Patrons applaud at meeting

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

Patrons applauded four times during the Tuesday night's Hereford school board meeting twice to show approval of a new trustee, to thank a student presentation and to give tribute to a retiring teacher.

Following a formal swearing in conducted by county clerk David Ruland, Bud Patterson was applauded by about 100 of the school patrons attending the meeting. Patterson assumed his District 1 seat and asked permission to comment. Patterson again drew applause after complimenting former and present board members, asking the board to work together in a cooperative spirit and vowing to help in any way to develop an effective school system.

The District 3 seat will be determined in a runoff election set for May 4 by the board. Margaret Marshall and Steve Conaway are seeking that position.

The routine curriculum report was praised by applause, also. Marcus Phillips and Monty Adams allowed the Hereford High Future Farmers of America to give a presentation of parliamentary procedure. The FFA students conducted a mock meeting in which each officer described his or her duties and demonstrated skills in following parliamentary procedure.

Phillips said that such presentations in contests netted the senior FFA chapter a second place in district and area competition. The Hereford team was five points below the state qualifying score, out of a possible 1,000 points. The junior chapter placed first in district and sixth in area.

A standing ovation was given to Mrs. Audrey Powell, retiring after 35 years' teaching in Hereford's schools. She had been honored with other long term school district employees at a banquet Monday night for the Classroom Teachers Association and Hereford Educators Association officer installation.

During the public comment time on the agenda, a parent asked the board to look into a series of supplemental paperback books which she described as "horrifying" because they dealt with killings of children and adults. The books are supposed to have a story line which lends to the reader having to make a moral judgement. She said that a school librarian had brought the books to her attention. Patterson told the rest of the board that he had read the books. The board agreed to look into the situation.

The same parent requested, and was granted, a copy of the budget to study how the elementary schools might obtain better playground equipment.

Suggestions by another parent included moving public comments further down on the agenda. She also asked the board to consider meeting at a later time, since many parents cannot attend at the current time.

She also inquired about junior high students going to a seven period schedule while the high school remains on a six period schedule.

In the tax report, assistant superintendent Larry Wartes said that 92.36 percent of the taxes have been collected. That figure is about one percent above last year's.

Wartes also reported that enrollment is at 4,662. That number is down six from the last report on April 1. On this date in 1984 the enrollment was at 4,727.

75 state bills deal with hazardous waste

AUSTIN (AP) — About 75 bills have been introduced in the Legislature dealing with hazardous waste but a comprehensive bill to deal with the state's waste problems hasn't, a member of a special panel says.

R. Kinnan Goleman of the Governor's Task Force on Hazardous Waste Management says he is hopeful that a comprehensive bill will be proposed to deal with what has become a serious state problem.

"There are people within all of the interest groups that are meeting and trying to come up with a comprehensive bill and I am optimistic about that," Goleman said.

Currently, the Texas Department of Water Resources and the Texas Department of Health regulate hazardous wastes.

The health department uses the same guidelines as the federal Environmental Protection Agency in regulating hazardous waste facilities.

Those include monitoring of ground water in the area, supervising the area for 30 years after the site closes and establishing financial responsibility for the site. The department also prohibits disposal sites near aquifers.

An estimated 2,400 registered Texas generators produce approximately 23 million tons annually of industrial and other commercial hazardous waste, the task force reported.

Thousands spent on prisons

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Corrections has spent nearly $400,000 trying to curb violence among inmates in the nation's second largest prison system, officials said.

The TDC has spent $283,307 on body alarms for guards and on walk-through and hand-held metal detectors, said prison spokesman Charles Brown.

Another $100,000 has been spent on screening in corridors, metal screens across the bars in cell doors, and plastic shields used to protect convicts being moved within cell blocks, Brown said.

There have been 83 inmate stabbings, including 10 fatal, so far this year, Brown said.

Brown said on Monday that the prison system's 10 fatal stabbings is eight more than occurred at this time last year, but that the number of non-fatal stabbings has been declining.

In 1984, there was a total of 404 non-fatal stabbings, with an average of 33.6 reported each month.

In 1985, there were 21 non-fatal stabbings in January, 24 in February, 21 in March and seven so far in April.

Two inmates died from stabbings on Friday, giving an average of more than two murders a month in the TDC prison units.

also reported the schools are spending an average of $3,429 to educate each public school student.

That is 7.8 percent more than the $3,182 it cost last year. The per pupil costs ranged from a high of $6,867 in Alaska to a low of $2,182 in Utah.

Average teacher salaries ranged from a high of $39,751 in Alaska — a state with a high cost-of-living — to a low of $15,971 in Mississippi, where thousands of teachers recently staged wildcat strikes to protest their pay.

Meanwhile, the National Catholic Educational Association reported Tuesday that minorities now comprise more than 20 percent of the students in Catholic schools. Minority enrollment has increased by 127,000 students since 1970, even while overall Catholic school enrollment has fallen by almost 1.5 million.

The association reported Catholic schools suffered an enrollment drop of 66,000 students, or 2.2 percent, in the past year. There are now 7,891 Catholic elementary and 1,449 secondary schools, or 61 fewer than in 1983-84, with 2.9 million students.

For the seventh consecutive year, the largest share of public school funds came from state governments. The states provided 49 percent of the public schools' $137.6 billion in revenues for the current school year, the NEA said. Local governments paid $61.6 billion, or 44.8 percent, while the federal government picked up the rest of the tab: $26.6 billion, or 6.2 percent.

School enrollment down six million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's public schools enroll almost 6 million fewer students today than a decade ago, but the number of teachers and school administrators has declined only slightly.

The National Education Association reported Tuesday that there are 2.1 million classroom teachers, earning an average of $23,546.

Those teachers are part of a total instruction staff, including principals, supervisors and others, that now numbers 2,435,663, or only 17,527 less than in 1974-75. The average salary for the entire instructional staff is $24,569.

In 1974-75, when the last of the baby boom generation was still in school, more than 45.1 million children showed up for classes in the fall. By last fall, public school enrollment had dropped to 39.37 million.

The staff size has shrunk less than 1 percent in that period, despite the 12.8 percent enrollment drop. Student-teacher ratios have shrunk, but many schools have hired additional teachers for handicapped students and other special needs.

Many governors and school reformers have been pressing for pay hikes in the past two years to attract brighter recruits into the profession. The NEA said classroom teacher salaries rose 7.3 percent in the past year.

The NEA's research department, in a report based on an annual survey of state education agencies, Owning Highway 60 frontage can be an advantage in more ways than one. Fred Rivera, whose Rivera Produce Incorporated is attractively situated on the west edge of Hereford, is definitely a fan of Mesa Petroleum's T. Boone Pickens and believes Pickens would make a good governor. "I like his conservative views," Rivera explained. Of the Oil Company takeover attempts: "It's business. It's the free enterprise system." Pickens recently wrote Rivera that he "got a kick" out of hearing about the sign.

Discrimination charge denied

The City of Hereford and the city's police department, defendants in a sex discrimination suit, have denied charges brought against them by a Hereford woman.

The suit was filed Feb. 28 in U.S. District Court in Amarillo by Dee Toler, who applied for a job as a police officer and claims she was denied employment because she is a woman. The city filed its answer March 27, denying that it violated Toler's civil rights.

Toler is represented by Betty Wheeler of Amarillo, while the city's counsel is the Amarillo firm of Stokes and Fields.

While admitting that the Hereford Police Department refused to hire Toler as an officer, the answer denies that Toler "is qualified for such position with the City of Hereford Police Department."

Toler graduated from the police academy at Amarillo College in August of 1983, and the following month passed the examination which the city requires of applicants for police officer positions. Later that month she filed an application.

The suit quotes remarks attributed to Police Chief Don Brush and City Manager Dudley Bayne in an affidavit the city submitted to the EEOC. Toler told the Brand the quotes are similar but not exactly what she was told by the two men. Brush declined comment on the accuracy of the quotes.

Brush is supposed to have said to Toler that "a lady would be as out of place as she would be in the defensive line of the Los Angeles Raiders." Bayne is purported to have told her that "Too Tall Jones couldn't get a job in the chorus line of a Las Vegas show, but there isn't a chorus girl in Las Vegas who could qualify for his job, either."

Toler is asking that the defendants be found in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, and that they be enjoined from "continuing to maintain the policies, customs or usages which discriminate against plaintiff."

The suit also asks that Toler be given the position for which she applied, and compensated for wages she would have earned and attorney's fees for the court case.

calling for a 1 percent "assessment" on public and private hospital revenue to help pay the costs. to

The House Public Health subcommittee also got instructions from its chairman, Rep. Brad Wright, R-Houston, to consider whether preventing pregnancies might be the most cost-effective measure.

Oliver estimated the assessment on the net revenue of all public, private and non-profit hospitals would yield about $56 million in 1986 and $57 million in 1987.

The hospital contributions would go toward the estimated $200 million a year cost for priority recommendations of the Task Force on Indigent Health Care, which was created by the 1983 Legislature.

'Sick tax' would help pay for indigent care

AUSTIN (AP) — House bills containing what some call a "sick tax" to help pay for indigent health care were in a subcommittee today with indications they might be ready for debate in about a week.

"We just want to look it over and make some changes," said Rep. Jess Oliver, D-Dallas, chairman of the subgroup and also author of three bills to put into effect recommendations of the Task Force on Indigent Health Care. "We might be able to have them ready by Monday."

Oliver's bills were part of a package to provide $200 million a year for additional health care for those unable to pay their own doctor and hospital bills.

Sent to the subcommittee separately was Oliver's amendment

Governor turns down Nicaragua invitation

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Gov. Mark White, in Central America to visit Texas National Guard troops training in Honduras, turned down an invitation to visit leftist controlled Nicaragua but said he might take up the offer later.

"I didn't have time to go. I might go at a later date," White said Tuesday evening en route from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, to Panama City.

White was scheduled today to visit U.S. troops in Panama and then head home to Austin.

The invitation to stop in Managua, Nicaragua's capital, during his journey came from Halima S. Lopez, who lives in Houston but is attached to the Nicaraguan delegation to the United Nations, said White's press secretary, Ann Arnold.

The governor said he thought the invitation that was prompted by publicity about his trip and he expected that the Sandinista government wanted him to "come on over and see our side of the line."

On his way to Honduras on Monday, White expressed support for President Reagan's Central American policy, which regards the current government in Nicaragua as an exporter of revolution in Central America.

Although the governor said he might visit Nicaragua, he also expressed concern about "what their real intentions might be" in Central America.

Hospital board meets Thursday

A special meeting is planned for Thursday evening by the Deaf Smith General Hospital District board.

The agenda for the 6:30 p.m. meeting will include canvassing election returns, swearing in new board members and electing board officers.

The gathering will take place in the conference room of the hospital.

Benefit dance set Sunday

Amarillo radio stations KDJW and KBUY are sponsoring a benefit dance at the Tri-State Fairgrounds Coliseum next Sunday for POWER, People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories.

Tickets are $3 a person and $5 a couple from West Texas Western Stores, Oldham County Implement and Lusky's. Doors open at 4:30 p.m. and live dance music will begin at 5:30 p.m. Beer and calf fries will be served.

Proceeds will be used to support lobbying efforts against placement of a repository in the Texas Panhandle.

One arrested on traffic warrant

Hereford police made one arrest Tuesday, on a warrant for unpaid speeding tickets.

Police investigated a report of criminal mischief from a downtown business which discovered a broken plate glass window, and received a report of a case of oil stolen from a man's front yard.

Two juveniles and one young adult were being questioned today by police investigators after confessing Tuesday night to several area burglaries. The trio is also believed to be responsible for an auto theft during the weekend.

Weather

TUESDAY'S HIGH: 71 (normal: 70 record: 91 in 1972)

OVERNIGHT LOW: 45 (normal: 40 record: 20 in 1951)

OUTLOOK: 20 percent chance of showers tonight, low in upper 40s. Partly cloudy Thursday, high in mid-70s. Southwest winds 15 to 25 miles per hour.

Prisoner given life term

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) — Jurors deliberated less than half an hour before sentencing an inmate already serving 10 years for robbery to life behind bars for the near-fatal stabbing of a Texas prison guard.

The same jury earlier Tuesday deliberated about two hours before finding Wesley Johnson guilty in the July 18, 1984, knifing of Randall McFall, a Texas Department of Corrections sergeant at the Coffield Unit.

"Sgt. McFall was one of the most seriously injured guards we've had in the last year or two," said David Weeks, a special prosecutor assisting local district attorneys to clear their dockets of TDC cases.

"This was not a case of brutality of guards but was typical of the kind of abuse they suffer. This sends a clear message to the inmates," Weeks said.

McFall, now a TDC lieutenant and back on the job, was listed in critical-terminal condition when examined by a doctor after the stabbing, Weeks said.

The sergeant's colon was cut in half and the top of his pancreas had been cut. The knife in his abdomen "literally went clear to his backbone," Weeks said.

Gov. Mark White visited McFall while the guard was hospitalized. Weeks said McFall's credibility and honesty with other inmates was illustrated by the fact he received 75 get-well cards from prisoners.

McFall was stabbed in a confrontation with Johnson in a hall at the Coffield Unit. The incident occurred a month after McFall found Johnson in the wrong cell and in the wrong wing of the prison and filed a disciplinary report against the prisoner. Johnson then threatened McFall.

16 jurors selected for trial

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A nurse and a medical technician are among 16 people who will be questioned by lawyers picking jurors for the retrial of Claus von Bulow, accused of trying to murder his heiress wife with insulin injections.

But some or all of the candidates could be replaced by others who have also passed an initial round of questioning by a judge. Jury selection is expected to last at least an additional week.

Prosecutor Marc DeSisto on Tuesday began asking the 12 women and four men general questions about their backgrounds and whether they were familiar with insulin, hypodermic needles or syringes.

Von Bulow, with hand on chin, carefully studied the potential jurors as they were called to the jury box and questioned.

The Danish-born financier is accused of injecting Martha "Sunny" von Bulow with insulin at the family's Newport mansion during the Christmas holidays of 1979 and 1980, twice sending the Pittsburgh utilities heiress into comatose states. Doctors say she will never recover from the second coma.

Von Bulow, 58, was convicted in 1982 on two charges of attempted murder, but the convictions were overturned last year by the Rhode Island Supreme Court on state constitutional grounds.

Sharecroppers son makes history

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Bradley, the son of Texas sharecroppers and grandson of slaves, made history Tuesday becoming the first Los Angeles mayor elected to four full terms.

Bradley's chief opponent, Councilman John Ferraro, conceded the race when about 24 percent of the vote had been counted. Of the city's 2,367 precincts, 572 had been counted, showing him with 37,965 votes, or 32 percent, of the vote to Bradley's 77,435, or 65.8 percent.

"Not all is lost. I ran a good campaign. I can hold my head high," Ferraro told supporters at the Wilshire Hyatt Hotel after calling Bradley to congratulate him.

The victory also put Bradley in a good position to seek the governorship in 1986, if he should choose to try a rematch of his unsuccessful 1982 run against Gov. George Deukmejian.

Espie De La Cerda, secretary to the city election supervisor, said that although the city received 64,000 applications from voters for absentee ballots, only 22,334 were received in the mail. Others were turned in at voting precincts. Officials earlier had said that 64,000 absentee ballots were cast.

Voters also chose a new city attorney and city controller, decided whether to re-elect eight City Council members, considered several ballot measures and picked a handful of school board members.

Outbreak still under investigation

CHICAGO (AP) — Officials say they're unable to pinpoint the source of the second-largest salmonella outbreak in U.S. history, which has forced Chicago's biggest grocery chain to recall its milk and close its main dairy after more than 2,000 people became ill.

"We were optimistic that the investigation would lead us quickly to the cause of this epidemic, but we have been disappointed," Illinois Public Health Director Thomas B. Kirkpatrick Jr. said Tuesday.

"None of the expert investigators can say with any certainty what was responsible for the contamination," Kirkpatrick added.

The Jewel Food Stores removed all milk from shelves Tuesday and closed a Hillfarm dairy in Melrose Park after medical officials reported the death of a 61-year-old woman hospitalized with salmonella poisoning.

The death Monday of William True, 53, of Crystal Lake, was reported Tuesday by Sherman Hospital officials in Elgin, and the cause of death was tentatively listed as salmonella poisoning.

Heart patient listed 'stable'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A Swede with an "enormous will to live" was in stable condition today, three days after surgeons gave him the first permanent artificial heart implanted outside the United States, hospital officials said.

Dr. Bjarne K. H. Semb, a Norwegian surgeon who led the implant team described the patient Tuesday as in "unexpectedly good shape" following the Sunday operation. Spokeswoman Tanja Blanck at Stockholm's Karolinska Hospital, where the operation was performed, said today the patient was in "unchanged, stable condition."

Semb had told a news conference that the patient, a man in his mid-50s, was "off the respirator, awake and talking." Semb said the patient requested he not be identified.

The 12-member team at Karolinska Hospital removed the man's natural heart and put in its place a metal and plastic Jarvik-7 heart. Doctors did not explain why they did not announce the operation until Tuesday.

Semb said a second operation was performed after the implant because of technical problems. He did not elaborate, but said the two operations lasted more than five hours.

Repository research unearths valuable data on oil, water

By CARROLL WILSON
Accent West

Thousand-page reports issued in December may or may not enable the U.S. Department of Energy to show whether tons of the nation's high-level nuclear waste would best be stored in the Texas Panhandle.

The draft environmental assessments, prepared on sites in Deaf Smith County and Swisher County, along with sites in Utah, Nevada, Mississippi and Louisiana, have already drawn the kind of political criticism expected by researchers when they began their collection of data in 1977.

And since the Deaf Smith County site is listed among the favorites for more extensive DOE scrutiny, the political debate here has intensified.

At public hearings on the draft assessments - documents containing hundreds of charts and maps and diagrams and written in the several languages of scientists - attention has focused primarily on the trade-offs which Deaf Smith County and the nation would have to accept if the waste dump is located between Hereford, Vega and Canyon. Only scant attention has been paid to the core of information included in the assessment for Deaf Smith County and the other sites.

At a hearing before the U.S. Senate committee on environment and public works subcommittee on nuclear regulations in February, for example, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower was unspecific in charges made against the consultants who prepared the assessment using taxpayer money.

Hightower characterized them as "a bunch of consultants who didn't want to get any manure on their Gucci's" by coming to talk to area residents. He said the assessments were inappropriate and made by consultants who had preconceived notions they reinforced with their data.

Hightower's charge is partially true, according to researchers, especially in reference to the methods used to collect information about some parts of the Deaf Smith County environment.

But, his criticism is far from the mark on several important subjects which have to do with the panhandle of the past, present and future.

For its faults, the research effort to see whether nuclear waste should be buried here has unearthed an all new core of valuable information about this part of Texas. It is information which probably never would have been provided were it not for the government's search for a nuclear waste dump site.

There is, then, intrinsic value in the study itself, regardless of whether it is useful in what may ultimately be a political, not a scientific, decision on where to locate a dump site, according to Dr. E.G. Wermund of the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology, the man who has headed up the most important studies in the assessment process.

Wermund, weathered and mustachioed, is a geologist by trade, a man more inclined to wear heavy boots than Gucci's, a man who looks more at home in the oil patch than in his Austin office.

It has been Wermund's task for seven years to map out and oversee the production of basic scientific research into the part of Texas Panhandle you don't see.

Below the flat acres and acres of grain sorghum, wheat and vegetables, below the grain elevators and railroad tracks, underneath the churches and homes, what is under there?

That was the essential question posed to Wermund seven years ago by DOE contractors.

It's not the kind of question that can be answered by strolling across the High Plains in Gucci's and talking to farmers.

At that time, in fact, Wermund and fellow researchers had only the sketchiest notion of what the vast area under the plains stretching from Amarillo almost to Lubbock looked like. The subterranean region has been called the Palo Duro Basin.

What they faced was putting together a map of the geology of that part of the panhandle. And that meant understanding the location of all kinds of resources. Where might there be oil? Where might there be natural gas? Where was water and where did it run? Was there any uranium, potash or any other potentially valuable natural resources buried beneath the flat plains? And, specifically, was there enough salt in thick enough layers that something could be buried in it and be expected to remain stable for thousands of years?

The picture Wermund was expected to produce, then, was a snapshot of what the substrata looks like today and a snapshot of what it could be expected to look like far in the future.

The project began with only a handful of data.

"Prior to this study, one small article by John Nicholson of Amarillo described the geometry of the Palo Duro Basin and that was published in the 1960's," Wermund said. "Then, in essence, there had been nothing since then."

For years, there had been speculation that the Palo Duro Basin might just might - be rife with pockets of oil and gas, perhaps rivaling the rich Anadarko Basin to the north of Amarillo. But very few companies and only a handful of wildcaters were willing to bet money on it.

Even after the 1973 Arab oil embargo pushed up prices for domestic crude and spawned a new interest in petroleum production, few firms staked out the Palo Duro Basin for prospecting. Fewer than a dozen wells were drilled, primarily in the area around Canyon.

In the seven years since DOE hired the Bureau of Economic Geology to examine the basin in detail, the bureau has put 80 manyears of work in an effort to map the Palo Duro Basin.

The study began, Wermund said, with a look at what wells had already been drilled in the basin and what the well logs indicated the subsurface looked like. The bureau bought seismic data and drilled its own wells, pulling core samples at each site to determine the parameters of the basin. Other studies involved mapping the Ogallala water formation, the main aquifer which provides water for panhandle cities and panhandle farms. And still others involved prospecting for resources other than oil and gas.

The resulting study shows that the Palo Duro Basin is a huge filled-in underground lake. At one time, salt water lapped its shores, the northern-most being near what is now Amarillo. As the waters receded and the lake refilled, salt was deposited in thick layers along the shorelines, those areas which today are at a somewhat shallow depth below the surface.

Wermund said the work of seven years had produced a complete picture of the basin. It is the kind of picture which many major oil companies try to produce when they are interested in prospecting for petroleum.

The publication of data gathered in the DOE study by bureau scientists, however, has made the information on oil and gas possibilities in the basin available to anyone. And that, said Wermund, is no mean by-product of the effort.

What that means is that oilmen who could not afford to pay for a full picture of a virtually untapped basin now know where they might find oil and gas.

Due to the studies, exploration activity has spurred in the basin, Wermund said, primarily along the northern rim of the basin.

"In that sense, it has been a contribution because it helped stimulate the exploration and at the same time helped people avoid the expense of many many dry holes, and all that is in the public domain" he said.

What the data indicates is that along the northern rim of the basin, there are potential reservoirs of petroleum.

"What it amounts to is that back in the Pennsylvanian and early Permian these materials shed off, probably the old Amarillo uplift, and since have been buried and they are located in a good location for rocks to develop oil," he said. "So that trend, which is presently being explored in Oldham and Deaf Smith counties, has yielded some oil."

That's the good news from the studies.

"There is a problem that the basin is rather cold," Wermund said. "So it hasn't generated tremendously large amounts of hydrocarbons. There are still some reservoirs that will yield some oil; but at the present time there is not a belief that it will yield big oil like the Permian Basin oils."

Wermund said the geologic data indicates the Palo Duro Basin will never produce produce large amounts of oil.

The environmental assessment estimates that oil production from the interior of the basin will be of negligible value in the future, and that natural gas production will be worth about $193 million and states flatly that "the potential for undiscovered hydrocarbons and their development is low."

The basin, then will yield little oil and gas. But, the bureau studies also focused on other minerals.

Wermund said there is potential for mining of uranium in the basin, but the price for uranium on the market will have to rise considerably before it is worth mining.

"You would need far more demand and far more power plants before that would happen," he said, and even then the potential in the Palo Duro Basin doesn't compare with the potential of South Texas uranium sites.

The highest potential for uranium is in southeast Swisher County and in Briscoe County, he said.

Other than uranium, Wermund said, the basin contains little of potential value.

"We looked for copper," he said, "but we never found any good copper. However, that information is valuable. Negative information is better than no information."

Potentially the most important information provided by the studies has to do with the future availability of the single most valuable resource in the Texas Panhandle - water.

The amount of water in the basin and where the water is were two questions of central importance to the studies since water can have a devastating effect on salt and a nuclear waste dump site is supposed to be carved out of salt.

What the bureau learned about water under the high plains is important and overturns several previously held convictions about the Ogallala aquifer and other aquifers.

It has long been believed, for example, that the Ogallala aquifer is hundred feet of gravel and sand. Some people do have windmills in there and they don't understand what they have."

Because the Deaf Smith County site is a finalist in the government search for a waste repository, other studies on the potential of the various aquifers will continue.

Wermund said other information will be gathered that will specifically indicate the replenishment level of the Ogallala, the locations of valuable Santa Rosa water and the potential of the previously unknown aquifer on the rolling plains.

In addition to examining the subsurface, other contractors with DOE have provided new information on what happens above ground in the Texas Panhandle.

Papers have been published as a result of the studies on the weather and its effect on erosion. Enough data is available already, Wermund said, that agencies or groups could begin to plan to mitigate such weather-related phenomenon as flooding and erosion.

"We know better now whether winds will come and how the transport of dust goes on," he said. The data indicates the general direction of winds and helps determine intensities.

Data on flooding gives general indications of where flooding will occur and under what circumstances, he said.

Studies show cooler climate destined for depletion because it is not replenished to any significant extent by seepage.

"We are beginning to understand there is more replenishment than we had thought," Wermund said. "It is not a totally losing situation."

In addition, the bureau gathered a great deal more information on the Santa Rosa formation, which many farmers and ranchers have believed is less a formation than an isolated and elusive pool of brackish water located intermittently underground.

Efforts in the past to find Santa Rosa water have been hit-or-miss at best. Fast running out of water, the city of Canyon, for example, invested in a wildcat effort in the late 1970's to find Santa Rosa water for municipal customers. The efforts failed, seeming to point up the unpredictability of the aquifer.

"We feel we have a better understanding of where the principal sands will be, where to drill," Wermund said. "I don't think it will be true that it will be unpredictable."

Wermund said efforts to tap the Santa Rosa have been limited in the past, because of dependence on the Ogallala, and the lack of information has made it seem that Santa Rosa water is found only by trial and error.

"It looks like there are channels of sand," he said. "We can develop linear trends of sand that have greater productivity than others."

The studies have also pinpointed channels of Santa Rosa water which are less saline than others, making them a better bet for drilling for consumption and irrigation.

If the bureau has produced good news about the Ogallala and the Santa Rosa, then, it has also produced some bad news about another aquifer that panhandle residents have hoped might be a kind of aquifer of last resort when the Ogallala runs dry.

"One of the things people have talked about in the area is the hope of getting water out of brown dolomite," Wermund said. "There is a deep aquifer that lays below all the salts, and they had talked about it that one day, given special economics, they might hit the deep aquifer and desalinate it."

"That doesn't look very promising. We're talking 4-6,000 feet deep, and those waters are not saline in the sense that the ocean is saline, but they are about four to five times as saline."

"So that does not look very promising. We know now there is very little potential."

Beyond looking at aquifers which geologists have known about for years in the basin, the bureau also discovered and mapped another aquifer, one which could be tapped by South Plains cities which are already experiencing the decline in the Ogallala.

"There is a whole system of a minor aquifer that is off the High Plains and down in the rolling plains that starts around Briscoe County and runs toward Lubbock," Wermund said. "There are big alluvial deposits that all kind of coalesce off the caprock that were not even mapped before this. So we have done some preliminary work that if followed up could be helpful. We find a fanlike deposit with streams that are several

The studies for the assessment also project what the panhandle's weather may be like 10,000 years from now. Based on projections, the study concludes that the climate here will be cooler and wetter. And that means, the study says, that the panhandle will be greener and more lush.

Other studies associated with the search for a waste site and included in summary form in the assessment address everything about the panhandle from the condition of housing to endangered species. Some of the information was taken from sources such as the Census Bureau and represents nothing new. Other information is as new as that gathered by the Wermund group.

And more information is due, not only on the aquifers of the basin, but on other more specific characteristics of Deaf Smith County. Another $5 billion is allocated by the government to look more thoroughly at the site here and in the other states.

But even if the DOE search here is called off, Wermund believes the study has been worthwhile and valuable.

"If you asked for a cost-benefit analysis on the things we have done so far I think I could do it," Wermund said. "Just in terms of oil and gas exploration - and more oil will be found down the road - I think that would be enough to justify it. For the dollars spent, we have a great deal of knowledge about the basin."

Realtors workshop conducted

A workshop on professional standards and code of ethics for Realtors was conducted last week in the Community Center as part of the continuing education program of the Hereford Board of Realtors.

Bob Burks of Amarillo, a member of the Texas Association of Realtors professional standards committee, was guest instructor at the workshop. Most of the active members of the Hereford board attended.

State having to address waste issue

Many products and services Texans use each day result in the production of low-level radioactive waste. Disposal of this waste is a problem that the state is having to deal with.

That's because on Jan. 1, 1986, federal law will require states to dispose of their own low-level radioactive waste within their own borders.

Low-level waste produced in Texas is now sent to commercial disposal sites in other states. But in 1986, these sites in South Carolina, Nevada, and Washington may legally refuse to accept low-level waste generated from other states.

In response to the federal law, the Texas Legislature created the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Disposal Authority in 1981. The authority is charged with establishing and operating a facility within Texas for the state's low-level waste. A site on state-owned land is most likely.

Because much of the state's low-level waste is generated by essential medical products and research, the Texas Medical Association supports the disposal authority's efforts to find an acceptable site.

Hospitals, laboratories, and educational institutions produce low-level radioactive waste through diagnostic testing, biomedical research, cancer treatment, and research with nuclear reactors.

Low-level waste also is produced by nuclear power plants and industries that use radioactive materials. The low-level waste produced by nuclear power plants does not include used nuclear fuel, which is classified as high-level waste and is regulated by the federal government. Industries generate low-level waste in making machinery parts, plastics, smoke detectors, emergency exit signs, and industrial gauges and in X-raying welds for oil and gas pipelines.

During 1982, Texas produced about 30,000 cubic feet of low-level radioactive waste. By 1990, the state will produce about 139,000 cubic feet annually. Of this amount, 105,000 cubic feet will come from the South Texas and Comanche Peak nuclear power plants, which will be operating by then. By 1990, the estimated low-level waste produced every year in Texas would cover one football field three feet deep, according to the Texas Department of Health.

The word "pagan" originally meant a villager or a rustic, and comes from the Latin "paganus".

School to sponsor carnival

The public is invited to attend St. Anthony's School Carnival, Bazaar and Auction scheduled from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Games, booths, arcades and cartoons will be available and also included in the afternoon's festivities will be a cake walk, toy walk, dart booth, and face painting.

Lunch will be served throughout the afternoon with sausage and cheese for sale. Several items donated by local merchants will be auctioned.

All money raised from the carnival and auction will go to the school to help continue Christian education.

TOPS hosts fun night

Randy Williams of Crime Stoppers was the featured speaker when members of all of the TOPS clubs met Monday for Fun Night at the Community Center.

Williams described the cost to keep inmates in prisons and the importance of neighbors watching for suspicious occurrences.

The best losers were announced from three clubs. For Tops No. 941, Carleta Harkins was the best loser, and Anna Vogler and Sue Andrews were runners up. In TOPS No. 1011, Alice Gilleland was the best loser with Elva Devers as the runner up. Mary Ann Warren was the best loser for TOPS No. 576. Runners up were Maria Garcia and Alice Holguin.

The host club, TOPS No. 576, served refreshments to all in attendance.

Governor sets Clean Air Week

Governor Mark White has issued a proclamation designating the week of April 28 through May 4 as Clean Air Week in Texas.

Clean Air Week is sponsored by the American Lung Association of Texas and the Texas Air Control Board. Representatives of the sponsoring agencies who attended the signing ceremony were Mrs. Una Grace Nash, of Huntsville, who serves as president of the American Lung Association of Texas; Bill Stewart, Austin Executive Director, Texas Air Control Board; and Herbert Oxford, Ill., Beaumont, Texas Air Control Board Member.

The Lung Association is the nation's only voluntary public health agency playing a leadership role in national and state clean air issues.

The Texas Air Control Board is the official state air pollution agency. It is charged with regulating the quality of air in Texas through the implementation of controls specified in the Federal Clean Air Act and the Texas Clean Air Act.

The theme of 1985 Clean Air Week is "Transportation and Air Quality" with special emphasis on fuel switching and car tampering. Both are illegal practices. Fuel switching involves the introduction of leaded fuel into a vehicle equipped with a catalytic converter. Car tampering is the disablement of any component of an emission control system, regardless of the circumstances, whether they are deliberate or inadvertent.

When catalytic converters are functioning properly the amount of hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and oxides of nitrogen released into the air is substantially reduced.

Estimated health care costs attributed to air pollution amount to $16 billion annually.

When loss of worker productivity because of illness due to air pollution is added to this figure the costs soar to an estimated $40 billion.

For information about air pollution contact the American Lung Association of Texas, 7701 N. Lamar, Suite 104, Austin, Texas 78752 or call toll-free 1-800-252-LUNG.

Herd beats Palo Duro, eyes Lubbock Friday

The Hereford Whitefaces hit Palo Duro pitcher Marty Boeka and walked around him for five runs in the first inning Tuesday en route to an 8-6 District 3-SA baseball victory over the Dons.

After the first-inning scoring burst, the Whitefaces picked up another run in the fourth and two in the seventh. Palo Duro, meanwhile, crossed home plate once in the second inning and four times in the fourth. The Dons also scored another tally in the bottom of the seventh.

Kurt Simon hit a shot over the fence for a solo home run in the seventh.

The win lifts Hereford to 2-4 in league play and 3-4 overall. Palo Duro fell to 3-5 and 6-9.

Leading 5-0 at the end of one and 6-1 in the fourth inning, the Whitefaces allowed the Dons back in the ball game. PD's Jimmy Winn hit a two-run homer to pull his team to within 6-3. Oscar Villarreal also drove in two runs with a single with two out.

Mike Scott tagged out Villarreal trying to steal second to end the inning.

Both pitchers went the distance. Chet Bunch, now 2-1, picked up the win for Hereford. Boeka suffered the loss and watched his record drop to 0-1.

Scoring runs for the Herd were Paul Maes, Bunch (2), Scott, Stefan Hacker, Simon (2) and Philip Webster. Hitting for Hereford were Bunch, Scott (2), Webster, Simon, Suarez (2) and Doug Evans.

The Whitefaces will be in action again on Friday. Lubbock will be in town for the contest. Originally, the game was scheduled to be played in Lubbock, but heavy rains forced the clubs' first game to be played in Lubbock instead of Hereford.

In SWC baseball

Longhorns surprisingly sliding

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas, a pre-season No. 1 choice in college baseball, has skidded to 4-5 in the Southwest Conference and may not even make the postseason tournament of the four top SWC teams.

An SWC championship for the team that returned all but four players from the 1984 runners-up in the College World Series seems out of the question.

Texas, 36-10 on the season, is tied with Texas Christian for fifth place in the SWC, and only four teams advance to the tournament May 17-19.

The Longhorns' conference record is the second-worst showing ever by a Cliff Gustafson-coached Texas team at this stage of the season. The 1978 team was 3-6 and finished at 12-12 and did not reach the playoffs.

To have any chance at heading off Baylor, Arkansas, Houston and Texas A&M for the SWC title, Texas probably must win 11 of its last 12 games, nine of which are at home. Just to qualify for the tournament, Texas probably would have to win seven of 12.

"I'm sure we can win 11 out of 12, if not 12 out of 12, because nine of those games are here," said Texas pitching ace Greg Swindell. "We need to put everything together, but I think we can pull it out. We've got the talent."

One theory for Texas' collapse is that Gustafson may have too much talent as he has yet to determine which are his best players. In 46 games, he has penciled in 36 different lineups, and he has used eight designated hitters.

Clutch hitting has been a problem in that Texas stranded 14 in a 10-3 loss to Baylor and 10 in a 4-2 defeat by TCU. In all five losses, the margin of error was so small that a key hit at any time could have changed the outcome. Although Texas has out-hit its opponents in the five defeats — 282 to .252 — the Longhorns' hits haven't come with men on base. Texas has hit into 15 double plays in the nine games.

The mainstay of last year's bullpen, Eric Boudreaux, was an academic casualty, and Texas has just one save, from Swindell. Pitcher Wade Phillips has been out with arm problems.

"We still believe we're going to win the conference. Maybe we're just too dumb to realize (the truth)," said Scott Vondenkamp, who is 0-7 in the SWC this year after batting .343 last season.

Texas has committed 10 errors to its opponents' two in the five SWC losses.

"All we need is a positive attitude," said Gustafson. "So much has gone wrong that we're playing tentative, as if we expect things to go

Nolan Richardson new Hog boss

Tulsa coach to replace Sutton

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Athletic Director Frank Broyles says he talked to basketball coaches from coast to coast and border to border before choosing as Eddie Sutton's successor Nolan Richardson, who coached at Tulsa University, just 90 miles from Fayetteville.

Richardson, who becomes the first black head coach in the Southwest Conference, compiled a 118-37 record at Tulsa. He took the Golden Hurricane to the NCAA Tournament three times and the National Invitation Tournament once, winning it in his first year.

The job was offered to Richardson on Tuesday morning, Broyles said, hours before the new coach was introduced at a news conference. The announcement came a week after Sutton quit to replace Joe B. Hall at Kentucky. Sutton guided Arkansas to nine straight NCAA appearances.

Richardson, 43, said Sutton made the Arkansas program one of the country's best and was responsible for raising the quality of SWC basketball.

"I do not have maybe the size feet to fit his shoes," Richardson said. "I hope there is no one alive that will. But I do have the size that fits Nolan Richardson's shoes."

Broyles said that he offered the job only to Richardson. The former Tulsa coach and Villanova's Rollie Massimino were the finalists for the job. Villanova won the national championship this year.

Simplicity figures in golfer's game

By ED SHEARER AP Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Mark O'Meara has set a rather simple goal for the 49th Masters golf tournament.

"I would like to play well enough to make the cut and have a shot, just have a chance, on Sunday," O'Meara said Tuesday.

"If I get to swinging the way I know how, I think I'll do well," he said.

"I've proven I can win and winning is like a learning process. You have got to learn how to win out here."

O'Meara, who finished second to Tom Watson on the 1984 money list, won his first professional title at Milwaukee last season and then put together victories on consecutive weekends this year in the Crosby and Hawaiian tournaments.

He's been in a slump since those successive triumphs, missing cuts in three consecutive events and placing 65th and 17th in two others.

A major golfing event isn't the five-year contract Sutton had, Broyles said. Richardson, asked what role money played in his leaving Tulsa, said, "Money plays a part of every decision. I don't think it was the main topic, but it was close."

Broyles said he wanted a coach who was compassionate, a teacher, a coach who knew the value of the team concept, a winner and a coach who would continue Arkansas' honest program.

"Some of the greatest coaches in this country have expressed a desire to be considered for this job,"

Broyles said. "Because of the widespread interest in this position...I had to be convinced in my own heart that he was the No. 1 candidate. After considering all the possibilities, I am convinced he is the right man for the job."

A graduate of the University of Texas-El Paso, Richardson played professional football with the San Diego Chargers and professional basketball with the Dallas Chaparrals of the now defunct American Basketball Association.

player to beat at Augusta in recent years, but he hasn't won a tournament this season. He has won the Masters twice and shared second place three times.

Jack Nicklaus, who owns a record five Masters titles and 17 major professional championships, has only one victory in the last two years.

Two of the favorites of the gallery undoubtedly will be Arnold Palmer, a four-time winner, and South African Gary Player, who had won the Masters three times.

Sports stars at observance

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Mickey Mantle took a few obligatory swings at the plate and Olympian Carl Lewis threw out the first pitch in the Astrodome to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the "Eighth Wonder of the World."

Mantle and other superstars who have performed in the Astrodome were on hand for pre-game ceremonies Tuesday night prior to Houston's season-opening 2-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Mantle said his appearance was the first since he was reinstated to baseball by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth recently.

"You don't want to even be kicked out of your favorite bar," Mantle said.

"Everybody would be wondering why. I was wondering why. Some people might even think I was doing something wrong."

"In that respect, it's really nice not to have it over your head anymore."

Former Commissioner Bowie Kuhn banned Mantle and Willie Mays from all associations with baseball in 1983 because of their public relations duties with Atlantic City casinos.

To shaving points

Tulane students admit guilt

By AUSTIN WILSON
AP Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two Tulane students have pleaded guilty to conspiring to bribe players to shave points in the Feb. 20 basketball game with Memphis State.

Bobby Thompson, 21, of New Orleans, a member of the basketball team, and David Rothenberg, 22, a student from Wilton, Conn., entered the pleas Tuesday as part of an agreement to cooperate with the district attorney.

Criminal District Judge Alvin Oser set July 9 for sentencing.

Thompson pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to commit sports bribery, Rothenberg to two counts of conspiracy and one count of possession of cocaine, Oser said.

Additionally, defense lawyer Ralph Capitelli said Rothenberg would "testify to the truth" if called as a witness against others in the case.

The conspiracy count carries a maximum sentence of 2½ years in prison and a fine of $2,500. The possession count carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a fine of $5,000.

Rothenberg and Thompson were two of the eight men — three basketball players, three students and two non-students — accused of a score-fixing scheme.

The investigation led to the discovery of NCAA recruiting violations, the resignation of Coach Ned Fowler and two of his assistants, and a plan to drop Tulane's basketball program.

In a related development on Tuesday, Oser ordered the university to preserve game films and statistical records of the past four basketball seasons, since they may be used in the defense of two other players.

Oser set a hearing for Monday to decide whether Tulane will be ordered to produce those records for lawyers representing David Dominique, 19, of New Iberia, La. and John "Hot Rod" Williams, 23, of Sorrento, La.

"We are hearing that Tulane has ended its basketball program, and we don't want defense evidence to wind up in a warehouse somewhere where it can't be found," said Edward Castaing Jr., who represents Dominique.

He said the records may help to show that Williams and Dominique did nothing wrong, as well as help cast doubt on the testimony of two other players who have been granted immunity — forwards Clyde Eads and Jon Johnson.

Williams and Dominique are each accused of two counts of taking bribes and three counts of conspiring to fix games.

Others accused in the scandal are Gary Kranz, 21, of New Rochelle, N.Y., and Mark Olesky, 21, of Fair Lawn, N.J., both Tulane students; Roland Ruiz, 48, a convicted local bookmaker; and Craig Bourgeois, 23, of New Orleans.

RR Club Day slated

After an absence of one year, Red Raider Club Day returns to Hereford April 25, it was announced this week by Dave Hopper, Hereford RRC chairman.

Activities start at 1 p.m. with a golf tournament at Pitman Municipal Golf Course. A social hour is set for 6 p.m. and dinner will start at 7 p.m. at Hereford Country Club.

The Raider Day program is open to all Texas Tech boosters. A fee of $30 will cover the green fee, cart rental, social hour and dinner. Non-golfers can pay $12.50 for the social hour and dinner.

Format for the golf tourney will be a scramble composed of three local golfers and one Texas Tech coach, university official or Lubbock RRC member.

Tech Athletic Director John Conley and Raider coaches will speak after the dinner, outlining different phases of the athletic programs at Tech. Gerald Myers, coach of the SWC champion basketball team, is scheduled to be at the dinner.

Others who have already signed up for the event include Jess Stiles, assistant athletic director; Taylor McNeel, assistant football coach and recruiting coordinator; Jim Wall, assistant basketball coach; Gary Kimbley, new RRC president; Leete Jackson, vice chairman of the RRC; Joe Hornaday, sports information director; Clovis Hale, assistant football coach; and a number of other Tech representatives and RRC members from Lubbock.

Golfers can telephone entries to Mike Horton (364-2782) or mail them to Dave Hopper, Box 150, Hereford. Deadline for golfing entries is Monday, April 22. Non-golfers should contact Hopper to make reservations for dinner.

"I never tested it before," Mantle said of his banning. "I figured if I was banned, I was banned from everything."

Mantle said he still plans no extensive return to baseball and has no plans to participate in old timer's games.

"I'm no hitting coach," Mantle said. "Billy Martin told me 'Mickey, if we ever need a coach to teach guys to strike out we'll call you.'"

As for old-timers' games, Mantle said "Some of those players look pretty bad in their uniforms and I'm sure I would too."

Former University of Houston basketball player Elvin Hayes, and former Astros J.R. Richard, Joe Morgan and Jimmy Wynn were other stars of the Astrodome's past to participate in the pre-game celebration.

A birthday card billed as the world's largest, was unfolded accordion-like onto the Astrodome floor. A Shrine Circus parade also preceded the game.

The Astrodome was completed April 9, 1965 as the brainchild of former Houston Mayor Roy Hofheinz.

Hofheinz, who died in 1982, and R.E. "Bob" Smith helped obtain a National League franchise for the city in 1960 after Hofheinz dazzled the National League owners with a scale model of the domed stadium.

The Astrodome was constructed at an estimated cost of $38 million and was the structural wonder of its day. It currently is undergoing a $44 million refurbishing project that includes new seating and a $4.2 million scoreboard with a video display.

Tactical maneuver brings win in Dallas

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — What a difference a week makes on the professional tennis tour.

Only a week ago American Tim Mayotte was a 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 loser to Andres Gomez of Ecuador in Chicago.

But Mayotte changed tactics to more of a serve-and-volley game and came away a straight set 7-6, 6-4, 6-2 winner in Tuesday night's first round of the $500,000 Buick WCT Finals.

"I thought I could beat him," said Mayotte. "I just changed tactics. I was staying back too much in Chicago."

Mayotte, a former NCAA singles champion from Stanford and the No. 16 ranked player in the world, will play Sweden's Mats Wilander in Thursday's quarterfinals.

In Tuesday night's marathon, five-set second match between Swedish Davis Cup teammates, Stefan Edberg upset Anders Jarryd 1-6, 6-2, 6-2, 5-7 and 6-3.

Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia will be the Friday night opposition for Edberg, who is ranked No. 18 in the world to No. 6 for Jarryd.

Edberg and Jarryd paired together as the doubles team that clinched the Davis Cup for Sweden in 1984.

The 19-year-old Edberg, who won the junior grand slam in 1983, also earned the gold medal at the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles when tennis was a demonstration sport.

"It was a long battle to beat Anders," said Edberg. "I knew it would be. All of our matches have been tough."

It was the second time Edberg had beaten Jarryd.

Major League roundup

Vida Blue returns in style

By BEN WALKER

AP Sports Writer

It took only two pitches. It was enough to get Vida Blue back into the victory column, a place he hasn't been in a long time.

"I loved it, hearing that Blue, Blue, Blue cheer again," beamed Blue, the winning pitcher as the San Francisco Giants beat the San Diego Padres 4-3 Tuesday in a National League season opener.

Blue's last victory in the major leagues came in 1982. A lot has happened to him since then.

He was released by the Kansas City Royals in August 1983 with an 0-5 record. Later that year, he pleaded guilty to a cocaine charge and spent three months in jail. He was suspended for the 1984 season by then-Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Mets 6, Cardinals 5

Gary Carter endeared himself to New York fans in his first game as a Met by belting a home run with one out in the bottom of the 10th inning to beat St. Louis.

Carter, acquired by the Mets from Montreal during the off-season, got off to a rugged start in his New York debut. He was hit by two pitches and was charged with a passed ball before his game-winning blow off Neil Allen.

Neither New York's Dwight Gooden, at 20 years old the youngest opening-day pitcher in baseball history, nor Joaquin Andujar of St. Louis was particularly sharp.

Cubs 2, Pirates 1

Rick Sutcliffe continued his mastery over the National League as Chicago, the defending East Division champions, opened the season with a victory at home.

Sutcliffe, the 1984 Cy Young winner when he went 16-1, pitched 7 2-3 innings for his 15th straight regular-season triumph.

Astros 2, Dodgers 1

Nolan Ryan pitched seven strong innings in Houston to get the victory, while Los Angeles starter Fernando Valenzuela was victimized by two unearned runs and took the loss.

Ryan gave up three hits and struck out four, raising his all-time leading strikeout total to 3,878, three more than Philadelphia's Steve Carlton.

Ryan retired 16 of 17 batters from the second inning through the seventh. Frank DiPino relieved to start the eighth and got a save.

Braves 6, Phillies 0

Starter Rick Mahler, reliever Bruce Sutter and first-year Manager Eddie Haas enjoyed Atlanta's first game of the season. Starter Steve Carlton, shortstop Steve Jeltz and new Manager John Felske did not fare so well for Philadelphia.

Mahler gave up three hits over seven innings for the victory. Sutter, the free agent who left St. Louis and signed a six-year, $10-million contract with the Braves, retired all six batters he faced, striking out three, to preserve the three-hitter.

The Phillies committed six errors, three by Jeltz, in the 37-degree weather in Philadelphia. Carlton lost for the eighth time in 10 opening-day assignments.

Cleveland qualifies for playoffs

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD

AP Sports Writer

The victory that gave the Cleveland Cavaliers their first playoff berth since 1978 was a lot like the way their season has gone.

The Cavs, who started by losing 19 of their first 21 National Basketball Association games, rallied from far behind in the second half to rout New Jersey 114-100 Tuesday night. Cleveland outscored the Nets 56-28 after trailing 72-58 in the third period.

Bullets 130, Hawks 110

Cliff Robinson scored 31 points and Jeff Malone 22 for Washington against Atlanta, which dropped out of playoff contention.

The Bullets never trailed after Robinson scored 12 points in the first period to help put them ahead 34-28.

76ers 113, Celtics 104

Philadelphia earned a 3-3 regular-season split with archrival Boston behind Moses Malone's 22 points and 19 rebounds.

Lakers 148, Nuggets 119

Los Angeles completely dominated Denver in a battle of division chamions. Pistons 107, Knicks 97 Detroit clinched a home-court advantage in the first round of the playoffs by overcoming a miserable first-half shooting performance.

Kings 117, Mavericks 105

Dallas, struggling to hold fourth place and a home-court advantage in the Western Conference, lost for the fifth time in its last six games as Mike Woodson had 27 points and Eddie Johnson 25 for Kansas City.

Trail Blazers 116, Suns 100

Portland outscored Phoenix 21-6 over the last 6:13 of the first quarter to lead 33-16, then coasted to victory.

Rockets 124, Spurs 103

Houston had seven players in double figures, led by Rodney McCray with 18 points, to beat San Antonio.

The Spurs, who got 29 points from Artis Gilmore and 26 from Mike Mitchell, led 32-26 after one period, but a 14-2 spurt helped the Rockets build a 58-51 lead at halftime.

Jazz 123, Clippers 104

Jeff Wilkins scored 16 of his 22 points in the fourth quarter as Utah turned a close game with Los Angeles into a rout. The Jazz led only 83-79 entering the final period, but a 34-18 spurt gave Utah a comfortable lead.

Block, Dole in no dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — When two Cabinet officers offered differing views of the Reagan administration's position on "cargo preference" legislation in Congress, it appeared a first-class feud had erupted between Agriculture Secretary John R. Block and Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole.

But by last weekend, soothing lotion had been applied in hopes of preventing further political bruises. Each was right, went the explanation, although some observers remained unconvinced.

Last Wednesday, Block called a news conference to announce "the administration's very strong and solid support for legislation which will provide for altering the cargo preference rules."

The object of several bills in Congress is to exempt federally subsidized commercial sales of farm products from a requirement that at least 50 percent of the commodities be carried in American-registered ships. The reason is that U.S. flag ships are more expensive to use than vessels under foreign flags.

A few hours later, Mrs. Dole issued a statement saying that she understood the White House was not at this time supporting the legislation referred to by Block.

The legislation and the administration's involvement stem from a U.S. District Court ruling on Feb. 21, which held that shipments of agricultural commodities financed under the Agriculture Department's "blended credit" program are subject to provisions of the 1954 Cargo Preference Act.

As a result, USDA was forced to suspend $536 million worth of credit for the sale of grain and other products to Egypt, Iraq, Morocco and Tunisia.

Block was specific about what he said was the administration's policy regarding the legislation to overturn the court ruling.

But so was Mrs. Dole, who said it was the understanding of the Transportation Department that the administration "is not at this time supporting legislation to change the inter-relationship between the cargo preference laws and the blended credit program."

The next day, on Thursday, White House spokesman Larry Speakes insisted that there was no dispute between Block and Mrs. Dole because both departments agree that the law should be returned to its status before the court ruling. They differed only in whether that effort should be made through a court appeal or through legislation, he said.

On Friday, Block told a group of reporters during a wide-ranging interview that he and Mrs. Dole really are on the same wave length.

"I don't see a real contradiction in it," Block said.

The Dole-Block exchanges prompted the National Association of Wheat Growers to observe that "baseball season doesn't start until today, but already we're being treated to the administration's version of 'who's on first' base, the old comedy routine.

Henry Neshem, president of the association, said President Reagan should "clearly reaffirm his support" for the legislation to restore the cargo preference exemption to the blended-credit program.

Says USDA economists

Net farm income to fall sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department economists are holding to earlier predictions that net farm income will tumble sharply this year, despite some increase in cash receipts from the sale of crops and livestock.

Thus, with expenses holding about steady and the value of farm inventories expected to decline, net farm income in 1985 is expected to drop from its overall 1984 level.

The latest assessment of farm prospects was included Monday in a new outlook report by the department's Economic Research Service.

Although the farm economy "is expected to remain sluggish" this year, there are many things that could alter the situation as the season progresses, the report said. Those include the weather and its impact on world crop production, U.S. interest rates and farm production costs.

Foreign ownership at 1 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign ownership of U.S. agricultural land increased last year but overall still represented slightly more than 1 percent of the nation's total agricultural land, says an annual report by the Agriculture Department.

In all, about 14 million acres were owned by foreign interests, up from 13.7 million reported in 1983, the report said. Congress in 1978 ordered that foreign owners report their holdings annually.

Forest land accounts for 57 percent of all foreign-owned acreage; cropland, 14 percent; pasture and other agricultural uses, 24 percent; and non-agricultural and unreported uses, 5 percent.

Corporations own 83 percent of the foreign-held land; partnerships, 9 percent; and individuals, 7 percent. The remainder is held by estates, trusts, association, institutions and others.

Foreign owners from Canada, the United Kingdom, Hong Kong, West Germany and the Netherlands Antilles own 73 percent of the foreign-held land, the report said.

Final participation in government acreage programs also will bear on 1985 farm incomes. Preliminary figures announced last week by USDA showed that farmers plan to idle 34 million acres of cropland this year, a 27 percent jump from the 1984 programs for wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice.

In all, agency economists say that cash receipts from the sales of crops and livestock in 1985 will be in the range of $140 billion to $145 billion. That would be up from $139 billion to $143 billion in 1984.

A couple of months ago the economists were saying that 1985 cash receipts could be about $2 billion more than the latest figures show. Statistically, however, the change by itself does not indicate a major shift in financial prospects.

One problem in comparing projections for 1985 is that the readings for 1984 are highly tentative and are expressed as ranges, not as single figures.

Besides cash receipts, the agency uses other values in computing total gross farm income. Those include government payments, non-money income such as value of commodities and shelter used by families, and changes in the value of farm inventories.

Overall, total gross farm income in 1985 is expected to be in the range of $160 billion to $165 billion, down from $169 billion to $173 billion in 1984. After deducting total expenses, net farm income for 1985 could be in the range of $20 billion to $25 billion, the report said.

In 1984, when bumper crops helped replenish skimpy farm inventories — which boosted gross income — net farm income was said to be in the range of $29 billion to $33 billion.

Another factor in this year's slip in gross income is the decline in government payments to farmers. In calendar 1984, those benefits were in the range of $7 billion to $10 billion. This year, they are forecast at $4 billion to $7 billion.

The main reason for the drop is the absence of PIK payments under 1985 acreage programs. Those payment-in-kind benefits made up about half of last year's government payments. All of the 1985 payments will be in cash.

"Direct cash payments may account for 3 percent to 4 percent of gross cash income, up from 2.7 percent in 1983 and roughly 2.3 percent in 1984," the report said. "The all-time high occurred in 1939 when cash payments accounted for 8.8 percent

Cotton planting slightly behind

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department report shows that cotton farmers have gotten off to a slow start in planting this year's crop.

The report said Monday that by April 7, only 7 percent of the intended acreage in major cotton states had been planted. A year earlier, 15 percent of the crop was planted. And based on long-term averages, 11 percent of the crop is planted by this time, the report said.

include grain and feed, and oilseed and (oilseed) products," the report said. "Less pronounced declines were experienced by the dairy, and sugar and tropical products sectors."

Most of the value drop was due to lower prices for wheat, rice, corn, feed, soybeans and soybean meal. However, the actual quantity of some products also declined, including wheat, wheat flour, barley, soybean meal, non-fat dry milk, fresh fruit and fresh vegetables.

Ag exports lagging

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. exports of agricultural products in the first five months of the fiscal year that began last Oct. 1 are running well behind year-earlier shipments, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said Tuesday that through February the value of shipments was $16.1 billion, down 6 percent from $17.1 billion during the same five months a year earlier.

"Commodity groups primarily contributing to this $1 billion decline of gross cash income."

When government payments last peaked in 1968 and 1969, they accounted for 7.2 percent of the gross cash income of farmers.

Net farm income, as used by USDA, measures the income generated by production in a specific year.

Another way the agency looks at farm income is to measure the "net cash income" during the year. That is simply the difference between gross cash income and gross cash expenses.

April 15 is the final day to obtain Federal Crop Insurance for 1985.

May 15 is the final date to certify wheat and other small grains with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Low estrogen

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am considering remarrying, but I have a problem that I just cannot discuss with anyone. Before my divorce, it had become almost impossible to have sex, since my vagina was so dry and the pain was almost unbearable.

I had a hysterectomy 15 years ago and was given hormones for six months, but my breasts swelled and were painful, so I quit taking hormones on my own. I tried various creams, but none helped. I don't dare risk trying again, because the pain lasts for days. Is there any help?

DEAR READER — Yes. See your doctor. If your vaginal area is as dry as you say, you probably need female hormones. When you took estrogen 15 years ago, you probably took a much larger dose than usually is prescribed today. Vaginal dryness is often a direct complication of decreased estrogen. You will continue to have problems unless the cause is corrected. Estrogenic creams or pills can be used. The success of your sex life in your next marriage may well depend upon getting proper treatment.

In addition to vaginal dryness, there are many other changes that can be successfully managed by estrogen replacement. These include a more favorable change in fatty-cholesterol particles to help protect against heart attacks, and protection against bone loss. No one should ever stop taking prescribed medicines without the knowledge of his or her personal physician.

I'm sending you The Health Letter, Special Report 22, Understanding the Menopause, to help you to understand the role of hormones in maintaining your health. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband had a triple bypass and is doing well. He no longer takes high blood pressure pills or any other pills, and he passed his stress test with flying colors. He goes to the hospital three times a week for exercise therapy.

The doctor just says he should keep up his therapy and watch his diet, use no salt and eat only a limited amount of beef. I'm amazed that he doesn't need any medication. Is a special diet a must? I know bypass patients who now eat everything. My husband wants to do what is best.

DEAR READER — I'm glad to hear that he has done so well. In some patients, controlled exercise programs are useful. Your husband probably has lost weight, which is a big help.

The patients who do the best after a bypass operation are those who follow a good preventive program like one that they should have followed before the surgery. This includes becoming thin, not smoking, exercising regularly and eating a proper diet.

Your husband should follow a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet and should avoid all animal fat, coconut oil and palm oil (often called vegetable oil in food products) and should limit his cholesterol intake. His diet should consist primarily of lean fish, lean pieces of chicken that have been skinned, skim milk fortified with 2 percent non-fat milk solids, vegetables, fruits and cereals prepared without adding fat.

Many patients who lose weight and correct their lifestyle eventually can get along without medicines.

4-H members to sponsor teen dance

A teen dance, sponsored by 4-H members participating in a county 4-H exchange to Shawane, Ws. this summer, is planned from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday at the KC Hall.

Music will be provided by Sound Barrier and cost will be $3.50 per person.

All teenagers are welcome to attend.

Divorces are dropping slightly from the 1981 all-time high — perhaps because the contentious parties can't even agree to separate.

RETIREMENT

It's a tough row to hoe.

Your Retirement Years can be Bountiful Ones with Investments that are Carefully Tended.

It may seem early, but retirement planning should begin when you start your first job. Investing in such options as Individual Retirement accounts, Certificates of Deposit or Mutual Fund Accounts will insure worry-free retirement, and the sooner you start saving, the more retirement funds you will be able to accumulate. Come in today and talk to a personal banker.

We go to great lengths (and widths) to please you!

This is Red Wing's best-selling boot by far. The Pecos boot is famous for its heel-huggin' fit and outstanding performance. Don't take our word for it. Come on in and try a pair of Pecos boots. Let your feet be the judge.

Polly's Pointers

Polly Fisher
Rubber glue

DEAR POLLY — I hauled out the garden hose the other day while getting my tools in shape for spring planting. The hose seems to have some small cracks in it, and I'm afraid of leaks. Is there any way these can be repaired? It's a good, expensive rubber hose. — MRS. B.P.

DEAR MRS. B.P. — You may be able to repair the cracks by covering them with a thick layer of rubber glue (check your hardware store). Spread the glue thickly over the crack, then bend the hose to allow some of the glue to fill the crack itself. Let it dry for 20 to 30 minutes, then apply a second layer over the top of the first (don't bend the hose this time). Let the second coat dry thoroughly, then overwrap the repair with plastic tape or electrical tape. Let the repair set for a couple of days before turning on the water. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — If your plastic-laminate counter top is stained or discolored, pour chlorine bleach on it. Wipe it all over the counter with a cloth, then rinse. The counter will be brightened and stains will be removed. (Polly's note: Always test on a hidden area first.)

If you use a deck mop to wash your floors and it's turning from white to gray, pour a little bleach into your cleaning water next time you wash the floor. The floor will be cleaner and your mop will come out looking new. — SUSAN

DEAR POLLY — Old shower curtains are very useful as mattress protectors on my children's beds. I put a plastic shower curtain between the mattress and the mattress pad to protect from accidental wettings or other stains.

Two torn cloth diapers can be sewn together into one thick nighttime diaper.

After the purchase of a queen-size water bed, our bedroom was too small for a chest and dresser. I stacked three plastic storage cubes inside the closet and put all of the clothes in them. The clothes are easier to locate stacked neatly than they were in dresser drawers and we have more room in our small bedroom. — JODY stains, especially from paint with an oil base, are toughies. You'll have to try removing the stain with turpentine. Test the turpentine on a hidden bit of seam allowance or hem first to make sure it won't ruin the color or the fabric. It should be OK on color-fast cotton.

DEAR POLLY — My 6-year-old decided to paint a picture using Mommy's oil paints — and while wearing her new party dress! How can I get oil-paint stains out of pink cotton fabric? — SHARON

DEAR SHARON — Dried-paint

Then remove as much stain as possible by sponging with turpentine, blotting up the paint as it is dissolved by the turpentine. Finally, treat the spot before laundering with a pre-wash product or by rubbing it in a little laundry detergent or with hand soap. Launder as usual.

I can't guarantee that the dress will be totally spot-free, but if anything can get the stains out, this treatment can. Good luck! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's a Pointer that will be quite a saving for anyone who does a lot of baking. When making cakes or cookies, skimp on the sugar. If the recipe calls for one cup of sugar, take out two tablespoons, maybe even a little more. Most cakes and cookies will still be sweet enough. — HELEN

DEAR HELEN — This is an excellent suggestion for anyone who wants to save money or cut down on sugar — and who among us wouldn't like to do both! Remember this for those high-sugar quick breads, too. As time goes on, you can usually increase the quantity of sugar you omit as you gradually get used to less-sweet baked goods. More of the flavor of the other ingredients comes through, too, when not disguised with so much sugary sweetness!

Your helpful Pointer earns you the Pointer of the Week award, a copy of my book "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." Others who would like this book can order it for $6.50. Make check payable to POLLY'S POINTERS and send to POLLY'S POINTERS, Box 1216, Dept. 55, Cincinnati, OH 45201. — POLLY

Polly will send you a Polly Dollar ($1) if she uses your favorite Pointer. Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

Adult Bible Study

An adult Bible study for men and women is being sponsored by Church Women United. The study will commence Sunday at 6 p.m. in the parlor of St. Thomas Episcopal Church with a study of the gospel of John. Sharon Duke, service coordinator for Deaf Smith County Library, will lead the study. Everyone is invited and encouraged to attend.

The word paradise comes from the Persian in which it meant "the parks of kings."

Two residents named Outstanding Young Women

Sherry Shylene Strain of Route 1 and Mary E. Riley of 1485 16th St. have been selected for inclusion in the 1984 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in their homes, their professions and their communities. Accomplishments such as these are the result of dedication, service and leadership — qualities which deserve to be recognized and remembered.

These two women, along with approximately 30,000 others from across the United States, will be presented in the prestigious annual awards volume. This volume also highlights the 51 women who, because of their contributions, have been selected as the outstanding young women of their respective states. It will also contain the Ten Outstanding Young Women of America.

Iceland

The Republic of Iceland is about the size of the state of Virginia and is located in the North Atlantic, its nearest neighbor being Greenland. The island is three-quarters wasteland: glaciers, lakes and a lava desert. There are also geysers and hot springs, and the climate is moderated by the Gulf Stream.

Rush registration scheduled

The Hereford Panhellenic Association will host its annual rush registration party at 2 p.m. Sunday in the home of Rhonda Nieman, 147 Ironwood. All senior girls who plan to attend college and their mothers are invited to attend.

At the party, senior girls will be told how they can register for rush at their prospective college and through the local Panhellenic Association.

College girls who are presently in sororities have been invited to attend. They will answer questions and speak on sisterhood, scholarship, finances and extracurricular activities of sororities.

It is essential that those girls who are interested in going through rush next fall register through Hereford Panhellenic so that recommendations may be sent to all the sororities represented at the college of their choice.

The earlier information can be received and recommendations sent, the better the girls will have in pledging a sorority.

Registration through the local association and through the college does not obligate a girl, but it can be invaluable in the event that she decides to go through rush.

The Hereford Panhellenic Association was organized in 1977 to help educate Hereford's college-bound girls about sororities and to help them join the sorority of their choice through the recommendation of local women.

The local association represents 14 national Greek letter sororities from 11 colleges and universities in four states. Three meetings are held annually, including a business meeting in January, a rush registration party for Senior girls in the spring and a rush information party for the new graduates in June.

Any woman holding membership in a Greek letter sorority is invited to join. The 1985 officers include Delores Foster, president; Susan Perrin, vice-president; Meredith Wilcox, secretary; Judy McCarter, treasurer; Marsha Winget and Ange Lauderback, rush and recommendation chairmen; Donna Tidmore, membership and hospitality chairman; Annette Morrow, yearbook chairman; and Susan Shaw, publicity.

Shortcourse scheduled Monday

The Deaf Smith County Extension Office is offering a Gardening Shortcourse at 7 p.m. Monday in the Banquet Room of the Community Center. The program is free of charge.

Dr. Roland Roberts, extension vegetable specialist, will be the guest speaker for the course that will concentrate on growing a vegetable garden in this area.

Husbands and wives are encouraged to attend. For further information contact the county extension office, 364-3573.

Musical drama 'Texas' to run June 12-Aug. 24

For the twentieth season, the lone cowboy on top of the 600 foot cliff will dip his flag to the audience seated below in the magnificent Palo Duro Canyon.

For the twentieth season, the lightning crack will seem to split the face of the canyon wall. For the twentieth season the ranchers and the cowmen will face the coming of the railroad to the Texas Panhandle in the 1880's. These striking effects, pointing up the story of pioneer life in the northern most part of Texas, have become famous as the musical drama, "Texas," by Paul Green.

The twentieth year of the production will open June 12 and run through August 24.

More than a million and a half people have seen the show.

A new director will be in charge, the third since the beginning. It will be Neil Hess, who has previously been the choreographer. He is incorporating many new ideas to make this anniversary season refreshing and exciting.

For the first time, a professional has been called in to design the sets. He is George Pettit of Dallas who has worked with Knott's Berry Farm for years and who is also a planner for the Six Flags and the Marriott theme parks. He also has planned most of the backgrounds for the crowning of the Queen of San Antonio Fiesta, and drawn the sketches for the sets for the Dallas Ballet Company. A graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology, he majored in Drama and Set Design. He starts with the script and believes in working closely with the director to find his style. In talking about the "Texas" plans, he mentioned that the biggest challenge will be to combine the old and new, to make the story come alive in new ways without destroying the continuity with the old. When asked how he felt about working in this area, he mentioned that he loves this country, likes to watch the storms and storm systems. He also said that any production of this kind, in this place, must always have a homespun quality about it.

Mr. Hess and the Sound and Light Director for "Texas," Pat Jarrett, have also been conferring with a light specialist from California about ways to increase the effectiveness of the lighting. He is L. Lynn Hart who has lighted and directed many feature shows for Disneyland. He has recently been appointed technical director for the "International Playwrights Theatre," a world-wide theatre operation based in Los Angeles.

The funds for making these fresh improvements have come through a grant from the Don and Sybil Harrington Foundation. (See the accompanying news release.) In addition, refurbishing funds are coming in from members and interested friends - and are still needed and welcome.

Full descriptions of the plans which include a new train, an additional road, and a depot, will be the subject of the Annual Meeting Luncheon of the producing organization, the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, Inc., on April 2 at the Amarillo Country Club.

Everyone who is interested in attending the celebration of the twentieth season of "Texas" may make reservations by calling the "Texas" box office 806-655-2181, or by writing "Texas", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015, or by coming to the office at 2010 Fourth Avenue in Canyon. The 1985 summer season will run from June 12 through August 24. It is well to make early advance reservations.

Girls competing in pageant must register by Friday

Friday is the final registration day for girls wishing to enter the Little Miss Hereford Pageant. The registration fee of $5 may be paid at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office.

This year's theme for the event, which is sponsored each year by the Women's Division, is Sugar 'n' Spice." The pageant will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, April 20, in the Hereford High School auditorium with Steve Nieman serving as master of ceremonies.

Rehearsal is planned April 19 in the HHS auditorium. Those competing in the cutest Miss category (age 4 through kindergarten) will practice at 3 p.m.; Miss Petite (grades 1 through 3), 3:45 p.m.; Little Princess (grades 4 through 6), 4:15 p.m.; and Miss Junior High (grades 7 through 9) 4:45 p.m.

Entertainment scheduled during the evening will be provided by Miss Hereford, Amy Quillen; Melonie Davis, members of the Chamber Singers, Academy of Dance students, and a Hereford High School band combo.

Co-chairmen for the pageant are

Vicky Higgins and Donna Lindeman. Others serving on the committee include Eileen Alley, Janice Conkright, Janice Faulkner, Nell Rhoton, Carla Sargent, Claudia Wilson, Teresa Dodson, Poppy Head, Joyce Skelton, Amy Quillen, Marsha Winget and Mary Bell.

Motion sickness stalks travelers

Whether your summer vacation takes you to the halls of Montezuma or the shores of Tripoli, you could end up fighting motion sickness in the air, on land, or at sea.

Surveys have found that about nine of every 10 people have experienced this disorder. Experts agree that no one is immune to motion sickness, given the right conditions in extreme.

The Texas Medical Association notes that many people are affected only by certain types of motion. A person who feels no queasiness riding in an airplane or the back seat of a car may be no match for the rock and roll of a boat.

The cause of motion sickness is not fully known but the problem centers on the inner ear, an organ not only of sound but of balance. The inner ear contains three hollow tubes filled with fluid. As the body moves, the shifting of this fluid sends signals to the brain to let you know the direction your body is moving. The inner ear also is sensitive to gravity's pull.

But usually the problem also involves the sense of sight. An example is reading while in the back seat of a car. While the inner ear registers the car's movement, the eyes are fixed on a book that is not moving in relation to the reader.

Sensory conflict occurs, and symptoms of motion sickness arrive. They can include pale skin color, yawning, restlessness, a cold sweat, and sometimes a slightly upset stomach. Excessive mouth watering, nausea, and vomiting may follow.

Preventing motion sickness is easier than treating it. Place yourself where there is the least motion. In a car, sit in the front seat and look ahead. In an airplane, sit over the wing. On a ship, remain on deck about midway.

If possible, lie on your back in a semi-reclined position. Look ahead at the distant horizon. Children in cars should be elevated in the front seat so they can see the horizon.

Drugs also may help. At least three over-the-counter antihistamines and several prescription drugs can be effective in preventing motion sickness. A disk form of the prescription drug scopolamine is stuck behind the ear and absorbed through the skin.

Hereford women attend convention

Gladys Miller, president of the Pioneer Study Club, and Billee Johnson, district life member and Pioneer yearbook chairman, attended the 26th annual Convention of Top of Texas District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in Dumas.

Meetings and special events of the convention were held at the Dumas Inn and North Plains Country Club. Bettye Green, state president, was the featured speaker at the 25th anniversary dinner. She spoke on "See, Share and Serve."

The luncheon speaker was Lela Vars of West Texas State University who spoke on "Women: Then, Now and Who Knows." At the closing session, special recognition was extended to those who had been members for the past 25 years.

Johnson received an award for being a federated club woman longer than anyone in the district. She has been active for over 22 years.

Asthma narrows body's airways

The simple act of breathing is easy to take for granted—but not for people with asthma.

As the tubes carrying air into the lungs begin to close, a feeling of suffocation often makes asthma sufferers fear they have already gasped their last breath.

Fortunately, asthma is rarely fatal, says the Texas Medical Association. And although the disorder has no cure, early detection and treatment can provide relief that leads to a normal life.

Asthma affects an estimated 9 million Americans, including 2 million to 3 million children. Left uncontrolled, it can be extremely disabling.

An attack occurs when something irritates the air tubes leading from the windpipe to the lungs. The cause can be pollen, mold spores, house dust, animal hair, exercise, viral infections like colds or flu, tobacco smoke, emotional stress, sulfite chemicals in foods, chalk dust, and fumes from household cleaners, paint, varnish, or spray deodorants.

Then the muscles surrounding these air tubes contract, and the membranes lining these airways swell and produce extra mucus. All three actions narrow the airways and cause the sufferer to gasp for breath.

Treatments are aimed at lessening the strength and frequency of asthma attacks. Often, the solution is avoiding those things that trigger the attacks. In addition, a drainage technique involves placing the person's head and trunk downward to help cough up excess phlegm.

If the cause cannot be identified or avoided, drug therapy usually is necessary. Although some over-the-counter asthma drugs are available, patients who think they have the disorder should see a doctor first. The reason is that the symptoms of asthma—shortness of breath, wheezing, and dry coughing—also may indicate other serious problems like heart failure and bronchitis.

Parents of asthmatic children should know the other warning signs: tightness in the chest, anxious or scared appearance, unusually pale color, or restlessness during sleep as an attack approaches.

St. Anthony's Donation

St. Anthony's Youth Group and School recently sent needed "goodies" to the Hospice Center at St. Anthony's Hospital as a Lenten Service project for the youth group and an on-going service project for the youth group. Pictured here, from left, are Stephanie Gearn, Belinda Warren, Gina Alley, Wendy Warrick, Diane Detten, Sr. Olivia of St. Anthony's Hospice, Becky Brownlow, Denise Paetzold, Denise Detten, Mrs. Ralph Detten, sponsor, and Doug Detten.

John Quincy Adams became president of the U.S. in 1824, getting almost 50,000 fewer votes than his chief rival, Andrew Jackson. He won in the electoral college.

April 30 employment tax deadline

April 30 is the deadline for employers who must report on Social Security and withheld federal income taxes for the first quarter of 1985. If the quarterly tax due (less any deposit made during the quarter) is $500 or more, the unpaid tax must be deposited.

This deadline does not apply to employers who make timely deposits of the full amount of tax due in Federal Reserve or approved commercial banks. They are allowed until May 10 to file Form 941, "Employer Quarterly Federal Tax Return."

If employers have not received Form 941 by mail, they can order one through the Tax Form or Information number listed in the phone book under U.S. Government. IRS Publication 15, "Circular E-Employer's Tax Guide," is also available through this number.

History making woman recalls days as Texas sheriff

By KEELY COGLAN - Big Spring Herald

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — Lucille Merrick tenderly picked up the pair of polished handcuffs.

"My husband had these engraved," said the county's only woman sheriff. She held the steel cuffs up to the window so light gleamed on the block letters spelling her late husband's name, "A.J. Merrick."

She sorted through the rest of the items on the table near her: the pearl-handled Colt automatic pistol; the short, lead-heavy leather club; a set of four sheriff's badges — keepsakes of her and her husband's tenures as Howard county sheriff.

The gun is hers, though she never used it during the 11 months she followed her husband in office. She served as Howard County sheriff from Feb. 7, 1944 to Dec. 31, 1944.

"Working helped me cope," said Mrs. Merrick, 78. "My husband died the 3rd of February, 1944, from a heart attack. They buried him the 6th, and the commissioners appointed me sheriff the 7th," she said.

Mrs. Merrick stayed away from the office when she was first appointed to fill her husband's place, she said. Later, she came to enjoy working in the office.

"If I hadn't had the responsibility, it would have been much harder. I would have been alone more," she said. "I felt like it was something I must do. My husband was elected to the office, and I felt I had to finish his term."

Other widows in nearby counties — Dawson and Glasscock — had been chosen to replace their husbands about the same time. In Dawson County Mrs. Joe Ray ran for re-election after her appointment and won. Mrs. Merrick said.

"It was not unusual (for a widow to be appointed). There were several men who asked for the appointment," Mrs. Merrick said. "But the commissioners court and the county judge, James Brooks, asked me to do it. They were very supportive."

Andrew, her husband, had been appointed to fill one term and was elected to another. Before he died, he had announced he was running for re-election. Mrs. Merrick said.

Mrs. Merrick said she concentrated on the administration and officework in her tenure; the chief deputy under her husband, Denver Dunn, was in charge of the fieldwork, she said.

"I didn't ever lock but one person up," she said. "There was a teenager who had given us a lot of trouble. I saw him walking down the sidewalk (in front of the courthouse), so I called to him and brought him into the office, and we arrested him."

She also had a jailbreak during her term in office. "One of the lesser deputies left the door open after feeding the prisoners," she said. "There weren't very many. We got them all back within a couple days."

"There were always jailbreaks then. We had a combination lock, and after the deputies fed the prisoners, they weren't always careful to see if it was locked right," she said.

Mrs. Merrick said she didn't regret her husband's career, though it caused many sleepless nights during the 20 years they were married.

"He was a deputy sheriff when I met him, when I was working in the sheriff's and county tax offices in Lamesa. I didn't mind him being off. He liked that kind of work. He liked trying to figure out why people would do things," she said.

"There were many nights when I stayed up to 3 or 4, waiting for him to get home," she said. "I worried about him. I didn't worry about me. I wasn't out in the field."

When Andrew Merrick first started working for the Howard County sheriff's office, the town was in the middle of an oil boom, and bootleggers had operations all over town. "It was dangerous to walk down the 100 block of Main. My husband wouldn't let me walk down the sidewalk by myself," she said.

"There was a lot of gambling going on. They locked up 75 persons one night. They had a place on Scenic Mountain where they would gamble. There was a big crowd, and they went out and caught all of them," she said. "My husband came home laughing about it."

"He was a great one to fix up family squabbles. He was a peacemaker," said Mrs. Merrick's sister, Mavis Hayes, who lives with her. "A man came in, saying his wife did so and so. His wife would say the man did so and so. And before you knew it, he would have it fixed up."

"He was a peacemaker," Mrs. Merrick said. She paused.

"He was widely respected all over the state. I got telegrams from the FBI, sheriffs and Congressman (George) Mahon," Mrs. Merrick said. "When they had the funeral, 2,000 people came. (Commissioner) Pancho Nall told me there were 200 people standing outside on the sidewalk."

Mrs. Merrick said she never regretted her decision not to run, although she was asked to campaign.

"Several people tried to get me to run, but I told them it was not a woman's job," she said.

"There have been other sheriffs in West Texas since. A woman can handle it now. Forty years have passed; women just do a lot of things now they didn't," Mrs. Merrick said.

"He was a great one to fix up family squabbles. He was

Criminals free if they run fast

A baby girl was born the other day in Fullerton, Calif. — Rachel Claire Johnson — 8 pounds, 7 ounces.

Mother, Kathleen Johnson, went through the discomfort and anxiety of these last months and the pain of the last hours alone.

The baby's father was not there.

Duane Johnson, a Los Angeles lawman, six days before last Christmas, in a gun battle with armed robbers, was shot dead.

My empathy for lawmen is no secret and no mystery. My father was one. He, too, was shot dead by hijackers just before a long-ago Christmas when I was 3.

So it may distress me more than most when the good guys have to pay with their lives for the bad guys' crimes.

The underworld has its fashions, also. Recent years thieves identified themselves with expensive sunglasses. Then it was gold chains. Now, I'm told, the fad among thieves is designer sneakers.

That's timely. Because the Supreme Court of the United States has decreed that if an unarmed criminal can outrun the police he's home free.

What the Supreme Court says it that police may not shoot an unarmed fleeing suspect if he is not endangering anybody.

From now on any unarmed burglar has no fear whatever of being shot. He can just help himself and run.

And the lawman on the scene must watch him flee — with no way to know whether the fugitive is armed or whether he left some victim inside the house beaten, raped or dead.

Ray Maples, president of the Memphis Police Association, says, "I've been a police officer for 17 years and I have never met a non-violent fleeing felon."

He predicts more burglaries, more rapes, more robberies.

It used to be that a lawman could shout, "Halt or I'll shoot" and the fugitive was obliged to halt or be shot.

Not anymore. Now the fugitive can, if he likes, turn around only long enough to thumb his nose.

On a related subject, Bernhard Goetz, the New York subway vigilante, who dared to open fire on four young muggers, is charged with "attempted murder." For protecting himself he could go to prison for 25 years.

In Chicago recently a plumber confronted by young muggers with a knife and a gun — pulled his own gun — and shot one dead. No charges.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., Tom Korshak, 81, confronted by a robber in an elevator, shot the robber. No punishment.

In Los Angeles a truck driver intercepted an armed robber, shot the robber. No charges.

But the untimely Supreme Court decision further to restrain lawmen I do not understand at all.
