Key West, Florida Secedes From Union

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — This island town's officials say they're seceding from the Union in a half-serious effort to provoke the government into dismantling an illegal-alien's checkpoint on the only road to the mainland.

Key West, which stands like a stinger at the end of the scorpion-tail chain of islands that form the Florida Keys, becomes "The Conch Republic" today at a flag-raising ceremony to protest the checkpoint that caused a 19-mile traffic jam last weekend.

Mayor Dennis Wardlow said if it takes a civil war, Key West will start one — and then apply for foreign aid.

City officials say the roadblock is killing tourism in the island chain, and Key West natives, known as conchs, and other residents have been especially dependent on tourists since the U.S. Navy pulled out of town in 1974 after 150 years.

"This is only partly humorous. There's a great deal of anger in this town," said Townsend Kiefer, a writer and civic activist who has been named minister of foreign affairs in the new government.

U.S. District Judge C. Clyde Atkins in Miami ruled Thursday that the checkpoint set up Sunday on U.S. 1 was within the Border Patrol's authority to stop illegal immigrants.

"By establishing that border, they have declared us a foreign nation," said Wardlow, whose new title will be prime minister.

"We're tired of the U.S. government picking on little Key West," he said. "I guess they think we're kidding, and we're not."

About 30 officials and civic leaders in this island city of 25,000 permanent residents have been given new jobs in the new "government" ranging from secretary of underwater affairs to minister of nutrition.

City officials planned to lower the Stars and Stripes at

Consumer Prices Fall 3.3 Percent

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices, down for the first time since 1965 and the most since 1953, fell at an annual rate of 3.3 percent last month, the government reported today.

Plummeting gasoline prices, posting their sharpest drop on record, led the decline. The persistent recession and the worldwide oil glut were responsible.

Today's Labor Department

announcement means that checks for the nation's 36 million Social Security recipients should rise an average of $27 beginning in July.

The 0.3 percent seasonally adjusted decline in the March index further confirms economists' predictions that the recession, which has persisted since the summer, is moderating the spiral of increasing prices.

If prices fell for 12 straight months at March's rate, the yearly decline would be 3.3

percent. The annual rate reported by the Labor Department is based on a more precise calculation of monthly changes than the figure the department makes public.

Specifically, the department reported these price changes: —Gasoline prices fell 4 percent, the most since these costs were first recorded monthly by the department in 1967, to help bring down overall transportation costs 1 percent. March marked the third straight month these costs have fallen. —Housing costs fell 0.3 percent, partly a reflection of a 1.3 percent drop in mortgage interest rates and a 0.4 percent decline in home prices themselves. In the preceding month, housing costs overall had risen 0.4 percent.

—Food and beverage prices dropped 0.3 percent, reversing the 0.6 percent gain of February. —Medical care costs, posting the only substantial gain in March, rose 1 percent.

Band Awarded Two 'Superiors'

The Hereford High honors band received two superior ratings at Region 1 UIL contest Thursday in Amarillo and with the superior rating obtained in marching last fall, the band was one of two in District 5-A which claimed sweepstakes honors.

Ratings were in sight reading and concert performance.

"Since I've been teaching, this is the toughest contest we've ever had," said Randy Vaughn, band director. "We felt really fortunate."

Vaughn said the judges had praise for the band.

"Keep up the fine work. A really fine band, well taught."

"I really enjoyed your band. Fine band (underlined)." "Fine band. Good teaching."

Amarillo High also made sweepstakes.

The band's ratings were in concert and sight reading competition.

The symphonic band, under direction of Bill Huff, received a "1" (superior) rating in concert and a "2" (excellent) rating in sight reading.

La Plata's band, directed by Jim Priest, was rated "1" in sight reading and "2" in concert.

Stanton, directed by Jim Summersgill "1" in concert and sight reading.

Duvall Stayed Despite Wind, Retires 28 Years Later

BY JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

About 40 years ago Charles Duvall came to Hereford with his brother to sow a section of wheat and, because the weather was so nice that fall, thought he might move here some day.

Sure enough, after a stint in the Navy, college and four years of teaching, he and his wife, Mary, came to Hereford to escape the sandstorms of southwest Texas.

"We drove out here in February and there was a sandstorm," he mused. "We weren't sure we had made the right decision."

They must have, because after 28 years with the Hereford Independent School District, Duvall has decided to retire in Hereford.

"I plan on doing quite a bit of fishing, golfing, hunting, maybe a little outside painting. But, I'm not looking for a job, not interested in making any money," he said.

"I'm not going to sit at home and do nothing," he revealed. "I can do housework, washing and cooking, but I can't iron. I can help out with that stuff. Mary is not planning on retiring yet, so people can quit asking her that."

Duvall is cashing in on two years of armed service time in order to retire a little earlier than he has to, and because "I just figure it's time to let someone else at it."

Duvall began teaching in 1949 at Foss, Okla., and a year later married the girl he had met in a human anatomy class at Southwestern Oklahoma State College, Weatherford, Okla.

"He helped me sharpen my knives," recalls Mary, counselor at La Plata Junior High for the past 16 years.

The couple taught a year in Quail and two years in Whiteface, where the dust and sandstorms made them want to look for calmer climate.

While in Oklahoma, Duvall also played semi-pro baseball while he taught history, industrial arts and physical education.

Duvall came to Hereford in 1954, first as an assistant principal at Old Central, and then Aikman. He came to Northwest as the principal in 1962.

He says he doesn't have any stories to tell about students because he has some of their children in his school now.

"Doctoring toes, sewing up pants, giving kids baths, if you ask me, 'Are you going to miss that?' I'll say 'no.'"

Duvall chuckled. But he isn't making an exit with animosity.

"I can just remember it's been a pleasurable job all the time I've been here," he testified. "I have enjoyed it. I'm leaving a good faculty for whoever's coming in."

"Now I can take a week off

Social Security Benefits to Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security benefits will rise by 7.4 percent in July, putting an average $27 a month extra in the checks of newly retired 65-year-olds, the government said today.

The automatic annual increase, pegged to the boost in the Consumer Price Index announced today, could be in jeopardy if the White House and Congress carry out suggestions to delay or deny the Social Security increase as part of an overall plan to trim the federal deficit below $100 billion in fiscal 1983.

Since 1975, Social Security benefits have been linked to the Consumer Price Index and have risen 68 percent in that period. The 7.4 percent hike will add to that increase. From 1978 to 1981, workers' wages went up slower than inflation.

The Social Security Administration said the latest cost-of-living increase will cost the trust funds $11.3 billion in the year ahead. Social Security now pays out more than $12 billion a month and $140 billion a year.

The maximum benefit for a 65-year-old person retiring this year will jump by $50, from $679 to $729 a month.

The average benefit for an elderly couple will climb by $47, from $648 to $695.

Supplemental Security Income welfare benefits also will go up 7.4 percent for 4 million aged, blind or disabled poor people. The maximum for an individual would rise by nearly $20 to $284.30. And the maximum for couples would climb by more than $29 to $426.40.

While there has been talk of holding back or reducing the Social Security increase, congressional negotiators have said it is likely that SSI recipients would get their full increase.

The 36 million Social Security beneficiaries can take comfort from the likelihood that Congress will be extremely reluctant to tamper with their increase in an election year.

Congress voted in 1972 to build the automatic cost-of-living hikes into the system starting in 1975. Since 1978, beneficiaries' checks have risen 37 percent while the average worker's wages went up only 25 percent.

White House officials and congressional leaders working on ways to trim President Reagan's budget have one proposal that would put a 4 percent cap on cost-of-living hikes, delay them until October and then pay no more than 4 percent at 15-month intervals.

That would save $46 billion in Social Security alone between fiscal 1983 and 1985, according to the House Select Committee on Aging.

Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, has proposed a freeze this year on the cost-of-living hike and then a limit on future hikes to 3 percent less than the CPI.

—Following 2 grafts embargoed for 10:30 a.m. EST Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Select Committee on Aging, today charged that proposal being considered by the White House and congressional budget negotiators would cost the average beneficiary $130 during 1982, more than $4,000 by 1987 and nearly $9,000 by 1990.

Lil' Miss Pageant Saturday Evening

"Follow the Yellow Brick Road" is the theme of the Little Miss Hereford Pageant, which is set to begin at 7 p.m. Saturday night in the Hereford High School Auditorium.

There are 76 entrants this year, who will be judged in four different age divisions, including cutest Miss, Miss Petite, Little Princess, and Miss Junior High. Tickets for the pageant are $2 each and may be purchased at the door.

Dana Ulibarri, Miss Hereford 1981, will entertain at the pageant and will present trophies to the winners. Lynton Allred will serve as master of ceremonies.

Nation Revives DST Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP) — David Todd is the caretaker of 800 museum clocks, but like many people he has trouble remembering which way to turn when daylight-saving time comes around.

"Yes, I've got a lot of trouble with it, always have had since I was a kid," says the British native, who is the Smithsonian Institution's only clock restorer. "But I've learned something since coming over (to this country). Here they say, 'Spring forward and fall back.'"

For Todd and millions of people across America, the moment of truth comes again at 2 a.m. this Sunday when the nation — except for all or parts of three states — welcomes in another six months of daylight-saving time. Luckily for Todd, only about a half dozen of the clocks at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History are kept operating. So his chore will not be difficult — not like when he worked at an English antique clock shop a few years back and had to re-set 75 to 100 clocks twice a year because of Britain's "summer time."

Daylight-saving time, which gives people another hour of light in the evening and robs early risers of one in the morning, was first used during World War I and again during World War II.

In 1966, Congress adopted it nationwide, and the practice of pushing clocks and watches ahead on the last Sunday of April and setting them

Buy Stocks Where

You Buy Socks

CHICAGO (AP) — Shoppers at Sears, Roebuck and Co. stores in eight U.S. cities this summer will be able to buy not only clothing and other traditional merchandise, but also stocks, insurance and real estate, according to plans announced by the nation's largest retailer.

Sears, which diversified recently into investment and real estate, will open financial service centers in July at its stores in Atlanta, Chicago, Dallas, Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., and San Francisco metropolitan areas, Chairman Edward R. Telling announced.

Telling said the centers will offer consumer services including stocks, options, mutual funds, real estate brokerage services and mortgage insurance.

Last December, Sears acquired the investment firm of Dean Witter, Reynolds and the Coldwell, Banker real estate company.

Telling said in a speech to a group of financial analysts Wednesday that the new centers are part of the huge retailer's plan to become the nation's largest producer of consumer financial services.

He said three changes in the economy helped shape Sears' plan: A better climate for personal savings, the restructuring of financial institutions and the growing dependency of the United States economy on other nations.

Sears also announced Wednesday that its first-quarter profits rose a whopping 35 percent to $71.4 million over the $52.8 million reported in the 1981 quarter.

Overtaken Tank Cars Force Evacuation

PITTSBURG, Texas (AP) — Three overturned tank cars began leaking toxic gas and forced the evacuation of seven homes after a freight train derailed while crossing a rotting bridge about four miles west of this Northeast Texas town, officials said.

The only injured reported Thursday was to a railroad employee, who was released from a nearby hospital after being treated for inhalation of vinyl chloride.

Vinyl chloride is shipped as a liquid, but turns to highly flammable gas when exposed to the air.

The Louisiana and Arkansas Railroad train was bound for Dallas from New Orleans, railroad officials said.

"All we can figure out is that the weather had rotted the bridge and it just gave way when the train crossed," Camp County Fire Marshal Terry Hensley said.

Twenty-three cars derailed in the accident, and seven overturned. The chloride seeped from three of the five 12,000-gallon tank cars that derailed, authorities said.

Lawyer Indicted For Trying To Poison Bedridden Wife

HOUSTON (AP) — A lawyer who allegedly tried to persuade a Canadian author to help him obtain what he thought was a non-detectable poison has been indicted on charges he tried to kill his bedridden wife.

William A. Chanslor, 50, was charged Thursday with solicitation and conspiracy to commit murder.

Chanslor was arrested Wednesday at a hotel near Houston Intercontinental Airport after allegedly paying an undercover agent for ricin, a poison more potent than Cobra's venom.

Constable James Hodson of the Ontario Provincial Police said Chanslor believed the substance could not be detected after death by normal forensic methods.

Chanslor was held in city jail in lieu of $40,000 bond.

According to the indictment, Chanslor contacted Canadian author John A. Minnery last month to try to obtain the poisonous substance. Minnery wrote a series of books entitled "How to Kill."

Minnery told Ontario police about Chanslor's inquiry and agreed to use an undercover agent as a go-between to deliver the poison, Hodson said.

Chanslor flew to Toronto on April 8, met Minnery, and the undercover agent and described Sue Sanders Chanslor, his 42-year-old bedridden wife who "he wanted to kill with the poison ricin," the indictment said.

British Royal Navy Reportedly Ready For 'Full War Alert'

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the British armada in the South Atlantic reportedly ready to go on "full war alert," British Foreign Secretary Francis Pym is concluding talks today with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. on the Falklands crisis.

Pym planned to return to London tonight after meetings with Haig and National Security adviser William Clark. Officials said Pym might also meet with President Reagan.

British sources held out no hope for a breakthrough during Pym's visit here and were pessimistic that a military confrontation could be avoided in the dispute with Argentina.

After five hours of meetings Thursday with Haig, Pym was asked about the possibility of a peaceful settlement.

"There is always hope," he said, "but I have never disguised the difficulty of it."

At issue were the British demand for self-determination for the Falkland Islanders and Argentina's insistence that its claim to sovereignty over the area is non-negotiable.

British defense sources said Thursday the entire 61-ship armada in the South Atlantic would go on "full war alert" tonight when it came within reach of Argentine aircraft.

War readiness for the Royal Navy at sea means off-watch personnel sleep in their clothes, carry gas masks and life jackets at all times, spend only two minutes taking a shower, wear tin hats on upper decks and stop wearing nylon clothing to reduce risk of burns in action.

Argentina's president, Gen. Leopoldo Galtieri, visited the islands Thursday and ordered the 9,000 Argentine troops deployed there to defend them "until the ultimate consequences and the last drop of blood."

Galtieri, dressed in combat fatigues, became the first

Argentine head of state to visit the islands, which Argentina calls the Malvinas. He visited the capital of Stanley, renamed Puerto Argentino after Argentina seized the islands from Britain on April 2.

There were reports Thursday that British destroyers and troops were within striking distance of South Georgia, the Falklands dependency defended by an estimated 140 Argentine soldiers. It lies about 800 miles east of the Falklands and about 1,100 miles from the Argentine mainland.

The small number of Argentine troops on South Georgia led to speculation Thursday that Britain might make its first military move there.

Asked about that possibility, an Argentine military officer said, "And after that, what do they do?"

Diplomats agreed that the big question was what Britain would do when its fleet reaches the main islands.

Press Association, the British domestic news agency, reported the cabinet was deeply divided between hawks who favor a quick military strike and doves who counsel further talks.

Quoting an unidentified government source, the agency said, "The 'pull trigger' lobby appeared to have a majority."

Britain's strategy from the start has been to regain the islands through negotiations, using the threat of military force to pressure the Argentines.

"While we are making every effort to make a peaceful settlement, the use of force cannot be ruled out," Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said Thursday.

Sources in London said the proposals brought here by Pym covered four points: Argentina's withdrawal from the islands, an interim administration, a framework for negotiations on a long-term solution and assurances the 1,800 islanders can determine their own future.

Martin Bargains, Pleads Guilty To Staging His Own Shooting

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lawyers for State Rep. Mike Martin could hear the voice of doom in replies from potential jurors in the legislator's aggravated perjury trial.

Half the 34 potential jurors questioned during the trial moved to Fredericksburg because of publicity said they believed Martin had staged his own shooting last July, said defense lawyer Frank Maloney.

"We got a message in Fredericksburg," said Maloney. "I don't think we had a snowball's chance in hell."

Martin, 30, pleaded guilty here Thursday to a reduced charge of misdemeanor perjury, paid the maximum $2,000 fine and agreed in a plea bargain to give up his legislative seat and the chance to return to it next year.

The Longview Republican was being tried on a charge he lied to a Travis County grand jury last summer when he denied staging his own shooting.

The misdemeanor charge Martin pleaded guilty to in the agreement involved another statement Martin made to the grand jury — that he "did not cause his sister-in-law, Diane Martin, to rent a car on or about the 29th day of July, 1981."

Investigators said the car was used in the shooting incident.

Martin told investigators he thought a religious cult had ambushed him with a shotgun outside the trailer he lived in while in Austin. Later, Martin's cousin, Charles Goff, said he shot Martin as part of a publicity stunt.

Near tears, the 30-year-old freshman legislator told County Court-at-Law Judge Jon Wissler, "I'm guilty, your honor," then said he was not coerced into signing the agreement.

Martin, his wife Debbie and mother, Eunice Martin, hurriedly left the courthouse without making any comment after Martin paid the $2,000 fine.

It was the maximum fine possible in the case, but Martin could also have been sentenced to up to one year in jail. Aggravated perjury is a third-degree felony with a possible penalty of up to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

"My feeling was that, in view of the situation in Fredericksburg, that we were facing a potential 10-year sentence," Maloney told reporters after the brief hearing.

Travis County District Attorney Ronald Earle said prosecutors agreed to the lesser charge because "it accomplished the result we thought was important. He stands convicted as a liar and he has resigned as a public servant."

Maloney, who called his client "one confused young man," said Martin "has never admitted staging his own shooting," and now believes Goff, either acting alone or with someone else, shot him.

But Maloney said he thinks Martin did "firmly believe" he was the target of a satanic cult called "Guardian Angels of the Underworld" when he offered that explanation to investigators.

Martin led about the rental car because it was used for a purpose that "would have been embarrassing to him," not because it was used in the shooting, said Maloney.

Earle said Martin tendered his resignation in a letter to Gov. Bill Clements and advised Republican party officials that he would not be a candidate in the May 1 primary. However, party officials said it was too late for him to officially withdraw and his name would remain on the ballot.

Firemen Investigate Car, Garage Fire

Hereford firemen are still investigating the cause of a fire which destroyed a car and garage on South Main Thursday night. Firemen believe the blaze started from an electrical short under the dash of the small car.

The crew was called out at 9:27 p.m.

The garage was not attached to living quarters and belonged to Arthur Gonzales.

Police have received a report of about $1,200 in photographic equipment stolen from either a local motel or a work site out of town. The owner of the equipment reported the theft around 10 p.m. Thursday.

A resident in the 100 block of Avenue H told police that someone entered his house through a window and took about $200 worth of records and tapes.

Police issued three citations Thursday.

up from the 0.7 percent increase of February.

All the increases are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

For the first three months of the year, inflation rose a small 1 percent, the lowest quarterly gain since 1965, today's report said.

For Social Security recipients, checks will rise 7.4 percent, or $27, in July — unless Congress carries through with a proposed delay, or scrapping, of the annual cost-of-living adjustment as a way to trim the federal deficit.

The average 65-year-old retiree now gets $379 a month from Social Security.

The cost-of-living increase is derived from the change in the CPI from the first three months of the preceding year to the first three months of the current year.

Last year's 11.2 percent increase meant an extra $37 in the average retired worker's monthly check.

The monthly CPI last fell in August 1965, when it tumbled a seasonally adjusted 0.1 percent, according to Labor Department data. Not since November 1953 have consumer prices taken such a sharp tumble. In that month, the index was off 0.4 percent.

Inflation rose a seasonally adjusted 0.2 percent in January and 0.3 percent in February.

For all of 1981, the index rose 8.9 percent, under the 12.4 percent of the previous year and the smallest increase in four years.

Economists, already lowering their inflation projections for 1982, are now predicting consumer prices will rise in the range of 4 percent to 7 percent.

without worrying about what's going on or worrying about what's going to be going on," he said. "Like in the early spring when fishing is real good. I can't just take off now and go, but when I retire I can."

"I don't think that I have done anything that anyone couldn't do or have done in the past," Duval modestly notes.

Maybe, maybe not. "I did have one guy call me and thank me for what I did for him in elementary school," he recalled. "He told me I set him on the right track."

Price changes in the Producer Price Index often point to what will happen to retail prices. The CPI, however, checks for a broader range of costs, including those for housing and medical care.

In all the unadjusted Consumer Price Index stood at 283.1 in March, meaning that goods costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $28.10 last month.

CBS Refuses Air Time For White House Rebuttal

WASHINGTON (AP) — CBS News is refusing to give the Reagan administration 30 minutes of air time to rebut a TV program that White House officials say hit "below the belt" in attempting to illustrate the effects of President Reagan's budget policies on three families.

"We did not believe that it was journalistically appropriate or necessary to include an administration spokesman in 'People Like Us,'" Van Gordon Sauter, president of CBS News, said in a telegram late Thursday to David R. Gergen, Reagan's assistant for communications.

Reagan was described as feeling that CBS did not portray fairly his administration's work in the one-hour show Wednesday night. But the president did not display any anger about the program when he discussed it with aides Thursday morning, said White House sources, who asked to remain anonymous.

The "People Like Us" program, narrated by Bill Moyers, depicted the straits of three families whose incomes hover around the poverty line. It blamed their predicaments on federal policies and said the families "have slipped through the safety net and are falling away."

Moyers concluded that "the president and Congress have chosen not to offend the rich, the powerful and the organized."

"It is easier to take on the weak," he said.

Gergen described the program as "a moving, emotional, powerful production" but said it "was below the belt." He showed reporters two telegrams he had sent to CBS asking to present the administration's point of view and for time to respond.

"We don't question the right of any news organization to present shows which go into such questions," Gergen said. But he complained that "no one in government was approached" to present the administration's view.

Health Company Considers Appeal

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — The nation's largest supplier of health care products says it is deciding whether to appeal a federal judge's ruling that it illegally conspired to monopolize the health care products business.

U.S. District Judge Douglas W. Hillman ruled Thursday in a case filed by four smaller competitors that a contract American Hospital Supply Corp. signed with Voluntary Hospitals of America was anticompetitive and said the antitrust decision might lead to lower hospital costs.

In awarding $430,638 in damages to the competitors of American Hospital, Hillman said the contract was an attempt to monopolize or restrain trade in medical and surgical supplies in Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana.

The ruling "is being studied to see if an appeal is desirable," American said in a statement released from its Evanston, Ill., headquarters.

"We would respectfully disagree with Judge Hillman," said W. Donald McSweeney, a Chicago lawyer who argued on behalf of American Hospital. "We are disappointed with this finding."

American Hospital Supply sells 145,000 products ranging from syringes to surgical greens to 7,000 hospitals nationwide and also does business in Europe and the Far East. It had 1981 earnings of $245 million on sales of $2.9 billion, company spokeswoman Nancy Hobor said.

"If the opinion sends a message to the hospitals that they have an obligation to be highly competitive in buying their supplies... it may well be that (it) will have some general impact in reducing hospital costs," Hillman said in an interview.

Capturing Honors

Students Return From Contest

The Vocational Office Careers Clubs of Texas (V.O.C.C.T.), Chapter No. 100, Hereford High School, has returned from the state finals competition. The event was held at the Hilton Inn in Austin. There were 229 schools participating.

The opening and closing ceremony team captured the second place honor. The team was comprised of Andres Ontiveros, president; Diana Rincon, vice-president; Brenda Valdez, secretary; Anna Gonzales, treasurer; David Morrison, reporter; Albert Gonzales, sergeant-at-arms; Ruth Alonzo, parliamentarian; and Ernest Reyes, advisor.

Winning fifth place in the Order of business team competition was an honor for David Morrison, acting president; Brenda Valdez, secretary; and club members Andres Ontiveros, Derran Geins, Diana Rincon, and Anna Gonzales.

Derran Geins was the chapter's candidate for the office of state sergeant-at-arms and was elected runner-up. Gloria Zuniga and Joe Ramirez represented the club as voting delegates in amending the club constitution and by-laws.

The club is the youth leadership phase of the Office Duplication Practices Class. The main purpose of this organization is to provide opportunities for students to develop leadership abilities and citizenship.

It gives members a chance to take part in educational, community, school, social, recreational, and vocational activities. It also helps them become productive citizens by teaching them proper attitudes and help in building their character.

While in Austin, the group toured the state's capitol as well as the governor's mansion. An exceptional highlight of the trip was the visitation to Senator Bill Sarpalius' office. The students were impressed with the reception and special attention given them by the Senator's staff.

Ann Landers

Go Ahead And Lock The Door

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Does a wife have the right to lock her husband out of the bedroom if he is drunk and obnoxious?

I am already a member of Al-Anon, so don't point me in that direction. I should tell you in all fairness, Al-Anon saved my life and prevented me from killing him.

My husband drinks every night, but he gets rip-roaring drunk once or twice a week. He rarely misses a day's work, makes a good salary and has never been physically abusive.

I have told him repeatedly that when he gets drunk his language is terrible, he smells awful and passes out on the bed in any direction. He is a heavy man and it is impossible for me to move him, so I end up sleeping on the lumpy couch.

I always know he will be coming home ged when he doesn't show up for dinner. About 11 p.m. I hear him fumbling at the front door, trying to get his key in the lock.

The last few weeks I have locked the bedroom door, which has made him very angry. He claims a wife owes it to her husband to keep the bedroom door open at all times. Please don't misunderstand, Ann. This has nothing to do with sex. When he is drunk, he can't do a darned thing. What is your opinion?—Need My Rest in Gary, Inc.

DEAR REST: When a husband becomes obnoxious, smells terrible and uses offensive language, a wife has every right to distance herself from him—whether he is drunk or sober. In your case you lock the bedroom door. I see no reason for you to spend a sleepless night on a lumpy couch whenever he decides to tie one on. More power to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wonder how many of your readers wonder what happened to some of the people whose letters have appeared in your column. I, for one, am consumed with curiosity about the man who wanted to be buried (after his death, of course) sitting up, behind the wheel of his beloved Packard.

Please, Ann, fill me in on this. It's been years since I read that letter and I've been wondering about it ever since. Can you give me an update?—An Elephant In Petaluma

DEAR PET: Elephant, indeed! That letter appeared at least 15 years ago and I remember it well. Only it wasn't a Packard. It was a 1939 Dodge.

The man wrote to ask if it was legal, and I told him it depends on the charter of the cemetery. I advised that he enlist the help of a funeral director to find a cemetery that would permit such a burial because he would probably need to buy two lots.

I don't know if the man is still living. I suspect he is, because if he had been buried in his 1939 Dodge it surely would have made the papers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing in reference to the woman in Virginia who was concerned about her adult sister's TV habits.

I believe her problem could be similar to mine. She might not be "zombieized," as you put it. Perhaps she needs noise to rescue her from the deadly silence.

I am also divorced and about the same age as the sister. When the children are with their father, or at school, the loneliness is unbearable. I keep the TV on all the time, even though I seldom watch it. Hearing human sounds makes me feel less alone. I am--Also By Myself In Wisconsin

DEAR ALSO: Your point is well taken. I'll bet millions of readers combat loneliness by turning on the TV or the radio for the same reason. Thanks for catching the ball when I dropped it.

Study Club Welcomes Guest Speaker Recently

Margaret Ann Durham presented an interesting program to members of Lone Star Study Club recently when the group met in the home of Ruby Stevenson. Zoe Williams and Opal Bookout served as co-hostesses.

The speaker's program entitled "A Woman's Missionary Family" concerned her own family's life while serving as the first missionaries of the Methodist Church in Mexico in the 1890's.

She continued by saying while serving in Mexico City a revolutionary war broke out. Many people were killed on the street where her family lived.

The American families were ordered to leave. The mother managed to get herself and the children out and come back to the states on a freighter.

Mrs. Durham said her father stayed behind to finish his work of establishing a school which stands today and bears his name. He gave his life to his work and died there. His wife worked to support the family and put her five daughters through college.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Stevenson, club president, gave a memorial tribute for Nellie Blue and Ethel Newsom, recently deceased members.

Plans were also discussed for the next meeting which will include a luncheon at the Hereford Country Club at 11:45 a.m. May 11.

Those present were Evadna Cox, Bertha Dettmann, Jessie Mae Dodson, Mildred Elliott, Wilma Goettsch, Hilda Haven, Sue Henslee, Ursalee Jacobson, Lucile Naylor, Faye Williams and Ruth Womble.

Dance Set

The Panhandle Association of Oddfellows and Rebekahs will be hosted Friday through Sunday by Hereford I.O.O.F. Lodge No. 476 and Rebekah Lodge No. 228. The group will meet at the I.O.O.F. Temple located at 205 E. Sixth St.

A banquet and dance will be held Friday evening to start the festivities. It will be open to the public. Tickets are $4 for the banquet and dance, or $1.50 for just the dance.

Mayor Bartlett Dowell has signed a proclamation declaring Sunday to be Odd-fellow and Rebekah Day in Hereford.

In 1793, the French Revolutionary government adopted a 12-month calendar of 30 days in September of each common year and a sixth extra day every fourth year.

Decorating Club Meets

Members of Sugar Works Cake Decorating Club met recently at the Legion Hall with Deborah Goldsmith opening the meeting with a poem entitled "Prayers Can't Be Answered Unless They Are Prayed."

Ms. Goldsmith also presided over the business session in which members discussed having their meetings, at night. The next meeting was scheduled at 7 p.m. May 13.

Members made miniature baskets out of royal icing. They included Paula Gamez, Carol Odum and Clara Trowbridge.

Refreshments were furnished by Ms. Goldsmith and Ms. Trowbridge.

Nuns Are The Heavies On Broadway

NEW YORK (AP) — It's getting to be a habit, the way nuns are treated on Broadway.

Suddenly with the new crop of playwrights, the sisterhood provides the villains of the piece: neurotic, nasty folk who would stop at nothing — no, not even infanticide — to project pretensions of piety.

In case you haven't visited the cloisters off Shubert Alley lately, this is what the women in the white wimples are up to:

Sister "Agnes of God" — who mysteriously became pregnant in her convent cell — is accused of killing the baby, throwing it out as it were with the holy water.

The nuns in "Catholic School Girls" are Marine drill instructors in drag who yank the urchins from their seats by the pigtails for suggesting that Jesus was a Jew.

Glib, narrow-minded "Sister Mary Ignatius," coming face to face with former students whose psyches she somehow scarred by overexposure to the Baltimore Catechism, gets ovations every night from that part of the audience which hasn't walked out in disgust or maybe loyalty to the memory of a favorite grammar school nun.

I attended parochial schools for 8 years under the tutelage of two different religious teaching orders and never encountered any of those Broadway nuns or any remotely like them. As an altar boy I served early Mass — very early — at a convent in our neighborhood for the Nursing Sisters of the Sick Poor. Their daily house calls in an era when homes were quarantined for scarlet fever, diphtheria and whooping cough — and when no convent had a car — would outstrip the weekly case load of an office full of social workers.

I don't think any of us were very lovable; coarse, ungrateful tenement louts growing up in a decaying industrial suburb across the East River from Manhattan at the height of the Great Depression. But somehow we were their whole life and they brought beauty into ours.

In the theater of my memory, there are lively plots and comic scenes adding up to the happiest of hit plays starring wonderfully warm characters like Sister Miriam Louise, Sister Edwina, Sister Thomas Gertrude, Sister Inez Marie and Sister Marie Joseph, the principal.

St. Patrick's was an eight grade school, meaning there were eight nuns besides the principal, each according to her talents doubling as athletic director, psychiatric social worker or truant officer.

A nun coached our stickball team and showed me how to pitch a "fluke," an arid spitball delivered with forked fingers. Another knelt demurely in the dirt to show us the way to victory over P.S. 4 in the marbles contest that was our only intramural sport.

Now sisters are the heavies on Broadway.

Plainsmen Track Favorite

The Monterey Plainsmen are the odds-on favorite to nab the team championship at the District 4-5A boys' track meet at Whiteface Field today, but the Herford Whitefaces have a couple of motivating factors behind them.

In addition to running before the home folks, the Herd thinclads will be performing in front of Herford's only All-America athlete as former HHS standout James Mays returns to town on a day proclaimed in his honor. Mays, a three-time All-America track performer for Texas Tech University, is being honored by his hometown today. He was the State Class 5A 800-Yard Run champion for Herford in 1977.

Fem Thinclads At Regional Meet

The Herford Whitefaces were expected to be a strong challenge to pre-meet favorite Amarillo High as the Region 1-5A Girls' Track Meet opened at the Texas Tech track today. The Herd had entrants in 11 of the 15 events at the meet, the same as the Sandies and El Paso Eastwood.

Other teams looked at to be in the thick of things included District 4-5A runner-up Plainview, Temple, and defending champ Tascosa. The Herd is looking to improve on an accumulation of 12 points in last year's meet with eight individuals competing today who were also at last year's version.

Caldwell Had Drop On Blue Jays

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Mike Caldwell had the drop on the Toronto Blue Jays.

"I tried mainly to keep the ball down and not throw too hard," said the Milwaukee Brewers' left-hander after feeding the Blue Jays a steady diet of sinker pitches Thursday night.

As a result, the Blue Jays continually beat the ball into the dirt and hit into 15 groundouts and Caldwell wound up with a four-hitter and a 7-0 victory.

"Sometimes a sinker-ball pitcher will overthrow," Caldwell explained. "The ball won't get to the plate any faster, but you don't get good movement. What it amounts to is the ball stays high and you make a bad pitch."

"I watch Tommy John of the (New York) Yankees whenever he pitches against us or he's on TV. We're both left-handed sinker-ball pitchers, and I study his mechanics and how he pitches to certain hitters. What I learn from watching Tommy is that I don't have to throw hard as long as I keep it low."

While Caldwell was keeping the ball down, Milwaukee teammates Ben Oglivie and Cecil Cooper were getting it up into the seats at Milwaukee's County Stadium. Oglivie belted a two-run homer and Cooper lined a bases-empty shot.

The complete game, incidentally, was Caldwell's first since last June 8 and his first shutout since Sept. 13, 1980.

"This was the Mike Caldwell we need," Milwaukee Manager Buck Rodgers said. "He pitched super. If our starting pitchers give us a chance to get a lead and put pressure on the opposition, we're in business."

In the other American League games, the Detroit Tigers beat the New York Yankees 3-1, the Cleveland Indians stopped the Texas Rangers 4-3 and the Seattle Mariners trimmed the Minnesota Twins 8-4.

Tigers 3, Yankees 1

Chet Lemon hit a two-run homer and Jack Morris scattered six hits to lead Detroit over New York. The triumph was the Tigers' sixth straight.

Lemon smashed his first homer of the season, off Tommy John, 0-3, after Lou Whitaker opened the third inning with a bunt which Yankee third baseman Graig Nettles bobbled for an error.

That erased New York's 1-0 lead on a run in the first inning when Dave Collins tripled and scored on a single by Jerry Mumphrey.

Morris, 3-1, walked only one and struck out four.

"He threw me the same pitch he struck me out on," said Lemon, who went down swinging in the first inning. "It was a fastball down and in. He surprised me the first time because he very seldom comes in on you. He got ahead of me 1-2 and I was

Braves Become Hunter At End Of Winning Streak

ATLANTA (AP) — It's a one-day jump from the hunted to the hunter for the Atlanta Braves now that their record-setting 13-game winning streak has ended.

"It's interesting that we have a chance to start being a spoiler now," Manager Joe Torre said Thursday night after the Cincinnati Reds handed the Braves their first setback of the 1982 season, 2-1 behind the strong 6-hit pitching of Bruce Berenyi, 3-1, and Tom Hume.

"We've got a team with eight straight victories coming in now," Torre said, alluding to the start of a 3-game series tonight with the red-hot San Diego Padres, 3½ games off Atlanta's pace in the National League West race.

The Reds-Braves clash was the only game in the NL Thursday night.

Atlanta had a number of chances to keep the streak alive against the struggling Reds, who snapped a 3-game losing string. The Braves stranded 10 base runners, including five in the final three innings.

Berenyi scattered five hits before leaving with one down and the bases loaded in the seventh, Hume, who claimed his third save, retired the first two batters he faced to quell that threat and also got out of a jam in the eighth when Bob Horner walked and reached second on a passed ball.

Berenyi, who also singled home the winning run in the fifth, said he was pleased to end Atlanta's streak, but Hume said the streak wasn't on his mind.

"My first thought was we won and we did need a big victory," Hume said. "I felt no different because it stopped a record. I just hope it gets us on a roll."

"Anybody in that situation wanted to be the one that ended it," said Berenyi, who called his game-winning single "pretty lucky."

The Reds got their first run off Bob Walk, 2-1, on consecutive singles by Larry Bittner, Paul Householder and Wayne Krenchicki and Berenyi came through with his hit to left field one out later.

Torre said the Braves were quiet when they first arrived in the dressing room.

"I told them I was proud of them," he said.

"We had plenty of opportunities to win," said first baseman Chris Chambliss. "There was no pressure at all. Everybody was relaxed."

"We told everybody what we were trying to do was win the pennant, not break any records. We didn't expect to go 162-0."

The Braves got their only run in the second without a hit. Dale Murphy and Chambliss each drew walks and advanced on a wild pitch, with Murphy finally scoring on Bruce Benedict's infield grounder.

Relief ace Gene Garber said he felt no relief that the streak had finally ended.

"It's never a relief to lose a game," he said. "I'm sorry to see it end. We fought right to the end. We didn't give up at all."

In the American League it was: Milwaukee 7, Toronto 0; Detroit 3, New York 1; Cleveland 4, Texas 3; Seattle 8, Minnesota 4.

Joe Charboneau and Rick Manning each drove in two runs to power Cleveland over Texas.

Len Barker, 2-1, held Texas hitless until a single by rookie Mike Richardt in the fifth. The Indians' starter left after giving up two walks and a single in the seventh, and Dan Spillner came on to record his first save of the season.

Charboneau's sacrifice fly in the first inning got Cleveland's first run home. Then in the third, Charboneau doubled home another run and Manning tripled in two.

Frank Tanana, 1-2, was the loser.

Pete Redfern, 1-2, was the loser.

"It would have been nice to have had a shutout or a no-hitter, but I'll take it," Moore said about his first big league win. "I've been struggling with my pitches. But I had a talk with Lach (Seattle Mariner Manager Rene Lachemann) and he said to go throw fastballs and not to worry about being too fine."

looking for a pitch away and he busted it in on me. The second time, I was just looking for the baseball."

Mariners 8, Twins 4
Jim Essian belted two hits and drove in two runs to highlight a seven-run third inning and Richie Zisk added a two-run double in the same frame as Seattle defeated Minnesota.

Mike Moore, 1-2, the nation's No. 1 selection in last June's amateur free-agent draft, registered his first major league victory as he pitched 52-3 innings and gave up three runs.

The Twins jumped ahead 2-0 in the third on RBI singles by Gary Ward and Kent Hrbek, but in the Mariner half of the inning, Seattle sent 12 men to the plate as it turned five hits and four walks into seven runs.

McEnroe, who advances to Saturday's semifinal against Eddie Dibbs, needed four hours and 40 minutes to beat the eighth-seeded Scanlon in the longest match in the 12 years of the WCT finals.

Rain Cancels Liberty Mutual Legends Tournament Thursday

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The weather law of averages finally caught up with the $450,000 Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf Tournament, but officials were hopeful they could squeeze in the first round today over water-logged Onion Creek Golf Club.

For the first time in the five-year history of the tournament, rain forced a Thursday cancellation of 18 holes.

"This has never happened to us before," said tournament chairman Bill Bass. "We'll just go to a 54-hole format. You can't expect these guys to play 36 holes in one day."

Golfing greats 50 years and over are eligible to play in the unique best-ball tournament with a first-place prize of $100,000.

Bob Rosburg, still nursing an abscessed tooth, and partner Gene Littler are defending champions. They won $35,000 each last year.

Twenty-four teams have been entered into this year's event which will be nationally televised by NBC Saturday and Sunday.

Some 19,000 fans jammed the course Wednesday to witness the pro-am.

"It was the biggest Wednesday sale we have ever had and we had a big advance," said Bass. "Hopefully this cancellation won't hurt us too bad. Saturday and Sunday are our big days — particularly Sunday."

Some of the players who were nursing slight aches and pains were glad for the delay.

Humphries' Unimpressed By Athens' Coach

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Referee Choice Humphries remembers Athens coach Bob Davis before the Rockwall game as being as cordial as any man he had ever met.

"Then we kicked off and I became the enemy," says Humphries.

Humphries told the University Interscholastic League that Davis and his players cursed game officials and accused them of cheating in Athens' 35-14 loss to Rockwall, and police failed to protect them after the game.

"People, I was scared," Humphries said Thursday.

The UIL state executive committee responded by placing Athens on one-year probation in football with the understanding that Athens would tighten security at football games.

Despite probation, Athens can play for district and state titles next year.

"We're just telling them they had better not do something of this nature again," said UIL executive director Bailey Marshall.

Humphries, a Tyler teacher, said Davis charged onto the field at halftime of the Sept. 21 Class 4A pre-district game, pointed a finger in his face and cursed him.

Davis admitted calling Humphries "gutless," but denied he cursed the officials.

After the game, Humphries said Davis "continued to make insulting remarks" and told him "to take the game ball home with me."

"I did, and I'm sorry for it," said Davis. "I told to keep it, I thought he had earned it.

Those were my exact remarks."

Davis said 292 yards in penalties were called in the Rockwall game, including 182 yards against Athens.

"We were at fault in the Rockwall game, and I take full blame," said Davis.

In a separate complaint, official Dan Carroll of Mesquite said after the Ennis-Athens junior varsity game, Davis threw the lock to the officials' dressing area across the room and said, "You're the sorriest excuse for men I've ever met."

Carroll said 75 fans waited outside, and the officials "had to take vulgar abuse" on the way to their cars. "I am not overstating the fact, the coach put each of us and our safety in jeopardy," Carroll said in a written statement.

"I was mad," Davis recalled, "and I said, 'I don't know how you men can go look at yourselves in the mirror after that call.'"

The call was an inadvertent official's whistle that Davis said erased a fourth-down Ennis loss with less than a minute to play and Athens leading 14-7. Ennis got the play over and threw a 50-yard touchdown to win 15-14 for the JV district title.

"I'm at a complete loss as to what we did at the Ennis junior varsity football game" to get a complaint, Davis said.

Sam Fowler, assistant superintendent at Athens, said the school would strengthen its security at football games. "We'll meet you at your car... you just let us know what you want us to do," he said.

"I appreciate that Mr. Fowler," said Humphries, "but you don't have to worry about me coming back to Athens."

The Tyler chapter of officials has said that "due to the attitude and demeanor of coach Davis," it will no longer provide officials for Athens football games.

Clark Doesn't Want To Risk Linkage At Derby

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Just a short drive from where Timely Writer, who had been favored to win the Kentucky Derby, underwent surgery for a stomach problem, Linkage won the Blue Grass Stakes, a major stepping stone to the May 1 Derby.

But Linkage might miss the Derby, too. A decision on whether to go to Louisville was to be made today.

Henry Clark, Linkage's 77-year-old trainer, had said before Thursday's Blue Grass that Linkage had to "run a big race and he'd have to come out of it really good."

Linkage, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, ran a real big race, easily handling eight other 3-year-olds as he ran the fastest Blue Grass since 1969 and won by 5 1/2 lengths over Gato Del Sol.

However, after the race, Clark said that even if Linkage showed that the race didn't adversely affect him in any manner, there still was only a 50-50 chance of his going to the Derby.

"He doesn't want to run (in the Derby) because of running three hard races in 17 days," said Mrs. Jane duPont Langer, owner of the colt, who races out of Christiana Stable.

Linkage won the seven-furlong Forerunner Purse at Keeneland April 15.

Clark, a Marylander, does want to start Linkage in the Preakness at Pimlico.

"I've always liked the Preakness because my grandfather won it once, and I've heard about it all my life...not that I wouldn't like to win the Derby," said Clark, whose grandfather, William Jennings, trained 1887 Preakness winner Dimboyne.

Clark's only Derby starter was Bullet Proof, who finished seventh in 1947. Christiana Stable's one Derby starter, Alexis, finished 10th in 1945.

Bill Shoemaker had Linkage third, close behind pace-setting Deep Freeze, then sent him to the lead with five-eighths of a mile left.

Wavering Monarch, winner of his only two previous starts, challenged on the turn, but Linkage turned back the bid and drew off in the stretch to win in 1:48, just a fifth of a second slower than Arts and Letters' winning time in 1969. The stakes and track record of 1:47.5 was set by Round Table in 1957.

"He ran well and won nicely," said Shoemaker, who first rode Linkage in the Forerunner. "He won with something left and was maybe loafing a bit at the end."

Linkage returned $3.80, $2.40 and $2.20 to his backers in a crowd of 20,266 and earned $127,773 from a purse of $186,525 for his sixth victory in eight starts this year — he finished second twice — and his eighth triumph in 10 career races.

Gato Del Sol, owned by Arthur B. Hancock III and Leone Peters, finished a length in front Wavering Monarch, owned by the Greathouse family. Fourth, another 7 1/2 lengths back was Bert Firestone's D'Accord.

Kingman 'Wants To Be Alone'

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

Dave Kingman likes to hit home runs, but he doesn't like to talk about them. In fact, he doesn't like to talk about anything much. Like Garbo, he wants to be alone.

The brooding giant of the New York Mets has reverted to one of his darkened moods. When that happens, batten down the hatches. Protect your flanks. He's not too pleasant to be around.

"There are times I don't mind talking," he said. "This is not one of them — my mind is on other things."

"I don't like what I read. I don't like people probing into my private life. That stuff turns me off. I don't need all the hassle of the press hanging over me before and after the games."

"All I want is to come to the ballpark, play the game, get dressed and get away. Why should I have to hang around and answer a lot of questions? The press has done nothing for me."

Prior to Wednesday night's game against his old teammates, the Chicago Cubs, the 6-foot-6, 210-pound slugger sat at a table in the Mets' locker room, poring over a stack of newspapers.

He was clean-shaven, long, sun-bleached hair hanging down to his shoulders. Stripped to the waist, he bared the muscular shoulders and powerful arms that have propelled 297 home runs in his 12 seasons-plus in the majors.

Five of those home runs have come in the early weeks of this season, helping drive in 15 runs for the New York's resurging National Leaguers and marking him as one of the season's hottest hitters.

When a guy gets this hot, the press wants to talk to him.

Fans want to read about him. And the ballclub spends thousands of dollars in public relations to make this possible.

"I am aware of that," Kingman said. "But they can get what they want by watching from the press box."

The towering Oregonian, a pitcher at the University of Southern California, is one of sports' complex personalities — occasionally amiably accommodating but more often introverted, suspicious and sullen.

He has an obvious hangup. He doesn't disguise the fact that he feels he has been treated unfairly by the press — not just once, but many times. This is his counter-punch.

Kingman's sour moods began in 1977 when he and Tom Seaver became involved in contract squabbles with the Mets which resulted in both being discarded to other clubs.

The Kong carried tender nerve ends to Chicago when traded to the Cubs. In 1980, at spring training in Mesa, Ariz., he threw a bucket of ice on a reporter and threatened to eject another bodily from the locker room.

Traded back to the Mets in February, 1981, he underwent a marked personality change. He shaved off a mustache and shaggy beard. He talked freely. He gave out silver writing pens — valued at $25 each — an act regarded as a peace offering.

Suddenly something turned him off again, but what? The Kong's not saying.

"Even normally, I don't like to give interviews," he insists. "I am a very private person. The girls I have dated complain because I don't talk."

Oilers Getting First Round Selection

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers, who have been virtual observers in recent National Football League drafts, join the fun again Tuesday when they will have a first round selection for the first time since 1978.

Not since former head coach Bum Phillips horse-traded Tampa Bay out of its first round selection and picked Earl Campbell have the Oilers had the luxury of picking from the cream of the college crop.

Oiler head coach Ed Biles, who had to drum his fingers on his desk until the third round last year, says he would snap up Texas' defensive tackle Kenneth Sims if given a choice, but since the Oilers likely won't get the chance, Biles probably will pick a quarterback or offensive lineman.

Biles could turn to quarterbacks Art Schlichter of Ohio State or Brigham Young's Jim McMahon as possibilities. If those two prospects are gone, Penn State offensive linemen Mike Munchak and Sean Farrell could be next.

"It's easy to surmise that there are a couple of outstanding quarterbacks in the draft," Biles said. "But it's too difficult to predict right now what's going to happen."

The Oilers will go to training camp with Gifford Nielsen as the starting quarterback with unpredictable Ken Stabler having to earn the job. Stabler was the starter after a brief retirement prior to the start of last season.

The Oilers will have openings on the offensive line. Biles has moved promising 1981 rookie Claude Matthews to defense and waived veteran center Carl Mauck.

The Oilers sent their 1979 first round pick to Kansas City in exchange for two second round selections. The 1980 pick went to New England as part of the Leon Gray trade and last year Oakland took the No. 1 pick in return for sending tight end Dave Casper to the Oiler.

Suns Embarrassed; Must Win Tonight

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

The Phoenix Suns were embarrassed and frustrated. They'll have to do something about that right away or they'll also be on vacation.

The Suns were blasted 129-113 by the Nuggets in Denver in the first game of their best-of-three National Basketball Association playoff mini-series. Phoenix must win at home tonight to force a third game Saturday night at Denver.

Phoenix was outscored by 19 points in the third period as the Nuggets, the NBA's highest scoring team, shot 73 percent from the field in those 12 minutes.

The New Jersey Nets, Houston Rockets and Atlanta Hawks also face playoff elimination tonight. New Jersey was routed 96-83 at home by Washington in Game 1 and must win on the Bullets' court to stay alive. The Rockets, NBA finalists last season, dropped a 102-87 decision to the Sonics in Seattle in the opener of their matchup, while the Hawks were belted 111-76 by the 76ers in Philadelphia.

If the first-game losers in those series manage victories tonight, they will force decisive third games on Sunday at the sites of the openers.

Washington bullied the Nets under the boards in the opener, something Nets Coach Larry Brown says must change.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Nature wants to keep cool

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have heard rumors regarding jockey-type shorts. It is said men who wear jockey-type shorts are less potent and their wives are less likely to become pregnant than wives of men who wear boxer shorts. Is this a fact or just another bit of sex folklore?

DEAR READER - Some physicians have reported that men who wore jockey-type underwear and switched to boxer-type underwear soon became fathers.

This certainly doesn't mean that all men who wear jockey-type underwear are infertile. Actually, most normal men produce so many more sperm cells than are necessary to induce pregnancy that the kind of underwear a man wears is not too important.

But it is true that body temperature affects a man's ability to produce healthy sperm cells. That is why the testicles are located outside the body. Even in many animals with the testicles held inside the body the testicles migrate to the outside for the breeding season.

The testicles are kept about three degrees cooler than the inside of the body if we don't interfere with nature. There are muscles along the cord to raise or lower them or cool them. When you wear any type of clothing, such as an athletic supporter, this cannot occur and the testicles tend to be kept warmer than they would be otherwise.

When a man has a low sperm count the difference could be important. In those cases switching to boxer shorts might make a difference.

The circulation to the testicles is designed to cool them. We know that men who have varicoceles (varicose veins of the testicles) and are infertile are often infertile because the varicocele interferes with the temperature control. In these men correcting the varicocele may restore fertility.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Two years ago I was admitted to the hospital and the doctor thought I had had a slight heart attack. Actually they found out I had pericarditis. They said my heart and lungs are OK. Nothing shows on tests now but I still have sharp pains that go from the side of my left breast and under it and into my back. I have been on several different kinds of medicine and have had cortisone shots but nothing has helped. What do you recommend?

DEAR READER - Pericarditis does cause pain that resembles a heart attack. More often the pain is associated with respiration because the pain is usually related to involvement of the adjacent pleura.

The residual sharp pains you have may not be from your heart at all. It is important to know if they are related to exertion or occur spontaneously. And it would be nice to see an electrocardiogram during such a pain. If there are no electrocardiographic changes during pain and you don't have it on exertion it is not likely to be related to your heart. In that case it may be muscular and some help from a specialist in physical medicine could be useful.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My mother is 84 years old and until this last year she has been independent and lived by herself. Then she fell and broke her hip. She had a pin put in and recovered remarkably well, but she seems to have had a major personality change. Of course she has not had a good memory for some time but now she is very demanding, unreasonable and irritable. Her demands on her family have reached the point that we all feel she must have hardening of the arteries to the brain. She is overly suspicious of everyone. And she forgets we have been to see her just the previous day.

I have heard a medicine or surgical procedure can help correct this artery condition. We desperately need to do something for her as she is in a retirement home and not getting along well there with the staff or anyone else for that matter. I'm afraid for her future unless her attitude can be improved and soon. Can you suggest something?

DEAR READER - Our lives have many chapters and unfortunately the last chapter is not always the best. Your story is one I hear constantly. The family often thinks the sudden change is because of something that happened in the hospital, if it occurred at that time, but the truth is that the time for the problem had arrived in most instances.
