United Way to kick off with higher goal

The United Way of Deaf Smith County will kickoff its annual campaign Sept. 9 with Roger Eades as campaign chairman, it was announced this week by UW President Bill Harris.

Goal for 1985 will be $130,625 for the 10 participating community agencies. The goal is only two percent higher than last year's goal of $128,150.

With the theme "Be a Winner", local volunteers will emphasize citizen participation as they strive to successfully complete the funding drive by Nov. 2, according to Wayne Amstutz, executive director of the United Way.

Other officers of the United Way board this year include M.D. Gentry, vice president; Carol Sue LeGate, publicity chairman; Lloyd Ames, communications chairman.

"More and more people of our community are becoming involved as they see how their contributions are being used by the 10 agencies," said Amstutz. "We hope contributors will keep in mind that they are making 10 gifts in one when a United Way volunteer calls on them."

The 10 agencies in the United Way of Deaf Smith County are: Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, Hereford Senior Citizens Association, Camp Fire, Inc., Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Boy Scouts, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Family Services Center, Children's Rehabilitation Center, and the High Plains Epilepsy Association.

Amstutz emphasized that donations or pledges of any amounts are welcomed in the campaign drive. Pledges can be made payable by payroll deduction, bank drafts, monthly or quarterly payments, or any way the donor chooses to give. The United Way does not support planned parenthood or abortion, stated Amstutz.

The campaign organization is already in place, according to Eades. There will be eight divisions in the drive and chairmen and co-chairmen have volunteered to lead the division teams. The divisions and their volunteer leaders:

Agriculture—Johnny and Judy Wall and Ted and Cherry McWhorter.

General—Carla Sargent and June Owens.

Major—B.J. Gilliland and Steve Nieman.

Metro—Joe Wallace and Ike Graves.

Pacesetters—Buddy Peeler and Dee Ann Trotter.

Professional—Bobby Owen.

Special—Jeryl Baker.

Whiteface—Nell Culpepper and Lottie Wertenberger.

Entertaining Sophomores

Sophomores attending orientation at Hereford High School on Wednesday were entertained by the school drill team officers. Wednesday's orientation was scheduled to help the students more easily adjust to high school life when classes start next Tuesday.

Kirby says test crucial element

AUSTIN (AP) — Denying that a skills test given prospective teachers is racially discriminatory, state education officials are preparing to appeal a federal judge's order to stop using it.

Education Commissioner William Kirby said Wednesday the test is "a crucial element" in making sure public school teachers "have the basic skills necessary to provide a quality education to our children."

"People who do not possess adequate fundamental skills in reading, writing and math cannot be allowed to teach in Texas classrooms," Kirby said.

Kevin O'Hanlon, assistant attorney general representing the Texas Education Agency, said the TEA is telling colleges and universities to obey U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's order for now.

However, O'Hanlon said, the state will ask today or Friday for a stay that would block the preliminary injunction Justice issued Tuesday. Texas will carry that request to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans if necessary, he said.

"It's just too early in the game to say that minorities cannot pass the test. We don't think that's the case," O'Hanlon said.

The temporary injunction Justice issued says college students must be allowed to take education courses even if they haven't passed the standardized Pre-Professional Skills Test. Justice said he would rule later on the validity of the test.

The Texas Education Agency has required prospective teachers to pass the PPST exam before enrolling in one of the state's 65 teacher-training programs. The exam was required under a 1981 state law.

But a coalition of minority groups argues that the test discriminates against blacks and Mexican-Americans. They sought the injunction, saying the test threatens to deplete the ranks of minority teachers in the state.

"This injunction allows these students to go on with their (college) educations," said Audrey Little, an attorney with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Albert Kauffman of San Antonio, an attorney for the Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund, said results of the five tests given so far in Texas show discrimination.

He said that while 73 percent of white students taking the exam have passed, only 34 percent of Hispanics and 22 percent of blacks passed it.

"The court found that there was a severe racial impact of this test," Kauffman said.

"This means that the core of minority teachers in the state simply will no longer be around in a few years. The court found that the children in the public schools will

SPS filing for rate restructure

Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS) expects to file a request Friday to restructure rates within 35 days for retail electric service in Texas, leaving prices essentially unchanged.

Residential electric bills will neither increase nor decrease under the plan.

SPS chief executive officer Bert Ballengee said the utility will petition SPS-served communities in Texas, and the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT), to increase base rates by $40,842,255, but to decrease the boiler-fuel charge, (cost of fuel by SPS to generate electricity) in bills by $40,933,368. The difference is a $91,113 decrease. "Some costs to us have increased, and some costs to us have decreased," Ballengee said, "so, we must restructure our rates to reflect those changes. But prices to almost all of our Texas retail customers will remain the same."

The utility is petitioning the PUCT to decrease fuel charges, and is asking for a one-time fuel-charge credit to customers. Details on the fuel-charge credit will be available later, Ballengee said, after the PUCT has issued an applicable order.

SPS previewed the rate-restructuring request on July 31, in preliminary informational packets distributed to the Texas communities the utility serves.

The last increase in base rates for retail service from SPS in Texas was in mid-1982.

Ballengee said SPS has decreased costs primarily by improving operating efficiencies, by increasing generation at coal-fueled power plant units, and by negotiating fuel and fuel-transportation contracts. Higher base-rate costs to the utility include costs of constructing a new coal-fueled unit near Muleshoe, Texas. The unit was brought into commercial service in June 1985.

Falwell visits Dallas to clear air on South Africa issue

DALLAS (AP) — The Rev. Jerry Falwell voiced his support for the South Africa government, and what he said were its attempts at reform, during a news conference he held to "set the record straight."

Falwell said he wanted to answer questions about his trip to South Africa on Wednesday, not when he attends Monday's anti-pornography march here.

"We are opposed to apartheid," said Falwell, who recently visited South Africa. "Apartheid must come to an end."

Although Falwell blasted apartheid in South Africa, he said President P.W. Botha is trying to institute reforms, but that he needs time to achieve peaceful changes.

Without the United State's support in instituting reforms, South Africa could fall into the "Soviet orbit," the Moral Majority leader said.

"The cancer apartheid must be cut out without killing the patient — South Africa," he said.

After his trip to South Africa, Falwell called the Rev. Desmond Tutu "a phony" and said the South African bishop did not represent most blacks in the divided country. Falwell later said he regretted using the word phony.

And although he said Wednesday that Tutu is an "honorable gentleman," he added: "I felt then, and I feel now that he doesn't represent the majority."

In South Africa, radical right factions with "no regards for nonwhites" consider Botha a "sellout," Falwell said. He said Botha's government could be toppled by extreme rightists if he proceeds with reforms too quickly.

On the other side, Marxist groups are attempting to create violence to discredit the government in the eyes of western governments, he said. Falwell said he was encouraged by Botha's comments that the government was one of reform and not apartheid, and by blacks who said they believed the president was sincere.

A true democracy could be in power in two to five years if western nations allow South Africa "to heal itself," Falwell said.

"And that's something that does not exist in South Africa today," he said.

After the news conference, Falwell headed to Springfield, Mo. He will return for the march against Southland Corp., which is scheduled Monday.

The Rev. Donald Wildmon, founder of the National Federation of Decency, is leading the march, which is planned to protest Southland's sales of pornographic magazines, Falwell said.

"Apartheid will not be the issue Monday," said Falwell, who added he will not participate in a rally news conference planned Monday. Falwell said he did not want his trip to South Africa to overshadow the purpose of the march.

State senator fears flood of Mexican refugees

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Texas will face a flood of refugees across its southern border if there is a revolution in Mexico, state Sen. John Traeger predicts.

"I'm afraid we're going to have a revolution in Mexico. If we do and we don't have any immigration policy — which we don't — those people who are on the losing side and those people who are afraid they are going to be on the losing side are going to come over," he said Tuesday.

"That to me is the biggest single pending social problem," said Traeger, whose senatorial district includes about 400 miles along the Mexican border from Eagle Pass to Rio Grande City.

As chairman of the Southern Legislative Conference, Traeger has been discussing the immigration problem with state legislators from California and Florida.

Traeger said state lawmakers hope to focus attention on the issue and encourage Congress to take action.

"We have got to have federal help to solve it," he said. "Congress is

Gas price up from last Labor Day

HOUSTON (AP) — Gas prices for this Labor Day weekend will be higher than those of a year ago but lower than 1985's July 4th prices, an American Automobile Association survey says.

The association's fuel gauge survey found that the largest increase since September 1984 — 2.6 cents per gallon — was at the full service pumps for premium unleaded gas.

Since July 4th, the price of fuel has decreased as much as 2.7 cents per gallon, the survey shows.

The report also indicates that of the 273 gas stations surveyed in Texas, 71 percent will be open for business and 21 percent plan to be open around the clock.

The highest average for unleaded premium at a full-service station was found in the Dallas-Fort Worth area for $1.55 per gallon. The cheapest regular gas at a self-service station goes for $1.04 in Houston.

Mayoral recall election is likely

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Mayor Bill Neild says business will continue as usual for the City Council despite a scheduled vote next week to set a Nov. 5 mayoral recall election.

Petitions submitted by a member of the Service Employees International Union 706 on strike at the A.W. Schlesinger Geriatric Center were approved by City Clerk Myrtle Corgoy on Tuesday.

According to the city charter, Neild has five days to resign or submit to a recall election. Neild said he will fight the recall attempt although he hasn't "mapped out a strategy."

"I'm not going to turn this into an ongoing battle between the Schlesinger's workers and the mayor's office," he said.

The election will be Beaumont's first recall election since 1969, when voters removed Councilman Dale C. Hager from office.

Union members said they wanted to recall Neild because he did not intervene in the strike over proposed wage cuts which is not in its eighth week.

Meanwhile, Neild says he has received numerous letters and phone calls in support of his position.

Goddess of Liberty donation day set

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White today designated Sept. 9 as a day for Texas school children to donate 25 cents each to help restore the Goddess of Liberty atop the state Capitol.

White's official memorandum designated Sept. 9 as "Bring a Quarter for the Goddess Day" in Texas.

State Architect Roy Graham of Austin says the 97-year-old, 18-foot-tall zinc statue needs major repairs or she could lose her left arm, which holds the Texas star.

Cost of the restoration has been estimated at $350,000.

The Texas Parent-Teacher Association said it would help to raise the funds by encouraging each of the more than 3.2 million students in Texas schools to bring a quarter to school.

Talks proposed on direct air travel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has proposed talks here next month to resume direct air travel between the United States and the Soviet Union, which could pave the way to new cultural and air safety agreements as well.

If the negotiations are successful, the agreements could be signed by President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev when they meet in Geneva, Switzerland, in November.

The Soviets attach top priority to re-acquiring landing rights for Aeroflot, the national airline, in New York and Washington, a U.S. official said Wednesday. The United States, meanwhile, is stressing the need for an agreement to improve air safety in the Pacific area, said the official, who demanded anonymity.

Air travel between the two countries was suspended in 1981, after Poland imposed martial law, and in 1983, after the Soviets shot down a South Korean passenger plane. All 269 people aboard died.

Satellite turns wrong direction

WASHINGTON (AP) — America spent about four hours without a good look at its weather last weekend, when the main meteorological satellite decided to turn its back and stare at the sky instead of the Earth.

Experts at the National Environmental Satellite, Data and Information Service say they don't know why the orbiter, called GOES-6, reversed itself Sunday evening — but they finally got it turned around again.

The incident could have had a major impact if severe weather had been developing, officials indicated, although as it turned out no serious problems occurred.

South Africa to renegotiate debts

LONDON (AP) — South Africa is sending the governor of its reserve bank to Europe to renegotiate the payment of billions of dollars owed to foreign banks, the British Broadcasting Corp. said today.

The rand, South Africa's currency, has fallen to a record low against the dollar amid black violence against the white-minority government. Three years ago it was worth more than $1, but Tuesday it plummeted to 35.5 cents.

In an unprecedented bid to halt a flight of foreign capital and save the rand, South African on Tuesday suspended trading on the stock exchange and the currency markets until next Monday.

The BBC said the governor of the South African reserve bank, Dr. Gerhard de Kock, was en route to London for emergency talks on South Africa's foreign debt problems, including suspension of foreign debt repayments. It gave no further details.

Talks promised to reopen

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) — Nigeria's new military rulers have promised to reopen stalled talks on rescheduling the foreign debt, announced the appointment of a revamped ruling council, and released jailed journalists.

Nigeria Radio, monitored in Abidjan, reported that editors Bukar Zarma of the New Nigerian and Lawrence Olanipe of the Nigerian Tribune were released Wednesday. It also said the former director of the Nigerian Public Service Commission, Sule Katagum, had been freed.

Officers ousted the military government of Maj. Gen. Muhammadu Buhari on Tuesday for abusing power and failing to improve the economy. Maj. Gen. Ibrahim Babangida, who had been the third-ranking man in the military hierarchy, replaced Buhari.

Americans say poor entitled to good life

WASHINGTON (AP) — A great majority of Americans believe welfare recipients should be able to afford the basics of life — including a telephone, a used car, health insurance and a black-and-white television set, according to a new poll.

Nearly 92 percent of those questioned in the national poll on poverty, commissioned by the conservative-oriented Heritage Foundation, said they believe public assistance is meant to make sure a person has adequate food, shelter, clothing and other basics in order to survive.

When questioned further, 51 percent to 96 percent said people on public assistance ought to be able to afford the items mentioned above as well as more than one radio, weekly outings to a movie and a fast-food restaurant, and two to three changes of everyday clothes plus one good outfit.

S. Anna Kondratas, a health and human affairs research fellow at the Heritage Foundation, said the survey was prompted by articles suggesting that a rising tide of conservatism had turned Americans against welfare and those who receive it.

She said the results of the poll, in which 2,887 people were questioned by the Media, Pa. firm of Sindlinger & Co., show that the country is not becoming more "mean-spirited."

"Americans seem to be just as generous as ever and the vast majority want to help the poor," she said.

Some 75 percent of those questioned during the May 28-July 8 polling period said they think welfare benefits are about right or should be raised. More than 73 percent said those receiving aid really need it — compared to only 56 percent who felt that way in a 1982 CBS-New York Times poll.

Though they interpreted "basics" to include many items besides food and shelter, the respondents drew the line when it came to whether welfare families are entitled to the trappings of a middle-class lifestyle.

By overwhelming majorities, they said those on public assistance should not be able to afford new cars, color television sets, more than one telephone, a stereo, television recording equipment, more clothing than mentioned above, or a weekly meal at a nice restaurant.

Between 94 and 100 percent said welfare should be paid to able-bodied recipients on a temporary basis; people should have to do some work to collect the benefits; and there should be incentives to go back to school or get job training.

And 74 percent said they would not be willing to pay higher taxes to finance increased welfare benefits.

The poll indicated that about half of all Americans have misconceptions about the extent of poverty in their country, Kondratas said. Some 49 percent of the poll respondents correctly said that poverty had increased in the past decade, but an almost equal number said it had decreased or remained about the same.

In fact, Kondratas said, there were about 26 million poor people in 1975 — a 12 percent rate — and some 35 million in 1983 — a 15 percent rate. The 1984 rate, according to Census Bureau figures released Tuesday, dropped to 33.7 million or 14.4 percent — still significantly higher than 1975.

The pollsters questioned residents of the 48 contiguous states in proportion to state population. The margin of error was about 2.5 percent, the Sindlinger firm said.

suffer because of a lack of minority role models in the classroom," he said.

But Kirby, the education commissioner, said disagreed.

"The lower passing rates among minorities stems from the fact that the state has fallen short in the past in educating these students — a cycle that must be broken in part by ensuring that future generations are taught only by more capable teachers," Kirby said.

"We stand by the validity and necessity of the test. We believe the adoption of the test and the setting of passing standards did not represent an intent to discriminate against minority students," he added.

O'Hanlon noted that just because a student now may take college education courses without having passed the skills test, they still won't be certified as teachers unless they can pass it.

"None of these teachers will be certified until such time as either this litigation is resolved or they pass the PPST," O'Hanlon said.

Test review offered

The Texas Classroom Teachers Association, in cooperation with the University of Texas, will be offering an extensive review course in Hereford on two dates to help prepare teachers for the Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers (called TECAT or competency test).

The course is offered on either Sept. 21 or Sept. 28 in Hereford. To enroll for either of the dates, teachers should contact Tricia Sims at 364-2774 or Marc Williamson at 364-0606 before Sept. 6. The cost of the course will be $25.

Each teacher in the course will receive a comprehensive study guide and instruction.

CTA reminds that all certified teachers will need to take the competency test. Certified teachers not currently teaching in a state supported school will be expected to take the test before they can be certified for any state teaching position.

The test date for public school teachers is March 10, 1986. Those persons not currently teaching will be allowed to take the TECAT in the summer of 1986.

Four arrested in marijuana bust

GROVES, Texas (AP) — Four people are in Port Arthur City Jail today after lawmen confiscated 84 pounds of marijuana wrapped in two sleeping bags and stashed in the back of a pickup truck.

Port Arthur Police Detective Tim Smith said undercover officers on a three-day stakeout arrested three men and a woman, aged 25 to 30, at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Smith estimated the street value of the marijuana at about $84,500.

The four remain jailed pending formal charges and a bond hearing set for today, Smith said.

The Mexican-grown marijuana was found inside two sleeping bags in the back of a pickup, he said.

Judging teams use method of typing personalities

LUBBOCK — Knowing more about your own personality can be an advantage in any competition, and the Texas Tech University horse and livestock judging teams have used that advantage.

The judging teams attribute much of their success in competition to using the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI), a method of typing personalities. For three years the team members have led their personalities typed and researchers claim the information has helped lead the teams to success. The livestock judging team won three of four national competitions during the past year. The horse judging team won two of four competitions.

The MBTI will indicate a person's strengths, what type of work the person would enjoy and be successful doing, and how people with different personalities can relate to each other.

Texas Tech education Professor Dayton Y. Roberts has studied the MBTI for many uses. He worked with animal science Professor James C. Heird and graduate student Julia McCann to study the judging teams.

The MBTI states that there are two ways of judging — by thinking and feeling, and two ways of perceiving — by sensing and intuition. The judging team was found to be mostly sensing/thinking types. The majority, 68 percent, rely on their senses and logical thinking to make decisions. In the general population only 25.2 percent of the people are sensing/thinking types.

The personality profiles are used strictly as a counseling tool for team members, McCann said. The students meet with Roberts and the team coach to discuss how their personalities will affect judging performance.

"If a member is an intuitive type, he may get in a hurry and guess," McCann said. "We can advise that person to be careful to rely more on senses rather than intuition. In something as pragmatic as judging, intuition might get in the way."

The students typed as being thinking rather than feeling are less likely to let emotion get into decision making, McCann said. The research also showed that students who were successful in judging were significantly more sensing than the less successful members.

"Those who perform the best had the greatest confidence in their personalities and were comfortable in who they are," said Roberts.

A discrepancy score on any of the personality traits indicates that the person is fighting that trait, Roberts said. Many of the students best in livestock judging had a discrepancy score of 0.

Roberts said there are thousands of uses for the MBTI, but Texas Tech is the only university he knows using it in student competition.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Still the bill passed. Then the governor actually signed it into law at a press conference, and some speculated it was his biggest political mistake yet, bigger than when he raised taxes. But the next thing you know, there's the governor on TV with a public service announcement telling Bubba he's got to wear his seat belt for his own safety. Bubba got prepared and the governor got some free press. Next week, Bubba can strap his seat belt on and tell Texas how he likes it, but he'll probably be too busy dodging traffic to think about it.

AUSTIN—New laws passed by the Legislature next spring will go into effect next week on Sept. 1, including the controversial mandatory seat belt law.

The new law requires the driver and front-seat passengers to wear a seat belt. Although the law goes into effect next week, the fines for violators, which range from $25 to $50, won't be slapped on until after Dec. 1.

All in all, the new seat belt law is minimal and meant to be that way by legislators hesitant of offending the independent Texas driver. No doubt the measure will save innumerable lives, but many legislators did not want to crowd.

Texas passed the seat belt law last spring because of the threat of a federal order to make airbags mandatory in vehicles. The Secretary of Transportation gave the order but provided an out: if enough states voluntarily passed a mandatory seat belt act, no costly airbags would be necessary.

Bubba's Own Good

Right away, some legislators were wary of arousing the anger of "Bubba", their mythical stereotype of Texas parochialism, and so attempts were made to water down the proposed law, including an exemption for pickup trucks which didn't stick.

People once believed that agates could render them invisible.

Blue Law, Fees
The blue law will officially end next week, and Sunday shopping is expected to increase as more retailers stay open that day.

Also in effect will be a new law forbidding an employer to make his help work seven straight days. Employers must allow time off for religious worship.

The long list of fees that legislators increased instead of taxes will take effect Sept. 1, including a six dollar hike for a driver's license, $2.50 for a new inspection sticker, and an extra $75 for personalized license plates.

Anti-Child Abuse

A package of anti-child abuse laws will include:

- An exception to non-admission of hearsay evidence to allow a statement that a child made to the first person 18 or older. Advocates say it will keep a child from testifying in open court and reliving the trauma.

- Tougher penalties for possession of child pornography.

- The availability of criminal conviction records of persons who want to work in child-care facilities or other child-related businesses.

Abortion Law

The new abortion law will require abortion clinics to file annual reports to the Health Department and to submit to periodic inspections by the agency.

The new reporting rules will require clinics to record personal statistics on each patient, the type of abortion and other related information.

The annual fee for an abortion clinic can legally be set as high as $1,000 by the Health Department. Because the Legislature provided no start-up money for the Health Department, it must first collect the fees in order to finance the on-site inspections.

Short Takes

- A federal report on loss of farms shows Texas lost 3,000 farms in 1984. The amount of land in farming dropped by a half-million acres here.

- A recent poll indicated half of all Texans think illegal aliens from Mexico take only jobs that American citizens don't want.

- Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said he collected $32,655 in fines for overloaded trucks from one Houston trucking company, thereby boosting the total collected to $1.7 million in nine months.

- Texas mortgage foreclosures are more than double the national average and among the highest, according to a private study. Out of every 1,000 home mortgages, 4.3 failed.

- The Public Utility Commission has denied AT&T Communications' request for $123 million in emergency rate relief and refused to hear an appeal of an administrative judge's ruling.

- The Texas Department of Health has warned that imported Mexican pottery with high lead levels in its glaze has been found in the Houston area. Officials said use of the items for cooking or drinking utensils poses a threat of lead poisoning.

- Texas A&M University senior Michael Thomas Ferguson, 22, Dallas, last week was charged with trying to extort $50,000 by threatening to kill the wife of Rep. Richard Smith of Bryan.

'Project Homeshare' offers students free rent for work

AUSTIN (AP)—If they are willing to swap from work for rent, students and young working adults in Austin have a new option for finding affordable housing.

Under Project Homeshare, they can live in an elderly person's home and receive free or reduced rent in exchange for performing such services as light housework, meal preparation, running errands and lawn work.

Project director Sylvia Herrera said the program tries to match university students and other younger adults with elderly people, she said. Project Homeshare this fall will be working with the University of Texas Student Association to promote the idea.

The program has been promoted for about two weeks, and Ms. Herreira said radio advertisements have prompted enough calls that one match already has been made. A UT freshman will be living in the home of an elderly person near campus, she said.

Ms. Herrera said she has received five to 10 inquiries a day about the program and expects that number to increase as advertising is stepped up.

According to Mary Jan Treadwell, housing task force chairwoman of the Austin Gray Panthers chapter, the city is a good spot for the program.

"Austin is a prime location for a matching program because of the large pool of university students available and the increasing elderly population," she said.

Ms. Herrera, who worked with a home-sharing program in Madison, Wis., when it started in 1980, said students and the elderly get more than just a financial break from the program.

"We have older people who really enjoy someone living in with them, mainly for companionship and security," she said.

Students get an affordable place to live, a quiet place to study and, "Once they get into the relationship, they see where the older person is doing more things for them, being a supportive person in a counseling way," she said.

After the homeowner and potential boarder have spelled out what they want and expect from one another, a written agreement is drawn up with the help of the Homeshare staff and signed by both parties.

College football opens with Kickoff Classic

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Anyone who intends to watch tonight's Kickoff Classic between defending national champion Brigham Young and Boston College should expect a long evening.

About the only sure thing when 10th-ranked BYU puts a 24-game winning streak, longest in the nation, on the line against unranked BC (the teams finished No. 1 and No. 5, respectively, a year ago) is that both will throw the football. That usually means a long game since both incompletions and first downs stop the clock.

"There's no way of knowing how opening games will go," BYU Coach LaVell Edwards said Wednesday. "Last year, we played Pitt in our opener. We were not necessarily great on offense, but we were super on defense and we made a couple of big plays on offense at the end to win the game (20-14).

BC's Jack Bicknell has been pleased with the Eagles' preseason practices, but added, "I just wonder how we're going to do it when it counts. I know we'll be nervous but I don't want us to be tight. If our kids can just relax and play, that's all we ask,

By DICK BRINSTER AP Sports Writer

In what appears to be one of his most visible seasons, Houston pitcher Nolan Ryan continues to amaze opposing managers as well as pitchers even though he just won his first game since June 17.

"He's just one of the freaks," said Chicago Manager Jim Frey. "No one has thrown harder for a longer period of time. I remember seeing him play in the rookie league, and here it is 20 years later and he is still throwing as hard."

Ryan, 9-11, struck out eight in 6 2-3 innings and Jeff Heathcock earned his first save as the two right-handers gathered a 3-0 victory over the Cubs Wednesday.

The victory snapped an uncharacteristic eight-game losing streak for Ryan who left the game with a strained right shoulder in the seventh inning.

"I don't think it's anything major," said Ryan. "When I threw the next to last pitch, I felt a knot in my right shoulder. It's kind of like what I get in spring training. I figured there was no reason to take any chances."

The Cubs' only threat came in the fifth when Ron Cey led off with a single and went to third on Jody Davis' double off the glove of left-fielder Jose Cruz. But Leon Durham, Shawn Dunston and losing pitcher Jay Baller, 0-2, became strikeout victims to end the inning and help Ryan gain his first victory since June 17.

Ryan's slump, equaling that of 1975 while a member of the California Angels, covered his last 13 starts that included five no-decision games which the Astros eventually won.

"Not winning any games was real frustrating on a personal basis," Ryan said. "But any time you go through a rough period, like our ballclub has, it's frustrating."

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a lead off double by Bill Doran and a run-scoring single by Denny Walling.

Glenn Davis accounted for the Astros' final run when he greeted reliever Lee Smith with a two-run double scoring Cruz and Jerry Mumphrey.

Heathcock pitched the final 2 1-3 innings to preserve the victory with no hits and striking out three.

"I really wanted to save it for him (Ryan.) I just went out there hoping to make them hit my pitch and not get behind in the count."

Reds 7, Cardinals 6

With Joaquin Andujar working on a shutout and six runs on tbat, the St. Louis Cardinals couldn't have been faulted for thinking they were about to increase their lead in the

The real name of Joe Louis, "The Brown Bomber" who was the world heavyweight boxing champion from 1937 to 1949, was Joseph Louis Barrow.

National League East to 3 1/2 games over the idle New York Mets.

But the Cincinnati Reds, led by the seemingly ageless Pete Rose, simply wouldn't roll over and die. They reached Andujar for six runs in the sixth inning Wednesday night, held the Cardinals in check the rest of the way and won a 12-inning thriller when their 44-year-old player-manager drew a bases-loaded walk to come away with a 7-6 victory.

"I was in the driver's seat when I went 3-1," said Rose, who drew his walk from Ricky Horton after two hits earlier in the game left him nine short of breaking Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,191.

"I wasn't going to go for anything bad. He knew that," Rose added. "He didn't give in. He tried to throw it down."

Elsewhere in an abbreviated NL schedule, Cincinnati edged St. Louis 7-6 and Atlanta whipped Pittsburgh 6-1.

Braves 6, Pirates 1

Len Barker's arm tightened up in the fifth inning, but he was delighted because muscle ailments in his neck and right elbow this season were not a factor.

"I was real gratified," Barker said after recording his first victory since May 13. "It's been a long time since I pitched like that."

Barker threw 96 pitches in the five innings, allowing three hits, three walks — one intentional — and fanning five.

Bob Horner hit his 22nd homer and Bruce Benedict had a two-run double in a four-run fourth inning. The victory was the third in a row for the Braves since Bobby Wine replaced the fired Eddie Haas as manager on Monday.

The loss gave the Pirates a dubious distinction — they became the first major-league team to lose 17 straight road games since the 1970 Milwaukee Brewers. The last NL team to accomplish the feat was the 1963 New York Mets, who dropped 22 in a row.

LACK OF VINTAGE DATE

The absence of a vintage date on a bottle of wine, especially on a California wine, does not always mean that the wine is inferior. This is true because of the wine blending expertise that California winemakers have developed. The taste of one particular wine is apt to be the same season after season. One year, 40 percent of a certain grape might be used to achieve the desired taste. The next year, it may be that only 20 percent of that grape is used to achieve that same taste. Lack of a vintage is also not an indication that the wine is too young to be good. Through blending, the winemaker is able to make certain wines age more rapidly than would normally be expected.

Member-Guest golf tourney starts Saturday

The eighth annual Hereford Country Club Member-Guest Golf Tournament is scheduled again over the Labor Day weekend, it was announced this week by Virgil Marsh, tourney chairman.

The three-day tournament features a low-ball partnership on Saturday, followed by a partnership scramble on Sunday and Monday. Defending champions of the tourney are Lewis Block and Tom Simons.

The holiday event includes bridge and gin tournaments and a Saturday reception, Sunday buffet and Monday brunch for all participants. Golf merchandise certificates are awarded to the top three teams in each flight.

Tee-off times are 10:30 a.m. on Saturday, 9:30 a.m. on Sunday and 11 a.m. on Monday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Other flight winners last year were Ken Hagar and Scott Skinner in the first flight; Shorty Roark and H.K. Edwards, second flight; Ted McWhorter and Harvey Case, third flight; and Bill Lyman and Quentin Martin, fourth flight.

A "freeze out" derby will be played Sunday at 4 p.m. It will pair the 10 low scorers and the 10 high scorers (1 with 20, 2 with 19, etc.) and the 10 teams will start on No. 1. The high score eliminates one or more teams on each hole until one team is remaining as the champion.

The Cleveland Indians made seven errors in one inning against the Chicago White Sox in 1905 to set a major-league record.

Taking Off In Flight

Fall gymnastics classes start September 6

Fall gymnastics classes at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA will be held on Fridays and will begin on Sept. 6.

Instructors for the classes will be Bob Cowley and Terri Martin, both of Muleshoe.

The classes will include instruction on the balance beam, the uneven parallel bars, the trampoline, and also tumbling and vaulting.

Registration for the classes is on a first come, first serve basis, and class enrollment will be limited.

The class schedule is as follows: ages three to four, 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.; ages five to six, 4 p.m. to 5 p.m.; ages seven, eight and nine, 5 p.m. to 6 p.m.; and ages 10 and older, 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Cost for a class is $22 per month for YMCA members, and $30 a month for YMCA non-members. There is also $10 yearly insurance charge for those taking the gymnastics classes.

To register for the classes, or for more information, call the YMCA at 364-6990.

Registration starts for 'Y' boys' flag football

Boys in the first through sixth grades may sign up for the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA flag football league.

Registration is scheduled to continue through Sept. 11. Teams with third through sixth grade boys will play on Saturdays, and the first and second grade league will play at 5:30 p.m. after school on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Teams will practice and play once a week after the season starts. There will be three leagues, including one for fifth and sixth graders, and one for third and fourth graders.

League fees are $8 for YMCA members and $14 for YMCA non-members. The entry fee includes a football shirt which each player keeps.

Boys must supply their own shoes. Only tennis shoes will be permitted for playing and practice. No football equipment such as head gear or shoulder pads are allowed in the league, neither are hard or cleated shoes. Flying blocks and tackles are not permitted, according to league rules.

Registration forms are available at the YMCA office.

On The Balance Beam

Bonnie Cowley, left, of Hereford, gets some instruction on keeping her balance on Terri Martin of Muleshoe, who teaches gymnastics classes on Fridays at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA. Fall gymnastics classes will start on Sept. 6.

Co-ed church volleyball organizational meeting set

An organization meeting is scheduled for the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA co-ed church volleyball league on Wednesday, Sept. 4.

The meeting will start at 6:30 p.m. at the YMCA.

Anyone interested in having a team in the volleyball league is asked to have a representative at the meeting, said Weldon Knabe of the YMCA.

League rules and playing dates are among the items of discussion for the organizational meeting.

For more information on the volleyball league, call the YMCA at 364-6990.

In a 1938 game against the Giants, Paul and Lloyd Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates hit back-to-back home runs. It was the only time brothers have done that in the history of the major leagues.

JOHN DEERE FACTORY AUTHORIZED CLEARANCE

By YMCA staff in volleyball match

'Y' board of directors get 'creamed'

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

A "heated rivalry" took place on the volleyball court Wednesday night, and the winning team really took it out on the losers—"creaming" them by throwing cream pies in their faces.

The occasion was a volleyball match at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA with the YMCA staff playing against the YMCA board of directors.

The YMCA staff prevailed, winning the best-of-five match 15-12, 15-7, 10-15, 15-11.

Members of the winning team were Weldon Knabe, Jerry Brock, Cindy Fields, Darla Newton, Jimmy Ramirez, Terese Dawson, and Susan Marnell. Members of the YMCA board of directors who played in the game were Dave Hopper, Debbie Black, Keith Ann Gearn, Roger Albracht, Darwin Manning, and Poppy Head.

The consolation prizes for the board of directors were the pies, but the members of the losing team would hardly call it a tasty experience.

The pie-throwing event began with Dustin Gearn, a YMCA staff member, hurling a pie into the face of Darwin Manning.

Then Roger Albracht, Keith Ann Gearn, Dave Hopper and Debbie Black lined up against the wall and felt the impact that pies can have in one's life.

Hopper claimed that two pies were thrown in his face, and Gearn claimed that three of them were thrown at her.

The volleyball match had been announced as a best-of-three match,

What's In My Nose!

alleges was at least two pies thrown in his face. Behind Hopper is Debbie Black getting an extra dose of pie smothered into her face.

but after the YMCA staff had won the first two games played, the rules of the night were changed and the event became a best-of-five match.

In the first game, the YMCA staff held an 8-3 lead before the board of directors tied the game at 8-8. The board of directors gained a 10-8 lead, but the game was later tied at 10-10 and 11-11. The YMCA staff then went on to win the game, 15-12.

Long before the pies were thrown, there was another battle going on besides volleyball. The outlaw team of "Knabe and Brock" were shooting at the board of directors—with their squirt guns—during the match.

The YMCA staff had leads of 5-1 and 11-3 in defeating the board of directors in game two, 15-7.

In game three, the YMCA staff again moved into the lead—7-3, 9-5 and 10-7—before the YMCA board of directors tied the contest at 10-10.

The board of directors then scored five straight points to take the game, 15-10.

For a while in game four, it appeared that the board of directors were going to even the match at two games apiece, since they moved out to a 4-1 lead.

But the YMCA staff tied the game up at 4-4, and the score was also tied at 5-5. The YMCA staff then built up a 10-5 lead, only to see the board of directors rally back at even the score at 10-10.

The YMCA staff then won the right to throw the pies at their opponents, by scoring a 15-11 victory in game four to win the match.

After the pie-throwing affair took place, YMCA staff member Cindy Fields declared, "It's the peak of my day to do this to the board of directors!"

Shaking It Off

From the left, Roger Albracht, Keith Ann Gearn, Dave Hopper and Debbie Black show their reactions after getting pies thrown in their faces. The action came after these members of the YMCA board of directors lost a volleyball match to the YMCA staff, three games to one.

Hit It, Dave!

Dave Hopper, a member of the board of directors of the YMCA, hits the ball in Wednesday's volleyball match against members of the YMCA staff. Darwin Manning, left, watches his teammate.

Our roots are firmly planted right in your own back yard!

For years the Terra Seed Company has been a valuable part of farming communities throughout the country. As quality producers of certified seed, and by offering a wide variety of seed products, we've become like a member of the family at planting time—doing our part to bring you the best wheat seed yet.

Our roots go deep!
Your wheat crop needs a good strong root system to assure its survival. One that goes deep in search of food resources and won't leave the plant high and dry. Terra Seed Company's roots are deeply embedded in its over 30 year history in the seed business. And now the roots grow stronger with the backing of Terra International, so you know your seed is coming from a tried and true friend who will stand by you at planting time.

Breaking new ground.
Our roots are firmly planted in quality production of clean certified seed. By continually searching for the sturdiest, high yielding wheat strains, we make sure we're offering you the best seed available. It's our goal and our promise to continue producing new types of seed to increase the harvest of today's farmer.

Consistency
When you plant your wheat fields you're putting your livelihood into the ground, so you have to make sure that what comes up is a consistently healthy high yielding wheat crop. Terra Seed Company has always offered the highest quality wheat seed available to make sure your fields produce a great crop year after year.

Urich has tough job in tv series

By CAROLYN LUMSDEN
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Good morning, Mr. Urich: Your mission is to play a quick-fisted but cultured private eye from Boston and tear viewers away from too stylish actors portraying Miami drug detectives in one of the hottest shows on television.

By the way, your mission is impossible. "That's the understatement of 1985," said actor Robert Urich, who will star as the literary Boston private eye in the series "Spenser: For Hire" this fall. "It's almost like not being on the air at all."

ABC will pit the intellectual detective with no first name, his sassy girlfriend and a black leg-breaker against the seemingly invincible "Miami Vice" squad in a series that kicks off with a Sept. 20 pilot. The network's executives are banking on Spenser creator Robert Parker having enough fans from his paperbacks to secure a toehold on the Friday night slot, which also includes the popular drama "Falcon Crest."

"I would hardly choose that time slot," said Alan Shayne, president of the television arm of Warner Communications Inc., which is producing the show. "We're all in shock about that."

Producer John Wilder said he was prepared for the assignment.

"We can't overglamorize them or outgun them, and we don't intend to," said Wilder, who produced "Centennial," television's longest miniseries. "We're putting more appealing characters and stories with more humanity on the screen."

To match the local feeling of "Miami Vice," the series will be shot entirely on location in and around Boston. Warner has even built a Hollywood-style production set just outside the city, and Urich has moved his wife and two children from California to a house in the Boston suburbs.

Urich, who starred in "Vega's," was writing a series much like "Spenser" — with a Boston detective and his black cohort — when Shayne sent him a copy of Parker's "Promised Land," on which the two-hour pilot for the series is based.

Shayne said he knew Urich wanted the job as Spenser when he saw all 13 Parker books, all heavily underlined, in the actor's apartment.

"Spenser's moral code is something I feel very close to," said the actor.

Spenser is a tough but vulnerable guy who recites poems about honor as easily as a bookie quotes the day's line. He often comes up against Avery Brooks, who treads a fine line between friend and enemy. And he loves Susan Silverman, played by Barbara Stock, who refuses to marry him and leave her home in the suburbs.

The two-hour pilot is based on "Promised Land," but then the series will take off on its own, with the occasional advice of Parker.

The state of Wyoming's official flower is the Indian paintbrush.

Grease fire fills Comiskey Park with smoke

By KEITH E. LEIGHTY
Associated Press Writer

Things heat up in baseball even when your team's not in the thick of the pennant race.

And it made for a smoky night Wednesday in Comiskey Park.

A grease fire in a concession stand filled the park with smoke before the game, and a hot Bobby Valentine was smoking after it was over.

"Who's the wise guy who said you have to keep your sense of humor through this?" he said after his last-place Rangers dropped a 5-1 contest to Chicago.

Valentine had just watched a batter with three home runs in five years slug a three-run shot.

And his pitcher had calmly finished a double play in the third by tossing the ball to the mound and turning to the dugout, forgetting that a runner was on third and only two were out.

Rudy Law, who had bunted his way to first, scored on the play with the go-ahead run.

"It's an inexcusable play," said Valentine. "We think baseball. We talk baseball. That play's not part of baseball."

Basically, said the Ranger skipper, "They made their hits count a little more than we did."

The one that counted the most was a fifth-inning shot by Bryan Little. His three home runs this year, one with Triple-A Buffalo, matched his career total in five previous years.

"I don't know where I got that power," he said. "I don't know if it's something I've been eatin' or what. My stroke this year is totally different than in the past."

Gene Nelson, 8-8, scattered four hits and struck out four to earn the victory. He had relief help from Juan Agosto and Bob James.

Dave Stewart, 0-5, took the loss. Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa gave credit to Agosto for getting a ground out from Oddibe McDowell when he came in with runners on the corners in the sixth.

He also credited the top and bottom of his lineup, noting that the middle hitters failed to reach base.

"This lineup, at least on paper, has a lot of ways to score runs," LaRussa said.

They did just that in the third. Luis Salazar, batting ninth, led off with a home run, his seventh, before leadoff hitter Law bunted his way to first and scored on Stewart's miscue.

The White Sox made a gaffe of their own in the fourth.

Wayne Tolleson walked and continued to second while the Chicago infield napped.

"They just caught us with our pants down," said LaRussa.

Texas scored in the second on a triple by Steve Buechele and a sacrifice fly by Gene Petralli.

The grease fire broke out about an hour before the game in a concession stand beneath the bleachers. Nobody was injured but the infield was filled with smoke during batting practice.

Royals 8, Brewers 2

The Kansas City Royals gained some ground, and the Toronto Blue

Jays lost some as the division races in the American League tightened up a bit.

The Royals got four home runs, including Steve Balboni's 27th of the season, to beat the Milwaukee Brewers 8-2 and move within two games of idle California in the AL West. The Royals now are only one game back in the loss column.

"It's a nice feeling to be within one game of them," said Lonnie Smith, who had another of the Royals' homers.

The Blue Jays lost to Minnesota, 6-5 in 10 innings, also losing a half-game in the East to the idle New York Yankees, who now trail by 4½. Tom Brunansky's bases-loaded single stopped the Blue Jays, who had won five of their last six.

The other Kansas City homers came from Darryl Motley and Frank White. White's homer, a career-high 18th, was disputed. With two out in the fifth inning, White hit a line drive to right that the Brewers right-fielder Carlos Ponce said actually hit the top of the fence.

Royals right-hander Mark Gubicza, 10-7, allowed six hits while walking one and striking out three in eight innings, getting one inning of relief help from Dan Quisenberry.

Pete Vuckovich, 6-10, worked five innings for Milwaukee, allowing seven hits.

In the rest of the league, Kansas City beat Milwaukee 8-2, and Cleveland defeated Boston 7-4.

Twins 6, Blue Jays 5

Brunansky's single over the head of second baseman Manny Lee scored Kent Hrbek with the winning run. The RBI was Brunansky's first since Aug. 16 and the hit was only his second in 19 at-bats.

The Twins had loaded the bases against Tom Henke on singles by Hrbek and Randy Bush and a walk to Mark Salas.

"I was throwing the ball good," Henke said, adding ruefully that the pitch to Brunansky might have been "too good — a fastball right down the middle."

Ernie Whitt broke out of a 5-for-31 slump with two hits and three RBIs for Toronto.

Indians 7, Red Sox 4

Julio Franco hit a grand-slam home run off Boston reliever Mark Clear, who hadn't yielded a homer this season, as the Indians won for the seventh time in eight games.

Left-hander Jamie Easterly, 3-0, worked 6 2-3 innings in his first start after 41 straight relief appearances for the Indians. Apparently, now that he's established himself as a successful starter, it's time for a change.

"I'd just as soon go back to the bullpen," he said.

Pat Tabler also homered for the Indians, while Tony Armas and Dwight Evans hit home runs for Boston, which has lost five in a row and 11 of its last 12.

The Indians led 3-2 when Franco hit his grand slam in the seventh inning.

Players for both teams were bothered by a swarm of insects that hovered inside Cleveland Stadium during the game. Most of the Red Sox players left the field to escape the bugs temporarily while Clear warmed up with two outs in the sixth.

Oilers coach says team ahead of 1984 progress

HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers, who play the Dallas Cowboys Saturday at Texas Stadium in Dallas, are ahead of their progress at this time last year, reports Oiler head coach Hugh Campbell.

"We are so far ahead of last year at this time, it's not even close," said Campbell. "I'm very encouraged about us having a vastly improved team and a more fun-to-watch team."

Kickoff for the nationally televised game will be 8 p.m. The game comes just before all NFL teams must declare their final 45-man rosters. The rosters were reduced to 50 on Tuesday.

Campbell said two recent signees, first-round draft picks Ray Childress and Richard Johnson, may see action Saturday. "It is quite possible that both will suit up and play Saturday," Campbell said.

Childress, who signed his contract on Aug. 24, and Johnson, who inked his agreement on Aug. 22, both missed the entire training camp in San Angelo.

The Oilers head into the final preseason game with a 1-3 record, but have been outscored by a combined total of seven points, 72 to 65. The Oilers defeated the New Orleans Saints 23-20, lost to the New York Giants 21-20, fell to the Los Angeles Rams 7-3, and lost to the Kansas City Chiefs 24-19.

Veteran offensive guard John Schuhmacher said, "The difference between this team and last year's is like night and day. This time last year, we were running around in circles. Now, everybody's on the same page, and we're getting better and better. We can't help but improve if we don't get down."

In preseason play, Mike Rozier leads the team in rushing with 140 yards in 37 carries, and is tied with Drew Hill for the lead in pass receptions with nine.

Saturday's game will feature the experimental transmitter in the quarterback's helmet, with the wide receivers have receivers to hear the signals called by the quarterback.

The system is designed so that the system is manually switched off as the ball is snapped. This game will be the only one in the preseason in which the National Football League will conduct a study of the transmitters and receivers.

The Hardest Thing To Do

Is The Easiest Thing To Do

Sound confusing? Well, think of the hardest thing you have to do. If you're like many people, saving money will be at the top of your list. It just seems to be one of the roughest things to do anymore.

Yet, it doesn't have to be that way. At our bank, the passbook account is an easy way to save money. You simply add to it, in any amount, at any time. Your money is safe and secure — always there when you need it.

Why not resolve right now to deposit a little out of your check each payday. Before you know it, your passbook account will add up to a tidy sum.

For more details come to our bank. We're pioneering new ways of service and security for you and your family.

1 day per word:	13	2.00
2 days per word:	22	4.00
3 days per word:	31	6.20
4 days per word:	40	8.00
5th day FREE

Add 9 cents per word for additional days: 10 days (2 free) is 15.20 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is 22.40; month 77.80.

Classified display rates apply for special captions, paragraphs, bold type or larger type, and ads not set with full lines. $2.00 per column inch, $2 a column inch for additional insertions, or $1.75 a column inch per month.

LEGALS
 Advertising rates for legal notices are $3.50 per column inch for the first insertion and $3 per column inch for consecutive issues.

Deadlines for classified ads are 3 p.m. daily for the next day's edition; 3 p.m. Friday for Sunday's edition.

ERRORS
 Every effort is made to avoid errors in Classified Ads and legal notices. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. In case of errors not the fault of the advertiser, an additional insertion will be given.

Notices

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND PARTIES: You are hereby notified of the opportunity for written public comment concerning the Special Permit Application No. S-9636 by Holly Sugar Corporation to construct a Fuel Oil Standby Conversion in Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas. The proposed location is 1 mile west of Hereford on Hwy. 2856. This facility proposes to emit the following air contaminants: Sulfur Dioxides, Particulate Matter, Carbon Monoxide, Nitrogen Oxides. Before a permit can be issued for this facility, all emission sources must demonstrate compliance with all rules and regulations of the Texas Air Control Board and all applicable Federal Regulations. This includes the application of "best available control technology" to each emission source and compliance with all ambient air quality standards. A copy of all materials submitted by the applicant is available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board Lubbock Regional Office at Briercroft South No. 1, 5302 South Avenue Q, Lubbock, Texas 79412, and at the Texas Air Control Board, 6330 Highway 290 East, Austin, Texas 78723. All interested persons may inspect these materials and submit written comments to the Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board. All comments received in writing by September 14, 1985 shall be considered by the Board in making its decision on the application. All comments will be made available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board office in Austin.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ALL AT ONCE WE SAW HIM RISE STRAIGHT UP!

Dear Friend who loves God: In my first letter I told you about Jesus' life and teachings and how He returned to heaven after giving His chosen apostles further instructions from the Holy Spirit.

During the 40 days after His crucifixion He appeared to the apostles from time to time in human form and proved to them in many ways that it was actually Himself they were seeing. And on these occasions He talked to them about the Kingdom of God.

In one of these meetings He told them not to leave Jerusalem until the Holy Spirit came upon them in fulfillment of the Father's promise, a matter He had previously discussed with them. "John baptized you with water," He reminded them, "but you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit in just a few days."

And another time when He appeared to them, they asked Him, "Lord, are you going to free Israel now and restore us as an independent nation?"

"The Father sets those dates," He replied, "and they are not for you to know. But when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, you will receive power to preach with great effect to the people in Jerusalem, throughout Judea, in Samaria, and to the ends of the earth, about My death and resurrection."

It was not long afterwards that He rose into the sky and disappeared into a cloud, leaving them staring after Him. As they were straining their eyes for another glimpse, suddenly two white-robed men were standing there among them, and said, "Men of Galilee, why are you standing here staring at the sky? Jesus has gone away to heaven, and some day, just as He went, He will return." Acts 1:1-11

Ann Landers

Conception prevented

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 20 years old and have been married for one year to a wonderful man. I went off the birth control pill four months ago because my husband and I were concerned about the possible effects on my health.

Recently I read a disturbing article in a magazine stating that birth control pills kill five times as many babies as abortion.

I always believed life began at conception and that the killing of that life was wrong. I thought birth control pills prevented conception, Ann. Do they? Please respond soon because this matter concerns me very much.—UPSET IN BUTTE me. A few years later Mom had a stroke. My sister demanded her "inheritance" immediately. I felt the money was still my mother's and that she might need everything Dad left her. My sister began telling people I was spending her money. My husband told me to give "Sis" half of everything Mom had left and that we would use our own money to keep Mom going.

The moral of the story is: Have everything in writing. If my Mom had done that our lives would be a lot

simpler.—NEW HAVEN LESSON

DEAR N.H.: Amen, Dear. But in my opinion you were foolish to cave in to your sister's demands.

Is pot a drug? Can LSD, PCP, cocaine and pills open new worlds for you? Stop guessing. Get the facts in Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

DEAR BUTTE: Birthcontrol pills prevent conception. When there is no conception there is nothing to "kill."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a woman who almost didn't live to see my 22nd birthday. Fifteen months ago I was sitting with a bottle of pills, ready to end my life. The feeling of hopelessness was overwhelming. I didn't want to live, but I didn't want to die either. My depression was not caused by a chemical imbalance, nor were my everyday problems too much to handle. My depression was caused by alcoholism and drug addiction.

At the time I truly believed alcohol and drugs were helping me cop with my depression when actually they were the cause of it.

My father died of alcoholism and I had promised myself many times that I would never end up like him. But I did.

I'm glad I decided against swallowing those pills. I went into treatment, moved home (I was in college), became involved with AA and will be back in school in September. My sobriety has made me grateful for what I have instead of self-pity for what I don't have. I wake up every morning looking forward to what's ahead. I still have some rough days but so does everyone. For me the bad times make the good times that much better. I'm finally able to face life instead of run from it.—A READER WHO GOT SICK AND TIRED OF BEING SICK AND TIRED

DEAR READER: Congratulations on a major victory! Letters like yours are an inspiration to those who are now walking in the moccasins you discarded.

I wonder how many folks out there realize that booze and drugs may serve as temporary stimulants but they end up being depressants. Thanks for the testimony. A letter like yours is much more effective than anything I might say.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother asked me if I would take care of her financial affairs when Dad died. She inherited everything. Mom told my sister and me that there would be plenty left when she died and it would be split between Sis and

Reports heard by officers, chairmen

Gayle Carter presided over the Extension Homemakers Council meeting held Monday in Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room.

Cultural Extension Homemakers served as the host club to the eight clubs present. Those having 100 percent attendance included Bippus, Cultural, Dawn, Ford, North Hereford and Westway. Also, represented was Wyche and Draper Clubs.

All officers and committee chairmen were present. Visiting from Wyche Extension Club was Virginia Duncan and from Cultural Club were Byrdie Fellers, Carrie Mae Doak, Edith Hunter, Vernis Parsons, Jewel Rogers, Mary Lou Spinhirne, Marie Thames and Winnie Wiseman.

Fellers presented the opening exercise entitled, "I'm A No Feel Housekeeper."

Johnnie Messer reported that the council float during the Town 'n' Country Jubilee had won the service club award.

County extension agent, Louise Walker, reported that she will be giving her Christmas in September program to extension clubs beginning the first week of that month.

Lodge members hear of state president's visit

Noble Grand Kee Ruland presided at the regular meeting of Hereford Rebekah Lodge 228 Tuesday evening with 27 members present.

Twenty-three visits and 17 cheer cards to the sick were reported.

Glessie Shelton gave a complete report of the state president's visit to District 5. Forty Rebekahs and Odd Fellows were present from Muleshoe, Dimmitt, Hereford, Amarillo and Friona.

Committees were appointed for the Oct. 19 annual chili supper.

Lydia Hopson was hostess to Ruland, Shelton, Susie Curtsinger, Tony and Jo Iribeck, David Ruland, Ben and Anna Conklin, Wallace Shelton, Guy and Bessie Lawrence, Verna Sowell, Edna Mathes, Beth Hall, Sadie Shaw, Dorothy Lundry, Irene Merritt, Faye Brownlow, Ursalee Jacobsen, Ada Hollabaugh, Gene and Helen Bishop, Peggy Lemons, O.B. and Fern Durham and Leona Sowell.

She also announced that she would be in San Diego, Calif. Sept. 25-26 and will give an oral presentation on her dissertation she wrote two years ago at the National Association of Extension Homemakers meeting.

It was announced that the 4-H Parents Leaders meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Sept. 3 at the Community Center. Also, the 4-H Recruitment Night has been planned Sept. 12 at the Community center.

Walker will present a leaders training on women and credit at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 1 in the Heritage Room.

Following the council meeting, Mary Carter, TEHA chairman, conducted the election for TEHA chairman and delegates to the state meeting in September. Delegates will include Mary Carter, Johnnie Messer and Edith Higgins. Alternate delegates are Mary Lou Spinhirne and Esther Thuett.

Cultural Club members served refreshments to those present.

Daylight saving time went into effect throughout the United States for the first time on March 31, 1918.

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

"One of the oddities of the island, even though it is considered crime free, is the fact that the island of Hawaii is one of the largest areas of marijuana production in the United States today," stated Mike Miller, owner and manager of the Ranch House Restaurant.

"Production of marijuana has grown so rapidly," says Miller, "to the extent that marijuana is rapidly replacing cane sugar as the largest money crop in the world."

"Because growing marijuana is not legal the authorities, on a regular basis, patrol the area in helicopters, and there is what is called a 'green harvest,'" Miller said.

"At certain points during the year, the local authorities (in conjunction with National Guards using dogs, helicopters, and 4-wheel drives,) raid the crops just before harvesting the marijuana," explained Miller. "In spite of all this legal effort, an estimated less than ten percent of the marijuana crop is found and destroyed. This is why marijuana is replacing the sugar cane industry."

Miller is talking from experience - he and his family lived in Hawaii for 13 years.

"I had been with Phillips Petroleum for 13 years and had an opportunity to buy a Phillips 66 Petroleum distributorship on the island of Hawaii," said Miller explaining why he moved there.

The whole family including three teenage sons and his wife moved to the Hawaiian Islands in 1971. Miller said his boys were raised there and one of them would still like to go back.

"The big isle that we were on (the island Hawaii - not the state) was the most isolated island of all," said Miller, "215 miles by water from Honolulu. The island Hawaii is larger than the combined size of all the Hawaiian islands put together."

According to Miller, Hawaii is the least populated island with a population totaling 70,000 - compared to Oahu that has a million people.

"This is the island that has the active volcano that keeps erupting," he said. "The only city on Hawaii of any size is where I live, Hilo, with a population of 25,000."

The weather in Hilo and on most all of the islands is beautiful year round. Hilo has a mean average temperature of 76 degrees.

"It rains upwards to 130 inches a year," said Miller "compared to the 14 inches we get here."

Because of the consistent rainfall and tropical climate, Hilo is the orchid capital of the world.

The people are from a varied ethnic background with oriental being the predominant ethnic group.

"The people are extremely warm and helpful to newcomers," said Miller. "There is an unhurried, leisurely attitude towards life in general."

Of the cultural differences Miller noticed that Japanese and Phillipino are second languages of the isles and most of the people speak a Pidgin English that is a mixture of the various languages.

"There is very little crime in Hawaii," commented Miller, "probably due to the oriental attitude of the people; they tend to be very peaceful in their ways and also there is no way off the island if someone did commit a crime."

Hilo, itself is not a tourist town as such, because of the almost daily rainfall.

However, the Kona coast side of the island, which is the western section of the island, has a very dry and healing quality that tourists find irresistible.

A typical day for the family while living there consisted of going to work at 8:30 a.m., taking a leisurely lunch of an hour and a half and closing shop at 4 p.m. Rarely, does anyone work on weekends unless in a tourist-related business.

"Our two youngest boys attended elementary school in the middle of a cane field on the knoll overlooking the blue pacific," smiled Miller.

He continued saying the junior high and high school were on a street nicknamed "School Street" respectively; all school activities (football fields, track, basketball courts, and auditorium) were within the two block area.

"In Hawaii, school begins at 9 a.m. and let's out when the surf is up."

MIKE MILLER... helping himself to the salad bar chuckled Miller.

Miller said, "We lived in Hilo for 13 years and had neither a furnace or an air conditioner, and never closed our windows 12 months out of the year."

Miller described Hilo as being at the base of the tallest mountain (from below sea level) in the world, called Mauna Kea. "During the winter months the mountain would be capped with snow and people would go skiing up there," said Miller.

He said hunting wild pigs or goat and sheep is the "in" thing to do in Hawaii. Much of the wildlife includes pheasant, quail, and wild turkey - mostly hunted with bow and arrow.

"Many of the natives supply meat for their entire family by hunting alone," said Miller, "not to mention the fish they can catch."

"So much of the food you can find in the supermarkets over there, such as bananas, fish, and fresh foods-the local people have growing in their backyards." Bananas, bread fruit, papaya, mangos, guava, and coconut grow wild in Hawaii.

"Everything not grown on the island, clothing, and staples are brought in by airplane or barge, and these goods have an additional freight cost, too," he said.

Although wages are relatively low, the natives are able to live comfortably only because they grow their own foods, explains Miller.

When the Miller family moved to Hawaii, it was 1971 which was the peak of the anti-war movement, demonstrations, and general civil disobedience. Miller felt his sons were raised with an exceptional understanding of prejudice. "We were the minority and therefore our children that were raised there, grew up with open minds" he said.

The Hawaiians seemed extremely patriotic and there were no demonstrations or rebellion of any form. "Just peacefulness and patriotism," remembers Miller.

"The natives of Hawaii have a great respect for authority, law and order are very important to them," Miller said.

"Every morning, you could see the school children out in the yard raising the flag and hear them singing 'God Bless America,'" said Miller proudly.

Traditional Hawaiian dishes

BRAISED DUCKLING Eastern Chinese Style

- 1 frozen duckling, defrosted
- ¼ cup of soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons sherry or rice wine
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger or 2 teaspoons minced fresh ginger
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup molasses

Remove giblets and neck from duckling cavity. Remove excess fat and discard.

Put duckling, breast side up, in a Dutch oven. Giblets and neck may be added for flavor.

Pour in six cups of water, the soy sauce, sherry, cinnamon, sugar, ginger and salt.

Cover and simmer one hour. Carefully turn duckling so breast side is down and simmer another hour.

Remove duckling. (Cool broth, skim it and discard fat. Reserve broth to make soup.)

Place duckling in baking pan and bake 15 minutes in a 500-degree oven to brown and crisp the bird.

Reduce heat to 400 degrees. Brush duckling with molasses and bake five minutes to glaze it. Makes three to four servings.

SWEET & SOUR MEAT BALLS

- 1 pound of ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 8 slices pineapple
- ½ cup sweet pickles with juice
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch

Season beef with salt and pepper and form meat balls (one tablespoon each).

Brown in skillet. Drain pineapple and save juice. Mix the juice, pickles and cornstarch. Add to skillet.

Cook and stir until gravy thickens and is clear.

Add the pineapple, cover and cook five minutes. Makes four servings.

CHINESE FRIED RICE

- 1½ cups scraps of pork roast fat trimmings from roast
- ½ cup chopped onions
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon all purpose seasoning
- 3 cups cooked rice
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce

Put fat trimmings from the roast in a skillet and fry the grease from it. Discard trimmings and add enough cooking oil to make about three tablespoons.

Chop the pork quite fine and fry until crisp. Add onions, celery, and green pepper and cook until tender. Season with pepper and all purpose seasoning.

Mix in cooked rice and soy sauce and toss until well mixed. (Soy sauce is salty, so you probably will need no further salt.)

Stir over the fire until the flavors are well blended. In spite of it's name, do not let it fry.

There is no end to the possible variations of this. Use bacon, chicken, ham, shrimp, almost anything. But remember, do not over cook it. Put soy sauce on the table for those who wish more. Make four to six servings.

Widow-to-widow phone line helps with grief

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Sometimes it was a knickknack he gave her one long-ago Christmas. Sometimes it was his sweater or some of his scribbles on a pad. Once it was a weed in the garden.

Five years ago, little things held just enough memories of her dead husband to send Winnifred Piper into another crying spell.

Today, however, Mrs. Piper is a stoical role model for recently widowed women, sharing her experience as a volunteer on a widow-to-widow telephone line.

The project, organized by the Hartford Region YWCA earlier this year, pairs half a dozen women who have been widowed five years or more with those who are newly widowed.

"I know there are other Y's across the country that have support groups for widows," said Marilyn Turner of the Hartford Y. "But no one has this idea, where we match widows by phone."

The telephone concept grew from a support group for widows at the Hartford Y, said Cheryl Sharp, another spokeswoman who is also a widow.

"The women expressed an interest in getting a support network going," she said. "The widows themselves came up with the idea."

A telephone confidante is appealing to many recently widowed women, "especially older women who have never learned to drive. Many older women were very dependent on their husbands," Sharp said.

For Mrs. Piper, who says she's in her 70s, the telephone line is an idea that's five years overdue.

"When my husband died so unexpectedly, I was desperate to talk to anyone who would listen and could understand," she said. "I had to pull myself together, and during that time I heard so many things that widows don't want to hear, such as 'Time will heal all.'"

"Now I know I can just be a listener to other widows. All they need to hear is, 'I know what you mean.'"

Eleanor Rodrigue, 43, of Farmington, had a year-old son and was pregnant with her daughter when her husband died 17 years ago. Parents Without Partners was not enough, she said, because most of the group's members were divorced.

"At times I thought I was losing my mind," she said. "The anger was really the worst, because I expected I'd always have a husband to be there and help me raise the kids."

Both Mrs. Piper and Mrs. Rodrigue have stories to tell widows about changes to expect. For instance, both said their women friends suddenly resisted inviting them to make up an awkward "threesome."

"I'm invited to lunch a lot more than dinner, or my friends will call and say, 'My husband's away for a few days, so why don't you come to dinner?'" Mrs. Piper said.

Telephone line volunteers are asked to contact the new widows for at least one hour each week, Sharp said.

"Calls are also usually made at crisis points such as an anniversary, a birthday or a holiday," she said.

Both Mrs. Piper and Mrs. Rodrigue have exchanged phone numbers with the recent widows they call, although they are not required to do so.

"Some women can get rather dependent on the caller," Sharp said. "The volunteers could start to get calls in the middle of the night."

"But by and large, most women exchange phone numbers, and some decide they even want to meet in person."

Conservatives target 'biased' lectures

AUSTIN (AP) — A conservative group at the University of Texas says its members will participate in a national movement to monitor what they say may be "politically biased" teaching on college campuses.

Greg Davidson, executive director of Young Conservatives of Texas, said members of that organization will monitor various UT classes in an effort to determine whether material being presented is "unbalanced."

If the monitors decide a professor's lecture is biased, they will contact the instructor and question his choice of material, Davidson said Monday.

He said such questioning should encourage more interaction among students and teachers.

If the student-professor session isn't effective, group members plan to contact Accuracy in Academia, a Washington-based organization formed to monitor lectures nationwide, Davidson said.

The Washington group is affiliated with Accuracy in Media, which has sought for several years to air complaints against what it sees as inaccurate news coverage.

Neal Megaw, former professor of English and a former member of the Academic Freedom Committee, told The Daily Texan that lecture monitoring is unnecessary as students are entitled to both liberal and conservative views.

"My reaction was very skeptical indeed," Megaw said.

"It's not something that I look favorably upon. I think the whole thrust of the movement is pernicious," Megaw said.

Forest Hill, a UT economics professor, agreed, saying one biased professor probably would make little difference to students who are taught by at least 40 instructors during their college careers.

"There's going to be a variety of instructors. There's a lot of protection built into our system," Hill said.

Hill also said he wonders about who will be monitoring lectures.

"I'm concerned about that and that they may not understand the subject matter. They may not always know what is true or false," he said.

Monitoring is a form of censorship, Hill added. "Universities are places for freedom of expression."

Workshop scheduled in Dumas

Pilot Club of Hereford members are encouraged to attend an area workshop Saturday, Sept. 7, in First Methodist Church in Dumas. The session will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 2:30 p.m.

Reservations for the luncheon is $7 and may be paid to Brenda Thomas before Sunday, Sept. 1.

The training session is designed for members to improve their local Pilot Clubs.

Members are requested to meet at 7 a.m. Sept. 7 at the home of Margaret Bell, 132 N. Texas.

Headliner, a red-and-white hybrid tea rose, has been named 1986 Rose of the Year. Headliner was selected by Jackson & Perkins Co., a rose grower, as their choice. The rose won a nationwide evaluation based on color, form, scent and disease resistance conducted by a consumer test panel.

George Patton continues testimony in whistle-blower suit

AUSTIN (AP) — The former commander of the 2nd Armored Division, George S. Patton, has testified he spent 50 to 60 percent of his time and effort in 1976 working to get Army units combat ready for maneuvers in Germany.

Patton, who continued on the witness stand today in a lawsuit filed by former Army Capt. Cole, also said Tuesday that he first received "vibrations" about Cole's activities in the spring of 1976.

"I don't remember where they came from but I had received some vibrations about Cole and I offered to keep him at Fort Hood when his battalion was set to go to Germany," the former Army major general said Wednesday.

However, Patton, son of the famed World War II hero, said Cole's immediate commander said Cole was a "crackerjack" supply officer and asked to let him go with the rest of the battalion.

Cole claims in his lawsuit being tried in the U.S. Court of Claims that he was relieved as a supply officer of the 50th Infantry while on training maneuvers in Germany because of his critical reports about combat readiness of Army units. He says he was coerced into resigning.

Cole seeks reinstatement and back pay.

Patton, who says he is now a "pseudo farmer" in South Hamilton, Mass., said the combat readiness of the 2nd Armored Division was "not so hot" when he took command in 1975.

"I spent 50 to 60 percent of my personal time and effort directly involved in seeing to the combat readiness of the battalions (sent to Germany for training)," Patton said.

Earlier, the former commander of the 1st Armored Division in Germany, former Maj. Gen. William L. Webb said he recommended to Patton that Cole be discharged from the Army.

"I felt that Capt. Cole did not have the qualities we need in the regular Army," Webb said.

"He may have been technically proficient, but his manner of dealing with people had a very limited potential and, after all, the Army is people," Webb testified.

Webb, now of Vienna, Va., said on cross examination that when he forwarded the resignation to Patton he did not know that Cole had made protests to numerous members of Congress in the Senate and Armed Services committees.

Cole testified last week that he didn't take his claims to members of Congress until after being unsuccessful in getting his resignation back from his superior offices.

Cole, now a civilian employee at Fort Hood, finally was discharged in January 1977.

Former Maj. Gen. Clyde Spence, who as Webb's assistant division commander, investigated Cole's case said he found that Cole "constantly undermined those in authority."

Spence, now president of the Marion Military Institute at Marion, Ala., said the probe showed that Cole "would downgrade the officers in front of the enlisted men."

Spence said some enlisted men said Cole called his battalion commander "Col. Do Nothing," and the executive officer, "Major No Good."

A nightmare that has no end

Much as the word "plague" caused paralyzing fright centuries ago, Alzheimer's disease does today. This braincripper affects more than 2 million Americans; it is the fourth leading cause of adult deaths in the United States. It strikes 5 percent of the over-65 population and, with estimates that 5 million Americans will be older than 85 by the year 2000, it may be one of the fastest-growing epidemics in our society.

The early, subtle signs of Alzheimer's disease are often mistaken for the usual forgetfulness of the elderly. But the disease is characterized by inexorable and progressive dementia — total breakdown of a person's ability to function in a meaningful way. Victims lose both cognitive and intellectual capacities; memory becomes disrupted, and Alzheimer's patients unmercifully deteriorate into chaos. Death, after an average of seven to 10 years, comes as welcome release, the end of a terrifying nightmare from which there has been no awakening.

Many diseases can result in mental deterioration. Small strokes, organic depressions, thyroid insufficiency, brain tumors, nerve infections, drug toxicity and nutritional deficiencies can mimic the early stages of Alzheimer's. However, none is as severe as Alzheimer's and none follows such a relentless course, culminating in a vegetative state.

Although scientists in many medical centers are studying this malignant dementia, no single cause has been identified. The disease may be inherited. A so-called "slow-virus" infection may be a factor. Some patients may become allergic to their own brains. Early studies suggested that high brain concentrations of aluminum may contribute to the development of Alzheimer's. Recently, researchers have become encouraged by the strong possibility that a biochemical alteration may provide a clue to cause and treatment.

At autopsy, Alzheimer's patients show characteristic nerve changes that appear under the microscope as tangled bundles of fibers arranged in paired helical patterns. In addition, nerve plaques — like burls on an old tree — can be seen in certain vital brain centers. Living patients with Alzheimer's have been shown to have deficiencies in a brain chemical called choline acetyltransferase; this deficiency is much more common in areas of the brain that contain the most tangles and plaques.

Some specialists are giving an antidote called physostigmine. They claim an 11 percent improvement in function — a modest success, at best. However, in a disease with no cure, the 11 percent is an encouraging step. Other drugs are under investigation.

Many experts are convinced that prevention is the only rational treatment. Because virtually 100 percent of Down's syndrome patients develop Alzheimer's-like manifestations if they live beyond age 35, a genetic abnormality appears likely. If the defective gene can be identified, definitive treatment may be developed according to specific biochemical deficiencies. Unfortunately, this breakthrough is decades away.

As our population ages, more families and medical personnel will be forced to cope with a burgeoning number of Alzheimer's patients. The disease may well become the greatest fear, among many fears, of the elderly. It is anathema to persons who wish to age with dignity. It results in an indolent, expensive death that is heartwrenching for family and friends. It is a scourge.

Presently, the only generally available therapy for Alzheimer's disease consists of close supervision at home or in institution, mood-altering drugs and emotional support from the family. Alzheimer's patients seem to function better if they are well-rested. In short, doctors have only nonspecific treatment to offer.

I believe that if there is any disease which could result in universal acceptance of a living will, Alzheimer's is that disease. In my opinion, complete mental deterioration is a threat more vicious than any form of artificial life support. As each of us ages, we have to face the dark reality that such an existence is not life at all.

Blackburn recognized at meeting

Roberta Blackburn of TOPS Chapter 576 was crowned queen for the month of August with a loss of three and three-quarters pounds and was elected Miss Inspiration when the group met recently.

Other winners were LaVerne Worley, runner-up with a loss of two-and-a-half pounds, and Shirley Brown who won the floating prize for losing three pounds.

Rose Moya, contest chairman, reported that all persons had paid money in the apron contest which will end Sept. 24.

Anyone interested in joining TOPS Chapter 576 please call 364-1885 and ask for Mary Lou Spinhirne.

Convicted killer says

He accepts responsibility

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Convicted killer Charles F. Rumbaugh admits he was responsible for the shooting death of an Amarillo jeweler and is prepared to die by a poison injection Sept. 11 for his crime.

"I was in a situation where it was kill or be killed," the 28-year-old inmate said. "But I acknowledge that I am responsible for another man's death 10½ years ago. I have no excuses."

Rumbaugh was convicted and sentenced to death for the April 4, 1975, slaying of Michael Fiorillo, 58, during a robbery. Fiorillo pulled a pistol and was killed during a struggle with Rumbaugh, authorities said.

Rumbaugh, facing his third execution date, said he probably will be executed before sunrise on Sept. 11.

"If society wants to kill me, that's fine. It doesn't make any difference. Big deal," he said. "I don't say that with any anger. I'm comfortable with myself and my situation."

During an interview at death row Wednesday, Rumbaugh displayed a nine-count indictment he had drafted against the "people of conscience." Each count represents the nine convicts executed by the state since 1982.

"Just as the state of Texas has condemned me to die, so do I condemn each and every adult in the state of Texas to serve the remainder of their lives contemplating their misdeeds — the rest of their lives contemplating the blood on their hands," Rumbaugh said in a prepared statement.

Rumbaugh spent most of his youth in reform schools, jails or mental institutions. He pulled off his first holdup at age 12, using a tire tool to rob a gas station in San Angelo, where he lived. He also admitted to dozens of heists in Texas and Arkansas.

"I got in so much trouble that all the juvenile officers knew me by my nickname — Chuckie," he said.

He and Amarillo free-lance writer D.J. Stubben collaborated on a book, "No. 555-Death Row," five years ago to try to steer youths away from crime.

Rumbaugh twice attempted suicide in the Potter County Jail and orchestrated an elaborate escape from his cell. At a 1963 competency hearing in Amarillo, he lunged at a deputy U.S. marshal and hollered, "Shoot me!" He was critically wounded.

"I've slowed down since then. I guess I found out I wasn't immortal," he said.

With his execution date only two weeks away, Rumbaugh said he is "at peace, as much as I be."

"I believe in a supreme being. I believe in an afterlife. I also believe in reincarnation of a certain kind. Maybe when I come back next time, I'll have learned something," he said.

Gulf lawsuit over pricing regulations dismissed

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has approved the last in a series of nationwide lawsuit settlements in which Gulf Oil Corp. paid about $385 million to end a dispute with the U.S. Department of Energy over pricing regulations.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald's consent order, in which Gulf agreed to pay its customers $142 million plus interest, is the latest in five years of Gulf settlements with federal energy officials.

Ms. McDonald's order on Tuesday dismisses the 3-year-old battle between Gulf and the Energy Department concerning a now-bankrupt refining company.

Gulf was one of several major oil companies the Energy Department sued, alleging the firms violated pricing regulations, attorneys for Gulf and the government said.

The regulations, which deal with allocations and oil prices, have since been abolished by the Reagan administration. Under federal regulations then, major oil companies were required to supply small refineries with crude oil if they were running dry.

Gulf attorney Bob Ochs said most major oil companies accused of violating the regulations chose to negotiate wholesale settlements rather than become immersed in lengthy litigation over the issues in the cases.

Reagan, Rostenkowski

It's a rough partnership

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — As President Reagan and Rep. Dan Rostenkowski resume their "rough partnership" on rewriting federal tax laws, the roughness may be more evident at times than the partnership.

The Republican president speaks of "Rosty and I" as a team and the Democratic Ways and Means Committee chairman says Reagan "is the strongest force for reform" of the tax code.

But for two guys who are playing on the same tax team, they do seem to have some strikingly different ideas about the subject.

Reagan laid out his philosophy in a speech in Williamsburg, Va., on May 30, just two days after he announced his plan to simplify the federal tax code.

"When you simplify a thing, make its lines clear and clean, you make it much less vulnerable to quiet mischief and selfish tinkering," the president said. "So, if some Congress of the future gets in its head to increase taxes — to raise the lowest personal tax rate from 15 percent to something higher — the public will immediately see what is happening and understand what is happening, and they will rise up and resist, and they will be heard."

On the other hand, Rostenkowski told the National Press Club in Washington on July 30:

"One day soon we're going to raise taxes. The president has no other practical alternative. But when we decide to raise large amounts of revenue to draw down the debt, let's have ready a new tax code that gives us the revenue base to do it without hitting anyone or any business unfairly."

There you have it. Reagan says rewrite the tax laws to make it harder to raise taxes. Rostenkowski says rewrite the tax laws to make it easier to raise taxes.

There are other differences that will come into focus as Reagan returns from his ranch vacation near here to resume campaigning for his plan and Rostenkowski's committee begins writing his version.

The two do, however, share the goal of getting a satisfactory bill through Congress, and have agreed to work with each other to get it done.

"The first requisite for drawing up such a proposal is to stay true to the spirit and the large pieces of the president's reform plan," Rostenkowski told the press club. "He is the strongest force for reform. To make a radical departure from the president's proposal would be foolhardy. The only way to pass a reform bill is to continue our rough partnership."

The Illinois Democrat also said that, while the president's plan is "generally fair to the poor," it is "far too generous to the rich" and he will seek to rewrite it to "avoid extremes."

For his part, Reagan has said he is willing to consider changes in the details of his plan, so long as the general outlines are preserved.

40 major money-making corporations reportedly paid no 1984 taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty big, profitable corporations, led by AT&T, avoided paying any income tax despite more than $10 billion in profits in 1984, a research and lobbying group says.

They were among 129 companies, found in a survey of 275 large corporations, that managed to pay no federal income tax in at least one of the last four years, according to the study by Citizens for Tax Justice.

The organization said many of the companies not only paid no taxes but got money back in refunds by taking advantage of legal tax breaks.

It named five big defense contractors as paying no taxes or getting refunds during the 1981-1984 period. The group said they were: General Dynamics, General Electric, Lockheed, Boeing and Grumman. Another three — McDonnell Douglas, Martin Marietta, and Westinghouse Electric — had effective tax rates of less than 1 percent, the group added.

Citizens for Tax Justice is a liberally oriented group supported by labor unions, churches, public interest groups and other organizations. Its study was a follow-up to a similar one released last year, and was presented as a look at how big businesses have gained from tax changes under President Reagan's administration.

"With the addition of the 1984 data, we now have for the first time the complete picture of corporate tax avoidance during President Reagan's first term in office," Robert S. McIntyre, director of federal tax policy for the group, said in releasing the study.

"It is a picture of unparalleled success in beating the federal tax collector," he said.

The 40 companies paying no federal income taxes in 1984 were led by AT&T, which received $242 million in tax refunds on profits of $1.9 billion, the report said. It was followed by E.F. Hutton Group, J.P. Morgan & Co., General Dynamics and Ashland Oil, the group said.

The 40 companies earned $10.4 billion in profits and received a total of $657 million in tax refunds during 1984, the report said.

AT&T spokesman Dick Gray in New York said the company's 1984 tax refund was due to poor earnings in 1984 as a result of the telephone company's divestiture and other causes.

"For the first time in our history we had a net operating loss for tax purposes," he said. "This resulted in a negative federal income tax and we carried the loss back to prior years for a refund. ... We don't expect this to happen again."

Federal law taxes corporate income above $100,000 at a 46 percent rate. But like individuals, businesses are able to cut their taxes with deductions and credits. The biggest tax break for corporations is depreciation, recovering the cost of new equipment and buildings through the tax system.

The report called Boeing Co. "the leading corporate tax avoider" between 1981 and 1984 for receiving $285 million in tax refunds on profits of more than $2 billion.

Harold Carr, Boeing's chief spokesman, said, "It is true that we paid no tax during that four-year period, although the number used by that organization is excessively high." He refused to say how high or give a more specific figure but asserted, "Everything is done within the tax code and is legal."

Underground greenhouse to be built in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Botanical Society has come up with a way to grow and exhibit exotic plant life that otherwise would languish in the heat and relentless sun of South Texas.

The society is going underground. Society president Hall Hammond announced Tuesday construction has begun on a $6.5 million underground garden.

The half-acre greenhouse will be built on the grounds of the city-run San Antonio Botanical Gardens, Hammond said.

"We don't even have to get a shovel and dig a hole because we already have a big hole in the ground," he said as a grading machine plowed through the soil at the rear of the garden complex.

Designer Emilio Ambasz said San Antonio's clay and caliche soil created considerable concern for designers.

"A considerable part of the budget went into the foundation," which was designed to accommodate any shifting in the soil, he said.

Designers decided to build the garden under ground, Ambasz said, because "we had to provide protection for the plants so they wouldn't bake."

The garden, to be called the Lucile Halsell Conservatory, will be visible above ground only by glass roofs that will allow in a controlled amount of light, Ambasz said.

Once the underground greenhouse is complete, it will be handed over to the city for maintenance, Hammond said.

Scheduled for completion next fall, the 90,000 square-foot conservatory will be home for some 20,000 plants and trees, Hammond said.

He predicted the underground gardens will attract national attention architecturally and from a tourism standpoint.

"It is a major gift, a major asset for the people of San Antonio to enjoy," said Mayor Henry Cisneros, who was on hand for the announcement.

"This is really going to be something special for our city," he said. "It will be one of the truly unique spaces in any city in the U.S.A."

The conservatory, Cisneros said, "will allow people respectful of nature to walk through and see" plant life not usually seen in South Texas.

Bi-state building dedicated

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — After 10 years and $20 million in the making, the Bi-State Justice Building, built on the state line between Texas and Arkansas, was scheduled to be formally dedicated this afternoon.

"I know one thing," Bowie County Sheriff Thomas Hodge said. "I'm the only sheriff in Texas with his office in Arkansas."

Hodge's office lies several feet east of the Arkansas-Texas line on the third floor of the building.

U.S. Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., was the principal speaker for today's dedication, followed by remarks by Arkansas Attorney General Steve Clark and others and the ribbon-cutting by Mayor Bobby Ferguson of Texarkana, Ark., and Mayor Durwood Swanger of Texarkana, Texas.

"Really, it's almost hard to believe the date is here, because it's been going on so long," project architect Herb Crumpton told the Texarkana Gazette.

But the project is not quite complete yet.

Not included on today's public tour of the building was the second level, where construction continues on a dormitory for work-release prisoners from the Arkansas Department of Corrections.

The five-level building will house courts, prosecuting and district attorneys, law enforcement agencies and their prisoners from the two states. It also will feature a centralized law enforcement dispatching and record-keeping department.

As of Wednesday, only about one-fourth of the building was occupied.

The director of the Texarkana, Ark., Department of Public Safety will have his office west of the state line in Texas. Each state legislature passed laws conferring jurisdictional authority in the building to officials of the other state.

The building's planners say it will increase the professionalism and efficiency of law enforcement.

"The central dispatching and records system is really the heart of the concept, because rather than operating four different situations, you've got one," Crumpton said.

Crop production systems topic of Halfway tour

LUBBOCK — Early findings of a farming systems research program, comparing low input/maximum profitability versus conventional crop production systems designed to help farmers cut costs and increase profits, will be reported Tuesday, September 10, during the 76th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES) at Lubbock and Halfway.

This year's tour will be held at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station/High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway, 14 miles west of Plainview on U.S. Hwy. 70. The annual event alternates between the Lubbock and Halfway facilities, explained Dr. John R. Abernathy, resident director of research for the Lubbock-Halfway centers.

At one of the featured stops on this year's tours, Dr. Charles W. Wendt, professor of soil and water, and Dr. Darrell Rosenow, professor of grain sorghum, will report on the cropping systems studies. The initial research is looking at dryland and irrigated cotton, wheat and grain sorghum.

The field tours will begin at 1 p.m. and will feature five major stops, plus a walk up stop to see the latest research on grape cultivation, said Dr. Doug Owen, research scientist and field day chairman.

In addition to the cropping systems research, featured stops will highlight work on control of perennial and annual weeds; comparisons of low energy precision application (LEPA) and drip irrigation systems on numerous crops; cotton breeding and variety performance, and research on control of crop insect pests.

Other features of the field day, announced Dr. David Bender, assistant professor of vegetable crops and field day co-chairman, will be demonstrations on multifunction irrigation systems, soil fertility, and work of the Texas Forest Service in growing adaptable seedlings for windbreak and conservation plantings.

In addition, farm machinery and irrigation equipment will be displayed by area manufacturers and dealers. Specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and research scientists with the Experiment Station will be present to answer questions and discuss research.

The field day is a cooperative presentation of TAES, the High Plains Research Foundation, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the U.S. Department of Agriculture-Agricultural Research Service, and the Texas Forest Service.

Farm exports fall below last year's level at this time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest figures show U.S. farm exports were well below year-earlier levels during the first three quarters of the fiscal year that began last Oct. 1.

Export values through June totaled $25.6 billion, down 14 percent from the same nine months of 1983-84, the department's Economic Research Service said Thursday in a report.

The actual volume of shipments was 104 million metric tons, down 5 percent from a year earlier. That slippage, plus lower prices, pushed the export value down even more sharply.

Most indicators point toward better cattle prices

COLLEGE STATION — It may still be some time before cattlemen see some improvement in market prices, but all indicators point in that direction.

The number of cattle on feed as of July 1 is the lowest since October 1983, and the number of cattle and calves on farms and ranches in the U.S. at mid-year is down 4 percent from a year ago.

Feedlot placements during the April to June quarter were down 7 percent from a year ago, which means cattle placed on feed during the first half of 1985 were 5 percent below year ago levels.

"Current figures confirm that liquidations of breeding herds began last year and are continuing to some extent," points out Dr. Uvacek, livestock marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "Until market conditions turn around, there is no reason to believe that cattlemen will change their philosophy regarding herd reductions."

The nation's calf crop for 1985 is estimated at 3 percent below that of 1984, and that figure may be high, according to Uvacek, since the beef cow herd at mid-year is down 7 percent and heifer replacements are down 11 percent.

"All this suggests that beef supplies should be down some in the second half of 1985, which, in turn, should help market prices," says Uvacek.

WTSU ag school gets research grant

WTSU — The executive committee of Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo has awarded $9,200 in research funds to West Texas State University's School of Agriculture. The money will go toward five separate research projects.

Dr. Arden Colette is constructing an economic model of the agricultural sector of the Texas Panhandle. By making information available on the impact of alternate agricultural policies, depletion of the water supply for irrigation, and changes in relative prices, he hopes to allow producers and community leaders to anticipate problems and plan alternative courses of action.

Dr. Ronald Thomason will evaluate dryland crop production on the High Plains. He is looking for ways to use traditional and non-traditional legume plants to conserve moisture and increase the amount of available nitrogen in the soil. Dr. Leonard Wilson will evaluate herbicides, looking for the most economically feasible means for control of perennial weeds in conservation tillage farming.

Dr. Joe Sagebiel will study the nutritive content of native range grasses and eremo love grass. He is concerned about deficiencies in protein and major nutrients for beef cattle. Dr. Ted Montgomery's concern is with the beef as it comes to the table. He will continue an investigation of the use of electrical stimulation and partial pre-cooking to produce easily heated, flavorful beef rib roast.

Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo has supported WTSU regularly in the past with research money and scholarships.

Farm Briefs

The 1985 Amarillo Tri State Fair, scheduled for September 16-21, will offer over $50,000 in prize money, plus scores of ribbons, banners and trophies to winners in competitive events.

In addition to the traditional livestock events, there will be competition between hundreds of people in the areas of aquarium, art, photography, ceramics, china painting, 4-H baked goods, vegetables, canned goods, bread, cakes, cookies and pies. Also knitting, sewing, embroidery, quilts, rugs and novelty items.

All of the above events are judged prior to the opening of the fair and will be on display throughout the week for viewing by fair-goers. Don't miss the opportunity to see all of the above items at the Tri State Fair next month.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to resume a program for the exchange of young agricultural specialists, beginning next year.

Agriculture Department officials said Tuesday that an agreement was reached in Moscow by Agriculture Secretary John R. Block and Soviet Minister of Agriculture Valentin K. Mesyats.

A tentative decision to resume the exchange program was reached last June at a meeting in Moscow of a joint committee on cooperation in the field of agriculture.

Approximately 80 young agricultural specialists from the two countries participated in the exchange program while it operated in 1976-79.

Plans call for a group of up to 15 young people from each country to be involved in the exchange program for 12 weeks next summer. The National 4-H Council, with policy guidance from the USDA, will administer the program.

The first American crematorium was built in Washington, Pa. It carried out its first cremation in 1876.

No matter what anyone says, nothing is
"just as good as a John Deere."

"And ours is just as good as a John Deere." How many times have you heard that? When one manufacturer is so clearly the leader, that's the ultimate claim any competitor can make. But when you put all claims aside, there's nothing like a John Deere tractor with Caster/Action™ mechanical front-wheel drive and 15-speed Power Shift transmission. No combine can match the productive efficiency of a Titan II. And the superior seed/soil environment created by Max-Emerge™ planters is literally legendary. But so is the dealer support that's provided with everything in The Long Green Line.™ Don't take our word for it. Ask anyone. We're happy to be judged by what we're known for.
