of Garrett from a burglary investigation — and sheriff's Lt. Jimmy Boydston then compared Garrett's fingerprints with those taken from the convent, Baker said.

Garrett was arrested at his home about 5:30 p.m. Monday and authorities announced the arrest about three hours later.

On Tuesday, he appeared before Justice of the Peace L.B. Bartlett and was charged. Although Garrett was ordered held without bond on the murder charge, Bartlett also set $5,000 bond on an apparently unrelated charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Garrett's mother was visibly shaken during the court appearance.

Charlotte Cameron covered her ears and shook her head when Bartlett read the complaint's charges that her son choked and strangled Sister Tadea in her second-floor room at the convent.

Potter County District Attorney Danny Hill said he will seek a grand jury indictment against Garrett Thursday.

Meanwhile, the bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Amarillo said the sisters of St. Francis convent had been "living in fear" since the Oct. 31 slaying, and he hoped that they would be able to return earlier now that a suspect had been arrested.

"They still would forgive any person who did this, but they wouldn't want anyone to go through that again," Bishop L.T. Mathison said. (See SUSPECT, Page 2)

Jordan's King

To See Missile Test

HOUSTON (AP) — Jordan's King Hussein was to fly to El Paso today to view test firings of a new version of the Hawk anti-aircraft missile at Fort Bliss.

Hussein and his American-born wife, Queen Noor, underwent "routine" physical examinations Tuesday by Dr. Michael E. DeBailey and other physicians at Methodist Hospital, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The royal couple completed nearly six hours of routine tests and doctors pronounced both in "excellent health," said hospital spokeswoman Susan Russell. The king and queen left the hospital and returned to their hotel.

Hussein, 45, checked into the hospital Monday night after arriving here. He later visited with his nephew, Talal, who is being treated at the hospital for injuries suffered in a skiing accident.

Queen Noor, 30, was admitted as an out-patient Tuesday morning, Ms. Russell said.

The Husseins flew to Texas on Monday, following talks with President Reagan in Washington and a visit to Southern California.

The couple will make only one public appearance, a luncheon in its honor, before returning to Jordan on Thursday.

Eleventh Officer Suspended In Beating

HOUSTON (AP) — Newly discovered information has led to the suspension with pay of an eleventh police officer charged with beating residents of an apartment building while shouting racial epithets, police said.

Department spokesman Larry Troutt said Tuesday that Morris S. Davis, 21, was relieved of duty Monday after an Internal Affairs' Division investigation implicated him in the affair.

Troutt said Davis was relieved "because of information developed during the course of the investigation."

Painter Adell Criswell, a resident of the Delta Apartment Hotel in Houston's impoverished Fifth Ward, said a group of men wearing blue jeans and T-shirts and carrying a Confederate flag beat up eight people early Nov. 4.

Witnesses said they recognized the men as police officers.

Security Force To Recruit Cities

HOUSTON (AP) — With the first Texas chapter of the Guardian Angels, a volunteer citizen security force, beginning patrols today, the group's national leader says he hopes to start organizing in several other cities in the state soon.

Curtis Sliwa, who founded the group in New York in 1979, said Tuesday he plans recruiting drives in Beaumont, Port Arthur, Dallas, Galveston and San Antonio.

The 40-member Houston chapter, which just completed several weeks of training, was to begin its work with a noontime patrol of downtown, Sliwa said.

The 23 men and seven women bring national membership to 1,983, he said.

Mercury Found In Tulsa's Water

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The discovery of mercury in the drinking water of four east Tulsa residences prompted city officials to alert residents of a 72-square-block area not to drink their water today.

"Mercury is highly toxic," said Yvonne Rehg, assistant to Water Commissioner Patty Eaton.

A city chemist said the mercury, of unknown origin, separates from the water "in little beads."

Charles Kimberling, assistant superintendent of the City Water and Sewer Department, said residents between 89th East Avenue and 101st East Avenue and 15th and 21st streets were being warned not to drink their water until further notice.

Clarence Williams said he discovered the substance in the pipes under his bathroom sink and notified city officials.

A city chemist confirmed the substance found in water from four residences was mercury.

Construction Halt Planned At Texas Nuclear Project

HOUSTON (AP) — A six-month construction halt and layoff of about 500 employees at the South Texas Nuclear Project are being planned for this week following an announcement that Brown & Root Inc. will stop work at the site Dec. 1.

The company, fired Sept. 24 as chief engineer and construction manager, resigned its remaining duties as construction contractor on the $4.8 billion plant near Bay City last week.

Officials said Brown & Root and Houston Lighting & Power, which is the controlling partner of a four-utility team building the project, could not agree on the role of Brown & Root would play.

Don Beeth, director of nuclear information for Houston Lighting & Power, predicted Tuesday it will be about six months before a new builder can be hired and form a plan to finish construction with the new manager, the Bechtel Power Corp.

Beeth said that 500 workers will be laid off later this week. He said there will be additional reductions in force over the next month. Brown & Root has 2,200 employees on the site, officials said.

"We expect that in about a year we will be back to our full construction capacity in the project," he said. "We feel we are clearly on our way back up. For a long time we have had very little productivity on the project. The improved construction will be worth it because of the rate at which we were moving before."

Beeth said the work suspension and change in contractors will not set back the completion date. The first reactor is now scheduled to open in 1986. Originally, it was to begin operating in 1985.

Opponents of the project had asked that construction work be stopped until Bechtel assumed the responsibilities. The Atomic Safety and Licensing Board also has scheduled a meeting in Austin Dec. 8 to discuss questions about work plans over the next four months.

William Jordan, a Washington attorney for the Citizens for Equitable Utilities, said his organization viewed the action and "applauded HL&P for taking this conservative step to stop and take a look before continuing."

"It is being very straightforward and if they don't have the same problems as they did with Brown & Root, then we are happy with them," he said.

Judge Lambasts Mother In Nude Photo Case

NEW YORK (AP) — A judge who decided to permit continued publication of nude photos of Brooke Shields made a case against the teenage actress' mother, saying she is trying to "have it both ways" by exploiting her daughter and protecting her at the same time.

standing naked in a bathtub, embarrass her now that she is older and well-known through her three movies and her TV commercials for blue jeans.

The photographs were made for a Playboy Press publication called "Sugar and Spice." Miss Shields was paid $450 and Gross got $1,000 from Playboy Press.

Greenfield, of the state Supreme Court, New York's second-highest court, said the photographs might cause Miss Shields "personal embarrassment" but not "irreparable harm."

The girl played a child prostitute in "Pretty Baby" and a teen-ager who discovers sex on a desert island in "Blue Lagoon." Her latest film is "Endless Love," which has to do with a young man's obsession with a character played by Miss Shields.

The judge said Mrs. Shields, 47, "is living through her child" and "decided what jobs Brooke would take, and

Name Change Announced For Firm

Tom Coffman, a Hereford native, has announced a corporate name change for his oil and gas exploration firm. Coffman, president of Thomas D. Coffman, Inc. of Austin, announced that the firm's name has been changed to TDC Exploration, Inc.

TDC Exploration Inc. is a privately-owned independent company headquartered in Austin, Texas, with ninety-four employees and field or exploration offices in Giddings, Pinedale, Tyler, and Midland, Texas.

The name change was made to identify the company more strongly with its principal business of "developing oil and gas exploration prospects."

bomber is necessary while the radar-eluding Stealth aircraft is being developed but said the B-1 wouldn't be "a total loss" after that and could be put to other uses.

The president's assessment of the economic outlook followed gloomy forecasts by members of the administration, including Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan's prediction Monday of "a real downer" in the final three months of this year.

"Now, I don't know what his (Regan's) definition is of a 'real downer.' I think that we're going to have some hard times for the next few months," the president said.

But Regan said interest rates already are falling and next July's installment of the individual tax cut will spur productivity and cut unemployment.

The Labor Department reported Tuesday that inflation at the wholesale level rose 0.6 percent in October, the biggest jump since April. But the increase in the Producer Price Index for finished goods mostly reflected costs of new cars, while food and energy prices fell.

"The things that have been bothering us the most on the inflation side are pretty calm," said Alan Murray, a vice president and economist at Citibank in New York.

Although some of Regan's advisers have urged him to raise taxes to make up at least some of the ballooning budget deficit, he said he will not decide that issue until January.

Congress, however, may not wait. Some Republicans on the Senate Budget Committee complained about lack of direction from Regan and proposed drafting a package of tax increases and benefit cuts on their own.

Regan also signaled there may be some changes ahead in the Medicaid program, contending that levying a charge on those who use the program may discourage "overuse."

Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker, under orders from budget director David A. Stockman to cut $9 billion from his 1983 budget, has suggested cuts of $2.9 billion in Medicare and $600 million in Medicaid to the White House.

Reagan said they are options that he will consider, but he pledged to make sure they would not "hurt people we don't want to hurt."

Reagan complained that Congress has not yet sent him one appropriations bill for fiscal 1982, which began Oct. 1 — and the money measures now pending would exceed spending targets.

"I stand ready to veto any bill that abuses the limited resources of the taxpayers," he said.

week's hydraulics problem.

Because of early-morning fog that shrouded Kennedy Space Center, astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly waited an extra hour before rehearsing emergency landings. They skipped a planned sunrise visit to launch pad 39A to attend a weather briefing.

Air Force meteorologists predicted a storm front would be out of the area by tonight and that weather would be no constraint to launch.

The astronauts had been confident there would be no more delay.

"Columbia is ready, and Joe and I are ready, and we're really going to do it this time," said Truly on Tuesday. They will pilot the shuttle to demonstrate its capacity to make return trips to space.

The astronaut's coordinator, Bill Jones, said Tuesday night that Engle and Truly retired for the evening "in great spirits."

The launch pad was busy today as work crews checked power, environmental, navigation and communications systems, removed unnecessary equipment and made the cockpit ready for the crew. The schedule called for an 11-hour, 10-minute "hold" beginning in the morning, with the count resuming tonight for fueling operations.

Engle and Truly were within 31 seconds of liftoff Nov. 4, when the nearly flawless countdown was halted by high pressure readings in two auxiliary power units.

lifted the restriction after PATCO was decertified by the Federal Labor Relations Authority last month.

The Federal Aviation Administration has cut air traffic, especially at the 22 major airports, because of the reduced number of controllers. FAA guidelines are aimed at limiting commercial flights to about 78 percent of normal through the winter, although the reductions are often more severe during peak travel hours at major airports.

Nader accused the administration of being unreasonably harsh toward the controllers, who walked off their jobs despite a law prohibiting a strike against the federal government.

plan during the 1980 presidential campaign, calling for cuts of 10 percent a year for three years.

According to the article, the tax cut was given the new name "supply-side" for an old school of thought that if the rich are allowed to prosper, some of their wealth will "trickle down" through the rest of the economy.

"It's kind of hard to sell 'trickle-down,' so the 'supply-side' formula was the only way to get a tax policy that was really 'trickle-down.' 'Supply-side' is 'trickle-down.'" Stockman is quoted as saying.

The article was written by William Greider, a columnist and assistant managing editor for national news at The Washington Post, based on several interviews with Stockman dating back to last December.

Stockman's spokesman, Edwin Dale, said the budget director believed he was speaking "off the record" for an in-depth story Greider planned to publish after the administration completed its work on a new budget program.

Dale added that Stockman "is convinced that the program set forward by the president is sound and that it will work."

Two new insurance proposals were given to the board and turned over to the insurance committee. The increase in rates imposed by Blue Cross and Blue Shield prompted the board to look into a cheaper policy group.

Holder recommended to the board, however, to remain a client of Blue Cross until an appropriate contract could be worked out with another company. The board approved to continue on a monthly basis.

The board also heard routine cafeteria, transportation tax reports, and organizational reports.

After adjournment, the board was invited to tour the industrial arts department at the high school as part of the curriculum report.

Friena Chairman Elected

FRIONA — The Board of Directors of Friena Industries, Inc. elected Ron Davenport, Chairman of the Board, President, and Chief Executive Officer; Charles H. Hughes, Financial Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer; and Michael Pitts, Controller, and declared a 10 cents per share quarterly cash dividend on the company's common stock at its session following the annual shareholders meeting.

Davenport has been President and Chief Executive Officer since 1977. He joined the Company in 1967. Hughes has served as Financial Vice President and Treasurer since 1979. Pitts became affiliated with the company in 1978 and most recently has been Chief Accountant.

Robert L. Bliss was reelected as Vice President - Feedyards.

At the same time, A.L. Black, Chairman of the Board, and David J. Goddard, Senior Vice President, resigned their positions as officers of the Company. However, both will remain on the board of directors.

Black has contracted to purchase the Company's steel fabrication and erection business - Poarch Bros. Division - in exchange for 105,525 shares of Friena Industries' common stock he owns. The Poarch Bros. Division contributed less than 1 percent of the Company's consolidated revenues in fiscal 1981. Mr. Black is one of the organizers and original stockholders in Friena Feed Yard, which was the basic unit from which Friena Industries was formed. He was named board chairman in 1977.

Goddard resigned his position to pursue personal business interests. He joined the Company in 1972, and was elected an officer and director in early 1973. In 1979 he was promoted to Senior Vice President in charge of corporate development.

The 10-cents-per-share dividend is payable Feb. 3, 1982 to shareholders of record as of Jan. 15, 1982.

Vandalism Investigated

Two incidents of vandalism were reported to Hereford police Tuesday, with two juveniles being caught in the act.

The two youths were caught throwing tomatoes at a car parked at the Sugarland Mall and were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Mario Lucio, 612 Irving, told police that someone had cut two of the tires on her pickup during the weekend.

Police also checked out a prowler report in the 600 block of Avenue J, investigated four minor accidents and issued 14 minor traffic citations.

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office reported the theft of a tool box and tools from a bar west of town and two men arrested in connection with the theft of a pickup load of corn Sunday are out on bail.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Recently my husband and I were visiting relatives in Hereford when my husband suddenly went into cardiac arrest.

The ambulance was called and within two minutes arrived on the scene. He was unconscious, no heart beat or respiration. It was remarkable the speed with which they responded and with such expertise they performed. In about thirty minutes he was stable and transferred to the emergency room of Hereford General Hospital.

These days it seems that mostly the negative news is publicized rather than the positive. We wanted Hereford and the surrounding area to know how fortunate they are to have this type of medical service available. The ambulance is staffed with professionals from the hospital and with volunteers. They have the same type of equipment that is available in the emergency rooms.

We found the nurses in the Intensive Care Unit to be superior in the way they gave of themselves. Every employee of the hospital with whom we were in contact was very caring and most effective in his or her duties.

It is very reassuring to know such medical assistance is available; and this type of program does not just happen - a great deal of planning and team work had to go into the operation of such an institution.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Travis Caraway

SPS Employee To Be Honored

Newcomer Likes Special Ed Dept.

By DEBBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

"Hereford has a very respected Special Education Department and I was happy to move to here because of this," states Marge Bell who is employed as Speech, Hearing, and Language Pathologist with the Hereford Independent School System.

Born in Lubbock, Mrs. Bell was raised in Otton where she graduated from high school in 1970. Following her graduation, in 1974, from West Texas State University, Mrs. Bell was employed by Hart School System as Speech Therapist for five years.

While living in Hart she met and married her husband, Ralph, who is an electronic technician with Mobilcom of Amarillo. Immediately prior to moving to Hereford, in May of this year, Mrs. Bell was employed by the Panhandle School System for two years.

An active member of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association, Mrs. Bell says, "My job is never boring because I face new challenges each day in helping early childhood students overcome speech and language problems."

Mrs. Bell is assigned to Shirley and Tierra Blanca schools where she works with all early childhood students and other students with a variety of problems from simple speech articulation to severely handicapped children.

Mrs. Bell is also a member of the Panhandle Regional Speech and Hearing Association of which she has served as a committee member.

Though she considers the acquisition of speech and language skill her specialty, Mrs. Bell is currently exploring the possibilities of Signing, such as used by the deaf, in establishing means of communication with non-verbally communicative people.

Having earned a bachelor of science degree as a speech and hearing major and endorsements for teaching mentally retarded students, Mrs. Bell is continuing her education at WTSU with work towards a Masters degree.

She also says that she is learning more about her work everyday at home where she observes her one-year-old daughter, Robin, learning communication skills.

Other interests of Mrs. Bell include needle crafts and reading. She and her family attend Immanuel Lutheran Church where she is involved in the choir and is a new addition to the teaching staff of the Sunday School department.

In closing, Mrs. Bell states, "I like Hereford, the people are friendly and it is close to our original homes."

Mrs. Curry Honored With Birthday Dinner

Mrs. Ethel Curry was honored with a dinner, Sunday, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Walsler, of Summerfield, in celebration of her 83rd birthday. Attending the dinner party were Mrs. Curry's two daughters, Mrs. Guy Walsler and Mrs. Pat Morse, of Ft. Worth, and their husbands.

Also attending were the following relatives and friends: Mr. and Mrs. L.W. Foust, of Plainview; Mrs. Cleatis Hayes, Cody, and Devia Baker of Lockney; Mrs. Durven Baker and her four week old son, Luke, a great, great grandson of Mrs. Curry, of Beaver, Okla.; Mrs. Gene Purcell, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Purcell and Amy of Canadian; Mr. and Mrs. Mac Purcell, Lori, Joshua and April of Briscoe; and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Lowman and Heather of Perryton.

Attending from Hereford were Mr. and Mrs. Don Walsler, Deonn, Mikel, and Brad; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Walsler and Jill; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clark, Mr. C.R. Walsler; and Mrs. Helen Parsons. Wayne Walsler and Mike Harris of Summerfield and Walter Foust of Amarillo also attended. Britt Clark and L.J. Clark called in the afternoon.

There were five generations present on Mrs. Curry's side of the family and also five generations present on Mr. C.R. Walsler's side. Mrs. Curry's six great, great grandchildren are also Mr. C.R. Walsler's great, great grandchildren.

Mrs. Curry was born on Nov. 6, 1898 near McKinney in Collins County. She moved to Summerfield in 1924 with her husband and two daughters. Mrs. Curry resided in the Summerfield community until the death of her husband in 1960. She lived in the Kings Manor Methodist Home for 15 years, and has been in the Westgate Nursing Home since November of 1970. She still keeps busy with ceramics work.

Early Admission Offered To LVN's

Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center School of Nursing is accepting applications from Licensed Vocational Nurses (LVN's) for spring semester addition into the baccalaureate degree program. LVN's accepted in the early admissions program will begin taking non-nursing courses at Texas Tech in January. They will be able to start clinical nursing coursework during the summer session with those admitted in the regular admission program for the 1982-83 academic year.

The School of Nursing admitted its first students in August 1981. The student body includes men and women with no previous nursing education, LVN's and Registered Nurses (RN's) from diploma programs all in pursuit of the Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) degree. LVN's and RN's are admitted at levels commensurate with their nursing education based upon review of their academic records and/or examination.

A limited number of openings are available for the parking admission program, according to Susan Jordan, student services officer. Applicants considered but not admitted for the spring class will still be eligible for consideration for admission in the fall semester.

Complete applications for this early admission should be submitted by Nov. 20, and must include all required documents, reference forms and transcripts.

For information on application and early admission, contact the Student Services Office; TTUHSC School of Nursing; Lubbock, Texas 79430, or call (806) 743-2737.

Local Students Cast In Fall Production

The Drama Department of the Clarendon College Fine Arts Center will present as its fall production a dashing western romance entitled "Deadwood Dick." Performances will be given on Saturday, Nov. 21 at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 22 at 2 p.m. and Tuesday, Nov. 24 at 7:30 p.m.

Included in the cast are Doug Kelley, Bryan Diller, and Will Fellers, all of Hereford. They will be portraying cowboys of the old west.

The three act play is the dramatization of a bloodthirsty dime novel with the lure of the old west; of six-gun heroes, and of redskins biting the dust; of lily-pure maidens, and black hearted gamblers; and of course, the never-ending "Game of Gold." The play was written by Tom Taggart, and will be under the direction of Ms. Lealle Schnauter.

There will be a special discount on Saturday night for all organizations, groups, or school groups which make reservations. Reserved tickets will be $1 per person, and tickets sold at the door will be $2.

Club To Hold Dance Saturday

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Gun Club will be having a dance for all teenagers Saturday from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the K.C. Hall.

The dance was originally to be sponsored by the Hereford Gun Club and persons who purchased tickets may contact members for a refund.

Tickets are $3 for singles and $5 a couple. Music will be by Phibbs and Kreighauser both taped and live. The dance will be chaperoned.

Delivering Door Hangers

Shown above are Shaun Moore, left, and Brian Thomas delivering door hangers in preparation for Boy Scout Goodturn Day on Saturday. The scouts will be accepting donations of useable clothing, shoes, dishes, and other items which they will deliver to the Goodwill Rehabilitation Center to be repaired and processed. Items will then be sold in Goodwill stores, with the proceeds going to pay salaries of handicapped people. (Brand Photo by Kelly Cherry).

Film Planned For December Meeting

A switch to an evening session for the December meeting of Deaf Smith County Republican Women's Organization, for a guest night to feature a film showing, was planned at the organization's Monday noon meeting.

The film titled "You Can Make a Difference" will be presented the evening of Dec. 14. Members will invite their husbands and other guests for the showing and an informal social period.

Other coming events discussed include a brief visit to Amarillo by Gov. Bill Clements Nov. 17, when he has invited area Republicans to meet him at the airport; also a fund raising event for the county group early in 1982, possibly a spring style show and luncheon. Ruth Newsom was appointed to investigate possibilities. Jane White, president, and Marge Mehlberg, secretary of the county organization, attended the recent state convention of Republican Women at Waco, and their report was given. New district chairmen were chosen there, and Julie Arrington, of Canadian, was named for the Panhandle district.

More than 900 delegates represented the 9,500 members of GOP Women's organizations in Texas at the meeting, Mrs. Mehlberg said. Gov. Clements and U.S. Senator John Tower were among the speakers.

The Hereford women went to Waco with Deanne Clark and Dorothy Hopson of the Dimmitt unit.

Boy Scouts Collect Items For Goodwill

On Saturday, Nov. 14, 3,300 Boy Scouts will participate in Boy Scout Goodturn Day for Goodwill Industries.

Scouts will deliver door hangers to 40,000 homes in Amarillo, Hereford, Canyon, and Dumas. People will be asked to donate usable items such as clothing, dishes, shoes, and electrical appliances.

The items will be picked up after 1 p.m. and taken in trucks furnished by the National Guard to the Goodwill Rehabilitation Center, where employees of Goodwill will repair and process the items.

Donations will eventually be placed in Goodwill stores, where the proceeds from sales are used to pay salaries of handicapped people.

Club Yearbook Wins Blue Ribbon

The Hereford Music Study Club met Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Wayne Thomas. Mrs. Lynton Allred, president, conducted a short business meeting.

A report was given concerning the recent district convention were Mrs. Allred, Mrs. W.T. Carmichael, Mrs. Joe Reinsaur, Sr., and Mrs. Joe Reinsaur, Jr. The slate of new district officers was announced. Delegates proudly announced a blue ribbon awarded for the club's 1981-82 yearbook and a perfect rating score.

Concluding the business, was the singing of the hymn of the month, "Praise the Lord, Ye Heavens" by Prichard. The hymn was directed by Mrs. Ken Walsler and accompanied by Mrs. Thomas.

Mrs. Wesley Fisher led the study of "Debussy: the Fruitful Years." She discussed Debussy's adoration of Wagner and then his departure from this style of music. Mrs. Fisher pointed out the importance of the fact that Debussy was a product of a literary movement called symbolism.

The following compositions were then performed to further study this time period in the life of Debussy: "Minstrels," a piano solo by Mrs. Walsler; "Bessie Blair," a vocal solo by Mrs. Walsler and accompanied by Mrs. Allen Canaler; "Jardins Sous La Pluie," a piano solo by Mrs. Tom Burdett; "Romance," a vocal solo by Mrs. Allred and accompanied by Mrs. Canaler; and "Ballet," a piano duet by Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Sid Shaw.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. A.T. Griffin, and Mrs. Reinsaur, Jr.

Other members present were Mrs. J.R. Allison, Thomas Betson, Bill Bradley, S.F. Clements, Paul Lyons, J.C. McCracken, J.D. Neill, A.J. Schroeter, Bob Sims, Mary Carter, Harold Close, D.J. Mounts, and Theresa Vines.

The next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. on Dec. 14 in the home of Mrs. Allison. Members are asked to bring scholarship donations to this Christmas party.

The Solomon Islands, a Melanesian archipelago in the western Pacific Ocean, were sighted in 1568 by an expedition from Peru. British established a protectorate in the 1890s over most of the group. Self-government came on Jan. 2, 1978.

Drugs To Inhibit Arousal?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: With an overabundance of media attention and promotion of products directed toward increasing sexual potency, my request will seem odd. I would like to know about the availability of non-prescription preparations for inhibiting sexual arousal. For me, and possibly others who read your column, intimate relationships with significant others are not feasible. But the desire persists, and the feelings of frustration are terrible. Personal convictions prevent me from engaging in purely physical one-night stands. I might add this predicament is not limited to any particular age group. I am in my mid-20s, well-educated and enjoy the company of women. But I dread battling my libidinal urges for the next 40 or 50 years. Can you help?—Middle American With A Serious Problem

DEAR AMERICAN: Cold showers will sound corny, and so will the suggestion that you use up your sexual energy by exercising. But they do work. Actually, the best suggestion (which I am sure will produce a load of critical mail—but I'll offer it anyway because three authorities who specialize in sexual dysfunction say it's the best solution) is self-gratification. They point out it's harmless and involves no one else.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister-in-law buried her alcoholic husband several years ago. Now she has married another one. When he drinks, he becomes mean and abusive. He is particularly rough with his stepson (my nephew "Joey").

Joey is entering his junior year in college and has asked my wife and me to let him stay with us weekends and school holidays. We have three children of our own to support, so we told him, "Sorry, you'll have to tough it out on your own." The boy said he understood and will work it out, somehow, but he refuses to go home on the "break" periods. I feel bad that we had to turn him away. We want your opinion. Did we do the right thing?—Concerned G.F.

DEAR CONCERNED: Obviously you feel guilty, or you would not have written. But you didn't explain why it would have been such a hardship to take Joey for weekends and holidays. Did anyone suggest a part-time job for Joey, so he could pay toward his keep? I hope you will explore all the alternatives and manage, somehow, to rescue him. The boy sounds desperate.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have written to you at least four times and you have never printed any of my letters. I'm beginning to think you are a phony. Joy and I have been going together for a year and a half. We love each other very much, and until recently we were getting along just fine. But now some problems have come up and things are getting out of hand. We are both willing to go to a marriage counselor. But who can we go to? We aren't married. If you are for real, you'll give us some help.—SOS in Buffalo

DEAR SOS: What you need is joint counseling. I recommend a pastor, priest or rabbi. Too many people are unaware that most clergy have had excellent training in pastoral counseling. If you don't have a clergyman, look in the phone book and call a church that appeals to you. Or check Mental Health in the phone book and ask about joint pre-marital counseling. Better to iron out as many wrinkles as possible before marriage. The others pop up soon enough.

McNaney Honored At Bridal Shower

A Bridal Shower honoring Mona Lynn McNaney, bride-elect of Ricky Klein, was held Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Juston McBride. Diane McNaney presided at the guest book. Hot cranberry punch and coffee, along with pumpkin bread, cookies, and nuts were served by Cheryl Shutsworth.

Special guests included the bride's mother, Julia McNaney; the bride's sister, Diane McNaney; the groom's mother, Dorothy Atkinson; his grandmother, Mrs. E.D. Watson; and his three sisters, Sherry Myers, Prissy Klein, and Terri Myers. The groom's mother and sisters are from Amarillo. Hostesses were Doris Bryant, Mary Dziuk, Mary Hendrickson, Mrs. McBride, Helen Nunley, Linda Pagett, Betty Rice, Murleen Streun, Marn Tyler, Nina Vera, and Leanna Walterscheid.

Chapter Holds Election Of Officers

The Magic Triangle Chapter of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees met Thursday in the Flame Room at Energas.

The main order of business was election of officers for the coming year. The following slate of officers was elected: Miles Caudle, president; Tom Manning, vice-president-activities; Perry Jayroe, vice-president-membership; Eunice Petersen, secretary-treasurer; and Argen Draper, legislative officer.

The following members were present: Mary A. Frye, past president, Messrs. and Mmes. J.O. Robinson, Harold Kaderly, and Caudle, Mrs. Petersen, Mrs. Eula Faye Jacobs, and Messrs. Manning and Jayroe.

The next regular meeting will be held Thursday, Jan. 7, 1982, at 3 p.m. Any retired federal employee, including military personnel, is welcome to attend.

Anyone wishing further information about the organization may call any of the officers named above.

Mount Everest

Mount Everest was considered to be 29,002 feet tall when Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay scaled it in 1953. In 1981 the Surveyor General of the Republic of India set the height at 29,028 feet, plus or minus 10 feet because of snow. The National Geographic Society accepts the newer figure, but many mountaineering groups still use 29,002 feet.

McKnight To Hold Fund Raiser

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Billy Bob's in Fort Worth will become Peyton's place next month for a fund-raiser that will feature country singer Willie Nelson, according to Sen. Peyton McKnight.

McKnight, a Democratic primary candidate for governor, announced the Dec. 7 fund-raising event for 6,000 people in a speech Tuesday to the Austin chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi.

He bemoaned predictions that next year's elections will cost politicians about $20 a vote but said he stands ready to raise all the money he needs — $5 million, according to his remarks on earlier occasions.

"I think if elections can be bought and won with money, then the people who are yours and mine — our constituents — will be shortchanged," the Tyler senator said.

McKnight, the only announced candidate for governor in the Democratic primary, said he would be happy if nobody else entered the race.

He cited estimates that Democrats would spend $10 million to $12 million on their primary and Republicans would spend $9 million to $10 million on the general election.

If one million Texans turn out for the 1982 elections, that amounts to more than $20 a vote, he said.

"You have to have money to win a race. I am a realist, and I know it will be a lot easier for me to run a race properly because I know I can raise the money to run that race," McKnight said.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Attorney General Mark White say they are considering running for governor. McKnight said the three of them have agreed "that if they run, we will talk about issues, not personalities."

He said he has not heard from another possible candidate — former Gov. Dolph Briscoe — since before McKnight announced his candidacy on Oct. 17.

McKnight challenged journalists to "balance the hype" of candidates' news releases and advertisements.

"I may be talking myself into a corner, chiding you into investigating the candidates and issues in Texas politics. That may be a little like filling a wheelbarrow full of fresh cow manure and trying to push it uphill without getting any on you," he said.

McKnight promised that if elected he would continue the pattern of weekly news conferences established by Gov. Bill Clements.

"I have never been a recluse when it comes to dealing with the press," he said.

He also said that if elected he would work to make sure the new wiretap law is not re-enacted when it expires in 1983.

ABC Still No. 1 Despite 'Dallas'

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC, thrust to the top during the World Series, held onto first place in the networks' weekly prime-time ratings competition despite the continuing success of last season's top-rated show, CBS' "Dallas," figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

CBS won the first two weeks of the 1981-82 season, which was delayed by labor problems in Hollywood, but ABC, broadcasting baseball's fall championship series, claimed the distinction the last two weeks.

With the series over, ABC retained the standing, thanks largely to the first TV showing of the movie "Grease," a key "Monday Night Football" game and nine of the 20 highest-rated shows in the week ending Nov. 8.

ABC's rating for the week was 19.2 to 18.4 for CBS and 16.1 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the period, 19.2 percent of the country's television-equipped homes were watching ABC.

In addition, ABC's "World News Tonight" finished No. 1 for the second straight week, with CBS' "Evening News" second and "Nightly News" on NBC third.

The rating for "Dallas" — No. 1 three of the five weeks of the new season — was 27.4. Nielsen says that means of the nation's homes with TV, 27.4 percent saw at least part of the program.

NBC, though third for the fifth consecutive week, found some consolation in the week's highest-rated new series, "Love, Sidney," tied for 14th place, and "Father Murphy" 30th. "Hill Street Blues," acclaimed by the critics last season but largely ignored by viewers, registered its highest rating ever for the second consecutive week, and finished 28th.

But NBC had five of the week's six lowest-rated shows, with "NBC Magazine" 64th, "Here's Boomer" 65th, a movie, "The Legacy of Maggie Walsh" 67th, "Lewis and Clark" 68th and "Fitz and Bones" 69th. "Maggie," on ABC, was No. 66.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated programs: "Dallas," with a rating of 27.4 representing 22.3 million homes.

CBS; Movie—"Grease," 25.1 or 20.4 million, ABC; "60 Minutes,"

24.8 or 20.2 million, and "Dukes of Hazard," 24.1 or 19.6 million, both CBS; "Three's Company," 23.1 or 18.8 million, ABC; "Facts of Life," 22.3 or 18.1 million, NBC; "Love Boat," ABC, and "Magnum, P.I.," CBS, both 22.1 or 18 million; "M-A-S-H," 22 or 17.9 million, CBS, and "NFL Monday Night Football," Denver vs. Minnesota, 21.9 or 17.8 million.

The remainder of the Top 20:

"Too Close for Comfort," ABC; "Archie Bunker's Place," CBS; Movie—"Born to

Bazaar This Week
Nellie Bethune is pictured above working on crafts to be sold in the bazaar this week at the Senior Citizens Center. The bazaar will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and will feature handmade crafts and baked goods.

Officers Elected

Wa Can Ke Ya Discovery net Monday evening at 704 Plains. New officers were elected: These include Sandra Daugherty, president; Leslie Birdwell, vice-president; Daphn Rosson, secretary; and Mary Ruth Hamman, reporter.

Plans were made for the Christmas party, and committees were appointed to see about arrangements. The group discussed the Torch Bearer badges they would work on this year.

Refreshments were served to those listed above and Rita Collins, assistant and Mary Jo Hamman, leader.

New Members Introduced

The members of Xi Epsilon Alpha met recently in the Friendship Room of the First National Bank.

Jan Walser conducted the model meeting to introduce four new girls to Beta Sigma Phi. The four girls are: Rose Maire Robinson, Jo Ann Blackwell, Oleta Tisdale and Judy Blaylock.

After the model meeting, refreshments were provided by the hostesses Lynda Brown and Barbara Burkhalter.

Members of Xi Epsilon Alpha are selling tickets for $100 worth of merchandise, from Anthony's. The tickets are $1.00 each and a donation will go to Girls Town.

Members present for the evening were: Nan Gauthreaux, Ms. Walser, Brenda Thomas, Ronna Howell, Margie Waddell, Ms. Brown, Ms. Burkhalter, Opal Glenn, Jean Holbert, Alene Tindal, Brown, and Phyllis Neil.

St. Thomas Episcopal Church Announces Winners

St. Thomas Episcopal Church women held two drawings at their Annual Christmas Bazaar which was held last weekend. The winner of the grandfather clock was Gayle McElhaney and the winner of the miniature Christmas tree was Dorothy Renfro.

The Women of St. Thomas Church wish to express their appreciation to the people of Hereford and surrounding communities who support this annual event. The income from the Bazaar is used for the support of St. Thomas Church outreach, building fund, and local needs.

In addition, the Women of St. Thomas support St. Jude's Ranch for Children, Boulder City, Nevada; and the work of the Episcopal Church among the Navajo Indians; and the work of the Church in relieving needs throughout the world by supporting the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief.

Newly Elected Officers

Bazaar Scheduled In Wildorado This Week

The Wildorado Extension Homemaker Club is sponsoring their annual Christmas Bazaar this Friday and Saturday at the Wildorado Community Center. The event will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Nov. 13 and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Nov. 14.

There will be Christmas decorations, gifts, toys, baby items, crocheted items, and many other crafts. Also featured will be baked items. Everyone is invited to come and begin shopping for Christmas gifts as well as many other items.

Illegal Marijuana Used To Help M.S. Victim

By DOTIE ROARK Tyler
 Courier-Times-Telegraph
TYLER, Texas (AP) — Karen slowly rolls a joint while she sits at her kitchen table. But she is not out for a good time getting high.

The 40-year-old housewife smokes marijuana so she can do simple things like walking, cleaning the house and taking care of her children.

She is one of about 1 million Americans with multiple sclerosis, a neurological disorder that can result in spasticity. And she is one of an increasing number of people turning to marijuana for relief from neurological disorders, glaucoma and cancer.

Karen is not her real name. A housewife and grandmother, she lives in the Tyler area and was interviewed by the Tyler Courier-Times-Telegraph.

Although Texas has a law recognizing the use of marijuana for medicinal purposes, an individual cannot apply for federally-grown marijuana. Karen's physician, Tyler neurologist Dr. Preston Harrison, says he will not "dispense marijuana to any patient with multiple sclerosis or any other medical illness."

Karen contends she cannot do even simple things, like opening a vitamin bottle for her small grandchild, without marijuana to "stabilize" her M.S.

"It stops me from shaking. It brings me up to being a normal person," she says.

Doctors diagnosed multiple sclerosis in November 1979, although she had been suffering from what she later learned were M.S. symptoms for many years, Karen said.

Sitting in a sunny kitchen decorated with children's drawings, the tall, slender mother of six contends marijuana is the only thing that keeps her on her feet.

"I know other people with M.S. who get down with it, but I'm still walking," she said.

Karen says she tried — without success — various drugs prescribed by her doctor before turning to marijuana. She said the drugs made her drowsy and depressed.

"I'd be crying all the time," she said.

She first tried marijuana five years ago for her "nerve problems."

"It was great. It calmed me down."

After learning she had M.S., Karen read an article in a New York newspaper about a woman with M.S. who used marijuana to ease the disease. Karen was unhappy with prescribed drugs and began using marijuana regularly, she said.

In addition to stopping her muscle spasms, the marijuana is effective against pain.

"You have so much pain," she said. "You can't take pain pills for it. I've tried that."

Karen says turning to marijuana was not an easy step.

"I felt guilty about it for two years. I used to go out in the car and drive off somewhere to smoke it," she said. "I wanted to tell my husband, but I couldn't. I had to talk my family into it. They looked down on it."

"But the reason my family understands it is they see me walk when I use it. And I can't when I'm not using it," she added.

Her husband says he has seen enough to be "convinced that it really does help her."

Karen's husband compares

M.S. to short-circuited nerve connections. "The marijuana reconnects her bad circuits," he said.

Karen and her husband hope they will be successful in her effort to get permission to use marijuana for medicinal purposes.

She says she's tired of worrying about being arrested and tired of the trouble and expense of acquiring marijuana "off the streets."

Karen estimates she smokes about a pound a month, costing her $100 a week.

Her physician, Dr. Harrison, says marijuana is not considered a legitimate treatment for M.S.

"This is not considered at this time to be either efficacious or an orthodox treatment of multiple sclerosis by the scientific community," he said.

Harrison says he does not object to patients trying marijuana if they are monitored by professionals at facilities "such as Southwestern or Baylor Medical School" where the drug is being tested for its effectiveness against certain illnesses.

But Karen has been turned down by a doctor she was referred to at Southwestern Medical School in Dallas.

Officials at Baylor Medical School say they have been testing the effects of marijuana on the reproductive systems of monkeys but are not doing any studies on the effect of marijuana on M.S.

Doctors have used marijuana primarily to treat cancer patients for nausea that results from chemotherapy.

In Spokane, Wash., a superior court judge recently ruled that Sam Diana's use of marijuana for M.S. was not criminal, but an act of medical necessity.

Robert Randall, who now heads the Washington lobbyist group Alliance for Cannabis (marijuana) Therapeutics, was the first to win the right to legally smoke marijuana as a treatment for his glaucoma.

"(Karen) has a legitimate medical need," he said. "If she wanted fun, the other drugs she is being prescribed are more powerful. Marijuana is insignificant in terms of hallucinatory and psychological effects."

Randall says Karen's use of marijuana for treating M.S. is not unique. He says thousands of M.S. victims probably are using marijuana illegally.

A 1979 pilot study by Denis J. Petro and Carl Ellenberger Jr., examined the effects of THC (the psychoactive ingredient in marijuana) on multiple sclerosis patients, Randall said. The study found that seven of nine patients who were administered low doses showed "significantly reduced spasticity."

Texas' program for the medicinal use of marijuana is administered through a patient qualification review board set up in 1979.

A spokesman for the state health department says the board is authorized to approve the use of marijuana only for cancer patients undergoing chemotherapy.

"Unfortunately, a repressive federal prohibition against marijuana's use in medicine is retarding research in this area and depriving people like (Karen) of adequate medical care," Randall said.

But Randall says some lawmakers are waking up to the need for medicinal marijuana.

In September, Reps. Stewart McKinney, R-Conn., and Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., introduced legislation to make marijuana legally available for medical use. The bill would establish a national program for cultivation and distribution of medicinal marijuana.

Karen says she will keep hoping for a legal means to obtain marijuana.

In the meantime, because she says she wants to walk and function somewhat normally without the use of less effective and more powerful drugs, she will keep on breaking the law.

Girl's Sickness Shows Waste

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Like the respirator next to her hospital bed, government benefits make life possible for little Katie Beckett.

care for Katie and bringing here home would be "better for everyone involved."

But the government rules that govern those benefits make life difficult for the 3-year-old's parents — so much so that their plight was mentioned Tuesday by President Reagan as a living example of how federal regulations can fail to satisfy the people they're meant to help, and waste money at the same time.

Mark and Julie Beckett Katie's folks want her home and her doctors say that's the best place for her. Care for her paralyzing disease would cost $3,000 a month at home instead of $12,000 a month at the hospital.

But if she goes home, the government won't pick up the tab for her treatment.

Beckett, 29, works at a lumber yard; his 32-year-old wife is a schoolteacher.

"We're not poor enough to be eligible, but we're not rich enough to handle it," Mrs. Beckett said Tuesday. "No one would be rich enough to handle all the things she needs."

Reagan did not mention Katie's name, but cited her case during his nationally televised news conference, asking, "By what sense do we have a regulation in government that pays $6,000 a month to keep someone in the hospital that we believe would be better off at home but the family cannot afford one-sixth of that amount to keep them at home?"

The family said the figures Reagan used are out of date and the costs have doubled. The president learned of the case from Vice President George Bush, who was in Iowa last week and spoke to Rep. Thomas Tauke, R-Iowa.

Medicaid pays the little girl's medical bills under the Supplemental Security Income plan, said Jayne Hart, an aide to Tauke. If Katie goes home, the SSI money would be cut off because she would be living with a family that has income and assets, Miss Hart said.

The girl contracted viral encephalitis four months after birth and her ability to breathe and swallow were affected. She is about 80 percent recovered from the paralysis, but has brain damage and a weakened respiratory system. While she can be taken home for short periods, Katie has spent every night since September 1978 at the Cedar Rapids hospital.

The couple said the Department of Health and Human Services rejected their plea for an exemption from the Medicaid rules and that's when they contacted their congressman.

Mrs. Beckett said she and her husband were "overwhelmed, to say the least, when they said the president was going to mention it in his news conference."

"With the rejection, we were very disappointed. Today, we are very proud that he would take the time to acknowledge that this existed."

Mrs. Beckett and her husband have learned how to

Windcrest-Home Of Generals

By MACK BEEK Associated Press Writer

WINDCREST, Texas (AP) — There is nearly one retired general for every 100 residents in this small affluent San Antonio suburb, dubbed "Fort Windcrest" because of its population of top Air Force, Army and Navy brass.

Located halfway between Fort Sam Houston and Randolph Air Force Base, Windcrest, population 5,336, is the crown jewel in San Antonio's military community, a dominant economic force in this metropolitan area of one million people.

Elliot Johnson, staff manager for military affairs for the Greater San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, said the "fort" nickname could apply to the entire San Antonio area, which benefits economically from military retirees' attraction to the city's five major military installations and warm climate.

His figures, gleaned from military finance offices, reveal that there are 42,330 retired service and reserve personnel living here, and they collected $286 million in retirement pay last year.

Nearly $3.7 million of that figure went to 4,216 Navy personnel who moved here after retirement. The rest went to former Air Force and Army officers and enlisted men, many of whom were stationed in San Antonio during their military careers.

San Antonio's major military installations — Randolph, Brooks, Lackland and Kelly air force bases and Fort Sam Houston — also have 40,500 active duty personnel who earned $330 million in pay during 1980.

The recently approved military pay raise added $68 million a year to that figure, Johnson said.

"We know the military impact on this community is $1.5 billion every year," he said, including salaries for thousands of civil service workers and retired military personnel at the bases and Audie Murphy Veterans Hospital.

"In this city we try to be pro-military and make them feel at home," Johnson said.

Most retirees chose to come to the San Antonio area because of its excellent military facilities, said retired Col. John Campbell.

Campbell is director of development at Air Force Village, a 15-story retirement complex which opened in 1976. It is located near Willford Hall Air Force Hospital, the service's largest medical facility and is in the process of doubling its capacity to 377 units.

The $14 million complex, started at the request of the Air Force Wives Club of Washington, D.C., and the wife of former Air Force chief of staff Curtis LeMay, will have a population of 600 when all its new units open next month. The facility will include 238 mid- and high-rise apartments, 125 garden homes and a new 68-bed nursing home with complete medical care and meal service.

Residents of the complex include retired Gen. Harry Armstrong, the first surgeon general of the Air Force, and Col. George Howard, first director of the Air Force Band. He has formed a choral group to entertain at other homes for the elderly.

Campbell said he considered retiring to California or Arizona, but settled on San Antonio because he and his wife had made many friends here during their active-duty days.

Retired Col. Richard Hagauer, executive director of the non-profit village which operates without federal subsidies, said he selected San Antonio as his home because of its frontier feeling.

"I decided years ago that I would eventually retire in San Antonio because it's the frontier — open, not crowded."

Retired Army Col. Mark Hanson, a Guthrie, Okla.,

native who donates one day a week working for the Retired Officers Association, said he chose the city for its warmer climate.

"I was stationed at the Pentagon," he said. "My wife had arthritis and we thought we'd move somewhere in the South where the weather was better. And as far as the Army goes, this is the main medical center."

Hanson said many retirees come to San Antonio to be near other military personnel who went through World War II and the Korean and Viet Nam wars.

Many of them spend their time relaxing, playing golf, traveling and "telling lies about the war," he said.

Texas Economy Healthy

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Monday said Texas' prospering economy and healthy business climate played a vital role in the state's solid financial record during the last budget year.

"Business is welcome and comfortable in Texas and that's a situation that contributes to an economy that continues to outpace other states as well as strengthen the tax base and tax collections," Bullock said.

Bullock's assessment was drawn from the State of Texas 1981 Annual Financial report covering the state's fiscal year which ended on Aug. 31, 1981.

"Texas finances remained sound," Bullock said in the report's transmittal letter to Governor Bill Clements.

Bullock noted that the Texas economy fared well in 1980, which is generally considered a recession year nationally, and that growth in population, personal income and jobs had a direct positive effect on state revenues and taxes.

The ability of Texas to absorb a high population growth while maintaining relatively high levels of employment and per capita income has been the key to the strong posture of the Texas economy, the report said.

The annual report showed that the state gained more than 200,000 jobs in the past year, and that this economic growth was instrumental in an increase of per capita income for Texans.

Texas income grew at an average annual rate of 4.9 percent between 1977 and 1980, compared to U.S. income over the same period of 3.3 percent.

The report showed that total revenue and beginning cash balances of $16.66 billion financed net expenditures of $13.19 billion.

Bullock said the state ended up with a possible "cash surplus" of about $350 million and a General Revenue fund ending cash balance of $99.3 million, minus about $40 million in existing spending authority and obligations not recorded or paid.

Bullock said the ending cash balance in the General Revenue Fund was less than 50 percent of the figure that he predicted in a Revenue Estimate to the Legislature last January.

Improved data collection and economic analysis continue to improve the state's ability to monitor its financial transactions, he said.

"The state's financial health is tied directly to the strength of the state's economy and is part and parcel to the government's financial well-being," Bullock said.

Energy production, because of higher prices, pushed oil and gas production taxes to record levels—$2.19 billion in 1981—but still well behind state sales tax which produced $2.9 billion.

Oil, gas and sales tax collections were responsible for 51 percent of the 62 percent increase in tax collections, Bullock said.

Motor fuels, franchise, business, alcohol, motor vehicle, insurance, and miscellaneous taxes totals about $2.1 billion.

State expenditures during the year increased about 11 percent over 1980. Education outlays claimed about half of the increase, followed by increases in welfare and highway spending.

Support for state and local education totaled $2.1 billion. Welfare expenditures reached $1.8 billion and outlays for highway maintenance and construction totaled $1.5 billion.

Texas received $2.55 billion in federal funds during 1980 and this money accounted for 21.4 percent of the state's total net revenue.

Antitrust Possible By Church

By LARRY MARGASAK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rejecting First Amendment arguments of freedom of religion, a federal appeals court says churches may be prosecuted for antitrust violations.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday that churches or church groups are not immune from antitrust laws if they pursue policies that reduce competition in the marketplace.

The ruling marked the first time, the court said, that antitrust laws had been applied to a religious organization.

The appeals panel overturned a lower court ruling which held that religiously motivated conduct "is not the type which falls within the realm of the antitrust laws."

The appeals panel said the lower court should decide whether Catholic bishops in the United States violated antitrust laws when they asked retailers of religious books not to sell an English language liturgy that had not been approved for use in this country.

The appeals court said there must be a balancing test between the church's First Amendment right to exercise religious freedom and the right of free competition in commerce.

"Thus, the district court must initially determine if the economic pressure brought by the church is legitimately geared to the church's protection of its liturgy rather than its survival in the marketplace after religious books," said the panel, written by U.S. Circuit Judge Patricia M. Wald.

The dispute dates back to 1980, when the Second Ecumenical Council of the Vatican decided to permit use of vernacular language rather than Latin in church liturgy.

Big Farm Edges Small Farmer Out of Benefits

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has published another study which shows, not surprisingly, that big farmers still get the biggest federal benefits and small farmers the least. Critics of farm programs for nearly half a century have cited the bias in favor of larger farmers as one of the subsidy system's major flaws. Defenders say that to do otherwise would turn it into a welfare program. According to the study, based on 1978 information, about $2 billion was paid to farmers under government commodity programs intended to support prices and provide subsidies when market prices are low. Nearly half the $2 billion went to the largest 10 per cent of the farms — those with more than 500 acres of crops — including 53 percent of the payments for wheat, 41 percent for feed grain, 66 percent for cotton and 48 percent for rice.

While some small farmers received an average federal payment of $363 per farm, larger operators averaged more than $36,000, the report said.

Moreover, although there was a payment limit of $40,000 that year, some 279 farms qualified for more than that and $2 got more than $100,000 because of a loophole in the law that placed the restriction on people, not farms.

Thus, if several people were involved, the lid applied to each, not to the farm.

In 1970, Congress came up with payment limitations as part of a general farm bill, a measure much like the comprehensive legislation now being worked out in Senate-House conference meetings.

The limitation was $55,000 per crop per individual farmer. Sugar payments, which were large items at the time, were not covered, but the major crops of cotton, wheat and feed grain were.

Before the limitation was ordered by Congress, annual subsidies ranged into the millions of dollars, with one giant California corporation getting $4.4 million in farm subsidies in 1970, the last year of unlimited payments.

But while the limitation succeeded in paring the big subsidies, it did not have much impact on the overall costs of the programs, a 1972 review showed.

In 1971, the total savings attributed to the payment limitation rule amounted to less than $2.2 million — 1.6 percent of the $138.8 million paid to the big producers of cotton, feed grain and wheat who got more than $55,000 in 1970, the Agriculture Department said.

The huge payments prior to 1971, particularly to large corporate-type operations, helped raise the public consciousness about farm subsidies and led to the restrictions that were imposed. They also stirred up old controversies about the ethics of federal farm programs that mostly helped big farmers while doing little for the small producer.

A 1971 report by Charles L. Schultze, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution, outlined the distribution of farm subsidies and noted their history and pattern.

Schultze, who was Lyndon Johnson's budget director and later Jimmy Carter's chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, included some observations that apply today almost as well as then:

— "A relatively small number of large farmers produce the bulk of agricultural goods sold in the United States."

— "Most farm subsidy programs are vested not in the farmer as an individual but in the land on his farm. The farmer's benefits are based on his acreage allotment or acreage history."

— "Farm subsidies are not distributed in accordance with income levels — poor families receiving the most assistance and rich families the least. Rather, they tend, at least roughly, to be distributed in proportion to the volume of production on each farm."

— "Whatever the advantages or disadvantages of the farm subsidy program, it is not a welfare program in the sense of transferring income to low-income farm families."

Nothing really happened in the 1970s to force a basic change in the way farm program benefits are apportioned — the farmers who produce the most wheat, corn, cotton, rice and milk still get the most.

It's similar, in a way, to a factory worker with hundreds of overtime hours a year getting more money than one who works only part-time.

During the Carter administration, however, department officials initiated a massive study of the structure of agriculture, including farm programs and their impact on rural America.

Among its many findings, the study asserted that land ownership remained concentrated in fewer and fewer hands and federal policies, including those affecting taxes and subsidy programs, were partly to blame.

The study urged that more attention be paid to smaller farmers in formulation of agricultural policy and less emphasis on programs that help large operators.

"Unless present policies and programs are changed so that they counter, instead of reinforce and accelerate the trends towards ever-larger farming operations, the result will be a few large farms controlling food production in only a few years," the study report said.

Now, however, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says the Reagan administration's advocacy of free markets, greater exports and less government control is the answer for American agriculture.

For the foreseeable future, at least, federal farm programs will continue to be geared largely to those who produce the most bushels, pounds and bales of crops.

Researchers Keeping Tab On Acid Rain Effects

AUSTIN—"Acid rain" may sound like something out of a science fiction movie, but it is not a figment of a script-writer's imagination.

Acid rain, rather, is precipitation that has become more acidic than normal as it falls through heavy concentrations of sulphur and nitrogen oxides in the atmosphere. It is not a new occurrence, having been documented since the turn of the century, but many feel that as the problem worsens, it possibly could cause serious damage to crops, farmland, forests and marine life.

The key word is "possibly." Acid rain is known to corrode stone and metal objects, among other things, but insufficient scientific evidence exists on the effects of acid rain on agriculture, and it is generally agreed that much more needs to be learned.

According to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, "Acid rain has not been as great a concern in Texas as it has in the more concentrated, heavily industrialized areas of the northeastern United States. Certainly, our concern about the impact of acid rain is not limited to agriculture, but it cannot be realized that we cannot afford to gamble with our food and fiber resources, or endanger our future ability to produce them. This situation must continue to receive close attention, especially as our nation expands its reliance on coal- and lignite-fired generating plants."

Those industries which use large amounts of coal as a fuel source—particularly electric utility companies—have come under intense pressures in recent years as a source of such pollution. However, in all fairness, acid rain can also be caused by other factors such as automobile emissions, natural gas-fired boilers and even volcanoes.

Acidity is normally measured on a "pH scale" of from 1 to 14, where battery acid would have the value of 1 and a very alkaline substance such as lye the value of 14. Rainfall formed in clean, dust-free air has a pH value of between 5.6 and 5.7. In some parts of this country, and in Scandinavia and the Netherlands, some rainfall has been measured with an acidity as high as 3.0, about that of sauerkraut—a humorous comparison, perhaps, but one which raises the question of whether crops can tolerate acidic rainfall as well as humans tolerate sauerkraut.

It is suspected that important crops such as wheat and corn could be damaged by acid deposition or acidified soil. Some feel that forest growth may be slowed in areas where the problem is especially severe, and that acid rain may possibly contaminate some drinking water supplies.

As mentioned, the long-term effects of acid rain are by no means certain. But this much is clear: With this country's increasing dependence on coal, the problem is unlikely to go away, and will probably get worse. The EPA estimates that nationwide annual consumption of coal by electric power utilities is expected to increase from 405 million metric tons per year in 1975 to between 600 million and 1 billion metric tons by the year 2000. As a result, the amount of sulphur oxides generated by these plants could increase from 20 million to 41 million metric tons per year during the same period.

For a number of reasons, Texas has often been neglected in the major debate on acid rain. The state is so large that problems of smog and industrial emissions have often been considered local, or at most, regional concerns. But also, Texas as a whole is usually considered a dry, semi-arid region where natural alkaline soils and dust would neutralize any acid-forming process. However, as pointed out by researchers Hal Cooper, Jr. and Jose Lopez-Gonzalez of the University of Texas, "This approach is somewhat arbitrary because even if it could be true for central and west Texas, there are regions in the northeastern part of the state that are very susceptible to acid precipitation."

Osaka Chosen Far Eastern Cotton Office

RALEIGH, N.C. — Osaka, Japan, has been selected by Cotton Incorporated as the site of its new marketing headquarters for the Far East.

The announcement was made by J. Dukes Wooters, Jr., president of Cotton Incorporated, during a meeting here of Japanese textile mill executives. The office will serve the interests of American cotton producers throughout the Far East and is expected to open in spring, 1982.

Another factor which may bring Texas further into the acid rain picture is that over the past few years, the state has become the national leader in conversion from natural gas to coal and lignite to fuel utilities and industry. Coal- and lignite-based electric generating capacity in Texas is projected to increase from 2,600 megawatts in 1975 to 23,000 megawatts in 1985, and as much as 50,000 megawatts by 2000. This means an increase of total coal and lignite use from 15 million to 120 million tons per year, respectively. And, as Lopez-Gonzalez and Cooper point out, most of the lignite-fired power will be located along the deposits of Texas lignite, and, unfortunately, most of these can be found in northeastern Texas, a region very sensitive to acid precipitation.

According to Commissioner Brown, a priority concern must continue to be the impact and future consequences of acid rain on agriculture, both in Texas and nationwide. Research programs must be developed which will clearly identify where the problem is likely to become more severe, what crops are susceptible to yield decreases or other damage, what the long-range effects on our farmlands will be, and what steps can be taken to prevent loss of marine life in streams, lakes, ponds, and rural water sources, especially those on the fringes of industrialized areas where acid rain is likely to form.

Indeed, a number of the difficulties of farmers and ranchers today seem to be related to an encroachment on agriculture by modern industrialized and urbanized society.

Receives Award

Hereford Liquid Feed Service, Inc., was honored as an Outstanding Dealer during the annual LOOMIX, Inc., national dealer meeting. Presenting the award is Richard Loomis, president on Loomix, right, and accepting is Chubby Black. The award is presented for outstanding sales and service for the fiscal year 1980-81.

Local Farmer Earns Yieldmaster Title

A corn yield of 2,214 bushels per acre has earned a Yieldmasters Club membership for Rick May of Hereford. The Yieldmasters Club yearly selects for membership 1,500 of the nation's outstanding corn and grain sorghum producers.

May planted DeKalb XL-72aa on April 15, putting in 32,000 seeds per acre in a field where Milo grew in 1980.

The Deaf Smith County farmer fertilized with 287 pounds per acre of actual nitrogen.

He used 2 pints of Dual to control weeds and 1.52 pints of Azodrin and 3 pints of Sevin to keep the insects under control.

May harvested the 1.48-acre yield check on September 28. The grain moisture tested at 20 percent moisture.

"Yield and yield potential is why I plant and what I like about XL-72aa," May said. "Other qualities which impressed me were standability and fast dry down."

Game Won In Last Seconds

Stanton Dogies Seventh Edges Mavericks, 18-14

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
Stanton quarterback Kyle Streun sneaked across the goal line from two yards out to give the 7th grade Dogies an 18-14 come-from-behind win over rival La Plata here Tuesday afternoon. Streun's heroics came with just :30 left on the Whiteface Field clock, and followed a crucial pass interference penalty against the Mavericks as Stanton faced a fourth-and-14 play. La Plata, which owned a 6-0 win over the Dogies in a game played earlier in the year, took a 14-12 lead at the half, but struggled offensively in the final two stanzas.

A punt by La Plata's Todd Shire hit one of the Mavs at the La Plata 33 with 2:07 left in the game, and Stanton took over from there, beginning the game-winning, 10-play drive. With Streun and Paul Maes alternating running the ball, the Dogies drove to the La Plata two before an illegal procedure penalty moved them back. La Plata's Casey Daniel and Mark Artho virtually sealed the win with two big defensive plays from there, and Stanton was in deep trouble with the fourth-and-long play coming up.

A pass from halfback Vincent Brown to split end Kent Walterscheid was just long, but a La Plata defender was flagged for interference, setting up the winning play for Stanton.

La Plata took an early 6-0 lead following a bad snap on a punt by Streun with just 59 seconds ticked off the clock in the opening stanza. The Mavs' Scott Ankeny fell on the loose ball in the Dogie endzone for a La Plata touchdown.

Chris Urbanczyk added the two-point PAT over right guard, and the Mavericks were off and running.

Stanton countered with a 14-yard touchdown pass from Streun to Maes with 7:18 left in the half, but a run for two points by Maes was ruled short after some confusion by the officials.

La Plata used a 36-yard run by Artho on their next possession to register an eight-play scoring drive which began at the Mav 37. Quarterback Todd Shire made it a 14-6 game from two yards out with 3:49 left, but Urbanczyk was stopped short this time on the PAT try.

Fumblets hit both teams with just minutes left in the half as La Plata lost the handle at their 38, and saw the Dogies return the favor three plays later at the Mav 13.

But, Donny Rieves gave the Dogies the ball again by punting on a Mav miscue at the La Plata eight-yard-line on the next play, and Stanton took advantage of the turn of events.

Streun scored from the two on the third play of the drive, narrowing the lead to 14-12 with just 42 seconds left before intermission. Brown tied to tie the game over the right side of the line, but a charge by La Plata preserved the slim lead.

Stanton took the second half kickoff and ran 5:07 off the clock with a drive to the Mav 13, where Streun was stopped inches short of a first down, and the ball went over to La Plata.

Neither team managed a threat from there until the low kick by Shire gave the Dogies their last chance.

The win was the first for the Dogies in district play, and they closed out the year with a 1-4-1 loop mark. The loss dropped La Plata to 2-4 in district play. The two junior highs will settle 8th and 9th grade bragging rights in games tomorrow at Whiteface Field, with the 8th grade squads clashing at 3:30 and the freshmen tangling at 5 p.m.

I Got You

An unidentified Stanton tackler brings down Mark Artho of the La Plata Mavericks Tuesday afternoon in their season finale. The Dogies used a second half surge to edge the Mavericks, 18-14. On this run, Artho covered 36 yards before the Stanton secondary could bring him down. Referee Paul Mason is on top of the play to make the correct call. (Brand Photo by Marc Herring).

Trailblazers Still Winning By Bombing Dallas, 117-95

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — When the point production from the Trail Blazers' front line fell off, the guards took over and paced Portland to a 117-95 victory over the Dallas Mavericks.

The victory Tuesday night kept Portland, 7-0, as the National Basketball Association's only unbeaten team and left Dallas at 1-4.

Portland center Mychal Thompson, the NBA's player of the week last week, missed all six of his shots from the floor and wound up with just one point, 20 points below his average.

Portland small forward Calvin Natt scored 18, one point under his average. But Blazer strong forwards Kermit Washington and Michael Harper managed only nine points between them. The four guards totaled 66 points.

The guards and Natt led the Blazers to 46-19 and 50-25 leads in the first half and a 90-41 halftime margin, and rallied the Blazers after Dallas pulled to within five points, 68-63, with 5:20 left in the third quarter.

Jim Paxson and Natt led the Blazers on a 16-1 tear that put Portland in command for good.

Paxson had a game-high 21 points. Rookie Darnell Valentine scored 16, Kelvin Ransey got 15 and Billy Ray Bates scored 14 as the Portland guards dominated the Dallas backcourt.

Rookie Mark Aguirre led the Mavericks with 17 points. No other Dallas players had more than 12 points.

Portland coach Jack Ramsay said he was glad the lopsided game enabled him to play his four rookies — Valentine, Jeff Lamp, Peter Verhoeven and Petur Gudmundsson.

"When I have the opportunity to rest people I like to take it," Ramsay said. "I feel we should be able to go to at least 10 players on the team this season."

Ransey said it was difficult to keep up the momentum after the Blazers' fast start.

"When you've got a 25-point lead it's hard to keep playing hard," Ransey said. "But to be a good team you've got to keep playing hard."

Dallas coach Dick Motta said he was pleased with the play of his reserves in the third-period rally, sparked by Oliver Mack and Elston Turner.

On the contest this matchup was number 15 for Drake and 16 will be Illinois State.

Ron Brewer Leads Spurs

By GARY MYERS AP Sports Writer

Maybe George Gervin let Ron Brewer borrow his sneakers. Not likely. They don't wear the same size.

What about his uniform? No, nobody but Gervin would look right in San Antonio's No. 44.

His jump shot. That's it, George Gervin was nice enough to lend Ron Brewer his jump shot. How else can you explain Brewer's incredible scoring explosion over the last three games?

With Gervin, the National Basketball Association scoring machine, sidelined the last three games with a thigh bruise, Brewer has stepped in and gone wild, breaking his career high each night.

Last week, he scored 39 points against Cleveland. His next game he did himself one better, getting 40 off New York. Tuesday night, Brewer just plain outdid himself, hitting for 44 in the Spurs' 128-102 demolition of the Los Angeles Lakers, improving their record to 8-1.

Keep in mind that Brewer, who had a fine college career at Arkansas, spent the first

1 1/2 years of his professional life on the bench of the Portland Trail Blazers and the last half of the 1980-81 season on the Spurs bench after they traded journeyman Mike Gale to get him.

When Gervin recovers, San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck is going to have to find the minutes for Brewer.

In other NBA games played Tuesday night, the New York Knicks defeated the New Jersey Nets 111-99; the Indiana Pacers beat the Cleveland Cavaliers, 109-102; the Boston Celtics outlasted the Washington Bullets, 90-84; the Atlanta Hawks surprised the Milwaukee Bucks, 94-83; the Philadelphia 76ers nipped the Detroit Pistons, 95-83; the Chicago Bulls beat the Kansas City Kings, 119-107; the Phoenix Suns defeated the Denver Nuggets, 109-106; the Portland Trail Blazers crushed the Dallas Mavericks, 117-95; the Utah Jazz beat the San Diego Clippers, 104-97 and the Seattle SuperSonics whipped the Golden State Warriors, 123-113.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers, 2-4, with 29 points and Magic Johnson added 24. Hawks, 94, Bucks 83

Three baskets by Rory Sparrow late in the third period broke a 61-61 tie and sent the Hawks, 3-2, to their third straight victory. Dan Roundfield led Atlanta with 26 points, and Sparrow followed with 22.

Alvan Adams scored 25 points, including a 10-foot jumper with 10 seconds left. Truck Robinson hit two straight baskets to bring the Suns back from a late 96-91 deficit and then his layup with 56 seconds left opened a 105-101 lead for Phoenix. Alex English led the Nuggets with 30 points and Kiki Vandeweghe added 26. David Thompson sat out his sixth straight game.

Celtics 99, Bullets 84

Kevin McHale scored 12 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter filling in for Robert Parish, who was ejected for fighting after throwing a punch at Washington's Rick Mahorn with 1:07 remaining in the third quarter. The Celtics, 5-1, trailed by as many as 17 points in the second quarter.

Rodeo Team Places 3rd Overall

The Hereford High School Rodeo Team traveled to Memphis last weekend. The boy's team placed third overall. Chet Burrows placed second in Bull Riding, Rita Ward placed third in Pole Bending and sixth in Breakaway Roping. In Steer Wrestling, Steve McConnell placed fourth. In Bareback Riding, Scott Wilcox placed fourth, Mike Butcher placed fifth, and Kirk Spitzman tied for sixth place.

Others participating in the rodeo were Brett Baldwin, Brian Lady, Cary Van Landingham, Kim Lovvorn, Robert Esqueda, and Shawn McConnell. Robert Esqueda was injured in the Bull Riding Competition. He is presently in the North West Texas Hospital in Amarillo with a broken leg. This rodeo completed the first half of the team's rodeo season, and the boy's team finished in second place. The rodeos will start back for their second half the first weekend of March.

Valenzuela Wins NL Cy Young

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Fernando Valenzuela, the sensational Mexican left-hander who took baseball by storm in his rookie season, was named the National League's Cy Young Award winner today in a very close vote.

Valenzuela, who turned 21 last week, was 13-7 for the Los Angeles Dodgers this season, leading the league in four pitching categories and helping the Dodgers to their first world championship in 16 years. He became the first rookie ever to win Cy Young honors since the award was instituted in 1956.

A pair of three-time Cy Young winners, Tom Seaver of Cincinnati and Steve Carlton of Philadelphia, placed right behind Valenzuela in the voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. Valenzuela received eight first-place votes, eight seconds and six thirds in the balloting for 70 points — based on five points for a first-place vote, three for second and one for third.

Seaver, who was 7-1 in each half of the split season, got eight first-place votes, seven for second and six for third, giving him 67 points. The difference between Valenzuela and Seaver was one second-place vote.

Carlton, who won the award in 1980, received five votes for first place, six for second and seven for third for 50 points.

Nolan Ryan of Houston, who led the NL in earned run average with a 1.69 mark, was fourth (3-3-4 28). St. Louis reliever Bruce Sutter was the only other pitcher receiving a vote; one for third place, giving him one point.

Valenzuela, who made 10 appearances with the Dodgers in 1980, is only the second pitcher to win the Cy Young honors in his first full season. Vida Blue of Oakland was the first to do so, in 1971.

The left-hander with the dancing screwball who inspired "Fernandomania" in Los Angeles, posted a 2.48 ERA, and led National League pitchers in four departments: complete games, 11; shutouts 8; innings pitched, 192, and strikeouts, 100.

In the postseason, Valenzuela won the pennant-clinching game over Montreal, then beat the Yankees in Game 3 of the World Series, giving the Dodgers their first victory over New York.

Seaver's 14 victories led the league and he had a 2.55 ERA.

Carlton, 33-4, was second to Valenzuela in complete games with 10.

Christian was fourth. Bushland took third place in girls play, while Walcott was fourth.

Sportsmanship trophies awarded in the tournament by the game officials went to Walcott's girls and Amarillo Christian's boys. Trophies for the tourney were furnished by the First National Bank of Hereford.

Walcott will face Bushland at 3:45 Thursday in the Adrian Tournament. Walcott's overall record is now 2-1. Their next district game will be at home Nov. 20 against Adrian.

Muniga Scores 27 To Lead Walcott

Jessie Muniga ripped the nets for 27 points Tuesday night as the Walcott boys basketball team opened district play with a 56-15 win over Adrian. Leonard Olmas added 14 points to the winning cause, while Bart Bronniman tallied 10.

In tournament action last week in the Walcott Invitational Jr. High Tourney, the Bushland 7th grade boys won the championship over the Bushland 8th graders, while Grady, N.M. took the girls title over Amarillo Christian. Walcott placed third in the boys division, while Amarillo

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — As many predicted, no sooner had the dust settled on the Redistricting Board's final approval of Texas House and Senate maps, than the new plans were challenged with a lawsuit in federal court.

Last week, some six Republicans filed suit in Dallas charging the new plan, drawn up by the board composed of five Democrats, needlessly splits up metropolitan counties such as Tarrant, Dallas and Houston.

More to the point, they also say the new plan would cut Republican membership in the Senate from eight to five.

Hardly pulling any verbal punches, the Republicans and GOP state chairman Chet Upham in various statements blasted Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, author of the plan. Kingwood Rep. Ed Emmett even went so far as to tag Hobby as "The Redistricting Rapist."

And only three weeks ago Hobby's critics were charging his public image is dull and uninteresting.

House Plan
Word about the Capitol is that the Republicans will also file to throw out the House plan.

The congressional plan approved in special session this summer is still languishing in a federal court in Tyler. Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White, who voted on the board and must defend the plan in court, jumped back at Republicans for failing to testify or present objections before the board approved the plans.

"I sat there and repeatedly asked for their testimony. You'd think they would show up at a hearing before they show up in court. That's the height of irresponsibility," White said.

White said he believes the plan will hold up to Voting Rights Act standards.

Constitutional Amendments
Last week Texas voters approved five of seven amendments, sinking only the proposal giving Gov. Bill Clements and certain legislators new budget authority, and the proposal creating a water trust fund.

Voters did approve proposals permitting local tax exemption increases, exempting livestock from property taxation, bolstering the Veterans Land Program, permitting local tax incentives to rebuild blighted neighborhoods, and clearing up land title disputes.

Clayton-Clements
And whether he will admit it, Capitol eyes were on the water trust amendment as the key to the political future of House Speaker Billy Clayton.

Clayton, giving up his seat in the Legislature, needed his water plan to boost his chances for a statewide race this spring, probably Land Commissioner or State Comptroller.

Perhaps with this in mind, Clayton's opponents in the Legislature campaigned hard to sink his water plan. The defeat for Clayton, coming less than a week after he completed his work on the redistricting plans, has increased their hopes that the four-term Speaker will actually begin to show signs of becoming a lame duck.

THE RED SEA REGION

Attention has focused on the stability of the nations surrounding the Red Sea in light of the belligerence of Libyan strongman Muammar Qaddafi, the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and spread of Islamic fundamentalism of the type that helped to depose the shah of Iran. Of greatest immediate concern is Sudan, whose leaders fear invasion from Libyan troops stationed in Chad. Sudan, Egypt and Saudi Arabia are considered pro-Western, while Libya, Chad and Ethiopia are pro-Soviet.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher
Cooking oils vary

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — What is the difference between vegetable oil, sunflower oil and safflower oil? And is there a difference in cooking and baking? - LORI

DEAR LORI — Vegetable oil is a generic term. A cooking oil labeled simply as vegetable oil can contain a variety of oils, such as corn oil, coconut oil, peanut oil, etc. Any oil that is made of only one type of oil can be labeled with the name of that oil; for example, sunflower or safflower oil, corn oil or peanut oil. Both sunflower and safflower oil are polyunsaturated fats, which many doctors say are healthier for you than saturated fats because they contain no dietary cholesterol. An oil labeled simply vegetable oil may contain saturated fats. So if your doctor recommends that you eat a diet high in polyunsaturates and low in saturated fats, you'll probably want to choose sunflower, safflower or corn oil.

As far as cooking and baking are concerned, there is no real difference in the performance of any of these oils. However, they can have different flavors. In any delicately flavored product, that flavor may come through. Choose the oil you like best. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — A friend told me recently that gelatin makes a good plant fertilizer. However, she didn't know anything about how to use the gelatin. Do you have any information about this? Does it really work? - ANN

DEAR ANN — Yes, gelatin is a good food for houseplants, according to a major gelatin manufacturer. It is rich in nitrogen, which is essential for good growth. Dissolve one packet of unflavored gelatin in one cup of hot water. Stir it well to make sure the gelatin is completely dissolved. Then slowly add three cups of cool water, stirring constantly. Use this solution to water your plants once a month. Your plants should thrive on this treatment. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When I empty a jar of pickles, I use the leftover brine to make quick vegetable pickles. I put cooked green beans, cooked tiny white onions, tomato wedges and other vegetables in the jar of pickle juice and store it in the refrigerator for a day or two. The vegetables take on a delightful flavor and make wonderful relishes or cocktail snacks. Keep the jar refrigerated and use the vegetables within one week. — M.T.

DEAR POLLY — We had to pack our household belongings away for four months while our new home was being built. We packed 25 boxes of books and the shelf brackets for the books were in a few of those boxes, but not all of them. When we needed to get the shelf brackets out before unpacking the books, I had no way of knowing which box the brackets were in. I used a battery operated metal detector and found those boxes with the brackets in them in short order. — MRS. C.B.R.

DEAR POLLY — If you own a fitted dress with a zipper on the back and have trouble zipping it all the way up or down, fasten an old toothbrush to the zipper-pull with a large safety pin. This makes a fine handle you can reach. It's easy to unhook after you've zipped up the dress, too. — A READER FROM KNOXVILLE

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Alter your lifestyle

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 33 years old. For a year-and-a-half I have experienced attacks which were diagnosed as spasms of the colon. They don't come often and there are months in between attacks. They happen when I am worried or under pressure. I have pain along the lower right side and can sometimes diarrhea. I don't have any appetite and feel awful for one day, then the gas goes away and I am left with soreness in my lower right side. I'm now recovering from an attack which was the worst I've ever experienced, but I am going through a divorce.

My doctor first put me on Butibol and now Librax which has helped some. He says it's a problem I will have to live with but I can't believe there is nothing that can be done. Can you suggest something that will help?

DEAR READER — Your story sounds like attacks of spastic or irritable colon. It is usual to give something to help a nervous person calm down and something to relax the spasms. Librax helps do both.

Your doctor is right that you will probably have this tendency for life. But you can alter your lifestyle to help prevent severe attacks. That, of course, includes trying to adjust your life so you have less stress — easier said than done. It includes avoiding foods that tend to aggravate your colon as well as coffee, tea, colas and cold drinks.

Avoiding caffeine in coffee and other drinks also helps prevent nervous tension. I have covered these points in The Health Letter number 16-4, Spastic Colon, Irrigability and Constipation, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I like people to use bulk, particularly bran, in their diet but I recognize that it causes gas, particularly at first. So for starters use a bulk-forming agent such as Kamsel, Metamucil or Movicol. After things straighten out for you, try to change your diet gradually to include a lot more bulk. Avoid spices. If you smoke do try to stop, and plan your life so you can get some relaxation.

DEAR DR. LAMB — The pressure in my eyes was higher than normal on a recent examination. The specialist looked further and found the optic nerve was normal and the drainage was OK. He will check again in four months and decide if I need medicine or not. Can one have high pressure with no glaucoma? Or is glaucoma a term for pressure or what? I am 64 and had a brother who was blind and a sister on treatment for glau-coma. They were both diabetic. So am I.

DEAR READER — Many things in medicine are neither black nor white but shades of gray. Most people have pressure inside the eyeball that is definitely within the normal range. Others have a pressure that is high but not definitely abnormal.

High pressure is not necessarily glaucoma. Doctors like to see other evidences as well, particularly some disturbance in drainage from the eye that causes the build-up in pressure. But I do want to advise you that it is important to find glaucoma as early as possible to get the best results from treatment.

Other readers should know that you can develop glaucoma well before you notice any symptoms. That is one of the reasons for a regular eye examination, particularly after age 60.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is albumin? Do both males and females have it? Can women have it in their bodies before and after the menopause? Does it cause a woman to live a shorter life span? Can the amount of albumin found in a urine specimen vary from day to day? An insurance company wants to increase the premium above the standard rate for me because traces of albumin were found in three out of five specimens. I am almost 65 and in very good health.

DEAR READER — Everyone has albumin. It is a normal protein in your blood. It is the main one that helps to hold back fluid from seeping your cells into your circulation. If you don't have enough you will develop swelling from edema.

A small amount leaks out of the kidneys. If the amount is excessive it sometimes indicates kidney disease. A trace of albumin is usually of no consequence. The amount makes a difference and the way to measure the amount is to examine a 24-hour specimen. Unless it can be demonstrated that you do have an increased amount, I would be reluctant to pay a large increase in an insurance premium.
