Woman charged in train derailment

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

An Amarillo woman was charged Sunday with failure to yield at a railroad crossing after a collision between the semi-truck she was driving and a Santa Fe train apparently caused a 10-car derailment.

Charlette Kay Shugars, 34, of 4407 1/2 Brown in Amarillo, was issued the ticket by Department of Public Safety trooper Darrel Matthews. She was the driver of a truck loaded with beef by-products that was struck in a railroad crossing one mile east of Hereford.

Matthews said the eastbound train picked up the truck trailer and carried it about one-fourth mile, leaving the tractor parked just beyond the tracks. He said the woman was still sitting in the tractor at the time of the impact and to his knowledge she had not had time to disengage the cab from the trailer.

'It's a miracle the train didn't take the cab too," Matthews said.

Ten cars and four engines were derailed when the accident occurred at about 4:40 p.m. Sunday, Matthews said. The 45-car train was traveling around 60 miles an hour.

Matthews said Shugars told him there had been a blowout on the truck she was driving, but an eyewitness told him the truck proceeded across the tracks after the red lights began flashing. He said there was a flat tire in the truck.

According to a spokesman at Deaf Smith General Hospital, two of the men riding on the train were taken by ambulance to the emergency room. George Nigh, 37, and Rick Fierro, 30, were "bruised up but not hurt; and were both released.

Five units from the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department were called out and stayed at the scene until 7:30 p.m. Fire Marshal Jay Spain said the department washed away 4,000 gallons of diesel fuel that spilled from one of the engines. He said they also had the umpleasant job of washing away the debris that spilled from the trailer.

Clean-up crews arrived about 9 p.m. and worked into the night, opening the tracks by early morning.

Loren Simmons, staff assistant to the Santa Fe general manager in Dallas, said equipment, track and signal damage amounted to $433,800.

'That figure does not include loss of lading, clean-up expense or cost of train delays," he pointed out. "We haven't figured those costs yet."

Simmons said the derailment made it necessary to re-route six westbound and one eastbound trains during the night, and caused several

Smithee claims control of schools lost

By KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN Staff Writer

According to a Republican candidtate for 86th District State Representative, "we haven't heard the last out of the education issue."

John Smithee, who spoke in Hereford Monday at a noon meeting of the Deaf Smith County Republican Women, criticized the education reform measures recently enacted by the Texas legislature.

"When we opened up that reform package, all we found was red tape," he claimed.

Smithee said Texans "need to concentrate on local control of our schools. We've really lost control of our schools." The real cost of education has escalated in the last 20 years, the candidate pointed out, which proves that "more money isn't the answer." Smithee said he spends his evenings knocking on doors, and has not found a teacher yet who is totally

Record expansion forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) - American businesses are planning to spend a record $307.6 billion on modernization and expansion in 1984, 14.3 percent above the amount spent last year, the government reported today.

Business investment actually declined 4.8 percent last year to $269.2 billion despite the relatively robust recovery from the 1981-82 recession.

The latest Commerce Department business survey, taken in July and August, confirmed earlier projections that capital spending in 1984 would increase at the fastest clip since 1966.

The 14.3 percent rise is expressed in actual spending. When the effects of inflation are taken out, the increase is 13.3 percent, compared to a 3.6 percent inflation-adjusted decline in 1983.

With the nation's factories now operating at more than 82 percent of capacity, economists say the strong drive to expand and build new facilities should continue.

Farm expenses down this year

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farmers are spending a record amount for feed, seed, fuel, fertilizer and other items needed to produce this year's crops and livestock - but not quite as much as Agriculture Department economists had predicted.

According to a revised report by the department's Economic Research Service, expenses for 1984 production are expected to be in the range of $116 billion to $120 billion. That is down $2 billion from a similar forecast issued by the agency in August.

Gary Lucier, one of the authors, said Monday that the $2 billion downward revision was primarily due to certain "input prices being lower than had been anticipated."

Fuel has been cheaper than earlier indicated, along with feed for livestock, he said.

Despite the $2 billion reduction in the agency's forecast, expenses at $116 billion to $120 billion will be up sharply from $109.5 billion, a 3 percent decline from the previous high of $113.4 billion in 1982.

The main reason for the slump in 1983 expenses was the government's massive program aimed at cutting crop acreages, including a $9.8 billion payment-in-kind program which provided free surplus commodities to farmers who reduced acreages of wheat, corn, sorghum, rice and cotton.

Pope visits Montreal today

MONTREAL (AP) - Pope John Paul II, in the wake of an unsolved bombing, was greeted with cheers and songs early today in French Canada's largest city.

Throngs of faithful gathered outside his residence in downtown Montreal and gave him a midnight serenade shortly after his arrival from a 175-mile train journey up the St. Lawrence valley.

But the pope also faced the first protest of his 12-day Canadian visit and the menace lingering from a fatal explosion last week which has been followed by frequent bomb threats.

On the third and busiest day so far of his Canadian tour, the pope planned to meet today with priests at a basilica where a layman is said to have worked miracles, to visit the tomb of a pioneer nun he canonized two years ago, to beatify another nun and to address thousands of young people in an evening rally at Olympic Stadium.

A group calling itself the Coalition Against the Pope's Visit announced a late afternoon march - well away from the papal route - to protest church teachings on sex.

Reagan to meet with Soviet Minister Gromyko

By R. GREGORY NOKES AP Diplomatic Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan will meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on Sept. 28 at the White House, the first meeting between Reagan and a senior Kremlin leader, administration officials say.

The meeting is certain to be seen on Sept. 26. as reflecting a slight thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations, one U.S. official said.

But it also may be viewed as an effort by Reagan to deflect criticism by Democratic presidential hopeful Walter F. Mondale that Reagan is the first president in years not to meet with Soviet leaders.

A senior administration official cautioned Monday night against expecting any breakthroughs toward mending the many differences between Moscow and Washington or in setting the stage for a resumption of arms control negotiations. The official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said the

Hurricane Diana threatens Carolina

By BRUCE M. SMITH Associated Press Writer

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) - Hurricane Diana churned the ocean with winds in excess of 110 mph today, stoking up power and threatening to bounce inland as worried island dwellers moved to high ground and coastal residents secured boats. taped windows and stocked up on emergency supplies.

Hal Gerrish of the National Hurricane Center in Miami said Monday night that Diana was getting stronger and if it takes "a slight northward trend, it could make landfall in a very short time."

"The storm now presents the greatest threat to the north coastal areas of South Carolina," the National Weather Service said in recommending voluntary evacuations of beachfront areas from Georgetown to North Myrtle Beach.

At 6 a.m. the weather service said the 110-mph winds represented "a significant increase in strength over the past few hours" and "a more immediate threat to the Carolina coasts."

Diana became the season's first Atlantic hurricane Monday morning after sustained winds passed the 74 mph threshold off Jacksonville, Fla. All day it trudged north along the Georgia and South Carolina coasts at about 5 mph, slowly building strength.

School was canceled in parts of South Carolina and Georgia, beaches were closed from Florida to North Carolina, rescue boats were towed inland and military planes were flown to safer fields. Banks in Savannah, Ga., closed at 2 p.m. Monday and sent employees home. Windows on businesses and homes in Charleston were boarded and taped.

A hurricane warning was in effect from just north of Brunswick, Ga., to Oregon Inlet, N.C., just south of Kitty

Hawk. Gale warnings were posted north to just south of Virginia Beach,

At 4 a.m. today, the storm was drifting northeast at less than 5 mph about 90 miles southeast of Charleston, with the eye at latitude 32.0 north and longitude 78.6 west. Diana's highest sustained winds were 110 mph, and gales extended 100 miles in all directions, the weather service said. An Air Force plane reported "a well-defined eye has formed."

Tides of 1 to 3 feet above normal will occur along the coast ahead of the storm, and waves up to 8 feet above normal could crash ashore if the hurricane moves inland, the weather service said.

Forecasters faced two problems trying to predict Diana's wanderings

"One, it's strengthing. Two is the fact that we have very weak steering currents and the motion is rather uncertain," Gerrish said.

"A high pressure area may be building to the north" of the hurricane, he said. "There may be sufficient time for a high pressure area to build. That would tend to retard its northward progress. It certainly could stop and reverse it. That's one of the things we have to watch." About two-thirds of the 1,500 residents of Georgia's Tybee Island, just south of Hilton Head, S.C., had evacuated by Monday night, said Lew Dotson, civil defense director. But those who stayed watched the

"I didn't believe it was going to hit to begin with," said Neil Boreham, 35, one of about a dozen people in a tavern on the beach. "Everybody had an attitude where it didn't bother them at all. They just sat down and had a few beers.

Mondale challenges Reagan to stop avoiding deficit

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer

With his tax-increase plan for cutting federal red ink on the table, Bush said. Walter F. Mondale is challenging President Reagan "to stop avoiding the deficit issue." But Vice President George Bush says there's no need for Reagan to offer a plan because "the people know where we're coming from.

Bush, campaigning in the South while Reagan continued his break from the campaign, responded to the Democratic presidential candidate's unveiling Monday of a $177 billion package of tax increases and spending cuts designed to slash the budget deficit.

"It looks to me like a program for failure and for turning this country back to the economic gloom and doom it was in when we took office."

Reagan, who is heading out

Wednesday for political events in Buffalo, N.Y., dismissed Mondale's proposals as "nothing new" during a White House photo session.

Bush was going today to Charleston, S.C. before flying to Columbia, S.C., and on to Atlanta.

Mondale revealed his proposal in Philadelphia, and he was hoping to put the president on the defensive as he set out for Chicago and Green Bay, Wis., today to hammer away at the budget issue.

"I challenge Mr. Reagan to stop avoiding the deficit issue and start telling you what he intends to do about it," said Mondale. "Right now, Mr. Reagan, all my cards are on the table - face up.

"Americans are now calling your hand. Let's see it, let's debate it.'

Reagan has not offered a similar plan for cutting the deficit. Treasury Secretary Donald Regan belittled Mondale's plan as "budget gimmickry" and said the administration would offer its ideas in the 1986 budget — to be presented to Congress after the election.

Bush, too, said there was no insaid she told the archbishop he was clination to meet Mondale's challenge and put forward an administration proposal for deficit cut-"I don't see any propensity on the president's part to do that," Bush said while campaigning in North Carolina.

Asked if the American people didn't deserve more information, the vice president replied:

"I think the people know where we're coming from. We're saying, just stay on this general course we're on," Bush added.

and challenged by a leader of her church's position on abortion.

Both came away from the conversation saying the half-hour talk was pleasant, but they were standing by their positions.

Ms. Ferraro, a Catholic who says she opposes abortion but supports a woman's right to choose to have one, wrong. O'Connor said he still thinks she has misrepresented the teachings of her church.

"I explained to the archbishop that I supported the right of everyone to speak out on the important issues of the day," she said in a written statement issued to reporters afterward. "When bishops speak out, they are doing their duty as church officials."

When she speaks out, Ms. Ferraro said she told O'Connor, she is likewise doing her duty as a public official.

"And my foremost duty as a public official is to uphold the United States constitution which guarantees freedom of religion," she said. "I cannot fulfill that duty if I seek to impose my own religion on other American citizens."

After celebrating Mass in a Manhattan church, the head of the New York archdiocese told reporters, "The tone of the conversation was very, very amiable. There was no hostility on either side."

But O'Connor added, "I think that she has misrepresented the teaching of the Catholic Church.'

Asked what statements he was referring to, O'Connor said he had seen a cover letter written by Ms. Ferraro to some 50 members of Congress in 1982 in which O'Connor said she wrote that the church's position on abortion can be open to options.

"It's really different up here," she said. "The kids are so much more down-to-earth and very moral. I haven't noticed any drug or alcohol problem."

She earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Texas in 1982 with her primary instrument being the clarinet.

"My oldest brother is a band director and I just grew up around it.," she said. "All the kids in my family play the piano and are in band. We're all certified teachers, too."

Judith described how band classes differed from other teaching.

"We see about two or three times more students per day and we're not teaching just one thing-we teach several different instruments at the same time," she explained.

She also said that their schedule was more hectic than most teachers. "Our schedule is closer to that of a coach with extra practices and night work," Howerton stated. In Hereford, band is taught under the team teaching system. All four band directors teach six classes a day because the students are divided into four groups within each class. "You must know how to cooperate and to give and take so that what you're doing is best for the program,"she said. "You must be open to new ideas." Despite the long hours and hard work she puts in to the band program, Judith is really excited about this year.

"Increasing the students' selfconfidence is really rewarding," she said. "Just seeing kids come in and do well in band when they don't do well in other areas, and then seeing them transfer their success in band to the other areas is great.

"I'm trying to get these kids believing in themselves. I want to teach them that they're capable of doing anything they want to do. And, I want to help them to be the best

COOLING DOWN
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) —
Although it has been assumed that strenuous exercise can cause sudden death, some physicians are now saying that the real hazard is not the exercise but a failure to cool down gradually after the activity.

Immediately after exercise, they say, body hormones that speed up the pulse, constrict blood vessels, and cause a rise in blood pressure are suddenly released in much higher levels than normal — apparently in an effort to restore the blood pressure to the peak reached when exercising.

PUBLIC NOTICE

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., has filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) a proposal to reduce intrastate, interLATA long distance revenues to offset proposed increases in specialized service rates for private line, WATS, 800, OCC facilities and directory assistance services. The proposed tariff restructure will not result in any increases in the overall revenues of the Company. The proposed effective date for the tariffs is September 20, 1984. All customers and classes of customers will be affected by this filing.

The restructure in the basic long distance service (MTS) results in an overall decrease in the revenues received by the Company from such service of approximately $100 million. While this proposed restructure results in an overall decrease in revenue, certain MTS rates are proposed to be increased to more nearly recover the access charges approved by the PUC for such service.

AT&T Communications has also filed restructured tariffs designed to more closely recover access costs for private line, DATAPHONE* Digital Service (DDS), OCC facilities, WATS, 800 and directory assistance services. These restructured tariffs result in an approximate overall revenue increase of approximately $100 million from increases in its WATS, 800, DDS, OCC facilities and private line rates, and institution of a charge for directory

The result of these proposed tariff changes and the restructure of our service offerings is to more nearly recover access costs from those services for which such access costs are incurred.

This proposed restructure results in no increase in overall revenue to AT&T Communications and is not a major rate change as that term is defined in Section 43(b) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act. A complete copy of all tariffs and rate schedules is on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene or participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information also may be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

'First-quarter blues'

Cowboys must whip difficulty

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys say they are going to have to cure the "first quarter blues" if they expect to go far in the 1984 National Football League race.

"We just come out too flat," said wide receiver Doug Donley. "We did it a lot last season and we did it against Los Angeles. Then we did it against the (New York) Giants.

"Eventually, you have to pay if you keep doing it."

The Cowboys have yet to score in the first quarter this season. It took them five games to finally score a point in the first period last year.

"We have to come out and set the tempo," said Donley, "not let the other teams do it."

Donley said if anything else Sunday's 28-7 loss to the New York Giants should serve as an "eveopener."

"Maybe we thought after we beat the Los Angeles Rams like we did (overcoming a 13-0 lead) that we could keep doing it," said Donley.
"We came from behind a lot last year but we've got to quit getting ourselves in that position."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)-The stakes weren't as high as their conference title clash, but the emotions were just as charged and the outcome about as close.

Monday night in a National Football Washington receiver Art Monk, who caught 10 passes for 200 yards. "Time ran out on us tonight just like it did on them last year."

The big difference between the games was that the Redskins' 24-21 victory last January sent them to the Super Bowl. This time, the 49ers, 2-0, only moved to the lead of their division, while the Redskins, 0-2, dropped to the bottom of theirs.

Yet both teams played as if the Super Bowl were again on the line.

"It was probably the most emotionally charged game we've played in my three years here," said San Francisco tight end Russ Francis, who caught five passes for 55 yards and received two personal-foul penalties for tussels with the Red-just didn't show up."

Quarterback Danny White, who got into the game only as a punter, saw little solace in Gary Hogeboom's poor day.

"It was obvious Gary was trying to force the ball," White said. "Sometimes when you get behind you have to force the ball and try and make something happen. I know the feeling. I've been through it once or twice.'

He added, "It was frustrating. It's one thing to sit out a victory but it's quite another to sit out a loss. My patience is beginning to wear thin. I may last a few more weeks."

"We matched them up gun-shooter on gun-shooter," Theismann said of his duel with Montana, a fellow Notre Dame alumnus, "and it was fun moving the ball the second half. The 49ers were not laying back in the second half. They were blitzing more and had a full pass rush on."

Neither team lay back the whole game. In the first half everyting seemed to work for the 49ers while nothing went well for the Redskins. In the second half, it all changed.

"We shut ourselves down in the first half," said John Riggins, who had one of his worst games as a Redskin despite running for two touchdowns, managing only 12 yards rushing on 10 carries. "They were very aggressive and we had no continuity. We just couldn't get anything going. They were able to build up a convincing lead while we wre sputtering and flubbing things up."

At halftime, Riggins said, the Redskins looked closely at themselves.

'We were in jeopardy of losing a lot more than a football game, i.e. our confidence," he said.

Washington Coach Joe Gibbs said he didn't have to give a rousing speech at halftime

Groups sit out controversy over steel quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer groups have been conspicuously silent during one of the year's noisiest battles: the steel industry's fight for stiff import quotas. Instead, fair trade groups backed by big banks, big industry and big business are pleading the consumer's cause.

Saying they can't"cover every hot issue," three major consumer lobbies are staying on the sidelines, letting others warn about skyrocketing steel prices and higher costs for cars, appliances, machinery and aircraft.

"Most consumers really are not aware of the consequences of the steel quota," says Doreen Brown, director of Consumers For World Trade, which is supported by companies such as Caterpillar Tractor, Xerox and Bank of America.

"(Consumer groups) have for the most part stayed away from trade ... because of their close cooperation with labor on social issues." Ms. Brown said last week. "They have not spoken out for protectionism. They have not spoken out at all."

President Reagan must act by Sept. 24 on the U.S. International Trade Commission's package of tariffs and quotas that would restrain 70 percent of the foreign steel sold in the United States.

The ITC, agreeing with the domestic steel industry's arguments, ruled on July 11 that foreign steel shipped to the United States in 1983 caused serious injury to American steelmakers and should be temporarily restrained.

The ITC package would cost consumers $7.8 billion yearly, according to CWT. The Federal Trade Commission puts the cost at $1 billion over five years. Domestic steel companies say aggressive competition would keep prices down.

Even with so much money at stake, three consumer groups said they plan to stay out of the steel quota controversy.

'Traditionally on trade issues we haven't been able to take across-theboard positions. And we've got a lot of other issues that are a lot more direct and we feel more comfortable with," said Gene Kimmelman, legislative director of the Consumer Federation of America, which represents 30 million members of some 200 state and local groups, including some unions.

"It's not true that we always agree with labor," Kimmelman said. "We are caught in the middle (on steel) because we can see both sides."

Officials of Congress Watch, a Ralph Nader group, and Consumers Union, affiliated with the 3-million circulation magazine Consumer Reports, said small staffs limit their lobbying and their priorities.

"In general I have yet to see an import restriction that I like," said Mark Silber, director of Consumers Union's Washington office.

But he said his three-person staff "can't cover every hot issue in Washington" and is concentrating now on consumer finance, telecommunications services and health and safety issues.

"That doesn't mean we don't oppose quotas or the improper use of tariffs," Silber added. "We do oppose as a general proposition the use of those devices as a means of protection."

Nancy Drabble, head of the 60,000-member Congress Watch, said her group has focused this year on product liability legislation, hazardous waste cleanup funding and pesticide regulations.

"Steel import quotas just don't happen to be one of our issues," said Ms. Drabble. "It's not because of labor interest involvement. We don't get labor money like some consumer groups. We have grass roots sup-

Meanwhile, CWT has enlisted importers, exporters, port interests, farmers, retailers and manufacturers in its free trade crusade, many of them with more at stake than consumer prices. CWT's supporters view steel protection as a threat not only to consumer prices but to their businesses as well.

CWT and its backers defend their authority to champion the consumer cause.

"Retailers feel they're surrogate consumers. We feel the consumers' unhappiness ... When the price goes up, we feel it first," said Robert Brouse of the Retail Industry Trade Action Coalition, which contends textile and apparel quotas cost consumers $4 billion this year.

The non-partisan Congressional Budget Office says an across-theboard steel quota pending in Congress, more comprehensive than the ITC plan, would add $67 to each ton of steel by 1989. The American Institute for Imported Steel contends the rise would be $100 per ton.

The CBO estimates of short-term price increases are "so high compared with present price levels as to be totally inconsistent with those of most analysts, stretching credulity beyond the breaking point," according to the American Iron and Steel

But the Congressional Research Service, an arm of the Library of Congress, counters that the inflationary impact of steel quotas would be "relatively small."

And at least one steel executive, Richard Simmons, chairman of Allegheny Ludlum Steel, says any cost to consumers pales compared to the taxes needed to finance unemployment benefits, food stamps and other programs for jobless steelworkers.

More than 200,000 steelworkers have lost their jobs since 1977 and 150 facilities have closed in the past two years, the United Steelworkers union

Steel imports claimed 20.5 percent of the U.S. market last year and jumped to a monthly record of 33 percent in July 1984. The imports are cheaper than U.S. steel due to lower wage scales, modern plants and government subsidies.

Polly's Pointers

Polly Fisher Boiled eggs

DEAR POLLY - Cold hands can be a problem if you like to take walks no matter what the weather. I hardboil myself two eggs, one for each coat pocket, and hold them in my hands inside the pockets as I walk.

The eggs stay warm for an hour and so do my hands — and I always have the "trimming" for my salads later.

DEAR POLLY - My fingers are twisted with arthritis, so I cannot open the catches on my necklaces. On the chains I cannot put on over my head, I have attached anklet chains that resemble my necklaces - sometimes two. Now they slip on over my head. I put the anklet chain under my collar so it doesn't show. I can enjoy wearing my necklaces again. ELISABETH

(AP) - Five years ago, Anastasio Somoza's 43-yearold dictatorship ended in Nicaragua. For the next two years, Leonel Palma and his family tried to adjust to the new situation.

"In the beginning, we were in favor of changes but with so many ties the (Sandinista) government had with Cuba and the Soviets, the changes were becoming too hard and we were regressing to a status we never had before," he said. As internal disturbances between the Sandinistas and their opponents "the Contras" intensified, Palma said life became harder. Supermarket lines were long even if basic products such as sugar, toothpaste, beans and salt couldn't be found. Political committees were formed in each neighborhood, he said, were a mandatory attendance to meetings was kept in check by means of a card Nicaraguans had to use in order to shop for food and Unexcused absences meant the card could be taken away. Because of the fighting, his wife, Socorro, said, "We couldn't buy any eggs or chickens because all the chickens were dead." At the time, he said, those who disagreed with the government were arrested and exiled. Foreign companies were being nationalized. Basic freedom was taken away. "Life was not paradise" under the Somoza dictatorship, Palma, who works in the accounting department for the City of Wichita Falls, said from his Wichita Falls home "Although we disagreed (with its policies,) we never were afraid to be treated as the new government is treating people now." One of Mrs. Palma's brothers, four cousins and nephews fought the Somoza government, she government, he said, life was bearable. Then, in July 1979, the Somoza dictatorship fell. Palma said he gave the Sandinista government two years. It didn't change for the better, so he and his family decided to leave. We're pushed like everybody else," he said.

> Palma was a member of an elite class in Nicaragua, the educated professional. He had studied in the United States and one of his four children was born in New Orleans. His last position in Nicaragua was that of administrative officer for the Inter-American Development Bank.

When he left the country, he joined a large number of professionals who had also decided to seek a new life "Doctors. elsewhere. especially the doctors and engineers," he said. "The 'brains' have already left and that's why the system don't work; they (Sandinistas) don't have the human resources," he said.

Palma said the decision to leave wasn't motivated by a lack of materials means. He said he lost two ranches and cattle - some lost in the fighting, some just left behind. He and his wife, a teacher, lost good paying jobs. They sold most of their possessions in Nicaragua but lost most of their money when they bought American dollars in the black market. "The thing is the approach," he said explaining why the family decided to leave. "We're in a level where we think that we have to be realized as human beings in order to participate in the development of the community." "There (in Nicaragua) they're trying to put society first, then family and personal goals. The problem is, they force you to do it not because you want to, because you have to.

We foresee the situation there will become harder," he said.

Although they have other relatives living in the United States, including Wichita Falls, most of their relatives still live in Nicaragua. "For the old people, I'm not afraid," Mrs. Palma said. "For the young people, yes, because they'll be (forced to serve) with the military and forced to fight."

The Palmas moved to Wichita Falls, they said, because they already had a relative here and because of sponsorship. It's been a long three years, trying to learn the language, adjusting to a new way of life, hoping to make friends to ward off loneliness

But, as they prepared to take their first vacation in three years recently, the Palmas and their four children, Jose Leonel, Clara Ester, Roger and Adriana, are looking at life with a new optimism. "We can solve all the problems," Palma said, because "here, you can go as far as you can try."

On ARMs

Several turning their backs

NEW YORK (AP) - Discounted ARMs, those mortgages that hauled homebuilders out of the pits and boosted financially strapped folks into the houses of their dreams, may be losing strength. The turn of events comes after a year in which such loans, as if by magic, helped many people to qualify for a house they otherwise couldn't

Now, says the nation's largest independent mortgage banker. Lomas & Nettleton, everyone seems to be turning his back on ARMs borrowers, financial markets in which ARMs are wholesaled, regulatory agencies, and money markets.

It prompts James Wooten, president of the big Dallasbased mortgage outfit to comment that, of all things, the fixed-rate mortgage is coming back, even if borrower and lenders aren't ready for it.

The fixed-rate mortgage. as most people who own houses know, is the kind of loan that was standard for 50 years. Commonly, it featured a steady rate for a very long time, in most cases 20 or 30

In the volatile 1970s, though, interest rates in general soared, but not on those fixed-rate mortgages. raise the rates. And if they tried, usury laws would have intervened.

Then came the abuses. In order to qualify more hardpressed buyers, lenders offered discounted ARMs - for one year. "Discounted to rates of 8, 9, 10 percent or below, they were pep pills to the housing market," said Wooten.

Baker planning final shot

Before he retires in January, Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. plans a final shot at persuading colleagues to allow TV cameras in the chamber, but his longrunning effort seems destined for cancellation.

"This is one that I have variously threatened the Senate with," the Tennessee Republican said sheepishly as he informed colleagues recently of his desire to bring the measure up just one more time. It was tucked in among the "must" items on Baker's long agenda for the remainder of the nearlyfinished 1984 session. Baker, who did not seek re-election this year, has been trying to win approval of his televison-in-the-Senate plan from the time he got the No. 1 Senate post in January 1981. But, despite his proven powers of persuasion in other areas, he's never been able to muster the support needed to put the question to a formal vote. It keeps running into filibusters - or threats of filibusters - from a group of for his TV bill into his Senate opponents led by Sen. Russell swan song. Long, D-La.

play to the cameras.

Nonsense, claims Baker. who wants to hook up to it.

WASHINGTON (AP) - He insists that it's just a matter of time until the Senate enters the televison age, as the House did five years ago. TV and radio coverage would be no more than electronic extensions of the visitors' and press galleries, Baker argues.

In fact, the Senate has permitted both radio and televsion coverage in the past, but only of selected events. For instance, the swearing in of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president in 1974 was televised and the debate on the Panama Canal Treaties in 1978 was made available for radio broadcast.

Long is as opposed to Baker's proposal as ever, and ready to use whatever tactics necessary to block the resolution when it comes up, possibly sometime this week, his aides report.

HUMAN EYEBALL
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — How tough is the human eyeball?
Larry Taber, an assistant professor of mechanical engineering at the University of Rochester, answered the question in terms of non-linear membrane mechanics.

Taber made a fluid-filled model of an eyeball to determine what happened when an object struck and deformed the eye. When he deformed the model with indenters, he found that the outer covering of the eyeball did not perforate or rupture until the deformation approached 80 percent of the eyeball radius.

According to Taber, his study demonstrates the same failure mechanisms that will occur in the

COURTYARD ADDS PRIVACY AND INTEREST

HOME DESIGN by Larry Farnsworth

This uniquely styled three bedroom louse with its interesting roof line and dramatic front-of-the-house chimney continues the drama inside with altogether equal distinction. A big raised entry sets the tone for an interior which is planned with imagination as well as prac-

Note, first, that this entry itself combines these two components of superior designing in most exemplary fashion--it is not only imaginative and well suited to exciting decor, it is also planned to channel household traffic with practical ease to all areas of the house

At the front of Model CC 1575, a big pleasant living room enjoys the cozy fireplace served by that massive chimney and has a lovely view too, through the big window overlooking the private garden which graces the main entrance ap-

The adjacent formal dining room provides a pleasant setting for leisurely meals and through open planning shares in a feeling of added spaciousness.

At the back of the house a large family room with a practical, U-shaped kitchen just across its long dining counter, has a pleasant view of the rear yard and access to it as well through its sliding glass doors.

The three bedrooms and two baths which occupy the other portion of the house enjoy remarkable privacy and quiet, sheltered from streetside distractions by the large two car garage and the entrance garden area behind that delightful central wall with its wrought iron gate

Note the big bedroom closets and the double lavatory in the compartmented main bath. And see, too, the well placed laundry alcove which, with the baths, forms a plumbing core for economy and functional efficiency as well. The short hall offset here has a handy inside doorway to the garage, too.

Model CC 1575 is a distinguished plan that is as interesting as it is livable. An optional basement plan is available.
