NEW YORK, Oct. 15. (AP)—Eugene C. The negotiations were completed last year. The consummation of the merger has been bitterly opposed by Cyrus E. Eaton and others.

Home Town Talk by Betty

Midland may not have the best football team in the district but she has by far the best high school band.

Thanks to a faithful few, including some high school pupils and some local men who have taken off from their businesses and played at all games here this year, there has been that necessary added color—band music—in the grandstand.

But we have no regular high school band. We have no band at all with uniforms and complete equipment.

Just thought we'd mention it. Midland afforded the high school kids some good entertainment and also put over a smooth sort of "rubbin' it in" stunt by sending its 50-piece uniformed high school band over here today.

This may not sound so good to some of our people who have a deep-rooted "Midland complex." However, the best way to outdo a rival community is just to outdo it.

We do realize, though, that having a fine band is not a badge of excellence for any city, in itself. It just sort of shows that a town has a lot of pride and can, figuratively speaking, parade before the world and make a hit.

We heard a hot talk today from Tiny Reed at the Kiwanis club luncheon. You would have thought Tiny still was a college boy to hear him. He said some good things.

In one respect, however, we did not agree with him entirely. The great benefit to a town in having a championship high school football team is not the "advertising" it gets. No business man, except in a few lines such as hotels, cafes, etc., that must care for game crowds, benefits directly.

The great benefit from a championship team simply is having a championship team.

In fact, one of the worst influences against proper handling of high school athletics is the high-powered publicity that has accompanied it in Texas in the past decade. A boy ought not to have to see his name in print a lot to make him proud he's on the team. Being on the team and doing his best there, whether the world knows it or not, is sufficient. But it is nice to tell the world in temperate terms just what you've got.

Another thing, perhaps betting on high school football is growing to great proportion, but that should not be charged against high school athletics, as a component part of public education. You can't keep people from gambling if they want to gamble and there would be gambling just the same if there were no high school football teams. The thing to be guarded against in this connection is preventing betters from talking with players about how much odds they've given on 'em and things like that.

When it gets out of bounds, schoolboy football players come to be looked upon by the very persons who bet as just robots that are placed on the field to go through a contest for the benefit of the wagerer; just like a race horse or terrapin in a derby.

Nope. The fact that there always is some money changing hands after a football game shouldn't be charged against the game of the players or the school or the coach.

Japan Opposes United States At Conference

But League Decides To Ask Nation To Take Part In Parley

GENEVA, Oct. 15. (AP)—The League of Nations council reported tonight that it had decided to ask the United States to participate in the discussion of the Manchurian trouble despite Japanese objections on judicial grounds. The decision was announced informally after a meeting of the representatives of the five principal powers. The full council then began a private meeting.

TOKYO, Oct. 15. (AP)—The Japanese foreign office today instructed the league of nations delegation to use every effort to defeat the proposal to include an American representative in the league council during the discussion of its Chinese trouble. Officials felt that the Japanese public would not tolerate America working with the league in an affair which was considered as affecting only Japan and China.

The Japanese spokesman said that there was a tremendous difference between American keeping informed as an outsider and actually participating in the league activities. He said that previous notes from the United States had not been published because of the fear that they would stir up an anti-American feeling.

The note from Secretary Stimson asking that the league assert all possible authority, and that the trouble at once be considered as "unreasonably harsh by the Japanese."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—The state department regarded the Japanese position against American participation in the Manchurian discussion as the result of a misunderstanding. It was informally explained that the sole desire of the United States was to keep Japan and China from resorting to war. There was no desire on the part of the state department other than to see the controversy settled. There was no question as to whether or not the previous expression of willingness to participate in the discussion would be withdrawn or not.

Last Dollar Of 30-31 Per Capita To Schools Sent

Warrants for payment of the last dollar of the per capita apportionment to schools for the 1930-31 school year are being mailed this week by the state department of education, according to letters received by superintendents and school depositaries.

Payment of one dollar per capita less one-half the amount of assessment for county administration expenses, will likely be paid counties with elective county superintendents by November 10. The state superintendent, whose estimates local school officials declare have been accurate for the past ten years, estimates the $17.50 per capita apportionment for the coming school year will be derived from these sources: more than five dollars from gasoline tax, $1.50 from cigarette tax, almost one dollar from sulphur tax, another dollar from gross production tax and other occupation taxes, almost one dollar from poll taxes, at least $2.50 from income from the permanent school fund, leaving less than six dollars to be derived from the state ad valorem tax.

"If the new taxes are overestimated, it may be said that other sources are underestimated," writes S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent. "The state will meet her obligations and if there will be any default it will be on the part of the local districts."

Cotton Pickers May Be Sent From San Antonio For $2.50 Per Adult

Truck men in San Antonio are ready to transport cotton pickers to this section at $2.50 per adult if growers will agree to pay for the trip on arrival, the pickers agreeing that this cost may be taken from their wages.

That is the message wired from the government employment office in San Antonio to the Chamber of Commerce here.

Those wishing cotton pickers on these conditions should call at the Chamber's office.

Midland Grid Special To Leave Friday, 12:30 P. M.; More Tickets Must Be Sold To Assure Service

Time of departure of the football special to Midland Friday is 12:30 p. m. George Gentry, high school principal, announced Thursday. "That is, he said the train would leave at 12:30 if it leaves at all. Late Thursday morning the 250 eighty-cent round-trip tickets required to obtain the special had not been sold. There remained several seats not reserved. More than fifteen were sold at conclusion of the Kiwanis club luncheon at the Crawford, most of them having been turned over to Prof. Gentry for use of school children. Mr. Gentry urged purchase of tickets by all those who can possibly go to the game, as well as by those who will spend eighty cents to send some boy or girl to help root for the Steers. At high school assembly this afternoon Midland high school's 50-piece uniformed band played a concert. The visiting musicians were accompanied here by Supt. Lackey of the Midland schools, as a contribution to raise enough enthusiasm to fill the special train to capacity and as a token of friendly rivalry between the schools. Tickets may be procured from high school offices, Cunningham and Phillips No. 1, Petroleum Pharmacy, Cunningham and Phillips Hotel Store, or from any of a number of students who are selling

Seventy Cents To Be Allowed For Compress

Final Agreement On Rate From Big Spring Being Reached

A compromise was reached Thursday afternoon at Austin between railroads, compresses and port interests at the hearing on railroads' application for reduced rates on cotton from inland points. The Herald was advised by C. T. Watson, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, who is attending the hearing.

Mr. Watson's message said that a new schedule for compressing based on shipping charges would be arranged. The Big Spring to port shipping charge will be either $3.50 or $3.75 per bale, a definite figure to be determined later in the day.

Compress allowance here will be 70 cents per bale, said Mr. Watson. He said much interest was being shown in the hearing.

The original application of the T&P for new rates between Big Spring and Houston, Galveston or Texas City asked for a flat rate of $3.25 per bale for uncompressed cotton and $3.55 for compressed cotton, allowing a 30-cent per bale compress allowance and making compressing entirely optional. Heretofore railroads have insisted that cotton be compressed before shipment.

The existing rate is 89 cents per hundred of $4.45 per bale of 500 pounds with a compress allowance of 18 cents per hundred.

AUSTIN, Oct. 15. (AP)—Three hundred persons sought the ear of the Texas railroad commission to tell it that should the railroads be granted a freight rate reduction to haul cotton the producer in the interior would reap a marked benefit, and to caution against a compress allowance that would put inland compresses out of business.

Failed to Agree

Representatives of the railroads and compresses sought to agree on a reasonable charge for compression to be absorbed by the rate the railroads would charge for hauling the cotton but that had not been effected and the hearing was started with the two interests in opposing positions.

It was proposed to make the rates on cotton compressed in transit 30 cents per bale higher than the uncompressed rates out of which rates compression not exceeding sixty cents per bale would be absorbed by the railroad company. Compress interests said this proposed absorption was not enough.

W. L. Clayton of Houston, member of the firm of Anderson, Clayton and company and J. H. Kemper of Galveston, president of the Galveston cotton exchange, were the principal witnesses. Both said they believed the railroads were entitled to reduced rates to enable them to retrieve some of the business they had lost to truck competition.

Seek Par With Trucks

The railroads had sought a reduction to put the rates on a par with the trucks. Clayton estimated that 90-percent of cotton originating at non-compressed points as far as Austin from the Red River to the Texas coastward was transported by trucks. He stated he believed the railroad's application should be granted to permit them to recover this business.

He said he could not say what the allowance for compression should be, but it should not exceed the transportation economy created by the handling of compressed bales rather than flat bales.

He urged that should a reduction be advisable it be granted soon, "because the crop was moving freely." He said the charge should be reduced from $1 to $1.50 per bale.

Boon To Producer

"In view of existing low prices such a reduction would prove to be a boon to the producer," Clayton stated. "If the transportation charge from West Texas should be $3.50 instead of $4.50, that would mean an advance on the interior markets of $1 per bale to the farmer."

Kemper said the entire rate structure on cotton had been destroyed by truck competition. He said he believed the railroads as "civil builders and tax payers of magnitude," were entitled to support in an effort to retrieve their business.

Steers Ready To Resume Football Warfare With Midland, Lapsed Since '22

Westward Ho! will be the cry tomorrow at 12:30 p. m. as the fans make ready to board the special train being run by the T & P railroad to Midland for the Steers-Bulldog football clash which will ring up the curtain on the conference season in District 4.

Renewing a rivalry discontinued in 1922 the '31 edition of the Steers and their opponents will be met with very little memory of the contests of bygone years will start making history on its own account Friday when the whistle blows for the kickoff at 8:00 p. m. on the Lackey field in Midland. The black and gold clad warriors are fully determined to uphold the winning streak of former Big Spring eleven against the Midlanders and to give the Barrymen an introduction into class A football that will long be remembered by the Purple and Gold.

Boasting a team, said by many old timers to be the greatest to ever represent the local high school on the gridiron the Steers will go into the fray favorites. This fact however, has not caused the locals to work this week with a feeling of overconfidence. The fighting qualities of the Bulldogs are well known and the Steers realize that whatever the score the game is not over until the final whistle, and until that whistle blows the Doggies will be right in there fighting.

It is a matter of pride with the Steers that their goal line has not been marred by the cleats of opposing gridirers during the pre-conference games and the locals will fight doubly hard to emerge from the first conference game with their record unbroken.

Captain Barry and his assistants, Lingo and Henderson, have built their machine for this year around line lettermen, Burris, captain, and quarterback and McCall at end have each had three years experience. Booth, Hallman, Midkiff and Pinell have two years while Hawkins, Roberts and Sherrod are one year men.

The big scoring threat of the Dogs is Burris. He is a fast, shifty man who has been dealing much misery to Bulldog opponents for the past three years. The brunt of the Midland attack will be on his shoulders.

Pinell in the line at a tackle position is going to give the Steer forwards something to think about during the afternoon. The rangy linebacker is especially good at diagnosing plays and has the eye of a hawk when it comes to following the ball.

Hallman and Midkiff in the backfield are fast men but should find the Steer forward wall just a shade hard to crack. The dogs will rely not on power plays through the line but will try to keep the Steers with runs, and go over the Steers with short bullet-like passes. While the local pass defense has not been all that it should be the coaches have worked hard on that one phase of the game during the week, and few passes should find waiting arms during the game Friday.

Everything taken into consideration the contest Friday will be second to none witnessed by local fans during the current season.

Lost Ugly Fat Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unburdened her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:—

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she had lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last, when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way. I have enquired of my dressmaker my measurements, which in August last were:—Bust 40, Hips 48 1/2, Waist 33 1/2 inches. Last week they were:—Bust 35, Hips 40, Waist 31 inches, which is normal for my height, which is 5 ft. 8 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."

for the year. Personally we cast our vote for the Bovines.

The Sweetwater Mustangs following the Abilene game have been taking things easy in the Nolan county corral. No practice at all was held by Coach Hennig during the week but things are picking up now for the Ponies will take the field in earnest next week when they open the conference season with the Colorado Wolves. We really hate to say what the outcome of this encounter is going to be.

With four teams in action this week the percentage column of the district will read as follows Sunday morning:

Team	Played	W	L	Pct.
Big Spring	1	1	0	1.000
San Angelo	1	1	0	1.000
Midland	1	0	1	.000
McCamey	1	0	1	.000
Sweetwater	1	0	1	.000
Colorado	1	0	1	.000

The second and third string Steers had a nice game all by themselves yesterday p. m. The honors for the afternoon's work were about even with some neat playing being done by both squads. The regulars were divided into two pep squads, one side led by Forrester and the other by Schwartz and the cheering was all that could be desired. Judging from the yells echoing through the southeastern part of town we would say that Vastine and Reed were the stars of the day.

The spirit of the Steers is at its peak and personally we see nothing but a tough afternoon in store for the Doggies tomorrow. Now of course if it should rain, and if Dennis, Flowers, Hebeson and Hopper and Co. should not get into the struggle the Bulldogs would stand an even chance of coming out on top of the fray. Judging from the latest reports however, from the Steer camp the best of everything is the way of football talent will trot out to face the Midlanders on Lackey field.

The opening whistle will find Coots and Forrester at the end positions, Hopper and either Sanders or Roberts taking care of the tackle berths. Orr and Hildreth will stop them at guard, with Dyer hurling the ball backwards. The four galloping Steers in the backfield will be Dennis, Hebeson, Schwarzenbach and Capt. Flowers.

This scribe is going to be right on the sidelines when the ball starts rolling tomorrow aft and we are going to be a greatly disappointed

$2,000,000 In Road Building To Be Placed Under Contract

AUSTIN, Oct. 15 (AP)—State highway road and bridge construction aggregating slightly in excess of $2,000,000 will be placed under contract at a meeting of the Texas highway commission October 19 and 20, according to a schedule of projects released by the highway department.

The commission also will take steps to place the law requiring contractors to pay common laborers a minimum of 30 cents per hour into operation. Notice was sent to all contractors that they would be required to file statements with their bids showing the wages that would be paid for common labor on the project upon which the bid was submitted. The statement will be in the form of an agreement whereby the contractor will be bound to pay the wage stipulated.

In its notice to contractors, however, the commission did not set the minimum at 30 cents per hour. It was anticipated the contractor by mutual agreement would determine this figure as the minimum common labor wage.

Failure of the contractor to file the supplementary agreement or abide by it will be sufficient to declare him irresponsible, the commission stated.

The program called for improvement of 242 highway miles, including 150 miles of road base work and gravel and other types of surfacing; 91.8 miles of grading and drainage construction and 20 miles of concrete paving.

It will be the smallest amount of awards made since September, 1930, when the federal government allotted $2,000,000 additional federal aid to Texas if placed under contract by September 1, 1931. All the $2,000,000 was used.

Use Of Vaccination

THE warning that large parts of the United States are in danger of epidemics of smallpox—a warning recently given the American Public Health Association by a Metropolitan Life Insurance company expert—comes as a surprise to a nation which had supposed smallpox a disease that had been conquered.

The trouble, it seems, is that in many neighborhoods there is still a strong public sentiment against vaccination. It is precisely in these neighborhoods that smallpox is most prevalent. It is noteworthy that the most thickly populated eastern states had the fewest cases of the disease.

Vaccination offers a sure method of fighting smallpox. Any community that makes an intelligent and determined use of this method has little to fear. But any community that refuses to use it is flirting with danger.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

George V Carries Force

IT IS CUSTOMARY to regard the king of England as a royal figurehead, with no actual power and useful only as a symbol of the unity of the British Isles and the empire. For the most part, this is clearly true, but now and again the king steps out of this ornamental role to undertake a more aggressive task.

Just now King George V is turning the weight of his prestige against a general election, which inevitably would throw into confusion the efforts of the national cabinet to balance the budget and protect the gold reserves of the nation. And because of his peculiar position, above any political party, the king possibly will be able to forestall any partisan moves of Tories or Laborites to make political capital of the present crisis.

Like the kingly Von Hindenburg in Germany, the English sovereign finds his greatest political strength in the fact that normally he is not politically active. On the rare occasions when either of them enters a political controversy, his arguments have extraordinary weight.

As his predecessor Edward VII, by skillful diplomacy brought France and England closer together in the early years of the century, so George V assumes a wider function in this national crisis, and justifies the confidence which his subjects repose in the monarchy. So long as kings are as tactful and loyal to the best interests of the state, that long monarchy will remain an established institution, despite its anachronistic position in a democratic, industrial age.

SAM
BY FREEMAN LINCOLN

SYNOPSIS: Sudden riches descend upon Sam Sherrill through the success of her stepfather's invention. She has had a hard pull managing the family affairs. Her mother left her control of the property, because the poor business ability of her stepfather, Fourth Alderson, reduced the family to poverty. Sam realizes now that her engagement to Peak, owner of the Express where she works, is not what she needs. She loves Freddy Minton, but accepted Peak's offer of a businesslike marriage because of the need of money and because her stepbrother, Nelson, hurt their social prestige by marrying their maid. She has been slow to believe in Fourth's invention, fearing that he got the money from a rich widow who is interested in him. Nelson is also suspicious, doubting the invention's value. "Are you sure that this invention is on the level?" he asks Sam.

Chapter 21

ONE SMALL PROMISE

"Yes, Nelson. I had the same idea, myself, at first, so I asked Peak to investigate. He says it's on the level."

"That darned invention—can you beat it? Do you remember how we used to laugh about it?"

"I do." She smiled. "It rather looks as though the joke were on us after all."

"When Sam got home to the stable, Fourth led her into the living room. He was carrying a check.

"I have here," he announced, "a little gift which I have been meaning to give you for some time. I warn you, however, that it is given only under certain very definite conditions."

"Money for me?" Sam smiled.

"Fourth, how wonderful. What are the conditions?"

"The conditions are that you are to spend every cent of it on clothes for yourself. Not only that, but you are to spend every cent of it in one day. Every penny must go between the rising of the sun and its next setting. Do you agree?"

"Do I agree?" Sam laughed. "I never agreed to anything more readily."

"Good." Fourth nodded and dropped the check in her lap.

Sam picked up the check and glanced at the figures on its face. Then she gasped.

"Fourth!" Sam waved the check in a sort of panic. "Why this is a perfectly enormous amount of money! This is more than I spend on clothes in a year. You must take it back."

"Nonsense!" Fourth was tremendously pleased with himself. "We have plenty of money now, and I intend that you shall begin to realize it." He waved an admonitory finger. "Remember now. You've promised to spend it all in a single day."

Sam, of course, said the thing was impossible, and that she would never be able to go through with it.

"Spending money is a habit," said Fourth with a grin, "but it's one which is very easily acquired. Something tells me that you'll learn rapidly. At any rate you must give it a try."

Sam gave it a try the next day, and she found that Fourth had been right. She seemed to have a talent for spending money. It flowed from her hands swiftly and without the slightest pain.

"When, at last, she returned to the "Nonsense!" He scowled and the color deepened in his face. "I think about myself constantly. I hardly ever think about anything else, as a matter of fact."

"Really?" Sam was pleasantly skeptical. "Are you thinking about yourself when you advise me to break our engagement? From what you've said about your feeling for me, I should say that you were thinking about anything but your own interests."

"Quit it, Sam!" said Peak almost angrily. "Quit trying to make me out a little tin god. You'll find out soon enough that I'm not."

"I didn't say you were a little tin god. I just said that you weren't exactly selfish."

"Selfish is just what I am! I'm not anxious to know that I've ruined your life. I tell you to think carefully, and I mean it!"

"All right, Peak. Let's not quarrel." She smiled. "I'll promise to think carefully—but not for a while. For a while I'm going to have myself a good time. By the way, do you think you could find some one to take my place on the Express?"

"Why, I think so." He stared. "Do you really want to give it up?"

"Yes."

"That's strange." He was frankly surprised. "I thought you said—"

"I know what I said, but that was some time ago. I'm not the same girl anymore. I've changed. You have no idea." She nodded brightly. "And now, if you don't mind, we won't talk about serious matters any longer. From now on, I'm going to have a good time. Do you understand, Peak, I'm going to have an utterly foolish but perfectly splendid good time!"

An utterly foolish and perfectly splendid good time was just what they had. When they finally arrived at the front door of the stable Sam was utterly exhausted but still thoroughly happy.

She said: "It's been wonderful. Peak. Think of something gay for us to do tomorrow night, will you please? I have another dress that I want to show the world."

"Another dress?" He tried not to look at her. "Well, I only hope it isn't any more of a mess than the one you have on. This one doesn't please me, and not only me. I could see every other man in the place looking at you. It isn't decent!"

"Really?" She was childishly delighted. "Good! That's just what I want to have happen. I'm sick and tired of being decent. You'd better look out, Peak—I'm warning you!"

Engene Fry's visit to Sam, tomorrow, brings Sam bewildered and worried. Why does Engene need Sam's help?

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—The army is to lose its "Flying Parson," that friend of the militia bureau, Maj. G. Everson.

General Everson is going back to his pulpit. His resignation, already in the hands of the war department, will take effect December 1 of this year. He is to become pastor of the First Baptist Church of Denver.

The general is believed the first preacher-soldier ever to reach high executive duty in the army. He left the church in Muncie, Ind., to take over the job of chief of Uncle Sam's militia in 1929.

His fondness for using the airplane in his work won for him the sobriquet of "The Flying Parson."

During the past two years he has flown more than 100,000 miles in visiting national guard encampments.

Toured The Nation
Everson brought new ideas to his job at the war department. From the start his notion was to get his headquarters out into the field where he could meet his officers and soldiers face to face.

"I don't want them to write me," he was fond of saying. "I prefer to sit down with them and talk things over. Then I'll know what to do when they write."

And evidently the parson had the right idea. He was able to say when he tendered his resignation: "Never was the national guard more thoroughly organized, equipped and trained than it is today."

General Everson, seriously went about the job of touring the nation. He contacted the officers of the guard and state officials everywhere. In the summers he would visit the national guard encampments. His two-starred flag was seen frequently. And it flew not from an army plane, but from national guard ships manned by national guard pilots.

"Flying Parson's" method of showing his faith in his men.

Preached On The Side
And he did some preaching on the side too. Often announcements would go out from Baptist churches in Washington:

"Major General William G. Everson preaches tonight."

Perhaps there would be added: "He comes from the First Baptist Church of Muncie, Ind., where he did great work and was known as 'The Flying Parson,' as he used the airplane often in his work."

With his brother officers at the war department Everson was popular. They all liked him. Probably it was because he's been through the mill of soldiering from private to sergeant major, from chaplain lieutenant to brigadier of the line.

Iowa-born young men constitute 83 per cent of this year's University of Iowa football squad.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Dr. Jago Goldstein
Sprains

Any mechanism in the body subjected to an excessive strain may become strained or sprained.

Thus an athlete in a rowing contest may strain his heart. Wrestlers and those doing exacting physical work may suffer a strain of the muscles.

Commonly, however, it is our joints that suffer most from strains and sprains.

Except when the strain is slight and the injury mild, it is poor economy to deny oneself medical help. Neglect may lead to permanent deformation of the affected joint with marked limitation in the movements.

It should be borne in mind also that sprains sometimes cause chipping of the bone with an overgrowth of new bone and consequent deformity.

In injuries of the wrist, elbow and ankle particularly x-ray examination is desirable.

A common association with sprains is swelling in and about the joint.

Technically this condition is known as synovitis, or an inflammation of the synovial membrane which lines the joint.

The function of this membrane is to oil the joint by secreting a fluid. When the membrane is injured it reacts by an excessive secretion. Hence the swelling.

Each type of sprain requires its particular treatment. In general, however, the injured joints benefit by being wrapped about with wads of spongy cotton, on the outside of which is applied a fairly tight bandage.

Exercise is usually desirable, but the joint should not be used during the early stages of recovery. Thus, if the knee joint is involved the leg may be bent at the knee while the patient is sitting, but he should not attempt to walk about with the full weight of his body resting on it.

Gentle massage in the vicinity of the injured joint will help in reducing the swelling. Heat and the application of liniments will reduce pain.

Delegates To State Convention Report To Meeting of Local WCTU

Mrs. J. R. Creath Elected Vice-president from Christian Church; Members to Take Part in Campaign Against Election of Wet President

The W.C.T.U. met Wednesday afternoon at the First Methodist Church with the president, Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas, presiding. Mrs. Holmes led the devotionals.

Mrs. J. R. Creath was elected vice-president from the Christian Church. The president appointed a committee composed of Mrs. Stripling and Mrs. Holmes to secure vice-presidents from the other churches.

Mrs. Holmes, director of the department of Press and Publicity, reported that through the cooperation of the Daily Herald, she was able to contribute every Tuesday an article on "Enforcement—Not Repeal." Mrs. Davis, director of the departments, "Social Service and Red Letter Days" and "Christian Citizenship," reported that she was appealing for support of Prohibition in the coming presidential election.

Mrs. J. M. Choate moved that the radio speech of President Hoover to the International Association of the Chiefs of Police, now meeting in the 38th annual convention at St. Petersburg, Fla., urging vigilant backing by the public, be given whole hearted endorsement. The motion was carried unanimously.

Report Convention
The delegate, Mmes. Stripling and Miller, gave reports of the 50th annual state convention recently held in Austin. They reported over 200 delegates and that Mrs. Claude Van Watta, state president, had said, "The poor wets are in a muddle, first crying for a mug of beer, then state's rights, then personal liberty and now for beer to end the business depression. The poor wets are like the road sign which reads, road slippery when wet." Mrs. Mary Harris, the W. T. C. U. evangelist, stated that if beer could end the depression, she wondered why Germany was suffering from one; "evidently we cannot drink ourselves rich;" also that the activities of the Woman's Association for the Revision of the 18th Amendment, of which Mrs. Sabine is president, was comparable to but one group, the Barmaths Union of Australia.

The delegates reported a very enjoyable time at the Governor's mansion and that Mrs. Ross S. Sterling was a lovely hostess, also that honorable mention had been given Mrs. Holmes in the convention for her column in the Big Spring Daily Herald.

Sign Pledges
The members signed pledges for a state campaign fund, the money to be used in strengthening the determination of the public against a wet president.

Mrs. Davis announced that the Big Spring Society for the Support of the 18th Amendment, sponsored by the national organization, the Allied Forces for Prohibition, and endorsed and supported by the local W. C. T. U. would hold a get-together meeting at the First Methodist Church on the evening of Oct. 27 at 8 o'clock.

Those attending were Mmes. Clyde E. Thomas, E. T. Stem, George W. Davis, W. R. Settles, Fox Stripling, W. A. Miller, C. S. Holmes, Pete Johnson, J. M. Choate, C. E. Talbot, W. A. Shaw, Pearl Hardcastle, H. L. Fulton, W. H. Shaw, Jr., D. F. Painter, L. S. McDowell, J. R. Creath, Emma Felton Davis, M. A. Berry, J. M. Manual and the following children: Ray Thomas, Lawan, da Jane Shaw and E. T. Stem, Jr.

Mrs. Allgood's Weekly Letter

Corn May Be Served 85 Different Ways; Facts And Recipes Given

More than 85 different and inexpensive ways of serving corn meal have been collected and developed by the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture. In addition to these there is a smaller group of recipes for the various kinds of hominy, which is the name for whole or ground corn after the bran and germ have been removed.

Since cereals occupy so important a position in the low cost dietary this information is of most value to persons whose food budget is limited, says Mrs. Loucille Allgood, home demonstration agent.

Any one food, which must be eaten frequently, is bound to become monotonous unless the manner of serving it is varied, the bureau's experts say. This is especially true of cereals which have so little flavor in themselves. But when they are combined with other more highly flavored foods, cereals can be used in many ways. In fact they may serve as a breakfast dish or as a dessert as well as being the base for many appetizing main dishes for the dinner or supper.

Corn vs. Maize
Corn might be termed America's own cereal for it is native to this hemisphere. Other English-speaking countries use "corn" to designate all cereals in general and speak of "maize" when they mean the "corn" which the first settlers in this country learned, from their Indian neighbors, how to grow and prepare.

Although wheat is more generally used for making bread, many delicious breads and cakes can be made from corn meal and hominy. And as for cost, corn preparations are among the most economical of the common foods.

Two pounds for five cents is the average price per pound by bulk for both corn meal and hominy in most parts of the country. When packaged, the price is usually five cents or more per pound.

Hominy and corn meal can be served as a breakfast cereal that will satisfy even the most rigid devotee of the "stick to your ribs" school. The bureau suggests varying the usual methods of making corn meal mush by baking it sometimes, and on other occasions by cooking it with buttermilk or cheese.

The Italians are especially fond of this latter method, calling their "polenta." Polenta is often reheated with tomato sauce, a left-over meat gravy, or a savory sauce made from pork, bacon, or sausage, and served as the main dish of a meal. Fried corn meal mush is too well known to need comment.
