Due To Labor Problems

Decline of One-Third Seen in Onion Planting

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

AMARILLO--A local vegetable industry spokesman reported that due to labor problems, onion acreage in the immediate Hereford area may be down by a third or more during the 1981 production season as he addressed producers attending the fourth annual meeting of the Texas Vegetable Association at the Villa Inn here Thursday.

Wes Fisher of Barrett-Fisher Co. of Hereford predicted a decline in onion planting during a panel discussion which touched on the growing labor problems in the High Plains production region.

Fisher and panel members including Bill Weeks, executive vice-president of the Texas Citrus & Vegetable Growers and Shippers Association of Harlingen and Mike Yurosek, a major carrot producer from La Monte, Calif. addressed labor issues related to vegetable production.

Fisher outlined events relative to a fieldworker strike in the Hereford area during the past summer and also made recommendations to producers for coping with the presence of unions.

"There was intimidation and harassment of field workers and profanity on the picket lines during the strike last summer. Crews were intimidated but they did go back to work," said Fisher.

"One of the big things we have learned from this experience is to keep our crew leaders aware of what is going on. Producers will have to make immediate adjustment on the piecework rates for a bad field and not talk to the union people. If you do then they will claim that they forced the change and have achieved a great victory whenever you adjust fieldwork rates," stated Fisher.

to say that there is no inequity in farm labor wages but why don't we use the Department of Labor to handle the problem instead of another agency such as Texas Rural Legal Aid," Fisher commented.

"TRLA is splitting the Hereford community and causing discrimination that wasn't there before. In Hereford, if you haven't been sued by TRLA, you're just not in," Fisher commented on events of recent months.

"I know of at least three sheds in Hereford that probably won't have any onions in 1981 simply because of all the hassle over labor. In the Hereford and West Texas vegetable production area, onion acreage may be down a third for the next growing season," he estimated.

Fisher pointed out that producers in the Hereford area face a unique problem relative to mechanization of the onion harvest in that the early grano onions produced here are subject to severe bruising when mechanically harvested and are too tender for such procedures, although later onions could work well under mechanical harvesting methods.

Weeks commented on the history of the Texas Farm Workers Union and the United Farm Workers, and gave vegetable producers some pointers on steps to avoid confrontations with union labor.

"Planning and preparing for union activities starts well ahead of the actual appearance of union picketers," said Weeks.

"You must have an open-door policy with your employees and help them with their problems. Unhappy employees make you a prime target for disruptive union activities," he continued.

Weeks added that production supervisors should be trained in how to cope with union problems.

"Don't plant crops right next to public thoroughfares if you can avoid it, and barriers around fields may be helpful. By all means, get 'no trespassing' signs up around the property at the entrances and every 200-300 feet along the roadways," he advised.

A big daily recently published a full page ad that listed 300 helpful suggestions as to what you can do with a newspaper after you read it.

Hints from Heloise or Polly's Pointers may have reported on some of them, but here are few you might try--folding and molding as needed:

Add several sheets to rolled up money to impress a girlfriend.

Use as an umbrella in sudden storms.

Place in loose shoes so you won't slide so much.

Use to wrap wet or soiled diapers on a trip. (Much better than throwing them out the window indiscriminately).

Use for a shoe horn.

Save the newspaper on the date of your child's birth to give him or her later so he'll or she'll know what the events of the day were.

Use for watching eclipse of the sun (put a hole in the paper and show on the floor).

As a conversation piece, wrap a shower gift with appropriate part of the paper (like a baby squatting next to a box of Pampers).

Cut letters and words for use for notes or signs for added interest (this is often used in TV shows by criminals wanting to extort money).

Put under your car wheels when the car is stuck in sand, show or mud (unfortunately, this normally happens when you are nowhere near a newspaper).

Wad up to make the muscles under a coat look bigger.

When tightly rolled, a paper can be used as a disposable poker for a fire.

Wrap sandwiches (if you don't mind a little ink on the ham and cheese on white).

Use as an emergency pot holder (preferably several layers thick).

Use to blot lipstick (on white only unless you are wearing red lipstick and are a Texas Tech fan trying to achieve a black-on-red effect).

Emergency bottle cork.

Roll and use as a back scratcher.

Use as a fan to blow smoke away while barbecuing (Caution to keep fan from catching fire and barbecuing you).

Use for keeping your backside from freezing when sitting on crankstyle ice cream freezer.

Use tightly rolled to chase off unwanted animals (and door-to-door salesmen).

Use for bibs when eating spaghetti.

Fold into a hat.

Fold into an airplane.

Carry under your arm so everyone will think you're really staying up with all the news.

What a bargain for just a quarter!

NEA President To Speak

President of the National Education Association, Willard McGuire, of Washington, D.C., will speak to local educators here during a barbecue supper in the high school cafeteria Monday at 6 p.m.

Interested citizens are invited, and urged, to attend the meeting, according to local leaders of the Deaf Smith County Texas State Teachers Association-NEA.

Tickets, at $4 each, can be purchased from Melissa Tubb at Northwest Elementary or Norma Gripp at La Plata.

McGuire, a native of Minnesota, is a strong advocate of professional growth for teachers and will address that topic, as well as improvements in the education process.

An added incentive for local educators is a series of professional growth workshops to be conducted immediately following the dinner meeting. Three hours of inservice credit will be given to persons who attend. Topics of the workshops will include discipline, accreditation of teachers and tests and testing.

Other state and national officers of TSTA-NEA who will be honored at the Monday session include Mrs. Dora Scott of Houston, TSTA-NEA state president, Mrs. Vivian Bowser of Houston, NEA state director; and Gene Brock of Hereford, another NEA state director.

UW Drive Hits $35,000

Raymond White, 1980-81 General Campaign Chairman for the United Way Campaign announced that a total of $35,746.88 had been pledged at the initial report meeting Friday. This is 27.5 percent of the 1980 goal of $130,000.

A large portion of Friday's report was from workers in the Advance Division, headed up by E.A. "Bud" Eades, who reported a total of $30,236 on the drive to-date in that division.

Other workers reporting were: Troy Waddell-Special Division, $2,219.88; Mike Patrick-Employee Division, $150; J.O. Robinson, General Division, $2,189; and Duane Cassells, Agriculture, $952.

These groups are expecting larger turn-ins for next Friday at 4 p.m. when volunteers will hold another report session at the Chamber of Commerce conference rooms.

The minimum goal for the United Way of Deaf Smith County for the coming year has been set at $130,000, however the downtown indicator has been set for raising a larger amount to assure the programs of the human service agencies.

Clayton Will Take Stand Soon

HOUSTON (AP) — The Brillab trial of Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton has moved closer to the time when the veteran lawmaker and two Austin attorneys will take the stand in their own defense.

Defense lawyers called additional character witness

Friday, apparently laying a foundation for Clayton's testimony before the federal court jury.

Clayton and lawyers Randall Wood and Donald Ray have said they will testify, and the speaker said, "We will have a story to tell."

The prosecution had rested its case earlier in the week and the defense was expected to complete its presentation within the next 10 days.

Clayton, a veteran of 20 years in the Legislature and still with hopes of seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1982, has claimed he was entrapped by FBI undercover agents and a federal government informant.

Because of an official federal holiday Monday, Columbus Day, the trial will not resume until Tuesday.

Testimony ended at noon Friday so jurors and court officials could either attend or listen to the Houston Astros-Philadelphia Phillies divisional baseball playoffs.

Jess Hay, a Dallas mortgage banker and former chairman of the Democratic National Finance Committee, testified before the recess that Clayton would never accept any money from organized labor.

Hay said the speaker was a man of honor who would have laughed at an offer of $500,000 a year.

Clayton, labor leader L.G. Moore and the two attorneys were indicted June 12 by a federal grand jury on charges arising from the 10-month long FBI Brillab undercover operation. They are charged

Attorney Says Will Show 'Trick List'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An attorney is threatened to make public more than 2,000 names which appeared on an alleged brothel "trick list" if his client is brought to trial on accusations she was the madam of the operation.

Tony Ferro, who has represented Theresa Brown the past 20 years, said he would see that the list, taken from an alleged house of prostitution, was made public if she goes to trial.

"I will introduce it as mitigating evidence in the case against her," said Ferro, who tried to work out a plea bargain for his client that fell through in District Judge James Barlow's court Friday.

Ms. Brown, 48, was indicted by the Bexar County Grand Jury Thursday on a charge of aggravated promotion of prostitution and told reporters after posting $5,000 bond, "I just want to know who's going to throw the first stone."

She was accompanied by a former news reporter who reportedly plans to prepare her memoirs.

The nation's 10th largest city, rocked by reports well known businessmen and politicians were included in the list has been abuzz with reports that photo copies were being circulated around town. One private investigator reportedly contacted news media representatives wanting to sell a copy.

City Lawyers Rest Case

HOUSTON (AP) — A former Houston police chief has testified that the department has no "silent policies or actual practices" that condone the use of excessive force.

Defense attorneys called former Police Chief B.G. "Pappy" Bond to the stand before they rested their case Friday in the $2 million civil suit against the city for the 1977 police slaying of 17-year-old Randall Alan Webster.

Attorneys for the teen-ager's parents, John and Billie Ruth Webster of Shreveport, La., rested their case Thursday. Final arguments are scheduled for Wednesday.

The Websters charge the city with wrongful death and civil rights violations stemming from an incident in which the youth was shot to death following a high-speed chase, and a "throw-down" gun was placed next to his body to hide the fact that he was unarmed.

A federal investigation revealed the weapon came from the Houston Police Department property room, and two officers — the alleged gunman, D.H. Mays, and the officer who accepted the weapon, Noval Holloway — were convicted of perjury and conspiracy charges.

Tests on Exposed Workers Clear

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — Doctors who tested two scientists exposed to deadly radioactive plutonium while working at the Hanford nuclear reservation said Friday that neither should suffer any ill effects. Dr. Bryce Breitenstein of the Hanford Environmental Health Foundation reported the man and woman were released after preliminary examinations, according to U.S. Department of Energy spokesman Bob Newlin.

"They will continue to be monitored for the foreseeable future to be sure that any lingering contamination is expelled from the body," Breitenstein said.

Minorities Undertrained

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — There are many more black and Hispanic ninth grade pupils inadequately trained in reading, writing and mathematics, than "other" pupils, the State Board of Education was told Friday.

Results of the first Texas Assessment of Basic Skills tests given 43,520 fifth and ninth grade pupils, ordered by the 1979 Legislature, show 118,467 ninth graders or 54 percent failed in one or more of the tests.

"Certainly we cannot be satisfied when this many ninth graders fail to meet a minimum requirement in the basic skills areas," said Commissioner of Education Alton Bowen.

"We will work with the school districts to design programs which will be more effective in meeting the needs of these students," he said.

Students were tested to see if they met specific skill levels — or mastery — in reading, writing and mathematics.

Bowen said that the 118,467 pupils who failed at least one of the three tests included 80 percent of the black ninth graders tested, 71 percent of the Hispanic students, and 41 percent of the "other" students.

Grain Estimates Revised Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the summer now over, the full effect of the heat wave and accompanying drought is being shown on the nation's major farm crops.

The Agriculture Department has again revised its harvest estimates downward for corn and soybeans in its first report of the fall.

Continuing to drop from last year's record yield, the estimated 1980 corn harvest was put at 6.46 billion bushels.

The new corn estimate, based on surveys the first of the month, is 17 percent below the 1979 record of 7.76 billion bushels. The figure is also down 1 percent from the Sept. 1 forecast of 6.53 billion bushels.

Soybean production was estimated as of Oct. 1 at 1.76 billion bushels, a 23 percent decline from last year's record of 2.27 billion. A month ago the crop was estimated at 1.83 billion bushels.

Dawson Ahalt, a department spokesman, said the reduction in corn and soybeans in the latest estimates should not have any impact on consumer prices. The department said previously that crop losses from the drought would probably increase retail prices one percent next year, most of it in higher meat prices.

But added Ahalt, "if we are going to continue to satisfy foreign and domestic needs, it means we're going to have to have good crop."

In an exception to the general pattern, the 1980 wheat harvest is projected at 2.36 billion bushels, even larger than the record USDA had been predicting. Most of it was harvested before the summer drought had much of an impact.

Initially, as of July 1, the department estimated corn prospects at 7.28 billion bushels. Thus, the harvest estimate has been reduced by about 810 million bushels.

It is the first annual decline in U.S. corn production since bad weather shriveled yields in 1974, reducing the harvest to 4.7 billion bushels, a 17 percent drop from 5.67 billion bushels produced in 1973.

Overall, the department's "all crops" production index for 1980 was shown at 129 percent of crop production in 1967, a base year used for comparison. Last year, the index rose to an all-time high of 144 percent. It was 131 percent in September.

But the latest figures by USDA's Crop Reporting Board showed farmers still are expected to have record harvests of rice and wheat.

Rice production was estimated at 142.8 million 100-pound bags or hundredweight, "up from 136.7 million in 1979 and from the 140.1 million hundredweight estimated last month."

Cotton production was put at 11.6 million bales, down 21 percent from 14.6 million in 1979. The September estimate was 11.7 million bales.

Sorghum grain was estimated at 547 million bushels, a 33 percent decline from the 1979 harvest of 814.3 million. The figure is virtually unchanged since the September estimate.

Corn is the largest grain crop grown in the United States and, as livestock feed, is a vital element in the production of meat, poultry and dairy products for American consumers.

Along with wheat and soybeans, corn also is a leading commodity among U.S. agricultural exports to scores of foreign markets, including the big overseas buyers such as Japan and the Common Market countries.

Grain prices at the farm have risen from earlier slumps and generally are above year-ago levels. The most recent five-day average prices computed by USDA show wheat at $4.07 a bushel and corn at $3.06 a bushel.

Meanwhile, the production report said 1980 corn yields are expected to average 90.8 bushels an acre, compared to the record of 109.4 average for the 1979 harvest and 91.8 bushels an acre estimated last month.

Wheat yields, including all types, were estimated at 33 bushels per harvested acre, compared to 32.9 estimated in September and last year's record average of 34.2 bushel an acre.

Winter wheat production, which makes up about three-fourths of the U.S. output, was estimated at a record of 1.89 billion bushels, up 17 percent from 1.61 billion produced last year and slightly more than the September forecast. Yields were estimated at 36.1 bushels an acre, compared to 36.9 in 1979.

Durum wheat was estimated at 106.6 million bushels, down slightly from 1979 production of nearly 106.7 million bushels. The yield was put at 22 bushels an acre against the 1979 average of 27.1 bushels.

Spring wheat other than durum was estimated at 376.3 million bushels, compared to 426.2 million in 1979. The yield was put at 25.5 bushels an acre, compared to 28.2 last year.

Other crops in the October report included: —Oats, 450,660,000 bushels and a yield of 50.9 bushels an acre, compared to 534,386,000 and 54.4 last year.

According to Weeks there are three major union complaints which producers can take steps to alleviate.

"You must pay the minimum wage and should provide portable toilets and drinking water. The cost of renting toilets and buying some water cans and ice is negligible compared to the fact that you can head off union complaints. Make it obvious that you are providing these facilities," stated Weeks.

with extortion, racketeering, bribery and conspiracy. Moore will be tried at a later date.

The government claims Clayton accepted a $5,000 bribe during a Nov. 8, 1979, meeting with Moore and Joseph Hauser, an FBI informant who had posed as a representative of Prudential Insurance Co.

Weeks also advised producers to notify their legislators and to join in a fight against a union bill in the next session of the state legislature.

Yurosek outlined a myriad of problems encountered by his carrot production firm in attempting to deal with farm labor organizations in California.

"I'd advise you guys to donate your money now for a lobbyist to work on your behalf. It is cheaper than trying to fight once farm labor unions start," he commented.

"Go with your people and satisfy them. If you don't you'll have problems. You need to meet personally with your people and you must tell them personally that the union can't give them anything you don't agree to," Yurosek continued.

Weeks was asked by a member of the audience if a major union push can be expected in Texas during the coming year.

"I don't think we'll see a major union push in Texas this next year because Cesar Chavez is tied up in California and can't put up the push his union would like to have in here," said Weeks.

"The Texas Farm Workers Union doesn't have the push to mount a major drive. I expect more harassment from this union but I don't see a real all-out push this next year," he added.

But, Hay said, he doubted if the speaker ever considered this offer seriously and that it appeared to him that all of the conversation during the Nov. 8 meeting "led up to an entrapment."

The Dallas banker said that to him "it is inconceivable that Billy Clayton would take any type of a payoff."

Iraq Warns Iranian Civilians

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq threatened to use missiles and bombs against the capital of Iran's Khuzistan Province and Dezful to the north and warned Iranian civilians to evacuate. Iraqi tanks were reported massing for a drive on the Abadan oil center and the rest of the east coast of the Shatt al-Arab estuary.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim appealed to Iran and Iraq for a cease-fire to safeguard shipping in the disputed waterway, and said both agreed to bring their cases before the Security Council.

"In order not to be harmed by surface-to-surface missiles and to be safe from heavy bombs dropped by aircraft, which have not been used so far, leave your cities immediately," said an Iraqi broadcast to the residents of Ahwaz, Khuzistan's capital, and Dezful, 75 miles to the north.

Iran said Iraq used the giant missiles for the first time in the war early Thursday, killing 180 people in Dezful and a neighboring city. On Friday Iranian Phantom jets retaliated by hitting the Iraqi oil centers of Kirkuk, Mosul and Suleimanieh, roughly 300 miles to the northwest.

Iraqi artillery, meanwhile, shelled the Abadan refinery and Iraqi MIGs bombed the Red Crescent headquarters in the city, the Tehran command said. It also said the MIGs raided the Kharg Island oil terminal, 150 miles to the southeast in the Persian Gulf, and four were shot down.

Reporters returning from Khorramshahr, Iran's major port several miles from Abadan, quoted the Iraqi commander there as saying Iraqi tanks crossed a pontoon bridge over the Karun River east of Khorramshahr and set up a beachhead to launch a drive against Abadan and the rest of the coast.

Iraq says the east coast of the Shatt al-Arab should be the border with Iran and invaded Sept. 22 to try to enforce that claim and others. Jordan has publicly backed the Iraqis, and on Friday Libya became the first Arab state to side with the Iraqis.

Pro-Iraqi sources in Beirut, Lebanon, said Libya and Syria, which have pledged to unify their nations, have begun airlifting surface-to-air missiles and other war supplies to Iran via the Soviet Union, and that Palestinian guerrillas have traveled to Iran to man the missile batteries.

Another knowledgeable source in Beirut said Iraq told diplomats from Syria, North Korea and Libya to close their embassies in Baghdad and leave Iraq within 72 hours because of their governments' support for Iran in the war. So far, however, only Libya's Moammar Khadafy has publicly chosen sides.

Khadafy's move was seen as part of his effort to foster revolution wherever he can, including helping Iran at the expense of Iraq, another Arab state. Although both Iran and Iraq are Moslem, the Iraqis are Persians and the Iraqis are Arabs.

Diplomats in Beirut also noted that although Libya and Iraq are both leftist governments with strong ties

Carter Forgets Vow, Criticizes Reagan

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press Writer

When President Carter departed on his most recent campaign trip, he said he would tone down his criticism of Ronald Reagan. He returned home a little more than 24 hours later after declaring that Reagan "would not be a good president, a good man to trust with the affairs of this nation."

Did he mean to say that Ronald Reagan would not be trustworthy? He was asked as he walked to his helicopter at the White House for a weekend trip to Camp David. "He's very trustworthy," the president replied with a grin.

Carter's latest criticism of Reagan came during an interview in St. Petersburg, Florida. "I think it would be a bad thing for our country if Governor Reagan should be elected," he said. "I think a lot of his advisers are concerned about what he would say in an open, free exchange of ideas."

Carter said Reagan's positions on several issues "indicate to me he would not be a good president, a good man to trust with the affairs of this to the Soviet Union, Khadafy is uneasy about Iraq's bid for dominance in the Persian Gulf, through which much of the oil to the rest of the world is shipped.

But, Hay said, he doubted if the speaker ever considered this offer seriously and that it appeared to him that all of the conversation during the Nov. 8 meeting "led up to an entrapment."

It was the last remark of a long campaign week for the president, and to judge from the public opinion polls, there was little good news to take home for the weekend.

It was the last remark of a week conceding that Carter's strong personal attacks on Carter were backfiring, an ABC-Louis Harris nationwide poll taken Oct. 3-6 came out this way.

Reagan 43 percent; Carter 39 percent; independent John Anderson 14 percent; other candidates 1 percent; not sure 3 percent.

Reagan's four-point lead over Carter was identical to his margin in a Harris-ABC survey taken the first week in September. That one gave the Republican challenger a 41-37 lead, with Anderson winning 17. Both surveys were based on interviews with about 1,500 voters nationwide and have a margin of error of 3 percent.

But if the Harris poll is comforting to Reagan, who is taking a weekend off from campaigning, a survey of Southern voters must be a delight.

'Frustration'

By LOUISE WALKER

Getting the children off to school each morning seems to be a most frustrating hour. All are so sleepy at "rise and shine" time, but yet no one is sleepy or tired at 10:00 p.m. the night before. These mothers who get their children to bed by 8:30 p.m. should be given a gold medal for something - don't know what. 9:00 p.m. is bedtime around our house. But if we're lucky, we finally tuck everyone in at 10:00 p.m. or 10:30 p.m. and then the Lord only knows how long they giggle after that.

Bedtime is frustrating enough. I like an hour to relax and unwind after a strenuous day - maybe read. If I don't get the children to bed early enough, I'm rather late unwinding and I consequently am still sleepy at "getting up" time, also.

But morning is even more hectic. After everyone crawls out of bed, it's time to find clothes. With as few outfits as my children have, I find it hard to believe that it takes so long to decide what they're going to wear! To determine whether to wear long sleeves for a coolish day or a sundress for a rather warm day, each asks their father "Is it going to be hot or cold?" They never both me with that question. They know I'm no weather man. Think their dad sometimes wishes they wouldn't confront him with such a specific question, either.

After they have taken all their clothes out of the closet, they chose what they'll wear and likely leave the rest of the clothes on the bed. During breakfast, Mother reads the school menu. Each child changes his mind from one to six times about whether to pack a lunch or eat in the school cafeteria. It had been my policy to pack each child's lunch according to their specifications. After their indecisions brought me to tears last week, each child is now responsible for their own lunch. I still read the menus but my helpfulness ends there.

On our mad dash to the car, each child needs a quarter for an assembly program, map colors, or new pair of tennis shoes, and they need it that very minute. And to top it off, at least one has left the lunch box locked up in the house, one has left a library book on the kitchen table and one remembers he forgot to show me a note that had to be signed and returned today.

How can things be so hectic with only three children? Oh Lord, I love each one dearly, just give me a constitution strong enough to cope with the little things!!

IMMUNIZATIONS FOR NEWBORN
Obtain immunizations for newborn infants as early as possible.
Don't wait to start or complete immunizations just prior to the starting of school. The longer parents wait to immunize their children, the bigger chance they take of their children contracting one of the vaccine-preventable diseases.

Diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis and polio immunizations may start as early as two months of age. Measles, mumps and rubella usually are received at age 15 months.

Obtain these immunizations at a private physician's office or at a public health clinic.

Generally, there are no charges for immunizations received at public health clinics. A few clinics, however, may have a small record-keeping charge or a service fee.

TEXAS IMMUNIZATION
Texans are doing better on their immunizations now than they were 10 years ago.

In 1970, the Texas Department of Health reported 23,760 cases of immunizable diseases in the state, while in 1979, only 1,911 cases were reported.

This is a 92 percent reduction. This reduction results from more emphasis on immunizations in Texas through child care facility and public and private school immunization laws, and the efforts of private physicians and public health clinics.

Also, the Texas Department of Health has a special departmental program to promote immunizations among parents of newborn children.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

District Holds Annual Olympics

By DAVID CORTEZ
District Coordinator

This past weekend, the Tierra Blanca District held its 2nd Annual Cub Scout Olympics - with a tremendous success!! The competition was fierce from beginning to end. Moms, Dads, Den Leaders, and Cubmasters were all present to give their son some last minute coaching on each of the events. The events were Softball throw, Football throw, standing broad jump, 50-yard dash, long jump sit-ups, and push-ups, the team competition consisted of the tire roll relay and the caterpillar race.

All the Cub Scouts competed against each other by age groups - 8 yr. old against 8 yr. old, 9 yr. old against 9 yr. old, and 10 yr. old against 10 yr. old. A trophy was awarded to the Pack in each age division for overall points scored in each age division. 1st place was 10 pts, 2nd place - 9 pts, and 3rd place was 8 pts. for each winner in each event.

Others in the 8 year old division were: Robert Cavin with 20 pts of Pack 55, and Jarrod White with 19 pts of Pack 53. The 9 year old division had several standouts. Clint Cotton earned 19 pts, Brad Blum, Rick Alley (both of Pack 54) and Damon Tanck (Pack 32) each accumulated 18 pts. and Gary Hamilton earned 16 pts. The outstanding 10 year old was Kevin Hanson who rolled up a Grand Total of 46 points - almost half of his packs total score of 109. Other standouts were: Brian Thomas-25 pts, Shaun Moore-20 pts, and Jason Bullard-18 pts, all of Pack 151. Kyle Brown of Pack 32 accumulated 25 pts out of the 35 for his Pack.

The 1980 Cub Scout Olympics was a great success with a lot of fun. I can see the outstanding athletes of tomorrow mature quickly in events like the Olympics.

Special thanks to the Comanche Chapter of the Order of the Arrow for helping with the operation of the Olympics, and thanks to George Ochs for chairing the overall operation.

BASEBALL MATH

I like baseball. It is the only game I can watch on T.V. and still do something else. It is also the only game with the same kind of mathematical mind as mine.

I still count on my fingers. I can barely use a hand calculator. I long ago forgot the multiplication tables.

Baseball seems to use my kind of math. They talk a great deal about playing the percentages. As I said, I do not know math and certainly do not know percentages but tell me where the percentages are in baseball:

A manager will remove a right-handed hitter who hits 286 and replaces him with a left-handed hitter who hits 196. The announcer will say the manager is "playing the percentages."

A guy who has stolen 96 percent of the times he has tried will not be allowed to steal because the team is behind. Instead of stealing they will let a guy who is hitting 125 try to advance the runner. Or, they will waste an out trying to bunt the guy over. Is there any bunter in the world who can do that 96 percent of the time?

I don't understand the idea of not stealing when you are behind. In all other sports, when you get behind you gamble more, not less.

Come to think about it, baseball must use the same math as they use in Washington. The figures those guys throw around make about as much sense as those in baseball.

The other day, Washington announced a great breakthrough in the rising inflation rate. They had all kinds of percentages to offer. As best I could tell from their "percentages," things are much better while they are worse.

I may have found a whole new career. I should get a job doing math for either baseball or Washington.

Warm, non-percentage fuzzies,

THE WAGMAN FILE

'Big four' of campaign '80

By Robert J. Wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Strategists for Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter share the belief that the 1980 presidential election will be "typical" in that the victory margin will be only a few percentage points as opposed to the "atypical" landslides of Lyndon Johnson in 1964 and Richard Nixon in 1972.

What's more, the rival campaigns cite the same few states as keys to the election. Both sides concede that if either candidate carries New York, California, Illinois and Texas, he will undoubtedly win the election. They also agree that the outcome will be usually decided if one candidate wins New York, California and either Illinois or Texas.

All are populous states, of course. Their electoral votes total 138, more than half the 270 needed for victory.

Furthermore, recent polls in all four states have found the candidates within a couple of percentage points of one another with substantial numbers of voters still undecided. If all four swing one way, the loser will probably be unable to score a major breakthrough anywhere else.

Party Platforms Provide Roadmap for Voter

Party platforms are not the meaningless documents they are cracked up to be. They provide a clear philosophical roadmap of the direction in which the Presidential standard-bearer would lead the country if elected.

The 1980 Democratic and Republican platforms, written by men and women committed to reflecting the real views of Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan, respectively, provide a study in contrasts.

THE REPUBLICAN platform would put foreign policy emphasis on military strength and standing by our friends; the Democratic platform emphasizes human rights and improving Third World relations.

Republicans identify inflation as the nation's top economic problem; to the Democrats, it's unemployment.

Republicans would attack both inflation and unemployment through reliance on the private sector; Democrats would centralize power and money in Washington, doling it out from there.

Republicans want aggressive policies to achieve greater energy production and improve Americans' standard of living; Democrats want to conserve what we have and call for sacrifices.

Here, in the party platforms' own words, are some of the key differences between Reagan and Carter:

Balanced Budget vs. Spending

Republicans: "The Republican Party believes balancing the budget is essential (and) that an essential element of balancing the budget is spending restraint by the federal government and higher economic growth, not higher tax burdens on working men and women."

Democrats: "We as Democrats will continue our policy of opposing drastic cuts in social programs...Spending restraint must be sensitive to those who look to the federal government for aid and assistance...Fiscal policy must remain a flexible economic tool. We oppose a Constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget."

Jobs: Private vs. Public

Republicans: "Public service jobs are not a substitute for employable skills...Despite the almost $100 billion spent on well-intended public sector employment and training programs, the structural unemployment continues...We urge a reduction of payroll taxes, a youth differential for the minimum wage..."

Democrats: "We pledge a $12 billion anti-recession jobs program, providing at least 800,000 additional jobs, including full funding of the counter-cyclical assistance program for the cities, a major expansion of the youth employment and training program...a job for every American who is able to work..."

Energy: Independence vs. Stagnation

Republicans: "We believe that the so-called windfall profits tax (which is unrelated to profit) should be repealed as it applies to small volume royalty owners, new oil, stripper wells, tertiary recovery and heavy crude oil...We believe the federal 55 miles per hour speed limit is counterproductive..."

Democrats: "We reject unequivocally punitive gasoline and other energy taxes designed to artificially suppress energy consumption...We support accelerated use of nuclear energy through technologies that have been proven efficient and safe..."

Republicans: "We must make energy conservation our highest priority...The 55 mile per hour speed limit can save 100,000 barrels (of oil) a day...A stand-by gasoline rationing plan must be adopted..."

Democrats: "As alternative fuels become available in the future, we will retire nuclear power plants in an orderly manner...Funds generated by the windfall profits tax must be used to expand mass transit..."

Defense Goal: First vs. Fourth

Republicans: "The general principles and goals of this (GOP) strategy would be: To inspire, focus and unite the national will and determination to achieve peace and freedom; to achieve overall military and technological superiority over the Soviet Union..."

Democrats: "To accept no arms control agreement which in any way jeopardizes the security of the United States or its allies..."

Republicans: "First, we must consistently strengthen our relations with like-minded industrial democracies...Second, we must continue to improve our relations with the Third World by being sensitive to their legitimate aspirations..."

Democrats: "Our third objective must be peace in the Middle East...Our fourth (Editor's Note: Fourth!) major objective is to strengthen the military security of the United States and our allies...and to maintain a firm and balanced relationship with the Soviet Union."

Foreign Policy: Strength vs. Weakness

Republicans: "The foreign policy of the United States should reflect a national strategy of peace through strength..."

Democrats: "To shape a decent world, we must pursue objectives that are moral...That is why Democrats have stressed human rights..."

Cultivating Friends vs. Enemies

Republicans: "We will return to the fundamental principle of treating a friend as a friend and self-proclaimed enemies as enemies, without apology..."

Democrats: "We will...terminate all aid except for clearly humanitarian purposes to human rights violators...Initially, we will divest, under legal procedures, South African holdings of all public institutions and deploy full legal economic sanctions..."

Socialized Medicine: Con vs. Pro

Republicans: "Republicans unequivocally oppose socialized medicine, in whatever guise it is presented by the Democratic party. We reject the creation of a national health service and all proposals for compulsory national health insurance..."

Democrats: "The Democratic party pledges to seek a national health insurance program with...universal coverage...comprehensive medical benefits...significant administrative and organizational roles for state and local governments..."

Philosophy: Little vs. Big Government

Republicans: "The central government should perform only those functions which are necessary...and do for people only those things which they cannot do for themselves..."

Democrats: "The kind of government we Democrats stand for is a government that cares and knows how to translate that caring into effective action..."

Republicans: "Agencies should be required to review existing regulations and eliminate those that are outmoded, duplicative or contradictory..."

Democrats: "We must oppose special interest efforts to undermine the ability of federal agencies to protect consumers, the environment, or public health and safety...We pledge continued support for an independent consumer protection agency..."

Responsibility vs. Dependency

Republicans: "Unlike the Democrats, we do not advocate new federal bureaucracies with ominous power to shape a national family order..."

Democrats: "We do not claim that government has all the answers to our problems, but we do believe that government has a legitimate role to play in searching for those answers and in applying those answers..."

Opportunity vs. Affirmative Action

Republicans: "Equal opportunity should not be jeopardized by bureaucratic regulations and decisions which rely on quotas, ratios, and numerical requirements to exclude some individuals in favor of others, thereby rendering such regulations and decisions inherently discriminatory..."

Democrats: "An effective affirmative action program is an essential component of our commitment to expanding civil rights protections...We oppose efforts to undermine the Supreme Court's historic mandate of school desegregation..."

Civil Rights vs. Mandate

Republicans: "We acknowledge the legitimate efforts of those who support or oppose ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment...We must halt forced busing and get on with the education of all our children..."

Democrats: "The ERA must be ratified...Mandatory transportation of students beyond their neighborhoods for the purpose of desegregation remains a judicial tool of last resort..."

Republicans: "The Republican Party reaffirms its long-standing support for the right of states to enact 'Right-to-work' laws under section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act." (Such laws protect a worker's right to hold a job without paying union dues.)

Democrats: "Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act should be repealed..."

And on and on it goes...less government or more.

Which do you prefer?

Parents Reacting to School Crisis

BY RICHARD LESHER
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

WASHINGTON -- Ask American parents what they want most for their children and invariably they will reply — a good education. The reason seems clear. Throughout our history, the nation's classrooms have served both as a melting pot for newly-arriving groups eager to be assimilated into our culture, and as an important source of self-improvement, and thus, new opportunity, for anyone anxious to climb the ladder of upward mobility in hopes of ultimately realizing the great American dream.

Lately, however, parents have come to realize that money and personal sacrifices do not necessarily guarantee better learning. During the past decade, they've seen the federal government dictating more and more about what, where, and how their children will be educated. But even as government's involvement grows and its expenditures on education soar to new highs each year, they've also seen pupil achievement test scores declining all over the country. In fact, at the rate things are going, it won't be long before B.A. stands not for a Bachelor of Arts, but for Barely Able.

Parents are reacting to this problem in a way that testifies to their own good judgement. They want more autonomy returned to their local school districts, and they want to see greater emphasis placed on teaching basic skills again, as well as respect for authority and discipline. Predictably, Washington resists this idea with a vengeance. Here, as always, the attitude seems to be: "We have failed. Let us continue."

For example, last year many warned that creation of the giant $14.5 billion, 16,000-employee Department of Education would be a disastrous mistake. Why? Because it would finalize the shift in emphasis from supporting local school districts to establishing and implementing a national educational policy directed by Big Brother. The bureaucrats pooh-poohed these protests, but look what's happening now.

The Department of Education recently issued a 25-page set of regulations that tells local school districts what they must do — or else — to instruct the some 800,000 children of foreign extraction who lack fluency in English. The regulations would require that schools with 25 or more limited English proficient students teach basic languages as well as English. Any school district refusing to comply could be punished by a cut-off in federal funds.

The impact of this proposal would be absolutely devastating to local schools. In terms of dollars and cents, it could dump at least $400 million in new costs on already over-burdened municipalities. But even that number doesn't tell the story. Just imagine, for instance, the difficulty local school districts will have trying to locate and pay all the new instructors to teach algebra and history courses not just in French, German or Spanish, but in lesser spoken Asian and African languages as well. In some school districts around the country, more than 60 languages are spoken by foreign students.

Mon Dieu ... Quel cauchemar!

What's worse, the proposal would inflict further harm on the quality of education at the very time parents are urging schools to improve their instruction by reemphasizing the teaching of basic scholastic skills. Since society's resources are limited, and the proposed regulations are mandatory, something would have to give. That something would probably be the traditional courses offered in English to all students.

The Department of Education claims that in fashioning its regulations, it relied heavily on the advice of educational experts. To date, however, it has refused to publicize either names or evidence supporting its position.

Should Citizens Earn The Vote?

Why does the incumbent president tiptoe around the subject of welfare misuse?

Why is Reagan rhetoric on the subject colored pastel?

Be realistic; any criticism of welfare is construed as "an attack on poor minorities." Welfare, after three generations, has become "a way of life" for recipients.

With national elections frequently decided by a few hundred thousand votes, what politician dares now to turn his back on a welfare army of 13 million-plus their kin!

Now the big cities are demanding and the courts are ordering a census recount so that those cities may get more "Washington money" to perpetuate this plantation-style subservience.

There is one way you could get the freeloaders off the backs of the politicians—and eventually, perhaps—back to work.

That would be to allow the privilege of voting only to taxpayers.

If that sounds un-American — on the contrary — in early America voting was not a "right" — it was a "privilege" — which one had to earn.

A federal court ordered a census recount of big city populations on the presumption that many blacks and Hispanics had been missed.

Nothing noble about the applause from big city mayors; it's a matter of money.

Atlanta's Mayor Maynard Jackson guesstimates that the nose-counters missed 17,000 noses in his city — costing his city between 20 and 40 million dollars in "Washington money."

Other cities — New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Newark — are celebrating the decision.

Philadelphia's solicitor general calls it "a wonderful, wonderful ruling."

Now census bureau people must launch a much more thorough — and much more costly — canvass.

If the census bureau canvassers can locate and identify all the people — including those who for various reasons do not want to be located and identified — it will mean that some cities will receive more tax dollars and may receive larger representation in Congress based on an increased number of people who reap without sowing.

A spot check of households is no way to conduct a census, anyway.

The one way that a meaningful head-count could be conducted would be to feed the tax rolls into a computer.

That way you'd promptly have a precise count of the Americans who have earned the rights of citizenship.

Then only people who'd been taxpayers would be entitled to unemployment benefits; only taxpayers would be entitled to vote.

As is, those running "for" political office are forever running "from" an army of gimee-gimees.

Bootleg Philosopher

New Theory

From Washington

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith grass farm has encountered a new theory out of Washington.

Dear Editor:

A new medical theory has originated in Washington that requires a close examination.

According to a National Educational Committee's report to the Department of Health and Welfare, by 1990 there will be 70,000 surplus doctors in this country. This, the committee said, will run the cost of medical services billions of dollars above the 200 billion a year it now costs, because "more doctors will be doing more things to more people, without necessarily improving their health."

In other words, the more doctors there are, the more they're going to find wrong with you. Or, the amount of sickness increases in proportion to the number of doctors around to treat it.

I don't believe doctors will agree with this theory, but if it works, if the more doctors the schools turn out the more we'll have to pay for medical services, then I'd like to see the theory put to a wider use.

For example, apply it to ranchers. The more cattle they produce, the more they get per cow or calf. Or apply it to farming. The more wheat farmers produce, the more they get for it. I don't know of any doctors agreeing with this new theory but farmers and ranchers would endorse it unanimously.

Come to think of it, this theory has already been adopted in some areas by Congress. For instance, the more lawyers the schools turn out, the more laws Congress passes to give them something to do. And the people who make x-ray film have discovered the theory. The more film they produce, the more x-rays hospitals have to take.

For some reason, this theory hasn't worked with car manufacturing.

Yours faithfully
J.A.

Denvers Praise Play, Theatre, Cast

By ALLISON RYAN
Women's Editor

A surprise ending, great fun and as good as any Broadway show is how Bob and Dreama Denver describe "Catch Me If You Can," the Broadway play now showing at the Country Squire Dinner Theatre in Amarillo.

Denver, better known as "Gilligan" of "Gilligan's Island," stars as Daniel Corban in the play which runs through Oct. 26.

"This is a fun play to do, and we have a good cast to work with on stage. Archie Dwyer, who is the real star of the show is great," Denver said.

"The people who have come to see the play have been great, also. Nobody tells the ending so it is a surprise every time. Amarillo is a good place to work, the people are so friendly, the theatre is fantastic and the local talent makes our work easier," said Mrs. Denver, who plays Elizabeth Corban.

Bob Denver has traveled on the road performing on stage for about eight years. Since he and Dreama have been married they have both traveled about three years.

"I enjoy performing on stage more so than on television because when I'm on stage I can hear the laughter and I get energy from that. There is a flow between actor and audience, Denver said.

"To be on stage is an experience. There have been about 2000 books written about the feelings between an audience and actor but none of them really explain the feeling," he said. In December Denver and his wife will be in California to work on a feature film for television for another part in "Gilligan's Island."

The greatest recorded snowfall in history was during the winter of 1906-07 in Tamarack, California; 884 inches or 73 feet.

"We started making the film in August, but the actors strike started. This is probably the first time all the sets have been ready and the actors are not," Denver laughed.

About the actors' strike, the Denvers are in favor of it. They said everyone but the actors profit from television re-runs.

"With the re-runs people see of "Gilligan's Island," the producers profit, but not the actors and it is not fair," Mrs. Denver said.

According to Denver negotiations are now underway and most actors have gone back to work.

"We are making plans to go ahead with the shooting of Gilligan's Island. The Harlem Globe Trotters will be in the film with us," Mrs. Denver stated.

Between stage and television both actors stay busy and on the road.

"We love being on the road. We are asked many times about our permanent address, but we don't have one except for a small apartment where we store some clothes," Mrs. Denver laughed.

"This play (Catch Me If You Can) has been fun to do. We did it one other time in Florida and it was fun then. The theatre in Amarillo is a good one, much better than some stages where we have performed. The people here are lucky to have such good local talent. I hope they always support them," Denver said.

Hereford Rebekah's To Celebrate 78th Anniversary with Reception

The Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 will celebrate their 78th Anniversary Oct. 14 immediately following their monthly business meeting at the IOOF Lodge with a reception.

Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 was organized October 11, 1902. Charter members were brothers M.O. Meeks, J.H. Turnbow, Joe Kellough, A.J. Lipscomb, and E.R. Rice. Sisters were Lizzie Dale, Dora Rice, Molly Smith, Alice Inman and Joyce Meeks.

The Rebekah Lodge was one of the most active organizations in Hereford. In 1908 the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs took care of the Hereford Cemetery grounds and cared for the graves of their members. A date was set for the work and Rebekahs carrying lunches, hoes and rakes, accompanied by their children, went to the cemetery; many of them having to walk. With a new well and windmill in the northwest corner of West Park Cemetery, the day was spent at work.

Meetings were held on Monday afternoons at 2:30.

When there was to be an initiation the meeting was postponed until Friday night when the brothers could meet with them. Later the meeting dates were changed to the first Tuesday of the month at 2:30 p.m. and the third Tuesday at night.

Rebekahs and Odd Fellows always cared for their sick members, no matter how long the illness. No one was ever too busy to go to the homes of members needing care.

When a member passed away all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs met at the Hall and marched to the church where the funeral service was held. Then they all marched to the cemetery two by two.

There were happy times also, when there would be ice cream suppers, and surprises for the Odd Fellows when the Rebekahs and the children would take ice cream and cakes, waiting at the bottom of the stairs until the Odd Fellow meeting was over. The earliest memories of this writer concerning meetings of the Rebekah Lodge, of which my parents and grandparents were members, was playing dominoes in the anteroom with someone until the meeting was over. Baby sitters weren't used in those days.

One of the first money making projects was a Quilting Club. The proceeds were used to purchase tables and chairs for the Hall as well as other needed items.

When the Odd Fellows purchased the old Church of Christ building and moved to the present location, the first meeting was held July 25, 1958. Meetings are held each Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Past years have seen some winning degree teams in competition. One such team consisted of Leona Matthews, Catherin Russell, Lassie Roberson, Nanny Mae Mauk, Louise Springer, Ursalee Jacobsen, Leta Kaul, Samantha Hopson, Elizabeth Harlow, Ethel Fridley, Orpha Nickerson, Velma Sowell, Verna Sowell, Lydia Hopson, Mildred Jasper, Virgie Lee Sparks, Alice Sparks, and Gertrude Bailey, Musician. Hazel Sparks was the Team Captain.

Other members on competitive and winning teams were Edna Bowe, Allie Elliston, Viola Mills, Verna Kendall, Ruby Baker, Mabel Barnhart, Emma Woods, Myrtle Witherspoon, Ruth Rogers, Earline Manning, Maggie Luck, Allyene Lomenick, Gladys Moody, Peggy Drummond, Edna Draper, Charlotte Calvert, Katherine Shepherd, Cora Lee Brock, Mary Cox, Orpha Nickerson, Bessie Lawrence, Lora Long, Lovine Malone, Lucille Olson and probably many others that are not left out intentionally.

In the spring of 1938 at the Panhandle Association held in Dalhart Ursalee (Fridley) Jacobsen won a medal in the Vice-Grand charge competition. In this year of 1977 Ursalee is District Deputy President of District 5.

The first officers to be installed in Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 were Lizzie Dale, noble grand; Mollie Smith, vice-grand; E.R. Rice, secretary; Johnnie Killough, treasurer; J.H. Turnbow, inside guardian; and Joe Killough, warden.

Pat Walker's Presents:
The Splendor of being Slender

Carolyn Stinson: 'I was frantic about my weight.'

But look at her now that she has lost 53 1/4 pounds and 49 1/2 inches at Pat Walker's!

Maybe you've had a similar shock in that awful moment of truth when you have to face up to your real weight. For Carolyn Stinson, the experience was distinctly unpleasant, as she relates in her letter:

"... in 1968 I weighed 118 pounds and had never really dealt with a weight problem. Over the years I gradually added the pounds... In July 1977 I stepped on the scales at my doctor's office and was astounded to find out how much I weighed. I was frantic!

"At a friend's insistence I set up an appointment with Pat Walker's for a courtesy treatment and figure analysis. I was impressed with the fact that the passive exercise was so relaxing and that you did not have to disrobe. There was to be no strenuous diet — only a weekly direction from qualified counselors... Week by week I saw consistent reduction resulting in a total loss of 53 1/4 pounds and 49 1/2 inches! I went from a size 16 to size 8 and firmed and toned over all.

"Pat Walker's has changed my life. I feel younger and more energetic than I have in 10 years!"

You can do it, too!
Like Ms. Stinson, you can reach your desired weight at Pat Walker's

In 14-0 Homecoming Victory Over Tascosa

Herd Wins Fifth Straight

By MAURI MONTGOMERY

twice in one year. The Tascosa Rebels knew that better than anyone after the squad paired off against the HHS crew in the two team's first ever regularly scheduled season clash before a crowd of 4,000 - they couldn't even live through it once as the hosting Whitefaces scrambled for 488 total yards in route to a 14-0 shutout over the Amarillo team here Friday night. And respectively speaking, Tascosa had to be happy with the 14-point drumming after four Hereford fumbles terminated what could have been an equally disastrous 35-0 massacre. The Whitefaces (now toting a burley 5-1 winning streak romping into district play next week) were only able to knock their first score of the ball game in the waning seconds of second quarter play - that following 17 first downs and approximately 140 yards rushing in the opening

After one of Tascosa's imaginary offensive thrusts ended four minutes into the second period, HHS runningback Wayne High (the Herd's second leading rusher with 57 yards added up on seven carries) took the ball on three consecutive plays from the six-yard line and capped an 83-yard TD drive from a yard out with :31 remaining in the first half.

fensive unit bogged down earlier at the 13 on its first possession.

But even with that fumble and three others like it (one in the third quarter on the THS 47, and two in the fourth period stopping drives on the Amarillo team's 31 and Hereford 40) plus 72 yards in penalties, Hereford still managed to dent another TD in midway through the third stanza.

Following the THS offense's inability to overrule Hereford's defense on a meager drive netting a mere seven yards, the Whitefaces took the ball on their own 24 before breaking Harold Terry (HHS's leading ground gainer with 97 yards on 5 carries) wide open on a 63 yard faked-reverse touchdown scamper with 5:47 showing in the third period. Scott Daniels kicked his second extra point conversion of the contest to cinch the last score and the win for Hereford (its first homecoming win since 1975).

scrimmage both ways which is what we had set out to do in every game we played in, and it payed off for us tonight," he said.

"By all rights, we should have had a 21-0 lead at the half, but mistakes canned some of those scoring opportunities - we've got to stop that stuff because I'm sure our district opponents aren't going to be quite as forgiving of them as Tascosa was."

"But still this was a good win for us because it was homecoming - we hadn't won a homecoming game in a long time and we needed to get back on the right track. And it was very important for us to win this one before going into district play," he added. "Plainview is no team to laugh about and we're going to need the added momentum of a win behind us going into that game."

"We'll be ready for them though! We're going to get right up in their whiskers and win us another ball game."

The Whitefaces, now riding a five game winning streak, will travel to meet Plainview in that opening district encounter Friday at 7:30 in Plainview. Amarillo Tascosa pairs off against Palo Duro (ironically, the only other team Hereford has shutout during the season).

And considering the Tascosa squad had formerly rushed for a total of 923 yards as the district 3-5A's third leading team in total rushing, Cumpton thought it was a well established win.

"Tascosa is a good team, but I don't think they were as good defensively as we thought they were going to be. And even though they were a good team on offense, our defense was able to stop almost every attack they had. We controlled the line of Wayne High, taking an option pitch from Wartes fumbled the ball under a Tascosa blitz to end a 54-yard scoring attempt (the second such penetration of the contest after the HHS of-

American League Roundup

Royals Win AL Pennant

NEW YORK (AP) - George Brett had told his teammates over and over and over. "Forget the past," he said. "Forget those three years. Forget 1976. Forget 1977. Forget 1978."

"We can win this series," he had told Frank White and Willie Wilson and Hal McRae and U.L. Washington and Willie Aikens and Darrell Porter and all those American League champion Kansas City Royals.

Brett, who flirted with .400 in August when the Royals were running away with the AL West Division, put himself and his teammates in the World Series for the first time in the 12-year history of the Royals.

The Royals trailed the New York Yankees 2-1 going into the seventh inning of Game Three of the AL Championship Series Friday night, and they needed a hero.

Brett simply did what he has done all season for Kansas City. He lofted a tremendous home run into the upper deck down the right field line at Yankee Stadium, driving in three runs and giving the Royals a 4-2 victory over the Yankees and a three-game sweep of the best-of-five game series. The Royals begin the best-of-seven World Series next Tuesday against either Houston or Philadelphia.

"We are over the first hop," Brett said in the locker room afterward. "Now, we've just got to make the second hop. If we can beat the Yankees in the playoffs, we can beat anyone."

The Royals have won their division four of the past five years, and in each of those years, they have played the Yankees for the league championship. They lost to New York in 1976, '77 and '78, and many felt 1980 would only provide another chapter in the continuing saga of Kansas City's Yankee woes.

"To beat the Yankees in four games would have been a miracle," Brett said. "To win in three is unbelievable."

Yankees left-hander Tommy John had held the Royals to one run through six innings on White's homer in the fifth, and he had gotten two out in the seventh before things came unraveled.

Wilson slapped an opposite-field double into the right field corner, and Dick Howser decided that was enough for his 22-game winning left-hander. Enter Rich Gossage.

Yankees Manager Dick Howser said John was not tired. "I just wanted to give Gossage a chance to pitch to Washington."

Gossage, who saved 33 games for the Yankees during the regular season, gave up an infield single to Washington, and that brought Brett to the plate. It was a classic confrontation, and only another pitcher could have fully appreciated it.

"I was praying for him," Royals left-hander Paul Splitteroff said of Brett. "A situation like that is made for the premier players of the game, and he certainly is one of them."

Brett wasted no time in setting the issue. He tagged Gossage's first pitch for his Yankee-killing homer.

The long blast, his sixth in league championship play, ended an 0-for-7 drought for Brett in these playoffs. It also ended a Yankee domination of the Kansas City Royals and put a lot of royal blue hearts at ease.

The Royals won games one and two in Kansas City by scores of 7-2 and 3-2. "Give K.C. credit," Howser said. "They held us to six runs in the three games. That's just not enough."

Salute To Local Business

Panhandle Dairy

Carl Schmid, Jr. began Panhandle Dairy in August of 1979. Carl and his employees milk 300 Holstein cows twice a day each day at the dairy near Summerfield. Those 300 cows produce between 15,000 and 16,000 pounds of milk per day.

Schmid sells his milk to Associated Milk Producers, Incorporated, which in turn ships the milk to wherever it's needed. Even though Panhandle Dairy's main interest is milk, Schmid has about a 30 per cent turnover of cows each year, and ships those not producing to the slaughterhouse.

Temple Posts 45th Consecutive Schoolboy Win

By ALAN SAYRE
Associated Press Writer

Defending state champion Temple has spent the past five schoolboy football seasons on a fabulous winning track — a journey that will tie an all-time state record next week if the Wildcats are victorious against Killeen Ellision. Temple, the top-ranked team in The Associated Press schoolboy football poll, posted its 45th consecutive regular-season win Friday night by blanking Round Rock, 35-0. That's one short of the record winning streak set by Falls City during a long run of success during the 1970s.

The Wildcats' 45-game run began with an opening night win in 1976.

If playoff contests are added, Temple still has won 20 straight, dating back to last season when the Wildcats captured the state 5A championship.

Sophomore quarterback Bret Stafford led the rout over Round Rock with two touchdown runs and a 50-yard scoring pass to tight end Albert Reese. Stafford also set up another Wildcat score with a 47-yard run on a busted play.

Second-ranked Plano used three 1-yard touchdown runs by quarterback Bruce Fifield and 61-yard scoring run by fullback Ken Massa to trounce Lake Highlands, 35-6.

Quarterback Dale Brannan scored from 1 yard out and threw a 25-yard pass to Nick Miller for another tally as No. 3 Brazoswood blitzed Lamar Consolidated, 37-6.

Fourth-rated Port Arthur Jefferson overcame Port Neches-Groves, 14-13; Ross Williams threw three touchdown passes to lead No. 5 Conroe to a 34-14 win over Houston Cypress Creek; and sixth-ranked Odessa Permian beat Abilene, 31-14.

No. 7 Highland Park rolled to a 27-7 win over South Garland; eighth-ranked Bryan embarrassed Copperas Cove, 52-0; ninth-place Eules Trinity blasted Irving, 42-14; and Lubbock Coronado, No. 10, downed Lawton, Okla., 42-22.

In Class 4A, No. 1 Bay City posted its sixth straight win by defeating Stafford Willowridge, 28-6; second-ranked Gregory-Portland bombed Robstown, 38-6; third-seeded Navasota whitewashed Tomball, 40-0; and Gainesville, No. 4, clipped Fort Worth Polytechnic, 21-6.

Fifth-rated Beaumont Hebert clobbered Lumberton, 75-6; No. 6 Waco Connally shut out Waco Midway, 19-0; eighth-ranked Corsicana crushed Athens, 51-14; and Wichita Falls Hirschi, in the ninth spot, clipped Dallas Jesuit, 12-3.

No. 7 Andrews played Odessa Ector Saturday.

Tenth-ranked Paris had the weekend off. In Class 3A, top-seeded Breckenridge blanked Bowie, 27-0; No. 2 Hallettsville fell to sixth-ranked Edna, 18-0; and fifth-rated Allen smashed Bonham, 40-12.

No. 7 Cedar Hill tripped Ferris, 28-6; eighth-ranked Slaton beat Kermit, 30-7; Refugio, No. 9, creamed Bishop 49-6; and tenth-rated Stamford outshot Ballinger, 43-27.

Houston Takes Lead in Series

HOUSTON (AP) — Joe Morgan has been down the track before, the road that leads to the World Series.

But never before has he been this far in the uniform of a Houston Astro, a National League baseball club that never before had even won a division title.

Morgan hit a triple in the bottom of the 11th, a hit that ultimately resulted in a 1-0 Houston victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. One more win and the Astros will be in the World Series.

The Astro dressing room was a place of subdued joy. There were many comments of "we can do it" and "this is the one we needed."

But there was that feeling of wait until its all over before celebrating.

Morgan said he wasn't sure of what kind of a pitch he hit that broke open the scoreless game.

He said, "It was either a fastball tailing in or a slider. "I was running for the home plate all the way until the coach stopped me. You have to run that way in a big ball park like this. Just because you have a man on third base with nobody out is no sign you are going to score. If you have a shot at it, you better take it."

Morgan was replaced by pinch runner Rafael Landestoy, who later scored on Denny Walling's fly ball to left.

Morgan, twice voted the National League's Most Valuable Player while with the Cincinnati Reds, has been nursing an injured knee in recent weeks.

He said, "The knee wasn't hurting at all when I saw the ball bounce off the wall. It is not a matter of pain. It is just a matter of strength in the leg."

"When you hit the ball, all you think about is that you hit it hard. It might have been a homerun any where else."

The 36-year-old infielder was asked to compare the Astros' with the championship Reds of several years ago.

He said, "The Reds were a great bunch of guys. These are tremendous guys too. I don't compare teams."

Morgan said the Astros had been confident all along they would win their division and now expect to be in the World Series against the Kansas City Royals.

Astros Manager Bill Virdon was asked if he would stack his lineup with right-handed hitters to face Steve Carlton today.

He answered, "I will stick all the right-handed hitters I can find in the lineup against Carlton. He is tough. If I had to win one game to stay in it, I would pitch Carlton."

The Astros manager said the loss of Cesar Cedano with an ankle injury would hurt, but, "we have the depth and we have faced injury problems all year."

Dallas Green, manager of the Phillies, said, "We are in trouble."

"This was one hell of a good game. Naturally, we feel a letdown right now. But I am going to talk to the guys and get ready for tomorrow."

Green said he thought a long ball hit by Greg Luzinski in the third inning would have been a homer in other parks.

"We hit the ball hard the entire game, but we blew early opportunities to score," Green said.

Phillies right fielder Bake

McBride said he sprained his wrist, and suffered a hip pointer when he banged into the wall chasing Morgan's triple.

"I came closer than I thought I would. I just kept running and running and finally I ran out of room. I thought I had a shot at it," said McBride.

National League home run and RBI champion Mike Schmidt said with Carlton pitching, the Phillies still have a good shot at knotting the series at two games apiece.

"They got to beat the best pitcher in baseball," said Schmidt. "If they can do that they deserve to go to the World Series."

Lakers Clip Super Sonics

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

It was deja vu for the Los Angeles Lakers. A year ago they opened the National Basketball Association season with a one-point victory on the road before a national television audience. And Friday night, they did the exact same thing.

There were differences, though. Last year's victory was at San Diego and came on a last-second hook shot by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. This time the site was Seattle and the hero was Michael Cooper.

Cooper, the Lakers' top reserve, sank a short jumper with one second left to cap a Los Angeles comeback from a 19-point deficit in the first half to a 99-98 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics in a matchup of the NBA's last two champions. The Lakers won the title last spring, the Sonics in 1979.

In other NBA season openers, the Phoenix Suns beat the Golden State Warriors 121-101, the Milwaukee Bucks edged the Philadelphia 76ers' 106-103, the Boston Celtics trounced the Cleveland Cavaliers 130-103, the Indiana Pacers defeated the New Jersey Nets 110-91, the Utah Jazz topped the Portland Trail Blazers 96-86, the Washington Bullets beat the Detroit Pistons 95-85, the San Diego Clippers outscored the Houston Rockets 120-104 and the San Antonio Spurs trimmed the Denver Nuggets 113-112.

Cerone Hit Kills Yankee Hopes

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Cerone epitomized the frustration of the New York Yankees.

He had just seen his smoking line drive turned into a rally-killing, playoff-killing double play with the bases loaded in the eighth inning of Friday night's 4-2 loss to Kansas City as the Royals swept the Yankees in three games and avenged three previous playoff losses to New York.

Cerone stomped toward the dugout clutching his batting helmet over his head. He pumped his arm once and stopped. He pumped again. Finally he flung the helmet into the dugout.

The promising but futile eighth inning began with a triple by Bob Watson, who batted .500 in the three games, and walks to Reggie Jackson and Oscar Gamble. Cerone, who singled home the run that put the Yankees ahead 2-1 in the sixth, ripped a line drive toward left field, but Kansas City shortstop U.L. Washington got in the way. He not only caught the ball but also doubled Jackson off second and the Yankees were dead and buried.

Jackson surrendered the title of Mr. October for 1980 to Kansas City's George Brett, who slammed a game-winning three-run homer off New York relief ace Rich Gossage in the seventh inning.

Manager Dick Howser lamented the Yankees' uncharacteristic lack of punch as they managed only two runs in each game.

"Give their pitchers credit," he said. "They did a job on us. Whether Reggie got doubled or he didn't get doubled, I still see 2, 2 and 2 on the scoreboard."

With the Yankees clinging to a 2-1 lead, Howser summoned the fireballing Gossage to replace starter Tommy John after Willie Wilson lofted a fly ball double into the right field corner with two out in the seventh. The batter was the switch-hitting Washington, with Brett, the major league batting king with a .390 average, on deck.

"I wanted Washington to hit against Gossage rather than John," Howser explained. "He's a much better hitter right-handed. If Wilson doesn't get the hit, John wouldn't have come out, but I wouldn't have felt too good with two on and John pitching to Brett."

Washington beat out a chopper over the mound and Brett whaled Gossage's first pitch into the third deck in right field to turn the game around.

"It was power against power," Gossage said. "I feel I'm the best and he's the best and he beat me this time. If you're gonna get beat, you can't get beat by a better hitter than Brett."

Yankee owner George Steinbrenner, who had plenty of criticism for his troops after the first two games, didn't blast anyone this time. He wandered around the clubhouse with a long face, shaking hands with each player and telling them, "Have a good winter."

Somehow you knew that Steinbrenner wouldn't.

Artist Expresses Aesthetic Thoughts

By DENISE SMITH
Brand Staff Writer

"The desire to create something beautiful and apply yourself," according to local artist Carrie Mae Doak, is what makes an artist.

"You are always striving for new ideas and scenes to paint or you're studying other's work," she stated.

A former teacher, Mrs. Doak has been oil painting for 13-18 years. "I was what you could call a weekend painter until after I retired and then I had more time to dedicate to my painting," she said.

A realist, Mrs. Doak depicts old home scenes, windmills, landscapes, flowers, and wildlife in her pictures, criticizing herself with, "I lack the initiative to put that certain strike into a painting. Often I'm not bold enough with my colors."

Often coming up against an artist's block, it helps Mrs. Doak to view someone else's paintings or sit down and paint in the company of another artist.

Oil painting, a versatile craft, appealed to Mrs. Doak because of "the freedom you have with oil colors."

"I could really mix colors and make something which I thought was beautiful. I often lose myself completely when I'm painting ... forgetting to eat and often not retiring to bed before midnight," the painter said.

Developing her talent first through china painting, Mrs. Doak found the craft to be tedious.

"I prefer doing original painting. It's more relaxing for me," said Mrs. Doak. Accenting the walls in her home on Avenue E, most of Mrs. Doak's paintings are originals, painted from old memories and scenes she has seen during her travels.

Spending a day to a week at a time on her paintings, she has shown her work in Dimmitt, Amarillo and Hereford, having several displayed in K-Bob's Steak House. She also has approximately 11 paintings displayed in other states.

Currently giving workshops on painting windmills, Mrs. Doak also uses her talents with water colors and gold leafing on glass.

"I became very confident in my work after I retired and started spending more time painting and developing my skill ... which has enabled me to give these workshops," she said with a touch of certainty in her voice.

Having been a widow for 25 years, Mrs. Doak recently retired from C.R. Anthony's after 27 years of service with the company.

Mrs. Doak is from Groom. She came to Hereford in 1918 as a child and married Everett Doak in 1926.

"My family were farmers. Times were hard and the happiest memories where when we could do something together," Mrs. Doak said.

Farming in the Frio community, Mrs. Doak taught school for two more years in Frio, prior to her marriage.

She is a member of First United Methodist Church, Friendship Sunday School, Naima Hare Circle, and the Hereford Art Guild.

She is also active in the Cultural Extension Homemakers Club, Lapidary Club, Senior Citizens Center, and AARP (American Association of Retired Persons).

She is the mother of two, Betty Olson, who resides southeast of town, and is currently employed part time by Helens Shop; and Dale Doak of Knoxville, Tenn. He is presently the Association Dean of the education department at the University of Tennessee and a cattleman.

She also has four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Doak is currently preparing for an Art Show and Sale in her home, 219 Ave. G today. The show will begin at 1 p.m. and will continue until 5 p.m. Mrs. Doak will have approximately 80 paintings on display in her home for the public to view.

Junior Bible Club Has Two Year Study

"Respect is shown to all Christian denominations and no boy or girl is made to feel obligated to join the congregation," Brown said. "Verses on the same subject," Brown said.

The second year filmstrips are shown, along with discussion and memorization of the summary of Bible teaching. Business is conducted by the youth club leaders. Conrad Carnes of Dimmitt is the president. Recreation is also included in the activities. Brown is the instructor for the course which is open to boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 15 or are not yet in high school.

Immanuel Lutheran Church has begun a two-year Bible course which involves youths throughout the Panhandle area to form the Junior Bible Club.

According to Pastor Ed Brown, this year's membership is one of the largest with 13 boys and girls involved in the program. The members come from as far as Bushland and five miles west of Farmer's Corner on the north to Dimmitt on the south to meet each Wednesday from 6-8 p.m.

"OVERWHELMING VICTORY IS OURS"

Who dares accuse us whom God has chosen for His own? Will God? He is the one who has forgiven us and given us right standing with Himself.

Who then will condemn us? Will Christ? NO! For He is the one who died for us and came back to life again for us and is sitting at the place of highest honor next to God, pleading for us there in heaven.

Who then can ever keep Christ's love from us? When we have trouble or calamity, when we are hunted down or destroyed, is it because He doesn't love us anymore? And if we are hungry, or penniless, or in danger, or threatened with death, has God deserted us?

No, for the Scriptures tell us that for His sake we must be ready to face death at every moment of the day - we are like sheep awaiting slaughter;

But despite all this, overwhelming victory is ours through Christ who loved us enough to die for us.

For I am convinced that nothing can ever separate us from His love. Death can't, and life can't. The angels won't, and all the powers of hell itself cannot keep God's love away. Our fears for today, our worries about tomorrow.

Or where we are - high above the sky, or in the deepest ocean - nothing will ever be able to separate us from the love of God demonstrated by our Lord Jesus Christ when He died for us.

Hereford Toastmasters

Speak to Women's Group

St. Anthony's Women's Organization had its monthly meeting Thursday evening with guest speakers, Raymond Artho and Clyde Bonner, members of the Hereford Toastmasters.

After a brief explanation of the Toastmaster's group, a presentation was given on parliamentary procedure.

During the business session, members discussed the nursery for Sunday Mass with many matters taken into consideration on the matter. A fund raising project was also discussed and Linda Dominguez and Nina Vera volunteered to check into the possibility of having a Mexican dinner.

The ladies were reminded of the DCCU meeting to be held in Amarillo, Nov. 11-12. Theme for the convention is "What Does It Mean To Be A Church Family?"

The Women's Organization's next meeting will be Nov. 13 at 8 p.m. A program will be presented by Deacon Jerome Brockman on the Pope's trip to the United States.

Hostesses for the evening were Dolores Gerber, Betty Connolly, Jo Lynne Schilling and Elaine McNutt. The door prize was won by Eileen Alley.

Trying your hand at ground-oat bread?

Ground-oat flour is lower in gluten than wheat flour, and it produces a crumbly, low-rise loaf of bread, explains Rose Tindall Postel, a foods and nutrition specialist.

For the best results in making ground-oat bread, use one-third oat flour and two-thirds all-purpose flour, she says.

Dr. Postel is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Mrs. Marston To Be Guest Speaker At Planned Parenthood Luncheon

On Oct. 16, 1916, Margaret Sanger opened the first contraceptive clinic in the United States. When she died 50 years later, she had virtually devoted her life to the idea of reproductive choice and control being accessible to all women.

Margaret Sanger Marston, the namesake and granddaughter of the founder of Planned Parenthood, will visit Amarillo and be the guest speaker at Panhandle Planned Parenthood Association's annual luncheon on Oct. 31 at 12 noon. The location for the event will be the Country Squire Dinner Theater, 3618 I-40 E., Amarillo.

Mrs. Marston will reminisce about the 19 years that she lived beside her grandmother in Tucson, Ariz.

"Mimi", the name Mrs. Marston uses to refer to her grandmother, realize that limiting family size and spacing children not only benefitted the woman, but served to strengthen the family and society. "She should be an inspiration to those who are determined to provide reproductive health care, to educate the public, and hence, to improve the quality of life," says Mrs. Marston.

Grandmother and granddaughter traveled together to Hong Kong and various other places, sharing the older woman's work and memories. "Mimi's crusade is a tale of strength and perseverance," recounts Mrs. Marston. Mimi's mother died young, after 11 children and seven miscarriages. Trained as a nurse, she continually heard women's desperate pleas for knowledge and a means of contraception. The hardships she saw her mother endure were again reflected in the lives of the poor, whose uncontrolled fertility compounded their problems.

As a consequence of Margaret's dedication, she was arrested several times. She used her jail terms and notoriety to generate support for her cause. In 1918, she formed the American Birth Control League, and by 1930, she had helped establish 55 family planning clinics. The title of her national organization was changed to Planned Parenthood Federation of America in 1942.

The strength of Margaret Sanger's convictions can be seen through her granddaughter. A registered nurse herself, Mrs. Marston is the wife of Donn Marston, an attorney in Washington, D. C. They are the parents of three children.

Mrs. Marston is also dedicated to many causes. She is actively involved in education projects in her home state of Virginia, including Virginia Congress of PTAs, Task Force on Delinquency Prevention, honored by Arlington County School Board as Outstanding Citizen, and Virginia State Board of Education. Mrs. Marston is currently an administrative assistant for a firm of consulting engineers.

Tickets for the luncheon are $10 per person, and reservations can be made through the Panhandle Planned Parenthood Clinic, 604 W. 8th, Amarillo, Texas, 79101. Deadline for making reservations is Oct. 28.

Fall Fashions Emphasize Individual Creativity

COLLEGE STATION -- Fall and winter fashions this year will be full of their wearers' individual creativity, a clothing specialist predicts.

"Many fashion options are allowing the individual to create her own special look for fall and winter," says Ann Vanderpoorten.

Ms. Vanderpoorten is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This year, choose one look to build an entire wardrobe around, or select different styles for your different moods, the specialist suggests.

Two popular fashion trends are the "total look" and the "separates look." Both are "easy to wear," Ms. Vanderpoorten says.

"TOTAL LOOK" The "total look" strives for chic elegance.

It is based on a collection of suits, dresses and coat-with-skirt combinations.

Colors are muted but not dull. Textures are smooth and crisp.

The mainstay of the "total look" is a trio of items: classic suits with narrow fitted jackets, Chanel suits and one-piece sweater dresses.

"SEPARATES LOOK" Today's "separates look" depends on cardigan jackets, sweater sets and waist-length jackets coordinated with skirts or pants.

Textural interest is important - with fabrics that are nubby, lacy, napped, and, for contrast, shiny.

Argyles and Fair Isle patterns are popular for sweaters and knee socks.

Casual elegance describes this classic look.

WARDROBE EXTENDERS Great wardrobe extenders for either look are a ruffled or lace-trimmed blouse, a pleated skirt and a blazer, Ms. Vanderpoorten says.

MAKE IT YOURS Whether you choose a single fashion trend or select from several, one thing is certain: now is the time to create a wardrobe that is uniquely yours.

Bankston Helps Electricity Get Where It's Needed Most

Southwestern Public Service Company will soon be constructing a distribution line and three phase transformer station to serve the Hereford Tortilla Factory. Construction on the new $300,000 building for the Tortilla Factory, which employs 35 workers, is scheduled for the next few weeks. A project SPS has just completed is underground service to the Taco Villa and relocation of existing poles in the parking lot area.

The person in charge of these two projects for the electric company is Bill Bankston. Bankston, general foreman, engineers and supervises all construction of distribution and transmission lines in the Hereford District. He also determines equipment needs, works with the service men and meter reader and helps people get the service they need.

Bankston grew up in Littlefield and attended Arlington State University and South Plains College in Levelland. He is working on a degree in business at West Texas State University in the evenings. Joining the electric company in Littlefield in 1963 as a meter reader, Bankston transferred to the Line Department after nine months and went through the SPS lineman apprentice school to become a journeyman lineman.

Bankston moved to Hereford in 1970 to become a working foreman. He spent two years as local manager in Vega before returning to Hereford as general foreman for the Hereford District.

Bankston is a member of the Kiwanis Club and the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department. He and his wife, Karen, are the parents of a daughter, Jenifer and a son, Billy.

Putting up Christmas lights in Hereford will be easier for the Chamber of Commerce this year because Bankston, who has been helping with this project for several years, installed plugs on the poles where the lights are strung. Bankston spent about 40 hours of his own time on this project last year.

Racial Tension Still Building in Buffalo, N.Y.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A nurse who walked into a hospital room and found a white man leaning nervously over the bed of a patient may have foiled an attempt by the so-called .22-caliber killer to take his fifth black victim, authorities said.

Tension, meanwhile, continued to build in Buffalo's black community, where sporadic shootings and rock-throwing incidents were reported. Police cautioned whites to stay out of black neighborhoods at night until the killer is caught.

The white man apparently had been strangling the patient, Collin Cole, 37, and fled from the room at Erie County Medical Center when the nurse entered Friday, said Erie County District Attorney Edward C. Cosgrove.

But the nurse got a good look at the man and police said the description she provided matched that given by witnesses to slayings late last month in which four black men were shot in the head with a .22-caliber pistol.

"The identification jibed with other data and it seemed to be the same...maniac, if you will," Cosgrove said.

The district attorney, however, said he does not believe the .22-caliber killer was responsible for the deaths this week of two black taxi drivers whose hearts were cut out after the were slain. But that observation appeared to do little to ease the apprehension filtering through Buffalo's black community.

Civil rights leader Jesse

Jackson addressed a crowd of about 2,000 blacks Friday night and urged them to remain calm in the wake of the killings and a cross burning on the predominately black East Side on Thursday.

Authorities said they received reports late Thursday night and early Friday of blacks hurling rocks and firing shots at whites in the area. A white student was stabbed by a black student Friday at Burgard Vocational High School, but police said they weren't sure the incident was racially motivated.

"It is probably not prudent for whites to wander into the black neighborhoods at night right now until this killer is caught," said officer Larry Baerhe. "The tension is so thick, you can cut it with a knife."

Daniel Acker, head of the local chapter of the NAACP, called on Gov. Hugh Carey to activate the National Guard to help maintain a sense of calm in the area.

Cosgrove said the man spotted in the hospital was about 30, with short "dirty blond" hair and about 5-foot-3. He was wearing a blue jacket with a light-colored shirt.

Cosgrove said the man apparently had been strangling Cole with a cord before the nurse walked in. Cole was listed in serious condition today after surgery for damage to his neck, the hospital said. Cole had been in the hospital for treatment of a narcotics overdose, Cosgrove said.

The nurse had become suspicious when she saw that the door to Cole's room was shut and entered to find the white man leaning over the bed, Cosgrove said.

The man told the nurse, "he's fallen and hurt himself," then rushed out of the room, Cosgrove said.

Cole told authorities a man opened the door to his room, appeared by his bed and said, "I hate niggers," then attacked him, Cosgrove said. Cole remembered nothing else, Cosgrove said.

"The nurse is able to identify him well," he said. "Three other persons in 30 to 45 minutes also saw the man."

"A massive manhunt has been on since this was first known," Cosgrove said. "It is my belief that with an intense effort we will stop this maniac."

Earlier Friday, Cosgrove announced that all passes and leaves for the 56 investigators of State Police Troop A were canceled and that seven black troopers had been assigned to the murder investigations. The FBI has also entered the case.

Jackson, head of the self-help organization called Operation PUSH, urged his audience not to retaliate against whites for the slayings.

"Don't react to a maniac or a group of maniacs," he said.

DA Abandons Private Practice, Enters Politics

EDITOR'S NOTE: Until recently, it was said, Lubbock had more cat burglars than cats. If crime was not a way of life, it certainly was a busy pastime. Enter John Montford, also known as "John T. 99." He may one day be your attorney general.

By MIKE COCHRAN, Associated Press Writer LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — For John T. Montford, the early 1970s was a heady time, sun-drenched days of wine and roses, fat legal fees and sleek gold Continentals.

Young John had a pleasant and profitable knack for convincing juries of his clients' innocence, or at least raising reasonable doubts about their guilt.

The path to his door was well traveled, enhancing both his bank balance and his social standing.

By choice, much of that had changed. Yielding to the siren song of politics, he abandoned his lucrative law practice to seek the district attorney's office.

After a narrow loss, and a devastating car wreck, he mounted an unrelenting law and order campaign in 1978.

Said he: "Something must change, lest we continue to be plagued with one of the highest crime rates in this nation."

"I believe I can give you the tough and aggressive prosecution of criminal cases we so desperately need in order to put a halt to our rising crime rate."

Eight out of 10 voters thought that sounded like a marvelous idea and on Jan. 3, 1979, they installed him in office.

And nothing has been the same since.

Swapping his Lincolns for a Volkswagen, Montford vigorously set about fulfilling his campaign promise, making "35 to do" a household word in Lubbock.

That stemmed from his refusal to plea bargain with first offenders convicted of using a deadly weapon or causing serious bodily injury during a robbery.

Instead, he demanded 35-year prison terms and spurred overtures for probation.

"It's very offensive to me," he said drolly, "when someone pokes a gun in the face of a citizen of Lubbock County and takes his money and threatens his life."

For those with prior felony convictions, Montford sought maximum 99-year sentences, which promptly earned him the nickname of "John T. 99."

More importantly, the Montford team reopened or reactivated a number of unsolved murder cases, of which there were 17 dating back to 1970.

Coordinating the efforts and information of several investigative agencies, he got convictions, guilty pleas or indictments in 11 of those cases.

"I am very restless about the ones we haven't solved," he said.

At 37, Montford is restless, period. He's a political animal, but a most uncommon one. Says an admirer:

"John T's the only person who can turn an ego trip into a benefit performance for an entire city."

Conceded another: "John's tough but fair, although I resent hell out of the vigilante atmosphere he's created."

Of the latter comment, Montford concedes that his tactics early on were unusually harsh. "I think that's fair criticism," he said of the vigilante atmosphere.

"But things were getting out of hand. Things were in a helluva mess when we came in."

While prosecuting crooked cops on one hand, and artfully wooing public involvement with another, he closed 19 so-called killer bars — those with a high tolerance for violence.

Whether or not the end justified the means remains to be seen, but said one who knows the situation:

"Lubbock County no longer has the reputation of being a pushover for someone who gets in trouble. John had to change the attitude about crime and he did."

Montford's close friend, chief administrator and political confidant, Hal Hensley, said one need only to scrutinize the record of 1979, as opposed to 1978:

- Felony jury trials, up 32.6 percent.
- Guilty pleas, up 7 percent.
- Felony indictments, up 50.8 percent.
- Felony dismissals, down 38 percent.
- Probation revocations filed, up 43.7 percent.
- Probation revocations granted, up 79.2 percent.
- Prison sentences in years, up 79.1 percent.
- Fines, up 99.7 percent.
- Life sentences, up 100 percent.
- Mistrials, down 66.7 percent.
- Hung juries, down 57.1 percent.

"Damned impressive, don't you think?" smiled Hensley.

Some say Montford would not be opposed, some day, to a governor's race, and suggest that a state legislative seat would be a logical start.

"I don't like to stay in one place too long," Montford admitted, choosing his words carefully. "But I don't see how I could afford to take a legislative job."

He said he aspires only for a law-related job, adding: "I might some day have aspirations for attorney general."

Anglers Discovering Smallmouths

AUSTIN—Smallmouth bass are a relative newcomer to Texas, but they appear to be feeling more at home all the time.

The showcase lake for smallmouths is Canyon Reservoir near San Antonio, where they have become the dominant game fish, according to biologist Wade Butler of San Marcos.

Butler said creel surveys at Canyon have consistently shown that more smallmouths apparently are being caught than native largemouths. "Smallmouths have moved into rocky habitat which won't support many largemouths," explained Butler. He said that if the shallow, timbered upper end of the reservoir were excluded, smallmouths would comprise a lopsided share of the catch.

Although Canyon was beaten out of the state record smallmouth by Austin's Town Lake during the spring, it still has produced an impressive number of four-pound-plus fish. And Butler is confident there are a number of Canyon smallmouths larger than the current five-pound, 12-ounce record fish. Butler advised Canyon anglers to fish the main portions of the lake, concentrating on rocky points and shoals where baseball-sized and smaller rocks can be seen. Jigs, small crankbaits and spinners are considered good smallmouth lures, but the fish also can be caught on minnows and live crayfish. Other lakes with developing smallmouth fisheries include Stillhouse Hollow, Travis, Possum Kingdom and Mackenzie.

Lake Meredith in the Texas Panhandle also is a good smallmouth lake, but it has been plagued by low water levels which have kept some anglers off the reservoir. Another active smallmouth fishery is the Guadalupe River below Canyon Reservoir.

Another lake expected to be good in the future is the new North Fork Lake near Georgetown, which was impounded in spring 1980.

Butler added that October should be an outstanding month for smallmouth fishing in Canyon, as the fish tend to move into shallower areas as the water cools.

Cat Pelt Tagging Enters Third Year

AUSTIN—Texas hunters and trappers will be required again this year to have their bobcat pelts tagged prior to sale, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The authorized tagging period is Nov. 15, 1980, through Feb. 1981. Bobcats taken during this period are eligible for tagging and sale. This is the third year of the tagging program and the second year that the Parks and Wildlife Commission has authorized permitted dealers to affix tags to pelts.

Dealers must obtain a free bobcat pelt tagging permit from any department law enforcement field office prior to purchasing any bobcat pelt. They also are available at the department's Austin headquarters. Addresses of the offices are listed on the back of the 1980-81 Texas Hunting and Sport Fishing Regulations booklet, available where hunting and fishing licenses are sold.

A trapper license is not required of persons taking only bobcats in Texas. Dealers must report in person to be registered. The dealer permit may be obtained along with the tags beginning Nov. 5.

For further information on tagging procedures, call department law enforcement offices across the state or contact John T. Roberson, Wildlife Division, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas, 78744, or call (512) 475-4871.

Lake Fork Bass Small

AUSTIN—Bass fishermen are having good luck in localized spots on Lake Fork, about 90 miles east of Dallas, but many catches have to be put back in the water because they are slightly under the 14-inch length limit.

Good strings of crappie and some catfish also are being taken by fishermen, said Steve Smith, Parks and Wildlife fisheries biologist in Tyler.

The lake, recently opened to the public by the Sabine River Authority, stands at elevation 375 feet or about 7,200 acres, but recent rains have generally bypassed the lake. However, fall and winter rains should bring the lake up to 11,000 acres and fishing should reach a peak next spring. When full, the lake should have more than 227,000 surface acres.

By next spring, the bass spawn of 1979 should exceed the 14-inch minimum. The bass limit is five per day and 10 in possession.

One of the biggest problems on the lake right now, Smith says, is limited access. Since the lake is low, fishermen are not able to use the temporary boat ramps. This problem should be eased somewhat when the water rises. Shallow water in the lake makes it difficult for fishermen to get to all parts of the lake by boat.

When the water rises, fishermen should be able to get to the upper reaches of the lake.

Along with rods, reels, lures and boat, Smith advises that all fishermen attach a yardstick or other measuring device to the boat's gunwales to measure catches. Many of the fish now caught, Smith says, are about a half-inch short of the 14-inch minimum and must be returned to the water immediately.

South Texas Having Good Dove Season

AUSTIN—Mourning dove hunters are enjoying one of the better hunting seasons in years in portions of the state's South Zone, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The South Zone season opened Sept. 20 and will continue through Oct. 2, except in Maverick, Webb, Zapata, Starr, Hidalgo, Cameron and Willacy Counties, where the fall season will end on Oct. 29. The winter segment in the South Zone will be Jan. 3-18.

Biologist Jerry Cooke of Pearsall said virtually all of the western portions of South Texas are "loaded with birds" feeding on croton and other weed species which matured after the August and September rains.

The South Zone dove concentrations are somewhat unusual in that most of the state's North Zone apparently is experiencing a generally poor season. The North Zone season opened Sept. 1 and continues through Oct. 30.

Cooke said hunters in the region around Cotulla and Pearsall are having outstanding success. Biologist Gary Homerstad of McAllen said the same applies to the Lower Rio Grande counties at the state's extreme southern tip.

Eastern portions of the South Zone normally are not as good for doves because grasslands predominate over agricultural and brushland areas. Also, biologist Randy Fugate of Falfurrias said the area from Corpus Christi through Kingsville and Falfurrias has poor hunting because of extremely wet conditions caused by Hurricane Allen and its associated rains.

Shooting hours for mourning doves are 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset. Limits are 10 birds daily, 20 in possession.

Park Cabins Fall Bargain

AUSTIN—For fall vacationers there's a real bargain available in state park cabins, says the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Texas' pleasant fall weather and variety of scenery can be enjoyed both comfortably and economically.

In six parks this takes the form of individual cabin units containing sleeping accommodations, bath and kitchen. Linens and towels are provided, but not utensils. Rates are $12 per night for one or two persons, with $3 for each additional adult, $1 for each additional child 6-12 years old and children under six free in the same cabin as their guardians.

Parks with these units include Bastrop State Park in Bastrop County, Lake Brownwood State Recreation Area in Brown County and Caddo Lake State Park in Harrison County; which have especially rustic, log-type cabins; Daingerfield State Park, Morris County; Garner State Park, Uvalde County; and Possum Kingdom State Recreation Area, Polo Pinto County.

Reservations are advisable and may be made within 90 days of the anticipated arrival date. For further information phone 1-800-252-9327, toll-free.

Safety Courses Are Opening

AUSTIN—Hunters who have never taken the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Voluntary Hunter safety Training course still have time to do so before the start of most hunting seasons this fall.

The course costs only $1 and includes a minimum of six hours of instruction on gun handling, gun safety and hunting ethics.

The course is not mandatory in Texas, but some other states require nonresi-dent hunters to have such a course before a hunting license is issued. The Texas training program is recognized by every state which has a mandatory course.

The deer season opens in most Texas counties Nov. 15, and department officials advise enrolling youngsters in a hunter safety course before going.

To locate a hunter safety training instructor in your area, contact a local game warden or call (512) 475-4895.

It's True.

"We bought a house a few years back, and it had a heat pump in it. I was very satisfied with it and simply decided to have it put in our new home here. The reason I like the heat pump is because it is efficient, simple and clean... you don't have to fuss with any change over from heating and cooling.

I was given projected operating costs of the heat pump in both homes by Southwestern Public Service. And, in every month since I've had the heat pump, my actual monthly operating costs have been considerably lower than the estimated projections. So, consequently I've been very pleased. I would definitely recommend the heat pump to my friends or anyone else because in my opinion, it is a good unit and economical."

WINDBREAK-WILDLIFE TREES AVAILABLE
LUBBOCK—Current production of over 100,000 tree seedlings at the Texas Forest Service stations will allow area landowners a chance to plant windbreaks this winter according to a Forest Service spokesman.

"Applications have been sent to all county Soil Conservation Service (SCS), Agriculture Stabilization & Conservation (ASC), and extension agents in northwest Texas," said Robert Fewin, Texas Forest Service.

"These trees are for homestead, field, feedlot, and wildlife windbreaks and the planter must agree not to use or let others use these seedlings for landscaping or ornamental purposes," Fewin continued.

Hardwood species available are green ash, hackberry, honey locust, mulberry, native plum, Russian olive and, sawtooth oak. Hardwood seedlings orders must be for 100 trees or more, in multiples of 50 of any one species. The hardwoods are priced at $20 per 100 seedlings.

These hardwood seedlings will be shipped beginning about mid-February through the first week in March. The planter will pay carrier shipping costs for delivery.

Conifers available at $30 per 30 trees are Austrian pine, Ponderosa pine, Arizona cypress and, red cedar. Conifer orders must be for a minimum of 30 trees or more in multiples of 30 seedlings. Due to the fragile styrofoam containers, these seedlings cannot be shipped. Tree planters must pick up their orders at designated cities listed on the back of the application.

Additional information and applications are also available by writing West Texas Nursery, Texas Forest Service, Rt. 3, Box 216, Lubbock, Tx 79401 or call 806-746-5801.

CHICKEN SEASON OPENS
WHEELER—Area sportsmen are awaiting the annual prairie chicken season that is set for Oct. 18 & 19 in northwest Texas. Spring bird counts by personnel of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department indicate a good season is possible.

"Our records indicate a 29 percent increase in the Texas Panhandle and a 1 percent increase on the South Plains breeding grounds," said Richard Dearthment, wildlife biologist at Wheeler.

"The peak hatching period is usually around May 15 each spring and the nesting areas had good moisture at that time. When the summer drought hit, the prairie chickens had plenty of grasshoppers to tide them over till fall," Dearthment continued.

The summer drought has caused a decrease amount and quality of grain crops where the birds like to feed in October. However, there are areas with irrigated grain fields that should draw the birds.

The daily bag limit is set at two chickens per day with a possession limit of four birds. Shooting hours are from 30 minutes before sunrise to 30 minutes after sunset.

Counties open in northwest Texas including both the Panhandle and the South Plains include: Cochran, Collingsworth, Donley, Gray, Hemphill, Hockley, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Roberts, Terry, Wheeler, and Yoakum.

Hunters are reminded to get landowner permission prior to hunting the prairie chickens.

Hunters will be handed a questionnaire in the field by P&WD personnel. These cards should be filled in and returned to the department. The harvest information obtained from these cards is vital to the proper management of the prairie chicken.

AREA GUN SHOW
AMARILLO—The Pioneer Gun Collectors Association will host the annual fall Amarillo Gun Show on Oct. 18 & 19 at the Amarillo Civic Center.

"This show is for those individuals wanting to buy, sell, trade firearms, coins, knives, military relics or for browsing while admiring the craftsmanship of the items displayed on the tables," said Tom Pace, club spokesman.

"Show hours will be 9:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. on Saturday and 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Sunday," Pace continued.

A donation of $1 will be requested at the gate by the club for expenses accrued during the show.

So, if you are just browsing or looking for a 20-gauge for your youngster, plan to attend the popular Amarillo gun show.

MAGIC NUMBER FOR FISH
LUBBOCK—The cool fall weather is being welcomed by sportsmen and as the water temperatures drop to the 60-65 degree level, fish commence their annual fall feeding spree preparing for winter.

Reports from Panhandle-South Plains lakes indicate the fish have begun this spree as over 12 largemouth bass to seven pounds have been caught out of Greenbelt lake near Clarendon in the last two weeks.

Many of the fish including both smallmouth and largemouth bass, sandbass, crappie, and walleye should begin cruising the shorelines looking for food fish and your lure-bait.

When you go on your next hunting trip, take your fishing tackle along and enjoy a full day of hunting and fishing in Texas.

Couple Married in Evening Ceremony

Given in marriage by her father Miss Teresa Dianne Smith and Alan Ray Daugherty were married Friday evening in First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Mack McReynolds, pastor, officiating.

Apricot pew bows decorated with greenery and yellow apricot carnations and daisies adorned the center aisle as the bride proceeded to the altar. The communion rail was garland in yellow, apricot, and white carnations and daisies. Two seven branch candelabras entwined with greenery and yellow, apricot and white carnations and daisies stood behind the communion rail. The bride and groom, standing at the altar, were flanked by two large bouquets of carnations, large mums, and daisies.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Judy Stratton and Loy Smith, both of Hereford; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Daugherty also of Hereford.

Attending the bride was matron of honor Leslie Monk of Booker. Best man was Chris Carter.

The sister of the groom, Sandra Daugherty was bridesmaid. Terry Wayne Daugherty, the groom's uncle, stood as groomsman.

Guests were escorted to their seats by the brother of the bride, Tracy Smith and Jack Rouse.

Roger Odom, wearing his Marine's Dress Blues, presented the marriage license to the preacher during the ceremony.

Julie Cherry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cherry was flower girl. Ring bearer was Brent Smith. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Smith.

The bride's wedding selection's of "The Rose," and "I'll never Say Goodbye," were vocalized by Elizabeth Rains. She was accompanied on the piano by Glenda Vaughn.

The bride was gown in a formal floor length wedding gown of re-embroidered Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta designed with a sweetheart neckline, empire waist, long tapered sleeves and A-line silhouette with full back. Sheer organza ruffles enhanced the sleeves and front of the gown, and a double flounce of ruffles complimented the hemline. Tiny seed pearls and sequins enhanced the neckline. The full back of the gown ended in a sweeping Chapel length train.

She wore a veil of imported illusion which fell from a coil and carried a crescent bouquet of white roses and carnations tipped in apricot interspersed with babybreath. Streamers adorned with white roses and babybreath accented the bouquet.

For jewelry the bride wore a diamond necklace, which was a gift from the groom.

Her attendants were dressed in apricot Quina with empire waistlines and floral capes to match. They wore white summerhats trimmed with apricot streamers matching their gowns and carried a long stemmed yellow rose tipped in apricot with matching streamers.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. Brenda Carroll registered guests.

Two bouquets of apricot, yellow carnations, daisies and white mums, accented the table at which the bride's wedding cake laid. A flowering fountain encircled by four flower-shaped smaller cakes formed the base of the three-tiered cake. Each tier was trimmed with a cascade of apricot carnations and love birds.

Cindy Bridwell and Mrs. Tarcy Smith served the cake. Punch and coffee were served by Mrs. Robert Treadway, the bride's aunt.

The groom's cake, a flowered multi-tiered chocolate cake was decorated with a special meaning between the bride and groom.

Others in the wedding party were Mrs. Roy Carter, Mrs. Don Vinton, Mrs. George Arntt, and Ms. Weldon Roberson.

For a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the bride chose to wear a navy blue pant suit with white accessories. She was presented with a corsage of white roses.

The couple will be home Oct. 17 in Hereford.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Hereford High School. She is currently employed by Arrowhead Mills, Inc. The groom, a 1979 Hereford graduate, is presently employed by Santa Fe Railroad Co.

Out-of-town guests represented Sayre, Okla., Dumas, Clovis, N.M. and Stamford.

From Ryan's Corner

By Allison Ryan

I never really thought of myself as being star struck when I would see a movie star. Actually I had never seen a star, so I don't know why I would think that.

This week I had a chance to find out how I would react when I saw a star. I got to interview Bob Denver. You know, Gilligan-the babysitter for every kid in America. Well, I guess that would include all the "kids" that are about my age.

The news room was buzzing with activity Wednesday morning, so I never really had a chance to think about Denver coming to Hereford. He was due to arrive that afternoon, and I was sure I would be ready.

About 1:30 he and his wife and Archie Dwyer former Hereford resident staring with the Denvers came breezing into the room. I calmly stood up and shook hands and offered them some coffee.

The Brand coffee right after lunch is not what one would want to serve in a fine restaurant or for that matter in a not-so-fine restaurant. I didn't have time to make fresh coffee, so I just poured it and gave fair warning.

During this thought process, the other wheel in my brain was slowly turning with questions like, what am I going to ask this man. I mean asking a star if he likes acting is like asking a football player if he gets tired during the Friday night football game.

I began to stall for time by asking Archie about JoAnn's new job as director of the Rape Crisis Center in Amarillo. Then I had to ask my first question-How is the play going at the theatre? Is that a great question or what?

I was very fortunate in that Mr. and Mrs. Denver and Archie jumped right in and began answering questions I wasn't even asking, which made my job easier.

As the interview got underway, a thundering herd came from the back and leaned over the partition to stare at Denver. That must have been a cue because Archie quickly exited to get pictures of Denver to give to the staff.

The rest of the interview went pretty good. While I asked questions, Mauri, our famous sports editor and photographer took pictures and threw in a few questions of his own.

After they left, the staff took a few minutes to talk about the interview while Denise and I hung his picture on the wall. Then it was back to work as usual.

Nope, I wasn't star struck. He was just like any other person I would interview.

However, Thursday night, "Castaways from Gilligan's Island" was on TV. As I as flipping through the channels looking for something to entertain me, I saw Bob Denver-and then it hit me. Wow! I interviewed that person. He's right there on TV, and I was only three feet from him. I mean, me, little ol' Al from Marfa, the women's editor for the Brand got to actually talk to this man. I have his picture on the wall. I shook his hand. I know that man....

I think I was star struck, I'm glad I was home alone or it might have been rather embarrassing. Not for me, but for someone watching this absolutely calm person fall apart at the sight of a TV star.

Mrs. McKinster Presents Program

The Hereford unit of the American Legion Auxiliary met recently in the American Legion Hall joined by the American Legion for a program on Special Organizational Services given by Irene McKinster, a representative of the Hereford State Bank.

Mrs. McKinster stressed the importance of keeping records up to date and in a place where they are easily accessible.

Following the program the Legion convened in their own meeting and the auxiliary continued with their meeting with president Beverly Jesko presiding.

Reports were heard from membership committee chairman Clara Trowbridge, on the membership dinner held in September when the Girl State Representatives, Karen Compton and Elizabeth Rudd gave reports.

She said the unit has 50 members for 1981, their goal is 105. She asked that members mail dues to her as her aim is to complete the membership goal by Nov. 11.

The auxiliary will make their regular visit to the V.A. hospital Monday, Oct. 13 and bingo will be played and refreshments served at this time.

The gift shop will be held Dec. 7-9, and it was announced that the hospital needs money for library tapes.

The group voted a memorial to the department

Cancer Fund for Mrs. Marla Ruff, mother of Mary Williamson, and R.B. Miller, a legioner and husband of member, Helen Miller.

The American Legion member rejoined the auxiliary for refreshments and fellowship.

It was also announced before adjourning that Zone 2 will convene in Hereford, Thursday, Oct. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Legion Hall. Units and posts from Dimmitt, Friona, Hart, Nazareth, Tulia, Happy and Hereford are expected to be in attendance at this meeting.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

Way up there on my list of "high risk professions" is the school bus driver.

In fact, I consider only two professions more hazardous ... high school driving instructors and game show hosts. (Two hosts died this year in a Halfway House from Terminal Happiness.)

Remember last year I told you about the driver of the school bus who was supposed to drop 75 three-and-four-year-olds off on 15 street corners? And no one told the mothers? And all of the children lived in a "white house with a tree in the front yard?" And she ended up hanging a color-coded bird around each neck and ran out of colors and when she called for "all the blackbirds to get off the bus" was labeled a bigot and asked to resign?

Well, this year's recipient of the Peaks and Valium award is a grandmother in Massachusetts who became confused on the interstate and ended up hours later headed toward Vermont in her bus with two young passengers aboard. The object of an all-points bulletin, she was suspected of kidnapping the children, to which she responded, "For cripes sake, I have six grandchildren!"

She was found after her vehicle ran out of gas and was unable to pay the $32 gas bill and the police were called.

What these two stories indicate is what most mothers have known for a long time - driving children takes special skills. It cannot be left in the hands of amateur volunteers.

For a couple of years, I was a member of the respected, highly-trained feared SWAT (Sedate! Warn! Attack! Threat!) team which drove for a fourth-grade class that was definitely out of hand at St. Helen's School. When untrained bar-poolers could no longer handle the situation, we were called in because we had experience in knowing which ones were bleeders and how to make injuries look like accidents.

We knew what to do with children who used a seat belt for a slingshot.

We knew what to do with the child who tried to cut the hair out of your ears with scissors while you were going 50 mph.

We learned how to handle children who kicked the back of your seat for 15 miles without stopping.

We could talk a kid off the sun roof without injury to the other passengers.

We knew how to stop and start the car so that the kid who stood on the seat would go spinning the full length of the station wagon.

SWAT drivers were disbanded a few years ago. It might be just about time to bring them back.

Miss Bridwell Honored With Noon Bridal Shower

A bridal shower honoring Cindy Bridwell, bride-elect of Johnny Carroll was held recently in the E.B. Black House.

Shower gifts were displayed in the sitting room for guests to view.

Greeting guests at the entry were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Robert Bridwell and prospective bride, the groom's mother, Mrs. Derrill Carroll.

The serving table was centered with a bouquet of white and blue flowers, depicting the bride-elect's chosen colors.

The honoree's sister, Kim Bridwell and the prospective bridegroom's sister, Brenda Carroll, served the guests punch and cake from milk glass and crystal appointments.

Hostesses for the afternoon shower were Meses. Jim Curtsinger, Leta Curtsinger, Bob Hamman, and Ruby White.

Local Resident's Book Issued Second Printing

A second printing of a book by Cora Bozeman Johnson of Hereford is being issued by the High Plains Children's Home in Amarillo, with 1,500 copies due to be available Oct. 15.

The book, Things That Abide, is a collection of poems, songs and prayers, most of them original and some selected by Mrs. Johnson from other writers and from the Bible. It is dedicated to the memory of her husband, the late Edgar Stewart Johnson, in a song she wrote.

The Hereford woman donated profits from the first printing, in 1974, to the Children's Home. She also gave it the rights to future printings. The new edition is being printed in the Home's printing shop and the books will sell for $5.

Announcement of the second printing was made in the Home's monthly publication, Highlights, in its September issue. Mrs. Johnson, at the age of 80, was introduced in the December, 1974 issue as the author of the then-new book which she described as her "dream of a lifetime."

Mrs. Johnson, who lives at 301 E. 6th, is a member of the Central Church of Christ here and a longtime friend of the Children's Home.

Finding a Psychiatrist

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell me how to find a competent psychiatrist or psychologist. I know now that you cannot let your fingers do the walking through the yellow pages and turn up anyone who is suitable. I tried it and ran into some doozies.

My physician recommended the first psychiatrist. His very first question was, "Do you love your mother?" Then he asked, "If you met me at a party, would you take me home to bed?"

I am aware that head-on confrontations may be a useful psychological ploy, but this geezer was at least six inches shorter than I and old enough to be my father. Needless to say, the session was downhill all the way from there, and I never went back. To me, finding the right therapist is as important as finding the right mate. Will you please tell me how to go about it? - Wit's End In Canada

DEAR WIT'S: Do you have friends in therapy? How do they feel about their doctors? A personal recommendation from a satisfied patient is the best referral. Another source can be to call the chief of the department of psychiatry or psychology at a university hospital or the local medical society.

I urge you not to give up. Hang in there until you find someone who fills the bill. It's worth the effort.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Homosexuality has received much attention in your column. However, no one ever mentions the family of a gay person.

When my brother came out of the closet, he brought the whole family with him. I realize Bob is the one who has to put up with the odd glances and snide remarks, but many narrow-minded people direct their prejudices toward the family as well.

I hope you don't think I am criticizing homosexuals, but it shocks my friends when I bring them home and they meet my brother who is so unmistakably gay. What do I say when people are unkind and mention it? I feel like an - Innocent Victim

DEAR I.V.: Make no apologies for your brother. Simply ask anyone who makes an unkind remark, "Would you like to talk to him about it?" That should setting things in a hurry.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's 5:30 a.m. My husband walked into the house 20 minutes ago. No explanation. This isn't the first time he has stayed out 'til dawn. Next week we will celebrate our first wedding anniversary, if we last that long.

I married Tim because I loved him. I got pregnant two months after the wedding. He raised so much hell I had an abortion. Ever since then he has been sullen and mean - won't talk to me.

Three weeks ago we had a big fight. He slammed the door and left. I was so depressed I swallowed every pill in the house. Lucky for me, I didn't kill myself. But it did scare me to think I could get so out of control.

Please tell me what to do, Ann. I am 23 years old and have a whole life ahead of me. Maybe. - Lost In Georgia

DEAR LOST: There are many excellent mental health facilities in your city. I urge you to make an appointment at once. (Look in the phone book.) And don't say you can't afford a psychiatrist. There are a variety of counseling services that cost very little. Some are free. The clergyman who married you may be another source of help. Please get going. You are a sick girl.

Advanced Oil Painting To Be Taught at Center

Advanced oil painting classes will begin this week at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center, with Mary Helen Askew assisted by Jolene Bledsoe in instruction.

After the initial meeting this week, classes will continue on Wednesday afternoon each week. They are open to all senior citizens, and prospective pupils should register in advance.

Mrs. Askew, who has painted in various styles and media, says she now prefers impressionist and semi-abstract painting. Most of her recent work has been with the palette knife and she will teach palette painting in this class.

Landscapes, especially of western scenes, have been among her favorite works in the past. Her paintings are owned by many Hereford residents and are hanging in homes, offices and banks over a tri-state area. Some are in the Anderson Gallery in Oklahoma City.

She has taught art in recent years and held several one-woman shows. Studying and painting at West Texas State University, Amarillo College and Eastern New Mexico University, her teachers have included Blanche Brewer of Lubbock, Bill Brand, Olive Bugbee, Don Ray, Ben Konis, David Rindlesbacher and the Dutch painter Dirk Van Drist.

Mrs. Askew also attended Froman Art School at Cloudcroft, N.M. where she painted with M. Raney, of Dallas, a well-known landscape artist.

In her classes she stresses practice in painting to gain ease in composition, perspective and use of color.

Mrs. Bledsoe, a Hereford resident three years, is now retired after 32 years in personnel and office work with the Lockheed-California Co. and devotes much of her time in her hobby of oil painting.

She studied art while living in New Mexico before the move to Hereford, and has had lessons with Jean Lyles here. She is a vice-president of Hereford Art Guild and an officer in the CowBelles.

Guest Speaker for Chamber Women's Division

Susie Woodford displayed Iranian money she had collected while living in Teran, Iran for eight years. Ms. Woodford spoke at the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division quarterly meeting recently. She included information about the present situation in Iran.

New Officers Named at Chamber Meeting; Ms. Woodford Featured as Guest Speaker

The Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce elected a new vice president and two board of directors at its third quarterly meeting recently.

Carolyn Cannon was elected to serve as vice president. Shirley Wilson and Jane White were named to serve on the board of directors.

The officers will be installed at the January meeting and the Women of the Year will also be announced at that time.

Highlighting the meeting was a presentation by Susie Woodford who spoke about the eight years she lived in Iran.

Ms. Woodford's talk included history, culture and the present situation in Iran. "What is happening in Iran, goes back a thousand years. Iran lost Iraq years ago and since that time conflict has remained between those two countries," she said.

According to Ms. Woodford, the Iranians are considered Arian while people in Iraq are Arab. The two countries do not have the same language with the exception of a few phrases; however, they do share the same written alphabet.

Ms. Woodford criticized the revolutionary leader Ayatollah Khomeini. She compared life in Iran under the ruling of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to live now under the rule of Khomeini.

"What the Shah built up in Iran, Khomeini has destroyed in 1 1/2 years. There is no freedom in the country. (He (Khomeini) is a maniac," she said.

Ms. Woodford said there is no freedom of the press and few bookstores are allowed. At one time a cultural center in Teran featured orchestra and ballets. Since Khomeini has arrived none of the cultural features are allowed in the country.

"I don't think the revolutionaries realized what would happen to their country when they forced the Shah out of the country and brought Khomeini to power," she continued.

Ms. Woodford was living in Teran at the time the Americans were taken hostages. She said she was not afraid for herself and in fact emphasized to the Iranians that she was American. "I would put on a sun dress and show off my blonde hair and walk down the streets of Teran. I was proud to be an American. Right after the Americans were taken the majority of Iranians was that they were sorry for what had happened," she stated. "It is a sad situation and with what is going on now it could get worse. I hope the Iranians get so hungry and so cold this winter they will rise up again and stop Khomeini," she continued. While Ms. Woodford spoke about Iran she also presented several pieces of jewelry and handicraft items to the members present at the meeting.

Prevent further damage to flooded furniture by slowly drying out items, advises Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist. After removing excess dirt and debris, bring furniture indoors to dry.

Rapid drying in the sunshine or intense heat will cause severe warping and twisting, she warns.

Diet without Hunger
The Natural Way:

The Wonder Food Supplement of Nature's Highest Source of Nutrition

Spirulina is a new concept in nutrition. It is 100 percent natural, is totally complete in nutrition. It supplies all of the nutrients we do not get in our food. It is higher in protein than any other natural food - plus supplying 250 percent more B12 than liver. One person of 180 pounds, needing 22 1/2 grams of protein per day could live for 12 1/2 years exclusively on Spirulina.

Spirulina has been known to provide incredibly quick energy.

Now dieting and weight control can be achieved while providing your body with more nutrition than you probably have ever given it before! By taking Spirulina 1/2 hour before meal time, your appetite will be significantly diminished, often enough to skip a meal entirely. Many food cravings are the body's signal that it is not sufficiently nourished. And in many cases, due to imbalanced diet, or the individual's body's inability to properly assimilate nutrients, no matter how much we eat, we still experience the nagging desires for more.

Now you can satisfy these body cravings completely by offering your body complete nutrition with under 100 calories per meal.

Spirulina contains the worlds highest known source of protein, and Nitamin B12. It also provided you with high concentrations of Vitamins A, B1, B2, B6, C, D, and K. In addition, all necessary minerals, trace elements, cell salts, digestive enzymes, and an abundance of chlorophyll, ferroxins, and other pigments are offered. So rather than suppressing your appetite through artificial means and drugs, and rather than drawing your self crazy denying your hunger and literally starving your whole body, why not control your weight sensibly and easily with 100 percent pure natural, complete Spirulina.

Specialist Reports Mechanical Onion Planting Equipment is on Horizon for High Plains Area

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

AMARILLO—Dr. Roland Roberts, area Extension vegetable specialist from Lubbock predicted that mechanical planting and harvesting of the High Plains onion crop will become a reality within the next few seasons as he responded to questions during the fourth annual meeting of the Texas Vegetable Association at the Villa Inn here Thursday.

Roberts, who has worked extensively with onion bulbets and greenhouse-grown transplants produced in the local area to meet High Plains needs, has conducted research with an eye toward mechanization of onion setting here over the past several seasons.

"There are machines right now that will drop onions in the ground. The challenge is to find the proper simulation and feeding of the transplants," stated Roberts. "We're trying to take highly motivated people and put them on a machine that they have pride in and can do a good job with and one that will also let us get planted early here in the High Plains," said Roberts.

That early planting is of particular concern for growers here in the local area who must often hedge on an early market.

"We really have problems with a long planting period here. Onion setting may often drag out over a month if the weather is poor in March because it is slow tedious work by hand. The onions planted latest always show the lowest yields as well, so we have real incentive to speed up the planting pro-

March 1 through April 1, I think we have a chance to keep our acreage up," he related.

Roberts pointed out that producers encounter staggering planting costs at the present time.

"Growers have been looking at $100 to $150 per acre in planting costs and it may be even more for the new crop season. A grower will already have $400 to $500 per acre in a crop the day it goes in the ground," he stated.

The harvesting end of the onion enterprise has also become an area of growing concern for High Plains producers, and Roberts reported that mechanical harvesting is on the horizon in this area, awaiting only the refinement of machinery and eventual production of the equipment.

"The first onion harvesters will be bought by big growers in this area. They may change the way onions are handled a little, but I don't see any problems with consumer acceptance of the onions. A good Texas onion, whether clipped or with the hair roots still on, is still a good sound sweet mild onion," stated Roberts.

Roberts reported he is noting a gradual trend in the Plains potato industry as more and more major producers are shifting spud acreage onto the sandier soils in an area ranging from Olton toward Muleshoe and other points in Bailey and Lamb county and on to Seminole.

"The sandy soils probably warm up a little quicker in the spring and allow earlier production and maturity. The light, well-aerated nature of the soils tends to allow a higher degree of russetting of the potatoes, and that makes them more attractive. Also, those soils make it easier to control moisture and you can give the potatoes the water they need when they need it. You probably have to use more water on these soils because they won't hold as much but the year's returns will warrant it," he remarked.

Grasshopper Figures Posted

An outstanding rate of kill of over 90 percent marked the success of a rangeland grasshopper control program conducted in the county during mid-summer and members of the county grasshopper control committee have now wrapped up the paperwork involved in the massive hopper spraying campaign.

A total of 178,630 acres was involved in the spraying program and following compiling of final figures on the spray program the control project required some 9,468 gallons of malathion insecticide.

Local ranchers paid in a total of 70 cents per acre for the cooperative program, which also involved the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Following final compilations, 73 Deaf Smith County ranchers were to receive a rebate of 22.769 cents per acre on their input into the program.

A total of $60,956.81 was paid to USDA-APHIS for the program while the TDA received $6,457.60.

Deaf Smith County expenses in the program amounted to $3,117.99 for a total cost of $70,532.40 for the program or 46 cents per acre for each entity.

Steer Roping Success

The 10th Annual OS Ranch Steer Roping and Art Exhibit held last weekend at Post, Texas, was "the best ever" according to Rex Prather, the youngest of three brothers who have participated in the event since its inception.

Prather became the first of the brothers to win the steer roping championship this weekend at their home arena, the OS Ranch.

Jim Prather, OS Ranch foreman, is chairman for annual OS weekend, which benefits the West Texas Boys Ranch at San Angelo. Last year's total contribution exceeded $45,000. This year's figures are not definite, but are expected to exceed last year's total.

Revenue from the OS Art Exhibit and Sale exceeded $182,000. Tom Ryan, Stamford, Texas, had two drawings which brought $12,500 apiece, the highest selling works exhibited.

Steve Bland, Trent, Texas, was the calf roping champion. Martha Josey, Karnack, Texas, won the barrel racing. Peponita San, owned by Tommy Moore and ridden by Matlock Rose, was named champion cutting horse.

UW Initiates Farm Drive

Dwayne Cassels, Deaf Smith County farmer, has become the first area farmer to donate a portion of his crop as his "fair share" to the 1980-81 Deaf Smith County United Way campaign. Cassels' wife, Jenny, delivered a load of corn to Hereford Grain Corporation Thursday, designating a portion of that load as a United Way donation.

The program to allow farmers to give a portion of a crop rather than a cash donation was initiated this year by the United Way to increase the amount of giving by the farming community. Cassels, who is also a director on the United Way board here, felt that the program "is an excellent way for farmers to give and not be out the initial cash."

Cassels, chairman of the Farm Division of the United Way campaign, was confident that with the implementation of this new program that his division could reach their goal of $15,000. "We don't expect every farmer to give a portion of his crop this year, but in a couple of years we hope to have a solid program underway where crop donations will be a normal part of solicitation," he said.

According to Cassels the process is relatively simple.

First for County

A first for the Deaf Smith County United Way was accomplished Thursday when Jenny Cassels delivered a load of corn, part of which was donated to the UW campaign, to Hereford Grain Corporation. Witnessing the historic delivery were United Way president Mark Andrews (center) and Hereford Grain Corp. elevator operator Fritz Backus. The Cassels donation was the first under a new program allowing area farmers to donate part of a crop rather than a cash outlay to the United Way. (Brand photo by Bob Nigh)

"The farmer tells the respective elevator how many pounds of a certain crop he wishes to donate to the United Way. Then, when the crop is sold, the amount collected for that portion will be sent directly to the United Way," he explained. "This is an excellent way for farmers to pledge, just as other businesses do, and not be out the initial cash."

High Input Costs Hurting Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A closer look at prices paid by farmers for some items they need to produce the nation's food and fiber helps illustrate the financial bind many, if not most, are feeling this year.

Obviously, an operator who has stayed free of debt, who has not had crop yields riddled by hot, dry weather and who has weathered the ups and downs of this year's cattle and hog market may be planning to head for a warm, sandy beach this winter.

But the rank-and-file farmer, just as any other consumer, for years has been hit by inflation. Things just keep getting more expensive.

The Agriculture Department issues a report each month that, based on scientific surveys, purports to tell how much corn or wheat or cotton or other commodity were worth averaged nationally at the farm, compared to the previous month and to a year ago.

The report also includes average prices of items that farmers buy to use in their business — seed, tractors, combines and feeder pigs, for instance.

Farmers' net income is down this year. One big reason is that prices they pay for items they need to produce crops and livestock have increased faster than prices they get for what they sell.

Some economists argue that some of the figures can be misleading because not all farmers buy tractors and many other high-priced items listed on the "expense" side of the report. But neither do all farmers sell cattle, hogs, cotton, grain and many other commodities that are used in compiling national figures for "prices received" by farmers.

The monthly report, despite its failings, still provides some of the most reliable figures used by the government to show how prices on the farm change from one period to another.

For example, the latest report, issued on Sept. 30, showed that the index of prices farmers received for commodities they sold rose 1.9 percent in September, compared to August. The index also was up 8.8 percent from a year earlier.

Comparatively, the index paid by farmers for commodities and services, interest, taxes and wages was up 1.1 percent from August, the report said.

But looking at the entire year, the "prices paid" index was 12 percent above a year earlier — compared to the 8.8 percent bulge in the "prices received" index. And, as any farmer knows, there have been many months in which prices received declined steadily while the expenses kept on rising.

Examples: A 7-bottom plow in September averaged $8,350 against $7,330 a year ago. A large self-propelled combine, at $69,000, was up from $60,700 a year ago. And, at $65,700, a four-wheel drive tractor compared to $57,100 a year earlier, the report said.

Metrics
The United States first committed itself to the metric system at an international convention in 1875. Although American fundamental weights and measures standards have been metric since 1893, this country is the only major industrial nation that still has not brought the metric system into its everyday life.

Abundant Trees
There are approximately 1,800 different species of trees native to the continental United States, including a few imports that have become naturalized to the extent of reproducing themselves in the wild.

Food for Thought

By GERALD MCCATHERN

One thing that we all have in common is that we like to eat (must) and we prefer to do it three times a day!

We, as Americans, are very fortunate in that we have always had an abundant supply of high quality food at reasonable prices. Our farmers have not only fed us well, they have also produced enough to satisfy the needs of much of the world. This capability, however, is being destroyed, just as it was destroyed in the petroleum industry.

We should remember that at one time our oil and gas requirements while at the same time exporting half of the world's petroleum needs.

However, government policies and regulations which kept petroleum prices artificially low while inflation pushed production costs upward eventually forced many of our smaller independent producers out of business. The large major oil companies moved much of their exploration and refining operations into foreign countries where production costs were lower and government interference was less.

As a result of those policies the U.S. became a petroleum importer instead of a petroleum exporter. Once we became dependent on foreign oil for most of our supplies, we saw an oil embargo, shortages developed, gas lines formed, and prices skyrocketed!

We should be aware that we are pursuing the same governmental policies for agriculture that destroyed our domestic oil production capabilities. The cheap food (producer) policies of this nation through government laws and regulations are forcing raw agriculture commodity prices to remain at artificially low levels while inflation is causing production costs to skyrocket. As a result over two thousand (USDA statistics) family farmers are forced out of business each week.

We must not allow our food producing industry to be destroyed by foolish government policies. Food lines and hungry people can only be the result. Those of us who are consumers can help to reverse this situation by demanding an immediate change in our agriculture policies, a change which will assure us of an abundant supply of the best food in the world while at the same time allowing our food producers to share in the prosperity of our nation.

There is an old saying which is appropriate, "Don't cuss the farmer with your mouth full!" He needs your help. Remember, he's the best friend you've got because, after all, he does feed you three times a day.

Milk Pricing Procedure Set

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has established an interim procedure for announcing Class II milk prices in 29 federal milk marketing orders while assessing the record of an Aug. 12 hearing on the matter. The hearing record will be the basis for a recommended proposal to be made later by USDA.

Herbert L. Forest, dairy official with the Agricultural Marketing Service, said the interim procedure was necessitated by an order of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, which had rules invalid the existing announcement procedures in the 29 orders. The Court ordered USDA to establish on the basis of further rulemaking procedures a method for announcing Class II prices, and, pending the completion of these procedures, to use the same notice procedures as for Class I prices.

Under the interim procedure, the Class II price for each of the orders will be the Dairy division director's estimate of the Minnesota - Wisconsin manufactured milk price for the month plus 10 cents per hundredweight (45 kilograms), Forest said.

The Class II price in the interim action will be announced on the same day of the preceding month that the Class I price is presently announced.

Based on that announcement each month, the procedure will continue as closely as possible the present relationship between Class II and Class III milk prices in each order.

The interim action will be published in the Oct. 3 Federal Register.

The 29 milk orders affected by the interim action are: St. Louis - Ozarks, Georgia, Tennessee Valley, Chicago Regional, Southern Illinois, Louisville - Lexington - Evansville, Indiana, Central Illinois, Greater Kansas City, Nebraska - Western Iowa, Upper Midwest, Neosho Valley, Wichita, Eastern South Dakota, Iowa, New Orleans - Mississippi, Greater Louisiana, Memphis, Nashville, Paducah, Fort Smith, Red River Valley, Oklahoma Metropolitan, Central Arkansas, Lubbock - Plainview, Texas, Central Arizona, Texas Panhandle, and Rio Grande Valley.

The Agriculture Department estimates that Egypt will receive more than 25 percent of U.S. food assistance granted during the current fiscal year.

"Never has the future for cattle feeders been more uncertain. The energy crisis, inflation, the economy, grain prices, soft demand for beef, new competition...all lead us to a turning point. At the TCFA convention we'll look at these issues and possible solutions," commented Lee Wilcox, TCFA communications director.

China Exporting More Honey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beekeeping has become such a successful sideline in parts of China that its honey exports are showing a substantial growth.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that honey production in China began increasing notably two years ago, and in 1979 honey exports rose to 41,000 metric tons from 19,000 in 1978.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds. Japan and West Germany were the major foreign buyers, each taking more than 13,000 metric tons, the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said.

Ag Chemicals Conference Lists Energy, Insects As Major Concerns for Decade of the Eighties

LUBBOCK—The decade of the '80s in agriculture has opened with the specter of a new energy crisis, an insect problem described as "worse than possible," expectation of continued high interest rates, some surprises in soil fertilization research, a continuing battle against weeds and a cautiously optimistic projection for the future of gasohol.

This was the picture presented by speakers at the 28th annual Agricultural Chemicals Conference at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. Almost 400 producers, educators and agribusiness leaders from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma took part in the educational meeting sponsored by the West Texas Agricultural Chemicals Institute.

The organization also honored Elmer Hudspeth of Lubbock and Melvin Thompson of Hereford with its awards for service to area agriculture.

Hudspeth, agricultural engineer with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and director of the USDA Southern Plains Cotton Research Laboratory at Lubbock, received the award presented annually to a representative of a public institution or agency. He was cited for three decades of work on the High Plains in developing techniques and equipment for weed control and application of chemicals.

Thompson, president and general manager of Tri-State Chemica Co. in Hereford, received the commercial industry award. He was honored for his years of service with Monsanto Chemical Co. and his own firm, and for outstanding work with the West Texas Agricultural Chemicals Institute, Texas Agricultural Chemicals Assn., National Agricultural Chemicals Assn., Southern Weed Conference and on the advisory boards of several chemical corporations.

Dubbing the 1980s the "Energy Decade," keynote speaker L. Hill Bonin Jr., Gulf Oil Corp. vice president of public affairs, from Washington, said the war between Iran and Iraq is "a lot more serious than we'd like to believe."

"About two-thirds of the world's oil consumed comes from five little countries bordering the Persian Gulf," Bonin noted.

He said the oil consuming countries have about a five-month storage supply of petroleum. Noting that replenishment of this supply normally takes 30-45 days, "you are realistically talking about a three-to three-and-a-half-month ability to sustain yourself," he said.

America's hands are tied in the Middle East, "particularly with our hostage situation," in Iran, he said. Bonin said the conflict poses "no immediate threat of shortage." But if it extends more than a month or two, he predicted there will be "some very high bidding" for available crude oil.

America's energy future "can be very bright," Bonin said. But to become so, several things must change, he said. One is adoption of a policy that will open federal lands to exploration and development of energy and precious metals. Another is achieving a better balance between energy goals and environmental goals.

Development of nuclear and synthetic fuels, although some years away, hold great promise if we can overcome "environmental terrorism," he said.

An optimistic future for gasohol was expressed by two speakers, but they cautioned that it has some problems, too.

To be economical, extensive use of production facilities must be made, and some feasibility studies on ethanol distillation plants overlook needs for fuel and adequate water to operate them, cautioned Steve Ostheim, an instructor in chemical engineering at Texas Tech University.

Bob Heard, vice president for sales with Diamond Shamrock Corp., Amarillo, said gasohol is an excellent fuel. But he warned that production and handling require efficient quality controls.

"But it is an expensive fuel," Heard said. He said his company, which produces and markets it in Texas and other midwestern states, finds it about 10 cents a gallon more expensive than unleaded gasoline. "We are charging our dealers eight cents a gallon more. We are subsidizing (gasohol) two cents a gallon, but we think there is a future for it."

The popular conception that soybean cropping builds the nitrate nitrogen level of the soil is being questioned following research reported at the meeting by Dr. Dale Pennington, soil scientist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock.

Citing tests conducted by Extension and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at 193 locations on the High Plains, soil cropped to wheat and cotton retains more nitrate nitrogen than soil cropped to soybeans.

"This indicates that in a farming situation, soybeans appear to be more deplete of nitrogen" than several other crops, he said.

Unique and more widespread insect problems confronted producers on the High Plains this year, reported Dr. James Leser, area Extension entomologist. Drought, lack of beneficial insects and appearance of pests new to the area or of new strains undaunted by pest-resistant crop varieties and control measures are making 1980 the worst year in cost of control efforts and in yield losses, he said.

He cited a need for additional research and expanded Extension educational efforts to alleviate the impact of pests on High Plains crops.

"It appears the major obstacle to sound pest management in this area is either the inability or unwillingness of the producer to scout properly or hire a competent consultant or private entomologist" to enable producers to make objective rather than emotional decisions.

An update on the continuing war against weeds was presented by Dr. John Abernathy, weed scientist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock.

On the financial scene, the area's economy looks promising for the decade ahead, but double digit inflation and high interest rates will be part of the picture, said J.B. Potts, senior vice president of Lubbock National Bank.

"We're going to have to become used to the high cost of money," Potts said, cautioning that some economists predict the prime lending rate will return to 18 percent.

Opinion Abounds On RCA Process

WASHINGTON (AP) — It may be months before a boiled-down plan is recommended to Congress on how best the government should work in the future to conserve the nation's soil and water, but the delay is not because of a lack of public opinions.

And those opinions, embodied in 64,872 responses collected during the first three months of this year when the Agriculture Department asked for views in what it called "the RCA process" of implementing the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977.

Earlier, going back to 1978, thousands of meetings were held across the country in local conservation districts to explain the RCA process. Full-scale hearings also were held here and in other cities.

A 200-page report of the public's comments was issued on Wednesday by department's Soil Conservation Service.

Generally speaking, the department last winter offered a series of documents for public review and comment.

Those included some possible "alternatives" for operating government conservation programs, some of them going back for more than 40 years, and some "objectives" the government might consider for the future. According to the report, the public responses included these general characterizations:

—Most people value highly the nation's soil, water and related resources, and "are concerned about the capacity" of those resources to meet future needs.

Cooperatives Play Key Role In Maintaining Family Farms

COLLEGE STATION -- Farmer-owned and controlled cooperatives play a key role in making the family farm the highly productive system it has become.

During October, which is "Cooperative Month," special recognition will be given to cooperatives for their roles in economic progress of this state and nation, points out Johnny Feagan, economist in organization with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

According to Feagan, Texas boasts more than 440 cooperatives that serve some 133,000 members. These cooperatives are doing a business volume of more than $2 billion annually.

Nationally, some 50 million Americans belong to about 40,000 cooperatives.

"Cooperatives in Texas range from farmer-owned gins, elevators and compresses to marketing, supply and credit organizations," explains Feagan. "Health, housing, insurance, electric, telephone and other service cooperatives are becoming more and more important to all Texas citizens."

According to Feagan, cooperatives make it possible for family farmers to receive more dependable markets for their products and more dependable and lower cost supplies for their farm input. They also benefit consumers by taking the lead in furnishing quality products, in developing better packaging, and in using more efficient distribution methods, all of which helps hold down prices of food and fiber products.

"Cooperatives evolved from the early American spirit of working together to survive. They were organized to compete with economic forces which threatened the economic existence of individuals. Today, cooperatives enable Americans to work together to help themselves," says the economist.

Cooperatives are large and small and are located in towns, cities and in the country. Wherever they are and whatever their size, they are busy serving members, their communities and the public, contends Feagan.

Windbreak Seedlings Can Be Ordered Now

LUBBOCK--Applications are now being accepted for windbreak seedlings from the Texas Forest Service.

These seedlings, grown from seed collected in West Texas and eastern New Mexico, are produced in the state's greenhouse in Lubbock and in a field nursery near Halfway.

Conifer species available this season include Austrian pine, ponderosa pine, Arizona Cypress, and redcedar. These containerized seedlings cost $1 each and are sold in multiples of 30 seedlings only.

Hardwood species include honeylocust, mulberry, native plum, Russian olive, and sawtooth oak. These bare root seedlings are priced at $20 per hundred.

Seedlings ordered now will be ready for pickup and planting in March 1981. Trees sold by the Texas Forest Service may not be used for landscaping or ornamental purposes.

For applications and information on windbreaks, contact the Texas Forest Service, Route 3, Box 216, Lubbock, Tx. 79401, (806) 746-5801. Applications also are available from county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service, and extension agents.

Clover Seed Crop Down 11 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) -- This year's harvest of red clover seed is forecast at about 24.3 million pounds, down 11 percent from the 1979 crop, says the Agriculture Department.

Yields, at an average nationally of 113 pounds an acre, are up from last year but farmers reduced acreages for the seed harvest.

Oregon is the largest producer, but red clover seed also is harvested in many other states, including the Midwest and Northeast.

The report said volcanic fallout from Mount St. Helens smothered some of the red clover fields in Washington's Yakima Valley and that the state's acreage for seed was "cut nearly in half."

Drought-Caused Livestock Sale May Show Tax Advantages

COLLEGE STATION -- Recent rains in parts of Texas have stopped cattle liquidations but won't bring back lost revenues from premature drought-caused sales. A recent survey shows cattle numbers down 30 to 40 percent from normal due to such liquidations.

Ranchers who were forced to sell livestock because of decimated pastures and reduced water supplies should begin considering the income tax aspects of their losses.

According to Jose G. Pena of Uvalde, area economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, income from drought sales of inventory stock can be deferred for up to one year as outlined in the Farmer's Tax Guide.

Producers can elect to defer revenue from sales of certain livestock for one year if the sale was due to drought conditions. Pena says this particular election does not apply to livestock used for breeding, draft, dairy or sporting purposes.

If, because of drought conditions, a cow-calf producer sells more livestock than he would in a normal business year, he may elect to include sales proceeds in next year's income. Three conditions must be met: the cash method of accounting is used, it can be established that under usual business the number sold would not have occurred except for drought conditions and drought conditions have resulted in an area being designated as eligible for federal assistance.

Pena says livestock purchased (stocker steers or heifers) as well as raised livestock will qualify. Sales do not have to take place in a drought area, but they must be due solely to drought conditions. Also, sales made prior to an area being declared eligible for federal assistance may still qualify.

To determine the amount of income eligible for deferral, a producer must first determine the average amount received per head and multiply this figure by the excess number of head sold due to drought.

When livestock kept for breeding, draft or dairy purposes are sold or exchanged solely because of drought, the sale or exchange is considered an involuntary conversion.

A rancher may elect to postpone taxes on any gains from sales of breeding livestock if replaced with livestock of like kind within two years from the close of the year in which the gain was realized, Pena explains. Tax on the gain may be postponed on the number sold in excess of the usual practice. Losses resulting from sales are deductible in the year they were sustained.

Pena says the tax return for the year of sale should include (1) evidence of drought, (2) amount of gain realized, and (3) number and kind sold or replaced.

Tax returns for the replacement year should include (1) replacement purchase price, (2) number and kind of replacements, and (3) cost of replacements. Cost of replacement livestock must equal or exceed proceeds of livestock sold due to drought.

Prince Valiant

OUR STORY: WITH VALIANT LOCKED IN THE TOWER, ALETA IS ON HER OWN. DISGUISED AS A MAN, SHE SLIPS AWAY, GYNNW LENDS A HAND.

FOLLOWING GYNNW'S DIRECTIONS TO THE SENESCHAL'S OFFICE, ALETA COMES THROUGH CASTLE CORNWALL'S LEADER BOOKS TO HER SURPRISE, THE ACCOUNTS ARE WRITTEN IN GREEK.

YOU'D DAVE CUMBERT? NEVER KNEW WHAT HIS SONS WERE UP TO," ALETA REALIZES, BUT WHAT WAS GREEK TO CUMBERT IS THE NATIVE TONGUE OF THE QUEEN OF THE MISTY ISLES.

THE ASSASSIN IS TOO CONFIDENT, LIKE A SHAVE SHAVING HIS PATRIE, HE CLUCKS IN ANTICIPATION AND LUNGES FOR ALETA'S BACK. ALETA REMAINS AND SLASHES ON INSTINCT.

NOW SHE SPRINTS ACROSS THE COURTYARD, THE MAN IN THE SENESCHAL'S OFFICE HAS NOT FOLLOWED. SHE PUSES TO CATCH HER BREATH, BUT STILL HER ASSAILANT FAILS TO PURSUE. SHE IS SAFE.

CIRCUMSTANCES COMPEL A SECOND OPINION. 'AN ACCOUNTANT' IS THERE NO 'SPRING' MAN IN ALL OF CASTLE CORNWALL?' ALETA WONDERS.

ALETA IS EXHAUSTED BUT TRIUMPHANT. THE FINANCIAL RECORDS REVEAL DOUBLE BOOKKEEPING AND A GREEK CHORUS OF CRIMES.

LOOKED IN A REMOTE TOWER, PRINCE VALIANT THINKS ONLY OF ALETA. 'I HOPE SHE DOESN'T DO SOMETHING FOOLHARDY.' HE SIGHS, DOUBTFULLY. NEXT WEEK: The Trial

Hi Lois

THERE'S PLENTY FOR AN INVENTIVE BABY TO DO AROUND THE HOUSE.

YOU JUST HAVE TO LOOK AROUND!

JUST LOOK AT THAT NICE CLEAN WALL

AND JUST LOOK AT THIS NICE BLACK CRAYON

SHOULD I... OR SHOULD I? I?

IF I DO, I'LL BE IN BIG TROUBLE UNLESS I CAN MAKE IT LOOK LIKE I DIDN'T DO IT...

I KNOW... AFTER I'M FINISHED I'LL PUT THE CRAYON IN DAVE'S PAW!

WHEN YOU GET THE URGE TO SCRIBBLE YOU CAN TALK YOURSELF INTO ANYTHING.

"DON'T WORRY, IT'S NOT YOUR DINNER... IT'S YOUR SHIRT."

Junior Whirl

by Hal Kaufman

- TO AND FRO! Each of these stimulated log entries contains the name of one of Columbus's ships spelled backwards: 1. Ran into storm. 2. Cut nipped cook. 3. In despair, am at nasty spot. How quickly can you find them?
- Age-Old Problem! Five years ago Mrs. Shy was five times older than her son. Today she is three times as old as her son. How old is she?
- Hall and Farwell! Add missing halves or goodbyes words to the following movie titles: 1. "_____ Mr. Columbus." 2. "_____ Dolly." 3. "_____ Mr. Chips."
- Answer-Are-This. If you can: What holds things together and keeps them apart at the same time? Mortar between bricks is one possibility.

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

ANSWER IS UP IN THE AIR

Read over the following carefully, then see if you can answer:

My first is in boy.
but not in man.
My second's in box.
but not in pan.
My third's in pink.
but not in plink.
My fourth's in gobble,
but not in milk.
My fifth's in stork,
but not in snow.
My sixth's in wind,
but not in wine.
My whole is what,
without a doubt,
one could not possibly live without.
What am I? Illustration above helps.

WHAT HOU "In fourteen hundred ninety-five, Columbus sailed the ocean blue..." Add lines to complete pictures.
