Budget attempts meaningless, say senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senators, complaining that they were "sold down the river" by President Reagan's refusal to endorse new taxes or delay Social Security increases, say new attempts to craft a package of spending cuts may now be almost meaningless.

Senior members of the House and Senate budget committees met into the night Tuesday, exploring places to slice domestic programs. But wary senators said the best they could hope for was "half a loaf" of deficit reduction.

"The president's decision to scuttle yet another responsible budget, sponsored by Senate Republicans and Senate Democrats, may well doom our final opportunity to make significant deficit reductions this year," said Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash.

"I regret to say the president has sold us down the river again," Gorton said in a statement.

The president raised the hackles of

Senate Republicans on Monday when he rejected their deficit-reduction proposals including: a levy on imported oil; making inflation adjustments in Social Security and other benefit programs every two years instead of annually, and adjusting personal income tax rates to account for inflation every two years instead of annually.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., said Tuesday the Senate was facing up to the immense threat of annual deficits in the $200 billion range, but said: "I'm not sure that it's fully understood by some who advise the president."

The top Democrats and Republicans on the House and Senate budget committee met for seven hours Tuesday, working into the late evening hours as they tried to forge an agreement before Congress leaves for its August recess at the end of the week.

Groundbreaking held for Smith Food

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held here Tuesday afternoon for Smith's Food & Drug Center which is to be constructed at US-385 and 15th Street.

Making brief remarks at the groundbreaking were Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher, C of C Manager Mike Carr, and Bob Rempp, vice president and regional manager for Smith's. The maroon-coated Hereford Hustlers helped with the ceremony, which was attended by city and county officials and interested citizens.

Officials at the ceremony also included Tom Gilmore and Gary Polage, Smith's southwest project manager and architect, respectively; Bruce Keenan and Jim Tehan, representing Colorado-Pacific Contractors of San Diego, Cal.; city commissioners Emory Brownlow, Bud Eades and Tom LeGate; and county commissioners Bill Bradley and Austin Rose.

Mayor Fisher expressed appreciation to Smith's for selecting Hereford for one of its stores and wished them success. Rempp, Texas-New Mexico manager for the firm, responded by saying that Hereford was the first pick when the company officials visited a number of Texas cities for expansion sites.

The Hereford store will contain about 52,000 square feet, according to Rempp, and will include a complete food center, fish and meat department, plants and other items, a delicatessen and a pharmacy. He said the company is negotiating with a large non-food company to anchor the other side of the shopping center.

Groundwork was to begin Tuesday and Rempp said he hoped actual construction activities would be underway later this week or next week. The center is scheduled to have about three acres of parking.

Smith's Food & Drug Center is headquartered in Salt Lake City and has 87 stores in seven states—Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas. The company now has stores in El Paso, Pecos and Fort Stockton in Texas. Hereford is the first site in an expansion into West Texas.

Rempp said he will bring members of his marketing staff to Hereford next week.

Welcome For Smith Food & Drug

City and county officials and the chamber's Hereford Hustlers helped welcome Smith Food & Drug Center to town when a groundbreaking ceremony was held Tuesday afternoon at the Hwy. 385 and 15th Street site.

Manning the shovels are Smith Food officials and construction company representatives, along with Mayor Wes Fisher. Members of the Hustler group and city and county officials are on each side.

Economic indicators up one percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's main forecasting gauge of future economic activity rose sharply last month, perhaps signaling a turnaround from the weak growth of the past year.

The Commerce Department reported today that its Index of Leading Indicators shot up 1 percent in June, the biggest increase since January.

The index, which is watched for signals it can give about changes in the course of the economy, has been decidedly weak for the past year.

Since last June, it has registered six monthly declines, reflecting the weak economic growth which has plagued the country for the past year.

The overall economy grew at a near-recession pace of just 1 percent in the first half of this year as U.S. manufacturers lost sales to foreign competition.

The government reported Tuesday that the country suffered its second highest trade deficit in history last month, a $13.4 billion imbalance.

While the country's deteriorating trade performance is not expected to improve any time soon, many economists are looking for a rebound in activity in the second half of the year, fueled by declining interest rates and increased consumer spending.

The Reagan administration on Monday released a revised forecast calling for growth to spurt to an annual rate of 5 percent from June through December, five times the pace of the first half of the year.

While most private forecasters labeled this prediction highly optimistic, many are calling for at least a modest rebound in coming months.

The June upturn in the leading index bolsters that view. However, economists have cautioned against reading too much into one month's change in the index, which is subject to major revisions as late data is compiled.

The index for May was first reported to have risen by a strong 0.6 percent. However, that was revised today to show a gain of only 0.1 percent.

The reason for the big revision was given as a change in the estimate for the amount of business inventory buildup.

The 1 percent rise in June left the index at 168.5 percent of its 1967 base.

SPS files for rate restructure

Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS) today filed informational packets giving advance notice of a request to restructure rates for retail electric service in the Texas communities the utility serves.

The company emphasized the restructuring will barely change prices customers pay for electricity. "Prices to our customers will hardly increase or decrease under our rate proposal," said SPS president and chief executive officer Bert Ballengee.

"We have had some costs to the company go up, and some costs come down," Ballengee said. "Now we must restructure our rates to reflect those changes. But the prices customers pay for Texas retail electric service will continue to be stable."

It's been a wet July for county

It's been a wet July in Deaf Smith County.

Thundershowers the past week have left from 2 to 6 inches of moisture, and the total for the month is above 7 inches in some areas.

All the rains have been spotty. Last night, for instance, the moisture ranged from zero to 1 inch in reports received around the county. The 1-inch rain was reported in the Bootleg area west of town.

However, the rain quit to the west and northwest of Bootleg. An area between Simms and Farmer's Corner had reports from a trace to .50 of an inch Tuesday night. In Hereford, the official weather station at KPAN Radio recorded .24 of an inch.

Rainfall reports for the past week have ranged from about 2 inches to more than 5. The county barn at Bootleg has recorded 5.2 inches for the past week, while Easter, Walcott, Simms and Dawn have tallied around 3 inches. One farm six miles west of Bootleg reported 4.5 inches of rain on Sunday night alone. Fields were washed in that area.

KPAN Radio has officially recorded 4.37 for the month, while Pat Robbins, south of Hereford, reports 7.5 inches for the month.

Walcott and Summerfield reported only a sprinkle last night and there was no rain southwest of Summerfield. Robert Lloyd, north of Simms, recorded .30 of an inch. There was only a sprinkle southeast of Hereford Tuesday night and a total of 2.35 for the past week.

★★★ At the Jubilee! ★★★

The Town and Country Jubilee is coming soon! It's August 11-17 — so, mark your calendar. Here are just a few of the events scheduled. Square Dancing — Thursday, Aug. 15, at 8 p.m. in the Jerry Shipman Insurance parking lot at 601 N. Main, the Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will doe-see-doe for the town.

Dominoe and Bridge Tournaments — The Senior Citizens Center is the place to be on Saturday, Aug. 17, if your sport is dominoes or bridge. Shuffle out there early, the action starts at 1 p.m. for whoever signs up first.

The Parade — Register with the Chamber of Commerce now, then line up at 10 a.m. at the Hereford High School parking lot if you want to be in the Jubilee Parade Saturday, Aug. 17. That is when entries will be judged. If you just want to watch, get a good spot on Park from Avenue F to Main or on Main from Park to Highway 60 before 10:30 a.m.

Deputies checking two thefts

Sheriff's deputies are investigating two recent theft cases. A shotgun and some jewelry was reported missing from a residence 23 miles north of town. The value of the items was set at over $750. A saddle was reported stolen from a tack shed near Rowland Stables. Other reports filed with county lawmen were two family disputes, telephone harassment, and criminal mischief at the Little Bull Barn.

New anti-nuke waste group forming

An organizational meeting of Amarillo area residents who oppose a nuclear waste repository being located in the Texas Panhandle will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Amarillo Public Library.

Laurel Fitzpatrick, one of the organizers, said interested persons from Hereford are welcome. The meeting will be in the board room upstairs.

Unemployment doubles in June

Unemployment in Deaf Smith County nearly doubled for the month of June, rising from 9.9 percent to 18.4 percent, according to the Texas Employment Commission. Lester Rape of the Hereford TEC office said the jump was mainly due to the closing of Swift Independent Packing Co.

Rape said that the highest he had seen the unemployment rate in his 18 years here was around 12 percent. He added that the rate would be down quite a bit when the figures for July are compiled. The records from the state agency shows 1,676 persons out of work. May showed 815 persons out of work.

Other counties served by the local office also showed increased unemployment. Parmer County showed 10.6 percent unemployment and Castro County showed 9.6 percent unemployment.

Bones those of small animals

The bones discovered Monday under the house at 307 Roosevelt have been ruled as animal bones. Dr. Ralph Erdmann, an Amarillo forensic pathologist, said the bones appeared to be from a dog or a cat.

The bones were found after a local teenager said she had been beaten at the residence and saw the bones in the basement. In connection with the beating, Florentino Carbajal, 20, is being held on assault charges in lieu of $25,000 bond.

The girl told lawmen that he had threatened to bury her in the basement.

Six-year-old takes cycle for joyride

A motorcycle theft was resolved a few hours after it was reported Tuesday when Hereford police found a six-year-old boy riding the vehicle. The police talked to the boy and his mother concerning the incident.

Other thefts reported were that of a battery taken from a vehicle and a bike that was stolen.

Police settled a neighborhood dispute over where some children should play and arrested three persons for public intoxication.

Bell rate increase called unnecessary

AUSTIN (AP) — Public Utility Counsel Jim Boyle says Texas ratepayers should not have to pay for what he calls $40 million in unnecessary expenses by Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Boyle, the state lawyer who represents residential and commercial ratepayers before the Public Utility Commission, said in a statement Tuesday that expenses claimed for Bellcore Corp. provide "no comparable benefits" for Texas consumers.

Officials of Southwestern Bell said they "completely disagree" with Boyle's statement and have said so in several days of testimony in the current PUC hearing on Southwestern Bell's request for a $277 million rate increase.

Boyle has recommended that Southwestern Bell's current revenues be reduced by $124.4 million.

The rate hearing began July 1 and is expected to continue throughout August.

Union to file suit for overtime pay

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas State Employees Union was scheduled to file a federal lawsuit today seeking to get overtime pay for employees of the Texas Department of Corrections.

Bill Adler, communications coordinator for the union, said the suit would be filed in Houston but details of the case would be revealed at a Capitol news conference.

Generally, Adler said, the suit asks that the agency be forced to comply with the federal Fair Labor Standards Act and to pay for overtime work dating back to Feb. 19 when the U.S. Supreme Court held that the FLSA applies to public employees.

The court ruling was based on a lawsuit involving municipal transit employees in San Antonio.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby appeared before a U.S. Senate panel last week urging Congress to enact legislation that would exempt state and local government employees or to give the states more time to comply.

Unless Congress acts the decision is effective Oct. 15.

Houston lost population from '82 to '84

WASHINGTON (AP) — Houston remains Texas' largest city, but it also was the biggest city in the state to lose population from 1982 to 1984, according to U.S. Census Bureau data.

The nation's fourth largest city, Houston fell from 1,725,617 residents to 1,705,597. The only other cities in the nation's top 10 to lose population were in the North and Midwest — Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia, the Census Bureau reported Tuesday.

In Texas, the Census Bureau said, Beaumont and Pasadena were the only other cities over 100,000 besides Houston to lose residents since 1982.

Of the 176 cities in America with populations of more than 100,000 as of July 1, 1984, 18 are in Texas, according to the government figures.

One of three new additions to the 100,000 club was Laredo, which added nearly 9,000 people between 1982 and 1984.

After Houston, Dallas is Texas' next largest city and the nation's 7th largest with 974,234 residents. San Antonio, 10th in the nation, has 842,779; El Paso (26th), has 463,809; Fort Worth (32nd), 414,562; and Austin (34th) 397,001.

Beaumont, the nation's 132nd largest city, had a population drop from 123,477 to 123,356, according to the census figures. Pasadena, ranked 139th nationally, fell from 122,010 to 119,303.

Here is a list of all Texas cities with 100,000 population or more, with national ranking, and comparison between 1984 and 1982: Ranking-City 1984 1982 4. Houston 1,705,597 1,725,617 7. Stripper sues city over firefighter's job

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A striptease dancer has filed suit against the city of Topeka and two city officials over her contention that she was denied a job as a firefighter because of her work.

Michele Richards, 22, filed suit for $360,000 in damages earlier this week against the city, Mayor Douglas Wright and Fire Chief Joe Douglas Jr. The fire chief recommended to the mayor who should be chosen.

Although Miss Richards passed tests conducted by city officials and the Civil Service Commission last May, she was not among the 16 people chosen by Douglas for placement in the fire department. More than 700 people competed for the openings in an eight-stage process.

Douglas said the woman's work as a stripper didn't affect the decision.

"That information came out fairly early in the process, but it didn't really make a difference," he said. "Some were plumbers, some were carpenters. My concern when they come here is, 'Can they do this job?'"

Miss Richards, who said she has worked as a stripper for more than three years in Topeka, Dallas, New Orleans and Denver, said she applied for the fire department job to do something different.

"I don't want to be a stripper all my life," she said. "I've wanted to be a firefighter for a long time. That's why I took the emergency medical technician course. I thought it would give me a lead over the others. I trained with weights for three months so I could pass the physical agility test."

Suicide bomber detonates car

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A suicide bomber detonated his explosive-laden car near an Israeli patrol in the southern Lebanese town of Arnoun today, and a witness said three soldiers and five Lebanese were killed.

However, an Israeli army statement said two soldiers were slightly wounded in the attack and taken to a hospital. It said they were part of a patrol to prevent terrorist activities in the security zone north of the Israeli border.

Israeli military sources who spoke on condition of anonymity said preliminary reports indicated that the driver and one other Lebanese were killed in the explosion.

There was no way immediately to reconcile the conflicting casualty reports, and no claim of responsibility for the blast.

A U.N. official said peacekeeping soldiers heard an explosion in the area of Arnoun followed by heavy machine gun fire.

Journalists based in the market town of Nabatiyeh near Arnoun said the explosion occurred at 8 a.m. at the public square facing Husseinieh mosque.

One injured Lebanese, who was rushed from Arnoun to the hospital in Nabatiyeh told reporters he saw "at least three Israeli soldiers laying dead and two others being treated for wounds."

The injured witness, who spoke on condition he not be identified said at least five Lebanese civilians were killed in the blast.

Arnoun is near the Crusaders-built medieval castle of Beaufort, four miles from the Israeli frontier.

By RON GILMORE Midland Reporter-Telegram

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — What does a cave climber think of caves?

"They're spooky," said Tony Grieco, president of Midland's only cave explorer group, the Permian Basin Speleological Society. "And I've done it thousands of times."

Spooky or not, Grieco, an oil company geologist, keeps going back, along with several other "wild cavers," to explore the world beneath them.

Descending hundreds of feet into unknown caverns, with little before them but a beam of light and a beating heart, the spelunkers insist it is a safe sport.

"We've been doing this for two years and never had an accident," said Grieco. The "we" consists of four hardy souls who monthly don their cave gear (a sundry of high-tech gadgetry, worn-out blue jeans, sturdy boots and plenty of bravado) and follow their leader into the earth's depths.

Bill Bentley, Matt Killam, Bill Greenlee and Terry Hill, along with Grieco, make up the core group of the "grotto" — a small band of spelunkers. Several grottos are included in the Southwest Region of the National Speleological Society. The national group is part of an international organization.

Grieco, 29 was introduced to caving three years ago.

"I was working in the field in New Mexico and noticed that the mudloggers were using cavers for some of the work," he said. "I had a lot of equipment from when I used to work in mines for my thesis in college, and I just decided to go down with them and try it out."

Greenlee, however, climbed his first caves solo.

"Ever since I was a lad I used to be intrigued by caves," he said. "I used to crawl around in the culverts in Andrews where I grew up. Years later, I became a caver."

"I did a few renegade cave trips alone and uneducated," he said.

"One day I heard there was seven to eight caves open to the public, and I went there and asked the ranger about going in them."

"Are you a caver?" he asked me.

"I said, 'No, how do you get to be a caver without going into caves?'"

Killam became a caver by hanging around Greenlee.

"I moved to Andrews a year ago and lived across the street from Bill," said Killam, at 14, the youngest member of the group. "I saw all his equipment and asked him if he was a mountain climber. When I found out he was a caver I begged and begged until he let me go."

Killam's mother, however, is not sure about his underground exploits.

"Every time I go out and come back and tell my Mom what I did, she gets real scared," he said.

The cavers admit they too have been scared on a number of occasions.

One trip had them literally dangling at the end of their rope.

"We went down into a cave through a maze of an entrance and descended 50 feet through the blackest crack," said Grieco. "When we reached the end of the crack we found ourselves on the ceiling of a large room, dangling 200 feet from the bottom of the room."

Other trips bring back their own "special" memories.

Like the time the group decided to go into a shaft on the site of the Odessa meteor crater.

"The shaft was built by government workers during the depression so that scientists could look for meteor pieces," said Grieco. "It was full of dead things and smelled real bad."

Bentley admits that he didn't stay in the shaft long enough to get a good look.

"I stepped on a dead rat," he said.

"Boy, you've never seen anyone move so fast. Before you could have said anything, I climbed 176 feet non-stop to the top."

The unpleasantness of the trip, however, followed Grieco home.

"The rope smelled so bad from the shaft that it was drawing flies," he said. "I took the rope into the laundromat and still couldn't get all the smell out."

"You don't get any stranger looks than when you take 300 feet of rope into a laundromat and stick it in a washing machine," he said.

Despite occasional unpleasant experiences and the concerns of friends and family, the group continues its sport.

"People say the dumbest things to us," said Hill. "Like warning us not to go caving at night."

The cavers, however, take their hobby seriously.

"We're like a family," said Grieco.

"When we're down in those caves hanging a rope, our lives depend on each other."

Proper equipment is a necessity. "We weed out the cheap equipment," he said.

Surprisingly, the sport is relatively inexpensive.

"For horizontal caving, you can get started for around $50," said Bentley. Vertical climbing requires more equipment, he added, "but you can still get outfitted for around $200."

Several impressive climbing devices are used, including an "ascender" which allows the cavers to climb up a rope, a "descender" for gradual descents on the rope and a "rollerbox" which allows the climbers to free their hands while on the rope.

The key tool for cavers, however, is light. And the climbers take along plenty of it, although they don't always agree on which is the best source of light for caves.

"I like carbide lamps," said Grieco. "You always know how much carbide is left, and you can fit as much as you need into a baby's bottle."

Carbide, an element when mixed with water forms acetylene gas, was used by miners before the advent of electric lights, explained Grieco.

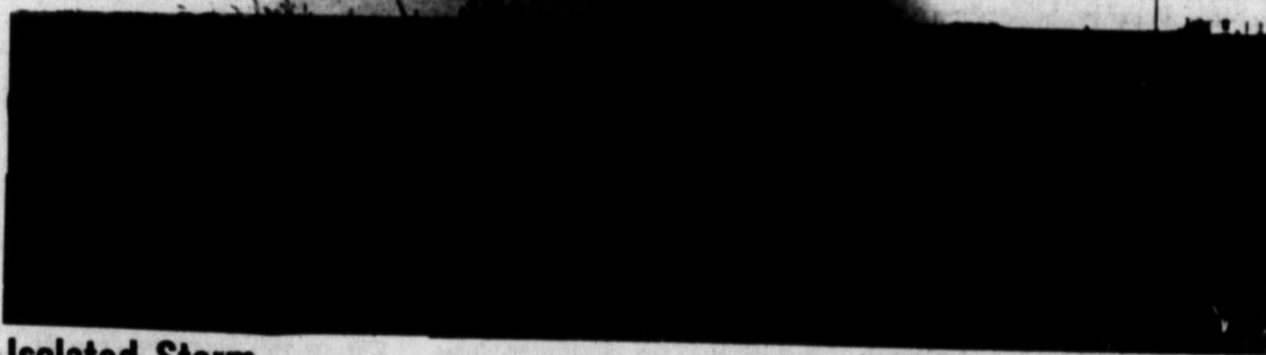

Bentley, however, swears by electricity.

"With a rechargeable lead acid battery (similar to a car battery), you can get 24 hours of light," he said. The four-volt unit is no larger than portable radio.

Still another light source is chemical lights, which when broken in two, produce a chemically-induced glow. The flare-shaped lights are used only in emergencies.

No tool, however, can prepare the explorers for one intangible element — surprise. The cavers are continually on the lookout for the unknown.

"We're still looking for virgin caves," said Greenlee.

In Lower Rio Grande Valley

Dove season is in jeopardy

By SHEILA ALLEE Associated Press Writer

The Lower Rio Grande Valley stands to lose millions of dollars in tourism business this fall if the white-winged dove season is called off, officials say.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission was scheduled to meet early today to discuss the matter, which surfaced because of an unusually low white-winged dove population this year.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service already has cut the two-weekend season in September to one weekend.

The Texas commission could scratch the season altogether, which draws about 45,000 hunters to the Rio Grande Valley each year.

"It's traditionally a major hunting event in Texas going back 40 years or more," said Ron George, a biologist with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission in Austin.

BUDGET

everything" looking for agreement between the two houses, said Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M.

They planned to meet again today, after both sides checked with their leadership on possible compromises.

House Budget Committee Chairman William H. Gray III, D-Pa., said having Social Security and taxes off the bargaining table made the discussions easier, since "we know what the lay of the land is."

"I'm optimistic tonight that we're on the right track," Gray said.

Gray and Domenici both said they disagreed on levels of defense spending and some domestic programs. Domenici said he was unequivocally opposed to dropping the defense level below the $302.5 billion Senate level.

Dole passed up a GOP leadership meeting at the White House Tuesday, saying a power failure in the Capitol and the farm bill had commanded his attention. Other Republicans said it was made clear to the president how frustrated they were with his stance.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the president "stressed the need to have a final budget resolution and his desire that they produce it prior to the recess."

The white-winged dove hunting season means millions of dollars a year in business for the Lower Rio Grande Valley, said another biologist Gary Waggerman of the agency's office in McAllen.

"We're talking money," he said. "The department itself stands to lose a quarter of a million dollars from the white-winged dove stamps."

Hunters have to purchase the $6 each stamps before they are licensed to hunt white-winged doves. Proceeds from the stamps goes to land purchase to increase natural habitats for wildlife, Waggerman said.

Wildlife experts say the white-winged dove population is down because its normal habitat of citrus trees was severely damaged by the winter freeze of 1983.

"About 54 percent of the citrus acreage was bulldozed," George said. "The remaining citrus has been severely pruned to remove dead limbs."

Many birds have nested in surrounding brush, but heavy rains in June and early July washed away the nests and the eggs, George said.

Spring breeding counts, he said, indicated 361,000 white-winged doves in the valley, the primary spot for hunting the fowl. That total is about 30 percent below average.

"The white-winged dove is basically a tropical species that reaches the normal limits of its range in South and West Texas," he said.

"The majority of the white-winged breeding population is found south of San Antonio, Uvalde, Alpine and El Paso," he said, adding that 90 percent of the population is in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Waggerman said closing the season this year would save about 135,000 birds and put the valley in good shape for nesting next year.

Hunters can bag white-winged doves in limited numbers during mourning dove season.

That season would begin Sept. 20 in the valley. Hunters would be limited to 12 doves, with no more than two white-winged and two white-tipped doves each.

Sarpalius' attendance record released

According to a report released by the Secretary of the Senate's office, Sen. Bill Sarpalius was at 78 of 80 Senate meetings and participated in 97 percent of the Senate's 2,537 record votes.

Sarpalius was absent from the Feb. 5 Senate session because he was in Dimmitt at the annual meeting of the Texas Corn Growers Association and he missed the Feb. 11 session in order to attend a Department of Energy nuclear waste hearing in Hereford. Both absences were officially sanctioned by the Senate because they related to business in Sarpalius senatorial district.

an increase in base rates for retail electric service in Texas in mid-1982, Ballengee noted.

Troy Waddell, SPS's Hereford manager, filed the request to restructure rates with the City of Hereford at 10 a.m. today.

The proposal to restructure rates in rural areas of Texas served by SPS will be filed with the Public Utility Commission of Texas, probably in early September.

The proposed restructuring, Ballengee said, "On the one hand, would increase the base-rate portion of the electric bill, and, on the other hand, would generally offset that increase by lowering the boiler fuel-cost portion of the bill. The net effect should be only slight changes in prices."

Ballengee credited decreasing costs of some SPS operations primarily to the utility's coal-fueled power plants, a softened natural gas market in the United States, and to lower interest costs. Increased costs to the utility included construction of coal-fueled power plant units and of new transmission and distribution facilities, and higher costs of most other materials and services, he said.

Crystal

The Greek word kryllos, or frost, is the correct name for a snowflake. A snowflake is formed when hydrogen and oxygen atoms are held together by electric charges.

Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the aircraft maintenance field.

He is a 1983 graduate of Sahuarita High School, Ariz.

Grand opening at health center scheduled Saturday

A community celebration and grand opening of St. Anthony's Family Health Center at 2300 T-Anchor Boulevard is scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday.

On Friday a special decorating crew will begin the task of wrapping the center. Once the bow is tied, a thousand balloons will be blown and preparations finalized for the grand unwrapping during the celebration.

Members of the East Amarillo Health Action Committee will kick-off the program with festivities to continue until 4 p.m. Saturday. The committee was founded in 1982 to become a driving force in establishing accessible health care in east Amarillo.

St. Anthony's will open its family health center to the public Monday. Family practitioners, support staff and a registered pharmacist will provide medical services to the Community on a continual, follow-up basis. The center will provide general health and medical care from physical examinations to minor emergencies.

Domestic harmony is very difficult to achieve when one of the parties insists on carrying the melody all the time.

Actors' clothing has important effect on viewer response

The actor in your favorite television commercial may be grabbing your attention by dressing to suit you, according to a Texas Tech University researcher.

The clothing worn by actors in television commercials has an important effect on viewer response even if the team advertised is not clothing, said Shelley S. Harp, professor of clothing, textiles and merchandising at Texas Tech. With video advertising increasing in importance to retailers, advertisers should be attentive to the clothes worn by actors and models.

"What the actor is wearing makes an underlying statement," Harp said. "The clothes make a first impression, even if it's subconscious."

Harp conducted a study using commercials she produced for a major retail department store. She produced three commercials that were the same except the actor wore different clothes. The commercials advertised a blanket, a neutral item purchased by both sexes. After the commercials were viewed by a sample of 650 volunteer store customers and college students, Harp concluded that the clothing played a definite role in viewer response to the advertising.

"If you're going to use television to sell a product, you'll have to consider the target market in choosing apparel for the actors. It's an underlying cue," Harp said.

The apparel used in the study consisted of three dresses—one casual, one contemporary and one conservative. After viewing one of the commercials the participants completed a questionnaire about their response. The information collected includes sex, age, marital status, time spent watching television, commercial influence on retail purchases and apparel awareness in television commercials.

One conclusion was that younger people preferred the commercial with contemporary clothing while older people preferred the casual dress. The conservative apparel, a tailored business dress, was chosen by single females who were the most influenced by television commercials when making purchases. The contemporary apparel received the most favorable responses overall, Harp said.

Harp also found that the clothing had an impact on the image of the retailer. Some viewers commented if they thought the commercial conflicted with their image of the store.

In the past clothes worn in commercials have been a clue to the product advertised, Harp said. Tennis clothes were worn to advertise a tennis racket. Now Harp believes advertisers must consider fashion when promoting any item.

Although the study did not determine how the commercial affected purchase of the item, "it may have a lot to do with bringing the customer into the store," Harp said.

The results of the study are also important to the future of video sales promotion, Harp said. In-store video tapes are being used to promote sales in many larger retail stores, she said. The videos educate and entertain the customers as they promote sales of the products.

Retailers are considering putting store catalogs on video in the future, Harp said, although the change will not likely occur until video cassette recorders are more common in homes. "Since retailers are putting more money into videos, they should be careful to consider the likes and dislikes of their target market," Harp said.

Tommy Tyson to speak

During Camp Farthest Out (CFO), scheduled Friday through Sunday, Tommy Tyson, internationally known evangelist, will be the featured speaker. Panhandle CFO will meet in the Methodist Camp at Ceta Canyon near Happy.

Tyson, a native of North Carolina, has a dynamic ministry of interpreting the person and work of the Holy Spirit in the life of the church. He effectively relates to audiences how God manifests himself in natural and supernatural ways in His earthly kingdom.

Tyson and his wife Frances reside in Chapel Hill, N.C. where they have developed a group Christian Growth Conference Center called "Aquaduct."

The speaker will be accompanied by his daughter Joyce who will be leading praise and singing and by his son Tom who will furnish music.

The first annual Greg Black Memorial 10-K and Two-Mile Fun Run is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 17, during the Town and County Jubilee celebration.

Hosting the races is the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, where the races will start at 8 a.m. The races were renamed this year in memory of Greg Black, who donated many hours to the YMCA and who was killed in a bicycle accident shortly after last year's event.

The races were previously known as the Town and County Jubilee 10-K and Two-Mile Fun Runs. The first races were held in 1981.

Preregistration forms are available at the YMCA office. Registration fees are $8 in advance and $10 on the day of the race.

Records from the first four years of the races have been compiled from all available information. The top times in each division, as many as five times, are listed below:

BASEBALL

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Barring a prolonged strike, major-league players likely will be called away from their teams in the middle of baseball's September pennant races to testify in the federal drug trafficking trial of a former clubhouse caterer for the Philadelphia Phillies, attorneys say.

U.S. District Judge Gustave Diamond tentatively set Sept. 3 as the trial date for Curtis Strong, who is charged with 16 cocaine distribution counts.

NEW YORK (AP) — The baseball owners offered today to increase their annual payment to the players' pension plan from $15.5 million to $25 million but tied that amount to escalating salaries so that the contribution could actually drop to zero, a proposal which prompted Don Fehr, head of the players union, to call them "crazy."

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Odibe McDowell of the Texas Rangers, the first player in club history to hit for the cycle, was named American League Player of the Week.

FOOTBALL

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Houston Oilers quarterback Ken Stabler agreed to settle his $20 million libel lawsuit against the New York Times and the National Broadcasting Co. and the network's parent company, RCA Corp., for an undisclosed amount, his lawyer says.

Stabler filed the lawsuit in 1982, citing reports that alleged he had ties to organized gambling and had thrown games or shaved points when he was quarterback for the Oakland Raiders.

PGA season money-winnings record nears being broken

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Curtis Strange has the opportunity to set an all-time single-season money-winning record this week in the $500,000 Western Open golf tournament.

Strange, the only three-time winner on the PGA Tour this season, leads the money-winning list with $527,581. He needs to finish 30th or better to break Tom Watson's record of $530,808 set in 1980.

"That's something I really want to do," Strange said before a practice round on the 7,097-yard, par-72 Butler National Golf Club course, one of the more difficult courses the touring pros encounter all season.

"To make the most of it, I'm probably going to play a little heavier schedule, a few more tournaments, than I'd originally planned," he said. He isn't alone in adding tournaments to his schedule.

Tom Kite was a last-minute entry in the 156-man field that will open the chase for a $90,000 first prize on Thursday. "I need Ryder Cup points," he said.

The point list from which the 12-man team will be chosen closes after next week's PGA Championship. Kite is in ninth place, "not a solid position," he said.

And Jack Nicklaus, a distant 22nd, also mentioned the Ryder Cup team in connection with his late decision to play here.

"I just felt like I'd like to play another tournament," he said. "If I win either here or the PGA, or play well in both of them, I'd have a chance to be on the Ryder Cup team," said the former Cup captain.

Tom Watson, a three-time winner of the Western Open and the defending champion, also needs a couple of good finishes to make the team that will play Europe's best in England this fall. He is 16th with 97,167 points.

Mark McCumber, currently holding the 12th and last spot on the team, has 112 points. Points are awarded only for top-10 finishes in Tour events.

Seve Ballesteros of Spain and Australian Greg Norman, who lost to Watson in a playoff for this title a year ago, also are entered in the Western Open.

Error results in rally as Brewers beat Rangers

By MIKE EMBRY AP Sports Writer
Milwaukee's Bob McClure prefers being in for the long run.

McClure held the Texas Rangers scoreless and gave up three hits during his four-inning relief in leading the Brewers to a 6-3 victory Tuesday.

McClure, a left-hander, was moved to the bullpen this season after being a starter for most of the past four years.

The Brewers were trailing 3-1 when McClure took over from Moose Haas, who left the game because of a sore shoulder.

It took a bobbled grounder to get things started for the Brewers.

Ted Simmons started the Brewers' sixth against Burt Hooten with his eighth homer of the season. One out later, Ernest Riles singled to right to chase the Texas starter.

Jim Gantner greeted reliever Dave Rozema with a single, and Paul Householder grounded to second baseman Toby Harrah for an apparent inning-ending double play.

But Harrah dropped the ball, and the Rangers had to settle for a forceout of Gantner, at second.

Charlie Moore then lashed a triple to the gap in right-center to give Milwaukee a 4-3 lead.

Milwaukee added two more runs in the seventh inning when Oglivie's one-out double off Rozema that followed Robin Yount's third double of the game and an intentional walk to Simmons.

Texas took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Pete O'Brien's 13th homer, and added two more runs in the third on Oddibe McDowell's 11th home run, a two-run shot off Haas.

White Sox 7, Red Sox 5
Tom Seaver has won 196 of his 299 pitching victories in a New York uniform. He will try to win No. 300 in a New York ballpark.

The 40-year-old Seaver will try to become the 17th pitcher in major-league history to win 300 games on Sunday when he faces the New York Yankees in Yankee Stadium, just a few miles from Shea Stadium where he spent 11½ years with the New York Mets.

"People have asked me about No. 300 since I walked into spring training," Seaver said after scattering eight hits in nine innings Tuesday night and notching No. 299 when the Chicago White Sox pushed across three runs in the top of the 10th and downed the Boston Red Sox 7-5. "...I hope it will be Sunday in New York. It took me two games to win 299, so I hope it only takes one to get 300."

The White Sox staked Seaver to a 4-0 lead on home runs by Luis Salazar and Carlton Fisk — his career-high 27th, tops in the majors. Solo homers by Wade Boggs and Marty Barrett helped Boston rally.

A's 5, Angels 4
Mike Davis singled home the winning run in the bottom of the 10th to hand California its fifth consecutive setback.

Dave Kingman singled off California relief ace Donnie Moore, Steve Kiefer also singled before Davis slammed his homer.

The A's took a 4-0 lead in the third inning on RBI singles by Dwayne Murphy and Bruce Bochte, Kingman's sacrifice fly and a wild pitch by Mike Witt.

California scored two runs off Don Sutton in the fourth on singles by Juan Beniquez, Ruppert Jones and Reggie Jackson and Brian Downing's double-play grounder. They tied it in the eighth when Jones doubled with one out off Steve Ontiveros, Jackson greeted winner Jay Howell with his second RBI single and singles by Downing and Bobby Grich scored Jackson.

Orioles 4, Blue Jays 3
Lee Lacy hit a sacrifice fly off Dennis Lamp in the 10th after the Orioles loaded the bases against Gary Lavelle on a single by Floyd Rayford and walks to Al Pardo and Alan Wiggins.

Toronto went ahead 3-2 in the top of the ninth on a throwing error by Baltimore shortstop Cal Ripken.

Baltimore tied it in the bottom of the ninth on Eddie Murray's sacrifice fly after Bill Caudill walked two batters and Jim Acker walked another. Jeff Burroughs homered for Toronto's first two runs.

Tigers 11, Royals 7
Kirk Gibson went 4-for-4 and drove in two runs, enabling Detroit to overcome some shaky pitching by Jack Morris and Willie Hernandez.

Morris, 12-6, allowed four runs and nine hits in six innings, including solo homers to Frank White and Steve Balboni. It was the fifth homer in the last six games for Balboni, who extended his hitting streak to 11 games.

Hernandez was tagged for three runs on five hits, including George Brett's two-run homer.

Yankees 8-2, Indians 5-3
Ramon Romero, who had a .68 earned run average, held New York to four hits in 7 2-3 innings of the nightcap for his first major-league victory. Pinch-hitter Chris Bando, batting .095, hit a two-run single in the seventh off Yankee relief ace Dave Righetti.

The Indians trailed 1-0 on the first of Rickey Henderson's two homers before loading the bases in the seventh against starter Bob Shirley on singles by Benny Ayala and Joe Carter and a walk to Andre Thornton. Bando's bloop single drove in the tying and lead runs and Julio Franco followed with an RBI single to make it 3-1.

The Indians led the opener 3-1 entering the seventh. But with two out, Don Mattingly's single chased Neal Heaton and Rich Thompson walked Dave Winfield, who had homered earlier, before Don Baylor homered for a 4-3 New York lead.

Twins 12, Mariners 4
Mike Smithson scattered eight hits in eight innings for his sixth straight victory and Kent Hrbek rapped out four hits, including a two-run homer, to pace Minnesota.

The Twins went ahead 5-2 with four runs in the third off Billy Swift. Roy Smalley and Hrbek singled and Tom Brunansky walked to load the bases. Dave Engle singled for one run and Randy Bush grounded out for another. A passed ball by Seattle catcher Bob Kearney allowed two more runs to score.

Ryan's record drops to 8-9

Soto pitches Reds past Astros

By JOE KAY AP Sports Writer
Mario Soto is getting back to basics, and it's basically getting him back in the victory column.

Soto, discouraged by a personal eight-game losing streak earlier this season, has abandoned his slider and gone with his fastball and change-up in attempts to regain his status as the Cincinnati Reds' ace.

The results: a no-decision and two victories in his last three starts, including a 4-1 complete game Tuesday night over the Houston Astros.

Soto, 10-11, used just his two main pitches to fan eight Tuesday night and indicate he's back in form.

"I don't want to hear anything about using a slider or breaking ball," Soto said. "If they're going to hit me, they'll have to hit my two pitches."

The two pitches were too much Tuesday night for the Astros, who failed to give starter Nolan Ryan support in his efforts to get his first victory since June 17.

Ryan, 8-9, gave up four hits and a pair of runs in the first and then got tough, blanking the Reds on just three hits over the next five innings.

The Reds took advantage from the first, with Eddie Milner leading off with a double. Dave Parker lined a two-out single just over the glove of shortstop Craig Reynolds to score Milner, and singles by Bell and Dave Concepcion brought Parker around.

The Astros got their run in the second when catcher Mark Bailey walked, German Rivera doubled and Ryan hit a sacrifice fly.

Ryan fanned seven in six innings to raise his all-time leading strikeout total to 4,019. The Reds loaded the bases in the seventh off reliever Jeff Calhoun, and Bell singled home a pair of insurance runs off Bill Dawley.

The Astros threatened in the seventh and eighth, advancing runners to third. But Soto pitched out of both jams.

The outcome improved the Reds to 52-45 and dropped the Astros to 45-55. Houston has lost nine of its last 11 games, fading out of the chase in the National League West.

Mets 2, Expos 0
When Tom Seaver left the New York Mets two years ago, it was said that the club had lost the greatest pitcher it would ever know. And while that statement can still be argued, the very fact that it can be argued is perhaps the ultimate tribute to Dwight Gooden.

On a night when Seaver, now pitching for the Chicago White Sox, won his 299th game, Mets fans weren't consigned to the role of wishful thinkers. Instead they watched their 20-year-old phenomenon tie a club record set 16 years ago by the 40-year-old Seaver.

"Dwight is a pitcher who comes along once in a lifetime," Manager Dave Johnson said Tuesday night after Gooden shut out Montreal 2-0 to join Seaver as the only Met pitcher ever to win 10 consecutive games.

"He is in total control at all times." Gooden, in hurling a five-hitter for his 10th complete game, struck out 10 batters. It was the seventh time this season and the 22nd time in his two-year career he has reached double figures.

Gooden, 16-3, boosted his major-league-leading strikeout total to 173 and lowered his earned-run average to 1.65, also tops in the majors.

He got all the support he needed on run-scoring singles by George Foster in the sixth and eighth innings.

Cardinals 11, Cubs 3
Willie McGee, the league's leading hitter, had five hits, including a homer and a double, to improve his average to .345. Jack Clark hit his 20th homer and drove in four runs to support Kurt Kephart, 8-6, as St. Louis collected its eighth victory in nine games.

Major-league leader Vince Coleman stole his 70th base and McGee his 39th for the Cardinals.

The victory lowered to three the Cardinals' magic number for guaranteeing their occupancy of first place in the NL East should a strike by the players shut down the game Aug. 6. Any combination of three St. Louis victories or New York defeats would suffice.

Dodgers 4, Giants 2
Calling it his "quota for the year," Steve Sax took in stride his first home run of the season, even though it broke a 2-2 tie in the bottom of the ninth and allowed Los Angeles to win for the 16th time in its last 20 games.

The victory reduced the Dodgers' Aug. 6 number to two against San Diego and one against Cincinnati.

Mike Marshall's 13th homer, leading off the ninth, tied the game.

Sax hit his two-run game-winner off San Francisco reliever Mark Davis.

The Dodgers got another strong performance from Fernando Valenzuela, who allowed six hits in seven innings. Tom Niedenfuer, 5-3, picked up the win in relief. Candy Maldonado homered in the seventh.

Padres 5, Braves 4
San Diego's Jerry Royster's game-winning sacrifice fly gave slumping San Diego its second win in its last nine games.

The 12th-inning sacrifice fly by Royster scored Tim Flannery with the winning run. Flannery led off the inning with a single off Rick Camp, 2-5, the fifth Atlanta pitcher. A single by Tony Gwynn sent Flannery to third, and he scored one out later on Royster's fly to left field.

Terry Harper hit his 13th home run for Atlanta.

Phillies 2, Pirates 0
Philadelphia pitcher Kevin Gross hit a two-run double in the fourth and combined with Don Carman and Kent Tekulve on a seven-hit shutout to extend Pittsburgh's losing streak to seven games.

Gross, 10-8, and his successors combined to shut out the Pirates, who failed to score a run for the league-leading 13th time this season.

Market prices will be weaker than predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Livestock producers will see even weaker market prices in the months ahead than had been predicted by Agriculture Department economists, according to a new outlook report.

"Combined red meat and poultry supplies will remain record large in 1985 because of continued inventory reductions in the beef and pork sectors," the department's Economic Research Service said Tuesday.

"Poor returns and the need to generate additional cash by selling young female stock are the primary reasons for the reductions."

A table included in the brief report — a summary of one to be issued in August — forecast that prices of Choice-grade steers on the Omaha, Neb., market will average in the range of $53 to $56 per 100 pounds in the July-September quarter. In a supply-and-demand report on July 10, the agency forecast third-quarter steer prices at $58 to $62 per hundredweight.

The meat supply during the spring was larger than many people had expected, and until those heavy animals are worked through the system prices will be under pressure.

According to the new figures, beef supplies were up 2 percent from a year earlier during the second quarter and are expected to hold about even with year-earlier levels in the third quarter.

But as producers continue to cut back, beef supplies are expected to drop in the fourth quarter, down 5 percent from October-December of last year, the report said. As that happens, the Omaha price of fed cattle is expected to edge higher, averaging $60 to $64 per hundredweight. But that would be short of the $63-$66 forecast in the July 10 report.

As supply remains high

The report showed cattle prices in the first quarter of 1986 could be in the range of $62 to $66 per hundredweight. That was the agency's first forecast for January-March.

Looking at pork, the forecast showed prices of slaughter hogs in the fourth quarter, could be in the range of $41 to $45 per hundredweight, compared with the earlier forecast of $45 to $49. By the first quarter of 1986, hog prices could be averaging $46 to $50 per hundredweight.

The report showed the pork supply above year-earlier levels in the second and third quarters by 2 percent and 1 percent, respectively. But the supply is expected to drop in the fourth to 3 percent below a year earlier.

At retail stores, beef prices averaged $2.37 per pound on an all-cut basis in the first half of 1985, down from $2.42 a year earlier, the report said. Retail pork prices averaged slightly higher during the first half. Broiler prices, at 76 cents a pound, were down from 84 cents in the first half of 1984.

"Even lower retail prices may be necessary to move the record meat supplies expected in the second half of 1985," the report said.

Total red meat and poultry consumption in 1986 may decline four to five pounds from this year's expected record of 212 pounds per person. Economists said meat prices "are likely to rise in 1986" from this year's level but that larger poultry supplies will dampen the increase.

Commercial farms feeling money pinch

WASHINGTON (AP) — In its most comprehensive look yet at the financial pinch on American farmers, the Agriculture Department says 214,000 producers are so deeply in debt they can't make their payments.

Compiled as part of a detailed survey of farms this spring, the figure represents just over 12 percent of the 1.7 million farms covered by the study.

The findings were similar to those published in March, when the department issued its first assessment of farming's current financial problems. That paper was based on the ratio of a farmer's debts to his assets, with farms owing more than 40 percent of their worth deemed financially vulnerable.

The latest study adds cash-flow data to the mix to get a more complete picture of how well farmers can cope with debt. The new report includes, for example, off-farm income from a second job which many farmers use to make their loan payments.

Of the 214,000 farmers unable to make ends meet, more than half — 129,000 — were in the $40,000 and over sales class. Some 38,000, or 2 percent of the total, were technically insolvent, with debts greater than the value of their assets.

About 20 percent of farms in the $40,000-and-over class showed both high debt load and negative cash flow, while another 10 percent were considered potentially at risk because of high debt load, even though they broke even or better in 1984.

"This development is especially critical because commercial farms, although only 34 percent of all farms, account for 90 percent of all farm sales," the report stated.

Certain types of farms in certain regions were hardest hit, the report noted. Cash grain, general livestock and dairy farms accounted for more than three-fourths of the farms under stress.

Sixty percent of the financially ailing operations were in the Corn Belt, Lake States and Northern Plains, the study found. Those are the regions where drops in farmland values have been steepest, declining by up to 25 percent in 1984 alone while the national average was a 12 percent drop.

The flip side of the figures is that most farms remain financially sound. Four out of five farms had adequate debt-to-asset ratios and positive cash flow, the survey found, and two of every three in the crucial commercial-size category were faring relatively well.

But those farmers who are in trouble owe the bulk of the nation's $212 billion farm debt, a worrisome statistic for bankers and federal officials. As of Jan. 1, 29 percent of farm debt was owed by producers with debt-to-asset ratios greater than 70 percent, considered a perilous level. Another 33 percent of the debt was held by those with debts between 40 and 70 percent of their assets.

But even more telling is the news that the stress is greater among so-called commercial size farms, those selling at least $40,000 or more in farm products. These farms form the heart of the nation's food production system.

Among those farmers, one in three is suffering financial problems, either because of too heavy a debt load, inadequate cash flow, or both, the study said.

Etter field day set for Aug. 21

The annual field day at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Research Field at Etter will start at noon on August 21, according to Dr. G.B. Thompson, Director of Research at the Texas A&M center in Amarillo.

quarters building. A field tour will follow and there will be stops at corn and sorghum variety trials, insecticide trials, a growth regulator test on corn, and soybean variety evaluations.

The event is planned to let people view research and hear explanations by scientists working at the Research Field.

Cecil Regier, field day chairman, says that a handout will be available on field day topics and other studies conducted at the research field. "Growers and agribusiness people interested in the latest agricultural technology will find this field day interesting and profitable," Dr. Thompson said.

After a "Dutch Lunch", talks on pest management, management of center pivot systems, limited tillage, surge irrigation and small grain varieties will be given at the head-

Corn silking well, cotton looks good

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scattered showers and lower temperatures have helped the corn crop in much of the eastern half of the country, says the government's Joint Agricultural Weather Facility.

Cotton was said to be in mostly good condition. Insect damage has been held in check by spraying in most areas, the report said.

By July 28, corn was in "fair to mostly good" condition nationally, the facility said Tuesday in its weekly review. Soybeans also were reported in fair-to-mostly-good shape.

Valley killings were result of drug deal

Corn was silking on 77 percent of the acreage in the major producing states, compared with 56 percent a year earlier and the average for this time of season of 62 percent, the report said. About 16 percent had reached the dough stage of kernel development, also well ahead of the usual progress.

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — The bullet-riddled bodies of two men have been discovered in this South Texas city in what police believe could have resulted from a drug deal that soured.

Winter wheat was 87 percent harvested, compared with 82 percent a year ago and the average of 83 percent. Harvest was done or nearly done in all states except Idaho, Mon-

Police said a 28-year-old man was arrested late Tuesday and held in Webb County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond in connection with at least one of the slayings. The victims, aged 38 and 37, were pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Danny Valdez.

Of kidnapped victims

Immediate steps urged by families

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peggy Say, whose brother has been held captive in Lebanon since last March, says she's encouraged that the U.S. government is laboring to gain freedom for him and six other American hostages.

In talks Tuesday with Reagan administration officials and members of Congress, Ms. Say and relatives of other kidnap victims urged the administration to take immediate steps to secure their freedom.

"Our frustration level had just about reached the eruption point," Ms. Say said after meeting with Robert Oakley, head of the State Department's counterterrorism office. "I think the families finally felt that somebody's listening to us."

Following a news conference on the plight of the hostages, Ms. Say and the other relatives met in closed-door discussions with Oakley, lawmakers and other administration officials.

The State Department subsequently issued a written statement quoting Oakley as having told the families: "I realize that the absence of visible progress toward the release of the seven Americans can easily be construed as an absence of effort on our part."

"The only satisfactory evidence that a serious effort is being made is, of course, the return of the hostages. But I can assure you that there is a constant effort at all levels of the administration."

Ms. Say is the sister of Terry Anderson, a correspondent for The Associated Press. Anderson, a native of Lorain, Ohio, and a former resident of Batavia, N.Y., was kidnapped in west Beirut in March.

Ms. Say said the group hopes to meet with Vice President George Bush on Thursday and persuade him to head a committee to focus on the problem.

Jeremy Levin, a Cable News Network correspondent who escaped after being held in Lebanon for nearly a year, said the kidnappers are demanding the release of 17 Arabs being held in Kuwait for the 1984 bombings of the American and French embassies.

He accused the administration of failing to share that information with the public, adding that people lack a clear idea of why the hostages are being held.

"Without that public expression of concern," Levin said, "I think it is likely that the government will continue to treat this crisis differently from the (TWA Flight 847) hijacking crisis, and these men will continue to suffer, as I did, in squalid solitary confinement, locked away in a dark room, wrists secured to the wall with a chain too short to permit standing."

Oakley said one difficulty has been the captors' unwillingness to identify themselves "or enter into any meaningful dialogue."

"Our policy toward giving such evidence" that the little girl's assailant was another man.

Boyd was separated from his wife and was rearing the 2-year-old himself in an apartment he shared with Michael Doyle Gray and Gray's wife.

One of Boyd's lawyers argued that the "bulk of medical testimony" showed the assault of the child occurred when Boyd was at work.

Prosecutors said they had investigated Gray but found no evidence he was responsible for the child's injuries. Gray is currently serving a prison sentence for burglary.

The New York Times reported today that most of the seven hostages were believed captives of a family of Shiite Moslem fundamentalists seeking the release of a relative being held in Kuwait.

The relative of the Shiite family is among the 17 men being held in Kuwait in connection with the embassy bombings, according to unidentified hostage family members and unidentified sources in Lebanon cited by the Times story.

The Shiite family has been identified as the Musawi clan of the Baalbek area, in the Bekaa valley in eastern Lebanon, the Times reported.

The six remaining hostages besides Anderson include William Buckley, a political officer at the U.S. Embassy in Beirut; the Rev. Benjamin Weir, a Presbyterian minister; Peter Kilburn, a librarian at the American University of Beirut; Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco; David Jacobsen, manager of the American University of Beirut Hospital; and Thomas Sutherland, the dean of American University of Beirut's school of agriculture.

Father acquitted in rape of daughter

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Tarrant County jury has acquitted a man charged with the sexual assault of his 2-year-old daughter.

But Bennie Harold Boyd, 34, still faces a murder charge in the Oct. 31, 1984 beating death of his daughter, Una Yvette Boyd. Her case was considered one of the city's worst instances of child abuse, officials said.

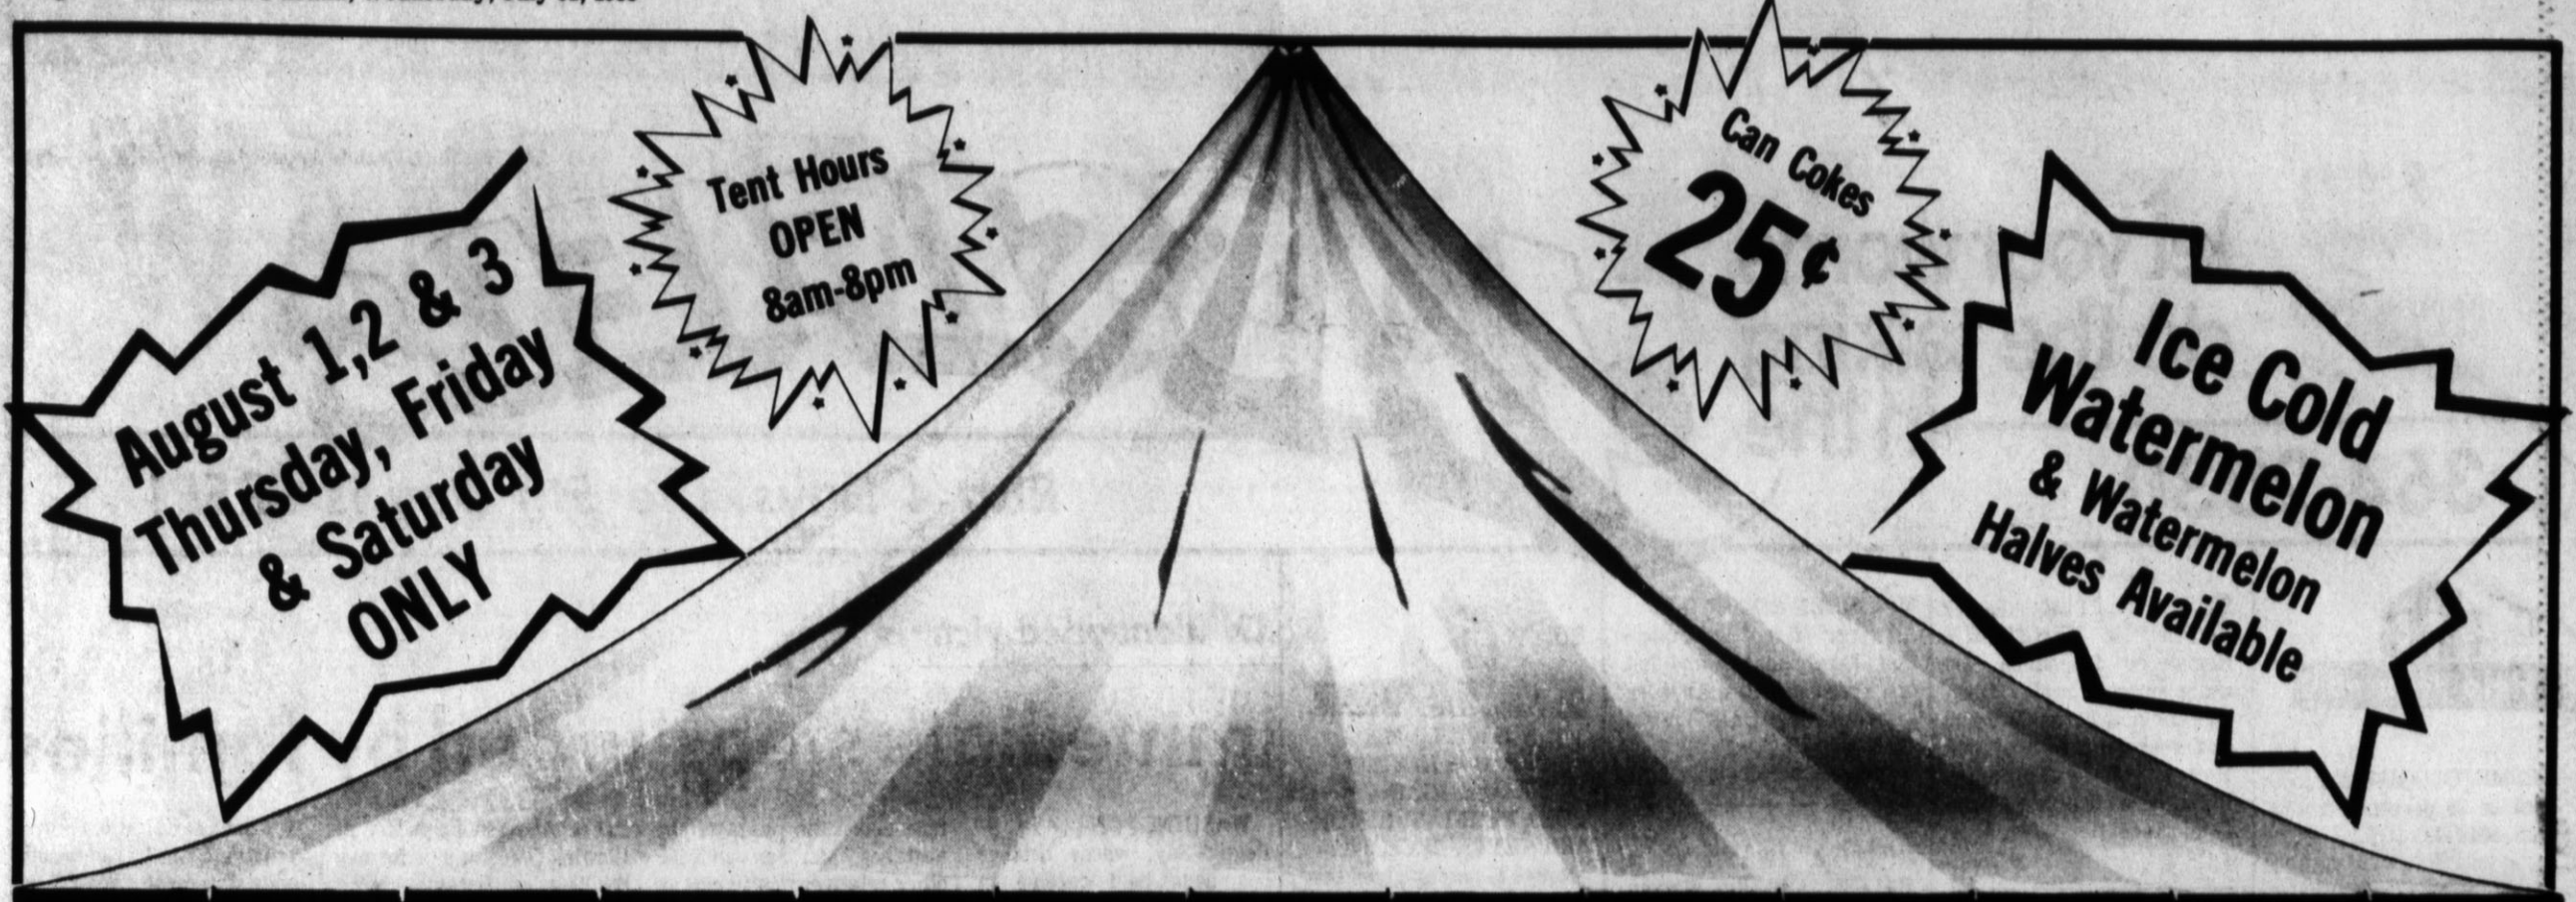

Boyd had earlier confessed to raping and beating his daughter, but he recanted his statement in trial testimony last week.

One of the jurors, Sally Sroczyński, said the defense attorneys presented "just too
