There has been much discussion and controversy over the jury verdict handed down for John Hinckley, the would-be assasin of the President.

We had the opportunity to discuss the case with District Judge Wesley Gulley the other day, and he says many reporters are in error in saying that Hinckley was found "innocent by reason of insanity."

The judge points out that the verdict was "not guilty by reason of insanity", and there is a difference. Everyone knows that Hickley shot the President and wounded three others. He is not innocent, but the system provides that he can be found "not guilty" under the law.

Judge Gulley believes the system could make some changes concerning insanity as a defense. He points out that the Federal definition of insanity differs from the definition in Texas courts.

In the federal court, the government had the burden to prove the defendant was sane at the time of the shooting. In Texas courts, such a defendant would have to prove

ERA Foe Tells Of 'Ugly' Tactics

WASHINGTON (AP) -Celebrating victory in blocking the Equal Rights Amendment, Phyllis Schlafly accused women's rights advocates of using ugly tactics and the press of taking sides. But President Reagan said some good may come from the whole ERA episode.

Mrs. Schlafly, the amendment's most prominent foe, was hailed as a constitutional heroine at a banquet Wednesday night at which generals, senators, clerics, commentators, legislators and lawyers saluted her 10-year fight to prevent ratification. Sen. Jesse Helms kissed her, Undersecretary of State James Buckley toasted her, publisher William Rusher proposed a Broadway tickertape parade for her and a former Nebraska state senator, Richard Proud, said he dreamed of her in the White House.

"I'm from Nebraska, and it's a place where men are men and women are glad of said Proud, to a roar from the crowd of 1,000 of Mrs. Schlafly's admirers.

In her remarks, Mrs. Schlafly, a lawyer, writer and conservative commentator, said her antagonists used brutal tactics - harassment threats, bribes, pickets, obscene phone calls and bags of manure sent in the mail.

White Wants Direction Before Interpretation

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) -Attorney General Mark White says he rants direction from the U.S. preme Court before he interprets a uling that could force some elected officials seeking higher office to give up their posts.

The high court last week upheld a requirement in the Texas Constitution that certain locally elected officials must resign if they run for another of-

White must determine which of-ficials officials are required to resign. We could have a decision hopefully by this week, but it may be early next week," White told the South Texas Judges and Commissioners Association on Wednesday.

'We're trying to get further direction from the court. They didn't give us any direction. Hopefully, we'd not be leaving these people in jeopardy," said White.

One official anxious for White to rule is Nueces County Sheriff Soloman Ortiz of Corpus Christi, who didn't get a paycheck this week. He's the Democratic candidate for the 27th Congressional District.

White said he had mixed feelings about his successful pursuit of the constitutional case and hopes the ruling doesn't force Ortiz to resign.

'You just hate to win a case and hurt friends," he said.

Nueces County Treasurer Dave Chappell Wednesday placed Ortiz' salary in escrow. County Auditor Thomas Murphy said he would appeal Chappell's action to the board of district judges only if the treasurer decided to release the check.

White, asked about Chappell's decision, said the treasurer "was just doing his job."

Ortiz said the lack of a paycheck would work a hardship on him.

"I have two children to support. I have a budget. But I'm going to abide by the law of the land," he said. "Once the attorney general's opinion comes down, it will resolve all this confusion."

The 1st Calvary UH-1 helicopter was carrying nine men when it crashed six miles from Lemons Fishing Camp on the Colorado River in San Saba County.

The cause of the helicopter accident, which occured during a routine training mission, is still under investigation, Geishauser said.

Warrant Officer John H. Butler, 35, of Fort Cobb, Okla., and Sgt. William R. Hogan, 25, of Antioch, Ill. also died after the crash.

Pfc. Joseph L. Gebhart, 21, of Anaheim, Calif., was listed in satisfactory condition Wednesday at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Geishauser said.

Capt. Russell Struble, 25, of Newtown, Pa., and Warrant Officer Michael A. Thomas, 23, of Paxton, Fla., were listed in good condition Wednesday at Darnall Army Community Hospital, as was a third soldier who asked that his name not be released.

The other two injured solidiers -1st Sgt. Leonard L. Valeen, 37, San Bernadino, Calif., and Maj. William R. Sinclair, 35, of Glendive, Mont. were released from Darnall on Friday, the spokesman said.

Challenger Makes First Journey Today Through Desert Towns

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) - The shiny new space shuttle Challenger makes its first journey today - a snail's-pace voyage along city streets and desert flatlands.

The second working shuttle was being towed 38 miles through the desert towns of Palmdale and Lancaster and on to Edwards Air Force Base. During the 12 hours it's on the road, Columbia will circle the Earth eight Once at Edwards, Challenger will become part of a multi-shuttle extravaganza on the Fourth of July, when President Reagan will watch Columbia land.

"This whole nation, and in fact the whole world...is going to see Columbia return from space and Challenger become airborne (atop a jumbo jetliner for a piggyback ride to its Florida launch site)," said Joe Engle, commander of the second shuttle mission last November.

"That's some kind of birthday present for America," he said Wednesday at Challenger's coming-out ceremonies in front of Rockwell International's assembly hangar near

The new shuttle was towed slowly around the corner of the giant hangar as some 1,200 workers and dignitaries applauded and craned their necks. Its nose appeared as as a Marine Corps band played the themes from "Star Trek," "Star Wars" and "Superman."

It was clearly a day for backslapping pride and patriotism. And several Rockwell officials used the occasion to make a strong pitch for a fifth shuttle, one more than currently funded. They hope Reagan may come out in favor of it in a speech Sunday.

Meanwhile, Paul J. Weitz, who will command Challenger on its maiden voyage early next year, accepted from Rockwell a "symbolic key" - a replica of the tool that opens the shuttle's hatch.

"I'd like to accept this key to the orbiter in trust for the American people and all us taxpayers who are footing the bill for this magnificent flying machine," he said.

Giant parts of a third shuttle, Discovery, are already being assembled inside the hangar with completion due in September 1983. The Atlantis is scheduled for delivery in December 1984.

that he was insane.

Judge Gulley says the test of insanity in Texas is defined in Penal Code Section 8.01: (a) It is an affirmative defense to prosecution that at the time of the conduct charged, the actor, as a result of mental disease or defect, either did not know that his conduct was wrong or was incapable of conforming his conduct to the requirements of the law he allegedly violated. (b) The term "mental disease or defect" does not include an abnormality manifested only by repeated criminal or otherwise antisocial conduct.

Lawyer talk is difficult for most of us to understand. Any person who gets mad and kills another person would seem "incapable of conforming his conduct" as prescribed by law. But the average person might reason that the defendant lost his temper and was not insane at the time.

We overheard a guy at the coffee shop who was strong on common sense: "I tell you one thing, Hinckley would have been insane not to plead insanity.

Bentsen's press secretary, Jack Devore, said the senator's letter came after a lack of responsiveness from USDA officials, combined with recent damage to West Texas crops.

"The senator's conclusion is that the USDA does not understand the gravity of the problem," Devore said. "We hope this is a way to make them sensitive."

Ford led a two-day tour to assess farm damage in the Lubbock and Amarillo areas. The damage stretched across two million acres, and Texas Ag Commissioner Reagan Brown estimated damage to cotton and wheat at $686 million statewide.

State Sen. Bill Sarpalius of Hereford agreed with Brown's assessment, and said the state egislature should take steps to ensure that future farm disasters would not have to be andled entirely in Washington.

"A lot of these farmers are losing their livelihood while everybody is talking and not doing anything," said Sarpalius.

They planned to subject Columbia's complex systems to more fine-tuning today, to help it be declared fit for commercial trips starting in November.

Time out for sightseeing aside, "the main activity today is to make sure the doors are healthy for entry," Mission Control radioed the astronauts after they wakened 186 miles high.

The president said the fight over ratification awakened America to legal bias against woman in laws and to that extent "I don't think that the effort was wasted."

But he said women liberationists could achieve what they want not by trying to restart the drive for the amendment - as they have vowed to do - but by searching the statutes for biased laws and eliminating them called for a cooling off period. he said in an interview.

The proposed amendment would have prohibited government discrimination against women by law or action. First suggested in 1923, it was sent to the states for ratification by Congress in 1972 but won approval in only 35 state legislature, three short of the 38 needed.

Mrs. Schlafly, a mother of six from Alton, Ill., has been more closely identified with the opposition to the ERA than anyone else. Her organization, Eagle Forum, sponsored the Shoreham allroom celebration dinner.

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker said efforts to revive the amendment now would be an idle gesture and A new amendment should be modified and take a new tack,

BY LINDA CAUDLE Family News Editor

A three and a half mile walk each day isn't a bad hobby, especially for this time of year.

That's what Lynn Andrews and her daughter, Natalie, 51/2, like to do, and Natalie has made it a point to pick up aluminum cans on many of their excursions so that she can earn some money to go to Wonderland Park.

Lynn and Natalie also enjoy roller skating, something that Natalie does very well, even though she hasn't been at it very long.

Lynn and her husband. Mark, who is a real estate broker with Property Enterprises, have lived in Hereford nine years. Both are natives of Canyon, where Mark attended West Texas State University and graduated with a degree in business management.

Lynn was a hairstylist for six years, after attending Amarillo College of Hairdressing. She then managed Blackburn's Wig Salon in Amarillo, driving from Hereford every day.

She owned a plaster shop, Crafts Original, here in Hereford for almost three years, "retiring" from the business in February. She sold finished gift items and carried a large stock of unfinished plaster and accessories.

"People could come down and paint at the shop, and I gave art classes there," says

"I took art in school," she adds, "and then got started doing ceramics when I worked in Amarillo. I walked in a craft shop one day and got interested; later I took ceramic classes.'

It was about this time that Lynn got interested in collecting lions. She has a variety of ceramic lions in all sizes, and pictures, paintings, and drawings on her walls.

"I made most of the ceramic lions," she comments, "and many of the others were given to me."

Like little "lions," a basketfull of brand new kittens arrived just in time for Mother's Day this year. Lynn and Natalie enjoy playing with the kittens and watching them grow.

Besides doing ceramics, Lynn enjoys crocheting and making latch hook rugs.

She has been selling Avon for the last three months. "It's fun," she says, "and I think I'll get more serious about it in the wintertime. Right now, with the warm weather, I enjoy doing too many other things.

Lynn is a member of the sunshine committee at the Church of the Nazarene, where the family attends. "We are notified of special needs," explains Lynn, "and do such things as visit people in the hospital, and take meals, flowers, and cards to the sick. It is a way of showing that someone is there and that we do care."

Natalie enjoys the Kingdom Kids, a children's choir at the church. She went to the Central Church of Christ Day School this past year and will start Kindergarten at St. Anthony's School in the fall. She started taking ballet lessons about three weeks

Lynn and her family enjoyed the three recipes that follow for a combination birthday and Father's Day dinner recently, as Lynn's birthday was the day after Father's Day.

For example, when jackets are more shaped and closer to the body, then the sure trouser legs also are narrow - to keep upped and lower portions of the body in balance.

When lapels are narrow, the best choice in ties and pant legs are narrow, too.

Moderate lapels look best with moderately wide pant legs and ties.

Another example of balance is that between the lapel gorge and jacket closure. Gorge is the line where collar and lapel meet. If the gorge is high on the jacket, the top button on the jacket usually will be high, too. This calls for short point on the shirt collar and a moderately narrow tie.

A jacket with a low gorge and low closure calls for a shirt with moderate collar points and a moderate-width

Also, pay attention to widths of waistbands, cuffs and belts. A wide waistband calls for a wide belt and wide cuffs, in any.

Shoes are important too. If pant legs are narrow and straight, shoes should have dress soles and few decorations.

Wider legs or cuffed pant legs can take heavier, decorated shoes, such as wing tips.

Similar proportions and balance are "right" for sporty clothing, too. However, the principles aren't applied as rigidly as for business and formal atire, the specialist

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 62-year-old male, 5 feet 11. Approximately three years ago during a medical checkup I was diagnosed as a diabetic. My doctor prescribed an oral medication daily. He took blood sugar tests six months apart. The first two were normal, the third was slightly high and the doctor increased medicine to two pills a day. The next blood test was normal. Recently I read a medical book that said persons who were diagnosed as diabetics at my age need only diet to control it. I stopped taking the pills (understand the can be dangerous) and I feel much better.

When I was first diagnosed as a diabetic my weight was 225 and since then I have maintained it at 200 pounds. In your opinion am I wrong in not taking the pills?

DEAR READER - In my opinion it is always wrong to stop taking the medicine your doctor has prescribed without consulting him first. In some cases stopping medicine on your own can be dangerous, even life threat-

I am not an enthusiast for pills to control blood sugar levels, and they have certainly received mixed reviews from specialists. It is usually true that if a person will follow a diet, adultonset diabetes can be controlled by diet alone. If it can't be, the patient usually requires insulin. You were wise to lose weight. Weight loss is often the most important part of a diabetic diet to control this form of diabetes. I would

WHY ARE WE reluctant to praise each other; to express favorable judgment of; to commend? In the lives of most people, there is something that merits praise. It may be in their work, in the way they groom themseles, in their talk, their generosity, their helpfulness, their thoughtfulness, in their unselfish service, their courtesy, on in something about them. There is so much about others and their activities that is worthy of our honest and sincere commendation.

POTENTIAL FOR GOOD in this area is incalculable, and this is one of the areas of human betterment in which all of us can function effectively. It is not difficult to speak words of praise, if we keep it simple, honest and straightforward.

IN THE FAMILY, most of the friction would disapper if criticism were replaced with praise. In fact, there is need for praise in business life, social life and in every other facet of human society.

THIS IS NOT a cure-all, but it will do much to improve all aspects of human relationships; and will go a long way toward making living a delightful experience.

WE HAVE a built-in need for the approval of others, but this is not all. We must re-

THE STORY IS TOLD of a man who committed suicide, and he left his employer this note: "I have worked for you thirty years, and in all that time, I cannot remember your saying a single nice thing about my work." This, obviously, is the extreme; however, living without "praise" from those with whom we work an dlive is not the best of living.

PRAISE has been called "a spiritual vitamin". We know that it is a fact that much of the discouragement and disinterest in individual lives is present because no one is thoughtful enough to give the justified "praise" as a proper expression of appreciation.

BENEFITS OF PRAISE are not all one way. When we honestly commend others, we help ourselves.

ABOARD THE ALASKAN STAR (AP) - Once a week a supply boat makes a 16-hour journey from this giant drilling platform in the Georges Bank to the mainland with a precious cargo of tin cans packed with mud and bits of 150-million-year-old rocks.

These rocks, sandstone and limestone, are the product of a year-long search for oil and gas below the valuable fishing grounds off the New England coast.

The nation's oil companies have already bet over $1 billion that the rocks will tell them where to look for the millions of barrels of oil and billions of cubic feet of natural gas geologists think lie beneath the waves.

But so far, analysis of ploratory wells — as deep as two miles into the ocean floor - have found no trace of gas or oil. Despite the lack of immediate success, the oil companies are preparing to spend millions more for offshore leases on 3.1 million acres scheduled for bid in August.

The sale is likely to face opposition from state officials and environmentalists worried about the impact of deepwater drilling on lobster beds and fish spawning grounds. But the oil companies say it is vital to the national interest to know what is out there, even if billions are spent without result.

'This country must define its hydrocarbon supply," says Charles Schneider, a spokesman for Tenneco, which runs the drilling aboard the Alaskan Star. "If there's nothing out here we should know that too."

Drilling in the Georges Bank, the nation's latest offshore drilling operation, began July 24, 1981, more than a year and a half after 63 tracts on the fringe of the fishing area were leased for $817 million. Since then Exxon, Shell and Mobil have spent $93 million to drill four dry holes.

Mobil, Shell, Tenneco and Conoco are now operating in an area about 160 miles southeast of Cape Cod. No one expects a sudden discovery. "In a frontier area you're looking for information." says Allen Stockman, a Tenneco geologist aboard the Alaskan Star. "They'll use all the information we get from this hole to determine where would be a better place to go to drill another hole.

The cost for that information is high. Joe Elkins, Tenneco's East Coast drilling superintendent, says rental on a "semi" - semisubmersible drilling rigs - runs from $80,000 to $100,000 a day. The costs of running the drilling operation and crew of 80 pushes the costs to over $160,000 a day.

Tenneco estimates it will cost $25 million to $30 million to drill the 21,000-foot well. The bill will be split among seven companies that have already paid $15.8 million to lease the nine-mile square a rig built by Mitsubishi Heavy Industries of Japan, the same firm that built the Alaskan Star, sank off the coast of Canada in a fierce storm Feb. 15, killing all 84 crewmen.

Costs may be a factor in the upcoming lease sale. Fortyeight bids offered last December on tracts in the Baltimore Canyon off New Jersey were rejected as too low by the Department of Interior.

Oil company executives say the government's expectations, based on optimistic geological estimates, were

There is also a current lull in oil exploration, due in part to high interest rates and the worldwide oversupply of oil. Elkins also says an increase in Norwegian and British taxes on North Sea operations has slowed drilling to the point that some rig owners are cutting charges by 15 percent to keep their equipment working. "A year ago, rigs were hard to come by," he says. "Now they're available."

The second Georges Bank lease sale is scheduled for Aug. 24 in New York.

Massachusetts officials, including Gov. Edward J. King and Attorney General Francis Bellotti have asked U.S. Interior Secretary James Watt to delay the sale four months and to delete 600,000 acres that include lobster beds and spawning grounds at the head of underwater ca-

Massachusetts congressmen have sent a similar letter to Watt, warning that the sale may be contested in court. Douglas Foy, executive director of the Conservation Law Foundation, said his group may also go to court to oppose the sale. The foundation, representing environmental and fishing groups, was involved in a long leul battle that delayed the first sale for more than three years.

Foy said his group wants a year's delay in the sale until more information is available on the effects of drilling muds on the sea life in Georges Bank.

"There's a good argument that you're not going to have a lot of information until you've gone through at least a set of seasons out there," he

The on-shore debate seems remote to those aboard the Alaskan Star, the largest of the drilling rigs on the Georges Bank. The rig covers 2.5 acres and can drill 30,000 feet, aided by three separate computer systems. It is built to take 115 mph winds and 100-foot seas; the Ocean Ranger sank in 80 mph winds and 50-foot seas.

The rig offers such amenities as movies beamed in by satellite, a fullyequipped gym and a closed circuit television system that offers a view of the ocean floor 307 feet below.

The Newspaper BIBLE

A VOICE SAID, "DON'T BE AFRAID!

One night the Lord spoke to Paul in a vision and told him, "Don't be afraid! Speak out! Don't quit! For I am with you and no one can harm you. Many people here in this city belong to me." So Paul stayed there the next year and a half, teaching the truths of God.

But when Gallio became governor of Achaia, the Jews rose in concerted action against Paul and brought him before the governor for judgment. They accused Paul of "persuading men to worship God in ways that are contrary to Roman law."

But just as Paul started to make his defense, Gallio turned to his accusers and said, "Listen, you Jews, if this were a case involving some crime, I would be obliged to listen to you, but since it is merely a bunch of questions of semantics and personalities and your silly Jewish laws, you take care of it. I'm not interested and I'm not touching it." And he drove them out of the courtroom.

Then the mob grabbed Sosthenes, the new leader of the synagogue, and beat him outside the courtroom! But Gallio couldn't have cared less.

Paul stayed in the city several days after that and then said good-bye to the Christians and sailed for the coast of Syria, taking Priscilla and Aquila with him. At Cenchreae, Paul had his head shaved according to Jewish custom, for he had taken a vow.

At Wits End BY ERMA BOMBECK

The American people do something better than anyone in the world. They love their country.

A walloping 80 percent admitted this in a recent Gallup poll. That's pretty amazing when you realize that patriotism is a lot like sex to people. It's too personal to talk about in public or to flaunt on a bumper sticker. Patriotism is also hard to diagnose. Most people don't realize they've got it.

Some people look at the Statue of Liberty and cannot speak. Others look at the flag on the side of the Space Shuttle and tears begin to well in their eyes. Occasionally, people will find themselves sitting a little taller when an athlete bends down to receive an Olympics medal and the massive United States flag unfurls behind him. Or the throat may hurt when a hostage from Iran puts his hand over his heart and salutes a flag he has not seen for 14 months.

These may seem like flu symptoms. It's patriotism. Sometimes you travel with patriotism and don't know it. Like the Russian who said to me, "I've never been to the United States. What are the borders like?"

I told her there were no border patrols or checkpoints or walls to go through between states. All 50 were open and free with only an amused California trooper who watches you eat three oranges and four bananas which you can't bring into California.

Or the Australian woman who cornered me on a book tour and said, "Tell me how far the American women are now in their struggle for liberation so that we will know where we'll be 25 years from now."

I thought the fluse was menopausal. It was patriotism. We take for granted that we elect peanut farmers to the presidency, have a Bill of Rights for children, give hurricanes human names, have a bell that is a symbol of freedom with a crack in it, are a nation of immigrants from every pocket of the world, and have more people watch "Dallas" on television than voted in the last elec-

You have to love a nation that celebrates its independence every July 4, not with a parade of guns, tanks and soldiers who file by the White House in a show of strength and muscle, but by family picnics where kids throw Frisbees, the potato salad gets iffy, and the flies die from happiness.

King Upsets Austin at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England AP) - Billie Jean King, the oldest Wimbledon semifinalist in 62 years, is an optimistic realist.

"It's very gratifying," the 38-year-old tennis player said Wednesday after upsetting third-seeded Tracy Austin 3-6, 6-4, 6-2 and moving into the semifinals. "Anything now is a bonus."

Even John McEnroe, at 23 the defending champion and seeded first in the men's singles at the All-England Tennis Club, was impressed. "I'd be far away from a tennis court if I were her age," he said. "But why shouldn't she still be playing if she's enjoying it so much."

If Billie Jean's victory was a surprise, McEnroe's fourthround win over fellow American Hank Pfister was expected.

After his most serious blowup so far in this year's Wimbledon championships, McEnroe faced his toughest challenge today in a quarterfinal match against fifthseeded Johan Kriek.

The confrontation was a replay of last year's quarter-final; won by McEnroe in straight sets en route to his singles crown. McEnroe has defeated the South African in seven of their nine meetings, but he warned: "Kriek is capable of playing some tough tennis."

Other quarterfinal matches today pitted second-seeded Jimmy Connors against No.6 Gene Mayer and third-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis against No.12 Mark Edmonson of Australia.

On the women's side, 13thseeded Anne Smith and 11thseeded Bettina Bunge disputed the last semifinal berth. The winner faced the tournament's top-seeded woman, Navratilova.

King will take on defending champion Chris Evert Lloyd in the other semifinal. Both semis will be played on Friday with the finals scheduled for Saturday.

Prior to the victory over Austin, King advanced by upsetting sixth-seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia and elimating Tanya Harford of South Africa and Claudia Pasquale of Switzerland:

"I felt I could play three more sets," King said after her match with Austin.

King, playing in her 103rd singles match at the fabled grass court championships, dropped the first set to the 19-year-old Austin, who had won their five previous meetings.

King won her first of a record 20 Wimbledon titles the women's doubles with Karen Hantze in 1961 - the year before Austin was born. Her first of six singles titles came when Austin was 4 years old.

Austin said King had been one of her childhood idols. She recalled that when King visited her tennis club, she wrote a composition about the experience.

"I was mad because I received only an A-minus," Austin said.

McEnroe, facing a grueling schedule of a singles and doubles matches through with Rod Frawley of Sunday's singles final due to last week's rainouts, was given two misconduct warnings Wednesday, his second and third of the tournament.

The first, which came during his victory over Pfister. earned him a penalty point for angrily slamming the ball across court after missing a volley.

The second came in a doubles match in which he and Peter Fleming narrowly defended their men's doubles title in a second-round bout

Australia and Chris Lewis of New Zealand.

In the third set, McEnroe first disputed an out call by a linesman. Later, he insisted one of Lewis' serves had clipped the net and began instructing the net judge how to hold his hand on the tape.

When McEnroe persisted, he was warned for "delay of the match." The Center Court crowd roared its approval.

In the next game, McEnroe served a double fault, and again the crowd cheered - considered unsportsmanlike when a player double-faults and McEnroe disgustedly joined in the clapping.

On a bright summer afternoon, only the second day of play during the tournament that has not been interrupted by rain, another young American was a surprise claimant of a fourth-round berth. Tim Mayotte, 21, of Springfield, Mass., who turned pro only last year, ousted fourth-seeded Sandy Mayer 3-6, 6-7, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

"It wouldn't surprise me to see somebody 14-15 under par if the fairways dry out. You can grow the rough as high as you want. The man who wins here is going to hit it in the fairways. The greens are in excellent shape," he said.

However, Fiori still carries enormous respect for these 7,097 yards that make up Butler National in suburban Chicago.

'It's one of the five most difficult courses we play every year," he said. He listed the others as Muirfield Village, Hilton Head Island, Riviera and Tournament Players Club.

Post Eyes Comeback In Canadian Golf Classic

TORONTO (AP) - You know it's not vintage Sandra Post simply by reading the list of leading money winners in women's pro golf.

Consistency had been her forte for 13 years on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour. She was one of the top-20 money winners from 1974 to 1981, reaching a peak in 1979 when she pocketed $178,750, second best on the tour. But the 34-year-old native of Oakville, Ontario, hasn't been making the shots this year. She has won just $10,764 in 14 starts.

Post has been hitting the ball well this week, however, in tuning up for the start today of the $200,000 Peter Jackson Classic, the lone Canadian stop on the LPGA tour. A field of 112 contests the 72-hole event at the par-72, 6,071-yard St. George's Golf and Country Club course.

time leading money winner with career earnings of more than $1.2 million and top performer this year with $162,588, was the pretournament favorite to cop the $30,000 winner's share.

JoAnne Carner, the all-

Her chief rivals could be long-ball hitting Pat Bradley, a three-time winner this year, and hot-shooting Jan Stephenson, who carded a 68 Wednesday in a pro-am event.

Post, who was rookie of the year in 1968 when she won the LPGA title, isn't expected to be a contending factor off her recent play.

But she is back and playing after missing four of the last six tournaments. She intends to play the next three weeks,

"I just needed some time off," she explained. "When you're not playing well, I suppose that's one way of trying to remedy the problem." Post is reluctant to talk about what's wrong with her game, but she admits she'll continue playing regularly until she gets control of it.

Carner, with 34 tour victories, is just one shy of becoming an automatic inductee into the LPGA Hall of Fame. She's won the Classic two of the previous three times it's been played at St. George's (1975 and 1978) and finished second by a stroke to

Bradley in 1980. While the long, lush fairways aren't suited to her finesse game, Stepnenson carries the hottest hand into the test of St. George's. She won successive tournaments - the LPGA championship and the Lady Keystone - in June and finished fifth last week at Rochester.

Booming Braves' Bats Overcome Astros, Again

Sports Writer

Atlanta's booming bats have the Braves clicking again.

The past two games, they've found that special something that invariably turns defeat into victory.

ent

On Tuesday night, they rallied from a 5-0 deficit in the sixth inning to beat Houston 6-5 in 11 innings. On Wednesday night, things got a bit more improbable.

Down 4-1 going into the bot-

By BRUCE LOWITT AP tom of the ninth, the Braves got consecutive-pitch homers from Dale Murphy (his 22nd, tops in the majors) and Bob Horner (his second of the game and 13th of the season). And down in the bullpen, Biff Pocoroba began stirring.

> "Once Murphy and Horner homered and Rufino Linares singled, I kind of saw the situation developing," he said. "So I started getting loose."

> Chris Chambliss also singled, chasing loser Bob Knep per. In came Randy Moffitt, who got Bruce Benedict to bunt into a forceout at third. But he walked Larry Whisenton to load the bases, bringing up Pocoroba, who batted for Carios Diaz, a reliever making his major league debut. His single to right gave the Braves a 5-4 victory and made reliever Carlos Diaz a winner in his major league

It also widened the Braves' National League West lead to three games over San Diego.

In the rest of the NL it was Pittsburgh 7, Chicago 3; Philadelphia 6, St. Louis 3; San Francisco 7, Cincinnati 6 in 12 innings; Montreal 4, New York 1, and, in a twinight doubleheader, Los Angeles 5, San Diego 1 in the first game and San Diego 6, Los Angeles 4 in the nightcap. Pirates 7, Cubs 3

It had been a while between home runs for Willie Stargell - almost two full seasons, to be exact. And in this, perhaps his final season, he spent enough time on the bench to warrant a few friendly pokes from Pittsburgh's pitchers.

"They had said, 'Why don't you put on a toe plate and get in the rotation. You might get to hit more," he recalled.

But in his 33rd at-bat this year - his 32nd game of the year - Pops silenced those kidders, plus a lot of Cubs fans, too, with a three-run pinch-hit home run in the seventh inning to help pull the fourth-place Pirates to within one game of .500 and within five games of first place in the NL East.

Phillies 6, Cardinals 3 Philadelphia, which sampled first place in the NL Cast a couple of nights ago, got another taste of it, regaining the lead by two percentage points over St. Louis after Larry Christenson pitched and batted the Phillies past the Cardinals.

Christenson gave up 13 hits before giving way to Tug McGraw in the ninth inning but he had one big hit, a tworun double in the Phils' threerun second inning.

Bob Dernier, who had four hits, scored two runs, drove in one and stole his 32nd base, got the single in the second inning that drove in the decisive run. Giants 7, Reds 6

Charlie Leibrandt's wild pitch, the fifth wild pitch of the game, allowed Johnnie LeMaster to dash home with with two outs in the bottom of the 12th inning, giving the Giants their victory in four hours, nine minutes.

Tom O'Malley led off with a single but was was thrown at third on LeMaster's single. LeMaster took second on the throw, later swiped third on the front end of a double steal and came home when ed 25 feet behind the plate. Each team scored three runs in the eighth and one in the Dusty Baker's grand-slam, a fifth-inning homer which just managed to make it over the railing down the left field line, gave Bob Welch and the Dodgers a victory in the opener, then Terry Kennedy's three-run pinchhomer and Broderick Perkins' solo shot enabled the Padres to come away with a split. Rick Monday of the Dodgers hit homers in his first two at-bats against winner Eric Show before San Diego began its comeback.

Brewers Rally by Yanks in 12; Texas Wins on Sample's Homer

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

From the time the pitch left Shane Rawley's hand until the ball reached the plate, Gorman Thomas had a radical change of mind.

With the score tied 7-7 and Cecil Cooper on first base in the 12th inning, the powerhitting Thomas intended to lay down a bunt to get the winning run to second base.

In the fraction of a second it took the ball to reach him, however, the Milwaukee center fielder decided to swing away, and the result was a two-run homer that gave the Brewers a 9-7 victory over the New York Yankees Wednesday night.

bunt," said Thomas, who now the bottom of the ninth, got had 19 homers this season. "I thought I might lay down a 10 decisions. Jamie Easterly drag bunt with the situation the way it was."

Thomas said that when he saw Rawley's mediocre fastball, "I was surprised. I was looking for a breaking ball. When I saw the fastball, I-just had to swing away."

In other AL games, Seattle bombed Toronto 10-4, Cleveland blanked Baltimore 9-0, Detroit blasted Boston 12-3, Texas outlasted California 5-3, Oakland shut out Kansas City 4-0 and Minnesota edged Chicago 4-3.

Rollie Fingers, who had given up a walk, two hits and sacrifice flies by Willie Rancredit for his fifth victory in got a save, holding the Yankees scoreless in the 12th after they loaded the bases with one out.

Tigers 12, Red Sox 3 Detroit, which had won only one of its previous 15 games, blasted first-place Boston for 17 hits, including a three-run homer and a runscoring single by Mike Ivie.

Lance Parrish added three RBI with a double and a single for the Tigers, while Jim Rice and Reid Nichols accounted for the Red Sox runs with homers.

Rangers 5, Angels 3 Texas defeated California, Bill Sample's two-out, threerun homer in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Don Aase, 3-3, was only one out away from his fourth save when the Rangers started their winning rally. Mike Richardt hit an infield single and Bill Stein walked before Sample's game-winning blow

Mariners 10, Blue Jays 4

Al Cowens went 4-for-5 for the Mariners and Jim Beattie went the distance, allowing nine hits.

Matt Keough blanked Kansas City on seven hits and Joe Rudi twice knocked in the speedy Rickey Henderson for

Henderson singled in the first, stole his 73rd base in 78 games, advanced to third on a groundout and scored on Rudi's single. Henderson scored again in the third on Rudi's short fly that Royals second baseman Onix Concepcion caught with his back

Von Haves drove in three ching to lead Cleveland over Sutcliffe gave hits in the fifth and sixth innings and two more in the seventh before leaving the game. Ed Whitson finished with two hitless innings for the In-game in 76 starts this season by beating Chicago for the second night in a row.

Spain Battles Back In World Cup Soccer

MADRID, Spain (AP) -Spain, which just squeezed into the second round of the World Cup soccer championships, now is bristling with confidence that it can make it at least to the semifinals.

The reason for this resurgence confidence has little to do with the way the Spaniards have played. Their 1-1-1 record in the first round was marked by offensive sloppiness and a knack for drawing penalties.

Still, Coach Jose Emilio Santamaria, after watching England and West Germany battle to a scoreless tie in Madrid Tuesday night, feels his team is capable of getting a victory and a tie in its upcoming Group B matches against those two teams.

Spain faces West Germany Friday and England Monday.

Worried about heat stress

DEAR DR. LAMB - I belong to a group that has belong to a group that has taken up jogging and running for physical fitness. Most of us are pretty active. We want to keep our program up during the summer months but some of the group have become concerned about the possibility of heat stress. What is heat exhaustion? How here exhaustion? How hot or humid must it be outside before this becomes a problem? Are there any ways to prevent it? Is there a maximum temperature at which we should just forget it? DEAR READER — Your own body constantly gen-erates heat. Through heat loss mechanisms the body heat is stabilized. Without these heat loss mechanisms even at rest your body tem-perature would rise about 1 degree C each hour. During moderate physical activity it would increase about 2 degrees C an hour. The biggest factor affecting your body's ability to eliminate heat is the environmental temperature and humidity. You may be surprised to know that about threefourths of the energy used during physical exertion is converted to heat rather than mechanical effort. If the temperature is 85 F and very humid your body will just be in heat balance if you sit quietly and don't exert. For this reason it is commonly said that under maximum humidity you should not exercise if the temperature is over 78 F.

Of course, exercising in the early morning hours or late evening hours, prefera-bly after the sun goes down, greatly decreases your heat exposure. Wearing light clothing helps, too.

It is important to be cool enough at night to allow the body to catch up with the excess heat load of the day. That is why in very hot cli-mates air conditioning is so helpful, particularly for old-er people and those with Heat exhaustion can be either from water loss alone or from salt loss alone. And it can be from a loss of both. Weighing yourself daily helps you to be sure you won't have a water loss sneak up on you. Drink plen-ty of fluids. A quart of forti-fied skim milk and two eight-ounce glasses of orange juice help to maintain the right sodium and potassium intake.

To give you more details on salt, water and heat-effects, I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-12, Heat Stress: Cramps, Exhaustion, Stroke.

Pipeline Embargo Will Not Hurt Russia As Much As Europe

BONN, West Germany if they respect the American AP) - For more than a veek, Western Europe has criticized the United States for still trying to delay construction of a Soviet pipeline that offers three things Europeans want - more jobs, more trade with the Soviet Union and more natural gas.

The way Europeans see it, American efforts to delay the pipeline to Western Europe won't hurt the Soviets but could throw thousands of people in Italy, West Germany and Great Britain out of

"What there should not be and what there will not be ... is a trade war with the Soviet Union with which a new epoch of the Cold War could be introduced," Chancellor Helmut Schmidt said last week in reiterating that Europe will proceed with the

Schmidt spoke after President Reagan announced he was extending a ban on U.S. technology for the planned pipeline, which is expected to deliver some 21 billion cubic meters of gas to Western Europe when it begins operation in 1984. The American embargo was originally imposed to protest the Sovietbacked declaration of martial law in Poland last December.

The 3,400-mile pipeline will start in western Siberia, go through the Ukraine and Czechoslovakia and end at the West German-Czech border where it will feed into an existing pipeline network.

West Germany, France, Austria and Switzerland have contracted to buy the gas, and the Dutch and Italians are negotiating.

The Reagan administration has criticized the pipeline deal on the grounds that it would make Western Europe too dependent on Soviet energy resources and give the Russians more hard currency to purchase western technology.

The Soviets say that despite Reagan's embargo, the pipeline will be built. What western Europeans may lose, however, are other benefits that go with delivering pipeline parts to the Russians - jobs and good trade relations.

Reagan defended the ban at his press conference Wednesday, saying "we did what we thought should have been done to release the oppression of the people of Poland." He added, "We think there is a risk that they (western Europeans) become dependent on the Soviet: Union for firm of Nuovo Pignone, a unit of the state energy conglomerate Nazionale Idrocarburi, has the largest contract in Europe for construction on the pipeline.

The company, which gets its parts from the American giant General Electric, will lose a $470 million contract to assemble 59 gas turbines if it goes along with the U.S. embargo. A decision has not yet been made.

"The company has other contracts. But without a doubt, this one is a very big one and there's some concern," a company spokesman said.

Houston Firm Submits 1 Million Bill To State

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A high-priced Houston law firm has submitted a $1 million bill for the state's legal fees during the past eight months of its appeal of a federal judge's prison reform order.

Fulbright & Jaworski, which was retained by state officials last year, sent a bill to the state that was higher than the tab for eight years of legal work for the prison inmates who brought the initial

Bill Pakakla of the Houston law firm defended the fee, pointing out that 43 lawyers have worked on the case which involved 159 days of trials and thousands of exhibits.

He noted that one reason the fee for legal work for the prisoners was not as much as the fee charged the state was that the U.S. Justice Department intervened and did most of the work free.

The $1,081,740 price tag has become a hot potato for the state's two gubernatorial candidates. Attorney General Mark White claims Gov. Bill Clements pushed him into retaining Fulbright & Jamorski, and now Clements claims that White's initial fears of ne cost turned into a selffulfilling prophecy because the attorney general gave the law firm carte blanche with little supervision.

White said Clements was trying to embarrass the attorney general's office for the governor's political gain. White claimed retaining legal council outside state government would be "an extravagant waste of taxpayers' dollars."

Last March, Clements called the Fulbright & Jaworski charges "excessive and exorbitant."

Clements recently said White has "run off all the good attorneys in his office."

The chairman of the prison board estimated last summer that retaining outside counsel would cost no more than $200,000.

"I was wrong," said T. Louis Austin of Dallas. "I really didn't think it was that much money. Are you sure?" Austin asked a reporter Wednesday.

"In this case, I think we needed outside counsel, not because Mark White is not a good attorney general, but there just had to be more people put on. If I had it to do over again, I'd do the same thing," Austin added.

He said he believes it was money well spent since a recent appeals court ruling said the state does not have to provide individual cells for each prisoner in the extensive state prison system.

William Bennett Turner, a San Francisco lawyer who has represented the prisoners since 1974, said the Houston firm's fees and expenses are high because they had no incentive to hold down costs.

"That's what happens when you hire a corporate law firm and give it unlimited resources to litigate. They are extraordinarily inefficient," said Turner. "They are dealing on an hourly basis with no scrutiny by a court or anyone else."

Turner said his hourly rate was $145 and noted that he and Donna Brorby, his assistant, have done most of the work. He said no more than 12 lawyers were involved in work for the prisoners.

Pakalka said the hourly fees charged the state by the Houston firm ranged from $35 for paralegals and law students to $165 for a partner.

He noted that Turner had testified that $250 an hour would be reasonable by Houston standards for so
