

March Wholesale Prices Down 1.7 Percent

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices fell at an annual rate of 1.7 percent in March, matching February's decline and marking the first time since 1976 that prices have been down for two months running, the government said today. Pacing the March decline, which private economists say is largely the product of the stubborn recession, were falling prices for energy and food. The decline in energy prices was the sharpest in more than six years. Today's report also bolstered economists' predictions that in the coming months inflation — at both the wholesale and retail levels — will be under last year's pace, which was 7 percent at wholesale and 8.9 percent at retail. In the new report, the Labor Department said its Producer Price Index for finished goods fell a seasonally adjusted 0.1 percent in March. The last time the measure fell two months in a row was in January and February of 1976, according to Labor Department data. Inflation at the wholesale level had risen 0.4 percent in January and 0.3 percent in December.

If prices fell for 12 straight months at March's 0.1 percent, the yearly decline would be 1.7 percent after seasonal adjustment. The annual rate reported by the Labor Department is based on a more precise calculation of monthly changes than the figure the department makes public. Analysts both in and out of government had been predicting a 1982 inflation rate of 6 percent to 7 percent, but after the recent good news on inflation, some have lowered their projections to as little as 4.5 percent.

The new report said that over the last year prices at the wholesale level rose a modest 4.1 percent, matching the increase from January 1976 to January 1977. In March, energy prices fell 2.3 percent, the third straight monthly decline and the sharpest fall since the 2.9 percent of January 1976. Prices for gasoline and home heating oil fell more rapidly last month than in February. But natural gas costs were up 2.4 percent last month after rising 2 percent in February. Food prices, which had risen 0.5 percent in February, turned down 0.2 percent last month. Falling prices were reported for eggs, pork, dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables, and shortening and cooking oils. Prices were up for coffee, soft drinks, processed fruits

Bentsen: Times Rough, But Nation Will Be Strengthened

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

While conceding that Americans are going through "some tough times right now" U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen told a group of about 50 constituents Thursday afternoon that he thinks the country will emerge stronger by the end of the decade.

"We've got a tough decade ahead of us, but I think the strength of our country is really the strength of our people," Bentsen said during a brief visit at the Hereford Community Center. "I think we're going to be able to face up to these problems, and when this decade is over I think this country is going to be even stronger."

Bentsen spoke only briefly to the crowd at the reception at which he was accompanied by his wife B.A. Local attorney Earnest Langley made introductory remarks. The stop in Hereford was part of a day-long swing through West Texas by the senator, who is seeking reelection to his senate seat.

Speaking of the rough economic times Bentsen told the group that "I really don't think we're going to resolve our problems with just Republican policies or Democratic policy. It's going to take American policies to do it. "By that I mean it's going to take our working together to accomplish what has to be done in this country of ours," he continued.

Local TABS Results Shown

Editor's Note: This is the second of three articles about the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills (TABS) Test.

The TABS test has been administered to Hereford students in the fifth and ninth grades annually since 1980. In February 1981 the third graders were also tested. These students were tested on certain basic objectives in three basic areas of Reading, Writing and Mathematics.

To master most objectives a student must get 3 out of 4 multiple choice questions on that objective correct. All reading, mathematics and some writing objectives are tested in this way, the rest of the writing objectives are tested by grading a piece of writing that each student does, called the Writing Sample. The writing sample measures how legibly students write and how well the students follow directions, organize their thoughts, and express themselves. Handwriting is rated not ratable, illegible, hard to read or acceptable.

The writing sample is assigned a Raw Score from 0 to 4 for organization and clarity of thought; 0 for no response, 1 for a weak one-sentence response, 2 for two or three related sentences, not well developed, 3 for at least one good paragraph, and 4 for a well developed piece of writing. The ninth grade results have an overall mastery in each of the three areas. To achieve overall mastery in Mathematics and Reading a student must get at least 30 out of the 44 items correct on each test.

To achieve overall mastery in writing the student must get 13 points in a weighted average of the multiple choice part and the writing sample raw score.

Following is a brief description of how students in the third, fifth, and ninth grade during 1981 performed in the three areas of testing. The objectives are only briefly described. Those wishing a more complete description should contact the HISD office.

with Marxism," Reagan said at the luncheon. "All of us are concerned with the overthrow of Westminster-parliamentary democracy in Grenada. That country bears the Soviet and Cuban trademark, which means it will attempt to spread the virus among its neighbors," he said. He said his Caribbean Basin initiative — a package of investment incentives, trade concessions and $350 million in additional aid funds — "offers another and I believe quite different course. It aims at securing peace, prosperity and freedom for the Caribbean nations by providing new opportunities for economic development" through free enterprise.

Harrassment Investigated

Police Nab Shoplifter

An Amarillo woman, Charlene Lopez, was booked in jail here Thursday for theft by shoplifting in three Sugarland Mall stores.

Ms. Lopez allegedly filled her purse in each store, then emptied her items into her car trunk.

She was arrested at Sandra's Craft Corral around 5:30 p.m. after a Gaston's employee called police and gave a description of her. A witness from Gaston's told police she watched Ms. Lopez put three pieces of clothing from Gaston's into her trunk.

When the officer arrived at the mall she was in the craft shop. She allowed him to search her purse, where he found two brass items from the shop for which she had not paid. She was then arrested and items from Gaston's and Sweetbriar were found in her car.

Police have turned over to the Child Welfare Department a file on an incident at Northwest Elementary in which three boys allegedly were sexually harrassing and attempting sexual assault on three girls during recess.

According to the report, the girls resisted and reported the incident to a teacher, who said she would watch the boys and warned the girls to stay away.

The boys tried again, however recess was over and all students returned to class.

The assistant principal and principal met with the children and the suspects' mothers. The boys were disciplined by parents.

After the luncheon meeting, Adams told reporters "the president's remarks about Cuba and Grenada were not the subject of the meeting" and that Reagan referred to Grenada only once in the private discussions. "I said I hadn't had occasion to think about Grenada for six months until the press questioned me about it," Adams said.

Police received a report of a junior high student who apparently overdosed on some of his mother's medicine. The youth was taken to the hospital. A bike was reported stolen and a furniture store reported two brass objects with a total value of about $90 missing.

Girl Killed In Truck Accident

Two-year-old Marisa Yvonne Mungia was struck by a delivery truck backing from her family's driveway and died enroute to Northwest Texas Hospital Thursday afternoon.

The Gabriel Mungia family arrived at home, 414 Avenue C, shortly after the Tex Pax pickup made a delivery there around 4 p.m. As Mr. and Mrs. Mungia were putting the packages in the house, Mungia said he heard a scream. He ran outside and saw his daughter laying under the truck.

Delbert Dale Baium, driver of the truck, told police he saw the kids at the front door, then proceeded to back out the drive. He told police he heard a thump and saw the child under the truck.

Mungia sped to Deaf Smith General Hospital in his own car, followed by a police unit.

Police investigator Vernon Hope said in his report that it looked as if the girl had walked around to the rear of the pickup. She was struck about six feet from the street.

Born March 28, 1980 in Dimmitt, she was a member of San Jose Catholic Church of Hereford.

She is survived by her parents; one brother, Gabriel Lee Mungia, Jr. of the home; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mungia, Sr.; her godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Tijerina; and her great-grandmother, Julia Mungia, all of Hereford.

Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. tonight at Rix Chapel.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in San Jose Catholic Church with Father James O'Connor officiating.

Burial will be in St. Anthony's Catholic Cemetery. Arrangements are by Rix Funeral Directors.

Drilling Reveals Salt, Rock Levels In Area

By BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

The geologist in charge of the drilling of test holes on behalf of the Department of Energy (DOE) in Deaf Smith County reports that preliminary findings indicate that rock types discovered are close to what was expected.

Leo Martin of Webster and Harris Engineering of Boston, has compiled early indications gained from a look at the field logs from both of the drilling sites. The wells are intended to give DOE a look at the structure of the salt beds in the area for the possibility of future storing of high level nuclear wastes here.

Martin gave the Brand detailed accounts of what was found in core samples at the sites, which are located just east of Milo Center and northwest of Dawn. The well near Dawn has been capped after reaching a depth of 2,710 feet. The second well, on the Ralph Detten property near Milo Center, is near the 2,300-foot level now, and is expected to go to about 2,850 feet before drilling is halted in a couple of weeks.

"We have found more or less what we were looking for,"

Martin said, emphasizing that his report is only a "rough draft." "It was pretty close to what geologists guessed might be there."

Martin added that predictions of rock strata was difficult due to the few oil wells having been drilled in this area. "We didn't have too much control to go by, meaning that we didn't have much to go on before we started," he said.

He added that some of the findings were surprising in that minerals were "somewhat different levels than we expected."

The geologist said that DOE plans no more drillings in the county for at least several months. "We expect to do two more stratographic wells, and one deep well maybe sometime in October," he said. "But, the exact location of those wells has not been decided on yet."

The well near Dawn on the Galen Friemel property was capped last Sunday, and has been turned over to Friemel for his own use. Martin said that crews are in the process of cleaning up the site, and will move to Tulia to begin work on a deep well there in the next few days.

Martin said that his preliminary findings were drawn from looks at the drilling logs, which included core samplings and inspection of "chips," or samples of cuttings of mud at levels not cored. At the Friemel well cores were taken from a depth of 1,191½ feet to the 1,312 foot level and again from 1,709-2,710 feet.

The reports showed five basic levels of salt concentrations in the hole. Those included levels from 1,270-1,312 feet; from 1,744-2,016 feet; from 2,229-2,348 feet; from 2,433-2,568 feet; and from 2,683-2,710 feet.

The shallowest area cored (from 1,191-1,312 feet) contained "mostly siltstone," along with some shale and anhydrite. The first salt level also included some anhydrite layers.

Coring was not done from the 1,312-1,709 level, but Martin said cuttings indicated the area contained mostly siltstone, which is "a very fine grained material much like sand."

Other levels cored in the well showed concentrations of dolomite and limestone, along with layers of siltstone and anhydrite.

At the Detten well coring has been done from the 1,130-1,342 feet level, from 1,884-2,305 feet (the current level) and at selected shallower depths.

Two levels of concentrated salt have been found at that site. Those are from 1,342-1,423 feet, and again from 1,850-2,146 feet. From the 2,146-foot level to the current depth of 2,305 feet Martin said that anhydrite with layers of salt, shale, and dolomite have been found.

Between 50-1,130 feet the drillers found mostly sandstone, and other cored levels contained anhydrite and siltstone.

Martin stressed that more accurate descriptions of the findings will be available after scientists analyze the core samples and drilling logs. The samples will be probed by scientists with the Texas Bureau of Economic Geology as well as by officials with the Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus, Ohio, the general contractor for the DOE salt core drilling process.

The crew which has completed working at Dawn is also to do the drilling of a 7,500-foot well on the land of Swisher County Commissioner Charles Zeek. That work is expected to start this weekend.

Walton Elects Mayor, Disincorporates Town

LIBERTY CITY, Texas (AP) — Mayor-elect O.B. Walton is a amused, disappointed and just a little bewildered at cruel twist of fate that will force him to preside over the demise of his city.

Voters elected Walton mayor in last Saturday's municipal election and at the same time voted to disincorporate this city of 1,200 people located about 70 miles east of Dallas.

So now the mayor who campaigned on a platform opposing disincorporation will attend his first and last City Commission meeting Saturday — the day when the Commission will sign the papers making Liberty City official extinct.

"I really don't know how to explain it," Walton said Thursday. "I can't say for sure what went wrong."

Walton defeated Rebecca Williams, the pro-disincorporation candidate, by a vote of 254-225. But voters — expressing disapproval of this year's passage of the city's first property tax — decided to abolish Liberty City by a vote of 235-230.

"It's amusing in one sense, but it's disappointing in another. This is a fast-growing little community, and we've taken a giant step backwards," said Walton.

Actually the vote was in keeping with Liberty City's short history.

Voters approved incorporation three years ago, and at the same time elected the anti-incorporation leader as mayor.

Reagan Declares Lamar County Disaster Area

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Low-interest loans, grants and tax breaks are now available to residents of Paris who survived last week's killer tornado, after President Reagan declared Lamar County a disaster area.

Nine people died and more than 200 were injured from the twister that inflicted more than $36 million damage on the city April 2.

The White House, through its regional emergency office, notified state officials of the disaster declaration Thursday, a spokesman in the governor's office said.

"We were notified by the regional director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency that the president had declared Lamar County a disaster area, as the governor had requested," said Mark Heckmann.

The declaration will make available low-interest loans from the Small Business Administration and Farmers Home Administration, as well as income tax deductions for property damage and grants of up to $5,000 for people who do not qualify for loans.

Helicopter Crashes, Two Die in Explosion

GARDEN CITY, Texas (AP) — Two Army helicopter pilots died when their aircraft, returning to Texas from an ill-fated training exercise in California, crashed and exploded on a West Texas ranch, army officials and law officers said.

Authorities at Fort Hood, the huge central Texas installation where the helicopter was based, withheld the names of the dead men until their relatives could be notified.

The Cobra AH-1S gunship was part of a three-ship formation returning from Operation Gallant Eagle at Fort Irwin, Calif. when it "lost some parts in midair" as it flew over the Glass Ranch, according to ranch co-owner Larry Glass. The two other helicopters landed to try to help but the craft exploded, Glass said.

Eight military personnel have died since Operation Gallant Eagle began March 15 at Fort Irwin. Five paratroopers were killed in March 30 jump accident, two more were killed in exercise-related vehicle accidents and one died while off-duty.

The training exercise ends April 15.

Dallas Lines Prompt Redistricting Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Republicans again are asking the Supreme Court to postpone the state's May 1 primaries because of the boundary lines for four Dallas-area congressional districts.

State Republican chairman Chester R. Upham Jr. petitioned the Supreme Court on Thursday to set June 5 as the primary date in those four disputed districts. He also asked that the boundaries drawn for those districts by the state legislature be reinstated.

Weather

West Texas: Partly cloudy skies will prevail in most sections through Saturday with a few light showers in the Panhandle and southeast early today. Cool afternoon temperatures will continue. Highs today will range from the mid 60s north to upper 70s southwest and mid 90s in the Big Bend. Lows tonight will be near 30 in the north, mid 40s in the south and 50s in the lower elevations of the Big Bend. Highs Saturday will be in the mid 60s north, mid 70s southwest and upper 90s in the Big Bend.

Holy Thursday Luncheon

St. Anthony's sixth grade sponsored a Holy Thursday luncheon for the school. Administering the meal were Chris Connally, Arthur Jimenez, The Rev. Boniface Reidman, Marcia Geiger and Cathy Banner. The meal was fashioned after the Jewish Pascha meal, a celebration of freedom from their bondage in Egypt. The Christian aspect of the celebration was brought out by emphasizing Christ's actions with his Apostles on the day before his death.

Second Blast Of Cold Snap Kills 54 In Eastward Move

By ANDY O'CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

The second blast of a double-barreled cold snap that has killed at least 54 people hurtled eastward today after adding 3 inches to the Midwest's snow cover and shattering cold-weather records from Montana to Maryland.

A tornado and 90 mph winds Thursday tossed a tractor-trailer on top of three cars and brought out looters in Sanford, Fla. An inch of snow fell on Black Rock Mountain State Park in Georgia.

The second storm approached the Northeast as residents were still digging out from a blizzard Tuesday that closed down schools and iced highways from Pennsylvania to New Hampshire. Dozens of people were evacuated from housing for the elderly in Ludlow, Mass., after a power failure blacked out 7,000 western Massachusetts homes. Town officials declared a state of emergency.

Frozen substation switches in Ludlow were blamed for the blackout, which started Wednesday night and wasn't expected to end completely until today. Extra police officers were called in to prevent looting.

Chicago, which got 9 inches of snow earlier this week, was hit with new snow Thursday night, as were many other parts of Illinois. The snowfall was heaviest in central Illinois, with Peoria reporting 3 inches, and more unusually cold weather was expected through tonight.

The bitter cold set records for April 8 in at least 10 cities. In Butte, Mont., the mercury hit 16 degrees below zero. Great Falls, Mont., and Muskegon, Mich., reported a record low 4 degrees. In Baltimore it was 26; in Newark, N.J., 23; in Cleveland and Detroit, 11; in Toledo, Ohio, 10, and in Pittsburgh, 14.

Of the deaths blamed on the storms since Tuesday, most have been in crashes on slippery roads or from heart attacks while shoveling snow. The deaths include nine in Ohio, six in New York, five in Iowa and Connecticut, five in Pennsylvania, four in Michigan, four in Massachusetts, three each in Rhode Island, Illinois and Wisconsin, two each in Nebraska, Indiana and Maine and one in New Hampshire.

In Rhode Island, three men — age 84, 63 and 51 — died Wednesday after shoveling snow, the state Medical Examiner William Q. Sturmer said Thursday.

The second storm dumped snow from the Dakotas through Iowa and northern Missouri and reached into Appalachia. In addition to up to 4 inches of snow, it was expected to bring rain to the Northeast and mid-Atlantic states today.

were tested during 1981 in reading, with 348 tested in writing and mathematics. 89 percent of those tested were able to follow written directions, with 88 percent mastering spelling and 71 percent mastering correct English usage.

Of those tested 76 percent mastered reading and writing whole numbers; 83 mastered adding whole numbers, 62 mastered subtracting whole numbers, and 83 percent mastered multiplying whole numbers.

Of the 348 students who provided a writing sample 95 percent were judged as having acceptable penmanship. One percent was hard to read, with three percent unratable.

In the fifth grade 397 students were tested in math, 394 in reading, and 397 in writing. 86 percent of the group mastered adding whole numbers, with 81 percent mastering solving word problems, and 81 percent mastering graph interpretation.

In reading, 62 percent mastered recalling facts and details, 49 percent mastered drawing conclusions, and 76 percent mastered the use of an index.

Of the 364 handwriting samples 97 percent were judged acceptable, with two percent hard to read and two percent unratable.

In the ninth grade 356 students took math and writing tests, with 357 taking the reading test. Of those, 93 percent could add-subtract whole numbers, 72 percent mastered usage of decimals, and 91 percent mastered chart and graph usage.

Reading mastery was down from math percentages with 68 percent of the freshmen mastering information-evaluation, 55 percent able to make generalizations, and 84 mastering the use of reference skills.

In handwriting, 97 percent of the samples were judged acceptable, with two percent hard to read and one percent unratable.

tumbled 7.9 percent. February's drop had been attributed largely to domestic automakers' rebate programs.

Capital equipment costs, which fell in February for the first time in nearly 10 years, picked up in March, rising 0.5 percent. Those costs are for machinery and transportation equipment used by business.

All the increases are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

In all, the unadjusted Producer Price Index for finished goods stood at 276.9 in March, meaning that goods costing $10 at wholesale in 1967 would have cost $27.69 last month.

March declines were also reported in the other two components of the Producer Price Index, which reflect price changes at two earlier stages of production. All three of the components were

GM Concessions Granted By Narrow Ratification

Detroit (AP) — The United Auto Workers union announced today that the union's rank and file narrowly ratified the 2½-year contract granting $2.5 billion in concessions to General Motors Corp.

"It was a long struggle from January," Owen Bieber, UAW vice president in charge of the union's GM department, said at a news conference.

The official tally was 114,468 — or 52 percent — in favor of 105,090 opposed. The vote, which came during U.S. automakers' most prolonged sales slump in 50 years, was one of the closest in UAW history, union leaders said.

"The closeness of the vote makes it clear that this was a very difficult and painful step for our UAW-GM members, yet one taken in an attempt to address our problems in these very troubled economic times," said UAW President

Douglas A. Fraser. "Hopefully we'll go back to the bargaining table in 1984 to negotiate with a healthy industry in an expanding economy."

Alfred S. Warren Jr., GM vice president in charge of industrial relations, said the No. 1 automaker was "pleased that the contract has been ratified and that we can now move together to address the many competitive challenges facing General Motors and the entire automobile industry."

"This contract opens a new chapter in American labor relations, and clearly signals a move for us in a new direction — away from confrontation and toward cooperation, away from our adversarial past and toward a new alliance aimed at maintaining a competitive leadership in our products and assuring job security for all our employees."

At the news conference, Fraser and Bieber discussed some of the reasons they felt the vote was so close.

Bieber said "this is the first time where General Motors workers didn't come back with all the pluses they normally have gotten (in contracts)."

Fraser said some workers resent recent statements by GM Chairman Roger Smith, who threatened in January to close plants if the UAW refused to accept the contract offer. Fraser said many "no" votes came from assembly plants, where workers traditionally are more militant.

GM reported a $333 million profit last year, a point often noted by autoworkers opposed to concessions.

ICT Winners

Five Industrial Cooperative Training students from Hereford High netted seven awards at the state VICA Skills Olympics in San Antonio last weekend. Robert Murray, standing at left, won outstanding sheet metal worker honors and will represent Texas in national competition this sum-

Bentsen said he is familiar with the problems of farmers. "The delinquency rate in Federal Loan Bank Board loans was about 25 percent last September, but today it's about 90 percent in West Texas and about 79 percent across the state."

"We've got $600 billion in emergency funds available, and 22 other senators have joined with me in urging that those funds be released now," he continued. "It's absolutely critical that those folks get those loans now so they can get this year's crops planted."

Bentsen criticized efforts in the past by the U.S. to place embargoes on products to the Russians. "The embargoes Presidents Carter and Nixon imposed on grain and soybeans only served to destroy some of our markets," he said. "We've got to increase our exports of agricultural products."

Bentsen also said he is urging President Reagan to begin negotiations now with the Soviet Union for extending the current grain agreement. "I think they ought to pay cash for it," he stressed, however. "If you're going to embargo something, embargo the credit."

Speaking of his home state the senator commented that "Texas is not just a matter of geography, it's a state of mind...because we're optimists, and we will still be in the future. Opportunities...that is what Texas has stood for, and I think that's what this nation ought to stand for."

The senator concluded his stop by visiting further with his constituents before leaving for the final leg of his trip to Amarillo.

PTA Spring Conference Set Tuesday In Amarillo

The Texas Parent-Teacher Association (PTA), District 8, will hold their spring conference in Amarillo on Tuesday, April 13. Meetings will be at Western Plateau Elementary School, 4927 Shawnee (9-10:45 a.m.) and St. Stephens Church, 4600 South Western (11 a.m. to 2 p.m.)

PTA members from throughout the 21-county district are invited to attend the 59th annual conference. Registration begins at 9 a.m. at Western Plateau School. Lunch will be served at St. Stephens Church at 12:30 p.m.

Featured speakers include Lamont Veatch of Plainview, PTA Region I vice-president, who will speak on "What's Right About Education;" Jim Walton, Texas PTA Alcohol and Drug Coordinator from Austin, who will speak about "Alcohol; No. 1 Drug Problem" and will do a workshop on "Alcohol Education Training for Leaders."

Also Kathryn Whitfill, State PTA legislative chairman from Houston, who will speak on "Legislative Up-date" and will give a workshop on "Legislation: Past, Present, Future;" Diane Basch of Amarillo, who will present a workshop entitled "Women Against Rape."

Also Dixie Surratt, State PTA volunteer chairman of Panhandle, who will do a workshop on leadership tips and program for PTA; and Shirley Crawford of Amarillo, regional coordinator for Texans' War on Drugs, will update the delegates and guests on district and state involvement with drug education.

A scholarship will be presented to an area high school senior, and awards will be given to local PTA units for parent and family life education, yearbook, leadership, membership, scrapbook, cultural arts, evaluation, and attendance.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I live in a stable garbage neighborhood. Food prices may soar. Waste may be at a minimum, but more dogs come to our area to knock over garbage cans than anywhere else in the world.

I would have thought that cutbacks in air travel would have deterred some of the out-of-state dogs from flying in, but that is not the case.

Most of our garbage's popularity is based on reputation and word of mouth. We have never advertised.

From time to time neighborhood groups have met and tried to figure out what the attraction is. Have dogs followed the rest of the country who favor drive-ins? Do they meet a better class of dogs when they eat out? Or haven't we taken a hard enough line against canine criminals?

Frankly, I have never understood a dog's rationale. Take our dog. Please. He eats from the table, or should I say is offered the same fare as we eat. He sniffs and rejects it. I wrap the same meal in a piece of newspaper, put it in a plastic bag, drop the plastic bag in a rigid upright container with a hermetically-sealed lid and put it at the end of the driveway and he will tunnel under six feet of hard rock to get to it.

It's probably the same rationale used by our children, who refuse to eat a hot dog unless it is drowning in a mustard-filled bun, wrapped in a piece of tissue and cost a buck and a half.

It's not like we haven't tried to discourage dogs. Inspector Clouseau should be so ingenious. First, we put a boulder on top of each garbage can. A small poodle knocked it off and dumped over the entire can.

We dragged car chains to the end of the driveway and laced them into the handles of the cans, binding them together. A pack of dogs ate through the side of the can and we never did get the knot out of the chains.

We tried freezing the garbage before we put it out. They waited for it to thaw. We tried kitty litter around the can that contained camphor. They had a picnic on it.

Last week, I tried a new recipe—Liver Fiesta. It's meatballs of ground liver, cabbage and pimientos, topped by a chocolate sauce. There hasn't been a dog around our garbage cans since. I think I'm on to something.

Skate-a-Thon Winners

During the recent 100 mile Skate-a-thon for the Association for Retarded Citizens, David Danley and Becky Griffin received first place and runner-up, respectively. David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Danley, was awarded an atari game for skating 100 miles and Becky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kerr, received several prizes. Thirty-nine skaters participated in the event and 37 entries finished the designated 100 miles. Door prizes, donated by local merchants, were given every hour and refreshments were furnished by McDonald's, K-Bob's, Coca-Cola Bottling Co. and Taco Villa.

Scholarships Available

Junior and senior class high school students who are interested in applying for $1,000 college scholarships should request applications by May 7 from the Educational Communications Scholarship Foundation, 3105 MacArthur Blvd., Northbrook, Ill. 60062.

To receive an application, students should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with a note stating their name, address, city, state, zip code and approximate grade point average. Fifth award winners will be selected on the basis of academic performance, involvement in extracurricular activities and the need for financial aid.

Ann Landers

Kleptomaniacs Need Professional Help

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hate to admit my ignorance, but I need to know the difference between shoplifting and kleptomania.

I am not a kid—I'm a 40-year-old woman who reads you in the Dallas Morning News. I never have taken anything in my life, but the temptation is always there, especially when I get near the jewelry counter of a department store where earrings and necklaces are easy to get at. (The same goes for sunglasses.)

Could this be a sickness? Please explain.—Feeling Small In The Big D

DEAR D: The next letter and my response should give you some insight.

DEAR ANN: I am a female in my late teens who, like so many others, cannot believe I am writing to you.

I started shoplifting small items once in a while. Now I find myself stealing blouses, skirts and dresses. I never wear any of this stuff because my family would become suspicious. I am running out of hiding places.

I have stolen many items I have no use for. It is so foolish I am ashamed of myself. Lately I've become so flagrant I wonder if I want to get caught and punished. I feel eventually I WILL be caught and disgrace myself and my family. Can it be I WANT this to happen? What is the reason for my self-destructive behavior?

Please accept this letter as it is. If I rewrite it I'll probably tear it up. Of course, I can't sign my name. Just call me—Razor's Edge in New Jersey

DEAR N.J.: A kleptomaniac has a persistent compulsion to steal because he feels he has been cheated out of life's goodies—love, attention, recognition, etc. Material goods help him feel he is being compensated for his losses.

A woman who shoplifts items she doesn't need, never wears, then asks, "What is the reason for this self-destructive behavior?" should have it pretty well figured out.

Actually, you are a thief because you ARE stealing merchandise. But you are also a kleptomaniac. Your conflicting feeling about getting caught—half wanting to and half frightened to death it will happen—is an important clue.

I implore you to get professional help. Shoplifting costs retailers billions of dollars every year. They are now investing in highly-sophisticated equipment to catch the guilty. Don't take any more chances.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wrote you a long letter yesterday about a friend who is a compulsive talker. If you can toss that letter out with a punch of your computer, please do it. The details are too accurate and my friend would surely recognize herself—and me, too.

I can't remember how I signed it. I read you in the Minneapolis Tribune. Please put my mind at ease. I am —Nervous As A Cat

DEAR CAT: A computer? Thanks for the compliment. It took me two months to learn how to put a typewriter ribbon in this machine.

There are a lot of compulsive talkers in Minneapolis. You would have been quite safe. But I won't print your letter. I promise. In fact, I just tore it up. Now will you get some sleep?

Members Encouraged To Maintain Healthy Diet

Della Stagner presented a program on nutrition at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of La Afflatus Estudio Club. Members met in the home of Emily Sugg and Allyne Johnson served as co-hostesses.

After Aileen Montgomery opened the meeting by calling on Lydia Hopson to lead the reading of the club collect, Ms. Stagner began her program by stating that the four food groups have become five, the fifth being a calorie-laden group into which candies, jellies, soft drinks, alcoholic beverages, and oils fall.

Ms. Stagner also noted that the American people consume approximately 20 times as much salt daily as they need. She added that high blood pressure is now being found in teen-agers and some authorities are attributing this to high salt intake.

In speaking of diet, Ms. Stagner stated that we have a choice in the foods we eat, and we are responsible for the choices we make according to the information we have.

Following the program, hostesses served refreshments to Pet Ott, Madeline Bell, Alberta Higgins, Tresa Hale, Opal Elliston, Mary L. Whiteside, Mary Williamson, Ms. Hopson, Eva Gilliland, Lucile Hughes, and a guest, Gladys Legg.

The next meeting will be April 20 and will feature a trip to the Sybil and Don Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo.

Demonstrating Skills

Susie Merrick explains ways to decorate cakes to students in Mrs. Virginia Jackson's sixth grade class at Bluebonnet Elementary School. The demonstration, part of the career education study the class began several weeks ago, was held Wednesday morning. (Brand Photo by Sandy Pankey)

Bluebonnet Students Hear Guest Speakers

Mrs. Virginia Jackson's sixth grade class at Bluebonnet Elementary School has been studying career education for the past several weeks.

The first assignment the class had was to list, in order of preference, jobs they were most interested in and then the number one choice from each student was placed on a list and given to Mrs. June Owens. Mrs. Owens was responsible for lining up guest speakers.

Wednesday morning Susie Merrick demonstrated her skills in cake decorating.

Others who have donated their time include Betty Koelzer, who brought some of her photographs to exhibit;

Janice Brownlow from J.J.'s, who spoke on hairdressing as a career; Steve Gilbert from Hereford State Bank, who spoke on the procedures to follow when entering the banking field.

Also, Eldred Brown shared with the class how he started in farming and stressed that farming is a business and it is a must to keep up with many things to be successful; Peggy Oakes talked on nursing and the need for nurses and Dailene Springer of The Face Place told the group the importance of taking care of the skin and mentioned that a career as an esthetician is a relatively new field opening up.

Caviness Presents Crime Stoppers Program

Members of Toujour Amis Study Club met Tuesday night in the home of Nena Veazey. An informative program on "Crime Stoppers" was presented by Dr. Hap Caviness.

After the program, members enjoyed a meal of Mexican casserole salad, tostitos and praline crepes served by the hostesses, Ms. Veazey, Cindy Black and Marsha Winget.

A business meeting was held during which upcoming social events were announced. A social for members and their husbands will be held the first of May and members will honor their mothers with a Mothers Day brunch at the Hereford Country Club on May 8.

Communications were read and the slate of officers for the 1982-83 club year was presented.

Members present were Ms. Veazey, Ms. Black, Ms. Winget, Charlotte Tyler, Marilyn Leasure, Beverley Lambert, Rhonda Long, Nanette Ashby, Pam Perrin, Teri Morgan, Diana White, Shannon Hagar, Sharon Hodges, Debbie Donaldson, Lori Hall, and Karen Keeling.

Kerr Attends ETSU Program

Bryan D. Kerr, a senior at Hereford High School, recently participated in East Texas State University's College Preview program.

This program allows high school students to stay two days on campus to become acquainted with the academic setting and university life.

While on campus, Kerr met with ETSU professors and students.

BRYAN D. KERR

Two Educators Are Recognized

Two educators from Hereford are among the first educators in the Panhandle and South Plains region to be honored by the West Texas State University College of Education.

Award recipients from Hereford are Danny Dudley, industrial arts teacher at Hereford High School, and Dorothy Szydoski, physical science teacher at La Plata Junior High School.

They are among nine graduates of WTSU honored for their contributions to education.

Dudley, who received a bachelor's degree from WTSU in 1971 and a Master of Education degree in 1975, has taught at Hereford schools for 11 years including six years at the junior high school level and the past five years in high school. His teaching specialties are drafting and photography.

He is a member of the Panhandle Industrial Arts Association of which he twice has been elected president and vice president. He also is a member of the Texas Industrial Arts Association, National Education Association, Texas State Teachers Association and American Industrial Arts Association.

He is a member of the advisory committee for the Occupational Curriculum Development Center at the University of Texas and is a member of the state curriculum committee for industrial arts.

Dudley and his wife, Jan, have two children.

In addition to her teaching duties, Szydoski has taught classes in driver education and health, served as sponsor of several school organizations and served on a variety of school district committees and with the Region XVI Teacher Center Policy Board.

She has been active with Texas State Teachers Association as a faculty representative, vice president, treasurer, secretary and state delegate. She also is active in Delta Kappa Gamma Society.

She was recognized a LaPlata Teacher of the Year in 1978-79 and 1980-81 and as Hereford Teacher of the Year in 1980-81.

Dudley was honored for his work in industrial education and technology and Szydoski for secondary education.

Other recipients of the awards and their areas are administration, Jim Holmes, superintendent of schools at Panhandle; counseling, Mary Tom Riley, director of the Institute for Child and Family Study at Lubbock; elementary education, Geneva Faubion, skills reinforcement teacher, Emerson Elementary School, Amarillo; library science, Gene Tatum, librarian, Whittier Elementary School, Amarillo; psychology, Mary Lee Loving of Dumas, director of the Mental Health Division of the Mental Health-Mental Retardation Regional Center at Amarillo; recreation, Frank Castleberry, director of the WTSU Activities Center; and special education, Mary E. Burcham, special education and gifted-talented program teacher, Kelton Independent School District.

Decorating Club Tours Homemaking Department

Sweet 'n' Fancy Cake Decorating Club members met Thursday morning at the Community Center for a short business meeting. With Kathy Holmes presiding, members discussed the upcoming bake sale, set for May 8.

After the business meeting, members went to La Plata Junior High, where homemaking teacher, Kathy Brock, demonstrated the school's new convection ovens and discussed the advantage of convection ovens. She handed out various recipes and other information.

Those in attendance were Ms. Holmes, Martha Lytal, Isabel Cervantez, Alice Koening, Evelyn Crofford, Hope Torres, Nancy Carlisle, and Betty Henson.

At the next meeting, Ms. Holmes will demonstrate the use of a spray gun.

Antique Sale Proceeds Go To Opportunity Plan, Inc.

The 20th Century Cotillion Study Club will hold their 20th annual antique show and sale April 16-18 at M.K. Brown Auditorium in Pampa. The show will be open Friday and Saturday from 10:30 a.m. until 8 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m.

Tickets to the antique show and sale may be obtained for a $2 donation from Collector's Corner in Pampa or Miller's Antiques in Amarillo.

Opportunity Plan, Inc. will receive all proceeds from the sale. OPI is a student loan program which assists students throughout the Panhandle area with financial assistance in continuing their education. Students attend the college of their choice.

The offices of Opportunity Plan, Inc. are located in Canyon. OPI president, Milton (Buff) Morris, states that money used for operations of OPI are raised independently of the funds secured for student loans so that every dollar given to assist in this program goes to the students.

Bates Calls Spectacular Slam Dunk 'Just An Average Play'

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Portland Coach Jack Ramsay and Billy Ray Bates gave the game-winning slam a different rating on the spectacular dunk scale. "It was an average play...just an average play," Bates said after his dunk with two seconds left climaxed a second-half comeback that carried the Trail Blazers to an important 106-104 victory over the Phoenix Suns Thursday night. "I had a better one against the Lakers a few weeks ago when I tore the strings right off the hoop."

"Billy is so strong, he can go past anybody," Ramsay said after Bates muscled past several defenders before reaching the basket. "It was just a matter of his getting position on somebody."

Portland needed the victory desperately on the Suns' home court to keep its National Basketball Association playoff hopes alive. The Trail Blazers now are three games behind Phoenix and Golden State, who are tied for the sixth and final Western Conference postseason berth.

All three teams have six games to play in the regular season.

"We got to win them all now, we have no other choice," said Ramsay. "We just have to keep plugging."

In the only other NBA games Thursday, Boston topped New York 110-106 and Seattle edged San Diego 117-115 in overtime.

The Trail Blazers trailed by 15 points early in the third period, but 10 straight points in a span of 1:46 tied the game 102-102 with 1:52 remaining.

Two free throws apiece by Dennis Johnson, who scored 22 points for Phoenix, and Bates made it 104-104 before Portland grabbed a defensive rebound with 17 seconds to go, setting up Bates' game-winner.

Jeff Lamp hit all 11 of his points during the fourth-period rally.

"We did a terrific job of hanging in the game," said Ramsay. "We kept in there and when he had the chance to win, we did it."

Suns Coach John MacLeod, who had hoped to clinch a playoff spot by now, said he realized the Suns are in a precarious position.

"It's a situation we didn't want to have," MacLeod said. "We still have six games to go. We may not win every game, but we'll have to put together a string."

MacLeod said the Trail Blazers deserve credit because they "kept on digging and digging. We had many chances to put them away but we didn't. I don't think we went to sleep on them. I don't think we got complacent."

Bob Gross and Jim Paxson led Portland scorers with 17 points apiece, while Suns center Alvan Adams had 24.

Celtics 110, Knicks 106 Boston eliminated New York from playoff contention, winning its 22nd game in the last 24 starts as Cedric Maxwell led a balanced scoring attack with 22 points.

The Celtics, who have a five-game lead over Philadelphia in the Atlantic Division with six games to play, got 19 points each from Larry Bird and Kevin McHale and 17 from Robert Parish, who played only 19 minutes because of foul trouble.

The Knicks, who got 24 points from Michael Ray Richardson, could still tie Atlanta for sixth place in the race for the final Eastern Conference playoff spot. But if that happened, the Hawks would get the postseason berth because they beat the Knicks in five of six games this season.

Sonics 117, Clippers 115 Gus Williams scored 41 points, including five in the final 29 seconds of overtime, as Seattle handed San Diego its 15th straight loss.

The Clippers, with a 115-112 lead, appeared to be on the verge of snapping the streak, but Williams connected on a three-point basket to tie the game with 29 seconds left in the extra period. After San Diego inbounded the ball, Williams stripped it from Clippers guard John Douglas and drove the length of the court for a layup with one second remaining.

The victory was the fourth in a row for Seattle, which trails Los Angeles by two games in the Pacific Division. Tom Chambers led San Diego with 33 points.

The Orkney and Shetland Islands, now part of Britain, once belonged to Norway.

More Predicted

Tourney Suspended Due To Rain

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A steady drizzle that suddenly turned into a downpour of rain forced an overnight suspension of the first round of the 46th Masters golf tournament.

And the prospect of more rain was in the forecast for today even though play was to resume at 7:30 a.m., EST.

Not since 1973, when the third round was washed out, had rain interrupted the tradition-rich Masters.

Rain gear replaced the bright colored outfits of both golfers and fans, and scores soared — sometimes reaching embarrassing levels.

The combination of the rain and mid-40 temperatures turned the greens at Augusta National Golf Club into lakes, the fairways into soggy marshes.

Statistics will show that Fuzzy Zoeller, one of the last of 40 players to finish all 18 holes, was in the lead with an even-par 72 over the 6,905-yard course that played much longer.

"Fuzzy's round was equivalent to a 58," said John Mahaffey, who finished just eight holes.

But Zoeller's lead was at best a precarious one. Among the 36 stranded players on the course were defending champion Tom Watson, Craig Stadler, Jack Nicklaus, Jerry Pate, Gary Player, Seve Ballesteros, Tom Kite and David Graham.

Stadler and Watson were 1 under par after nine holes, Nicklaus even after 10.

Graham, Ballesteros and Kite were 1-over where they marked their balls, while Arnold Palmer, who finished nine holes, was at 2-over.

Pate was also at 2 over par after nine holes.

Of those who finished, Peter Oosterhuis of Britain, Morris Hatalesky, Gay Brewer, the 1967 Masters champion, and Greg Norman of Australia, were bunched at 1-over-par 73.

Mark Hayes and Ben Crenshaw had 74s, while nine players were at 3-over 75, including Lee Trevino and Dan Edwards, the winner last week at the Greater Greensboro Open. "It's going to be a lake out there in the morning," Pate said to Nicklaus after play was halted at 4:29 p.m.

"Thirty-eight degrees and a lake," replied Nicklaus, who said it was so cold he could hardly hold a club.

Sensing the frustration of the day, many players turned to humor.

Watson held up an iron to his mouth at one point on the course and pretended he was a broadcaster.

"This is Tom Watson, the best foul weather player in the history of golf," he told anyone listening.

Hale Irwin, who completed just eight holes, joked that Pate, with his penchant for jumping in lakes "would have a lot of lakes to jump into now."

Some of the play was nightmarish, if not funny.

Billy Casper, who finished with an 85, took a nine on the second hole. Nine with four putts.

The first putt went 2 feet past the hole, the second missed the hole and trickled 30 feet downhill. He 2-putted from there.

The rain stopped most of the pre-tournament talk about slick greens. In the early part of the day they were still fast, but by afternoon they were drenched.

Brewer had the benefit of an early-morning round.

"This year they're playing like they did the year I won," said Brewer, who turned 50 on March 19 and now is eligible to play on the Seniors Tour.

The year after Brewer won, tournament officials changed the speed of the greens.

And he predicted that if the speed of the greens held up, the veteran players would have the best chance to win the 46th Masters.

"You play this course from memory," he said. "This year they're playing like they did the year I won."

"I've won here before and I know the golf course, so I figure I have a chance (to win)," he said.

Norman's round, a very steady one, included three bogeys and two birdies.

"This reminds me of England," Norman said. "It is one of the most miserable days I can remember. It not only is wet but the cold goes right through you."

Oosterhuis, in the fourth twosome to tee off, was the first player in the press interview room.

'Faces Open District Against Westerners

The Hereford Whitefaces open the home District 4-5A baseball season against the Lubbock High Westerners at 1 p.m. Saturday in game one of a loop twinbill.

While the Herd baseballers are at home other HHS athletes are on the road. The HHS golfers and boys track team are at the Amarillo Relays this weekend. The Whiteface linksters are looking to improve on a fifth place finish at the relays last year, while the thinculds are coming off a team victory at the Dumas meet a week ago, and will challenge pre-meet favorite Palo Duro for track laurels.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, the Herd is looking for its first loop baseball win after Plainview took 9-1 and 4-3 wins over the 'Faces in Plainview Tuesday.

The doubleheader offers David Ashby's troops the chance to even their loop mark to 2-2 and to improve on a 9-7 season slate.

The HHS tennis team has concluded its season after the district meet Tuesday, while the District 4-5A champion Whiteface girls track team takes a week off before a regional qualifiers meet next weekend.

Top Times Set At USNF Run

Near world record winning times for the fifth straight year were posted by the two top male and two top female runners at the U.S. Natural Food 20 Kilometer Championship Run April 3.

Held on a course which surrounds beautiful White Rock Lake in Dallas, the Natural Food Championship, sponsored by Arrowhead Mills of Hereford has become one of the important runs in the country.

Thom Vernon of Topeka, Kan. and Tyler Todd of Bonham, Texas were the men's division winners, with Vernon posting a time of 1:02:52. Janice Ettle of St. Cloud, Minn. and Betsy Haydock of Boston, Mass., were the women's division winners.

Kyle Heffner and Jeff Wells, who placed third and fourth in the U.S. Olympic Trials in 1980 have been previous winners of this Arrowhead Mills sponsored event with times of 1:01:33 and 1:01:40, respectively.

Dr. E. Eugene Greer and Elaine Greer of Dallas were the race directors.

The Natural Food Championship Fun of 12.4 miles (20 kilometers) has been held the first Saturday of April each year and trophies were awarded to the top three runners of each age from 12 to 70 years.

"We at Arrowhead Mills believe that Aerobic exercise and a natural foods diet make a powerful combination for good health," said Frank Ford, Board Chairman of Arrowhead. "And we feel that sponsoring this run has been an appropriate way to support this belief."

Unhappiness Among Ranks In NY Mets

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Already there is some unhappiness among the ranks of Manager George Bamberger's new New York Mets.

After two postponements, the first-year Mets manager finally had a chance to try out his starting lineup against the Philadelphia Phillies on Thursday.

Second baseman Bob Bailor responded with a pair of doubles and a single, three runs batted in and a pair of runs scored as the Mets beat Phillies ace lefty Steve Carlton 7-2.

Then, Bamberger informed Bailor he probably would ride the bench if the Cubs started a right-handed pitcher Friday in Chicago.

"He is in that office," said Bailor, who bats right, "and I go along with what he says. I'll just have to wait until another left-hander pitches."

"I don't have to like it, but I'll do it."

In the only other National League game Thursday, the Houston Astros nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0. Montreal at Pittsburgh was postponed by snow.

In the American League, Minnesota beat Seattle 4-1 and California edged Oakland 6-6 in 16 innings. Four games were postponed by cold weather — Boston at Chicago, Toronto at Detroit, Cleveland at Milwaukee and Kansas City at Baltimore.

The Mets kayoed Carlton after 62-3 innings with seven runs, six earned, on nine hits. New York led 2-0 after one inning on consecutive doubles by Bailor and George Foster, and a throwing error by second baseman Manny Trillo.

The Mets added a run in the fifth on an RBI double by Bailor and broke it open with four runs in the seventh.

SPORTS TALK: Barbara Potter

Barbara Potter, 20, of Woodbury, Conn., is ranked among the top 10 women's pro tennis players in the world. Her first major win came at the Avon Championships of Cincinnati in January. She has qualified for the $300,000 Avon Championships to be held March 24-28 in New York.

You're a newcomer. But you're already ranked among the top women's tennis pros in the world. What are your plans?

First, I really didn't think I would get to the top 10 so quickly — but I did think I would get there!

My goals are to beat one of the top three players in the course of winning another top-flight tournament. And to work my way into the top five in 1982.

To accomplish these goals, I'm really going to have to concentrate. The difference now between myself and the higher-ranked players is mostly mental.

How does a young tennis star go about becoming good enough to consider a pro career?

I began playing tennis with my mother when I was 8-and-a-half. At that time, it was an alternative to skiing, since my mom, who didn't ski, was being left out of a family activity.

After playing once or twice a week for a year, I began entering junior tournaments around New England. From there I went on to national junior events. Then, when I got into high school, I was the No. 1 player on the boys' tennis team. And then in my last year at Taft High School, I began playing in professional tournaments on the Avon Futures circuit.

Basically, I feel that to become successful at pro tennis a young girl needs the support of her family, the self-discipline to work hard and make sacrifices and, of course, some natural talent.

Wasn't your route to the top in pro tennis a bit unusual?

Because I grew up in Connecticut, my tennis upbringing and the related problems were rather different than those of most of the other young players on the tour.

After all, Connecticut does not offer year-round warm weather — like Florida or California, for instance. When I wanted to play in the winter, I often had to be driven 50 miles or so each way to an indoor court.

In addition, my parents — unlike many other tennis parents — were supportive, but not pushy. Thus, I had to be really sure inside that a tennis career was what I wanted for myself.

How important is it for a young tennis player to have a coach?

I've worked regularly with two coaches since my parents introduced me to the game, and I feel that both of them have been vital to the development of my game.

My first coach, Kevin Lynn, who worked with me from the time I was 12-and-a-half until I was 16, saw some ability in me and helped develop me into quite a player at that time.

I began my association with my present coach, Bill Drake, three years ago, and he has helped me greatly with my forehand, my second serve and virtually every other department of my game. But more importantly, he has taught me to play "thinking" tennis.

So, in addition to helping a young player with the mechanics of her game, a good coach can also work with a youngster on the mental aspects of tennis.

Would you recommend taking time off from school — or postponing college — in order to pursue a tennis career?

That is a very difficult question to answer for another person. Personally, since I was doing well in my last year of high school, I was able to take time off from my studies to try playing on the Avon Futures circuit.

It was a wonderful experience for me because it gave me a good idea of what to expect if I ever played full time on the tour. Unlike what most youngsters might think, the circuit is a lot of hard work and traveling. And not all that much glamour.

As for postponing college... Again, that's a very personal decision. I applied to Princeton University (and was accepted) because I wanted a choice. I wasn't sure at that time if professional tennis was going to be for me. Today, I am totally certain that I will go back to college sometime in the future.

Rookies Not Doing Bad In Minnesota

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP
Sports Writer

The rookies are really hitting it off in Minnesota.

"The rookies are doing it for us," said Twins Manager Billy Gardner, especially pleased with his younger players after watching Thursday's 4-1 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Among the tyros doing a strong job for the Twins so far is third baseman Gary Gaetti, who homered for the third time this season, drove in two runs and scored three times Thursday.

"Today they (the rookies) drove in some runs with two outs," said Gardner. "The turning point was Kent Hrbek's double play."

That came in the sixth inning when the Twins' first baseman grabbed a line shot down the right field line and stepped on the bag to double off Richie Zisk.

"I came off the bag and the ball came right at me," said Hrbek. "But those are the plays we need to keep winning."

Gaetti opened the second inning with a solo homer off losing pitcher Gene Nelson. Gaetti also scored the next two Minnesota runs following walks. Designated hitter Jesus Vega drove him in both times with singles in the fourth and sixth innings. In the bottom of the seventh, Gaetti drove in Hrbek with a single.

"Only in my wildest fantasies did I imagine this," said Gaetti, who has seven hits in 10 at-bats so far. "I'm just going up to the plate trying to see the ball."

The Seattle run came in the seventh on Jim Essian's homer off winning pitcher Brad Havens.

In the only other American League game, the California Angels beat the Oakland A's 8-6 in 16 innings. Four games were postponed by cold weather — Boston at Chicago, Toronto at Detroit, Cleveland at Milwaukee and Kansas City at Baltimore.

In the National League, New York defeated Philadelphia 7-2 and Houston edged St. Louis 1-0. The Montreal-Pittsburgh game was called by snow.

Angels 8, A's 6
Doug DeCinces led off the 16th inning with his second homer of the night to trigger California over Oakland in a game that lasted five hours and 31 minutes, a record time-wise for both teams.

DeCinces, hitless going into the game, hit both homers deep into the left field seats at the Oakland Coliseum. His second shot came off reliever Jeff Jones, 1-1, breaking a 4-4 tie.

After the blast, the Angels put the game away with three more runs, as Tim Foli came home on a throwing error by catcher Bob Kearny. Fred Lynn hit a sacrifice fly and Rod Carew slapped an RBI single.

Luis Sanchez, the winning pitcher in relief, gave up two Oakland runs in the bottom of the 16th on Rickey Henderson's RBI single and an RBI grounder by Dwayne Murphy. Henderson had five walks to tie a club record set by Billy North in 1973.

Bing's Boy Leading With Watson In Masters Golf Tournament

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP
Special Correspondent

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) —

For nearly three hours on the first day of the tournament, leader boards at the Masters led off with two names — Watson and Crosby.

The first was a household name in the realm of golf, genuine royalty — Lord Tom Watson, twice winner of the Masters, three times British Open king, No. 1 in the money ratings for four years, 1977 through 1980.

The second name covered a much wider scope of recognition although less among sports buffs, Crosby — Nathaniel Crosby.

He's Bing's kid.

Nathaniel doesn't croon the way his dad did on those roads to Morocco and other exotic places with Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour in the movies.

But here he was in the Masters, one of the most prestigious of golf tournaments, and paired with the man who many experts think may take it all.

Bing Crosby, an avid golfer himself and creator of the Bing Crosby National Program in Pebble Beach, Calif., lied after being stricken on a golf course in Spain five years ago.

"Your dad would have been proud of you, seeing you playing here today," a TV announcer said to the 20-year-old youngster prior to the first round tee-off Thursday.

"Well," replied young Crosby, "I'd have to say he has a better view than the Goodyear-blimp."

It wasn't an irreverent remark. Nathaniel knew that his famous father would find delight in such humor.

Certainly, Bing would not have wanted him to choke up and give a maudlin reply.

Bing's boy is a clean-cut, fresh-faced youngster who is a little embarrassed at being thrust so suddenly into the spotlight.

Every time he's stuck his blondish head outside the white colonial clubhouse of the Augusta National Golf Club, he has been besieged for autographs. A swarm of newsmen is always around his locker.

He has been considerate and responsive but he has been driven almost to distraction — much in the way his famous father was inundated by shirt-tugging, arm-grabbing admirers as a premier movie and recording personality for decades.

"I started out signing my name 'Nathaniel,'" young Crosby said. "Then I shortened it to 'Nate' and finally just the initials 'N.C.' Otherwise, I'd never have gotten to the first tee."

Someone suggested that these disconcerting admirers must have been beeny-bopper teen-agers, kids.

"Yeah, kids, kids 45 and under," Nathaniel replied.

The boy has a great sense

Flag confusion

The true history of the Stars and Stripes has become so cluttered by myth and tradition that the facts are difficult, and in some cases, impossible to establish. It is not certain who really designed the Stars and Stripes, who made the first such flag, or even whether it ever flew in any sea fight or land battle of the American Revolution.

Laborers excluded

The United States and China signed a new treaty on March 17, 1894, in which China accepted continued exclusion of its laborers from the United States.

of humor — as did Bing — and a golf game that made his father proud well before the latter's untimely death.

Nathaniel qualified for the Masters as the United States amateur champion, a title Bing coveted more than a golden record or a movie Oscar.

Want to cut food costs? Consider purchasing generic products - products without a trademark, says Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.
Generic foods usually cost 44 percent less than brand-name products and 15 percent less than store-label items, she adds.

Many consumers find little quality difference in best-selling generics including canned fruit, coffee creamers, chlorine bleach and paper towels, the specialist says.
McCormack is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

the abundant life

By Bob Wear
Most of us are familiar with the kind of pressures which harm us. Of course, the damage varies according to the intensity of the pressure and according to how we handle it. Different people are affected differently by the same "burden of physical and mental distress."
The pressure which seems to crush one person to the point of helplessness often challenges another person to newer and greater accomplishments. It is obvious that some people can handle pressure better than others, but all of us can raise our level of tolerance.
Up to the tolerance level, pressure may be helpful in causing us to expend our best efforts in coping with life. If, however, we permit pressure to build up beyond our ability to handle it; we are in trouble. We must not let this happen.

"The urgency of matters demanding attention" can be determined largely by us. There will be some unexpected pressures, but, generally, we can know about what to expect. For the unexpected, we can make the indicated adaptations; and for the expected pressures, we can be prepared. Thus, we can lessen the downward drag of all pressures.
These are days of multiplied pressures, but we have the privilege to choose how these affect us. We can permit them to overwhelm us, or we can call on our potentials and apply our capabilities, and cope successfully.
Some pressures are temporary, but others can be permanent; and we have the capacity to control the burden of these pressures by controlling our response to them. They are not invincible. We may create some pressures. For instance, we may over-spend; but, since we can control our spending; we can reduce these pressures. There are other ways that pressures may be created, and this means that we can, by careful thought and wise management, keep the pressures of life to a minimum. Many pressures can be reduced, when we act at the opportune time. The point is that we can, one way or another, handle the pressures of life with reasonable success.

We must not make too much of what we cannot control, but do everything we can about the things we can control. Some pressures can be reduced, some can be eliminated, and all can be handled wisely.

-Bob Wear

HEALTH Avoid excess magnesium

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - In one of your columns you made the amazing statement that chronic ingestion of excess magnesium can lead to magnesium toxicity with symptoms of senility.
I have been following a school of thought consistently advocated by highly regarded authorities that supplementation of both calcium and magnesium are most helpful to older people to avoid bone damage.
If your information is based on more recent studies suggesting that magnesium supplements such as Dolomite should not now be taken with calcium by older people, won't you please advise what those findings are so one can locate the report and read it.

DEAR READER - I would prefer that you rely on your family doctor's judgment and interpretation of the various reports available. Some of the best reading is a little heavy reading for the general public, and is located in medical journals, not health magazines that often serve as a vehicle for selling advertising for vitamin and mineral products.
The problem is related to well-known facts. About 25 to 60 percent of the magnesium you ingest is absorbed into your circulation. It does not build up in your blood because your kidneys filter it out. The difficulty is that after age 50 there is a gradual decline in the number of filtering units in the kidney. Thus as you get older you have more and more trouble eliminating excess magnesium.

There is a good report on this in the September 1980 issue of Geriatrics prepared by a group of physicians from the University of Connecticut. They point out that many doctors measure kidney function by just measuring the serum creatinine, but to determine the actual decrease in the ability of the kidney to clear the blood of magnesium you need more sophisticated clearance tests. Your family doctor may be interested in this report if he has not already seen it as the problem applies to other things besides eliminating magnesium.

The increased magnesium in your blood can reach levels to "cause drowsiness, lethargy and weakness. The onset is slow and insidious. As the condition progresses the victim may have slurring of speech and unsteadiness. You might think he was going to have a stroke."
And as the magnesium level increases the calcium level in your blood actually falls. That is because the magnesium suppresses the action of the parathyroid gland that normally regulates the blood level of calcium.

The problem of magnesium toxicity is particularly bad in the elderly and even in nursing homes. Patients are given regular laxatives that contain magnesium. TV ads exhort people to use such preparations for regularity. Antacids and laxatives are the chief sources of increased magnesium intake. And they are used most often at the time in life when kidney function slows.
I think it is quite important that people get enough calcium but it is important for the public to realize that you can abuse the intake of minerals and they can be just as harmful as they can be helpful.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a woman in my middle 60s and have always had nice hair. Now I have seborrheic dermatitis which comes and goes. The medication the dermatologist gave me seems to help, but leaves the scalp so dry it will not move. The skin on my legs and arms is also dry. The skin sometimes cracks and I can peel small pieces off. The scalp is my biggest concern. Are there any creams I can apply to the scalp without damaging the hair? What about vitamins like vitamin A?

DEAR READER - Seborrheic dermatitis is a common ailment. It produces scales and usually red spots. The scalp and hair line is most often involved. It can affect the face and other areas where sebaceous glands (skin oil glands) are common. The cause is not known. Frequent medicated shampoos are the usual treatment for the scalp. Corticosteroid creams are commonly used for the face.

You can't use creams on the hair. You can use medicated nongreasy lotions, but your dermatologist may already be using these. The nature of the disease is to come and go and you treat it to control the acute episode. Extra vitamins will not help.

All about tofu
DEAR POLLY - Could you please give me some information about tofu, the non-meat base of a vegetarian diet? I read a lot about it, but don't know how to use or prepare it. - MRS. T.M.J.
DEAR MRS. T.M.J. - Tofu, of course, is a custard-like curd made from soybeans. When sold fresh, it can be found in three- or four-inch-square blocks. I have also found an instant mix for tofu in specialty shops to which you simply add water and chill according to package directions. This mix produces a very soft, custardy tofu, like the fresh I have purchased is generally firmer. In whatever form you buy it, tofu is a rich source of protein, low in calories, and extremely versatile.
Tofu has a very bland, neutral flavor that goes well with any spice, herb or seasoning. You can eat tofu just the way it comes from the market, or you can bake it, broil it, deep fry it, saute it, or steam it. It is particularly good in any stir-fried vegetable dish - just add chunks of it as one of the last ingredients and cook until thoroughly heated through. Chunks of tofu are also delicious added to soups. You can marinate the tofu along with a variety of fresh vegetables in an herb-flavored oil and vinegar dressing for a lovely main dish salad, or stuff the same mixture into pita bread for a different kind of meatless sandwich. Almost any kind of stew, casserole or sauced dish can have tofu added to it or substituted for meat.
If you want to try making your own tofu, recipes can be found in a number of cookbooks, including "The Joy of Cooking" (Rombauer and Becker) and "Better Than Store Bought" (Witty and Colchie). One or both of these books should be available in your local public library. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - To remove wall paper easily, use a long handled sponge mop dipped in hot water to soak the paper. Slip a few rubberbands onto each arm of a clothes hanger. This will keep the clothes from sliding off. - MARGARET

Canada's capital
Named after the Ottawa (or Outaouais Indian Tribe), Ottawa was founded as Bytown in 1827. Located on the Ontario side of the Ottawa River border with Quebec, the city was incorporated under its present name in 1855. It became the capital of the Canadian Confederation in 1867.
