Hi-Plains S&L under new charter

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

A new five-member board and a management team from a Houston financial institution will be guiding Hi-Plains Savings and Loan Association of Hereford, which was newly chartered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board on Monday. The board's action, with cooperation of the Texas

Savings and Loan Commissioner, was taken to protect depositors of the institution which was found to be insolvent.

A newly formed federal mutual association, also to be called Hi-Plains Savings and Loan Association, was established and it acquired the real estate and financial assets and liabilities of the institution, including the branch office in Dimmitt. Hi-Plains has been operating under state supervisory control since last April.

Rebecca Speece of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said Hi-Plains "had been reporting a negative net worth."

Speece and another spokesman, Doug Green, said business will continue as usual and deposits will still be insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC).

The FSLIC will issue promissory notes to Hi-Plains in return for income capital certificates to insure solvency.

All employees will be retained. University Savings Association of Houston will facilitate operations of the new Hi-Plains Association. University Savings is a state-chartered association with over $3.6 billion in assets.

Green said Houston managers "were just chosen for their depth of management experience."

Leading the new board will be John Kipp, a senior corporate partner of Gardere and Wynne, a law firm based in Dallas.

Other directors approved by the federal board are:

Bruce Shepard, chairman of the board of the Swan Company of Colorado Springs, Colo. He was appointed Federal Housing Ad-

County forms committee to tackle juvenile issue

By SHAWN COCKRUM
Staff Writer

The Deaf Smith County Commission decided Monday morning to form a committee to tackle the problem of juvenile detention in the county. The committee, consisting of County Commissioner James Voyles, Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher, and a member of the school board, will be asked to solve the problem the county now faces with juvenile law breakers and runaways.

Currently, Deaf Smith County juvenile officials take the youngsters to Amarillo for detention, but new federal regulations will be taking affect on Dec. 8, 1985, that will eliminate that alternative. According to the new standards, juveniles must be kept in separate facilities from adult prisoners. Some states have granted exceptions if a detention hearing is conducted within 24 hours for juveniles. The new federal guidelines allow for a juvenile to be held for up to six hours for identification and booking as long as the detention facility is certified by the juvenile board. The nearest such facility is in Potter County, making it unfeasible to take juveniles there, then have to release them six hours later for a trial.

The new committee will be looking into the alternatives available to the county and the feasibility of each. Some of the proposals will include constructing a new facility and inviting other counties in the area to use it in order to offset cost; using part of the courthouse and having personnel on call to oversee the juveniles; and continue to use Amarillo's facility.

The problem with using Amarillo's facility is that with the new guidelines more counties will be required to do the same, thus causing more overcrowding. Eventually, Amarillo would have to start turning juveniles from other counties away.

The new committee will meet with the county commissioners before

Dec. 8 to discuss their findings.

In other business the commission: Opened bids for the repair work to be done on the roof of the E.B. Black House. The commission will not announce who they will use to do the construction until after they have had a chance to research the builders.

Just coincidence

Four arrested on spy charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department's chief criminal lawyer says the arrest of four Americans on spying charges in five days is "just coincidence," and federal sources say no additional arrests are planned at this time.

Between midday Thursday and early Monday morning, a Navy counterterrorism expert and his wife; a retired CIA translator, and a former National Security Agency communications expert were arrested in cases involving alleged spying for Israel, China and the Soviet Union, respectively. And later Monday, the United States swapped convicted and suspected spies with Ghana.

"The three cases are not related,"

Assistant Attorney General Stephen Trott, head of the department's criminal division, said Monday of the arrests. "The timing is just coincidence, but it all stems from the FBI being really sharp out there."

He attributed the spate of arrests to a high FBI priority on catching spies coupled with increased counterintelligence budgets, new legislative tools to keep some information secret during public trials and a determination to deter others through prosecution. "The message is ... there is a price to pay if you mishandle information," Trott said.

He said he personally believed there were more spies, but added he could not prove that. He noted that all three weekend cases involved spying for money, but others have said ideology also may have played a role in the Chinese case.

One federal source, who asked not to be identified by name, said investigators have no plans to extend their virtual spy-a-day pace, but warned that events can spur unexpected arrests in spy cases, particularly when a suspect attempts to flee.

U.S. jets were on call during hi-jacking rescue in Malta

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy jets stood ready to protect a planeload of Egyptian commandos who were being flown to Malta to try to rescue the passengers of a hijacked Egyptian Boeing 737, U.S. sources say.

Fighters from the U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea were ordered to the Sigonella Air Base on Sicily, where they were prepared to intervene if any attempt was made by Libya or any other Mideast country to prevent the Egyptian forces from reaching Malta, the sources said Monday.

No effort was made to interfere with the commandos' flight Sunday, and the U.S. planes played no role in the affair.

Both ABC News and CBS News on Monday night reported the movement of American planes. A Pentagon official who demanded anonymity confirmed the move, saying it had been part of an effort by the United States to ensure that no one would interfere with Egypt's efforts to resolve the crisis.

According to another source who also spoke only on condition of anonymity, the carrier dispatched several F-A-18 fighters and E-2 Hawkeye radar planes westward to Sicily, which is south of Italy and just north of Malta.

The hijacking of the Athens-to-

Cairo flight with 98 people aboard began Saturday and ended Sunday night when the Egyptian commandos stormed the aircraft on Malta, where the hijackers had forced the plane down for refueling.

Fifty-nine people died during the rescue attempt when the terrorists set off grenades, and an American woman was killed prior to the attack, officials said.

The incident, which follows the hijacking of a TWA flight with mostly Americans aboard from Athens airport last June, called into question again the effectiveness of the Greek airport's security.

American officials will reinspect the airport to see if the Egyptair hijackers circumvented security systems that were rated satisfactory by Federal Aviation Administration experts just 10 days before the hijacking.

The Greek government suggests the hijackers' weapons were put on the flight at an earlier stop in Cairo. Greece claims passengers who boarded the aircraft went through five inspections.

Charles E. Redman, a State Department spokesman, said Monday, "We don't know how or when the weapons were placed aboard the Egyptair flight."

Following last summer's TWA hijacking, the State Department warned Americans to avoid the airport. But the advisory was lifted after improvements were made, and Redman said periodic inspections indicated security was satisfactory at the airport. The last visit by FAA experts was Nov. 13.

Asked about reports the hijacking was supported by Libya, Redman said, "We can't confirm the affiliation or the exact identification of the hijackers. I can only note that Libya has been implicated in terrorist incidents against Egypt which have been reported in the press."

The Reagan administration, though it lamented the death toll, endorsed the decision by Malta and Egypt to storm the hijackers. Private experts on terrorism called it a no-win situation.

"In retrospect it's all very easy to say, 'Oh, my God, three-quarters of the people lost their life,'" said Christine Helms, a Brookings Institution specialist on the Middle East and terrorism. "But in reality, it isn't clear-cut for people who were on the scene. ... What was unique about the situation on Malta was simply the action of the hijackers was much more threatening and lethal" than in other recent hijackings.

The State Department, meanwhile, has offered up to $250,000 in reward money for information leading to the prosecution of Mohammed Abbas, a Palestine Liberation Organization leader alleged by the United States to be the mastermind of the hijacking of the Achille Lauro cruise ship in the Mediterranean Sea on Oct. 8.

Brenda Barrett wins contest

Even though it was a picture of Roland Saul in his youth, almost every entrant in the Brand Photo Puzzle game recognized the criminal district attorney in last week's contest.

Brenda Barrett, 242 Juniper, won the $50 in Hereford Bucks when John Stribling, who happened by the Brand office, drew her name from the 156 correct entries. Only four people guessed the wrong person.

This week's puzzle started in Sunday's Brand and continues each day this week. Look for the pieces each day, put them together and mail or bring the puzzle and the entry form from Friday's issue to the Brand office before noon Monday.

This week's puzzle will be another easy one for most readers, but only one lucky winner will have his or her name drawn from the eligible entrants. Join the fun...you could be the winner of $50 in Hereford Bucks! (Brenda: come on down and collect your Hereford Bucks!)

Harris elected to succeed Easterwood as C of C head

school board member who discussed the possibility of forming an "Adopt-A-School" program in the community. Coneway said he was "only seeking an opinion" on the idea at this time, not a commitment. The board indicated it was very interested in the plan.

The purpose of the program is for organizations to act as "adopters" and provide support to the school system in a variety of possible projects. Coneway showed copies of how the program is set up in Austin, where the chamber sponsors the Adopt-A-School program in partnership with the school district.

In another business matter, Easterwood read a letter from school board president Marilyn Culpepper concerning the district's policy on employing teachers who reside outside the district. The chamber had sent a letter expressing dissatisfaction with the policy and asked for more information.

In her letter, Mrs. Culpepper said the information was presented at a recent board meeting and "the information is available if you want to see it."

Easterwood said the letter did not "answer the board's concerns" and he felt the chamber should pursue the matter. Directors agreed and authorized Easterwood to seek more information from the school board.

Texaco chief may not afford appeal

DALLAS (AP) — Texaco Inc. may not be able to post the bond necessary to appeal a jury judgment that is nearly $2 billion more than the company's stock market value, Texaco's president says.

Houston jurors awarded Pennzoil Co. a record-high $10.53 billion after a four-month trial ended last week, saying Texaco improperly gained control of Getty Oil Co. from Pennzoil.

An appeal of that judgment could require Texaco to post a $12 billion bond, a sum that Texaco President Alfred C. DeCrane Jr. said Monday is beyond the oil company's ability to pay.

The White Plains, N.Y.-based firm has a current stock market value of $8.6 billion.

Under state law, a defendant must post a bond equal to an award plus attorneys' fees and interest to appeal a judgment. Bond must be posted either in cash or liquid assets.

"If a $12 billion bond is required — Texaco doesn't have $12 billion and in my opinion, probably can't get it — then we'd have to look for some heroic measure, whether it's Chapter 11 or whatever," DeCrane told The Dallas Morning News.

State District Judge Solomon Casseb Jr. of Houston has scheduled a hearing for Dec. 5 to listen to attorneys' arguments on whether he should affirm the jury's verdict and award.

Texas housing recession over

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Home prices in Texas aren't likely to drop much more because the state may be rebounding from the housing recession, a Texas A&M University researcher says.

The number of new homes that sold this year in Texas rose from 19 percent in the first quarter to 26 percent during the third quarter, said Dr. Arthur Wright, a research economist with the university's Texas Real Estate Research Center.

"This suggests that houses are starting to sell better," Wright said Monday, also citing figures that show the price of houses sold has increased after a decline last year.

Cities with diversified economic bases such as Dallas-Fort Worth, Austin and San Antonio avoided the housing recessions, he said.

But the housing market in Houston and other cities dependent on the energy industry, such as Beaumont, Port Arthur, Corpus Christi, Midland and Odessa were hardest hit by the recession, he said.

Thousands of Texans — especially Houstonians — sold their houses for less than what they paid for them last year, he said. Cities in the Rio Grande Valley were hurt because of the devaluation of the peso and a hard freeze last winter that destroyed the citrus crop, he said.

$1.5 million left to tribe in will

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. (AP) — A bachelor attorney from Texas with a reputation as a loner, who believed he was part-Cherokee, has left $1.5 million to the Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma.

John K. Ford, a onetime Texas state legislator, died May 14, 1984, at age 71.

Cherokee Nation officials learned in January 1985 the Tahlequah-based tribe was included in the Odessa attorney's will. But only recently did the tribe learn the value of its inheritance, said spokesman Greg Shaw.

Ford also left $20,000 for his French poodle, Angel Fire, said Rae Nell Nimmo of Paris, Texas, a co-executor of Ford's estate. The 9-year-old poodle is cared for by a former Ford secretary in Midland, Texas, she said.

His will also included a total of $20,000 for his six surviving brothers and sisters and $5,000 each for 13 first cousins, she said.

"Mr. Ford was a loner," Ms. Nimmo said Monday. "Nobody knows all of Mr. Ford's business. It took a while to piece it all together."

The will left the tribe $500,000 in cash, a 500-acre cotton and grain farm with several producing oil wells, land in Dallas County, a $65,000 home in Odessa and another home and lot in Bogata, Texas, $10,000 in common stock in various Texas corporations and 2,000 shares of stock in Shelby-Panola Savings Associates in Carthage, Texas.

Commune sells Rolls-Royces

RAJNEESH PURAM, Ore. (AP) — Negotiations over the sale of the 29 Rolls-Royces owned by disciples of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh continued into the night at the guru's cash-poor central Oregon commune.

Texas car collector and dealer Bob Roethlisberger flew to Rajneeshpuram on Monday afternoon to buy the cars for an estimated $6 million.

Roethlisberger, owner of European Auto Group of Carrollton, Texas, spent several hours in negotiations with executives of the Rajneesh Investment Corp. An announcement of any agreement probably would be made today, commune spokeswoman Ma Dhyana Pujja said late Monday.

Randy Campbell, an associate at Roethlisberger's car dealership, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that his boss expected to pay about $6 million for the luxury automobiles, bought by disciples for the guru's use.

"That's a ballpark figure," he said. "We don't have any idea for sure what everything's going to be."

Yalena Bonner returns to Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Dissident Andrei Sakharov's wife, Yelena Bonner, returned to her Moscow home today from internal exile in the closed city of Gorky in preparation for her planned visit to Italy for medical treatment.

Guards barred foreign reporters from her apartment but confirmed that she was inside.

Soviet friends of Mrs. Bonner who were leaving her apartment as two American reporters arrived said she had come to the capital this morning and was "fine."

Earlier this month, Mrs. Bonner, 62, told relatives in the United States that she was being allowed to travel to Italy for treatment of eye and heart ailments. Her husband, the 1975 Nobel Peace Prize winner, has gone on hunger strike at least three times, most recently in August, in his battle to win permission for his wife to leave the country.

Mrs. Bonner has told relatives in the United States that she agreed not to talk to the Western press as a condition for receiving permission to go to Italy.

A militia captain outside the apartment door told the American reporters, "You will not be allowed inside." He refused to let them ring the bell and said he would not ask Mrs. Bonner if she was willing to talk to the reporters.

defector Vitaly Yurchenko, the KGB general-designate who fled to the West on Aug. 1 and then stunned this city by publicly returning to the Soviet Union three months later.

Sources said Yurchenko provided descriptions, although not the real names, that led the FBI to ex-NSA analyst Ronald William Pelton, 44, who was arrested Monday in an Annapolis, Md., hotel, and to ex-CIA covert agent Edward L. Howard, 34, who fled to Finland in September after being questioned by the FBI.

In federal court in Baltimore, the FBI disclosed that Pelton admitted he sold secrets to the Soviet Union.

The FBI said Pelton, who worked for NSA from November 1965 to July 1979, walked into the Soviet Embassy in Washington in January 1980, and volunteered secrets for cash.

The FBI said he was in financial trouble at the time, having filed for bankruptcy in April 1979. Sources said he had been fired by the NSA for reasons unrelated to these charges.

While at NSA, Pelton held top secret clearance and also was specially cleared to see closely held signals intelligence. The NSA is the nation's largest intelligence agency; it monitors foreign broadcasts, transmissions and telephone calls, breaks foreign codes and helps produce U.S. codes.

In an affidavit, FBI agent David Faulkner said Pelton told the FBI in an interview Sunday he met with KGB officer Anatoly Slavnov on several occasions from January 1980 through January 1983. Pelton admitted receiving cash from Slavnov several times, including a $15,000 payoff as a result of a trip to Vienna, Austria, in January 1983, according to the affidavit.

The Pelton arrest came on a day replete with spy developments in the capital:

—The United States concluded a spy swap with Ghana, allowing Michael A. Soussoudis, 39, a cousin of Ghana's military leader Lt. Jerry Rawlings, to return to Ghana while close to 10 Ghanaians "of interest to the United States" were allowed to fly to an unidentified African country. Soussoudis secretly pleaded no contest to charges under the espionage act and was sentenced to 20 years in prison, but that was reduced to time served since his arrest July 10, a Justice spokesman said.

His former lover, Sharon M. Scranage, 29, once a clerk in the CIA's Ghana station, who pleaded guilty to revealing the identities of CIA informants to Soussoudis, was sentenced Monday to five years in prison.

—Israeli officials, who demanded anonymity, said their government was investigating whether someone at their Washington embassy overstepped his authority in buying classified U.S. documents from Jonathan J. Pollard, 31, a Navy civilian counterterrorism analyst who was charged last Thursday with selling secrets to a foreign power, identified by U.S. sources as Israel.

—Pollard's wife, Anne Henderson-Pollard, 25, who was arrested Friday night, was formally charged before a magistrate with unauthorized possession of documents relating to the national defense. She was held without bail.

In addition to the Pelton and Pollard cases, Larry Wu-Tai Chin, 63, a former CIA intelligence analyst, was arrested Friday and charged with selling U.S. secrets to China since 1952 for more than $152,000, including information on communist Chinese soldiers taken prisoner in the Korean War.

Purdy guest speaker at MADD seminar

The Hereford Chapter of Young Homemakers of Texas sponsored a Mothers Against Drunk Drivers seminar Thursday evening.

Students and adults were present to hear Ira Purdy from Potter County MADD Chapter create a community awareness to the problem of drunk driving.

He presented many factual instances of children and families that have suffered losses as a direct result of drunk driving.

Purdy said, "Drunk driving is the most frequent committed violent crime in the nation. We can be successful in changing the laws, but if we do not change public attitude about drunk driving, the problem will not get better."

"The answer lies with each of us, if we do nothing, nothing will change," he concluded.

Anyone interested in acquiring additional information about MADD may call (806)373-MADD.

Young Homemakers attending the seminar included Melinda Henson, Kathy Matthews, Dalene York, Linda Ward, and chapter advisor, Mrs. M.T. Burelsmith. Guests of members were Sarah Lawson and Brenda Koenig.

The next chapter meeting was scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 5. The program entitled "The Family Looks At Christmas" will be presented by the Rev. Bruce Kochsmeier.

4-H Around the County

By DAVY VESTAL
County Extension Agent

4-H programs are off and running full stride through the winter months and approximately 175 active 4-H members are keeping stride for stride with the activities.

At the present time the 4-H county council, the executive group of county 4-H members are active in planning and county-wide 4-H Christmas party. The council has been active in holding parliamentary procedure training for club officers and the group is really enjoying their encounter with using these skills.

The 4-H Showmanship club involves around 80 boys and girls and they are in the prime of their year. The members are preparing for the upcoming stock shows and feel a strong desire to compete respectfully in the county and major show with their sheep, hogs and steers. The club also involves the bucket calf participants at which time there are 19. The calves are outgrowing the 4-H'ers but the 4-H'ers are enjoying their projects while they learn. The club met recently at the Community Center and demonstrations over preparation of beef pork and lamb cuts were discussed. Also, the club held time for entering stock shows.

The 4-H Horse Club is gearing up for snowy Santa weather. The club is getting involved in Christmas decorating and carolling while providing a service to Santa Claus. The club will be helping Santa deliver gifts with the reign horse sleigh. The club is preparing food gifts for the needy at both Christmas and Thanksgiving and providing fun for the Big Brother-Big Sisters program in Hereford as well.

The club held its regular monthly meeting recently at the Community Center. Dr. Steve Lewis D.V.M. presented a program over horse health and maintenance care. Thirty-seven people enjoyed the presentation at the meeting. The club will begin its horse judging program soon.

The 4-H Shooting Sports program grew this past year and is optimistic about its continual growth and interest. The adult leaders of the club plan to begin meetings and workshops sometime in December to prepare for the summer activities.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Ann Landers Genes DO matter

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am sick and tired of hearing people say, the minute they hear an adopted kid is in trouble, "It's in the genes."

This letter is to the woman who bore a beautiful son out of wedlock and made it possible for my husband and me to become parents. Our adopted son will soon graduate from high school and I want her to know how wonderful he is.

"John" is bright, intelligent and kind. He has always been an honor student and a source of pride. There have been so many times when I wanted to get in touch with you and say, "Look at what you have given us! Look at the joy you have brought to my husband and me, to John's aunts and uncles, his cousins, his grandparents and all who know him!"

People are quick to blame the genes when things go wrong. I wonder if they think about genes when things go right.

No one knows for sure to what extent a child's intelligence, disposition or temperament is inherited, but this boy has certainly turned out well. He must have had the "right stuff" from the very beginning. Thank you for making that brave decision 18 years ago.—ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Genes matter. Especially do they affect intellectual capacity and physical endowments. But the child who is reared with love, solid guidelines and a sense of personal worth has a much better chance of becoming a joy to all who know him.

Your letter is sure to make many birth mothers very happy. Thanks for writing.

GOLD SHOTS FOR ARTHRITIS

ATLANTA (AP)—Gold coins and jewelry are nice to have, but many people with rheumatoid arthritis prefer gold injections, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

It says injections of gold salts have been effectively used to treat this serious and crippling form of arthritis for more than 50 years. The injections can't cure rheumatoid arthritis, but they have been successful in controlling inflammation and putting the disease into remission in many people.

Gold injections are usually reserved for people who do not respond well to other treatments, because the use of gold poses several risks. However, in most people, the foundation says, the benefits outweigh the risks.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, center of the Los Angeles Lakers and the all-time scoring leader in the National Basketball Association, once had hopes of starring in another sport.

"I had hopes of replacing Gil Hodges at first base or Duke Snider in center field," he said. "Those were only dreams but to me at the time they were big dreams."

La Plata places third in 8th grade tourney

The Hereford eighth grade girls' basketball tournament concluded Saturday afternoon with Valley View winning the championship game and La Plata winning the third place game 34-27.

Borger White edged Dimmitt 26-25 to take the consolation contest.

In the semifinal games, Valley View defeated La Plata 29-26 and Canyon Purple beat Stanton 37-22. In consolation bracket games Saturday, Dimmitt scored a 25-15 win over Plainview Blue, and Borger White defeated Plainview Red 43-28.

The third place game between La Plata and Stanton was tied 15-15 at halftime, after Stanton had led 12-9 at the end of the first quarter.

La Plata then outscored Stanton 8-4 in the third quarter and 11-8 in the fourth quarter for the 34-27 victory over Stanton.

Two La Plata players scored in double figures—Cande Robbins with 11 points and Poppy Richardson with 10 points. Stacy White had seven points and Jill West scored six points.

"Jill came off the bench and did a real super job for us. Poppy and Cande played good games defensively," said La Plata Coach Brenda Reeh.

Stanton's leading scorer was Alicia Redmon with 15 points. Brienna Townsend and Linda Cera each had four points.

In La Plata's 29-26 loss to Valley View, La Plata led 7-5 in the first quarter but trailed 15-11 at halftime. Valley View went into the final period with a 23-17 lead.

"Even though we did lose, this was our first game where we had a total team effort," La Plata Coach Reeh said. "Libby Kosub played excellent on defense."

Stacy White scored 10 points to lead La Plata, and Poppy Richardson added nine points. Kosub scored seven points.

Stanton failed to score in the second quarter against Canyon Purple in dropping a 37-22 decision to the Canyon team.

Shonia Carpenter and Alicia Redmon each scored eight points for Stanton.

Texas-Arlington drops college football program

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The University of Texas at Arlington, citing worsening financial problems, has dropped intercollegiate football, it was announced Monday by school President W.H. Nedderman.

"A level of deficit-financing has been reached which cannot be continued," Nedderman told a news conference. "Thus, we have no choice but to immediately discontinue our most costly sport, football, and thus reduce our athletic budget by over $1 million a year."

Nedderman said UTA would continue to have a basketball program and that head football Coach Chuck Curtis' contract, which runs through December 1986, would be honored.

UTA joined the Southland Conference in 1964 and was 4-1 this season.

The Mavericks started playing junior college football in 1919 and became a senior college in 1959. Three years ago, UTA dropped from Division I-A to I-AA. UTA averaged less than 5,600 spectators per game, with their biggest crowd coming on opening night with 7,205 fans.

"For the past 10 to 15 years, our financial condition in athletics has gradually worsened," said Nedderman. "Despite our best efforts, costs have continued to escalate faster than income."

The school faced a large deficit, despite several sources of income, Nedderman said.

"This year, with funding of over $800,000 from student service fees, in addition to income from ticket sales guarantees and the Maverick club, we face a deficit of approximately $950,000," he said.

Hank Sauer, while playing for the Chicago Cubs in 1954, hit 13 home runs against Pittsburgh to set a National League record, which later was equaled by Joe Adcock of Milwaukee.

HUBIE'S TIRADES
NEW YORK (AP) — Hubie Brown, the coach of the New York Knicks, is famous for his outbursts at erring players.

Darrell Walker, a Knick guard in the disastrous 1964-'65 season, insists the only thing a player can do is listen and not say anything when Brown opens fire.

"I don't take it personally," Walker said, "because if you do you are going to be upset all the time. I try to take Hubie's criticism in a constructive way and sometimes let it go in one ear and out the other. But you do have to listen to what he's talking about."

Patient died of infection, starvation

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An 87-year-old nursing home patient was on a deadly diet of 600 calories a day while at an Autumn Hills convalescent home, a physician has testified in a murder-by-neglect trial.

Elnora Breed needed at least 2,000 calories a day to fight off infections and to maintain her weight, said Dr. William Steffee, a specialist in internal medicine at St. Vincent Charity Hospital in Cleveland.

But Steffee told the court a doctor had ordered the 600-calorie daily diet before Mrs. Breed entered an Autumn Hills nursing home in Texas City in October 1978. She died Nov. 20.

"The meaning of this diet is that it's deadly. It's guaranteed to kill. If this diet is never altered, it'll kill Elnora Breed. It'll kill me. It'll kill you," he said.

Steffee's testimony Monday came in the murder trial of Autumn Hills Convalescent Centers Inc. and five of its current and former employees.

They are charged in the death of Mrs. Breed, who died 47 days after she entered the home.

The defense claims the elderly woman had a long history of cancer and that she died of the disease.

Earlier witnesses testified the nursing home staff should have called Mrs. Breed's doctor and questioned the 600-calorie daily order.

Steffee said the order eventually was questioned and after 41 days Mrs. Breed's daily intake was increased to 1,500 calories.

Steffee, an expert hired to testify for the state, said he based his findings on a review of the nursing home's records of Mrs. Breed's stay at the facility.

He said the records showed she had been hospitalized in September

1978 for a urinary tract infection. Her nutritional status when she was discharged into the nursing home, he said, "was stable with very few reserves."

To battle the infection, he said, her body had to "consume itself."

He said bedsores Mrs. Breed developed at Autumn Hills required even more calories to fight off infection.

"From your review of the record of Mrs. Breed's 47 days at Autumn Hills nursing home, did you reach a conclusion as to what caused her death?" prosecutor David Marks asked.

"My conclusion is that Elnora Breed died of overwhelming infection and starvation," Steffee said.

The nursing home records, he said, reflected Mrs. Breed showed all the classic signs of starvation.

She had severe fluid retention, loss of weight and diarrhea, he said.

Under cross-examination, Steffee refused to agree with defense attorney Tom Sartwelle that Mrs. Breed suffered from cancer while at Autumn Hills.

"There is a possibility that she had recurring cancer, but based on my review of the record, it was an unreasonable possibility," Steffee said.

Steffee conceded that extensive tests conducted in April 1978 that showed no sign of cancer were not totally conclusive.

Sartwelle pointed out hospital records showing Mrs. Breed was uncooperative during some of the tests, hampering their outcome.

Steffee also said he is not an expert in oncology, the study and treatment of cancer, and that he was basing his opinion strictly on his background in internal medicine.

Hurricane damages Florida panhandle

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A series of hits and near misses by hurricanes may be doing more damage to the Florida Panhandle's reputation as a tourism destination than to the health and property of its residents.

"The Panhandle is getting a bad reputation as 'hurricane alley,'" said Buddy Carroll of Bayly, Martin and Gay, a Tampa insurance company with Panhandle tourism clients.

That reputation could grow if a historic pattern of hurricanes hitting the same geographic area for a period of four or five years holds true.

"We've now had 1983, 1984 and 1985 with hurricanes doing weird things on the Gulf Coast," said Bob Haywood, meteorologist in charge of the National Weather Service station in this Florida Panhandle city. "So there is a very definite possibility we are in a cluster of several years of Gulf Coast storms. And next year could have more storms on the Gulf Coast than even this year."

Four hurricanes have threatened or struck the Gulf Coast from Louisiana to the Florida Panhandle this year, one of them twice. Some Panhandle residents Monday were still picking up the pieces from the last one, Hurricane Kate, which cut a swath of destruction from coastal Panama City to inland Tallahassee last week.

The prospect that 1986 may bring more of the same has many people in the tourism industry worried.

"You've had three potentially bad storms and the whole world knows about them," Carroll said in a recent interview with the Playground Daily News of Fort Walton Beach. "Somebody came up with 'hurricane alley' and, like whiplash, it's a catchy phrase people remember and know they don't want it."

Most tourist-dependent businesses insure against revenue losses in addition to property damage. But many policies allow compensation for revenue losses only if there is property damage as well.

Although property damage has been relatively light, the Panhandle's two largest resorts, Sandestin near Destin and Bluewater Bay near Niceville, estimated revenue losses of $400,000 and $125,000 respectively from Hurricane Elena which wiped out the Labor Day weekend, usually one of the biggest of the year for tourism.

Elena forced one evacuation in the Panhandle when it headed straight for the coast out of the south. Residents returned home when it veered to the east, but they barely had time to unpack before Elena did a U-turn and forced them to flee again.

On the return trip, Elena sideswiped the Panhandle coast and South Alabama with hurricane-force winds, but the eye didn't make landfall until reaching the Mississippi coast.

"We were dead for two weeks after Elena," said Peter Bos, owner of Sandestin. "Convention planners canceled reservations right after Labor Day, expecting the place to be a mess."

It wasn't a mess but the planners cannot take that chance, he said.

No evacuation was required at Bluewater Bay because it is inland. But Richard A. Lumsden, Bluewater's resort operations director, said news of a hurricane anywhere in the vicinity scares away travelers.

In mid-August, Hurricane Danny had pounded the Louisiana coast, which was hit by Hurricane Juan in late October. Juan spawned tornadoes in Florida as it stalled over Louisiana. It then moved east, finally making landfall on Halloween at the Alabama-Florida border after reducing in strength to a tropical storm.

DR. GOTT

Joint problem temporary

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — If an adult had Osgood-Schlatter's disease as a child, how can he or she keep from having knee problems? Do running or biking aggravate it? Would surgery be needed if the knee became irritated enough?

DEAR READER — It is my understanding that Osgood-Schlatter's disease is a temporary nuisance confined to growing children. Adults do not have problems with it. In general, bicycling is much easier on anyone's joints than is running. Even youngsters with Osgood-Schlatter's usually can bike without much discomfort.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What are the inherent merits and disadvantages of undergoing hiatal hernia surgery in which a silicone-filled, doughnut-shaped collar is implanted around the esophagus? Is there a particular profile of the type of person who would benefit more from this method?

DEAR READER — I am not familiar with the technique you describe. Surgery for hiatal hernia ordinarily involves tightening the opening where the esophagus passes through the diaphragmatic muscles. I believe that most surgery is oriented toward a particular disorder, not a personality type.

To give you more information on hiatal hernia, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on the subject. Other readers who want a copy should send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this newspaper to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on HIATAL HERNIA.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've had bad burning in my lips and tongue, and now my vagina is burning, too. I've been in the hospital for 10 days for a sickness in my lower intestines. They gave me very strong antibiotics. I've tried Tagamet and rinsing my mouth with Maalox. Should I try another doctor?

DEAR READER — The use of antibiotics can allow yeasts to overgrow in the mouth, intestinal lining and reproductive tract. You may have a low grade monilia infection that would respond to Mycostatin mouthwashes and vaginal tablets. Ask your doctor about this.

Tips listed for families caring for stroke victims

If you're trying to help someone recover from a stroke, here are some important tips to remember:

(1) Consult with therapists as soon as possible to assess the extent of the damage. Set realistic rehabilitation goals, then see that rehabilitation is started as early as possible.

(2) Try to realize that neither nor you nor the patient is to blame for the trying episodes that may occur or the emotional upsets stemming from the illness.

(3) Be aware that indifference or resignation can be worse for a patient than anger or irritability; keep encouraging your family members in trying to build his or her confidence.

(4) Talk frankly and regularly with the doctor about mental changes or other conditions that concern you. Your doctor can help you arrange physical, occupational, speech or even psychiatric therapy as necessary.

(5) When it's time for the patient to come home, make sure that necessary household adjustments are made, such as installation of handrails and wheelchair ramps, and that troublesome obstacles are removed.

(6) When long-term at-home care is required, divide duties and responsibilities so that the full burden doesn't fall on any one family member.

Friends often want to help but need direction from the family. Numerous home-care services are also available to take part of the load. Ask your doctor or a hospital social worker about them.

(7) Be active participants in the patient's therapy and exercise program, not merely observers. Therapy benefits covered by Medicare or other insurance may run out before recovery is complete, and private-pay therapy is very costly, so learn the procedures yourself.

(8) Take concrete steps to build the patient's overall health and prevent another stroke through proper nutrition, good health habits, drug therapy described by the doctor and avoiding risk factors such as smoking and undue pressures.

(9) Don't be discouraged. Keep working toward specific goals. Recovery of lost neurologic functions generally can be expected within six months after a stroke.

(10) Don't regulate the patient to the sidelines or leave him with only television and radio for company.

Don't forget to count your blessings when tempted to complain. Don't forget that more gratitude can be expressed in one loving deed than in endless flowery speeches.

Merchants, students, church to provide dinner for poor

SAN JUAN, Texas (AP) — Thanksgiving Day will be a paradox for thousands of poor families across the state, just another day without enough food. But in the Rio Grande Valley, where the unemployment rate hovers around 20 percent, students, business and church leaders will provide food for about 200 of the most needy families.

"We know it's just the tip of the iceberg, but it's something," said Chris Villareal of the Catholic Villareal of the Catholic Charities Program.

Students at McAllen High School and the Pharr-San Juan-Alamo Consolidated High School have been collecting non-perishable canned products the last several weeks. Residents have been urged to take canned goods to local convenience stores.

Other merchants will provide loaves of bread. A grocer will provide chickens for the main course and a packing shed will donate boxes of tangerines, Ms. Villareal said.

The collecting of canned goods and helping the needy during the holidays is nothing new. Churches, the Salvation Army and other relief agencies across the state provide meals during Thanksgiving and Christmas.

But in the Valley, area churches and agencies provide assistance throughout the year and some church workers say it takes a holiday to reinforce the fact that many families will not have enough to eat. Thousands of farmworkers and employees of packing sheds lost their jobs after a December 1983 freeze caused more than $100 million damage to the citrus industry.

Devaluations of the Mexican peso also have caused many businesses, dependent on Mexican shoppers, to lay off employees or close their shops.

The latest unemployment figures showed that the McAllen-Edinburg-Mission area had the highest jobless rate in the state at 21.8 percent. Behind that area was the Harlingen-Brownsville area at 14.9 percent. The state average is about 7 percent.

The average income is about $7,000, below the national average and the family sometimes includes up to eight children.

Ms. Villareal said that volunteers at the Catholic-sponsored program will pick up the food and distribute it to the families on Wednesday.

Labor, opposition parties criticize trade decision

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Labor and opposition parties Monday criticized President Miguel de la Madrid's decision to begin negotiations on membership in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

But prominent businessmen and private analysts hailed the decision as important to open up the nation's economy which is highly protected from foreign goods.

"It is the only long-term option for the economy," said Ignacio Trigueros, director of economic research at the Mexican Autonomous Institute of Technology.

The government late Sunday announced that de la Madrid had issued instructions to Commerce Secretary Hector Hernandez Cervantes to start talks that would lead to entry in the 90-member trading organization, known by its initials as GATT.

Mexico is one of the few big, free-market economies outside the organization, which sets trade rules and negotiates trade-expanding arrangements.

De la Madrid "adopted the decision after taking into account the national economic problems," according to the announcement carried by the government news agency Notimex.

Mexico depends heavily on the sales of its petroleum to bring in revenues to pay its $96.4 billion foreign debt and buy food and other needed goods.

But falling oil prices and sluggish demand have cut into those revenues this year. Sales of non-oil exports also have been weak, but purchases of foreign goods have grown.

The statement quoted de la Madrid as saying, "We cannot isolate ourselves from an increasingly interdependent world.... It is proper that (Mexico) participates in the multilateral forums for negotiations."

to be able to adapt to a more open economy. Unable to compete with cheaper foreign goods, they contend, the companies will have to shut down.

Proponents of GATT membership agree that some companies will have to close if they don't become more efficient, price their goods competitively and improve the quality of their products.

"Those businesses that cannot adapt to the new structure of prices will have to close," said Trigueros. "But it is very difficult to say what businesses and how many."

They say the inflow of foreign goods will force industries to become more competitive, reducing prices and improving the quality of products. In addition, more goods will be available from other countries.

The overall effect, they say, could be a higher standard of living for Mexicans and a lower inflation rate.

"The consumer wins if industry adapts and prices in general drop because of increased competition," said Javier Murcio, economist at the private forecasting firm of Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass.

BASKETBALL
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Maurice Podoloff, the first commissioner of the NBA and also a former president of the American Hockey League, has died at the age of 95.
 In 1948 he was named president of the Basketball Association of America, the forerunner of the NBA, and a year later devised professional basketball's first college player draft.

 He retired as NBA commissioner in 1963 and was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass., in 1974. The Podoloff Cup, the NBA's most valuable player award, is named for him.

 Judge Alvin Oser suspended all jail terms for the three, who had pleaded guilty to conspiracy in a plea-bargain that included testifying for the prosecution in the case.
 Sentenced were Bobby Thompson, a little-used point guard; and students Mark Olensky and David Rothenberg.
NEW YORK (AP) — Alex English of the Denver Nuggets, who scored 54 points in a game last week, was named National Basketball Association Player of the Week by the league.
 English, a 6-foot-8 forward, edged center Mark Ag
