DALLAS (AP) — First Lady Nancy Reagan, former Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach and Texas Gov. Bill Clements banded together to preach the evils of narcotics and alcohol to cheering members of a drug abuse group.

Mrs. Reagan, who heads a nationwide anti-drug campaign, urged chanting, whistling members of the Palmer Drug Abuse Program to alert young people to the dangers of narcotics.

"The pain that you've been through, that you've endured, has transformed you into a force for good. You're a moral force," she told a crowd of about 500 people Friday.

"You're truth. And there are kids out there who desperately need the truth. Let them know the dangers of drugs. Let them know the truth you've seen."

To rousing cheers of "We love Nancy," Mrs. Reagan delivered the keynote speech at the group's convention. It was Mrs. Reagan's second visit to Dallas in six months as part of her anti-drug campaign.

"I have worked hard to create a harsh climate in Texas for drug dealers, drug pushers and drug peddlers," Clements said.

In a reference to Staubach's television commercials, someone yelled to the former pro football player, "How do you spell relief?"

"S-o-b-r-i-e-t-y," Staubach answered, to cheers from the crowd.

Sheriff's Benefit Show Aug. 16

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Department is sponsoring its Sixth Annual Benefit Show Monday, Aug. 16 at the Hereford High School auditorium. Coming to town this year is The Music City Jubilee, a three-hour show featuring Wally Fowler, who owned and operated the original Oak Ridge Boys Quartet.

Fowler also takes credit for discovering Patsy Cline, Hank Williams, and Chet Atkins, and wrote Eddy Arnold's first million seller, "That's How Much I Love You." He established Nashville's first publishing company in 1941, founded Bullet Records, and originated the concept of the all-night gospel singing.

Ag Commissioner Hopeful to Visit

Fred Thornberry, Republican candidate for Texas Commissioner of Agriculture, will appear at the Hereford State Bank during the noon hour Monday as a guest of the Deaf Smith County Republican Women's Organization.

Thornberry, 45, is a Texas A&M graduate and is a native of Montgomery County. He is part owner of a 300 head beef herd.

Jubilee To Be 'Fun for All'

The Second Annual Hereford Town & Country Jubilee, using a theme of "Our Golden Future," will certainly have something to offer just about everybody this year. The celebration, which gets underway next Saturday with a 10 K and two-mile fun run and the Miss Hereford Pageant, has been expanded this year over the initial Jubilee held last year.

The main thrust of the festivities will be on Saturday, Aug. 21, when a parade, barbecue, chili cookoff, rodeo performance, and "Jubilee Junction" are held.

The Hereford & Vicinity YMCA and Deaf Smith General Hospital have the honor of jump-starting the Jubilee this year when they jointly sponsor a 10 K run and a 2-mile fun run, beginning at 9 a.m. at Whiteface Stadium on Saturday, Aug. 14.

A bushel basket full of plaques, medals and T-shirts will be awarded to runners in that event, which is also in its second year.

The Miss Hereford Pageant, featuring 17 hopefuls for the coveted title, will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the HHS auditorium that evening. The pageant is sponsored by the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

The pageant actually begins at 2 p.m. that day, with talent presentation by the hopefuls. From the field, the judges will select eight finalists to perform their talent again in the evening.

Tickets for the afternoon talent show are $2 for adults and $1 for children, with admission price for the evening pageant set at $2.50.

The YMCA gets into the act again on Sunday, Aug. 15 with an 8 p.m. "Gospel Jubilee" performance at Whiteface Field. The program will feature local musicians Mary Crist and Johnny Ray Watson.

The Hereford Chamber Singers join the list of headliners on Thursday, Aug. 19 with their "Pigs, Pearls, and Poison Ivy, Part II," beginning at 8 p.m.

Before the Chamber Singers hit the stage, however, the Deaf Smith County Legal Secretaries Association will stage a Jubilee "Rock-A-Thon" on Tuesday, Aug. 17 at the chamber of commerce parking lot.

The county fair, named the "Agriculture Jubilee" this year, will run Aug. 19-22 at the Bull Barn, while the Jubilee of Arts will run Aug. 20-22 at the community center.

Peso Drop May Hurt Texas

By The Associated Press

Both Mexican citizens and Texas businessmen along the Rio Grande who depend on their trade to survive are reeling from the second blow in less than a year to the peso.

The flow of the Mexican peso across the Rio Grande dropped Friday, although businessmen said they are not exactly sure how much trade suffered. As many as 90 pesos were required to buy a U.S. dollar in Mexico City, but exchange rates of other banks and merchants varied.

U.S. Warning PLO About Talks Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is warning Palestinian guerrillas trapped in west Beirut that Israel will likely seek to crush them by force if there is further delay in resolving the crisis through negotiations.

"We have made it clear both to the PLO (through governments in direct touch with it) and to the Arab states that, if there is not a prompt diplomatic resolution to the problem of the PLO fighters in west Beirut, there is a real danger of military action," Alan Romberg, the State Department's deputy spokesman, said Friday.

Romberg said the current Israeli military stranglehold on west Beirut constitutes "a clear form of pressure" on the Palestine Liberation Organization to agree to withdraw its fighters from the besieged city.

And he said this pressure "has to be factored into the diplomatic approach for solving this problem peacefully."

When we suggested that county commissioners put a substantial deposit on dances at the Bull Barn, we forgot that governmental officials are prone to think real substantial about money.

When it was announced that the deposit would be $1,500 plus a user's fee of $200, some wag called our office. "Just want you to know that we're planning a couple of fundraising projects this year so that we can hold a dance next year," said the caller.

We also had a call from a lady who wanted it made clear that folks in square dance clubs don't booze it up at their parties. Two of the county commissioners said they voted against dances at the county-owned barn because there was no practical way to control drinking.

At the same time, the administration is urging Israel to reconsider its rejection of the latest request from the United States. The Reagan administration had asked Israel to pull its troops out of areas of west Beirut seized in fighting during the past week.

Early Morning Raid Breaks Up Large Cocaine Ring In Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Federal agents say an early-morning raid that rounded up 24 of 34 people named in a sealed indictment broke up one of the largest cocaine rings in North Texas.

Agents confiscated "several pounds" of cocaine worth about $30,000 a pound in the raids of four northside residences Friday.

The arrests on charges of conspiracy to import, distribute and sell cocaine culminated from a four-month investigation by FBI and Drug Enforcement Administration agents.

A North Dallas man who federal agents said ran the closely knit ring was among those arrested. Assistant U.S. Attorney Bob Smith said the leader of the cocaine operation was known to FBI agents as "Snow White." Smith identified the leader as John Russell Webster.

Smith said the cocaine was shipped to Dallas and Florida by commercial airlines and automobile.

Federal agents said the smuggling operation had been operating since 1978.

About 80 agents fanned through the Dallas area about 7 a.m. to make the arrests.

Smith said a "substantial amount" of drugs, automobiles, jewelry and personal property were confiscated during the raid.

He called the operation a "carefully orchestrated series of arrests and searches."

FBI spokesman U.H. Specht said that others sought in the 88-count indictment were from "the affluent North Dallas area."

Former Aide Indicted On Paycheck Theft

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A former legislative aide has been reindicted by a Travis County grand jury for allegedly stealing state paychecks.

Earlier this week State District Judge Hume Cofer threw out 19 of 20 counts in a previous indictment against Arthur Turner, former aide to Rep. Al Price, D-Beaumont. Cofer said the counts failed to specifically name Turner.

On Thursday, local grand jurors returned one 20-count theft indictment and 20 separate official misconduct indictments against Turner.

The former aide allegedly added a phantom aide to Price's payroll without the lawmaker's knowledge.

More Food Stamp Fraud Charges Likely In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal prosecutor running an investigation of food stamp violations which has led to charges against 53 people says there are more indictments to come.

"Our investigation is continuing," Assistant U.S. Attorney Earl Shamwell said Friday after 27 people were charged through criminal information papers filed by his office. "This is not the end of it."

The 27, all employees or relatives of employees of the Metropolitan Transit Authority and the Veterans Administration, are accused of falsifying information about their work on applications for food stamps. Eligibility for the stamp program is determined by income.

The charges were connected to $23,000 of food stamp coupons issued between early 1981 and April.

The offense with which the 27 are charged, illegally acquiring and possessing food stamps, can be punished by a five-year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine.

Federal authorities said they targeted the two government agencies after receiving information about violations by their employees.

A Harris County grand jury last week indicted 26 people last week on charges related to unlawfully trading food stamps.

That group of people, most of whom were employees of small stores, was accused of accepting food stamps for merchandise at a cut rate and redeeming them at their face value.

Interferon Tests

To Be Released In Fall

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Results of tests at Texas A&M University to determine whether the manmade drug Interferon is effective against a common cold virus will be released this fall, researchers say.

Texas A&M scientists said Friday they have begun to use Interferon, which has been used to treat cancer, on 35 student volunteers to analyze its effects on Rhinovirus No. 13, a common source of colds. In another, unrelated test, 80 other students have received combined vaccines against Russian and Bangkok flu strains.

Volunteers at the university's student health center were exposed to the cold virus, then treated with either Interferon or a placebo, said Dr. John Quarles, Texas A&M microbiologist.

Pocket-size sprayers similar to those used for nasal medications were used to dispense Interferon to the students twice daily, he said.

But three of four students considered for the tests had been rejected because they had developed antibodies through previous exposure to the cold virus, Quarles said.

Hoffman-LaRoche Inc., a drug company, manufactured the Interferon, he said.

The summer flu study at A&M, in cooperation with Baylor College of Medicine, is the first to simultaneously examine multiple viruses and treatments using new vaccines, he said.

Proposed Changes Inhibit Bringing Family To Country

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Proposed immigration law changes would drastically inhibit the ability of American citizens to bring their foreign spouses, parents, children and siblings to this country, say some immigration lawyers.

Areas such as the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where families commonly span the Rio Grande into Mexico, could be vastly affected, they add.

Some attorneys are running radio commercials in Spanish about the proposal and urging those possibly affected to contact a lawyer soon.

"It's just going to eliminate a lot of people from being able to adjust their (immigration) status. The people need to know this," said lawyer Linda Yanez.

Congress is considering the proposal in the Simpson-Mazzoli bill, a package of proposed immigration law revisions, including amnesty for many illegal aliens and sanctions against employers who hire undocumented workers.

It would be unfair to grant legal status to those who unlawfully sneak into the country while others have waited years to process their immigration papers, said lawyer Laurier McDonald of Edinburg.

"Amnesty is starting a person off with the idea that if you break the law and get away with it, it's all right," McDonald said. "I think recent surveys have shown the American public is 99 to 1 against amnesty."

Some sections of the bill, such as the amnesty provision, might be dropped while the quota restrictions might remain, he added.

A Mexican sibling of an American citizen would have waited six weeks in 1978 for his application to be processed, but it now takes up to five years, McDonald said.

Under current law, there is no restriction on the numbers of spouses, parents and children of American citizens who receive visas to enter the country.

The American citizen files a petition, which the Immigration and Naturalization Service checks to verify the relationship, said Ira Frank, an attorney in the INS district office in Harlingen. The prospective immigrant then must pass medical and criminal records checks, show ability to earn a living and not have engaged in alien smuggling, espionage or subversive activities.

In 1979 — the latest year with complete figures available — 28,055 Mexican nationals receive entry visas under the "immediate relative" provision, said Duke Austin, an INS spokesman in Washington.

An additional 24,424 Mexican nationals were admitted under the preference system, in which quotas are assigned to different priorities. Brothers and sisters of American citizens accounted for 4,462 priority entries from Mexico.

Businessmen, investors and relatives of resident aliens are some of the other preference classes.

Under the bill introduced by Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., and Rep. Romano Mazzoli, D-Ky., there would be a 40,000 limit on Mexican nationals granted visas and immediate relatives would be included in that number.

Siblings would be almost eliminated from immigrating because quotas would be lower in the different categories, said Ms. Yanez.

She said she got immediate reaction to several radio spots she aired on the proposal.

"We had quite a few people call us and say they just never got around to it (filing for their relatives)," she said.

Hal Bouldin, INS district director in Harlingen, said he knew of several proposed changes in immigration law but declined to comment on how any of them might affect an alien's chances of establishing legal residency.

"I would not hazard a guess as to what might be passed," said Bouldin.

Another INS official who asked not to be named questioned whether some lawyers might be trying to increase their clientele by advertising about the possible changes.

"It really does a disservice to the aliens and the INS to speculate on it because the alien's hopes are raised and possibly dashed, particularly with the amnesty talk," the official said. "We've seen where people start trying to resist arrest when they normally would have gone along peacefully."

McDonald said aliens should consult an attorney before going to the INS.

"We have people come by who have already gone to the INS and signed a paper or unknowingly agreed to voluntary departure. We cannot undo what they've already done," he said.

In some cases, a person qualifies under a higher preference class than is first apparent, McDonald added.

"I had a man come in on an application to be petitioned by his sister. Well, it would have taken five years for a sibling application," he said. "But it turns out he's a businessman in Mexico and needs to get a U.S. office to facilitate getting his machinery into Mexico."

The man filed for immigration papers under a business visa.

Nader Calls Agency 'Fraud'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader, the country's most influential consumer advocate, is asking President Reagan to abolish the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs because he says the agency is a fraud.

In a letter Friday to the president, Nader said that the agency is becoming "an increasingly irrelevant public relations shop," and that its director, Virginia Knauer, does not speak out on consumer issues and has little influence in the White House.

Nader said the existence of the consumer agency "only misleads citizens into thinking that they have an ear in the White House, into believing that someone is watching out for their rights."

"Since this is assuredly no longer the case," he said, "spare Americans the pretense and the useless expenditure of their funds by closing the office down."

Nader, who made his name as a consumer advocate with the 1965 book about the auto industry, "Unsafe at Any Speed," said Mrs. Knauer's philosophy of cooperation with industry is an "utter failure" in addressing consumer issues or bringing results.

Joseph Dawson, spokesman for the consumer office, said the letter illustrates the "difference between Ralph's perception of what consumerism should be and ours."

In the past, Mrs. Knauer has said she hopes consumer problems can be solved through cooperation with industry.

Dawson acknowledged that the office was less outspoken than it was during the 1970s but said this was because industry is more sensitive to consumer problems and is now willing to listen.

Stephen Brobeck, a spokesman for the Consumer Federation of America, disagreed with Nader about abolishing the agency, saying it was "extremely important" to have an institutionalized consumer voice in the White House.

He agreed that the Office of Consumer Affairs had less influence than in the past, but said this was not Mrs. Knauer's fault but that of the administration, which has lowered the status of the office.

The board is expected to discuss milk and bread bids for the coming year as well.

U.S. Steel Rejects Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tentative agreement to limit European steel exports to the United States appears doomed after U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's No. 1 steelmaker, rejected the settlement as "neither fair nor equitable."

U.S. Steel turned down the proposal Friday, shortly after U.S. and European Economic Community officials announced that lengthy talks on the long-running trade dispute had resulted in an agreement.

Renovations Top County Agenda

Deaf Smith County Commissioners will discuss renovations to the old Walker property and are expected to advertise for bids on that work when the commission meets in regular session at 10 a.m. Monday at the courthouse.

Other items on the agenda are a discussion on the weed problem in the county with chamber exec Mike Carr, a resolution regarding the Panhandle highways, and a report on the National Association of Counties convention from Pct. 3 Commissioner Bruce Coleman.

Merchants on the U.S.-Mexico border said they have seen exchange rates vary before, but two devaluations in a six-month period was staggering.

"This one's different," said Clinton "Bud" Luckett, vice president and manager of international banking at State National. "There was one in 1954 that didn't repeat until 1976 and that one didn't repeat until 1982. Now we've had two in 1982. You can't compare it to the others. This one's got us buffaloed."

The Mexican government said Thursday night that it would allow the peso to float to a new dollar level based on supply and demand.

"Business was just getting better after the February devaluation and now this," said L.E. Joines, manager of the J.C. Penney department store in McAllen's La Plaza Mall.

Joines said 25 to 30 percent of his store's sales are to Mexican nationals. Most live in nearby Reynosa, but many others travel from Monterrey and other large interior cities.

U.S. Consul William Tilney said poor residents along the Texas-Mexico border were "punch drunk" in the wake of the devaluation. He said that the financial change would cut sharply into the Mexican middle class, which he called a "dangerous element."

"What we don't want is to have a destabilized area on the border because of the unsettled economic conditions and because of a sense of lack of control over events," Tilney said. "No matter how much they anticipate and condition themselves, for Mexicans it is a feeling of lack of control that I think is the problem."

Businessmen said Mexican tourists spend heavily in department stores in Houston, San Antonio, Dallas and Fort Worth. But the devaluation will put a crimp in that business, said John Morgan, an economist with Texas Commerce Bank in Houston.

that the president is getting some bad advice from his economic advisers," said Michael Sumichrast, the association's chief economist. "I don't know what they're waiting for — for the ship to go down."

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan "is sympathetic, deeply concerned and he believes his program, once fully enacted ... will provide a permanent solution to unemployment problems."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said the employment report "reinforces the need for immediate action in creating jobs."

Democratic Party chairman Charles T. Manatt asserted that the figures "make a mockery of the pathetic effort of the Reagan administration to obscure the failing economic policies that have brought the nation to the brink of depression."

The 0.3 percentage point increase from June to July — from 9.5 percent to 9.8 percent — means that an additional 360,000 Americans were thrown out of work. The total number of unemployed rose to 10.8 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The unemployment rate shattered the previous post-World War II record of 9 percent when it hit 9.4 percent in April, then held steady at 9.5 percent in May and June. Since the current business slump set in last July, 2.9 million people have lost their jobs.

The 9.8 percent figure was the highest since the government began compiling month-to-month jobless statistics in 1948. The previous high was an annual unemployment rate of 9.9 percent in 1941. Unemployment has not been above 10 percent since the 14.6 percent annualized rate of 1940.

Within various segments of the working population, individual post-war unemployment records were set for blue-collar workers, 14.4 percent; white workers, 8.7 percent; adult males, 8.8 percent; and teen-agers, 24.1 percent.

Senior Citizens Association Is There To Lend A Hand

Staff Members

Staffers of the Hereford Senior Citizens Association keep things running smoothly and efficiently. From left are Rosa Lee Thames, Secretary; Margie Danies, executive director; and Mary Cervantez, receptionist.

Editor's note: This is the sixth in a series of 10 articles about various United Way agencies operating locally and their impact on the community.

"Nothing is worse than loneliness," declares Margie Daniels, executive director of the Hereford Senior Citizens Association. Ms. Daniels works with the governing board, coordinating basic outlines of the senior citizens program and assisting with acquiring and budgeting program funding.

"The main objective of this organization is to reach the senior citizens in all of Deaf Smith County who need us, whether it be providing transportation, nourishing meals or just to give these people a place to go to enjoy fellowship with others," she adds.

"Through referrals from doctors, hospital staff and the Family Services Center, our staff finds these people who are isolated and encourages them to become interested in the activities we provide."

"It gives them a purpose each day to know they can come here and not be alone," continues Ms. Daniels.

The Hereford Senior Citizens Association, located in the west wing of the old Central School building, began in 1975.

The association's annual budget, excluding the nutrition program, last year was approximately $25,000. Nearly $5,000 was received from the 1981 United Way effort.

This money was used to pay salaries, help defer operating expenses for their facilities, assist with activity expenses and buy supplies.

Activities offered at the center include birthday socials and other special events, providing facilities for recreational activities, physical fitness classes and craft sessions.

The association provides transportation to and from the center and for those who have doctor's appointments either here or in the surrounding area.

"We have one lady that we take to Amarillo for her chemotherapy treatments," states Ms. Daniels. "Our staff, whether paid workers or the volunteers, tries to help the individual in any way they can."

To join the association, one must be at least 55 years old and pay a $5 membership fee. The average age of a member is from 75 to 80.

Newsletters are sent out once a month to members listing scheduled activities, birthdays and other news items. A menu for the noon congregational meal is also listed.

The congregational meal is held at the senior citizens' building from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The minimum age limit is 60. There is no set cost for the meal, although it is required that a donation be made. Meal tickets for guests are $2.25.

An average of 205 meals are served each day, including 148 people who have their noon meal in the center's dining room and the 57 participants of the home delivery program.

"This figure is quite a contrast to the 40 meals we served per day in 1979," says Ms. Daniels.

The home delivery program, which operates Monday through Friday, is based on what the individual can afford to donate. Various churches also assist financially with this program.

A paid staff member drives the long home-delivery routes and volunteers help with shorter routes and delivering meals to shut-ins.

There are nine paid employees which are mostly funded through the nutrition program. Cooking begins at 6 a.m. each day with two full-time staff members and two part-time employees.

During the Town and Country Jubilee, Aug. 20-22, the center will have a quilt show Aug. 20-21 in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room. Quilts must be brought in from 3-5 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 19.

A table will be set up during the Jubilee of Art at the Community Center with ceramics and handmade crafts by association members on sale.

The group will also enter a float in the parade during that festive weekend.

Hours at the Senior Citizens Center are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Board members include president Homer Garrison; Homer Brumley, vice president; J.O. Robinson, treasurer; Pauline Lady, secretary; Liz Wilson, publicity chairman; Nell Culpepper, recreation chairman; Stella Hershey, entertainment chairman; and Ora Morgan, outreach leader.

It's Your Play

Activities of all kinds are provided by the Hereford Senior Citizens Association which is located in the old Central School building. The main purpose of the organization is to assist senior citizens. These men are apparently having a good time indulging in one of the many activities available.

Government Collapses

ROME (AP) — Premier Giovanni Spadolini is expected to announce his resignation today following the defection of seven Socialist Cabinet ministers over an oil tax dispute.

President Sandro Pertini, who cut short his summer vacation and headed back for Rome, told reporters: "Spadolini can't go to Parliament with his Cabinet cut in half."

Pertini told reporters that consultations on the formation of a new government would begin Monday. Spadolini, a Republican, was expected to submit his resignation to Pertini after a Cabinet meeting today.

The Socialists, who form the key to any non-Communist Italian government because the dominant Christian Democrats do not have a majority, quit on Friday after the lower house of Parliament rejected a proposal by Finance Minister Rino Formica, a Socialist, to speed up tax payments by oil companies.

The Christian Democrats have refused to join a government alliance with the Communists, Italy's second most powerful party.

Spadolini, a member of the minority Republican Party, became premier in June 1981.

Go for It!

We're excited about the possibilities of the proposed Special Events Center complex!

When Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce directors gave the go-ahead Thursday on developing plans for the center, the first reaction of some citizens was: "Gee, how can they think of such a big project at a time like this?"

It is a valid question, but those dreaming the big dream believe the time is ripe for planning. They are optimistic about the future and want the community to be ready to move when the economics of the project appear feasible.

It's an ambitious undertaking, to be sure. But, we don't think it is too big for Hustlin' Hereford!

Although the Past Presidents' Committee of the chamber initiated this program about a year ago, the need for such facilities has been talked about for a number of years. The surveys and questionnaires put out by the Goals Progress (GoPro) committee in 1975 revealed that citizens thought there was a need at that time.

The idea of a campus-type complex is an innovative factor, and we like that. Discussing community facilities several years ago, this writer asked the question: "Isn't it time we quit building ponds and built a nice lake?"

We hope most of our citizens are excited about the project, at least for now. We may decide the complex costs too much when the price tag is determined, but we're glad the chamber started the "ripple" and we're hopeful it will spread into a big "lake."

Right move, wrong reasons

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In a city where the politically powerful regularly act contrary to the public interest, it's always refreshing to find politicians doing the right thing — even if they're motivated by the wrong reasons.

That's the case with the proposed constitutional amendment to require balanced federal budgets in the future, an eminently sensible concept being embraced by many of the country's most reckless and irresponsible spendthrifts.

Atop that list is President Reagan, who holds the dubious distinction of being the first chief executive in the nation's history to submit to Congress an annual budget with a deficit in excess of $100 billion.

Not far behind the president in that category are hundreds of members of Congress who presumably believe they can entice the voters by ostentatiously endorsing the principle of a balanced budget, while simultaneously approving record-breaking federal deficits.

Finally, there is the National Tax Limitation Committee, the group principally responsible for the awesome lobbying campaign on behalf of the amendment. NTLC promotes itself as an independent, non-partisan organization but, in fact, it has served as a shell for the Reagan White House.

Opponents of the amendment, noting the shamelessly cynical posturing by its adherents in recent weeks, have vehemently denounced the proposal as a fraud, a hoax, a diversionary scheme and a flimsy public relations gimmick.

To the extent that the amendment indeed is being manipulated by individuals and organizations seeking self-aggrandizement and short-term political gain, that criticism is correct.

Reagan has offered the country an "economic recovery program" that would, according to the Congressional Budget Office, produce more than $564 billion worth of new government deficits during his current four-year term of office.

Yet when recently endorsing the proposed amendment, the president had the audacity to proclaim: "We must not, and we will not, permit prospects for lasting economic recovery to be buried beneath an endless tide of red ink."

Citing that dichotomy, Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., suggests that Reagan administration support for the amendment "raises certain questions of credibility." A less circumspect critic might have referred instead to "hypocrisy" and "duplicity."

Those adjectives are equally applicable to Congress, which apparently prefers theory to reality when dealing with balanced budgets. The House and Senate last month approved a resolution clearing the way for a record-shattering deficit of almost $104 billion in the next fiscal year.

Finally, there's NTLC, which claims that it "was founded in 1975 for a single purpose: to constitutionally limit spending and taxes at all levels of government."

In fact, NTLC has devoted much of its energies during the past 18 months to serving as a White House helpmate, promoting a Reagan budget wholly unrelated to any constitutional limitation and attacking "Democratic Party bosses."

When the White House last February unveiled its proposed budget for the next fiscal year, calling for a deficit of $91.5 billion (later recalculated to more than $100 million), NTLC responded with a 500-word press release that didn't even mention the president's name, much less criticize him for abandoning his campaign commitment to a balanced budget.

The proposed constitutional amendment deserves a broader base of support if for no other reason that its potential to serve as a psychological deterrent to future presidents and members of Congress insensitive to the problems posed by adding to a national debt that already totals $1.14 trillion.

Notwithstanding the current sense of euphoria among the proposal's most zealous promoters, amending the Constitution remains very difficult task. Indeed, no new language has been added to the document since 1971.

If the new proposal is viewed as merely a parochial cause embraced by a relatively small group of Reagan allies and self-serving legislators anxious to divert attention from their profligate habits, it will fail — and the nation will have lost an important opportunity to bring some sanity to the budget process.

The Penultimate Word

ME AND THE CRITTERS

I went to see E.T. It was a good flick. This is not a movie critic column, but the movie kicked off some stuff in me.

E.T. was the ugliest thing I have ever cried over. I have seen better looking garbage. His (or was it a her?) skin looked like weathered leather. His body was totally deformed. If I met the thing in the woods at night there would be a run-a-way. Yet, by the time the show was over. The thing was cute and I was in tears... now that is some flick.

But this old weird mind always has to come up with the odd thought. I sometimes think I belong on another planet. I left the show with some observations, questions, or just weird thoughts. You be the judge of which.

How come we always picture aliens from other planets as smarter than we are? Who knows, maybe they are dumber. How come they can defy gravity, or light up a finger, or learn our language overnight? If they are so smart, how come they bothered to come here?

How come we do not mind their being smarter than we are, as long as they are not as good looking? They are always pictured as grotesque. They never look like us. There is a possibility that, if they exist, they might be just like us, warts and all. They might have warts and greed and dumb stuff like that. They might — who knows?

One last how come. How come the government is always pictured as the bad guys? In E.T. there were a lot of scenes of marching feet and rattling keys. The Government was bad, the mother was a ding-a-ling and the children were the only ones with sense or love. I am tired of the Government being pictured like this. There seems to be an idea in this country that whatever problem there is, the government did it. That whatever the Government does, it does it wrong. E.T. played this theme to a T.

If an alien lands in my backyard, you can bet your boots, I am going to call for the Government, the F.B.I., the local police, the sheriff, the national guard, Anybody but me. And they won't be bad. I will make coffee for them while they chase the critter.

U.S. Chamber Voice of Business

Environmentalists Violate Trust

WASHINGTON--Last December, the U.S. Chamber commissioned an Opinion Research poll to probe the public's attitudes on clean air legislation and other environmental issues. Among other findings, the survey revealed that next to the Environmental Protection Agency, the group or institution most trusted to make suggestions for changing the Clean Air Act is the environmentalists.

How have environmentalists handled this impressive vote of confidence from the American people? Unfortunately, the current congressional debate over reforming and renewing the Clean Air Act offers ample evidence that many are abusing their public trust.

Through scare tactics and outright distortions, they have turned an already complex issue into a political football. This may be a good fundraising strategy, but it is hardly the way to affect good environmental legislation.

Those who have been working to pass a better Clean Air law that maintains health standards without sacrificing needed construction, jobs and economic growth—including businesses, labor unions, state and local officials, the Reagan administration and a bipartisan coalition in Congress—have been vilified recently in a vicious letter-writing campaign.

For example, the Sierra Club asserts flatly that "the Reagan administration and a host of its big business allies are working to destroy the Clean Air Act...They want the Act dismantled and are pinning their hopes on a 'dirty air bill' now moving through Congress."

The Wilderness Society echoes this charge in its fundraising letters: "Powerful special economic interests, polluting industries and the Reagan administration are working together to dismantle the Act." The Environmental Defense Fund states that if this effort succeeds, "the health of thousands of people could be affected, and parts of our environment could deteriorate beyond the point of possible future recovery."

The National Audubon Society carried this charge even further in a recent "study" and press release. It accused the Congress and the administration of proposing to weaken the Clean Air Act in a manner that could result in 2,000 excess deaths each year west of the Mississippi.

As off base as they are, it is difficult to refute such extreme charges, because they present no rational basis for constructive discussion and debate. This in itself is a disservice to a public that obviously depends on these organizations for information and insight.

Yet, these letters fare no better when they do focus on specifics. For example, the Wilderness Society asserts that the clean air reform bill sponsored by House Democrats John Dingell and Thomas Luken (and backed by the administration) would:

"Eliminate stringent protection of air quality in most of our national parks." (Not true)

"Repeal or relax 115 provisions of the clean Air Act, involving every major part of the Law." (No basis for this claim)

"Eliminate the requirement that states must meet national air quality standards as quickly as possible." (The basic deadlines do not change in the Luken bill.)

I realize that the leaders of these and other environmental groups may not look too kindly upon counsel from the president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. But as one who has had to grapple head on with the cynicism and distrust that often confront members of the business community, let me make a suggestion to our environmental leaders: The public trusts you. Don't abuse that trust further by reducing the clean air debate to hysterics and unprovable charges—or by accusing those who happen to disagree with your particular proposals of wanting to destroy the environment and send people to an early grave. Your organization, your country and our environment will all be better off if you play it straight with the American people.

Reaganomics: In Plain English

Economists talk gobblegook. They don't understand one another; they certainly don't agree with one another.

They adopt catch phrases such as "supply-side economics" to identify specific economic philosophies and such phrases are not specific at all.

Let's see if we can define Reaganomics in shirt-sleeve English.

Ayn Rand's splendid book, "Atlas Shrugged," should have been a classic movie; would have been except that industry at that time was putting its liberal politics ahead of any other consideration.

The gist of her novel was condensed to a sentence by one of its leading characters; "Americans expect to keep their lights on while turning off the generators."

"Atlas" became an economic bible for supply-siders, including Ronald Reagan, who mentioned it often and favorably in his early radio commentaries.

We need another Ayn Rand who can comprehend both the intricacies of the system and the language of the streets.

Because this 1982 election time we still have politicians contradicting themselves. They want to keep the lights lit but turn off the generator.

Former Treasury Secretary Bill Simon is too blunt for the bureaucracy and, sometimes for the media. Of supply-side economics he says, "the press is not happy unless it has a slogan it can use to cover its economic ignorance."

But whether it's called supply-side economics or capital formation or savings-and-investment — whatever it's called, it is not new. What it means is that you reduce taxes enough so that the suppliers of jobs can afford to invest, modernize, expand, stimulate economic growth create more jobs.

Instead, he says, "all Congress allowed the Reagan administration to do was to reduce some taxes barely enough to offset other tax increases."

If supply-side economics fails it may well be because we who trust it have not been able to explain it.

So I telephoned James Evans, author of "America's Choice." his book explains it — but in 60,000 words.

"Can you do it in six words," I challenged him.

He re-recited the original story of the "Golden Goose"; then said, "Unproductive government saps strength from productive people."

Our factories are presently operating at less than 70 percent.

I telephoned Pete Logan, the salty rodeo announcer who has a gift for pruning linguistic overgrowth. He did it with a parable: "The last dinosaurs in the swamp, starving for having consumed without producing, cried then sighed then died."

He thinks Tip O'Neill is a dinosaur.

Bootleg Philosopher

Human Nature Same World Over

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek forgets Congress and discusses human nature this week.

Dear editor:

Right now there's more oil and gasoline available than's needed and it's partly due to the OPEC leaders' ignorance of human nature.

For a while those 13 countries had a good thing going. Discovering they had something the world had to have, they all got together and doubled and then tripled the price of oil, and the world paid through the nose.

"All we have to do is stick together," the OPEC leaders said, "and we've got the world by the tail with a downhill pull." (That's a ranching phrase and originally referred to pulling a stubborn calf by the tail, but I suppose it'd apply just as well to a camel.)

But later on additional oil was discovered elsewhere in the world, people began using less, and OPEC's seller's market turned into a buyer's market. Competition set in and the price began to drop. OPEC leaders met and agreed to cut down on production and thus hold the line on prices. They all shook hands on it and went home.

That's when human nature surfaced. One leader, probably wanting to replace his fleet of Rolls-Royces and having a son who'd just run up a million-dollar hotel bill in Los Angeles, decided to open a valve and produce a little more oil. Then another leader, probably needing some extra money because his wife was unhappy about a neighbor's having bigger diamonds than hers, opened a valve and oohed his production up.

Before long their ironclad pact was busted and oil buyers found it paid to shop around.

OPEC leaders should have studied us farmers. If all the farmers in the U.S. got together and decided to cut production by 30 percent to increase prices, what percentage of us do you reckon would go home and double his production.

Human nature is pretty much the same the world over and so far nobody has invented a remedy.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Paul evidently had a disability that he called "a thorn in the flesh." That is indeed an appropriate term for some disabilities.

"... there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me lest I should be exalted above measure. For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me. And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness..." II Cor. 12:7-9.

Newly Installed Pastor

The Rev. Matthew Sullivan and his wife, Marie, recently assumed the pastorate of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Ave. B and Park. They moved to Hereford about a month ago, after Sullivan completed a one-year vicarage at Ascension Lutheran Church in Torrance, Calif., and earned his Master of Divinity degree at Concordia Theological Seminary, Fort Wayne, Ind.

New Pastor, Wife Find Hereford Very Friendly

BY LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

"Just about everywhere we've gone in Hereford we've found the people to be friendly and open," states the Rev. Matthew Sullivan, who recently assumed the pastorate of Immanuel Lutheran Church. He and his wife, Marie, moved to Hereford about a month ago. "The congregation has received us with open arms, and when we have gone out visiting, people have sent fresh vegetables and things home with us," says Matthew.

The formal installation service was held July 11 at the church, just after the couple arrived in town. Matthew recently completed a one-year vicarage at Ascension Lutheran Church in Torrance, Calif., and soon after was awarded his Master of Divinity degree at Concordia Theological Seminary in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Matthew received a dual degree in religious studies and psychology from California State University in Long Beach, Calif., prior to attending the seminary. He also attended Cerritos College and Biola College.

Marie earned a degree in medical assisting at Cerritos College and worked as a medical assistant in California. She was a chiropractic assistant the three years they were in Fort Wayne.

"I earned my 'P.H.T.' at seminary," laughs Marie. "Putting hubby through!"

Both Matthew and Marie grew up in Downey, Calif., and graduated from high school there.

Marie is presently helping her husband with secretarial duties at the church, as the couple is in the process of updating files, putting out mailings and bulletins, and taking time and talent surveys as they attempt to call on every member and visitor to the services.

"We want to work on greater exposure of the church in the community," comments Matthew. "We just put up a new sign in front of the church and hope to get some set up along the highways."

"We are planning to reach out to the community and want to help out in any way we can, making ourselves available to people," he continues.

Both Matthew and Marie are playing softball with the church league through the YMCA program. They both agree that "it is a lot of fun and a nice way to meet people."

"We are working on getting everything unpacked and getting our house in order so that we can have an open house for the church members soon," notes Marie.

In September, Matthew will be leading Bible studies for a month at Westgate Nursing Home. "I am looking forward to working with the people and plan to help out there off and on," he says. "I'll be making regular hospital calls and have made myself available for calls if someone has not specified a specific church or pastor."

In addition to his duties here, Matthew is serving as vacancy pastor at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Friona, getting there for an 8:30 a.m. service and driving back to Hereford in time for Sunday school at 10 a.m. and worship service, which begins at 11 a.m.

"We are planning on having an adult information class some evening during the week, later on," states Matthew. "It will be open to the community and anyone wishing to learn more about the Lutheran Church is welcome. An opportunity to join the church will be made available at the conclusion of the classes.

"We would love to get a choir and youth group started. Both of us were raised singing in choirs and participating in many youth activities."

During his vicarage at Ascension Lutheran Church, Matthew had essentially the same duties as an assistant pastor and was in charge of the youth group. "We had a mid-week Bible study, game nights, sports nights, choir, and other activities," comments Matthew.

"I usually preached every other Sunday and helped with calls. Once when the pastor was gone for about a month, I took over all of his duties," says Matthew.

At seminary, part of Matthew's field work included rest home and hospital visitation, and serving in a church where he preached and taught Bible Classes.

Matthew enjoys playing tennis and racquetball, and likes to swim. "We live near the stadium and hope to attend the football games," he says.

Marie loves to cook and enjoys doing all kinds of crafts including latch hook rugs, crewel, needlepoint, and crocheting.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

If it doesn't bother Queen Elizabeth, it should.

A drifter whipped in and out of her bedroom at Buckingham Palace with less flap than it takes to get inside a Loehmann's fitting room.

What's more, he had visited a dozen times or more where he simply drank wine and talked.

I read where workmen spent the weekend stringing strands of barbed wire atop the iron spikes. I can only assume that up until that time the Royal Palace was made secure by a revolving door.

If I could like an authority, it is because I live in a nation where, during the past ten years, the No. 1 industry has become "Security."

It's a country of alarms and buzzers, beeps and dead bolts, guards and X-rays, sirens and electronics.

It's a nation where Elton John dresses up as a policeman to get to his own concert, jewelry stores are patrolled by tarantulas and cobras, gas tanks are locked and libraries have an alarm system by the door.

It's where airlines give your pair of needlepoint scissors to the captain to ride in the cockpit, but give everyone on the plane a steak knife.

It's where a sensitive alarm system went off in a school one night and six police cruisers appeared within three minutes to discover a rat was trying to get out of the cafeteria.

Maybe Great Britain just isn't paranoid yet about security. If we had a Queen (and some say we do) there would be a bulletproof glass bubble over her horse and newscasters would remind everyone, "It's 11 o'clock, do you know where your Queen is?"

Of course, God only knows what she carries in that handbag. It's big enough for five grenades, a rifle and six ground missiles.

It's none of my business, but I've learned a few things living in this country that it might behoove the Queen to try.

Lock the front door at night. Sometimes when people try the front door and it's locked, it discourages them.

Tell unannounced visitors to your bedroom you're married and your husband is a prince, but doesn't like strangers.

Buy a dog.

Which reminds me, it was also reported that last summer a man who said he was in love with Princess Anne was found wandering around the grounds.

He was found to be mentally disturbed and went un-punished.

What Joan Rivers will do with that line, I don't want to know.

Debris Struck Copter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Debris from blasts that hurled fireballs 100 feet high damaged the tail rotor of a helicopter before it crashed on a movie set and killed actor Vic Morrow and two children, a federal investigator says.

Don Llorente, chief investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board probe, displayed the battered rotor at a news conference Friday where he discussed preliminary findings in the July 23 crash during filming of a war scene for "The Twilight Zone."

He refused to discuss the probable cause, saying more investigation was needed into the accident at Indian Dunes, 40 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Llorente said examination of the rotor's trailing edge showed it had been struck by a metal lid from a fuel canister. He said intense heat from a fireball that engulfed the chopper's tail also burned off the rotor's laminated skin.

The correct treatment for a burn is to apply ice water.

Barter System Is Better

"Barter is better" was the theme of a meeting here Thursday night, when Barter Systems of Lubbock presented a program on the growing business of trading, as an alternative to cash buying.

Chick Holbert and Dr. Hap Cavness, two local members of the Barter Systems, helped host the informative meeting. Staff members from Lubbock explained how the system works.

Stan Williams, president of the Lubbock office, said Barter Systems handled $72,000 in purchases when the organization stated in 1978. That jumped to $370,000 the second year, and the business expects to handle $6 million this year.

Williams claims the Barter System provides new sales opportunities as well as increased profits through more volume without increasing expenses. Barter Systems requires an annual membership fee and charges a 10 percent brokerage fee for transactions.

Members carry a card, similar to major credit cards, and simply sign a voucher to make purchases at firms where bartering is accepted. Barter Systems International (BSI) provides a listing of products and services available in each participating city. BSI has merchandise inventories in 65 cities at present.

Education—Our Money's Worth?

In my travels over Texas, it has become clear that Texas rate crime, the economy, and the education of their children among their principal concerns.

This week I would like to discuss education. As the father of six children, this has long been one of my principal concerns also.

We currently spend over half our tax revenue on education, and many people raise the question to me: "Are we getting our money's worth?" The questions put to me indicate some think we are spending too much; others, not enough.

I too am concerned about the amount of money we spend on education, but I am more concerned about the quality of that education. I believe the quality of education our children receive can be improved by making some fundamental changes in the way we pay and treat our teachers.

I believe in merit pay for teachers. Frankly, I think good teachers ought to be paid more than poor teachers. A good, conscientious teacher cannot help but become discouraged and disillusioned when he or she ends the month with the same pay as one whom they know to be indifferent. The result is apt to be that they leave the teaching profession altogether.

I also think we ought to enter a system of competency testing not only for new teachers, but for those who are currently teaching. We test our kids, why not also test those who teach them?

In short, I think we ought to bear down on the basics, relieve our teachers of burdensome paper work now placed upon them, and recognize and reward our better teachers with better pay, for the sake of our children, and our future.

If you have thoughts on this subject, I would welcome them. Just write to me at 1213 W. 34th in Austin, 78705.

For Whiteface Fans Ticket Option Deadline Nears

Season ticket holders for Hereford Whiteface football games have until Aug. 20 to claim their reserved seats.

After Aug. 20, season tickets will be made available to the general public. Season tickets sales for reserved seats totalled 1,220 last year.

Price of the season tickets is $15 for five home games. Single-game ticket prices will be $4. Those holding reserved season tickets last year can pick up the 1982 tickets at the school business office.

The grid season opens Sept. 3 in a non-district game against Pampa. The other four home games will be District 3-AAAAA contests against Lubbock High, Amarillo Caprock, Plainview and Amarillo High. The Caprock game, Oct. 1, will be the Homecoming contest.

The Whiteface gridders advanced all the way to the state semifinals last season, posting a 13-1 won-lost record. The Herd won 13 straight games before losing a close 10-7 contest to Lake Highlands in the semifinals.

The school business office is located at 136 Ave. F. For further information, call 364-0606.

PGA Title Eludes Arnie Palmer Again

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — He's captured the Masters title four times, the British Open twice and the U.S. Open once.

But the PGA Championship somehow has managed to elude Arnie Palmer and it did again on Friday.

"I missed the cut," he said after posting a second-round 76 at the 64th Professional Golfers' Association Championship. "My game is just not good, and it hasn't been good for a while."

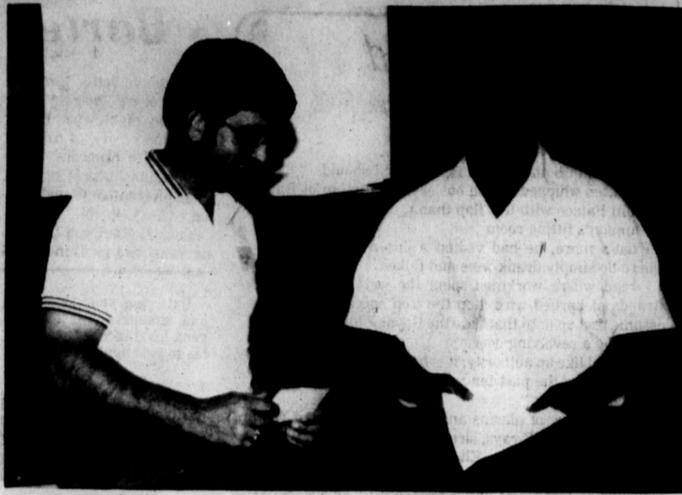

In his historic career, Palmer, who has 61 PGA tour victories, posted three runner-up finishes for the PGA title.

The 52-year-old grand master from Latrobe, Pa., finished Friday with a 150 two-round total, 10 shots over par and well behind the front-runners.

"I am disappointed I played as poorly as I did, but I wasn't overwhelmingly surprised with how I was playing," he said. "I suppose my lack of optimism coming into the tournament didn't help."

"The PGA is a source of great disappointment for me," he said.

Lucky Winner

Hereford Whiteface assistant coach Johnny Taylor (right) was the big winner at the recent football clinic at West Texas State University. Taylor won a $25 gift certificate from an Amarillo merchant and a $100 savings bond from an Amarillo Bank. Congratulating Taylor is WTSU head grid mentor Don Davis. Over 80 coaches from the Panhandle participated in the clinic, which featured remarks by HHS head coach Don Cumpston. (SPL)

Mav Scoring Leader Issues Ultimatum

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks' 1982 scoring leader, Jay Vincent, says he is tired of waiting for team officials to live up to their promise of a contract renegotiation.

Vincent, through his agent, has given Mavericks' general manager Norm Sonju, until Aug. 15 to live up to his renegotiation promise, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram said today. If the deadline is not met, Vincent may demand a trade, said agent Fred Slaughter.

Slaughter told the newspaper that Sonju made a public pledge to upgrade Vincent's contract, set three dates for offering a new agreement, then missed all three self-imposed deadlines.

"In my opinion, it's been handled poorly," Slaughter said.

The newspaper said Slaughter did not directly threaten Sonju with a trade demand but said it is an option being discussed.

"All I can say is that people have talked to me about those kind of parameters," the agent said. "I haven't settled on what we want to do. I try to cross bridges when I reach them."

Vincent, a second-round draft pick, became a starter in December and finished the season with a 21.4 scoring average.

He was a unanimous choice for the NBA coaches' All-

Rookie team and placed third in the league's Rookie of the Year balloting.

The team gave Vincent $80,000 in post-season bonuses and promised to rework his contract. But Sonju said league negotiations on a new agreement with the players association delayed any individual contract discussions.

Vincent, spending the summer in Lansing, Mich. where he will marry Aug. 21, said he hoped negotiations would be over before his wedding day.

"I don't want to leave the Mavericks," Vincent said,

Trenchmen Inducted Into NFL Hall of Fame

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Sam Huff, Merlin Olsen, Doug Atkins and George Musso, four players who made their mark in or near the trenches of the National Football League, are stepping together in the Pro Football's Hall of Fame.

The four players are being inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame today as the NFL opens its preseason schedule with the Minnesota Vikings meeting the Baltimore Colts. A sellout crowd is expected at Fawcett Stadium for the game being nationally televised by ABC-TV.

Vikings Coach Bud Grant and his staff are also expected to be on hand, although there was some doubt about that earlier this week.

Grant and his staff had threatened to strike the game because the coaches were not being paid, while the players were being compensated. However, Grant and his staff agreed to work the game Thursday night after Vikings officials promised to submit a resolution at the next NFL meeting in October, calling for coaches at the Hall of Fame Game to be paid.

The resolution was to be retroactive to include this year's contest.

Huff quipped about this year's inductees Friday, saying they should be known as the pick-and-shovel gang.

"That's because we had no speed and we all played defense," the 13-year linebacker for the New York Giants and Washington Redskins said during formal dedication ceremonies of the six traveling Hall of Fame exhibits.

The six traveling exhibits will stop at 100 shopping malls in 40 of the 48 contiguous states in the next six months. They are being sponsored by the Chevrolet Motor Division at a cost of $250,000.

Friends and foes have remembered the four inductees.

The late Vince Lombardi, a Hall of Famer himself, once said of Huff: "It's uncanny the way he follows the ball. He seems to be all over the field at once." Huff helped the Giants reach the NFL title game six times in eight seasons.

George Halas, the Chicago Bears founder, owner and longtime coach, said of Atkins: "He absolutely belongs. He was truly a great defensive end, one of the greatest in history."

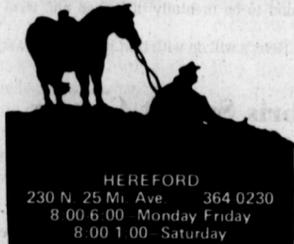

George Allen, Olsen's coach with the Los Angeles Rams, said he never played a bad game in discussing why the defensive tackle made the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility after retiring in 1976.

"You always got a good game from him and, more often than not, you got a great game," said Allen of Olsen, who was named to the Pro Bowl a record 14 straight seasons during his 15-year career.

Musso, a two-way player with the Bears, waited 37 years after his retirement to be elected to the Hall of Fame.

Red Grange, another Hall of Famer, remembers Musso, now 72. "George was captain of the Bears his last eight or 10 years. The players wouldn't have anyone else. Halas let him give the pep talk to the players before the big games," Grange said.

Grant said the Vikings will stick with their veterans in the game, starting Tommy Kramer at quarterback. The Colts, under rookie coach Frank Kush, will use a combination of rookies and veterans.

Floyd Retains PGA Championship Margin

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer
TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Veteran Ray Floyd pitted his major championship experience against fast-closing, non-winners Bob Gilder, Jim Simons and Greg Norman in today's third round of the 64th PGA Championship.

Floyd, who won the 1969 PGA and a Masters title, owned a two-shot lead over the streak-shooting Gilder and a three-stroke edge over Norman and Simons.

Floyd missed six greens on a stifling 100-degree Friday at sultry Southern Hills Country Club, but still managed a working man's 69 — 1 under par.

Coupled with his record-smashing opening round of 7-under 63, Floyd was at 8-under-par 132 over the Bermuda rough-infested 6,862-yard, par-70 layout.

"I like the pressure and I like being in contention," said Floyd. "My major experience helps in a tournament like this. There is a lot of pressure to win that first one...it's a different feeling after you already have done it."

Gilder, who has won the Byron Nelson and Westchester Classic this year, shot 68 Friday to stand at 134.

Norman, an Australian who finished fourth in the 1981 Masters, and 1982 Bing Crosby Pro-Am winner Simons were at 135. Norman shot 69 and Simons had 67.

Gilder said he wouldn't allow himself to think about a major title being at stake.

"Golf is golf and if you think what winning the tournament would do for you then it would take your mind off the play," Gilder said. "Why add that kind of pressure?"

Gilder said he felt ready to win his first major because "the work I've done on my game the last five years is starting to take hold...if it works under the gun then it's right."

There were other players within striking distance but Tom Watson, seeking his first PGA, and five-time winner Jack Nicklaus were way back.

Watson, holder of the U.S. and British Opens, posted a 1-under 69 for 141.

Nicklaus bogeyed the last hole for a par 70 and was a 4-over 144.

Arnold Palmer, the 52-year-old great who has won every major but the PGA, will have to wait another year. He failed to survive the cut after a 6-over-par 76 for 150.

Defending champion Larry Nelson's 75 put him out of the tournament at 149. Also cut were two-time PGA champion Gary Player at 146 and former British Open champion Tom Weiskopf at 149.

Gross Stunned After Beating Champ Twice

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP) — Michael Gross of West Germany was stunned after beating a world record-holder from the United States for the second time at the World Swimming Championships.

"It can't possibly be," Gross said Friday night after defeating Craig Beardsley of Harrington Park, N.J., in the men's 200-meter butterfly. "What happened to Beardsley? I am more surprised now than I was during the 200 freestyle. It can't be true. This is fantastic."

Gross set a world championship meet record of 1 minute, 58.85 seconds, while silver medalist Sergei Fesenko of the Soviet Union was timed in 1:59.91. Beardsley faded to third in 2:00.08, more than two seconds off his world-record clocking of 1:58.01.

"I didn't feel like I was moving forward at all," Beardsley said. "I don't have any idea what's wrong."

On Sunday night, Gross had defeated Rowdy Gaines of Winter Haven, Fla., in the 200 freestyle, one of Gaines' two world-record specialties.

After Gross' victory and the continued dominance of the East Germans in women's events, U.S. coach

Mark Schubert admitted: "We've had a bad meet."

"I guess we have to prove ourselves all over again at the 1984 Olympics," Schubert added.

Birgit Meineke and Kristin Otto won their third gold medals of the meet as East Germany set a world record in the 400 medley relay. In addition, Petra Schneider of East Germany joined Gross as the only athletes at the World Aquatic Games to win two individual golds.

Diver Greg Louganis of El Cajon, Calif., could win a second individual gold if he can capture the platform event today to go with his earlier springboard title. A victory by Louganis also would give the United States a sweep of the four diving events here.

LA Thinking Positive; Shrinks Braves' Lead

By MIKE EMBRY AP Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers have found another source of power in their drive to overcome Atlanta in the National League West race ... the power of positive thinking.

"We weren't coming back early in the season, but now we just get the feeling that something will happen," shortstop Bill Russell said after the Dodgers rallied for a 5-4 victory over the Braves in 10 innings Friday night.

"We're confident that we can come back. We're confident we're on our way."

For the second evening in a row the Dodgers rallied from the brink of defeat to beat Atlanta.

Claudell Washington cracked a solo homer in the top of the 10th to give the Braves a 4-3 lead. But errors by Brave first baseman Chris Chambliss and shortstop Rafael Ramirez in the bottom of the 10th opened the door for the Dodgers.

Chambliss, second baseman Glenn Hubbard and Washington in right field collided while chasing Ron Cey's pop fly down the foul line, the ball bouncing off Chambliss' glove for a two-base error. Then with two outs, Bill Russell lined a single up the middle off reliever Steve Bedrosian to drive in Cey with the tying run.

After Ron Roenicke walked to load the bases, Steve Sax sent a chopper to Ramirez, who juggled the ball and threw late to first, enabling Russell to score the winning run.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco tripped Houston 7-6, Chicago downed Philadelphia 4-2, San Diego stopped Cincinnati 2-0, Montreal edged St. Louis 5-3, Pittsburgh and New York split a doubleheader, both teams taking 7-3 victories.

The Dodgers moved to within 3½ games of the Braves in the NL West. The victory was the Dodgers' fourth straight, eighth in their last nine games, and seventh in a row over the Braves. They have shaved seven games in the last eight days from the Braves' once-hefty 10½-game margin.

Giants 7, Astros 6

Darrell Evans' pinch-hit, run-scoring single capped a three-run rally in the bottom of the ninth for the Giants, who had rallied from a 6-0 deficit.

Jack Clark and Reggie Smith sparked the rally with consecutive homers off reliever Dave Smith to open the inning. The homers were the second for each in the game.

Phil Garner and Jose Cruz each hit two-run homers for the Astros and Chili Davis added a solo shot for San Francisco. The seven home runs are a National league high for this season.

Gary Lavelle, 6-5, was the winner in relief. Randy Moffitt, 2-4, was the loser.

Cubs 4, Phillies 2

Bill Buckner's tie-breaking two-run homer in the sixth inning lifted Chicago to the victory. Ryne Sandberg, who had three hits, singled to open the sixth, stole second and went to third on a ground out before Buckner smashed his sixth homer off loser Dick Ruthven, 8-10.

Net Deadline Wednesday

Local netters have until 5:30 p.m. Wednesday to register for the Deaf Smith County Closed Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Hereford & Vicinity YMCA. The tourney will be held Aug. 13-15 at the high school courts.

Junior division play will begin at 8 a.m. Aug. 13, with adult play to begin the same time on Saturday.

Entrants are limited to three total events, and all entries must be accompanied by the proper registration fee. Adult fees are $7 per event for non-YMCA members, and $6 per event for YMCA members, with junior fees $5 and $4 respectively. Junior divisions include Jr. High and Elementary divisions only.

Divisions include both A and B divisions in men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles, high school boys and girls singles and doubles, Jr. High boys and girls singles and doubles, and elementary boys and girls singles.

Players will be placed depending upon their 1982-83 school year grade classification in the younger divisions.

An event may be cancelled at the discretion of tournament director Weldon Knabe if there is a lack of entries.

breaker in the 10th as the Brewers downed the Cleveland Indians 5-2.

After being held to one hit for seven innings by Cleveland's Ed Whitson, the Brewers erased a 2-0 deficit in the eighth on Paul Molitor's single and Cooper's 430-foot home run. Whitson threw Cooper one too many fast balls and paid the price.

"You can't keep doing that to a good hitter," said Cooper, one of the American League's top hitters, who had gone hitless in three at-bats against Whitson last Sunday and was hitless in three more trips Friday night before his dramatic home run. "Sooner or later, you'll get him. If he keeps pumping me fast balls, I'm going to look for one I can drive."

The Rangers, on the other hand, were in the process of losing 6-0 to the New York Yankees when Johnson stepped to the plate with one out remaining. The pitch he saw from Dave LaRoche was anything but a fast ball. Rather, it was the notorious blooper pitch known as "LaLo." Johnson wound up ... swung mightily ... missed for strike three and was next seen rolling in the dirt with laughter.

"Lamar was funny," said LaRoche, just back from his fourth trip of the season to the minors. "They said he started to laugh before the ball even got there, but I didn't see him because I was watching the ball. But when he started to roll on the ground and laugh, I started laughing, too."

Elsewhere Friday, the Kansas City Royals swept a doubleheader from the Baltimore Orioles 3-1 and 4-0, the California Angels topped Seattle 11-9, the Chicago White Sox downed the Boston Red Sox 6-3, the Detroit Tigers blanked the Toronto Blue Jays 6-0 and the Oakland A's beat the Minnesota Twins 4-1 as Rickey Henderson stole his 104th base and tied Maury Wills for second place on the all-time single-season list.

Molitor, who broke up Whitson's no-hit bid in the sixth inning and singled ahead of Cooper's homer in the eighth, singled again to start the Milwaukee 10th against Ed Glynn and continued to second on an error by left fielder Miguel Dilone. Molitor was retired in a rundown on Robin Yount's bunt, but Yount reached second on the play and scored on Cooper's single. Ted Simmons then hit his 18th homer. The victory gave the Brewers a 2½-game lead over Boston in the AL East.

Yankees 6, Rangers 0
Dave Winfield homered and he and Roy Smalley drove in three runs apiece to help Dave Righetti earn his first victory since June 16. Righetti worked 6 1-3 innings, yielding all four Texas hits. LaRoche retired all eight batters he faced. Winfield singled a run home in the fourth inning and Smalley added a two-run single. Winfield hit a two-run homer in the sixth and Smalley had a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Royals 3, Orioles 1-0
U.L. Washington hit two solo home runs and Hal McRae added another as the Royals took the nightcap on a combined six-hitter by Don Hood and Dan Quisenberry. In the opener, George Brett had a solo homer and McRae, the major league leader with 96 runs batted in, contributed an RBI single.

Washington, who had five hits in the twin bill, homered in the first and fifth innings of the nightcap. McRae's homer in the sixth was the 22nd this season off loser Scott McGregor. Dave Frost and Mike Armstrong held Baltimore to five hits in the first game.

Angels 11, Mariners 9
Reggie Jackson's ninth career grand slam and Fred Lynn's two-run shot highlighted California's eight-run sixth inning that erased a 4-3 deficit. Jackson clubbed his 26th home run of the season off Ed Vandenberg, Seattle's fourth pitcher of the inning, to give the Angels a 9-4 lead. Ron Jackson followed with a single and Lynn ripped his 15th homer for what proved to be the decisive runs. Seattle made it close with four runs in the ninth.

White Sox 6, Red Sox 3
Carlton Fisk belted a three-run homer and Jerry Koons pitched seven innings and picked up his second victory over Boston in six days. It was Chicago's seventh triumph in the last eight games and Boston's sixth loss in its last eight.

Greg Luzinski's RBI single gave the White Sox a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Fisk homered in the third following a walk to Tony Bernazard and a single by Harold Baines. In the fifth, Steve Kemp singled a run across and Chicago got its final run on Mike Squires' pinch double.

Tigers 6, Blue Jays 0
Lance Parrish hit a pair of two-run homers and Chet Lemon added a solo shot to back the four-hit pitching of Jack Morris, who did not allow a Toronto runner beyond first base.

Morris almost lost his shutout in the fifth inning when umpire Greg Kosc called Jesse Barfield's drive down the left field line a home run. Home plate umpire Nick Bremigan overruled Kosc and called it a foul ball and Barfield then struck out.

A's 4, Twins 1
Minnesota took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Tom Brunansky's homer off winner Mike Norris. The A's scored twice in the sixth after a fielding error by Twins shortstop Lenny Faedo allowed Henderson to reach first. He stole second, went to third on Dwayne Murphy's fly ball and scored the tying run on Davey Lopes' double. Lopes scored on a single by Jeff Burroughs and Joe Rudi homered in the seventh.

The stolen base by Henderson tied him with Wills, whose 104 steals with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1962 established a major league record until Lou Brock of St. Louis stole 118 in 1974.

Dodger Rookie Makes Impression In A Week

LOS ANGELES (AP) — So far, Ricky Wright has made quite a first impression in his first week of professional baseball with the Los Angeles Dodgers, but the long, tall hurler from Texas is looking for more than a few brief moments of stardom.

"I think that if I throw the ball the way I'm capable of, I have a good chance to stay with the Dodgers all year," said the 23-year-old southpaw from Paris, Texas, who was brought up from the minors this week when pitcher Vicente Romo went out for the year with a knee injury.

"Of course, a good start don't never hurt. It always helps to do good."

Wright certainly "did good" in his first major-league start. He allowed two hits in six innings of work Aug. 4 in Cincinnati and struck out four in what could be the first victory of a long big-league career. Wright's performance could have earned him a permanent spot on the roster, even when a fellow Texan, Burt Hooton, comes off the disabled list next week.

"I like his arm," said Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda. "We think he's going to be a good pitcher in the big leagues. He did a very good job against the Reds, especially when you stop and think of the limited experience he's had. He hasn't pitched much in pro ball. He's come a long way."

Lasorda said he plans to use Wright either as a spot starter or short reliever, but it could be only a matter of time before Wright is starting every five days.

"Ricky's strength is he has a major-league arm," said Dodger pitching coach Ron Perranoski. "For a left-hander, he has a good, live arm. He has to coordinate his talents and put everything together. It's a matter of him corraling it and that comes with experience."

An All-Southwest Conference selection during his days at the University of Texas, Wright was the Dodgers' No. 1 pick in the January, 1980, draft.

After a year with the club's Double-A farm team in San Antonio, Wright was promoted to Albuquerque, N.M., in 1981. He went 14-6 and was given a shot to make the major-league roster last spring.

However, Wright suffered an arm problem known as shoulder impingement syndrome and didn't throw competitively all spring. He was 4-3 with Albuquerque before straining a knee. Following his return to action, Wright was put in the bullpen. Then the Dodgers called him up.

"I was really surprised when I got the call," the 6-foot-3, 175-pounder said. "When I was hurt, the club was on a road trip and I didn't go with them. I didn't even run. I just watched games on television. I went to the bullpen and pitched in three games, and I was called up."

"I'm excited about being here. I feel like I have the ability to throw the ball. I feel like the club has confidence in me that I can do the job, even in the middle of a pennant race. I hope that when I do go out there, I can do something to help the team. I want them to feel that when they give me the ball, I'm going to do the job."

Self-confidence is a quality Wright has no lack of and it's one of the things the Dodgers like about him. Underneath a somewhat cocky exterior, though, Wright is a friendly, outgoing, guitar strumming young man, who is rapidly becoming a favorite in the clubhouse with an easy-going manner and a soft Texas drawl.

A word about pre-arrangements and pre-financing

The funeral serves a wide range of purposes, with religious, psychological and physical significances. There are many aspects and details to the meaningful funeral that are arranged with the assistance of the professional funeral director, usually at the time of need. However, some people prefer counseling prior to need. We offer complete information on pre-arrangements and pre-financing, available without cost or obligation of any kind. (F) Adjusted 1982 Taxable Value for I&S	$ 322,592,946
(G) Divide the Adjusted 1982 Tax Levy for Debt Service (I&S) (4C above) by the Adjusted 1982 Taxable Value for I&S (4F above)	$ .1625 = $100
(H) Multiplied by $100 Valuation	$ 1625 = $100
(I) Calculated Interest and Sinking (I&S) Rate for 1982	$ .1625 = $100

5. (A) Calculated Maintenance and Operation (M&O) Rate for 1982 (3C above)	$ .7163 = $100
(B) Add Calculated Interest and Sinking Rate (I&S) for 1982 (4H above)	$ .1625 = $100
(C) Calculated 1982 Effective Tax Rate	$ .8788 = $100

1982 Effective Tax Rate is the tax rate published by the tax assessor, as required by Sec. 26.04 of the Property Tax Code. See sample form on page 18.

III. MAXIMUM TAX RATE

1. (A) Calculated 1982 Effective Tax Rate (5C above)	$ 87.88 = $100
(B) Multiplied by Three Percent (2%)	$ 2.64 X .03
(C) Equals Amount of Increase Allowed by Code	$ 90.52 = $100
(D) 1982 Maximum Tax Rate (1A + 1C, above)	$ 90.52 = $100

1982 Maximum Tax Rate is the tax rate which, if exceeded, triggers the public notice and public hearing requirements of Sec. 26.06 of the Property Tax Code. See sample notices on pages 21 and 22.

SPECIAL NOTE TO SCHOOL DISTRICTS: If the school district board of trustees voted to protect the bonded indebtedness from the over-65 homestead exemption, the frozen homestead tax levy for I&S and the 1982 taxable value for these homesteads will not be removed for the debt service calculation. This option applies only for bonded indebtedness incurred prior to May 31, 1978.

Merry Mixers Discuss Jubilee, Lessons

Members of the Merry Mixers Square Dance Club discussed plans for the Town and Country Jubilee during a business meeting before their regular dance Thursday evening.

The club will have a float in the parade Saturday morning, Aug. 21, and a street dance that evening on the parking lot of Jerry Shipman Insurance, 801 N. Main.

represent the club at PSRDA meetings, which are held four times a year.

New officers, which were installed at the last meeting, include Truman and Sarah Hazelrigg, president; Benny and John Womble, vice-president; Roger and Alice Rahlfs, treasurer; Whitney and LouAnn Rounds, secretary - reporter; and Earl and Nadine Lance and Bob and Betty Hammock, social chairmen.

The club voted to offer square dance lessons in the fall, with Rocky Lee in charge of the campaign to enroll interested persons. He may be contacted at 364-0332 or 364-4524.

Tentative date to begin lessons is Sept. 23, with open lessons on that day and Sept. 30. If a minimum of eight couples sign up, lessons will be available for couples with small children.

There's nothing like a multi-layered, superduper, everything-on-it beef extravaganza to make you long for a plain hamburger.

Chamber Singers To Participate

The Hereford Chamber Singers will participate in the Town and Country Jubilee with a concert entitled "Pigs, Pearls, and Poison Ivy - Part II" on Thursday evening, Aug. 19, in the Hereford High School Auditorium.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children under ten. Everyone is encouraged to attend this light-hearted show which will feature solos, ensembles, and several group numbers.

Members of the Chamber Singers are reminded of rehearsals at 8 p.m. today and Aug. 15.

Cheerleading Clinic Planned

Hereford High School cheerleaders have scheduled a cheerleading clinic for girls ages four through six grades Monday through Friday in the Nazarene Church gymnasium. Clinic times are 9-11 a.m.

All girls interested in learning cheers and correct cheerleading techniques should register at 9 a.m. Monday. The fee is $15 per person.

First sign of fall: City trucks lugging produce to roadside "homegrown" stands.

Pioneering for the '80s: Being forced to puncture a can of suds because they're out of the brand featuring pull-tabs on the containers.

Getting Ready

Bill Devers, center, director of the Hereford Chamber Singers, and the committee members who auditioned solo and ensemble numbers last week prepare for the annual jubilee concert entitled "Pigs, Pearls, and Poison Ivy - Part II." The concert is scheduled

Artists To Participate In Art Show, Soiree Today

LaWanda Calton

Few things are impossible, one of them being the inability to eat anything with honey on it without needing a bath afterward.

Shooting dice against one fellow we know can by no means be described as gambling.

Artists who have generously donated their works to the Big Brothers - Big Sisters Art Soiree will participate in an art show and sale from 1 to 4 p.m. today in the Community Center. Refreshments will be served.

Among the artists who are represented is Lawanda Calton of Portales N.M. Her husband, Bill, is a mathematics professor at Eastern New Mexico State University. She conducts workshops in oils throughout the area as well as in her own studio.

She enjoys both oil and watercolor, and the subject matter is typically southwestern landscape. A "semi-expressionist," she paints almost daily and has received awards and recognition in many area shows.

Marilyn Castleberry, another artist, lives with her husband, Ed, on a Panhandle ranch. She has inherited an authentic western lifestyle, therefore, firsthand knowledge of a working ranch is depicted in her artwork.

She has achieved numerous awards and recognitions in medias of oil, pastel, pencil, watercolor, and charcoal. She has participated in many exhibitions including the Interstate Fair in Dalhart (Grand Champion, 1977), National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, Jubilee of Arts, Spring Citation, and Best of the Southwest.

Becky Parker, born in Amarillo and raised on a ranch southwest of Dalhart, has been a pilot since 1967 and has traveled extensively throughout the United States. This experience is evident in her works of art.

She has won recognition in numerous regional and national juried shows, and donations of her artwork include the National Cancer Society, the Arthritis Foundation, and Big Brother - Big Sisters of Hereford. She is listed in the Blue Book of Texas and American Artists of Renown 1981-82.

Born and raised in Plainview, Western artist Rodney Watson adds a bright, youthful zest and humor to the important task of preserving the character and flavor of the American West.

He has transposed early drawing efforts on the inside of textbook covers into talents in bronze sculpture, oil painting, charcoal, colored pencil, and pen and ink drawings, and is fast gaining widespread recognition.

Paul Wylie grew up on a ranch and spent his entire life as a cowboy before turning his skills to Western art in late 1970. His interest in art dates back to his childhood, and acceptance of his work made art his full-time profession in late 1976.

His first one-man show was at South Plains College, Levelland, and many of his early paintings are still displayed there, as well as a collection of his bronze work at the Levelland State Bank. He was inducted into the Texas Cowboy Artist Association in 1976.

Jean Green, who began painting when she was 12, enjoys painting old, rustic, weathered buildings and windmills from the forgotten and vanishing scenes of her native Southwest.

She is represented in various galleries and her works hang in private collections in the Southwest, including one painting in the capitol building in Austin.

R. Russell Brown resides with his wife and daughter in Canyon, where he is part owner and operator of Krazy Kraft Arts and Crafts. The watercolorist and craftsman worked as an interior decorator, professional singer and guitarist, carpenter, and sign painter before devoting full time to his art career.

Brown's technique is to use a dry brush on smooth illustration board, which forces him to create his own texture. The result is a smooth, almost print-like, effect. His popularity in portraying West Texas scenes has put him in galleries from Indiana to South Texas and his work has spread to 40 states and eight foreign countries.

Gwendolyn Harris Branstetter's early background in the ranching country of Live Oak County is reflected in her many Western paintings of cowboys and horses, cattle, windmills, wildlife, and Texa sbluebonnet scenes. Realism and strict attention to detail are not only noted, but demanded, in all her work.

She has exhibited in numerous shows throughout the Southwest, as well as Virginia, Washington, D.C., and Italy, and her works hang in the permanent collection of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, several former Texas governors, and James W. Witherspoon, Atty., of Hereford.

Other artists whose works are to be featured in the art show as well as the Art Soiree, scheduled for 7 p.m. today at the Country Club, are Mary Kay Peters of Amarillo and formerly of Hereford, Tom Warren of Plainview, Danny Gamble of Canyon, and m. Loys Rayer of Dimmitt.

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Sunday, Aug. 8, the 220th day of 1982. There are 145 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Aug. 8, 1974, President Richard Nixon announced his resignation, saying the Watergate scandal had forced him to step down in the national interest.

On this date: In 1540, England's King Henry VIII married his fifth wife, Catherine Howard.

In 1588, British sea forces under Sir Francis Drake destroyed the Spanish Armada in a battle off France.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte sailed for St. Helena to spend rest of his life in exile.

In 1963, thieves took $7 million in Britain's "Great Train Robbery."

Ten years ago: The Democratic National Committee officially nominated Sargent Shriver to succeed Thomas Eagleton as George McGovern's vice-presidential running mate.

Five years ago: Vice President Walter Mondale said a new set of rules for the FBI and CIA would bar all wiretaps, searches and mail openings without warrants.

One year ago: The White House announced that President Reagan had decided in favor of full production of neutron weapons despite an expected protest from European nations.

Today's birthdays: Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg is 74. Former Iowa Sen. John Culver is 50.

INSUR-MATION

Don Tardy

Farmers Union Insurance 364-2624

Q. Even with a perfect driving record, my insurance cost is a little steep because I'm insured against the other guy. Without abandoning coverage, is there a way to lower my premiums?

A. Look at deductibles. The higher the deductible, the lower your premium. If you own two cars, it may be more economical to insure both on the same policy. Also, be sure each car is correctly classified for business and personal. Many motorists drop collision insurance on old cars with little value. However, consult with your agent before dropping any coverage. A lienholder may require collision coverage. Keep the liability coverage. If you move, let your agent know. A move to a different county may reduce your coverage liability. Annually, go over each policy with your agent, who can advise you on requirements, changes, and ways you can economize without jeopardizing coverage.

HERE'S THE STRENGTH OF OUR COMMITMENT.

Nearly a quarter billion invested in the Panhandle.

At Security Federal Savings, our investments are kept close to home. In fact, nearly 90% of our investments are placed in housing for the people of the Panhandle.

Accounts insured safe to $100,000.00.

Many people around here prefer the security of $100,000.00 insurance of accounts. But did you know that a family of four can insure up to $1,400,000.00 by combining accounts at Security Federal? And no one has ever lost a penny at an FSLIC-insured association. That's a fact. And it's a fact that FSLIC-insured savings associations have the full faith and credit of the U.S. Congress by acclamation.

A growing list of services.

In the past few years, Security Federal has been able to offer more and more services to our customers. It started with Security Checking which pays interest. It includes a growing number of money market certificates, convenience cards like MasterCard® and VISA®, and soon... PULSE, 24-hour financial services across the state!

A commitment to the Panhandle.

Because our customers made us the largest savings association in the Panhandle and one of the strongest in the state, we've made a decision to grow right here and keep our Panhandle heritage. That's our commitment to you. And we'd like to have you grow with us.

Artists To Be Featured

The Hereford Fine Arts Association invites everyone to attend the Jubilee of Arts during the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee Aug. 20-22 at the Community Center.

The Jubilee of Arts will feature the works of over 100 artists and craftsmen. Outstanding artists from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas will join Hereford artists in exhibiting and selling beautiful art and craft items.

The Jubilee of Arts will be held from 1 to 6 p.m. Friday Aug. 20; from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 21; and from 1 to 5 p.m. Aug. 22.

Among artists that will be featured are Joseph S. Lyons of Anadarko, Okla. Lyons, 47, specializes in bronze sculpture and oil painting of western subjects.

One of Lyons' prized pieces, a bronzed rodeo bulldogging scene, weighing about 20 pounds, and called "Putting the Stop on 'Em," has won six awards. His pieces are on display in the state capitol and several museums.

Lyons lived in Tulia for seven years with his wife, Linda, and children. He has studied under Paul Wiley and at West Texas State University.

Former professions include lineman, professional rodeo rider and ranch hand.

Roseylee K. Palmer of Borger is a country western wildlife artist and her art works will also be displayed during the jubilee.

She is the chairman of the Fine Arts Division of Frank Phillips College in Borger, where she has lived for 30 years, moving there from Henrietta, Okla.

Her paintings reveal a deep love of western landscape, the working cowboys and their horses, the cattle on the ranch, rodeo events, windmills, ranch homes, wild-life and other contemporary western scenes. Her biographic listings include Who's Who in Texas, Blue Book of the Texas Panhandle, American Artists of Renown and World's Who's Who of Women. Her paintings can be found throughout the United States.

Wildlife and nature photographers, Harry Bowden and his wife, Barbara, will also be present for this event. The couple resides at Medina Lake in the hill country north of San Antonio. Both work full-time in Bowden's freelance photography business.

Bowden's works are of wildlife in their natural habitat, scenics, flowers and nostalgic subjects. He also makes his own frames from naturally weathered wood and from scanded, hand-rubbed oak.

His work is exhibited in several galleries in Central Texas. One of Bowden's photos was recently selected by "Photographers Forum" magazine to be published in this year's "The Best of Photography Annual: 1982."

Israeli Team To Tour City

Six Israeli will be in Hereford Tuesday as guests of the Texas Wheat Producers Board. Under the direction of the TWPB and U.S. Wheat Associates, the wheat trade team will visit Hereford Grain Corp. as part of a tour to study quality control facilities and elevators in the Panhandle.

The team will be in Texas all week and will visit export elevators and grain merchandisers in Houston, also.

The agenda includes lunch at 12:30 p.m. at K-Bob's and the tour of Hereford Grain to begin at 2 p.m. Ross Wilson of the TWPB will be hosting the team.

Visiting are Abraham Katzorin, owner and manager of Katzorin Flour Mills in Tel Aviv; Eliesner Posner, director of Ein Chay Flour Mills

Ltd. of Kfar-Saba; Eliahu Grinstein, managing director of Jerusalem Mills Ltd. from Jerusalem; Jacob Adari, managing director Mifratz Flour Mills Ltd. in Haifa; David Granot, general manager, Yezreel Flour Mill in Afula; and Myron Krenzin, European marketing specialist, U.S. Wheat Associates, in Rotterdam, Netherlands.

W.R. Moore, chairman of the TWPB, said Israel is the largest Middle East importer, having imported approximately 20 million bushels last year, and ranks in the top ten customers for hard red winter wheat. He said Israel could be a significant purchaser again this year and hopes to capture that business.

Prospect Show Included in Jubilee

This year's Deaf Smith County 4-H Prospect Show has been moved up to Aug. 18-19 to be included in the Town and Country Jubilee.

The show will run two days with clinics, weigh-ins and grooming on Wednesday and judging on Thursday.

All Hereford Future Farmers of America and Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers may enter and there is no limit on the number of animals per entrant.

Setting up of pens and sheep shearing will begin at 8 a.m. Wednesday. Weigh-ins start at 1 p.m. The lamb clinic is set for 2 p.m. and the steer clinic at 3 p.m.

Rabbits may enter as late as 8:30 a.m. Thursday. Rabbit judging begins at 9 a.m.

Lamb judging will be on Thursday at 10 a.m., steer judging at 2 p.m. and barrow judging at 4 p.m. with a clinic following.

Place ribbons through third will be presented.

Report Blasts Carter Policies

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The failure of former President Carter to personally tell foreign allies ahead of time when he embargoed grain sales to the Soviet Union was a "damning mistake," says a private report by an Agriculture Department economist.

If the Carter administration had planned and executed it better, the embargo "could have been substantially more effective than it was," the report says.

Even so, the embargo did hurt the Soviets, and didn't hurt American farmers as much as many said, it concludes.

Announcing the embargo Jan. 4, 1980, Carter said: "After consultation with other principal grain exporting nations, I am confident that they will not replace these quantities of grain by additional shipments on their part."

Carter "was either misinformed or intentionally misleading when he made that statement," the report said. "There is no evidence either Carter, any top White House official, or any Cabinet member ever spoke with officials of the other grain exporting countries before the embargo."

"Cooperation of the other grain exporters could have been lined up more adroitly," it says. "Clearer articulation of the objectives and expected impacts of the embargo could have better reinforced domestic support for it."

Former Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, who said he had read an early draft, called the report a "generally accurate" account of Carter's embargo action.

"In my judgment, it would have been much more effective had there been a prior contact to at least advise those foreign leaders that this decision was imminent," he said.

Bergland was among a number of former senior Carter administration officials, including White House aides, who had been interviewed for the analysis.

The report was written by Jack Roney, a career Agriculture Department employee, while he was on a year's paid leave of absence to study at The Johns Hopkins University's School of Advanced International Studies. The paper was undertaken as part of his class work.

Despite its overall tone suggesting the embargo could have been handled better, the report said the action did have a significant impact on the Soviet Union and did not fault Carter for moving quickly once he made the decision to impose it.

"The decision was essentially Carter's to make," the report said. "Discussions would have jeopardized the surprise element of the embargo and could have eroded Carter's image of decisiveness in the process."

However, it said, "The relegation of the responsibility for contacting other exporting nations to an agency staff person, only three hours before the actual announcement, was a damning mistake."

"If Carter's commitment to the action was as strong as he said it was, he personally should have spoken with the other heads of state before the announcement."

As it turned out, other major grain suppliers, including Canada and Australia, were caught off guard. Both countries promised initially not to exceed "normal" sales to help the Soviets deal with shortages of U.S. imports, but wound up boosting shipments sharply above historical levels.

Argentina, miffed by Carter's human rights policies and by not being informed in advance of the grain embargo, refused to cooperate at all and turned out to be the main supplier of grain to the Soviet Union that year.

Prior to Carter's action — intended to punish the Soviet Union for sending its army into Afghanistan — the Soviet Union was expected to buy a record 25 million metric tons of wheat and corn from the United States under terms of a long-term agreement that had been in effect for four years.

The agreement guaranteed the Soviets up to 8 million metric tons of U.S. grain annually. Sales exceeding that amount required approval by American officials.

Carter's embargo order let the 8 million metric tons continue but effectively barred the shipment of 17 million additional tons.

The report said it was apparent within a few months that there were massive problems in the U.S. embargo strategy and that the Soviets were getting grain from other sources.

Nonetheless, it said the embargo did cause problems for the Soviet Union and did not hurt U.S. farmers as much as many have said.

"Analyses do not support the notion that the embargo significantly depressed U.S. farm prices and income, but some vocal farm leaders who insisted otherwise did receive considerable support," the report said.

Roney, an economist with the department's World Agriculture Outlook Board, said Thursday that the copy obtained by The Associated Press was one of several versions he had prepared. Moreover, he said, the views expressed are his own and not necessarily those of the department.

GSPA Answers Request

Grain Sorghum Producers Association has recommended provision for the 1983 feed grain program in answer to Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block's call for public comment.

Block has asked for comment by August 26. The program will be announced by Nov. 15.

GSPA has recommended: — A minimum of 20 percent acreage reduction composed of 10 percent set aside and 10 percent paid diversion with payment levels high enough to get an 80 percent participation.

— Loan levels at 90 percent of the estimated national average cost of production, including land costs.

— Immediate entry into the farmer-held reserve program with reserve loans set at the national average cost of production, including land costs, with release levels no less than 115 percent of the cost of production.

GSPA believes the 1983 feed grain program should be aimed at stabilizing grain prices.

Argentina Hits Export Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — New figures by the Agriculture Department show that Argentina exported a record amount of grain to the Soviet Union in 1981-82 despite renewed competition by the United States.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said Wednesday that in the international marketing year which ended on June 30 grain Argentine grain shipments to the Soviet Union totaled approximately 13 million metric tons.

That included about 7 million tons of corn, 3 million tons of wheat and 3 million tons of sorghum.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or sorghum, or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

The report coincided with earlier USDA projections which showed Argentina would ship 13.2 million tons of grain to the Soviet Union in 1981-82, compared to 11.2 million in 1980-81.

Comparatively, U.S. grain exports to the Soviet Union during the 1981-82 marketing year were indicated at 15.3 million tons, up from 8 million tons in 1980-81 when a partial embargo was in effect for most of the period.

Argentina moved heavily into the Soviet market during the U.S. embargo, increasing its shipments from 5.1 million tons in 1979-80 to the record levels of the past two years.

In all, the Soviet Union accounted for nearly three-fourths of Argentina's total grain exports — a record 18 million metric tons — in 1981-82, the report said.

"Since 1979-80, Argentina has exported grain to the Soviets at the expense of previous traditional markets," it said. "However, in 1981-82, Argentina was able to diversify its sorghum exports somewhat."

Big Grain Harvest Dampens Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another big year for grain production will keep a damper on prices in the foreseeable future, although the livestock situation should continue to improve, says the Agriculture Department.

The latest projections issued Wednesday showed that for all of 1982, crop prices collectively are expected to decline 7.5 percent from their 1981 average. Livestock prices, however, may average 4.2 percent higher.

According to the latest outlook figures, food prices may be easing slightly more than USDA experts have been predicting.

Based on the new index figures, retail food prices now may increase an average of 4.9 percent this year, compared to a 5.2 percent gain indictated a month ago. The department's official forecast still calls for food prices to gain between 5 and 6 percent this year. In either case, it would be the smallest annual increase since food prices rose 3.1 percent in 1976. Last year's increase was 7.9 percent.

Texas Crops Report

Drought Creeping Across State

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Late-summer drought conditions are creeping over the lower two-thirds of the Texas, with only the Panhandle, South Plains, Rolling Plains, North Central and Northeast Texas getting any significant rains in recent weeks, says Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In his weekly crop report, Pfannstiel said heat and lack of rain have prompted seven West Central Texas counties to start government aid procedures.

The worst conditions are reported in Southwest Texas, where no general rains have fallen since early spring, he said. Skimpy yields are reported there in dryland crops, ranges and pastures are rapidly declining, irrigation and cattle marketing are increasing.

The wheat harvest is in, with fair to good yields. Dry weather also has been helpful for hay harvesting and some areas are into third cuttings. In south central areas, however, dryness has brought haymaking to a near standstill.

The state's peach harvest is winding down and good yields and markets are reported. Pecan progress is only fair. Hot weather is pushing cotton to maturity and grain sorghum harvesting is slowing in the south and getting ready to start in the north.

In the Rio Grande Valley, citrus is progressing and there is considerable activity in land preparation for fall vegetables. Rice harvesting is well along in Upper Gulf Coast counties.

The following conditions were reported by Extension district directors:

"The early summer outlook points to large U.S. supplies of grains and oilseeds for the new marketing season, with the supply of soybeans likely to rise 3 percent from last year; wheat supplies, 2 percent; and corn 4 percent," the report said.

Although 1982 production of wheat and corn may be down from last year's record harvests, larger inventories in storage will more than offset the production decline.

"The large 1982 supplies may strain on-farm storage capacity," the report said. "While total capacity is adequate nationwide, some short-term, local shortages may appear. Commercial storage appears to be adequate."

Further, it said, transportation to move the new harvests "should be readily available" because river barge and rail facilities "have substantial idle capacity" at this time. "In contrast with rising crop supplies, total meat and poultry supplies for 1982 are still expected to drop about 3 percent, led by the large decline in pork output," the report said. "Supplies of poultry and beef will likely increase moderately."

Hog prices for the year may climb 25 percent above the 1981 average, but cattle prices may be up only 4 to 7 percent from last year. Broiler prices were forecast to "remain near" their 1981 average. Officials added that those projections "reflect expectations of a moderate economic recovery" in the second half of this year.

"Declining shipments and prospects for sales to Eastern Europe constituted the biggest change in export markets the past year," the report said. "Financial constraints, particularly in Poland, are largely responsible."

"Furthermore, the expansion of foreign wheat acreage into poorer growing areas will likely make exports — and thus world prices — more volatile in the 1980s."

Stubble Saves Moisture

Following wheat harvest some farmers prefer to keep the stubble to save moisture and prevent wind and water erosion. Milo planted here was not irrigated and will be used for hay and grazing.

Stubble Burning Costs

When burning off a wheat field, more than just stubble is being destroyed — expensive nitrogen and sulfur nutrients in the stubble is lost, while the water holding capacity and available moisture to crops in the soil may be reduced.

Practicing conservation tillage by leaving the residue in the field will save a farmer valuable plant nutrients and possibly eliminate the need for pre-watering in most years.

In these days of high production costs, especially rising fertilizer costs, loss of nitrogen fertilizer is expensive. Burning wheat stubble is like torching up to $6.75 an acre.

For example, an irrigated wheat field in Deaf Smith County averages 50 bushels an acre. Generally, 100 pounds of straw is produced for each bushel of wheat, yielding 5,000 pounds an acre. In that amount of straw is 25 pounds per acre of nitrogen. The value of nitrogen is 27 cents a pound.

As crop residues are destroyed and not turned back into the soil, another source of plant nutrients is gone. Crop residues returned to the soil are broken down into organic matters by soil micro-organisms. This organic matter is a major source of phosphorous and sulfur which are two important nutrients for plant growth and is essentially the sole source of nitrogen outside of commercial fertilizer.

Organic matter also influences the water storage capacity of soils and the amount of moisture available for crop use. The greater the amount of organic matter in the soil, the greater the amount of water stored and available.

An alternative to burning crop residues is to practice conservation tillage. According to Jaime Neepser, soil conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service in Hereford, farmers practicing conservation tillage have been able to eliminate pre-irrigation in most years. In addition, the crop residues and their valuable plant nutrients are not destroyed.

For more information on conservation tillage as an alternative contact the SCS working with the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District through the office at 317 West Third or by calling 364-0531.

Holly Re-elects Incumbent Board

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—A record 92 percent of the stock of Holly Sugar Corporation voted July 30 to reelect the incumbent Board of Directors at the annual stockholders' meeting.

The 1,435,433 shares voting reelected Gerald R. Armstrong, Charles Azarow, Michael S. Buchsbaum, John L. Bushnell, Stephen H. Elmore, John Evans, Richard G. Marcus, Geoffrey P. Pickel, J.E.A. Rich and Leo Seamon.

At the Director's meeting immediately following the Annual Meeting of Stockholders, Holly Sugar's Board reelected all of the incumbent officers: Michael S. Buchsbaum, chairman of the board; John L. Bushnell, president and chief executive officer; J.E.A. Rich, vice chairman of the board and chief operating officer; Charles Azarow, vice chairman of the board and chief financial and marketing officer; John Evans, senior vice president, secretary and general counsel; Donald P. Berra, vice president - marketing; Martin D. Gladem, controller; Roger W. Hill, vice president - agriculture; William O. Ludwig, vice president - finance and treasurer; and Lloyd L. Neville, vice president - operations.

Soybean Supports Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The soybean price support loan rate for 1982-crop soybeans will be $5.02 per bushel, unchanged from last year and the lowest permitted by law, says the Agriculture Department.

Soybean market prices at the farm, comparatively, averaged $6.05 per bushel in mid-July, according to preliminary figures issued by the department.

Kings Manor News

BY RUBY STEVENSON
I've been away most of the summer so some of the news if from June. King's Manor was well represented at the Northwest Texas Conference in Amarillo. We were glad of the opportunity to speak to the conference. Those connected with King's Manor are very proud of the Manor and the good that comes into many lives residing there and to their families. We pray God will continue to bless us.

Those having birthdays in June were the Rev. Wallace Kirby, Eva Stacy, Jewell Akin and Hattie Jones. Vesper services were led by the Rev. Doug Manning, the Rev. Vernon O'Kelly from Dimmitt, the Rev. Mack McCarter, and the Rev. Marvin James. Everyone enjoys these devoted pastors and appreciates them.

A special treat was the visit from the Spirit Wing Choir. This group of five young people made up from different churches in the Northwest Conference bring an outstanding program in music. Bert Bostic of the First United Methodist Church in Hereford worked with them. Thanks to Bert and all those in the choir.

Mr. K-Bob, you did it again! How nice of you to invite all the men from King's Manor and Westgate to enjoy a steak diner in honor of Father's Day. Thank you Parsons, you are generous indeed.

Good friends, you helped us to make the balloon festive a success. It was fun to receive the cards back that were taped to the balloons. Several came in from 12 to 15 miles north of Hereford. The surprise was from Wellington. One of our balloons was found the evening they were launched in a field 1-1/2 miles from Wellington.

The Craft Department works very hard to make and sell enough items to help purchase whatever is needed. This time they had the balloon festival to buy blinds for west windows in the Lamar Memorial Garden Room. With your help the blinds were purchased, they are up and you would have to see them to appreciate how attractive and helpful they are. A big thank you to the Craft Department and all who participated.

We have had some cookouts in June and July. All the residents enjoy a change of pace just like you in your homes do. Isn't it fun to be outdoors, to smell charcoal cooking the food, and "my how good it tastes?" The staff made this possible for everyone. You were thoughtful and kind to give everyone a treat.

We had a big event July 10 when King's Manor held another of the annual barbecues. We cannot offer enough thanks to those who donated food and put it all together, the fine men who cook the beevies to perfection, to those who entertain, and to the many who served. All these were great, but to you our friends out there who responded and attended; our deepest gratitude. We hope all of you who came received a blessing to remember.

A bus load of residents went to Canyon to visit the wonderful museum. Each one found his or her own particular point of interest, and the women were very proud of the display concerning women of outstanding accomplishments.

The ladies from the American Legion Auxiliary are very faithful to come each month bringing nice refreshments and playing Bingo with us. We appreciate you, friends. Another faithful group is the Golden Age Quartet who come so often with their songs we enjoy so much. The last time we missed Homer Garrison but our own Clyde Hudson filled in. The Cecil Boyers and J.B. Noland made it and we thank you for each appearance.

We welcomed Tillie Miller on her return to take blood pressure at the Mano, as is the custom once a month. We hope she has completely recovered from knee surgery.

July birthdays included Afton Eyer, Margaret L. Shown, Opal Bookout, Millie Gutherie, Barbara Killion, Ina Hastings, Ida Robison and Molly Ritter. Many happy returns.

How fortunate we are to be remembered by many friends from our churches. The night circle from First Baptist Church visited one evening bringing delicious homemade ice cream and cake. A few evenings later the Home Builders class from First United Methodist Church came with cake and homemade ice cream. Both groups had different flavors and all of it was simply delicious. They stayed to play games with us. We found our new resident, Julia Gentry, to be a champ in playing Skip-Bo.

Oscar Thomas, who once resided here, came for a visit and while here taught the Craft department plastic canvas needlepoint and we are making a lot of pretty things. Thank you, Oscar, for your help.

Jessie Mae Dodson is on a tour of Alaska and is having fun in Fairbanks today. Mildred Powers is home from California. A busy summer for many of us.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would there be any bad side effects from taking lysine? I am currently taking about 312 mg a day for herpes simplex 2.

What are your views on the use of lysine for treatment of herpes? I'm not sure if it is doing me any good at all.

DEAR READER — Current knowledge suggests that "it won't do you any good, won't do you any harm."

Lysine is an essential amino acid, which means it is in many of the protein foods you consume. There is no information at present that a large amount will harm you. Like the lysine in your protein foods it will simply be metabolized if it is not needed by your body. The end products then become calories of energy.

The original enthusiasm for treating herpes with lysine has waned. Other controlled research studies failed to show that it helped in any way. Too bad. We need more help for such problems.

What Is A Town?

A town is a group of people.

- It is schools.
- It is city government.
- It is churches.
- It is industry and jobs.
- It is retail businesses.

They all have to work together. All must have the support of the people. Or there is no town.

Give your local merchant a chance for your business. You shouldn't spend your hard earned money with him unless his selection is adequate and his price competitive. But give him the first opportunity to make the sale.

For the local retailer pays the highest percentage of local taxes. He most often is the civic leader who dedicates his time and talents to his town. He is contacted first for contributions to charitable projects. He provides jobs. Without his store you have no town.

Give the local merchant a fair shake ...that's all he asks

Women-Only Clubs Turn Into Headaches

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the beginning, two women had a dream — a stylish idea suited, they thought, to the feminist climate of the 1980s.

They would open a snazzy private club for professional women — a combination health spa-restaurant-boutique, a plush spot for the camaraderie and contacts that private men's clubs had prized for decades.

But in 90 days, their sweet dream, the Wilshire Club, went financially sour. The demise of the Wilshire and the problems suffered by two others that have opened in the last two years are now leading some women to wonder if they want or need such a club.

The Blaisdell Place Club in Minneapolis has filed for reorganization under bankruptcy laws. The Women's Commerce Club in Atlanta has attracted only 250 members, few of whom attend club events.

"I don't need to have a place to go," said Janice Weiner, a Minneapolis psychotherapist who resigned from Blaisdell Place after disputes about its operation. "I like to go to different places to eat. I like a coed atmosphere. I don't need to be around all women."

Joanne Ohanesian, who has an executive search business and served on the Wilshire Club's advisory board, had seen the Wilshire Club as "a place I could be supportive of other women, help them gain access and make money."

"I probably would have used it for meetings," said Los Angeles Deputy Mayor Grace Davis, who served on the Wilshire Club's advisory board. "Men always invite me to places like the Athletic Club they called, I could have said, 'How about the Wilshire Club?' and I know they would have said yes."

"We felt if we could just get the club open, people would start using it, women would join and the cash flow would increase," Jennifer Armstrong said of the Wilshire Club.

"We didn't find that to be true...We weren't getting a lot of support from women." The club closed July 19.

Ms. Armstrong and her mother, Joan McCarthy, lost their savings, apartments, cars and the good will of investors who lost thousands.

These two women have walked away with barely the clothes on their backs," said their attorney, Beth Hacerful idea. But there was a lot of bad timing involved.

The club opened while the Equal Rights Amendment and the economy were floundering, she said, and had too little capital.

"In the economic climate of the last few years, you have to have tremendous business skills to open a business and stay in business," Ms. Ohanesian said. "These women were not $100,000-a-year executives with those skills."

The president of Blaisdell Place, Sandra Daddio, said running the Minneapolis club has "been a lot harder than anybody envisioned...."

"We all started with the assumption that given a club, women would flock to it," Ms. Daddio said. "Women have not done that."

In Atlanta, bookkeeper-administrator Claude Nolen said the 1-year-old Women's Commerce Club has had trouble establishing an image.

"Members do not understand fully what it is," Miss Nolen said of the club. "They're willing to support us with their dues, but they're not coming to events we schedule. Very few are really involved."

Blaisdell Place filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 bankruptcy laws March 15, and supporters hope for new financial backing.

The Wilshire Club's problems were far worse.

Ms. Armstrong, 28, and Ms. McCarthy, 48, turned down by traditional financing institutions, took promises of private loans for about $300,000 and announced they would open at a swank Wilshire Boulevard address in September, 1981. That week, an investor who had promised $150,000 pulled out, Ms. Armstrong said, and the opening was delayed.

Employees went unpaid while the club scrambled for money. Some 800 potential members had paid $1,500 to join by the time news stories reported money trouble and a change of location to a former Elks lodge in a less desirable area of town.

Many members demanded refunds, which the two women could not provide. Some angry employees led by the club decorator went to the district attorney demanding an investigation, which so far has produced no charges. The advisory board of prominent local women resigned en masse.

Ms. Armstrong blames the publicity as much as money troubles for the death of the Wilshire Club. Others disagree. Freddie Miller, hired as the club's program director, is suing for $11,300 in unpaid salary.

"They claim the messenger killed the club," she said. "That's baloney. Bad management killed the club. They were undercapitalized from the beginning. They didn't have the in-depth business experience that was needed...I hate to see women fail, but these women brought it on themselves."

Insurance Board Recommends Hikes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chambers County motorists would face the smallest auto insurance increase and drivers in Scurry, Howard, Ector and Midland counties would see the largest increase if the State Insurance Board approves the rate increase proposed by its staff.

The staff on Friday released details of its recommendation for a statewide average increase of 17.3 percent. The details were based on $10,000 liability, $5,000 personal injury, $50 deductible comprehensive and $200 deductible collision coverage.

The rates were figured for what the staff called a "1982 low-priced Ford, Chevrolet or Plymouth, not used in business, but is driven to and from work."

Under the proposal, the cost of that package would go up only $10 per year — a 2.3 percent rise — in Scurry, Howard, Ector and Midland counties in West Texas. In Chambers County in Southeast Texas the price of that coverage would go up 19.6 percent, or $74.

The staff will present its proposal to the board next Thursday. The board will rule about a month after the Thursday hearing.

The speed of sound is generally placed at 1,908 feet per second at sea level at 32 degrees F.

Miss Hereford Pageant Set Saturday

Seventeen contestants will vie for the title of Miss Hereford on Saturday through a series of interviews, talent presentations, and a pageant featuring evening wear.

The pageant begins at 7:30 p.m. at the Hereford High School Auditorium. Tickets are $2.50 for the evening performance and are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, Etcetera, Pants Cage, Casey's, Louise's, Helen's, Boots & Saddle, and both banks. They may also be purchased at the door.

Tickets for the talent competition, which begins at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon at the high school, are $2 for adults and $1 for children. Several finalists will be selected to present their talent during the pageant that evening.

Interviews will be held the morning of the pageant at the E.B. Black House.

The pageant theme is "The Rainbow Connection," and former Miss Herefords have been invited to provide entertainment during the pageant. The reigning Miss Hereford is Dana Ulibarri.

John Dawson will serve as Master of Ceremonies, and Keith Ann Gearn is pageant director. Judges are Cheri Turner Sparks, and Bill and Carol Ellis.

The young woman selected to be the new Miss Hereford will receive a silver platter and a $600 award. She will reign as queen over the Town and Country Jubilee and ride in the Jubilee Parade.

First runner-up will receive a $300 cash award and second runner-up will receive $200. Both of the runner-ups as well as the winners of the Talent Award and Miss Congeniality, will receive silver platters.

The 17 Miss Hereford contestants are introduced inside this section.

Wartes, Higgins United In Marriage Saturday

Wedding vows were spoken Saturday afternoon at First Baptist Church by Miss Susan Leah Wartes and James Franklin Higgins, of Jackson, Miss. Doug Manning, retired pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wartes and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Higgins.

Church decorations included one arch candelabrum and two spiral candelabra accented with greenery and fig trees and baskets of scheffleras and ferns.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Jim Chapman of Dallas and the best man was the bridegroom's father.

Bridesmaids included the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Mike Wartes of Denver City; the bridegroom's sister, Laurie Higgins; Mrs. Laurie Higgins; Mrs. Al Steele of Memphis, Tenn.; Mrs. David Sledge of Midland; Kathy Morey of Arlington; and Susan Brooks of Sherman. Groomsmen were the bride's brothers, Mike and Alan Wartes; the bride's cousin, Pete Hale of Arlington; Jim Schulze of Conroe; and Bob Bearden and Gary Lewis, both of College Station.

Escorting guests were Jim Marsh, Chip Guseman, John Stoy, Andrew Wingert of Dallas, Joe Sheffy of Gainesville and Steve Loerwald of Washington, D.C.

Serving punch and coffee were Jan Drake of Arlington and Marsie Mickler of Duncanville. Others assisting with the reception were Mmes. W.H. Kitchens, Cal Mitts, Joe Henry, Lois Matcchett, and Roger Hale of Cleburne, aunt of the bride.

The bride's grandparents, Mrs. Ginger Hale of Lubbock and W.O. Wartes of Lubbock, were in attendance, as were the groom's grandmothers, Mrs. B.F. Markham and Mrs. Jim Higgins, both of Hereford.

For a wedding trip to Can Cun, Mexico, the bride left in a navy print dress with ruffled sleeves and collar, lined with white eyelet, and wore a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

The couple will be at home at 317 Pear Orchard Circle; Jackson, Miss., after Aug. 18.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Hereford High School and a 1978 graduate of Baylor University. She has been employed by the Arlington I.S.D.

The groom, also a 1975 graduate of Hereford High, graduated from Texas A&M University in 1978. He is presently employed by Cluett - Peabody, Inc.

A bridesmaid's brunch, hosted by Mmes. W.H. Kitchens, Cal Mitts, Jim Marsh, and John Paetzold, was held at the Hereford Country Club on Saturday morning.

Orchestra Parents To Meet Tuesday

QUESTION: Would you explain what it means to be nearsighted. I hear this term used often but am confused as to what it really means.
ANSWER: When a person is nearsighted (or myopic), he is able to see objects that are close to him most clearly and has difficulty seeing those which are far away. You are rarely born with myopia. It usually occurs during the first 25 years of life.
Children who have myopia squint, sit close to the TV set and complain about having trouble seeing the blackboard at school. Myopia can be detected by a complete eye examination. It cannot be cured but can be corrected through the use of prescription eye glasses, contact lenses and/or vision therapy.

Red Cross Update

BY BETTY HENSON Executive Director

The uniformed volunteers luncheon will be Thursday at 12 noon at the Red Cross office.

The Board of Directors will meet Tuesday, August 17, at 12 noon, at the Red Cross office.

The water safety committee is sponsoring a "Swim-a-Cross." Swimmers are asked to find sponsors who will pledge to sponsor the swimmer by a fixed amount for each lap swum during a designated time period.

The Swim-a-Cross will be held from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Aug. 20, at the City Pool. Two ability groups will be swimming at the same time. Experienced swimmers will swim from the deep end of the pool to the rope, and less experienced swimmers will use the shallow end of the pool.

Anyone interested in participating is asked to call the Red Cross office, 364-3761, or Elaine Taylor, 364-5333.

The Red Cross has been teaching swimming in communities since 1914, with pioneer efforts by Commodore Longfellow, father of the Red Cross swimming program. We hope everyone who has taken advantage of our swimming classes will help by participating in the Swim-a-Cross.

A water safety instructor class will be held at the City Pool beginning Monday August, 9, at 6:30 p.m. Debbie Black, water safety instructor trainer, will teach the class. We are really fortunate to have Debbie as one of our volunteers.

Anyone wishing to become an instructor should contact Debbie or Elaine Taylor, water safety chairman at 364-5333, or call the Red Cross office.

A basic water safety instructors class will begin at the same time. Persons wishing to take this class need to be good swimmers and at least 17 years of age.

Bible School Begins Monday

The Hereford Church of the Nazarene, Ironwood and La Plata, will conduct Vacation Bible School from 6:30 until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday of this week.

The theme of "The Storytelling Man" will be carried out through Bible studies along with crafts and learning centers.

Children attending will participate in a special program at 10 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 15.

Couple Wed In Candlelight Ceremony

Miss Deborah Lynn Simons became the bride of James Randall Schuster of Amarillo during a candlelight ceremony Saturday afternoon at Westminster Presbyterian Church of Amarillo. The Rev. Larry Black of St. Luke Presbyterian Church of Amarillo officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simons of 718 Thunderbird and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Schuster of Amarillo.

The church was decorated with two blue and yellow floral arrangements and two seven-tapered candelabra trimmed with greenery. Flowers also decorated the aisle of the church.

The bride's cousin, Mrs. Wendell Turner, served as matron of honor and the bridegroom's brother, Scott Schuster, was best man.

Bridesmaids included Misses Brenda Glover, Deanna Stokesberry and Dana Barber. Serving as groomsmen were the bride's brother, Troy Simons, Brad Land of Amarillo and John Naylor of Rosewell, N.M.

Escorting guests were Mark Calvit and Barry Barney.

Heather Shannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Shannon of Amarillo, was flower girl and ring bearer was Jeffrey McCutchen, son of Conley McCutchen of Friona and Janice Head of Dalhart.

Dale McCutchen of Dalhart and Kristi Holmes lit candles. William Barney of Fort Worth sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because", also sung at the bridegroom's parents and grandparents weddings. He was accompanied by Mary Barney of Fort Worth.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown designed with a lace and satin bodice trimmed with sequins. The satin skirt of the dress had touches of lace and sequins.

The long lace sleeves were designed with buttons on the underside and the gown was fastened at the back with tiny buttons.

Her bridal illusion veil was attached to a headpiece decorated with sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of blue and yellow carnations and daisies.

As a good luck piece, the bride carried the bridegroom's mother's Bible. Bridal attendants were attired in long blue sundresses designed with blue overlays. Each was fashioned with a yellow sash and roses that were attached at the shoulders. They carried blue and yellow carnation bouquets.

Miss Rena Coulter invited guests to register at the reception held on the sunporch of the church.

Mrs. Debbie Hoffman of Amarillo served the three-tier cake which was decorated with blue roses and yellow bells. The table was covered with white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of blue and yellow flowers.

Miss Beth Anderson served punch and coffee and was assisted by Miss Ronna Coulter.

Leaving for a surprise honeymoon, the bride wore a white cotton sundress, a blue jacket, white bridal hose and flat white satin shoes.

The couple will be at home after Wednesday at 5520 58th St., Apt. 1010 in Lubbock.

The bride, who is a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School, attended South Plains College in Levelland. Her husband is a 1980 graduate of Amarillo High School and is attending Texas Tech University where he is majoring in finance. He plans to work as an officer in Lubbock.

Louise's Lastest

Family Vacation Without Mom

BY LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent
I made the decision. Now I'm miserable. The men folk of my family are in Osh Kosh, Wis., enjoying the International Experimental Aircraft Association's annual meeting. I made the trip last year and decided to take my thesis for my Master's degree. I've been jealous the whole weekend.

I know they got there safely. The guy's didn't bother to call me but did call my in-laws. Guess they're one of 15,000 airplanes. Am sure they pitched a tent to call home for four or five days. Know everything is going well.

Just wish they'd call home to tell me what major need they forgot. Since I was not able to pack them, I'm sure they forgot something. However, I made a five page list for them.

Never realized I'd miss them so much. I've found myself reliving last year and thinking every hour what they're doing. I've also waited two nights for a telephone call. Can't believe husband has not called. He said he would. Guess he's too tired! I remember we were very tired last year after Saturday and Sunday's air show.

My weekend has been spent reviewing related literature for my thesis. It's quite interesting but it gets tiring. And not as much fun as camping out and watching airplanes.

New Books Give Health, Beauty Tips

BY DIANNE PIERSON
County Librarian

Several new books on health, beauty, and exercise head the list of new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library.

"Take Charge of Your Health" by Gladys Lindberg and Judy Lindberg McFarland is a dynamic, comprehensive guide to long life, abundant health, and active living through proper nutrition for people of all ages.

Gladys Lindberg is the founder of the Lindberg Nutrition Service. Her daughter, Judy, tells the amazing and inspiring story of how her mother's original search for answers for her ailing family grew into a full-scale enterprise totally committed to better living through natural foods, diet supplements, vitamins, and minerals.

"The Over-30-Week All-Natural Health and Beauty Plan" by Elizabeth Martin also heads the list of new books available this week at the library. Although staying in shape is seldom easy to do, women over 30 are faced with special problems that until now have been overlooked by other health and beauty books.

Former model Elizabeth Martin firmly believes that for women, over 30 is definitely not "over the hill." In fact, it is possible for women to look better and feel more energetic than they ever thought possible, if they are willing to work with her for just six weeks.

An outline of the six-week program follows: Week One begins with diet; Week Two is Ms. Martin's special unique Body Sculpting Program; Week Three is a simple, natural skin care system; Week Four is basics of correct body alignment; Week Five outlines relaxation techniques to help control stress and Week Six is sustaining the benefits of the complete program.

"There's life after 40 - and plenty of it!" is the philosophy expressed in Ruby MacDonald's new book entitled "Forty Plus" and Feeling Fabulous Book." Ruby believes that an ageless attitude is a gift from God and a gift you give to yourself and loved ones.

Here are down-to-earth strategies to help you turn "feeling age" into feeling fabulous!

Her book covers various aspects about your body and personalities; for example, negative attitudes. Did you know that you can change your whole pattern of life by simply replacing a negative thought with a positive one for 21 days.

Ruby reveals how your personal color scheme is the key to smashing effects with wardrobe, make-up, and even a whole new image.

Other subjects she covers are menopause, marriage and sex, and goals after the age of forty.

Other new books available this week include Beverly Johnson's "Guide to a Life of Health and Beauty," "Stan Place's Guide to Makeup" and "A Parent's Guide to Good Nutrition: Growing Up Health" by Myron Winick, M.D., Director of the Institute of Human Nutrition.

LIBRARY NEWS: Highlights of the Summer Reading Club: Over 700 children joined in the Deaf Smith County Library's Summer Reading Club, entitled "Space Capers".

Approximately 323 completed all the requirements for reading. Over half of the children completed half of the requirements for reading.

Special thanks to all the parents and teachers who helped us promote the Summer Reading Club. Also special thanks to KPAN, The Hereford Brand, and Soundstage One for their support in promoting the program!!! We're looking forward to next year's program!!!

Chamber Singers To Participate In Jubilee

The Hereford Chamber Singers will participate in the Town and Country Jubilee with a concert entitled "Pigs, Pearls, and Poison Ivy - Part II" on Thursday evening, Aug. 19, in the Hereford High School Auditorium.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children under ten. Everyone is encouraged to attend this light-hearted show which will feature solos, ensembles, and several group members.

Home-made jam is what grandma used to make - and what you get yourself into all by yourself.

Isn't it fortunate that vacation spots don't truly look like the photos the neighbors bring back?

LARGE or small valuables are safe in a Safe Deposit Box or Locker from HEREFORD STATE BANK
Member FDIC

Members of the Chamber Singers are reminded of rehearsals at 8 p.m. today and Aug. 15.

Jones, Walterscheid Repeat Vows

A pair of spiral candelabra and a large arrangement of spring flowers decorated St. Anthony's Catholic Church Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Sheri Lynn Jones and Brent Joseph Walterscheid.

Officiating at the ceremony was Deacon Kenneth Artho of St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Jones and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Walterscheid.

The bride's sister, Carie Sue Jones, served as maid of honor and Kirk Jones served as best man.

Bridesmaids included Mrs. Kathy Evans of Canyon, the bride's aunt, and Becky Hughes, Mack Hagar and David Walterscheid, brother of the groom, were groomsmen.

Ushers included Jeff Mercer, James Hund, Keith Lyles, and Brent Boyd.

Lighting the candles were Chad Muse, cousin of the bride, and Robin Jones, the bride's sister.

Beth Owens vocalized wedding selections.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a formal length gown of sheer organza and raschel lace over bridal taffeta. The dress featured a fitted bodice, Queen Anne neckline, and bishop sleeves.

Her double illusion fingertip-length veil fell from a lace cap and she carried a bouquet of spring flowers accented with baby's breath.

Her attendants wore yellow chiffon dresses and carried nosegays of spring flowers.

A reception was held in the Antonian Room. Linda Garcia was seated at the registry.

Cheryl and Carol Walterscheid, the groom's sisters, served the three-tiered wedding cake which was decorated in spring colors and surrounded by four small round cakes. An arrangement of spring flowers graced the serving table.

Serving punch and coffee were Tammy Northcutt and Cathy Trolinder.

The couple is at home after the wedding at 902 Sioux.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School and attends West Texas State University. The groom, also a 1981 HHS graduate, attends the Amarillo College Law Enforcement Academy.

Ann Landers

Put All Plans On Hold

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 15-year-old girl who is going with a guy, 19. I am mature for my age and could pass for 18. My boyfriend looks like 21.

My parents hate this guy like poison and have refused to let me go with him. So we have had to sneak around - which makes me feel lousy.

Both Mom and Dad are heavy sleepers, so my guy has been coming in the back door at night after they have gone to bed. I had a copy of my house key made, and this is the way we have been getting together.

Friday night my mother caught us and called my dad. You would have thought I had committed a triple ax murder. It was the absolute worst night of my life. Dad kicked R. (with his foot) out of the house and told him if he ever came around again he would have him arrested because I am underage. My mother screamed and cried and carried on like a lunatic. Nobody is talking to me, and I feel like an outcast.

I want to get married and leave this nuthouse. (I am not pregnant or anything like that). R. says he will marry me and that we can leave town and make it somewhere on our own. But we need to know in what state can a girl get married at 15. Please help us. -In Love And Miserable

DEAR MISERABLE: The library has the information you want. I refuse to pass it on. I hope by the time you read this letter things will have simmered down and you can think more clearly. These days adults who have an education and jobs are finding it tough to make marriage work. What chance do you think you and R. would have?

I implore you to put all plans on hold. Ask your parents to consider family counseling. Somehow you must all stop yelling and start talking to each other. It's the only way there will ever be peace in your family. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: People often write to you about how they get hassled for refusing alcoholic beverages at parties. Well, I have an equally irritating problem, and I am a teetotaler. My relatives are worse than my friends.

I am a vegetarian - which means I eat no meat, fish or fowl. When I started on this diet - which, incidentally, has done a world of good for my health - I expected to get some stupid questions and a little pressure to eat this or that. But it has been three and a half years now, and I am still hearing the same dumb remarks. People keep asking me if I ever feel faint from hunger and how I expect to keep my red blood count up if I don't eat meat.

I find it fascinating that at 50 I weigh the same as I did in college, and the morons who ask the most foolish questions are fat and out of shape. Do you have any quick comebacks for those ignorant clods? - Fellin Fit

DEAR FET: Quick comebacks will not put an end to the dumb questions. The fat and foolish will always be with us.

Ask your doctor for the best book on the vegetarian diet and, when the questions start, recommend the book and tell them, "It's all in there - you really ought to read it."

CONFIDENTIAL to Accused of Being Disrespectful, Was I? Sorry I don't go along with your teacher. I like H.L.

Parson, Milam Exchange Vows Friday

Miss Brenda Elizabeth Parson and Jeff Dwayne Milam were united in marriage Friday afternoon at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Doug Manning performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Parson and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Paula Welty and the late Wayne Milam.

The church was decorated with two bouquets of white gladiolas, white pew bows, and three brass candelabra trimmed with greenery and baby's breath.

Kimberly Parson, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and Craig Eubanks of Chrisney, Ind., was best man.

Joan Randt, of Sand Springs, Okla., was bridesmaid and Harold Murray of Amarillo served as groomsman.

Escorting guests to the pews were Dwayne Parson the bride's brother, and Kirk Parson, the bride's cousin.

Candle lighters were Deborah Gibson and Tammy Milam.

Heather Milam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Milam, and Milissa Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gibson, served as flower girls and ring bearer was Stevie Milam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Milam.

Ann Killingsworth, the groom's aunt, sang "Love Will Grow" and "That's the Way," accompanied on the organ by Jan Walser.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal white wedding gown trimmed with chantilly lace and pearls. It featured a Queen Anne neckline, fitted bodice, full lace sleeves with wide cuffs, and multi-tiered, ruffled founce which extended to a chapel length train.

Her cathedral-length veil was trimmed with lace and attached to a lace-covered headpiece. She wore a pearl necklace borrowed from Lori Parker and her mother's old wedding ring, and carried a cascade bouquet of burgundy roses and white gardenias which she made herself.

The bridal attendants wore long, dusty rose colored dresses, and carried small colonial style bouquets of burgundy roses and white gardenias.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony. Lori Parker and Janet Brewer registered guests.

The four-tiered wedding cake, which was white and accented with light burgundy roses, was made by the bride's brother, Dwayne Parson. The serving table was centered with a bouquet of roses and a candelabrum.

Tracy and Karen Killingsworth served the bride's cake and Tracy Griffiths and Jeri Jordan served the groom's cake. Punch was served by Nancy and Susan McKean.

The bride chose a red and white sundress with a jacket for her going away outfit. After a Caribbean Cruise on the S.S. Norway, the couple will be at home in Tulsa, Okla., after Aug. 18.

Out of town guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scales of Lithia, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parson of Clovis, N.M.; and the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Killingsworth of Wheeler.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School and currently attends Tulsa Junior college, where she plans to earn an associate degree in horticulture. The groom, a 1980 graduate of HHS, attends Platt College in Tulsa.

Relatives Visit Local Residents

BY MRS. OWEN ANDREWS

Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Baldwin and sons, Andrew and Randall, of Temple Hills, Md., came last week to visit their parents, Mrs. Blanche Baldwin and the W.H. Andrews, and other relatives. They will be here a couple of weeks.

Here to visit the Mike Whites last week were her brothers, Robbie and Charlie Ladner, of Biloxi, Miss.

Mrs. Gladys Mobley went to Throckmorton last week to attend funeral services for a nephew, T.J. Taylor, of that city. She went by way of Floydada and was accompanied from there by her sister, Mrs. Claude Price. Taylor's funeral was in First Methodist Church of Throckmorton Saturday afternoon. He was diagnosed as having cancer early in July.

Mr. and Mrs. John Paetzold visited his parents, the Raymond Paetzolds of Lake Tanglewood, and other relatives in Amarillo during the weekend.

Raymond Mobley, of Farmington, N.M., was scheduled for open heart surgery in an Albuquerque hospital on Friday. His mother, Mrs. Gladys Mobley, and sister, Nell Miller, went to be with them.

Mr. and Mrs. B.E. Roberson, of Hereford, have recently returned from a vacation time in the Colorado mountains. They visited former Hereford residents, the Bob Lawrence and the Raylan Evans families while in Denver, and at Fowler they visited Mr. and Mrs. S.B. McLallen. They found the McLallens much improved, as Mr. McLallen has had an illness recently, of several weeks duration, but was able to be at home and to be fairly active again.

The McLallens lived here during the 1940s and '50s, he being manager of the J.C. Penney store here much of that time and also manager of a variety store. They were with Buckners Home at Dallas several years, after that, until retirement to their native area in Colorado.

Visiting the Frank Robbins this week are their grandchildren, Lauren and Steven Robbins, children of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Robbins of Lubbock. The parents were enjoying a mountain vacation this week. Also, the daughters of the Gene Duvalls of Amarillo, Cara and Robin Duvall, were with them the first of the week.

Policies Announced

Weddings, engagements, anniversaries and similar announcements are published free of charge by The Hereford Brand as a courtesy to our readers.

Those who submit such articles are asked to abide by the deadlines and policies established by The Brand Staff. Items must be submitted promptly in order to be newsworthy. The Brand reserves the right to edit all copy.

Wedding and engagement forms are available in the Brand office, 313 Lee St., an aid in preparing articles for publication.

Information for wedding should be submitted the Monday before the wedding date. Weddings reported more than a week after the event will be published in condensed form. Please do not ask for articles on weddings more than a month old.

Engagement announcements should be submitted at least one month before the wedding date. Engagement and anniversary announcements should be submitted by noon two days before publication, or Thursday noon for Sunday publication.

Photos for weddings and engagements should be black and white glossy pictures, which can be picked up after publication. Snapshots are not generally suitable for reproduction.

Articles for bridal showers should be reported for immediate publication. Photos of showers will be accepted only if they are timely and of adequate quality for reproduction in the newspaper.

Fair Parade Expected To Draw Large Crowd

Everyone loves a parade, and the Amarillo Tri-State Fair parade always draws a big crowd. This year will be no exception as the parade kicks off the 1982 Tri-State Fair on Monday, Sept. 20.

The parade will begin at 10 a.m., according to John Kuhn, chairman of the parade committee and will feature marching bands, military units, floats, horses, clowns—everything you love about a parade. The theme of this year's parade is "The Golden Spread Land of Coronado."

Cash awards of $250, $100 and $50 plus trophies will be given to the top three floats which best exemplify the theme of the parade.

Trophies will be awarded for best overall entry and for best entry in the following categories: military, equestrian, ban (four trophies to best bands from junior high through high school) junior ROTC, civic, youth and religious organizations.

Awards will be presented at the outdoor stage on the fairgrounds at 6:45 p.m., Monday, Sept. 20. Entries must be in the fair office by Sept. 1.

For entry forms or additional information, write or contact the Amarillo Tri-State Fair, P.O. Box 31087, Amarillo, Tx. 79120.

Couple Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Christman, 208 Aspen, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary today with a reception in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend the reception, which is scheduled from 2 to 5 p.m.

Christman married the former Alice Waldrop in Durant, Okla., on Aug. 27, 1932. They previously lived near Denison, Texas, and have lived in Hereford for the past 37 years.

Christman is a retired carpenter, and Mrs. Christman is a retired school teacher, having taught 26 years in Hereford and 11 years in Grayson County.

They are members of the First Baptist Church, where he is a deacon and she is an adult Sunday school teacher. They are also members of Hereford Senior Citizens.

The reception is being hosted by the couple's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Ketchan of Andrews, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Christman of Houston.

Jones To Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Friends and relatives are invited to a 50th anniversary reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jones from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 14, in the Friendship Room of Hereford State Bank. The couple request 'no gifts please.'

The reception is being hosted by the couple's two daughters, Marilyn Cope and Patsy Findley, and their families. The couple has six grandchildren. Jones and the former Elsie Andrews were married Aug. 13, 1932, at Portales, N.M. He has lived in Hereford all of his life and she has been here since 1927.

Jones is employed by Burke Inman Trucking. Mrs. Jones worked for Sugarland Mall Drugstore for about 28 years.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Tenderizing liver

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — What should you soak liver in to make it tender? — MRS. B.R.

DEAR MRS. B.R. — Some people soak liver in milk, claiming that makes it sweeter and more tender. The best way to insure tenderness in liver is to be sure you don't overcook it. Cook calves' liver briefly and quickly so that it remains juicy and slightly pink inside. You'll be surprised at the delicate flavor of liver cooked this way. Long cooking merely turns liver into shoe leather. — POLLY

County Fair Scheduled At Bull Barn

The Town & Country Jubilee County Fair will be held this year at the Bull Barn. Entries will be received on Thursday, Aug. 19, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. Judging will begin at 8 a.m. Friday morning, Aug. 20.

The fair will be open to the public from 12 noon to 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 20, and from 2 to 6 p.m. Saturday, August 21. The exhibits will be removed between 6 and 7 p.m. on Saturday.

There will be four divisions this year in each of the categories: "Juniors" - under 13 years of age, "Teenage" - 13-19 years of age, "Adult" - over 19, and "Golden Age" - age 60 and over.

The departments designated for the fair are textile - clothings and handwork; art - (does not have to be framed) - oils, watercolor, charcoal, and pen and pencil; photography (must be mounted or framed) black and white and color, and string art; woodworking - (classified as registration); and hobbies or collections.

Some of the larger departments are horticulture - (only one entry per class or category per exhibitor) annuals; perennials, bulbs; corns; rhizomes and tubers; roses, pot plants, hanging baskets; artistic design (desert sunset using weathered wood & dry material - pride of the Golden Triangle - using fruit, vegetables, grains & flowers; country charm - plant material must dominate dry material; Christmas treasures - (all dry material in a wreath); and fruits and vegetables.

In the culinary department the divisions include yeast breads, quick breads, cakes, cookies and pastry. Canned products will be divided as follows: fruits; vegetables; pickles and relishes; jelly, and preserves, fruit butter, and marmalades.

The decorated cakes department will accept no dummy cakes this year. The cakes will be received between 8 and 9:45 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 20. There will be a Junior, Teenager, Amateur and Professional (a profes-

Monroe, Band Venture Underground for Album

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Traditional bluegrass musicians, who abhor electric instruments, are telling a joke these days:

How many bluegrass players does it take to screw in a light bulb?

Six — one to put it in and five to complain because it's electric.

Bluegrass traditionalists may turn their backs on electronic gear, but they are sometimes willing to try the unusual for the perfect sound. Just ask the father of bluegrass music, Bill Monroe — the Kentucky-born mandolin player who definitely keeps the modern electric instruments out of his repertoire.

He went underground — to a cave, that is — to record an album.

Monroe and his band, The Bluegrass Boys, ventured more than 100 feet into Cathedral Caverns near Woodville, Ala., to give a July 4th concert and record an album — which might be the first ever done in a cave.

The bluegrass pioneer, who turns 71 in September, had performed previously in the cave and was impressed with the sound. So he and MCA Records decided to record there.

Monroe created bluegrass in the 1930s. It was the traditional string music of fiddles, banjos and guitars often accompanied by tight vocal harmony. His bluegrass festivals in Beanblossom, Ind., are legendary. He has added similar festivals in Shelby, N.C., Waynesboro, Tenn., and Beaver Dam, Ky.

A descendant of the nation's fifth president, James Monroe, the bluegrass music king lives in a 140-year-old house and raises cattle, quarter horses, fox hounds and game chickens on a 288-acre farm.

Monroe had successful collony surgery last year and is still adding luster to an already glittering career.

In July, he was one of 15 people honored by the National Endowment for the Arts at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. He's currently looking for a writer to help him with an autobiography.

Monroe has performed on the Grand Ole Opry for 43 years, and has been cutting records for MCA for 32 years. In 1970, he was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame.

And now he says that there are no goals left for him.

"There ain't much I haven't been into," the graying, reserved musician said.

Birthdays, he says, "roll right around fast. When you are younger, it takes forever to reach 21. When you get up there, they come right around."

"I've seen a lot of people at 70 break way down," Monroe said. "But I get around pretty good. I like to work and dance. I've never smoked or drank, and I think that's helped me a lot."

"I'd like to be remembered as the man who started bluegrass and as a man who respected people and treated them right."

FIRST AID FACTS

Summertime At The Beach

The beach is likely to win many family polls for favorite summer spot. Help make it a happier place by practicing rules of safety and common sense.

- Swimming lessons should have top priority. Professional instruction usually works best. Never allow children to swim or play in water without adult supervision.

- Be wary about overexposure to the sun during the first few weeks at the beach. Keep hats, robes and cotton sweaters handy for covering up.

- For first degree sunburn (reddened skin), keep out of the sun until the tenderness is gone.

- Have children wear sandals to avoid sharp shells, broken glass or bottle tops hidden in the sand.

Songwriters Profiled

CW's Unseen Notables

By Cheryl Scutt

NASHVILLE (NEA) — Kye Fleming and Dennis W. Morgan experienced a songwriter's dream-come-true four years ago. Their first national chart song reached No. 1.

The song, "Sleeping Single in a Double Bed," was no flash-in-the-pan for the songwriting team. It has been followed by 19 other chart-breaking hits, including the Grammy- and Country Music Association-nominated song of the year, "I Was Country When Country Wasn't Cool," and a No. 1 hit on both country and adult contemporary charts, "Smoky Mountain Rain."

At this year's Nashville Songwriters Association International awards, the two were named writers of the year and took home honors for "I Was Country" and "I Wouldn't Have Missed It for the World." Cash Box, a trade magazine, also named them Country Writers of the Year for 1981.

Though they now concentrate on the country market, neither grew up in the country tradition.

Miss Fleming says she was an Arkansas "Navy brat" who got hooked on music as a teen-ager. Now 30, she started playing the guitar, singing and writing while in the ninth grade, emulating the styles of folk musicians like Joni Mitchell. Morgan, 29, was a small-town boy from Tracy, Minn., whose musical imagination was turned on at the tender age of 10.

"For me, it was the Beatles," he says. "I saw them on Ed Sullivan. That changed my life, literally. I played my first dance when I was 12."

"The guitar was bigger than me," he adds with a laugh. Both were solo performers who appeared across the country at coffee houses, clubs, hotels and colleges.

By the time they met in 1978 in Nashville, both had decided to zero in on writing, not performing. It's a decision neither regrets.

"You're not in the public eye," Miss Fleming says, "so you just do your thing and go home and have a nice quiet evening and come back to work. It's great."

"No road work. No bands," adds Morgan. "It's really like a job, and yet it isn't."

The two firmly believe in writing on a regular basis. They work seven hours a day, five days a week, at the offices of the Tom Collins Music Corp.

Though Morgan works on the guitar and Miss Fleming holds the notebook, both contribute lyrically and musically on their songs.

"We do try to put in a certain number of hours a day," Miss Fleming says. "We don't write weekends or nights. So it really is a job."

"That's what's worked for so many people," Morgan continues. "Hal David and Burt Bacharach. The list goes on and on and on. The more you do something, the better you get at it. I used to think years ago to wait for inspiration. But it doesn't work that way."

"You could wait forever," Miss Fleming smiles. "We write. We put out a whole lot of songs this way, and they're not all good, but your chances of coming up with a good one are a whole lot better than if you're sitting out there saying 'I'll write next week.'"

"Smoky Mountain Rain" is a great example of that," Morgan says.

"Smoky Mountain Rain" is the result of two songs that didn't work being combined into one song that did. Like most of their songs, it was written with an artist in mind — in this case, Ronnie Milsap, who is from the Smoky Mountains.

Both cite "Smoky Mountain Rain" as a prime example of the importance of keeping all those bits and pieces of songs that most songwriters have.

"We use a little cassette tape player," Miss Fleming says. "You can sing two or three lines and say, 'Ah, that's good.' And I swear, if you don't have the tape going, sometimes you can go back and you've lost the whole thing."

"Easy come, easy go," Morgan smiles.

They also emphasize the importance of writing, even when it means wrestling with words and music during dreary periods.

"That's when it is really hard, and we still come in and battle it out," Miss Fleming says with a sigh. "During a dry period, you may not be knocked out about it, but there may come a title or a (musical) feel or something that you don't recognize at the time."

Morgan continues: "It will be on tape or paper so you can look back. You may not think you're getting anywhere, but you are." "You really are," Miss Fleming says. "One song that I can think of right off the bat that we wrote in a dry period is 'Best of Strangers.'"

"And 'Tumbleweed' was written during the same time," Morgan adds.

"So, there are two chart records that came out of a dry period," Miss Fleming says. "If we hadn't been going in every day and battling through the dry period, we wouldn't have come up with either one of those songs."

Constant work also helps develop two key components to commercial songwriting: objectivity and the ability to rewrite, rewrite, rewrite.

With a smile, Morgan admits that he had no objectivity about his work when he started writing because everything he wrote meant everything to him.

"I soon learned that they don't," he grins.

Objectivity gets a boost by collaboration, both say. "You have somebody to bounce it off of, and you don't waste a lot of time on dead songs," Miss Fleming says.

"You have to learn to just pick them apart, every line," Morgan says.

Marinero Similiar to Character

Former Football Star Now TV Cop

By YARDENA ARAR Associated Press Writer BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — At first glance, football star-turned-actor Ed Marinero and Officer Joe Coffey, the street cop he plays on NBC-TV's "Hill Street Blues," wouldn't seem to have much in common. But Marinero says that he has more in common with his screen persona than a strapping build and a smile that lights up his dark features. "He's a blue-collar guy who likes his job," Marinero says of Coffey. "He enjoys his life, enjoys what he does, enjoys working, stays cool throughout, never really gets that flustered. "And, basically I'm like that. I was a professional football player, that's not white collar. It's sweat and physical. All of my success came as a result of really grueling training for many years." Marinero has been in the limelight for most of his adult life, first as an Ivy League college football sensation, later as a member of two National Football League clubs and more recently for his steady television roles on "Laverne and Shirley" and "Hill Street Blues."

Marinero is serious about his work and reticent about his love life; when he's not on the set he's likely to be engaging in such pastimes as racquetball or golf. Coffey, on the other hand, seems to spend much of his time on the job romancing his partner, Officer Lucy Bates (played by Betty Thomas), and probably wouldn't know a golf club from a croquet mallet.

Marinero grew up in the blue-collar suburb of New Milford, N.J. He admits that sports was his ticket out, first to Cornell University where he set National Collegiate Athletic Association records in rushing and career touchdowns, and then to the NFL where he played with the Minnesota Vikings, the New York Jets and the Seattle Mariners before he was forced to retire in 1978 after suffering an injury.

He had started taking acting lessons in the off season. But like many athletes who have sought to make the transition from sports celebrity to entertainer, Marinero found that studying acting and making a living at it were two different things. "It was something I was dabbling in, and having fun, and saying I was studying acting," he said. For a year and a half he had no serious job offers. "There are enough small, really insignificant roles that you can get just because you're an ex-athlete and they like to have you around," he says. "But any role that's worthwhile, they're not going to give you. You have to earn it." After a year, he finally returned to acting classes and several months later he started getting his first respectable offers. He hasn't stopped working since.

His experience with "Hill Street Blues" has more than made up for the earlier disappointments. He snagged the part of Coffey only hours after he read for it, and the producers were so satisfied with his work that the part — originally slated to last for only two two-hour episodes — was changed so that Coffey survived a gunshot blast at three feet to become a series regular last season.

Singer's Family Finds Out She's A Success

By JAMES SIMON Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Martha Davis' two teen-age daughters no longer ask when she'll come home for good and give up her dream of becoming a rock star. "They certainly had their doubts, and then all of a sudden they started hearing our songs on the way home from school and realized we had succeeded," said Ms. Davis of the Motels, as the group's third album, "All Four One," steadily moves up the charts on the strength of the Top 10 single, "Only the Lonely."

think she now realizes it was." The 31-year-old singer was a divorced teen-age mother with two children when she started her musical career in 1971. She has never tried to hide her domestic situation from her fans — many of whom are the same age as her children. It was a relentless desire to perform that convinced Ms. Davis to start a band with a girlfriend in Los Angeles 11 years ago, even though she was receiving no child support from the man she married at age 15. The band evolved into the Motels, a six-piece group whose newly found popularity comes after years of scattered success and internal personal conflict.

Many longtime Motels fans first attracted by the band's rough-edged, guitar-oriented sound, seem upset with the more polished and commercial songs on the new album, which was produced by Val Garay of "Bette Davis Eyes" fame. "People have said that we've sold out, that we're too slick," Ms. Davis says. "But I can't think of anything worse than working hard on every album and having it ignored by people." With the success, the dark, mysterious figure that Ms. Davis once cut on stage has given way to a more engaging bandleader pose. Her swirling dark hair still serves as a Motels trademark, but her once icy stares at the audience have been replaced by smiles, and the extra pounds she's added have lessened her old image as a down-and-out street vamp.

FAME

DOUGLAS AND DESTINY — Kirk Douglas, making a rare TV appearance, has been signed to star in "Remembrance of Love," an NBC-TV movie about an emotional reunion between two Holocaust survivors who had been teen-age lovers when they were separated during the war and who had lived their lives since then believing the other had died. Filming begins this week in Israel.

A STAR IS BORN — Filming has begun in Vancouver on "Star '80," a Ladd Co. Production directed by Bob Fosse from his original screenplay about the late actress-model Dorothy Stratten. Mariel Hemingway has been cast in the title role. Carroll Baker plays Miss Stratten's mother, while Cliff Robertson is cast as Playboy King Hugh Hefner.

Gregory Peck

MARTY'S PARTY — Marty Ingels, the well-known talent agent, who began his career as a comic actor ("I'm Dickens, He's Fenster") will be the voice of Pac-Man, the adventurous star of the new ABC animated children's series of the same name. Pac-Man is a round little fellow with a big smile who munches on power-pellets, glows with energy and chomps across the TV screen on his way to adventure in Pacland.

GREGORY'S PEARL — Production has started in Rome on "The Scarlet and the Black," starring Gregory Peck, John Gielgud and Christopher Plummer. The three-hour TV-movie will be aired for future broadcast on CBS. The film is based on J.P. Gallagher's book, "The Scarlet Pimpernel of the Vatican," about a Roman Catholic priest who helped thousands of allied POWs escape during World War II.

HBO starviews HOME BOX OFFICE By Jennifer Wood Burt Reynolds' mother is thrilled about her son's career these days, but it was different in the beginning. Before Burt became one of the world's hottest actors he worked as a stunt man. "My poor mother!" he exclaims. "I would call home with the exciting news that I was going to be on TV and my family would tune in expecting to see some fine performance. Instead they saw their son get run over by a bulldozer." An unscathed Burt is on view this month in The Cannonball Run, now showing only on HBO and on no other national pay television service.

Dazzling "10" star Bo Derek isn't just a pretty face, but she knows her sex-symbol image is tough to break. Her latest movie, Tarzan, the Ape Man, (now on HBO) does little to conceal her charms on-screen. But off-screen she used assets of a different kind. Bo produced the jungle update working with director/husband John Derek. "People may not believe me a producer," she worries. "They might say that it's only because I'm 'hot' that I can demand my name up front. But John doesn't like to get involved in the business end of movie-making. From the beginning, I was involved in all the aspects of the operation and I love it!"

Since Laurence Olivier is practically a god in the acting world, it's fitting that he plays the mythic god Zeus in Clash of the Titans, the adventure spectacle on HBO this month. But Larry, as his friends call him, is a lot more playful than most of his legendary roles have allowed. The British acting star is fond of practical jokes and clowning around. And he'd like to exit laughing. Once asked how he'd like his epitaph to read, Olivier uttered just two words: "He's funny."

Sightgags abound in the comedy Under the Rainbow (now on HBO), and that suits star Chevy Chase just fine. TV's "Saturday Night Live" gave him the chance to try every kind of humor from highbrow to goofy, and he isn't afraid to get laughs by looking silly. "A few years ago, comedy was largely a matter of political or social put-down," says Chevy. "Now, we've gone back to the humor of Keaton, Chaplin and Kovacs: kidding ourselves. If I have to skin my knees or pour beer on my head, I'll do it." HBO. Don't miss another week. Call: 364-3912 Today!

Paw pets are wonderful

Have Pet, Will Travel If the thought of leaving a sad-eyed Fido or Fluff puts a damper on your vacation, why not take them along? Pets make wonderful traveling companions. They can also make the family vacation more fun by entertaining the kids and adding a little spunk to the home movies.

Besides, having a pet tag along with you on vacation is easy! More than 6,000 hotels and motels across the United States accept well-behaved pets as guests. Including members of the country's largest chains! Airlines allow dogs and cats to fly their friendly skies as well. And if your pet can fit comfortably into a small kennel, it can travel in the cabin with you. Be sure, however, to double-check all airline arrangements before you board the plane.

Dogs and cats also like to see the sights from the backseat of the family stationwagon. Make sure, however, that your cat is not allowed to frolic too freely in the backseat. It may dart out a crack in the door or window and disappear forever. Also, make sure that you never leave your pet(s) alone in a locked car—it can be extremely dangerous.

Finally, before you take off on that long-awaited vacation, consult a veterinarian to make sure Fido and Fluff are fit for the trip; bone up on the do's and don't's of traveling with pets and be sure to make plenty of stops for fresh water and to pack a doggie bag of food.

For further information on traveling with pets, write the Pets Are Wonderful Council, 500 N. Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

The first mill to roll copper in the United States was erected by Paul Revere at Canton, Mass., in 1801. It rolled sheets to sheath the hull of the U.S.S. Constitution.
