MOSCOW (AP) — A black-draped gun carriage carried the coffin of Konstantin U. Chernenko into Red Square today, and Kremlin leaders, family members and foreign dignitaries assembled to bury the last in the line of Soviet leaders born under the czars.

Mikhail S. Gorbachev, named leader of the Soviet Communist Party within hours of the announcement of Chernenko's death, lauded the man who served as head of the Soviet state and Communist Party for only 13 months.

"At this hour of grief, Soviet men and women are paying their deep respects to a faithful servant of our party and people, a staunch champion of the ideals of Communism," Gorbachev said.

But the ritualized expressions of grief at Chernenko's death were overshadowed by the swiftness and vigor of the transition to the 54-year-old Gorbachev's leadership.

Gorbachev is the youngest man to lead the Soviet Union in more than 60 years, and today's edition of the Communist Party organ Pravda was already basing its editorials on Gorbachev's words.

With hammer-and-sickle flags trimmed in black fluttering softly in the breeze, military officers carried Chernenko's coffin out of the House of Unions at 12:30 p.m., where it had laid in state.

A group of officers walked by with funeral wreaths and red satin pillows with Chernenko's medals pinned to them.

The coffin was placed on the waiting gun carriage, which began its slow, four-block trip down Marx Avenue, around the Moscow Hotel and across Revolution Square. It was escorted by soldiers walking in slow-motion parade march.

Behind the caisson, towed by an armored personnel carrier, came members of Chernenko's family, including his widow, Anna, and members of the ruling Politburo. Rank upon rank of thousands of specially selected Soviets filled the 300-yard-long cobblestoned Red Square facing Lenin's red granite mausoleum.

The caisson rolled to a halt before the tomb of the Soviet founder V.I. Lenin, while members of the ruling Politburo, including Gorbachev, gathered atop the mausoleum for the funeral ceremony.

Chernenko's open coffin, covered in red and black crepe, was placed on a low platform in front of the tomb, which sits near the base of the Kremlin's ruddy brick walls.

A place had been prepared for Chernenko in the ranks of graves topped by marble busts of past party chiefs and other figures from 67 years of Soviet history since the Russian Revolution.

Plane crash probe to continue

FORT HOOD, Texas (AP) — Investigators were scheduled to renew their probe today into the fiery crash of a C-130 military transport plane that killed six of the eight people aboard.

The plane, which was dropping sand bags in a routine low-altitude mission, burst into flames and virtually disintegrated after it crashed Tuesday morning in Central Texas, officials said.

The two survivors were taken to Darnall Army Community Hospital, where they were in stable condition late Tuesday night, said Fort Hood spokeswoman Mary Mueller.

Ms. Mueller said the victims' identities would not be released until this morning so that their relatives could be notified.

Five file for three board seats

Five local men filed just under the deadline to vie for the three open seats on the Deaf Smith General Hospital Board.

Listed in alphabetical order, they are Dr. Charles Allison, Dr. Hap Cavness, Dr. Gerald Payne, the Rev. Charles Threewit and David Workman.

Allison and Payne, both medical doctors, are incumbents making bids for re-election. Cavness, a dentist, is a former member of the board and Threewit ran unsuccessfully for the board last year. This is Workman's first political race.

Hospital board elections will be held April 6 in conjunction with city and school board elections.

DR. CHARLES ALLISON

Dr. Allison, 30, is a Hereford native and Hereford High School graduate. He earned his bachelor's degree at Texas Tech University and a medical degree from Southwestern Medical School in Dallas.

Allison is employed as an emergency room physician at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo, and also farms near Hereford.

Seeking his second term on the board, Allison said he would like to see more board involvement in the management of the affairs of the hospital. He also notes the renewed interest in the hospital board race, which he believes is an indication of interest in the hospital itself.

Allison said he is also making a re-election bid because he believes there needs to be someone on the board with a medical background.

DR. HAP CAVNESS

Dr. Hap Cavness, a member of the board from 1972 through 1979, served as president during his last term in office.

"I've always felt that anybody who lives here needs to put a little bit back into the community," Cavness said when asked to explain why he is seeking the post again. "Hereford's been good to me and I enjoyed raising my children here."

Cavness and his wife, Gladys, a customer service officer at the First National Bank of Hereford, have two children. Cavness, who is 61, is a volunteer fireman and has belonged to many community service organizations and boards including Kiwanis, Lions, the Deaf Smith County Juvenile Board and the Campfire Board.

DR. GERALD PAYNE

Dr. Payne is a family physician who has served on the hospital board since 1977.

A native of Breckenridge, Payne has had a practice in Hereford the past 18 years.

He and his wife, Karen, have three children. They attend the St. Thomas Episcopal Church.

Payne is a graduate of Southwestern Medical School in Dallas.

"I've enjoyed being on the board, and I think it's good to have the physicians represented by a board member," Payne commented.

REV. CHARLES THREEWIT

The Rev. Threewit, 54, is rector for the St. Thomas Episcopal Church. Before graduating from the Episcopal Theology Seminary of the Southwest in 1973, he worked as an engineer.

A native of Colorado and graduate of the Colorado School of Mines at Golden, Threewit has attained a position as operations manager for the married children who live out of the area. The couple has resided here since 1950.

San Joaquin Union Oil Company of California before entering the seminary.

"I think my business background would be helpful to me as a member of the board," Threewit commented. Prior political experience includes serving on a school board in Bakersfield, Calif. and a term on the Deaf Smith County Child Welfare Board.

Threewit and his wife, Vera, a native of Canada, have two children.

A past president of the local Ministerial Association, Threewit is also on the boards of the Community Concert Association and the Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers. He serves as chaplain of the American Legion Post and belongs to Rotary International.

DAVID WORKMAN

Workman, 32, is a cattle buyer for Iowas Beef Processors Inc. A native of Lubbock, he has lived in Hereford since April of 1982.

He and his wife, Trish, an accountant, have a son, Sean. They are members of St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Workman, who holds a degree in animal business from Texas Tech University, is a member of the Noon Kiwanis Club. Trish is a member of the board of directors of Hereford Day Care.

Workman said a desire to be more active in community affairs prompted him to file for the office.

LSC to investigate next week

A team of five persons from the Legal Services Corporation's Office of Compliance and Review will arrive in Hereford March 20 to delve deeper into rumors surrounding the local office of Texas Rural Legal Aid.

The investigation is a follow-up to an investigative report filed last month by Wendell Wylie, an OCR staff attorney who spent four days in Hereford last November at the request of local citizens dissatisfied with the office.

"Mr. Wylie did the preliminary work," commented OCR Acting Director Victor Fortuno. "We will now interview more people at greater depth. Whatever questions have been raised, we will look at them more closely."

Fortuno said the team will include Wylie and another attorney, two auditors and a fifth person to serve as an aide. He expects they will spend at least three working days in Hereford.

Wylie's report, which incensed TRLA Executive Director David Hall of Weslaco, was critical of activities at the local office and claimed that the majority of the community views TRLA as a divisive force.

Hall was in Hereford Feb. 20 to respond to the report, calling it a "politically motivated hatchet job."

During a press conference that lasted nearly two hours, Hall called the report a "repetition of hysterical rumors" and accused Wylie of "gathering up every defamatory remark he could possibly obtain."

Hall scoffed at Wylie's suggestion that an arbitration panel of local attorneys be used to screen cases likely to result in lawsuits, calling it "about as gross an ethical interference as I can imagine."

LSC has not issued the apology or full retraction of the report which Hall demanded while in Hereford.

Wylie said the next day that although many of the accusations made in his report had not been legally verified, he did lend credence to the same stories repeated to him by eight or ten persons.

According to Fortuno, Hall is to meet with the OCR staff Thursday afternoon at Hall's request.

The observance of American Agriculture Week, March 15-21, may not be a joyous occasion for many farmers but it serves as an ideal time to tell the ag industry story to the American public. The annual Ag Day observance has been set on March 20, according to the Agricultural Council of America.

Ag Day, a 12-year-old national observance endorsed by a resolution of Congress, serves as a tribute to the achievements of farmers and ranchers, and is also a program for ag interests to join together in educational efforts aimed at all consumers.

Here in Hereford, a tribute to farmers is scheduled March 23 when Hereford State Bank hosts its annual hamburger cookout for county farmers and ranchers. Also participating in the event will be new car and implement dealers.

Local farm-related businesses—dealers in equipment, feed, seed and other supplies, as well as financial institutions and other providers of services—traditionally have been major supporters of the observance.

Judge considering damages

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge is promising a quick decision on whether damages should be assessed against three Texas A&M University officials accused in a sex discrimination lawsuit.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling on Tuesday heard final arguments in the case of Melanie Zentgraf, 26, who filed the suit in 1979 while she was a student at Texas A&M.

"This is a very, very difficult case for me," Sterling said. "The concepts involved, even though they seem clear-cut, are quite amorphous."

Ms. Zentgraf, now an Air Force captain stationed in Charleston, S.C., is seeking $75,000 from former school president Jarvis E. Miller; John Koldus, the university vice president for student affairs; and Robert Kamensky, a former student who commanded the A&M Corps of Cadets.

The suit alleges the three men knew female corps members were being excluded from all-male organizations and harassed by corpsmen, but did nothing about it.

Arguments concluded with Ms. Zentgraf's attorney contending Miller "publicly humiliated" the former student during her May 1980 graduation ceremony by refusing to shake her hand.

Multiple killer put to death

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Convicted killer Stephen Peter Morin laid on a death chamber gurney for nearly 45 minutes early today, repeatedly pricked by needles intended to kill him, before Texas prison technicians were able to find a vein in his arm and inject him with lethal drugs.

"We had trouble trying to find a good vein," Texas Department of Corrections spokesman Charles Brown said of the repeated tries by technicians.

Morin, a multiple killer put to death today for the slaying of a 21-year-old San Antonio woman, "admitted that he had ruined his veins by shooting up with dope," the prison system said in a statement chronicling the execution.

Ironically, the 37-year-old Morin had asked for months that he be put to death and had requested that his attorneys cease any attempts to obtain for him a stay.

Committee okays increase

AUSTIN (AP) — A second legislative committee has approved a college tuition increase that would be the first significant hike of its kind in 28 years.

The Senate Finance Committee voted 10-1 Tuesday to triple tuition over the next two years to $12 per semester hour for Texans at public universities. On Monday, the House Higher Education Committee approved a similar bill 8-0.

The Senate committee approved increases in a tuition proposal prepared by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's staff, which would raise an additional $180.8 million in revenue.

An earlier Hobby proposal had as its target $120 million in additional tuition revenue, said research director Tom Scott.

Tuition would rise from $4 per semester hour to $8 this fall and to $12 in the fall of 1986. The minimum tuition per semester would double to $100, but money for student grants also would be increased by about $12 million over the next two years.

There has been only one increase — and that one minor — in college tuition since 1957.

Battle may be decided in court

DETROIT (AP) — The battle over Coastal Corp.'s $2.2 billion attempt to buy American Natural Resources Co. may be decided in federal court rather than in the marketplace if U.S. District Judge John Feikens orders a trial.

Feikens said at a hearing Tuesday that the U.S. District Court proceedings in the case were a sideshow.

"I wonder if I should move this case into the center ring right now and set it for full trial two weeks from now," Feikens said.

As Feikens mulled whether to order an April 1 trial, the chairmen of Detroit-based ANR and Houston-based Coastal met Tuesday for the first time since Coastal announced its offer of $60 a share for ANR stock.

"No agreement was reached during this meeting concerning any transactions between the two companies," ANR spokesman Jim Bailey said after ANR's Arthur R. Seder Jr. and Coastal's O.S. Wyatt Jr. met in Detroit. "There may be future discussions between the two companies, but none has been scheduled."

Coastal Corp. declined to comment on the meeting. ANR directors were to meet today to consider how to respond to Coastal's takeover bid, although it may be Thursday before a decision is made, Bailey said.

New trial denied rancher

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Millionaire rancher Rex Cauble has been denied a new trial by a federal appeals court on his conviction in a massive marijuana drug-smuggling operation dubbed "The Cowboy Mafia."

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said in its 11-page ruling Tuesday that "after carefully considering each of the grounds asserted by Cauble for a new trial, we affirm, without hesitation, the district court's denial."

Cauble had appealed the lower court's rejection of his new-trial request. The rancher, serving a 5-year sentence in the Big Spring federal prison, raised four of 11 points he had pursued in the Eastern District Court for Texas.

Israeli planes bomb base

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli warplanes bombed a Palestinian guerrilla base in Syrian-occupied eastern Lebanon today, the Israeli military command announced.

The command said its planes attacked a base a mile west of the Bekaa Valley town of Bar Elias.

Military sources, speaking on condition they were not identified, said the base was used by Saiga, the Palestine Liberation Organization faction most closely allied with Syria.

The sources said the Israeli planes bombed a two-story house and nearby trenches about 300 yards south of the Beirut-Damascus highway.

The command said the Israeli planes returned safely to base.

Bar Elias is six miles west of the Syrian border and about seven miles north of Israel's front line facing Syrian troops in the Bekaa Valley.

It was the fourth Israeli air strike in Lebanon so far this year. The last one was Feb. 11 at Taalbaya, three miles northwest of Bar Elias.

All four air strikes this year were on bases Israel said were used by Syrian-backed Palestinian guerrillas.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Budget Committee, after rejecting both President Reagan's call for deep domestic spending cuts and Democratic proposals for tax increases, is ready to try again to chop $50 billion from the federal deficit.

But the committee's senior Democrat, Lawton Chiles of Florida, said the panel was at an impasse — with no plan currently being offered capable of mustering majority support.

"Right now, I think we're headed for a train wreck," Chiles said after the committee on Tuesday rejected a pair of Democratic-sponsored proposals for tax increases.

However, Committee Chairman Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., was more upbeat, saying the panel will continue working to try to find the additional savings — and the magic combination that will pick up the needed 12-vote majority in his committee.

While conceding that the committee might consider supporting some form of tax increase "down the road" and "as a last resort," Domenici said the committee was not near that point yet. "We can't substitute tax increases for budget cuts this early in the game," he said.

The committee was to work today on a variety of proposals that would make more extensive cuts than the general program freezes it already has adopted — but members said that no plan right now is capable of winning approval.

As the panel finished its first run-through of the 1986 budget, it was still far short of the $50 billion deficit-reduction goal set by both the White House and Senate leaders.

Aides said that so far, the committee has voted to cut $12.3 billion from domestic programs in fiscal 1986, on top of a recommended $21.1 billion reduction in the administration's defense buildup. The panel has rejected $26.8 billion in domestic cuts the president wants.

Hours after White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the president was "strong as 10 pounds of onions" against a tax increase this year, the committee:

—Rejected, 18-4, a proposal by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., that would have raised $159 billion over the next three years through a 5 percent minimum corporate income tax, repeal of the investment tax credit and a one-year freeze in the indexing of tax brackets to offset inflation.

—Rejected, 16-4, a proposal by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, calling for a 15 percent minimum corporate tax that would have raised $42 billion over the next three years. The Republican-controlled committee on Tuesday, while sticking by Reagan's anti-tax increase stand, continued a pattern set last week of rejecting his proposed domestic spending cuts. The committee voted to maintain the federal revenue-sharing program for one more year and to freeze pay for civilian and military government employees.

On peace strategy

Mubarak gets Reagan cold shoulder

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says Palestinians "should be represented" in peace talks with Israel, but he politely rejected a proposal by Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak for preliminary talks between the United States and a joint Palestinian-Jordanian delegation.

In a toast at a dinner honoring Mubarak Tuesday night, Reagan said Palestinians should be involved in every stage of the negotiating process and that "we must address forthrightly" the nature of that representation.

"These Palestinians should include representatives from the West Bank and Gaza and other Palestinians as mutually agreed by the parties," Reagan said. "These are wide parameters. They provide ample scope. They should be put to use."

But Reagan earlier made clear to Mubarak in a White House meeting that separate talks between Palestinians, Jordanians and the United States were not the answer.

State Department officials said Mubarak did not disabuse Reagan of the notion that the plan is partly aimed at promoting contacts between the United States and the Palestine Liberation Organization. Officials said they were also concerned that the Arab nations were trying to get Washington to negotiate with Israel on their behalf.

One official said the American response to Mubarak "puts the brakes on the idea that somehow the Arabs don't have to deal with Israel, but only with the United States."

Mubarak, who has been on a five-day visit to Washington, was scheduled to address the National Press Club today before departing for a visit to London.

Reagan told Mubarak Tuesday that parties to the Middle East conflict are "still a long way from the negotiating table" and that proposals such as Mubarak's need more work.

"Let us hope that the positive trends that have recently begun in the region will be strengthened and that with Egypt's valued help they will open the path to direct negotiations," he said.

But although Reagan tried to let him down gently, Mubarak sounded a disappointing note at a departure ceremony, saying, "We cannot afford another missed opportunity for peace."

The Mubarak proposal grew out of a recent agreement by Jordan's King Hussein and PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat on a joint approach to a Middle East peace. U.S. officials say the accord falls short because the PLO failed to specifically accept U.N. Security Council resolutions acknowledging Israel's right to exist.

The administration also did not promise an increase in aid for Egypt. Mubarak was pressing for an increase above the $2.3 billion in combined economic and military aid the administration already is seeking for fiscal 1986.

Speaker's topic home renovations

Wayne Shipley of Dallas discussed renovation of old homes when he appeared as guest speaker here Tuesday for the Hereford Board of Realtors.

Shipley, chairman of the Neighborhood Revitalization Program for the Greater Dallas Board of Realtors, said the home rehabilitation project had earned the board valuable publicity and had encouraged property owners to undertake their own renovations.

The Dallas board has purchased four run-down homes, renovated them and sold them at break-even prices. He showed before and after slide pictures of the homes which were remodeled in the projects. He said the homes could have been sold at a profit, "but we are a non-profit board."

Shipley said the program accomplishes several goals. First, it shows consumers that Realtors are concerned about home costs. Second, it puts something back into the community and demonstrates that renovation is an alternative to new homes. Third, the program sets an example for the neighborhood and rekindles a pride in property.

Because it is a non-profit program, Shipley said, the board was able to have some materials contributed in some cases. In renovation project in 1982, the board purchased an old home for $32,000. The living space was doubled by converting an unused attic into additional rooms, and the renovation costs amounted to $45,000. With other expenses added, the house sold for $83,500 in 1984.

Shipley was introduced by Rick Brown. Betty Gilbert presided at the board's regular monthly meeting at Hereford Country Club.

Smith trial set March 25

Misdemeanor perjury indictments against Hereford attorney Jerry Smith are set for trial March 25 in Deaf Smith County Court.

Amarillo attorney Qlo Crum has been named special judge, and Travis Ware of Lubbock special prosecutor, after County Judge Glen Nelson and Criminal District attorney Roland Saul recused themselves from the case.

The judge will call for pre-trial motions at 9 a.m. March 25, although defense attorney Jim Brown has not yet filed any motions. Jury selection is to begin at 10 a.m.

Smith, a former assistant district attorney for Saul, was indicted Dec. 19 on four counts of perjury by a special Deaf Smith County grand jury.

The indictments were based on statements made by Smith during a March 8, 1983, hearing which resulted in a manslaughter case being thrown out of court by 22nd District Judge David Wesley Gulley.

Smith allegedly denied engaging in criminal defense work while employed as an assistant district attorney, but the grand jury findings indicated that Smith did perform duties as a defense attorney.

Grenada

On Oct. 25, 1983, U.S. Marines and Rangers and a small force from six Caribbean nations invaded the island of Grenada. President Reagan said the United States was answering a request from the Organization of Eastern Caribbean States to restore order to Grenada, whose government was overthrown the previous week. The raid was also to protect 1,000 U.S. citizens on the island.

CRASH

Investigators from Dyess and Bergstrom Air Force bases arrived on the scene Tuesday afternoon and were to resume poring over what one firefighter called "the mangled mess" today, Ms. Mueller said.

An eyewitness, Anita Nichols of Gatesville, said the 60-person-capacity C-130E Hercules was flying in formation with two other planes when it crashed about 11:15 a.m.

"One of them just kept getting lower and lower and lower," she said. "I thought, 'Oh my gosh, there's no landing place there.' All of a sudden, he went down and the whole thing burst into flames."

"He wasn't flying with the others," said William Farrar, a Gatesville police sergeant who lives near the crash site. "He was flying kind of erratic."

The plane was on a low-level mission from Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene to Fort Hood, simulating drops of supplies at altitudes between 800 feet and 1,500 feet, said Fort Hood spokesman Maj. George Creach.

"The plane in the middle started gaining altitude at a funny angle. Its left wing tipped up and it was more or less flying sideways," said eyewitness Charles Alton, who runs a grocery store less than a mile from the site.

"The last I saw of the plane was the wingtip on the horizon — then a ball of smoke," he said.

Volunteer fireman Larry McDonald, on the first truck to reach the scene, said the two who survived were standing 50 feet behind the fuselage.

"You couldn't tell it was a plane.

The fire was so hot, so intense, that the water didn't have much effect. It would boil off before it got there," McDonald said.

The four-engine turbo-prop, one of seven temporarily sent to Dyess because of construction at the Little Rock Air Force Base, crashed in a rural field near a tank trail and a highway at the northern boundary of Fort Hood, which is home to Army armored divisions.

The fuselage skidded about 200 yards, scattering wreckage over a three-quarters of a mile area, officials said. It took firefighters two hours to put out the blaze, Gatesville fireman Herman Martin said.

"There was debris everywhere," Martin said. "The main cockpit was just a mangled mess, and it was all on fire."

No cure for herpes yet

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about a problem that is shared by millions of readers. Genital herpes.

I found out I had it two years ago and almost lost the man I love because I was not honest with him. It still causes problems when I get an outbreak, but he is much more understanding. NO, he does not have it and I will see to it that he never gets it, at least not from me.

I heard on a TV news update several weeks ago that a possible cure in capsule form has been developed. I was elated. But nothing more has been said about it and I have searched the newspapers regularly.

Since you have access to the top medical authorities, will you find out if a cure for genital herpes has been discovered? If so, why is it not available to the public?—FINGERS X'D IN D.C.

DEAR X'D: I checked with several dermatologists as well as with Dr. Mary Guinan at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Guinan said that at this time there is no known cure for Herpes Simplex II (genital herpes). The salve acyclovir sold under the trade name Zorovax has been produced in capsule form and was recently approved by the Federal Trade Commission. While this capsule will not cure Herpes Simplex II it may reduce the frequency and intensity of the attacks. For those who suffer with this disease, it is viewed as a curse. Dr. Robert Stolar, a Washington, D.C., dermatologist and one of my principal consultants, said many doctors use steroids, either, or chloroform applications, give antibiotics by mouth or recommend acyclovir ointment. He noted that several scientists are at work on a vaccine which, if proven successful, could immunize people, as was done with the small-pox.

I would like to remind my readers that genital herpes can be contracted WITHOUT having sexual intercourse. For example, if a person has an active cold sore lesion on his lip (this is a herpes infection) touches the cold sore and then touches the genitals, that person may give him or herself genital herpes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please find space for my letter to my boyfriend's next sweetheart. Maybe she and others will be saved from the hell I have suffered.

Dear Successor: I know you are very much like me, a nice girl (he calls you sweet), a bit insecure, quite dependent and that you love him. He seems so strong—a protective wall between you and the cold, hard world.

He has many good qualities, but his temper his frightening. When he gets angry he hits things—or you. He swears he doesn't know why he does it and promises he will never do it again. He says he loves you and that he will change. You want to believe him because you are afraid of being alone. Ten days later he hits you again. When you go to the hospital for X-rays of your jaw, you tell the doctor you fell.

Don't kid yourself. You aren't the first woman he has hit and you won't be the last. The man is violent. Get out before he beats you senseless and destroys your self-respect.—FINITO IN BUFFALO.

DEAR FIN: Your letter packed a wallop. I hope you've given a few thousand abused women the strength to cut loose.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

"Our classes are science and craft related, including the natural and physical sciences, computers and a variety of workshops during the session," said Melody Parker, director of the museum school.

Participants and their parents will have the opportunity to display their kites and compete in contests during a special event, the Rainbow Kite Fest, April 20 at the Discovery Center.

"We're planning a variety of activities in conjunction with the Rainbow Kite Fest," said Ms. Parker. "It will be a real Saturday afternoon in the park and should be plenty of fun for the general public!"

Spanish dance company schedules performance

The Maria Benitez Spanish Dance Company will present a concert of Spanish and Flamenco dance April 5 at the Amarillo Little Theater at 8 p.m. The performance is sponsored by the Amarillo College Fine Arts Committee.

Considered to be one of the world's great Spanish dancers, Maria Benitez, along with her husband, Cecillo, founded her company in 1972. She has been hailed in Spain as "without a doubt the finest prima ballerina assoluta of flamenco dance." Her company has received high praise as well, carrying them to international acclaim.

The Maria Benitez Spanish Dance Company's primary goal is to persevere and disseminate the rich artistic heritage of Spain. In recent years, the company has toured forty-seven states and a number of European cities. The company's educational activities are designed to appeal to a broad range of the theatre-going public, and to bring Spanish dance to grass-roots America.

A critic for Dance Magazine called the company's performance "...the most exciting I have seen in a long time," and Glenn Griffin of the Denver Post says: "She dominates space with authority and the smolder of passion. To watch her is to be caught irremediably in the magic evocation of Spain."

Tickets are on sale at the Business Office of the Amarillo College Washington Street Campus. Adults 14 and students $2. Tickets will be on sale at the door the night of the performance.

CARE program assists 38 developing nations

CARE, the international aid and development organization, delivered $257,756,000 this past fiscal year in programs to support the world's poor, offering disaster and technical assistance, training management expertise, food and other resources, according to CARE's 1984 annual report issued recently.

The theme of the report is "Fragile: Handle With CARE"—words that express the fragility of the world's resources, its population, and its future well-being. The theme also "conjures up the faces of 22 million children, refugees, pregnant women and nursing mothers to whom CARE provided nourishing food in 1984," according to Dr. Philip Johnston, CARE's Executive Director.

CARE delivered aid to 38 developing countries in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East, as well as through a special relief program in Poland that was concluded in October, 1984. Under CARE's auspices 854,842,000 pounds of food, most from the U.S. Government under Public Law 480 of the U.S. Agricultural Assistance Act, were distributed.

Dr. Johnston said the aid value of each $1 contribution was $9.61 delivered in goods and services. This is made possible by combining donor dollars with contributions from the U.S. Government, foreign governments, and private companies both here and abroad, and also by sharing the project costs with the various host governments.

"The poor depend on the resources of their immediate environment for survival," he explained. "But improper use and climatic disasters have devastated much of their fragile natural surroundings. 'CARE for the Earth', our natural resource conservation program, is helping small-scale farmers reclaim eroded land. During the last three years, we planted 8.6 million trees to keep fertile topsoil in place and increase agricultural productivity."

Because contaminated water is a major killer of Third World children, providing safe drinking water continues to be one of CARE's priorities, Dr. Johnston said. "Through the installation of hundreds of water systems with thousands of miles of pipe, health education, and the hard labor of many village communities, CARE brought drinkable water to rural families in 14 countries last year."

He added that "CARE's primary health care programs developed with input from the Advisory Board of MEDICO, a service of CARE, are designed to train village health workers and to establish networks that provide even the most remote areas with basic services."

CARE's reputation for effective management of relief and rehabilitation operations, such as those in Chad and Somalia, have led other nations to seek the organization's assistance, Dr. Johnston declared.

"At the end of the fiscal year we launched an effort to deliver food, medicine and other supplies to people in drought-stricken Mozambique, followed shortly by similar programs in Ethiopia and Mauritania. In Honduras a food-for-work program is aiding farmers plagued by persistent drought, and in Peru where thousands of lives were disrupted by devastating floods, survivors were aided by CARE's rehabilitation and long-term development efforts."

In a joint message in the annual report, CARE President Wallace J. Campbell and Board Chairman Edwin J. Wesely reported on their firsthand observation of CARE's Emergency Logistics Unit (ELU) in Somalia. The ELU was created in 1981 at the request of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees to coordinate distribution of aid to refugees from Ethiopia. It encompasses moving food from port to warehouses and then to 35 camps in Somalia where between 500,000 and 700,000 refugees receive $52 million worth of food, medical supplies and self-help materials and equipment donated by various governmental and international agencies.

The two CARE executives reported that "resources from CARE organizations in Canada, Norway, Germany, France and Italy added nearly $10 million last year to funds from CARE USA. CARE International meets expanding needs and provides greater opportunities for those who received CARE packages in the years following World War II to express their appreciation by helping people in the developing world," they said.

Total support and revenue for CARE in 1984 was $273,454,000. This included donor contributions which reached $26,833,000, and agricultural commodities donated by the U.S. Government, which were valued at $153,895,000. Other support factors included contributions-in-kind, ocean freight reimbursement, and a range of grants and contracts.

A free copy of the report is available from CARE, 660 First Avenue, New York, New York, 10016.

Well Nourished

These two children in a day care center in Calcutta, India, enjoy a portion of corn-soya fortified milk provided by CARE, the international aid and development organization. During the past year CARE provided nourishing food to 22 million such children, refugees, pregnant women and nursing mothers. For the fragile at-risk population, its staff distributed 85,842,000 pounds of life-sustaining food in 38 developing countries around the world.

Doctors support safety belt bill

AUSTIN — Proposed state legislation to require use of safety belts has received strong support from the Texas Medical Association.

"There are two important facts here," said Dr. E. Don Webb, a Houston family physician representing TMA. "First, safety belts save lives and reduce serious injuries. And second, the Texas Poll recently found that 62 percent of Texans support a law requiring the use of safety belts."

"It's time we take action to prevent these needless deaths and injuries," Webb said during a Capitol news conference announcing the legislation on Feb. 26. House Bill 941 is sponsored by Rep. Bill Messer (D-Belton), and Sen. Ted Lyon (D-Mesquite) is the sponsor of Senate Bill 500, the same bill.

The legislation would require front-seat occupants of passenger cars to wear safety belts. Back-seat passengers would not have to wear them. The legislation would not apply to trucks and off-road vehicles.

If passed, the law would take effect on Sept. 1, but the $25 to $50 fines would not be issued during a three-month grace period ending Dec. 1. The use or non-use of safety belts could not be admitted as evidence in a civil trial.

Despite Texans' support for safety belt legislation, about 60 percent do not use them, according to TMA. When seat belts are used, the chances of surviving a crash increase by more than 50 percent.

The 24,000-member association of physicians and medical students also strongly supported the new child safety seat law.

TMA cited these national statistics that point to the need for a safety belt law:

—Between 12,000 and $15,000 lives could be saved each year if all passenger car occupants used safety belts at all times.

—Every hour, five persons are killed in motor vehicle accidents.

—Most motor-vehicle accidents occur within 25 miles of home—at speeds of less than 40 miles per hour.

—Motor-vehicle accidents are the number one killer of persons ages 1 to 38.

—Motor-vehicle crashes cost the United States an estimated $43.3 billion each year. Citizens pay for this through higher taxes for police services, emergency medical services, medical care and rehabilitation, public health and highway safety programs, higher hospital costs, and increased insurance premiums.

The TMA Committee on Emergency Medical Services and Trauma initiated the association's policy that strongly endorses mandating the use of seat belts or seat-shoulder belts.

TMA's support of safety belt use also includes free educational information on the topic. Almost 340,000 copies of a brochure, "Click—The Sound of Saving a Life," have been distributed. A poster with the same message also is available.

LOOK TO YOURSELF

THERE ARE TWO ways in which we can look to and consider ourselves. We can be very self-centered in a vain and hurtful way, or we can have a wholesome interest in self, and interest essential to the most effective personal conduct of life. This is the justified interest we must maintain in self before we can be sufficiently and effectively interested in anybody else or anything else.

ALL OF the studies done in the field of human behavior indicate that we must have the right attitudes toward and about ourselves in order to have the right attitudes toward and about others. If we have this wholesome concern for self, wholesome self love, a good self image, and all of the other recommended and justified self concepts; we are capable of relating to other people in the most effective and helpful ways.

THIS MANNER of living will enable us to stay clear of the hurtful reactionary behavior and follow the more constructive and productive way of positive response. This will help us remain in control of self and of our situation. The beautiful aspect of 'looking well to ourselves' is in the fact that, because we do this, we will be most helpful in all of our relationships with others. This will help us to maintain the life dimension which is so very much desirable and meaningful to us.

TAKE HEED to yourself is some of the best advice we find in the most highly recommended body of time-tested truth. It is interesting and encouraging to see how this wise action enables the individual to come to know the best of living associated with every facet of the human experience.

WHOLESDOME self-interest is essential to meaningful living.

Buyers can cancel door-to-door sales

COLLEGE STATION - A new set of pots and pans, a Bible, burglar alarm or family photo album may seem like a good idea when a salesperson brings them to your door.

But what if you decide you don't want or can't afford the merchandise you buy from a door-to-door salesperson? You can cancel your order if you don't delay, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service consumer economics specialist.

A Federal Trade Commission (FTC) ruling allows a three-day "cooling off" period to cancel if the purchase is $25 or more, says Bonnie L. Piernot. This rule applies only to door-to-door sales and not to in-store sales.

"The salesperson must provide a fully completed contract including the date of the sale, name and address of the seller, and a statement in large business type explaining the right to cancel within three days by written notice," she advises.

"The salesperson must also give you two copies of a separate 'notice of cancellation' form, Piernot says. Then when you want to cancel the sale, simply send the notice by certified mail with return receipt requested so you can prove you canceled it."

The specialist points out that the contract and notice must be in the same language the salesperson uses in the sales pitch. If the sale was made in Spanish, for example, then the contract-notice must be in Spanish.

If you have made payment, the seller must refund the money within 10 business days of receiving your cancellation notice, Piernot says. And after canceling the sale, you must have the merchandise—in the same condition that you received it—available for the for the salesperson to pick up at your home.

If you agree to ship the item back, the seller must pay the shipping costs. But if the merchandise is not picked up within 20 days, you may keep the goods without obligation," she says.

Piernot emphasizes that the rules does not cover total sales under $25, sales of insurance and securities, sales of telephone orders and sales made entirely by mail.

Burglar proof is what's needed when you try to convince the insurance people that someone snatched your silverware.

Why does a dish prepared from the chef's secret recipe so often taste as though they stewed the cookbook and left out the ingredients?

Raiders' opponent Friday

Boston College mentor now aware of Tech

BOSTON (AP) — Boston College coach Gary Williams says he would have been watching the Southwest Conference Post-Season Classic championship more closely if he had known the winning Texas Tech Red Raiders would be his squad's first-round opponent in the NCAA playoffs.

Lubbock Avalanche-Journal in a telephone interview Tuesday. "They were on TV up here Sunday and I watched some of it, but I didn't stop to think that we might be playing them."

"It just happened to be a basketball game that was on television and I watched ... but not very closely."

We're trying to find out all we can about Tech," he said.

Williams' Eagles, the No. 11 seed, and the Raiders, seeded sixth, meet at 7:07 p.m. Friday in Hohfenz Pavilion in one of four first-round games on tap in the Midwest sub-regional.

Other contests feature Memphis State (27-3) against Penn (13-13) at 12:07 p.m., Alabama-Birmingham (24-8) against Michigan State (19-9) at 2:37 p.m. and Duke (22-7) against Pepperdine (23-8) at 9:37 p.m.

The victor of the Tech-BC match meets the winner of the Duke-Pepperdine contest at 4:30 p.m. Sunday in Hohfenz.

Williams says the televised game Sunday has shown him two things about Tech: its 5-10 guard Bubba Jennings, the Player of the Year in the SWC, is a great shooter and the Raiders play very good defense.

"The little guy (Jennings) is amazing the way he shoots the ball. Guys up here don't shoot the ball from that far out," Williams told the Avalanche-Journal.

"They work at it. Just the fact that Tech has beaten Houston and Arkansas three times tells you something about them. That's no easy task."

Tech, representing the SWC, is making its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1976. But Williams said the Raiders are not total strangers to his players or other college mentors in his corner of the country.

"That might be the case with the media, but not with coaches," he explained.

"They know about Arkansas and Eddie Sutton and they know about SMU. Our players watched SMU beat North Carolina on TV and they know Tech defeated SMU twice this season. They respect Tech," said Williams.

"We know we're playing a good club. It's no problem to get ready when you're playing a Top 20 team. That has a way of getting your attention."

Texas Tech, 23-7 and winners of 11 straight games, was named the nation's 17th-ranked club on Monday. It was the Red Raiders' first appearance in The Associated Press Top 20 in nine years.

BC is making its fourth trip to the NAAs in the past five years. Williams' team brings an 18-10 record into Friday's game.

The Eagles won all nine of their non-conference games and split their 18 Big East regular-season games before losing to Syracuse by a 70-69 count in the opening round of the Big East tourney last week.

An 82-80 overtime loss to No. 1-ranked Georgetown and a 71-69 defeat at the hands of No. 3 St. John's were among the Eagles' setbacks. Williams said Tech reminds him somewhat of St. John's.

"I see a little bit of St. John's in them with their size and the way they play. St. John's is pretty deliberate and Tech likes the same offensive tempo. St. John's looks for Mullin (Chris) like Tech looks for Jennings."

BC's starting five is a little smaller than Tech's, but the Eagles probably have an edge in quickness.

"We're smaller than Tech. We're smaller than everybody, but we don't worry about that," said Williams.

"We'll try to take advantage of our quickness. We pressed most of the year. We'll use different presses and try to get up the floor as quick as possible and be as aggressive as possible."

Williams will start 6-9 Trevor Gorden at center, 6-5 Roger McCready and 6-4 Terrance Tally at forwards and 6-3 Dominic Pressley and 5-11 Michael Adams at guards. Adams leads the Eagles in scoring with a 15.3 points-per-game average. He is extremely quick (63 steals) and likes to get BC off and running.

"I think he's one of the best point guards in the East," said Williams. "He's more of a penetrator than Jennings is. He can't shoot like that from the outside."

The Raiders lost a 48-47 decision to the Frogs in their first meeting-and then took a 61-53 verdict two weeks ago. The Eagles mangled TCU, 92-75.

Tech scored an 84-78 victory over BC in the teams' only previous meeting, the triumph coming in the 1981 Gator Bowl Classic.

Men's, women's teams vie for national crowns

By JOHN WALKER

The Plainview Daily Herald PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — It's something that hardly ever happens — one school with two teams playing at the same time for a national championship. But for Wayland Baptist University, it's reality as both the Flying Queens and Pioneers compete this week for NAIA national basketball championships.

The Queens of Coach Dave Ketterman, seeded fourth with their 28-4 record, face St. Mary's of California in the first round in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, while Coach Mark Adams and his Pioneers, 26-9 and seeded 11th out of a 32-team field, must get past Mesa (Colo.) College in a first round game in Kansas City.

"I know it's unbelievable, but here we are," said Wayland Athletic Director Dr. Sylvia Nadler.

Wayland, a school of some 1,800 students, already owns this year's NAIA men's national indoor title, won just three weeks ago in Kansas City, and sports-crazy fans in this Texas Panhandle town of 25,000 would like nothing better than to welcome their basketball teams home with two more red national championship banners.

The Flying Queens have gotten the community used to winning on a national level, capturing 10 national titles in 36 seasons and having the winningest record in women's basketball history at 914-202. In fact, only 35 men's teams have won more games and no one can claim better than the .819 winning percentage over the years.

In that stretch of winning came one record that still stands — that of 131 consecutive victories over four seasons.

It's a new day and age for the Flying Queens, however, but some things never change — like disciplined offenses and defenses and constant pressure on the opposition.

Wayland is paced this year by a pair of almost certain All-Americans — a 6-0 junior forward Erin Schreiber of Jenks, Okla., and 6-0 sophomore post Carmen Wynn of Amarillo. Both are averaging just under 21 points per game and right at nine rebounds per outing.

For the Pioneers, 6-9 senior Carlton Davis, America's premier shot blocker with 103 in 35 games, provides a portion of the floor leadership, sharing it with another pair of seniors, Gary Pinkney and Tim Thomas.

Both Davis and Thomas are receiving strong consideration for All-American honors as well.

Aggies lose in NIT

Chance doesn't pay for A&M

By PETE HERRERA
AP Sports Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Shelby Metcalf was willing to take the gamble and had to settle for the consequences.

The veteran Texas A&M basketball coach decided the best way to take on New Mexico in Monday night's opening game of the National Invitation Tournament was to control the rebounding battle.

With all five starters crashing the boards, the Aggies stayed close through the opening half. But New Mexico's fast-break offense exploited A&M's vulnerable defense in the second half enroute to an 80-67 victory.

New Mexico and Texas A&M opened the 48th edition of the NIT and the tournament's first-round games will be played Thursday and Friday at sites around the country, with 10 games scheduled for Thursday.

"Everytime I turned around Shelby had all five hitting the boards," said New Mexico coach Gary Colson. "That's why when we did get the ball, it looked like Interstate 10."

Texas A&M had 17 offensive rebounds in the first half and trailed only 38-35. But New Mexico, which shot 61 percent from the field, broke the game open by outscoring the Aggies 15-4 in the first six minutes of the second half for a 53-39 lead that proved too much for A&M to overcome. During that span, the Aggies went more than seven minutes with just one field goal.

Forwards Johnny Brown and Mike Winters frequently filled the lanes in New Mexico's fast-break offense. Brown led the New Mexico assault with 20 points, while Winters shook a season-long slump to add 16.

Texas A&M was led by guard Don Marbury with 22 points. Sophomore forward Mike Clifford and center Al Pulliam each scored 11 points.

Colson, who has spent much of this week trying to quell reports he's in line to succeed retiring Washington coach Marv Harshman, again said he planned to remain with New Mexico.

"I talked to Mike Lude (Washington Athletic Director) earlier in the season but I have not talked to him since and I have not been offered the job," Colson said.

NBA roundup

Bird scores 60 in Boston win Tuesday

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Larry Bird wasn't sure he was going to like the New Orleans Lakefront Arena, because the temperature was set too high, but by scoring 60 points, he proved he was the hottest thing around.

Bird scored Boston's last 16 points and led the Celtics to a 126-115 National Basketball Association victory Tuesday night over the Atlanta Hawks Tuesday night.

"I had a good feeling from the first quarter on, even though it was awfully hot," he said.

Bird hit 22 of 36 field-goal attempts and 15 of 16 free throws en route to breaking Kevin McHale's all-time Celtics record of 56 established nine days earlier. Bird also surpassed his career-high of 53 set in 1983.

In other NBA games, it was Houston 131, Denver 129; Indiana 109, New Jersey 108; Phoenix 123, New York 119; Kansas City 120, Portland 114; Chicago 111, Detroit 110; Los Angeles Lakers 123, Utah 108; and Golden State 145, San Antonio 122.

Bird had only 23 points at halftime, when the Celtics led 65-58. He added 19 in the third quarter as Boston extended its margin to 100-89 and got 18 more in the final period.

Atlanta, behind the shooting of Dominique Wilkins who scored 36 points, narrowed the gap to 110-105 with 4½ minutes left after trailing 108-93. But that was as close as the Hawks could get as Bird scored the next six points for a 116-105 lead.

Rockets 131, Nuggets 129
Rookie center Akeem Olajuwon had 36 points and 14 rebounds as Houston held on to cut Denver's Midwest Division lead to three games.

The Nuggets, led by Alex English's 34 points, trailed 109-95 in the third period before rallying to cut the deficit to 127-125. Mitchell Wiggins' jumper and two free throws by Lionel Hollins in the last 30 seconds preserved the Rockets' lead.

Lakers 123, Jazz 108

Los Angeles, leading the Pacific Division by 15½ games, got 18 points and 14 assists from Earvin "Magic" Johnson in its victory over Utah.

The Lakers led 87-61 late in the third quarter and coasted to victory over the Jazz, who got a game-high 24 points from Darrell Griffith.

Bulls 111, Pistons 110

Michael Jordan scored 14 of his 32 points in the fourth quarter, including four crucial free throws in the final 33 seconds, as Chicago edged Detroit.

The Pistons, who got 21 points each from Dan Roundfield and Bill Laimbeer, took an 87-76 lead early in the fourth quarter. But the Bulls responded with a 20-1 spurt for a 96-88 margin with 5:42 left.

Detroit rallied behind three three-point shots by Isiah Thomas, but fell short.

Kings 120, Trail Blazers 114

Mike Woodson came off the bench to score 24 points, 10 of them in the fourth quarter, to lift Kansas City past Portland.

After eight lead changes and three ties in the fourth period, the Kings took the lead for good at 107-106 with three minutes left when Trail Blazers' center Sam Bowie was called for goaltending on a shot by Larry Drew, who had 16 points and 12 assists.

Kenny Carr led Portland with 30 points, while Kiki Vandeweghe added 23.

Pacers 109, Nets 108

Indiana won only its 20th game in 65 decisions as Clark Kellogg scored 21 points, including the go-ahead basket with 2:52 left against New Jersey.

The Nets took their first lead of the game, at 101-100, with 3:26 remaining on a basket by Otis Birdsong, who led all scorers with 31 points. After two more lead changes, Kellogg put the Pacers ahead to stay at 104-103.

Suns 123, Knicks 119

Kyle Macy hit 11 of 15 field-goal attempts and scored a season-high 30 points to lead Phoenix past New York.

The Knicks trailed 55-39 in the second quarter, but they cut the deficit to seven by halftime and then closed the gap to two in the third period as Bernard King scored 14 of his game-high 37 points in the quarter.

New York finally took a 111-110 lead in the fourth period before Maurice Lucas, who finished with 21 points, passed inside to Alvan Adams for a layup that put the Suns ahead to stay with 1:28 to go.

Warriors 145, Spurs 122

Purvis Short scored 40 points as Golden State posted its season-high point total in beating San Antonio, only the 18th victory in 64 starts for the Warriors.

Artis Gilmore led the Spurs with 23 points.

Local residents nominated

Seven Hereford and surrounding area volunteers have recently been nominated for the 7 Who Care Volunteer Recognition Program.

Merle Clark, Ofelia Estrada, Helen Langley, Eloise McDougal, Jewel Smith, Nell Culpepper and Lottie Wertemberger were submitted to KVII-TV and the Volunteer Action Center of Amarillo for consideration as one of the seven Outstanding Individuals who have made an impact on their community.

Each of the seven selected will receive $500 plus a bronze award. The organization for which they volunteer will also receive $500," announced Debra Patterson, director of the Volunteer Action Center. "Two hundred and seventy four individuals were nominated for 1985," she said. "The individuals' nomination forms were recently judged by a panel of 19 area community leaders, including Ed Coplen of Hereford."

The seven winners will be announced at an awards dinner to be televised on April 23 at 7:00 P.M. on KVII-TV.

Appliances in bathrooms can cause electrocutions

Use of electrical products in bathrooms requires caution to prevent needless deaths and injuries, particularly to children, warns the Texas Medical Association.

A recent article in the Journal of the American Medical Association says 95 people were electrocuted in U.S. bathtubs from 1979 through 1982. Sixty percent of these bathtub-related deaths were caused by hair dryers, followed by televisions and electrical wiring at 10 percent each. Of the hair dryer electrocutions, 65 percent were children 9 years and under.

These statistics emphasize the importance of disconnecting bathroom appliances when not in use, not using them in wet bathtubs, and keeping the appliances away from children.

The AMA journal article notes that electronic advances are moving toward reduction of water-related electrocutions involving electrical products.

"Ground-fault circuit interrupters" are being installed in newly built bathrooms, but cost has prevented the devices from being used in some electrical appliances like hair dryers. The interrupter is ineffective, however, when the appliance touches water-containing bathtubs that are not grounded.

More effective and less costly are "immersion detectors," which are being developed. They break the electrical circuit in a product that contacts water, whether grounded or not.

Until these electronic devices are widely available, an effective way of preventing bathroom electrocutions is to use common sense by keeping appliances away from water and children.

Farm Wildlife groups joining fight over farm policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A few groups usually more interested in wilderness and wildlife than in farmland and livestock have joined this year's fight over long-term agriculture policy.

The groups, led by the Sierra Club, vowed Monday to pull out all the stops in their efforts to make the 1985 farm bill a vehicle for major new initiatives against soil erosion.

"We're going to play hardball," said Robert Gray, policy director for the American Farmland Trust, one of the organizations involved in the lobbying campaign.

"It's time to straighten out the serious environmental problems caused by agricultural soil erosion, and it's going to take a major change of federal policy," Douglas Scott, the club's chief lobbyist, told a news conference.

Joined by influential interests like the Audubon Society, the National Wildlife Federation, the Izaak Walton League and the National Resources Defense Council, organizers will capitalize on their traditional base of support in a first-time effort to shape farm policy.

Scott said the groups will approach members of Congress who have been their allies on other conservation issues — primarily those from urban and suburban areas — and urge them to make conservation provisions a condition of support for the bill.

Rural lawmakers, particularly in the House, have long needed urban support in order to muster a majority for a farm bill. The last such ma-plan calls for idling 30 million acres of such delicate land, and paying individual farmers about $40 per acre per year to do so.

Sodbuster bills passed both houses of Congress last year but died when the House and Senate could not work out their differences on the legislation. Some form of the idea is expected to be written into this year's farm bill, with the blessing of the Reagan administration.

But conservationists acknowledged they will have a harder time selling the idea of a conservation reserve, which would have an up-front cost of more than $600 million, at a time when Congress and the administration are under heavy pressure to cut federal spending rather than expand it.

Scott said the issue is one of the Sierra Club's top legislative concerns this year and volunteer lobbyists will fan out on Capitol Hill this week distributing green notebooks packed with information on the soil erosion threat.

The problems that erosion creates are many, from the gradual weakening of the nation's food-resource base to the pollution of water and the silting in of rivers and harbors.

Organizers of the anti-erosion push said they will press those points hard, as well as claiming other benefits to farmers and the government. Idling land means surplus commodity production would be cut, enhancing crop prices, they said. And cuts in planted acreage also mean lower government outlays for price-support payments.

While the conservation reserve would cost money initially, Scott argued it would save some $1.6 billion over three years.

Nebraska Gov. Robert Kerrey addressed the volunteer lobbying force at a luncheon, urging them to back their facts and figures with an emotional appeal.

"You have to develop some passion" for the issue, the Democratic governor said, adding that he supports most of the groups' initiatives.

"We've got to try to imagine what it would be like to be without food. ... We've got to develop that kind of urgency. We're far too comfortable, we're far too well fed, we're far too secure" to convey the need for strict laws regulating cultivation of erosive land.

The Agriculture Department says some 100 million acres of U.S. cropland is washing away at a rate faster than the soil can be replaced through natural processes. Some 33 million acres of that, or 8 percent of total cropland, is so erosion-prone that no amount of care can keep it from washing away when tilled, the department says.

Historian says farm crisis situation similar to that of pre-Depression era

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixty years ago, jobs were plentiful, movies silent and flappers noisy. Calvin Coolidge was in the White House, business boomed and American farmers went broke.

Some experts see strong parallels between that farm crisis, which often is ranked as the single most important cause of the Great Depression, and the one that is sweeping American agriculture today.

"If I was to pick a date, I'd say maybe right now we're about like we were in 1925 when farm prices were going up and down, prices of land were going down, and a lot of farmers were just sliding into bankruptcy," says Agriculture Department historian Wayne D. Rasmussen.

"It wasn't bad all over yet, but it was getting there — and it went on down."

This year's crisis, he said, is the worst of the century, "aside from the Great Depression of the late '20s and '30s. But that was so much worse that there's really no comparison."

From 1929 to 1931, there were about 25 foreclosures for every 1,000 farms. Today, the rate is running at about 2.5 foreclosures for every 1,000 farms.

Today, thousands of farmers are overloaded with debt. They can borrow no more. In some cases, the value of a farmer's land, machinery, buildings, livestock and grain is less than what's owed.

With their assets declining, farmers have less to borrow against. And the bills continue piling up.

But answers to 1985's predicament are elusive. Huge costs are weighed against budget deficits and the general welfare of the nation.

The Reagan administration and Congress, which have skirmished over short-term credit relief for farmers, are gearing up for the main battle this year over new farm legislation.

If the administration's plan prevails, there will be a new 15-year farm law that phases down some favored price support mechanisms in its first five years.

The goal is to have a "market-oriented" policy in which farmers will rely more on free markets for their incomes and less on government programs — which totaled a record $63.3 billion in the four years of the current law passed in 1981.

The administration's bill bears the same title, except for the date, as the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933, which created the modern system of farm price supports. The 1985 version would wind them down and out.

According to USDA, in 1983 when there were 2.37 million farms, about 1.7 million of them marketed less than $40,000 worth of product annually. Altogether, those smaller farms accounted for only 14 percent of the total sales of crops and livestock in the United States.

The middle group consisted of about 641,000 farms that sold $40,000 to $500,000 worth of products each year, accounting for about 58 percent of the total farm marketings. Some 24,000 superfarms with annual sales of over $500,000 accounted for 29 percent.

Department officials say most of the problem is with the middle group, the $40,000-to-$500,000 farms which are basically the commercial family farms of the United States.

Randy Russell, a USDA economist and senior policy aide, said an estimated 114,000 of the middle-group farms have debt asset ratios of 40 to 70 percent. That means for every $100 in asset value the farmer owes $40 to $70. An additional 64,000 farms in that category owe more than $70 per $100 worth of assets.

Although highly leveraged farms are found in all parts of the country, the greatest concentration is the Corn Belt, Lake States, and northern Great Plains, where some of the greatest declines in land values have taken place.

Export estimates drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time in less than a month, the Agriculture Department has revised downward this year's estimate of U.S. agricultural exports, a key item in today's farm balance sheet.

Officials said Tuesday the $1 billion dip in export prospects was due to "intense competition from other suppliers in the face of modest foreign demand."

The competition includes larger supplies of soybeans in South America, notably Brazil, the major U.S. competitor in world oilseed markets. China and Argentina also are boosting corn shipments.

Exports for the year that began last Oct. 1 are forecast now at $34.5 billion, down 9 percent from $38 billion in 1983-84, the report said. On Feb. 20, exports were expected to be $35.5 billion this year. That was also a $1 billion revision from USDA's previous export forecast of $36.5 billion in December.

"Contributing to the reduced forecast are sluggish world demand for soybeans, lagging wheat sales, and a continued shift away from U.S. corn in major markets," the report said.

According to USDA records, the revised forecast would put farm commodity exports at the lowest value level since 1978-79 when they were more than $31.9 billion.

Export values rose to record levels for a dozen consecutive years to a peak of $43.8 billion in 1980-81 before turning down to $39.1 billion in 1981-82 and to $34.8 billion in 1982-83. They increased to $38 billion in 1983-84 before starting the current slump.

The actual quantities of shipments also have slipped to a total of 142.5 million metric tons now forecast for this year, compared with 145.5 million tons indicated last month. Shipments in 1983-84 were 143.6 million tons, the peak was more than 160 million tons exported annually 1980 and 1981.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds. Imports of agricultural products, meanwhile, are expected to be a record $19.5 billion this year, up from $18.9 billion in 1983-84.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISPOSAL PERMIT

HEREFORD GRAIN CORP., P.O. Box 910, Hereford, Texas 79045 has applied to the Texas Department of Water Resources for a permit (Proposed Permit No. 02763) to authorize the disposal of washwater by evaporation at approximately 6000 gallons per month during the months of March, April, and August. The applicant proposes to collect and evaporate washwater that has been used to clean equipment employed in the application of liquid fertilizer and herbicides. Washwater will drain from a concrete wash-down pad into an adjacent evaporation basin. No discharge of pollutants into the waters of the State is authorized by this permit.

The plant site is northwest of the intersection of FM 1062 and U.S. Highway 385 and approximately 10 miles north of the City of Hereford in Deaf Smith County, Texas. The evaporation basin is in the drainage basin of Palo Duro Creek; thence to Palo Duro Club Lake; thence to Lake Tanglewood; thence to Prairie Dog Town Fork Red River in Segment 0207 of the Red River Basin.

Legal Authority: Section 26.028 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, and 31 TAC 341 of the Rules of the Texas Department of Water Resources.

No public hearing will be held on this application unless an affected person who has received notice of the application has requested a public hearing. Any such request for a public hearing shall be in writing and contain (1) the name, mailing address and phone number of the person making the request; and (2) a brief description of how the requester, or persons represented by the requester, would be adversely affected by the granting of the application. If the Commission determines that the request sets out an issue which is relevant to the permit decision, or that a public hearing would serve the public interest, the Commission shall conduct a public hearing, after the issuance of proper and timely notice of the hearing. If no sufficient request for hearing is received within 30 days of the date of publication of the notice concerning the application, the permit will be submitted to the Commission for final decision on the application.

Leukemia victim searches for siblings' bone marrow

HOUSTON (AP) — A leukemia victim is searching for two siblings who can contribute the bone marrow that doctors say will give him the only good chance of surviving the disease.

Steven Akin, 24, of Victoria, Texas, was diagnosed as having leukemia in 1983, and doctors now say his chances of survival are small without a transplant of compatible bone marrow.

Only brothers and sisters, physicians say, have bone marrow that would be compatible.

Akin was adopted as an infant and only recently learned that he has two siblings he never has met. He hopes somehow to find them.

"This is my only chance for a cure," Akin said. "My remissions will get shorter and shorter and eventually there will be no remissions."

He said his doctors at the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute told him that without the bone-marrow transplant "there is only a very slim chance."

Akin and his twin sister, Sandra Campbell, were put up for adoption as infants and were taken in by their step-parents when they were 9 months old. The brother and sister only recently learned that another sister, Winna Miller, grew up in their same neighborhood.

Attempts to check birth records in Chicago have been fruitless.

"The hospitals keep saying they can't give out any information," said Mrs. Akin. "We keep running into dead ends."

Mrs. Akin said she has obtained a 1957 Chicago telephone directory and is calling adoption agencies listed in the book, but has had no luck so far.

Akin received chemotherapy last year and spent six weeks isolated in a germ-free bubble because the powerful chemical suppressed his immune system. At the end of the treatment, most of the mature leukemia cells died, but he said the disease returned.

"Any transplant must be of compatible bone marrow; otherwise it can trigger a condition called graft-versus-host disease in which immunity cells from the transplant attack the host body."

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

BLUE LAW REPEAL

AUSTIN — Texas' so-called "Blue Laws" have been the subject of controversy for more than a decade now. If two senators have their way, the controversy soon may be over.

Sens. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, and Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, have introduced legislation that would repeal most of the Blue Laws that currently prohibit the sale of certain items on Sunday. If their legislation is approved, only automobiles would continue to fall under the purview of the Blue Laws.

The rationale for this legislation is understandable. The senators believe that increasing the number of items that can be sold on Sunday would increase tax revenues for the state by about $13 billion. Since Texas' budget currently is strapped, any revenue-enhancing measure must be taken seriously.

Farabee and Mauzy also have solid reasoning for continuing to restrict the sale of automobiles on Sunday. State Comptroller Bob Bullock has estimated the tax gains from Sunday sales of cars and trucks would be almost negligible compared to the tax gains from Sunday sales of other items.

This Blue Law repeal bill also includes one very admirable measure. It provides safeguards against exploitation of workers. No worker can be forced to work seven consecutive days without a corresponding amount of time off.

It is clear Sens. Farabee and Mauzy have tried with this bill to address the concerns of their colleagues concerning a possible Blue Law repeal. Still, there are lingering questions, questions that are of vital importance to District 31.

Paramount among those questions is the fate of "mom and pop" shops. These shops once were considered the backbone of America's free enterprise system, operating strictly as family businesses, often catering primarily to the owners' neighborhood.

What was expected to be a close vote, resembling the two-vote difference in '83, turned into a lopsided 96-52 massacre as the Texas House of Representatives voted against passing the horse-betting bill to third reading.

And in the shocked aftermath, opponents quickly sealed the bill's fate by winning a motion "to reconsider and table" it, a little used parliamentary procedure that makes a two-thirds vote necessary before the bill can be brought up again for consideration. Several pro-gambling freshmen legislators were confused by the motion and found out afterwards they had voted against their issue.

Although the bill's House sponsor and Speaker Gib Lewis pronounced the bill "dead" for the remainder of the session, other members think the bill may yet be revived in the Senate, where Ike Harris, R-Dallas, has pledged to push forward.

Harris chairs the powerful Economic Development Committee, and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby also favors the issue. Speaker Lewis went so far to publicly advise Hobby to drop the issue as "dead", but speculation has it that Hobby might also try to revitalize the bill.

boiled to its essence, it is one of free enterprise. Would a repeal of the Blue Law be a victory for free enterprise, a removal of unfair restraints on trade? Or, would repeal represent one of free enterprise's darkest hours, the legislated abolition of the very businesses that helped build this country?

The answer to such questions do not come easy. The repeal issue is not one to be weighed lightly.

We have been polling the district for the last several weeks on this and other issues. If you haven't taken the time yet to fill out a poll, please do. Or, write to Sen. Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Tx 78711.

Even if the Senate approves, as it did last session, the two-thirds barrier still remains in the House, a quota higher than the strongest coalition tally that pro-gambling forces have put together.

And that coalition crumbled into pieces last week following a dismantling of the bill's welfare provisions in committee. Bowing to the wishes of the horse racing industry, panelists deleted the section directing part of every racetrack's proceeds to child welfare. That section was important to minority lawmakers who had withheld support in '83 until it was included.

Even though the gambling lobbyists tried to appease them by guaranteeing a percentage of racetrack stock to minority investors, the Black lawmakers in particular weren't buying in. And the substitute was similar enough to affirmative action to repel most of the Republican legislators.

Many legislators will support parimutuel betting only if they know it will pass. They don't want to face the folks back home after voting aye on a controversial issue that failed. When the Blacks and Republicans kept the bill from the 76 votes needed for a majority, several sunshine supporters quickly defected and changed their votes before the official count.

Senate Action

Last week in the Senate: —Lawmakers approved a bill allowing criminal background checks on the estimated 100,000 child-care employees in Texas.

—The State Affairs Committee heard mixed testimony on the open container bill.

—The Education Committee considered several bills to abolish or amend the new no-pass-no-play rule which was part of last year's controversial reform package.

Mail carrier died of two gunshot wounds

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas (AP) — There was no evidence that Houston mail carrier Debora Sue Schatz had been sexually attacked or beaten before she was shot to death last June, a medical examiner has said in district court.

Harris County assistant medical examiner Vladimir Parungao testified Tuesday that Ms. Schatz died of two gunshot wounds to the head.

Parungao testified that he performed an autopsy on Ms. Schatz's body June 9, 1984, two days after she was killed. "It is my opinion that Debora Sue Schatz came to her death through gunshot wounds, two, to the head," Parungao said.

The case has drawn heavy publicity because Port's parents were jailed after they refused to testify before a grand jury.

Both have since been released, but were being held while Port was free on $20,000 bond. Neither has been subpoenaed to testify in the trial and neither has appeared in the courtroom since the case began more than two weeks ago.

Parungao testified that he performed an autopsy on Ms. Schatz's body June 9, 1984, two days after she was killed. "It is my opinion that Debora Sue Schatz came to her death through gunshot wounds, two, to the head," Parungao said.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro lobbied the Congress to protect the Veterans Land Program in Texas by repealing a provision which wipes out the program for some vets in 1990.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower spoke to a Jefferson Memorial rally of farmers lobbying for higher farm supports. Hightower continued his attacks on President Reagan, calling him "stupid" and accusing him of committing "economic genocide" against farmers.

Prosecution Rests

Meanwhile, in the felony commercial bribery trial of Attorney General Jim Mattox, the prosecution rested after their prime witness testified Mattox tried to get him to call off the trial.

Then Mattox's defense lawyer began his tact of portraying the attorney general as a man just doing his job before heated exchanges between him and a Houston law firm led to this trial.

Mattox is accused of threatening to harm the firm's bond business to make them back off from deposing his sister. Mattox says he didn't make the threat, and his defense tried to show his actions never resembled backing up such a threat.

Troubled Governor

Even some of Gov. Mark White's supporters now regard him as "in trouble" politically, and he wasn't helped much last week when the public learned he paid a former water commissioner almost $10,000 for a 23-page report containing information readily available at state agencies.

Former commissioner John Stover of Lufkin, an appointee of White's predecessor Bill Clements, said he received the contract after White promised to help when he resigned to let White appoint a successor.

White denied he gave Stover the contract as reward for his resignation, to fulfill any promise, or to ease his transition into private life.
