Crystal Takes Lead In Munny Playoff Canyon Invited To Play Rice For S'west Honors

Coaches Behind The Champions— As California Champ, Budge Had 'Awful Serve' And Couldn't Play Net 'Better Than A Child,' Says Stow

(Sixth of a Series)
By SAM JACKSON
Wide World Features Writer

BERKELEY, Calif.—The story of Don Budge's development into an unbeatable tennis player is primarily the story of developing his "forcing game," until he became as relentless and devastating on the tennis court as Joe Louis is in the prize ring.

This is the summary of Tom Stow, the coach who took Budge in hand as a green kid of 18 and brought him up to both the American national and Wimbledon championships.

Stow exhibits a watch presented him in 1927, the year of Budge's first all-around triumph and also the last year of their association. It is inscribed:

"To Tom, May we always work together. Don."

More recently Stow has had another feather in his coaching cap by helping Sarah Palfrey Cooke to her first national singles championship in many years of trying. She has not been exclusively under his tutelage, however.

Tom Stow explains stroke developer to a pupil.

was California state champion but he was a long way from being a real champion," Stow relates. "His serve was awful and he couldn't play the net better than a child."

"However, he was a natural athlete. He had a great potential backhand. This is doubtless due to the fact that although right-handed, he was a left-handed baseball batter. He was a natural tennis player. Stow can relate many technical improvements he worked out with Budge—a different grip to help his serve, long hours perfecting his turn for strokes on either side, teaching him to volley, and imparting skill and confidence in rushing the net.

Throughout it all the coach labored to impress Budge with his basic credo, which is that you have to carry the game to your opponent, force him, throw him off balance and wear him down. He finally got it, and Stow believes that Budge plays the most "devastating game" of any player in tennis history except Bill Johnston.

As to the mooted question of whether Budge could beat Bill Tilden if both were at their peaks,

Stow believes victory would go to "whichever one went in with the most confidence on that particular day."

Thinks Budge Has Six More Years of Tennis

He thinks his protegee may have half a dozen years of peak performance left in him, since he thinks a man may stay in championship tennis form well into his thirties. Just now, however, he thinks Budge needs to give some attention to his increasing weight.

Stow graduated from the University of California in 1927, as tennis captain. After four years of business, ill health forced him to do something outdoors and he took up coaching.

"Tennis has never been as thorough and scientific as golf coaching," he says. "I took up golf just to get the professional's slant. Then I approached tennis teaching in the same way."

Stow is now coach at the University of California and at the Claremont country club of Berkeley.

Carnett Crew Defeated By 35-21 Count

Crystal Cafe sprang to the inside rail and forged a length ahead Monday night as Carnett Sporting Goods faltered at the start of the munny fast league basketball play-off.

Led by rangy Cagle Hunt, leading scorer of the regular campaign, Crystal sailed away Carnett by a 35-21 count. Hunt hit the hoop seven times from the floor to lead the scoring. Harlan got 11 for Carnett, but the difference between the two sides was about the difference between the two teams.

Crystal took a scant lead, ending the first quarter with a measly 10-9 advantage. But Carnett came to life in the second with Turner bagging a couple of field goals and Harlan, Carroll and Chapman each dropping in one. Half time score favored Carnett 19-15.

It was in the third that Crystal went wild, firing 13 points with Hunt dropping in two of them. Lyles, Sewell and Asbury contributed one each and Heuvel got a field goal and a free throw. In the final chapter Carnett scored eight points to Crystal's six, but it was for a lost cause.

The two teams meet again at 9 o'clock tonight in the high school gym in a game that could decide the fast league title. Carnett must win this evening to retain a chance for the crown. Crystal can end it by winning.

In a featured preliminary Monday evening, an All-Star team administered the first defeat of the season to Radford, champion of the slow league, by a 23-24 count. Phillips of the All-Stars and Abernathy of Radford tied with scoring honors at 11 points, but the outstanding thing of the evening—slow or fast league—was the miraculous shooting of Phillips from the foul line. He dropped in nine points this way, and his team got 14 points by this means.

A girl's game may preface the play-off tilt this evening. Maxie Carroll has a quintet of young women who have been playing considerably with rural teams, and he is seeking to match them with a Garner team coached by T. J. Turner.

Notes From The Training Camps

By The Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif.—The broken leg rookie outfielder George Donaldson of the Philadelphia Athletics suffered Sunday probably will keep him out of the lineup all season and may end his baseball career.

"There is some question whether he will ever play again," said Manager Connie Mack.

Donaldson's leg was broken in two places when he attempted to slide.

TAMPA, Fla.—Veteran Ival Goodman—with young Eddie Lukon as a rival for the rightfield job—is showing his old-time form in the Cincinnati batting drill. Goodman reported last spring with a sore shoulder but is in good condition now.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit Tiger who once went back to the minors to cure a sore arm, is having his upper teeth extracted in the hope of getting rid of some aches and pains.

MIAMI, Fla.—Skinny Tommy Hughes, righthander who won nine games for the Phillies in 1941, gained 10 pounds during the winter and expects his added weight to increase the speed of his fast ball.

HAVANA — Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers said today that Arky Vaughan, whom the club obtained from Pittsburgh to play third base, would hit in the No. 2 slot and that Billy Herman, former holder of that position, would be dropped to seventh. Durocher indicated he would retain Cliff Dapper, up from the Pacific Coast league, as the second string receiver.

Billy Meyers Just Tired Of Baseball

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 3. (AP)—Billy Meyers of the Chicago Cubs insisted today he isn't a hold-out—he just doesn't want to play baseball any more, vowing "I've had enough."

Refusing to take a cut from the $12,000 he earned last year, the 31-year-old shortstop now is working as an extra fireman on the Pennsylvania railroad, bringing home from $6.88 to $8.34 a day—when he works.

"I'm satisfied right where I am," he declares. "I'm not going to bother about the contract they sent me. I don't expect to play any more. I haven't been at home during one summer since 1928 and I'm going to spend this one right here."

Cage Finals At Austin To Be Broadcast

AUSTIN, March 3.—Finals in the high school state basketball championship race are to be broadcast from the Gregory gymnasium, Austin, on Saturday night.

A special radio network has been formed to carry a full description of play-by-play for the three final games. This radio network will enable every section of the state to dial in and hear the final results.

The whole state will be covered from Beaumont to El Paso and from Amarillo to Weslaco.

For the first time in the history of high school basketball, the championship of the three divisions—"AA," "A," and "B," will be decided under the direction of the University Interscholastic League.

There are 1,128 basketball teams in the three Texas divisions, with each division divided into districts as is done in high school football. 118 teams are in division "AA," 304 basketball teams in division "A," and 706 teams in division "B."

Broadcasting of the three final championship games will begin at 7 p. m. on Saturday night, March 7th and will extend until 11 p. m.

The following radio stations have been selected: Amarillo, KQNC 1440 kc.; Austin, KNOW 1400 kc.; Beaumont, KFTM 890 kc.; Corpus Christi, KRIS 1260 kc.; Dallas, KRLD 1080 kc.; El Paso, KRDD 800 kc.; Ft. Worth-Dallas, KGKO 570 kc.; Houston, KKYZ 1470 kc.; Longview, KFRO 1370 kc.; San Antonio, KTSA 800 kc.; Weslaco, KRGV 1290 kc.; Wichita Falls, KWPT 620 kc.

Army Team One Of Winners In El Paso Meet

EL PASO, March 3. (AP)—Four college teams and one army team won first-round games in the southwestern basketball tournament here last night.

The 8th cavalry basketball team of Fort Bliss sprang a surprise by defeating McMurry college of Abilene, 51 to 46, in an overtime contest. The score was 45-41 at the end of the 40-minute stretch.

Rice For S'west Honors

DALLAS, March 3. (AP)—An answer was awaited today from Coach Al Baggett of West Texas State on a proposal that his Border conference champions play Rice of the Southwest conference to determine this area's representative to the national collegiate tournament.

Rice was willing.

Al Lubbock Baggett was non-committal, following his team's 50-39 victory over Texas Tech in the closing Border conference game.

Rice, Arkansas and West Texas were included in telegrams sent yesterday by J. W. St. Clair of Dallas, chairman of the district NCAA selection committee. He proposed that Rice and Arkansas, which tied for the Southwest conference title, meet in a play-off, the winner to clash with West Texas State, or that all three teams play in a tournament together.

Arkansas answered that it did not wish to play further and endorsed Rice as the Southwest conference representative.

West Texas also has received invitations to play in the National Intercollegiate and the Chicago-Mid-western tournaments and Rice was believed weighing other invitations in view of the fact that it had asked a decision on the NCAA proposal last night.

Leo Is Confident Brooks Will Take Another Pennant

HAVANA, March 3. (AP)—Both the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds will be somewhat weaker this coming season than they were last, while the Brooklyn Dodgers will be considerably stronger, in the strictly unbiased opinion of Leo Durocher, who manages the Dodgers.

Therefore, says Leo, his club should win its second straight National league flag without a great deal of difficulty, providing only that the draft or injuries do not take the team completely apart.

Leo is so dead sure of it that in discussing Pitcher Whit Wyatt's salary holdout he says matter-of-factly that Wyatt should take into consideration the big bonus he will receive in the form of a world series cut.

"There's a lot of talk about the Cardinals beating us," scoffed our astute pilot as he critically examined a crop of sun blisters on his receding forehead. "What are they going to do with it? We outscored those guys over a hundred runs last year. What's going to keep us from doing it again?"

"I'll answer that one, myself—nothing. They've lost strength and we've gained it. Do you think Johnny Hopp or whoever takes Johnny Mize's place on first base for the Cards is going to knock in over 100 runs, like Mize always did? I'll make a bet he doesn't. Another thing, the Cards have lost Don Padgett, who can bust that ball, and we have him now."

Big Ten May Relax Rules On Freshmen

CHICAGO, March 3. (AP)—The Western conference, which in 1906 pioneered in barring freshmen from intercollegiate competition, may take steps this week toward wartime modification of one academic year before an athlete is eligible for intercollegiate competition.

"Personally, I don't think we should allow freshmen to compete in intercollegiate athletics with the varsity," Wilson, who is also chairman of the conference athletic directors, said.

2. Modification in the rule requiring successful completion of one academic year before an athlete is eligible for intercollegiate competition.

"Sure, they've got good pitching, but you can't win a pennant with nothing but pitching. We've got hitting to go with ours. That's the difference. Some of those young pitchers that burned up the league for the Cards last year probably won't be quite so terrific this time, either. A good left-hander like that Howard Pollett always makes a great show at the start in the National league for some reason, but the boys catch up with him in time."

That appeared to dispose of the Cardinals' Tough luck, boys, but there'll always be another year. What, then, about Cincinnati? They were coming fast toward the close of last season.

"Same thing," said Leo. "Bill McKeehl's got a great pitching staff, even if Paul Derringer is due to start slipping one of these years. But they can't hit and they've given us a mighty good third baseman in Bill Werber. I'd hate to bet that this Bert Haas they're putting in his place will be as good, no matter what he hit with Columbus. And don't forget that they lost that occasional long hit when they parted with Schorsch Lombardi. Nope, the Reds haven't got what it takes, and neither has any of the others."

Having been held off this long, Leo was asked if he would like to participate on the excellent qualities of his own outfit. Would he?

"All I have," he said spaciouly "are these: I have the league's best first-basemen in Dolf Camilli, its best second-basemen in Billy Herman, its best shortstop in Feresee Reese, its best center-fielder in Pete Reiser, two of its best pitchers in Whit Wyatt and Kirby Higbe. Furthermore, I've got..."

But why go on. You see what Leo has in mind.

Pairings Set For Schoolboy State Finals

AUSTIN, March 3. (AP)—A number of the 24 schoolboy basketball teams which will determine state championships in three divisions in a tournament starting Thursday were slated to work out in the University of Texas' huge Gregory gymnasium tomorrow.

Pairings in the three-day tournament, concluding Saturday night with championship games in class divisions AA, A and B, were announced yesterday by Athletic Director E. J. Kidd of the interscholastic league as follows:

Class AA, Thursday: Jeff Davis of Houston vs. Waco at 10:15 a. m. Robertson vs. Dallas Tech, 2 p. m. Lufkin vs. Childress, 4:30 p. m. Denton vs. Austin of El Paso, 8:30 p. m.

Class A, Thursday: Van vs. Gatesville, 9 a. m. Lakewood vs. Elkhart, 11:30 a. m. Nederland vs. Crane, 2:15 p. m. Aransas Pass vs. Sidney Lanier of San Antonio, 7:15 p. m.

Class B, Friday: Addicks vs. Ingleside, 9 a. m. Billed vs. Stratford, 11:30 a. m. Burkett vs. Boles Home of Quinlan, 2 p. m.

Kidd, asserting semi-finals schedules would be announced later, said consolation games for third place would be played Saturday afternoon.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(Wide World)—Boston papers report the fans around there aren't exactly pleased with the change in Ted Williams' draft status. They don't care whether Ted or someone else made the appeal; they think a young, healthy athlete belongs in the army. Ted hasn't heard nothin' yet. Just wait until the first time he kicks at an umpire's decision and the bench jockeys start asking why he doesn't appeal that one. . . . Bob Pastor is considering a $10,000 offer from Pierre Gruen of Washington for a return bout with Claudio Villar, the Spanish heavyweight who gave him such a tussle. . . . Indiana's Billy Hillenbrand will skip spring football to play baseball. . . . Probably some of the guys who bumped into him last fall told him he didn't need practice.

More Power To 'Em

When the lights went out during a district basketball tournament at Stronghurst, Ill., last week, the Lomax team, trailing Media, 18-7, decided that was enough and agreed to call it a complete game. . . . At Good Hope, 18 miles away, the same power failure interrupted a game. The Good Hope and Western Academy teams and the spectators drove six miles to Macomb, where the lights were on, and finished their game.

Spring Training

Apparently baseball still is a young man's game. . . . Mel Ott was 33 yesterday and veteran writers in the Giants' camp say he doesn't look much older than when he first stroled in 17 years ago. . . . And the Braves' Johnny Cooney, who will be 41 March 18, indignantly denies that he intends to take things easy this year. He says he feels better than last spring. . . . Len Warneke is selling his Oklahoma ranch and moving to Hot Springs. . . . Clark Griffith has turned the Greenville (S.C.) franchise back to the Sally league and has disposed of the players, but when he tried to haul away the lighting equipment he had installed in the city-owned park Greenville slapped an injunction on him. . . . Before starting for the Yankees' camp, 42-year-old Coach Earle Combs took a physical fitness test with a bunch of kids from Eastern Kentucky Teachers' College and outscored most of the star athletes.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lumpy bowels, combine with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many doctors have given Laxative-Senna in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative-Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative-Senna wakes up lax nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative-Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's.

Indian Art Tea Held In Home Of Mrs. Carl Strom For Visitors

MRS. CARL STROM FOR VISITORS

Music Club And 1930 Hyperions Hostess Affair

A compliment to convention visitors was the Indian Art tea held Monday afternoon from 4 o'clock to 5:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Carl Strom as the first day of the three day District Eight convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs got underway.

Meeting guests at the door were Mrs. H. C. Stipp and in the receiving line were Mrs. Omar Pittman, Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland, Mrs. Sam Rennie of El Paso, Mrs. Hal C. Peck of Midland, Mrs. Jefferson D. Atwood, Roswell, N. M., Mrs. J. W. Walker, Plainview, Mrs. Marsh Lee, Fort Stockton.

Presiding at the register was Mrs. Dave Eastbourne. Others in the houseparty who dressed in formal gowns were Mrs. J. E. Hogan, Mrs. H. G. Keaton, Mrs. R. V. Middleton, Mrs. M. H. Bennett, Mrs. L. S. McDowell, Mrs. J. M. Woodall, Mrs. R. O. Beadles, Mrs. L. LeFever, Mrs. Carl Strom, Mrs. Morris Patterson.

Playing piano selections during the afternoon were Mrs. Keaton, Mrs. Pat Kenney, Mrs. King Sides, Mrs. Anne Gibson Houser.

Members of the Big Spring Music Study club and the 1930 Hyperion club were in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Carl Strom met guests in the Indian Room where many articles made and worn by the Indians were on display. She explained the history of many of the articles to guests calling during the tea.

The tea table was laid with an embroidered and cut-work cloth and centered with a bouquet of salmon pink gladioli in a silver bowl. Tall white tapers in silver holders were at either end of the table. Silver tea and coffee service was at each end of the table.

Badges for the convention reflect the patriotic theme and are of red, white and blue ribbon with white stars.

Mrs. V. H. FIEWELLEN was present at the convention Monday afternoon wearing those new lisle hose that we girls are going to all be wearing soon, so it is said.

Mrs. JEFFERSON D. ATWOOD of Roswell, N. M., who was first scheduled to speak Tuesday night and then the program was changed for her to speak Monday night, is really a grand speaker. When she gets through selling you on the idea of federation, you feel ready to buy more than one share in the organization.

The Wink club scrapbook which is on display at the hotel is one of the prettiest you'll ever see. It is made of white satin with the cover forming a red, white, and blue American flag. Each page has some picture or clipping and the whole book is encased in a white satin cover. It ought to be used just for decoration.

Convention visitors admired the painting display which was hung in the hotel rooms and there are to be some six prizes awarded for them. Everyone was wondering which would win out.

In spite of a heavy cold and fever, Mrs. J. C. CUNNINGHAM, district president, carried on yesterday at her job of presiding over the convention and appeared at the night meeting too, to make her speech. Most of us wished we could talk as well when we were feeling fine.

Independence Day Theme Used At Seating Party

On Independence Day theme was used in decorations when Mrs. A. T. Bryant entertained the Nu-Stitcher's club in her home. Present were Mrs. Paul Hodge, Mrs. Loy House, Mrs. Merrill Creighton, Mrs. Preston Garrett, Mrs. Ross Boykin, Mrs. Dwan Leonard, Mrs. Howard Beene and Mrs. Orville Bryant, who is to be next hostess.

Mrs. Walker And Mrs. Atwood Give Addresses

Inspirational speeches by Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview, state president, Mrs. J. C. Cunningham, Fort Stockton, district president, and Mrs. Jefferson D. Atwood, Roswell, N. M., chairman of department of citizenship, General Federation of Women's clubs, marked the Monday night meeting of the district convention of the Federation of Women's clubs at the Settles hotel.

Mrs. Cunningham, speaking on "Our Collect" pointed out that if each member would follow the collect that she would be an ideal club woman and would help to achieve democracy's victory.

Mrs. Walker, speaking on "Education for Democracy's Victory," theme of the convention, pointed out that club work was in reality a school for adult development.

She spoke of club women in present day times and declared there were many things that women could do. First, she pointed to the need to provide good leadership in each community; to stop thinking too highly of ourselves; keep up the national morale and will to victory; and prepare ourselves to have a system but not a people.

Mrs. Jefferson D. Atwood, who was introduced by Mrs. James H. Goodman, spoke on "American Citizenship and Victory." She declared that at the start of the war, the United States was not prepared materially, economically, physically or spiritually. But she declared it was in the hands of women in club work and in homes to meet these needs.

Mrs. Atwood also declared that it was necessary to mix defense work with mental education and that "too many women are in defense work just for the thrill, the result of which has been an increase in juvenile delinquency in many states where mothers have left their homes for defense classes." She declared that it was essential to knit but that the women should know for what they were knitting.

The Mother Singers under direction of Mrs. Bernard Lamun with Mrs. Pat Kenney at the piano opened the evening session.

Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland, Mrs. Seth Parsons and Mrs. Sam Rennie of El Paso presided.

Mrs. R. S. McCracken, Marfa, gave the invocation. Words of greetings were given by Mayor G. C. Dunham for the city, B. L. LeFever for the chamber of commerce and Mrs. B. Reagan for the hostess club. Mrs. Reagan told of a time 32 years ago when Big Spring entertained the first district convention and the district included territory from Fort Worth to El Paso; then of the time it entertained the sixth district with its 18th annual convention; and of the present convention.

Mrs. Rudolph Millard, Marfa, gave the response. Piano selections were played by Mrs. Earl Powell of Stanton. Mrs. E. L. LeFever read poems written by Mrs. Mattie Justice Withers, poet laureate of the eighth district. Mrs. J. B. Young gave the invocation.

Mrs. Hodge introduced the officers of the convention which included Mrs. Sam Rennie, El Paso, second vice president; Mrs. Marsh Lee, Fort Stockton, acting secretary; Mrs. C. L. Holley, Van Horn, parliamentarian; Mrs. Hal C. Peck, Midland, trustee to Austin clubhouse; Mrs. James H. Goodman, Midland, chairman of American citizenship; Mrs. L. C. Brite, Marfa, appointed board member to 8th district; Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, Eastland, federation director; Mrs. Ethel Foster, Sterling City, treasurer of Texas Federation; Mrs. J. B. Atwood, Roswell, N. M., Mrs. J. C. Cunningham, Fort Stockton, Mrs. J. W. Walker, Plainview.

Club presidents introduced were Mrs. Norman Read, Coahoma 1941 Study club; Nettie Lee Shelton, Coahoma Study and Civic club; Mrs. Milton McCleskey, Monahan, Junior Study club; Mrs. J. D. Biles, Hyperion club, Big Spring; Mrs. Rudolph Millard, Marfa, Century Culture club; Mrs. W. W. Boyd, Crane Study club; Twila Lomax, Modern Woman's Forum of Big Spring; Mrs. Cliff Wiley, Big Spring Delphian Society; Mrs. H. C. Stipp, Big Spring 1930 Hyperion club; Mrs. John L. Morris, Odessa Pioneer Study club; Mrs. Morris Jacobson, Odessa Culture club; Mrs. E. T. Cardwell, Big Spring Garden club; Mrs. William Tate, Child Study club of Big Spring; Mrs. Ray Lawrence, A. A. U. W. of Big Spring.

Mrs. P. A. Berry, Stanton Study club; Mrs. Louis Caddell, Midland 20th Century club; Mrs. Joseph Beut, Wink Wednesday Study club; Mrs. F. D. Patton, El Paso club; Mrs. R. S. McCracken, Marfa History club; Mrs. Hal C. Peck, Midland city-county federation.

The antique and art exhibit on the mezzanine floor throughout Tuesday was announced at the session. The speaker's table was decorated with the six flags of Texas and centered with a bowl of yellow ranunculus and nardines.

Texas Exes Elect New Officers

MIDLAND, March 3. (Sp.) — Texas Exes of Midland and vicinity met in Midland Monday night to elect officers and named A. L. Gilberth as president and Mrs. Alma Thomas as vice president. Mrs. Charles Vertess is to be secretary-treasurer and Ray Howard, reporter.

Captain William Nevil, Midland army flying field, was guest speaker on the subject, "Texas Traditions."

Miss Clay, Corsetiere at Wards this week, passes on a few friendly tips on what to look for in buying a foundation garment.

"Naturally, a woman wants to improve her figure, but this must be done properly and comfortably. A foundation garment has to be as carefully fitted as your shoes."

Miss Clay always appraises a silhouette first with the clothes on, to see which parts of the figure must be improved with the aid of a foundation garment. If the woman has any special abdominal problems or needs extra support, these requirements are thoroughly analyzed and prescribed for.

Almost any garment will look and feel all right when the wearer is standing straight, but the real test comes when the body is in action. When buying a foundation garment, be sure to sit down and bend over in several positions, to make sure your garment has enough "give," yet is firm. Garter placement, also, is of extreme importance. The garters must allow enough "give and stretch" so the stockings will remain fastened when you're sitting, and will not easily rip when the knee is bent.

"If you follow these two important rules," says Miss Clay, "you'll always be comfortable in your foundation garment, and satisfied with your purchase."

Board Members Hold Luncheon At Hotel

Recommending Mrs. J. C. Cunningham, Fort Stockton, district president for nomination as second vice president of the state from the eighth district and re-appointing Mrs. Hal C. Peck, Midland, to represent the 8th district to the state board of trustees for the Austin clubhouse were high- lights of the board members luncheon held at 12:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Settles hotel at the district meeting of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

Committee chairman reported on results of their committee work and Mrs. Jefferson B. Atwood, Roswell, N. M., chairman of department of American citizenship, spoke on the workings of the national executive board and stressed the importance of the federation with regard to every clubwoman.

Voting on new officers was to begin Tuesday from 10 o'clock to 4 o'clock, it was announced.

Attending the luncheon and speaking for their committees were Mrs. F. H. Lanham, Sr., Midland, district exhibit chairman; Mrs. D. B. Snider, Midland, Mrs. H. B. Broadus, Colorado City, past president of the 8th district.

Mrs. Marsh Lee, Fort Stockton, yearbook judging committee; Mrs. Sam Rennie, El Paso, international relations committee; Mrs. Guy B. Nease, Odessa, character education chairman; Mrs. J. Howard Hodge, Midland, chairman of membership in the district; Mrs. C. L. Holley, Van Horn, parliamentarian; Mrs. Sherman Roberts, Odessa, chairman of safety in the home committee; Mrs. Lincoln Riley, Wink, Texas Federation news subscription chairman; Mrs. Louis F. Caddell, Midland, district fine arts chairman.

Mrs. V. Van Gleason, general chairman of convention; Mrs. V. H. Fiewellen, district chairman of music; Mrs. J. C. Cunningham, Mrs. Frank V. Patton, El Paso, member of nominating committee.

FLASH PREVIEW OF "To the Shores of Tripoli"

Heading the cast of 20th Century-Fox's Marine drama are Maureen O'Hara, John Payne and Randolph Scott.

The night before he joins the Marines, John Payne meets Maureen O'Hara, and takes her for a ride in his car against her will.

In the Corps, his top sergeant is Randolph Scott, former comrade of Payne's father in World War I and an old family friend.

When Payne learns Maureen is a Navy nurse he feigns illness, but Scott recommends a mustard plaster as a certain cure.

After a fight with Scott, Payne is persuaded by ex-girl friend Nancy Kelly to accept a desk job back home in Washington.

But with the news of Pearl Harbor he rejoins the Corps and sails on the same transport with Nurse O'Hara and Scott.

ON THE SETS WITH REED JOHNSTON

Miss Shirley Temple, a screen veteran of wide and rich experience at the ripe age of thirteen, has reached a turning point in her career with her newest picture, "Little Annie Rooney," and will take several important new steps before the picture is completed. She will still be her father's little helper, to be sure—the father in this case being William Gargan, an impractical inventor—but from there on out things will be different.

For one thing, Miss Temple is getting to be quite a big girl now, so she has been cast as a beginning high school student, and for another thing she will have a boy-friend. Yes sir, Shirley will have a boy-friend, and one of strictly modern design, too, for he not only drives a jalopy inscribed with the conventional wise cracks, but plays the drums in a hot band.

They were not actually shooting during my latest visit to the set, however, and the reason for this must have been galling to a veteran of Miss Temple's long experience. It seems that work had to be suspended for a couple of hours after lunch to allow the youngsters to get on with their school work, and they were busy with their lessons under the watchful eye of a lady who had all the earmarks of a teacher. And when I say school work here I mean the real thing, and not a motion picture.

It can, however, be reported that this irksome feature of a successful career in high school will be played down to a decent minimum in the story, with the proper amount of emphasis being given to parties, jam-sessions and what-not, with Miss Temple, of course, taking occasional time out to help her old man in the pinches.

These jam-sessions, by the way, will not be confined exclusively to the talents of the drum-beating boy-friend and his fellow bandmen, for Miss Temple herself is scheduled for one big jitterbug number, and that is going to be something to watch for.

It will be reported fully in this department after your observer has seen it with his own eyes, but there is no reason for supposing that Miss Temple will not be quite as accomplished at his venture as in the other phases of her work. And after all, she's danced with Bill Robinson, hasn't she? Lots of actors work for a lifetime and never play in such fast company as that.

Fashion Scene

By MARGARET McKAY

Fancy footnotes are due in fashion reporting this week for the smartly dressed are forgetting the classic, conservative type of shoe and going just a little gaudy. Perhaps as a reflex of the defense clothes with their tailored subdued color tones, the femmes want to step out the rest of their time in a frivolous style. You are likely to see anything from a cameo to a flower on the buckle of a shoe and the soles have gone daffy too with a new version of the platform style called "rocking chair" soles. They have a slight curve at the toe in the old Persian shoe manner and are helpful to the short girl in giving her more height.

There are square-shaped heels and square toes and nail-head trimmed shoes, the decoration going all around the lower edge of the shoe and heel and all around a bow buckle. There are buckles to the side as well as the front and Irene Dunne, over in Phoenix, Arizona, making "Lady in a Jam" for Universal, wore a straw woven, high heel pump to match a straw bonnet. The fabrics will not only be of straw, but cotton mesh and patent leather and silks. Carole Landis is introducing the flower print crepe slippers to match a flower print frock and bag. A number of these print combinations will be worn this season.

Ginger Rogers, who always liked sassy shoes, took to New York with her one of the large poppy flower trimmed slippers for afternoon wear. They were in red calf with poppies instead of buckles. By adding a large poppy at the lapel of her suit, Ginger had a neat combination idea.

BEST DRESSED GIRL OF THE WEEK: Paulette Goddard contributes another Mexican idea, speaking of our friendly neighbor's fashions, with a brilliant colored, oversized Mexican kerchief-scarf. She slit the center of the scarf of red, white and green, and slipped it over her head puncho fashion to wear with a plain, white crepe shirt-maker dress and a Mexican sombrero hat. Ends of the scarf tuck under the dress belt at front and back and the two remaining ends form short caps on the sleeves. "The always original young star of 'Reap the Wild Wind,'" has added another glamour pointer to our wardrobes with this kerchief-scarf adaptation.

Record Review

By WAX MAN

This week we herald another band discovery—Hal McIntyre! A few days ago we were listening to a remote out of New York and tried like mad to figure the band hammering out a terrific beat, somewhat reminiscent of Glenn Miller. The announcer told us. Immediately following the broadcast, we heard a record being played on a local station with the announcer saying that the platter was the initial one for this maestro—you guessed it—Hal McIntyre. The tune was titled "Fooled"—and it darned near did fool us; again we thought it was Miller. Later the mystery cleared when we found that Hal recently graduated from Glenn's band. This wax of Fooled is extremely well done for a sweet tune. The song is beautifully orchestrated and a muted brass chorus is terrific. We predict a great future for Hal McIntyre.

For those who really like low-down blues get a load of Johnny Hodges' Bluebird record of "Things Ain't What They Used to Be," a new tune by Duke Ellington and Johnny Mercer. It's really unusual—relaxed, lazy, soft and no brass blast to shake you out of your seats—real blues, like from Dixie.

PLATTER PARADE: Buddy Rich, Tommy Dorsey's drums, leaves soon for the Army air to put another "killer" on the wax — I Realize Now — Frank Sinatra and the Pied Pipers and everything. . . Mabel Todd just recorded with Whiteman, Boy, Did I Get Stinkin' At The Club Sevey. . . Columbia brings out a new album of old Boswell Sisters hits—eight sides. . . Mugsy Spanier, ex-Bob Crosby trumpet training. . . And "T" is about now with his own band, switches from Cash to Bluebird. . . New York critics say that Sunny Dunham is the band to watch this year. . . Barry Wood gets a new medium for Any Bonds Today?—the juke box. . . Benny Goodman's vocalist gets no wise-cracks from the audience—he's a Golden Gloves Heavyweight, Art London. . . Looks like our tip on Blues In The Night getting the Academy Award wasn't wrong. . . Count Basie has a sensational new singer, Lynne Sherman, who reminds us of Helen Morgan—hear her on Okeh's More Than You Know. . . Jerry Colonna and "T" Dorsey stopped the crowd at the Palladium the other night playing a trombone duet—did you know that Jerry played the "slip" for years with our biggest bands?

Brenda Joyce is working these days with Milton Berle in the 20th Century-Fox comedy, "Whispering Ghosts."

Reviews of Previews

Paramount Pictures dominated the preview scene in Hollywood this past week with two excellent pictures, "THE REMARKABLE ANDREW" and "THE LADY HAS PLANS."

Of the two, "THE REMARKABLE ANDREW," starring Brian Donlevy, Bill Holden and Ellen Drew, is unquestionably

Brian Donlevy, William Holden and Ellen Drew are the players in this scene from "The Remarkable Andrew."

the better. It's a plain story of a decent, clean, hard working American boy, Bill Holden, who takes his job as bookkeeper in the city hall of a midwest city seriously and honestly. He is a deep student of American history and a firm believer in the ideals that have made our United States the stronghold of democracy it is. His greatest hero is hard-bitten, straight-as-a-string Andrew Jackson. When Holden is made the goat of a plot to cover up the stealing of taxpayers' money by the political gang who, headed by the mayor, are running the city, he courageously refuses to falsify his books. He is not only fired, but is arrested for embezzlement as well. To his aid comes Andrew Jackson, a living person to him, but to no one else, Jackson summons to his aid the spirits of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Chief Justice John Marshall and Benjamin Franklin and under their guidance, advice and help he of course succeeds in driving the whole crooked gang into either retirement or jail.

The role of Jackson is the strongest that fine actor Brian Donlevy has ever had, and he handles it magnificently. Young William Holden has come a long way since his debut in "Golden Boy" and he handles a difficult role with the verve and restraint of a veteran. Miss Drew, playing Holden's fiancée and having a hard time trying to understand just what is going on, is not only convincing but she scores solidly in several highly emotional scenes. A strong supporting cast headed by Montague Love, Porter Hall, Gilbert Emery and Brandon Hurst lend strength with their fine performances and an especial nod must go to older Thomas W. Ross in a sympathetic part as the city judge who is unwittingly drawn into the machinations of the political group.

At times breathlessly exciting and always crammed full of suspense, "THE LADY HAS PLANS," starring Paulette Goddard and Ray Milland is an up-to-the-minute espionage story. An international group of spies steal the plans of a new secret device and, having had them tattooed on the back of beautiful Margaret Hayes in invisible ink, have arranged to kidnap and substitute Miss Hayes for Paulette Goddard, who is about to Clipper to Lisbon to join the staff of Ray Milland, ace radio commentator for a U. S. radio network. Their plans temporarily miscarry and Miss Goddard arrives in Lisbon in due course, where she is mistaken for Miss Hayes by the Nazi chief (Albert Dekker), and the British Ambassador (Roland Young), both of whom have been contacted by the spy group in an effort to sell the secret to the highest bidder. With such a background almost anything can happen—and does, all making for entertainment that is both extremely funny at times, and always exciting.

MEET THE STARS

WITH VIC BOESEN

As I made clear to him, I can't help but lean to the self-conscious side to be doing this piece about J. Benton Cheney.

Mr. Cheney is a writer. He is the man who writes those Hop-along Cassidy pictures, starring William Boyd, and before he took up this assignment he was a newspaper man, was for twenty years or so.

I could have played a safe and avoided the critical eye by picking an actor or actress to write about, the way I have always done, but Cheney has had such an extraordinary career that this, combined with what he is doing to keep Hopalong Cassidy in the saddle, seemed reason enough to go up a side road for a change.

Strange to say, perhaps, Cheney knew nothing about the West when he began writing about it. He was born and reared in Philadelphia, and what he got learned about the West he got from reading pulp magazine stories about it.

But Cheney, a short, quiet fellow, who probably has never raised his voice once in his life, has done a deal of being in other places. He has newspapered in the Philippines and various key points in the Orient. In China he worked on a paper belonging to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. He worked on the Shanghai Times, a paper in Nanking, and for a time was an editor for Reuters, the British Empire news service, stationed in Shanghai. . . the only American, he believes, ever to work for Reuters.

In those days, between the early Twenties and mid-Thirties, the Orient even as now, had its exhilarations. Cheney recalls the time, during the Jap assault on Shanghai in 1932, when he was caught in a clock-tower by a sudden battle which broke out like an April shower, cutting him off from his office, and he had to lie low while the Chinese, in ambush, rubbed out the enemy with potato masher hand grenades.

In the Philippines, working on the Manila Bulletin, he once broke a story that rocked the entire East. That was the discovery of efforts by the Japs to buy Fuga Island, some eighty miles off Luzon, a good spot to build up as a springboard for the sort of devilry they're up to now.

Cheney nearly got shot for that one. For a while after that he went around looking like Hopalong Cassidy, a gun on each hip. He knows about General Douglas MacArthur, for he used to soldier under him, in the 31st Infantry, on the Bataan Peninsula. And he can tell about Corregidor Fortress, how the innards of this citadel go 600 feet below the sea, and how it contains push button controls for blowing to Kingdom Come with mines any ship that ventures anywhere in Manila Bay.

To tell more about Corregidor would be to betray military secrets. And there's no space for more about Cheney.

HOLLYWOOD

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS: The Hollywood comeback trail ends soon for Richard Barthelmess. He just won a lieutenant's commission in the navy and reports to Washington, D. C., immediately. His final scenes in "The Spoilers," in which he's featured with Marlene Dietrich and John Wayne, will be rushed to completion this week so he can keep his date with Uncle Sam. . . Wonder how producer Eddie Small will feel about filming the biography of Rudolph Valentino after he sees Bob Hope and Bing Crosby in "The Road to Morocco." Bing and Bob kid the pants off Valentino's big hit, "The Sheik," even to the point of carrying women off into the desert sunset on horseback. . . Joel McCrea, says Paramount, turned down the lead opposite Veronica Lake in "I Married a Witch" because he didn't feel the story suited his talents. Or could it be because he's burning over the ad campaign on "Sullivan's Travels" in which he's lost in the shuffle and Veronica grabs all the space?

You'll howl at one scene in "My Favorite Blonde." Bob Hope turns on the radio, hears the Bob Hope program and quickly turns to another station, commenting, "I never could stand that guy Hope."

Ben Blue has written a parody on the Nazi retreat in Russia—"With the Winds and the Reels in Our Hair." The rubber shortage just nipped Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy for five G's apiece—their share of an eastern company's production on rubber novelty miniatures of the pair. . . Marjorie Woodworth and air cadet Louis Zamperini, the former track star, are burning up the long distance wires. He's stationed at Ellington field in Texas. . . Michele Morgan, who fled France to escape the Nazis and finally wound up in peaceful Hollywood, now has an anti-aircraft gun and crew camped in the vacant lot next to her home.

During her recent New York vacation, madcap June Haver was squired around the late spots by John Fredericka, the hat designer. When she left for Hollywood he gifted her with three hats, a gallon of perfume and a note reading: "Never let Hollywood change you. You are so wonderful. So wonderfully corny."

A couple of top sergeants at Fort Monmouth can hardly wait for the arrival of buck private Carl Laemmle Jr. He once ordered them around when he was the Universal big shot and they were hirelings!

Rita Hayworth and Eddie Judson are denying those matrimonial rift rumors again. . . Marlene Dietrich is telling producers she wants Jean Gabin as her next leading man. . . Frank Moss, the writer, and Nancy Coleman are an item. . . Betty Hutton, who should know, denies those hand holding sessions with Tommy Dorsey. . . Sean: Joan Fontaine and Olivia DeHavilland, who ended their long professional feud last week, lunching together in the Warner studio cafe. The Gay Sisters. . . Bob Brooks, owner of the Seven Seas, has purchased the Somerset House. . . Bandleader Al Donahue, who's packing 'em into the Trianon, and his wife, the former Fredericka Gallatin, are dating the stork for Easter.

One of the fan mags hits the stands soon with a story titled "Don't Marry An Actress." It was written by Paulette Goddard.

Victor Mature, commenting on his recent separation from Martha Kemp, says, "After 11 years in Hollywood I still haven't a bed to sleep in."

White collar girls at Paramount are petitioning studio executives for permission to wear slacks to work to conserve stockings. . . Ironic that in one of the last scenes in "To Be or Not To Be," Carole Lombard is shown in an airplane. . . Spencer Tracy is sitting in at the rehearsals of Katharine Hepburn's new Broadway play, "Without Love," and they're trying to talk him into playing the male lead if his picture schedule permits. . . Carole Landis can put a new meaning into a dress. Seeking censorship approval of a low cut 1930 gown she was to wear in "My Gal Sal," Fox studio photographed her stand-in in the dress and sent it to the Hays office. The censors said it was o.k. Then they poured Carole into the dress and the censors took another look. Nothing doing, they said. With Carole in it, the dress came under the heading of corrupting public morals.

KEN MORGAN'S . . .

HOLLYWOOD KEYHOLE

Individuality is difficult to attain and more difficult to retain. Take the case of lovely and talented Ginny Simms, for instance. She's a pretty good example of what we are trying to prove. Along about 1937, Ginny joined the orchestra of Kay Kyser as the femme vocalist. During the past few years, while associated with such an organization, Friends and columnists swore that Ginny and Kay were married or were about to be, and you all know what that does to a person bent on being an individual, and besides, Ginny insists, it is not true. "Kay and I are swell friends and I think he is a grand boss and—period," is exactly what Ginny answers. She continued with, "My family is coming out here to live with me—they are selling their property in Texas and in northern California. I have two radio shows a week and a contract at RKO, which definitely states that I appear in none of Kay's pictures, and if all this work doesn't settle my problem, I'll throw that thick book right back at Webster for a new definition!"

Leave it to Gene Autry! Redcocks took a pile of the late Tom Mix's personal fortune—two western stars, Hoot Gibson and Ken Maynard, went broke trying to make one go to a profit. Gene just returned from his own personal rodeo which concluded a few days ago at Houston, Texas—and believe me, most of his Hollywood pals will be surprised—with a profit. And now the secret: Gene ran the show as if he were producing a motion picture—production numbers and all. Next he had the best horses available, and last but not least, his prizes were the largest—in this way he corralled all the top riders, the fellows his friends said would not compete.

THE GOOD RUMOR MAN: Is Tyrone Power balking at signing a new contract at 20th-Fox, preferring to go on the road with a play for a year with Burgess Meredith accompanying him? . . . The tip is also out—and here it is for what it's worth—Mrs. George Raft is listening with friendly ears to an immediate divorce—and after all these years! Then watch for the new billing—Mrs. Betty Grable Raft. . . Jimmie Durante says, "Don't congratulate me on my comeback, yet. One more option, and my picture goes back on the wall at the Brown Derby!" . . . "The Oscar Levantis are expecting their second. . . Martha Raye has concluded her personal appearance tour but isn't coming back to Hollywood, preferring to stay in New York and look for a Broadway musical. . . Harry Carey's son, Henry, is the new page boy at NBC in N. Y. . . Otto Kruger has been set for the lead in John Steinbeck's play, as yet untitled, when it opens on Broadway. . . Carol Bruce and Alan Gordon have "taken up." . . Lovely Sheila Ryan is a happy child—she's flaunting a wire from Arthur Murray's La Fonda dance maestro, Harry Rothrock, reading, "Heah Ah Cum!" . . . Dinah Shore is being sought by MGM and RKO for a picture. . . Marie Donaldson does a sensational takeoff on Broadway's (and why not Hollywood's) Danny Kaye. . . James Cagney and brother Bill are picking up stakes at Warners and will soon set up shop at United Artists. . . The original famous fight between Bill Baranoff and Tom Santsky in the silent, "The Spoilers," took 30 minutes to film—the battle between John Wayne and Randolph Scott for the talkie version will take four days to complete filming. . . Edmund O'Brien discovered an old flame, Ann Hunter, working in a picture on his home lot—and has been taking her home ever since. . . Paramount is trying to coax Helen Hayes into another screen chorus—studio has a natural for her in "Miss Appleby Gets Her Answer." . . Rudolph Friml, Jr., son of the great composer, has given up his hand for a dramatic career—first job: playing a piano for scenes in Universal's "Unseen Enemy." . . Laird Cregar's discovered Marvyn LeRoy's discovery, Kay Medford.

Methodist Circles Review Book, Make Plans For Saturday Supper

Circles of the First Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service met Monday to hear review of the book, "Our Times and What the Bible Has to Say."

Circle One

Mrs. J. R. Manion led the lesson when Circle One members met in the home of Mrs. U. S. Dalmont with Mrs. W. S. Satterwhite as co-hostess.

The ten commandments were discussed and Mrs. W. L. Meier talked on the Beatitudes.

A social service report noted that 14 visits had been made during the month, 13 trays of food sent, $4.35 in clothing bought, and four bouquets of flowers sent to the sick. The treasury showed $19.75 to be sent from the circle to auxiliary for the first quarter.

Next Monday a box is to be sent to the Wesley House in San Antonio. Mrs. V. H. Flewellen will be hostess with Mrs. Miller as co-hostess.

Others present were Mrs. Arthur Woodall, Mrs. Fite Johnson, Mrs. C. E. Talbot, Mrs. H. C. Smith, Mrs. D. C. Fyfe, Mrs. M. M. Edwards, Mrs. V. H. Flewellen.

Circle Two

Mrs. H. M. Rowe was leader of the Bible study for Circle Two members meeting in the home of Mrs. R. L. Brown. Mrs. S. R. Nobles presided.

On the program were Mrs. R. L. Brown, Mrs. Nobles, Mrs. J. L. Hudson, Mrs. J. L. Terry.

Mrs. M. E. Coley reported that $26.75 had been realized from the forty-two party. The book review to be held Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the church by the pastor, the Rev. H. C. Smith, was announced.

Next Monday the circle members will bring clothing for the Wesley House in San Antonio. Refreshments were served and others present were Mrs. Harry Collins, Mrs. C. W. Guthrie. Two guests were Mrs. R. W. Brown and Mrs. L. S. Lederman.

Circle Three

Mrs. C. E. Bankson was hostess to circle three in her home with Mrs. W. A. Lawwell as co-hostess. Mrs. J. E. Pickett led the study and prayer with Mrs. Hugh Duncan.

Mrs. N. W. McCleskey presided over a business session. Mrs. R. O. Beadies resigned from the finance committee and Mrs. J. D. Jones was appointed in her stead. Mrs. Jones resigned as secretary.

The circle voted to make its money for the year. Refreshments were served and others present were Mrs. G. S. True, Mrs. J. B. Sloan, Mrs. G. W. Chown, Mrs. H. N. Robinson, Mrs. Charles Watson, Mrs. Pat Harrison. Guests were Mrs. F. M. Stimmis and Craig Duncan.

Circle Four

Plans were completed for the chill and pie supper to be held Saturday by Circle Four and Circle Six members from 11 o'clock to 9 o'clock at 123 E. 3rd St. when members of Circle Four met in the home of Mrs. Harold Bottomley.

Mrs. Charles Morris led the study. Others present were Mrs. Stormy Thompson, Mrs. Albert Smith, Mrs. C. E. Shive, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Iva Huneyoutt, Mrs. Bernard Lamun, Mrs. D. S. Bailey, Mrs. W. H. Ward, Mrs. Robert Hill, Mrs. Ennon Lovelady.

Circle Five

Devotions on Stewardship was given by Mrs. Arthur Davis for Circle Five members meeting in the home of Mrs. Harold Parks. Mrs. Parks was elected as secretary to take the place of Mrs. J. A. Myers.

Mrs. Clyde Thomas conducted the lesson on "The Heart of the Law of Love."

Others present were Mrs. Stanley Maie, Mrs. Dave Duncan, Mrs. E. C. Masters, Mrs. Arthur Davis, Mrs. R. E. Winterrowd, Mrs. Bert Shiva. Mrs. Winterrowd is to be next hostess with Mrs. Davis as co-hostess.

Circle Six

Discussion of the chill and pie supper to be held Saturday was held by Circle Six members meeting in the home of Mrs. Claude Miller.

Mrs. Jake Bishop was leader of the Bible study and Mrs. J. D. O'Hare presided.

Mrs. J. L. Crawford was present as a new member and Sam Houston Allred of Houston was a guest. Others present were Mrs. J. E. Hodges, Mrs. W. A. Miller, Mrs. T. G. Adams, Mrs. W. P. McDonald, Mrs. H. F. Taylor, Mrs. W. R. Phillips, Mrs. J. D. Sadler, Mrs. S. H. Newberg. Mrs. Miller will be next hostess in her home, 1204 Gregg.

Miss Laneous School Census Is Under Way

By MARY WHEALEY

These days you hear a lot of talk going the rounds about women, their status in life, and what the world after the war will hold for them. There are some mighty high sounding phrases going on about woman's place in the post war world.

But there is just one thing that is true to our way of thinking. No woman is ever going to be very independent or self-sufficient or on equal terms with a man as long as she has to carry around a pocket-book as big as an over night bag.

Just what the solution will be is beyond our imagination right now. Perhaps numerous pockets like the men have will help. Or maybe the girls could tie a bag around their neck like the St. Bernard dogs have.

Perhaps some sort of arrangement could be worked out to make false crowns in tall hats and stuff them full of pencils, hankies, powder puffs, rouge, lipstick, doorkeys, bills (the please remit kind).

The million and one things that the feminine souls haul around with them weighing them down on one side will just have to be taken care of somehow. Because if the women are going to run the world, Ho!, they will never be able to do it with one or both hands tied down with a pocket book.

Watch a woman some time. No wonder men open doors for her. She only has one hand in use. No wonder men help women up and down stairs, she is continually off-balance with her burdens anyway.

All we have to say girls, is that if you contemplate any big jobs in the near future, you'd better start thinking about the purse situation. It's awful!

School census taking in Big Spring was to hit full speed this afternoon, according to Supt. W. C. Blankenship.

Census supplies arrived during the weekend, and some teachers assigned to census duties started work Monday afternoon.

Attempt will be made to canvass the entire town within two weeks, leaving another two weeks for re-check work. The census must be complete by the end of March.

Meantime, work had started in most rural districts of the county.

School officials pointed out that each child of 6 to 18 years age, regardless of whether in school, should be listed. For each child not listed, the school district will lose $2.50 in state funds.

BUSINESS ROOM

FORT WORTH, March 3. (AP)—Fort Worth ended the first two months of 1935 riding a crest well above the record it set in business, building and general development for the comparable period of 1934.

Yankee, meaning an American, was originally a Dutch word.

Bombing Of West Texas Has Begun; But It's All Practice For Cadets

MIDLAND ARMY FLYING SCHOOL, March 3.—The bombing of West Texas has begun.

Day and night the bombs are raining down, blasting former ranch lands within a forty-mile radius of the world's largest bombardier training school here. But there's no shriek of air raid sirens, no running for the bomb shelters, no casualties, no damage.

The hall of bombs simply means that the "Hell from Heaven Men" are going to school. Cadets of the first class at this bombardier college, their minds crammed with bomb and bombsight theory learned in groundschool, have taken to the air for actual practice, twin-motored AT-11 training planes their classrooms.

Twenty hours a day, seven days a week the 100-pound practice missiles are dropped from heights of 100 to 1800 feet, under all conditions. Spotters on the ground check hits, aerial cameras record them.

Bombing and bombardier form a perfect blending. Super-human in its exactness and complexity of its operation, the bombsight marks a high point in the history of Uncle Sam's genius. The bombardiers are the young men of America; the rich ones, the poor ones, from the farms, the towns and the cities, and all of them working toward one idea: "To be the best there is."

Already hard at work in their groundschool classrooms and the huge bombing trainer hangars, the second class of budding bombardiers is now gaining the theoretical background that will enable them, in three short weeks, to take to the air for their own taste of "laying 'em where you want 'em."

CALF SHOW

WICHITA FALLS, March 3. (AP)—Cash awards exceeding $300 will be available to 4-H Club boys participating in the district 3 calf show and sale Wednesday.

OLIVE OIL THEFT

VAN NUYS, Calif., March 3. (AP)—Three men held a pistol on an employe of the Supreme Olive Company, leisurely loaded fifteen 55-gallon drums of olive oil onto a truck and drove away.

Loss was estimated at $5,000.

The Eiffel tower in Paris contains 7,000 tons of iron.

Band To Appear At Sunday's Rally

Stirring military music and a variety of other catchy tunes will ring in the city auditorium Sunday afternoon when the Big Spring municipal high school band appears on the regular community rally program.

The band, incidentally, will be sponsoring the program at the afternoon, and indications are that attendance at the affair may break all previous records. Dan Cunley, band director, indicated that the custom of featuring a speaker might be disregarded this one time.

Last Sunday, although cold weather whittled the size of the crowd, a lively program was held. Irby Cox led in the singing and W. C. Blankenship made an inspirational address.

Friday 13th May Be A School Holiday

A one-day holiday in Big Spring schools may be allowed Friday, March 13, if sufficient number of teachers plan to attend the annual convention at Lubbock of the West Texas Teachers association, Supt. W. C. Blankenship said Tuesday.

The matter will be taken up by the school board at its next meeting. Ordinarily a large delegation of teachers attends the annual convocation.

It is also possible that a few local teachers will go to the Oil Belt Teachers association convention in Sweetwater this weekend, although this county is not in that district.

How much do you think advertising costs?

100 to 1 your guess is too high!

TAKE, for instance, a widely advertised can of soup which you purchase from your grocer for 10 cents.

Then ask your neighbor how much of that 10 cents goes for advertising. She'll probably say—"Oh, about 1 or 2 cents" or "10 to 20 percent."

That's where you can correct a great American illusion. The actual cost is only 36/1000 of 1 cent.

But here's something else you can mention. Actually advertising absorbs its cost because without the wide volume of sales brought about by advertising, the soup couldn't be sold for 10 cents. In fact, this soup 15 years ago cost you 12 cents retail. Advertising by expanding distribution and increasing sales made economies possible which cut 2 cents off the retail price of soup.

The same economic process works with most articles, autos, soap, cameras, hose, etc.

Advertising is the working man's friend, the low income man's friend because it continually acts to lower the cost of living. In the long run it actually costs nothing but is absorbed by the economies it makes possible—economies which are passed on to you in the form of lower prices, better value and better service.

What to do?

FIRST—Make advertising your buying guide.

NEXT—When the argument comes up, correct the illusion that advertising costs a lot because it doesn't. Show them how it lowers prices by expanding sales and effecting the economies of mass distribution.

TYPICAL EXAMPLES OF THE COST OF ADVERTISING

These small sums make mass distribution possible, lower costs of goods to you, the consumer

Fresh Milk	7/100 of 1c per quart	Tobacco	1/2c per package
Canned Soup	36/1000 of 1c per can	Apples	1c per box
Popular Soft Drink	16/1000 of 1c per glass	Peas & Prunes	75c per ton
Automobiles	4c per dollar of F.O.B. price	Oranges	4/10 of 1c per dozen
Home furnishings	3c per dollar of F.O.B. price	Watches	5c per $2 item
Bed Sheet	(1.75 value) 1c per sheet	Shoes	25c per $10 pair

Bridge-time treat—chocolate logs a la Karo

You'll agree—these are the easiest-to-make, most inexpensive "fancy" ooky treats you ever made.

2/3 each

CHOCOLATE LOGS

1/2 cup KARO (red label)

1 square (1 ounce) unsweetened chocolate

1 (3-ounce) package chocolate sprinkles

1 square, one-egg cake (8" x 8" x 1/2" deep)

Place KARO and chocolate in saucepan; stir over low heat until chocolate is melted. Remove from heat, and stir until smooth. Cool. (If syrup becomes too thick for dipping, stir in 1 teaspoon boiling water.) Cut cake into logs, about 1/2 inch wide and 3 inches long. Dip logs into chocolate syrup, and roll in chocolate sprinkles. Place on rack to set. Make 36 logs, 3" x 1/2" x 1/2".

DANGEROUS BAGGAGE

Chapter 22
Daring Flight

The strain of the next few moments drove Sharon close to panic. No sound within the cabin save the faint whine as someone opened the door, the heavy breathing, the sound of safety catches flicked free as the men watched and waited for a moving target!

Would Tom and his men walk straight into this deadly fire? Had Tom seen her signal? Had she done him more harm than good by coming here, putting them all on the alert like this?

Then she sensed! Almost hysterical, she wanted to laugh, to cry as the sharp sounds burst from her. Through the quiet, they sounded like minor explosions.

Goodwin snarled at her. "Shut up!"

But there was no stopping the paroxysm now. Again and again, Goodwin hung a coat over her head, muffled the sound.

One of the men muttered, "Somebody's moving through the brush back of the cabin, boss."

Goodwin sprang back to his post at the opened door. For a moment, nothing stirred.

"One of them coming up the trail now," Goodwin hissed. "Wait 'til they begin to close in. Hold your fire until you're sure you've got one of them."

Sharon shuddered violently. Surely Tom wouldn't walk straight into this ambush. Surely he'd guess they were waiting for him!

A moment later she heard his voice.

"All right, boys. Better come on out peacefully. We've got you surrounded."

"Keep still," Goodwin warned his men. "Draw them in a little closer."

Silence settled down again to wait.

"Coming, Goodwin?" Tom's shout again.

For answer, he fired twice.

"Okay, if you want to get tough about it."

Flattened against the cabin wall, Sharon felt Dennis' hand on her arm, realized he was trying to put his jacket around her, and trembling so he, too, might have been dipped in freezing ocean water. Gratefully, Sharon crawled into the warm coat. If there were only some other window, some way she and Dennis could slip out under cover of this stygian darkness.

Then, as if in contradiction, a light suddenly boomed just outside the door. Tom had thrown a flare just below the steps, Sharon realized instantly. The whole room, the clearing just around the cabin outside was light as day!

After that, things happened so rapidly, she was never very sure of the details. Goodwin, springing like a cat, grabbed Sharon, thrust her through the open doorway ahead of him. Her arms pinned behind her by the iron grasp of his hand, Sharon was forced to descend the steps, walk ahead of him.

"All right," Goodwin shouted defiance. "Shoot if you want to—like this."

And over her shoulder came the sharp report of his gun. It spoke deafeningly three times. Blinded by the brilliant flare, Sharon could not see beyond its circle of light. Had one of those bullets found Tom?

The Shield

Goodwin's gun roared again. And again. And all the time he moved toward the shadowy trail. There was no answering fire!

"Shoot, Tom. Shoot!"

But he couldn't. He wouldn't. He knew that. He'd be too afraid of hitting her. Furiouly, she tried to wrench herself free. But Goodwin's grasp was a steel trap on her wrists. His fury, his own fear gave him added strength.

Then, at the edge of the pool of light, Goodwin sprayed bullets down the path she knew lay just ahead. Forcing her into a run, he pushed her down that black trail, never holding the murderous fire of his gun.

Stumbling so that she would have fallen to her knees, Sharon heard her own scream as if it came from away off. Goodwin picked her up bodily, burst into a run. Down into the black chasm of the trail, skirting the open beach, he half-carried, half-dragged her along. From the cabin came the furious barrage of gunfire. But no shot followed Goodwin!

Bobbing hysterically, Sharon knew why. Tom—letting this dangerous prize go free because he dared not fire lest he hit her! And cursing her, probably, because without her interference his plan would have worked beautifully!

Still using every shred of energy she could muster, Sharon fought wildly to free herself. But the trail steepened and Goodwin forced her ahead of him now, his gun pressed against her back.

They climbed that treacherous path to the top of the cliff. How she had managed to drag herself that far, Sharon could never remember. Fear and remorse and sheer terror lashed her. And with it all, the knowledge that she would rather have faced fire from Tom's gun than to have fallen into Goodwin's hands like this.

Several times as they scrambled madly up the face of the steep cliff, Sharon wondered why he didn't thrust her off into the rock-strewn cove. But, of course not. He still had use for her as a shield for his own miserable body. So long as she was with him, neither Tom nor any of his men would shoot!

At the top, Sharon pulled herself wearily up the last steep incline, stood, gasping for breath. Goodwin right behind her, his gun still in his hand, hurried her on relentlessly.

"Wh—where—are—we—going?"

"Shut up."

A moment later, she saw the car. Carefully concealed under a clump of low trees, Goodwin's long, powerful coupe stood waiting.

"Get in."

Heeding Sharon's glance around. What could she do? What possible way lay open for her to escape? Better to risk being shot, wasn't it, than to put herself into that car—and into mortal danger!

Goodwin picked her up, thrust her bodily into the car, slammed the door.

"Don't move!" he commanded. He sat under the wheel. The car started at once and Sharon's last hope withered. Tom's men couldn't be very good at their jobs! Surely an alert undercover man should have discovered this carefully planted means of escape! And destroyed it. Or at least, crippled it sufficiently to block that escape!

But the long car responded instantly, leapt into the road, roaring loudly, as Goodwin, driving with one hand while he held the gun in the other, turned up the road, away from the highway.

Escape

Well, Sharon thought grimly, she was going to "explore" this road this time whether she wanted to or not. And shut her eyes against the memory of that afternoon—was it an eternity ago—that she and Tom had tumbled back here, afraid the rutted road might become impassable.

It wasn't impassable but its narrow gutted surface made the ride a mad one and as dawn streaked across the sky Sharon realized they were travelling farther and farther from the well-travelled roads into the steep mountains that crowded along the edge of the ocean here.

"Where are we going?" she demanded once, not really expecting an answer but conscious of a need to speak aloud and prove to herself that she wasn't dreaming all this.

"South," Goodwin called cryptically.

He had returned his gun to the holster, she noticed. Probably because he realized she was no longer in a position to do him any harm and because, apparently, no one followed them.

Apparently, Sharon thought hopefully. Because surely Tom wouldn't let him get away without trying to make any attempt at apprehending this man. But following him now, she clutched her door handle to keep from being thrown against the dashboard as Goodwin braked to round a sharp turn, would be so easy matter!

The roads Goodwin chose, seemed mere wagon trails so faintly outlined in the deeply wooded hillsides, it seemed incredible an automobile could actually pass. And certainly if you weren't familiar with the country as Goodwin was obviously, it would be easy to lose your way.

More than that, it would be hours before the state highway patrol could give effective aid even if there had been state officers stationed out here. For the last half hour, they had seen nothing but wild country. Not even a flashing shack or a forest ranger's station. Either Goodwin was having marvelous luck, or he had planned this route beforehand.

They had climbed steadily since they left the cove. In second gear as most of the time, the big car growled up the steep grades. Daylight was slow in filtering through the thick canopy of trees and it had begun to rain. Softly, at first, then with steady insistence. Erasing even the wheel tracks which might have been a feeble clue for Tom, Sharon realized, her heart sinking.

"What are you going to do?" she asked, her despair making her feeble. Nothing she could say now would put her in any greater jeopardy than she was already!

"Get away."

"What about the rest of them?"

He shrugged, made no answer. Sharon smiled wryly. "In this case, the captain lets his men go down with the ship while he is busy saving his own neck!" she said sarcastically.

"Save your breath," he commanded curtly. "You'll need it later."

If, she made mental footnote, she was still breathing—later! And so spent with emotion she could no longer muster alarm, she sank back against the seat. Goodwin wouldn't bother to take her far in this desperate flight. But what he would do to nullify any assistance she might be able to give authorities once she was left behind—she couldn't imagine.

Or rather, she wouldn't let herself try to imagine! Goodwin's margin for error was too slim now to admit of any leniency. She could only pray for a miracle now!

Two Pilots Killed As Plane Crashes

SHREVEPORT, La., March 2. (AP)—Two army pilots from Barksdale Field were killed instantly today when their basic training plane crashed on a plantation 12 miles north of here, near Dixie, La.

The dead are Second Lieut. James S. Carithers, 21, son of A. P. Carithers, Leland, Miss.; and Second Lieut. Dewitt M. Kelley, 24, son of John F. Kelley, Eldorado, Okla.

Army authorities said the cause was unknown but that investigators were dispatched from Barksdale Field.

A graduate of the air corps advanced flying school at Luke Field, Ariz., Lieut. Kelley came to Barksdale Feb. 13.

Herbert Hoover Jr. Has New Invention

PASADENA, Calif., March 2. (AP) Herbert Hoover, Jr., son of the former president, has invented and patented a device for locating oil deposits.

The device is a claimed improvement over but employs principles similar to those currently in use which use dynamite explosions to measure the resulting waves.

Bankers Ready To Abolish Holidays

HOUSTON, March 2. (AP)—The war is about to catch up with bankers' hours—once a symbol of plenty of leisure.

South Texas bankers asked their state association to revise hours and holidays.

"Because industry is now working on a full time schedule, it is felt that the bankers should do their part by providing service whenever possible," their resolution stated.

Bureau of marine inspection and navigation, department of commerce, maintains sea-service records of about 400,000 seamen.

Editorial -- Winning The War On Home Front

The original observation of 1942 is fast becoming outmoded. The terrifically fast pace at which the Japanese are overrunning the southwest Pacific and the massing of forces by Hitler for a spring drive indicate all too strongly that the battle must be carried to the enemy before another year is gone.

The military experts are making public this necessity, and are warning the people of this country that diverting attacks must not blind us so that we call for too great an accumulation of forces on our own shores.

Donald Nelson has announced that "this is the year" from the production standpoint.

We cannot wait too long. We can not say until 1943.

If that be true from a military and a production standpoint it is also true in adjusting our economy to fit the war needs.

The differences which exist over labor legislation must be ironed out—now. The squabbles about farm parity prices must be ended—now. The answer to the demands of business for contract allowances or profit margins must be given—now.

The rank and file of labor is no more selfish, no less patriotic than are any of the rest of us. The American farmer in general is as ready to sacrifice to win the war as is anyone else in the nation. Most operators of business are more than willing to go along in the battle of production.

Some of their spokesmen in Washington are being overzealous in their own campaigns. Labor is willing, we believe, to make adjustments for the duration—and they can be made without labor sacrificing the gains it has made. But the labor leaders are not taking a broad enough view. Farmers are willing, we believe, to accept price adjustments which will be fair to the consumer. But the "farm bloc" is looking to November instead of to the end of the war. Business is willing to accept whatever taxation is necessary, thus keeping itself in line with war economy. But a vociferous minority is still being selfish.

It is the kind of turmoil that our enemies rejoice to see. It is the kind that can last too long and delay too long any steps we must take to win the war.

We cannot devote 1942 to ironing out these differences, and 1943 to overwhelming our foes. Our foes won't wait.

This is the year.

Washington Daybook—Maury Maverick's Wife Cooks Dinner At Office

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The capital in wartime:

The Red Cross says that since Pearl Harbor, more than 85,000 persons have donated to the nation's blood bank.

The following little item isn't intended to detract one bit from any one of those. They've done their bit and more. But among them is a little group that reserves mention in my book. Here's why:

I have never known a member of congress to shy away from "helpful publicity"—that is, not until now. But up in the capitol, the number of congressmen who have volunteered blood has reached such a level that Dr. G. W. Calver, congressional physician, has had to organize a capitol branch of the blood bank. And one specific stipulation is that there is to be NO publicity about it.

Typical of the secrecy surrounding these donations is the case of Sen. Tom Connally, of Texas, 64 years old. The senator is no shrinking violet when it comes to getting his name on Page 1. But it was only by chance that it leaked out that he had been one of the first to the blood bank hospital, he'll tell you. "I don't know what you are talking about and besides don't you make out that contributing to the blood bank is a publicity stunt, because it isn't!"

The interstate commerce commission has had its share of complaints, but in Washington, at least, it always has been known as one of the leaders in governmental economy. When the order went out that all agencies should conserve paper, ICC was the first to single-paper and use both sides of the sheet.

The commission's latest economy touch is a beaut. Each day, a mailing clerk makes the rounds and picks up the orders for delivery to western clients. In each section, these number from 20 to 150 sheets and it has been customary to hand them to the clerk, rolled up, and held with a rubber band. Now as the mailing clerk receives them, the ICC clerk does a Houdini, slips off the rubber band and drops it back into the box for use again.

Maury Maverick, the stormy petrel of Texas politics, one-time congressman and former mayor of San Antonio, has had a lot of offices in Washington and out, but I doubt if any of them can touch that 17-by-10 room he occupies in Temporary Building E. (It was there in World War I), where his title is director of (state and municipal) government supplies.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds -- Moviedom Says Show Need Not Go On

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Grace note in our Billy Symphony.

Here in Hollywood we are dead-ly serious in our War Effort. Dead-ly.

We are also pretty dramatic about it. We are also just a mite self-conscious about it. We are also victims of our old inferiority complex. We are also just scared to our last yacht that somebody, somewhere, is going to think we are not Doing Our Bit.

So... With suitably somber and muted fanfare of trumpets, and a plain black backdrop, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences makes a quiet entrance. In low tones suited to the occasion, the Academy lets it be known that its annual shindig

(the Japanese willing?) will proceed as usual. There will be awards, and a dinner, but there will be no finery, no dancing, and (presumably) no gaiety. The prescribed dress: street clothes.

Thus, by what Hollywood wears on the occasion, Hollywood will let it be known that Hollywood knows there is a War.

Miss Dolly Delicious, with no thought of the fabulous wisp of diamond-studded mist-and-moonlight hanging in her closet, will appear in just any old thing. Just any old smart tailored thing that her favorite designer can whip up on three weeks' notice to make Miss Daisy Delight look, beside Dolly, like the tired aftermath of a bargain basement stampede.

Dolly won't wear her usual orchids. Oh my no! No such glamour as-usual giddiness. Dolly will have her swain give his orchid money to a Worthy Charity.

So Dolly, and all Hollywood, will know the virtuous feeling which comes from knowing that, through the ultimate sacrifice of self, one has Done One's Bit and aided immeasurably (with modestly lowered eyelashes) the heroic stand of the valiants of Bataan Peninsula and Singapore.

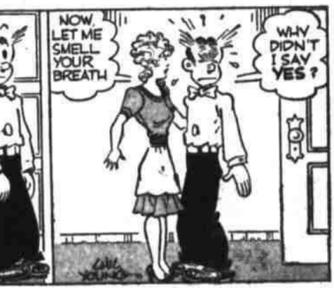

Londoners, from all reports, don't yet know — ah-h-h! — what war is. Poor blind blighters, they carry on in their endeavor to put up a to-heck-with-Hitler front. From all you hear, a London gal who still has an evening dress and a girlie is a cinch to wear same if she gets a chance and to dance in 'em too. This goes to show that London has much to learn from war-wise Hollywood.

Hollywood, of course, knows better than to indulge in such tomfoolery. Once upon a time Hollywood clung to an old bromide of show business that said the show must go on. But that was before the day when Hollywood came of age and realized its true function as spirit-dampener and crepe-hanger to a nation pining for the comedy relief that Hollywood used to give.

C'est la vie, c'est la guerre!

There are 100,000 oil wells in Texas producing a total of more than 1,500,000 barrels a day. Texas production exceeds the combined output of Soviet Russia and Venezuela, which rank second and third in production among the nations.

WPA Men Open For Farm And Ranch Work

Farm and ranch laborers now working on WPA projects in the San Angelo district are immediately available for seasonal or permanent private employment. John C. Burnside, district manager, pointed out in connection with the much discussed farm and ranch labor shortage in West Texas.

Anticipating this labor shortage caused by the draft and opportunities offered for other employment, Burnside said that he expected a constant increase in the number of farm and ranch jobs. "Qualified persons now working on WPA projects will be immediately released to accept such private employment offered them in the counties where they are living," he said.

A survey recently made by the employment division revealed that there are fewer than 25 qualified sheep shearers on WPA rolls in the district, and that these men are already assigned to sheep shearing crews. For this reason, Burnside explained, the anticipated shortage of skilled sheep shearers cannot be alleviated by men from WPA rolls. Although there are more than 100 ranch laborers available in the district for employment.

WPA representatives are meeting with County Land Use Planning committees in the district to set up effective organization to cope with the seasonal employment problems in each county. Farmers, through the county agent and the Land Use Planning committee, will notify WPA officials of the need for agricultural labor in advance and projects will be closed where necessary to allow the workers to accept private employment, Burnside explained.

By meetings and discussions with the county committees, the WPA hopes to anticipate labor needs in the different communities so that WPA labor can be routed to prospective employers when the need arises.

Income Tax ABC's -- Plan Ahead For Quarterly Payment Dates

(Last of a Series)
By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Wide World Features Writer

WASHINGTON — Making the quarterly payments on this year's much steeper federal income taxes is going to be plenty tough for thousands of taxpayers.

It will be tougher than that for those who fail to pay a quarterly installment when it is due. For such failure, the whole balance must be paid upon demand from the collector of internal revenue.

Take a man with a total tax of $200, who has paid his first installment of $50 on or before March 15, but who fails to make his second payment of $50 on or before June 15. He could be required to pay the entire balance of $150.

WPA Enrollees Being Trained To Take Employment In War Activity

Increasing numbers of certified WPA workers in the San Angelo area are expected to be trained to take their places in private employment in the state's expanding war industries. It is announced by J. C. Burnside, WPA district manager.

"With thousands of men and women needed by war plants in Texas, WPA anticipates the return of many additional certified workers to private jobs in factories and shipyards," he said. "Hundreds of WPA workers now are in industries in all parts of Texas and are holding responsible positions. Industry has given them its stamp of approval."

Currently, there are 69 WPA trainees enrolled in national defense vocational training classes at San Angelo, Big Spring and Abilene. They are receiving instruction in aircraft sheetmetal, machine tool operation and arc welding. In addition to those at the schools, WPA trainees are receiving training at the Abilene and Big Spring municipal airports in the servicing of airplanes.

"Through the WPA division of training and reemployment, qualified workers are referred to vocational schools operated by the state board for vocational education," Burnside explained. "WPA trainees receive their normal wages while students and, after graduation, are assisted by the division of training and reemployment in their return to private employment. More than 1800 WPA men and women are in training now in Texas. Former trainees are working not only in their home state, but in Pearl Harbor, Panama, California, Virginia, and other distant spots."

Men who have completed their defense training at the three West Texas schools are now working at Douglas Aircraft, Abilene Machine Company, Southern Aircraft, Consolidated Aircraft, Solar Aircraft Corporation, and in the shipyards at Houston and Beaumont. A good number of men who have taken machine tool operation training have enlisted in the U. S. navy as machinist mates.

Ben Jackson is supervisor of training and reemployment activity in the San Angelo district.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP) — Short covering in a handful of blue chips got the stock market back on its feet today after leaders had exhibited early stumbling propensities.

While there was no particular rush to buy in sold out issues, the fact that the bad news on the treasury's tax program was out apparently inspired demand for assorted high-priced stocks that had been depressed substantially in recent weeks. Closing quotations generally were higher.

Dealings picked up for a while but slow-downs kept the volume under 400,000 shares.

Ft. Worth Rodeo Judges Are Named

FORT WORTH, March 3—Rodeo judges for the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, opening March 13 in Fort Worth, were announced today by Secretary-Manager Davis as plans for the 46th annual exposition were in the final stages.

The three men who will "call the spills" for the bronco riders and other contestants are Floyd Stillings, Cody, Wyo.; Hub Whiteman, Clarksville, and Rusty McGinty, Plains. Stillings is a newcomer as a rodeo judge at the Fort Worth rodeo, but he isn't a novice at the game. He is a top-flight bronco rider and holds the distinction of being the last cowboy to ride Five Minutes to Midnight, a feat he accomplished at the closing performance of the rodeo here last year.

Japan Shells Ports In Philippines

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — Japanese naval units are shelling several ports on three islands of the Philippines, the war department reported today, and are landing troops from a convoy of four transports escorted by a cruiser at Zamboanga on the southwest tip of Mindanao.

There was virtually no ground or air activity over General Douglas MacArthur's position in Bataan Peninsula, the department's communique said, but the Japanese apparently are attempting to extend their occupation of the southern islands of the Philippine group.

Gas & Sourness Find Defeat In Hoyt's Compound

I Was Too Weak To Do My Housework, Says Lubbock Lady. Hoyt's Gave Me New zest, Now I Really Enjoy Life

Mrs. L. M. Martin, 1211 Ninth Street, Lubbock, says: "For years I was bothered with sour stomach, gas pains and indigestion. I could hardly do my own work. My elimination was irregular and I was really a sick woman. I am getting wonderful results from Hoyt's Compound.

"The weak spells, sourness in my stomach, and heartburn is almost gone. My bowels are active and regular now. My food digests perfectly. My nerves are quiet and I sleep well. I really enjoy myself and can do my housework with a zest."

Hoyt's Compound is recommended and sold by the Collins Drug Store and by leading druggists in this area.

Entertainment For Ft. Worth Visitors Planned

Plans were shaping up Tuesday for a dinner program honoring Fort Worth visitors who will be here Thursday night to advertise that city's forthcoming livestock exposition.

The affair, to be held at the Settles hotel, is under general direction of members of the American Business club, but will be open to the public, and all those who wish to attend are requested to make reservations at the chamber of commerce at $1 per plate.

The Fort Worth group — some 100 in number — are members of the junior chamber of commerce on a goodwill swing through West Texas. They are scheduled to arrive here at 5:45 Thursday evening for an overnight stop. Immediately on arrival, they will present a program on Main street just east of the courthouse, and also will have charge of the banquet program.

The trippers are headed by Bill Allen and Tommie Marra, co-chairmen.

Business club members are inviting all Big Spring folk to cooperate in entertaining the visitors.

Weather Forecast

WEST TEXAS—Mild afternoon temperatures and warmer east of the Pecos valley tonight. Scattered light showers over the mountains in the Big Bend country tonight.

CLEAN FIXTURES GIVE MORE LIGHT!

HERE'S 3 TIMELY TIPS—

Here are three easy and economical ways to get more light from your present electric lighting fixtures without using any more electric current. They apply in the home, the store, office or factory.

- 1 Keep Bulbs and Shades Clean. Lamp bulbs, glass diffusing bowls and lamp shades collect a film of dust that greatly decreases the amount of light you receive. Use a damp cloth to keep bulbs and glass shades clean, and dust cloth and parchment shades frequently. You'll get as much as 20 per cent more light!
- 2 Use Light-Colored Shades. Lamp shades that are dark on the under side absorb light, while light-colored and white shade linings reflect light. Use shades on all lights, for they help direct more light on the book or newspaper you are reading.
- 3 Place the Light Near the Place It is Needed. The intensity of illumination decreases rapidly as the distance between the light and the object increases. Keep your lamp as close as practical for maximum illumination.
