"ALL-BRAN LIVES UP TO REPUTATION"

If you are troubled with common constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I used to feel poorly all the time—just down and out. After reading an advertisement about ALL-BRAN, I got a box. It has helped me ever since." Miss Mary Bundy, Bennettsville, S. C.

Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings "bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to tone up the intestinal tract.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water. This soft mass gently clears the intestines in a safe, natural way—without any of the weakening action of pills and drugs.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—with every meal in severe cases. Serve as a cereal with milk or fruits, or cook into recipes. Remember—ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. You buy it at the grocery store. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Reading AND Writing By John Selby

Perhaps you remember the glee with which this land accepted the pronouncement of some perhaps fictional zealot that "Jesus Christ was the first Rotarian." Well, listen to this from Sir James Jeans, quoted in connection with Eric Temple Bell's delightful "Men of Mathematics."

"The Great Architect of the Universe now begins to appear as a pure mathematician." And this from Plato: "God ever geometrizes."

I know perfectly well that there is a distinction between calling Jesus a Rotarian and the concepts of Sir James and the man he paraphrased, Plato. But there also is an analogy.

This is not a digression, but intended as an approach to Dr. Bell's "Men of Mathematics." For this very long but diverting book he has chosen specifically the men who have made modern mathematics, beginning with three men who had, as Dr. Bell says, "modern minds in ancient bodies": Zeno, Eudoxus and Archimedes. The differences between the first two of these ancient worthies have their parallels in surviving differences today.

Then Dr. Bell comes sweeping down the centuries, concentrating always on the men instead of their formulae. Quite obviously, it would require an entire library to treat scientifically the work as well as the personalities of the great mathematicians, and just as evidently, such a monumental work would have as little chance for popular sale as a fashion magazine in the Australian bush.

Of course he explains why the men were great, and it must be confessed that there are a few collections of mathematical potboilers scattered through the text.

But these are not compulsory. Dr. Bell advocates skipping them if they bother, although he declares that any victor over high school mathematics ought to be able to understand all he has written. Which puts it up to the reader.

Dr. Bell describes this science of celestial bookkeeping—most of us don't even know what it is. He makes its relation to life very clear, and he spreads through the mind of his readers, little by little, an understanding of its fascination.

Then he brings the lot of practitioners to life—crooked diplomats, drunken keen livers, men who worked themselves to death, humble men, snobs, even a few "originals."

"Men of Mathematics" is an experience, even for us ignorant ones.

CAMELLIAS RISE FROM POLITICS TO EASTER LINE

NEW YORK, Mar. 9 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt may not know it but she helped the pink camellia rise from politics to the Easter parade.

A florist who has seen 40 Easter parades said today the camellia, deep pink and durable, would be the favorite of many American women for Easter wear this year.

The nation's first lady, unconcerned about her influence on fashion, probably has forgotten the sheaf of pink camellias she wore with a wine colored gown to the Madison Square Garden rally just before the election last fall.

But it seems New York women saw her flowers, and didn't forget. Anywhere the pink camellia has had a big revival, Florist Ralph Armstrong said, after being eclipsed by the white gardenia for several years.

Margot Grahame agrees that Luckies are gentlest on the throat

"I've smoked Luckies for eight years—ever since I was introduced to them in London by an American motion picture producer. He put forward the very sensible argument that they are the gentlest cigarette in the world on the throat—and fine tobacco, too. Since then I have made many pictures, and I must say Luckies have always been considerate of my throat. In fact, my throat practically insists that I choose a light smoke—which is easy to understand in view of the voice strain picture-work entails."

Margot Grahame
BASED ON THE JULES VERNE STORY
"MICHAEL STROGOFF"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Grahame verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Revenue Problems Occupying Legislatures Of Many States

CHICAGO, Mar. 9 (AP)—The myriad problems of taxation, perennial bugaboo for lawmakers, occupied the attention of many state legislatures today.

Some states made efforts to scale down certain taxes but most were engaged in increasing tax rates or tapping new sources of revenue, a survey showed. Arkansas, Iowa and Georgia were among states which push bills for reduction of homestead and general property taxes.

Income taxes were the issue in Minnesota and North Dakota. The Minnesota house passed and sent to the senate a bill fixing higher tax schedules, particularly in the upper brackets. The North Dakota house was deadlocked on whether a new 3 to 7 1/2 per cent corporation income tax law should become effective July 1 or at once.

The Washington senate approved submission of a referendum on a proposal for a graduated income tax.

The Kansas senate, foreseeing $750,000 in increased annual revenue, voted to legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse racing. Arkansas legislators approved and sent to the governor's office a bill sanctioning pari-mutuel wagering on races at county fairs.

But in Texas, the senate prepared to vote on a bill outlawing betting after the spring races. A similar bill previously passed the house.

In Oklahoma, legislators struck their calendar a bill to like the gross production tax on oil—it biggest source of revenue.

Experts Breed Wheat That May Lick Winter

PIPING GROUND

Such weaknesses as toppling over in a wind are brought out in the experimental wheat field at Purdue university.

By PAUL D. S. SHOEMAKER (AP Farm Editor)
PURDUE, Ind., Mar. 9 (AP)—Seeking to develop an exceptionally hardy breed of soft winter wheat, agronomists at Purdue university believe that after "creating" 14,300 different strains their goal is "within grasp."

Dr. G. H. Cutler, assistant chief of agronomy, settled back in his office chair and described the painstaking efforts to breed a strain which will withstand the sudden winter temperature changes of Indiana and similar areas. The wheat is desired by millers specializing in pastry and cake flour.

Dr. Cutler withheld announcement of when seed of the new strain would be available for farm planting, but experiments, he said, have progressed to where success is assured.

Winter a Killer
Need for a soft winter wheat which would withstand winter weather became evident when a 15-year average indicated that one acre in every 11 planted was lost through winter killing. Often this represented the difference between profit and loss to the grower.

Cross breeding was started under the direction of Dr. Cutler in 1930. It was a laborious undertaking, involving not only careful culture, but an elaborate catalogue record of each strain, 10,000 of which already have been discarded.

Dr. Cutler realized he had a job before him. To wait for seasonal weather changes for the experiments after crossing would take too long. He had a university greenhouse at his disposal, where spring, summer and winter weather could be simulated. He needed to produce near-zero and sub-zero temperatures to which small wheat plants could be subjected.

Uses Refrigerator
For this purpose a "winter weather" refrigerator was constructed inside the greenhouse. With this he and Dr. W. W. Warzella were able to carry on their experiments irrespective of the weather outside.

Rows of young wheat plants in shallow wooden trays, each row a different strain, went into the "winter weather." Those able to withstand the "freeze" of perhaps three below zero for 24 hours won tags entitling them to grow to maturity and produce seed for possible future crossings. Less hardy plants went into the discard.

Field Tests
One strain might show exceptional resistance to cold but poor yield. Another might have a fine yield but a tendency to fall over in wind after heading. A cross of these two would be made and so on. Next came field tests under natural growing conditions.

The wheat plant is self-pollinating, and crossing of strains is a comparatively simple operation. A short time before the pistils are ready to shed pollen they are removed from the flowers on a plant to be crossed. The flowers then are covered with a small paper sack. When the pollen from the other side of the cross is ready, it is removed and placed in the flowers from which the pistils were taken.

Fort Worth's Show Ready

Annual Exposition Will Be Opened On Friday Evening

FORT WORTH, Mar. 8—Cowboys and cowgirls from many states are drifting into Fort Worth. There's about 500 head of rodeo livestock in the corral. The new $200,000 livestock building will be filled to the stall with purebreds in just a few days. The new Rainbeau Garden is all dressed up and is ready for the pretty floor show girls.

It's stock show time in Fort Worth. Stock show time means that Friday night at 7 o'clock the gates of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show will swing wide open for 10 nights and nine days of fun and pleasure.

Before the start it looks like several records may be broken by the approaching show. Livestock entries already have set new high figures in a dozen divisions.

Never before has there been such an array of livestock assembled for the world championship rodeo. More than 135 "outlaw" horses have been brought here by Verne Elliott of Georgetown, Colo., and Eddie McCarty of Chugwater, Wyo., for the saddle bronc and bareback bronc riding contests.

The horse string includes 65 critters that were found on ranches of Montana and Wyoming and have never been bucked in the south. Out from the rodeo chutes will come some of the most vicious Brahmas steers that have ever been taken to any rodeo. A scout visited many ranches before the right kind of animals were chosen.

From Mexico came the bulldogging steers. Eighty of them are ready for the rodeo "raslin'."

Probably the most spectacular downtown parade the exposition has ever held will be Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

All departments including the mammoth building with many new merchants and manufacturers exhibits, the enlarged midway with new fun rides and shows, the poultry, rabbit and pigeon exhibits, will be ready for the opening Friday night.

PREVENTION IS BETTER

Title of a recently published book, "It Can't Happen Here," has been used by paragraphs and wisecrackers until it is about worn threadbare. The book was a story of the things going on in Europe under dictators and despots, and was intended to show that the belief of the people of this nation that such things could not happen here was without support.

Apparently we take the same view concerning contagious diseases and automobile "accidents" and hydrophobia and other things that, when they do, happen, throw us into a fever of trying to cure instead of having instituted previously a sane and sensible program of prevention.

Physicians searched for years without success for means of curing yellow fever, and yet the solution was to prevent it by stopping the breeding of the mosquito that carried the disease. Smallpox was usually fatal and seldom cured but the remedy was found in vaccination, to prevent it. So one might go through a long list of troubles under which we staggered until prevention lessened their ravages and was found to be much less costly in money and lives than attempts to cure.

Most of us read of automobile deaths and go about our business with the belief that such a tragedy cannot happen to any of our family or friends—but it does.

We read of hydrophobia victims having to take the expensive and unpleasant serum, and sometimes of them dying, and yet we permit the streets to be roamed by worthless dogs, any one of which is a potential carrier of death, to perhaps one of our children.

These are but two of the sources of sorrow and irreparable loss with which we go along until prevention is not possible because the trouble has reached the stage where cure must be attempted. Let's give a little more attention to prevention.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Here is a story that illustrates the other side of that old axiom—viz: If you stand at 42nd Street and Broadway long enough, everybody you know will pass by. This story I know to be true, for I was there when it happened, and if you insist, I will even furnish the names. There's an artist in town who likes to plaster his studio with enlarged photographs. Not portraits of celebrities; they're informal snapshots of just anybody, of friends and of people he doesn't even know.

Not long ago a half-dozen people were lounging about the studio, talking of flora and fauna, when suddenly a girl who lived across the hall (she was one of the guests) gave a cry. She stepped close to an enlarged snapshot of two men walking down Fifth Avenue. For a moment it seemed as if she would faint—that's how excited she was.

"Who is this?" she cried. . . .
"Why," said the artist, "he's a friend of mine."
"Where is he?" . . . Do you know: I used to be engaged to him. I haven't seen him in five years, not since he left Sweetwater, Tenn., where we both lived. We used to live next door to each other."

"You did!" ejaculated her host. "Then you two ought to see each other. He lives upstairs, in the apartment over this one. He's lived here for years."

And that's what I mean. It is true that you can stand on Broadway and encounter almost anybody you've ever known. But it is equally true that, in New York, you can live in the same apartment building for years with people you have known all your life and never see them.

Epilog: They're married now. It took him just a couple of weeks to get back where he left off five years ago. This I also know to be true. I was best man.

History repeats itself, even on Broadway, where everything can and frequently does happen. . . . I mean, when Helen Hayes' little girl, whose name is Mary, appeared on the stage the other night it was the occasion of her seventh birthday. . . . Mary went on as a sentimental gesture, in the last act of "Victoria Regina," because her mother made her theatrical debut when she was seven years old.

But, the funniest thing about it was the almost immediate response of producers and actors everywhere. . . . From Hollywood came a telegram offering her the role of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." . . . And then there was Katharine Cornell's telegram to Miss Hayes. . . . "What," demanded Kit, "can we do to protect ourselves from this sort of competition?"

There have been 27 actresses named Jane in the English and American theater this season.

Wage increases passed on to consumer.

Price Worries

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9—Each man may not know his own weakness better than his enemies, but each politician does. He has to. It is therefore highly significant that the thinkers of the new order have agreed privately from the start that their real weakness is their inability to do anything for the consumer.

The walking bear apparent, Agriculture Secretary Wallace, virtually confessed it publicly in his New York speech, beating himself and his associate as being "producer-minded, not consumer-minded." What sent Wallace to the walling wall apparently was the swiftness with which steel passed along to consumers its hours and wages tribute to the workers and Lewis.

It is almost unanimously agreed on the inside here that automobiles must do the same thing, that other industries will have to follow and that the country is thus being pushed by current policies into a constant bumpy upward swing of the pendulum of prices. As the consumer was not represented in those conferences between steel's Taylor and labor's Lewis, and is not represented in Wallace's unofficial farm board, the man who pays will certainly have to be appeased in some way.

Whether anything more than breast-beating will be attempted in his behalf is not yet clear. The trouble is no one can think of anything practical to do, except to argue that both capital and labor are consumers, but this does not seem to have been a very effective argument with the white-collared middleclasses.

the possibility of the amendment being used by the federal government to control education of youth. Congress was thinking solely of children working in textile mills, chiefly in the south. Education then was a matter of local concern.

The extent to which purposes have changed since 1924, not only in Europe, but in this country, is attested by the fact that we now have a federal CCC, a federal youth administration financing poor students, proposing that the federal government allot $300,000,000 a year to the states for schools, just for roads.

HOLC Income Is Picking Up

Better Times Enabling Borrowers To Repay On Their Homes

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9 (AP)—The general upswing in business is making easier the job of Uncle Sam's giant mortgage collection agency—the Home Owners Loan Corporation, created during the depression to help finance 1,000,000 American homes.

The HOLC loaned slightly more than $3,000,000,000 at 6 per cent interest to about 1,000,000 persons.

Charles A. Jones, general manager, said today improved economic conditions made it appear a large percentage of those borrowers who at one time seemed hopelessly in arrears could be able to clear up their past-due obligations.

He announced these round figures: More than 452,000 are currently paying their bills and in good standing as to both principal and

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

Chapter 28
ROADSIDE STRATEGY
So far as they could tell, they had now lost the other car. Anne watched anxiously through the rear vision mirror, but could see no sign of it, until they were approaching the George Washington bridge when it suddenly reappeared once more on their trail. She cried out the news and Bigelow, with a muttered oath, swung around for the entrance of the bridge.

"This is off our road, you know," said Anne, as they crossed.

"I know, but we've got to lose this fellow somehow. His car is faster than it looks."

"But why cross the river?" asked Anne.

"So he won't be able to guess our destination."

On the other side of the bridge, Bigelow turned north along the Interstate Alpine parkway. He increased his speed until he was doing more than 70, but the other car top of the wall with only a drop of hung on.

"He must have a special engine in that thing," grunted Bigelow.

"Yes."

Bigelow gradually slowed down, one eye fixed on the side of the road and presently he stopped short before a small luncheon that looked fairly inviting.

"What now?" asked Anne.

"Coffee," said Bigelow. "I want to get our friend away from his car. He may not follow us in, of course, but I rather think he will. He will want to know if we meet anyone."

As they got out and entered the luncheon, they heard the other car stop with a great grinding of brakes.

Inside, they ordered coffee. When the waitress brought it, Bigelow settled, so that there need be no delay when they wanted to get off again. A moment or two later, in came the shadow. With a casual glance that never ratted directly on them, he satisfied himself that they were there and ordered coffee, too, throwing down the money for it at the same time. He was also preparing for a quick start.

Outwitting the Little Man
"Excuse me," said Bigelow to Anne, "back in a minute."

He went into the men's washroom which—he had noticed—had an entrance from outside as well as from the luncheon. The little man did not follow. He didn't want to give Bigelow any chance to pick a quarrel; it would have been too easy for Bigelow to put him out in a fight. Reassured by Anne's presence, he went on calmly drinking his coffee.

That was exactly how Bigelow imagined it would work out, and as soon as he was sure his movements were unobserved, he slipped out by the other door and with his pocket knife—which was a good-sized one with a strong, sharp blade—he made three-inch incisions in all of the tires on the other car, not forgetting the spare that was fastened on behind.

Then he re-entered the washroom and passed through to the luncheon again. He swallowed his coffee and smiled pleasantly at Anne. "Shall we go on?" he asked.

"Yes," breathed Anne. She knew he had been up to something but could not guess what.

They re-entered the car and started off blithely. The little man came out and got into his car, but he proceeded only a few yards before he realized something was wrong. He stopped and got out to examine his tires, and appraise the damage. He looked about wildly but there was no garage in sight. Bigelow had seen to that. He began to scratch his head and swear. They were too far off to hear him, of course, but they could tell by his attitude as they watched through the mirror. He had not thought of as way out of his difficulty as they passed out of sight. . . .

At Nyack, seeing no sign of their pursuer, they crossed the river on the ferry and landed at Tarrytown. Anne at half past 11 almost to the moment, they arrived before the iron gates of the Hewitt place. The gates, they found, were locked.

They got out of the car to reconnoiter. There was a bell set in one of the gate posts and Bigelow rang it. But it soon became evident that Topsy and Lorna were there, if they were not disposed to reveal their presence by responding to any such casual summons. Or else the bell had ceased to function, for they rang it three times without receiving any response.

It was a cold day, but the sun was shining and there was a hint of spring in the air. It was rather pleasant in the country. . . . No Sign of Habituation
"I'll have to scale the wall," Bigelow decided, with a far from ad-

In addition to demanding more pay, the strikers asked for recognition of the local machinist union. The strikers are members of local No. 12, International Association of Machinists. There are about 1,200 union machinists in Houston, local sources said.

Union demands were delivered to the company officials Feb. 27 along with an ultimatum that an answer be given in ten days. Failing to receive such an answer, the employees held an impromptu meeting and voted to strike.

CHATEAU MADE READY FOR WALLY'S PARTY

MONTS, France, Mar. 9 (AP)—A large house party in chateau toward Tonralne looked forward today to the arrival of Wally Warfield Simpson and her Riviera friends, Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers.

The Chateau de Candé, where American-born Mrs. Charles E. Bédoux will welcome her guests, was decorated with 10,000 francs ($400) worth of flowers in preparation for the expected visit of the bride-to-be of the Duke of Windsor.

Some members of the party hinted a "very distinguished person" may join the party. They declined to disclose this person's identity. Some mention was made that it might be "one of the duke's entourage."

Such a house party, at which the servants wear full livery, raised speculation as to whether the former British king might join the group later.

FARM GROUPS WILL MEET SATURDAY

Community committeemen of the east and west districts of Howard county will convene in an all-day session here Saturday beginning at 10 a. m., County Agent O. F. Griffin announced Tuesday.

The committeemen are to study work sheets, learn how to properly fill them out, and then arrange a plan for getting farmers to fill in the blanks.

Organization of a county committee will also be consummated. Executives of each zone and one of the zone vice-presidents will comprise the committee. In addition a county board will be organized to consist of the presidents and vice-presidents.

East zone community committeemen elected Saturday are Glenn Cantrell, Willis Winters and H. C. Stone; the west zone, L. H. Thomas, Wallace Bly and Arthur Stollings.

55 APPLICATIONS FOR CROP LOANS

Applications for emergency crop production loans passed the 55 mark here Tuesday, Mrs. Ruby Smith, secretary to the local committee, disclosed. In all last year there were only about 65 applications.

Slow rains falling last week were believed responsible for the flood of applications. Every farmer reporting Monday said he had enough moisture to plant early corn and feed, and most of them were planning to get into their ground at once to get seed in the ground.

Few, if any, are contemplating putting in cotton this early in the season.

MAN IS MISSING, FOUL PLAY FEARED

Kittrell, unmarried, was described as being 5 feet 10 inches tall, having black hair and dark eyes, and wearing a brown suit, brown kangaroo boots, brown hat and brown overcoat.

BELL COMPANY MAKES ENOUGH TO MEET ALL COMMON DIVIDENDS

ST. LOUIS, Mar. 9 (AP)—The Southwestern Bell Telephone company reported to its stockholders today that last year, for the first time since 1931, it had earned enough to cover common stock dividends paid, after meeting all expenses, interest and preferred stock dividends.

Gross operating revenues for 1936, the company said in its annual report, amounted to $80,224,973, while total operating expenses were $50,841,318. After making provision for $8,735,580 for taxes and taking into account miscellaneous items of income and expense, net earnings available for interest and dividends were $20,945,379.

Discussing business condition in the territory served by the company—Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and a small portion of Illinois adjacent to St. Louis—the report said: "Despite last summer's drought, the year 1936 was a favorable one. General business activity, beginning 1936 at the highest level in four years, continued the upward movement noticeable since early in 1933, and ended the year at a level comparable to that at the close of 1930."

MAN IS HELD AS A WITNESS IN DEATH OF UNION LEADER

HACKENSACK, N. J., Mar. 9 (AP)—A New York gun dealer, identified by Prosecutor John J. Breslin, Jr., as Mike Saraga, was held today as a material witness in the killing of R. Norman Redwood, New York "sandhog" union leader.

He was first committed to jail without bail but later Breslin, saying he had been "very helpful," fixed bail at $1,000.

Breslin said Saraga was the last known possessor of one of the pistols used to kill Redwood in the front of his Teaneck home Feb. 19. He was taken off the queen Mary when it docked in New York early today, Breslin said, and rushed to the Wadsworth avenue police station—New York headquarters of the special police bureau set up to fight the Redwood killing—and then brought to Hackensack.

Saraga, Breslin said, was known as "Luiger Mike." The prosecutor quoted him as saying the gun was part of a shipment sent to the Cuban government in April, 1933, aboard a Ward liner, Breslin declared officials of the steamship line, the customs service and Cuban government had been questioned and that all said no such shipment was made.

The witness, Breslin said, was also a buyer for a New York meat company and had been abroad to buy him in Roumania. The gun was traced to him, the prosecutor stated, through records of the manufacturer.

CRUDE PRODUCTION STILL ON INCREASE

TULSA, Okla., Mar. 9 (AP)—The production of crude petroleum established another new high for the week ending March 6, a total of 3,308,859 barrels daily, or 12,009 more barrels daily than the week before, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

While most of the major producing areas showed an increase in production Oklahoma declined 25,875 barrels daily to 578,125 barrels. East Texas increased 4,910 barrels to 460,898 daily and the total state of Texas was up 19,018 barrels to 1,529,785 barrels daily.

Louisiana increased 3,180 barrels daily to 248,285, California increased 1,280 barrels to 884,500 barrels daily and Kansas had an increase of 4,175 barrels daily to 187,800 barrels.

REPUBLICANS ARE TAKING DONATIONS

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9 (AP)—John Hamilton, republican chairman, said today the party received $278 in January and February. It's campaign deficit was $200,000.

Alf M. London, 1936 presidential nominee, sent a check for $1,000 as the first contribution this year.

Illness Fatal To Howard Co. Farmer

Illness resulted fatally Monday night for John Harrison Hopper, Howard county farmer. He succumbed at his home near the Fairview community, five miles south of Big Spring. A resident of that area since 1930 and a Texan for more than 35 years, Hopper was 49 years old last Friday.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday at the Eberly chapel, under direction of Rev. Dodd, Church of God minister, and burial will be made in New Mt. Olive cemetery. Named as pallbearers were Fred and J. E. Parker, Edgar Phillips and Messrs. Jackson, Gid, Brock and Marion. Hour of the funeral had not been set this afternoon.

Hopper was married in 1908 to state Sunday school department;

Explorer Is Safe After Being Lost Nearly A Month

GEORGETOWN, Brit. Guiana, Mar. 9 (AP)—Lost for nearly a month when his porters deserted him as an "evil spirit," J. G. Le Van, United States explorer and psychologist, returned today from a 3,000-mile trip through jungle and grassland.

His horse saved him. He had lost 30 pounds and was near exhaustion. In all, he was out of touch with modern civilization for eight months.

Le Van's porters fled from him in terror on the vast savanna, where he dug up the skeletons of warriors killed in a battle 300 years ago. The porters, he said, thought he was a "Kenama," or evil spirit.

His horse finally led him to a village.

Le Van said the most interesting discovery he had made was the lack of nervous or insanity among the interior Indians.

Earth Shocks In Midwest

Tremors Attributed To Disturbances In Glacial Formations

Chicago, Mar. 9 (AP)—Seismologists concurred today in ascribing earth shocks felt in seven midwest states and Canada shortly before midnight to disturbance of glacial formations in northwest Ohio.

Seismograph records in several cities affected by the tremors and at Harvard university disclosed the shocks occurred at 11:45 p. m. (CST) and continued with varying intensity for from two to 15 minutes.

The concensus was that the shocks bore close similarity to those experienced in the Midwest last week but were slightly greater in severity. Both disturbances were termed "microquakes" and traced to rock crust upheaval.

The latest series of tremors were distinctly felt but caused negligible damage in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, West Virginia, Michigan, Wisconsin and Ontario, Canada.

Chicago residents told of vibrator shocks.

P. R. St. Clair said, "the windows rattled; a big mirror moved unsteadily."

Dr. J. M. Nicholson—"It shook the house."

Jack Keith—"It's an earthquake. I'm from California and I know."

Buildings were shaken in Cleveland, Columbus and other Ohio cities. The rattling of windows and dishes startled persons in Detroit, Louisville and Indianapolis police stations were flooded with inquiries. The question in most instances was whether the disturbance was an explosion or an earthquake.

Attesting to the belief the epicenter was in the glacial region spanning northwest Ohio were observations at Anna, O., that chimneys toppled by the quake of last Tuesday and since repaired, were felled by the shocks last night.
