It's Wonderful! Wetter Weather Brightens Smiles

The inch-plus of moisture which fell in Deaf Smith County Tuesday brought in its wake delight to area farmers and marked the first important rainfall of the year. Falling slow and steady, the rate of drop was from drizzle to heavy proportions throughout the day and night. Area farmers say the moisture penetrated deep into the thirsty subsoil on crop land. Hereford's official rain gauge at City Hall showed that 1.23 inches fell, bringing the year's total to 1.90 inches. Previous recording this year was .67 of an inch.

Levelland Man Killed In Crash

Jack Mackey, minister of Southside Church of Christ in Amarillo, officiated. Britton died in the emergency room of Deaf Smith County Hospital at 7:10 p.m. Sunday, more than an hour after his car overturned several times on Farm-To-Market Road 809, eight miles north of Dawn, at about 6 p.m.

Wilson Takes Mayor Race In Light City Balloting

Woodrow "Woody" Wilson edged political opponent Dr. R. R. Wills by a margin of 72 votes in a "light" election to become new mayor of Hereford in the general city election Tuesday.

A total of 475 voters donned raincoats, went to the polls in the City Manager's office and named Gid E. Brown and Don Little of Hereford to two commission posts.

Wilson's total of 273 votes contrasted with the 201 received by Dr. Wills. In uncontested races, Brown received 467 votes to become commissioner of Place Two in his first time to run for a city office, and incumbent Don Little received 443 votes to succeed himself as commissioner of Place One.

The officials were sworn in to two-year terms of office by outgoing mayor Ray Godwin at the Western Wheel Inn at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday. Terms of Godwin and Neil Cooper, who held Place Two on the commission, ended this year. Godwin and Cooper did not file for re-election.

Rainy weather Tuesday probably was one reason for the light vote. Poll at the City Manager's office was open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Wilson, manager of Hereford Credit Association, told the Brand Wednesday, "I certainly would like to express my appreciation for the support I was given. I plan to do the best job I can for everybody in Hereford."

"I am certainly interested in the future growth of Hereford," he added, "and I will appreciate continued cooperation of all citizens and other government agencies."

Wilson requested a checkbook and made out a check for the amount of the purchase. The clerk asked for her driver's license for identification.

"My goodness," she said, "I haven't got a driver's license. But I know '—' down the street from here and she'll cash it for me. The clerk knew '—' too, so she nodded in agreement.

And, in her new dress, the young lady walked out of Little's and walked — and walked — and walked. She might still be walking!

Anyway, Little's store has a used dress and a pair of hose in memory of the woman — who is described in the criminal docket book in the County Clerk's office as: "An Unknown Female; Charge: Theft."

Around Town

There were Rotarians and Rotary Anns everywhere you looked from Sunday until Tuesday afternoon. The most wonderful thing about the conference was the constant talk by out-of-town folks about the way they were being so warmly received, by Rotarians and other townspeople alike.

Francis Hardwick did a fine job as host club president, assisted by R. G. Peeler, but so did everyone else. It was really a teamwork success.

At the entrance to the gymnasium for the banquet Monday was a huge Rotary wheel, covered with orchids. They had been sent to the conference by Bob S. Gilliland, a former resident of Hereford. The flowers were given to all Rotary Anns. Bob raised them in his orchid house at Carpentaria, Calif. He is a nephew of Mrs. A. L. Manjeot and Matt Gilliland.

Francis Hardwick asked that all persons having bills against the conference turn them in as soon as possible in order that the finances might be cleared up.

Sox, Goofs, Songs Linger After Rotary Conference

There were many serious talks and discussions during the three-day conference of Rotary's District 573 in Hereford, hosted Sunday, Monday and Tuesday by the Hereford Rotary Club. But there were many other sidelights which will never appear in the official record of the meeting.

Opening the conference was a reception Sunday afternoon.

Everything was as expected, but for the unusual cakes which were served. Almost flat and round, they were decorated like perky spring hats, each in a different color. Hereford's incoming Rotary president Leo Forrest even tried one on for size.

Elizabeth Peabody of Dallas was tremendous in her musical book review of "My Fair Lady" but she almost gave the audience a collective heart-failure when she slipped and just missed falling into the orchestra pit during a vigorous tango dance number.

Welcoming visitors, Hereford City Manager Rotarian Dudley Bayne interrupted his regular address to give a few specific words to Amarillo Rotarians at the conference: "We have a four-lane divided highway on the west side of Hereford, all painted and (Continued on Page 2) stripped. We invite you to go out there and have yourselves a ball! Go from one lane to another, turn any direction from any lane, make U-turns and really enjoy yourselves." This drew a huge laugh from the other delegates, many of whom had experienced Amarillo's tough traffic enforcement.

Morris Highley, immediate past district governor, created a minor sensation Tuesday when he appeared wearing royal blue socks, with 3-inch bright yellow Rotary emblems on the tops.

There were some disgusted murmurs, but finally everyone stood to join in the singing of "The Eyes Of Tex." (Continued on Page 2)

Skul Burglurs Kaint Spell So Gud; Git $20

"Illiterate" burglars broke into Stanton Junior High School sometime Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, took about $20 in cash and left the building in a "general mess," according to Hereford police.

Leaving in their path ransacked desks, drawers and cabinets, the only apparent vandalism they committed was writing "Suckers" with lipstick on the counter in Principal W. C. Quattlebaum's office.

City Lets Bid; Studies Vegetable Cull Dumping

A low bid of $5,200 by Somerville Construction Company of Plainview for the new overhead water tank foundation was accepted by the Hereford City Commission Monday evening.

Two other companies, Panhandle Engineering of Amarillo and Hester Construction Company of Lubbock, also offered bids for the foundation for the 400,000-gallon double ellipsoid elevated steel storage tank, which will be located northwest of Hereford.

The foundation for the $53,430 structure will begin in a few days, according to City Manager Dudley Bayne. Chicago Bridge and Iron Co., low bidder for the tank contract, estimated that it would take about 120 days to complete the project after commissioners approved the contract last month.

Jack Renfro and George Jones, of Hereford, representing vegetable processors in this area, attended the meeting and asked commissioners to consider allowing vegetable sheds to dispose of culls at the city dump grounds east of Hereford this year.

The commissioners felt that an arrangement for the dumping of the culls could be worked out, but stated that definite policies could not be set (Continued on Page 2)

Hereford Site For Hiway 385 Meet Thursday

A quarterly meeting of the Texas Division of the International Parks Highway Association will be held in Hereford Thursday, starting with a luncheon. The association is made up of members along the newly-designated U. S. Highway 385, formerly state highway 51.

About 60 persons are expected to attend the meeting, according to Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce manager W. T. "Bill" Thompson.

Tourist enticements along the extensive route will be described, as members make plans to exploit the natural and man-made attractions along the highway for increased tourist traffic.

The meeting will open with a luncheon at 12 noon in the Jim Hill Hotel ballroom. A girls school, directed by Don Moore, will present musical entertainment for the group.

Purpose of the meeting, Thompson stated, is to furnish information about U. S. 385 so that persons can become acquainted with attractions along the highway. A movie, filmed near Alpine in the Big Bend National Park, will be shown.

Selection of officers for the coming year will close the meeting about 3 p.m. (Continued on Page 2)

All First Team players are seniors.

95-Year-Old Resident Dies

Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie Quarles, 95, were held Wednesday in Rose Chapel of Gilliland Funeral Home with the Rev. Howard Scott, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in McLean Cemetery under direction of Gilliland Funeral Home.

Mrs. Quarles died in Deaf Smith County Hospital at 3:30 p.m. Monday after three weeks' illness.

She was born Mattie Elizabeth Overfield on June 20, 1863, in Henderson County, Ky. She came to Texas at the age of 18 from Kentucky. She married H. P. Quarles in 1911 in Strawn, Tex. He died in 1931. She came to Deaf Smith County in 1946 from Pampa and at (Continued on Page 2) change and dollar bills was taken from a cash box used for sale of cafeteria lunch tickets. The burglars obtained a key from the secretary's desk and opened a steel cabinet containing the cash box.

On the second floor of the building, the prowlers broke into the teachers' lounge, opened a soft drink vending machine and took a small amount of money from the money container of the machine.

"The burglary was apparently the work of youths," Hereford Police Chief Henry Aycock said. Quattlebaum said all they were apparently looking for was cash as office machines and other equipment were not touched.

Mrs. Jeanette Thompson, the principal's secretary, said about 20 cafeteria lunch tickets were taken from one of the drawers at the reception counter.

Entry was gained through the shop at the north end of the building. Hinge pins were pulled and the door leading to the locker room was removed. From the locker room, they walked through the gymnasium to the main hall of the building.

A small window of the door leading to the principal's office was broken when the prowlers apparently tried to pry the molding from the window. The lock of the door was opened from the inside through the broken glass.

Drawers of all desks in the principal's office were ransacked ed and miscellaneous items in the lost and found drawer of the counter was emptied on the secretary's desk.

On the second floor of the building, the burglars entered the home economics kitchen and classroom. The icebox was raided and cookies were taken from the freezer compartment. An empty can of bean dip was found on a counter of the kitchen.

In the classroom, the desk of Mrs. Martha Sullivan, home economics teacher, was opened and contents were dumped on the floor. They also entered the adjoining storeroom and went through boxes containing soap and Easter Seals.

The film room, on the third floor, was pried open and entered, but nothing was bothered, according to investigating officers.

A janitor at the school said that the prowlers entered the auditorium but nothing was taken and no damage was reported.

A steel cabinet at the south entrance of the school was pried open, but Mrs. Thompson said none of the contents were missing. A utility and storage room in the principal's office was not entered.

Renfro and Jones asked them to "consider" working out an agreement giving vegetable processors the right to use the dump grounds at harvest time, and that they felt sure that they would be willing to cooperate with any agreement the commissioners set up.

Bayne said the commissioners would consider the request and that discussion on the matter would be expressed at a future meeting of the commission. He indicated that he thought a reasonable agreement might be worked out before vegetable harvest.

A huge bunch of Rotarians from Ralls showed up for the banquet, paying their respects to the nominee for President of Rotary International for 1960-61. He is J. Edd McLaughlin of Ralls.

And the official program managed to move the Rev. Herschel L. Thurston, president of the Dalhart Club and pastor of the Central Methodist Church of Dalhart, to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church of the same town, which is no small feat.

The Hereford High School Band will present a concert at the college on April 22, and the junior high band will compete on April 24.

Originally scheduled in March the regional contests were postponed because of unfavorable weather. Region XI schools include all cities from Tulsa north throughout the Panhandle.

Some Deaf Smith County residents will be concerned with a public highway hearing scheduled for the Oldham County Courthouse on Tuesday, April 14. It is a preliminary hearing before the start on construction of Interstate Highway 40, which cuts across the northwest corner of Deaf Smith County.

The public hearing will be conducted by representatives of the Texas Highway Department in compliance with federal and state laws.

The proposed route, right-of-way requirements and schematic drawings of the proposed construction of Interstate Highway 40 from the New Mexico-Texas state lines easterly to the Caprock near Churkley in Deaf Smith and Oldham counties will be discussed.

Schematic drawings of the proposed route are in the Deaf Smith County Judge's office for inspection. Drawings also are in the Oldham County Judge's Office in Vega.

Most credit speech was made by incoming district governor Floyd Hemphill of Amarillo. But that figures since he is a school principal and former superintendent.

Gerre Hancock, who was the district Rotary Fellow for a year's study in Paris in 1956, delighted the audience at the all-conference songs without warring. He played each, then worked his way from the bottom of the list to the top and then mixed up key phrases from each of them. Now an instructor at Texas Tech, he recently joined the Lubbock Rotary Club.

Bill Van Dusen, a Rotary district governor from California, was made to wear a gift western hat all day Tuesday. He made a short talk Tuesday, stopping frequently to toss cigars to the crowd.

Selective Diet Is Vital In Pregnancy

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M. D.

The baby in your womb is in a safe place — one of the very safest he will ever find during his whole life. You keep him protected from falls, from changes in temperature, from light, from sound and from confusion. In this warm, dark, silent, safe place he is busy doing the important job of developing enough independence to live on his own.

What you do and what happens to you during these crucial nine months of your baby's life have an effect on how your baby develops. Time was when people believed all sorts of superstitions about how the baby could be influenced by his mother's life. Many of these old beliefs we know now are not true. It is nonsense to think that a terrifying sight experienced by the mother can "mark" her baby or that a loud frightening noise like thunder could affect the baby's voice. We know now that much of the old folklore has no basis in fact.

Yet the baby is dependent on his mother for his very existence and she must supply him with all his needs and protect him from harm.

What the mother eats is certainly important. She must supply him with every last building stone he needs to construct a healthy body. The baby's body draws to itself what it needs from the mother's circulation.

If there is only a tiny amount of some important substance present the baby will grab it away from his mother and her body may suffer, but if she just doesn't have enough the baby cannot develop normally.

There used to be an old saying, "A tooth for every baby". This of course need not be true. If the mother drinks enough milk she will have plenty of calcium not only for her own needs but also plenty for the baby's developing body.

If the mother-to-be lives in a goiter belt — a region where there is not an adequate amount of iodine — she must be careful to supplement her diet with this element or else her baby may not develop a normal thyroid gland.

These are just examples of how important food is to the baby. These days pregnant women are urged not to gain too much but it's also important to make sure that what food is eaten contains all the essentials for baby growth. You cannot grow a healthy baby on coffee for breakfast, a lettuce leaf for lunch and a glass of skimmed milk for dinner!

Diet during pregnancy should be low in total calories but high in meat, eggs, milk, fruit and vegetables. A diet especially prescribed for you is one of the important things your doctor will do for you as he cares for you during your pregnancy.

If you have been eating a good diet all your life you will not need to make many changes in it during the months your baby is under your belt. You will doubtless need a little more milk and probably some more meat or eggs, maybe more fruit and vegetables.

You are likely to find that you are hungrier than usual — especially after the first few months. Be sure that you satisfy your increased appetite with an extra glass of milk, a piece of fruit, a salad, maybe another serving of meat — but not with doughnuts, candy, potato chips and pastry.

If your diet before you became pregnant was not too good, this will be a wonderful time to learn about a good diet, how to market for it, how to cook it and how to enjoy eating it. Not only will you have a sturdy baby for your efforts but you will feel better yourself, and so will all your family.

Dick Stern, the father of four, says: "The best thing that ever happened to my figure was Clara-belle's first pregnancy!"

County Advised Of Interstate Hiway 40 Meet

Some Deaf Smith County residents will be concerned with a public highway hearing scheduled for the Oldham County Courthouse on Tuesday, April 14. It is a preliminary hearing before the start on construction of Interstate Highway 40, which cuts across the northwest corner of Deaf Smith County.

The public hearing will be conducted by representatives of the Texas Highway Department in compliance with federal and state laws.

The proposed route, right-of-way requirements and schematic drawings of the proposed construction of Interstate Highway 40 from the New Mexico-Texas state lines easterly to the Caprock near Churkley in Deaf Smith and Oldham counties will be discussed.

Schematic drawings of the proposed route are in the Deaf Smith County Judge's office for inspection. Drawings also are in the Oldham County Judge's Office in Vega.

Plainview sent over a far-sized delegation to bid for the 1960 conference. The decision will be made later.

Most credit speech was made by incoming district governor Floyd Hemphill of Amarillo. But that figures since he is a school principal and former superintendent.

Gerre Hancock, who was the district Rotary Fellow for a year's study in Paris in 1956, delighted the audience at the all-conference songs without warring. He played each, then worked his way from the bottom of the list to the top and then mixed up key phrases from each of them. Now an instructor at Texas Tech, he recently joined the Lubbock Rotary Club.

Bill Van Dusen, a Rotary district governor from California, was made to wear a gift western hat all day Tuesday. He made a short talk Tuesday, stopping frequently to toss cigars to the crowd.

You'll find that all lead to SERVICE!!!

YOUNG MODERNS

The Problem Of Allowance

By VIVIAN BROWN

"It's embarrassing to find that your best friend gets a much bigger allowance from her family.

My friend Doris gets $5 a week, and I get only $2. This means there are many things we cannot do together as I cannot afford to keep up her pace. Don't you think that parents should get together and try to adjust matters like that in their community?" writes a 17-year-old girl.

The question of allowance to offspring is a bothersome one to parents, especially when they cannot afford to always keep up with other parents. There have been instances of parents joining in adjusting curfew and allowance. However, most times it does not work out to the satisfaction of the young people because the parents usually decide on an early curfew and minimum allowance.

Q. "Why do boys prefer blondes? There are several blonde girls in our high school, not as pretty as some brunettes, but the boys go for them."

A. A boy becomes indoctrinated first by the fairy tales — Goldilocks, Rapunzel, Sleeping Beauty, all enchanted with "golden hair." He begins to think of light tresses as something very special when he is in nursery school. By the time he gets to high school and finds himself under the spell of the poets who also can't get along without golden girls (with blue eyes), he is a gone goose. He has learned from story books that all witches are raven haired, and he'll soon see Hollywood versions — sirens, sultry queens and temptresses depicted on the screen.

One consolation is that a boy is likely to outgrow a penchant for blondes, not only because there are so few around by the time he is looking for a wife, but because he may eventually think he isn't suited to blondes at all.

Q. "If a boy you do not like gives you a birthday gift should you accept it? I am never going to date the boy again, but he sent a birthday gift to my home. Should I return it?"

A. By all means, I would return it, explaining that you do not plan to see him in the future, but thanking him for his thoughtfulness.

Q. "I am planning to invite 10 boys and girls to a party. Is it necessary to invite the boys' steady dates or is it okay for me to invite other girl friends?"

A. If a couple is engaged, you should not ask one without the other, as that would certainly be obvious and rude. But you can invite the girls and boys you like, leaving it up to those who do not wish to come without their special friends to decline your invitation.

Q. "What do you think about dating short boys. My boy friend is at least a foot shorter, but we have wonderful times together. My girl friends have criticized our appearance."

A. If you enjoy the boy's company, his size shouldn't make a difference. If you are embarrassed by the difference in stature, it would be better to give him up than to make him conscious of your attitude.

Plant Care

A house plant will soon die if the earth around it is not kept sweet. Try working some coffee grounds well into the earth around the plant. Such a treatment will sweeten it wonderfully. Do this regularly.

Straining Meat

Strain the drippings from meat through a cloth that has been rinsed out of cold water, as this makes the process easier. Cool, cover, and store in the refrigerator for use as desired.

Rice Pudding

Frequently raisins will curdle rice pudding. To avoid this cook the raisins separately, drain the water off, and then add the raisins to the pudding after the rice is done. Allow the pudding to form another skin and remove from the oven.

Parchment Shades

A cloth dipped into olive oil will remove all soot from a parchment shade and at the same time impart to it a lovely antique luster.

Shiny Clothing

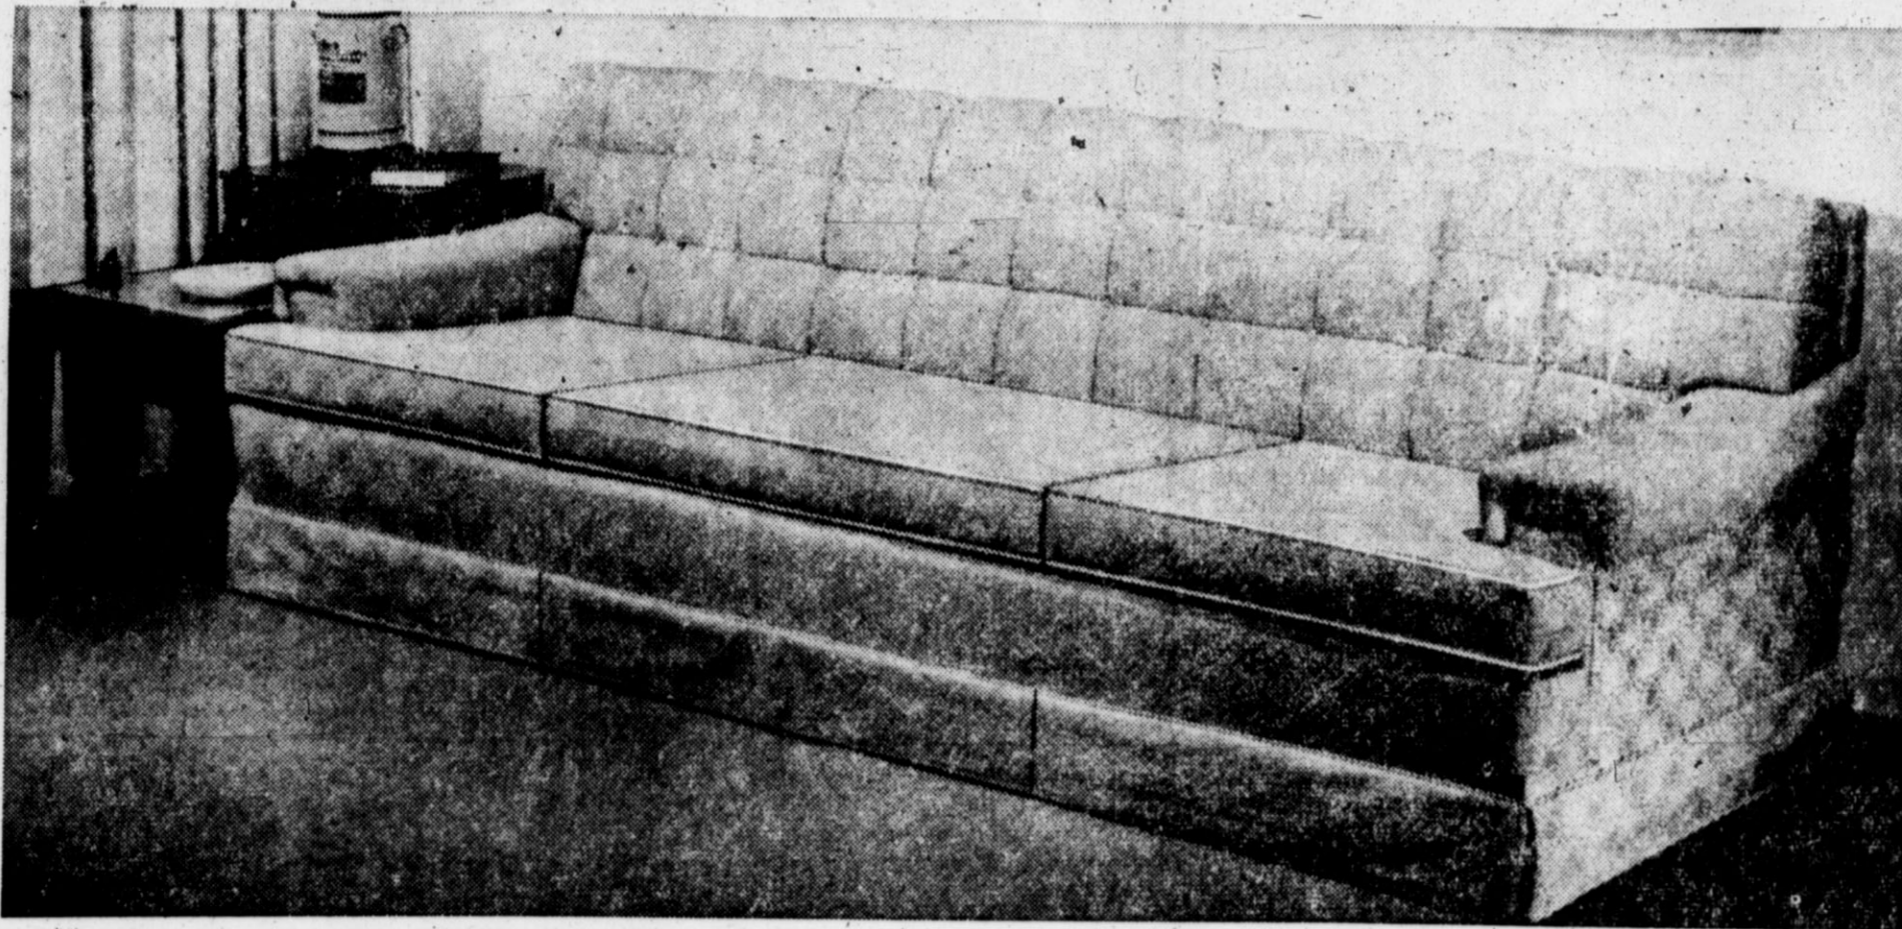

Remove shine from clothing by using an emery cloth. Rub the shiny spots gently with this, then go over them with a warm silk handkerchief.

Slipcovers

If one uses slipcovers on the furniture, these should be removed every few weeks and the furniture brushed well to counteract any possible moth damage.

HOW BOUT THAT

Drawn for The Brand By Ralph Tee

When Jr. came home from college, he told his father (who did a very nice business) that bad times were coming. And so his father took down his signs, stopped ordering as much merchandise, stopped telling people what he had to sell and, sure enough - people slowly stopped coming to him for things to buy. After a few months, the father turned to his son and said, "You were right son - things are bad."

ART IN JAPAN—David D. Adickes of Houston, Texas, examines one of his paintings in a Japanese art gallery. Adickes is one of hundreds of young painters who find Japan and its people artistically inspiring.

American Artists Inspired By Orient

By NATE POLOWETZKY TOKYO. (P)—Once the young American artist made his pilgrimage to Montparnasse and Montmartre to study, work and mature.

Now more and more of them are flocking to Japan in search of inspiration, truth and beauty. Some are attracted by what they consider the "spiritual truths" of the religions of the East—such as Zen Buddhism, now a vogue among many youngsters in the United States.

Others come here to escape what they feel is the excessive materialism of the West. Still others feel the artist is more readily appreciated and accepted in Japan.

"The people here are all rooted in an esthetic background," says Sari Dienes, veteran New York exhibitor, who has behind her years of study and work in Europe. "This is an esthetic civilization."

The abstract painter for instance, finds a kinship in "purity in art" which has imbued Japanese painting for centuries. In addition, the stress here on calligraphy—or hand writing—is similar to much of the painting now being done in the West.

Japanese love of beautiful arrangements—in food, in dress, in flowers—also attracts the artist. "Their way of life is an art form," said an American painter.

But there are also very practical considerations. "The climate of Japan is wonderful and the cost of living is low," says painter David P. Adickes, 31, of Houston, Texas. Adickes and Miss Dienes are only two of an increasing number of American painters who have come to Japan in recent years for varying periods of time. They have exhibited in Tokyo and other cities.

The westward migration was given impetus by the Korean youngsters of artistic bent to the Far East for the first time. They liked what they saw and decided to return.

At Everett, 41, who has lived and worked in Colorado, Washington and Germany rejoined the Army in 1918 with the hope of being sent to the Far East. He was shipped here a year later and is now art editor of the Pacific edition of the Stars and Stripes, the military newspaper. Says Everett: "I feel more alive—artistically—here than I do in the United States. Japan is more conducive to the artist. There is an appreciation of the more subtle approach to life and art. Such as an appreciation of red not because it is a bright red but because there is black and white in it."

"Eventually all the top people will come over here to work and study," Everett predicted. "The artist should come to get the feeling that he belongs. In the states, he is lost—superfluous."

Adickes studied in Paris at the Fernand Leger Studio from 1948 to 1950. "Japan is an exciting place visually for an artist if one notices the shops in the back alleys of the Ginza (Tokyo's brilliantly lighted main thoroughfare). The landscape in Japan is also picturesque."

But he admitted the cost of traveling to Japan might deter many artists from making the trip. Ansel Uchima, 37-year-old Japanese-American born in Stockton, Calif., has lived in Japan since 1940 and is now a leading woodblock artist here. Summing up what he thought was the attraction of the Far East for the artist, Uchima said: "Perhaps there is a certain mysticism in the East which provides the artist with the shock necessary to get him over the here and now. There is also a union with nature—a oneness with nature. In the West the idea is to conquer nature."

MELLOW MOTORIST GROTON, Conn. (P)—State Policeman George Beckwith is still scratching his head on this one. Beckwith arrested a speeder on the Connecticut Turnpike. The motorist complimented the officer for his fine handling of the case, saying, "his behavior was beyond reproach in the performance of his duty."

Ball-Slinger Has Gun-Slingin' As Off-Court Hobby

By Jim Van Valkenburg ST. LOUIS (P)—Clyde Lovellette is a sharpshooter both on and off the basketball court.

The 245-pound, 6-foot-9 star of the champion St. Louis Hawks is one of the best shooters in the National Basketball Assn. He also takes his gunslinging seriously.

Clyde claims he can outdraw some television Western heroes. He spends hours in front of his set practicing a fast draw.

"The other night I outdrew Chris Colt," he said. "It made me real proud."

But Clyde admits shooting with bullets is much different than just pulling a gun out of a holster. So he spends hours practicing actual firing on the Mississippi riverfront.

He has his own six-shooter, a .22 caliber job on a .45 frame. Clyde still rides a quarter horse he bought five years ago when he was playing A. U. ball at Bartlesville, Okla. He is a former Kansas All-American.

"I'd like to work with some expert," Lovellette said. "I believe I could really improve my technique."

Clyde said he would like to play in a Hollywood Western, but is afraid he doesn't have the voice for an actor.

Hub Reed, his Hawk roommate, said Lovellette is just a good-natured clown at heart and never could play a killer role. "He'd have to grin 'em to death," Reed said.

24 Farmers Sign For Safflower Production

By DAN MUDD
BRAND STAFF REPORTER

A total of 24 Deaf Smith County and area farmers signed contracts to plant 305 acres of safflower at a meeting Monday evening in the county Bull Barn. More were due to sign Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Of the 100 farmers attending the meeting, one-fourth of them signed contracts and paid for seed at the rate of $10.75 per hundred pounds and also bought one share of first preferred stock for $5 for each acre planted. The stock is in the oil mill plant, which is to be built in this area sometime in 1960.

Planting of the crop probably will begin next week. The seed is scheduled to arrive in Hereford Saturday, and farmers signing contracts will pick up their seed at Frank Cogdell Insurance Agency, 103 Ave. I. Blank contracts were left at the office of Cogdell for those who were unable to attend the Monday meeting or those who were still in the process of deciding whether or not to plant the crop.

Bill Gentry, president of Deaf Smith County Farmers Union, said the farmers planting the oilseed crop in 1959 would not have to join Farmers Union.

However, when the oil mill is constructed in 1960, Gentry added, it will be necessary for farmers to join Farmers Union to sell seeds for processing at the new mill. Speakers at the Monday meeting were Wilton Bodkin of Olton, state director of Farmers Union, Ted Lord, president of the International Safflower Corporation, and Charles Corn, irrigation and crop specialist for the Safflower Corporation.

It was explained that the state Farmers Union organization would own 51 per cent of the oil mill and the Safflower Corporation would own 49 per cent. Lord and Corn said the corporation has its money ready for the construction of the mill and the Farmers Union is raising its share by asking each farmer who plants the safflower seed to purchase stock.

It was pointed out that Texas farmers will share in the profit from the processing of the safflower crop as well as from the growing.

Bodkin explained that Farmers Union has investigated a number of possible new crops during the past year and decided on safflower because it is a plant that is a good crop on irrigation land and also will do better than many crops on dry land. He pointed out that 75 per cent of the nation's safflower crop is grown by Farmers Union members.

He cautioned farmers that safflower is not a miracle crop, but that there are many different methods of growing the crop and said he was confident that this area is suitable for the crop.

Low humidity is a factor that makes the crop well suited to this area, he said. He quoted Dwight Wilson, head of the new projects division of National Farmers Union, as saying several farmers on the North Plains have grown the crop very successfully with yields of 2,500 pounds per acre and better. Some yields were as high as 4,800 pounds.

He urged local farmers not to plant the crop this year with the thought of making "big profits." As there is not an unlimited supply of seed, he said, area farmers will be limited to 20 acres or less. "Just as you have learned to increase production of other crops," he said, "the longer you plant safflower, the more you will learn about it and the better yield you will realize."

Safflower has a deep tap root, he explained, and can stand dry plants.

He reminded the farmers of the $62 per ton offered by the Safflower Corporation this year for the crop, and said that Farmers Union is working to help the farmer increase his income by introducing the crop as a partial replacement for grain sorghum crops.

The growing of the crop this year, he said, will be mainly on the experimental basis and will give area farmers a chance to see how the crop will grow locally.

Lord said the seed cost was $10.75 per 100 pounds, which would plant from three to five acres, depending on the individual farmer's choice as to how thick he wanted it.

Local farmers will market the crop through an area elevator, Lord said. He expressed the hope that 15,000 to 20,000 acres will be planted on the High Plains this year. The corporation is shooting toward a 100,000 acre or more goal in 1960, when farmers could plant all they wanted. He pointed out that, under provisions of the contract, both the farmers and corporation are protected — the farmer agrees to sell seed to the corporation, and the corporation agrees to buy it.

In response to a question by a local farmer, Lord said that farmers would be expected to sell all their crop to the corporation at the contract price, and that the corporation could not allow farmers to store part of their seed themselves for plantings next year.

"After all," he said, "one of the main purposes of the program this year is to guarantee the obtaining of enough seed to provide ample starting of the 100,000 acres of the crop next year.

"We're not in the seed business," he added, "but we want to make sure enough seed can be provided farmers to make the building of an oil mill feasible."

For the past 10 years, he stated, safflower has been directed toward industrial uses. It is used as paints and varnishes, as it does not yellow or discolor like many other oils.

Other by-products include its use in medicine for prevention of some heart diseases, and is used as a cooking oil.

Corn talked on some of the technical points of planting and growing the crop.

He said the crop is easy to plant and grow, and that no new tools or implements would have to be obtained. The same tools the farmer uses on wheat, cotton or grain sorghums could be used.

Safflower produces good yields, he said, and the seed is about the same size or larger than wheat. It contains 14 per cent protein and 30 to 37 per cent oil.

It makes a good supplement in the feeding of livestock he said, and added that it would not be harmful to livestock eating residue of the crop.

Corn said the crop could probably be planted up to June 1, but advised planting between March 15 and May 15, with 20 to 25 pounds on dryland and 25 to 35 pounds on irrigated land.

Irrigated land should be pre-watered, he said, and 38 to 40 inch rows would be adequate on irrigated land, but the ideal row would be about 28 inches if the farmer was equipped for that operation. On dryland, he advised drilling the seed in with a wheat drill.

Ground temperature should be 50 to 55 degrees, he said. From planting to maturity will average 120 days locally, Corn said.

He said the crop should be planted in a well-drained field. There are no objections to planting the crop in sandy soil, he added.

He advised those who plant on irrigated land to avoid long sets and standing water, as that is a common cause of root rot.

The plant is not a legume, Corn said; rather, it is a thistle-like plant. It grows to 26 or 30 inches in height and the stubble decomposes quickly.

After the plant grows to six or eight inches, which takes about five weeks, it covers well and needs no further cultivation.

In response to a farmer's question, Corn said the plant would respond to fertilizer if other crops did. The stalk stands up well, the seed does not shatter and hail damages the crop probably less than any other grain crop.

A combine, with a few minor adjustments, can be used to harvest the crop, he said. He said that grain probably would not be tested for moisture this year.

TOO MUCH HOO-LA
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Osteopaths here report that grown-up experiments with the new plastic hoops (designed as children's playthings) produced some sprained backs. One physician said he would not recommend anyone older than Elvis Presley experimenting with them.

WRONG STYLE
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A thief broke into the automobile of Salesman William Lutz of Mount Vernon, Ohio, stole 30 sample dresses and suits, then discarded them in downtown alleys. The garments were the backless type used by undertakers in dressing corpses.

Suva, the capital of Fiji, is one of the busiest cities in the Pacific. It is a center of trade and commerce.

"If you can harvest it and it can reasonably be stored, we'll take it."

Another farmer asked if the insects would harm the crop. Corn replied that to his knowledge, little or no damage will be caused by insects. He based his opinion on crops that have been grown here in the past, and said insect damage was little.

Corn said taproots would grow fast and deep, to a depth of about six feet. He said submoisture should be from three to four feet when planting.

He advised farmers to check their moisture, and if enough moisture was not present, they should not try to plant the crop this year.

He recommended planting about 30 pounds of seed to the acre on irrigated land. Most local farmers bought enough seed to plant about 33 pounds to the acre.

Corn would not predict acreage in this area, but said 1,200 pounds to the acre would be quite successful. He warned the farmers to expect both "good and poor" yields. The highest yield he had ever heard of was 5,240 pounds to the acre in California.

He said he foresees a good market for safflower in the coming years. "At least," he said, "you will not have to worry about flooding the market with a surplus of the crop."

In reference to the use of fertilizer, Corn recommended that farmers use about as much as they would use on wheat or grain sorghums. He said excessive nitrogen probably would not harm the crop.

Beauty At Home

Q. What exercise will help me to reduce a "bulging tummy"?
A. Lie on back, arms at sides. Without giving yourself any kind of boost with the hands, raise head, back, and shoulders slowly off the floor. Hold them at a 45-degree angle for a few seconds, then very slowly lower them back to the floor. Repeat as often as you can — and regularly every day. This is an excellent conditioner!

Q. How can I make a quick and simple hair-curling fluid at home?
A. The white of an egg, beaten with an equal quantity of water is a very good one.

Q. How can I remove shine from black silk, blue serge, crepe, and the like?
A. Wet a piece of cheesecloth with vinegar, and rub this over the glistening area of the fabric. Of course, the material will need some airing to rid it of the pickle-like aroma, but at least your "mirror" should have disappeared.

Q. Have you any good suggestions regarding facial wrinkles?
A. First of all, check your frowning habits, which are really the prime cause of these wrinkles. Then you can buy in a drugstore some court-plaster "wrinkle plasters," which you stick over the wrinkles to help flatten or smooth them out. You can make these at home, too, from gummed brown paper of the type used for sealing cartons for mailing.

Q. Someone has told me that the external use of alcohol is helpful in ridding the face of pimples. Is this correct?
A. Yes. It tends to dry up the acne, and also serves as a disinfectant.

Q. Do you recommend oil-facial treatments for extra-dry skin?
A. I surely do. There are excellent oils for this purpose on the market, and they can be warmed and applied to the skin with cotton pads. While the facial is at work, cover the eyes with pads moistened with witch hazel or skin-freshener. Leave pads on for about ten minutes, remove, and apply heavy, oily cream. Finish with some skin-freshener.

Q. Just what is the physical cause of graying hair?
A. A lack of pigment in the hair. In older persons, this is quite natural. Premature graying is often caused by vitamin deficiency. Include ample quantities of meat, butter and green vegetables in your diet.

Q. What makeup technique is good for eyes that are set too widely apart?
A. If you will apply your eye-shadow heaviest towards your nose, this will tend to bring the eyes closer together.

Q. How can I give myself a henna rinse?
A. Buy some henna leaves and steep them in hot water as you would tea. An other, and mother poppar, way is to use prepared powdered henna. The powdered form of henna must be followed by one soaping, otherwise the hair will be dry, clouded, and dull-looking.

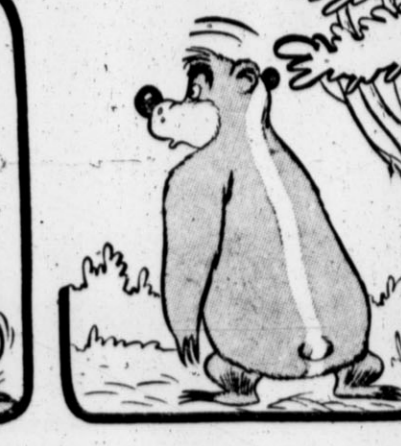

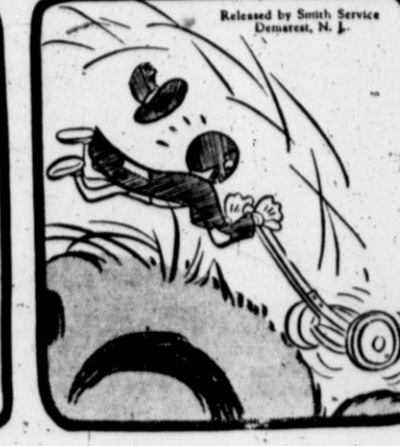

Q. Is there any way to renovate a bottle of fingernail polish which has become too thick and gummy to use?
A. You can thin it out to usable consistency with some fingernail polish remover.

Q. My face is dry, and sometimes sensitive to soap. How can I wash it?
A. At these sensitive times, try using warm milk for cleansing your skin.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS

GOING WEST

GRANDPA'S BOY

OFF MAIN STREET

By JIMMIE GILLENTE Most youngsters have a lot of trouble keeping their parents in line these days. It generally starts around the freshman year in high school, often extends into a young man's college days and, in some instances, he never does get the situation completely under control.

John Beasley, for instance, has become quite interested in tennis this year at Texas Tech. What's more, he has been taking on all comers around the school courts. The past weekend, John was none too modestly telling the family of his ability as a tennis player. His father, Howard, admitted that he was also a fair little player in his own day. One thing led to another, including several jibes about Howard's probable 1959 performance. John, seeing the opportunity to pick up a few easy bucks, offered to bet his month's allowance on a "father-son" match. Howard finally talked John down to a flat $10 wager, whereupon they gathered up their rackets and headed for the tennis court.

Howard, who was one of the top-flight players in California in his younger days — although he hadn't had a racket in his hand for 20 years — surprised even himself by taking almost every point and winning the match with ease. He also got quite a bang out of advising his chastised son to "practice another 10 or 15 years, and we'll try it again some time!"

Several of the Rotarians have been complaining about how they looked in the pictures appearing in The Brand Sunday. Most of them seemed to think they should appear just as young as they did 25 years ago. After all, this was not a high school graduation class. Johnny Simms, though, did maybe have a mildly justified complaint. Gerald McCaskill says Johnny looked as if he had gas on his stomach; Gerald further declares that he is going to make a scrap book with appropriate captions and pass it around at the next club meeting. Ben Childers was also complaining, but every one else said the picture really flatters him.

"Gigi" really went to town in stacking up the Oscars Tuesday night. Francis figures that he was double-lucky in having prize winning actress of the year, Susan Hayward, booked to open Sunday in "I Want To Live".

Earl Plank says every time he goes anywhere that they are servicing food. I invariably show up. I usually think up a good answer to these type remarks an hour or so after someone pulls them — and that was what happened this time. On the way home it dawned on me that maybe Earl shows up about as often as I do. Leo Forrest and Wayne Thomas are a couple of other old boys who are usually around in the chow lines from time to time.

Jean Simmons, classified as one of the happiest movie stars in Hollywood, lives with husband Stewart Granger on a 10,000 acre ranch in Arizona. 10 minutes from the airport. Recently Miss Simmons did an article on "Hollywood Beauty" in which she stressed diet, especially during pregnancy, which she points out as being a most important time to protect one's figure. Here is her second paragraph which, incidentally, ran in papers and magazines all over the country:

"Sometimes during pregnancy the baby will draw so much calcium that the mother ends up with cavities in her teeth. But my doctor had me drink water from Hereford, Texas. You know, there is so much natural fluorine in the water from that little town . . ."

Oliver Streu wants to know why I didn't predict the rain this week. This is a question I never thought of anyone asking. April is always our rainy season. Predicting rain in April is like taking candy away from a baby. It is nice, too. Did you ever stop to think that this is about the only time that a good soaking rain doesn't hurt anyone? It may slow down the spud planting a little, but it is generally welcome on all fronts.

Ray Godwin didn't swear in the new mayor at 12:01 a.m. like he said, but he did have a special meeting at 6:30 a.m. Thursday morning to swear in the new officials.

Lloyd Pool recently sold his wholesale oil outlet and plans to affiliate with Howard Gault in the produce business. Understand that he will handle the books and assist Otis Dickey as office manager.

Now that the rains have come, fishing season is just around the corner. Dale Tingen and Ross Latham are already talking about how they are biting at Possum Kingdom. This got Otis Hall started on a story about his recent fishing experience in Missouri, when a youngster decided to take a few nice ones

UNEXPECTED RESERVE batter was pulled out of the stands Saturday when Hereford baseball coach Jerry George ran short of players. During the final inning, with two out and three on, he called on Donnie Renfro, who had been sitting out the past few games because of an injured shoulder. Donning shoes, shirt and cap, Donnie came to bat. Watched closely up umpire W. H. Kitchens and Plainview catcher John Varnell, he grounded out. Plainview won 19-13. (Staff Photo)

Roadrunner, Just About As Self-Centered As Possible

ROCKPORT — The roadrunner or paisano, a long-legged, ground dwelling cuckoo, is a raffish citizen of the border, a desert clown that can trot without half seeming to try, a good 20 miles an hour, and will race anything from a horned toad to a hotrod.

He looks as if he had been assembled from spare parts by a committee. Imagine, if you can, a long striped snake on two legs, with feather dust on his head and another one behind. He is about 18 inches tall, with a tail as long as his body, a ridiculous crest, stubby wings that he rarely uses, a mocking blue eye circled with a yellow ring, and eyelashes a movie starlet might envy.

Top this off with a cocky, self-assured air, and an uninhibited willingness to meet any situation head on, and you have the paisano, which the Texas Folklore Society has designated as its emblem, and which might well be the state bird of Texas had not sentimentalists long ago settled on the mockingbird.

WHAT A DRAW! TULSA, Okla. — Tommy D. Frasier, chairman of the Tulsa County Democratic Committee, wasn't present when his ticket was drawn at a club event. But the prize entitled him to attend the Republican Minute Men's dinner.

At first glance a roadrunner appears tail-heavy, but on this ruder depends some of his most amazing stunts. He uses it as his wings just as a pilot uses his elevators and stabilizers.

Evidently it produces the desired result, for there are still plenty of little paisanos.

Poor Eyesight Makes Great Art

By ALVIN STEINKOPF LONDON — Are some art masterpieces partly the result of poor eyesight? Did some of our greatest painters develop styles and mannerisms because of eye diseases and defects?

ly debated by Britons since an unnamed eye surgeon analyzed artists' eyes on the British Broadcasting Corp.'s weighty Third Program.

from a government hatchery pool. Hall says the last time he saw the kid he was walking off between a couple of big 200-pound game wardens.

Eyeballs of many artists, said the surgeon, are not perfect spheres. So images are a little distorted on their retinas, and the distortions are recorded on their canvases.

Oliver Streu wants to know why I didn't predict the rain this week. This is a question I never thought of anyone asking. April is always our rainy season. Predicting rain in April is like taking candy away from a baby. It is nice, too. Did you ever stop to think that this is about the only time that a good soaking rain doesn't hurt anyone? It may slow down the spud planting a little, but it is generally welcome on all fronts.

These distortions, the broadcaster pointed out, sometimes are accepted as a master's caprice — a mannerism in which he indulges. A more likely reason for the distortions, the eye surgeon argued, is that he records the scene as it appears to his defective vision.

Ray Godwin didn't swear in the new mayor at 12:01 a.m. like he said, but he did have a special meeting at 6:30 a.m. Thursday morning to swear in the new officials.

The elongated figures of the 16th century Spanish master, El Greco, the surgeon said, might be explained in this manner. El Greco's celebrated portrait of the Grand Inquisitor, Don Fernando Nino de Guevara, which many viewers feel to be over long from top to bottom, becomes truly proportioned when it is photographed with a lens correcting astigmatism, the surgeon related.

Maybe now, so many Okies won't be migrating to Texas.

"Hans Holbein, the younger, who tends to broaden his paintings along the horizontal axis,

POOR EYESIGHT? What part, if any, did an eye defect play in this painting of St. Martin and the Beggar by El Greco? One British eye surgeon says the out-of-proportion aspects were not so much due to the artist's distinctive style as possibly his faulty eyesight.

as in the familiar painting of a very wide King Henry VIII, is a better instance because we find that his tendency to horizontal elongation is equally apparent with recumbent figures, who become, therefore, tall and thin, and not, like Henry VIII, broad and fat.

believing that the artist tries to reproduce exactly what he sees with his eyes, whereas all artists re-create on a flat surface, with very limited materials, what they both see and feel. If his were not so, then naturalists as to be quite valueless as works of art.

How Can I?

Q. How can I make sandpaper?

A. Sandpaper can be made by coating stout paper with glue and then sifting fine sand over its surface before the blue sets. Emery paper can be made in the same manner, only powdered emery is used instead of sand.

Q. How can I avoid sogginess in fruit pies?

A. If the pies are inclined to be juicy, it is sometimes wise to bake the shell for about five minutes before putting in the fruit. This will prevent the lower crust from becoming soggy.

Q. How can I make a furniture polish?

A. An economical furniture polish and an effective one, can be made at home by mixing equal parts of turpentine, kerosene, and vinegar.

Q. How can I remove rain spots from velvet?

A. By sponging with cleaning fluid, being sure to rub always in the one direction.

Family Records Program Given

A program titled "Family Records" was presented by Mrs. Norman Hodges, demonstrator in family economics, at the Wyche Home Demonstration meeting in the home of Mrs. Charles Packard Thursday.

She stressed the importance of more than one member of the family knowing where family records and documents are kept. Pamphlets on "Family Business Centers" were given to members and committee reports were given.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. Charles Packard, chairman of the program committee, Mesdames W. P. Axe, C. R. Damron, C. F. Newsom, J. V. Pickens, Ira Ott, Norman Hodges, George L. Olson, and the hostess, Mrs. Charles Packard.

To remind the students of Hereford High School of National FHA Week the bulletin board in the hall displays a poster arranged under the direction of the student teacher, Miss Loreta Fowler, of West Texas State College and students, Suzanne Langley and Beatrice Willhelm.

The Home Economics show case reveals an interpretation of the program of FHA in co-operation with the home, school, church, and community, showing a total number of 1135 chapters with 50,500 members in Texas. Those who prepared the poster were Miss Jimmie Lee Dabery, student teacher; Billy Gray, Margaret Boomer, Carolyn Brooks, Patsy Campbell and Sharon Bezner.

Another project sponsored by the FHA was an assembly held at school Wednesday. During the assembly the four exchange students of Amarillo and the two from Hereford were presented. Eugenia Alexander and Joelle Tillier-Laroche were hosts to the panel, with Eugenia being the moderator.

The four students from Amarillo represented Austria, Norway, Denmark and Finland. Questions relating to the schools, sports, customs and the government of each country were the highlights of the panel.

Another highpoint of the FHA year is the awarding of state degrees. Margaret Boomer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Boomer, and Sandy Roberson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeWard Roberson, were recently notified that they will receive their state degrees in Dallas on Friday, April 24, at the State Future Homemaker's Convention.

Hereford High School will have two exchange students during 1959-1960, since the Lions Club of Hereford is financing a boy and FHA, with the help of other community organizations, will sponsor a girl.

With the help of the community, the FHA is able to send a student this summer to Europe on the summer program. Anne Wingert, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Russell Wingert, has been chosen for the summer program.

Homes which have been approved by the American Field Service for the students in 1959-1960 are those of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Parsons for the girl, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Skypala for the boy.

NO ARGUMENT
STERLING, Colo. — Robert Roberts won't be criticizing his wife's driving in the future. Mrs. Roberts, driving the family car, collided with another car in the alley near the Roberts home. Roberts was miffed about it all until he, too, collided with a car at exactly the same spot two days later.

Local FHA Members Honor National Week

Members of the Hereford Future Homemakers of America are now observing National FHA Week, April 5-12.

The FHA girls carry out their national goals with various projects. One of these projects is that of planting red roses, the national flower. Members who participated in this project were Cecelia Burrus, Norma Jean Warrick, Cherry Holt, Ann Shepherd and Sandra Townsend, who bought the roses; Royce Lee Pruitt, Patsy Loeberwald, Merry Kay Pruitt, Jan Reese, Phyllis Ward and Terry Anderson, who prepared the roses for the planting ceremony; and Nancy Edwards, Elizabeth Borman, Mary Skypala and Glenda Thompson, who prepared the flower beds.

Another FHA project is that of cleaning the Hereford High School Trophy Case. Girls who were in charge of that project were Sheryl Patterson; chairman; Judy Bradley, Carolyn Brooks, Sandra Wester, Yolanda Castanada, Saundra Inman, Wanda Higgins and Joyce Ward.

Friday afternoon the girls prepared ribbons for all FHA girls to wear to church services Sunday during the National FHA Week. Chairman was Nancy Green and committee members were Sharon Farmer, Saundra Brumley, Bonnie Sparkman, Donna Rogers, Ececlia Wilhelm, Jerre Lynn Buttrill, Burnice Denny, Judy Fowkes, Marjorie Harris, Shirley Thompson, Brenda Beasley and Linda Edwards.

Saturday morning the girls notified the FHA chapter parents of the church services Sunday morning. Heading the committee was Beth Lemmons and other members were Brenda Beasley and Linda Edwards.

Another project during National FHA Week will be that of painting the trash cans around the high school. Members of the "painting committee" are Lynn Thompson, Maxie Wiseman, Wilma Higgins, Evelyn Hunter, Gayle Woolbright, Doris Willoughby and Margaret Boomer.

Joe B. Cheaney Has Run With The Best Of Them

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Joe Bailey Cheaney, the old Howard Payne track star who missed the Olympic Games because he was set back a yard for jumping the gun, is one of the best starters hereabouts. He has been doing it since 1926 and has sent a lot of great athletes off and winging.
Cheaney observes that the track boys of today are mighty smart. They study their sport from all angles and they are always matching wits with the starter. Some times they come off best, too.
Cheaney was impressed with the efforts of Dave Sime, the Duke star who ran against Bobby Morrow at Odessa in the celebrated spring duel that had the nation agog.
"He watched me make at least 20 starts and worked right along with me," Cheaney recalled. "He knew about every move I would make. He almost beat the gun on one start — I had pulled the trigger halfway. Sime is a great runner and a fine boy. A fellow who can run 100 yards in 9.4 against the best sprint man in the world — Morrow — with only three weeks of work must be considered a truly great athlete."

Sime was giving the mighty Morrow, who was in top condition after months of training, the fight of his life in that special race. Cheaney isn't sure he won't beat Morrow the next time they meet, although the veteran starter still considers Morrow the greatest runner of all time.
Cheaney ran back in the days when you were set back a yard for a false start. After you had been set back two yards you were disqualified for a third false start. Now you are not set back but you are disqualified if you make two false starts.

In the Olympic trials at Boston, Cheaney was running against fellows like Jackson Scholz, Charley Paddock and Lorin Murchison. He was set back a yard when he beat the gun but, says Cheaney, the starter fired his pistol to bring the runners back and actually he should not have been penalized. The starter, though, wouldn't budge. So, Cheaney was a yard behind those great runners. "You would know how a race like that would come out," said Cheaney. "I lost and also lost my only chance at the Olympics."
Perry Samuels, the former Texas spring star, was about the cleverest athlete Cheaney says he ever went up against.
"Perry knew he had to get the start if he was going to win because he was running against Charley Parker," Cheaney recalls. "He would gamble and wait in his holes twice, figuring somebody would jump each time. Then he had lulled the starter into a sense of security and gotten his attention on somebody else. Perry would make his move to come out ahead of the others. He once beat me by five yards."
Cheaney tells a good story about the time his starter's pistol wouldn't fire and Boyce Gatewood, the great Texas hurdler who always ran second to Fred Wolcott of Rice, got the jump and couldn't be called back.
"Emmett Brunson, the Rice coach came down out of the stands as mad as a hornet," said Cheaney. "He said 'What happened?' I didn't answer, just stood there. Then the man on the public address system yelled out: 'Winner of the 120-yard high hurdles in 13.9, a new Texas relay record, Wolcott of Rice.' Brunson said, 'Pretty fair country runner isn't he?' and went back up into the stands."

Shellac
When shellac is to be used as an interior finish where the natural color of the wood is to be retained, apply it in thin coats and give plenty of time to dry. Apply the first coats about six hours apart, and then two days should be allowed between additional coats. No rubbing is required.
Zipper
After removing galoshes that have the zipper fastening, pull the zipper to the top of the boot. This will keep it from breaking at the instep and getting out of shape.

Vitamins
On account of its great supply of vitamins, raw cabbage is splendid for the system. Make a habit of shredding a little raw cabbage with your salads.
Furs
If the furs are beginning to look a little shabby and jaded, wet them with a hair brush and brush against the nap. Then hang in the air to dry, and follow by beating lightly with a rattan. Then comb the hair out carefully into place.

AUSTIN HIGHLIGHTS

Now Or Never Time In State Legislature

By VERN SANFORD
AUSTIN — With just about a month left between now and May 12, automatic adjournment date, it's "now or never" time in the Texas Legislature.

Bill sponsors are challenging other members to "pass it or kill it." No more playing the waiting game. Less juggling of the parliamentary ball.

House Speaker Waggoner Carr gave this "get with it" mood a strong shove by taking a firm stand on tax goals. "There is no Santa Claus," Carr told House members.

Texas must raise $300,000,000 in new money to meet its obligations, he said. On "how to do it," the Speaker made these suggestions and observations:

1. A bill is needed "which will include a broad array of selective taxes — including, but not confined to, selective sales taxes."

2. A general sales tax is "out." Lawmakers will — and should — keep their promises not to pass one.

3. "Broad" taxation would include upping levies in areas suggested by the governor — natural gas, liquor, cigarettes, corporations — but at a lower rate than suggested by the governor. In addition, many new items would be added, in keeping with the "spread it, hurt little" principle.

4. "Piece-meal" taxation is unfair, inadequate to the present challenge. State government should not "reward political favorites." New taxes should be "spread across as much of the Texas economy as possible."

5. Likewise on appropriations. If college professors and state employees get a raise, public school teachers should, too.

Carr's speech was regarded as public announcement that he is taking the reins of leadership to get a tax program passed.

Gov. Price Daniel's comment on Carr's statement was in the vein of "why didn't you say so before?" Daniel said, "I am in agreement with much of it and only wish it had been made 30 days earlier."

House Taxation Committee Chairman V. L. Ramsey of Beckville named a five-man committee to write a tax bill and have it ready early next week.

Given the task are Reps. Wesley Roberts of Lamesa, H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock, Joe Burkett of Kerrville, Ben Atwell of Dallas and Warren C. Cowen of Fort Worth.

Governor's abandoned property bill has been reported favorably by the House Tax Committee, but sponsors claim it has been "guttled" by committee action.

As originally proposed, the bill would have allowed the state to take over bank accounts and money and property held by banks, insurance companies, oil and gas companies, etc., if unclaimed for seven years.

As amended, the measure cut out all holdings except bank accounts and upped the waiting period to 20 years.

Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio, sponsor, said this would take away 60 per cent of the revenue raising possibilities.

Creation of a vast "government center" that would cover most of an area seven blocks long and four blocks wide is the aim of the Capitol Hill Master Plan.

Legislators, whose assent will be needed to make the dream a reality, got a preview of the 20-year plan from architects and Building Commission members.

Governor Daniel said the $37,000,000 project could be financed with no new taxes. Income, he said, would come from the Confederate pension fund, funds of state agencies now paying rent for privately owned buildings and funds now available to the Building Commission.

Recommended steps for 1960-61 are buying up several more blocks of land and remodeling the Capitol to provide offices for House members.

A watered-down party registration bill is in line for House consideration after approval of the Elections Committee.

Original proposal by Rep. Jamie Clements of Crockett would have required that a vot-

Leptospirosis Control Listed

(Editor's Note: As a public service to livestock raisers, the Brand lists symptoms and control of leptospirosis, a disease effecting cattle and swine, which has become a problem in South Texas in the past three years. At least one case of the disease has been reported in this area, and, according to County Agent J. W. "Lefty" Thomas, symptoms of leptospirosis should be recognized so that control can start in an early stage.)

Leptospirosis is an insidious disease of livestock, particularly of cattle and swine, characterized by explosive abortion outbreaks in both species. Sheep, goats and horses may also be effected.

It is especially insidious because infected animals may not show visible evidence of infection, and may act as carriers until the entire herd, or a large portion of it, is infected.

A sound vaccination program is the key to successful control of leptospirosis. All cattle in herds located in areas where the disease is commonplace or near farms or ranches where the disease has been diagnosed should be vaccinated.

Leptospirosis is caused by a tiny organism known as Leptospira pomona. The germ is harbored by certain rodents, dogs, wild animals and infected cattle and swine that have recovered from the disease, yet may act as carriers for a temporary period.

The organism is sensitive to heat and alternate freezing and thawing conditions of winter. It cannot remain viable, for any length of time, when exposed to the elements.

Entrance to the animal's body is gained by direct contact with the carrier's urine, through the mucous membranes of the eyes, nose, or mouth, or through breaks in the skin. Contact may be made from contaminated bedding, feedstuffs, poorly drained pastures, ponds or slow-moving streams.

Once inside the animal's body, the bacterium multiplies rapidly. The body organs most frequently affected are the kidneys and liver.

Purebred herds or dairy herds should be routinely vaccinated, particularly when animals are shown at fairs or stock shows; and when replacement animals are frequently being introduced to the herd.

A usual practice, Thomas said, is to vaccinate once a year, but if herds are infected in the area, vaccination programs should be held every six months.

Better protection will be obtained when animals are vaccinated prior to exposure. It generally takes from a week to ten days to develop a protective immunity following vaccination. On premises having a previous history of leptospirosis, when the infection exists in the area, or when sows and boars may have been exposed to carrier animals, all animals should be vaccinated three weeks prior to breeding.

Symptoms of the disease are varied, making it difficult to diagnose, due to possible confusion with symptoms of other diseases.

Symptoms in calves are a rapid rise in fever with depression and loss of appetite. The urine may be coffee-colored and frequently blood-streaked. The animal may be anemic. Death losses may reach considerable proportions in calves under one year of age.

In older cattle the disease generally follows a milder course, with animals showing only a loss of appetite and depression for several days. Infection generally goes unnoticed, until death losses or abortion occur.

Abortions are the most dramatic symptom among beef herds and often assume explosive proportions. Abortion can take place at any time during pregnancy, but it more often found during the latter stages.

Among dairy cattle, a sharp reduction in milk production may be the first indication of infection. Udder secretions may be of a thick, yellowish nature. It may be blood-tinged or contain free blood clots.

Frequently the symptoms may be mistaken for common mastitis; however, the udder does not generally show signs of inflammatory mastitis. The udder may return to normal in 10 days to two weeks, but the milk flow seldom returns to pre-infection levels.

Among all cattle, when the infection is acute, symptoms may be confused with other diseases. Symptoms of jaundice and anemia may be confused with those of anaplasmosis or plant poisoning.

In event of abortions, Bang's disease, vibriosis or trichomoniasis may be suspected. Symptoms of red-tinged urine may be confused with those of red-water disease. In chronic cases, symptoms may be confused with those of parasitism of malnutrition.

Positive diagnosis requires clinical examination of sick animals, serological tests, and isolation of the causative organism.

In swine there are often no signs of infection until abortion storms occur. Sows generally abort two to four weeks before delivery date. The rate of abortions may be high. There have been instances where all sows in the herd abort.

In some instances, sows may carry to full term, but litters may contain dead and/or weak pigs. Weak pigs seldom survive, but if so, are generally stunted and unthrifty. Symptoms may include lack of appetite, jaundice, fever and anemia.

Due to the lack of definite symptoms in swine, other than abortion, swine herds often provide a reservoir for spread of the infection to other farm animals. Infected swine may act as carriers for months without showing any symptoms.

Other farm animals, horses, sheep and dogs may become infected, although not as frequently as cattle and swine.

Hogs being raised for marketing purposes should be vaccinated if there is a possibility of exposure, to avoid excessive weight losses.

Breeding cattle herds should be vaccinated annually, preferably several weeks prior to breeding.

In the event of an outbreak in a cattle herd, all animals, male and female, not showing visible symptoms, should be vaccinated.

Very young animals, such as small calves, should be revaccinated at three months of age. Vaccination of pregnant anti-

REP. WALTER ROGERS WRITES:

God's Handiwork Displayed In Spring At Nation Capital

To the people of the 18th District:

The Nation's Capital is certainly a brilliant display of God's handiwork.

The numerous and very colorful flowers are beginning to bloom, and the buds on the trees are beginning to open. By the time this letter reaches you, the famous cherry blossoms will be in full bloom.

At the time these Japanese cherry trees were presented to this country by the Japanese Government and placed around the Tidal Basin, an enterprising developer in the Washington area prevailed upon certain Japanese interests and acquired a large number of these trees which he planted in an addition he was opening.

We are very fortunate to be living in a house in that area, and when the cherry blossoms bloom in the spring, the beauty is breathtaking for a period of several days. The trees overlap the streets like a white canopy, making a vivid contrast to the brilliant pink of the azalea bushes and the flowering peach trees, and the striking yellow of the jonquils and forsythias.

All of this is interspersed with the deep purples, reds and other colors of the flowers, as well as the deep green of the early spring grass. Actually, I know nothing in the world about growing flowers or about the names of them. I have overheard experts on the subjects, and the words I have written above are a repeat of what was said.

But, it makes little difference whether you know much about the flowers or not; it doesn't detract from the pleasure and enjoyment that you can have from just viewing this beautiful handiwork of our Maker. I wish all of you could be up here to see it.

Changing from beauty to the beast, I do want to say a few things about a decision of the Supreme Court last week. The decision was in the case of Louis Joseph Abbate and Michael Louis Falcone vs. United States. These two individuals were undoubtedly criminals and should have been punished.

The question before the Supreme Court was whether or not they could be punished twice for the same act. They had been convicted in the State of Illinois and were subsequently indicted, tried and convicted by the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi. The act with which they were charged was the same in both cases.

The case and the complex legal arguments involved would require more space to discuss than is available in this letter. However, I did want to call to the attention of the people the great dangers that lie in not maintaining a constant vigilance against the continual undermining of the sovereign powers of the states under the Constitution. This situation is pointed up by the following paragraph that appeared in the very liberal Washington paper, and I quote it as follows:

For instance, the Justice Department has argued that if the federal conviction in the Abbate case were reversed, it might frustrate the federal government's attempts to enforce civil rights. If the state conviction was held a bar to federal prosecution, Southern states might convict a person on a minor charge to avoid federal trial on a major charge, it said."

If the Justice Department did what this newspaper charges it with, it owes an apology to the people of this country and especially to those people residing in the southern states. The party or parties responsible for such an argument should resign and, in the absence of that, should be discharged.

If the Justice Department did not take the position as stated in that newspaper, then the Attorney General of the United States, and the President who appointed him, should promptly deny such charge and disavow it.

If the time has come in this country when the people, who are supposed to govern themselves, are looked upon by a group of bureaucrats residing in Washington as being a bunch of culprits under a cloud of suspicion who would resort to any tactics whatever, illegal or immoral, to thwart the ends of justice, then it is time for this entire country to take stock of itself and do some rearranging.

The fact of the matter is that a great number of the so-called lawyers occupying the government positions in the Department of Justice have never had the experience of operating a business of their own or trying to make a payroll, and this includes the Attorney General himself.

Yet, these people would argue that honest, law-abiding citizens of the United States of America, who pay their salaries every month of the year, cannot be trusted, and are not even entitled to the presumption of innocence accorded the defendant in a criminal case under the Constitution.

I realize that the South has been the whipping boy for a number of years under the controversial civil rights issue that was designed by the advocates of centralized government under a false name. But, I would call to the attention of those people who reside in other states and are willing to cast stones at the South that, if such a policy as pronounced in the arguments in the Abbate case is permitted to be adopted, this policy is a two-edged sword and would apply as well to the states in the Midwest, the Eastern Seaboard and the Pacific Ocean.

Those of you who come from those states may take the position you desire, but as for me, I deeply resent the attitude of any division of the federal government, whether it be of cabinet status or otherwise, that would cast such a slur on the people of this country or any part of it.

The question of double jeopardy presented in the Abbate case is a very serious thing, but it does not approach the seriousness of the attitude of those who would concentrate the powers of this government in the hands of a very few and subject us, under their ideas of regimentation, to the status of slavery, in fact if not in name.

Local Women Attend District H. D. Meet

By ARGEN DRAPER
Today the club women are meeting in Wellington for the District Convention of the Texas Home Demonstration Association, Deaf Smith County women will be in prominence at the meeting.

As you know, Mrs. T. J. Parsons is vice president. We have three women: Miss Roberta and Mrs. Earl DeHart, who published the "Messenger." Also, Mrs. Earl Plank will serve as narrator for one of the highlights of the program, "What 4-H Club Work Has Meant To My Daughter Or Son."

I think at this meeting an announcement will be made that we have a Deaf Smith County woman who will be appointed on the State Recreation Committee. Too, the H. D. Choral Club will sing under the direction of Mrs. Ray Stewart. Most of the women will go Thursday morning and come back that night.

We have six monies for the outstanding "H. D. Woman of the Year." They are: Mrs. Lanoy Tooley of Dawn; Mrs. Earl Plank of Progressive; Mrs. A. E. Hodges of North Hereford; Mrs. John Jacobsen Sr. of West Hereford; Mrs. J. C. Morrison of Westway; and Mrs. C. F. Newsom of Wyche.

Every one of these women are outstanding Home Demonstration Club women. It is quite a nice honor for the club to choose a nominee. To be accepted by people with whom you work is the highest honor there is. The County Secret Committee is at work judging the records.

The following recipe is being used by most of the club hostesses during April to help with the promotion of using more milk to feel better physically. It is difficult to get enough milk in the diet unless you drink milk.

ORANGE-COCOONUT PUD-DING

Using milk made from non-fat dried milk
1 1/3 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup orange juice
2 eggs
2 tablespoons cornstarch or 4 tablespoons flour
1 cup sugar
2 cups hot milk
1/2 cup cottage cheese
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup shredded or flaked coconut

Soak the gelatin in the orange juice. Beat eggs, cornstarch, and sugar until well blended.

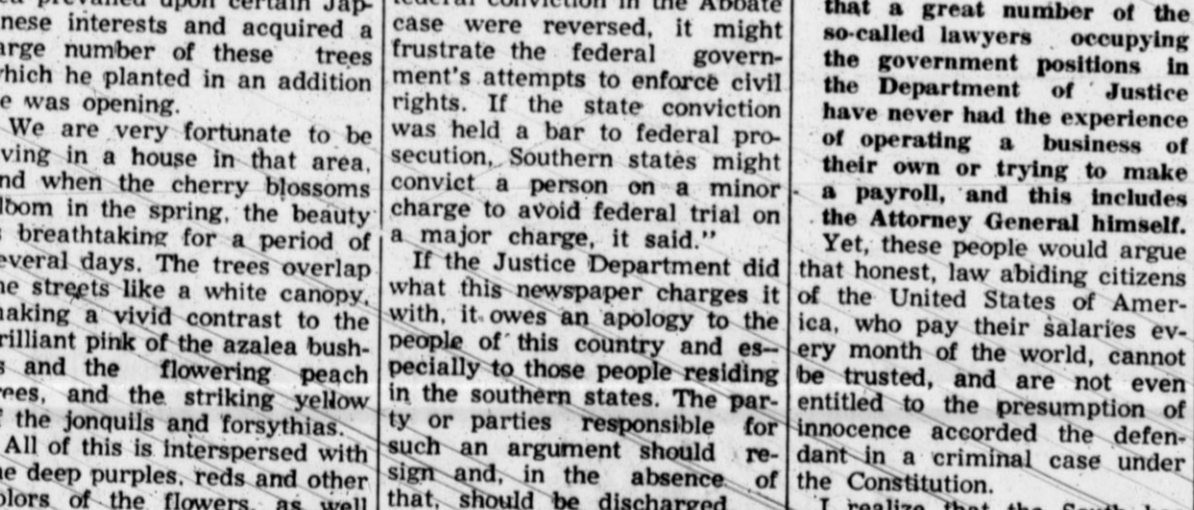

Gradually add hot milk to the egg mixture. Cook over hot water until thickened.

Remove from heat and stir gelatin into the hot custard mixture. Cool.

Beat cottage cheese, lemon juice and rind, vanilla, and coconut until blended. Stir into custard and mix well.

Pour into molds. Chill until firm. May be garnished with orange sections, if desired.

Six servings. 1/3 cup milk per serving.

TEENS

By Jean

Hi there!
Funny incidents do happy you know — take this one for example:

The office practice classes typed hundreds and hundreds of Easter seal envelopes and were treated to a free coke by Mr. Quattlebaum. Some of the girls were buying sweet rolls to eat with their cokes and Bettye Jean Noland and Linda Russell thought they were free too.

Bettye Jean had already taken a bite from hers when she found out that she was supposed to pay for the roll. A funny expression crossed Bettye Jean's face, but Bonnie Craig came to Bettye Jean's rescue and loaned her a nickel.

Audrey, why were you sitting so close to Gariand Saturday night? Could it have been a crack in the seat? Likely excuse.

I wonder why Mary Patton and Carolyn Lee have been acting so-o mysterious these days, tell us girls!

Virginia Morrison sure is eager for school to be out; it couldn't be that she is going to Spain, could it?

Wonder where Jimmy Bradley found such a pretty white convertible?

Well boys, I guess you realize it's less than two weeks until the Junior-Senior Banquet; you had better get your dates lined up!

Control...

(Continued from page 1) mals may be helpful in halting a wave of abortions in cattle. Although some vaccinated animals may abort, others may receive sufficient protection in time to prevent infection.

The duration of immunity in cattle, obtained from vaccination, appears to persist for 12 months or longer, but in herds that have suffered an outbreak, it is suggested that all animals be revaccinated in six months and revaccinated at yearly intervals thereafter.

Control of leptospirosis should be centered around management practices and vaccination. The following control measures are suggested:

Keep livestock away from slow-moving streams, ponds or marshy pastures as much as possible.

Blood-test all replacement animals, particularly in purebred herds or dairy herds.

Vaccinate all replacement animals on farms or ranches where the disease has been diagnosed, or where neighboring farms may have had an outbreak.

Isolate animals showing signs of disease.

Burn or bury all aborted fetuses. Take care in handling this material, as humans can become infected too.

Isolate replacement animals for several weeks and observe for symptoms of leptospirosis and other diseases as well.

Treatment of infected animals is not regarded as being too successful, after the disease is well advanced and the organism has invaded the kidney. Large doses of antibiotics, administered early in the course of infection are considered helpful in avoiding serious losses. Penicillin-dihydrostreptomycin in combination or other broad-spectrum antibiotics may be used.

Affected animals should be isolated from the herd to avoid direct contact with healthy animals and to eliminate contamination of water and feedstuffs, which might be consumed by other animals. Clean water, easily digested feeds, comfortable surroundings and protection from severe weather conditions are considered good supportive treatment. Blood transfusions in cases of severe anemia and jaundice are important in treatment of valuable animals.

Infected animals should be retained following recovery. They may be carriers for some time, but will be immune to re-infection. Infection does not appear to permanently damage reproductive organs and almost all animals will breed again. Other animals in the herd should be vaccinated before returning recovered animals to the herd.

Attorney General Will Wilson ruled this unconstitutional. He said it set up requirements for voting not authorized in the constitution.

As amended, the measure provides that a voter would have his receipt stamped when he voted in a primary or participated in party conventions. This would prevent his participating in the convention of a different party until he bought a new poll tax.

Liberal Democrats, particularly DOT spokesmen, were very dissatisfied, even called the attorney general's opinion "dead wrong."

In this two-car-in-every-garage age, public transportation companies say they've fallen into hard times, and need tax relief.

A bill to lower the license fees on motor busses to a rate equal to trucks of the same weight has Senate Transportation Committee approval. It is sponsored by Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas.

City transit companies are asking to be relieved of motor fuel taxes. Rep. Warren C. Cowen of Fort Worth is sponsoring a measure to do this.

Transit companies are caught in a cost squeeze, say supporters, that makes it hard to continue serving working people at reasonable rates. San Antonio transit lines had to give up were taken over by city government.

Senate has given final approval to a measure that would prohibit selling, buying or trading motor vehicles on Sunday.

Exempted would be persons who observe some day other than Sunday as the Sabbath, such as Seventh Day Adventists.

Bill had lively opposition from several senators whose argument was that it would "restrict competition in the name of Christianity."

BACK-TRACKED HONOLULU (AP) — An island woman motorist approaching a railroad crossing saw a train on the tracks but decided to proceed because the locomotive was at the far end of the train. She thought the train was leaving the crossing, Mrs. Solina Agudong explained to a police officer. But it wasn't. The locomotive was pushing the cars — which, in turn, pushed in the side of her automobile.

This speaks well for this furniture company and they are celebrating their Thirteenth Year by a special sale, the ad announcing same appearing in this week's issue. Selling Irish potato planters in this county is out of the ordinary, but it is being done by the Kerr Implement Company. So far two John Deere Hoover planters especially designed to plant potatoes as fast as one can plant a row crop, have been sold to local growers. The first planter was sold last week to John Kropff two miles north on his irrigated farm. He will plant 20 acres this year, while Joe Ballinger, on the Dr. G. W. Heard farm three miles north of town, will plant 40 acres of spuds. Mr. Ballinger has also ordered a planter and will receive it next week. S. L. Harman, northeast of town, is preparing land to plant 20 acres to the Irish tubers. He has already planted 10 acres. H. C. VanBibber, southeast of town, who made quite a success last year as a potato raiser, will plant again this year.

It will take you about 4 minutes to find out why

It Pays to Own a Dodge!

(It could save you hundreds of dollars!)

Okay, it's settled. You've thought about it and talked about it and now you've decided: A new car—and soon. Now for the jackpot question. Which '59 car will it be?

Unless you happen to be a Mr. Gotrocks, you'll probably think pretty carefully before you finally make the move. You'll do more shopping and compare more closely. And you'll ask yourself some basic questions. How much will a new car cost me to buy? How much will it cost me to drive? What do I get for my money?

There is no mystery about new car prices

Until this year, it was hard to compare different makes of cars to find which offered the most value for the money. It was like comparing apples and bananas. But not any more. Not since all new cars are required to carry price labels. Now, for the first time, you can compare various makes and models and see exactly what you're getting for your money. It's like exposing the hole cards in a game of stud poker: You know exactly where you stand.

Why should you buy a Dodge?

No one has to tell you that there are a number of cars on the market that sell for less than a Dodge. No cigar on that count. You know it and we know it. But there are things you get in a Dodge that you simply can't get in these other smaller cars. And this is important. Dodge gives you all of these things—the bigness and roominess, the comfort and ride, the luxury and prestige—for less than other cars in its field.

It's not just a few dollars less, either; in many cases it's literally hundreds of dollars less. Some Dodge models are even priced lower than the so-called "low-priced cars." (We'll be happy to show you the actual suggested retail prices.)

All cars cost money to run—but how much?

It would be nice if you just bought a new car and that was that. It didn't burn gas. Didn't use oil. Never needed service. But that's wishful thinking. Cars do use gas and oil. They do need service occasionally. But that doesn't mean that all cars cost the same to drive and maintain. Not by a jugful. There's a big difference.

Dodge is designed to run for less

Dodge has always had a reputation for economical operation. People who have owned them have found it costs less to run a Dodge, and that a Dodge needs service less often.

Take gasoline economy. The new Dodge 326 cu. in. Red Ram V-8 engine, because of its design and efficiency, will take you miles farther on a gallon of gas than any other V-8 in the Dodge field. You save money every mile you drive.

But that's only part of the story. The way Dodge is engineered and built saves you money on such things as engine wear, brake relining, tune-ups, spark plug replacement. When you add them all up, they represent quite a saving. Another reason why it pays to own a Dodge.

What do you get for what you pay?

According to Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Prices, Dodge generally costs less, model for model, than other cars in its field. Fine and dandy. But while price is important, it isn't the only consideration. The real standard of value—whether you're buying a new car or a can of beans—is what you get for what you pay. It's the "extras" you get at no extra cost that really determine which car is the best buy.

Dodge gives you more for less

Talk is cheap. Anyone can make claims. So let's be specific about the extras you get in Dodge at no extra cost. Torsion-Aire Ride—conceded the finest suspension in the industry—standard equipment on all Dodge models. Total-Contact Brakes, Safety-Rim Wheels, Electric Windshield Wipers, Independent Parking Brake—all standard on Dodge. Of course, you can also choose from such Dodge options as Push-Button Driving, Full-Time Power Steering and Swing-Out Swivel Seats.

There's a big difference in comfort, too

Goodness knows, we certainly don't want to knock competition. But we feel obligated to point out the comfort and convenience of the '59 Dodge. If you've tried getting into some of the other '59 cars you know just what we mean. To say it is difficult would honestly be an understatement. That's why we hope you'll come in and compare the difference in Dodge. How much easier it is to get in and out of a Dodge. How much more comfortable it is to sit in a Dodge. How much more room you have to stretch out. Really, it pays to own a Dodge.

It doesn't cost a penny to get the facts

We don't expect you to rush in and plunk down your money for a new Dodge just on the basis of what you've read. But if what you've read seems to make sense, we do hope you'll stop in to see, to drive and to price a Dodge. We think it's a waste of a buy, but then maybe we're prejudiced. Why not drop in and judge for yourself. We'll be more than happy to give you all the facts. No obligation, of course.

Texas Lists Three Men As State's Greatest Cindermen

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Although there's the Olympic Games ahead and opportunity for his greatest glory yet, time is running out for Bobby Morrow, the most famous of Texas track men.

Texas has had three truly great men of the cinders — men who will stand the test of time. The first was Fred Wolcott, the blond blur of Rice who set all sorts of records in the hurdles. Wolcott came along in the late thirties. The other two great Texas tracksters are contemporaries and are still in the limelight. They are Eddie Southern, the versatile star of Texas, and Morrow.

Southern, while he is an all-time great in track, may never attain as did Wolcott and Morrow. Southern went to the Olympic Games but he was in the same event as Glen Davis of Ohio State — the 400-meter hurdles. Southern set some records but Davis was a little faster.

Southern also ran the 440 in 45.8. Trouble was Davis ran it in 45.7.

Wolcott never went up against anybody who could beat him in the hurdles. Three times he was national collegiate low hurdles champion. His best time was 23.0. Twice he was high hurdles king, his fastest time being 14.1. But Wolcott ran swifter than that in other meets. It is intriguing to think just how fast he could have run those events had he had somebody to really push him.

Morrow has been national collegiate, national AAU and Olympic champion in the sprints. There's nothing else to accomplish in the way of victories. He has just finished beating his arch rival, Dave Sime of Duke. He ran close to the world's record in the 100-yard dash in doing it.

Morrow holds a tie for the world's record in the 100 at 9.3. He was on relay teams that established world's records. He holds the national collegiate 100-yard dash record. He still holds the college freshman record in the 100 at 9.4.

Morrow is determined to return to the Olympic Games in 1960 and there's no reason to think he can't do it. That would be the climax to one of sport's greatest careers.

Texas has never produced a national collegiate championship team but it has had many individual champions. The man who first brought attention to this state's track was long Jim Reese of Texas. Back in 1925 Reese was a national sensation when he showed up at the NCAA unheralded and unsung and won the mile in what then was the fastest time ever for the collegiates — 4:18.8.

Jerry Thompson of Texas was twice 2-mile champion of the NCAA and he's the only other distance runner from this state to register victories although there have been some fellows who could have made it had they chose to compete. The ride-out Twins of North Texas State are two of them.

Three years after Reese showed Texas had some track ability, Claude Bracey of Rice won the 100-yard dash in 9.6 and the 220 in 20.9. Bracey was the first of many great sprinters this state has produced, fellows like Charley Parker, Charley Thomas and Cy Leland.

The state also has shone with its high jumpers and broad jumpers and is noted as the home of the great sprint relay teams. If Abilene Christian isn't setting a record in the 440 or 880 relays Texas is.

Morrow can be proud to be hailed as the most famous trackman of Texas history.

a warning

Foolish the moth which seeks in the candle, not life but death! Beneath the light there is the burning flame... sudden death for the moth.
 A light is a warning to a sailor, a guide to the airman, a beacon to the lost.
 It can either save or destroy. Do we seek light or just the flame? Beneficent goods may be turned into destroying weapons.
 Food was meant to give health and strength. It is an instrument of good, but given to the glutton, it brings him ruin. Grapes grow for man's sustenance. But when the wine is loved for itself it degrades the body, befuddles the mind and sickens the spirit. God gave us His church, His word to light our way. If we use them for good, no harm will come to us. We won't get hurt as did the moths.

You In The Church

Track Carnival Has More Officials Than Competitors

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

A visitor to the Border Olympics, the giant track and field carnival in Laredo each March, remarked: "This is the only sports event in the world with more officials than competitors."

This isn't absolutely true, of course, but it does seem that way because everybody in Laredo wants to work on the city's greatest project for national renown.

In the first place the name Border Olympics is about the most colorful and attractive to be found in sports. No one knows who gave it this tag — "It came from a meeting of a lot of people just sitting around talking," says J. J. Richter Jr., current president.

There is a notion that the late

Shirley Da Camara, football coach at Laredo High School at the time, gave it the name. But anyway, the Border Olympics were designed quite differently from the way they came out.

In 1932 C. E. Wade, principal of the high school; Da Camara and business men Manuel Cavazos and Felipe Garcia Moreno started the Olympics, then, however, as a part of Laredo's annual George Washington celebration in February.

The original idea was to have an international meet, with Indian runners from Monterrey, Mexico, coming down the Pan-American highway to Laredo, there to light the flame of the Olympics.

This didn't work out, however. Also the Border Olympics were put down for the first week in March each year because there was too much danger of bad weather in February.

W. B. Johnson was the first president and that year he saw four colleges show up for the competition. Three of them were Texas, Texas A&M and Southwest Texas State, which still come to the Border Olympics to this day. Coach Clyde Littlefield of Texas recalled bringing most of the equipment to get the meet started.

Today the meet attracts more than 90 universities, colleges, Junior colleges and high schools with over 1,100 athletes.

If ever there was a community effort, the Border Olympics are just that. Each year $7,000 is raised through underwriting, the Stockman's Ball of the Washington Birthday Celebration, advertising in the program and gate receipts, which ordinarily are just average.

Most times the boys wind up losing a little money — one year it ran to $1,500. But they just get out and raise the deficit and plow right ahead. They're not about to abandon the sports attraction that has brought more publicity to their town than anything else.

There are few folks connected with operations of the Border Olympics who get paid anything. Most everything is donated, including a lot of time and leg work by those who would have the Olympics continue to attract the top teams and athletes.

Richter also observes that "most of the fellows just like to see these fine young men compete."

The officials have many entertainment features for the visiting coaches and newsmen. And there are many of the latter who report the meet to millions of readers.

Border Olympics officials have found that these coaches will keep coming back because it not only is a top competition but it's a pleasant visit to an enterprising city.

Earl Scott, the meet director, needed a little more money this year so he raised the entry fee for the high school boys from 50 cents to 75. One of the visiting coaches came up to Scott and told him: "Hah, you thought you'd scare us away with that raise didn't you."

YOUR RED CROSS ON THE JOB

By CORINNE J. NEELY

Recently we told you of a case hearing that Mexicans and Indians do not have swear words but must learn them from us. Does anyone know if this is true or not?

This column recently carried a story on Red Cross written by one of our staff-aides, Delores Loerwald. Because it was such a good essay we want her to have the credit.

Another of our staff-aides, Mrs. Wayne Lady, (Betty) has had her records sent to Potter County Chapter where she plans to continue her volunteer work.

On the National level we offer these statistics which we hope you will find interesting. Each month last year, an average month showed Red Cross assistance to 86,700 servicemen at military posts and hospitals; 94,000 servicemen and/or families were aided by Red Cross chapters; 149,300 emergency messages were transmitted by Red Cross; 98,000 servicemen took part in Red Cross activities, (e.g. as our recent bingo party at the Amarillo A. F. B. for the retraining group). The chief service given servicemen was counseling, emergency messages and financial aid. In 1958 the total financial aid extended in loans and grants was $1,282,915.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

Sam Houston Johnson Is Not A Johnny-Come-Lately

BY TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas wants to know what people are really saying about him and his views, there is at least one aide to whom he can turn for candid comment.

Both Sam Houston Johnson and his wife, Mary, are on the Senate payroll. Sam Houston Johnson is no Johnny-come-lately to Capitol Hill, and the senator counts upon him heavily.

Sam Houston Johnson was secretary to the late Rep. Richard Kleeg of Corpus Christi at the time Lyndon Johnson was first elected to the House April 10, 1937.

But for the youthful age at which he was graduated from college, Sam Houston Johnson probably would be practicing law today. He got his law degree from Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tenn., in 1934 when he was only 20, and under regulations prevailing at that time was prohibited from taking the Texas bar examination.

"I went to work in the legal division of the Federal Land Bank in Houston," he recalls. "By the time I had reached 21 and was eligible for the examination I had a chance to come to Washington to work as a congressional secretary. And, I might add, at a salary better than many a lawyer was making in those mid depression years."

He went to work for his brother in 1952 and his present salary is $1,050 a month. It is in the payroll which the senator controls as Democratic leader of the Senate. That payroll is open to public inspection, whereas the salaries of employees handling strictly state matters are not a matter of public record, under Senate custom.

While his big brother is holding forth in the Senate wing of the Capitol, both in the Senate chamber and in a deluxe office suite just off the Senate floor, Sam Houston Johnson is to be found at a big broad-topped desk in the old Senate Office Building a block away. He puts in 10 hours a day there, he will tell you.

Elevator boys vouch for the fact that Sam and his wife regularly show up at 8 a.m., which is early around Capitol Hill, and seldom leave before 6 p.m. They seldom see each other during the day, because she works on the other side of the block-square, white marble edifice in her brother-in-law's regular Senate office — where strictly Texas matters are handled.

She was working for the senator as secretary for some time before she met and married his brother. They were married in 1955. She is the former Mary Fish of San Antonio.

Sam Houston Johnson handles many matters for his brother but his main job is to keep especially informed about problems that have a personal aspect for the senator. He handles some correspondence, interviews many constituents and others seeking appointments with the senator. He knows many of the top newspaper and magazine writers, and has had much to do with some of the nationwide articles on Lyndon Johnson.

The brothers are in almost daily touch with each other, by telephone if not in person, and in these chats the senator gets fill-ins on many stories and reports going the round — some of which a regular subordinate would be unlikely to discuss.

More than a year Sam slipped on a floor of his apartment and suffered a fractured hip. For a long while he was forced to stay at home in bed with a traction, and even yet comes to work with the aid of crutches. While he was laid up, Lyndon frequently would stop by the apartment.

"In fact," Sam observed, "it was so convenient to Lyndon that he persuaded us to drop the idea when we were talking about moving."

As the only brothers in the family, with three sisters, Lyndon and Sam always have been close. When the five children were still getting their schooling, the Johnson family moved from Johnson City to San Marcos so as to be near the state college there.

In the fall of 1931, Sam entered the University of Houston and lived with Lyndon, who got a job teaching at the university. Later he enrolled at Cumberland.

In 1940 Sam Houston was married to the former Albertine Summers, secretary to an Illinois congressman. He then got a job as regional director of the National Youth Administration with headquarters in Memphis, Tenn. Brother Lyndon was head of the NYA in Texas when first elected to Congress.

In World War II Sam Houston served in psychological warfare with the Office of Strategic Service and Office of War Information in the Mediterranean Theater. After his return he and his first wife were divorced.

The son and daughter went to live with their mother in Illinois. The 17-year old son, Sam Summers Johnson, however, is presently living with his father and attending a public school here. The fourth in line of Sam Johnsons in the family, he expects to attend college in Texas.

Hole In Stream Bed Is Trap For Water

CORPUS CHRISTI — J. A. Keetch is advocating what he calls the water trap method of water conservation.

Keetch's method is simple, just dig a hole in a stream bed. Then when the stream dries up, as most of them do at times in Texas, sufficient water will remain in the hole for irrigation or stock water. He is seeking state support for his plan.

Keetch says his test trap on Agua Dulce Creek near here has proven his plan practical.

At a cost of $500 he dug a curved trench in the then-dry bed of the creek more than a year and a half ago. The trap is 15 feet deep, 15 feet wide and 200 feet long.

Keetch said some experts predicted the hole would fill up with silt.

His trap now holds five acre feet of water, enough to irrigate 10 acres two inches deep.

But during 18 months of heavy rainfall and swift creek flow, only one foot of silt collected at the bottom of the trap. At this rate it would take about 15 years to completely fill the hole with silt.

"I believe that if we had been irrigating, a pump would have pulled a lot of silt out of the water," Keetch said.

He cites several advantages other than the low cost.

"I figure that even in the hottest weather, evaporation in my trap will amount to only 15 per cent of the top foot of surface water compared to 85 per cent where the water is impounded behind a large dam."

He also points out the water does not cover other usable land, provides a local source for irrigation and could control floods if enough were constructed.

Watched closely during the test period was damage done to the trap walls by the moving water. Keetch found that steep banks were likely to crumble more easily, but might stand up better in soils differing from those in Agua Dulce Creek.

If cattle are to be watered from the trap, one side of the hole must be sloping.

Keetch is owner of a furniture company here. The trap was placed on the McNair farm.

He has kept detailed notes and many feet of film for presentation to the State Board of Water Engineers.
