State lawmakers finish, big changes in store

AUSTIN (AP) — The 1985 Legislature finally has written it: The End.

Lawmakers — their stay under the Capitol dome extended beyond the regular session deadline to create a medical care plan for the poor — are headed for home.

At home, their fellow Texans will notice some big changes soon.

—If you've got money to spend, you can spend it on Sundays — unless you want a new car.

—If you do buy a car, it will be more expensive to use. The price is going up for a driver's license, a safety inspection sticker and personalized license plates.

—If you're a teen-ager planning to attend a state university, plan on spending more. Tuition's going to triple this fall.

—If that's enough to drive a teen to drink, wait. The legal drinking age is going up too.

Lawmakers also decided to spend more money than ever before.

The pricetag for state government and its programs for the next two years reads $36.83 billion, a 13 percent increase over the $32.48 billion budgeted for 1984-85.

Officially, officials think it was a great year.

"I think we have come close to having one of the finest sessions that we've ever had," Gov. Mark White concluded five hours before he called lawmakers back into a special session to create the indigent health care program.

"It may be one of the best sessions in my lifetime, certainly in my memory. They've done an extraordinary job in accomplishing goals that were set for them in the beginning of the session," White said.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, gave the session a high rating.

"I think it was a very businesslike session. People took their job very seriously. I'd give it a good A," he said.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who has presided over the Senate since 1973, concluded that the 1985 Legislature was "historic" and may "always be remembered" for passing a statewide water plan.

Asked about their achievements, almost all legislative leaders pointed to the $1 billion water plan. But that plan will do nothing unless voters approve it in November.

If voters do agree, bonds can be issued for more than $1 billion in water development, conservation and research projects and loans.

The governor pointed to the balanced $36.8 billion budget as a key achievement. He noted that lawmakers were facing a potential budget deficit when the session began on Jan. 8, but managed to find enough money without a tax increase.

The budget will include $953 million in spending for the state's prisons. Some $178 million of that will be spent to build new jail cells and repair existing facilities, improvements needed to comply with an agreement that settled a 13-year-old prison reform lawsuit.

The budget also includes $6.84 billion for state colleges and universities, 98 percent of what they got the last two years. To reach that total, lawmakers decided to triple college tuition this fall — from $4 per semester hour to $12 — with more hikes scheduled for later.

To help balance the budget, the fees charged by state government for services were increased a total of $146 million.

Among the hikes: four-year drivers' licenses from $10 to $16; auto safety inspections from $5.25 to $7.75 a year; personal license plates from $25 to $75; civil court filing fees from $25 to $75.

Sunday shopping will be legal, as the governor has said he will sign the bill to repeal the 24-year-old Blue Law. Only auto dealers will be forced to close on Sundays when the bill Sept. 1.

Buckling to federal pressure, lawmakers approved legislation to require drivers and front-seat passengers in most cars and pickup trucks to wear their seatbelts.

Federal pressure — in the form of a threat to withhold highway money — also helped convince the Legislature to approve raising the legal age for drinking alcohol from 19 to 21, beginning in September 1986.

After years of struggle, Texas farmworkers won the right to be paid the same kind of unemployment compensation benefits that most other workers already receive when laid off.

Lawmakers also got tougher on criminals.

They voted to: expand the death penalty to murderers who kill several people at once or in a series of slayings; extend the law permitting wiretaps in drug cases; revive the law requiring triplicate prescriptions, so police can see copies of drugs being prescribed.

Some of the biggest actions of the 1985 Legislature involved bills that didn't pass.

Lawmakers squelched a proposal to permit pari-mutuel gambling on horse racing and a bid to have the state begin a lottery never got out of committee.

Attempts to permit alimony for the first time to displaced homemakers was killed.

Efforts to have Texas establish a presidential primary in March — which backers said would make the state more influential in national politics — got hung up in a fight over whether to also hold state primaries earlier.

A bid by banks to be allowed to charge fees for credit cards zipped through the Senate, but died in a House committee.

Neither the House nor Senate OK'd a bill that would have liberalized laws limiting homeowners who might want to use their homes equity as collateral for loans.

As always, many more bills died than were passed. Not even the speaker of the House was exempt from disappointment.

Summing up the session, Lewis said, "If I was grading papers in school I'd give it an A. I wouldn't give it an A-plus because some of my pet projects probably didn't get passed. But I'd give it high marks."

Adopted People

Having someone special to visit means a lot to the people involved in an adoptive grandparent program conducted through the Hereford Big Brothers Big Sisters. Eva Peacock, Michelle Emerson, Nora Mata and Lucille Carter visit every two weeks to give and receive love. Director Alva Lee Peeler started the program for children waiting for a surrogate sibling.

New director seeing results in BB-BS

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

"Everyone I see, they have to listen to me talk about Big Brothers-Big Sisters," says Alva Lee Peeler, the new director of that organization. That's no exaggeration.

She will tell about kids who have been waiting for six years just to be matched with an older friend.

She will tell about a Big Sister who once was a Little Sister in the program.

She will talk about the last group party the organization had, or she will talk about the next one that is planned.

She will probably squeeze in a plug for this fall's art soiree which raises money for the program.

And, of course, she will ask if you might like to become a Big Brother or Big Sister yourself.

Volunteers nearly double

She's not all talk either. Since taking her post on April 1, the number of kids matched has nearly doubled and more volunteers are waiting to be approved. She added 12 volunteers and has 9 applications pending approval.

She jumped into her job like a frog into water. Her first two days, she said she spent going through the files at the office. Then she visited homes of waiting children to get a feel of what each one needed in a surrogate sibling.

"Some had been waiting for several years," Peeler said. "One has been waiting for six years. I was surprised they still had faith in adults."

The number of matches zoomed so fast, that the national director flew down from New York to make sure all the volunteers were being screened properly.

"Hereford is a caring town," Peeler explained. "All you have to do is let it know the need."

"As for as the numbers, we could have hundreds if we had the volunteers," she said.

According to Peeler, the needs are simple for Big Brothers Big Sisters.

"We don't expect Wonderland Park trips and such," she said. Peeler asks only that volunteers spend an hour or two a week with the children on a one-to-one basis either just talking or doing something both persons like. The emphasis is on communication and attention, which are often lacking in some single parent homes. An outside adult can often help a child or teen in ways the parent never could. The adult friend may be the only way for some kids to feel important.

In the meantime, she has a couple of little girls who have been "adopted" as grandchildren of women at Kings Manor. Sewing and birdwatching, puzzles and games, and lots of talk are helping the girls learn to give and receive love. Peeler said she has already seen confidence grow in the girls, just from hour-long visits every two weeks.

Peeler said it's important for the children in the program to get to know each other, too. A party a month is in the planning at least for the summer, she said. In May, 42 people participated in a gym night.

Once Peeler has the volunteer signed up, it is still about a six week wait for them to be matched. She must get reference letters, run a law enforcement check, and conduct an

Inhalant arrest made

Hereford police arrested a local man for inhaling an intoxicating substance Thursday. The suspect was turned in by his brother for sniffing copper colored paint from a soft drink can.

Police also made an arrest for public intoxication and criminal mischief after a man beat on the side of a neighbor's trailer house with his fists.

The driver of a carload of young men was arrested on four charges Thursday—driving while intoxicated, fleeing from police, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and for having no driver's license. One of the passengers in his car was arrested for minor in consumption of alcohol.

A local electronics store reported the theft of a VCR tape, which together with back rent due on other tapes returned late amounted to $252.61.

Police also investigated the theft of a color television from a local motel and responded to the report of a window peeper.

Sheriff's deputies investigated a juvenile complaint, a family dispute and a dog problem. They also took a theft report from a local lumber company, which is missing a hand-saw and an air conditioner.

At least 40 die of cholera in Bangladesh

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — At least 40 people have died of cholera during the last two days on the coastal islands of southern Bangladesh where a vicious storm killed an estimated 10,000 people, newspapers said today.

The Bengal-language newspaper Sangbad said at least 25 people died of cholera in Sonagazi, a city about 150 miles south of the capital hit hard by Saturday's storm.

The semi-official Bengali daily Dainik Bangla reported 15 cholera deaths on Sandwip Island, also battered by the storm and tidal waves. There was no official comment on the report.

Sangbad quoted authorities at Sonagazi as saying they were doing everything possible to check outbreaks of cholera and diarrhea. They were quoted as saying medical teams were inoculating people and distributing water purifying tablets, drinking water, and drugs.

The Public Health Engineering Department in Dhaka said it was digging 500 new wells to ensure supplies of clean drinking water.

President Hossain M. Ershad said Thursday that people living around the Bay of Bengal were warned that a storm was coming, but that they clung to their land and homes. He estimates more than 10,000 died in the storms.

"The warning was there. But they didn't want to leave... They had their chickens, their homes," said Ershad, the martial law ruler since 1982.

William R. Joslin, director of the U.S. Agency for International Development's office in Dhaka, said that based on a helicopter tour he was certain at least 10,000 died.

A government spokesman in Dhaka said today he believed the vast majority of the dead were children, many of whose names may not be among the more than 4,000 people listed as missing.

Dozens of survivors on Urir Char told of children lost in the storms. Some children huddled among mostly adult survivors.

Hereford man gets 8 years

A Hereford man pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter and was sentenced to eight years in the Texas Department of Corrections Thursday in Randall County's 181st District Court.

Thomas Ray Deas, 37, had been charged in connection with a July 19, 1984 accident that killed Amarillo firefighter Elmer Earl Roberts.

Deas had also been charged with bail jumping after failing to appear at a Jan. 31 hearing, but the bail jumping charge was dismissed as part of a plea bargain arrangement with the Randall County Criminal District Attorney's Office.

Deas was accused of being intoxicated at the time of the crash on U.S. Highway 60 just west of Canyon. Deas and Robert's wife, Bobbie, were injured in the crash.

Involuntary manslaughter carries a punishment range of two to 10 years in prison and a maximum fine of $5,000.

Ammonia tank explosion investigated

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Southern-Henke Co. has called in a group of consultants to determine why an ammonia tank exploded at the company's ice manufacturing plant, killing four and injuring at least 21.

Arson investigators spent part of the day Thursday at the plant, inspecting the damage and trying to come up with a cause for the deadly explosion.

But investigator Raymond Trevino said officials do not know "if it was human error or equipment failure. It's going to be a question of testing, possibly for days and weeks."

Another investigator, Santiago Garcia, said fire officials may never know the cause of the accident.

The blast originated from a 1.5-ton ammonia tank that lost pressure and "took off like a rocket," he said.

The Wednesday explosion ripped a 40-foot hole in a concrete block wall in the plant, killing four workers and injuring at least 15 firefighters and six passersby overcome by ammonia fumes.

Garcia said the 10-foot by 2.5-foot tank somehow lost pressure and flew 90 feet, taking off "like a back blast of a rocket."

The plant was using ammonia as a coolant to make 300-pound bars of ice.

Southern-Henke vice president Charles Lander said his company has called in consultants to inspect the blast site and come up with a cause.

Lander said no damage estimate has been set for the explosion.

Settlement offered in nuclear plant suit

HOUSTON (AP) — Brown & Root officials say they hoped to return to business as usual in the wake of the company's $750 million settlement offer to the four owners of the South Texas Nuclear Project.

Attorneys say the offer is the largest cash settlement in history, and if approved by a state court and the Public Utilities Commission, would end a 1981 breach-of-contract suit involving more than 30 million documents and $100 million in legal fees.

"We can now focus our energy on working for our customers rather than the lawyers," Brown & Root President T. Louis Rustin said Thursday after the Houston-based construction firm's agreement was announced.

The settlement calls for Brown & Root, a subsidiary of Dallas-based Halliburton Co., to pay $630 million to Houston Lighting & Power, San Antonio City Public Service and Central Power and Light of Corpus Christi.

The city of Austin, the fourth owner in the project, has not decided yet whether it will accept its share of the settlement. If it rejects its $120 million, Halliburton said it is prepared to "defend the litigation vigorously."

The utilities and Austin, which operates that city's electrical service, alleged in a $6.3 billion breach-of-contract suit that construction of the plant was mishandled by Brown & Root.

The owners fired Brown & Root, which had had no experience as a nuclear contractor when the project began, as design engineer at the project in 1981 and the company then resigned as construction contractor. Bechtel Corp. was hired to replace Brown & Root.

Ban on 'Ecstasy' drug to be announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who earlier this month sought an emergency ban on "Ecstasy" will get his wish today when the Drug Enforcement Administration announces it is making the drug illegal as of July 1, according to sources.

A source at DEA who asked not to be identified said Thursday that the agency would announce the ban on the drug MDMA at a news conference scheduled for today.

DEA Acting Administrator John C. Lawn signed an order placing the drug under Schedule 1 of the Controlled Substances Act last Tuesday, said another source who also didn't want to be quoted before the DEA's official announcement.

Schedule 1 includes the most dangerous drugs, such as heroin.

Possession of a "trace" of a Schedule 1 drug could net a first-time offender 15 years in prison and a $125,000 fine, a DEA spokesman said.

DEA was granted the emergency power under the Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1984. It has been used only once before, when DEA banned so-called "synthetic heroin" — methylpentanyl — in March.

According to one source, DEA has information about parties held in Texas to organize "pyramid" sales of MDMA. Participants paid $20 for a sample tablet and were recruited to find other sellers of the legal drug, the source said.

Bentsen wrote to Lawn earlier this month asking for the emergency ban on "Ecstasy." Its official name is 3,4-methylenedioxymethamphetamine.

The drug will continue to undergo tests while the emergency ban remains in effect for one year. DEA will likely seek to make the ban permanent, after hearings this summer, said one source.

60 injured in train collision in London

LONDON (AP) — An express train from Gatwick Airport rammed the rear of a commuter train en route to Victoria Station today and 60 people were injured, three of them seriously, British Rail reported.

Service into and out of Victoria Station, one of the British capital's busiest rail terminals, was continuing, though with substantial delays, a spokesman for the state-owned rail network said.

The Gatwick Express runs every 15 minutes between the airport and London.

It was not known how many people were aboard the express, or the commuter train from East Grinstead, in West Sussex, southwest of London.

There was no immediate indication why the crash occurred.

Shiite Moslems proclaim cease-fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Moslem forces proclaimed a unilateral cease-fire today in their 12-day-old war against Palestinian guerrillas for control of Beirut's refugee camps that has claimed more than 400 lives.

The one-sided truce came amid reports that Syrian President Hafez Assad has agreed to send his army back to Beirut to halt the bloody battles in the camps and snuff out Lebanon's 10-year Christian-Moslem civil war as well.

Police said eight people were killed and 62 wounded in overnight fighting that preceded Amal's ceasefire declaration. This raised the known casualty toll to 427 killed and 1,956 injured since the camps war erupted May 19.

The Shiites attacked the Beirut refugee camps in a bid to prevent them from again becoming a stronghold of Palestinian guerrillas. Hundreds of Palestinian guerrillas are reported to have filtered back into the camps since they were driven out by the 1982 Israel invasion.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A week after he was re-elected to the Senate last fall, Howell Heflin took his wife on a five-day cruise to the Bahamas paid by three cruise ship companies.

Aide Mike House said the Alabama Democrat undertook the "fact-finding mission" to learn about the problems of the cruise ship industry. On the ship, Heflin, then a member of the merchant marine subcommittee, met with Cruise industry representatives "to talk about their problems," House said.

The Heflins' transportation, lodging and meals were paid by the Norwegian Caribbean Lines, Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines and Carnival Cruise Lines, according to the senator's 1984 financial disclosure report filed last month.

House and Senate rules allow lawmakers to like Heflin, vice chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Ethics, to accept reimbursement for trips sponsored by private companies, foreign governments or trade groups provided they participate in a conference, make a speech, or take an educational tour.

But some question the propriety of lawmakers accepting trips from interest groups.

"They may not be illegal, but they raise ethical questions in many cases," said Nancy Drabble, executive director of Congress Watch, a consumer lobbying group often critical of Capitol Hill practices.

"Certainly it's going to influence a member if he has a good time in Europe and somebody is paying."

She says Heflin's trip is "just an example of somebody taking advantage of their status as a senator to take a vacation on a cruise ship. I'm sure he had a lot of time to think about the problems of the cruise ship industry while he was getting a sun tan."

On their annual financial disclosure forms, at least 65 lawmakers reported taking domestic and foreign trips courtesy of private organizations or corporations in 1984. Most trips were to make speeches, but many were educational tours.

Last year, at least 16 lawmakers went to Taiwan as guests of the Republic of China or private foundations and universities.

Seven others went to Israel, courtesy of such organizations as the Georgetown University Center for Strategic and International Studies or B'nai B'rith.

The South African Foundation arranged for trips to South Africa by several members of Congress over the last 18 months.

The foundation, a group financed by businesses in white-ruled South Africa, says it wants to give American lawmakers an understanding of the country, where 22 million blacks are denied political and social rights.

"I can only think it is in our best interest that they are better informed," said John Montgomery, the foundation's deputy director. Montgomery said the money for the trips in 1984 and 1985 came from several business organizations, including South Africa's Federated Chamber of Industries and Association of Chambers of Commerce.

Among those reporting trips to South Africa on the 1984 disclosure forms were Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho; Rep. Dan Burton, R-Ind.; and Rep. Manuel J. Lujan Jr., R-N.M.

Asked about the financing of his January 1985 trip to South Africa, Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., said, "I much prefer to do that than go at taxpayer expense."

Costa Rica cultivates 85,000 acres of bananas

SIQUIRRES, Costa Rica (AP) — Bananas and cornflakes, banana cream pie, banana custard, bananas flambe, chocolate-covered bananas, fried bananas, pureed bananas.

"Yes, we have no bananas."

"Have you gone bananas?"

A vaudevillian pratfall cause by, what else? a banana peel.

Ah, the ubiquitous banana — a storied fruit grown around the earth's tropical girdle, a favored food of man and monkey, celebrated in song, captured in American slang and the indispensable prop in countless comedic routines.

It has even given its name to some countries: Banana Republics.

Costa Rica, the first country in Central America to export the soft, creamy fruit, cultivates more than 85,000 acres of bananas. Most of the land is owned by three giant companies: Standard Fruit, a division of Castle and Cooke; United Brands, once known as the United Fruit Co. of Boston, and Bandeco, a division of Del Monte.

The bananas are grown primarily on coastal plantations in Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras and Guatemala.

Bananas were first introduced to payer expense."

Added Burton, "My vote is not going to be affected by whoever takes me."

As a member of the House leadership, Majority Whip Thomas Foley is more well traveled than most congressmen.

The Washington Democrat reported he was flown to Brussels on Jan. 9, 1984, by the Georgetown center to participate in a conference.

On Jan. 19, Foley and his wife were flown by the American Bar Association to Montego Bay, Jamaica, where he addressed the ABA.

On Feb. 15, the Aspen Institute, a non-profit think tank, flew the Foleys to West Germany where he participated in a conference and visited Cologne, Frankfurt and Berlin.

On March 4, he was in Miami delivering a speech to the Futures Industry Association.

On April 17 he was flown to the Virgin Islands to give a speech. The trip was paid by BATUS, a Louisville, Ky.-based conglomerate that owns Brown and Williamson Tobacco Co.

On Nov. 17, Whitman College of Walla Walla, Wash., flew him to Tokyo and then to Singapore in connection with the college's fundraising activities.

Press Secretary Bill First said Foley takes more trips than most because "as a senior member he is more in demand as a speaker." First rejected the criticism of such trips leveled by Congress Watch.

"I don't think that the acceptance of an honoraria (for speechmaking) or a trip necessarily means anything," First said.

"Whether or not it influences a congressman depends on the character of the lawmaker."

"I think Congress Watch is making an assumption that the mere acceptance of an honorarium is somehow sinister."

City pool to open Saturday

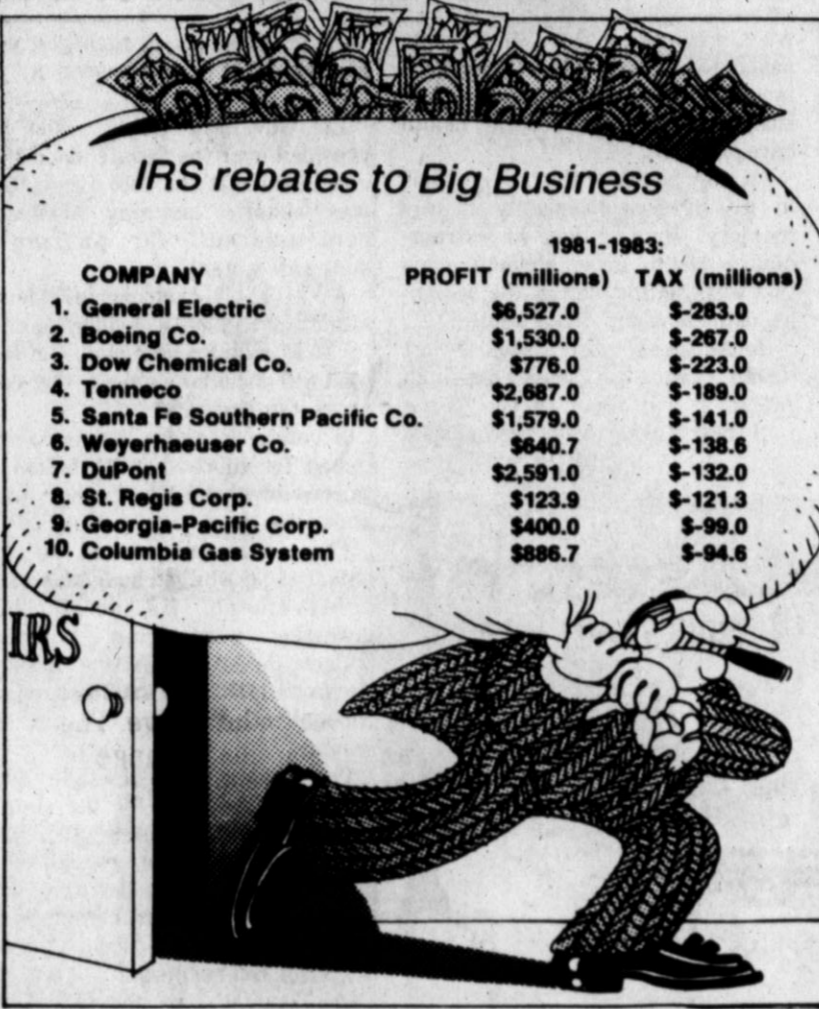

The Hereford city swimming pool opens for the summer season Saturday at 2 p.m. As usual, the pool will be open for public customers from 2 to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

All swimmers must wear regular swim suits. Cut-off jeans and other such attire will not be permitted.

The pool is also available for private parties, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. nightly.

The Red Cross will conduct swimming lessons throughout the summer, with dates to be announced later.

Tax proposal includes end of presidential election checkoff

Problem Pregnancy Center dedication set for Saturday

A dedication ceremony for the opening of Problem Pregnancy Center will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at 505 E. Park Avenue.

City clergymen have been invited to participate in the dedication, which is open to the public.

The center will open for summer hours of 10 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 3, and from 10 until 2 p.m. on Saturdays. Free confidential pregnancy testing and counseling for women of all ages will be offered.

"Confidentiality is one of our key words at the center and one of our top priorities," said Janie Banner, one of the volunteer staffers.

Two staffers will be on duty at all times, Banner said, adding that the center has a hotline number after hours. The office phone is 364-2027 and the hotline number is 364-5299.

The general election checkoff permits people with income tax liabilities to use $1 of that liability to finance the presidential campaigns. The checkoff, used by about 25 percent of all taxpayers, does not cost the taxpayer anything and provides the sole source of money for the campaigns.

The Reagan tax plan says the checkoff is "unrelated to the purposes of the income tax and is a source of complexity for taxpayers."

"For the many taxpayers who do not understand its purpose or effect, the checkoff is a source of confusion," the proposal says. "In addition, the checkoff complicates tax form."

The checkoff provided $35 million to candidates in the 1984 election. It would be repealed beginning in tax year 1986 under the Reagan plan.

"Repeal of the checkoff would eliminate public funds for presidential campaigns unless direct appropriations were provided," the plan says. Congress could appropriate money for the fund.

Western reporters are barred from Afghanistan and there is no way to confirm the reports independently.

Majrooh and the guerrillas said the resistance can do little but withdraw in the face of the Soviet armored columns, which follow bomb and rocket

"They have nothing to hit back with against something like this," Majrooh said.

But a member of the Yunis Khalis resistance group, who like other guerrillas asked not to be identified for security reasons, said losses on both sides had been heavy.

Guerrilla officials declined to say Thursday how many fighters they have in the border area. Western intelligence estimate there are some 200,000 guerrillas, or Mujahadeen, in Afghanistan. But only about 50,000 are said to be full-time fighters.

Mary Kay Cosmetics announces proposal

DALLAS (AP) — Mary Kay Ash, founder of Mary Kay Cosmetics Inc., has proposed a $381 million plan to buy back her company and return it to "family ownership," officials announced.

Mrs. Ash, board chairwoman, along with her son Richard R. Rogers, president and chief executive officer, led an investor group of senior management in proposing the buyout, company spokesman Dean Meadors said THURSDAY.

"The company's chairman and president indicated their proposal is based on their desire to return the company to family ownership on a basis that provides fair treatment to all shareholders of the company," the company said in a prepared statement.

Under the plan, shareholders would receive $10 in cash and $8.15 in principal amount of subordinated debentures for each of the approximately 21 million publicly held shares, Meadors said.

Mary Kay, which produces and markets cosmetics and skin care products directly to customers, had first quarter net earnings of $5.6 million, or 19 cents a share, on net sales of $60.4 million, Meadors said.

Mrs. Ash, along with Rogers and other members of senior management involved in the buyout, currently own 30 percent of the company's shares, Meadors said.

"This group will make a substantial investment in the ongoing company through the acquisition by them of equity, and subordinated debt totalling $127 million, which will provide a significant portion of the necessary financing."

The remaining financing will come primarily from banks, including the Bank of New York, which has agreed to provide a significant portion of the bank financing and to act as agent in assembling a bank group, the announcement said.

Mary Kay had 1984 net income of $33.8 million on revenues of $277.5 million.

Ann Landers Here's a gift

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A while back I read something in your column that meant a lot to me. It was about being more considerate of folks with a hearing problem.

I have become friendly with a dear woman who is hearing-impaired. I asked her what she wanted for her birthday. She said, shyly, "If you could get Ann Landers to rerun that wonderful prayer for people who are becoming deaf, it would be the best gift ever."

So, dear Ann, will you kindly hunt up that column and run it—if possible, on June 1? Thank you so much.—A FAITHFUL FAN IN TENNESSEE

DEAR FAITHFUL: Here's the birthday gift—and right on time!

A Prayer for One Who is Going Deaf

O God,
The trouble about being deaf is that most people find deaf folks a nuisance.

They sympathize with people who are blind and lame;
But they get irritated and annoyed with people who are deaf.

And the result of this is
That deaf people are apt to avoid company,

And get more and more shut in.
Help me now that my hearing has begun to go.

Help me face the situation and realize there is no good way to hide it.

Trying will only make matters worse.

Help me to be grateful for all that can be done for people like me.

If I have to wear a hearing aid, help me to do so naturally, and not be embarrassed.

Give me the perseverance not to let this trouble get me down.

Don't let it cut me off from others. And help me to remember, Lord, whatever happens, Nothing can stop me from hearing Your voice.

—William Barclay

And now may I add a personal word to the hearing-impaired of all ages? I would like to recommend a self-help organization called SHHH. There are members in all 50 states, Canada, Australia, Europe and the Middle East. The ages of members range from 10 to 93.

There are monthly meetings, social and recreational activities, chapter newsletters and community resources guides. Please write for information to Howard Stone Sr., Executive Director of SHHH, 7800 Wisconsin Ave., Bethesda, Md. 20814.

This organization could change your life or the life of someone dear to you. Isn't it worth the price of a 22-cent stamp?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is middle age? Since the life expectancy is now about 77, wouldn't middle age be around 38? My wife says it's 45. Please settle this ongoing argument—JOE FROM KOKOMO AND SOUTH BEND

DEAR JOE: Middle age is approximately seven years older than you are—until you get to be around 60—then it's "about now."

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious—lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

DEAR POLLY — A friend told me she puts aluminum-foil pans containing frozen dinners in her microwave oven. I thought this was dangerous. Am I right? — MRS. C.P.

DEAR MRS. C.P. — I definitely would not recommend it, unless the containers are specifically labeled as microwave-safe. The Underwriter's Laboratory (UL) has recently released a report detailing its research into this issue. It found that "the use of aluminum-foil trays inside packaging cartons for reheating frozen food inside microwave ovens does not present a risk of hazard with respect to microwave radiation, fire and shock."

However, this does not mean that we can put just any aluminum-foil containers in the microwave oven. The report specifies that the foil is used inside packaging that is specifically designed for microwave use. In other words, follow package directions for any frozen-food product when reheating it in the microwave, and don't "freelance" by using foil trays you happen to have around the house.

As you probably know, small quantities of aluminum foil can be used to shield parts of food to prevent them from overcooking in the microwave. But even though this is an apparently safe procedure, be sure to follow directions given in the guide that comes with your microwave. Play it safe. In general, use only containers specifically made for microwave cooking, whether they are your own cookware or packaging from reheatable frozen foods. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Do you know someone who seldom gets mail? Send a card or note once in a while just to let them know they're special. Instead of attaching a greeting card to a package, mail it. The price of the package will be worth the happiness it brings when the postman delivers it.

Want to delight a little girl? Buy an inexpensive makeup bag and fill it with grown-up things she can have for her very own: a small brush, a miniature bottle of hand lotion, a lip gloss, a tiny shaker of sweet-smelling powder, etc. Your gift will be a hit. — OLIVE

DEAR POLLY — Do you have a recipe for making frozen yogurt? I've tried just freezing it, but I don't know how to flavor it. It gets very hard and icy. — COLLEEN

DEAR COLLEEN — Yogurt must be frozen the way ice cream is frozen, preferably in an ice-cream machine. Here's a simple recipe for frozen vanilla yogurt:

Stir together one quart plain yogurt with one and one-half cups powdered sugar (more if you like a sweeter frozen yogurt) and 2 teaspoons vanilla. Add the sugar gradually, stirring it in so it is well incorporated with the yogurt. (You don't want to use regular sugar since it won't dissolve well in the yogurt and the result will be grainy.) Then freeze the mixture in an ice cream machine according to the manufacturer's directions.

You'll end up with about a quart and a half of frozen yogurt. You can try freezing it in the freezer portion of your refrigerator-freezer, but the results won't be as good. To do this, pour the yogurt mixture into a flat pan and put it into the freezer until it's slushy. Then remove it and beat with an electric mixer, breaking up any chunks. Return to the pan and freeze until softly frozen, not firm. remove it from the freezer and beat it once more. Then return it to the pan and freeze it until firm. It's likely to be harder and icier than the yogurt frozen in an ice-cream machine.

THANK YOU

The family of Brittye McCathern wishes to thank those that comforted us through their company and prayers. Although her death was not unexpected, her loss was still difficult to accept. Our friends and neighbors may never know how much their caring has meant to us. Some brought gifts of food and love that will not receive a formal acknowledgement because they left no written record of their efforts to help. We want to give these people a special thanks. They were like silent angels, lifting heavy hearts, teaching us what giving means. It's times like these that we realize how many wonderful people there are in this world. We want to thank each and everyone of them and may God bless you all!

Prison board meets parole board

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas prison system should consider building cells in big cities that produce the bulk of the inmates, a corrections board member says.

"We may well need a minimum holding unit or corrections unit" that is part of the Texas Department of Corrections in major counties such as Harris and Dallas, said Bob Lane of Austin.

Those regional facilities could hold inmates headed for quick parole, he said.

Lane's comments came at a first-ever joint meeting of the Board of Corrections and the Board of Pardons and Paroles. The session was called to share ideas on implementing the settlement recently reached in the 13-year-old Ruiz lawsuit.

That suit was filed by inmate David Ruiz, who complained of overcrowding and other problems in TDC prisons.

Lane said the future would demand

"admission control mechanisms." Parole board member Ruben Torres pointed out that 60 percent of inmates are serving terms of five years or less, and that means some are eligible for parole within six months of arriving at prison.

If that inmate served several months in a county jail, he could be eligible for parole almost immediately upon entering the TDC, and that makes no sense, Lane said.

"We know where most of the folks are coming from," Lane said, referring to the heavily populated counties.

Parole board Chairman Neal Pfeiffer said the joint meeting was a good move toward coordinating the two boards.

"Even the seating arrangements caused some concerns," he said as the two boards sat down together for the first time.

The heart of the lawsuit settlement is a plan to reduce the prison population by 5,300 inmates. State prisons now hold 37,600 inmates.

"Quite candidly," Pfeiffer told the prison board, "we felt like we should have had some input in the Ruiz litigation that we didn't have."

Parole officials wanted to make it clear they already are doing everything possible to move inmates out.

"We certainly have some limits. I don't feel like, personally, I can liberalize my voting pattern" on parole decisions, said Pfeiffer, adding that the inmate release process already is "over-extended and stretched too far."

Board of Corrections Chairman Robert Gunn of Wichita Falls said, "I don't think the Department of Corrections board is asking you to bastardize or in any way compromise your program."

U.S. posts record deficit

(Source: Commerce Department)

NEA GRAPHIC

The U.S. trade balance has slumped to a record deficit. Last year's deficit of $101.6 billion more than doubled the 1983 total. Why? U.S. buying abroad far outstripped the foreign purchases of U.S. goods and services.

Texas among worst in child support collection

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study of state child support collection programs singled out Texas as one of the worst, but a state official says things have improved since the program got the clout of the Texas attorney general.

The program was moved to the attorney general's office from the Department of Human Resources in September 1983. Since then, collections have gone up 81 percent, Joe Kouba, director of collections and distribution, said Thursday.

"When you get a letterhead from the attorney general saying 'pay up or else,' it means a little more than one from DHR," Kouba said.

Nevertheless, a national research and education group ranked Texas at near the bottom in its comparisons of state child support collection programs and singled out Texas as a case study.

The report was issued by the non-partisan National Forum Foundation, chaired by Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala.

"Child support presently operates at an almost Sisyphean level in Texas, considering the present backlog of hundreds of thousands of non-paying cases to which is being added more than 10,000 new cases opened each month," according to the report.

It was referring to the Greek myth of King Sisyphus, who was doomed for eternity to push a large rock up a hill, only to have it roll down again.

Texas collected 11 percent more child support money in 1984 than in 1983 — above the national average — but that figure "pales next to the 167,056 new cases opened in 1984," the report said.

Kouba counters that "things are changing over here."

He said his office expects to collect more than $4.3 million for May, at least $1 million more than its best previous month.

The Washington group suggested that each child in need of support payments from an absent parent should receive a minimum of $5 per day.

Under that formula, Texas would have to collect $1.7 billion for the estimated 940,000 children who are due child support. It collected just over $25 million in 1984, according to the report, ranking second to last-place Mississippi in the amount collected per household in the program.

The report said Texas' program could have more problems when it has to start advertising, as required by federal law, by October 1985.

"If a significant number of those families in need of (child support) assistance were to ask for help, Texas' (child support) program could be literally swamped," the report said.

"This could pose a potentially volatile social and political problem for all branches of Texas government."

FRIDAY IS THE DAY TO GET FIRED

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you are worried about your job, try avoiding your boss on Fridays.

The American Council of Life Insurance says that's the day of the week you are most likely to be fired.

It says a study made by Accountemps personnel service showed that while most executives did not pick a specific day for firing, of those who did, 9 in 10 chose Friday. But even if you manage to avoid your boss on a Friday, that doesn't make you safe. More than 1 in 2 executives said they'd fire anybody at any time.

Among certain tribes, women were not allowed to eat tiger meat, lest it make them too strong-minded.

TAC track meet set June 15 in Hereford

The Hereford YMCA T.A.C. Invitational Track and Field Meet will be held on Saturday, June 15 at Whiteface Stadium in Hereford.

The meet, which starts at 9 a.m. with the field events, is sanctioned by the West Texas Association of the T.A.C. The runnings event begin at 10 a.m.

Anyone registered with the West Texas Association of the T.A.C. for 1985 is eligible for entry in the meet.

The entry deadline is Tuesday, June 11. Entry fees are $3 for the first event, and $1 for each additional event.

Entries should be sent to Weldon Knabe, Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, 500 East 15th Street, Hereford, TX, 79045.

Each athlete's year of birth will determine which he or she competes in. The bantam and midget division entrants will be limited to three events, and entrants in all other divisions are limited to four events.

The years of birth for entrants in the various divisions are: bantam division, 1975 and later; midget division, 1973 to 1974; youth division, 1971 to 1972; intermediate division, 1969 to 1970; young men's and young women's division, 1967 to 1968; and open division, 1964 or before.

All members of a relay team must be members of the same track club. Late entries will be $3 per event, and will be taken only to fill heats.

A scratch meet is set for 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. on the day of the meet at the east concession stand. Coaches must be present if changes need to be made.

Ribbons will be presented to the first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth place finishers in each event.

Teams or clubs must furnish their own equipment for field events. No spikes longer than one-fourth inch will be allowed at the meet.

For more information on the track meet, call the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA at 364-6990.

Ladies golf meeting set Tuesday night

A Ladies Golf Association meeting has been scheduled Tuesday night in Hereford.

The association will have just stroke play Tuesday night, starting at 6 p.m. The meeting will be held after the stroke play is concluded.

The association will organize the golf marathon that Mike Horton and James Salinas will have on June 21. Horton and Salinas will attempt to break a world record of 401 straight holes played.

Also at the meeting, prizes for the month of May will be given.

Score 109-102 victory over Celtics

Lakers even NBA title series at 1-1

By HOWARD ULMAN AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — First, the Los Angeles Lakers looked in the mirror and saw losers. Now, they can look and see the Boston Celtics. Soon, they hope, they'll see champions.

Using a formula bearing a striking resemblance to the one that led to the Celtics' first-game victory — aggressive rebounding, outside marksmanship, alert team defense and a fast-breaking offense — the Lakers tied the National Basketball Association Championship Series 1-1 with a 109-102 triumph Thursday night.

"They hit the boards and ran," said Boston forward Cedric Maxwell. "It was a carbon copy of what we did Monday" in the Celtics' 148-114 rout that Laker Coach Pat Riley said left his team embarrassed.

In the first game, Scott Wedman came off the bench to do that for Boston as he hit all 11 of his field-goal attempts. In the second game, Michael Cooper came off the bench to do that for Los Angeles by making eight of his nine shots.

In the first game, Boston had more rebounds and assists and a better field-goal percentage. In the second game, Los Angeles led in all those categories.

Another important element has shifted in the Lakers' favor — the homecourt advantage.

The Celtics won it by posting the best regular-season record. They lost it by dropping Thursday night's

Smallest crowd in USFL history watches game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Whether they looked — on the field or in the stands of the cavernous Memorial Coliseum — all the Denver Gold could find were wide-open spaces.

Denver quarterback Bob Gagliano and receiver Gil Stegall took advantage of an abundance of open air to have big nights Thursday as the Gold took a 27-20 decision from the hapless Los Angeles Express.

On the field, Gagliano found enough room in a porous Los Angeles defense to complete 33 of 47 passes, while Stegall located enough open places to catch 16 passes and set a United States Football League mark for receptions in a game.

In the stands, empty seats abounded as only 3,059 turned out for the game, setting a mark for the smallest crowd in USFL history in the last Express contest in the Coliseum this season.

game and must play the next three contests of the best-of-seven final at the Forum in Inglewood, Calif., Sunday, Wednesday and Friday.

"We got the split. We have won nothing," Riley said. "But it puts a lot of pressure on them to come play before our fans."

"A loss on your home court is tough," said Wedman. "I think it may have been more devastating than their loss on Monday."

The Lakers tied for the NBA's best home record, while Boston had the top road mark.

"We knew this was a very important game, going to play three out there," said Boston's Larry Bird.

"We usually play better when we have our backs to the wall."

The key figures as the Lakers snapped Boston's 12-game home playoff winning streak were center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, with 30 points, 17 rebounds and eight assists, and Cooper with 22 points.

The Celtics were paced by Bird with 30 points and 12 rebounds, and center Robert Parish with 18 points and 10 rebounds.

3 teams tie in weekly scramble

Three teams tied with scores of 29 in the Wednesday night scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

As a result of the tie, a pot of $165 carries over into next week's competition.

There are five openings in next week's scramble.

The three teams that tied in this week's scramble were: Bobby Valdez, Elmore Rains, Kick Proctor, and Jimmy Fewell; Emory Brownlow, Larry Sowers, Pat Trotter, and Chick Weemes; and Matt Albracht, Roger Rahlfs, Jeff Shelton, and Larry Pennington.

Entries being taken for golf tourney

Entries are still being taken for the Hereford Partnership Tournament, scheduled for June 8 and 9 at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The entry deadline for the two-man low ball tournament is Friday, June 7.

The entry fee for the tournament is $85.

Fisk homer boosts White Sox past Royals, 5-3

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

An encore was no small order for Chicago's Carlton Fisk, but the titanic home run he deposited onto the left-field rook at venerable Comiskey Park was no small poke. Fisk's homer, his 11th of the season and third in two nights, came in the fourth inning off Kansas City's Charlie Leibrandt following a single by Ron Kittle. It brought the White Sox back from a 3-2 deficit in a 4-3 victory over the Royals that left Tom Seaver, 5-3, just seven wins short of the coveted 300 mark.

"It was high and that's when the breeze helped it," Fisk said of the 33rd ball hit on the roof of the 75-year-old ballpark. "I hit it well enough to go for a homer, but not on the roof."

Seaver worked 7 1-3 innings, giving up eight hits and two walks with just one strikeout.

Bob James, the third Chicago pitcher, collected his ninth save by striking out two of the three batters he faced.

Elsewhere in an abbreviated American League schedule, it was Detroit 3, Oakland 2; Baltimore 8, Seattle 2; New York 3, California 1; and Boston 8, Minnesota 7 in 11 innings.

Tigers 3, A's 2

Detroit's Larry Herndon let his bat do the talking—literally. He hit a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning to back the pitching of Walt Terrell and Willie Hernandez and then shrugged it off by saying, "I'd just really prefer to not talk about myself."

Herndon hit the first pitch into the lower right-field seats for his fourth homer, chasing Tim Lincecum, 1-1, who was making his second major league start.

Terrell, 6-1, gave up all seven hits and both Oakland runs, walking one and striking out four in seven innings. Hernandez earned his 11th save.

Birtzas hit Kirk Gibson in the jaw in the third inning, splitting the Detroit outfielder's lower lip in two places. It took 17 stitches to close the wound.

"I know Kirk very well," Birtzas said. "It wasn't meant to sail in on him like that."

Alfredo Griffin accounted for the Oakland scoring with a two-run homer, his first.

Orioles 8, Mariners 2

The Baltimore Orioles were taking them—bases that is—one at a time until Eddie Murray's two-run, fifth-inning double restored some normalcy to a bizarre rally.

"It was just terrible baserunning," Fritz Connally said of his hesitant trip around the bases which required three hits to score him from second base. "It was a tough 180 feet."

Seattle reliever Salome Barojas,

0-5, walked Connally to open the inning with the score tied 1-1. Connally moved to second on a sacrifice, but then needed three outfield singles to score. He held up as balls hit by Floyd Rayford and Lee Lacy—both of whom had three hits—and Jim Dwyer all appeared catchable before falling safely.

Yankees 3, Angels 1

The New York Yankees, with Joe Cowley and Dave Righetti concocting a three-hitter, proved again they are fond of home cooking. The Yankees won their 10th straight home game and ninth since Billy Martin replaced Yogi Berra.

Cowley, 4-2, worked 7 2-3 innings, leaving after rookie Jack Howell hit his first major league homer. Righetti worked the final 1 1-3 innings, striking out four to gain his 10th save.

Red Sox 8, Twins 7

It was the same old story for Minnesota, three blown leads and another loss, the Twins eighth straight.

Reliever Ron Davis, 1-5, hit two batters to set the stage for Jim Rice's run-scoring single with one out in the 11th inning.

"We can't get a break," Minnesota Manager Billy Gardner said after his team blew leads of 3-0, 5-1, and 7-5.

Gooden should call Candlestick Park home

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The way he has been pitching there, Dwight Gooden should call Candlestick Park "home."

Striking out 14 batters and allowing but six hits in an overpowering performance, Gooden made another impressive showing in Candlestick Thursday, pitching the New York Mets to a 2-1 victory over the slumped Giants.

"I really enjoy pitching here," Gooden said.

He should. Against the Giants last season, Gooden threw a five-hit shutout and struck out 12 at Candlestick. He also pitched two scoreless innings in the 1984 All-Star Game in the windy park, yielding one hit and notching three strikeouts.

While the Mets got their current road trip off the a good start with two victories in San Francisco, the Giants lost for the eighth time in the last 10 games.

Gooden snapped a personal two-game losing streak and is now 7-3.

In other NL action, San Diego beat Montreal 5-4, St. Louis blanked Atlanta 6-0, and Philadelphia defeated Los Angeles 6-1.

Padres 5, Expos 4

Carmelo Martinez drove in four runs with a pair of home runs and unbeaten Andy Hawkins became the major leagues' first 10-game winner as San Diego downed Montreal.

Herm Winningham homered for the Expos in the ninth off reliever Luis DeLeon before Craig Lefferts came on to get the final out for his first save of the season.

"As easy as I am 10-0 right now, I could be 10-10 after my next 10 starts," Hawkins said. "But I only want to look ahead five days at a time."

Cardinals 6, Braves 0

Jack Clark hit his ninth homer and Joaquin Andujar claimed his ninth victory in a combined five-hit shutout with Bill Campbell as St. Louis beat Atlanta.

Andujar, 9-1, allowed five hits, walked one and struck out three before leaving after five innings when his right shoulder tightened.

It was Andujar's fifth victory in a row since losing to San Francisco on May 5 and his seventh straight over the Braves. Campbell held the Braves hitless and allowed one walk over the final four innings for his second save.

Phillies 6, Dodgers 1

John Denny earned his first victory in seven years over Los Angeles, scattering eight hits in pitching Philadelphia over the Dodgers. The Dodgers, who lead the NL in errors, committed three more, giving them 62 for the season and providing the Phillies with two unearned runs.

Denny, 2-5, the 1983 Cy Young Award winner, snapped a personal four-game losing streak as he outpitched Fernando Valenzuela, 5-5.

Edmonton wins second straight NHL title

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Paul Coffey called teammate Wayne Gretzky the greatest player in the world. Coach Glen Sather proclaimed his team was the best on the planet. Nobody was going to argue with either statement.

The Edmonton Oilers, led by record-setters Gretzky and Coffey, used every tool in their ample arsenal to rout the Philadelphia Flyers 8-3 Thursday night for their second consecutive Stanley Cup. And Gretzky, the National Hockey League's brightest star, skated off with the Conn Smythe Trophy as most valuable player in the playoffs, during which the Oilers extended their home-ice winning streak to a record 16 games.

"It's a great honor to win but winning the Stanley Cup is our ultimate goal, that's what we wanted to win," said Gretzky, who lifted the coveted Cup and skated around the Northlands Coliseum with it before passing it on to several teammates, for whom Gretzky expressed "nothing but respect and love."

"In the last year, I've won the Stanley Cup, the Canada Cup and the Stanley Cup again. In 15 years, I'll look back and thank God for what a great team we have."

Coffey, who like Gretzky set a slew of playoff scoring marks and was the only real challenger to No. 99 for the Conn Smythe, expressed no disappointment with the MVP selection. "Wayne is the best hockey player in the world ... by far," said Coffey, who played the finals with a cracked right foot and had to freeze his hip before each game. "Losing to a guy of Wayne's stature is by no means degrading."

And losing to the Oilers is not degrading either, according to Philadelphia forward Murray Craven.

"We gave it all we had and were still short," said Craven. "That is a great, great team we lost to. It's always tough to lose, but we've got a lot to be proud of."

Leaders praise health bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The $70 billion indigent health care bill enacted by the Legislature this year marks another step in the state's march toward modern times, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says.

"If you look at the last several sessions taken together — workers compensation for farmworkers, unemployment for farmworkers — all these things I think are bringing Texas into the 20th Century," Hobby said Thursday.

His remarks came after the Senate approved medical care for the poor on a voice vote Thursday. That sent the health plan to Gov. Mark White, who says he will sign it into law.

"It's recognition of basic equity. At the federal level, the tide of events is against common humanity," Hobby said. "At the state level, it's for it. Everybody that voted against this concept has got something to explain for the rest of their lives."

White had called the House and Senate back into special session early Tuesday because the health plan died when time ran out on the regular session Monday night.

"I want to thank every one of the members and staff for an outstanding special session," White told senators after the vote Thursday. "I'll look forward to seeing you in January of 1987" when the next regular session convenes.

The Senate adjourned at 9:17 a.m. At 11:36 a.m., Speaker Gib Lewis gavelled a nearly empty House chamber into adjournment as well. Lewis sent House members home Wednesday night after they passed the health plan 90-54.

The legislation will provide health care for indigent pregnant women and infants and basic medical needs and emergency treatment for poor people.

Also, rural counties for the first time will be required to take responsibility for their indigent residents by spending up to 10 percent of their budgets for medical treatment of the poor.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, whose wife Helen headed the Governor's Task Force on Indigent Health Care, said the legislation's impact will be sweeping.

"It provides healthier children across the state and gives us the beginnings of a health care system we can be proud of," Farabee said.

Passage of the plan got White out of a political dilemma.

For weeks, legislators had planned to fund the health care program with a state cigarette tax to replace part of an 8-cent-per-pack rollback in the federal tax that currently is pending in Congress.

But White, saying he wouldn't support a tax increase this year and voicing doubts that Congress really will reduce the federal levy, told lawmakers at the last minute he would veto such a plan.

In the ensuing scramble to find alternate sources of money, the bill died. It had been brought up for debate at 11:57 p.m. Monday, but the session reached its midnight deadline before a vote could be taken.

MEDICARE.

They pay.
You pay.

Medical and hospital bills. They can be overwhelming if you're not prepared.

Medicare will pay a part of the bill and generally you are left with the rest. That's where WE come in.

Southland Life. We have a Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan to help cover those bills. We supplement your Medicare coverage. In other words:

They pay. You pay.
We pay.

With our Medicare Supplement policy, we help reduce the "You pay" portion. Call or write for details. There's no obligation.
