"DON'T DIG YA DAD" say John Gilliland and Durward Jacobs, at right, to Stanley Fuhrmann. The three Hereford High School seniors will represent their school in the Texas University Interscholastic League state literary contests in Austin this weekend. Fuhrmann, explaining a math problem at the blackboard, will compete in number sense. Although Gilliland and Jacobs can't make sense of number sense, they were successful in making bids for state honors in extemporaneous speech and original oration at regional contests in Odessa recently. IN CITY ACTION

Hike Police Chief's Pay; Buy Weather Instruments

Hereford Police Chief Henry Aycock's monthly salary was increased from $440 to $500 by the Hereford City Commission Monday night.

The $60 monthly increase came about as result of a request by John Douglas Pittman, who attended the meeting as an interested citizen. "As Aycock in his role as police chief is a credit to Hereford, I feel that he is entitled to the salary increase," Pittman told the commission. After a study of salary rates in other cities, the commissioners approved the increase.

In other business, the commissioners approved the purchase of instruments to be used in weather reporting at Hereford Airport.

City Manager Dudley Bayne said the purchase of the two instruments, wind direction and wind velocity indicators, would serve a two-fold purpose. It would inform officials for forecasting purposes and would help in the operation of the airport, he pointed out.

Readings from the instruments will be radioed to Amarillo Weather Terminal. Cost of the instruments will be about $120, Bayne said, but he added that he would further investigate prices of instruments from other companies.

The sponsorship of four members of the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department to the annual 10-day fire-fighting school at Texas A&M, which will begin in the near future, also was approved.

The board agreed to pay travelling expense of the four to College Station and to give each $100 to offset any loss of salary in absence from their jobs in Hereford.

Formerly, the firemen attending the school received only $50 and travelling expenses. The commissioners felt that since the firemen attend the school for the protection of the city, they should not suffer salary loss.

Local Scouts Win Camp Honors

Hereford Boy Scout Troops placed high in judging during a three-day Camp-O-Ree at Camp Don Harrington last weekend.

Troop 52 of Hereford placed first in the camping division. Fred Ruland is Scoutmaster of the troop.

In overall judging, Troop 66 of Canyon took first place, while Troop 52 of Hereford and Troop 54 of Black tied for second and Troop 50 of Hereford placed third.

Ask 'Whittling' As Junior High Renovation Bids Soar

Whittlin' sessions were authorized by the Hereford School trustees Tuesday night after bids on several Stanton Junior High renovation projects went higher than had been anticipated. Board members opened bids on eight separate items during the meeting, but were distressed over the proposed cost. Total cost figured Tuesday night was about $72,000, which is about $11,000 more than funds which have been earmarked for remodeling the three-story brick building.

School superintendent Fred Cunningham and consulting architect Herbert Brasher of Lubbock were authorized to contact other contractors and suppliers this week, with the aim of reducing the estimated costs.

In several instances, only one bid was received. Taking separate bids for repair work would be cheaper than a lump-sum bid, Brasher had told the board in an earlier (Continued on page 2)

County Retains Norman Miller As ROW Agent

Norman Miller of Dawn Monday was hired by the Deaf Smith County Commission to act as right-of-way purchasing agent for the expanding U. S. Highway 60 east from Hereford.

Miller was charged with acquiring right-of-way on farmland and town lots in Dawn. Purchase of farm and town improvements will be handled separately.

Commissioners authorized Miller to start making contacts Tuesday on a tentative basis, since contracts and state documents are not ready at this time.

He is to be paid $100 per week, or $20 per day if he works less than five days per week, plus 10 cents per mile for travel.

The court also agreed to meet each Monday until further notice to discuss right-of-way purchasing progress and plans for the new county jail and courthouse renovation.

Judge Homer E. Henslee told the court that Amarillo architect John P. Work expects to present first detailed blueprints for the jail and courthouse remodeling in about two weeks.

The court also authorized the purchase of an air conditioner for the library, replacing one which is inoperative.

McWhorter Is Head Of Grain, Feed Dealers

D. C. McWhorter of Hereford was elected president of the Panhandle Grain and Feed Dealers Association at the association's 43rd annual convention Tuesday in Amarillo.

McWhorter said this year's convention attracted the largest audience of any convention in the past. He said 397 persons attended the annual banquet and dance Monday night.

Assisting McWhorter during the coming year will be Don Riffe of Stratford, who was elected vice president, and C. W. Fletcher of Amarillo, who was named secretary-treasurer.

New directors are Cone Donelson of Kerrick, Walter Frazer of Groom, Fred Dines of Amarillo, Russ Daly of Plainview (Continued on page 2)

Robinson Files Appeal On Suit

Former Hereford city employee W. E. Robinson filed a motion Monday in the Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo requesting that his case against the City of Hereford, in which he is seeking $22,500 for alleged permanent and total disability for performing future manual labor as result of a back injury he received in April, 1958, be scheduled for a rehearing.

Last week the Amarillo court affirmed the case, in which 69th District Judge Harry H. Schultz sustained the city's motion for summary judgment here on Sept. 13, 1958.

Robinson, 54, cited that he injured his back while lifting a heavy barrel last April while working for the city. Losing the case in Amarillo April 27, Robinson this week asked the court to reconsider the case. Chief Justice E. L. Pitts in Amarillo affirmed the case in the first appeal.

3 Students To Compete Around Town In State Literary Events

When these gals set their minds to something, you'd better clear the road, 'cause they're coming' through! For evidence, just look at the picture at right. The B&PW Club really put on a first-class show and had a fine ticket sale in advance.

Mrs. Tom Carter is getting things organized for the Clean-Up Drive. She has called a meeting for Thursday, May 7, at 10 a.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office. Attending will be representatives of all local women's clubs, who will divide the town into sections and contact every resident personally about cooperating in the drive to spruce up the city.

Theta Rho girls will have a "42" party at 8 p.m. Saturday, May 9, in the Lodge Hall on Sixth Street. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Stanton Junior PTA will sponsor a bake sale Saturday, May 9, at Cooper's Market, starting at 9 a.m.

A new Cub Scout Pack will be organized by the First Methodist Church on Thursday. (Continued on page 2)

Jay Fortenberry Rites Wednesday

Jay M. Fortenberry, 39, died about 3:30 p.m. Monday in Deaf Smith County Hospital after suffering a heart attack at his home about 30 minutes earlier.

Mr. Fortenberry, who had lived seven miles north of Hereford on U. S. Highway 385, was brought to the hospital by Kreig-Marcum Ambulance.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday in the Central Church of Christ with Russell Ingalls, minister, officiating.

Burial was in Rest Lawn Cemetery under direction of Kreig-Marcum Funeral Home.

Serving as pallbearers were Pete Caldwell, E. Ramey, Clint Homfield, Raymond Higginbotham, Floyd West and Chester Wiggins.

Mr. Fortenberry was born Sept. 22, 1919, in Floyd County, Tex., and was married to Miss Melya Rea on June 3, 1942, in Albuquerque, N. M. He came to Hereford in 1948 from Amarillo.

sense, Durward Jacobs in original oration and John Gilliland in extemporaneous speech.

The trio recently made their bid for state honors by winning first places in the regional contests at Odessa. Jacobs and Gilliland will compete in Austin Friday and Fuhrmann will vie for honors Saturday morning.

This will mark the first year that Hereford High representatives will have competed with 1-AAA schools only. Formerly, representatives here competed with both 1-AAA and 4-AAAA schools.

Making the trip with the three boys will be James Garner, high school mathematics instructor, and Carroll Hickey, speech instructor at the high school.

Herd Takes Win Number 4 In 14-12 Blast Over Dumas

Hereford won a wild ballgame from the Dumas Demons there Tuesday, 14-12, to set the stage for their final diamond tilt of the season.

The win gave Hereford a 1-2 record in conference 1-AAA, the same as Dumas. That leaves the league-leading Levelland Lobos still in front 2-0 with road games at Dumas Friday and at Hereford next Tuesday.

Victories by the Demons and Whitefaces would throw the district into a three-way tie, with just three teams participating. Tuesday's game was certainly a switch from the teams' first meeting, when Al Taylor pitched a no-hitter for the Demons. It was certainly no pitchers' duel this time, as Dumas used three pitchers and Hereford four during the contest.

It looked like a repeat performance of the first game, as Dumas jumped off to a strong lead with three runs in the first and two in the second, while the Herd was limited to one hit.

A walk, an error, a double and a triple gave the Demons three runs in the first. A single, a walk and a sacrifice were worth two more in the second. (Continued on page 2)

AA Works For Sobriety, A Day At A Time

(Editor's Note: On Sunday, May 3, about 150 members of Alcoholics Anonymous chapters throughout the Panhandle met in Hereford. A Brand reporter attended this meeting and talked with a large number of those attending. Although their names have been withheld, all told substantially the same story. The works and aims of this "exclusive club" are explained in the following story.)

BY DAN MUDD
BRAND STAFF REPORTER

A few Hereford residents with a common goal banded together six years ago to form perhaps the city's most exclusive group.

Today, the group claims the best attendance record of any organization in Hereford and its members probably put forth as much or more effort to reach their goal.

Claiming this ideal record, the average citizen probably would be startled to know its members are former irresponsible men and women who have good jobs and families but were unable to conduct their own lives — they are alcoholics.

Alcoholics Anonymous in Hereford was started by a businessman who moved here in 1952 and placed a small classified advertisement in the Hereford Brand announcing the time and place of an AA meeting.

For six months, that man was the only person who was at the meeting place at the specified time.

Then, as the businessman had expected, two problem drinkers hesitantly came to one of the meetings. They continued their weekly attendance, and later helped in recruiting others to future meetings.

AA membership in Hereford today totals 10 men and women, far less than the estimated 500 alcoholics in Deaf Smith County, according to national figures reduced proportionately.

As the fellowship is not a "promotion", the alcoholics are limited in means of contacting problem drinkers to help them achieve sobriety.

"We'd like to have all the alcoholics in the county attend our meetings," one alcoholic said. "But the first step that one must take is to admit that he is powerless over alcohol. Due to lack of reasoning with themselves, few refuse to make that admission."

AA is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism. The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking.

It is not a club, and there are no officers or dues or fees for AA membership. It is self-supported through their own contributions and is not allied with any sect, denomination, political group, organization or institution. "AA is not a cure or a cure-all," another alcoholic said. "We are not a religious or temperance movement, and at our meetings we do not stand over 'witches' brew."

Local membership is made up of businessmen, civic leaders and others who have at one time reached their psychological or physical "skid rows" of life. They are ex-drunkards, but still alcoholics, as one AA member said.

Another alcoholic said the members all have the same problem in their "allergy" to alcohol. But when they were "active drinkers", their personal actions varied greatly. Many of them never reached the Delirium Tremens stage, but their drinking problem was considered just as serious as it was leading them down a long road to nowhere, the common problem of the alcoholic, he said.

"Before I went to an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting," an AA member said, "I had tried through doctors, psychiatrists and the clergy to solve my problem, but they tried to use fear as the basis for trying to make me stop drinking."

"I was even told that it would lead me to Hell. But being a problem drinker, I already knew what Hell was like and probably was no longer afraid of it," he said.

"Then I went to an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting, and (Continued on page 2)

Exchange Students Talk To Optimists

Joelle Tillier-LaRoche, Hereford High School exchange student from Royan, France, and Eugenia Alexander of Hereford, who was an exchange student in Denmark for six months, were guest speakers at the noon meeting of Hereford Optimist Club Tuesday.

Miss LaRoche discussed her country and compared it to America. The educational program includes five years of primary school and seven years of high school. She said the DeGalle government has a great deal of power, but is not a dictatorship. Communists are included in a considerable portion of the population of the country. In Bridgett Bardot, she quipped, American boys have low ideas of French girls. She said

Departments which will be represented include homemaking, shop, vocational agriculture, science, English, mathematics, library, language, art, commercial and social studies.

At the end of the first hour, the high school stage band will present a 15-minute concert and the homemaking department will sponsor a style show. The speech and choir departments will entertain during intermissions of the style show.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS
SYDNEY — A California lawyer, his wife and four children have come to Australia as migrants and full-time chicken farmers.

They are Edwin Saunders, his wife, and their children Linda 11, Donna 5, Robert 3, and Theresa 11 months.

"I had a general law practice in Los Angeles, but chicken raising has always been my relaxation," Saunders said. "I raised 10,000 chickens in my spare time at Sonora, near San Francisco."

Saunders said the family would live in Brisbane, raise chickens, and manufacture poultry equipment.

Clams, scallops and oysters that have been removed from their shells are often labeled "shucked."

Through.... Hike Pay.... Herd....

(Continued from page 1) two words from another alcoholic started me on my road to recovery. Those words, simply, were: "I understand." Surprisingly, it was pointed out at a recent area meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous in Hereford, the picture of a "skid row drunk" represents only one out of every 10 alcoholics. The other nine are those with responsibilities, homes and families to raise.

A local AA member said 87 1/2 per cent of all alcoholics, who attend the meetings eventually achieve sobriety. Fifty per cent, he said, make it without having any slips, 25 per cent make it with one, two or three slips and 12 1/2 per cent are mentally incapable of grasping the steps to becoming an ex-drinker.

He added that hospitals, ministers, doctors and psychiatrists each are able to help one per cent of all alcoholics they try to help. The best counsel to a problem alcoholic, he said, is another alcoholic who has learned to "conquer the bottle."

Through meetings held each Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at 1003 Union in Hereford, alcoholics who have gained sobriety continue their attendance to keep themselves reminded of what they were at one time and what they are since they stopped drinking, a charter member of the fellowship said.

They meet in a house rented by the group, and contributions are from members only. No outside contributions for operational expenses are accepted by AA. There are no mandatory contributions forced on members, and the alcoholic may even decline to contribute money if he wishes.

The meetings are conducted by alcoholics only. Members from time to time make voluntary speeches to other members and tell of their experiences during their "drinking days."

Although a member may give the same speech several times, it does not become boring to his audience of alcoholics because it reminds them, through the grace of God, they are no longer the problem drinkers that they once were, an AA member said.

Speakers usually begin their speech by giving their given name and last initial and saying, "I am an alcoholic." To keep their personal anonymity, they are known by their given names only at open meetings. They hold three closed meetings and one open meeting every month.

"My wife and children voluntarily attend the open meetings," a local alcoholic said. "Before they started attending the meetings, they could not understand why it was hard for me to keep from drinking alcoholic beverages when I knew I really didn't want to drink. They understand now."

The only difference between the open and closed meetings is that a speaker attempts explaining his craving for alcohol to non-alcoholics at the open meetings, as it is often difficult for them to understand his problem. "At the closed meeting, the speaker's audience of alcoholics understands the craving, and there is no need for explanation," an AA member said.

The fellowship urges its members to conduct their lives as an alcoholic on a day-to-day basis. It is difficult for an alcoholic to say to himself, "I will never drink again," an alcoholic said. "Instead, the AA member wakes up in the morning and says to himself, 'I will not drink today.'"

"It is just a lot easier for us to say we will not drink for a day than to say we will never drink again." The local AA has received increased cooperation from various welfare and professional groups in Hereford from the start. When the non-alcoholic group comes in contact with an

The commissioners approved the furnishing of office space in the City Hall to be used by mothers interested in the project. From the office, incoming and outgoing phone calls will be conducted by the mothers, and when the new Hereford Community Center is completed, office space will be available there for the mothers.

Wilson said the request came from the representative of a group interested in the project. He said the group did not ask that the commission underwrite the project, but requested that the commission cooperate in the program.

Bayne was asked by the commissioners to study the possibility of installing pay light meters on the tennis courts on Park Ave. If installed, the meters would furnish light for tennis players during night hours at 25 cents per hour.

Only one bid was received for exterior cleaning and repair, on new toilet partitions, painting, plumbing and electrical work. Two bids were received for installing resilient tile flooring, two for acoustical tile ceilings and three for supplying and installing ceramic tile in dressing rooms, rest rooms and corridors.

Brasher also included estimates for extra labor and carpentry costs, hardware, mill-work and venetian blinds. Also to be included in the total cost is the architect's fee.

Brasher and Cunningham were asked to make a report on their revisions, and contacts at a board meeting on Tuesday, May 12.

The board spent about two hours discussing the bids and trying to figure where estimated costs could be cut. Next Tuesday's meeting should be a busy one. Also slated for the session is bid-opening for furniture items.

Bids have been asked from a number of suppliers for eight classrooms of furniture for the northwest elementary school, five classrooms of furniture for the new addition to Stanton Junior High, and furniture and place settings for 400 persons for the new cafeteria.

Brasher reported that work had resumed on the northwest elementary school after a delay of several weeks caused when brick did not arrive on schedule. He also told the board that work was progressing at a faster pace now on the new junior high addition and combination cafeteria - administration building.

Hereford closed the gap with four runs on no hits in the third. Five walks, an error and a passed ball did the trick.

Dumas made it 6-4 in the last of the third on Bill Shaha's homer, and stretched the margin to 11-4 in the fourth. The five runs were picked up on three walks, a single, a double and two errors.

It was 11-7 mid-way through the fifth as Hereford chalked up three tallies on four errors, a walk and two singles. Dumas made it 12-7 in the last of the fifth with a single, a stolen base and an error.

In a big sixth inning, Hereford got in front 14-12 and hung on to win. The White-faces scored seven runs on six hits, two errors, a walk and a passed ball.

Ronnie Botkin walked to open the inning and Dan McDowell doubled him home. David Baldwin grounded out before Eddie Burgin singled in McDowell and went to second on a passed ball. Joe Sherman struck out, Carter got on by error and Donnie Renfro doubled in Burgin. Jimmy Collier then pounded out a three-run homer. Ken Clearman singled and went to second on an error before Botkin singled him home.

Pat Robbins blanked the Demons in the sixth and Wake Northcutt cut them off in the seventh, as Hereford got its fourth win of the season. Clyde Whitaker started on the hill for Hereford, going one and two-thirds innings. He gave up five runs, three hits, struck out one and walked four. Donnie Marcontell relieved and hurled three and a third stanzas, taking credit for the win, his first of the year.

Marcontell allowed seven runs, four hits, walked three and struck out two. Robbins took over in the sixth after Marcontell was lifted for a pinch hitter. He allowed no runs, no hits, struck out none, walked one. Northcutt worked the seventh, striking out one and walking one.

Al Taylor worked two and two-thirds innings. He allowed just one hit, four runs, but walked seven while striking out six. David Porter hurled three and one-third innings and was charged with the loss. He gave up nine hits, ten runs, walked three, and struck out four.

Duck Cariker worked the last inning, walking one and striking out two.

TUESDAY WELD '16 Going On 30'

It Pays To Be Talked About

By VIVIAN BROWN

"People can make you popular by talking about you," says blonde, 16-year-old Tuesday Weld who says "the only time a Hollywood starlet should worry is when they say nothing. I'd rather have them say something."

She says she has been called: "A child woman," "The next Marilyn Monroe," "A fiery Brigitte Bardot," "Jayne Mansfield," rear view."

"Sixteen, going on 30."

"But these references do not distress me," insists the voluptuous starlet, who could give any glamor girl a run for her money.

Tuesday has been in three movies, her latest with Danny Kaye in "The Five Pennies." She was born on Thursday, two days late, which accounts for her name, she says. Her hobby is "philosophy."

"I love to write philosophy stories—my thoughts, emotions, conceptions, sort of Freudian type excerpts. But I don't

ALL'S NOT ROSY, BUT

Women's Golf Is Picking Up

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

All isn't peaches and cream and only about a dozen players make expenses or better on the tour, but women's golf is picking up. It now is in about the same class as men's golf was back two decades ago, when Fred Corcoran started pushing it into the big money class.

Corcoran is business manager of the Ladies PGA these days and it isn't difficult to see that he's the fellow giving women's golf the boost it so sorely needed a few years ago.

The girls of the links will share my philosophy. Each must find his own. Our ideas change as we grow. They must, otherwise we would get static, and it's no fun to be static."

There is no danger of Tuesday becoming static, she assures with her infectious smile and merry laugh.

She has many beaux, but "I like the gentlemanly type," she says, "though they should be rugged. I don't like yes men. And I prefer a man with a wide scope of interests—horseback riding, electronics, history. I like to learn things from men."

That's how Tuesday became fond of pool, a game she loves.

"I don't see why more women do not play pool," she says. "They bowl, ski, fish and skin dive. Why do they frown at pool?"

Many young girls ask Tuesday's advice about Hollywood. Is it worth it? Should they try for it?

"I tell them to stay home," Tuesday says.

Why? Because it's not all glamor, fun, gay life, she says.

"It's a great strain, even giving an interview to the press," she laughs.

If you still insist on trying your luck in movieland, she says, remember there is enormous competition, and that you'll need a good drama coach and no matter what you've heard to the contrary: the wolves are still there.

"As a matter of fact, they're hanging from the trees," laughs Tuesday who says that though "some are fun, you must know how to handle them."

"Oh, yes," she adds. "And don't forget to take your mother with you."

Tuesday began her career modeling for Harry Conover at age 2½. At 6 she was a television performer. She is an accomplished singer and dancer. She depends on swimming, dancing and other activities to keep her weight down.

She explains: "I just can't lie on the floor in the morning kicking my legs around for exercise even though I gain weight easily."

play about 30 tournaments this year and they'll be shooting for over $200,000—the largest purse they've ever had dangled before them. The tournaments pay from $6,000 on up and in some of them the prize money ranks with that in the men's tournaments.

The richest tournament is the $16,000 event being put on at Mt. Prospect, Ill., in July: Alliance, Ohio, is staging a $12,500 tournament. Summit, N. J., is putting on one with $12,000. The fourth largest, moneywise, is the Dallas Women's Open that wound up last weekend. It offered $10,000.

Time was when the men pros were tickled pink to get a $10,000 tournament.

Interest is growing in women themselves are doing a good selling job. The golf manufacturers are promoting clinics all over the country where the girls show the would-be pros how to play.

Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kans., the current president of the Ladies PGA, says the basic purpose of the golf tour is to interest women in playing the game for health and fortune. And some of the girls do mighty well financially. Which is the reason there are more on the tour this year than ever before. There are 33, with four new ones being added only this year.

A checkup last year showed a dozen girls made expenses or better on the tour and this is prize money they win in tournaments and does not consider what some of them get from clubs and golf equipment manufacturers. Louise Suggs, winner of the Dallas Open, makes about $85,000 a year. She wins part of it and is paid the remainder by manufacturers of golf equipment and ladies clothing.

Miss Suggs says it takes about $400 a week to pay expenses, meaning that if she plays in 30 tournaments this year her outgo will be about $12,000. But Miss Suggs lives more expensively than most of the others.

Betsy Rawls, another top winner and money-maker, says the average cost is $200 a week. Miss Rawls has earned over $6,000 in prize money in 3½ months. So she is winning over twice as much as she has to spend.

Some of the other girls say they can, by watching the pennies, make the tour first class on $150 a week.

There are a half-dozen girls on the tour who seldom get in the money. They have their troubles meeting expenses because a girl who doesn't win can't get a contract with a manufacturer that will pay her enough to defray her costs. That discourages many of the women amateurs joining the tour.

But the increased purses and movements like that of the Dallas Open—tournaments paying the girls on the tour something if they fail to finish in the money—more of the amateurs are going to try their hands at the pro game.

The Dallas Open next year will guarantee $100 for each girl who fails to get into the money and is hoping other golf sponsors will adopt the same plan. The golf leaders figure it's a good investment—it will mean larger and better fields for their tournaments.

Sunday Deadline On Wheat Acres

Farmers were reminded this week that they have only a few days to dispose of wheat acreage in excess of the 1959 allotment. Sunday is final date.

Deaf Smith County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office manager Faust Collier said if after that date there is still excess acreage and the operator wants to get within his allotment, he will be allowed seven days after receiving his final excess notice to dispose of the extra acreage.

Collier said the County Committee is required to collect a fee of $4 per farm plus $2 for each plot-over one for making those inspections after Sunday.

He urged the grower who chooses to remain overseeded to contact him or one of the County Committeemen to receive detailed explanations on how that choice would affect his future history.

Blacky Fastest Saving No-Hitter

By FRANK ECK

YBOR CITY, Fla. — Baseball would be a greater game if there were more baseball wives like Dottie Blackwell, the pretty blond mother of Ewell Blackwell's two daughters. She listened in awe as Blacky, the famed Whip of a decade ago, spun yarn after yarn.

Dottie spoke only when her husband had trouble searching his mind for a date. He had many dates to remember because he was the pitcher of his day as a Cincinnati Red. The 6-foot-6 Blacky, who made the ball dance like a snake operating out of a charmer's basket, appeared in six National League All-Star lineups, set a modern right-handed pitching record in 1947 by winning 16 straight and led his league that season with a 22-8 record. He missed by one pitch of duplicating the famous feat of Johnny Vander Meer, the tosser of two straight no-hit games for Cincinnati.

"I never had trouble with the big hitters," Blacky began.

"It was the little guys, like Bama Rowell, who used to bother me. Ever hear of him? He played the infield in about 500 games and hit about 275 for the Boston Braves. He could hit me because he just slapped at my sidearm curve.

"In my no-hit night game against Boston on June 18, 1947—I remember the date because it was my little sister's (Angie) birthday—Rowell hit three line drives that were caught for outs, two by infielders and one by an outfielder. His last trip up I threw three of the fastest pitches in my life. He came up with two out in the ninth and my no-hit game in the balance.

"He fouled off two strikes. The next pitch I threw over his head and he swung and missed. I just kept throwing that apple higher and higher. He wasn't going to spoil my no-hit.

"Four days later (Sunday, June 22, 1947) another slap hitter, Eddie Stanky (lifetime .268), caught up with me. He spoiled my bid for a second straight no-hitter. But it was my fault. He broke his bat on what seemed like a hard hit ball. I went down too soon and I felt like crawling in a hole when the ball went through my legs. It got as far as second base but nobody could make a play on it. It was one out in the ninth inning."

Blackwell says he pitched five years with torn shoulder muscles and one kidney. He finished his career with three decisions for the New York Yankees.

YBOR CITY, Fla. — Baseball would be a greater game if there were more baseball wives like Dottie Blackwell, the pretty blond mother of Ewell Blackwell's two daughters. She listened in awe as Blacky, the famed Whip of a decade ago, spun yarn after yarn.

Dottie spoke only when her husband had trouble searching his mind for a date. He had many dates to remember because he was the pitcher of his day as a Cincinnati Red. The 6-foot-6 Blacky, who made the ball dance like a snake operating out of a charmer's basket, appeared in six National League All-Star lineups, set a modern right-handed pitching record in 1947 by winning 16 straight and led his league that season with a 22-8 record. He missed by one pitch of duplicating the famous feat of Johnny Vander Meer, the tosser of two straight no-hit games for Cincinnati.

The Hereford Brand

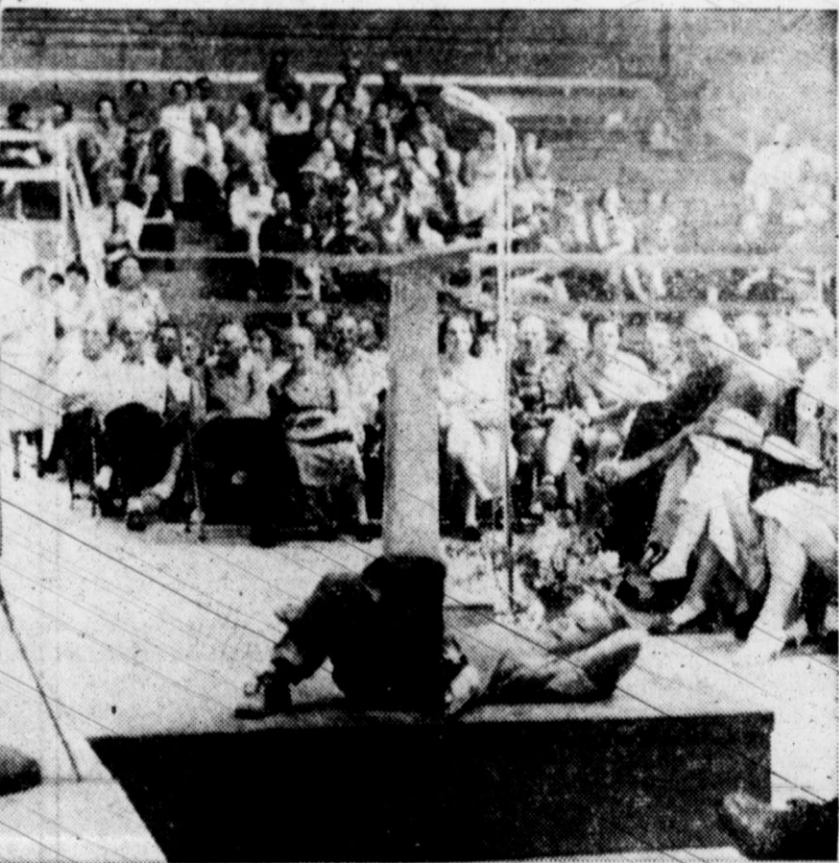

Hereford, Texas, Thursday, May 7, 1959 Section Two

MIGHTY SAD BOY Thursday was two-year-old Wayne Whaley. He found out, the hard way, that his eyes were much larger than his stomach. After working manfully on a plate of barbecue, with all the trimmings, it looked as though he hadn't even started. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Whaley of Claude, he was one of the youngest persons attending the annual REA meeting. (Staff Photo)

COMPLETELY OBLIVIOUS to the other 1,000 or so people at the annual REA stockholders meeting, this young lad took his ease on the stage while listening to the rock 'n' roll tunes offered by the Frio Trio Plus One Thursday afternoon. (Staff Photo by H. A. Tuck)

ROTARIANS from Hereford served more than 1,150 persons during the annual noon barbecue at the REA stockholders meeting. Everyone was served in less than one hour. Profits from the meal will be used to help finance the annual Rotary Club Junior Livestock Show next February. (Staff Photo)

Lloyd Homfeld, Oscar Bronniman, Jimmy Zaring and Phillip Pinnell, the 1959 Seniors, with their annual banquet and prom.

The color scheme was silver and blue and was all Spanish in setting. The gymnasium was completely cut off by a tall rock fence and lattice work covered with greenery and flowers. The ceiling was covered with a star-studded blue sky. Mexican lanterns hung from the sky to light the outdoor terrace.

In the center of the floor was a fish pond made from an earth tank, painted white inside and covered as a rock wall. Inside on the bottom, red rocks were laid to spell "Jr's." and "Sr's. '59". Flashlights incased in fruit jars lit the bottom of the tank and white water lilies floated on top to finish the decoration.

The decorated tables were placed in the shape of a "U" and the menu included fried chicken, potatoes, corn, salad and strawberry shortcake. The meal was prepared by Mesdames Bob Gruhky, D. W. Morgan, John Proctor and E. K. Pinnell.

Terry Creitz was master of ceremonies and the invocation was given by Alma Mosteller with a welcome by Ninette Pounds. Lloyd Homfeld gave the response and the prophecy was read by Cynthia Kromer. The class will be read by Betty Cavitt and the benediction was given by Oscar Bronniman.

After the banquet, tables were cleared for the prom which followed, sponsored by many of the class parents.

In the northeast corner of the terrace was a wishing well complete with a rock base, shingled roof and a crank that turned. This proved to be the punch service for the evening.

Those responsible for the occasion were class sponsor Joe Cullender and the Junior class. Terry Creitz, Wanda Pinnell, Cynthia Kromer, Melanie Weidner, Alma Mosteller, Morris Lee Blankenship, Chubby Sasser and Ninette Pounds.

Many stockholders of the Deaf Smith County Electric Cooperatives, Inc., attended the annual barbecue Thursday at the Hereford Bull Barn. Those attending were Mesdames Bill Brown, Oscar Bronniman, M. W. Blankenship, Jake Fortenberry, Claud Bogle, George Paschold and Joan, Lena Gudgell, R. L. Pinnell, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Homfeld, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kromer, Mr. and Mrs. Merion Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rhorback and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hetzler.

Fortunate in the drawings were Mrs. Jaké Fortenberry who won an oven toaster, table lamp by Marion Ferguson and a grill-well by Ted Rhorback. Bobby Speed has been in Borger most of the week attending to business.

Paul Jones has recently completed a new garage at his home in the north part of town.

Several Methodist ladies attended the Bible School Institute at the First Methodist Church of Hereford Thursday. They were Mesdames Vic Lemke, N. L. Jacobson, Johnnie Williams, Leland Burns and Lorin Creitz.

Mrs. Modean Williams was ill and away from the luncheon Tuesday. Her mother, Mrs. Lena Gudgell, filled her place that day.

Latest word from Army man Kenneth Homfeld places him back in Texas from Fort Chaffy, Ark. He is stationed at Fort Hood for eight weeks of basic training. Kenneth is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Homfeld.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

A&M Prof. Responsible For Watershed Program

By TEX EASLEY
 WASHINGTON (AP) — A one-time Texas A&M professor, now assistant administrator of the Soil Conservation Service in the Agriculture Department, is largely responsible for the development of the five-year-old small watershed program.

He is J. C. Dykes, 58, Dallas county native and a teacher of vocational agriculture in Stephenville and McAllen High Schools before joining the Aggie faculty in 1929.

As a boy Dykes watched torrents roll the top soil down the tributaries of the Trinity and thought something ought to be done. He studied the problem at A&M. Since 1935 he has been with the Soil Conservation Service. Fort Worth was his headquarters before he came to Washington in 1942.

The Small Watershed program itself is set up under a legislative act sponsored by Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco as Vice Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

Testifying recently before the House Public Works Committee, SCS Administrator D. A. Williams said:

"We believe the watershed program is soundly conceived and that it will continue to be an integral part of the nation's program of conservation, development and efficient use of the land and water resources."

He pointed out it is designed to fill a gap between the flood control programs on the major rivers — where the big dams are built, and the programs on farms and forests where contour plowing, terracing and check dams retard the runoff.

Projects under the act are initiated by the people in the area concerned. They are financed about 45 per cent by the federal government. Local interests pay the remainder of the costs.

Last year Congress appropriated 25½ million dollars for the upstream watershed program. The House Appropriations Committee is working on the Department Appropriation Bill for the fiscal year starting July 1, and Poage estimates the Budget Bureau recommendations at about 22 per cent under last year's figures.

"This is an example of cuts which I consider unwise," said the congressman. "I think we need these upstream projects, and we need them now. I am sure that we are ultimately going to build them. They will cost no less a generation hence."

As of April 1 almost 1,300 organizations in 47 states and Puerto Rico had applied for assistance under the act, and formal agreements had been signed by the SCS to aid in preparation of plans in 425 watersheds. The actual planning had been completed for 154 watershed projects and authorized for development in conjunction with the sponsoring agencies.

The SCS uses experience gained in various test watershed programs in recent years in drafting plans under the new act.

Pointing to results from watershed treatment, it notes 1957 floods in Texas and says that on Green Creek in Erath County two storms in April and May flooded 489 acres and caused $6,000 damage. Rush Creek, 25 miles away, had 12,000 acres flooded by the same storms with $493,000 damage. The dams and other structures built on the Green watershed were credited with prevention of destruction in that area. The Rush Creek watershed lies in Comanche, Eastland and Brown counties.

Moisture penetration studies made in Texas on watershed lands by the Service in April and May of 1957 showed the average soak was twice as great on protected land as on unprotected.

Texas upstream watershed projects so far approved — already cleared by the congressional committees as required under the act, include: Alamo Arroyo, 83,603 acre watershed, Hudspeth County; Auds Creek, 31,670 acres, Lamar County; Cummins Creek 204,896 acres in Lee, Fayette, Austin and Colorado counties; Diablo Arroyo, 40,992 acres, Hudspeth County; Chiltipin-San Fernando Creek, and San Dieto-Rosita Creeks, covering nearly a half million acres in Duval, Jim Wells, Nueces and Kleberg counties.

Dry Devils River and Lowrey

Draw, 149,120 acres in Schleicher and Sutton counties; Johnsons Draw, 101,760 acres in Crockett county; Knob Creek, 23,870 acres in Bell County; Langford Creek, 25,030 acres in Red River County; Lower Brushy Creek, 138,240 acres in Williamson and Milam counties; Sulphur Creek, 85,120 acres in Burnett and Lampasas counties; Turkey Creek, 18,880 acres in Fort Bend County; Upper Brus-

Old Customs Still Prevail

DENEVANG (AP) — When wild Vikings overran King Alfred's England, the land where they settled was called the Danelaw. When more modern immigrants from Denmark settled on 24,000 of the most fertile acres in Warton County 65 years ago, they named their community Denevang, "the flat country where Danes live." Today, 90 per cent of the population of the little town of 100 persons on State Highway 71 — about half way between El Campo and Blessing — are descendants of those early settlers.

Old world customs, habits of thought, songs, books and folk dances are preserved. Life in Denevang still revolves around the Ansgar Evangelical Lutheran Church and a recreation building, the center of the community's social life.

Denevang is unique in still another fashion, for few of its enterprises are privately controlled. Most are cooperative's.

When the Danish Folk Society of America first colonized the area, each man was a rugged individualist, but disaster struck in the form of leaf worms on their cotton, and only by combining their resources could they combat the menace.

The lesson learned then was never forgotten and during the course of time, the Denevang Farmers' Cooperative Society acquired cotton gins, a blacksmith and welding shop, built a telephone exchange, and founded a fire insurance company, all of which pay dividends to the farmers who own the enterprises.

At one time, the only non-cooperative business within the 28 square miles of the colony were two grocery stores, a filling station and a tiny post office with 72 box holders and 28 patrons on a star route. Today, neat as a new pin, the placid little place on the prairie pursues its peaceful painstaking path, proud of its pooled prosperity, a paradoxical product of participation in a partnership — the largest Danish settlement in Texas.

The Union of South Africa has a population of 10,708,500. All swans on the Thames River belong to the Queen of England.

SORRY, WRONG NUMBER
 MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Theatrical producers run into untold numbers of complaints, but one from a spectator here nearly tops them all. She informed the management that an actor in the play, "The Seven Year Itch," was dailing long distance incorrectly. She said that since the setting is in New York, the actor should dial 211 — not 110.

Local Club Members Attend District Contest

By ARGEN DRAPER
The District Contests in Canyon were well attended by Deaf Smith County club members and leaders. I helped with the Junior Dairy Foods demonstration and I wish all of you could have seen the good job Becky Duncan did on the individual demonstration and the team demonstration that Karen Jane Shearhart and Beverly Kay Lemons did with their entry. Congratulations to these three girls and to Mrs. Louie Olson and Mrs. Harold Shearhart. The time we spend on youth and on constructive work with youth is well spent and that is the place we will receive abundant returns.

Should appeal to you as chickens are one of the best buys in food and some of you will be having fryers before long. There are many recipes for sauces to use in chick-n-quick. As all backyard cooks have their favorite recipe, you might use your own. There are two recipes given in this new bulletin; we haven't tried these but they sound good. I even have some secret recipes and if you work it just right you probably can get one of these. The following is from the Extension Service, Texas A & M College System:

RETALIATION
GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP) — Police Sgt. Leroy Volrath, who works the "graveyard" shift, had been in bed only an hour or so when the telephone rang.

An attorney on the line said it was imperative he speak to him so Mrs. Volrath reluctantly woke her husband. When he learned the call dealt with a minor accident he had investigated, Volrath asked:

"Don't you realize I worked all night?"

"Of course," said the lawyer, "but don't you realize that this is my working day?"

Volrath hung up in anger. At 3 a.m. next morning, he phoned the attorney.

"This is Sgt. Volrath," he said. "This is my working day. Now what did you want to know about that accident?"

Men who are industrious, sincere, and honest will have easy sledding on their way to success.

Plans are underway at the Frio Baptist Church to begin Vacation Bible School on June 1, with a Preparation Day some time prior to that. The Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Baldwin, pastor, went to Lubbock last Saturday after supplies for the school and departmental superintendents and other officers were being selected and general preparations being made.

Several young people went on a skating party to Amarillo recently. Adults who accompanied them were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Sparkman Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Olin Parris, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. David Yandell and Earnest Harder.

Intermediates who went were Lynn Cox, Don Warrick, Joe Shultz, John Bob Drake, Larry Dobbs, Carl Miller, Tommy Sparkman, Bonnie Sparkman, Dianne Clearman, and Nicky Nan Bradford.

Gerald Harder and Sharon Hill were among those from the Hereford High School who attended the band clinic in Enid, Okla., last week.

H. D. Hill of Littlefield, who was injured about two weeks ago when a tractor ran over him, is improving according to reports from his relatives here. He is the grandfather of Sharon and Larry Hill. Hill suffered a fractured hip and other severe injuries. The grandchildren and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kimball, have been spending a great deal of time sitting with him.

The Elmer Kimballs have bought a house in Hereford at 521 Star St., and are supervising the decoration. The house is almost completed and the Kimballs hope to move about the first of June.

NAZARENE GAINS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Church of the Nazarene started 232 new congregations in 1958 — an average of two new ones every three days — a record for the denomination. Church membership climbed about 9,500 persons to 301,700.

ENLISTMENT PROGRAM

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 1,000 local congregations of the United Church of Christ will take part in a year-long "Christian Enlistment" program, beginning this summer, to educate members on the duties of the laity in service of the church.

Ex-Flyer Serves Air Force Twice

By PHIL GUNBY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — M. Sgt. John Vandenberg is nearing the halfway point of a 20-year Air Force career — his second.

The 41-year-old Vandenberg served 10 years as a sergeant-pilot in the Netherlands Royal Air Force including a tour of wartime duty in the southwest Pacific.

Now an American citizen, he is only a few months shy of 30 years service in the U. S. Air Force as a maintenance sergeant in the Strategic Air Command at Lockbourne AFB in Columbus.

On the record, Vandenberg served 20 years in the Dutch Air Force, for the Netherlands

M. SGT. JOHN VANDENBERG
Two Career Man

credits him with twice his actual service because of hazardous duty in tropical zones. He gets a retirement pension.

During the war, Vandenberg was credited with shooting down four Japanese planes.

He was captured by the Japanese in Java but escaped with 16 other prisoners of war in a stolen transport plane. The plane was shot down near Darwin, Australia, but Vandenberg and 13 others survived.

After he was discharged from the Dutch Air Force, he and his family — a wife and three children — settled in Florida. He enlisted in the U. S. Air Force as a staff sergeant in 1949 and became a citizen in 1950.

Vandenberg, who no longer flies because of poor eyesight, often is asked the difference between the two air forces, in which he has served.

"In the NRAF," he says, "we earned flying pay according to the number of hours we actually flew, not a flat rate per month as in the USAF."

"It meant that a sharp pilot, eager to fly, served his country better and earned more money while doing it."

Edwin Arlington Robinson won the Pulitzer Prize for poetry in 1922, 1925 and 1928.

Long Time Ago

45 Years Ago

Upon the call of the Mayor, a number of citizens cleaned up their premises in good style, yet there were a number of alleys, especially along the business section, that did not get the attention they needed. Fly time is now on and a little precaution just at this time will cut down the crop of flies. It is difficult to kill or catch the flies after they come and the best way to rid the town of these pests is to destroy their hatching places. Trash piles, filth accumulations, manure piles around stables and lits, all furnish the necessary conditions to hatch out millions of flies. But it is an unwise thing to clean-up only spasmodically; it should be done often and regularly, especially in the business section. A visit to the rear of most any of the stores next week will show little evidence of the cleaning done this week.

Designation of Highway 143 both north and south of Deaf Smith county will be sought by counties meeting through which the route passes. A meeting of representatives from Vega to Brownfield was held Monday noon at Dimmitt with resolutions adopted to take the matter before the state highway commission.

The Dimmitt Chamber of Commerce sponsored the gathering which was attended by delegations from Vega, Hereford, Littlefield, Spring Lake, Brownfield, Levelland and other towns. The group was entertained at noon by the Dimmitt Lions Club with a dinner and program.

Representing Hereford were W.E. Dameron and Alex Thompson of the Chamber of Commerce. County Judge C.W. Humble, Commissioner Jack Rose and Jim Lipscomb, relief chairman.

THE GENEROUS DECADE

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP) — The Seventh-day Adventists church reports that its American members gave $464,546,312 to the church in the last 10 years, $105,957,516 more than the $358,588,796 given in the previous 84 years.

THEATER TO BOATS

NEW YORK (AP) — Theater producers come to Broadway from many other fields of business, but now a successful management team is doing a switch.

Robert E. Griffith and Harold S. Prince, who presented "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees," have set up a company to build cabin cruisers. Some of their show backers have become stockholders.

Today nothing seems to succeed like the appearance of success.

Another Rocket That Didn't Get Into Orbit

By VERN SANFORD
AUSTIN — "They said it couldn't be done. And, sure enough, it couldn't."
This is the attitude of many tired lawmakers toward the session-long struggle to raise $200,000,000 in new tax money.
As the regular session drew near to a close, House members, in effect, admitted they couldn't agree on a program that would do the job. House sent to the Senate the scraps of selective sales tax measure (HB 727) and a bill to increase the corporation franchise tax for one year only.
There was off-the-cuff talk among House members of someone's proposing at a later date to solve the problem by cutting the appropriation bill across the board to 4 per cent less than the 1958-59 budget. This would bring such violent reaction, it was thought, that both lawmakers and their constituents would be more receptive to new tax proposals.
Senate State Affairs Committee has indicated it has no intention of trying to shove through a tax program just to beat the May 12 deadline of the regular session. Full hearings have been promised for all viewpoints.
House voted 83-to-56 for a bill that would shorten hours of city firemen and policemen.
Senate already has given the bill final passage. After one more favorable vote in the House, it will be ready to go to the Governor.
Opponents tried, unsuccessfully, to get the bill amended to give local citizens a chance to vote on whether the bill would affect their cities. Supporters protested this would "kill the bill."
Gov. Price Daniel signed the bill raising the truck load limit from 58,400 to 72,000 pounds.
But he made no bones about his misgivings. He recommended that the State Highway Department and county commissioners courts take steps to keep the heavier loads off farm roads and others that might be damaged.
Before deciding to sign the bill, the governor took an unusual step, by calling a public hearing.
State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer testified there were some 5,000 miles of road that couldn't take 72,000-pound loads. Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, said more license and weight inspectors would be needed. Higher registration fees were expected to provide revenue for this.
Sixteen successors to the governor would be designated in a proposed constitutional amendment that has Senate approval.
Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo is sponsoring the measure designed to assure a living chief executive in case of atomic attack.
Line of succession would be the lieutenant governor, president pro tempore of the Senate, (Continued on page 2)

He entered the Army last February and is presently assigned as a platoon leader in the 41st Infantry's Company B at Fort Hood.
The 22-year-old lieutenant is a 1954 graduate of Hereford High School. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. Before entering the Army, Lieutenant Quattlebaum was employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, St. Maries, Idaho. His wife, Beverly, lives in Killeen.

REP. WALTER ROGERS WRITES: Battle Of Antietam Issue: Who Won And Who Lost?

To the people of the 18th District:
The Battle of Antietam is the cause of a controversial issue now pending in the Congress. The Department of the Interior wants to expand its present holdings in the battlefield site area from 283 acres to approximately 1800 acres.
This will involve over-all expenditures of approximately $2 million. The Department argues that the need to expand the Federal area is caused by the threats on the part of landowners in the area to erect hot dog stands and other structures along the highways.
It says this will block the view of the battlefield and the people should not be allowed to erect such structures under the circumstances, and also argues that the only way this can be prevented is for the Federal government to buy the land and thereby prevent the desecration of hallowed soil by commercial activities.
The land has been under the plow for many years, and it is the general opinion of those seeking to gain the 1800 acres that it could be continued in cultivation under lease or other agreements between the Federal government and the present land-owners. In other words, the government proposes to develop this land at the approximate price quoted and then return it to the people to be used only in accordance with the dictates of the Federal government.
During the hearings, I raised a question as to who won the Battle of Antietam. This caused some furor, because we have both Rebels and Yankees on the Interior Committee. The result of the discussion was that no one seemed to know who won the battle. The South had 41,000 men under General Robert E. Lee. The North had 87,000 men under General George B. McClellan.
The statistics reflect that the Federals lost 12,410 men, while the Confederates lost 10,700 men. If victory depends upon who lost the most men, we could conclude that the South won the battle.
However, when we use perspective of atomic demolition.

Local Soldier Ends Demolition Course

Sergeant First Class Larnce T. Smith, son of Mrs. Annie E. Smith of Hereford, completed a special demolition course April 24 at the Army Engineer School in Fort Belvoir, Va.
Smith, who entered the Army in 1939, was trained in the aspects of atomic demolition.

Senate passed the bill, and a sub-committee of the House Livestock Committee approved it.

Bill would require that milk brought into Texas from other states meet same standards as those imposed on Texas producers.

Milk producers, who favor the bill, say it will protect consumers from unsanitary milk. Milk producers, who oppose the bill, retort that all states have adequate sanitation standards. They contend the producers are seeking a device for excluding out-of-state milk so local prices can be jacked up.

A forecast of the hubbub that can be expected in the political year of 1960 was seen as the Legislature debated election law changes.

Both House and Senate gave final approval to a bill that would allow a candidate's name to appear twice on the same ballot. It is designed to allow U. S. Sen. Lyndon Johnson run for another Senate term and accept a presidential nomination at the same time, if opportunity should arise. Senate approved unanimously; House, by a 129-40-15 vote. Liberal members, mostly from Houston, objected.

A bill to move forward two months the dates of state primaries and conventions also drew liberal protests. It would move primaries up to the first Saturdays in May and June. State convention to name delegates to the national presidential nominating convention would be the last Tuesday in May.

Opponents claimed it was intended to let Senator Johnson get his state politicking out of the way before national convention time.

Changing parties in mid-stream would be outlawed under a bill that has received final approval of both houses. Each poll tax would be stamped "Democrat" or "Republican" the first time a person voted in a primary. For the period he used that poll tax, the holder would have to stick with the party of his stamp, in the primaries and party conventions.

Senate has approved three studies to be made by the Legislative Council before the 1961 session.

Recommended for consideration are:
1. Possibility of adding the generously endowed University of Houston to the state college system, sponsored by Sen. Robert W. Baker of Houston.

The history writers say that IF Lee had won a decisive victory, it would have resulted in the independence of the Confederacy. This would indicate that Lee won the victory, but it was not decisive. Yet, on the other hand, the same history writers say that if McClellan had been able to achieve a decisive victory, the war would have been concluded in a few short months.

Painting Makes Second Career

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Seyfullah Esin is squeezing two careers into one lifetime. She is both diplomat's wife and artist.

As wife of the Turkish ambassador to the United Nations, she entertains at home about once a week and goes out almost every other night.

As draftsman, etcher and painter, she works two hours or more between 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., every day but Sunday, in her studio on the fourth floor of a house on fashionable Sutton Place rented from Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt.

Mrs. Esin says she can get such an early start because "usually most official parties are over at a reasonable hour."

How does she manage to combine two such demanding careers?

"I should perhaps answer that I'm doing my duties as a diplomat's wife badly," smiles Mrs. Esin, adding that this role requires little effort on her part because "we have such a kind, nice staff at home who are used to us."

The staff consists of an Austrian man who cooks, a Turk and his Swedish wife who act as butler and maid. "They are a United Nations," says Mrs. Esin.

They came with the Esins in July, 1957, from Bonn, West Germany — the twelfth city in which Mrs. Esin has lived.

Emel Tek Esin was a Turkish diplomat's daughter before she became a diplomat's wife. Her father, Ahmet Ferit Tek, has been counsel general in Kiev, minister of communications in Istanbul, minister of finance in Paris, London, Warsaw and Tokyo.

Mrs. Esin was married in Tokyo in 1941. Her husband has been a secretary of embassy there and in Stockholm, a foreign ministry official in Ankara, minister to Tel Aviv and Vienna and ambassador to Moscow and Bonn.

She began drawing as a child and later studied at the School of Fine Arts in Paris. She learned painting from the Swedish artist, Isaac Grunewald, in Stockholm. She took oil painting, fresco, etching and mosaic at the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna.

Wherever she has gone, she has drawn or painted — an orange tree in Israel, a mountain in Austria. In the Soviet Union, she made 65 drawings of mosques, palaces, tombs in the Turkish-speaking republics. These drawings are about to be published in Ankara in a book entitled "Journey to Turkestan."

She has 40 or 50 etchings and drawings and about a dozen oils in her studio. But most of what she has made she has sold. She had her own exhibitions in Ankara and Vienna and took part in group shows in Bonn.

Ankara, she says, is her favorite city. She remembers the excitement of the time when it was the center of Turkish rebirth. She likes the plateau landscape — "it has a sort of grandeur of its own. It's very barren."

She has drawn it often. But just now she is working on three oil paintings of Istanbul. She likes the way the colors change there — "it is a sort of dream-like city, which appears and disappears from one minute to the other."

Mrs. Esin does mostly landscapes with figures. Lately her work has taken a surrealist turn. In two recent oils, instead of human figures she has painted evening wraps suspended in the air as if invisible men and women were wearing them. Of one such device, she says: "It represents a consciousness."

POPULARITY SHUNNED

HOUSTON, Texas (AP) — The erroneous idea has got around that Christianity is supposed to please society, says the Rev. James Riley, of Second Baptist Church. "A church popular with the world is a pallid imitation of a New Testament church," he added.

In 1857, composer Richard Wagner postponed in the middle of two other of his operatic masterpieces to write his beloved "Tristan and Isolde."

 Let Us Forget: How precious Christ is to the believer at all seasons! How unsearchable the length, the breadth, the depth, and the height of His incomprehensible love! These are the manifestations of Himself which our Lord promised to His Church. Without these we cannot know aught either Him or His Father. Let us daily pray for the Spirit of Wisdom and revelation in and for the knowledge of Him.
 A most cordial welcome to you.

God's Soil

...and it's time to conserve it...time to save it! It is evident, when we witness the increased destruction of timber lands, national cover crops and wide-spread erosion, America needs a national Save-The-Soil-Week. It is urgent that we treat Mother Earth with greater respect and appreciation. We must give back to her as much as we take away. There's no better time than during National Save-The-Soil-Week, to come to a full realization that "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." We are stewards, appointed by God, to look after the earth He gave us. It is time to renew your faith in God and the Good Earth.

You In The Church
 The Church is You - form a combination for good! Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the heart of the Lord. Let us support His program of service to humanity, by a faithful work, a daily bible read or attend services regularly.

Have you heard Judy Zinser's new name? Well it is squeaky!

Hey Betty Paetzold, have you really fallen for James Broden or was that just an honest accident the other night in the play? Is it Joe Reinauer?

Eugenia, was that you who popped your bubble gum in assembly?

Hero Ship Nearing Grave

By BUD SPRUNGER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Navy is scrapping the USS San Francisco, the saucy cruiser that challenged and crippled a Japanese battleship in a key sea fight for Guadalcanal.

RETURNING HERO—Crewmen line the rails of the USS San Francisco as the cruiser sails into San Francisco Harbor for repairs shortly after her victorious battle with a Japanese battleship. Now, more than 16 years later, the aging San Francisco is to be scrapped.

The aging, 10,000-ton cruiser is among five outmoded battleships, 23 cruisers and 15 light aircraft carriers now mothballed in Philadelphia and destined for the Navy scrap heap.

Soon, all that will be left of the gallant old cruiser will be two navigation wings from her bridge, a flagpole and a chipped ship's bell. They are part of a monument over looking San Francisco's Golden Gate.

The San Francisco blasted her way into naval immortality on the night of Nov. 12-13, 1942, only eight months after Pearl Harbor, while the Marines were fighting to turn the Japanese tide on Guadalcanal.

She was the flagship of a hastily assembled fleet of five cruisers and eight destroyers, a little force that stopped two Japanese battleships and 14 destroyers bent on shelling Marine-held Henderson Airfield.

In pitch darkness, the U. S. ships steamed into the middle of the Japanese fleet with three times its firepower. A lot of the firing was done at point blank range by the light of searchlights and star shells.

Rear Adm. Daniel J. Callaghan of Oakland, Calif., U. S. commander, directed: "take on the big one first." Minutes later, he was dead.

The San Francisco's 8-inch guns duelled the 14-inch-gunned battleship Hiei and crippled her so badly she was an easy target for U. S. bombers to sink the next day.

When it was over, the Americans had lost the cruisers Atlanta and Juneau and four destroyers.

The San Francisco was hit by 45 shells, 15 of them 14-inchers from battleships. Aboard were 107 dead. Her bridge was a shambles. Twenty-five fires end, much less three!

Carolyn Lee and Margaret Burrus, how are your house plans coming along?

Bonnie Wagner, Ann Wagoner, and Connie Robinson, isn't 2 o'clock a little early to go to sleep at a slumber party?

Rosie Strange, why do you keep saying over and over "I can hardly wait until Friday night?"

Say kids, don't you think 11 o'clock is a little late to be swinging in Jay Cee Park?

The British are coming! The spec are coming is a better word, huh, Rosie, Melba and Jean?

were burning below decks.

After repairs, the San Francisco went right on fighting. When peace came, her record read like a roll call of Pacific battles — Pearl Harbor, Guadalcanal, the Aleutians, Wake,

Youngsters Need Lots Of Petting

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M. D.

Lucy was jumping about the floor barking like a dog. She grabbed a stick with her mouth and pretended to gnaw it. She ran over on all fours to her mother and sat on her haunches. Mother paid no attention. Presently she began to scream.

"What's the matter, Lucy?" asked Mother.

"I'm a dog," she explained. "Don't you know what you're supposed to do to a doggie?"

Her mother looked blank.

"You're supposed to pat a dog," said Lucy.

Her mother laughed and began to stroke the little head presented to her. Presently Lucy stopped being a dog and crawled up into her mother's lap.

"Read me a story," she said. Little children use all sorts of devices for getting what they need. Dramatic play is one of the most used ones. A child pretends to be what he is not but he carries his feelings and emotions into the new role. Often times a child feels safer to show how he feels when he hides behind some make-believe role.

When Lucy was a dog she could ask for petting, as a little girl she couldn't, but once the doggie showed her that her mother could and would fondle her then she could be the little girl she was and ask for what she wanted.

Lucy had been having a rough time and though she was all of four years old she often acted like a much younger child. Her father had been very ill and had been taken away to the hospital. Mother was distraught and anxious and Lucy had been suddenly uprooted and taken to a grandmother whom she scarcely knew. Now she was back home, but she was still not sure of how life was going to be.

Father, in the other room, couldn't play with her and mother was not the way she used to be. Lucy felt pushed away.

Like many children under such circumstances Lucy became quite babyish. Not only did she want petting and fondling but she began to wet her pants and suck her thumb. Before her father's sudden illness she had given up these baby ways.

We often see children "regress" as the psychologist says when they are disturbed. In some childish way the youngster seems to feel if only she acted the way she used to act, then the whole world would be as it was once.

A retreat to less mature ways of acting is a childish way of trying to manipulate the environment. He cannot change the world but he can change himself and hope the world will go back with him to the land and time of safety.

Lucy's mother, distraught and worried as she was about her husband, had been very annoying. Lucy was showing and the truth is she had pushed the child off, scolded her and made matters worse.

The little game of doggie that Lucy invented was so obvious that it woke her mother up. It dawned on her all of a sudden that her little girl did need and deserve some petting, even though she, her mother, had some serious things on her mind. Listen, sometimes, to what

OFF THE Shelf

If you go into something without any knowledge or preconceived ideas you get a fresh approach. That's what Alex Thompson experienced when he started a swank trailer court in California. His tangle with trailers has been delightfully recorded in "Characters On Wheels".

Most of the tenants were living mobile homes for the first time, such as the man who raved that he was going to sell his trailer because he wasn't going to drive seven miles to get the butane tank filled. The park maintenance men smoothed that over when they detached the tank and carried it off in a jeep.

Most of the amusement came with the fabulous entertainment arranged for the guests, such as Hawaiian parties, local plays, shuffleboard tournaments and the life. As one guest sadly commented, "We can afford to pay the rent each month... it's the 'free' extras we can't afford."

Thompson's trailerites were a cross-section of the top strata of America, since the base tariff was $200-$300 per month, making it the highest-priced trailer court in the country.

Included among the guests were retired brokers, executives, Army officers and top-ranking motion picture technicians. It was strictly a Cadillac community, except for the retiring Chrysler corporation executive who was almost barred because of his Imperial.

Thompson's problem ranged all the way from moving the wrong trailer, through restrooms which perched precariously on their plumbing after a hide tide, to a farcical shuffleboard match at another trailer court.

From the first chuckle to the last belly laugh, "Characters On Wheels" is a wonderfully witty story, the best on trailer-court living since Clinton Twiss wrote "The Long, Long Trailer." Twiss, by the way, was Thompson's first guest.

How Can I?

Q. How can I keep the rubber plant glossy?

A. The gloss of a rubber plant can be greatly increased by dropping about a teaspoon of sweet oil about its roots once a month.

Q. How can I mend broken glass?

A. Glass may be mended with a cement made by dissolving white shellac in enough alcohol to make a mixture of the consistency of molasses. This cement will resist ordinary wear, but should be kept out of very hot water.

Q. How can I remove rain spots from leather?

A. If there are rain spots on leather, it is better to take a clean, wet cloth and go over the entire piece of leather, to keep the color uniform.

Q. How can I remedy sticky windows?

A. The best remedy for sticking window sashes is the application of a little lard, oil or soap in the grooves.
