Vote okayed, bids opened

Deaf Smith County Commissioners finalized the November 5 election Monday during their regular business meeting by checking and rechecking all the election returns to insure their validity.

The only part of the ballot that the commissioners did not check was the Buffalo Lake issue. Those votes will be canvassed by the Buffalo Lake Board.

In other business the commission opened bids for a 1986 pick up for the county Extension service. Stevens Chevrolet won the sale with a bid of $9114.87 plus trade-in of a 1982 pick up. Hereford Lincoln and Mercury was the second lowest bidder at $10,641.80.

Commissioners also approved the placement of Caliche on county roads south of Dawn and on a portion of 15th.

Commissioner Bill Bradley addressed the commission concerning the possibility of repairing the county's radio system. Bradley stated that proper translation was difficult on the current system. The commission decided to let Bradley check into the situation and get back with them.

The commissioners also heard from Sheriff Joe Brown concerning the personnel policy of the county. Brown stated that department heads do not have a choice concerning their vacation like the regular employees do. Currently the department heads must take a two week vacation, Brown suggested that the policy be changed where department heads would have the option of either taking the full two weeks or just taking one week off and one week vacation pay. Brown felt that this proposition would save the county money in overtime pay to county employees and save the county the trouble of having to find temporary replacements for department heads. The commission decided to table any voting on the question until the next fiscal year in 1986.

The commission also approved the crossing of county roads in Precinct 2 with gas and water lines.

The appointment of the third member to the Title VII grievance committee was tabled until more information can be gathered by commissioner Troy Don Moore.

Elmer Reinart, 239 Centre, is the first winner in The Brand's Photo Puzzle Game, it was determined in a drawing Monday afternoon. Reinart wins $50 in Hereford Bucks.

A new game started in Sunday's issue of The Brand and another piece of the puzzle appears in today's newspaper. The game ends Friday and entrants must use the official entry blank in the Friday paper.

Reinart's name was drawn by Jodie Blackwell, a Southwestern Public Service clerk, from a box of names of all those who had correct entries. The mystery guest in last week's puzzle was Mayor Wes Fisher.

Follow the easy rules and you could be a winner! Clip the puzzle pieces each day, paste them together and send or bring the photo puzzle along with the entry form to the Brand by noon Monday.

The game is being sponsored by The Brand in conjunction with the "Home for the Holidays" promotion of Hereford merchants.

Sausage supervisor still at post

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

Rose Hoffman, 75, who started the first Umberger Sausage Festival in 1952, was still at her supervisory post Sunday at that community's annual feast.

That year St. Mary's Parish Hall had just been built and the bishop was coming to bless the hall.

The townspeople decided to hold a special dinner in honor of the new building.

"The whole community," said Hoffman, a resident since she was born in 1910, "everybody wanted to pitch in but we didn't know what we were going to serve."

Members of St. Mary's Altar Society and Christian Mother's Club who now sponsor the festival elected Hoffman as chairman of the dinner to be held.

"I suggested we have home-made something - not anything from cans, that's for sure. So I suggested we have home-made sausage, home-made sauerkraut, and home-made bread," smiled Hoffman.

"Nobody thought it'd go over at all," said Hoffman. "I had learned to make sausage from my grandpa who was German."

"When we held the first sausage dinner, people from everywhere turned out, people from Amarillo, Hereford, Canyon, Happy, Dalhart..."

Congress facing default possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress, returning today from a long Veterans Day holiday, is staring into the twin-barreled dangers of a government shutdown and a default by the Treasury.

Lawmakers have created the problems themselves, mainly because they've been unable to agree on a compromise between competing plans to balance the budget.

Both chambers favor setting statutory limits on annual deficits, which would gradually get smaller until the budget is balanced in 1991.

However, the House Democrats' version would protect poverty programs and limit President Reagan's role in choosing spending cuts needed to meet the deficit targets - elements that leaders in the Republican-led Senate say would make the measure unconstitutional and unworkable.

The dispute has been blocking an urgently-needed hike in the government's borrowing authority, which has reached its limit of $1.824 trillion. The Reagan administration has asked for a $2.078 trillion limit - double the red ink of when Reagan took office in 1981.

Without more credit, Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III said government coffers would be empty Friday and he would be forced to notify the Federal Reserve Board and the nation's banks that federal checks can no longer be honored.

The Senate, after weeks of delay, is expected to vote this week on the House-passed bill to limit textile imports. President Reagan has threatened to veto the protectionist measure.

The House was expected to give final congressional approval today to a bill, already approved by the Senate, blocking President Reagan's proposed arms sale to Jordan until March 1. The sale could take place before then if King Hussein begins "direct and meaningful" peace negotiations with Israel.

Reagan, bowing to pressure from GOP leaders, has agreed to sign the bill.

The House will spend much of the rest of the week working on a $20 billion authorization for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the biggest water projects bill in 15 years.

It contains some 370 projects, including flood control and hydroelectric dams, river widenings, harbor deepenings, drinking water systems, shoreline protections and other items, such as $61 million for a pair of bridges between Kentucky and southern Ohio.

Times were tense for pilot with unexploded bomb aboard

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

Remembering Veteran's Day, Garth Thomas was called upon to tell of one his adventures during the war.

Retired Colonel U.S. Marine Corps, Garth B. Thomas, was at ends when a bomb did not drop and he still had to land.

Enlisting in 1941, Thomas was working at an adding machine company in Dallas prior to entering the war.

"We were flying off Henderson field in Guadal Canal which was the first offensive island that the U.S. made a counterattack on in the South Pacific," said Thomas.

"From there we were making strike raids through the northern islands. We moved on up to the Solomon chain and the next airfield was Russel Islands. The Russel Islands was a smaller group within the chain," said Thomas.

Thomas was in V.M.T.B. squadron 232. The plane he flew was in combat then. It was TBF avenger bomber, a torpedo bomber.

Thomas explained that this particular aircraft could carry both torpedos and bombs.

"Marine Corps is an organizational entity of the department of the Navy," explained Thomas. "The Navy is divided into two combat forces; the fleet forces and the marine corps," he said. And Thomas opted to be in the Marine Corps.

"Marine aviators attend the same flight school as pilots from the navy and when they graduate, they receive the designation as naval aviators just as navy pilots do," added Thomas.

"You have precisely the same training. Up until graduation you don't know which group you'll be invited to join," he explained.

"Even after graduation, marine pilots continue along with Navy counterparts and trained flight carrier operations and all other programs common to Naval operations.

"The only difference today," said Thomas, "is that you go through an officer training school and then get commissioned before going to flight training."

Three arrested in Amarillo shooting

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - The fatal shooting of an Amarillo police officer quickly turned into a large-scale manhunt for three suspects who were captured within four hours, authorities said.

Sgt. James Mitchell Jr., 43 was shot several times in the chest and once in the head Monday afternoon while approaching a car that sped off an expressway into the back yard of a home 100 yards away, authorities said.

Mitchell had just gotten off duty at 3 p.m. and was still in uniform when he was shot, said police spokeswoman Helen Cruz.

Within 45 minutes, two helicopters were in the air and hundreds of area off-duty officers were activated for the manhunt, said Ralph Fletcher, a spokesman for the police department.

Teams of police and sheriff's deputies from Potter and Randall counties made a grid search of the neighborhood.

Warmth of foster home helps children mature

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

The gentle crackling from a wood stove hints of the coziness in the Connally home, but no warmth from a hearth can compare to the warmth of their heart.

Terry and Charlene Connally have shared their home with at 14 foster children throughout the past four years.

Although their zeal for their job as foster parents seems equal, it was her husband's idea to open their home to the children, said Mrs. Connally. Their four-bedroom house had been evacuated by their own adult children and she said "Terry couldn't stand it!"

Even when vacations bring home the Connally offspring, most beds remain full of children under temporary custody of the Department of Human Resources. One son voluntarily sacrificed his room for what he calls "the boarding house" so a foster child could enjoy some privacy.

When the children come into the home, Connally's set into a routine that's normal for most families - but possibly all new to the child coming from an environment of neglect or abuse.

"Almost every child I have had has been scared of having their hair washed," Mrs. Connally noted. Most are reticent to take a bath and some have been used to wearing the same clothes for weeks before changing them.

Part of the routine Mrs. Connally begins with the children helps to teach them responsibility according to their age. She says their confidence in themselves, often dwarfed from neglect, grows when the children realize they can do something important.

"We teach them to dress and make their beds, or help. We do things together," she said.

When children have coped with problems at home by becoming withdrawn and also have not had an intellectual stimulation, it takes loving work to get responses.

"All, or at least most, of them do not know how to play with toys or watch television," she said.

If a child is not mentally or socially at his appropriate age level, Mrs. Connally said, the foster parent has to go through all the levels which were missed to bring the child to where he should be. One example she gave was of a 3-year-old whose arms remained limp when they gave him a hug. He didn't know how to hug or what a hug meant. Now the child hugs everybody and even asks to give hugs. "It does him a world of

Security guard speaks about abduction

DALLAS (AP) — The security guard who was forced to drive a Greyhound bus 50 miles at gunpoint describes his abductor as "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

"A perfect description would be Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," said Mark Showers, 30, of Irving. "Part of the time he was a perfect passenger and the rest of the time he was yelling and screaming at me ... The last part of the trip all he would say to me was 'Keep driving; don't stop.'"

Showers, a security guard at the Greyhound bus terminal in downtown Dallas, was disarmed and abducted shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday by an armed man who said he wanted to go to Oklahoma City.

After an 80-minute chase involving a Dallas police helicopter and more than 50 officers from five departments, the abductor surrendered just before the empty bus reached a roadblock near Valley View in Cooke County.

Showers said he considered escaping, but the only things he could think of doing, such as swerving sharply, might have caused him to lose control of the bus and endanger other motorists.

Study released on outpatient drugs

AUSTIN (AP) — A recent research study at the University of Texas shows outpatient prescription drugs could be added to Medicare coverage without any additional cost.

"The study suggests that outpatient prescriptions drug costs could be absorbed by Medicare, providing more benefits and probably better health for the patients without spending more money," said Dr. Earle W. Lingle Jr.

"The costs of outpatient drug reimbursement appear to be offset by reduced inpatient hospital service expenditures or that patients who maintain outpatient drug therapy often have less expensive inpatient hospital needs," said Lingle.

Medicare presently does not pay for prescriptions outside the hospital.

Lingle made the study as a doctoral research project through the UT Austin College of Pharmacy. He is now an assistant professor of pharmacy administration at the University of South Carolina at Columbia.

Adult theater restriction hearing starts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is being asked to allow communities to force new adult movie theaters to locate in certain parts of town and nowhere else.

The court was hearing arguments today in an appeal by officials of Renton, Wash., who say a local zoning ordinance restricting the location of new theaters showing sexually explicit films does not violate freedom of speech.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals threw out Renton's ordinance last year.

In 1976, the Supreme Court allowed Detroit to use its zoning powers, in the interest of preserving neighborhoods, to require the dispersal of adult theaters. The Detroit ordinance barred any two theaters from locating within 1,000 feet of each other.

Two years later, the Washington State Supreme Court upheld Seattle zoning laws requiring adult theaters to be located in certain downtown areas of that city.

Fare cuts announced for Thanksgiving

NEW YORK (AP) — Last-minute Thanksgiving travelers will benefit from sharply reduced air fares announced by three major U.S. airlines.

American Airlines was the first to offer the bargains Monday, and United Airlines and Delta Air Lines quickly followed, with Delta extending its reduction to include the three days after Christmas.

American said its "48-hour Thanksgiving special" offers one-way coach fares of $29 for trips of 500 miles or less, $49 for flights of 501 to 1,500 miles, and $79 for flights of more than 1,500 miles.

Mike W. Gunn, senior vice president for passenger marketing, said the fares on the nation's second largest airline apply to flights from Thanksgiving day, Nov. 28, through noon Saturday Nov. 30.

United, the biggest airline, said it would match American's deal in all markets where the two compete.

Delta said it would cut fares on flights to 100 U.S. cities by 70 percent in the three-day Thanksgiving and Christmas periods.

Northwest, Continental and Braniff airlines said they had no immediate comment on the fare reductions. But People Express Airlines Inc., the fast-growing, no-frills carrier, said it has no plans to match the offers.

Christian leaders wounded in bombing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A suicide bomber crashed his pickup truck into a monastery where top Christian leaders were meeting today. Police said four people died and 17 others were hurt, including former President Camille Chamoun and the head of President Amin Gemayel's Phalange Party.

Police said among those killed in the blast were the truck driver, one woman and two Lebanese army soldiers who chased the truck in a jeep in an attempt to stop it.

Five politicians and 12 other people also were wounded by the blast at 10:10 a.m. (3:10 a.m. EST), they said.

New bill worth 20,000 pesos announced

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A new bill worth 20,000 pesos, twice as much as the largest bill now in use, will be put into circulation Wednesday, the central Banco de Mexico announced.

The bill is intended to ease "public transactions of high cost," the government news agency Notimex quoted the bank as saying.

Inflation in Mexico is currently running above 60 percent. In addition, the peso has dropped steeply against the U.S. dollar in recent weeks because of gloomy economic forecasts.

Liberian general broadcasts coup claim

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (AP) — A former commander of Liberia's armed forces claimed in a radio broadcast today to have overthrown head of state Samuel K. Doe and seized control of the impoverished West African country.

"The patriotic forces have seized power. Our forces have completely surrounded the city. Samuel Doe is in hiding," declared Gen. Thomas Quiwonkpa on Radio Elwa, a privately owned religious station in the Liberian capital.

Quiwonkpa promised free and fair elections. Liberia, founded in 1847 by freed American slaves, held the first multi-party elections in its history on Oct. 15.

Sausage

This year, Hoffman's daughter came from Circleville, Ohio, to eat some of that home-made sausage.

"My daughter said she'd eaten that sausage for 23 years in a row and this year she wasn't about to miss out," laughed Hoffman.

"That first year we had sausage, we brought in $2,000 and it went to help pay for the hall," said Hoffman.

When asked how much the sausage dinner has grown over the years, Hoffman replied, "Well, it's grown from two hogs and a calf to 14 hogs and five calves."

Hoffman said they used to have bingo at the sausage dinners, "but that was before they came out with this law," she said.

"We have a permanent date set now," said Hoffman, "the sausage festival used to be held on Armistice Day, but now we've organized to have it on the second Sunday in November."

At this year's sausage festival, a thousand pounds of potatoes, 220 gallons of home-made sauerkraut, 300 loaves of home-made bread, and 3,500 pounds of home-made sausage were served.

The St. Mary's Parish women held a bazaar of home-made crafts and the Country Store was open selling leftover sausage and sauerkraut.

Umberger's 34th Annual Sausage Festival was held Sunday in Umberger at St. Mary's Parish Hall from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

BOMB

"Marine corps. aviators are then further trained to provide close air support to marine ground forces, which is why they generally carry bombs in lieu of torpedos," said Thomas as to why he was carrying bombs on his aircraft.

"In World War II in the Pacific, it was such an unusual war — jumping from island to island, you could see nothing but heavy jungle forest.

"The Japanese were in the forest and it was difficult to see them and route them out. You could only see where there were airstrips," said Thomas.

He recalled being on the island of Bougainville. "My squadron helped cover the landing in Impresso Augusta Bay and our commanders decided to only capture in and maintain a perimeter of air strip sufficiently large," said Garth.

He explained that because this was such a significant bay, the Japanese moved a lot of troops in on counterattack there.

"Just before they counterattacked against our forces, Admiral Halsey and his cruisers shelled where the Japs were collecting their forces in the perimeter," said Garth with excitement.

Garth lived for the marines and spent most of his life in the corps. before coming to Hereford.

"It was rather interesting," commented Garth. "This area was completely jungled and after the all-night bombardment the forest looked like toothpicks.

"Gruesome sights," he said remembering the Japs that were in the forest. "Jap helmets left with the skulls still in 'em..."

Thomas pointed to his wall where a Japanese flag that he picked up during this battle hangs.

"After the bombardment, it liquidated the Japanese forces on Bougainville and the American forces moved on to the northwest, the Solomon Islands and the Pacific, with the next point being against Rabaul.

"We both bombed and fired the town of Rabaul where it was a warehouse staging area for the Japanese in the South Pacific," said Garth.

"We would circle around and dive bomb the town, then we would exit from the strike right down through the harbor," said Thomas.

remembering every detail.

"At this time, the zeros would actually wait after we made our bombing run and then they would attack us as we flew out in tail-chasing formation," said Thomas. "To this day, I can still see machine guns flashing..."

"Of course, we received many casualties at that time, but fortunately I escaped," he said.

The TBF Avenger carried a crew of a pilot, a turret gunner who fired 50 calibers, one tailgunner and a radio man who fired a 30 caliber machine gun from the bottom of the plane.

"We would fly in formation and pulling out after a dive, the pilot would come out on the water as close to the surface as he could so the Japanese couldn't attack from underneath.

"Their only recourse would be to attack from each side which they did with their machine guns," explained the colonel.

"On one of these particular flights, the plane immediately to my rear, with the turret gunner and radio man, was sawed into by Japanese fire, the zeros," said Thomas.

"We were flying off of Guadal Canal and attacking Kahile airstrip on southern Bougainville with both a 2,000-pound and four or five 500-pound bombs which mostly had delayed fuses.

"The strategy was to drop them on the air strip which would bury them in the ground and would then explode on a time delayed basis," explained Thomas.

Thomas said one of the previous planes carried a 2,000-pound bomb which exploded on contact with the ground. The explosion would kick up a tremendous amount of debris.

"The Japanese would also be firing machine guns," reminded Thomas.

"So my plane was bristled with holes either by the Japanese fire or the shrapnel from the 2,000 pound bomb that had been previously dropped from airplanes before me," said Thomas.

"It bristled my plane to the point that the hydraulic system had been severed and there was just enough pressure left after I pulled out, to partially close the bomb doors," described Thomas, "at which time one of my 500-pound bombs, which maybe because of shrapnel damage, may not drop during the bombing run over the airfield," said Thomas.

Thomas had started out flying with four bombs and the one didn't drop. It had a delayed fuse on it, too.

"The bomb dropped at that point in time and the doors caught it because they weren't open all the way. But the bomb dropped sufficiently far, the arming wire attached to the airplane would pull out and the fuse would be armed.

"This bomb dropped far enough that the wire was pulled out. The bomb was armed which meant that the slightest pressure would make it blow," said Thomas, remembering how he felt flying around with a bomb about to go off.

"The problem was just how to get out of the airplane. When we flew over the first friendly island there was a new airstrip being built.

"I told my crew to jump and tried to jump myself. The gunner was able to see from the small window in his compartment through the bombay that the bomb was there and armed.

"However, the configuration of this aircraft is such, that the only way for the pilot to exit is to roll the plane on its back and to drop out.

"But, because the bomb was loose and armed, I couldn't see how to roll it on its back without exploding the bomb and me too!" said Thomas.

"Thus, my decision was to try to land the plane which then showed the next problem. Only one wheel had come down due to the loss of hydraulic pressure.

"Then I had no choice but to play with the plane. I could shake the airplane laterally because the bomb was edged in the bombay doors.

"Finally, the other wheel came down and locked after shaking the plane awhile," explained Thomas.

Thomas was then faced with the "Because of no brakes, I couldn't control the turning of the airplane after landing," he said.

"Fortunately, when that turn began, the plane rolled into a taxi strip and slowed down and stopped," said Thomas.

"If that plane had turned either left or earlier in either direction and went off the airstrip—it would have exploded!

"I got out and ran like the devil," said Thomas, grinning.

From the bombing in Rabaul, Thomas received the distinguished flying cross, and the other medals, he said, are just area campaign medals.

After being in the marine corps. for 38 years, Garth B. Thomas retired as a Colonel.

good to have people notice him," she said.

Many of the withdrawn ones are the most sensitive and the most intelligent and once they get going, Mrs. Connally said, the responses are learned quickly and the child rapidly grows emotionally. The child often moves from a failing student to a A-student when the emotional stifling element is taken away. Often it is slow and the damage is deep, though. She cited one child who refused to look in a mirror for about four months.

Some kids have immediately known that they were "rescued" from some foul situation, although some resent being in foster care.

Either way, it's often a new world. Mrs. Connally echoed what the regional foster home recruiter said about it being "culture shock."

She said that some children were used to cold water baths—if any—and even lukewarm water would be too hot for their skin.

"A lot have never seen Santa Claus, one would hug a kiss the Christmas tree," Mrs. Connally recalled.

The pity of the child's past doesn't override the child's need for discipline, however. The Connally house is strict and rules are kept. But Mrs. Connally said there is a security in those rules for the children. Standing in a corner and other forms of punishment than spanking help keep the kids in line.

The key is in care, though. "Without genuine love we could do nothing with these kids," Connally told his wife.

an elementary school about six blocks from the shooting and a man in Clovis, N.M., where the FBI apprehended him as he tried to board a freight train after he abducted a woman, officials said.

The train was headed west to Belen, N.M., south of Albuquerque, said Curry County Jail Supervisor Jerry Harris.

The man captured in New Mexico had kidnapped an elderly Amarillo woman several blocks from the home and forced her to drive him to Clovis, said Amarillo Police Lt. Keith Ferguson.

"His intention was to catch a train out of Clovis," Ferguson said.

The man let the woman go when he arrived in Clovis, Harris said.

Police confiscated a handgun when the first two suspects were arrested and another weapon from the man arrested in Clovis.

Police ended a search for evidence at about 10 p.m. Monday, but were to resume a search for more evidence today.

The car involved in the accident bore Florida license plates and had been speeding on Canyon Drive when it left the highway and ran through a back yard fence of a south Amarillo home, said Ferguson. Ferguson described south Amarillo as a "nice" neighborhood.

"When the officer approached the three suspects they shot him," Ferguson said. "The officer saw (the accident) happen and approached them and they shot him. The reason why is not known."

Fletcher said no one was in the home when the shooting occurred.

About 50 extra police units were called in to aid the manhunt which included air searches and searches at Amarillo's two air terminals and its bus terminal, officials said.

Mitchell was married and had three children, Porter said. He was a 16-year veteran and served as a police officer in Borger, Spearman and Guymon, Okla. He had received 14 commendations as an Amarillo police sergeant, he said.

"He was a good policeman and a good friend," Ferguson said.

Ann Landers

Switch mind 'off'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to women who became involved with married men seemed sensible to me and I am a logical and pragmatic person. So, after two years, I ended my affair with a married man. It was an incredibly painful experience but I knew I had to do it.

That was 10 years ago. I now have a wonderful husband and two beautiful children. So why am I writing? I need to know, Ann, will I ever stop loving that married man? Will the pain of breaking up with him every go away? Sure, you can end an affair, but how to you get over the yearning for what might have been?

I guess this is my private hell and I will simply have to endure it. Surely I am not alone in this dilemma. Someone out there must know the secret of that magical on/off switch. Do you, Ann?—AWAITING YOUR REPLY IN CALIF.

beautiful children.

Consider yourself fortunate to have wasted only two years on your former lover. Many women spend a lifetime waiting in the wings, hoping and praying that this promise, "Someday we will be together," will come to pass. By the time these dames wake up and smell the coffee, all the eligible men have married women who were playing it straight.

I hope I have helped you find that magic "off switch" in my response.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 12 years old. My parents said they will go along with what you say if you print my letter.

When I eat a meal I always eat one thing until it is finished before I touch anything else. For example, dinner, I will eat all the meat first, then all the vegetables, then the potatoes.

I am not a fussy eater. Many times I take seconds and clean the plate before the dessert.

I have been eating this way as long as I can remember. Mom said it is not polite, especially in someone's house or when we eat in a restaurant.

I have tried to eat like Mom says but I don't enjoy it. Please give me some advice.—KIM IN WESTCHESTER

DEAR KIM: I see nothing impolite about your style of eating. It is "different" but it should not matter to anyone. Bon appetit!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do your experts say is the cure for a compulsive talker?

I'm referring to a highly intelligent, sensitive person. Yet, as often as she has been told that she talks too much by people who respect and love her, there has been absolutely no change over several years. Any answers?—WEARY IN SAN BERNARDINO

DEAR WEARY: A compulsion is extremely difficult (often impossible) to overcome. Years of intensive therapy are often fruitless. In this case I suggest that you develop a tin ear. Think of something else, such as what you are going to fix for dinner, what you will wear to the party Saturday night or what is a polite way to escape into another part of the house!

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the danger of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. Conkwright selected to choir

Robin Conkwright of Hereford has been selected as a member of the 1985-86 Austin College Women's Choir. Conkwright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Conkwright.

The Women's Choir is a newly formed group consisting of 24 students. The choir was formed to provide a place for the excess number of talented women on campus which the A Cappella Choir was unable to accommodate, according to Director Bruce Lunkley.

Members were chosen through a series of auditions open to all females on campus.

Although women in the Armed Service are prohibited by law from serving in combat, their career progression is comparable to that of male personnel. They are routinely assigned to overseas locations formerly closed to female personnel, and women are in command of activities and units that have missions other than administration.

The Jan. 4 game is against the Lubbock Monterey junior varsity.

Height will be a disadvantage for the Hereford High School varsity boys' basketball team this season, with the HHS coach figuring his team will be the shortest in District 3-5A.

At least 39 are out for boys' basketball at Hereford High School, including six seniors.

The HHS varsity and junior varsity basketball teams play their season openers at Levelland on Tuesday, Nov. 19, and the sophomore team begins its season on Thursday, Nov. 21.

Two starters return from the 1984-85 HHS varsity—Rodney Torres and Bobby Baker. Torres, a 5-10 senior guard, was the third leading scorer for the Herd last season with 10 points per game.

Baker, who is a 6-4 junior post, averaged 12 points per game as a sophomore last year, second best on the team. Baker tied with two other players in the district last season for newcomer of the year honors.

The other five seniors out for basketball are: Stefan Hacker, a 5-11 senior guard; Doug Watts, a 6-1 senior post; Jerry Brown, a 5-10 senior guard; Don Carl Tardy, a 6-1 senior post; and Johnny Pena, a 6-2 senior post.

In addition to the six seniors practicing for basketball, there are 14 juniors and 19 sophomores practicing.

"We'll be the smallest varsity team in our district. Everyone else has a 6-6 of 6-7 post," said HHS varsity Coach Mike Fields.

"All of their guard players are as tall as our posts. For us to be competitive, we'll have to do a good job on defense and blocking out," Fields adds.

Herd basketball fans will have to wait nearly a month into the season before they can watch a home game. Hereford opens the season at Levelland on Nov. 19, and plays at Dimmitt on Nov. 22.

The varsity will play in the Borger Holiday Tournament on Nov. 29-30, and varsity and junior varsity games are scheduled at Pampa on Dec. 3.

After playing in the Amarillo Tournament on Dec. 6-7, Hereford will play its first District 3-5A game on Dec. 10, at Plainview.

The first home game for both the HHS varsity and junior varsity teams will be on Dec. 13 against Caprock.

"We only have three non-district games besides tournaments because our district is so large. All three of our non-district games are on the road, because we played all of them at home last year," Fields notes.

"This could be difficult for a young team, but hopefully it will help us. If we look at it in a positive way it will help us later.

"If you ever want to have a good program, you'll have to learn to win on the road," Fields said.

The Dec. 13 games will be the only ones at home in that month for the Hereford varsity and junior varsity teams. Hereford will have five home dates in January and two home dates in February.

The sophomore team opens its season on Nov. 21 at Plainview, and has its first home contest on Nov. 26 against Dumas.

Nine players from last year's HHS varsity squad graduated last spring. The 1984-85 team had a 9-18 season record.

"We'll have to play a lot of people this year who don't have much varsity experience. We're going to have to work hard to gain some respect and be as competitive as we can," Coach Fields said.

"With as many young players as we're playing with, sometimes we'll look good and other times we'll look like a young team making a lot of mistakes. It depends on how well those young kids come around," he adds.

Fields rates Amarillo High, Lubbock Monterey, Palo Duro, and Lubbock High as the top teams in District 3-5A, saying he sees each of those teams as being much the same in their strengths.

Having decided on six seniors and one junior for the varsity, Fields will choose three to five more players for the varsity this week.

"We're going to try to have as much fun as we can, to work hard and see what happens. The players want to do the best they can," Fields said. Fields is beginning his second year as HHS varsity boys' basketball coach. Before he became head basketball coach, he was a coach at La Plata Junior High School for two years and then was the HHS golf coach for two years. He was an eighth grade basketball coach during the two years he was golf coach.

Fields' assistant coach is Mark Turner, who will coach the junior varsity. Jim Fish is the sophomore team coach.

Fields notes that one sophomore player is 6-5, and three others are 6-3 in height. He adds that some height coming up in the Hereford schools, among the freshman classes.

Championship games set Saturday

Flag football playoffs started

The Hereford and Vicinity YMCA boys' flag football playoffs began last Saturday with four games played in each league.

Saturday's contests set up the championship games for this coming Saturday. The Dolphins and the Oilers meet for the fifth and sixth grade league championship, and the Rams and the Lions will battle for the third and fourth grade league title.

In the first round of the fifth and sixth grade playoffs, on Saturday morning, the Jets defeated the Raiders 6-0, and the Steelers scored an 18-6 victory over the Chargers.

Semifinal contests were played Saturday afternoon, with the Dolphins beating the Jets 13-8, and the Oilers shutting out the Steelers 12-0.

The third and fourth grade league playoffs began Saturday morning with the Cowboys winning over the Bears 20-6. In a noon contest, the Lions were victorious over the Packers 27-6.

The Rams defeated the Cowboys

27-6 in a semifinal game in the afternoon, and the Lions scored a 12-0 shutout win over the Cardinals in the other semifinal contest.

This weekend's schedule has the Rams playing the Lions in the third and fourth grade league championship game at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Dolphins go against the Raiders in the fifth and sixth grade league championship, at 2 p.m. Saturday. Both championship games will be played at the open field next to the La Plata football field.

Denver gets past San Francisco, 17-16

By JOHN MOSSMAN AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — In a game of many big plays — both offensively and defensively — none was bigger than the completion pulled off by Denver Broncos quarterback John Elway, after a scintillating scramble with San Francisco cornerback Ronnie Lott in hot pursuit.

Trailing 16-14 and with time running out, the Broncos faced a third-and-10 situation at the San Francisco 31-yard line, not really close enough for Rich Karlis to kick a field goal in frigid, foggy Mile High Stadium.

Lott came roaring up the middle untouched into Elway's face, but the nimble quarterback managed to sprint outside, racing to his right and, on the run, rifling a 22-yard pass to Steve Watson.

Elway's clutch pass set up a 24-yard field goal by Karlis with 1:27 remaining that lifted the Broncos to a 17-16 National Football League victory Monday night.

The triumph raised Denver's record to 7-3 and gave them a one-game lead over the Los Angeles Raiders and Seattle Seahawks in the AFC West. Defending Super Bowl champion San Francisco, its hopes for another title fading, fell to 5-5 and remained three games behind the NFC West-leading Los Angeles Rams.

Denver Coach Dan Reeves credited Elway's "tremendous athletic ability" for evading Lott and getting the ball to Watson.

Watson said the velocity with which Elway threw the ball was the key to the completion.

"I moved outside my man and it was just that quick — the ball was there," he said.

"Elway made a miraculous play on that final completion," said 49er Coach Bill Walsh.

Elway, who had failed to throw a touchdown pass his previous four games, provided Denver's other points on a pair of first-half touchdown passes to Gene Lang and Watson.

"Going against the world champions and with the whole nation seeing us, I really wanted to play well," said Elway.

The 49ers, trailing 14-3 at the half,

Ty Cobb, batting against Babe Ruth when the latter was a pitcher, hit .326 in 13 games.

rallied behind the arm of Joe Montana, the legs of Roger Craig and the foot of Ray Werschling to take a 16-14 lead with 3:46 remaining. Werschling kicked a 45-yard field goal to put San Francisco ahead for the first time.

But Denver countered with a 63-yard drive, highlighted by a pass-interference penalty on 49er safety Dwight Hicks that covered 42 yards and Elway's game-saving pass to Watson.

A.L. Cy Young award goes to Saberhagen

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Honors and awards keep coming in, but Bret Saberhagen says nothing can beat the birth of a son.

A spindly right-hander who went 20-6 for Kansas City and won two World Series games, Saberhagen was named Monday the youngest winner of the Cy Young Award in American League history. Saberhagen, 21, was earlier voted the Most Valuable Player in the World Series.

Asked to list his biggest thrill, Saberhagen gestured across the room to his wife and son, Drew William, who was born the day before he pitched the Royals to an 11-0 victory over St. Louis in the deciding seventh game of the World Series.

"Drew William is definitely No. 1 with me," he said. "You can't beat that."

New York Yankees ace Ron Guidry, 35, who went 22-6 with a 3.27 earned run average, was runner-up to Saberhagen. Bert Blyleven of Minnesota finished third in balloting by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Saberhagen, in just his second year in the major leagues and third year out of high school, had an earned run average of 2.87 for the season and 0.50 in World Series games 3 and 7.

"This is great for me and great for Kansas City," he said at a news conference. With remarkable control and poise and sharp command of several pitches, Saberhagen had 158 strikeouts and issued only 38 walks.

"An award like this is definitely a team award," he said. "If you don't have 25 guys fighting for you every time you go out there, then you don't have a chance."

Saberhagen surpassed Vida Blue, who was 22 years old with Oakland in 1971, as the youngest Cy Young winner in AL history. The youngest ever to win a Cy Young was Fernando Valenzuela, who was a 20-year-old pitcher with Los Angeles in 1981.

Saberhagen admitted with a laugh that he may trouble topping his storybook season next year.

"I guess all I can do is try to win 21 games, win three World Series games and have twins," he said with a laugh. Nodding toward his wife, Janeane, he added, "But Janeane says 'No.' She wants to be able to get out and see the World Series games in person next year."

Saberhagen said he was surprised at his big margin of victory in voting by two baseball writers in every American League city. He was named on 27 of 28 ballots and received 23 first-place votes, garnering 127 points to 88 for Guidry.

Guidry, who won the Cy Young Award after a 25-3 season in 1978, was the only pitcher named on all 28 ballots. Saberhagen was left off the ballot of Ray Sons of the Chicago Sun-Times, who voted for Blyleven first, Dan Quisenberry of Kansas City second and Guidry third.

"I was definitely surprised. I thought it would be a lot closer than that," Saberhagen said of the voting.

From 1906 through 1917, rugby was played instead of football at Stanford University.

Sport Briefs

BASKETBALL
NEW YORK (AP) — New Jersey Nets' forward Buck Williams was named the National Basketball Association Player of the Week for the week ending Sunday, Nov. 10.
 Williams, who averaged 23.3 points and 14 rebounds per game, beat out Houston Rockets' center Akeem Olajuwon, who had a 41-point effort against Portland.

AUTO RACING
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A Florida driver died after his car spun out and hit a dirt embankment during a race Sunday at Montgomery International Speedway.
 The accident killed Bob Bean of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., during the Alabama 200 late-model stock car race.

BOXING
NEW YORK (AP) — An Internal Revenue Service agent testified in the trial of Don King and said the boxing promoter owes the government $222,100 in back taxes.
 King and associate Constance Harper are alleged to have skimmed $1 million from Don King Productions and the pair are charged with 20 counts of tax evasion, conspiracy and filing false tax returns.

GOLF
INDIAN WELLS, Calif. (AP) — Seth Knight, the 64th and final qualifier, captured five of the first nine holes en route to a 4 and 2 upset win over Dennis Saunders in first-round match play in the 5th annual U.S. Mid-Amateur Championship.
 Knight, of Atlanta, won four more holes than Saunders, of Phoenix, on the 4,907-yard Mountain Course at the Vintage Club. Play concluded after the 16th hole when Saunders was mathematically eliminated.

TENNIS
BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Andrea Holikova of Czechoslovakia, the 1985 Women's Wimbledon champion, beat countrywoman Regina Marikova 6-4, 6-7, 7-4 in the first round of the $150,000 Panasonic Women's Classic.
 In other opening matches, Jo Durie of Britain defeated Michelle Jaggard of Australia 7-5, 6-4; Ann Henrickson of Mahtomedi, Minn., beat Amanda Tobin of Australia 7-5, 4-6, 6-4; and Anne Hobbs of Britain defeated Barbara Gerken of Calabasas, Calif., 6-4, 6-4.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL
NEW YORK (AP) — The University of Texas women's basketball team, with five returning starters and two all-Americans, was selected No. 1 by a nationwide panel of 90 coaches.
 The Longhorns collected 36 first-place votes to finish first in the preseason women's basketball poll conducted by Mel Greenberg of the Philadelphia Inquirer for the Associated Press.

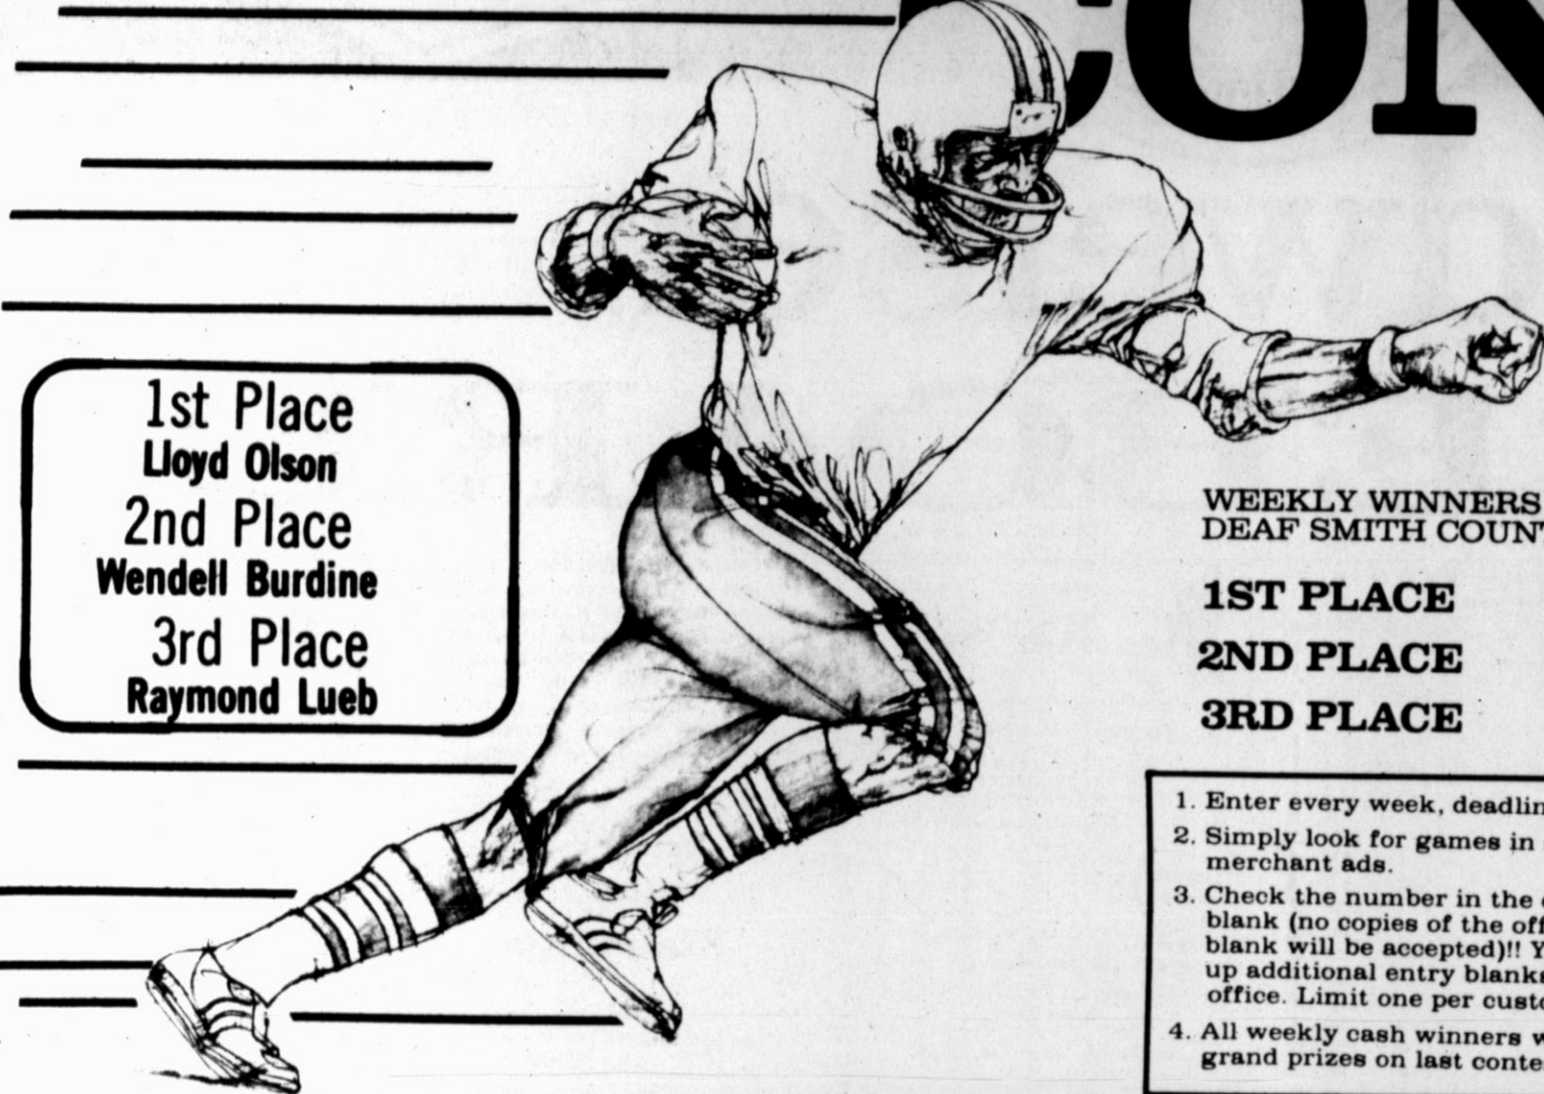

FOOTBALL
NEW YORK (AP) — William Perry has run for a touchdown, caught another and blocked for two in the past two weeks, but the man they call "The Refrigerator" really romped through the lines fed by late-night host David Letterman.
 "Are you tired?" Letterman asked during Monday's taping of the show that aired this morning.
 "Not really," replied Perry, the Chicago Bears superstar who had his best defensive game of the season with five tackles and two sacks in a 24-3 win over the Lions Sunday. "Detroit didn't give us much of a struggle."
 The major question for the 302-pounder was about food.

Hundreds of people respond to AIDS, anti-abortion television shows

By MARK BERNIS Associated Press Writer

Television's look at two hot issues drew protests and boycott threats against a "Cagney and Lacey" episode on anti-abortion violence as hundreds of concerned viewers called AIDS hotlines in response to a made-for-TV movie about a family torn apart by the deadly disease.

About 200 anti-abortion demonstrators marched Monday outside CBS studios in Hollywood protesting "The Clinic," an episode of the popular cops-and-robbers series that they claimed portrayed abortion opponents in a bad light.

The show gave "a very false picture of individuals within the right-to-life movement," said Loretta Kieren, an Indiana Right to Life spokeswoman in Indianapolis. It "could have been taken right from a pro-abortion press release," she said.

KKTU in Denver Springs, Colo.; KMGH in Denver; and WKZO in Kalamazoo, Mich., also broadcast "The Clinic" despite protests or threatened boycotts by anti-abortion organizations in their areas.

KMGH ran a disclaimer to alert viewers to the sensitive nature of the program and followed the show with interviews with anti-abortion spokespeople, said Mary Carole McDonnell, director of programming and operations.

KKTU rejected a Colorado Right to Life Committee request that it run an anti-abortion documentary, said assistant general manager Hal Kennedy.

Several members of the Pro-Life Action League picketed WKZO on Monday, said assistant station manager Jerry Raffel.

Colorado Right to Life's directors had instructed 17 chapters to boycott CBS in November if no "fairness time" was allowed and the chapter in Denver would boycott "Cagney and Lacey," said spokeswoman Ruth Dolan.

Meanwhile, hundreds of people curious about acquired immune deficiency syndrome telephoned TV stations and special hotlines after an NBC broadcast of "An Early Frost," and a half-hour news report on AIDS.

"The phones have been ringing since we started," said Ethyl Porter, community relations director for KPRC-TV in Houston. Of the more than 1,000 people who called during the three-hour hotline, "most of our callers want to know the basics about the disease," Ms. Porter said.

Nearly 100 calls were logged at NBC headquarters in New York, "a small response by network standards," said spokesman Matt Messina. All but 10 of the calls were favorable, he said.

In the movie, the AIDS victim, played by Aidan Quinn, is initially rejected by his father, played by Ben Gazzara. The mother, played by Gena Rowlands, acts as an intermediary as the family comes to grips with the twin revelations of the son's homosexuality and his disease.

Calls came in to various hotlines set up to provide information about AIDS.

"Mostly they're concerned with the transmission of the disease," said Michael Billhmer, spokesman for the Health Crisis Network in Miami, of the callers following the two-hour movie.

FOOD PRICES Annual increase declines

Retail food prices are rising at the slowest rate since 1967, because of commodity and livestock surpluses. While this has helped consumers, it's sharply cut farmers' incomes.

A simple holiday gift for a favorite neighbor: decorate an empty coffee can to match her kitchen decor and fill it with some handy kitchen utensils...wooden spoon, a whisk, a new rubber spatula.

Cessna opens retail store at Dallas shopping mall

DALLAS (AP) — Cessna Aircraft Co. has begun peddling planes at a Dallas shopping mall in a test flight of what the company hopes will revive interest in private flying and pull the industry out of a six-year slump.

If the marketing concept flies, officials from the Wichita, Kan.-based manufacturer said the idea could improve sluggish lightplane sales and prompt the opening of 400 Cessna stores across the United States.

Besides selling aviation-related merchandise, the new store, called Hangar 10, uses a flight simulator to entice customers to take flying lessons at nearby Cessna Pilot Centers.

The store is the focal point for a new selling strategy, including Hangar 10 social clubs that offer activities and travel discounts to members and a Cessna-Hangar 10 credit card that can be used to purchase parts, fuel and service as well as merchandise at the stores.

Cessna's aim is to introduce flying on the public's turf — the shopping mall — rather than at the airport. The first Hangar 10 store opened Tuesday at the Valley View shopping center in affluent north Dallas. A second store is scheduled to open later this month in Minneapolis.

"It's a bold leadership innovation by Cessna," said Richard Schwebel, vice president of Cessna's aircraft marketing division.

Cessna reported a $2.7 million profit for a nine-month period ending in June. But the profit mainly reflected accumulated tax benefits. Without the benefits, the company would have posted a $17.5 million loss.

While industry observers have predicted an eventual recovery of sales of larger business turboprops and jets, they have been less optimistic about the future sales of smaller single-engine, piston-powered aircraft favored by flying enthusiasts. The number of people learning to fly remains down significantly.

Cessna has a major stake in promoting flying. Not only is Cessna one of the world's largest producers of light aircraft, it is one of the few manufacturers still committed to selling the small single-engine airplanes at the bottom of the line.

Schwebel said Cessna researched the marketing concept in five cities. The company conducted interviews with shoppers at malls and showed them sample products to gauge their interest in what Hangar 10 would sell. The result was a store company officials said they hoped would appeal even to those not interested in learning to fly.

Hangar 10's main attraction is the flight module, where customers can be exposed to flying. The module is built around the front of a Cessna 172 Skyhawk, a four-seat piston aircraft.

Cessna said computerized video technology gives customers the feeling of flying a Skyhawk and can take off, fly a course and land the flight simulator.

Only 11.5 percent planned to cut spending, while 3.9 percent had no opinion.

DR. GOTT

Cancer isn't contagious

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — When I was younger, I used to hear my mother speak of people who were carriers of TB but never had it themselves. I have a brother who lost his first two wives to cancer, and his third wife has it also. Two of my acquaintances have lost two wives the same way. Can a person be a carrier of cancer?

DEAR READER — As far as we know, tuberculosis and cancer have different causes. TB is a bacterial infection. Therefore, a patient may have a mild case and not even know it; he could still be infectious to others, because the TB bacteria are excreted in mucous coughed up from the lungs. Tuberculosis is treatable by modern antibiotics.

The cause of cancer, however, remains a mystery. Doctors recognize that it is related to many factors — heredity, smoking and radiation, to mention a few. Obviously, a patient with an early undiagnosed cancer is unaware of it, and no reports have shown that he or she is a threat to other people. In other words, unlike TB, cancer is not "spread" from one person to another. Generally speaking, cancer is not "caught" the way an infection is.

Acetazolamide may control osteoporosis

A drug used to treat glaucoma and epilepsy may prove effective in controlling osteoporosis.

Alexander D. Kenny, chairperson of the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center Pharmacology Department, has conducted studies that show the drug acetazolamide is effective in blocking the enzymes that contribute to calcium loss in bones.

The degenerative bone condition osteoporosis affects 15 to 20 million Americans. Dr. Kenny said approximately 25 percent of older women and 17 percent of older men will develop osteoporosis.

"Hip fracture complications related to osteoporosis often result in a loss of independence for older people," Kenny said. "Some 50,000 older women and many older men die each year in the U.S. as a result of complications from those fractures."

Kenny has been working with acetazolamide for 15 years. His work with rats has shown that the drug will inhibit parathyroid hormone which draws calcium out of the bone.

Kenny has found that acetazolamide produces about a 50 percent protection rate from bone loss in rats with osteoporosis. Kenny said the most effective way to give the drug is by means of a continuous infusion using a small pump implanted under the skin on the rat's back.

"Not only does the pump deliver the drug at a constant rate, it produces the same results at a greatly reduced dosage," he said.

Kenny's research on rats has been supported by in vitro (in glass) laboratory experiments done in collaboration with his postdoctoral fellow Gary E. Hall. If parathyroid hormone is added to mouse bone in a lab dish, there is an increased amount of calcium released into the medium surrounding the bone.

"If we add acetazolamide to the same dish, the affect of the parathyroid is blocked," he said.

Kenny's work has also shown that acetazolamide will block the action of calcitriol, the active hormonal form of vitamin D.

While normal amounts of vitamin D are normally associated with strong bones, Kenny said toxic or excess levels of calcitriol will work to pull calcium out of the bones. Kenny said his laboratory is the first to show this effect of vitamin D can be blocked in vitro by acetazolamide.

Kenny's recent laboratory work has provided him with a major link in his research. It has long been known that acetazolamide blocks the action of the enzyme carbonic anhydrase, which is found in many organs of the body and the red blood cells.

"There has been some debate if carbonic anhydrase is found in bone, and if so, does it affect osteoporosis," Kenny said. "This in vitro work has allowed us to measure the enzyme in the bone and show that it is present in increased levels during calcium loss under the influence of these bone destroying hormones."

Currently there is no precise reason known why osteoporosis develops, but Kenny said there is a relatively effective treatment.

"A combination of weight-bearing exercise, such as walking, increased calcium intake in the diet and, in postmenopausal women, treatment with estrogen where indicated, has helped to prevent further bone loss," he said.
