Brezhnev Declares Missile Moratorium

MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev today declared a unilateral moratorium on deployment of medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe, but warned of "retaliatory steps" if East and West cannot agree on arms limitation, Radio

Moscow reported. Brezhnev also said the Soviet Union plans to pull back a "certain number" of the medium-range missiles it

As president of the Texas Press Association, it was our privilege to attend the National Newspaper Association's annual Government Affairs Conference in Washington, D.C.; this past week.

It was a unique experience for a country publisher to visit the White House and shake hands with President Reagan, to hear congressmen and cabinet officials talk about the President's economic recovery plan, to visit the Soviet Union embassy, and to do some sightseeing in our

The primary topic of conversation in D.C. was Reagan's budget and tax cuts. The first morning we heard House Speaker Tip O'Neill and Rep. Jack Kemp discuss the problems and solutions.

The Reagan administration, said O'Neill, "has one foot on the brake and one on the gas pedal" and the contradictory policies are not working. "It is time to adjust the program to the economic realities. The Democrats have alternatives, and we are ready and willing to compromise," he said.

Kemp, the dynamic Republican representative from Buffalo, N.Y., claimed the Federal Reserve Board's monetary policy was hurting the Reagan plan. He said the problem began when the U.S. went off the gold standard in 1971 and worsened when the Federal Reserve switched to a "quantity" targeting philosophy instead of a "quality" theory. "Interest rates are squeezing off the oxygen supply to our economy," said Kemp. "You can't control the supply of money, but you can control the quality.

Kemp gained nationwide recognition as an advocate of "supply-side" economics. He says people are motivated by incentives and rewards and the economy needs to encourage them to increase investments, savings and productivity.

Liberal congressmen still don't think people knew what they were doing when they elected Reagan. They are bemoaning the cuts in social programs and claim the administration has no care for the poor. Mary McGrory, a columnist for the Washington Post, was on one of the panels and said she was concerned that "all those school children won't get orange juice."

Another panel member, Rowland Evans, Washingtonbased columnist and author, replied that he didn't think the lack of free orange juice from the government was going to make a big difference. "Most folks in this country grew up without having orange juice for breakfast," said

James J. Kilpatrick, widely-read syndicated political columnist and seen on many television shows, said too many congressmen are pushing the panic button. He was concerned that Reagan's program wouldn't be given a fair chance, pointing out that "we're only five or six months into the plan and some of the proposals have not taken

Ag Secretary John Block spoke to the conference, but he didn't have much to offer except the crop reduction plan. He did emphasize the importance of his cabinet post, which has been under-played for too many years. He felt the crop reduction plan, along with lower interest rates, could help the farmer get back on his feet.

Party chief. There was no immediate comment from Washington. Spokeswoman Sue Pittman said the State Department would be "studying the pro-further comment today." President Reagan's spokesman, Larry Speakes, said the White House would not comment immediately.

A Western diplomat in Moscow said Brezhnev's announcement was "clearly aimed at the Europeans." It was expected to intensify the campaign by West Europeans opposed to the stationing of American missiles in their countries to counter the Soviet arsenal.

The soviet announcement came one day after Reagan rejected a congressional proposal to freeze the number of weapons, saying the plan doesn't go far enough and that "verifiable reductions" in arms are needed instead. The congressional resolution called on the administration to try to negotiate a nuclear freeze with the Soviets under which no more nuclear weapons would be manufactured, tested or deployed.

Also on Monday, a senior U.S. official in Washington said the Soviets were dramatically increasing deployment of medium-range missile batteries on both OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) -President Reagan has rejected a congressional proposal to freeze the number of U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons, saying the plan doesn't go far enough and that "verifiable reductions" in arms are needed instead.

But Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a leading sponsor of the freeze c contended the president's "approach is going absolutely nowhere."

On Monday, Reagan responded to the congressional proposal advanced last week by nearly one-third of the members of the House of Representatives and onesixth of the Senate.

The congressional resolution called on the Reagan administration to try to negotiate a nuclear freeze agreement with the Soviet Union under which no more nuclear weapons would be manufactured, tested or deployed.

But Reagan said the Soviets would have no incentive to reduce their arsenal under the freeze proposal, and that in Europe they hold an advantage of at least 3-1 and possibly 6-1 in nuclear weapons.

Kennedy quickly answered Reagan's criticism, saying he was not calling for a freeze only in Europe, a step "which we reject."

Rights Suspended For Nicaraguans

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) - The leftist Sandinista government has suspended individual rights for 30 days and imposed strict censorship to counter alleged U.S. attempts to use its exiled foes against it.

Junta member Daniel Ortega said the suspension may be extended "in keeping with the prevailing circumstances in the country."

Speaking at a ceremony for the Sandinista militia Monday night, Ortega said the emergency measures were necessary because of "plans for aggression against our country" directed by the United States "with the com-groups based in neighboring Honduras and Miami.

The Washington Post reported last week that the Reagan administration was planning a $19 million CIA program for a force of 500 Latin American commandos based on the Nicaragua-Honduras border who would attack dams, power stations and other economic targets in Nicaragua.

President Reagan has refused to say whether such plans exist but accuses Nicaragua of funneling Cuban and Soviet arms to the leftist guerrillas fighting the U.S.-backed government of SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - Leftist guerrillas commanded by a woman made coordinated hitand-run attacks on army posts in three working-class suburbs of El Salvador's capital, witnesses and rebel broadcasts said. Eleven dead were reported.

The insurgents' Radio Venceremos announced the daylight assaults Monday as soon as they began and said they were led by Anna Sonia Medina, a commander of the People's Revolutionary Army (ERP).

Some sources said as many as 200 rebels in trucks made the attacks in the suburbs of Mejicanos, Villa Delgado and Cuscatancingo, on the nor-thern outskirts of the capital in an area where the guerrillas and government forces clash frequently.

A rebel broadcast claimed at least six national guardsmen were killed in Cuscatancingo and a political rally was held, indicating the rebels controlled the area briefly. Witnesses in Mejicanos ing at least five people, while through the living rooms." Midwestern rivers sent ice floes through living rooms, drove more than 4,000 people from home and lapped at mounds of sandbags.

The water was 10 feet above flood stage and still rising early today in the threeriver city of Fort Wayne, Ind., where 3,100 people were evacuated and one killed as thunderstorms and thawing snow threatened to make the flooding as bad as in 1913, when 732 people died.

At least five people drowned over the weekend in northern Indiana, Ohio and southern Michigan, and more rain was expected to fall today on the already waterlogged Midwestern earth.

The tornadoes late Monday killed three people in Kansas, one in Missouri and one in Oklahoma just as President Reagan was arriving in Oklahoma City, which was spared by the twisters.

A half-dozen buildings along U.S. 166 in Tryo, Kan., were damaged and two were destroyed by a tornado that killed one man, officials said, and a twister ripped through a trailer park in Ada, Okla., leveling mobile homes, killing one person and injuring

A tornado skipped across northern Texas without causing any damage, one day after five tornadoes hit west central Texas and another hit a Dallas suburb.

Indiana Gov. Robert D. Orr, his pants rolled up over his rubber overshoes, visited swamped areas of Fort Wayne and saw by helicopter that the only way to recognize the banks of the St. Mary's River were two parallel lines of trees standing in water.

"It's just horrible," said Fort Wayne Mayor Winfield Moses Jr. "It's an eerie situation to see some of the homes. There are ice floes going

Some of the thousands of people driven from their homes returned by boat Monday to retrieve belongings, and Marylou Rose, 55, readied a wire cage for a boat ride to pick up her three stranded cats.

The flooding has done an estimated $16.3 million in damage, including the landmark home of Hugh Mc-Cullough, secretary of the Treasury under President Lincoln.

The St. Mary's meanders from the south into Fort Wayne, where it joins the St. Joseph and the Maumee to form one stream, which takes the Maumee name as it flows east out of town. Volunteers unloaded sandbags Monday to reinforce a dike and keep the Maumee out of homes in the Lakeside subdivision.

"I've never seen anything like this in my life," Orr said as firefighters pumped water from a sewer system and city trucks delivered more sandbags. Moses was worried that with more rain, sandbags and dikes could give way, touching off a flood worse than the March 1913 disaster, when the water was 11 feet above flood stage, one foot higher than on Monday.

Downstream in Grand Rapids, Ohio, the Maumee dropped nearly a foot Monday, but showers were predicted today.

"I wouldn't care if it snowed and froze over. Give us anything but rain," said Sheriff Doug Viegler of nearby Defiance County, Ohio.

About 200 families were forced from their homes in Ohio along the banks of the Maumee, Tiffin and Auglaize rivers, and officials estimated the flooding did nearly $2 million in damage. Gov. James A. Rhodes asked

Foreign Minister Says Khadafy Ready To Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) - Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy "is feeling the pressure" of U.S. actions against him and would visit Washington if invited by the Reagan administration, Austria's foreign minister says.

"He would be prepared to come here if he would be received and he would like to discuss, so he said, all the problems, all the disputes which exist between him and the United States," Foreign Minister Willibald Pahr told reporters Monday.

However, the State Department indicated later that it is unlikely Khadafy will receive an invitation in the forseeable future.

U.S. officials said the Libyan leader has proposed talks with the United States before and that "Khadafy ... is well aware of our condition for such an exchange."

But Pahr said setting conditions for talks would be a mistake. "I don't think you can expect concessions before starting to talk. ... It is a mistake to expect results before negotiations. Results are a consequence of negotiations.

He said the future should be what is important in U.S.-Libyan relations, not the past. "One should look in foreign affairs into the future; one should be able to forget what happened in the past."

Volcano Eruption Expected Any Time Before Next Week

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) Mount St. Helens could begin a mild eruption any time and probably will erupt before next week, scientists said after a half-dozen researchers returned from the volcano and reported its crater floor was swelling.

The U.S. Geolgical Survey and the University of Washington geophysics center predicted Monday night the volcano will erupt mildly within five

There is a "very small" chance that enough snow will melt during the eruption to cause flooding on the nearby Toutle and Cowlitz rivers below the mountain, said Kathy Cashman, a USGS geologist.

The eruption is expected to be the type that builds the lava dome in the volcano's crater, rather than spews ash and steam.

A mild eruption last winter caused no flooding, Ms. Cashman said.

On Friday, authorities issued an advisory warning of an eruption within three weeks.

The volcano's devastating May 18, 1980, eruption left 60 people dead or missing and flattened 150 square miles of forest.

It all started with Scarsdale. When that diet came out there wasn't a doubt in my mind that this small city had discovered the ultimate cure for cellulite. If you couldn't trust a respectable, hard-working community like Scarsdale, who could you trust? I cannot begin to tell you the shock I felt on seeing 🥎 my first fat person in Scarsdale.

Not to be outdone, the West retaliated with the Beverly Hills diet, which had everyone in the country scrambling forest the last papaya on earth.

Since then, there has been the Cambridge diet, the I Love. of New York diet and the soon-to-be-published Dallas diet. All right, America, let's keep our wits about us before this. gets out of hand. Just because I've eaten my way across America, I see no need to diet myself across it. I know you people and I know exactly what you're goinger for. Milwaukee is going to say Dallas doesn't know what it'sel? talking about until it's tried the Dairy Cream diet. Idaho will: <? retaliate with the I Love Idaho Potato diet and Hawaii willia come out with the Maui Pineapple diet.

Mark my words, it will pit east against west, north against! south, brother against sister, palm trees against redwoodsore and grits against greens.

I say if we're going to diet, let's do it together. It's theses government's fault ... with all this talk about new federalism? and returning government to the states. If we don't pulled together on an interstate diet, we'll have another bicenten-canial experience on our hands. (Massachusetts still haven't' forgiven Arkansas for not painting their fireplugs like of Minutemen.)

I know what you're going to say. The government is doing too much already, but a federal diet isn't asking too much: "2 How much could it cost?

I tell you regional diets are getting out of hand. The other day someone wanted to know if they had tried the Richard-Simmons diet and she answered, "Richard Simmons. That's at a suburb of Chicago, isn't it?"

If you don't want to get stuck with papayas again ... write; your congressman today!

Judge Nelson served as Justice of the Peace from Nov. 1970 to 1979. In 1980 he was elected Deaf Smith Countv Judge.

His program was entitled "Social Agencies of Deaf Smith County." He stated that the welfare office had been known as County Social Service and is a referral service when there is a definite need.

The Social Security serves as a clearing house. When people have any need they are sent to this county social service, noted Nelson, Funds are provided by the county, which is helped by various agencies such as Red Cross, Salvation Army, churches and various clubs.

Nelson also said that the county government is involved in assisting people in need. He gave examples such as low income families. They are provided food, glasses, and rent. The agency also helps the alcoholic. Basically, the agency helps people to improve their life and living conditions.

I consider myself perfectly normal in every way. The only thing different about me is that I have wanted to be a girl since I was 11 years old. Many gays have announced themselves and have been happier for having done so. Others fear loss of job, rejection and humiliation. ### Memorial Set for Golfer NEWARK, N.J. (AP) -Memorial services are to be held Thursday for Kathy Linney, the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour veteran who died after a 10-year battle against cancer.

Linney remained active in the sport until Feb. 21, when she weakened in Florida and flew to a Houston hospital, where she died Monday. "Kathy knew she was in trouble and yet she kept hoping," Patty Linney, the golfer's sister-in-law, said in a telephone interview from her home in Westfield Mon-day night. "Kathy just didn't want to give in to it. She worked as long as she could." Services will be at St.

Helens Roman Catholic Church in Westfield. Interment will follow Friday at the family cemetery in Elkton, Linney, 36, lived in the northern New Jersey suburb of a local club and, at the time of her death, was a consultant to the LPGA on the construction of its new headquarters. A diminutive woman with a sunny personality, Linney amazed her colleagues last summer when she tried to rejoin the tour after pulling through three cancer operations and massive chemotherapy. "I still have my dreams,"

Linney said at that time. "If you don't keep striving to reach your dreams, you're never going to get there. And it really doesn't matter if you do get there. It's how you strive to do it that's important."

Linney never gave up the dream of a full recovery, her sister-in-law recalled.

"She kept hoping," Patty Linney said. "They kept trying different types of chemotherapy on her, hoping one would work. When it didn't seem to be going well, she just went on another type. She went on a more experimental program at the her left leg. The first mastectomy came in Linney's third year on the tour, when she discovered a node under her left arm just before a tour stop in Birmingham, Ala., where she shot the second-best round of her pro career, a three-under-par 69. Her last tour event came in October 1981, when she failed to make the cut in the Portland-Ping tournament. Before Linney's death, tour veteran Janet Coles predicted, "Kathy ain't gonna go down without a fight." Another, Beth Daniel, said, "It's amazing what that girl has done. For anyone to have that much courage! Most people would have given up."

Reds Romp Over Bosox

By The Associated Press

WHile the Boston Red Sox know the main man in their lineup is Jim Rice, who has been tearing apart opposing pitchers in spring training, they probably wish he would save some of those offensive exploits for the summer.

The Red Sox lost a 9-1 decision to the Cincinnati Reds Monday, but Rice wasn't to blame. He stroked three base hits and has seven hits in a row over the last three games. Rice has 10 hits in 23 at bats for a .435 average, with several of those hits to the opposite field. The rightyswinging Rice long has been known as a pull hitter.

In their first meeting since the 1981 World Series, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the New York Yankees again, this time 6-4. Elsewhere, the Toronto Blue Jays edged the New York Mets 3-2, the Atlanta Braves downed Florida State University 7-1, the Minnesota Twins took the Houston Astros 3-2, the Texas Rangers handed a split squad of Montreal Expos an 8-1 beating, while the other portion of the Expos beat the Kansas City Royals 11-5.

Also, the Detroit Tigers outscored the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2, the Baltimore Orioles bombed the Philadelphia Phillies 9-2, the Chicago Cubs blanked the Cleveland Indians 4-0, and, in night action it was the Chicago White Sox 12, the St. Louis Cardinals 4 in 11 innings and the Yucatan Lions of the Mexican League over the Seattle Mariners 8-3.

Three Arizona games were rained out. In Casa Grande, Milwaukee led California 2-1 after four innings when heavy rains halted the game. The Oakland-San Francisco contest in Scottsdale and San Diego's game against a split Seattle squad in Tempe also were rained out.

Lloyd Moseby slammed two home runs off pitcher Jesse Orosco as Toronto edged the Mets. Ellis Valentine homered for New York.

Braves Manager Joe Torre named Bob Horner the team's first captain since Hank Aaron in 1974. Then Atlanta upped its preseason record to 7-1 as rookies Gerald Perry and Glen Bockhorn each knocked in two runs in a five-run seventh.

Pat Putnam and Bobby Johnson belted homers and Al Oliver and Leon Roberts each knocked in two runs for Texas. The other half of the Expos took Kansas City as Larry Parrish and Tim Blackwell hit three-run Richie Hebner drove in two runs and scored two and Dave Rozema pitched five innings of four-hit shutout ball for the Tigers.

Sammy Stewart went Rozema one inning better when he sCattered five hits and struck out six in six innings for Baltimore. Rookies Cal Ripken Jr. and Bobby Bonner drove in three runs apiece, Ripkin contributing a two-run homer and Bonner a two-run triple.

Bill Buckner's four hits and Ryne Sandberg's two-run double led the Cubs:

THe White Sox sent 12 batters to the plate in the 11th inning as the CaRdinals made three of their eight errors for the game. Tito Landrum had four singles and two RBI for St. Louis.

In Merida, Mexico, the Mariners were beaten wheN the Lions scored seven runs in the fourth inning.

Hereford's Yolanda Alaniz led the 1600 meter run as the competitors began the gun lap Saturday in the girls' track meet here. At her heels were a Lubbock High runner and HHS' Kellie Howell, with Hereford's Laura Kosub in fourth place. Amy Landess of Tascosa finally won the race, with Howell placing second, and Kosub fourth. Alaniz faded in the stretch, but did give the Herd some points with a fourth place in the 3200 meter run. (Brand Photo by Bob Nigh)

Bradley Trounces Orangemen; Aggies Turn Back Washington

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Although it didn't do much to assuage Dick Versace's feelings, the Bradley coach exacted a measure of revenge against the Big East Conference.

Bradley's Braves, who were bypassed for the NCAA Basketball Tournament after winning the regular-season championship of the Missouri Valley Conference, took their frustrations out on Big East member Syracuse, trouncing the Orangemen 95-81 Monday night in a second-round National Invitation Tournament game

'We're Missouri Valley champions, and it's a difficult league," said Versace, who has made no secret of his displeasure with Dave Gavitt, chairman of the NCAA Division I Basketball Committee and Big East commissioner, ever since four Big East teams were picked for the NCAA Tournament, while only Tulsa and Illinois State made it from the

"We should have been included in the (NCAA) tournament, although I'm glad to be in the NIT."

Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim wasn't happy at all after the Orangemen were embarrassed on their own court as David Thirdkill scored 23 points for Bradley and Mitchell Anderson added

"We didn't play well enough offensively to stay within reach. When they got ahead, all we could do was make an effort. They were excellent," said Boeheim, who refused to be drawn into the MVC-Big East controver-

Willie Scott hit two quick baskets after the intermission and five points by Anderson in the first five minutes built Bradley's lead to 62-38. Syracuse and Rutgers were the only eastern teams left in the NIT field, but Rutgers was crushed by Purdue 98-65 at West Lafayette, Ind.

In other games, Georgia trounced visiting Maryland 83-69, Dayton shaded Illinois 61-58 at Champaign, Ill., Virginia Tech nipped Mississippi 61-59 at Oxford, Miss., Oklahoma, playing at home, turned back Cal-Irvine 80-77, Texas A&M won a road game at Washington 69-65 and Tulane won at Nevada-Las Vegas 56-51.

The semifinals and finals will be held in New York's Madison Square Garden next week. First, however, the third-round schedule finds Virginia Tech at Georgia, Tulane at Bradley and Dayton at Oklahoma on Keith Edmonson scored 29 points for Purdue, which built a 14-point halftime lead on 62 percent shooting and rolled over Rutgers. Virginia Tech's Reggie Steppe hit a pair of free throws with 33 seconds remaining and the Hokies held on when Ole Miss' Carlos Clark missed the last shot of the game. Clark, who led all scorers with 28 points, made a free throw with 15 seconds left but missed his second attempt. Ole Miss got the rebound but Clark's last-gasp shot bounced off the back of the rim. Jeff Schneider's 15 points topped the winners.

Job Program Focuses On Graduates

DOVER, Del. (AP) - All JDG. Sherry Mumford wanted when she graduated from high school last year was a job - and because of a state program that focuses on students most likely to be unemployed once they leave school, she has one.

Miss Mumford is one of the first success stories of Jobs for Delaware Graduates, a program that targets high school seniors pursuing general education diplomas.

She graduated from Dover High School in June 1981 and immediately began work at a newly opened fast-food restaurant. She started as a cashier and, in less than a year, has had two promotions and a wage increase.

The 19-year-old Miss Mumford says she owes her job to

"They teach you about interviews, how to fill out applications and write resumes," Miss Mumford said. "I probably wouldn't have gotten this job and the advancement if I hadn't gone through JDG."

In the past, Miss Mumford has had summer jobs, but it never occurred to her to take a resume when appllying for

If it wasn't for JDG, "I wouldn't have known how to go about asking an employer questions to let him know I was interested in the job," she said.

JDG - a statewide nonprofit corporation - is the brainchild of Gov. Pierre S. du Pont IV, whose wanted to provide high school students with jobs in an attempt to keep the teen-agers off the state's unemployment rolls. The program is funded by the U.S. Department of Labor. private foundations and state

"I think it's an attempt not to add to the problem if you can't solve the problem," said Bebe Ross Coker, JDG's director of administration. "These are the kids who fall through the cracks."

The program attempts to teach students basic employment skills - such as how to act during an interview, the importance of arriving on time for work, how to dress, writing resumes, vocabulary and handwriting, among

The program is volunteer on the student's part and does not take away from regular class time.

JDG looks for entry-level jobs at businesses ranging from laundries to fast-food restaurants to department stores. Ms. Coker said most of the students start at minimum wage, but added that salaries for JDG graduates range from $6,000 to $16,000 per year.

"We tell kids there is dignity in work. You have to start somewhere," she said. "Invest in yourself."

Although JDG does not guarantee job placement, its results have been promising.

In June 1980, JDG's first graduating class had 611 students of which 517 were placed in jobs - an 85 percent placement rate. The program also includes a nine-month follow-up of students, and in March 1981, 74 percent of those placed were still work-

In June 1981, with 935 graduates, 800 of the students were working by September 1981. Retention figures for the 1981 graduates will not be available until later this month.

In the 1981-82 school year, 1,034 seniors are taking part in the program. JDG began in eight Delaware high schools and now operates in 24 of the state's 25 high schools.

Students faix; 'ement for a variety of reasons, Ms Coker explained. Some go back to school, others move from the area or get married and decide not to work.

Some students have been fired from jobs, she said, but many employers come back to JDG for more referrals.

We're going to have kids that goof off," Ms. Coker

One student who worked as a mechanic for a major automobile dealer had a bad habit of taking "joy rides" in the new cars, she said. The youth was fired, but the employer turned to JDG for a replacement.

The JDG concept actually makes the employer's job easier, according to Michael A. Suber, a Burger King manager who hired Miss Mumford.

"I like the concept of it. It's more like preventive medicine," Suber said. 'They're helping the kids before they become a statistic."

He said JDG students he has interviewed seem to be more prepared and not as nervous as other new graduates.

'These kids are responsible. They have a job and they want to keep it," he said, adding that he saves money on his operation because he does not have to advertise for job openings.

"It's like having our own private screening process," Suber added.

Developing relationships with employers is a major part of the program, Ms. Coker said. She said the JDG staff, or job specialists, establish a rapport with employers to see what is needed from potential employees. And when an employer is having a problem with a JDG graduate especially if the graduate is about to be fired - the job specialist is available to help. JDG is the model for the Jobs for America's Graduates program launched last year by the Reagan administration, which is trying to engender a spirit of voluntarism in the United States. Pilot programs are currently under way in Tennessee, Massachusetts, Arizona and Missouri.

Plant expert urges burning fields

"Burning fields used for grass-seed production is the cheapest, most effective and least environmentally damaging method of controlling diseases and weeds now available," says plant pathologist John R. Hardison, Corvallis, Ore., who has been studying seed production and field burning since 1944. With good smoke control, he says, field burning can even help the environment by reducing the need for pesticides. It "controls blind seed disease, ergot, grass-seed nematode and silver top. It also kills 95 to 99 percent of the weed seed at the soil's surface.'

Actor Tim Matheson Finally Grows Up

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) -Tim Matheson has finally grown up.

Type-cast as a "kid" since playing the preppy president of a gross-out college fraternity in the hit 1977 film "Animal House," the 34-yearold Matheson is happy to be playing a real adult in his next movie.

"A Little Sex" is the first feature-length film. produced by MTM Studios, normally a televison production company. The movie premieres April 2.

In between projects, Matheson accepted an invitation to return to his real love - Shakespeare - in a St. Edwards University production here of "The Taming of the Shrew." What started as an enjoyable experience with the high-quality staff and student actors at St. Edwards became an emotional trial midway through the play's run, when Matheson learned of the death of his friend and "Animal House" co-star, John Belushi.

"I didn't know if I wanted to do the show that night or not," Matheson recalled during an interview after a later performance. "It was just hard to absorb. It made me angry more than anything, and I don't know why. But I am angry. It was a great loss, because he was so talented maybe that's why.

"He always did sort of pop every balloon of pretension that he came in contact with," Matheson said. "But

Lawrence E. Lamb.M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have diabetes. Instead of going to the doctor every so often for blood tests, I use the Test-Tape. Why does the doctor recommend testing the urine, not on the first trip to the bathroom after rising but 20 minutes later, just prior to eating breakfast? By following this method the tape never shows any coloring. What exactly is my condition? If I ar in the urine. DEAR READER Assuming that you did not have to get up during the night to empty your bladder the first voided specimen in the morning represents the urine formed by your kidney for the entire night. If you had a positive test the doctor would not know when during the night your blood glucose level was high enough to cause sugar to spill into your

By having you empty your bladder when you get up and then get a specimen later, the specimen represents what your kidney is doing at that time, not all night. And that is related to your blood glucose level at that time. Since you have a negative test under those circumstances it means your blood glucose when you get up is not high enough to cause glucose to spill into your urine. That usually means you are under pretty good control.

If your doctor wanted to be sure you were not having peak levels at night he would ask for the first speci-

DEAR POLLY — I boil pig's feet for four and one-half hours until the meat and skin almost fall off the bone. Yet, after the strained and jellied feet get cold, the skin on the pig's feet is as hard as before it was cooked. What am I doing wrong? When you buy pig's feet in a jar, they are so nice and soft. I'll be watching for your answer. — MRS. M.K.

DEAR MRS. M.K. — Every recipe I checked out recommends removing the skin from the feet, either before cooking (in which case you should tie the feet in cheesecloth to hold their shape) or after cooking (allow to cool enough to handle easily). I prefer the latter method, since there seems to be more galatin generated when the skin is cooked along to be more gelatin generated when the skin is cooked along with the meat and bones, and the resulting broth is more flavorful. I think the most elegant presentation of jellied

pig's feet is just the meat (skin and bones removed) slivered into the gelatin broth, chilled in a loaf pan, then unmolded and sliced into cool, refreshing slices of tender flavorful meat in a rich aspic. This makes a beautiful and delicious

DEAR POLLY - There are two spots (probably iodine) on the vinyl floor in our bathroom. I've tried soaking it with liquid bleach on a cotton ball and with white vinegar. Neither worked. I know one shouldn't use a scouring powder on this kind of floor. Help! — S.M.R.

DEAR S.M.R. — Alcohol is very good at removing stains from any kind of vinyl and it's also recommended for iodine stains. Try soaking a cotton ball with straight rubbing alcohol and soak the spots with it for a couple of hours, rewetting with alcohol as necessary. You're absolutely right about avaiding harsh abrasive scouring powders on this type about avoiding harsh abrasive scouring powders on this type of flooring. All they will do is destroy the finish. However, for stubborn spots that don't respond to mild detergent, a little baking soda may be gently rubbed on with a soft cloth. It provides a very mild abrasive action that should be safe for the finish. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I've found a great use for the plastic sheets that come in packages of sliced bacon. I use them under foods as a chopping board. The sheets resist cutting by your chopping knife and can be washed and used over and over. You can also pick up the food with the plastic sheet and empty it into any size container easily because the pliable plastic can be bent to make a pouring spout. These sheets wash much more easily than wooden chopping boards and require very little storage space. — MRS. A.H.

DEAR POLLY — Eight-ounce yogurt containers are perfect for holding the cut yarn used in making latch hook rugs. When putting on the lid for storage, pull one strand out and clamp the lid over it so the end shows. You can see what color is stored in each cup. — O.C.L.

DEAR POLLY — Very attractive linen pillows can be made out of calendar towels from past years. Fold in half, stitch up two sides, fill with clean discarded nylon stockings or panty hose, then sew up the tops. You'll have an attractive picture on one side and a past-year calendar on the other. — P.B.P.

cific time it is best to empty the bladder first and get a fresh specimen a little later. For some medical purposes the first voided specimen is the most important, particularly if you are looking for kidney disease. DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 17-year-old female in pretty good shape. Last year I was diagnosed as having mitral valve prolapse. What does this actually mean? Is it a very common disorder? Sometimes I have pains in my chest but ignore them as they disappear quickly. Should I take any precautions? DEAR READER - The mitral valve consists of two flaps between the upper and lower chambers of the left side of your heart. The two flaps close together tightly to keep blood from squirting back into the upper chamber when the lower chamber contracts to pump blood out of the heart to your entire body. When part of this valve is ruptured in such a way that the two flaps don't fit together well it is called mitral valve prolapse. Because of the poor fit a leak does occur. If it is small it is not too important from a mechanical point of view.

But the change can prog-ress and the leak get worse. And the valve can get infect-ed resulting in bacterial endocarditis just as in rheumatic heart disease. You should take antibiotics whenever you have a respiratory infection and particularly when having any dental procedure such as having your teeth cleaned. The condition is not rare. Many cases used to be diagnosed as rheumatic heart disease. The management is similar.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In one of your columns you said it was not good to run so fast you became breathless. My question is how do you build up your endurance if you do not run fast. I have been running for six years and am doing about three and-a-half miles, three to four times a week. I usually run a mile and then run fast up a steep hill. I'm a 39-year-old male. DEAR READER - The rule is train, don't strain. If a person has not been walking much and starts a regular walking program, after a few days he will notice that when he finishes walking the same distance at the same speed, his heart rate will not be as fast as it was when he first began his walking program. Even at that low level of exercise the training program for the heart has begun.

The distance or the speed can be increased and the heart rate at the end of exercise will be faster again, but in a short time it again will not be so fast.

The training effect allows you to increase your level of exertion gradually without overloading your heart.

A good approach is to start with limiting your exercise to something that raises and sustains your heart rate to between 100 and 120 beats a minute at peak effort. Don't increase the level of exercise until your heart rate rises to, say, only 100 a minute. Then increase the exercise enough to again get your rate up to near 120. Keep doing this and you will gradually

If you are training for athletic events, get a medical checkup and medical advice. You develop endurance by the length of time you can exercise, not the peak stress. Jogging with a sustained heart rate of 120 for 20 minutes will do more to train

DEAR DR. LAMB - My boy had a circumcision when he was a newborn. His pediatrician took away all of his foreskin. Now he is 5 years old and very active. What kind of harm will occur since he doesn't have the protection of a foreskin? What kind of problems might he have when he becomes an adult? And what kind of remedies can we take for him now?

DEAR READER - I wouldn't worry about it. The main complications from a circumcision, if any occur, are in the newborn period. The diaper problem can cause an inflammation for one thing. But by 5 years of age, if he has no problems
