

Paul Abalos: A "Latino" Who Became Businessman, Teacher, Civic Leader

Paul Abalos has divided himself professionally into three parts. Moreover, he has turned his business triangle into a success, not only for himself but the people of Hereford who come in contact with him daily. Abalos the schoolteacher: Johnny Clark Jr., superintendent of the Hereford schools, has said, "Knowing students or individuals who must be served individually, Mr. Paul Abalos has elected to enter the field of Special Education. Mr. Abalos, being alert to the needs that students often go unmet, has chosen to enter this field that is often lacking in color and esteem. It must be concluded that Hereford is most fortunate to be the community in which Mr. Abalos has elected to serve."

The activities in his classroom are meaningful and on the level of his students. His plans are also varied in such a way as to develop initiative among his students. Abalos the radio personality: Clint Formby, manager of the Hereford radio station, has said, "Paul conducts the Latin American radio program on KPAN each afternoon. This program is scheduled seven days a week and the popularity of the program has been very gratifying. Paul sells, writes, announces, editorializes, provides safety tips, health ideas plus many other ideas each day on the program. I think I can say without hesitation that his program is by far the most popular program in the entire area. On two occasions his program has been mentioned in national publications with examples of advertiser results and listener response. He is punctual, has a very good sense of humor, is dependable, a credit to his people and his profession. We are pleased that he can also be associated with Radio Station KPAN." Abalos the storekeeper (which includes more than the selling of recordings and Spanish-language publications): Bill Thompson, manager of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, has said, "Paul is a real leader in the Latin American Community but not alone there for he is recognized as a leader in every field of activity and in every group in which he has worked. The people of Hereford recognize ability and ambition and salute those qualities in Paul Abalos." And his wife Pilar has said, "He has fifty jobs going at one time." However, if one is to go by the standard stereotype, Paul Abalos couldn't possibly have been any of these things, let alone successfully. Abalos himself said, "I came from a poor family." He is the oldest of seven children. He is a "Latino." "As a child I had no way of knowing that someday I would become a teacher," he said.

This may be attributed to the fact that I was the son of a couple with no formal education.

But what I didn't know was, that my parents were of the opinion that an education was important even though they had none."

to compete with the rest of the student body."

that he could be off on the nights his school played their football games.

ABALOS THE DISC JOCKEY — Paul Abalos in the process of his daily broadcasts, featuring Spanish-language news and recordings, over Radio Station KPAN in Hereford.

He was born at Rankin, Texas, on September 20, 1926. During his pre-school years, he lived on a cattle ranch at Texon. But his parents returned to Rankin when he was old enough to begin school. But he then moved to Santa Rita, where his father had gotten a job in a grocery store, and rode a bus into Big Lake, where he completed the first grade. After World War II, he re-entered school at Rankin — in a one-teacher schoolhouse for Latin-Americans. "The teacher was Mrs. Bertha Lyles," Abalos said, "who had her hands full in trying to make me conform to school life. She always had company after school because she usually had to keep me in for some reason or other. But this time was not wasted. She began to teach me out of books other than the grade I was in. Needless to say, by the time our Latin school was consolidated with the regular school district, I was able to compete with the rest of the student body." But during his years of elementary school, his whole family traveled to Midland to pick cotton. His father usually brought him home in time to start school right after Christmas — where he received about five months of schooling. "By 1950, I was getting ready to graduate into high school," he said. "At this time my father made a decision that I will always be grateful to him for, as long as I live. There would be no more going to the cotton fields at Midland. He explained that since I was going to high school, I could not be absent so much because in high school you 'have to pass on credits.' My father said to me, 'You can stay in school until you graduate if you can pay your way, because I have a big family and I cannot afford to send you through.'"

He graduated to evening cook at the cafe for a time, but he had to quit when business became slow and she could not afford to pay him. Consequently, Paul got himself a job at a lumberyard. "By this time, I was earning good money and decided that I had to help my father raise the rest of the family, even though it meant that I still had not begun to save any money in case I might go to college." Finally, he became a high school senior. In May 1955, his father bought him his first pair of new shoes that he had worn in a long time, and a new sports suit for graduation. Paul Abalos became the first "Latino" to graduate from Rankin High School! "I never really knew how" See ABALOS, Page 2

Unite To Keep Prices Up, Purcell Tells Association

By EARL MOSLEY
Rep. Graham Purcell, the keynote speaker Thursday night for the West Texas Grain Elevator Association's annual meeting, spoke on President Johnson's current farm program and stressed two bills that he had introduced into the U. S. House of Representatives. He told the large delegation who were present at the Hereford Country Club: "Quit cussing each other (the farmer, the miller and the consumer) and the government — get together and keep the prices up." In reference to farm products. The Honorable Graham Purcell is Congressman from the 13th District of Texas and chairman of the livestock and grains sub-committee of the House of Representatives. He was educated at Baylor University, was in the Army during World War II after graduating from Texas A&M in 1941. His home is at Wichita Falls.

indicated, that the Food for Peace Act would be extended for three years, but said it would be "unwise to predict its outcome at this time." He further stated there would be the creation of a national food bank. He said that all this would also include "the increase in bargaining power and marketing for farmers, and whether they would be allowed to contract for themselves. This is going to be very controversial. But we all know that farmers haven't been paid what they should have been paid for produce, labor and marketing." Purcell stated that there would be a stronger regulatory program to guard farmers against fraud, that this had to do with bonders and packers. But he said, "I don't think at this time that any bond put up by a packer will stop this." He discussed the development in rural areas, for industries in this behalf. "The government is willing to be the coordinator and this might turn out pretty good." Purcell told them that he had introduced the Permanent Farm Program Bill, but he said there was a similar bill in committee now, called the Curtis Farm Bill, which wants the government to get out of the farm business. He said that Rep. Curtis of St. Louis, not a farm area, was not familiar with the farmer's problems, but hearings will be had on his bill. "But I don't think that's what you want," Purcell said. But on this line, he offered, "If you want the government out of farming, it won't be hard to get us out. But I don't think that is the case." He pointed out that without the government it would lead to total disaster. "What would happen if there was no farm program? Farm income would have dropped to the 1959 level. Wheat, cotton and grain would be 'way down in price. And cheap grain makes cheap meat, in my estimation. The price of cattle would also drop. This would cut the throat of the farmer and lead to total disaster. The Northwest Texas area is based on a partnership between the U. S. Government and the farmer." Purcell said the farmer thinks he is losing out because there is no Farm Bloc. "But if the See PURCELL, Page 7

OLD CONGRESSMAN - NEW PRESIDENT — Rep. Graham Purcell shakes hands with Bill R. Waldrep (right) of 1002 E. Third, Hereford, who was elected as the new president of the West Texas Grain Elevators Association.

Association Elects Waldrep President

Bill Waldrep of Hereford was elected president of the West Texas Grain Elevators Association during the one-day convention of the organization in Hereford Thursday. Other officers elected were Donald Bagwell of Claude, vice president; Herb Griffith of Muleshoe, secretary, and Dale Whitlow of Happy, treasurer. Directors elected include Gene Anderson of Bovina, Joe Christian of Brownfield and Wayne Jordan of White Deer. Gene Skaggs of Panhandle, the past president, was chosen board advisor; Dean Rea of Tullia will remain the executive secretary, Wayne Thomas of Hereford the legal counsel, and Brown, Graham and Glover of Hereford, auditors. During the day Thursday, members and guests heard from two speakers. "Before the next grain sorghum crop, every one of your customers will have to decide whether he is going to deal with you individually or is going to turn his right over to somebody else to deal with you in the sale and price of his grain," said Bill Nelson, president of Producers Grain Producers Association, speaking to the group at 3:10 p. m. The very fact that meetings are being held now by farmers with outside organizers shows the advances being made in bargaining power. Even if the farmer does not sign a contract, he is still making a decision." Nelson pointed out the decision of the Secretary of Agriculture and President Johnson was for more bargaining power for See ASSOCIATION, Page 3

Insight To Vietnam War Given By Young Veteran

By EARL MOSELEY
Marine PFC David Daniels, who was wounded in Vietnam, is out of the hospital now and spending a part of his convalescent leave in Hereford. Daniels said that he has been "staying all over town" but can be reached at 337 Ave. K, where he has been spending some of his time with Bryan Curtis here. Daniels said, "I think they could fight it (the war in Vietnam) a better way. But I don't think we should get out. The Vietnamese can't do it for themselves. And I would say that we are winning the war."

at Camp Pendleton, California. He came home on leave on Nov. 7 and returned to his staging battalion 20 days later. Shipped to Vietnam on Dec. 18, he arrived there on the 20th, just before Christmas. Young Daniels related, "I got with my platoon on January 2 and we were on Hill 55 south- See VIETNAM, Page 3

Major O'Brien, while on active duty with the Air Force, worked in the area of aerial search and rescue and worked with Civil Air Patrol Units as Liaison in search missions. He will relate some of his experiences in this field of activity. A number of awards and promotions will be made during the ceremonies of the evening. The top award to be made will be that of a Billy Mitchell Award to a cadet for completion of the regular training series. Completion of this requirement makes a cadet eligible for many scholarships and special activities.

Three File For County Trustees

Filing for positions on the Deaf Smith County School Board ended Thursday with three persons having filed. Those filing were Elmo Hall, for the Walcott district; Floyd Brown, for Precinct 3, and Don Bougous, for trustee at large. Hall is seeking to fill the post formerly held by J. V. Perrin, who is not seeking re-election; Brown is hoping to be re-elected, and Don Zimmerman did not file for re-election to the post of trustee at large. The election will be held April 5.

Three To Run For Local School Board

Al Dziuk, 37, long time resident of Hereford and Deaf Smith County, Thursday filed for a position on the Hereford Independent School Board of Trustees, bringing the total to three persons seeking the two positions open. Incumbents Hilrey Aven and Dr. A. T. Mins had previously filed for re-election to the positions they now hold. Deadline for filing was 5 p. m. Thursday, March 7, and the election is set for April 6. Dziuk, who received his early education in the Hereford schools, returned to Hereford some two years ago, after living in many parts of the United States. He told the Brand Saturday morning that: "We need an alert, active, future-thinking school board—supporting alert, active, future-thinking community-hoping to educate alert, active, future-thinking citizens." Dziuk said in a paid political statement, found on page 3 of this edition of the Sunday Brand, that he plans to be a working trustee, "which means that community service will be my main job, and I'll only use spare time to make a living." The position on the school board is a non-pay position. Dziuk further stated that he would be available to speak to any group and if elected to the board he would be available to all ordinary people of the community, to be their voice. The April 6 election for the board will be held at the school tax office. Election judges will be Tom Robinson, Robert Veigel and Mrs. H. V. McCabe. The two candidates receiving the largest number of votes will be elected to the board, according to election officials.

Film To Highlight Water Meet Here

Local residents will have the opportunity for the first time to view the film presentation of the new California water project at 8 p. m. Thursday when the Deaf Smith County Water Association sponsors its chowing in the Rull Barn. According to Charles Hoover, the water organization's information chairman, the meeting is open to everyone and is for the purpose of acquainting the public with the type of water importation program being sought for West Texas. The movie will be shown by Bob Hand, Lubbock Chamber of Commerce manager, and Neil Johnson of Channel 2 television in Lubbock. Both men recently toured the California water system, Hoover pointed out, and will have comments from first-hand observation. The film strip depicts the project from its promotional stages, Bureau of Reclamation appropriations, and finally to actual construction. Originating on the Feather River in northern California, the huge Orville Dam collects surplus water for the eventual transfer to rich farm lands and populous cities in the southern part of the state, said Hoover. The engineering design incorporates the most advanced techniques, he explained. The concrete-lined canal, 300-feet wide, will carry the "liquid gold," as Californians term their precious resource, to various reservoirs and develop hydroelectric energy and provide recreational sites. At the southern end, water is pumped 2,000 feet high over the Tahachati Mountains. "We feel very honored to have these dedicated West Texans come up here to show the movie," said Hoover, "and we think a lot of our people will want to see how Californians with a desire to succeed will move 4 million acre feet of water annually some 440 miles to change a desert into an oasis."

5:10 p.m., Friday . . . Rains come, settling the dust and reminding Hereford residents that the Panhandle weather still has a mind of its own.

ABALOS THE SCHOOLTEACHER — Paul Abalos is shown here teaching his regular classes at Stanton Junior High School. His first teaching assignment in Hereford was at Central.

many friends I had until graduation," he said. "I shall always be grateful for the many clothes they gave me."

He went to work fulltime at the lumber company, paid his father for room and board and saved the rest for college. He was going to Sul Ross at Alpine, to become a teacher. And he worked during the night hours loading cement bags, digging ditches and any other odd jobs that came up after hours. By September he had saved $340.

"My father took me to McCamey to catch the bus. I shall never forget that I refused to take my blankets because they were rolled up in an old tarp. I told my father to ship them to me later. This way I could slip them into the dorm at night. Because of this foolishness, I nearly froze to death the first week of school."

"I got to Sul Ross before registration and set out to find a job," Abalos continued. "I decided I would not go through channels. I went straight to the president's office to see about a job. His secretary tried to tell me that he was not in charge of jobs, but I argued my case. President Bryan Wildenthal happened to hear the commotion and he asked the secretary to send me into his office. I explained to him that I had only $340, that I wanted to study to become a teacher, and that I needed a job since I could expect no help from my family. Through the president I got a job in the school cafeteria — as a dishwasher."

He worked in the cafeteria about three months but discovered he was not making enough for room and board. He applied for a job as hotel cook downtown and worked there until the hotel went out of business, and he was in financial troubles. Without notifying the Dean of Men, he moved into a small room downtown that he rented for $7 per month.

"I did my own cooking and took baths in a barrel at night."

From there, he got a job with the city mayor and his wife who owned a restaurant, and managed to complete his first semester. He then borrowed $300 from the bank and registered for the summer term, and later for the second semester.

"Things were not going very well for me. I had completed 43 semester hours of college work by this time."

He heard of a job in a one-teacher school that did not require a degree, only that you continue going to college in the summer.

He said, "I applied for the job in Ruidosa, right on the sleepy Rio Grande and was hired at a salary of $166 per month. Since this was towards the end of October, the school trustees told me that I would have to teach on Saturdays until we made up all the days lost. I wound up teaching six days per week for almost the whole year. At the end of the year the trustees rehired me for the next year. I returned to Sul Ross to work on my degree. This was the beginning of many summers before I would eventually receive my degree in education."

At that time, Abalos said, Ruidosa was a little village of a few adobe houses — no electricity, no running water or utilities of any kind. He was teacher, custodian and anything else that required keeping the schoolhouse in order.

"I had children scattered through every grade from one to 8. I mingled with them in their homes, attended their wedding and holiday fiestas, hog killings, and was always invited to goat barbecues. On the Mexican side I traded loaves of bread for tortillas. I took their sick into Presidio, to see the doctor 43 miles away."

On July 13, 1957 — between summer school semesters — he returned to Ruidosa and married Pilar Martinez. His new wife returned with him to Sul Ross. Afterward, they moved to Redford, where they stayed for the next four years.

"While in Redford, I continued my college work on Saturdays and during the summers. I joined the local church, organized a P. T. A. and athletic teams in basketball and softball (although he had worked, Abalos had lettered in all sports while he was going to school.) Since the Redford school had no bus, we traveled in my personal car. The players and myself financed the gasoline bill by taking up collections."

While at Redford, Abalos inherited the job of Scoutmaster and helped with the Cub Scouts.

"By 1961, I had logged over 64,000 miles in the family car," he said, "had taught for five years and was finally going to get my degree from Sul Ross. I received a Bachelor of Science Degree with a major in elementary education."

He returned to Redford for the 1961-62 school year. "I felt obligated to return there and teach since this community had made it possible for me to obtain my degree. But I told the people about my leaving at the end of the year. They were very understanding and presented me with a Certificate of Community Leadership and Service award. I left with a good feeling."

In the summer of 1962, Paul Abalos arrived in Hereford. "My assignment was to teach migrant children who were behind in their school work and who needed much individual help. I worked in this assignment for three years."

His motto became: "You can't teach what you don't know, and you can't lead where you don't go."

Abalos certainly fulfilled the motto. He had been a migrant child himself.

"Then I became interested in the field of mental retardation and enrolled at West Texas State for the purpose of obtaining my certificate in Special Education." He is scheduled to receive his Masters Degree this summer.

"I hope to continue my work with mentally retarded children and contemplate no change in the near future. I sincerely want to do my part in helping these children arrive at a certain degree of 'potential'."

Abalos' other scholastic accomplishments include being vice-president of the Deaf Smith Classroom Teachers Association member of the National Education Association and the Texas

State Teachers Association — and having been named "Hereford's Outstanding Teacher of the Year in 1966."

"When I came to Hereford," Abalos said, "I was offered an afternoon job as a Spanish-language announcer for KPAN. I took the job to supplement my teaching salary. I gradually realized the things I could do with it from the standpoint of public service. My first venture was to inform the Spanish-speaking parents of their responsibility of having their children attend school. We saw the results and have continued this service annually right before school starts. It was not very long until we had other information that could be presented to the public, such as health information, P. T. O. meetings, etc. To aid adults, we have information concerning jobs available through the cooperation of the local employment office."

"After living in Hereford five-and-a-half years, I have tried to gain the confidence of the 'Latinos' and proceed to encourage them to become active in local government affairs through their privilege to vote."

In March 1966, a group of 21 men received their Charter for the Palsano Lions Club. Abalos is an officer and member. Their goal: To provide a scholarship to the highest ranking Latino senior toward helping him attend college. They also provide funds to a Baptist-sponsored Kindergarten school which is designed to help the Spanish-speaking children of Hereford.

"When I came to Hereford, I saw a need for letter-writing, translating, etc. So I started doing this for people in a workroom in my garage," he said. "People started coming. I do not practice law but I do what can be done by the layman in many cases. This is how my business started. I then got a cubby-hole office in the lobby of the Hotel Jim Hill, and have been in business about 14 months. I moved to 145 W. Third last December 1. I've continued all the other things and sell Spanish recordings and literature of all types."

Abalos is also a member of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce (on their Human Relations Committee for 3 years), the Hereford Jaycees, worker with Casa De Amigos and the local Boy Scouts. He is a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church and the local association of Catholic men.

By the narrowest of margins, Abalos was the winner of the 1967 Chamber of Commerce Sweepstakes Award of a $75 gift certificate in the membership drive. He is also one of the 20 "Hereford Hustlers," whom Bill Thompson describes as a prestige group in the local chamber.

He and Pilar also have five children, Dolores, 16; Grace, 9; Billie, 7; Paul Jr., 5; and Roger, 4.

"Perhaps a new word for Hereford has been used here — 'Latinos.'"

When asked what his people should be called for better clarification, Abalos said that he had seen the word used in an El Paso newspaper. "The first time I saw 'Latinos' used I liked it immediately," he said. "It has a ring to it. Actually, it is a shorter version of 'Latin Americans,' which isn't used very often in this part of the state. 'Mexican' is not right, because that denotes only a person who is a citizen of Mexico, which most of the people here — including myself — never have been. And 'Spanish-speaking' can be a little confusing. But Latinos does not. That covers all of us."

Paul Abalos' story can easily be described as the prime feature profile story which all newspapers take pride in. It is the factual account of a man who has had the courage to put aside all obstacles and become a success against tremendous odds. He has made a name for himself. How did he do it?

"I worked hard," he replied. Paul Abalos is still working.

Al Dziuk Details Platform In School Board Election

(The following is a paid political announcement by Al Dziuk, who filed for a position on the Hereford Independent School Board of Trustees Thursday, March 7.)

I am announcing for new dimensions in community education.

I am thirty-three years old, the father of two children. I have been a teacher and public servant most of my working life. I received my early education in Hereford, and returned here two years ago after obtaining a broad perspective on life from living in many parts of the United States.

I believe that we have a good school system, a good superintendent, — and a good school board. But we cannot be satisfied with present success. Our schools need to be future-directed, open to the large number of possibilities of what life could be, and they need to be active now to make sure that ALL avenues of progress are tried. Our teachers and we should be chary of saying that something won't work, that something is too new, that only the old ways can be trusted. We must begin to realize that the school system is there for the whole community, for everyone in the community with an educational need. We must carefully avoid saying that we are limited, that some people, young or old, will not be able to participate. Education is for everybody.

We need an alert, active, future-thinking school board — supporting alert, active, future-thinking teachers — representing an alert, active, future-thinking community — hoping to educate alert, active, future-thinking citizens.

Vietnam . . .

west of Da Nang. We were running normal patrols out of Hill 55.

"On January the fifteenth, we were told we were going out in the field. And we spent 16 or so days out there. At that time, we were put on a 'reactionary' patrol — where, if somebody gets into trouble, squad or platoon, we would leave at any time to help them."

He explained that Lima Company, 7th Marines got into trouble one day. "That day, four Marines were killed and 21 were wounded. I personally was in three hours of this fighting."

Afterward, he said, he went to the artillery compound between Hill 55 and Da Nang. "At that time, Da Nang was being rocketed by the Viet Cong. We were sent out on patrol to find the rockets."

This is the situation when Daniels was wounded. It was February 6. "We went out on morning patrol about 7:30. Ordinarily it was a regular patrol. We had just completed our destination and were going back in. I was at the end of the squad. I caught the first shot."

Daniels said the shot went through his abdomen. He said that he still has a large hole there from it, and that quite a length of his intestines have had to be removed.

"The corpsman came back and gave me a shot of morphine to kill the pain," he continued. "Then he called the squad leader and got a Medical Excavation Chopper. It got there in twenty to thirty minutes. I was transferred to Da Nang where I was operated on."

after a lot of study and consideration, is:

In addition all the good things, the curriculum, the vocational program, the music achievements, the athletic program, that our school system has going at the present time, we should have:

1. A community college here no later than 1970 — using latest equipment and techniques of instruction.

2. Until then, two programs for adults:

a. Advanced courses in such areas as economics, sociology, political science; communications, chemistry, biology, business administration, etc. taught by specially hired professors and

b. Even more adult vocational training for men and women who need skills for jobs (this in cooperation with various agencies, if necessary)

3. As last week's Education articles in the Globe Times proved, most habits of learning are developed long before age six. Therefore, we should have kindergarten for ALL five year olds by September 1969, and even younger pre-school training for children from disadvantaged families — using state, federal, and foundation funds where possible, and supplying the rest of the expense involved by volunteer cooperation from various local institutions.

Stepped-up efforts to solve the dropout problem. We're doing better than we did a couple of years ago, but there are still too many youngsters disassociated with and out of school. There ARE some methods that we haven't tried, and they don't cost anything but WANTING TO TRY.

4. Even more alertness on the part of the board and the administration to promote professional development and satisfaction of our teachers, so as to head off any possible problems experienced by other states. Also a fostering of true freedom and self-development among out young people, so that they will never be able to feel brainwashed or cheated or insecure as their experience expands into a rapidly changing future.

5. Weekly policy reports to the people from the Board and the Administration, surveys of educational needs and desires, and community discussions of education goals and issues. These means, and others, to get everyone involved in the educational effort of the community. Some would say it can't be done, that it's more trouble than it's worth, that most people don't care. I say that it must be done. It's essential, and that we will all be greatly surprised at how the quality of the total community life improves as every citizen is engaged in the educational effort.

I think we can have all these benefits with no increase in local tax rates — our district's growth will care for much of it. Better use of state and federal and foundation money is there if we go at it right. Volunteer community participation will get a lot of this done at no expense.

With high regard for the incumbents and other candidates for the Board, I am inviting them to meet with me sometime before April 6 for a public elaboration and discussion of these items of my platform. At that meeting, if they think we can't, or shouldn't have any of these good things, it would be only fair to the community for them to say so, and tell their reasons why.

I promise to be a working trustee, which means that community service will be my main job, and I'll only use spare time to make a living.

Besides working from my position on the Board for the above programs and for further advances as they become feasible, I will make myself available to all ordinary people of our community, to be their voice. If any citizen should have a complaint, a problem, a suggestion, or a desire, he would be invited to come to my house where we'd discuss it, and I'd see that something would be done about it.

Moreover, until point 6 of my platform is implemented by the full Board, one week before every Board meeting, I myself will place a series of questions in the Hereford Brand for citizens to answer and mail in, to be a kind of survey for the community to give guidelines in our decision making.

I am available this month to talk to any group. And I will be happy to accept the help in my campaign of anyone in our community who believes in the platform and the vision of education outlined above. My home is at 311 Avenue K.

"Chartered bargaining organizations in Briscoe, Swisher, Deaf Smith and other counties in the Texas Panhandle are already in existence. Farmers are attending meetings to decide who to deal with," Nelson continued.

The speaker also outlined provisions in the bargaining contracts now being offered farmers.

The subject of the bargaining bill now in Congress was touched on briefly. Nelson, said, "You can oppose the bill, but you can't oppose bargaining power. Those of us who do oppose the bill should take a positive approach, and should be informed on why we don't like the bill."

The second speaker of the day was Earl Day, Grain Specialist Association of American Railroads, Chicago, Ill., who gave a talk on "A Discussion of Current Grain Handling Problems and Their Improvements in Rail Movements."

Day pointed out the problems that have arisen in the hauling and loading of grain and the amount of pollution and dockage caused by different factors.

Pointing out that when the grain is loaded into cars, there is a good deal of dust and stalks in the content of the load, the weight of the dust and stalk is counted and when the shipment is hauled to its point of destination, this is lost as the shipment shifts during hauling. When this happens, the weight is reduced and there is a conflict on the actual amount.

Commenting on the progress that has taken place not long ago, he explained that when he was sampling grain he wasn't getting the results he should have so he decided to do something about it. After visiting Washington, D. C. with a committee on the matter, the group convinced the department for the need for automatic sampling and was granted the request. In Day's own words, he termed it as "the greatest advancement in the grain industry in the last 100 years."

west of Da Nang. We were running normal patrols out of Hill 55.

"On January the fifteenth, we were told we were going out in the field. And we spent 16 or so days out there. At that time, we were put on a 'reactionary' patrol — where, if somebody gets into trouble, squad or platoon, we would leave at any time to help them."

He explained that Lima Company, 7th Marines got into trouble one day. "That day, four Marines were killed and 21 were wounded. I personally was in three hours of this fighting."

Afterward, he said, he went to the artillery compound between Hill 55 and Da Nang. "At that time, Da Nang was being rocketed by the Viet Cong. We were sent out on patrol to find the rockets."

This is the situation when Daniels was wounded. It was February 6. "We went out on morning patrol about 7:30. Ordinarily it was a regular patrol. We had just completed our destination and were going back in. I was at the end of the squad. I caught the first shot."

Daniels said the shot went through his abdomen. He said that he still has a large hole there from it, and that quite a length of his intestines have had to be removed.

"The corpsman came back and gave me a shot of morphine to kill the pain," he continued. "Then he called the squad leader and got a Medical Excavation Chopper. It got there in twenty to thirty minutes. I was transferred to Da Nang where I was operated on."

I spent four days there."

PFC Daniels was then flown to Kishme Army Hospital in Tokyo, where he spent nine days. He was awarded the Purple Heart while in Japan. Afterward, he was flown to the States.

In California, he said, he was able to contact his parents by telephone through the Red Cross.

He was taken to Lackland Air Force Base Hospital in San Antonio and then to the Corpus Christi Naval Hospital, where he spent five days before he got his compensation leave to come home.

David said that he was not certain how long he would stay in Hereford. He also said that there was a possibility that he would be returned to Vietnam when he is well enough to go.

Credit should always go where credit is due and again I must correct an error on my part concerning the baseball story in Thursday's issue of the Brand.

If you will recall dates for the Borger and Plainview were confused rather badly so I must apologize for that. Aside from that, there was a mistake on the part about the winning pitcher in the contest between the Whitefaces and the Plainview team. It seems that the information used for the writing of the story got turned around and there was another mistake made.

It seems that it was written that Jim Scott was the winning pitcher, but it was wrong. Lynn Betts was the winning hurler as he pitched all but two outs of the game and then he was relieved by Tom McGowan instead of himself as the story said. Sorry 'bout that, but I guess you have already found out that mistakes are made here.

Even if Perryton has been a district foe for some years now it was a bad thing to see the district 1-AAA representatives go out in the first round of the regional basketball tournament last weekend. I'm sure some of you will agree. In the eyes of some people, the Rangers were supposed to be able to defeat the lowly-rated Andrews Mustangs, but as all things don't turn out as they should, the Perryton boys couldn't quite overcome an early lead that the Mustangs obtained. Just in case you didn't hear, the score of the game ended up 64-58 as the Mustangs took advantage of a team of cold and jittery Rangers.

But in all fairness, it shouldn't really matter which team of the district goes on to the district, regional, or maybe even the state play-offs just as long as the district gets the recognition it deserves. Sure, everyone wants to be a winner, but not everyone can as you well know. So it seems fit to congratulate the roundballers from Perryton who did their best in representing district 1-AAA.

Ever given some thought to, or wondered why the National Football League players don't have their names on their jerseys? This might ease your mind on the matter somewhat.

While the league has given some thought to the matter, officers of the league feels that to do so it would require cutting down on the size of the players numbers and since the NFL stadiums are mostly larger than AFL stadiums, it would make seeing the numbers more difficult for the fans. While the argument for not having names seems to be based rather solidly, the subject is not a closed issue and the officers are still pondering the matter.

If you are a football enthusiast, don't think that I'm playing football down, and if you are a baseball fan, don't think I'm knock-in-it, either but it has been said by some unknown source that the way the football seasons are being extended each year, Johnny Unitas may be called upon to pass out the first ball opening the baseball season. And if that happens, well... you've heard of actors becoming politicians haven't you.

In his third year as Yale football coach, Carmen Cozza led the Eli eleven to the Ivy League championship with a 7-6 mark.

As a team the San Francisco Giants had the best pitching staff. Their earned run record was 2.92. Cincinnati pitching was second with 3.65.

Skis have been found in Scandinavian bogs which are known to have been made over 4,000 years ago.

LaSalle College basketball coach Jim Harding played football and basketball at Iowa before graduating in 1949.

Athletic Teams Enter In Meets

The Whiteface cindersmen and linksters set out in opposite directions for the weekend as the tracksters journeyed to Dumas for a meet and the golfers traveled to Muleshoe to open district competition.

Entered in the Muleshoe district golf meet were all of the district 1-AAA teams which include Perryton, Muleshoe, Tulla, Canyon, and Dumas, along with the Whitefaces. While results were not available at press time, they will be published in the Thursday Brand. Following the Muleshoe meet, the team will go to Tulla for another district meet.

As was the case with the golfers, results of the track meet were not available and will also be published in the next issue of the Brand.

Burwick, Childers Selected Among All-District Cagers

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

In a meeting in the PESO Building in Amarillo last week, the district coaches of basketball put their heads together and drew up the 1969 basketball schedule, and then got down to serious business and selected the all-district basketball players for the past cage season.

Leading the number of players chosen to the first and second teams and the honorable mention positions, was Perryton as they placed four men on the teams. Dumas and Tulla placed two men each on the first and second teams, while Canyon had one on the first team, Muleshoe had one on the second team, and Hereford had one named to the second team and one named to the honorable mention slot.

Selected from Hereford was 6-3 senior, Bobby Burwick as he was put on the second team. Burwick managed to collect an average of 16.9 points per game to lead the Whitefaces. He scored a total of 423 points during the entire season and grabbed a total of 199 rebounds.

Another senior from the Whiteface roster was Jim Childers, who was selected to the honorable mention slot. Childers, though he averaged only 4.3 points per game, played a great part in collecting rebounds for the Herd as he cleared the boards for 215 rebounds.

Picked from the district champions of Perryton, were first-team players, Mike Hargrove, 5-11 senior, and 6-3 senior Bob Gobin. Also picked from the Rangers squad were Scott Doores, 6-4 senior, to the second team, and Dick McWhorter who was named to the honorable mention slot along with Hereford's own Childers.

Representing Dumas were 6-3 senior, Ronnie McInturff to the first team, and Billy Sloss, 6-3 senior who was named to the second team. Tulla also placed two players on the two teams

Lueb Is Named Bowler Of Week In Major League

Ben Lueb was named "Bowler of the Week" in the Major League during the past week as he rolled a 678.

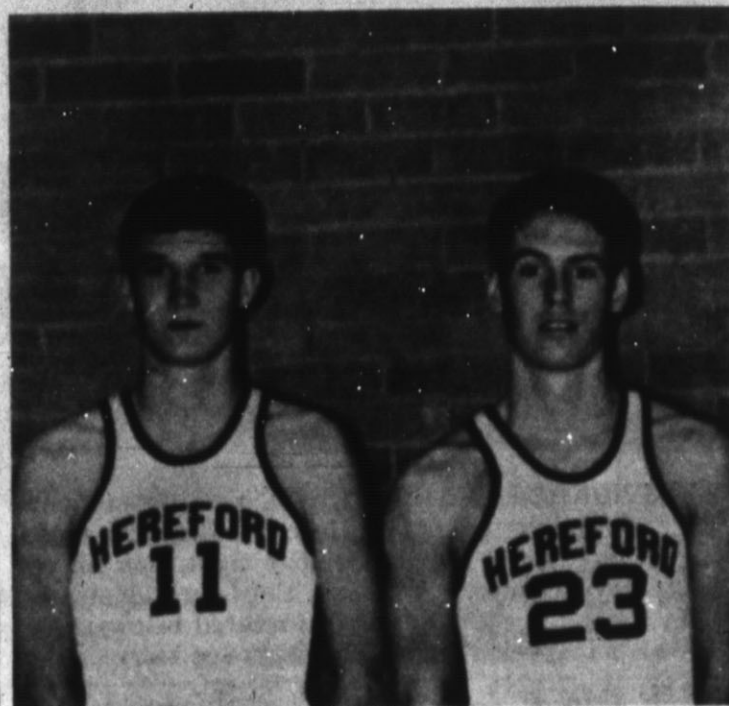

"High Single Game" was collected by L. V. Watts as he rolled a 237, and Dean Hacker who rolled a 233, for another high score.

Three men bowled closely in the bid for "High 3 Game" but Watts beat out Lueb and Mike Clark as he rolled a 621, and they rolled 603 and 602 respectively.

Hereford Flying Service nabbed the "High Single Team Game" as they rolled a 1073, and Boyd Machine Shop collected the "High 3 Game Team" with a 3022.

Results of the games played Tuesday night included Ink Spot 4-0 over City Cab Co.; Hereford Flying Service 4-0 over Hacker and Son Meat Co.; Gifford-Hill 3-1 over Sunset Lanes; Piggy Wiggy 3-1 over Hedrick Dodge; and Boyd Machine Shop 3-1 over Summerfield Fertilizer.

The league standings include Hereford Flying Service, 4-8; Boyd Machine Shop, 23-9; Ink Spot, 22-10; Summerfield Fertilizer, 19-13; Sunset Lanes, 17-15; City Cab Co., 17-15; Hedrick Dodge, 15-17; Hacker and Son Meat Co., 10-22; Gifford-Hill, 10-22; and Piggy Wiggy, 8-24.

ALL-DISTRICT CAGERS — Two Whiteface cagers were selected to the all-district basketball teams in a meeting held last week, and these include, from left to right, Jim Childers, who was chosen to the honorable mention position, and Bobby Burwick, who was chosen to the second team.

4-H Club Shows Houston Winners

Deaf Smith County 4-H members attended the Houston Livestock Show last week and walked away with many of the top awards.

Charles Atchley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Atchley of the Summerfield community, placed 4th in the medium weight Angus class. Atchley is a member of the Happy Hustlers 4-H Club.

Steven Olson, a 4-H member of the Dawn Club and the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Olson, Route 3, Hereford, placed 5th with his light weight Shorthorn and 20th with his light weight Angus. This was the first time Olson had shown his Shorthorn.

Bill Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cole and a member of the Dawn 4-H club showed two Hereford steers in the heavy weight division. He placed 13th and 19th with these steers. An interesting feature about Cole's 13th placed steer is that it placed higher in the Houston Show than it did in the local show.

Kay Clearman's medium weight Hereford steer placed 14th in one of the very strong classes at the Show. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Clearman and a member of the Willing Worker's 4-H club.

Tommy Bezner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bezner, who lives in the Ford community, placed 17th with his middle weight Angus steer. Bezner is a member of the Ford 4-H Club. "We think it is an outstanding accomplishment when the 4-H members continue to place high at the major shows of the state," said Juston McBride. "This completes the show season for the year and we would like to congratulate all 4-H members on their outstanding projects they had this year."

Concerning Veterans

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — What is the limit on the amount of G. I. loan, and what is the maximum length of time allowed to repay a G. I. loan?

A — VA has no limit on the amount which may be borrowed with a guaranteed or insured loan. There is a limitation, however, on the guaranty issued by VA to the lender making the loan. The guaranty cannot be for more than 60 per cent of the loan and in no event can it exceed $7,500. G. I. home loan mortgages may run up to 30 years.

Q — I am attending school under the provisions of the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act. Will I be paid additional allowances for dependents?

A — No. In this program no provision is made for increased allowances for dependents.

Q — My pension as an unmarried widow of World War I veteran was terminated last July when I inherited some money from my brother's estate. My only income at present is from Social Security. Can I get my VA pension again?

A — You may reopen your claim for pension by furnishing the VA a report of your net

Variety In New Fashions Told To Wyche Club

Fashion for this spring is so varied that a woman may take her choice of what is becoming, Argen Draper told Wyche Home Demonstration Club members when she spoke to them Thursday on the topic, "What's New In Clothing." The club met with Mrs. G. W. Duncan.

Mrs. Draper, County H. D. Agent, said designers are attempting to stabilize the hemline just above the knee, but the waistline may be located anywhere. Capes and buckles in the military mode, soft blouses and pleated skirts of the 1930's or mandarin collars and all skirts with an oriental accent are equally in style, she said.

The next meeting was announced for March 21 in the home of Mrs. Cecil Hart. Mrs. Llyed McGee will be the program guest, to discuss picture arrangement in home decoration.

Members present included Mmes. W. P. Axe, LeRoy Bodkin, E. C. Hewitt Jr., Bill Ellis, Wayne Jones, C. F. Newsom Ira Ott, Charles Packard, C. L. Williamson, L. B. Worthan and Cecil Matsen.

worth and your anticipated income for 1968.

Family documents such as birth and marriage certificates should be kept where they can be readily found, Jack Coker, Manager of the VA Regional Office in Waco, advised veterans and their dependents today.

Coker said documents of this sort may be needed to support claims for veterans' benefits and for other purposes.

For veterans and their families, important documents include military discharges or separation papers, as well as death certificates, divorce decrees and guardianship or child custody evidence, he said.

Veterans' claims which may require these documents include disability or death compensation or pension and burial benefits.

Ed Ryan, Michigan State roverback and 1961 football captain, popped five fillings from his teeth when he once tackled Wisconsin end Pat Richter.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editor's Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, Selective Service Director, 200 W. 9th Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q — I am a college student taking ROTC. Should I be classified as a student (II-S), or as a student taking military training (I-D)?

A — You would be classified in Class I-D as a student taking military training.

Q — Why does one take precedence over the other?

A — If a man is found to be eligible for more than one classification, he is placed in the lowest class for which he is eligible, according to a table set up in the Selective Service regulations for that purpose. Class I-D is lower in this table than Class II-S.

Q — Could you list the classifications in the table in the order from highest to lowest?

A — Yes. I-A-O, I-O, I-S, I-Y, II-A, II-C, II-S, I-D, III-A, IVB, IV-C, IV-D, IV-F, V-A, I-W, I-C.

Vehicle Inspections Are Near Halfway Point, Officials Say

The Texas Department of Public Safety has announced that approximately fifty per cent of the automobiles in Deaf Smith County have been officially inspected, as of March 1.

The deadline is April 15. The DPS pointed out that there are still about 6,000 more cars to receive their inspection here, and they have urged the local motorists not to postpone it to the last minute.

This warning is especially true, they feel, in regard to the new seat belt regulation. "He who carries may have insurmountable problems."

The official automobile inspection stations in Hereford are: Orval Watson Ford, 200 W. First; Orsborn Chevrolet-Olds, 211 N. Schley; McRight Garage and Supply, 64.2 E. Second; Kinsey-Osborn Motors, 142 N. Miles; Kemp Auto Repair, East Highway 60.

Also, Penny's Auto Center, Sugarland Mall; Hereford Radiator, 120 Schley; Hedrick Dodge, 146 E. Second; Vernon Lewis Enco Service Center, 403 N. 25 Mile; Dishman-Hale Chrysler-Plymouth, 345 E. First; and Beavers Motor Company, 302 E. Third.

Tests For Peace Corps Are Set

Hereford and area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 p. m. on Saturday, at Amarillo, Room 314 of the Post Office Building.

The Peace Corps uses the Placement Test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

Persons interested in serving with the Peace Corps must fill out an Application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before the test. Application forms are available from post offices or from the Peace Corps in Washington, D. C. 20525.

Fifteen thousand Volunteers are currently serving in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Pacific Islands, working with the people of those nations in self-help projects ranging from food production to health to education. More Volunteers are needed for programs which will begin this spring and summer.

The local Farmers Home Administration office reports that 1967 collectors were down from previous years. James Gouley director, reported that 96.5 percent of current operating loan maturities were paid, leaving a delinquency of 3.5 percent. Gouley feels this delinquency was caused by the disastrous 1967 wheat crop. The wheat losses were very heavy. This delinquency figure would have been much higher had local farmers not done an excellent job of squeezing more profit from other crops. As an example of this good job, Gouley cited the average yield of 6450 pounds per acre on milo. This average yield was achieved with conservative use of fertilizer and water.

Gouley stated that the unpaid 1967 operating cost is not an impossible burden to carry into the 1968 crop year. It will put more pressure on the operator to improve his efficiency through the use of better farm management practices. Most farmers feel this can be done and with normal crops in 1968 they can recover losses incurred in 1967.

No Action Taken On Name Change

By a narrow margin, an attempt to change the name of 25 Mile Avenue to Broadway apparently has been gone by the wayside.

Sam Nunnally, who has his business located on 25 Mile Avenue, explained that he had sent out approximately 120 letters to persons along the street, using the 1966 city directory as reference. The letters had a yes and no box and the question was asked whether the person would like the City Commission to change the street name to Broadway.

Approximately 60 of the self-addressed, stamped letters were returned to Nunnally. A total of 23 persons voted yes to the street change, 25 said no, and one was indifferent. The remainder had been returned because the person had moved and left no forwarding address.

Nunnally presented the letters to the City Commission for study, but no action was taken in the meeting last Monday.

Brown To Bring Campaign Here

J. R. "Dick" Brown, Democratic candidate for U. S. Representative, will be guest of honor during a coffee from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursday at the Jim Hill Hotel.

Jay Boston of Hereford, who will be area campaign manager for Brown, invited the public to attend the coffee.

Brown's campaign will be kicked off at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday with a dinner in the Community Building at Dumas. The dinner will be $5 per person.

Boston and Leo Witkowski, county Democratic chairman, said two or three carloads of local persons will be making the trip to Dumas. Persons interested in going are asked to call Boston or Witkowski so arrangements may be made to go in a car caravan. Brown is a farmer and businessman from Hartley.

Jerry Whitaker Honors Received By Local Man

Two water colors by a West Texas State University art major — Jerry Don Whitaker of Hereford — have been selected for entry in the Texas Water Color Society's annual show.

A junior, Whitaker will see his works go on exhibit at the Witte Memorial Museum in San Antonio with about 100 other water colors from over the state. The works then will go on tour throughout the state for a period of one year.

Dr. Emilio Caballero, head of the Art Department at WTSU, said it was the first time in the school's history that a student has entered two works and had both selected for the show. Membership in the TWCS is gained only in the acceptance of work for the annual water color show.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Laing, Whitaker also will show an acrylic piece in the Texas Painting and Sculpture Show in Dallas April 5.

Hereford Breeders Elect Officers-Hear Tech Speaker

By TYLER VANCE

The fourth annual meeting of the Hereford Breeders Association was held at the Caisson House Friday evening, and was highlighted by the election of new officers.

Chosen as president for the coming year was J. Frank Ford Sr. The new vice president of the group is Olin Caviness, and Don Allred was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

Two directors were also chosen at the banquet. R. A. Davis and Coby Conkright were chosen to fill the open positions on the board. H. D. Robbins and Nolan Hensen still have "one year to serve as directors."

Featured speaker for the evening was Dr. Dale Zinn, head of the Animal Husbandry Department at Texas Tech in Lubbock. His topic was, "The Future of the Beef Industry."

Dr. Zinn outlined the progress of beef cattle over the past few years.

"We as producers have been guilty of trying to convince the housewife that she wants what we have produced, because we have produced it," said Dr. Zinn speaking to the group.

speaking to the group.

"There are four things that are important in the quality of today's meat-tenderness, (which is the most important), color, lean meat, and price," continued the speaker. "Relationships of muscle to fat and bone are now being studied. Fat helps to keep the meat fresh, so we don't want to completely get away from it."

The Tech professor noted that the producer must produce a more efficient animal in years to come.

"Much of the grain we feed our animals will have to be fed to humans in future years, which means we must use it efficiently."

"We need a selecting and breeding system, to measure the effectiveness of our cattle," said Dr. Zinn. He also noted that ranchers needed to produce cattle for "Economic Efficiency" of the animal, and at the same time, chose a good selecting point on which to rate the animal.

Dr. Zinn explained his own theory of an "S" curve in the life of cattle.

"The calf starts low, then gains faster and levels off. At this peak it should be slaughtered, as it only gains fat after this point."

"I see a bright future for the beef cattle industry, but the animal we produce in the future will have to be more efficient than today's animal."

Conference To End Today At Baptist Church

Today will mark the final services for the Missionary Conference at the Greenwood Baptist Church, according to its pastor Rev. Al Baum. The church is located at Greenwood and Moreman. Services will begin at 9:30 a. m.

It will also mark the Homecoming Services for Rev. Graham Jarrell, who has returned to Hereford with his family to re-enter the pulpit for one day at the same church where he was pastor nearly two years, Rev. Baum announced.

KIWANIAN SPEAKER — Robert Jarrell, Assistant Superintendent of schools in Hereford spoke to the Local Kiwanis club on "How a Child Learns" See Story.

Plans Set For Soil Workshop

According to Justin McBride, Deaf Smith County Agriculture Agent, a Soil Fertility Workshop meeting will be held at the Community Center Tuesday. James Valentine, an Extension Area soil chemist of Lubbock, will open the meeting when he speaks on the subject, "Important Consideration in Utilizing Crops in Deaf Smith County."

The afternoon session will last from 1 to 5 p. m. with Dr. Frank Petr to speak at 2 p. m. on "Production Management Practices in Corn, Milo, Soybeans (Proper Use of Chemicals in Weed Control)."

Later in the program, Lyndon Almand, extension area entomologist from Lubbock, will talk on "Insects and Their Control in Milo and Wheat," with "Important Diseases of Crops in Deaf Smith County (Latest Information on Maize Dwarf Mosaic Virus)" to be the topic of area extension plant pathologist, Dr. Robert Berry.

A 20-minute question and answer period before a panel of specialists will conclude the session.

Teachers Group Meets Monday

Regular meeting of the Classroom Teachers Association will be held at 7 p. m. Monday in the Airman Elementary School Music Room.

Paul Abalos, Stanton Junior High instructor, is president of the organization.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER — Congressman Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls, 13th District of Texas, spoke at the Hereford Country Club Thursday night as guest speaker for the West Texas Grain Elevators Association.

Purcell . . .

farmers would get together, I think the city vote would follow. Otherwise, without all the farmers being together, the city people will never know their problems."

He said the grain farmers are not getting what they deserve in price, that everyone else is getting more income, but the farmer was getting less than he was 20 years ago.

Purcell said that he had also introduced the Grain Reserve Bill, which had failed to pass six to eight. But he said there was a similar bill in the Senate now. "Some of the Senators I have talked with think it pass now, and the House of Representatives will probably pass it later."

This bill provides that 400-million bushels of wheat be held in reserve. Two million bushels of it is to be held by the government and would only be released by payment of 100 per cent of parity.

He said that contrary to the old law of "dumping the wheat, the dumping actually kept the price up."

The new law, he said, the grain would be held until the price reaches parity.

"The third 100-million would be held by the farmers. They would have the choice of releasing this grain at whatever the price is. The fourth 100-million would be held by the farmer also."

Creek Project Postponed Again

John Alkin, the Hereford attorney who is representing J. R. Hickman in his action to file application for the construction of a dam on Palo Duro Creek issued the statement that the hearing in this case has been postponed for a second time. The new date for the hearing is June 19.

Hickman is proposing construction of the dam to catch runoff water along the creek and use it to irrigate his land.

The City of Amarillo had filed a protest. Their claim was that the dam would intercept enough water to impair the water rights of that city.

Also filing protests were Harold D. Harris of Lubbock and Mrs. Ruth Conkright Allison of Hereford. Harris reportedly has a desire to build a dam on the creek also. However, Mrs. Allison claims that Hickman's dam would dry up a lake downstream which serves her as a water supply.

Earlier the hearing had been postponed until Tuesday, March 12. The protests came to light last September.

Hickman is a farmer but has a Hereford residence at 814 Ave. K.

NFO To Hold Meeting Tuesday

The National Farmers Organization will hold an informational meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the Hereford Community Center.

Speaker for the meeting will be John Oster of Ethan, S. D., national director of the NFO. The program will consist of a brief history of NFO, the success it has made to date and the methods by which farmers and ranchers can have the opportunities to obtain better prices for their production in the future. A question and answer period will follow.

NFO is a bargaining organization which started in September, 1958, and has organizations in 38 states. One of the newest states to request NFO is Texas, and there are more than 25 counties in membership thus far.

Bridge Sessions Will Be Today

A two-session Open Pairs game will be sponsored by the Hereford Duplicate Bridge Club today in the Hereford Community Center.

Beginning with the first session at 1:30 p. m., plans call for dinner to be served during the late afternoon and the second session to start at 7 p. m. Trophies will be presented.

The price of admission will include the two sessions and dinner.

It has been said, with most people all newspapers editors can be grouped in two classes:
1. Those with whom you agree. They are the good, loyal, hardworking, fearless defenders of the public good that we need so badly and appreciate so much.
2. Those with whom you disagree. They are the no-good, worthless, meddling, agitators who ought to be run out of the community.

And Charles Frye, of Hereford Aero, Inc. reports that a number of people have made inquiry concerning the charter service to the Fair. Actually, this is an ideal way to travel. And you will not have to worry about reservations while you're there either. Charles has taken care to that situation by renting a house in San Antonio and it will be available for use of those who take the charter service — in fact, it's part of the deal.

Advance sales for HemisFair '68 ticket books will close April 5, according to Jeff Carille at the Hereford State Bank. By purchasing tickets before this date, you can save up to 30 percent of the cost. If you're planning to make a trip to the HemisFair this summer, then we suggest that you go by the bank at your earliest convenience and purchase as many of the ticket books as you think you will need.

He's apparently not having any trouble finding takers, and someone is going to sell a lot of coffee in Hereford this year regardless of the outcome. The current political situation within the Democratic party is rather interesting, but most observers feel that Johnson will have little trouble at the convention and, although it will probably be a rough campaign in the fall, he'll probably be president for another four years. Of course, that depends somewhat on the Republicans, but it's always an uphill battle to beat the incumbent asking for a second term.

There is a man in Hereford, now taking bets 2 to 1 (cups of coffee, that is), that Lyndon B. Johnson will not be the Democratic nominee for president this year.

farmers have had to wait for their fields to dry out before working their ground for Spring planting. Of course, it has been some time since we've had the kind of moisture that we had earlier in the year. Due to this, the dry land wheat is looking better than we've ever seen it and a lot of farmers have hopes of making a crop this year. A dry land crop is the topping for the pudding. It will put a lot of dollars back into the Hereford economy that have been missing for some time. Meanwhile, Hereford continues to grow at a steady clip. We have a new medical clinic now under construction, located on West Park Avenue, and we understand also that there will be a new pharmacy located near the clinic, but not connected. Also, preliminary work, roads, etc., leading to the construction site of the Wilson & Co. plant west of Hereford is continuing, although we understand that some plant redesign may delay the actual starting of the facility for a month or so. We should be getting some official information on this soon.

New homes are going up all over town, and many of the older homes are being remodeled. This is a healthy situation. It appears that local contractors are handling most of the work which is a good situation. Too often, when a town "booms", it tends to catch a lot of outsiders who come in for a "quick buck" and usually leave town with someone else holding the bag. We're not trying to say that all out-of-town contractors fall into this category. Certainly not. But we are saying that you should investigate and know what type of person you're dealing with before you make a deal with someone whose work you are not familiar with. And then there's the story about the old-fashioned family. They were still using hand-operated toothbrushes.

North Dakota State has won the North Central Conference football title the last four years. Ron Erhardt has coached the team the last two seasons.

In two seasons at University of Texas at Arlington, Tex., coach Burley Bearden's football teams have a 16-5 record.

Mail Pours In To Local Man In War

PFC Paul A. Hagar, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hagar of 603 Ave. K, Hereford, reported to his parents that he has begun receiving mail in the hospital in Vietnam.

On Monday he told them that he had received 38 letters! Some of these letters, he said, were received from people that he didn't even know.

PFC Hagar received "gunshot wounds to the upper arm and the upper right side of the chest from hostile rifle fire while on an operation," according to General Leonard F. Chapman Jr., USMC. The 19-year-old Marine has been in an Air Force hospital at Cam Ranh Bay, South Vietnam, since Feb. 17.

On Tuesday night, his mother told the Brand that her son had written that he had not been able to receive any mail since he had been in the hospital, although he could send mail home. The Brand had originally reported the story of PFC Hagar in the Feb. 25 issue and had included his address for those who wished to write him. His address is:

PFC Paul A. Hagar 23346J8, 12th USAF Hospital, Ward 10, APO San Francisco, California 96326.

Mrs. Hagar reported that her son had written that he "expected to be back in his battalion in three weeks." She expressed the confidence that he must be almost completely recovered from his wounds.

"Hereford can be proud of its servicemen now stationed in the war zones of Vietnam," leaders in all phases of the city government, along with private citizens, have stated, "in view of the many demonstrations and draft-card burnings in other places. Hereford has not had this sort of unrest. Our servicemen have certainly been cut from real strong stock."

Two Cases Set In County Court

Two cases involving charges connected with alcoholic beverages head the docket for trials to be held this week in Deaf Smith County Court.

Lilly Faye Vaughn, charged with transporting alcoholic beverages in a dry area, will be tried Wednesday, and Jesus Maldonado, charged with selling intoxicating beverages to a minor, will have his case heard Thursday.

Other cases to be handled will include Conrado Chavez Mireles, charged with transporting alcoholic beverages in a dry area, to be held March 19, with bond set at $1,000; Neil Frederick Davis, charged with assault with a motor vehicle, $1,000 bond, trial set for March 28; and Hilton Jones, charged with child desertion, $1,000 bond and trial to be set for this month.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—My father, who qualifies as my dependent, is over 65. Is it true that I can't deduct the doctor's bills I pay for him anymore?

A—No. The medical expenses you paid last year for your father are deductible but they are now subject to the 3 percent limitation.

Another change in medical deductions is the new provision on medical insurance premiums. You may now deduct one-half of the premiums paid for medical insurance up to $150 without regard to the 3 percent rule.

Even if your total medical expenses including those you pay for your father are less than 3 percent of your income, you may still deduct half of your medical insurance premiums up to $150.

Q—I take a payroll deduction for savings bonds and put them in my child's name. Who has to pay the tax when they are cashed in?

A—It depends on how the bonds are registered. If the child is listed as co-owner on the bond, the purchaser is liable for tax on the interest. If the child is sole owner with the parent as beneficiary, the child assumes tax liability.

Q—If I send in my return now how long will it take to get my refund?

A—For returns that are complete and accurate, refund checks can be issued five or six weeks after the return is filed. Be sure to send your return to the regional service center in the envelope provided in the 1040 package for fast action on your refund.

Q—We bought quite a few big things for our house last year. Can we add the sales tax we paid on them to the amount listed in the sales tax tables?

A—No, only sales tax paid on the purchase of a car may be added to an amount listed on the sales tax table. If you believe you are entitled to a larger sales tax deduction than the tables allow, deduct the amount you have the records to substantiate.

Q—I have been buying shares of stock for some years on a monthly investment plan. How do I figure the cost of the shares if I sell some?

A—When no other price identification can be made, consider the shares you sold to be the ones you acquired earliest.

Q—Who is liable for self-employment tax?

A—If you have your own business, are a member of a partnership or render services as an independent contractor you could be liable for this tax. That would include anyone who has net income of $400 or more from these activities, even though you are not otherwise required to file an income tax return.

Payments of self-employment tax make you eligible for participation in the social security program. Details on this tax are contained in Document No. 5047, "Self-Employment Tax." Send a post card to your IRS District Director for a free copy.

A—Do I count my son's summer earnings as support in determining whether I can still claim him as a dependent?

A—Yes, your son's earnings should be included to the extent they were used to pay any of his living or school costs last year. These earnings do not have to be included if they went into a savings account or were otherwise not spent for any portion of his support.

Q—My wife and I went to an expensive charity ball last year. How do we figure our tax deduction?

A—If the event was sponsored by a qualified charitable organization then you may be allowed to deduct a portion of the ticket price as a charitable contribution when you itemize. For example, if the tickets to the ball cost you a total of $50 and you received a dinner and entertainment that would normally cost $15, then your charitable contribution would be $35.

Q—I will have a new address next month. Should I mail my return to the district office at my new address?

A—No, mail your return to the IRS office indicated in the 1040 instructions based on your address at the time you file the return. When you move be certain to leave a forwarding address with the Post Office. Many refunds are delayed because the Post Office is unable to locate the taxpayer.

Q—Can my wife and I file a joint return this year if it is to our advantage even though we've filed separately in the past?

A—Yes, you can. Q—I made a mistake in filling out the pre-addressed Form 1040 I got in the mail. What should I do?

A—The label on your form may be peeled off and put on another Form 1040. Use of this label will help avoid mistakes or delays in processing your return since it contains the information needed to identify your tax account.

Copies of tax forms are available at most banks and post offices as well as local offices of the IRS.

Q—How does the retirement income credit work? Does it reduce your income or the tax you owe?

A—The retirement income credit is a credit against your income tax. Taxpayers qualified to claim this credit, can reduce their tax by up to 15 percent of their "retirement income." Use Schedule B, Form 1040, to claim this credit.

Further details on this credit are contained in the booklet, "Retirement Income and Credit," Document No. 5018. Send a post card to your District Director for a free copy.

Q—I still have not received one of my W-2's from a former employer about it since he is required by law to give W-2 statements to his former employees within 30 days after the last payment of wages.

A—W-2 forms from all employers should be attached to your return to avoid delays in processing. Ask your former employer within 30 days after the last payment of wages.

Q—I am itemizing my deductions. Should I send in my expense records when I file?

A—No, do not send in records with the return. If your return is selected for audit, then you may be required to either send or bring them in.

Note that for some deductions or exclusions, scheduled or supplementary forms must be filed in and attached to the Form 1040. Check your 1040 instructions carefully before you file.

Q—Does interest from a savings account have to be reported as income if it's under $10?

A—Yes, this interest income must be reported if you are required to file a return.

Q—How should I figure my deduction for state gas tax?

A—On page 9 of the 1040 instructions there is a table you can use. It is based on the state tax rate and the mileage driven.

Q—Are the dividends on GI life insurance taxable?

A—No, they are not. Dividends on other insurance policies are not taxable either when they represent a return of premiums paid.

Q—Can a single person use the head of household tax rates?

A—Yes, if he furnished over half the cost of maintaining a home for a dependent relative or, his unmarried child, grandchild or stepchild. Details on this may be found on page 3 of the 1040 instructions.

Q—I was greatly over-withheld last year on my income tax. What can I do to reduce my withholding?

A—If you are presently claiming all of your exemptions

"Before Your Very Eyes"

Using a soap company for damages, a housewife charged that a certain shampoo had caused her hair to fall out. During the trial, the company offered to have a model use the shampoo in front of the jury—to demonstrate, "before your very eyes," that her hair would not fall out.

But the court rejected this experiment. The judge pointed out that, since the housewife's hair allegedly fell out over a period of months, it wouldn't help to see whether the model's hair would fall out in a period of minutes.

Experiments in the courtroom can be mighty persuasive. But, pre-for withholding purposes you may be able to claim additional withholding allowances based on the size of your itemized deductions. This is explained in Schedule A (Form W-4) available at local IRS offices.

Q—If somebody has a job overseas, do they still have to pay U. S. income tax?

A—Income earned overseas is fully taxable for civilian or military employees of the U. S. government. Those who work for a private concern overseas may be able to exclude all or part of their income from U. S. tax.

For details, send a post card to your District Director for a free copy of Publication No. 54, "Tax Guide for U. S. Citizens Abroad."

Q—Our daughter earned several hundred dollars last year babysitting. Does she report this income or do I since she is my dependent?

A—If your daughter earned $600 or more last year, she is required to file a tax return. You should not report her earnings on your return even though she is your dependent.

Q—Are Social Security benefits ever taxable?

A—No, they are not.

Q—Where can I buy a copy of "Your Federal Income Tax"?

A—Most local offices of IRS have copies or you can write the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402. The cost is 50 cents.

cisely for that reason, the law is concerned to keep them within fair limits. An experiment won't be allowed if it is not similar enough to the original situation to justify comparison.

The shampoo case illustrates the point. And in another case, a court held that the reaction of a drug on an ailing old woman could not be shown by demonstrating its reaction on a healthy young man.

On the other hand, the experiment need not be identical in every detail. For example:

A woman shopper, who had slipped on the floor of a market, wanted to demonstrate for the jury the slipperiness of a cleanser that had been used on the floor. The market protested that her test sample came from a different batch of cleanser.

But the court decided the experiment should be allowed. The judge said that, since it was the same product, from the same manufacturer—there was enough similarity to justify making the test.

Of course there is always the risk that an experiment, even though permitted, may boomerang and prove the wrong thing.

In one case a woman sued a railroad for losing her trunk. She sought payment not only for the trunk itself but also for a great many articles of clothing which, she claimed, had been in it.

On the day of the trial, the railroad's lawyer brought into court a trunk of exactly the same size—and a duplicate of each and every item the woman had listed.

"Now, madam," he said with a bow, "kindly show the jury how you were able to get all these things into your trunk."

With perfect aplomb the woman proceeded to fold, tuck and fit the items so neatly that she not only got everything in but had plenty of room left over. Result: she collected in full.

Holman Speaks To Kiwanis

"Transitional Degenerative Grammar," and Inductive Discovery approach," were some of the phrases thrown around at the noon meeting of the local Kiwanis club Thursday.

The speaker was Robert Holman, assistant superintendent of Hereford schools, who's topic was "How Children Learn."

Holman, a recognized authority on English and teaching methods, spoke to group on the teaching approaches now being used.

The inductive approach is replacing the conventional question, and answer technique. The child learns to reason out for himself, the answer to the question presented."

Holman went on to point out the improvements made in recent years in teaching approaches, and in the study of "How a Child Learns."

Trip To Coast Slated By Club

Travel by chartered bus to Corpus Christi for the convention of Texas Garden Clubs Inc., March 26-28, was planned by Hereford Garden Club members at their meeting Friday afternoon in Mrs. R. L. Layman's home.

The state convention trip had been scheduled at the start of this club year, and arrangements have been made for a bus to leave Hereford at 6:30 a. m. March 25. The first day it will take the clubwomen to San Antonio and after a night there, on to the coast city.

Wome, from other nearby garden clubs will share the bus, and it was announced that there are some vacancies so that others interested in the trip may go also. Information may be obtained from Mrs. A. L. Manjeot.

Guest speaker at Friday's meeting was Mrs. Milton Adams, chairman of Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce beautification committee. Her subject was the problem of litter around homes, in public places and on highways.

A one-word remedy offered by the speaker: Pride. She said children should be trained at home by parents who set an example in keeping the home neat and cooperating to keep litter off public grounds.

She spoke of city regulations for use of covered metal trash barrels, prevention of trash accumulation and control of stray dogs which often tip over barrels and scatter trash.

Mrs. Adams asked for suggestions from the garden club members for making Hereford a cleaner and more beautiful city.

Final committee reports were made on the recent district garden club convention here.

Mrs. Ray L. Johnson was hostess with Mrs. Layman. They served refreshments in a social period, when a surprise layette shower was given Mrs. Layman. Nineteen members were present.

Auxiliary, had as her subject, Our Flag. She spoke of the U. S. flag as a symbol of the nation, due respect and affection from all its residents.

Flag etiquette was also discussed, and the speaker played recordings of patriotic songs to emphasize points in her talk.

Student Details Finnish Traits

Finns are individualists, one of them told Bay View Study Club at its meeting Thursday, when Mrs. Jack Gilliland was hostess in First National Community Room. Kaija Laine, student from Finland who is attending Hereford High School this term, was guest speaker.

The pretty young Finn told amusing anecdotes to emphasize her countrymen's individualism, then turned to serious facts about Finland. She described its terrain, which includes 90,000 lakes, and its government, a republic which has remained neutral in east-west conflicts and maintained trade with all the world.

Its native language is spoken only in Finland, she said, but 70 percent of its residents also speak Swedish. Its crime rate is low, it is predominantly Lutheran in religion and school attendance is compulsory for Finnish children through the age of 18.

Main imports from America are machines, Miss Laine said, and Finland exports mostly lumber to America. After her formal talk, members asked questions and began discussion which continued through the refreshment hour.

Mrs. R. B. Miller was in charge of routine business. Other members present were Mmes. Francis Hardwick, Howard Gault, J. R. Allison, Juston McBride, Colby Conkwright, Carl Swanson, W. S. Kerr and Homer Powell.

GIRLS' CLUB
By Mary Schlinick

As the school year begins each fall the VISTA workers frantically try to organize programs that will involve as many of the children in the Labor Camp as is possible.

This year was no exception. A boys and girls recreation program that had been created the previous year by VISTA workers was re-organized. It was not long before it became evident to the female VISTAS that a recreation program was just not the way to make contact with the girls in the Labor Camp. They were not sports oriented. Besides, many of them had sisters or brothers to watch or chores to do after school.

By November the volunteers had decided to turn girls recreation into a club. The outline was nebulous. Remembering past enthusiasm on the part of the girls for 4-H classes, especially cooking, they decided upon baking and cooking as a means of getting the girls together. Many of the girls already did a good job of helping prepare meals for their families but this did not include the art of baking. Most of them wanted to make cakes and cookies but did not know how. Since most of the girls' experience lay in the home and the various chores associated with housekeeping, the volunteers felt they had found a way to make contact.

Even with this knowledge the volunteers were surprised to find 25 girls in their barrack apartment on the day of the first meeting. Not all of these girls were interested in cooking. Other activities also had to be arranged. Games were provided for the younger sisters who had to come along. The club recently acquired a record player courtesy of Robert's Appliance. Everyone now brings the latest records for listening and dancing entertainment.

Occasionally a few of the girls just want to talk. It may be about school and teachers or about each other. One afternoon their discussion centered on welfare and unemployment. This led the volunteers to think that many of the girls are very much aware of the plight that their families are in.

Once the volunteers had the interest of the girls they decided to include a few more aspects of living in the club. These are: bi-monthly trips to the library, field trips, some education in health, manners, and grooming.

It was a surprise to the volunteers how much could be taught

Wouldn't it be nice, if all of us would receive back wages... for attending to other peoples' business.

4-H Members See LBJ Ranch

Ruth McBride of the Deaf Smith County Museum and wife of County Agent Justin McBride reported that some of the local citizens had an opportunity to visit the LBJ Ranch at Johnson City on their return from the Fat Stock Show at Houston recently.

Mrs. McBride said that the returning group had been looking for 4-H steers around Fredericksburg in the south central Texas area. Afterward, they decided to stop at the President's ranch.

County Agricultural Agent McBride, who knew the LBJ foreman, Dale Malichie, took the group there. They were stopped at the gate by the Secret Service men, who asked for their names. McBride asked for the foreman.

They were invited in and had coffee there.

Those from Deaf Smith County besides McBride who visited the LBJ Ranch were George and Steve Olson, Doc Bezner, and Steve Robbins.

The President was not on the ranch at the time.

Jeff T. Gilbreath first came to Deaf Smith County in 1899 because his father, J. A. Gilbreath, thought the High Plains a land of opportunity.

ENJOYABLE AND INFORMATIVE

High Trails West By Robert Franklin Leslie is a book which the reader will hate to see end. It is so enjoyable, full of adventure, information and exciting. The author calls himself "a mountain bum" because he likes to make long trail hikes off the beaten path. His love of the great untrampled out of doors most likely stems from the fact that his grandfather was a Cherokee Indian.

But he is no ordinary tramo because he teaches nine months of the year in Harvard College of Hollywood as head professor of languages. It is in the three months of summer and on weekends that he follows his hobby of hiking or boating. These travels have taken him along all three western coast states and most of the adjoining states and into Canada and Mexico. In his trips he has traveled over mountains, across deserts and

Dave Swanson In Campus Race

RAPID CITY, S. D. — Dave Swanson of Hereford is announced as one of four candidates as Student Association President at South Dakota Tech School of Mines and Technology, it was announced this week.

Swanson is a junior chemistry major there.

The election will take place on Wednesday.

In addition to duties as student association president, the victor will inherit the chairmanship of the student board of control, a committee regulating student activities and funds.

down rivers to cover 4,000 miles.

Often there is great risk involved. Sometimes he travels alone or he may pick up a travel companion on the trail. Other times he rides herd on a group of young boys. A personal friend who has this same bent for adventure may go along. At other times men who know the country will accompany him. Once an educated Indian, whom he had met on a previous hike was his partner in covering unmapped areas of the reservation. In spite of the fact that this Indian held a degree, he was the medicine man of the tribe. He gathered herbs to be used in his rites while on this trip.

The first rule of travel by boat on the river is never to go alone. No matter how experienced you are, this rule holds. And so does the second-always to have a life preserver. Once he broke both of these rules. One of the most interesting experiences was his travel down the lower part of the Rio Grande. But it was not the river where his danger lay on this trip.

The author is well versed in river gold-panning and the finding of silver veins, which he works at times. He also has a knowledge of precious stones and historical artifacts. This knowledge and work often pay for his vacation trips.

He does not try to live off the land but does have the ability to find plants and to fish in order to supplement the diet of food he carries, or is able to pick up at certain points along the planned route.

“It Might

As

Be Spring”

NOT YET BY THE CALENDAR and not yet by the variable weather is it really springtime in Hereford, but early blossoms, like this forsythia billowing over the wall at the C. W. Seed residence, 129 Star, have been predicting warmer days to come. Miss Sheila Rhodes gives the customary pretty-girl touch to the flowery photograph by Marshall Day of The Brand staff.

Home Fulfills Dream

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Childhood dreams do come true sometimes, Mrs. Robert Pope observes.

AS A YOUNGSTER she felt that living on a ranch and having horses to ride would be the apex of happiness; although she has lost the childish enthusiasm, she has a sense of achievement now that her dream is realized. The Popes moved last August to the Harris Big 12 ranch 15 miles north of Hereford and Mrs. Pope is learning again to ride although she says, "I hadn't been on a horse since I was a kid. To tell the truth, I'm a little bit afraid of them now!" Blonde Mrs. Pope, who shows deep dimples when she smiles, likes the outdoors, for work or play, and her forthright manner indicates that she will forget her timidity about riding with a little more time on the ranch.

AFTER LIVING three months in a small guest house on the ranch, the Popes got in to their new brick home near the entrance gates on Farm Road 1412, in November. She likes its location on the wide slope of a draw which curves back toward the west to make a picturesque setting for the ranch buildings.

She is working on the yard, where a new driveway is being built, setting roses and shrubs, planting grass and getting redy to put out evergreens, pecan and fruit trees. That work appeals to her more than the interior painting which the Popes have done in the attractive ranch-style house.

Mrs. Pope liked to play basketball and volleyball when she was in school at McGregor and Lubbock, but has had little time for the outdoor sports she enjoys, since she has been a homemaker. She has been employed "off and on" a great deal of the time, as bookkeeper or real estate salesman.

HER WORK has been part-time because she wants to be with her children while they are growing up, so she takes only employment which permits her to be at home while they are in school. Daughter Pamela is 15 years old and Robert Jr., whom she says "will be a good rancher someday and is quite a cowboy now," is 11.

Lubbock had been her home about 20 years before she moved here. She was born near Waco and her family lived on a farm for a time where she was small, but her husband "has farmed all his life," even while they were living in the city.

They attend the Methodist Church and Mrs. Pope has worked for several years with the Youth Fellowship. Now that the new house is "almost finished, not quite," she hopes to have time to make more acquaintances and perhaps join organizations in which she is interested.

Charm Tips Given Club By Speaker

Mrs. Tommy Bischoff, charm instructor at Hereford High School, was speaker at the meeting of Simms Study-Craft Club Wednesday in First National Bank.

Introduced by Mrs. Jim Perrin, Mrs. Bischoff gave tips in the proper way to sit and walk and discussed such items as cosmetics and clothing. A question and answer session followed.

Guests attending were Mrs. Liza Hester and Mrs. Rob Blewins.

Members at the meeting were Misses F. L. Eicke, Julian Perrin, Emmitt Young, Terrell Hodges, Willis Duggan, Robert Lloyd, Glenn Rusk, Arlis Edwards, Tom Bullard, Lennon Young, James Bullard, Jim Cavin, J. M. Boothe and Leland Burns.

Next meeting for the organization will be April 3 with the hostess to be Mrs. James Bullard. Members will meet for lunch at 12:15 p. m. at the Caison House and then begin the regular meeting at 1:30 p. m. at First National Community Room.

Award Trip Is Reported By Winner

An oration which won her a trip last year to Washington, D. C., and a report of the trip, were given by Levenie Benefield Hereford High School student, for La Plata Club's program this week. Mrs. Jack Brown was hostess in her home.

Miss Benefield was winner of competition sponsored by the local Rural Electric Cooperative. She told of sightseeing in the nation's capital on the trip which was awarded as first prize.

Plans were made for celebration of the club's 35th anniversary at its next meeting, March 28. Mrs. Ken Rogers conducted business and a social period followed.

Two-Day Camp Set For County 4-H Members

A county 4-H camp with workshops, recreation and discussions, will be held, June 10-12, it was announced at the March meeting of the County 4-H Council in Community Center. Planning for the camp began at the meeting.

Talks on various phases of 4-H Club work will be a part of the program, with discussions following. Workshops will be held on papier mache craft for girls and leather craft for boys. Recreation will include volleyball horseback riding and hiking.

Jane Witkowski, Council president, conducted the planning session.

In 1916, C. C. Ferguson sold a carload of yearling bulls from Deaf Smith County to Sweetwater County for $77.50 per head.

gracious thanks for convention publicity, then added:

"We have never been extended more outstanding hospitality in any city, either on a district or state level. Hereford is to be commended for the outstanding job they do in welcoming their visitors."

Shall we all take a bow? And say, "Thank you, Mrs. Coll. Come back to see us!"

will serve as vice president.

Slumber Party Honors Girl On 12th Birthday

A slumber party honored Dana Brinkley on her 12th birthday Thursday night, when eight friends were guests in her home. Fruit drinks and birthday cake were served in the afternoon; there were two cakes, one decorated with a teenage girl figurine, the other with miniature ballerinas.

After a wiener roast in the back yard, the group watched television, danced, tried new hairstyles and napped. Breakfast was served Friday morning to the honoree and Denise Strange, Susan Calderas, Margaret Cantu, Brenda and Lenora Markham, Kelly Daniels, Theresa Pruitt and Teresa Vargas.

invocation.

Mrs. Lookingbill introduced Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ethridge as program guests, to present a taped recording of the address on Legal Rights of Texas Women which was given by Hermine Tobolowsky, Dallas lawyer, at a luncheon of the Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs last fall.

Mrs. Tobolowsky told of attempts in recent years to get a bill through the Texas legislature which would give women equal rights with men in employment, ownership and control of property and guardianship of children. She termed present state laws on these matters obsolete and unjust.

As this month's project, club members contributed to the L. B. Munday Scholarship Fund which is maintained by the Top of Texas District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. They were reminded that this is Public School Week and asked to visit schools.

Other members present were Misses Lee Curry, Earl Lance Jr. and a life member, Mrs. C. R. Walsler.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

One of the big old trees in front of the county hospital was being removed when I was picking up the hospital news the other day, but to my horrified question, the girls in the office explained that it was taken out because it had died, and that there is no move afoot to strip the lawn of its trees.

TO ME, A WEST Texan who has never seen enough trees in my life and never expect to, it is little short of a crime to cut down a tree which has taken a quarter-century or more to grow in this tree-short country.

At any rate, anyone who has one cut down should certainly have good reasons for it — and the fact that a landscape expert said a tree was out of place there, is not even a pretty good reason to me. No tree is out of place in West Texas. Period.

Of course a house or a road may be out of place if they want to displace a tree, but the tree is needed right there!

And I certainly hope that whoever is responsible for the drastic cutback of the nice elms on Stanton Junior High campus, had a mighty good reason. Those trees, and the shade they cast, made the whole east end of Park Avenue a pleasant drive in summer. Now they are a sad sight, and will be for another growing season or two.

NOTE TO Katie McGeehee: I was mighty sorry to find you in the hospital, and hope you are mending fast from that accident.

Of course Katie was looking her usual perky self when I stopped for a minute in her room, and was surrounded by more flowers than a prima donna on opening night. She seemed a little disgusted with herself that she would fall when she was only going next door, to church, from her own house.

WHEN SOMEONE told me a few weeks ago that Mrs. Herschel Black "was awfully good at making things" and should be an interesting subject for a story I was pleased that someone else should take the trouble to tell me of an interesting person, so I promptly phoned Mrs. Black.

Thinking that she was one of those handy-with-your-hands people who make ceramics or decoupage or hooked rugs or paper flowers, I asked her for a recipe and planned to write a not-too-unusual a story about her. When I went to see her, I found that one of the "things" she made lately was a ten-room split-level house.

Not all by herself, of course, but the work the Black family did on their home was worth a full page with pictures in the Sunday paper and I hope you enjoyed the saga, with Tyler Vance's photographs, last Sunday. Maybe you looked it over, and if you know petite Mrs. Black, with her big blue eyes, maybe you thought, "Hm-mmm pretty good, if she could only cook!"

Well, she can, and she gave me a recipe she likes. Says she has found it makes a very good snack-type cake to serve friends who call to enjoy her new home with her. Here it is: SOUR CREAM COFFEE CAKE

Mix well 1 cup butter, 2 eggs and 2 cups sugar, but don't overbeat. Mix 2 cups flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1/4 tsp. salt and 1 cup sour cream and add to the egg mixture. Stir well.

Add a few chopped nuts to a mixture of 4 tb. sugar and 1 tb. cinnamon. Sprinkle some of this in the bottom of a pan. Pour half the cake mixture in; sprinkle more sugar mix, then remainder of cake mix, and last a dusting of the cinnamon-sugar mix on top.

Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

A BOUQUET FOR the whole town was included in a note received this week from Mrs. Lee Coll of Lubbock, district governor of the garden club group which held its spring convention here Feb. 26 and 27. She sent

Apartment House Complex Is Answer To Growing City

Announcement of a new seven-unit, 76-living quarter, apartment house to be constructed here comes as the answer to past and present growth of the community.

Even as things stand today, occupancy would run high if the apartment complex were in operation. Following construction of the new parking plant and other projects already announced, there seems little doubt that the additional housing will be sorely needed — probably before it is completed.

Of equal importance is the fact that people have such confidence in the community to risk so much on Hereford's future growth.

Unlike most other growing communities, Hereford has been most fortunate in that it has not over-built anywhere along the line. Rentals of the type under discussion were just as scarce 30 years ago as they are today and, in view of projected development, they will be just as scarce when the new complex is completed as they are now.

A review of building permits quickly discloses the fact that although the totals are large, so are many of the permits. People are building permanent homes more frequently that they build individual rental units as a rule, which makes the apartment complex all the more desirable in that it will afford many additional luxuries at a reasonable rental cost.

All in all, the announcement classifies definitely as "good news" for the community, and we feel sure it will classify in the same category for the promoters and sponsors.

Dimmitt Housing Project Will Serve As Guideline

While we rejoice with neighboring Dimmitt over the installation of a new $992,820 migratory labor housing project, underwritten primarily with federal money, we cannot help but wonder what the fine, modern complex will look like five years from now. Also 33 years from now when the loans are due to mature?

We raise this question primarily from observation and experience in our own community, where less lavish projects on a smaller scale have not been too successful. Nor can we help but wonder if a parallel fate does not await some of the slum clearance and model housing proposed in so many cities through millions of dollars in federal grants.

In theory the projects should work, but due to some quirk of human nature most of us are more inclined to appreciate and take care of the things for which we sacrifice and work. As a result, many of the generally accepted "do-gooder" programs have either gone sour or back-fired along the way.

Meanwhile, the Castro County complex is easily one of the larger new housing developments for migratory labor in the entire country — and it should serve as a guide for this entire area. If it works out well, weathers migratory occupancy at the low rental schedules of $13.00 to $15.00 per week, and amortizes the federal loan, every community on the High Plains has an example of what should be done.

More important, if it keeps people in the rural areas from migrating to the cities, it has served its purpose well, and we doubt if there is a single community in the irrigation belt of West Texas which could not raise a comparable total to the $9,440 invested in the project by Castro farmers and other association members.

Seat Belts Gaining In Importance

We have encountered very little complaint centering on the new automobile regulation which requires seat belts in all cars this side of 1962 models, probably because a large portion of the automobiles already have seat belts installed.

It is also possible that publicity centering around the fact that seat belts actually do save lives has sold most people on the idea that the belts are definitely worthwhile. To say the least, voluntary installations were numerous even before the belts were required by law.

At the same time, we cannot help but wonder why folks in 1961 models should be exempt. The older models, it seems to us, would find seat belt installations even more beneficial than the later models which are likely to carry more safety features than their predecessors. Surely, it isn't that the State of Texas figures anyone driving an older model isn't worth saving.

Seat belts are also beginning to figure in occasional insurance claims, especially in policies which declare that the insured must exercise every possible precaution. Failure to fasten one's seat belt has been cited as violation in more and more people.

Meanwhile, more and more people are developing the habit of fastening their seat belts when they get into the car, which is an excellent development since the belts serve very little purpose until they have been properly attached. This, according to the Texas Highway Department is progress, but not to Wick Fowler, Austin humorist, who recently declared:

"The horse used to wear the harness. Now it's the passenger."

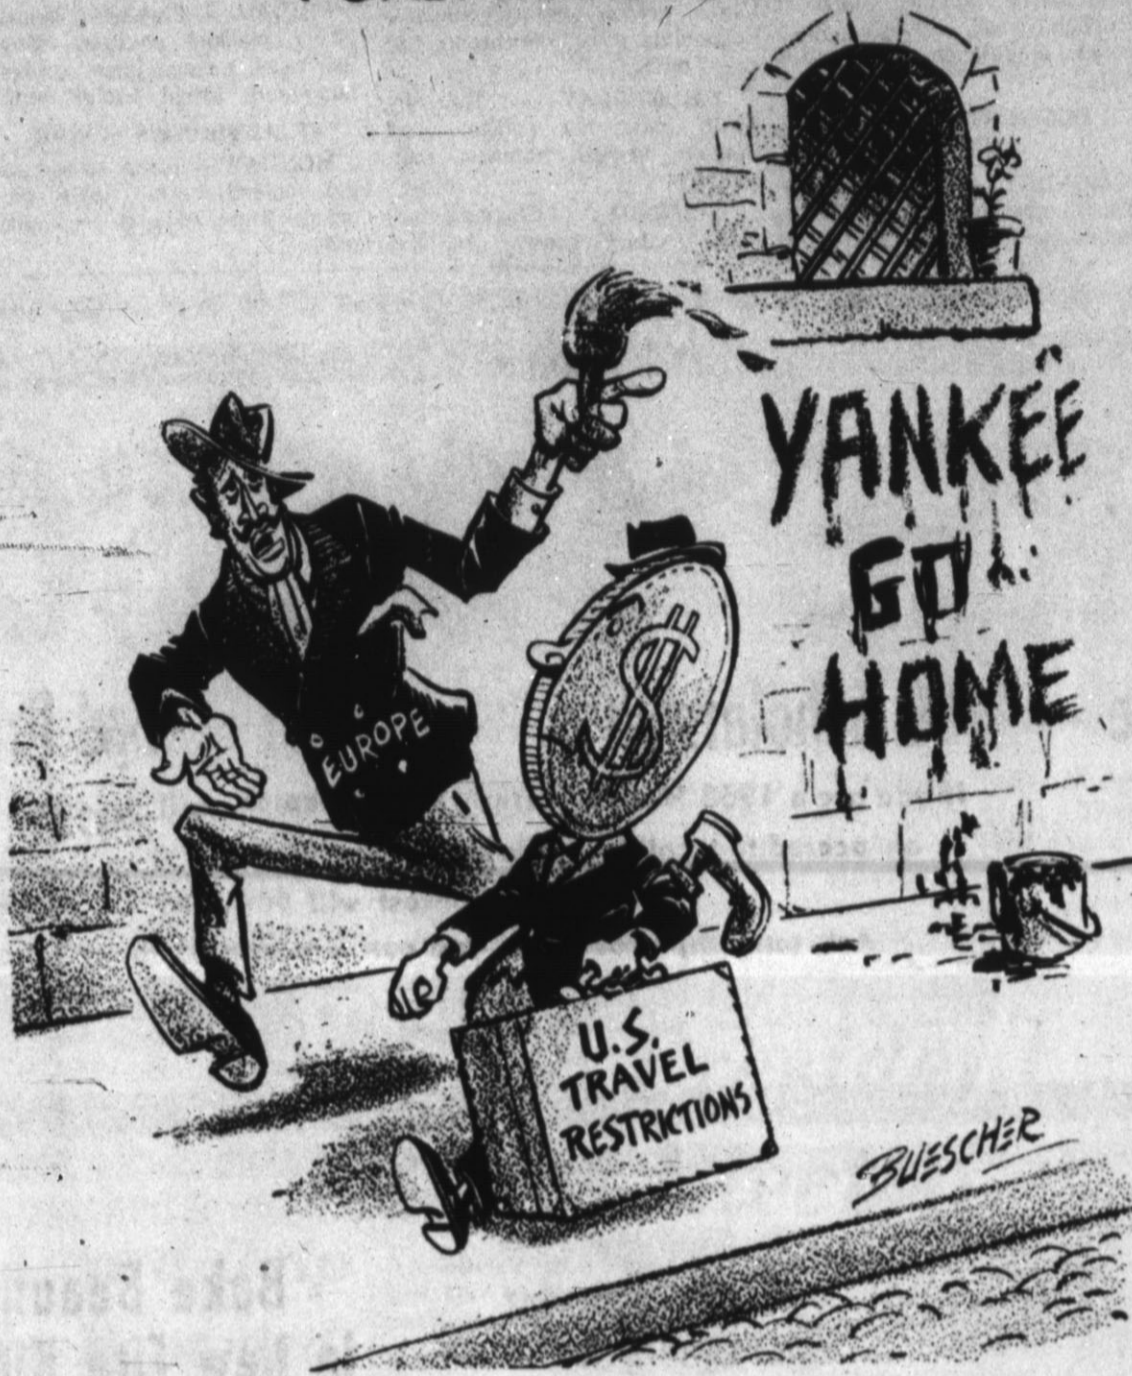

...Key To The Problem

A FATHER FOUND A MAP of the world in a magazine. Hoping to give his son a lesson in geography, he tore the map into several pieces, then asked the lad to put it together again.

In a few minutes he was finished and his surprised father asked, "How did you do that so quickly?"

The youngster replied, "There was a picture of a boy on the back. So I figured if the boy was put together right, the world would come out right, too." The Arlington Citizen.

"I ONLY MAKE JOKE!"

The Cool
Heads

Wading through a newspaper's daily comic strips brings me to the conclusion that those funny drawings must be conceived in sheer genius. Comics are the greatest editorials the newspaper business has ever come up with.

Messages put forth in sequences as long as two or three weeks, sometimes months, are fantastic. The entertainment provided by subtleties and satire in Pogo, Little Orphan Annie, Berry's World and others is superb. People who think the comics are a waste of time really don't know what they are missing.

The comics page is an editorial page with humor that isn't stale, where the sarcasm has a bittersweet flavor, where people can laugh at themselves as well as others. It requires an awareness of one's environment, however, to enjoy the comics; the person who doesn't keep up with the front page won't see the fun in the comics.

Comic strips aren't alone in their approach to contemporary entertainment. Fun for the sake of fun has gone its way, except perhaps on the after-school television programs for the grade school set. Serious subjects are injected in movies, in television programs; they can be so serious that humor is a necessity just to bring up the topics.

Dick Tracy daily reminds us that the Supreme Court codifies criminals, that crime-robbs society's members. Little Orphan Annie warns of the conspiring communists and socialists, and in Pogo, we get nothing but soft-pointed barbs for politicians who make themselves into perfect comic strip material.

To daily figure out a new angle of satire on contemporary figures and situations borders on genius. Some of the cartoons, of course, end up dry as the desert because they approach subjects so directly and seriously. But look at the more subtle approaches and you will find some real chuckles.

Artists providing today's two-minute humor must really be a bunch of cool heads.

MAIN STREET, USA

Hire Male Stewardesses, New Ruling Tells Airlines

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Sex has raised its ugly head anew and once again officialdom has voted against it. The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has perpetrated the deed.

Once upon a time, long before Congress passed a silly law, some bright fellow—running an airline decided that pretty girls in neat uniforms could not only cater to the needs of plane passengers but make flying a bit more pleasurable for the tired businessmen who make up the bulk of air travelers.

So he hired a bunch of stewardesses and sent them aloft. It was such a good idea that all his competitors followed suit, and the airlines began to compete for the prettiest girls and the snazziest costumes. A new career opportunity was opened up to attractive maidens who might otherwise have been forced to beat a typewriter in an office.

Alas, it was too good a thing to last. EEOC has now decreed "that sex is not a bona fide occupational qualification for the position of flight cabin attendant." Henceforth, the airlines must not discriminate against men who seek to be stewardesses. Otherwise, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act has been violated.

This was no snap decision by EEOC. It has been pondering the problem for a long time, and held a hearing back in September, 1967. At that time, the airlines contended that "sex is a bona fide occupational qualification for the position of flight cabin attendant." Not so, decided the commissioners in February, by a 3-1 vote.

Loose Law Blamed

One may wonder how this sorry situation came about, for certainly Congress never intended that the Civil Rights Act should be used to force the employment of males as flight attendants on airplanes. This was beyond the wildest dreams of any of the authors of the statute.

As a matter of fact, it was an accident that sex discrimination was covered by the law in the first place. The original bill was aimed solely at racial discrimination in employment. The laudable goal was to open up job opportunities for Negroes, News Mexicans, etc.

The amendment to add sex to the coverage was not considered at hearings. It was a floor amendment by a Dixiecrat foe of the bill. His goal was to defeat the bill, not expand its coverage. But the handful of ladies in Congress thought it was a good idea to ban discrimination against the gentler sex. And the male majority went along with the idea in a spirit of chivalry.

The ban on sex discrimination became law, and there has been nothing but trouble as a result. Now a night club proprietor has to be careful about advertising for "go-go girls" lest he be charged with discriminating against males deprived of the opportunity to twirl their torsos in public, for a fee.

More Troubles Foreseen

This sex discrimination business has already been carried so far that one wonders what will come next. The draft law, for instance, discriminates against women, by insisting that only men be conscripted for front line duty in Vietnam. The military academies discriminate against women, requiring that their graduates be male.

Professional baseball and football insist on men as performers. What would happen if a lesbian lass applied to the New York Yankee for a tryout, and threatened to complain to EEOC if rejected? Is being male any more a "bona fide occupational qualification" for an outfielder than being female is for service as a stewardess?

That 3 to 1 decision by EEOC was made by four men. It is to be hoped that those in the majority are served only by burly males on all future flights. And may the lone dissenter draw the most winsome lass who is not only prompt with his martini but sits down next to him for a heart-to-heart talk.

Every public cross road in Deaf Smith County is to have a painted sign erected thereon indicating the route of each action, the through road down the Santa Fe tracks is to have intersecting road and the distance from Hereford. In addition a similar sign every mile or so, marking the route and giving the mileage to and from town. How to get in and out of town from Main Street will also be indicated to the traveling public through colored signs and arrows.

There is a strong possibility that Deaf Smith County will soon have the services of a trained woman, known as a Home Demonstration Agent, in promoting the work of home gardens, Girls' Canning Clubs, etc. The directors of the Chamber of Commerce recently appropriated a small sum to apply on the salary of such a woman, provided the A&M College would pay the remainder and furnish a competent woman.

Approval of recommendations for 1968 made by the County H. D. Council was voted by the club in a short business session with Mrs. Paul Hoff presiding. Mrs. W. J. Lueb gave the program on arranging pictures in the home. She illustrated different types of arrangements for pictures of various size and shape.

Also present were Meses. R. A. Fullwood, Otto Massie, Velma Salvino, J. C. Whitehead, Otto Olson and Viola Williams.

Next time you braise shoulder lamb chops, add some strips of carrot and onion to the braising liquid. Good flavor!

H.D. CHATTER
Old Sourdough Recipe Given

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

Hap Wiseman and Jimmie Roberts served sourdough biscuits (and other good food) at Jimmie's sale on the 29th. It has impressed a lot of people and there have been requests for a recipe.

WITH ALL DUE apologies to Hap Wiseman and Goose Ramsey, we risk publishing this method of sourdough biscuits. It was written down from comments of these cowboys and from some comments of others.

SOURDOUGH BISCUITS
To start a batch of sourdough, take 2 tablespoons of grated old Irish potato and add about 2 cups of flour and enough water to make a batter. Pour into a gallon jar and leave for 24 hours to rise. This sourdough is both leavening agent and liquid.

When ready to make biscuits, mix flour and salt and add enough sourdough batter to form a dough that can be rolled out. Cover the bottom of the hot skillet with grease. Cut out the biscuits, dip them in the grease first on one side and then on the other and put them in the oven.

Sourdough biscuits can be cooked only in some kind of Dutch oven. In it, they cook quickly.

To keep sourdough, pinch off some and put in a crock. Cover with water.

There is a mock sourdough biscuit recipe made with commercial yeast. If you're in a hurry and want the effect other than the real old-fashioned biscuits, use this.

YEAST BISCUITS
Dissolve 1 package of yeast in 1/4 C. lukewarm water. Stir into: 1 C. warm buttermilk

3 T. sugar
Sift together:
5 T. fat
3 C. flour
1/2 t. soda
1 1/2 t. salt
3 t. baking powder
Beat after each addition. Knead 5 seconds. Cut. Let rise 1 hour. Bake in hot oven. These biscuits can be frozen before rising or baked and re-heated.

Mrs. H. N. Gregory on South Schley ask for homemade yeast-cake recipe.

HOMEMADE YEAST CAKES
Soak one commercial yeast cake in a cup of water, thicken with flour and let rise for several hours until double in bulk. Boil one large potato in sufficient water to dissolve one-half cup meal.

Mix the potato, scalded meal cooled to lukewarm, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar and add the yeast. Let the mixture rise two or three times its bulk, thicken with meal, roll out and cut into cakes.

Let the cakes dry in the shade. Keep them turned to keep them from molding. This makes 18 to 20 cakes that are as strong as the original cake, but they must be given more time to rise than the compressed or moist cake.

Using homemade yeast cakes and the real sourdough method take longer, but ask any bread maker and you will be assured better quality bread and more tasty product. It is true that often quality is sacrificed for speed, but this is the price we pay for modern day necessity to prepare quick meals.

MRS. FAUST COLLIER answered our request for a Chinese recipe. She has a very fine collection of cookbooks and recipes. Her interest in foreign dishes and dishes of particular locale is from her intense interest in geography.

EGG FOOFUN
1 C. diced meat - ham, beef, chicken or pork
1/2 C. minced onion
1/2 C. mushrooms
Sprinkle of black pepper
Beat 4 eggs until thick, add to meat mixture. Just before ready to cook, but no sooner, add salt to taste. Grease shallow pan, divide mixture into 6 or 8 portions - mold mixture in cup or ladle. Pour carefully into pan and cook until done.

I SAW Martha Roberts using a three-sided pencil. She explained it was so designed so it wouldn't roll off the counter. Too, being a different shape, maybe so many won't be accidentally putting it into pockets and purses.

Highway Trip Topic Of Review

Travel over the length of Highway 385, subject of a book by a Littlefield man, was detailed entertainingly by Mrs. T. W. Roberson for La Affiliatus Estudio Club at its recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Walter Johnson.

Earl Luce, author of Heartland of America, was accompanied by his grandson on the trip, which began at the Mexican border in the Big Bend country and followed the transcontinental highway to Canada. He commented on cities on the route, including Hereford which he called one of the most attractive.

Most of Mrs. Roberson's review was devoted to the book's chapters on Texas, as the club was observing Texas Day. Mrs. B. A. Reddell began the program with a reading, My Garage.

Mrs. B. F. Markham presided for business. Refreshments were served to a dozen members during the social period.

 Airman Hodges, an aircraft mechanic with a unit of the 61st at Hickam AFB, Hawaii, will wear a distinctive ribbon to mark his affiliation with the wing, which was honored for exceptionally meritorious service during a one-year period, with particular emphasis on its support of military operations in Southeast Asia.
 This is the fourth time that the 61st has been so honored. The wing, with headquarters at Hickam, and its many units located throughout the Pacific and Southeast Asia, are charged with the MAC airlift responsibilities in an area from Hawaii west to Pakistan, and from Japan to Antarctica.

 The airman, a 1964 graduate of Friona High School, attended Texas Technological University and West Texas State University.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

UNDERGROUND TOWN? — An intriguing mystery awaits archaeologists in Rockwall, Texas' smallest county. The county gets its name from the fact that several miles of underground stone walls have been uncovered there since the first one was discovered in the 1850's. The walls are about eight inches thick and were apparently built with stones that have been beveled at the edges and put together with some kind of mortar.

Scientists have given the strange rock walls only the most casual attention. More than 40 years ago, one visiting archaeologist examined some of the exposed stones and decided that they were part of a wall that once enclosed a large city. Others argue that the walls are a freak of nature — nothing more than a natural sandstone formation.

PAINTER OF PRESIDENTS — When former President Dwight D. Eisenhower wants a new portrait painted, he usually sends for J. Anthony Willis of Houston.

Willis has painted five portraits of Eisenhower and one of former President Harry S. Truman. Thus far, however, fellow-Texan Lyndon Johnson hasn't ordered a Willis picture.

THE GIN GENERATION — Cotton ginning wasn't a commercial business in Texas until after the Civil War. Up to that time, almost every large cotton farmer had a small gin on his own place.

EDEN IN THE PANHANDLE — "No whiskey forever" was the promise that made settlers flock to the new settlement of Clarendon, Donley County, in 1878.

The Rev. Lewis Henry Carhart, the founder, wanted a community made up primarily of devout members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, northern branch. He hoped the colony would never attract the hard-drinking, gambling element that helped to populate so many frontier towns.

Less than nine years later, however, the railroad built south of Clarendon and a new town of the same name sprang up along the tracks. Not long after, the settlement that Carhart had hoped would be a Paradise on the plains disappeared and the residents moved to the new town.

PUNGENT DETERRENT — Meats cured with black pepper are considered a gourmet dish today. Originally, however, the pepper wasn't intended to improve taste, but to keep flies away.

In the days before refrigeration, German settlers dipped meats such as bacon slabs in vinegar, coated the sides with pepper and hung them from the rafters of the barn for final curing with wood smoke. The pepper effectively discouraged insects from attacking the meat.

Today pepper-cured bacon sells at a premium in many German communities of Central Texas.

BREATHING ROOM — Loving, Culberson, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Kenedy, King and McMullen are Texas counties with an average of less than one resident per square mile.

day Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morrison and children of Panhandle came for the afternoon after her mother Mrs. Henry Joe Fletcher and sister Jeannie left for their home in Dodd City.

MANDRAKE THE MAGICIAN

BY LEE FALK

ON THE PLANET MAGNA-

CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD - THE ROYAL GOVERNESS - ?

HE'S FINISHED.

SHE'S BREATHING!

WHERE IS THE PRINCESS NARDRAKA? GONE!

MAGNON - RULER OF THE CENTRAL GALAXY - EMPEROR OF A MILLION PLANETS -

NARDRAKA IS GONE!

THE GOVERNESS LIVES!

THE CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD IS DEAD, O MIGHTY ONE!

THEY CAME OUT OF NOWHERE - THE BABOOS! THAT'S ALL I REMEMBER -

BABOOS!

OH, NO!

WORD FLASHES THROUGH SPACE TO A MILLION PLANETS - A BILLION SPACE SHIPS JOIN IN THE GREAT SEARCH!

FIND THEM!

NARDRAKA - THE EMPEROR'S ONLY CHILD - STOLEN BY THE BABOOS!

NO WORD YET, YOUR HIGHNESS.

OUR SHIPS ARE SEARCHING EVERY SECTOR OF SPACE!

THE BABOOS LET THE NURSE LIVE. THEY WANT US TO KNOW!

BUT WHY?

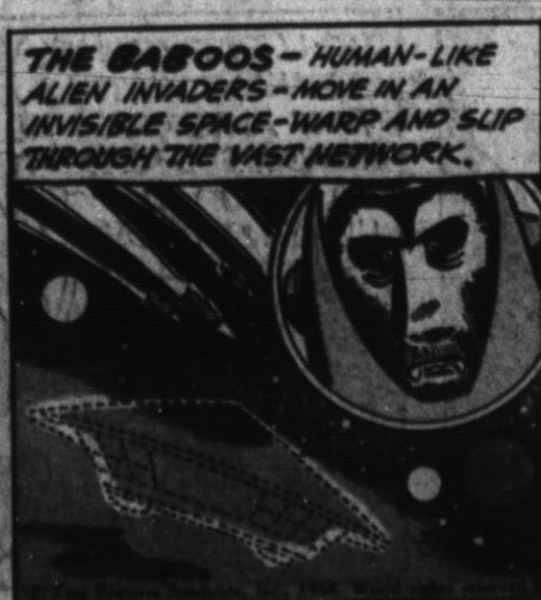

WE DEFEATED THEM - DROVE THEM OUT OF OUR SPACE! EITHER THIS IS REVENGE - OR THEY WANT A DEAL. THEY MUST BE FOUND!

THE BABOOS - HUMAN-LIKE ALIEN INVADERS - MOVE IN AN INVISIBLE SPACE-WARP AND SLIP THROUGH THE VAST NETWORK.

IN THE SHIP - THE TERRIFIED MISSING NARDRAKA!

IS THIS AN ESPECIALLY UGLY ONE - OR DO THEY ALL LOOK LIKE THAT?
