Reagan Rejects Freeze Of Nuclear Armaments

Declaring that the Soviet Union has "a definite margin of superiority," President Reagan last night rejected an immediate freeze of U.S., and Soviet nuclear missiles.

Reagan told a nationally televised news conference such a proposal, now pending in Congress, would be dangerous to the United States and would remove any incentive for the Soviet Union to negotiate substantial cutbacks in superpower nuclear Reagan instead gave his support to another proposal calling for a freeze only after the United States has closed the gap in weapons areas where the administration says the Soviets have an edge. "We cannot afford to repeat past mistakes," Reagan said in apparent reference to agreements with the Soviets that he and other critics claim forfeited advantages to the Kremlin.

He invited the Soviet Union "to join with us now, to substantially reduce nuclear weapons and make an important breakthrough for lasting peace on earth."

At present, he said, the Soviet Union "does have a definite margin of superiority, enough so that there is risk and there is what I have called several times a window of vulnerability."

The resolution rejected by Reagan is sponsored in the Senate by Mark Hatfield, a senior Republican from Oregon, and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. It is supported primarily by liberals and has 24 Senate signatures.

The rival resolution that drew his backing already has a majority of the Senate. It is being pushed mostly by such defense-minded senators as John Warner, R-Va., and Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

"This is an important move in the right direction," Reagan said of the Warner-Jackson resolution. He cited its call for major, verifiable reductions in U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons to equal force levels.

'These points are elements of a truly effective arms control agreement, elements which re consistent with the of this administration," he said.

Jackson said afterward that he appreciated that "the president has indicated his support of the general thrust of the resolution."

Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, who has signed both resolutions, said "it is discouraging that after 15 months in office the president is still unable to provide any specifics about his intentions with regard to arms control. I hope that his statement tonight is a first step along a path of meaningful and expeditious negotiations." Hatfield said he was "terribly disappointed" by the president's statement and 'didn't really hear much

Former Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie said the fact Reagan held a press cnference to discuss the issue "was a victory for the freeze movement." Criticizing Reagan's stand, Muskie said

Two incumbent candidates declined the invitation to attend the forum, and another was serving on a jury, but six hopefuls did make a showing as well as bingo question proponent Jeryl Baker and bingo foe Rev. Bob Huffaker.

The independent judgment of the members of the Commission on Presidential Scholars, with the concurrence of the President of the United States, determines final selection.

The Presidential Scholars Program was established over 18 years ago to recognize and honor Americ's most distinguished high school seniors. The program was exteded in 1979 to include recognition of students with exceptional talent in the visual, creative, and performing arts. A total of 141 students are chosen annually for these honors from among the most outstanding

There is no provision for a monetary award within the Executive order establishing the program. However, for the past three years, the Geraldine R. Charges Go To Jury Despite Claims Of Indian Jurisdiction

DALLAS (AP) - The man accused of shooting four people on a city bus March 24 believes he should be freed because he is a Comanche and the court therefore lacks jurisdiction over him, his lawyer says.

Charges against W.K. Rudd Jr., 37, of Dallas were referred to the Dallas County grand jury Wednesday by Justice of the Peace Cleo Steele despite the statement by lawyer Fred Tinsley.

Tinsley, reading a statement he said was written by Rudd, said the defendant "feels he should not go to court" because Rudd's grandfather was a Comanche who "has jurisdiction over this country and rules this country.'

"Although he (the grandfather) is deceased, he still rules through his sons," the statement said.

Rudd interrupted the reading of the statement, though, saying, "He's speaking something I didn't write."

Before the hearing, Rudd had asked Tinsley several times to read a written statement he had prepared.

Rudd is being held in Dallas County Jail in liau of $95,000 bond. He is charged with one count of murder and three counts of attempted murder in the shooting on a Dallas Transit Systems bus.

Polite Mercedes Driver Sentenced In Six Bank Robberies

HOUSTON (AP) - James Paul Martin, the "gentleman bandit" who received death threats from fellow inmates for helping deputies foil a jailbreak, has been sentenced to 15 years in prison for six holdups of financial institutions.

But Martin, whose polite manner and Mercedes-Benz getaway car earned him his nickname, will be placed in federal custody to protect him against retaliation from inmates in state or county facilities, defense lawyer Richard Stephanow said.

Martin, 28, was sentenced Wednesday after pleading guilty to robbery charges. Those counts were reduced from aggravated robbery as part of a plea bargain.

Martin told Stephanow and sheriff's deputies last June that several inmates on his cellblock were planning to escape using a pistol, tear gas and other weapons smuggled in to them, testimony in the punishment phase of the trial showed.

Martin walked into a Dallas newspaper office in May 1980 and surrendered to the FBI, admitting he had robbed an Arkansas bank earlier that

System Patented To Store Nuclear Waste

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) - A research physicist here says he has been awarded a patent for a system to store radioactive wastes in glass cables, which he says will make it easy for scientists to retrieve and repackage the waste if something goes wrong.

Dr. H. Richard Leuchtag said Wednesday vitrification of nuclear wastes, encasing them in glass, is already used in France, where wastes are woven into glass molds.

His system differs in that it involves weaving the waste-bearing glass into a coated cable and winding it onto a buried spool, said Leuchtag, who is currently doing research on the nervous system at the University of Texas Medical Branch here.

"In my opinion, the initial cost for this system would be greater, but I feel the long-range costs would be less," he said. "That's because you have retrievability built 8 to this system, and you're not faced with enormous engineering problems if something goes wrong."

Technicians could monitor the condition of the cable by sending light impulses through it periodically, he said. If the checks showed a dangerous condition, such as overheating or water seepage, the cable could be reeled to the surface and the problem corrected, he said.

Leuchtag said the system reduced the problem of finding a perfectly secure geological structure in which to bury the waste.

The task force also is calling for large increases in faculty salaries, significant tuition hikes to offset inflation, and consolidating the colleges and universities outside of the UT and A & M systems into regional university systems.

The last recommendation was unpopular with some task force members who feel additional university systems are not needed or should be based on some criteria other than geographic areas.

The task force is scheduled to meet April 22 to consider approval of the final report.

AUSTIN-The use of solar power is as old as an animal warming itself on a rock, as new as the complex solar "sails" used on space probes. The prospective purchaser of a ating device is faced with competing claims by manufacturers, a variety of financing plans, and public debate about the proper use of solar energy.

The most common solar system is a roof-mounted collector "retrofitted" to any existing home and used to heat water for the household. Some collectors are also in use for swimming pool heating. Collectors can be used for household space heating.

Water, brick, or other "passive" materials can also be used to collect and redistribute the heat. First learn the specifics of solar energy uses. Will the capacity of a collector actually meet your heating needs? If a backup system will be needed for some period of the year, would changes be needed in that also? Compare the installation time, skills, and costs of a kit with those of full installation. If space heating is being considered, would additional insulation and weather stripping be necessary?

A variety of publications are now available from public or university libraries, information centers run by your local government, public information offices of utility companies, nonprofit solar --associations, bookstores, and small businesses supplying the solar-device industry.

Second, ask the supplier or contractor for references from other customers. Talk to them and inspect the work done. Make sure the installer or contractor is properly bonded or otherwise certified by your local government, and that the proper building and plumbing permits have been granted.

Third, examine the financing offered to you. What is the interest rate if a payment plan is being offered? What is the impact of such payment plan in relation to your utility bills? What are the maintenance and replacements costs of the existing heating plant? The federal government offers a Residential Energy Tax Credit for installation of some types of energy-saving and solar devices, so make sure you know whether or not the installation you choose will meet the specifications for receiving this credit. The Texas State Property Tax Code provides an exemption for certain types of solar and windpowered devices. Information about this may be obtained from the chief tax appraiser in your Fourth, make sure you understand clearly the terms of any warranty provided by the supplier of the device you desire to purchase. There are no official industry standards, but some suppliers are giving warranties of up to 5 years on a collector suitable for domestic hot water heating, and up to 10 years on a pool heated collector, with a oneyear warranty on the noncollector portion of the system being common.

county.

Fifth, check with the installer on servicing of the unit. Is servicing covered by the purchase price? If the installer does not service the units, is there a qualified servicing agent in you community?

Being a rodeo clown brings involvement from the whole family, at least in the case of Mike and Linda Shipp and their three year old daughter,

'Mike has been rodeoing all his life," says Linda, "and we are still very active in the rodeo business.

As a rodeo clown, Mike travels a lot, many times taking his family, and stays busy all year round, but especially during the months from March to August, when there are hardly any weekends that the Shipps are not involved in Mike spent his junior high years in Hereford, going on to graduate from hish school in Claude. His folks have a large ranch. Linda was raised in Borger, and although she didn't grow up on a farm or ranch, she came from a "cowboy" family. The couple moved to Hereford almost three years ago from Tyler.

Little Erica is already beginning to practice barrel racing, and wants to learn calf roping. "The rodeo is our second job," says Linda, "and our main hobby!"

Mike is employed at West Texas Rural Telephone Coop, where he works fulltime. Linda is a full-time optometrist assistant, working for Dr. Milton Adams.

'My great-grandmother was blind," she explains, and I guess I always had it in the back of my mind that if I ever worked for a doctor, I would like to work for an eye doctor"

Linda does preliminary examinations and also receptionist duties. "I especially enjoy working with children," she says.

"We just got a computer at work," Linda adds, "and I'm taking computer classes at the high school on Monday nights. I'm really having a lot of fun with it."

Erica goes to Hereford Day Care Center during the day. "She has been going there since she was about one and a half years old," says Linda, "and she really loves it. She even misses the other kids on the weekends."

"I really like the people who work there," comments Linda. "They teach the children manners and provide good training." Linda is secretary of the Hereford Newcomer's Club having joined in October of 1980. She is also active in the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce, serving as chairman of the Pet Show committee this year.

"I helped with the Pet Show last year," says Linda. "It is for children, usually about 12 years of age-and under, and awards are given for the friendliest, longest tail, shaggiest, largest, and smallest dogs, among other things."

Sometimes it seems like the whole country is at odds with one another. We can't agree on anything anymore.

There was a time when all you had to do to get a standing ovation was to mention God, motherhood and flag and hot cocoa before bedtime, and an audience would rise to its feet at once.

In recent times, I have seen speakers booed for advocating peace, clean air and children.

There are no more one-size-fits-all conversations. I can't stand rejection, especially when I'm eating, and it's getting tougher and tougher to attend a dinner party and get a topic on which everyone agrees. I've kept a file of safe topics. They're all here. You're welcome to them. "TV is a cultural wasteland!" No one will say anything good about television in public. Count on it. Despite the fact that 150 million people watch an average of 42 hours of television a week, no one will defend it ... even the couple who skip dessert to get home in time to watch "Don't you feel sorry for Brooke Shields?" Never has compassion been put to such a strain, but no one, trust me, no one will risk being labeled a green-eyed monster. I have seen telethons put together to buy Brooke Shields a

"There's something wrong with a country that can put a man on the moon, but can't save the Asian Jocular from becoming extinct."

You've never seen outrage until you make this statement, despite the fact that there is no such animal as the Asian Jocular. Everyone wants to save something.

"The trouble with kids these days is they get too much." Kids are a cheap, shot, but they're home in bed, so what the heck. You can blame them for pollution, the devaluation of the peso, mudslides in California, the inefficiency of the post office and the atrocities in El Salvador. Not one person will disagree.

"I simply won't pay $1.35 for a head of lettuce." This statement is usually made by a woman who hates lettuce anyway, but it always arouses an entire room to complain about the economy and reminisce about when cars "with everything" sold for $135.

"Have a good day" used to be pretty safe, but the other night when I said it a man leered, "What kind of crack is that? It's easy for you to say. You're working!"

Scratch "Have a good day."

Ann Landers

Someone Goofed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: During the last two weeks of December I was waiting for my Christmas bonus. On Dec. 20 a gorgeous crystal vase arrived. The card inside said, "Merry Christmas." The signature was that of one of my bosses. I was pleased but thought surely the bonus would arrive at any moment.

Three weeks later I received a bill for $200 for the crystal vase. I was flabbergasted, but paid it. I work all week, leaving my child with a baby-sitter, so I can help my husband with the bills. I can't begin to tell you what I could have done with that $200.

How can I be sure something like this doesn't happen next year? - P.B. In Manhat-

DEAR MANHATTAN: P.B. must have be an abbreviation for Peanut Brain. I find it hard to believe that a woman old enough to hold a job would pay $200 for a vase she didn't order and not raise a single question with the store that sent it out.

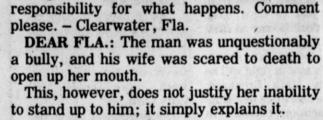

The boss meant it to be a gift. Any other conclusion is unthinkable. Write a letter or go see the manager of the credit department at once. You have $200 coming. If the man who sent the vase knew you had been billed, he probably would die of embarrassment. Someone in the store goofed. DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a woman in my late 20s, married five years to my second husband. We have no children, both work and have a comfortable marriage in every area except sex.

I feel no fire for him. He has been very patient, even when I "jokingly" suggest he take a mistress. He says, "That's not what marriage is for."

I have slept with so many men I have lost count. As I look back, I know fully well that none of these men really turned me on. I am just now realizing the reason I have been with so many men is because I was trying to deny my sexual attraction to women.

I have never had an affair with a woman,

Eagles' Bergey Will Retire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -The Philadelphia Eagles Bill Bergey, one of the National fumbles, recovered two and Football League's all-time intercepted a pass to boost his stac linebackers, will announce his retirement today, The Associated Press has learned.

The Eagles have announced a noon news conference, which a spokesman said would produce a major announcement.

Bergey wasn't available for comment Wednesday night, and his wife said he would not talk about the retirement until today's news conference.

Jim Murray, Eagles' general manager, said that he had discussed the retirement possibility with Bergey a number of times.

"He may deny this, but I know he went through a lot of mental agony in making the decision," Murray said.

"It's a tough decision for a player of Bergey's caliber to make. It's hard for him to realize that he won't play anymore."

Bergey didn't play last season because of a knee problem, although he participated in the early weeks of pre-season training. Coach Dick Vermeil, realizing that Bergey's knee would not withstand the rigors of NFL competition, placed him on the injured reserve list.

Bergey first injured the knee against New Orleans in 1979, and underwent surgery. He missed most of that season, but returned in 1980 to start all 19 regular and post season games, including the Eagles' Super Bowl loss to Oakland at New Orleans.

The 245-pound Bergey actually led the Eagles in tackles with 119 in 1980, and tied with defensive end Carl

Jackson's Loss Hurt Yanks; Orioles Favored In AL East

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Bob Lemon and Earl Weaver are in their final seasons as managers of the New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles and Bobby Cox starts his first with the Toronto Blue Jays. But the biggest news in the American Last East this year is Reggie Jackson's defection from New York to California.

Despite the Yankees' World Series loss, Lemon was given one final year at the helm for his longtime loyalty to owner George Steinbrenner.

The owner bade Jackson farewell - whether it was a. fond one remains ops to discussion - after acquiring Ken Griffey from Cincinnati for right field. The rest of the outfield has Dave Winfield in left, Jerry Mumphrey in center. Oall can fly and the Bronx Bombers have become Steinbrenner's Striders, although Lemon insists it "doesn't mean that the Yankees are forgoing the long ball."

The infield finds Graig Nettles, Bucky Dent and Willie Randolph back at third, second and short, respectively, and first base will be platooned between Dave Revering and Bob Watson, with Rick Cerone behind the plate. That doesn't leave much room for free agent Dave Collins except as designated hitter. where he must contend with Oscar Gamle and Lou Piniella.

With Rick Reuschel ailing, the Yankees traded with San Francisco for right-hander Doyle Alexander, who was with the team in 1976. He joins Ron Guidry, Tommy John and Dave Righetti. The bullpen of Goose Gossage and Ron Davis is as strong asany.

The Milwaukee Brewers had the best overall record in the division last year, but lost a playoff series to the Yankees. Yet, Manager Buck Rodgers feels that "many of our players didn't have the type of year we expected them to have. Thus, if most of our people have a 'normal' year at the plate for us, we nink we are capable of winning the rugged Eastern Division.'

The Brewers return relief sensation Rollie Fingers, who won the AL Most Valuable Player and Cy Young Awards. The starters are Pete Vuckovich, Moose Haas. Mike Caldwell, Randy Lerch and Bob McClure. Catcher Ted Simmons has had a year to acclimate himself to AL pitchers. Paul Molitor, who triggers the offense, has been moved from the outfield to third base, joining Cecil Cooper at first, Jim Gantner at second and Robin Yount at short. Molitor's spot in right will be filled by Mark Brouhard, with Ben Oglivie in left, slugger Gorman Thomas in center and Larry Hisle the

Weaver has announced this will be his swan song in the Baltimore dugout. He hopes to makes it something to remember if the pitchers -Jim Palmer, Mike Flanagan. Dennis Martinez, Scott McGregor - stay healthy and the home run power reverts to its accustomed out-

Pitcher Sammy Stewart is Weaver's ace in the hole should someone falter, while the bullpen will be tough if Tim Stoddard's returns to his 1980 form to join Tippy Martinez.

The left side of the infield will have a new look - Cal Ripken Jr. at third and Lenn Sakata or Bob Bonner at short - to go with holdovers Rich Dauer at second and switch-hitting slugger Eddie Murray at first. The outfield has been strengthened by the addition of Dan Ford from California, to join Ken Singleton, Al Bumbry and Gary Roenicke, although Singleton may be the No.1 DH. Rick Dempsey and Dan Graham provide capable cat-

The Detroit Tigers may be ready to explode. "With the experience gained from last year's pennant run, we're going to be competitive right to the end," promises Manager Sparky Anderson.

The Tigers traded for outfielders Chet Lemon and Larry Herndon to provide some right-handed hitting. Kirk Gibson is the third outfielder. Detroit is strong up the middle with Lance Parrish behind the plate and a slick double play combo in shortstop Alan Trammell and second baseman Lou Whitaker. However, the infield corners leave something to be desired and there could be a shortage of starters behind Jack Morris, Dan Petry and Milt Wilcox. The Boston Red Sox have firepower in outfielders Jim Rice and Dwight Evans, third baseman Carney Lansford, second baseman Jerry Remy, plus Dave Stapleton and veterans Carl Yastrzemski and Tony Perez.

The gala party featured clips from most of her 11 movies, including "The Country Girl," for which she won the Academy Award Oscar for best actress in 1954.

The crowd later dined on turkey, roast beef and fancy cakes and fruits, drank champagne and danced to the music of Peter Duchin.

talk about the retirement until today's news conference. Jim Murray, Eagles' general manager, said that he had discussed the retirement possibility with Bergey a number of times.

"He may deny this, but I know he went through a lot of mental agony in making the decision," Murray said.

'It's a tough decision for a player of Bergey's caliber to make. It's hard for him to realize that he won't play anymore."

Bergey didn't play last season because of a knee problem, although he participated in the early weeks of pre-season training. Coach Dick Vermeil, realizing that Bergey's knee would not withstand the rigors of NFL competition, placed him on the injured reserve list. Bergey first injured the knee against New Orleans in 1979, and underwent surgery. He missed most of that season, but returned in 1980 to start all 19 regular and post season games, including the Eagles' Super Bowl loss to Oakland at New Orleans.

The 245-pound Bergey actually led the Eagles in tackles with 119 in 1980, and tied with defensive end Carl

"He's got a lot of options. I don't know what he'll wind up doing. I know he plans to make his home here." Bergey once talked about joining his brother in a business they owned in the Pacific Northwest.

Bergey was a second round Garvin, who took over from draft choice of the Cincinnati Bengals in 1969, and was acquired by the Eagles July 10, 1974, in exchange for two first-round choices and one second-round draft choice. He said many times that no player was worth that price.

Jackson's Loss Hurt Yanks; Orioles Favored In AL East

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer Bob Lemon and Earl Weaver are in their final seasons as managers of the New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles and Bobby Cox starts his first with the Toronto Blue Jays. But the biggest news in the American Last East this year is Reggie Jackson's defection from New York to California.

Despite the Yankees' World Series loss, Lemon was given one final year at the helm for his longtime loyalty to owner George Steinbrenner.

The owner bade Jackson farewell - whether it was a fond one remains ops to discussion - after acquiring Ken Griffey from Cincinnati for right field. The rest of the outfield has Dave Winfield in left, Jerry Mumphrey in center. Oall can fly and the Bronx Bombers have become Steinbrenner's Striders. although Lemon insists it "doesn't mean that the Yankees are forgoing the long ball."

The infield finds Graig Nettles, Bucky Dent and Willie Randolph back at third, second and short, respectively, and first base will be platooned between Dave Revering and Bob Watson, with Rick Cerone behind the plate. That doesn't leave much room for free agent Dave Collins except as designated hitter, where he must contend with Oscar Gamle and Lou Piniella.

With Rick Reuschel ailing, the Yankees traded with San Francisco for right-hander Doyle Alexander, who was with the team in 1976. He joins Ron Guidry, Tommy John and Dave Righetti. The bullpen of Goose Gossage and Ron Davis is as strong asany.

The Milwaukee Brewers had the best overall record in the division last year, but lost playoff series to the Yankees. Yet, Manager Buck Rodgers feels that "many of our players didn't have the type of year we expected them to have. Thus, if most of our people have a 'normal' year at the plate for us, we ing the rugged Eastern Divi-himself to AL pitchers. Paul Molitor, who triggers the offense, has been moved from the outfield to third base, joining Cecil Cooper at first, Jim Gantner at second and Robin Yount at short. Molitor's spot in right will be filled by Mark Brouhard, with Ben Oglivie in left, slugger Gorman Thomas in center and Larry Hisle the DH.

Weaver has announced this will be his swan song in the Baltimore dugout. He hopes to makes it something to remember if the pitchers -Jim Palmer, Mike Flanagan, Sparky Anderson. Dennis Martinez, Scott McGregor - stay healthy and the home run power

The left side of the infield will have a new look - Cal Ripken Jr. at third and Lenn Sakata or Bob Bonner at short - to go with holdovers Rich Dauer at second and switch-hitting slugger Eddie Murray at first. The outfield has been strengthened by the addition of Dan Ford from California, to join Ken Singleton, Al Bumbry and Gary Roenicke, although Singleton may be the No.1 DH. The Tigers traded for outfielders Chet Lemon and Larry Herndon to provide some right-handed hitting. Kirk Gibson is the third outfielder. Detroit is strong up the middle with Lance Parrish behind the plate and a slick double play combo in shortstop Alan Trammell and second baseman Lou Whitaker. However, the infield corners leave something to be desired and there could be a shortage of starters behind Jack Morris, Dan Petry and Milt Wilcox.

The Boston Red Sox have firepower in outfielders Jim Rice and Dwight Evans, third baseman Carney Lansford, second baseman Jerry Remy, plus Dave Stapleton and veterans Carl Yastrzemski and Tony Perez.

The bullpen is well-stocked with Mark Clear, Tom

The current leaders include Walter Lemon (504), Lewis Block (477), Keith Hansen (646), Ralph Warren (507), and Ken Walser (683).

obtained Al Oliver in a trade with the Texas Rangers on Wednesday, and Expos manager Jim Fanning immediately called the productive left-handed hitter "exactly what this club needs."

In a deal announced prior to an exhibition game between the teams, the Expos of the National League got Oliver in exchange for third baseman Larry Parrish and minor league first baseman Dave Hostetler.

'We're happy to have acquired one of the premier hitters in this game," said Fanning, who announced that Oliver will bat cleanup between Andre Dawson and Gary Carter.

Burgmeier and Bob Stanley, but much will depend on Dennis Eckersley, Mike Torrez, Bobby Ojeda and the rest of the starting pichers.

The Cleveland Indians had more starters than they knew what to do with - until Bert Blyleven came down with a sore elbow and Rick Sutcliffeisuffered a thumb injury. That still leaves Len Barker, Rick Waits, John Denny, Dan Spillner, Silvio Martinez and Lary Sorensen, with Ed Whitson in the bullpen.

Catcher Ron Hassey will be challenged by rookie Chris Bando. Mike Hargrove is at first, Toby Harrah at third. There's also the new DP combo of second baseman Jack Perconte and shortstop Jerry Dybzinski. Rick Manning, Miguel Dilone, Joe Charboneau and standout rookie Von Hayes are available for the outfield. Manager Dave Garcia would like to find a spot - first base or DH - for Andre Thornton's bat.

Cox turned the Atlanta Braves into a respectable group and hopes to do the same in Toronto, where the Blue Jays never have finished anything but last in their five-year history.

He has some fine young talent in pitchers Dave Stieb and Jim Clancy and outfielders Lloyd Moseby and George Bell. Other holdovers include DH Otto Velez, John Mayberry at first, Damaso Garcia at second and Alfredo Griffin at short. The Blue Jays are hoping for big things, though perhaps not this year, from shortstop Tony Fernandez, outfielder Jesse Barfield and catcher Gene Petralli.

Brezhnev's Health Center Of Attention

MOSCOW (UPI)- Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, in failing health has been hospitalized in Moscow, Soviet sources said it was not known if Brezhnev was suffering from a specific illness or simply needed to rest after a taxing month of public appearances.

They said Brezhnev, who was last seen in public March 25, was at a special downtown hospital that treats highranking Soviet officials.

In Washington, the State Department said it was "aware of rumors and reports." of Brezhnev's hospitalization but was unable "to confirm or deny them."

Six days ago, Brezhnev met with leaders of Soviet Uzbekistan on a visit to the Tashkent region. The day before he delivered an address on domestic policies and the Soviet Union's Asian foreign policy.

Rumors that Brezhnev was in ill health began to circulate last week when Soviet television did not show footage of his return to the capital from Tashkent.

Princes Feted By Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -Actor James Stewart, once her leading man, summed it up for everyone: "She's the top of the class, with the accent on class."

Philadelphia gave a Hollywood-style tribute Wednesday night to native daughter Grace Kelly, better known today as princess of Monaco.

Huge spotlights pierced the night sky and a sell-out crowd former film star. Tickets

Frank Sinatra was there, along with Bob Hope, Stewart Granger, Brian Aherne, Ricardo Montalban, Arlene Dahl and Rita Gam.

"You are sensational," Sinatra said, quoting a song he sang when he co-starred 26 years ago with Miss Kelly in the movie, "High Society." Hope acted as master of cerembnies.

Gowned in yellow silk taffeta, her blond hair braided in ried across the top of her head like a crown, the 52-year-old princess walked to the stage of the University of Pennsylvania's Annenberg Center for the Performing Arts as the crowd gave her a standing ovation.

"What can I say?" she said, her voice muted by a cold. "I am overwhelmed. I am so touched. I would like to hug every one of you I am so full of love."

The gala party featured clips from most of her 11 movies, including "The Country Girl," for which she won the Academy Award Oscar for best actress in 1954.

The crowd later dined on turkey, roast beef and fancy cakes and fruits, drank champagne and danced to the music of Peter Duchin.

The party was the kickoff for the Grace Kelly Film Festival, to be held the next four days at the Annenberg Theater. But the princess won't stick around to see the films. She was to fly back to Europe, today to Prince Ranier III and their children who couldn't be here "because they were busy with other things." Earlier in the day she met briefly with reporters posed for photographers, and com-plained a little that movies aren't like they were two decades ago.

"No one really looks forward (to growing old)," she said, "but there it is. So far, it is not too bad."

Could she be enticed to return to the screen?

"I'm very delighted, touched and flattered that people ask, but it is very unlikely," she said. "Acting is a fulltime job, and I don't have the time.

Impotence is common

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB -When I turned 63 I became impotent despite a great desire for my still-attractive wife. It came on gradually over the preceding two years. Then at age 65 at retirement a routine physical disclosed I am diabetic — adult onset type. I am on a weight control program and elimination of all sugar from my diet. The loss of from my diet. The loss of our sex life has been a great disappointment to my wife and me and caused family

I have done some library research on this problem but have not found out much. What is the actual physical damage resulting from the diabetes? Is it reversible or repairable? What are my options? Must our sex life be

DEAR READER - Impotence is a very common problem. It is made worse by fear, ignorance and prejudices or sexual hangups. An intelligent person will approach the problem like any other medical ailment because that is exactly what it is. And in many cases a lot can be done. It is a symptom, not a diagnosis. Finally, impotence is coming out of the closet and doctors and the public are becoming enlightened about it. There have been major advances in handling such problems in the past 10 years. One of the most important is learning that a large number of such problems are NOT from psychological factors but from underlying diseases, one being diabetes. In some cases the impotence causes the psychological problems, not the other way around. Diabetes affects the nerve endings that control the normal reaction. Early it may cause intermittent impocause intermittent impo-tence, proving that just because impotence is inter-mittent doesn't mean it is psychological. Later if the nerves are permanently damaged the condition becomes permanent. In the latter case various implants are available.

No man should accept a diagnosis of psychological impotence without an adequate examination. That includes blood glucose mea-surements for diabetes, blood tests for the level of testosterone and prolactin (an important hormone from the pituitary). The latter is a frequent factor.

DEAR DR. LAMB - The other day my secretary and I were discussing what should be done if one gets a blister on the skin from a burn, pinch or rubbing of a shoe.

Recently I burned my finger and a blister appeared.
My secretary said I should open it with a sterilized needle, but I have heard blisters should be left alone. I would appreciate your suggestion.

DEAR READER — Your secretary was half right. With the exception of burns, very large blisters may be opened, but only with a sterilized needle. By opened it is

Fancy french fries

DEAR POLLY - I have a menu suggesting something called souffleed potatoes as an accompaniment to roast beef. What are souffleed potatoes? Could they possibly mean beef. What are souffleed potatoes? Could they possibly mean potato souffle? I haven't been able to find any recipes for anything like this in any of my cookbooks. — ROBIN

DEAR ROBIN — Souffleed potatoes are really just fancy french fries. Actually, they are oval slices of potato that have been twice-fried in deep fat to make them puff up. The result is not only elegant, but delicious. If you want to try them, check your library for "The Doubleday Cookbook" or "The Joy of Cooking." Both of these cooking classics have detailed instructions for preparing these delicate potato puffs. — POLLY puffs. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Whenever I buy a cardigan sweater without pockets, I sew a pocket made out of non-woven interfacing (like Pellon) into the inside of the sweater. The pocket does not show and I can carry hankies, tissues or keys with me at all times. — L.E.M.

DEAR POLLY — To soften leather than has become hard and stiff, rub it thoroughly with neatsfoot oil. Allow the oil plenty of time to penetrate — overnight if possible. A second application may be necessary in some cases. Then polish the leather with a soft, dry cloth. I've used this on boys' baseball gloves and other leather items. — FANNIE POLLY'S NOTE: Check shoe stores and shoe repair shops for neatsfoot oil. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When baking cupcakes or muffins in paper muffin cups, I put a tiny amount of oil or shortening into the bottom of the cup before pouring in the batter. This keeps the bottom of the baked product from sticking to the paper. Hope others find this trick worthwhile. — BLANCHE

REBUILDING AMERICA MEANS TOUGH DECISIONS.

SUCH AS...

Saving More

New Research and Ideas

Improving Productivity

Expanding Trade

Producing More Energy

These are tough decisions. But we've got tough problems to solve. Persistent problems like inflation . . . joblessness . . . declining productivity . . . old plants and equipment . . . a shrinking share of world trade . . . and dependency on foreign oil.

Now, there is nothing wrong with America that we can't fix...if we work together.

By working together, Americans carved the most prosperous society mankind has ever known out of a continent of wilderness, deserts and swamps.

By working together in the 1980's, we can rebuild America and make our country and our economy Number One in the world again.

Despite our problems, we have a lot going for us: a society built on love of family and respect for neighbors. Freedom to worship as we please. To think and say and write what we believe. And the precious privilege to vote and choose our leaders as we please.

Further, there's something else going for us that we often overlook: our private which has produced the greatest economic prosperity in man's history.

If the past is any guide, we're not going to rebuild America by turning to government and its programs, but by reaffirming private enterprise and individual initiative.

But how can I help rebuild America? Will my individual contribution make a difference? Yes! You can make a difference by:

• Saving and investing more of your earnings, especially now that the tax cuts have taken effect.

 Helping make more resources available to our researchers and scientists by saving and investing.

 Increasing productivity by working with others at your company to find ways to be more efficient.

 Reminding your legislators that more tariffs and quotas threaten our markets abroad, our jobs at home—and they cause inflation.

 Saving more energy and saving more earnings that can be used by our scientists to find ways of producing more energy.

Yes, you can help your country by helping yourself. That's the genius of our private enterprise system. That's what America is all about!

Help Yourself and Help America.
