Family Of Year

Hereford's 1985 Family of the Year, named Sunday, pose in front of the family portraits that adorn their front hallway. Ed-

Arthos Family of Year

The Eddie Artho family was named Hereford's "Family of the Year" during a program Sunday sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

The honor was presented by Troy Don Moore, representing last year's chosen family.

Eddie and Virginia Artho have four children: Jeremy 9, Jared, 8, six-year-old Matthew and Sarah, age 3.

He is employed by the Energas

Company and Virginia is a fulltime mother and housewife.

Mrs. Artho said remembering what was good about their own childhoods has prompted she and her husband to work at creating happy times for their children. The couple has instituted its own celebrations, especially during religious holidays, which they hope will become traditions remembered fondly by their offspring.

The family attends St. Anthony's

Catholic Church, where he teaches a CCD class and she is active in the women's organization.

They were nominated for the annual award by Dr. Tim and Kathy Revell, who have themselves been nominated and who performed a musical number as a family during Sunday's program.

"What first impressed us was their family pride and their motivation to create family unity," the Revells said in their nominating letter. "They encourage one another and provide a positive atmosphere in their home."

The Revells said they have witnessed "discipline, forgiveness and a lot of love" in the Artho home.

The fifteen nominated families attending the program were introduced by Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher.

David and Heidi Rendlisbacher of Canyon spoke on the theme of the program, "Families are Homemade." Rendlisbacher is an art instructor at West Texas State University and his wife is a housewife and mother of four.

White crosses honor bankrupt farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Placing white crosses on the Mall to commemorate the growing number of bankrupt farms, Midwestern grain farmers began lobbying for higher guaranteed commodity prices to cover production costs.

Members of the American Agriculture Movement Inc., who marched here Monday to kick off a week-long lobbying effort, say they also want strict production controls in the farm bill being debated in Congress.

"We just want a fair price for our product so we can survive," said DeVere Manderfield, a farmer from Waucoma, Iowa, who participated Monday in the AAM's "March for Parity."

"If inflation goes up, why can't we charge more for our higher production costs? Why do we have to keep our prices low?" Manderfield said.

The march started with an outdoor rally at the Jefferson Memorial in a drizzle and 40-degree temperatures.

Following brief speeches from AAM leaders and farm-state congressmen, the protesters, many carrying placards, walked about two miles to the Agriculture Department building for another rally.

"We're not up here for a welfare check or subsidy payment, we simply want, need and deserve a fair price at that marketplace," said Wayne Cryts, a Puxico, Mo., farmer.

"We're asking the American people if they want this family farm system to continue to keep this the best fed nation...they're going to have a rally behind this family farm system," said Cryts, president of AAM's Missouri chapter.

Farmers planted 250 foot-high white crosses on the Mall near the Agriculture Department, representing the number of farms the group estimates are going bankrupt each day.

District of Columbia police estimated there were 700 marchers, considerably fewer than protest organizers had predicted.

Farmers said they would welcome emergency credit legislation from Congress.

"We want parity not charity," said Corky Jones, president of the AAM. "We are in Washington because this is where our problems originate and (See FARMERS, Page 2)

City to apply for development grant

City commissioners voted in their regular meeting Monday night to apply for a state granted economic development fund which the city would administer locally to starting or expanding businesses with prospects of increasing employment in the area.

Vicky Jacobs of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission spoke to Hereford's commissioners in behalf of Larry Maloman who wanted the city to apply for the grant so he may expand a vegetable shed operation.

The city will apply for a grant of $100,000 to $125,000. Funds are part of a federal block grant to the state, which in turn hands it to local authorities for distribution. If Hereford receives the grant, it will be loaned to a business prospect who will pay it back at low interest. As the money is paid back, it becomes the city's to use at its own discretion within the original federal terms of the economic improvement qualifications.

Commissioner Emory Brownlow noted that Tulia has pursued this type of grant and was successful in obtaining a new business for the area and made the motion to apply.

Ms. Jacobs will prepare the grant application for the city.

A public hearing on the general aspects of the grant program will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. A second hearing dealing specifically with the business applicant will be held within a week. Deadline for the first quarter applications are March 15.

Ms. Jacobs said that five of 18 en-

LeGate files for Place 2 city commission seat

Tom LeGate has announced his candidacy for the Place 2 seat on the Hereford city commission. LeGate and his opponent Mark Kelley are seeking the seat being vacated by Ed

Coplen. "It's basically a commitment to return some of the benefits which have been afforded me through living in this community for the past 17 years," LeGate said of his filing.

LeGate is an accountant who also has interest in Top Properties real estate firm. He also started two businesses in Hereford, which he has since sold, while living here.

He serves on the board of the Noon Kiwanis Club and has been a deacon at First Christian Church. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

A graduate of Texas Tech University, he has a bachelor's degree in administrative management.

He and his wife Carol Sue, also involved in Top Properties, have two daughters.

E.W. Young, city's first mail carrier, dies Monday

Eursel W. Young, 77, Hereford's first city mail carrier, died Monday after a long illness.

Services will be 10 a.m. Wednesday at First Baptist Church with the Rev. Ron Cook, pastor, officiating. Burial will follow in Rest Lawn

Memorial Park under the direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

Born in Cook County, Mr. Young married Margaret Davison June 23, 1928 in Cook County. They moved to Hereford in September, 1928, when Mr. Young took the job of Hereford's first city mail carrier.

Mr. Young retired from the postal service in 1968 after 40 years service at the local post office. He had a hobby of repairing radios and turned it into a parttime business. He was one of the few radio repairmen in the area during World War II. He later had a parttime business in television repair.

Mr. Young was an active member of the First Baptist Church since arriving here in 1928. He was ordained as a deacon in the 1940s. He was also a longtime member of the Hereford Lions Club.

Toler says comments in suit inaccurate

Comments attributed to two Hereford city officials in a discrimination lawsuit were not made exactly as they appear in the suit itself, says the woman who filed the suit.

Dee Toler, who has charged Hereford Police Chief Don Brush and the City of Hereford with discrimination after Brush refused to hire her as a patrolman, said the suit quotes an affidavit submitted by the city to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

She said she has no record of the comments Brush and Hereford City Manager Dudley Bayne made to her when she questioned them about not getting the job she applied for in September, 1983. She added that although the affidavit does not present a totally accurate depiction of the conversations she had with the two men, they are the only written evidence she has to base her case on.

According to the affidavit, Brush said he did not hire Toler because "a lady would be as out of place as she would be in the defensive line of the Los Angeles Raiders."

The comment attributed to Bayne is that "Too Tall Jones couldn't get a job in the chorus line of a Las Vegas show, but there isn't a chorus girl in Las Vegas who could qualify for his job, either."

The suit, filed last Thursday in U.S. District Court in Amarillo, asks that the city and the police department be found guilty of discrimination under Title 7 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and that the plaintiffs not practice the alleged discrimination in the future.

Toler, who is represented by Betty Wheeler of Amarillo, also asks that the department give her a job as police officer and compensate her for wages she would have received had she been hired when she first applied for the job.

The suit was filed by permission from the U.S. Department of Justice, which gave the okay based on a ruling by the EEOC that there is reasonable cause to believe the charge of discrimination is true.

Toler is an August, 1983 graduate of the Amarillo College Police Academy.

City budget adopted

A $5.2 million city budget for 1985-86 was approved Monday night after no comment on the 15-page document.

The 1984-85 budget is expected to end at $4,759,748 when the fiscal year is completed on April 30.

The $5,214,060 budget includes a five percent cost of living increase. Total payroll estimated for next year is $1,480,467.

Plans for construction of a new fire station and storm sewer improvements are included.

The city estimates that 1985 will have a total taxable property of $148,284,520 to net, with a 93 percent collection rate, $896,380.

There are no tax bonds outstanding.

The water and sewer department has the largest departmental budget with $965,966. Following are police, $856,478; street, $725,474; fire, $400,458; health, $346,964; parks, $303,011; administrative, $287,628; and airport, $44,873.

The Place 1 race includes appointed incumbent Joe Reinauer Jr., owner of Deaf Smith County Abstract, and Robert Rhoton, owner of three local businesses. Mark Kelley, manager of American Packaging Co., and Tom LeGate, local accountant, are candidates for Place 2 which is being vacated by Ed Coplen.

The school race as of Tuesday morning is as follows: The District 1 seat, now held by Henry Amar, is being sought by Steven Coneway, president of Tascosa Industries. In District 2, Bud Patterson, a cattle nutritionist, and Mary Parker, a former teacher, are seeking office.

After tennis season is completed, Arco of Lubbock will revamp the courts at a cost of just over $50,000.

The board also will be looking into the purchase of telephone equipment as an option to leasing.

State

Commission budget threatened

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Indian Commission needs an Indian member, says an El Paso man who told House members he knew little about Texas Indians when he was named to the commission.

Edd Fifer of El Paso agreed with House State Affairs Committee member Mark Stiles that the non-Indian commission members are treated as "outsiders."

"We do need to have Indians on the commission," said Fifer.

The committee gave the commission a stern warning to come back with a "bare bones" budget request, cutting from the $1.1 million two-year budget originally proposed.

Ray Apodaca, commission director, said the two tribes covered by the commission have had trouble getting other state agencies to help.

"It's a crying shame," Apodaca said of the plight of the Alabama-Coushattas in East Texas and the Tiguas in El Paso.

Committee member Richard Smith, R-Bryan, asked Apodaca if the Indians have suffered as a result of the "paternalism" of the reservation system.

Apodaca replied that the Indians' plight "warrants and demands a special effort to educate them and give them access to services they are entitled to."

Stiles criticized the commission for not seeking help in job training and drug and alcohol treatment from other state agencies, such as Texas State Technical Institute and the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

Lawmakers want age raised

AUSTIN (AP) — Two lawmakers Monday said they are seeking to re-establish the requirement of Texas students to attend school until age 17.

Sens. Cyndi Krier, R-San Antonio, and Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, say they want the compulsory attendance age raised from 16 to 17. The mandatory school attendance age was lowered to 16 in the education reform package passed last summer.

"This provision to reduce the compulsory attendance age cuts against the heart of education reforms," Krier said. "The intent of (the reforms) was to provide better education for the students of our state — not to encourage them to drop out earlier."

A study completed by the National Commission on Secondary Education for Hispanics last year showed that 40 percent of all Hispanic students who leave school do so before reaching the 10th grade, Krier said.

"We need to encourage all students, especially minority students, to stay in school and to complete their high school education," Krier said.

Two plead innocent to charges

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Two people have pleaded innocent to fraud charges stemming from an international adoption ring that allegedly bilked people in 40 states out of at least $750,000.

Deborah Rae Tanner, 35, and Terry Tanner, 38, who are divorced and from Wilcox, Ariz., were indicted on wire and mail fraud charges by a Salt Lake City grand jury on Feb. 13.

They pleaded innocent Monday to the charges, which carry maximum penalties of five years imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

Mrs. Tanner, Bryan M. Hall, 38, of El Paso, Texas, and two others also were indicted by a grand jury in Boston on multiple counts of fraud and conspiracy.

According to the indictments, an investigation by the FBI and the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service found evidence that 180 couples and individuals — mostly residents of Utah and Massachusetts — paid between $400 and $6,000 each between 1978 and 1983 on the promise of getting Mexican children for adoption.

About two-thirds of the people who paid for the children never received them, said U.S. Attorney William Weld in Boston.

Texas would lose $56 per person

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas would lose $56 in federal cash for every state resident under President Reagan's proposed domestic spending cuts in fiscal year 1986, according to a study released today.

Texas would get $900 million less than the amount of federal money it would need to maintain current levels, according to the report from the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

The public employees' union said the cuts would amount to a $14 billion reduction below the amount of money needed to maintain the status quo nationwide.

In per capita reductions, Texas ranked fourth among all the states, the union said.

The list included federal grants to local and state governments for programs such as bilingual education, job training, subsidized meals, welfare and transportation programs, and programs that pay individuals, such as food stamps, Supplemental Security Income and college student aid.

Former official pleads guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former deputy defense secretary is facing a possible prison term after admitting he lied to the Securities and Exchange Commission about his participation in an insider stock trading scheme.

Paul Thayer, the Pentagon's No. 2 official until he resigned early last year, admitted Monday he lied to the SEC when he denied profiting from the stock manipulation scheme, which took place before he joined the Reagan administration in 1983.

Thayer, 65, and a friend, Dallas stockbroker Billy Bob Harris, 45, pleaded guilty Monday to federal charges of obstruction of justice by giving false information to the SEC.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey set sentencing for April 18. Thayer and Harris could each be sentenced to up to five years in prison and fined $5,000.

But prosecutor Charles H. Roistacher told the court the government would not seek substantial sentences.

In its courtroom presentation, the government said that Thayer, while he was chairman and chief executive officer of LTV Corp., and a board member of two other companies, gave confidential corporate takeover information to Harris.

The government said Harris purchased stock for himself, Thayer and some other friends and from three of the transactions.

In addition to being chairman of LTV, Thayer was a director of Anheuser-Busch Cos. Inc. and Allied Corp. when he participated in the stock scheme, the government said.

The stock purchases came shortly before Anheuser-Busch announced its $560 million takeover of Campbell-Taggard Inc., a Dallas baking company; LTV's attempted merger with Grumman Corp. and Allied Corp.'s $1.9 billion acquisition of Bendix Corp.

Among those who profited from the insider trading, the government said, was Sandra K. Ryno, 39, of Garland, Texas, with whom Thayer "maintained a private personal relationship" and whom he supported financially during 1981 and 1982.

At least 10 people dead

Winter storm blasts Midwest

By MARK BERNIS Associated Press Writer

A late winter storm dumped snow today from the Great Lakes to northern New England after blasting the Upper Midwest with up to 30 inches of snow and 70-mph wind gusts that stranded travelers and left 65,000 people without power. In Illinois, dozens of families fled a rain-swollen river.

At least 10 people are dead or missing nationwide since the storm rolled out of the Rockies on Friday.

The National Weather Service warned of a band of heavy snow and strong winds today from northern and central New England through northeastern New York and Upper Michigan and a swath of freezing rain to the south of that.

Winter storm watches have been posted for today over California's Sierra Nevada.

Early today, the National Weather Service said snow was falling from the upper Great Lakes across northeast New York state into northern and central New England.

By 1 a.m. today, 6 inches of new snow had fallen at Montpelier, Vt., and Portland, Maine. Five inches was reported at Lebanon, N.H., and 3 inches at Marquette, Mich., the weather service said.

Harry Gordon of the National Severe Storms Forecasts Center in Kansas City, Mo., said early today that storm "should be pretty well moving out to sea" later in the day.

Sixteen inches of snow Monday forced the Minnesota House to cancel a session for lack of a quorum for the first time in at least 44 years and heavy snow stranded 70 of 105 members of the South Dakota Legislature in Pierre.

Ice and snow downed power lines, blacking out thousands of utility customers across the Midwest. Holes were torn in the air-supported roof of the Silverdome at Pontiac, Mich., which deflated for the second time in 10 years.

Airports were closed Monday at Minneapolis-St. Paul, Detroit and Milwaukee, and every airport in South Dakota was closed except Sioux Falls. Most of both interstate highways crossing South Dakota were ordered closed.

More than 100 people were stranded on I-29 near Sioux Falls and Brookings. The motorists were rescued and taken to safety by police, said Lt. C.H. DeWald of the South Dakota Highway Patrol.

Snowplows were pulled from some parts of the interstates Monday as snow driven by wind gusting to 70 mph cut visibility and drifted over many roads as fast as they could be plowed.

Wind gusts near 60 mph swept Wisconsin, whipping a mere 3-inch snowfall at Green Bay into drifts 3 feet deep, the weather service said. Up to 20 inches of snow was on the ground at Two Harbors in northeastern Minnesota.

Minnesota declared a day off for most of 35,000 state employees and South Dakota state offices were closed.

Jury selection to begin in arson case

Jury selection is scheduled to begin Wednesday for the trial of a Hereford man charged with arson.

Pete Casias Jr., indicted last year after the rental house he was living in was destroyed by fire, decided last week to ask for a trial in 222nd District Court. Casias had been expected to plead guilty to the charge.

A murder trial originally on the same docket has been moved to March 29, District Attorney Roland Saul said this morning. A new jury will be impaneled to try the case of Johnny Ramirez, charged with the shotgun slaying of an Olton man.

Ramirez was indicted Oct. 9, 1984 for the Sept. 12 murder of Gerardo Jasso Guzman, whose body was found in a parked car north of Umbarger.

Car sales up 15 percent

AUSTIN — Texas dealers, rebounding from the depressed sales of the past few years, experienced their best sales volume in history, ending 1984 with more than 1 million new cars and trucks registered in the state.

According to the Texas Automobile Dealers Association, new car and truck registrations for the 12-month period ending Dec. 31 were up 15 percent to 1,039,431.

"This is the first million new vehicle year we've ever had," said TADA President Gene Fondren.

Residents killed in accident

Two Hereford residents were killed and another injured early Saturday in a one-vehicle traffic accident near Hobbs, N.M.

Nicolas Melendrez, 63, and Manuela Melendrez, 72, were killed when the vehicle in which they were riding skidded off the highway and overturned.

The victims were passengers in a car driven by Irene Coronado Mosqueda, 22, who was treated and released at a New Mexico hospital.

this is where the solutions must come from."

The AAM, born in the Plains states in 1977, wants a new farm bill that controls production to keep prices stable and provides commodity loan rates of at least 70 percent of parity to reflect farmers' costs.

Parity is an indicator of farmers' buying power based on prices received and the costs of living in the period 1910-1914. The concept has lost some of its significance, partly because it doesn't take into account dramatic increases in farm productivity since the early 1900s.

Commodity prices in the past several years have been weak, partly because of huge crop surpluses, a global recession and a strong dollar that has reduced demand for American food exports.

Ann Landers

Eighth grader says "No thanks"

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I didn't catch the original letter about how high school coaches abuse young athletes but I read two rebuttals to your reply in the Lansing State Journal. It brought to mind my brother's experience in junior high, 16 years ago.

In our family, kids tend to attain their adult size early. My brother "Tom" was in the eighth grade at the age of 12. He was nearly 6 feet tall and had a mustache. Naturally the coach wanted him desperately.

Tom was not one who could be taken in by macho malarkey. Besides he had an afternoon paper route and two other jobs because he wanted money to buy a car of his own, which he managed to get at the age of 15.

When Tom did not succumb to the coach's pitch, "you owe it to your school and classmates," the coach hauled out his biggest gun: "If you don't play football you're not a man." My brother laughed and walked away. I wonder how many 12-year-olds could have stood up to such a challenge to their masculinity?

Today Tom is highly successful in both his business and personal life. He has no football injuries and he did very well without the "character-building" provided by a team sport.

A lot of people won't like this letter but I hope you do, and that you'll print it.—A PROUD SIS

DEAR SIS: I do. Here it is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Today I simply must respond to "Everywhere USA"—the woman who works in the nursing home.

Like "Everywhere," I have worked in nursing homes for 20 years and spent my own money for combs, brushes, dusting powder, warm socks, garters, toothbrushes and bedroom slippers for the residents. It breaks my heart to see the way some folks neglect the elderly. It isn't because they don't have money. The middle-and lower-income folks pay more attention to their kinfolk than the well-to-do.

There is an elderly gentlemen here who is extremely pleasant. His son is a physician on the staff of the home. Time after time we have told the doctor that his father needs various items. He always replies, "I'll bring them tomorrow," but he never remembers. Finally we bought the items ourselves.

This same doctor walks by his father's room six and seven times a day and never stops in to say a few words to the old gentleman. Hard to believe, isn't it?

I hope you will print more letters about the neglect of the elderly. Someone must wake up the conscience of America.—TROY OHIO

DEAR TROY: I'll keep at it and hope it helps. Thanks for your letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When people are troubled they tend to write on and on. What was the longest letter you have received?—JUST CURIOUS IN WACO, TEXAS

DEAR WACO: I have no idea. Will you settle for the longest letter ever written? According to "The Guinness Book of World Records," it was two-thirds of a mile in length, and written on adding machine rolls in June 1969 by a young woman in Hampshire, England, to her boyfriend, a sergeant at Goodfellow Air Base, Texas.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

4-H Around the County

By SUSAN RANEY
County Extension Agent

The Texas 4-H Center, located on Lake Brownwood in the heart of central Texas, offers a unique camping experience for youth 9-19, says Susan Raney, county 4-H program leader with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

For 9-11 and 12-14 year olds, a number of three-day camps are available. Dates for six camps are June 23-26, June 26-29, July 7-10, July 10-13, July 14-17 and July 17-20.

Each camp is designed to teach or improve a youth's skills in a variety of areas, notes Raney. Each day includes sessions on shooting sports, canoeing and sailing, high adventure initiative activities, nature crafts and outdoor education. In addition, nightly camp activities feature parties, folk games, movies and other entertainment.

This year, plans are underway for Deaf Smith County junior 4-H members to attend this camp. "The younger 4-H member needs the opportunity to travel just as much as the senior member does," states Raney. She pointed out that this is a great way to keep the youth involved in 4-H once they reach the senior age level.

For the 13-19 age group, 4-H Project Camp offers more of a challenge. It is a five-day camp, June 17-22, which gives in-depth training in a choice of computers, shooting sports, food and fitness, canoeing and sailing, food and nutrition, or photography. This training is combined with the fun and excitement of camp life, and evenings provide "whole camp" activities.

Campers of all ages learn to adjust to camp environment, share responsibilities and appreciate natural surroundings while enjoying the fun of activities designed especially for them, Raney points out.

She also explained that these older 4-H members in the Texas Panhandle have the unique opportunity to attend 4-H Electric Camp. This camp, sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Company, is held during the week of June 10-14, up in the mountains of Cloudcroft, New Mexico. "Fortunately this camp is only offered to Districts 1 and 2 in the Panhandle so our 4-H'ers won't have to travel as far as those wishing to attend the camps in Brownwood," stated Raney.

Experienced resource teachers and qualified college-aged counselors conduct activities. County Extension agents and volunteer adult leaders supervise campers at all times.

For applications or additional information, contact the county Extension office.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Benefit supper slated Wednesday

A benefit chili supper has been scheduled from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall with the public invited to attend. Homemade desserts will also be served.

The event is being sponsored by the Carol Choir, composed of fourth, fifth and sixth graders, to raise money for a trip to a children's choir festival in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Tickets will be available at the door, priced at $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under $12. Those under five years of age will be admitted free of charge.

This is an annual event in the church. For the 13th year, Grant and Troyce Hanna will make the chili with the recipe which has won Hanna a wide reputation. Mothers of choir members will make desserts to complete the meal.

John Avery, music director at the church, directs this choir and Frances Parker is the piano accompanist.

Have one for the road and your travel destination might well turn out to be a dead end.

A word to the wise is apt to come from those who see themselves as infallible imparters of wisdom.

A Feeling Of Oneness

Life was extremely rough on the early settlers' families. Grandma, grandpa, mom, dad, brothers and sisters all lived together in some very tight quarters.

There was little leisure time with each family member having to carry his or her full load of chores. Yet, family life was comfortable — and prosperous.

At our bank, we strive to generate that same Pioneering spirit of oneness. We want to make your banking experience with us as friendly and pleasant as possible.

When you bank with us, you'll know we've brought back that Pioneering spirit . . . the kind of dedication it takes to get the job done right.

Church Women United's potential 'incredible'

By LISA BALL
Staff Writer

Spring is a time of rebirth. A time to renew that which may have hibernated during the long winter months. Bulbs begin to peak out from the ground, trees are prepared to bloom and the birds once again sing their early morning songs. Nature, though, does not have a corner on the market for change. The local Church Women United also is trying to grow and renew that excitement that only God gives.

"The potential that Church Women United has is incredible," said Priscilla Power, president. "God has great plans for CWU. The excitement here today is contagious."

Like the trees which begin with tiny buds that open up into large blossoms, CWU wants to grow from its present 12-church representation to include all of the approximately 45 churches in Hereford.

"God has been working in CWU," Power said, "but now it's like a canon has just gone off."

With a responsibility to reach those who do not believe in God, CWU members have goals of strengthening and deepening their commitment to Jesus, encouraging each other and bringing together Christian women from every church.

"How neat to be a part of a group where women accept you for who you are," Power enthusiastically said. "We want to work with everyone and find our similarities. The purpose is to emphasize the love of God, not our differences."

CWU accepts two representatives from each church. Those women, along with the officers, attend the regular meetings. It takes little mathematical skill to realize that if only two women from each church would commit to the organization, CWU would have 90 Hereford women praying for unity and peace. As Power said, "there's power in the unity here."

As a national movement of church women, CWU hosts three celebrations a year. World Day of Prayer, which was celebrated Friday, is a day to pray for home and foreign missions. Starting with a call by the Presbyterian Church to Presbyterian women for a national day of prayer, this day has grown through the years to include Christian women over the world.

However, it has not grown only nationally. World Day of Prayer has also expanded locally. With attendance usually around 40 women, this year's celebration saw a record-breaking 120 women from 15 churches coming together with a feeling of unity to pray for those in Hereford, the United States and other countries. Those attending also heard testimonies of what prayer had done in the lives of two local women.

"This day of prayer was truly inspired by God," Power said. "Not only was this the largest attendance ever, but it was the largest collection ever taken for missions."

The second celebration, May Fellowship Day, occurs on the first Friday in May. This is the day CWU emphasizes creative and healing relationships in the midst of every community, according to CWU information.

The final annual celebration, on the first Friday in November, is World Community Day. Beginning in 1943 as a nationwide observance concerned with the possibilities of an enduring peace, World Community Day has aided people in reaching out to help others. In the years since its inception, church women have collected tons of used clothing in cooperation with agencies like Church World Service.

Stressing that Church Women United is not a club, Power said that she wants to see the organization here become something that really matters — in her words, a light for Jesus in Hereford.

"I want CWU to be a place where women can come and grow and share as different denominations," she said. "A place where we can exchange ideas and ways that God is working in our lives."

"Good things are happening now, not because of me, but because of God," she added.

This year's members have decided to sponsor more Christian activities including speakers and workshops.

One of the meetings will be a slide presentation, "The Way of the Cross." The show, a photographic interpretation of the passion of Jesus, will be given by Father Joe Egan of St. Anthony's Catholic Church on March 29.

Power also would like to make herself available to give programs about CWU to other churches.

"I know God will bless Hereford through our group," Power said. "It will touch every area of life."

Power definitely has discovered benefits of CWU during her seven years as a member. Explaining that individuals can never fully comprehend what God wants and has in store for them, Power said that through fellowship with the other women she has come to know God better.

"I enjoy catching glimpses of what God is doing," she said. "The satisfaction of doing what God wants is incomparable."

The role of president this year has provided Power with joy.

"I just think people need to know that walking with the Lord is fun," she enthused. "Being a Christian is fun!"

CWU began in 1941 when 100 women from three interdenominational women's groups met to organize the United Council of Church Women. The organization slowly changed as new ideas were implemented. In 1966, the name became Church Women United and the organization declared itself a movement.

Today, Church Women United consists of thousands of women in all 50 states. Rather than forming an international organization, CWU maintains international relationships with individuals and ecumenical groups of women in other countries.

CWU is supported entirely through offerings which are channeled to the main office and then distributed to various projects supported by CWU. The only funds the local group may keep are those collected during May Fellowship Day.

Other officers for the local CWU are Glenda Keenan, vice-president; Sue Malamen, secretary; Neil Culpepper, treasurer; Beverly Bryant, recruiter for new churches; Judy Kriehouser, missions; Rebecca Goodman and Jena Rawley-Whitaker, celebrations; and Diana Ford, publicity.

Gardening tips presented to club

Members of Garden Beautiful Club met in the home of Phung Emmons Friday with Camelia Jones and Marie Cline serving as co-hostesses. After refreshments of egg rolls and pineapple delight were served to those present, Helen Spinks, president, opened the business meeting with a word of prayer.

Louise Axe listed several gardening tips saying that house plants must adapt to indoor living. They need good lighting conditions and should not be too dry or too wet. She also suggested that when watering plants, have the water at room temperature. Other gardening tips were presented by several members.

During the business session, Dorothy Noland, treasurer, gave a report and it was announced that Ms. Axe donated money to the pocket planners.

Also, the cheer committee reported that Sunday Janie Sides would be celebrating her birthday

Sunday.

The telephone committee was congratulated for a good job and the home tours chairman, Inez Witherspoon, reported that their were two more home tour prospects. It was decided by the group that the annual home tour will be held May 5.

The president named the nominating committee consisting of Marguerite Newell, chairman; Dorothy Noland and Dottie Darden.

The next meeting was scheduled at 9 a.m. April 12 in the home of Louella Cowser. The group will then go to Irwin Gardens for a tour and have lunch in Amarillo.

Dottie Darden introduced the program speaker, Helen Spinks who took the group on an "armchair" tour of points of interest in Texas. For her closing, Ms. Spinks read a poem to the Texas bluebonnet.

There were 14 members present and Gladys Bende was recognized as Bessie Story's guest.

Home "oil" care

DEAR POLLY — How does one give oneself a hot oil treatment? I've had these in salons and I'd like to do it at home. The oil used in the salon left my hair very soft, silky and with a luxurious feeling. — ALICE

DEAR ALICE — You can use ordinary vegetable oil from your kitchen shelf. Some recommend olive oil, but the regular blended vegetable oils, corn oil, peanut oil, and others all do the job.

Pour a quarter- to a half-cup of oil into a small bottle or cup (a one-cup glass measuring cup is good because it's easy to pour from) and stand the container of oil in a larger bowl filled with very hot water. Let the oil stand for 10- to 15- minutes or until it is warm. The oil should NOT be piping hot, just comfortably warm. Pour the oil over your hair, work it in, and wrap your head in a warm, damp towel for 15 minutes. Then shampoo and rinse. Massage the shampoo directly into the oily hair; don't try to rinse the oil out first. Repeat with a second shampoo and rinse, and your hair should be shiny and soft.

This is a great cure for dull, dry hair that has been overprocessed with permanent solutions, dyes and other drying treatments.

The final annual celebration, on the first Friday in November, is World Community Day. Beginning in 1943 as a nationwide observance concerned with the possibilities of an enduring peace, World Community Day has aided people in reaching out to help others. Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Lose body fat

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 27, 5 feet tall and weigh 148. I gained most of my weight after a hysterectomy. Most of the fat is around my stomach. There's no muscle, just flab, and it hangs over my hysterectomy incision.

I have read that situps are the best thing for toning the stomach, but what if you have a bad back and tailbone? I want very much to tone up my stomach, and any advice would be appreciated.

DEAR READER — Why did you gain weight after your hysterectomy? Were your ovaries removed, too? If so, are you taking hormones to replace the ovaries' function?

You need a diet to help you lose that extra weight. Even if you exercise to tighten your abdominal muscles, you will not reduce your waist unless you lose body fat. There is a lot of fat inside your abdominal cavity, and you must lose it to achieve your goal. Daily walking will help you use calories and lose fat, as will other forms of exercise.

Situps are great to help strengthen the upper abdomen, but you need to do some form of leg lift for the lower abdomen. Start with those that are done with the knees bent, to avoid excessive strain on the back. Then do voluntary contractions, pulling in and contracting your abdominal muscles as much as you can, then relaxing and repeating.

Strengthening your abdominal muscles with situps and leg lifts actually helps to eliminate back problems and prevent many backaches. Many people get backaches because they have weak abdominal muscles.

I have discussed the steps you need to take to slim your abdomen in The Health Letter 17-12, Winning the Battle of the Bulge, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You recently wrote about thinning hair problems in aging women. I was interested in seeing if your recommendations would help me. My dermatologist gave me the prescription you suggested, but I cannot find a pharmacy that is able to fill it. Can you give me any suggestions? I'm willing to try the prescription if I can get it.

DEAR READER — Don't expect too much from the prescription. Women have hair loss for the same reason that men have male-pattern baldness. The difference is that in women the hair tends to get thin over the front of the head, while men tend to develop a receding hairline. In both instances, the hair follicles that lose the hair shaft have too much of one chemical form of testosterone, the male hormone.

For this hormonally caused type of hair thinning in women, some dermatologists have prescribed female hormones. This is not intended to restore the hair you have already lost, but to slow or stop the progressive hair loss. Estrogen can be taken as a pill, and Enovid E or Ovulin are said to provide results in maintaining a status quo.

The lotion for female androgenic hair loss that I mentioned is a treatment suggested by Dr. Vera Price, a dermatologist at the University of California in San Francisco. The correct concentration is Dienestrol, 0.05 percent, in 95 percent isopropyl alcohol. It is dispensed in 2-ounce dropper bottles, and Dr. Price recommends that two droppersful be applied to the scalp five days a week. Pharmacists and physicians who want a more complete reference can find it in "Current Therapy" (Conn), published by W.B. Saunders, 1983, p. 606.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 51. At 42, I had a miscarriage and my doctor put me on birth-control pills. I stopped them at 50, and a month later I started having hot flashes (which weren't bad), a very dry vagina, sleepless nights and numbness in my fingers. My doctor put me on Premarin, which I take for 21 days each month. During the seven days I'm off Premarin, I have cramps, but I have not had a period since I stopped taking the Pill at 50.

My doctor said I may have gone through the menopause while I was on birth-control pills and that the Pill was causing me to have a period. Does Premarin usually cause women to have periods?

I have heard many women talk about how bad they felt during menopause, and it makes me wonder if I was lucky enough to have gone through it without any problems.

DEAR READER — Oral contraceptives provide the same hormones that the ovaries produce during the normal cycle. This inhibits ovulation and the ovaries' normal hormone functions. The ovaries literally rest while the hormones in the Pill do the job, so there is no ovulation. When a woman is off birth-control pills, she menstruates because she is no longer taking estrogen during those days. The hormones do not cause menstruation. Rather, when you stop them or switch from estrogen to progestins, the lining of the uterus — developed under the influence of estrogen — is shed, causing menstruation.

Whether there will be actual bleeding or not depends on how fully developed the lining of the uterus became under the influence of estrogen. Small doses may not have a major effect.

Many women who take birth-control pills think they are menstruating, but they are simply shedding because the estrogen is stopped. A similar situation develops when a woman ovulates but doesn't get pregnant. The decrease in hormones results in shedding or menstruation.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can pressure from a plane ride damage the ears? On my last flight, my ears kept popping and I experienced a sharp pain in my left ear.

DEAR READER — Yes. As the cabin pressure changes, it affects the eardrums. If you have good airflow to the back of the throat and from the throat to the inside of the ear, the pressure on both sides of the eardrum will be equal and you won't have a problem. Otherwise, the eardrum will be pushed in as the cabin pressure increases, as on descent, or pushed out at higher altitudes. Chewing gum, yawning and breathing with your mouth open help to prevent this by equalizing the pressure inside and outside the eardrum.

After the flight, the eustachian tube that connects the throat to the inner surface of the eardrum may remain blocked. In turn, the eardrum may not assume its normal position, which can lead to discomfort or decreased hearing.

In severe cases, fluid may accumulate inside the ear, and if you have a respiratory infection, you are apt to get an infected ear. That is why it is not wise to fly when you have a cold.

The problem with being sworn into office is that you're apt to be sworn at going out.

In stock case

Former official pleads guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former deputy defense secretary is facing a possible prison term after admitting he lied to the Securities and Exchange Commission about his participation in an insider stock trading scheme.

Paul Thayer, the Pentagon's No. 2 official until he resigned early last year, admitted Monday he lied to the SEC when he denied profiting from the stock manipulation scheme, which took place before he joined the Reagan administration in 1983.

Thayer, 65, and a friend, Dallas stockbroker Billy Bob Harris, 45, pleaded guilty Monday to federal charges of obstruction of justice by giving false information to the SEC.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey set sentencing for April 18. Thayer and Harris could each be sentenced to up to five years in prison and fined $5,000.

But prosecutor Charles H. Roistacher told the court the government would not seek substantial sentences.

In its courtroom presentation, the government said that Thayer, while he was chairman and chief executive officer of LTV Corp., and a board member of two other companies, gave confidential corporate takeover information to Harris.

The government said Harris purchased stock for himself, Thayer and some other friends and from three of the transactions.

In addition to being chairman of LTV, Thayer was a director of Anheuser-Busch Cos. Inc. and Allied Corp. when he participated in the stock scheme, the government said.

The stock purchases came shortly before Anheuser-Busch announced its $560 million takeover of Campbell-Taggard Inc., a Dallas baking company; LTV's attempted merger with Grumman Corp. and Allied Corp.'s $1.9 billion acquisition of Bendix Corp.

Among those who profited from the insider trading, the government said, was Sandra K. Ryno, 39, of Garland, Texas, with whom Thayer "maintained a private personal relationship" and whom he supported financially during 1981 and 1982.

Ms. Ryno was a receptionist at LTV Corp. before Thayer became the Pentagon's No. 2 man in January 1983.

Others who profited by the confidential information were people with whom Thayer and Harris had maintained a social relationship, some of whom they had known for 10 years, the government said.

They include physician Doyle L. Sharpe, 53, of Dallas, and his girlfriend, Julia Rooker, 38, also of Dallas; banker Gayle L. Shroeder, 46, Baytown, Texas; Harris' girlfriend, Juli Williams, 27, of Dallas and his father, J.C. Harris, along with insurance executive Malcolm Beulah Davis, 49, of Dallas.

Government prosecutors also said Harris cut in William H. Mathis, 46, former running back for the New York Jets and now an Atlanta stockbroker.

U.S. Attorney Joseph diGenova said Thayer, who resigned from the Pentagon Jan. 4, 1984, testified three times before the SEC in 1983, while Harris appeared five times.

"It was during this testimony that both men obstructed the SEC's investigation by giving false testimony for the purpose of concealing and causing to be concealed from the SEC the true sources and nature of information the defendant Paul Thayer conveyed to the defendant Billy Bob Harris," the criminal information said.

DiGenova also said the prosecution "serves as a warning to those who would violate our securities, that such conduct can be detected successfully."

In addition, a civil suit by the SEC against Thayer, Harris and others is pending in U.S. District Court in Dallas. Attorneys for Thayer and Harris told the court that negotiations for a settlement with the SEC were under way.

DiGenova said he expected Anheuser-Busch would take legal action against Thayer and Harris.

The St. Louis-based brewing company issued a statement saying, "Anheuser-Busch believes that the action of Mr. Thayer and Mr. Harris and others may have caused the company great financial harm."

"This activity may have caused the price of Campbell-Taggard stock to rise dramatically immediately prior to the acquisition by Anheuser-Busch, thereby causing Anheuser-Busch to pay considerably more for the stock than it would have paid had normal market conditions prevailed," the company said.

Girls finish second

Hereford wins tennis tourney

Thanks to finishing in the top two spots in both A- and B-team divisions last weekend, the Hereford boys won first place in the Hereford Five-Team Tennis Tournament, played Friday and Saturday at the HHS courts.

The Whiteface girls wound up in second place in their respective division of the tourney, beating Borger on a tie breaker. Canyon won the girls competition.

"We needed a good tournament like this after coming off the Abilene tournament," said Hereford coach Ruben Vargas, whose team finished eighth at the Abilene Cooper Tournament Feb. 22 and 23. "We needed a confidence builder."

Hereford's No. 1-seeded singles player for the boys, Blair Rogers, had to rally against Plainview's Scott Neely for the title. After losing the first set 2-6, Rogers blew past Neely in the remainder 6-1, 6-0.

"I never really was too worried about Blair, even when he was behind," Vargas said, "let me put it like that. He is a highly respected player in the district."

Don Flood and Chuck Garcia, the Whitefaces' top doubles team, won their title match in straight sets. Hereford beat C. Roach and R. Lamb, from Canyon, 6-4, 6-1.

In B-division play, the Whitefaces copped two second places in singles and doubles matches. Hereford's Conrad Rodriguez was defeated by Tommy Matlock, of Plainview, 6-1, 6-3.

And after losing the first set 6-4, the B doubles team, comprised of Jason Bodner and Brad Allred, forced the final set by winning 6-2 in the second. However, J. Swan and R. Mitchell of Canyon won the final group of games 6-4.

In team points, Hereford outdistanced the remainder of the field by 20 points. HHS had 70, followed by Plainview and Canyon each with 50, Dumas with 23 and Borger with 19.

The Whitefaces had only one first place in girls play, the A-team doubles. Natalie Sims and Connie Zinser shut down a Borger team, 6-3, 6-0, in the finals for first place.

Kristi Birch and Richelle Fowler made up the Borger team.

While Sims and Zinser took the only first place, the B doubles group — Lana Kosub and Markay White — also won a place. After being tied with Canyon and Borger, Hereford won second over the Bulldogs on games. Canyon took first.

"Our girls really came back Saturday and did a good job," Vargas said. "After Friday's round, we were in last place, but they hung together."

Canyon was first among teams with 65 points. Hereford and Borger were next with 46, the Whitefaces winning a tie breaker. Plainview finished fourth with 31 points, and Dumas was last with 24.

Canyon took both singles titles in girls play. D'Layne Peebles defeated Plainview's Kasey Mayfield for the A-division crown, and Cindy Trekkell beat Borger's Beth Guyton in B-division play.

Hereford is to play in the Fort Worth Invitational Friday and Saturday.

Baseball team beats Dumas

Herd opens with win

Prior to baseball's season opener for the local high school, Hereford coach Don Long said the Whitefaces would have to rely on hitting for the most part of their success.

Saturday, they did. Opening a 2-1 lead at the end of the first inning, Hereford pounded out 15 hits and 11 runs enroute to an 11-7 thumping of Dumas in the Demons' hometown. The win leaves the Whitefaces at 1-0.

"We played pretty well early," Long said. "Overall, it was good for the first time out. We played with a lot of hustle and made only a few mental mistakes."

Senior Mike Scott got the ball rolling for the Whitefaces in the top of the first when he singled. Curtis Cotten stepped up next and also singled, advancing to second on the throw.

Chet Bunch picked up two RBIs on a shot up the middle to score Scott and Cotten.

Dumas scored one in the bottom of the inning.

The second inning was the biggest for both teams, Hereford scoring five runs and the Demons getting three. The Whitefaces scored on a couple of round-trippers.

After Kurt Simon struck out to open the inning, Sammy Suarez hit for a triple but managed to score on a throwing error.

"It looked like an inside-the-park homerun," Long said. "The (official) scorer ruled it a triple, though, and we gave him home on a bad throw."

Rodney Torres followed Suarez's bat with a walk. Stefan Hacker struck out, and Scott reached first with a walk. Cotten then got his second hit in as many at-bats, but this time he hit a three-run shot over the left-center wall to make the score 6-1.

And Hereford wasn't through. Bunch singled next. Chad Stephan also singled, and Doug Evans singled to drive in Bunch. Evans later was thrown out stealing to end the Whitefaces' assault.

The Whitefaces used three pitchers in the game, Suarez going three innings to record the win. The senior gave up four runs, three of them earned.

Scott went two innings on the mound, giving up two runs but none earned, and Torres pitched two innings. Torres allowed one earned run.

Hereford got two more runs in the third inning. After Simon and Suarez had singled, Torres reached first base on an error, allowing one run to score. Scott singled later, driving in one run. On the same play, a throwing error was committed by the Demons and another Whiteface crossed the plate.

"We hit their first pitcher early," Long added. "But really, we had them on the ropes the whole game and let them off."

The Whitefaces made four errors in the game, compared to five for Dumas.

Hereford scored again in the sixth inning. Bunch opened the inning by flying out to second, and Stephan lined to third. Doug Watts took first on a walk, and Keith Herrera singled.

Suarez got another RBI on a single to score Watts. Torres ended the inning by hitting into a fielder's choice.

Horse industry to add

$3 million program

OKLAHOMA CITY — More than 1,500 stallion owners nationwide have united for a common cause — to build an added awards program for the horse industry — by contributing more than $3 million in breedings to be sold at one-half their normal fees through the King of Sports Awards Program.

Revenue of these fees will be distributed as added money in competitive horse events nationwide for Quarter Horses, Thoroughbreds, Palominos, Arabians, Appaloosas, Paints, etc.

"This is a program for everyone," said Buddy Faye Foster, public relations director for King of Sports. "Stallion fees range from as low as $200 to as high of $20,000. Horses are eligible for hundreds of added money events in halter, performance, cutting and riding."

Joyce Dedek, sponsorship director for the organization, said, "Numerous sponsors have joined with the stallion owners who have contributed three 1985 breedings to the King of Sports Awards Program. More owners will be able to utilize these 4,500 contributed breedings at one-half price to help build the world's largest added money awards program. This is a new concept in the horse industry whose time has come."

For information on stallion breedings and events in the Hereford area, or how a person may participate, contact the King of Sports, Ltd., 3608 NW 58th St., Oklahoma City, Okla. 73112. Phone: (405)942-1790.

Nazareth lands three on squad

AUSTIN (AP) — At 4-foot-11, sophomore guard Chandra Dismuke isn't the most overshadowing player on the Dallas South Oak Cliff girls' basketball team.

But she was the key to the speedy SOC offense, often breaking through two or three defenders with an ankle-high dribble and passing off to a teammate for a basket.

She had only 12 points and two rebounds in two games, but her ball-handling performance was spectacular enough to put her on the all-state tournament team in Class 5A. SOC defeated Lubbock Monterey 68-47 in the semifinals and Victoria 60-46 in the finals.

SOC senior forwards Rhonda Buggs and Sandra Hayes joined Dismuke on the all-star squad, which also included juniors Karen Gaskin of Victoria, a unanimous selection and high scorer in 5A with 34 points,

The point total was good enough for only second place, as Pampa amassed 155 points.

"This was just an outstanding team effort by each one of the young ladies competing for Hereford High School," Hereford coach Martha Emerson said. "We made an excellent beginning for the 1985 season."

The 400- and 800-meter relay teams each set records with times of 50.34 and 1:49.24, respectively. Stacie High, Felicia Redmon, Stacey Sanders and Lisa Redmon made up the 400-meter team. Susie Kalka, the

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—State lawmakers advanced the controversial water plan and parimutuel betting bill before winding up last week with a joint session address by Vice President George Bush.

Bush lambasted Congress for extending additional farm credit, and said President Reagan has threatened to veto the bill.

He also preached an anti-Communist line and said the public should be educated about the red-backed Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Not surprisingly, he also praised the administration's role in increasing federal revenues and bolstering the economy, but legislators sitting in joint session did not interrupt the Vice President's speech with applause, and, in fact, remained very quiet during his address. The silence puzzled many onlookers.

Bush's hard-line on farm credit surely put many rural lawmakers on the defensive, and his news about prosperity may have fell on skeptical ears of legislators from Houston, the southeast Texas refinery area, the Rio Grande Valley, as well as farm and ranch counties.

Senate Water Plan

The Senate voted overwhelmingly to approve a comprehensive, $1.2 billion statewide water plan which was radically different from the House version passed two weeks ago.

The differences will be worked out in conference committee. The House rejected the Senate plan as expected.

The Senate plan, authored by John Montford, D-Lubbock, directs $400 million for water conservation projects and $200 million for agricultural water, compared with roughly half that amount in the House plan for water development.

As approved, the Senate bill authorizes the state to create underground water districts if voters, on a local basis, fail to do so.

House Parimutuel Bill

The horserace betting bill is expected to make it to floor debate in the next two weeks after a lopsided victory in a House committee last week.

The bill's sponsor, Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga of Corpus Christi, made concessions to minority and law enforcement groups in forging the 10-1 panel approval.

Minority groups, it was reported, were granted assurances they would get at least 15 percent of racetrack construction contracts, the first right to purchase 15 percent of race track stock, and affirmative action in racetrack hiring. Five percent of track proceeds will go to the State, five percent to winners' purses and seven percent to track owners.

Surprisingly, black lawmakers could not make stick their original demand that part of the State's share would be dedicated to welfare, the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

If the bill passes the House this month, it is expected to sail through the Senate, which approved the issue last session.

The bonds were sent on to the Comptroller's Office with Mattox's approval.

Credit Rate Drops

Texas consumers got a shot in the arm last week when the state's consumer credit agency lowered bank card rates to 16.4 percent, effective April 1, the lowest in four years.

The current ceiling is 19.6 percent. Rates on charge cards by individual retailers are not affected.

Short Takes

Dallas blacks have been sending signals they will seek to replace white liberal state Sen. Oscar Mauzy in 1986 with one from their ranks, perhaps State Rep. Paul Ragsdale.

The Goddess of Liberty on top of the State Capitol will need arm surgery soon or she will drop her torch, according to the state architect in charge of restoring the building.

He released photographs which show a 20-inch crack in the left shoulder of the zinc statue, and said he is still mystified "how a hundred years ago we could put that thing up there, and now in 1985 we can't figure how to get it back down."

A bill prohibiting state officials from having live-in companions on their payroll is viewed by some as a direct attack on Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower by the Amarillo state senator who may run against him next year. State Sen. Bill Sarpalius said Hightower has had a live-in relationship for several years with one of his assistant commissioners.

When educators fighting mandatory teacher competency tests hotly suggested that legislators ought to take similar exams, Port Arthur Senator Carl Parker cut the tension by joking "If we were to take ignorance out of the Legislature, we wouldn't have representative government."

One candle on Braniff's cake— one more than expected

DALLAS (AP) — It's a birthday that many in the airline industry thought might never take place.

The topsy-turvy flight of Braniff Inc. appeared to be nearing its end only months after the once-bankrupt carrier reorganized and resumed operations March 1, 1984. There were massive layoffs, huge losses, strategy mistakes, planes grounded and emotional announcements of bad news to employees.

But Braniff, reduced now to a minor player in a major-league hub, had a celebration this week — one year old and still alive.

"It's symbolic," President Ronald Ridgeway said of the March 1 anniversary. "We've started to gain credibility. We're going to survive."

Ridgeway even predicted that Braniff might post a profit for the first quarter of 1985. It would be a major turnaround — Braniff lost more than $81 million in its first eight months and will record a loss for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, Ridgeway said.

"I think it's (the birthday) particularly important since the atmosphere around here was down and a lack of credibility existed in early November," he said. "We have survived through 1984 now and we'll definitely survive through 1985."

The airline plans to announce this week a new "mini-hub" operation of three to five airplanes as a way of diversifying away from the highly competitive skies over Dallas-Fort Worth — a major hub dominated by American Airlines Inc. and Delta Air Lines.

In January, Braniff filled 61.8 percent of its seats with paying customers, and the carrier finished February even higher than that, Ridgeway said. To break even, the airline needs to fill 65 percent of its available seats.

Most analysts have given Braniff a fighting chance of survival. But some point to $320 million in tax carry-forward credits held by the owners from the remains of grounded Braniff International — as well as the higher market value of Boeing 727 aircraft — as reasons the airline might one day be liquidated.

Braniff has only 22 flights a day from Dallas-Fort Worth, and the airline's low, unrestricted fares lately have been ignored by its larger competitors. American and Delta both used to match Braniff fares, but since have done so only by attaching restrictions that weed out business travelers from discount seats.

"They certainly are not a major force any more," said industry analyst Tim Pettee with L.F. Rothschild in New York. "When they started with 30 planes, they had a lot of capacity and they were a force."

Braniff officials admitted in November that starting so large — their's was the largest single-day startup in aviation history — with a full-fare structure was a mistake. Locating in Dallas was a mistake, some officers said, as was calling the revived airline "Braniff."

The airline then shrank from a 30-plane, 2,800-employee carrier to a 15-plane, 1,050-employee no-frills discount operation, and since has reduced its losses.

But to analysts, Braniff may illustrate that the more things change, the more they stay the same.

The airline still has not been able to steal large numbers of travelers from American and Delta — one of its major problems before it filed for protection from its creditors, owed $1 billion, in federal bankruptcy court in 1982.

"I don't think the scenario has changed much since they existed in the marketplace initially in 1982," Pettee said. "There still appears to be little room for additional capacity in and out of Dallas. So the economics haven't changed much."

Ridgeway said estimates that Braniff has about $25 million in cash on hand are accurate, and that the Pritzker family and their Hyatt Hotel Corp., which put Braniff back in the air with a $70 million investment, remain committed.

Yet observers say even the modest expansion Braniff plans will require capital, and that if the losses don't end, the Pritzkers may face a decision on whether to continue funding the airline.

"At some point in 1985, they've got to make a decision to go further with additional outlays," Pettee said. "Braniff was fortunate in that it had a healthy economy with a lot of passenger traffic for its first year. In the second year, I don't think the economy will be as helpful to Braniff."

"And when the traffic starts drying up," he said, "the first ones to get hit are the smaller carriers."

Still, Ridgeway and others at Braniff are optimistic, savoring the birthday with in-flight champagne and predicting a long life for the airline that appears to have perhaps nine lives.

"This week is important for our employees. They've been through a roller-coaster ride," Ridgeway said. "I'd have to say that for them, it's a celebration."

Cable gives Klan a new but ignored pulpit

DALLAS (AP) — Sometimes they dress in military fatigues, but usually they wear the business suits of more traditional talk shows.

Even their topics are, at first glance, benign. But the message they deliver to Texas living rooms via cable television is the same one historically carried by men dressed in white sheets and pointed hoods: the supremacy of the white race and destruction of all others.

The arrival of public access programming — cable television channels made available to citizens for their own shows — has given the Ku Klux Klan and other white supremacist groups a new, "high-tech" pulpit.

Amid the Sunday church services, aerobics and cooking classes, the self-proclaimed racists say they've found their own uncensored soapbox.

Opponents claim it doesn't matter. No one watches the shows or agrees with them, anyway.

Cable and government officials who supervise programming generally take a "hands off" stance. Though the message is "disgusting," many agree, the Klan and similar groups are protected by the First Amendment right of free speech.

"Cable is the 'Hyde Park' of communications. There's very few places where a white nationalist can get on TV and not be interrupted by commercials or be badgered by 'when did you stop beating your wife' questions," said Tom Metzger, 46, a Fallbrook, Calif., television repairman who produces a white-supremist program aired in Austin.

"Cable is very new. These shows are uncensored, unedited, uncensored," said Daniel Miller of Austin, local sponsor of the show.

"We're going around the establishment media to tell people that race is the biggest issue in this country," Miller said.

"In Dallas, we've taken the policy of just ignoring them," said Ted Watkins, local president of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People. "If we put up a protest, then the viewing audience would increase. The show will die soon," Watkins said.

"The World As It Is," a half-hour talk show produced by Louis Beam, former grand dragon of the Texas Ku Klux Klan, has sporadically appeared on a Warner-Amex Cable Communications Co. access channel in Dallas since November.

In January, the cable company refused to air three of the seven submitted tapes. "We felt it violated our city ordinance on standards for programs," said Warner-Amex spokesman David Huntley.

The tapes were violent and advocated the overthrow of the government," said Celeste Moy, a company attorney. "In one, the speaker was dressed in combat attire. His words were strong, and when you put them with his attire" we had questions, she said.

The programs are always racist, she said. But one of the questionable tapes, for example, showed "a man talking very calmly about how we should get rid of all non-whites in the country" and overthrow the government, she said.

Beam could not be reached for comment.

Warner-Amex's corporate attorneys have since reviewed the tapes and said they do not violate the city ordinance and could be aired, Ms. Moy said.

The Dallas program has brought "only a handful of complaints," Huntley said. In Austin, where Metzger's California-produced program "Race and Reason" is shown on public access channels, it has brought more than 40 phone calls of protest.

"We have lots of extreme views on access, but this has by far gotten the most negative calls of any program," said Martin Newell of Austin Community Television, a non-profit company that manages Austin Cable Vision's public access programming.

In fact, a citizen board that reviews public programming is still wrestling with the issue. Beyond the offensiveness of "Race and Reason," many question the propriety of running a program produced by outsiders.

Segments have included a presentation on Odinism — the worship of old Norse gods

— as well as a lament over the banning of all-white college student unions in California and a portrait of a Michigan Klan leader who espouses a common white supremacist theme: the Holocaust is a figment of Jewish imaginations.

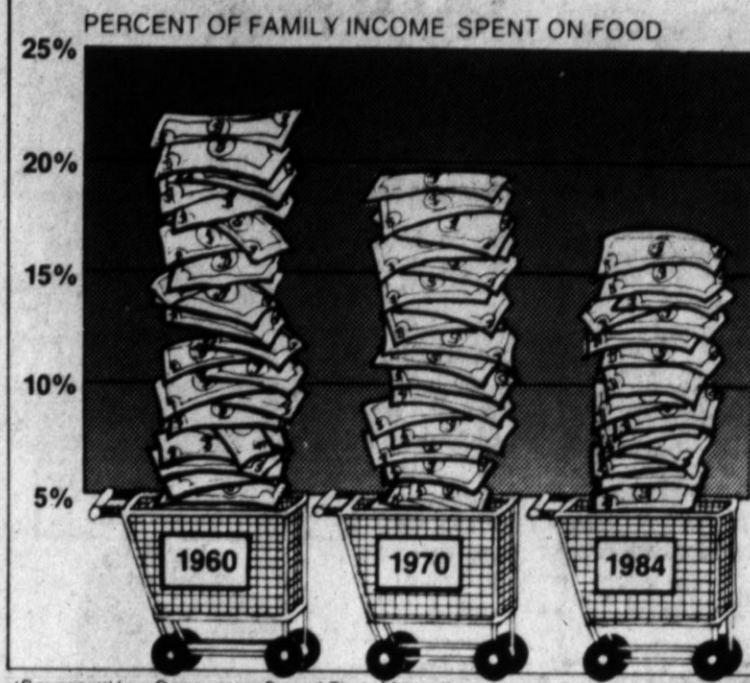

"I'm labeled a white supremacist bigot," said the show's local sponsor, Miller. "I'm not a bigot. I'm educated. I'm a button-down racist."

If people don't agree with the program's viewpoint, they "can do their own show. I don't try to get them off the air," Miller said.

Houston, El Paso, Fort Worth and San Antonio either do not have public access cable channels or have not been contacted about airing a Klan or white supremacist program, officials said.

GROCERY BILLS

They are less of a burden

(Source: "How Consumers Spend Their Money" (Hearst Magazines/U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics))
Though grocery bills have climbed, Americans today spend only 17 percent of their income on food — down from 19 percent in 1970 and 22 in 1960.

Texas woman specializes in aromatic lavender

LADONIA, Texas (AP) — Odena Brannam teaches people to grow their own herbs and enjoy them as much as she does.

Her message is spreading like the scent of her herb garden on a summer day, when breezes carry the pleasant fragrances for blocks.

In 1984 more than 3,000 people from 14 states visited her herb shop on the square in Ladonia. Most of them wanted to see her Lavender Hill Herb Farm as well.

She grows at least 135 different herbs and happily shares their intriguing aromas by picking little samples. By the end of a tour each visitor clutches a handful of fragrant fresh leaves.

Mrs. Brannam always gives visitors a sprig of soft, gray-green lavender leaves. It thrives in the area's limestone soil. It shows up in more Ladonia yards every year as she works to make the town "Lavender Capital of the United States."

She hands people a bit of rosemary, its narrow bright green leaves smelling somewhat piney. She lets them taste the hot-pepper flavor of tiny thyme leaves. She treats them to feathery, chartreuse fennel, which tastes like licorice.

Visitors go wild over the exotic pineapple sage and lemon verbena. When they brush against rose geraniums planted along the walk, a gentle scent wafts around them.

Mrs. Brannam hopes her tour shows people how much they can enjoy herbs.

With many herbs, "All you have to do is touch the leaves and the fragrance surrounds you. Even when the wind stirs them, they fill a yard with fragrance," she said.

"Herbs enhance the atmosphere, they contribute to the overall quality of life," she said. "I look at myself as an educator and way-shower. Herbs are marvelous. People miss so much because they quit growing them and using them."

She has cherished herbs since she was a little girl and helped tend her grandmother's old-fashioned herb garden. They grew mint and chamomile for tea, and sweet basil, thyme, dill, sage, parsley and pepper grass.

All through her life Mrs. Brannam, now 74, has planted herbs and vegetables among her flowers. At times, "people thought I was an odd-ball, but now people are going back to the old way of doing things."

She's glad that means a return to using herbs. Victorian ladies tucked herbal potpourris everywhere, she said, and "their houses smelled good, they didn't have the chemical smell we have now. People come into my shop and say it smells good. Your whole house can smell like that," she said.

Herb wreaths, sachets and big bags of special potpourris scent the shop. Ada Hodges, who works in the shop, brings out each potpourri to let a visitor breathe the fragrance and guess at the contents. They spice the air like perfumes.

Mrs. Brannam also dries herbs for cooking, and grinds out seasoning blends such as garam masala. "Herbs will turn a mediocre cook into a gourmet cook," she said.

She has tried recipes from all over the world to find new uses for herbs. She figures out what herbs live up to a favorite dish, and what herbs taste good together. Parsley, bay leaf and thyme are a classic trio, but don't mix thyme and summer savory, she warned.

Her cookbook and herb publications emphasize the unusual. Mint flavors an avocado pie. Fennel teams with fish. She flavors vinegar with mint, dill, elder blossoms or rosemary.

If a person doesn't care to grow herbs for their fragrance or for cooking, she said they make a good landscape plant. In summer many herbs put on a show of bright green. In winter a reddish tint dulls the green or the leaves lighten, but most keep their leaves year round.

"They're worthwhile just for their beauty," Mrs. Brannam said.

She hadn't planned to learn the medicinal uses of herbs but people ask her for herbal remedies. She doesn't diagnose but grows medicinal herbs and tells people how to grow them.

Her extensive knowledge of herbs reflects a lifetime of study. But she didn't devote herself full time to herbs until she retired from working as a feature writer and news editor for newspapers.

When she started the herb business, she didn't know it would become her livelihood. She began by calling on grocery stores near her home in the Dallas area, offering fresh-cut herbs. One gourmet grocery store accepted.

At that time, fresh-cut herbs were not being sold. But her market "grew and grew till I couldn't supply it," she said.

She needed more land and in July 1981, she moved onto the two-acre farm in Ladonia. Her brother, Audrey Glover, helps with the farm. Business grew steadily and in July 1984, she opened a shop in the old Fry Drugstore, a historic building on Ladonia's square.

When a group from Hughes Springs drove over for a shopping spree recently, the shop buzzed with greetings and conversation. They all like to talk about herbs with Mrs. Brannam.

Mrs. Brannam thinks her tours, lectures to garden clubs and "hands-on" cooking classes will inspire a lasting interest. "Most people are simply enthralled with the herbs," she said.

Even those who doubt they'll like herbs go for them in a big way after they've met her. Her zest for herbs wins them over.

"Herbs do very well here; the soil conditions and climate are right for most of them," Mrs. Brannam says.

"Farmers here are oriented to cotton, grain and cattle but there is a vast market in herbs."

"Billions of dollars worth of herbs are imported every year, but source abroad are drying up. Herb companies are looking to the U.S.," she said.

Herbs make a wonderful crop, she said. Most are perennials and only have to be planted once, or every three or four years.

Bugs don't like herbs, she said. At Lavender Hill Farm, she grows herbs organically. The only exception is sweet basil. When grasshoppers or Army worms march on its tender leaves, she uses a preparation such as Rotenone to discourage the pests.

Mrs. Brannam said 25 herbs are especially suited to this area. Among them are peppermint and spearmint, which can be grown in creek bottoms and river land. Growers can distill their own oils in stills built according to government plans.

Lemon grass, which is used for tea, is another good seller, she said. Summer and winter savory, lavender, French tarragon, lemon balm, lemon verbena, sweet marjoram, oregano, thyme, borage, salad burnet, sorrel, fennel, and comfrey are possibilities. Comfrey is a wonderful forage plant for livestock, she says.

Mrs. Brannam tells farmers nothing will ever be wasted in growing an herb plant. "You can crop twice a year or more," she said.

Farmers can sell the whole plant either for a food plant, landscaping plant or fragrance plant. They can sell fresh-cut leaves and dried leaves. They can make herb-flavored vinegars and butters and teas and potpourris and sachets.

GOD LOVES YOU AS YOU ARE

When a man makes a jar out of clay, doesn't he have a right to use the same lump of clay to make one jar beautiful, to be used for holding flowers, and another to throw garbage into? Does not God have a perfect right to show His fury and power against those who are fit only for destruction, those He has been patient with for all this time?

And He has a right to take others such as ourselves, who have been made for pouring the riches of His glory into, whether we are Jews or Gentiles, and to be kind to us so that everyone can see how very great His glory is.

Remember what the prophecy of Hosea says? There God says that He will find other children for Himself (who are not from His Jewish family) and will love them, though no one had ever loved them before. And the heathen, of whom it once was said, "You are not My people," shall be called "sons of the Living God."

Isaiah the prophet cried out concerning the Jews that though there would be millions of them, only a small number would ever be saved. "For the Lord will execute His sentence upon the earth, quickly ending His dealings, justly cutting them short." And Isaiah said in another place that except for God's mercy all the Jews would be destroyed—all of them—just as everyone in the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah perished.

Well then, what shall we say about these things? Just this, that God has given the Gentiles the opportunity to be acquitted by faith, even though they had not been really seeking God. But the Jews, who tried so hard to get right with God by keeping His laws, never succeeded.

Why not? Because they were trying to be saved by keeping the law and being good instead of by depending on faith. They have stumbled over the great stumblingstone. God warned them of this in the scriptures when He said, "I have put a Rock in the path of the Jews, and many will stumble over Him (Jesus). Those who believe in Him will never be disappointed." Romans 9:21-33
