Thatcher Vows to Make No More Concessions

By The Associated Press

British jets bombed Argentine troop positions around Stanley, the capital of the Falklands Island, for the fourth straight day as peace talks resumed at U.N. headquarters in New York and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Britain will make no more concessions.

John Witherow of the London Times reported from the aircraft carrier Invincible that the Sea Harrier jets in their raids Monday dropped 1,000-pound air blast bombs fused to explode 50 feet above the ground. He said they were effective against a variety of targets, including aircraft on the runway.

There were no reports of the results of the raids. But naval briefing officers said the bombs were dropped in the vicinity of troop emplacements, Witherow reported.

The British air attacks were the only military action reported Monday. The correspondents with the British fleet reported the carrier Hermes picked up six Argentine jets by radar, but they did not attack and went away.

In Buenos Aires, the Argentine air force's commander and member of the ruling junta, Gen. Basilio Lami Dozo, said his forces will stage "a massive attack" as soon as British targets "are perfectly spotted and at a distance within reach of our whole arms system."

"We have gone as far as we can," Mrs. Thatcher said in a British radio interview. "They are the invader. They are the aggressor. We are the aggrieved. It is up to them."

The prime minister said if Gen. Leopoldo Galtieri, the Argentine president, does not withdraw his forces from the islands, Britain will "make him go."

"After all, we have been negotiating now for six weeks," she said. "I have looked at six sets of proposals. They have got nowhere."

But Argentine Foreign

Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez said "there's no more news" about the Argentine position. "No further comment," he told newsmen in Buenos Aires.

Snelson Campaigns Here

Senator Pete Snelson, right, was in Hereford this morning on a campaign tour for his run-off race June 5 for Texas Land Commissioner. Among those meeting with Snelson for breakfast were, left to right, John Aikin, Clint Formby and County Judge Glen Nelson. Snelson, longtime West Texas senator, was the leader in the Demo primary for the Land Commissioner's post.

Snelson Makes Campaign Stop

Senator Pete Snelson, who led the Democratic primary race for Texas Land Commissioner by some 4,000 votes, brought his June 5 run-off campaign to Hereford this morning as part of a statewide, 30-city tour.

Snelson arrived in Hereford Monday evening, had breakfast with supporters this morning, and was to make stops Tuesday in Amarillo, Lubbock, El Paso, Del Rio and McAllen.

Snelson, current chairman of the Senate Education committee, carried 147 counties and was second in 74 counties in the primary. His vote total was 340,779 compared to 336,643 for runner-up foe Garry Mauro.

"I appreciate the support which I received in Deaf Smith County that made it possible for me to finish first in the county with 45.7 percent of the vote," said Snelson.

The Texas Land Commissioner has the constitutional responsibility of managing the public lands for the school children of Texas. Revenues from public lands flow into the Permanent School Fund, which now contains some $3 billion and is projected to grow to $9.4 billion by 1990.

Snelson said he was again asking the people of Texas to entrust me with the responsibility of managing the public lands for the benefit of public education, based on my record of public service over these past 20 years and my experience in the education and business worlds covering some 35 years."

The senator said his campaign scheduled would be greatly curtailed as a result of the special session of the Texas Legislature which has been called for May 24. Snelson has pre-filed a bill to eliminate the 10-cent state ad valorem tax.

Snelson expressed confidence that he will be the choice for Land Commissioner in the June 5 primary, but urged citizens to vote and to talk to their neighbors about the importance of going to the polls.

City Receives $71,000 Rebate

AUSTIN, Tex.—State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday sent checks totaling $96.5 million to 966 Texas cities as their share of the one-percent city sales tax for May.

"This fifth monthly rebate for this year brings the total these cities have received to more than $318 million," Bullock said. "That's almost 13 percent ahead of what these cities had received this time last year."

Houston received the biggest check, $20.3 million, which brings the total that city has received to $67.6 million, up 16 percent over last year.

The city of Hereford received $71,166.79 for the period, a drop from the $77,031.07 received for the same period a year ago. This month's payment gives the city a total of $215,621.88 in rebates for the year, some 1.05 percent under the 1981 total of $217,902.97 for the same period.

Dallas received $10 million, for a 1982 total of $34.3 million, up nearly 8 percent over 1981.

The cities of Fort Worth and Austin each received $3.2 million checks and El Paso received $1.9 million.

Bullock also forwarded

May rebates to the state's two Metropolitan Transit Authorities. The Houston MTA received $22.2 million, bringing the total received this year to $74.7 million. The San Antonio MTA got a check for $2.7 million, bringing the 1982 rebate total to $9 million.

The city and MTA sales taxes are collected along with the state sales tax by merchants and rebated monthly to the cities in which they are collected by the Comptroller.

Campaigns 'Heat Up'

By The Associated Press
The campaigns for attorney general and lieutenant governor heated up as candidates traded barbs about qualifications and political labels.

Jim Mattox, who lead the four-man Democratic primary race for attorney general, said John Hannah, his opponent in the runoff election, has fooled the public and press about his law credentials.

Additional Surplus Cheese Available

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will have an additional 120 million pounds of processed American cheese to be distributed to needy households through the end of the year, however it is unknown when the next local distribution will be, if at all.

J.R. Chilton of the district USDA office in Lubbock said he has cheese "if I can get anyone to take it."

Chilton said the first time the cheese was distributed, the state underwrote the storage and handling charges. When the Department of Human Resources ran out of money, the agencies making the distributions were required to pay the charges.

"I have not had near as many takers," Chilton said, adding that no agency or group in Hereford has requested the cheese.

The charges for the cheese will run from 42 to 67 cents a case. Each case contains six five-pound loaves of cheese.

Chilton said that any non-profit organization may distribute the cheese including churches and civic clubs and no allotment has been made for counties.

According to Priscilla Schmitz, regional USDA director of the free distribution program, the distributing agencies have authority to set regulations concerning eligibility as long as the needy are the ones receiving the cheese.

She said the organization has the right to ask for income information in order to establish whether a family is needy. She said race information could be requested but was not required to be given.

City Approves Tax Statement

Taxpayers in the Deaf Smith County Appraisal District may receive only one statement per piece of property if the two other entities approve a measure passed by the Hereford City Commission Monday night.

Fred Fox, tax district director, told the commission that approximately $10,000 could be saved by sending out a "multi-statement" for each piece of property. Currently, property owners receive a separate tax statement for city, county and school taxes. Fox said if all entities agree on the measure, the number of separate accounts could be cut from 33,000 to about 17,000.

Fox said the statements would still be broken down so that payments could be made individually.

The commission voted unanimously on the measure. Commissioners also granted to contract Southwest Aerial of Hart for insecticide application. The flying fee will be 48 cents an acre and the chemical cost

Wichita Falls Area Inundated

Hail Damaging, Rainfall Light

The area just to the south and west of Hereford received both the good and the bad from a storm which passed through the county Monday evening according to a spokesman from Easter Grain.

Rainfall of one inch was reported in that area, but a barrage of hail left crops damaged as well. The marble-size ice bits damaged sugar beet, corn, and wheat crops as the storm moved across the area.

In Hereford, KPAN radio recorded an official .12 of an inch of rain during the night, but reports of as much as 2 1/2 inches to the south were received.

Other areas were not as fortunate with the Bootleg Corner area receiving no moisture at all according to Kathy Hammock, and only a sprinkle reported by Mr. J.E. McCabe near Dawn.

Meanwhile, a governor's office disaster team planned today to tour flood-ravaged Wichita Falls, where 500 people remained homeless because of torrential rain that caused an estimated $25 million in damage there and killed five people in South Texas.

More scattered thunderstorms, some severe, were forecast across the state today and thunderstorm and flash flood watches were issued for much of North and South Texas.

The bodies of a 2-year-old boy and a 27-year-old man, who drowned when a car was swept off a bridge six miles north of Uvalde, were recovered Monday. Three other people drowned in rising floodwaters caused by a seven-inch rain in San Antonio.

Authorities said 52 people who had returned to their homes in Wichita Falls Monday fled to shelters again. They were among about 5,000 residents who were evacuated during the last week because of Holliday Creek flooding.

Authorities said the recovery effort there was hampered by another 2.04 inches of rain that fell Monday, reflooding many streets that had been draining after the first storm last week. A flood warning remained in effect for the city.

Mayor Gary Cook said more than 2,000 homes were damaged and six were destroyed in floodwaters. Many were victims of a tornado that devastated the same part of the city in April 1979.

Near Uvalde, 27-year-old Thomas P. Lewis and 2-year-old Roland Hollis Phillips III, both of Uvalde, drowned when Lewis' car was swept off a Nueces River bridge about 9 p.m. Sunday.

Witnesses said the boy's mother, Cindy Phillips, swam to safety. Lewis tried to swim with the boy, but never made it to shore, authorities said.

Recession Still Grips America

By The Associated Press

A government report showed the country remained in the recession's grip through April, as uncertainty over interest rates pushed the stock market to its sharpest decline in 12 weeks.

The Federal Reserve Board said Monday that factories operated at 71.1 percent of capacity in April, a sign the downturn was continuing into the spring quarter. The government already has reported that industrial production dropped and unemployment rose in April.

There appeared to be little relief on the horizon for the housing industry, which has been crippled by high interest rates.

Economists at Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. said housing starts in the next five years will range from 1.4 million to 1.5 million units per year, a moderate increase from depressed levels.

Only "dramatic, permanent improvement in inflation" would allow housing to return to the booming climate of the past, the economists said.

Although home mortgage rates may drop below the 17 percent level, they are unlikely to fall to the 8 percent to 9 percent average that prevailed in the last decade, Morgan Guaranty said.

The economists also foresaw a recession-related drop in corporate borrowing in the coming months. Morgan said an increase in corporate tax payments, reduced bond issuance and an emphasis on building liquidity will cause the decline in short-term corporate borrowing.

In another report Monday, the F.W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co. said construction of new housing units in the first quarter declined 33

About seven inches of rain fell in San Antonio in the last two days, trapping motorists in floodwaters and washing some off bridges.

Sandra Bustamante, 17, was killed when her car was swept away after it stalled in high water.

And 18-year-old Dawn Hamilton was killed when her pickup was washed over a bridge in western Bexar County. The body of Michael

Rotarians Hear Project Report

Dr. John H. Revell of Ventura, Ca. spoke to the Hereford Rotary Club at its noon luncheon Monday, explaining the objects and progress of a Rotary International project which is providing assistance to Indians in Mexico.

Dr. Revell, a retired oral surgeon who is currently involved in research through Louisiana State University, explained the "Three H Program," sponsored by Rotary International.

"The object of the Health, Hunger, and Humanity program is to take care of the health and nutritional needs of the Totonac Indians, who live in the Mexican State of Puebla," he said. "The program extends essentially from ocean to ocean in the area, and includes some 250,000 Indians."

Dr. Revell explained that the program was begun in January after extension preliminary work, and included Rotarian doctors who donated six weeks of their time. The physicians were flown into Mexico City and then driven out to the area, about a 4 1/2 hour drive.

The Rotary International Clinic is being established in La Union, which is located in high mountainous country, and is often inundated by heavy rains. The Totonac Indians are employed by a large coffee plantation there. Other crops include corn, some citrus fruit, and a few grains.

The clinic is mainly an outpatient operation Dr. Revell said. In his six-week stint Dr. Revell performed some 550 procedures.

Dr. John H. Revell

"Rotary International has done programs such as this all over the world, but there hasn't been a lot said about it," the doctor said. "I think it's time that it was publicized some."

"This particular program is growing in that it has become to include the Rotary clubs in Mexico, and has even begun to get the support of the Mexican government itself," he continued.

Dr. Revell said the medical ailments of the Indians in the area vary from hepatitis to typhoid to tuberculosis. "There are also a lot of pulmonary infections, fungus infections, and bacterial infections," he said.

"Those six weeks were terrifically interesting," he said. "I don't know of any other work I've done that has been

Evangelist To Receive Religious Prize

LONDON (AP)—Billy Graham goes to Buckingham Palace today to receive the world's biggest religious prize.

Queen Elizabeth II's husband, Prince Philip, was to present the 63-year-old American evangelist the Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, a check for 110,000 pounds, or $200,200 at the present rate of exchange.

Graham said he would use the money for the relief of hunger, the training of evangelists in Third World countries and to promote evangelism in Britain. He plans a "Mission England" project of large-scale meetings in this country in 1984.

The Templeton Foundation's international panel of judges said it chose Graham for its 10th annual prize because he is one of the most influential religious leaders of the century and works with all Christian denominations.

Graham told a news conference in London Monday he felt "overwhelmed" at receiving the award.

The Templeton prize is financed by John M. Templeton, 69, a native of Tennessee who wanted to do for religion what the Nobel prizes do for science and culture. He told The Associated Press the 1982 prize went to Graham because he is a pioneer of new methods of evangelism.

Templeton, a millionaire investment counselor who lives in Nassau, Bahamas, said that after 10 years of the prize, "we can see each year more people being encouraged to take religion seriously by reading the life stories of the prizewinners."

Three Federal Judges To Conduct Conference On Prison Problem

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Three federal judges in different cities were to hear arguments today during an unusual nine-way conference call on El Paso County's petition to end limits on inmate population in Texas prisons.

County Attorney George Rodriguez, his first assistant, Mike Davis, and lawyers in San Francisco, Washington, D.C., and Austin were to participate in the conference.

Rodriguez announced Monday that the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals had agreed to consider the county's emergency petition for a writ of prohibition against U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice.

El Paso County has challenged Justice on his ruling that resulted in the Texas Department of Corrections refusing to take some prisoners at the state penitentiary in Huntsville.

TDC officials announced Monday they had reopened the prison system and had begun to take a limited number of inmates. But Rodriguez criticized the TDC for releasing 600 inmates to make room for the new arrivals.

After 16 convicted felons were transferred from El Paso County Monday, the jail population was 535 — 16 below the legal limit. Four others are awaiting transfer.

Davis filed a brief Monday with the appeals court asking it to override Justice's order against TDC. The brief also asks the judges to enjoin Justice from indirectly interfering in the county's compliance with an earlier federal order concerning overcrowding in the county jail.

Escape Attempt Breaks Both Legs

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An inmate trying to escape broke both legs when he leaped from the seventh-floor roof of the Bexar County jail to a secondary roof three floors below.

Authorities said Roberto Garcia, 29, joked with medical technicians about the doomed escape effort Monday morning as he lay injured on the secondary roof.

Garcia, convicted in connection with a 1981 shootout with a policeman, was removed from the roof after about an hour by a mechanical "cherry picker" and taken to a hospital.

When medical technicians asked Garcia whether he was trying to escape or to commit suicide, the inmate replied, "at this time, it looks like a little bit of both," Emergency Medical Service Lt. Joe Valadez said.

Garcia was appealing his conviction in the December 1981 attempted shooting of San Antonio policeman Dennis Paez. He had been housed in the jail's fifth-floor special management group wing, a facility reserved for inmates considered especially dangerous.

Two Legged Dog Manages Well

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Life hasn't exactly been kind to Shorty, a "full-bred junkyard dog," as his master calls him.

He is a normal enough dog in most ways. He likes beef. And most of the time he obeys his master.

James Green first met Shorty six years ago when Shorty escaped from an animal shelter with several other dogs and made his way to Green's machine shop. The others left but Shorty stayed.

He had four legs then. Now he has just two — both on the same side. But to hear Green tell it, Shorty's still normal enough.

Three years after Shorty first came to the shop he caught his left hind leg in a trap and had to have it amputated. He walked on just those three legs and got used to it, Green recalls.

"When he lost the back leg, it took him a while to get adjusted," Green said, adding, however, that Shorty managed well.

But then, two years later, Green noticed that Shorty was carrying his left front leg, walking on his two right ones.

"Some vandals or someone had shot his front leg with pellets," Green said. The veterinarian recommended Green have Shorty be put to sleep. Green wasn't ready to go along.

"I went to lunch and told him I'd be back and look at him one last time and then they could put him to sleep," Green said.

Murray, 27, who tried to help the woman start her truck, was also recovered.

Murray's brother said he was wading back to his pickup to get a rope when Miss Hamilton's truck and the two victims disappeared beneath the floodwaters.

San Antonio officials reported widespread power outages because of lightning struck transformers and high winds knocked down utility poles.

Authorities said heavy rains caused minor flooding in parts of north Houston and brief power outages for several thousand homes.

Northeast Memorial Hospital in Houston was flooded with several inches of water on ground floors and a transformer was knocked out by lightning. But officials said none of the two dozen patients had to be moved and an emergency generator supplied power to the hospital.

Three tornadoes were reported in West Texas early Monday. Twisters were spotted near Snyder and near Silverton and a tornado was sighted on radar near Justiceburg in the Abilene area. An apparent tornado destroyed a house on a Sherman.

Baseball-size hail was reported near Grassland and south of Matador on the South Plains, while golfball-size hail fell at San Antonio.

A line of heavy thunderstorms passed through North Texas as winds gusted to 80 mph at a Sherman.

more rewarding.

Another part of the program is a training regime for natives of the area. "The leader of each village selects an applicant who he feels is the best qualified to learn first aid and health practices from us," he said. "We operate a school for six months to teach those persons new skills."

The doctor said an agronomist is also on the scene, and teaches the people what they can grow for their own sustenance and perhaps even sell for a small profit.

"This program could be the most successful ever done by Rotarians in the scope of people that it helps," Dr. Revell said. "The cooperation between our country and Mexico is growing, and with it good will."

Dentist Tells Rest of Story

From the mailbox: Dear Paul Harvey News...

The other day you mentioned a dentist being sued by a woman who says the dentist grabbed her mouth and told her to stop acting like a child.

I know nothing more about that doctor, that patient or that case...but I am a practicing dentist and the experience of any dentist suggests there is a "rest of the story."

Judging from experiences of my own, here is what might have happened:

1—The young woman was in the dental office for an extraction which should have been attended two years before.

2—She had endured the onset of pain for two weeks before she called the dentist for "emergency care." She also specified that she must be seen at such and such a time TODAY—because that was the only time she had free.

3—After the doctor squeeze-ed her into his busy schedule, she arrived 35 minutes late; said her car would not start.

Ten minutes later she was complaining because the doctor had not seen her yet.

4—Now she is seated in a treatment room telling a frustrated assistant that she certainly does not want any X-rays because they might damage her health and X-rays are taken only to boost the dental fee anyway.

5—At this point the doctor enters, looks in her mouth, orders an X-ray so that he can see what's really going on, taps on the tooth to see if it is abscessed. He explains the benefits of a root canal which will allow the tooth to remain functional; the patient refuses because it is "too expensive."

6—In his desire to relieve the patient's pain the dentist takes from his assistant an anesthetic syringe and is immediately told by the patient, "I hate needles; can't you knock me out?"

He then spends five minutes, further delaying treatment for patients who are waiting, explaining why general anesthesia is impossible in a normal dental office.

7—While the X-ray is being processed and the anesthesia, administered to the accompaniment of screams, is taking effect, the doctor is apologizing to the other patients for the delay—and will continue to apologize for the three hours it takes him to get back on schedule.

8—When the doctor returns to remove the offending tooth, the patient screams at the top of her lungs—unsettling the dentist and alarming the entire office.

9—The dentist seeks to immobilize the patient's head to keep her from injuring herself on sharp tools already in her mouth and tells her to stop acting like a child because this has happened several times this week and he is at the end of his rope.

10—After the tooth is gone the patient tells the receptionist and everyone waiting that she is going to "sue hell" out of that so-and-so dentist—and leaves without paying her bill.

Mr. Harvey, there is not enough money in the world to coerce me into reliving that experience—yet I do—several times a month—because it's "part of the territory."

Dentists commit suicide at higher rates than any other occupational group probably because of such experiences.

Won't you please tell THE REST OF THE STORY. End quote.

Clovis Woman Killed

A 20-year-old Clovis woman died in Northwest Texas Hospital at 12:15 p.m. Monday from injuries received in an accident 9 miles north of Hereford at 6:40 a.m.

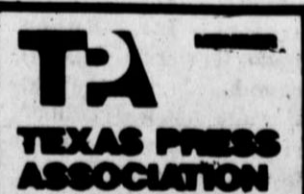

Janet Carroll Howell was thrown from the car in which she and Wilson B. Parrish of York, Neb., was driving. Capt. Robert Russell of the DPS said the southbound vehicle ran off the west side of U.S. 385 and Parrish, trying to correct the route, overcompensated and flipped the car 1½ times on the east side. Parrish had apparently fallen asleep.

Trooper Richard Waters out of Vega investigated the accident.

Parrish was wearing seat belts. He was treated from minor injuries and released from Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Services for Miss Howell will be by Steed Todd Funeral Home in Clovis.

Dallas Native Enjoys Slower Lifestyle

By LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

John Marshall, Minister of Recreation at the Church of the Nazarene, says that he is enjoying the slower pace and the friendliness of people in Hereford.

John moved here from Dallas the first of January to take on the new position following the construction of a gym and activities building when the Church of the Nazarene moved out to La Plata and Ironwood.

A graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School in 1976, John went on to Baylor University in Waco, where he graduated with a dual degree in physical education and business last May.

While working as head soccer coach at Camp Kanakuk in Branson, Mo. last summer, John learned of this position. He had been looking for a job in church recreation.

He had been employed as an assistant recreation director at a church in Dallas while in school, and had worked for his father, who is a manufacturer's representative and security consultant in Dallas, just prior to taking this position.

John's mother is an executive secretary. He has one sister, who is a junior at North Texas State University, and a brother, who will graduate from high school this year.

John had worked at several other part-time jobs while in college, including a fitness center, Skaggs, and 7-Up. He played baseball and soccer at Baylor and was involved in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and a fraternity there.

He was FCA president while in high school and went to district in football, baseball, and soccer. His soccer team went to state championship three times in high school and he participated in a national championship in soccer during junior high.

"I'm looking forward to working with the soccer program here," says John. "Right now we are planning a coaches clinic and a week-long soccer camp."

John is in charge of coordinating all the sports programs at the church and supervises the athletic facility. He will be involved with day camps and sports camps this summer.

Currently there are exercise classes, sports leagues of all types, and other recreational activities such as pool, foosball, and ping-pong. "We will be getting arts and crafts classes started soon," comments John, "which will be taught by volunteer instructors."

Volunteers help out in all areas and the gym is operated on an open door policy, which means that anyone is invited to participate. The gym is closed on Mondays, but is open most every other afternoon.

As an associate pastor, John assists during the worship services on Sundays, giving announcements and other duties. He is currently working with the singles ministry at the church, and works with all ages in the recreational capacity. He was recently licensed to perform ministerial duties by the local church.

John explains that this job is pretty much what he expected. "It is more detailed and more of a learning experience than when I worked in an assistant position," says John. "Before, I was mainly involved in carrying out orders in a work role. In this position, there is more planning, talking with people, and ministry—I like that."

John feels that the kids are more mature and problems are generally minor compared to what many are involved with in larger places.

"I appreciate the way people take more time to be friendly and visit and generally care about what you're doing. There is less pressure and it's not so competitive," he says.

John says that he doesn't have a whole lot of involvements outside his job. "My job is what I like to do and I feel fortunate to be able to make a living doing what I enjoy," he says.

He plays tennis and golf and participates on church softball and basketball leagues. He is also an umpire for little league baseball. John enjoys water skiing and has been snow skiing several times. "I like to listen to music and just go exploring to see what's around," he says.

4-H's Involved In Bike Month

By PENNY REINART
Assistant County Extension Agent

American Bike Month—May—is a great opportunity for 4-H'ers to get their communities involved in bike safety.

With bicycling growing by leaps and bounds, bicycle safety programs are becoming more important. An estimated 105 million bicyclists travel our streets. This means nearly half of the U.S. population ride bikes for fun, fitness, energy conservation and transportation.

Bicyclists need to ride defensively to protect themselves in today's traffic. 4-H clubs can help educate communities in bicycle safety in a variety of ways.

Here are some things 4-H'ers can do regarding bicycle safety:

- Hold an auto-bike rodeo to promote safe driving, including competitions in auto and bicycle skill-driving and testing participants on their knowledge of road safety.

- Hold a bicycle safety workshop covering the proper way to give hand signals, driving on the correct side of the highway, the correct way to cross an intersection, and bike maintenance. The workshop can include a bicycle skill-driving contest with bicycle reflecting flags, 4-H ribbons and trophies as prizes.

Other activities could include a special bike ride, a free bicycle safety inspection, a bike film viewing, or a bike-a-thon to raise money for a charity. 4-H'ers might also work with community leaders to establish bicycle routes or remove traffic hazards.

Remember, the more community leaders that get involved, the greater the chance of reaching a wider audience.

The American Bike Month Committee offers materials to help promote American Bike Month. Write the American Bike Committee, 1101 Fifteenth Street, N.W., Suite 304, Washington, D.C. 20005-5098 or call (202)452-1166.

For more information about the 4-H Bicycle program, contact the county Extension office.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Guest Speaker Brings Program

The Hereford Young Homemakers honored their mothers and mothers-in-law with a salad luncheon recently at the E.B. Black House. Assorted salads, homemade bread, and cherry cobbler were served, followed by a program presented by JoAnn Arasim, of the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon.

Miss Arasim, assisted by Kristi Murr, also of Canyon, gave a program on "Recurring Fashions in History." Several garments were displayed and the time and circumstances which inspired and evolved that particular type of garment were amusingly related.

After the program, the 16 mothers and mothers-in-law were presented wood-rose lapel pins. The luncheon was concluded with a poem read by Marilyn Culpepper.

Members attending, with their guests, included Gail Blain, Brenda Campbell, Shirley Carlson, Ms. Culpepper, Connie Gilbert, Linda Goss, Cindy Hardy, Ann Kemp, and Karen Smith.

Also attending were Mrs. Beryl Burelsmith, advisor; Tonya Savage, outgoing outstanding future homemaker; and JoAnn Meiwes, incoming outstanding future homemaker.

The two 1,350 foot towers of the World Trade Center in New York City occupy only two acres, but can accommodate 130,000 people.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

One of the prime concerns of parents everywhere is at what age will their children develop a sense of humor...if indeed it develops at all.

Some parents, anxious for their children to smile, have recorded little sounds with their lips curled upward as early as two weeks. This is gas.

Children laugh, of course, but the average age for a child to see humor on the same level as his parents is 34. (Some who are quite latent will not get a joke until age 53 or 54.)

Up until that time a child will find humor only in another person's misfortune. Their laughter has a narrow base and is limited to less than a half-dozen areas.

Biological function, for some reason, captures the imagination of a child. A naked baby carrying his own diaper into a room will send him into convulsions. A fellow second-grader who wets his pants will make him hysterical. Training a flashlight on a toilet and flushing will make him sick with laughter. Our children once smuggled a cat into the back seat of our car who thought it had gone to that big kitty litter box in the sky. The more their father said, "That couldn't be the bakery we just passed, could it?" the harder they laughed.

Exhaustion in parents is a real delight to kids. Nothing amuses them more than to see their parents on the brink of a major breakdown. The more the parents beg them to knock it off, the funnier it becomes. The phrase, "If you don't quiet down up there I'm going to rearrange your legs," is a one-liner that never fails. Some kids laugh all night in their sleep over it.

The telephone is also a catalyst. They don't even have to know who's on the other end. Laughing fits occur from the moment they say hello until the receiver is ripped out of their hands. We once paid $2.10 a minute to have our sons giggle out of control long distance to Grandma.

Torn trousers are a real turn-on. So is food in their mouth and school closing brought on by flood, fire, hurricane or tornado. Any tragedy, no matter how small, will set them off. One of the "funniest times" our kids ever had was on a camping trip when a counselor got caught in the bus door and they had to get her out with a blowtorch.

Given a choice, I'll take a child who is depressed any day.

Calliopian Members Entertained At Tea

Members of Calliopian Study Club closed the club year with a "High Tea" recently in the home of Kay McWhorter. Assisting the hostess were Vera Threewit, Marjorie Mims, Faye Holt, Sheri Kerr, Meredith Wilcox and Linda Muse.

From a table centered with an arrangement of spring flowers, guests were served a variety of food with an English flair prepared by Diane Uming who recently moved here from London. The rooms throughout the home were also decorated with spring floral arrangements.

Following the social, the out-going president, Nancy Hays, called a brief business meeting. She expressed her pleasure in serving as president and thanked members for their cooperation. She was then presented a gift of appreciation for her services.

The officers for the new club year were installed by Amy Gilliland using the theme "Thank You." The newly elected president, Mary Sue Hull appointed the committees to serve with her.

Other members present included Jane Gulley, Zella Mae Crump, Virginia Holmes, Lee Cave, Mary Fraser, Audine Dettmann, Peggy Furr, Elizabeth McDowell, Claudia McBrayer, Wilma Nobles, Kathlee Palmer and Kathryn Ruga.

Choirs To Perform Tonight, Tomorrow

On Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m., the choir will perform at First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall. Jason Jones will play the part of Daniel.

The choir is under the direction of Bert Bostic, Minister of Music, and stage directors are Betty Decker and Linda Thorell. Tina Langhenning will accompany the choir.

Sound Country

Joe Stampley's single, "I'm Goin' Hurlin'", from his album of the same title, continues his string of "gut country" music hits. The LP also contains two unlikely Stampley offerings, "Mandy" and "Baby I'm A Want You," but Joe covers both of them well.

In the meantime, Joe's sometimes singing partner, Moe Bandy, is on the charts with another unlikely piece of material, "Someday, Soon." Though the song is about the life and times of a rodeo man, it's not the kind of material you might think suited for Bandy. But Moe's style changes all that, along with expert production by producer Ray Baker.

Loretta Lynn is expected back in the studio shortly for more recording. Her single, "I Lie," also is crossing over into non-country markets. Loretta has been busy with TV work. She's taped "Entertainment Tonight" and "The Richard Simmons Show" and is set for a segment of "Love Boat," to be filmed in June. She's scheduled for a tour in July.

On July 4, the Mutual Radio Network will present special program "The Willie Nelson-Merle Haggard Special." The three-hour special will be hosted by country disc jockey Lee Arnold and will include exclusive interviews with Willie and Merle timed for the release of their duet album.

The Nelson/Haggard special will be produced by Broadcast International, a division of the Osmond organization.

Nashville pickers made quite a dent in the recent Academy of Country Music Awards. Winners included fiddler Johnny Gimble, drummer Buddy Harmon, pianist Margus "Pig" Robbins, harmonica player Charlie McCoy and steel guitarist Buddy Emmons.

Agency Sees SS Budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The proposed Department of Human Resources budget reflects a shift away from social services and includes $32 million for a computer system officials say could slash 10 days off the time it takes to deliver aid.

The social service budget unveiled Monday before the Texas Human Resources Board was based on "New Federalism" and seeks a 23 percent increase for 1983, said Deputy Commissioner Quentin Woomer.

Most programs were scheduled for "modest increases" and the total increase was less than previous requests of up to 30 percent a year, said Woomer. The budget calls for a 6 percent increase in 1983 and an 11 percent increase in 1985.

He said the budget is "pretty tight" and reflects the general "belt-tightening" mood of the country.

The budget also represents "a shift in federal money away from social services and toward health and energy services," said Woomer.

He also said the state wants to institute by next year some as yet undetermined program of community work in exchange for public assistance.

Various interest groups took turns complaining that allocations for their programs were not sufficient.

Woomer admitted the budget picture is "foggy" because of uncertainties in budgeting at the federal level.

Peggy Romberg, executive director of the group, contended for every dollar spent on family planning, DHR saves $1.90. She said the savings rise to $2.40 if a teen-ager is involved.

Susan Bush, president of the Texas Council of Child Welfare Boards, called for increasing child welfare workers' pay and designating them as professional-status employees.

She said studies show abuse does not recur in 80 percent of the cases where a caseworker gets involved. Texas, she said, has the highest incidence of child abuse in the country, and "not only is the number increasing, but the severity is increasing, too."

New Laser Therapy Treats Glaucoma

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major form of glaucoma, an eye disease that threatens the sight of millions, can be treated with a new type of laser therapy that one day could lead to a cure for the blinding condition, says an eye researcher.

The therapy, which uses laser light beams to scar part of the inner eye, relieves the pressure within the eyeball that leads to blindness and greatly reduces the need of many patients for surgery or constant medication, Dr. James B. Wise said Monday.

Wise, of the University of Oklahoma College of Medicine, and other experts said his new approach — called laser trabeculoplasty or LTP — is so successful that many eye specialists around the country are quickly adopting it.

Glaucoma is a condition of uncertain cause in which fluid does not drain properly from the eye, causing increased internal pressure. This slowly damages the optic nerve, leading to blindness.

The risk of the disease usually increases with age and millions of people have some form of it, many unknowingly. An estimated 1.6 million Americans are visually impaired by glaucoma and 62,000 are blind from the disease.

The laser treatment is effective against the most common form, called chronic open-angle glaucoma. But it does not work with the con-

Charges Called Irresponsible

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — Officials of American Airlines say a computerized reservation system it owns and operates was not manipulated to damage bankrupt Braniff International.

American spokesmen said the SABRE reservation system, used by other airlines and travel agencies, displayed Braniff in a preferred position to other competitors. He said Braniff paid American to get the position.

Officials on Monday called "blatantly irresponsible and without foundation" allegations by Sam Coats, Braniff executive vice president for marketing, that American used dirty tricks to help force Braniff into filing for reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws.

"His comments are another example of the continuing and vicious campaign against American which Braniff executives have been waging for weeks with government agencies and the news media," American officials said in a statement.

"These accusations, like all those made before, are unsupported by facts and reflect a surprising lack of understanding about a very complicated and highly competitive industry," the statement continued.

American officials said the SABRE system helped, not hindered Braniff.

Whitworth, Nicklaus Wave Banner of 'Aging Stars'

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

On a weekend in which a 16-year-old kid outfoxed the world's greatest jockey in the Preakness Stakes, Jack Nicklaus and Kathy Whitworth kept the flags flying for sport's aging stars.

Each 42 years old, rated the all-time best in his and her profession but believed on the downside of the hill, big Jack and Kathy scored significant victories in golf just as Sam Snead, nearing 70, and partner Don January, 52, had done two weeks earlier against younger foes in the Legends of Golf tournament.

Another stroke for the unquenchable oldies was struck 12 days ago when Gaylord Perry, Seattle's Ancient Mariner, at age 43 became the first pitcher in 19 years and the oldest ever to rack up 300 victories.

The failure of 50-year-old rider Bill Shoemaker and 77-year-old trainer Henry Clark to score with heavily-favored Linkage Saturday in Pimlico's horse race kept the weekend from being a real old folks' hoedown. But, with all the savvy of more than 8,000 riding victories, the Shoe couldn't overtake Jack Kaenel, the teen-age cowboy, and the front-running Aloma's Ruler.

Yet, legends die hard. So let's all hoist a toast to the survivors — the strong of heart and body who keep showing us they ain't done yet. Make mine buttermilk.

It's one of the great thrills of golf to watch Nicklaus, his golden hair glinting in the sun, a son lugging his clubs at his side, striding down the 18th fairway to another victory.

The long walk Sunday through a canyon of cheering spectators at Colonial National in Fort Worth, Texas, was his 69th on the PGA tour and certainly one of the most fulfilling of his career.

It was achieved against the cream of the game on a tough old course that had defied him throughout his 21-year career. He hadn't competed in the Colonial since 1975.

The drama of Colonial was repeated almost simultaneously Sunday in Atlanta where Whitworth, the grand dame of ladies' professional golf, was winning her 83rd tournament, erasing the record she had shared with Mickey Wright.

It was such a popular triumph the entire field of the Ladies Professional Golf Association joined in the celebration.

She was the tour's leading money winner eight times, its first millionaire. Seven times she was Player-of-the-Year and Vare Trophy winner (low scorer). She won three LPGA championships but never the U.S. Open, her private jinx.

In 1978, her game came apart. She dropped to 30th in the money list. She was on the verge of quitting. Like Nicklaus, she was becoming frustrated by the reaction of the galleries.

She got tired of hearing people call her "old lady" and speculating on why she dared continue. Instead of quitting she went back to her old teacher, Harvey Penick in Austin Texas, to seek a cure. She and Harvey found it.

It's as a player that Nicklaus seems to find his greatest delight, a role he apparently won't abandon until he has added to his mountain of 19 major crowns.

Go, Jack, go. You, too, Kathy.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Fred "Dixie" Walker, the leading hitter in the National League in 1944 with the Brooklyn Dodgers, died following a long bout with cancer. He was 71.

Walker spent six seasons in the American League as an outfielder with the New York Yankees, the Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers before going to Brooklyn, where he hit .357 in 1944 and was known as "The People's Cherce."

Walker, a three-time All-Star, hit better than .300 in 12 of his 19 major league seasons, had a lifetime average of .306

Hagler Unhappy With Delay Of Matchup Against Hearn

DETROIT (AP) — Middleweight boxing champion Marvin Hagler doesn't like it, but he now will fight Thomas Hearn on July 15 at the Windsor Arena, across the river from Hearn's hometown of Detroit.

Promoter Bob Arum, who announced the new fight date Monday, said problems securing television time on satellites blocked earlier rescheduling of the bout.

Hagler was to defend his title against Hearn on May 24. But Hearn, the former World Boxing Association welterweight champion, injured the little finger of his right hand while training and said two weeks ago he would not be ready for the original date.

"You have to understand Marvin and his philosophy," Arum said at a news conference. "It's total dedication. He forgets about family, friends, everything. He gets mean and surly. He claims that because of the delay, he might not be able to be at the optimum against Thomas."

Hagler was "very, very unhappy" about the delay and asked Arum to find him another opponent, the promoter said at a Detroit news conference. "Marvin could have pulled out of this fight," Arum said. "He has decided not to."

But money may have pacified Hagler's ire. Arum said dollar guarantees — which he refused to identify — have been boosted for both fighters.

Arum said the television satellite scheduling problem was complicated by World Cup soccer from June 10 through July 12, then the All-Star baseball game July 13. July 15 was the next open date, he said.

"Foreign television rights play such an important part in the entire financial structure," he said.

Arum denied that disputes involving pay television firms blocked the original fight date.

"There were litigation problems with Home Box Office," he said. "But if the fight went on May 24, they would have been resolved."

"We have worked out arrangements which everybody is willing to buy. Everybody is not dissatisfied."

Arum said no thought was given to changing the site of the bout because Hearn's people insisted on the Detroit-area location.

"We're sorry for the postponement, there's nothing we could do to prevent it."

"It wouldn't have been right for him (Hearn) to fight such a magnificent bout with Hagler if he wasn't right," Arum said.

The postponement came amid a flurry of delays in recent title fights. The March 15 heavyweight championship bout between World Boxing Council titleholder Larry Holmes and Gerry Cooney was pushed back to June 11 after Cooney suffered a shoulder injury. World Boxing Association heavyweight champion Mike Weaver postponed a June 2 title defense because of a shoulder problem. And welterweight king Sugar Ray Leonard scrapped his fight last week because of an eye injury.

As a pro, I've earned more than $1.5 million. My money career dates from 1954. The year before, I was the U.S. amateur champ. A Californian, I went to college at San Diego State. Years later, I began to play on the senior tour.

Braves, Expos Protest

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Shakespeare didn't have the Atlanta Braves and Montreal Expos in mind when he wrote, "Methinks he doth protest too much."

But it would be hard to protest any more than the Braves and Expos did Monday night as Montreal's Steve Rogers fired a two-hitter for a 4-0 victory.

Both teams announced prior to the sixth inning they were playing the game under protest. The Braves claimed Rogers had a foreign substance in his glove and should have been ejected. The Expos charged that Atlanta starter Bob Walk should have been removed for pitching with a bandage on his finger.

Home plate umpire Jerry Dale made Rogers change his glove before the fifth inning and also had Walk remove the bandage.

"He's a great pitcher, don't let me take anything away from him," Atlanta Manager Joe Torre said of Rogers. "The ball was moving real good. We suspected he was using pine tar. I just want to cover all the angles."

In the only other National League games, the Houston Astros stopped the Philadelphia Phillies' seven-game winning streak 8-1 and the Cincinnati Reds downed the New York Mets 7-2.

Rogers couldn't understand what the fuss was about.

"I use a conditioner on the pocket of my glove to condition the leather," he said. "There might have been a buildup in the glove, and that, combined with some dirt, might have made it look like a foreign substance."

Crew chief Bob Engle, umpiring at third, said there was no trace of pine tar on any of the balls.

"It's a matter for the league president to decide," Torre said.

Rogers, 5-3, lowered his NL-leading earned-run average to 1.66 with his second shutout of the season. He struck out eight, walked two and gave up a one-out single to Bob Horner in the second inning and an infield hit to pinch-hitter Ken Smith in the eighth.

Astros 8, Phillies 1
Houston put together seven singles for five runs in the fifth-inning and Vern Ruhle, making his first start in 17 games, pitched a four-hitter and retired 21 of the last 23 Philadelphia batters.

"I really haven't had much of a chance to pitch," said

Ruhle, who has been in just seven games, four as a starter. "He (Manager Bill Virdon) stays with the other starters because they haven't had the experience in the bullpen."

Reds 7, Mets 2
Charlie Leibrandt pitched seven strong innings and contributed two key hits. Leibrandt, a spot starter, allowed one run until the eighth, when he gave way to

Gura Gains More Revenge Against NY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — For all his fire and genius, Billy Martin must also be remembered as the man who insisted upon making what turned out to be one of baseball's most one-sided trades.

The year was 1976 and Martin, then making his first tour as manager of the New York Yankees, developed a dislike for pitcher Larry Gura.

"He's a sissy who can't pitch in this league," people remember Martin saying.

So in May of that year Gura was shipped to Kansas City for a catcher, Fran Healy, who played one season before becoming a broadcaster.

Gura makes no effort to hide his resentment toward Martin, and he has become one of baseball's most consistent pitchers. His 74-40 record and .649 winning percentage in that span is second in the American League only to Ron Guidry's .720. He's been most devastating against the Yankees, and the six-hit, 7-0 shutout he tossed at the New Yorkers Monday night hiked his regular season record against his old club to 9-2.

In the only other American League game, the Chicago White Sox downed the Texas Rangers 8-6.

Whatever animosity Martin felt toward Gura is returned in full. The smooth-throwing lefthander admits he no longer derives special gratification beating the Yankees since Martin no longer is their manager. His vendetta, he said, was never against Billy.

"It was against Billy," he added. "Now the vendetta is against Oakland," where Martin manages.

Roger Erickson, 44, making his first start since coming to the Yankees in a trade with Minnesota, ran into some sizzling Kansas City bats. Willie Wilson singled, doubled and tripled and George Brett, John Wathan and Hal McRae drove in two runs apiece.

Since losing a three-game series at Toronto, the Royals are 6-1 and hitting .371 in their current home stand.

White Sox 8, Rangers 6
Carlton Fisk drove in four runs with a homer and single while unbeaten Dennis Lamp held Texas to one run until the ninth inning. Fisk singled two runs home in the third after Tom Paciorek had been walked intentionally to fill the bases and socked his second home run of the season in the fifth following a walk to Greg Luzinski.

The White Sox went ahead 2-1 on Harold Baines' two-run single in the second inning. Baines also added an RBI single in the eighth and scored on Jim Morrison's triple, giving the White Sox an 8-1 lead. Texas scored five times in the ninth, three on George Wright's triple.

Hereford cowboys came home from the Gruver High School Rodeo last weekend with the boys' team trophy after garnering 17½ points. Steve McConnell won the trophy saddle as the event's All-Around Cowboy.

McConnell was first in steer wrestling with a 6.232 second performance. He was joined by his brother, Shaun, to place second in team roping with a 13.576 time. Shaun McConnell also placed sixth in steer wrestling with 15.182 seconds.

Robert Esqueda and his partner from Amarillo, Vance Molesworth, took the team roping with 12.179 seconds.

Scott Wilcox tied for sixth in bullriding with a score of 49. He is leading the Tri-State Association by 13 points in that event.

Steve McConnell leads the association in steer wrestling by 16 points.

The team travels to Guymon next weekend.

Soviet People Uninformed On Kremlin's Role in Arms Race

By BRYAN BRUMLEY
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Despite a roar of Kremlin rhetoric on the dangers of nuclear war, Soviet leaders give their citizens little information on Moscow's role in the arms race or how a nuclear war would affect them.

Soviet newspapers and radio and television reports are filled with accounts about anti-nuclear demonstrations in the United States, western Europe and Japan, but public debate and demonstrations on arms are tightly controlled here.

The Kremlin has given generous encouragement to the pacifist movement outside the socialist bloc, a role that Western leaders charge is designed not to bring peace to the world, but to advance Soviet strategic interests.

The most recent example of Soviet support for the "peace movement" was the World Conference of "Religious Workers for Saving the Gift of Life from Nuclear Catastrophe," held in Moscow May 10-14.

The Russian Orthodox organizers and delegates from countries friendly to the Soviet Union have steered the conference close to the Soviet line, laying sole blame for the nuclear build-up on the United States.

U.S. clergymen at the gathering expressed concern over its anti-American tone, but their remarks were ignored by Soviet news media. Westerners at the conference also criticized a Soviet decision to bar Dutch delegate Wim Bartels from delivering a speech condemning the nuclear policies of both Moscow and Washington.

Westerners taking part in the conference, unaccustomed to the workings of Soviet society, were apparently surprised by Kremlin tactics at the conference.

Soviet leaders debate their nuclear strategy behind closed doors, with virtually no information leaked to the public.

The names and numbers of Soviet nuclear weapons go unmentioned in the Soviet press. The exception came last fall in an interview given by President Leonid I. Brezhnev. He disclosed estimated levels of Soviet medium range nuclear weapons deployed against western Europe.

The Soviet names of nuclear armaments are not used publicly. Western arms control negotiators have reported that the Kremlin penchant for secrecy is so pervasive that Soviet military leaders will not discuss their own force levels with civilian Soviets present.

Although Brezhnev regularly advocates reducing the nuclear stockpiles of the two superpowers, no one in the country has dared to call publicly for unilateral disarmament.

Despite Soviet support of western peace activists, Soviet leaders tolerate no anti-war sentiment at home. Nikolai V. Ogarkov, first deputy defense minister and chief of staff, warned in a recent book of the need to counter growing pacifism among Soviet youth.

Official Soviet media, movies and popular literature play their role in shaping the popular view of war and overcome their silence on the effect of a nuclear war with heroic and tragic tales from World War II. Twenty million Soviet people died in the conflict.

The Kremlin is also careful in manipulating public demonstrations. During a May 1 parade, thousands of Soviet workers marched through Red Square pushing large, wheeled signs bearing approved slogans against the neutron bomb and North Atlantic Treaty Organization plans to deploy Tomahawk cruise and Pershing II missiles in western Europe.

In contrast, uniformed and plainclothes police quickly detained seven western Europeans in Red Square on April 19 after they tried to distribute pamphlets urging the Kremlin to ease world hunger by reallocating money "wasted on conventional and nuclear arms."

Soviet media regularly report western opinion polls showing sentiment against nuclear weapons. But the Kremlin does not release similar information on the Soviet Union.

A book issued this spring, "The Danger of Nuclear War," gave detailed medical data on the U.S. atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki at the close of World War II.

The book and its principal author, heart specialist Yevgeny Chazov, have been widely quoted by Soviet media. Neither the book nor the Soviet press, however, speculated on the possible destruction of Moscow, Leningrad or other major cities in a nuclear holocaust.

Chazov, reportedly Brezhnev's personal doctor, is emerging as a key figure in the "Soviet peace movement," due largely to his role as founder of "International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War." The group includes prominent doctors from a number of western countries.

Chazov's book, subtitled "A Physician's Viewpoint," referred repeatedly to "western militarist circles" who, it said, "readily resort to nuclear blackmail to achieve their political ends and gain unilateral advantage."

The closest Chazov's book came to admitting the destructive potential of the Soviet nuclear arsenal was the observation that "experts estimate that the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. have enough weapons, taken together, to kill all living things on earth many times over."

President Reagan has asserted, however, that the Kremlin has a nuclear edge over the United States, and could use it to gain first strike advantage. Other Americans claim that the Soviet Union has plans that would enable it to survive a nuclear exchange.

Elementary civil defense posters are displayed in some public buildings, and sold in military book stores, instructing people to hide under desks in the event of attack.

Little is said, though, of reported Soviet plans to evacuate people and industry from cities. Government officials refuse to discuss their civil defense plans with foreign correspondents.

HOW MUCH IT COSTS

AUSTIN — Many state Legislatures that previously met every two years now meet annually. One year, they consider general legislation, and the state budget only on the other year.

We don't think the Texas Legislature should meet annually, but the budget in this state is reaching a point where it requires the most serious and thoughtful consideration. For example, the state budget we passed last time, to run the state for two years, totaled $26,595,329,990.00. That's a lot of money in anyone's book, unless you live in Washington.

Education is the biggest state budget item, as it probably should be. We will spend $14,081,219,275.00 on education between September 1, 1981 and September 1, 1983. This money includes funds for the University of Texas System, A & M, the 17 schools not in the Permanent University Fund, the State Board of Education, Texas State Technical Institute and a few related programs.

The second-largest budget item is for executive and administrative departments and agencies. There are about 100 of these, and they regulate everything from accountants to water well drillers. We have a Housing Agency and an Indian Commission. Some of these agencies cost money; some make money. For example, the Alcoholic Beverage Commission's next budget should show collections of about $400 million. Most of this money comes in the form of the 10 percent tax on mixed beverages.

Third-largest tab is for public health, hospitals and youth institutions. These will cost the state $5,440,087,498.00 for the two-year period. These include the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, the Commission for the Blind, the Commission for the Deaf, the Health Department and the Texas Youth Council, among others. Many of these agencies are suffering now, because we have relied heavily on federal funding to operate them. With the recent cutbacks, the federal funds are not there in the amounts they used to be.

Fourth was the Judiciary, with a budget of only $83,181,690.00. Last was the Legislature, with $68,787,845.00.

Spending this much money wisely requires a great deal of careful planning. It would be impossible for the Legislature to meet every two years and decide there on the spot the most prudent way to parcel out $26 billion.

Despite the problems that such a large budget can create, and despite the trend among Legislatures to meet more often, we in Texas seem to be doing a good job with a Legislature only every two years. If emergencies arise, we can always go into special session, like this month.

We need to hear from you about how to spend your money wisely. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

German's Flight Preceded Wrights

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A German immigrant took a brief flight in a coil spring-powered aircraft here 38 years before the Wright brothers' famous flight at Kitty Hawk, N.C., a Museum of American Aviation official says.

Jacob Brodbeck made the first powered aircraft flight in 1865 at what is now San Pedro Park in San Antonio, said Jim Richards, executive director of the newly founded mobile museum that will establish a permanent home here this summer.

The immigrant school teacher designed and flew the spring coil-powered craft and his airship heavily influenced the gasoline engine-powered plane later built and flown by Wilbur and Orville Wright in 1903, Richards said.

"This man (Brodbeck) was way ahead of his time," Richards said. "That first flight was 50 yards long and he went about 25 feet high."

Richards said he has studied Brodbeck for years and he is convinced Brodbeck's purported Sept. 20, 1865, flight was the first ever by a mechanical airship.

About 120 of Brodbeck's descendants honored the inventor Sunday at Randolph Air Force Base's Air Fiesta. Richards said that Brodbeck also invented the first ice-making machine.

Eight of the inventor's 10 grandchildren attended the ceremony and Alvin Keller, 80, oldest of the descendants, said he remembered staying with his grandfather and seeing him work on the aircraft.

Brodbeck's flying machine was powered by a spring which he wound up to turn a shaft.

But Brodbeck, who taught school here and at Fredericksburg, Texas, never was able to gather enough money to finance work on a machine to fulfill his dream of extended flight, Richards said.

Richards said the Wright brothers adopted Brodbeck's plans to their craft and were given all the credit by historians.

Richards said that Brodbeck died in tiny Luckenbach, Texas, in 1910, still virtually unknown.

"He was a very poor man and he probably did not get recognized because he did not have the finances," said Richards.
