

Herd Points to Stopping Samaniego

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR
EL PASO — His name reads like some type of food poisoning, but the Hereford Whitefaces are hoping they have the antidote to El Paso Bel Air quarterback Ray

Samaniego's toxins when the Herd and the Clan Strap it on at 8:30 tonight here in the Sun Bowl. Samaniego, a 6-1, 170-pound all-state candidate has led the Highlanders to a 22-1 mark over the last two seasons, with the lone loss a 10-7 decision at the hands of Amarillo High's Sandies in the Regional tilt last year.

The Highlanders and Whitefaces will pull out all the stops tonight in their Regional clash, with the winner advancing to the state 5A quarter-finals against the Lewisville-Ft. Worth Eastern Hills matchup slated for tomorrow night at Texas Stadium.

"Samaniego is the key to their whole team," Herd mentor Don Cumpton said. "He makes them go."

And, go the Clan has. Bel Air has a 44-1 mark over the past five years in regular season play, and they own the District 3-5A trophy over each of those campaigns.

Samaniego has been spectacular this year, rushing for 983 yards on 160 totes, including 17 TDs. He has also connected on 61 of 133 pass attempts for 1,191 yards and 17 more touchdowns.

Those 34 TDs are the basis of a Bel Air team which has averaged 43.9 points per game this year, and go a long way in making the Highlanders a 6-point favorite tonight.

Bel Air, which was ranked fifth in the final AP 5A schoolboy poll, has other positions, however, in addition to Samaniego. Fullback Tommy Bonds (6-1, 200) has 1,164 yards and 15 TDs this year, and receivers Dewayne Bonds and Raul Prieto have 16 receptions each this season for 353 yards and 435 yards respectively.

Still, Cumpton and the Herd are aiming their penicillin at Samaniego. "We have a chance to win if we can control him," Cumpton said. "We'll make some adjustments in our defense, and we may stunt more."

The main brunt of those stunts will be carried by Herd linebackers Ken Cosper, John Phibbs, and Freddy Garcia, who have led a stingy HHS defense all year long. Tackles Barry Josseland and Robert Gonzales will help anchor the middle, while standout ends Aubrey Richburg and Bruce Clark will be trying to contain the Highlanders wide.

The Hereford secondary, while less than spectacular in last week's 43-30 bi-district win over Palo Duro, has been solid all year long. Safeties Mike Hill and Matt Collier combine with cornerbacks Charles McDowell and Shannon Ritchie in aiming at throwing a net over the Bel Air aerial attack.

The Highlanders' defense may be their sole weakness, Cumpton says. "We think we can move the ball on them and score some points," he said. "We're going to have to keep the ball away from their offense."

Hereford's tallback duo of Wayne High and Alfred Ball (1,155 yards, 15 TDs and 57 yards respectively) will be counted on to help quarterback Alan Wartes control the ball tonight. Wartes has navigated the Whitefaces to a 19-3 mark over the past two years, and has hit on 57 of 128 passes for 919 yards and eight touchdowns this year.

"He may be the best in that part of the country," El Paso coach Bob Savage, who is making his third attempt at a Regional Championship, said. "He's an excellent field general. He doesn't fumble, and I've been very impressed with what I've seen."

Defense Buildup Convincing Russians of American Aims

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan says his defense buildup has convinced the Soviets that they're not the only ones in the arms race, heightening hopes that the Kremlin is ready to talk seriously about reducing nuclear weapons.

"Now they've got an interest in and a stake in legitimate negotiations, and we're going to pursue them as far as we can," Reagan told ABC's Barbara Walters in an interview broadcast Thursday evening.

"There's a cartoon that tells it all... and that was (Soviet President Leonid) Brezhnev saying to a Russian general, 'I liked the arms race better when we were the only ones in it.'"

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Thursday the president had received a call from West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt to report on Brezhnev's visit to Bonn.

According to Speakes, Reagan also telephoned Paul Nitze, who will head the U.S. team in Geneva for talks beginning Monday with the Soviet Union on nuclear arms in Europe, to discuss "the seriousness of the U.S. proposal, our commitment to negotiate in good faith and the firm support which we have from our allies."

In the interview, Reagan noted that Brezhnev had rejected Reagan's public proposal to forgo deployment of new missiles in Europe if the Soviets would dismantle their latest models aimed at Western Europe, and had offered a reduction in deployments.

"Well, you start bargaining from there," Reagan said. "We'll negotiate in good faith, but we'll do everything we can to get it to zero..."

"I think one of the things going for us in these negotiations is that this is the first time that we have sat at the table opposite them in which they've got some interest in coming together in the negotiation because we're not busily disarming ourselves," Reagan said.

On his responsibility for nuclear weapons, he said, "It is awesome. I don't have nightmares about it."

The broadcast, taped Tuesday, contained the first televised scenes of Reagan's California ranch overlooking the Pacific. Features included his collections of guns, belt buckles and hats and the president driving the interviewer in what she called "the scroungiest Jeep."

Reagan's daughter Patti, among friends and family also interviewed for the show, said that since the March 30 attempt on his life, there is "something in his eyes now that I never have seen before... when I see it then I have to confront his mortality, and I don't want to do that."

Reagan himself, asked what adjectives he would apply to himself, echoed his daughter's phrase, "soft touch," adding, "Sometimes I'm stubborn."

"There's a terrible fight goes on inside of you between vanity and modesty," he said.

Members of the Reagan family gathered at the ranch for the holiday enjoyed a traditional Thanksgiving dinner. On hand were Reagan's brother, Neil "Moon" Reagan and his wife, Bess; the president's daughter, Maureen, and her husband, Dennis Revell; and the Reagans' youngest daughter, Patti Davis. Reagan's sons, Michael and Ron, said they were unable to attend.

On other topics, Reagan said:

—His biggest disappointment has been the inability to plug leaks to reporters in a city of "one giant ear."

—His hardest decision probably was the veto of the

Americans' Thanksgiving Celebrations Varied

By The Associated Press
Henry Fonda's daughter carried a plate of turkey to the hospitalized actor. In South Carolina, a man separated from his family since he was 6 shared a Thanksgiving dinner with them for the first time in 20 years.

There were parades and presidential proclamations, football and food. But mostly, Thursday was a day for America's families to gather and count their blessings.

Broadway was filled with giant cartoon characters in New York's Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade. "Everyone smiles when the balloons go by," said 7-year-old John Dennison of Brooklyn.

An estimated 80 million people watched the New York and Detroit parades on television. Braving freezing temperatures to be there in person were an estimated 3 million people in Manhattan and half a million in Detroit. About 200,000 watched marchers in Philadelphia.

Jane Fonda visited her father and said he is "doing better each day." Fonda, 76, was hospitalized in Hollywood 10 days ago for a heart ailment. His wife, Shirlee, had a flu-like illness and could not visit him.

William Beakler, 27, said he had "never known what to do" to find the family he had not seen since his parents' divorce in Walhalla, S.C. His sister, Ellen Score, 47, who scarcely had known her little brother, decided four months ago that the only way to find him was to call telephone operators at random and ask (See CELEBRATE, Page 2)

Bacteria Can Kill 'Agent Orange'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists have developed bacteria that they say can clean up land contaminated with Agent Orange, the weed killer used during the Vietnam War, and other herbicides.

Researchers at the University of Illinois Medical Center in Chicago said Thursday that they bred a strain of bacteria that feeds on the major component of Agent Orange.

In using up the carbon in this component, a herbicide called 2,4,5-trichlorophenoxyacetic acid or 2,4,5-T, the microbes degrade the chemical and render it harmless, they said. The scientists tested the microbes on soil contaminated with high concentrations of 2,4,5-T. When the bacteria were sprayed on the dirt weekly, they eventually removed up to 90 percent of the chemical, the scientists said.

Drs. Ananda M. Chakrabarty, Scott T. Kellogg and Deb K. Chatterjee developed the microbes, a strain of the bacterium pseudomonas cepacia.

In 1978, Chakrabarty and General Electric Co. became the first to receive a patent on a man-made life form, in that case, a bacterium that ate oil.

"Our new microbe also is a type that doesn't exist in nature," Chakrabarty said in a telephone interview. "The university is applying for a patent on the bug and the process used to make it, and we are in the process of negotiating with two chemical companies on producing the bug."

The environment has become polluted with synthetic chemicals that do not degrade very well naturally, the scientists said in a Science magazine report describing early stages of their work.

"The problem is not only the toxicity of the chemicals but their persistence, so that they ultimately contaminate human bodies," they said.

Most uses of the herbicide 2,4,5-T, one of the most popular weed killers in the country for 30 years, were banned in 1978 after animal tests linked it to cancer and birth defects.

The chemical was combined with another herbicide, called 2,4-D, to make Agent Orange, which was used by the tons in Southeast Asia to strip jungle areas. Some American servicemen charge that they suffered health problems from exposure to the chemicals, a claim that the government has yet to accept.

The Illinois researchers said their microbe not only destroys 2,4,5-T, but also 2,4-D, which is not as much of an environmental problem because it degrades naturally.

Because the bacteria have been made so dependent on 2,4,5-T, they die off rapidly when they deplete the chemical. This natural vulnerability will prevent the microbes from staying in the environment when their job is done, he said.

'Reaganville' Still Standing

WASHINGTON (AP) — In defiance of police orders, "Reaganville" stood through Thanksgiving night across the street from the White House as a symbolic encampment for the homeless and a protest against President Reagan's budget cuts.

"Welcome to Reaganville — Reaganomics at Work," read the sign in front of the 10 tents set up in Lafayette Park by the Community for Creative Non-Violence.

Not many people, however, chose to make it home for the night, the first of a campout that the group hopes to run through March 20, the official end of winter.

Several hundred of the capital's street people showed up for a free Thanksgiving dinner and then headed for sidewalk heating grates, bus stations and abandoned buildings for the night. At times, reporters and TV crews outnumbered the Reaganvillers.

President Reagan wasn't home at the White House, either. He had Thanksgiving dinner at his California ranch, where he is staying through the weekend.

By the time he returns, Reaganville may be no more. Mitch Snyder, a spokesman for the social action group, said the homeless were invited to sleep in the tents but "they're afraid of being arrested. There's a real hesitancy on the part of people who need to come."

No one was evicted on the first night. Although the group lacked a permit for the

Soviet Consumer Progress Moderate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts by the Soviet Union to upgrade consumer living standards have made only "modest progress" and are likely to "slow to a crawl" in coming years, according to a study commissioned by the CIA.

"Shoddy goods and services, queues and shortages have become characteristic features of everyday (Soviet) life, along with endemic black markets and corruption," said the study released Thursday by the congressional Joint Economic Committee.

The study said that Soviet priorities favoring heavy industry and defense and a "rigid and cumbersome" economic system "have combined to produce a consumer sector that not only lags badly behind both the West and Eastern Europe, but also is in many respects primitive, grossly unbalanced."

Soviet per capita consumption of consumer goods and services is less than a third of that in the United States, according to the study, which said that during the 1970s the gap between U.S. and Soviet living standards widened after narrowing somewhat in the 1960s.

Haig Attempting To Overcome Talks Impasse

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., in a last-minute search for a compromise with Israel's foreign minister, is trying to find a way around an impasse with the Jewish state over European participation in a Sinai peacekeeping force.

Haig scheduled a mid-morning meeting at the State Department with Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, who declared before taking an all-night flight from Tel Aviv that Europe's "conditions are unacceptable."

The Israeli government also sent a military team here to resume discussions at the Pentagon on new strategic ties with the United States.

A U.S. plan, submitted to the Israelis 10 days ago, called for stockpiling American medical supplies in Israel and some token military cooperation. It fell short of Prime Minister Menachem Begin's hopes for closer ties between the two countries.

The disputes over European peacekeepers and Middle East strategy are straining U.S.-Israeli relations again.

The Reagan administration fears severe damage to the

Burglars Hit Three Trucks

Burns Trucking lost two radios in a theft Thursday when three trucks were broken into, according to Hereford police. A third radio had been partially torn out but not taken from a truck.

Two cars at Sunset Lanes were vandalized and one had property stolen from it. Headlights and part of the grill were kicked out of one; another had a tire cut, a speaker torn up and several tapes stolen.

Police also checked out a report of a peeping tom in the 400 block of Avenue G. The subject was an 11-year-old boy who was looking in a window.

Four traffic tickets were issued, two persons were arrested for public intoxication and one was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Camp David peace process if the Europeans are shut out. But the Begin government is angry with the allies for pushing for a role for the Palestine Liberation Organization in future negotiations.

Shamir plans to return home in time for a meeting Sunday of the Israeli Cabinet, which is expected to reject European participation in the Sinai force unless some compromise can be worked out with Haig.

Both Israel and Egypt hold veto power over which nations join the force. Its job will be to maintain peace between the two countries after Israel completes its scheduled withdrawal from the Sinai in April.

Some observers in Jerusalem speculated that a compromise might be struck

Playoff Game To Be Taped

Whiteface fans stuck in town for the weekend will be able to see the Hereford-Bel Air game on tape today, according to Loyd Ames of Hereford Cablevision.

The game will be taped by Teleprompter of El Paso, the second largest cable system in the nation, and broadcast by Hereford's channel 6.

The full-color game will be broadcast at 10 p.m. Saturday, 2 p.m. Sunday and at 5 p.m. Monday.

Inmates Claim Fire Ants Used To Control Weevils

HOUSTON (AP) — Two inmates have asked a federal judge to prohibit the Texas Department of Corrections from forcing prisoners to work in cotton fields that they contend were infested with fire ants in an experiment to control boll weevils.

The inmates contend the TDC and Texas A&M University planted fire ants in the fields at the Ellis Unit in Huntsville where inmates have worked for three years without being warned of the danger.

Patrick Stuart, 35, and Johnnie Lee Johnson Jr., 31, also said in their suit that prison officials failed to see that ant bites were properly treated.

The inmates, in the suit filed Nov. 13 in the court of U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice and transferred to Houston this week, also are asking for $100 million in damages. No judge has been assigned to hear the case.

Congressman Honored By Space Program

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Astronaut John W. Young honored the late U.S. Rep. Olin E. Teague by giving Texas A&M University a miniature United States flag was carried into space on the first voyage of the space shuttle Columbia. Teague, well known for his support of the American space program during his congressional tenure, died early this year. He was a member of A&M's class of 1932 and a recipient of the school's Distinguished Alumni Award.

"I remember Congressman Teague in the early 60s talking of his desire to send an American to the moon and bring him back," said Young, who commanded the Columbia on its maiden flight. "It was the 'bring him back' part I liked the best."

The flag will go on permanent display at the Olin E. Teague Research Center, which was built with the help of a $1 million grant from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Administrator Issues Levity Warning

DALLAS (AP) — Workers had better wipe the grin off their face because one administrator apparently is convinced Wilmer-Hutchins Independent School District employees are entirely too happy.

The laughter has gotten out of hand at the administration building and assistant superintendent for personnel Eddie Washington warned that "office congregating and merriment will not be tolerated in the future."

In a memo this week, Washington said "loud talking, laughing, loitering and excessive walking are not mannerisms of true professionals" and should be stopped.

And he warned that "future correspondence will be individual and more severe" if employees continue the practices.

Sambo's Closes 447 Restaurants

CARPINTERIA, Calif. (AP) — The closing of 447 Sambo's restaurants in 43 states and the resultant layoff of up to 10,000 employees in an attempt to ease the chain's financial crisis has left it with 667 facilities still operating, company officials said.

Arthur Dowd, Sambo's vice president, told The Associated Press Thursday that the closings were unrelated to a company decision Wednesday to consider declaring bankruptcy if lenders refuse to restructure the company's debt.

The November closing of 447 restaurants has laid off up to 10,000 employees, based on an average of 20 to 25 employees per restaurant, Dowd said.

Sambo's posted losses of $77.8 million in 1979, $11.6 million in 1980 and $29 million in the first nine months of this year. Last month, the chain announced that it had failed to pay a $4.8 million first installment on a $100 million restructured loan.

The chain has sold 12 restaurants as part of its plan to raise cash during its financial emergency.

You Can't Keep A Good Lion Down

NEW YORK (AP) — I had never seen so many children in one place at one time. They were poking out of skyscraper windows, hanging on light poles, standing atop telephone booths and sitting on the shoulders of every visible adult.

For a moment, I imagined this is how Dorothy must have felt skipping down the yellow brick road to see the Wizard of Oz.

But Dorothy wasn't dragging a 55-foot-tall lion balloon down Central Park West, which was my walk-on — and on, and on — role in Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade.

Nor was there a breath to spare for a song.

"Catch that turkey!" our balloon captain barked, and 43 of us bent forward to close the gap behind entertainer Donny Osmond, who was riding atop a huge turkey float. Costumed in orange and green overalls, I was a balloon "handler" on Linus the Lionhearted, the first of nine giant balloons to wind two miles from 77th Street to the Macy's store on 34th Street.

By the end of the trip, I was out of breath, sweaty and, like Linus, sagging into the pavement.

A balloon handler's day started at 7 a.m. when we arrived to find Linus confined, like Gulliver, pinned beneath rope nets. Bob Gross, our balloon captain, briefed us on the finer points of handling the huge lion.

At 9 o'clock, it was four, three, two, one, and the McDonald's All-American High School Band set off with a flourish of drums. A thousand cheers went up, mostly from the children, who seemed oblivious to the near-freezing temperature.

At the third traffic light, Linus plunged toward the pavement as the crowd anticipated disaster.

"OK. Get him up!" Gross yelled. "Pull on the line. That's it. Tight! Now let it go."

And Linus went up again. The crowd clapped. And I felt the first spasm of shoulder pain. It was like reeling in a tanker.

and employee appearance. Ed Fike, right, of Amarillo, district marketing representative, presented the $400 award in Phillips 66 merchandise.

Parents Of Murdered Children Share Grief

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — John Lewis wishes desperately that he could show his mean racquetball serve to his son Scott. The teen-ager taught his dad the sport, and the memory of those lessons now makes the father weep.

"It hurts me to realize things I want to share with Scott but can't," said Lewis, breaking down.

Scott, like the children of others who gathered here on a recent evening, was murdered, but his body was not discovered for more than half a year.

"Scott really took pride in his body," his mother, Jean, continued. "And when I think of his body lying out there, deteriorating for seven months..."

Mrs. Lewis stopped, her hand shielding her eyes. Others in the room had wept the same tears. For them, spending an evening or two each month with Parents of Murdered Children makes the pain easier to bear.

The shock of losing a loved one can be catastrophic, said Charlotte Hullinger, who started the organization after her 19-year-old daughter, Lisa, was clubbed to death in

Life after one's child dies is especially devastating since "all your dreams and all your hopes are dying with your child," Mrs. Hullinger said in a telephone interview.

"Violent death brings anger so intense most people can't stand it," she said. "We find that those who would normally be helpful, like people in the church, especially don't like these unacceptable emotions and will try to smooth them over with platitudes like 'It's God's will.'"

She and her husband, Robert, a Lutheran minister in Cincinnati, turned to other parents in desperation.

A priest gave her the name of two couples whose children were slain, and the Hullingers asked the parents to meet informally with them. Mrs. Hullinger says she had no idea that the invitation would grow into Parents of Murdered Children, which now has 20 chapters all over the country. Its members all have violently lost their children, who ranged in age from 2½ months to 52 years.

Mrs. Hullinger has received a thousand letters from parents and spends hours each day and sometimes $400 or more of her own money each month on telephone calls.

Robert Lea, a counselor at the Grief Counseling Center in Marin County, said a parent is overwhelmed with "the shock, the disbelief, then the rage that such a thing could happen, the pointlessness of it."

"People who suffer a loss like that have to go out and find their own support" from those who have suffered a similar trauma, said Lea, who began counseling after his wife killed herself.

On a recent night, the Lewises, who are from San Jose, drove 45 miles through a rainstorm to meet with several other people in Santa Clara at the Center for Living Dying, which counsels people on death.

Joining them were a couple whose 16-year-old son was killed in a restaurant holdup, a man whose daughter and fiancée were shot in the head after a fraternity party and two counselors.

The seven sat cross-legged, or sprawled on large, plump cushions and sipped coffee. A warm orange light gave the room a comforting aura.

Sometimes trembling, the parents spoke of frustrating legal delays, of feeling "weird" when emotion grips them in public, of the impatience with which others view their grief.

And they dread holidays. Three Christmases ago, 16-year-old Tracy Anderson asked for a rust-colored down jacket. Roberta and Jim Anderson tried to find one, but couldn't, so they gave him money instead.

Then Tracy was murdered. The next Christmas found Mrs. Anderson "running out of stores. They all had racks of rust jackets," she says.

Instead, Woods, 61, said he campout, U.S. Park Police officer John Nawrot said authorities would decide today what action to take.

Wendy Bobbitt of CCNV said she felt getting the campout through Night One would help the cause. "If we stay here tonight, there will be more people here Friday," she said.

"I didn't come here to be part of a demonstration, but I'm part of it now," said 20-year-old Antonio Jackson as he and about 30 other people wrapped themselves in blankets against the 49-degree weather.

Jackson, sitting among a group singing civil rights songs and Christmas carols, said he had lost his job, wife and apartment and had nowhere else to spend the night.

"If I wasn't here, I'd be sleeping on a park bench, on a grating or in a bus station," he said. "I went to a mission. They were packed and turned me away. When I found out what the tents represent, I had to stay — even if I had somewhere to go. All of this is set up to help people like myself. I've never been arrested, but if I have to go to jail for something like this — all right."

Snyder said Reaganville is "a symbolic encampment, an attempt to make visible and concrete what Reagan and other folks would like to have abstract and invisible. There's a difference between homeless people and almost everyone else. They don't have congressmen to write to. All they can do is survive."

The third city she tried was Louisville, Ky. She had guessed correctly. "It was just like a miracle," she said, and Thursday Beakler sat down at a table with his mother, sisters and brother in Walhalla, and gave thanks.

Way down yonder at the South Pole, where it is summertime, sailors, calling their team the Penguins, defeated the civilian Skuas, named for a bird, 19-7 in the Penguin Bowl at the McMurdo Naval Air Station. It was a pleasant 12 below zero. The field was a sheet of ice.

In more temperate climes, professional football games were held on artificial turf in Detroit and Dallas, and college fans turned out in College Station, Texas and Richmond, Va.

Neighborhood and providing for the less fortunate were watchwords for many.

At a restaurant in Santa Ana, Calif., Greek immigrant George Smyrniotis provided a free holiday dinner to about 2,000 people, most of them elderly, ushering in scores at a time to the 100-seat establishment.

But Shamir took a tough stance after meeting Thursday with Begin. "It is not a question of flexibility," the foreign minister said. "We have our principles. Europe's conditions are unacceptable to us."

Yehiel Kadishai, Begin's personal secretary, said in Jerusalem that he had no doubt the Cabinet would reject the Europeans. Begin was quoted as saying he would urge a veto "under the present conditions."

And Shimon Peres said his Labor party would support a veto unless the Europeans amended their position, "which twists the contents of Camp David and negates it in many ways."

Only three countries have given blanket commitments to participate with the United States — Colombia, Uruguay

Ft. Worth Mayor Says He Will Fight Wright

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Former Mayor Woodie Woods, who resigned to challenge House Majority Leader Jim Wright, says he has decided not to run, but will support a conservative campaign against the powerful Democrat.

Woods, who resigned as mayor Nov. 9 to prepare for the upcoming congressional race, told reporters Thursday he was committed to running at the time he resigned but "changed my mind."

He said he decided this week he was not the only person with the name identification to defeat Wright. "They don't need my name identification to win that election," he said.

Instead, Woods, 61, said he would throw his support behind a conservative challenger for the 12th congressional district seat, which Wright has held since 1954.

Woods said he would eagerly campaign for Ed Schollmaier, board chairman of Alcon Laboratories, or Elroy Howard, former president of Cox's department stores.

However, Howard said Thursday he definitely would not seek office because of business commitments.

Schollmaier, who has been away on business and was unavailable for comment Thursday, said last week he would not run against Wright or anyone else. Instead, he said he would support Woods.

Cowgirl Christmas Tree

Margaret Formby is shown above with the Christmas tree which was on display at the "1961 Hall-Iday Open House" held Sunday afternoon at the new location of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center. The tree was decorated with various dolls dressed as cowgirls along with bows and balls emphasizing a western theme.

Open House Successful

Approximately 400 people came to the "1961 Hall-Iday Open House" Sunday afternoon at the new location of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

The Pitman house, located at 515 Ave. B, was donated to the Hall of Fame by Marsh and Debbie Pitman, and will be the new permanent home of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

Presently located in the basement of the Deaf Smith County Library, the Hall of Fame will begin moving after the first of the year. Dediction and official opening will be scheduled in the spring.

The reception Sunday afternoon carried out a Western Christmas theme, featuring a Christmas tree decorated with red balls, bandana bows, and dolls dressed as cowgirls.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with red bandana runners. The centerpiece was done with bandana bows and cowgirl dolls.

Anyone wishing to do volunteer work at the Hall of Fame is asked to call 364-5252 or contact Margaret Formby, president of the organization.

Council Elects Officers

The Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council met recently in the library Heritage Room. Chairman Louise Packard called the meeting to order. She expressed her appreciation to all council members who served with her.

West Hereford Extension Homemakers Club vice-president Allmeta Pinman read a poem by Ben Burrus entitled "Sketches." Terri Johnson called the roll. Eight clubs were represented, four clubs with 100 percent attendance.

Members were reminded that the council will have a

The following officers were elected for 1962: Cindy Norvell, chairman; Terri Johnson, vice-chairman; Mary Carter, recording secretary; Johnnie Messer, corresponding secretary; Jewell Hargrave, treasurer; Grace Covington, parliamentarian; and Roberta Campbell, reporter.

These officers and individual club officers will be installed at the Christmas party on Dec. 7 at the library Heritage Room.

Parker Speaks At Annual Thanksgiving Breakfast

The Deaf Smith-Castro Counties Legal Secretaries Association had their annual Thanksgiving Breakfast, recently at the Hereford State Bank Friendship Room.

A cornucopia with fruit spilling from it, ducks, and colorful leaves decorated the table which was covered in an apricot colored cloth. Brass appointments were used on the table. Small turkeys were used to decorate the individual tables.

The menu consisted of a fruit plate, quiche, deviled eggs, sausage balls, apricot tea and coffee.

Jeannie Tucker acted as Mistress of Ceremonies and presided as each person present introduced themselves and told something about themselves. Mrs. Tucker also introduced the speaker for the program.

The speaker was Ronnie

Parker, well-known after dinner speaker from Dimmitt. Mr. Parker reminded those present of all the things they have to be thankful for in this free country. He gave a special "tip of his hat" to legal secretaries and what they mean to the business community.

Guests attending the breakfast were Elsie Maxwell, Dimmitt; Jennifer Vick, Amarillo; Helen Nelson, Hereford; and Mrs. C.A. Hance, Dimmitt, mother of President Martha Isaacs.

Members attending were Peggie Fox, Vera M. Threewit, Edwina Thomas, Sherry Hoover and Mildred Fuhman of Hereford; Mildred Sheffy of Hereford and Dimmitt; Laurie Ewing, Clara Vick, Barbara Little and Martha Isaacs of Dimmitt; Ms. Tucker of Friona; and Anne Nelson of Dalhart.

Ann Landers

Disgusted With Smokers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My pet hate is cigarette smoke. I'm becoming paranoid on the subject. Will you please allow me to let off some steam?

Do you well-groomed, fastidious women ever give a thought to how you smell? You buy expensive perfumes, take bubble baths, use deodorants, mouthwash and hair spray with exquisite scents and then stink up everything with that first cigarette.

It is disgusting to sit next to a smoker in church, a movie, the theater, a meeting or a meal. The smell of a smoker's clothes is enough to make me retch. Their cars stink something awful and the furniture and draperies in their homes, ditto.

I cannot understand how parents who claim to love their kids continue to smoke in their presence. Not only is the smoke damaging to young lungs but the implicit message is, "It's OK to do it."

I know you have played this song in your column many times but once more won't hurt. It just might get through to those dummies that their lousy habit could kill somebody they love.—NUTTY ON THE SUBJECT

DEAR NOT SO NUTTY: Every word of your letter makes sense. And now for a few facts from the National Cancer Institute:

Lung cancer is the fastest-growing cause of death in the United States. This year 122,000 people will get it and about 105,000 will die from it. If people stopped smoking cigarettes, 85 percent of all primary lung cancers would be eliminated.

Now back to the perfume and bubble bath: Women and teenage girls are the ones who are hyping the death statistics. They are the "new smokers" who need to understand the risks they are taking to appear cool, "sophisticated" or whatever. Your letter is right on, and I thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My son lives and works in another state. He shares an apartment with a man who works for the same company. They decided to double up because rentals are scarce and expensive.

Neither one is gay, but several members of our family have made snide remarks because he is living with a man.

What is wrong with them, anyway? Women have always shared apartments to save money and no one thinks a thing about it. Why the double standard? What should I say to friends who make cutting remarks?—Irritated In Champaign

DEAR IRRITATED: Make no excuses or apologies. Remember—brilliant people talk about ideas, mediocre people talk about things (clothing, jewelry, cars, investments), and small-minded people talk about other people.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I won't sleep tonight if I don't respond to "Headin' for Splinterhood in Lincoln, Neb." She must be kidding when she says Lincoln is loaded with attractive men, but they are all married and don't fool around.

I live in Lincoln and was divorced recently. I have been propositioned by lawyers, doctors, insurance executives, stockbrokers and a clergyman—all married.

Married men in Lincoln run around just like they do everywhere else.—The Horse's Mouth

DEAR MOUTH: My mail from Lincoln supports your statement. Incidentally, state capitals, for some reason, are a bit racier than other cities. Why, I don't know.

Paschel Speaks At School

Mr. Larry Paschel, Hereford Post Office window clerk, was the guest speaker for all Office Duplication Practices classes Monday at Hereford High School. Mr. Paschel has been a postal employee since 1958.

The V.O.E. and business classes were guests. The presentation complimented the area of instruction on outgoing mail.

Review Of Masada Given

The Hereford Art Guild met Tuesday evening at the country club for a buffet style Thanksgiving dinner. Jean Reinauer, who served as hostess chairman, decorated the tables with colorful fall flowers.

After members and guests were seated, President Lucille Guinn said a prayer of thanks. The program was a review of "Masada" given by Lucille Naylor. Masada, a fortified mountaintop near the Dead Sea in the wilderness of Judea, was the last stronghold of the Jews against the invading Roman army in 72 A.D.

Three guests were welcomed. They were Evelyn Kirby, Mollie Ritter, and Randall Vaughn.

Students particularly enjoyed the demonstration that showed sacking mail and the importance of proper packaging and wrapping various types of items to be mailed.

Mr. Paschel explained classes of mail and showed a comparison of present rates to those during pony express days. He said that The United States Postal Service is superior to any other similar service in the world and that its rates are much cheaper than those of other countries.

Federal rules and regulations, stamp collecting, zip codes and their importance in the expedition of mail, the postal inspection service and other informative data were interspersed with questions and answers.

Edward Bulwer-Lytton's "Pelham" was the first paperback book, published in Germany in 1841.

Show Scheduled At Planetarium

"STAR OF WONDER," the planetarium show at the Don Harrington Discovery Center, is both a miracle and a mystery. This traditional program, showing for the first time in Amarillo, uses the planetarium instrument to take visitors back in time to view the sky at that magical moment, discusses several possible explanations for the "STAR OF WONDER" and retells the traditional Bible story of the Baby's birth.

"Star" is designed for the entire family. Music of Christmas past and present, a magical Christmas tree, Santa and his famous reindeer all combine for a memorable experience.

How did the night sky appear to the three wise men nearly two thousand years ago? What was that fortuitous "star of the east?" Could a comet explain the wondrous heavenly sight? Could it have been a conjunction of several planets, or a supernova? Is it possible this phenomena can't be explained by astronomical accounts? Was it indeed a miracle?

Each visitor will draw his own conclusion based on personal beliefs. The important facts that can't be altered are that Jesus was born, that He dwelt on earth for a time and that His teachings have altered the history of the world.

"Star" starts the first weekend after Thanksgiving and runs until Christmas. Programs are scheduled on Saturdays at 2 p.m., 3 p.m., and 8 p.m. and on Sundays at 2 p.m., 3 p.m., and 4 p.m. Admission prices are $1.50 for adults, $1 for students and senior citizens.

Committees Appointed

The Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club met recently in the Flame Room. President Jack Nunley presided over the business meeting.

Standing committees were appointed for the year, with committee chairman as follows: Dale Henson, Wagon Master; Bud Cawthon, Program; Cecil Botis, Cheer; Ora Morgan, Telephone and Social; Pam Dawson, Door Prize; Jake King, Show and Juanita Perrin, Scrapbook.

There were 23 members present. Carlos Vaughn was introduced as a new member.

Future program ideas were discussed, and it was decided that the programs this year will focus on helping club members learn more about identifying rocks.

A Christmas party on Dec. 14 will replace the meeting previously scheduled for Dec. 28. Each person attending is asked to bring a gift-wrapped rock and a covered dish.

YOU LIVE YOUR FAITH WHEN YOU SHARE WITH OTHERS

There is no greater expression of faith than the translation of it into good deeds; the sharing of our blessings with those less fortunate than ourselves. However, the concept of sharing goes far beyond the mere distribution of our material wealth to the poor; it also includes the gift of your time, patience, understanding and friendship. Visit the old and the sick; talk to them; read to them, run errands for them, give a ride to someone who is in need of it. Remember that the finest gift of all is that of yourself, given quietly and without fanfare, and you will be the better for it. Learn more about the true spirit of giving by attending your Church.

"He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again."

— Proverbs 19:17

Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves.

Aaron, Robinson Still Have Bitter Feelings

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent

The names of Henry Aaron and Frank Robinson will appear for the first time on the ballot for the 1982 baseball

Hall of Fame, and there is little question that both shortly will have their own private little niches in the museum at Cooperstown, N.Y.

They could make it the first time out. If not, neither can be long denied the honor. They have all the credentials. The question is: Will ultimate induction — the game's highest honor — douse the bitter resentments that have simmered in their chests? In all of baseball, there has been no one more outspoken in calling attention to the inequities of the sport — the slight of the black player who, after performing not only adequately but often brilliantly on the field, has found the doors to the manager's office or to an executive post shut in his face.

Ironically, Aaron and Robinson are two blacks who managed to crash the barrier. Aaron, baseball's home run king, is vice president and director of player personnel for the Atlanta Braves. Robinson, MVP in both leagues, with 586 home runs and a .294 batting average for 21 years, is manager of the San Francisco Giants, having earlier been fired as field boss of the Cleveland Indians, the first of his race to hold such a position.

was now on the ballot for the Hall of Fame, Robinson was asked if the prospect of this final honor would in any way ameliorate his feelings about lack of consideration given retired ball players.

"Why should it?" he said. "If anything, it only emphasizes the situation. Sure, Hank and I have executive-type jobs. But give me some others. ... I think it's a shame that there are not more black managers and front office executives."

Aaron has been even more vitriolic.

Once he said that no matter how well black baseball players perform, they ultimately get "shafted." He added that the man who ran baseball "want to look at us as monkeys."

Aaron had reason for his bitterness. He played 20 years, getting 3,771 hits (second only to Ty Cobb), batting .306 and winning 10 more games, at bats, RBIs, sacrifice flies and home runs (755) than anyone in history.

He played in the shadow of the more colorful Willie Mays and never received the national exposure he deserved. His bid for Babe Ruth's record of 714 home runs was marked by acrimony, a squabble with the commissioner's office over whether he could be held out of a game in order to hit his 715th of home and pressure from baseball's front.

Robinson was one of baseball's toughest competitors, the first ever to win MVP in both leagues. He was the majors' first black manager, joining Cleveland in 1970 and serving 2 1/2 years before being fired.

"I can yell my head off about discrimination," he said. "Hank Aaron can demonstrate as he did in New York. Lou Brock and others may complain of injustices. They are like scattered BB shots. People read about it and forget it."

Robinson never forgets what Aaron and Robinson did

Against No. 1 Pitt

Game 'Easiest to Coach' for Paterno

By The Associated Press

"This is the easiest game to coach, as far as I'm concerned," says Joe Paterno. "You don't have to worry about motivating the kids."

The Penn State coach is talking about the Pitt game, of course. That's coming up Saturday — and, as usual, has some importance attached to it.

"Every year this game has grown bigger and bigger," points out Pitt Coach Jackie Sherrill. "The intensity has really increased."

As so often has happened in the past, the Pitt-Penn State game has national implications. It marks the third time since 1976 that one or the other enters the contest with the No. 1 ranking. This time, Pitt is top-ranked with a 10-0 record and shooting for another national championship, while Penn State is No. 11 at 8-2.

Penn State leads one of college football's most bitter rivalries 39-38-3. "The win over Notre Dame puts us in a more positive frame of mind," said Penn State guard Sean Farrell of last week's victory over the Irish. "We also have the added challenge of going against the No. 1 team."

Pitt has been invited to play in the Sugar Bowl against third-ranked Georgia on New Year's Day, while Penn State will play in the Fiesta Bowl the same day against Southern Cal.

Alabama, the nation's fourth-ranked team, will play Auburn in another of the country's traditional rivalries Saturday. Alabama's Bear Bryant is shooting for his 315th career victory, which would put him all alone at the top of the college football list.

"I haven't mentioned the record to them," said Bryant of his team, "and I won't. I hope they'll try to win the game for themselves."

The Crimson Tide, which will play in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day against Texas, is heavily favored in this game over their in-state opponent.

Other games Saturday include Lamar at No. 17 Southern Mississippi; Arizona at No. 18 Arizona State; Florida State vs. Florida; Boston College against Holy Cross; Oklahoma vs. Oklahoma State; Houston vs. Rice; Tennessee against Vanderbilt and LSU vs. Tulane.

In a game today, Notre Dame took on Miami of Florida.

In action Thursday, quarterback Robert Brewer guided seventh-ranked Texas on an 80-yard scoring drive to rally the Longhorns past Texas A&M 21-13. Brewer capped the drive himself with a one-yard sneak.

Barry Redden rushed for a school record 280 yards and scored two touchdowns as Richmond struggled to an 18-12 victory over Penn. The Spiders overcame a 12-10 halftime deficit with Redden's three-yard touchdown plunge in the third quarter, then staved off a Penn rally that saw the Quakers drive to a first down at the Richmond 21 before being halted late in the final period.

UCLA Opens Against BYU

By LARRY SIDMONS AP
Sports Writer

Larry Farmer was a player at UCLA when John Wooden was coaching the Bruins to one national basketball title after another. Now, Farmer is in Wooden's old seat at Pauley Pavilion, and many feel dynasty again is at hand.

Farmer makes his regular-season debut as coach tonight when UCLA, ranked No. 2 in The Associated Press preseason poll, opens its campaign at home against Brigham Young.

All five of last season's starters are back on the Bruins' roster, but the key player could be a new one: Stuart Gray, a 7-foot freshman center.

Gray is among several towering youngsters who will be in the spotlight in the first weekend of the season.

Georgetown, No. 5 in the preseason Top Twenty, has 7-foot freshman Patrick Ewing as it opens tonight, playing Southwest Louisiana in the first round of the Great Alaska Shootout in Anchorage.

Wichita State, ranked sixth, has 7-foot-1 Greg Dreiling, a hometown product, at center for its season opener against Abilene Christian.

And the best big man of last season — in fact, the Player of the Year — is also on the court tonight. Ralph Sampson, Virginia's 7-foot-4 center, leads the seventh-ranked Cavaliers into the Virginia Tipoff Tournament against Fairfield.

Two other Top Twenty members also open tonight at home. No. 14 Alabama-Birmingham hosts Benedictine and No. 20 Alabama takes on New Hampshire.

North Carolina, the No. 1 team in the preseason balloting of sports writers and broadcasters, opens its season Saturday against Kansas in Charlotte, N.C.

Coach Dean Smith, in his 21st year at the Tar Heels' helm, still is looking for his first national championship after losing to Indiana in the NCAA finals last March.

The Tar Heels, 29-3 last season, have three starters returning. Forward James Worthy and center Sam Perkins will rejoin guard Jimmy Black in the starting lineup, while Matt Doherty will move up from his reserve forward role. The other guard spot will be filled by either Jim Braddock or freshman Michael Jordan.

UCLA is back in action Saturday night, hosting Pepperdine, and No. 3 Kentucky is home against Akron.

Iowa, No. 9, hosts Northern Illinois. Defending NCAA champion Indiana, ranked No. 12 in the preseason poll, takes on Miami of Ohio.

Mount Vesuvius is continental Europe's only active volcano.

It's 'little' Tony Collins

Good things may come in small packages. But the New England Patriots are convinced that better things come in medium-sized frames.

At 5-foot-11 and 202 pounds, rookie running back Tony Collins is no scatback. But he is not so big that he can be expected to run over opponents.

Compact and quick, he certainly has found a way to pile up yardage in his first NFL season.

"Tony Collins may be the surprise player of this year's draft, just like Buffalo's Joe Cribbs was last year," says New England's 14-year veteran center Bill Lenkaitis. "Collins gets to the corner very quickly, but he's also pretty good on those 'wham' plays we run up the middle. He hits the hole so quickly that he's getting five yards even though he's not that big."

Collins came to the Patriots as a second-round draft pick last April following an impressive career at East Carolina, where he averaged 9.3 yards every time he touched the ball (rushing, receiving, kick returns).

While his teammates have changed, the results haven't. Collins arrived at the Patriots training camp listed fifth behind veterans Vagas Ferguson, Allan Clark, Horace Ivory and Andy Johnson. Unperturbed, he led all New England rushers with 193 yards in four pre-season games.

"I just wanted to establish myself and let the Patriots know I could play," explains Collins. "They drafted me in the second round and I wanted them to know they wouldn't regret it."

With Ferguson and Clark sidelined by injuries and Ivory traded to Seattle, Collins stepped in and paired with Don Calhoun in New England's season-opener against the Colts. He rushed for 81 yards, caught three passes for 48 yards, and returned three kickoffs for another 65 yards in New England's one-point loss to Baltimore.

In other big games, Collins rushed 103 yards against Washington, and added 96 yards in the Patriots first win of the year, a 33-17 decision over the Chiefs.

Collins is also New England's leading kickoff returner, averaging about 20 yards per return. But the most pleasant surprise has been his ability as a pass receiver. Since East Carolina ran from a wishbone formation, Collins did not see many passes during his collegiate career. As a pro, that has changed. With quickness, some think Collins strongly resembles another similar number 33 residing in Dallas: Tony Dorsett.

Says Collins, "Although I prefer to watch Tony Dorsett run more than anyone else in football, I did not choose my number to be like him."

He says his idol was his older brother, Morris. Collins says, "He wore 33 in college and semi-pro football in Buffalo. If he hadn't married and quit football, I feel he'd be in the NFL."

"That's why I wear 33." ANOTHER BREED — A middle linebacker often has an image somewhat like that of a Tasmanian devil, always ready to jump into the fray.

Jeff Siemon of Minnesota doesn't fit the mold. But the 10-year veteran from Stanford is one of the finest middle linebackers in the game.

"On the field, I play with a great deal of emotion," Siemon says. "Not the jumping up and down, Dick Butkus emotion. That hasn't been my style."

His quieter style is good enough, though. It has earned him four appearances in the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl.

MR. VERSATILE — Cleveland wide receiver Dave Logan, who attended the University of Colorado, was a three-sport star in high school.

Logan was drafted in football by the Browns, in baseball by the National League's Cincinnati Reds and in basketball by the NBA's Kansas City Kings.

In 1976, he chose the NFL. But it wasn't until Cleveland Coach Sam Rutigliano became coach that Logan became a starter for the Browns.

Now he's a fixture in an outstanding receiving corps that includes wide receiver Reggie Rucker and tight end Ozzie Newsome.

Did he make the right choice? It sure looks that way.

BEST DEAL — Buffalo head coach Chuck Knox has made some astute trades in his four years with the Bills.

He says the deal that brought wide receiver Frank Lewis from Pittsburgh in exchange for tight end Paul Seymour was his best.

Why? After the first 10 games of the 1981 season, Lewis led AFC receivers with 52 catches for 889 yards.

HAITI: Poorest of the Poor

SOURCE: The World Almanac NEA/Mark Gabrenya

Haitians fleeing their politically repressed and economically depressed homeland are the United States' most difficult illegal immigration problem. Despite deaths at sea and interception by U.S. patrols, boatloads continue to come. A black-populated former French colony occupying the western third of the island of Hispaniola, Haiti is at the bottom of the economic and social statistics among Western Hemisphere countries. The Duvalier family has ruled the country through fear for a quarter of a century.

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White Attorney General

"The wise man looks for what is within, the fool for what is outside." Confucius

AUSTIN--Hello, your number has been selected at random and you may be a lucky winner in our 'HIT THE JACKPOT' contest. This contest is being sponsored by radio station ABCD and your local merchants. Because your telephone number was chosen, you are eligible to win over $1,000 in free merchandise, services and entertainment. All you have to do is answer the following question correctly: WHO IS BURIED IN GRANT'S TOMB? a) Ulyses S. Grant b) Lassie c) Loretta Lynn

How many of us have picked up the telephone only to hear something very similar to the sales pitch used above? Although some radio stations do co-sponsor "contests" like the one mentioned, what has usually happened is that a promotional firm has purchased extensive advertising from that station in exchange for the use of the station's call letters. The promoters, in most instances, have no other affiliation with the local station.

The free gifts are usually in the form of coupons that can be redeemed at area merchants. Many times an additional purchase is necessary and quite often, the merchants are no longer honoring the coupons for reasons of their own. Before agreeing to accept the coupon book, do a little investigative work: Ask the caller if your money is completely refundable if you are dissatisfied with the book. Get the names of some of the businesses involved and call them to see if they are honoring the coupons.

HEALTH Limiting lung cancer chances

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - My mother died recently at age 60 of lung cancer. She was a pack-a-day smoker for 35 years. She did not become ill until two months before her death, but her last days were horribly painful and her death from pulmonary edema was a hell on earth. If everyone witnessed suffering like this the cigarette companies would have to go out of business. I am a 34-year-old female who stopped smoking four years ago after an 11-year habit of more than a pack a day. I know I will never smoke again. Does a former smoker's risk of lung cancer decrease as years go by or is the damage already done? Do I have an increased risk of lung cancer because my mother had it? Is there a test one can take to diagnose the disease before symptoms appear?

POLLY'S POINTERS Polly Fleher

DEAR POLLY - With four sons, we've always had trouble at bath time over who would go first. Now I make up a monthly schedule giving everyone a turn at being first. The first day of the month the oldest goes first, the second-oldest goes second, and so on. The second day, the second-oldest goes first, the third-oldest second, the fourth goes third and the oldest goes last. We continue on like this throughout the month. This works so well that we are now going to use the same schedule for choosing TV programs. Whoever is first to have a bath gets to pick the programs for that day. - GLO-RIA

BARBS Phil Pastoret Don't knock airline food. It keeps your mind off the possible fate of the airborne restaurant in which you're confined. One question: If Washington slept in all the places he's purported to have missed, when was he awake long enough to get on with running the republic? An optimist is a fellow who expects the yule light strings will go on the first time he plugs them in. Now that three-piece suits are back, pipe smokers have a vested interest in keeping their shirts clean.
