such measures as screening or fumigating of grain produced in the 15 county area if the quarantine goes into effect. WASHINGTON (AP) - Egypt and Israel, urged by President Carter to "stay until we get this settled," are working out the final details of a treaty to end 30 years of warfare.

As he welcomed them to the White House Wednesday night, Carter promised the Egyptian delegates he would be "available any time I'm needed" to expedite the talks, taking place under a United Nations flag at Blair House, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the executive mansion.

Carter was formally launching the talks this morning with a brief ceremony in the East Room of the White House. He then planned to turn over the American chair at the bargaining table to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

The Egyptian delegation is headed by the nation's defense minister, Lt. Gen. Kamal Hassan Ali, and by acting Foreign Minister Boutros Ghali. The Israeli delegation is headed by Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman.

If the participants stick to the framework reached at Camp David, they must agree on three demarcation lines through the Sinai's sands to achieve their goal of a peace treaty by Dec. 19.

The most difficult problems in achieving peace between Egypt and Israel were apparently solved at Camp David and immediately afterwards when Israel agreed to a complete withdrawal from the Sinai, including the withdrawal of its settlements, in return for peace and normal relations with Egypt.

One of the lines is supposed to run roughly 30 miles east of the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Suez. It will mark the closest point to Israel at which Egypt can station military forces.

A second line, lying from 12 to 25 miles west of the 1967 border, will mark a demilitarized zone in which only U.N. troops and lightly armed Egyptian police will be allowed.

The third line, running through the middle of the Sinai from El Arish to Ras Muhammad, will mark the point of interim withdrawal of Israeli forces. Their pullback is supposed to take place within three or nine months of the treaty's signing.

American officials, speaking privately, say they are confident the lines can be drawn. But they say additional snags are possible if either side attempts to delay an agreement.

There are still unresolved disputes

Wheat Group

Urges Export

Subsidy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) - A wheat group has urged Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland to initiate an export subsidy program for U.S. wheat to help offset subsidized competition by the European Community if and when the need arises.

Ray Davis, chairman of the board of Great Plains Wheat Inc., told Bergland in a letter recently that the European subsidy for exported wheat now is $1.26 per metric ton.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat. Thus, the community's subsidy - which makes its wheat cheaper to foreign buyers - is $3.27 a bushel.

The department operated an export subsidy program for wheat but dropped it after large grain sales to the Soviet Union in 1972 and subsequent disclosures that the subsidies were part of the secret negotiations that led to the sales.

House Studies Insulation Credits, Auto Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) - House leaders are trying to merge a tax on fuel-wasting cars and tax credits for home insulation with other parts of President Carter's energy program on the theory that the larger the package, the better its chance of passage.

The House Rules Committee scheduled a meeting today to consider putting the fragmented energy plan back in one piece.

Consolidation would set up a final House vote Friday on the remnants of the program Carter submitted in April 1977 as "the moral equivalent of war."

However, opponents of the controversial section calling for natural gas deregulation by 1985 are vowing an all-out fight, saying they want separate votes on each of the five compromise bills submitted by conference committees.

There also was a question on whether the final part of the plan - calling for higher taxes on gas-wasting autos and lower taxes for homeowners who upgrade the insulation of their homes - can make it to the House in time to be included in the package.

The energy-tax legislation emerged from a House-Senate conference committee on Wednesday. Senate action on it was expected sometime today.

Leaders first planned to bring it before the full Senate on Wednesday, but senators representing auto-making states threatened a filibuster unless changes were made.

That sent negotiators back to the conference room to modify the proposal to make it more palatable to the auto industry and its allies in Congress.

The proposed compromise tax on big, uneconomical cars would start on 1980 models instead of 1978 models as once proposed by Carter.

It would add at least $200 to the sticker price of 1980 cars getting less than 15 miles per gallon. The tax would escalate in yearly steps to a minimum tax in 1986 of $3,850 on cars getting less than 12.5 mpg.

The last-minute modifications sought by automakers resulted in conferees agreeing to make the mileage thresholds about 1 mpg more lenient than under their original proposal, which covered for model years 1983-1986.

The tax is the only one of four taxes

Carter included in his April 1977 energy program to survive. The crude oil tax, which Carter once called the centerpiece of his energy program, as well as proposed taxes on gasoline and industrial uses of oil and natural gas, were killed.

The energy-tax compromise reached Wednesday also contains tax credits of up to $300 for home insulation and storm doors and windows and up to $2,200 for solar energy.

House leaders contend that those politically popular credits would "sweeten" the energy program, enhancing chances for passage.

Senate critics of the energy plan have hinted they may use delaying tactics to try to keep the energy-tax bill from passing the Senate in time to be combined in the House with other parts of the plan.

Meat Imports Increase

Over 1977, USDA Says

WASHINGTON (AP) - Imports of quota-type meat in the first eight months of this year were up about 12 percent from the same period in 1977, according to the latest government figures.

Based on U.S. Customs inspections, imports of fresh, chilled and frozen beef, veal, mutton and goat meat totaled almost 919.8 million pounds against 821.2 million from January to August of last year, says the Agriculture Department.

The limit on such imports this calendar year is about 1.5 billion pounds, including a boost of 200 million pounds ordered by President Carter last spring to help cool off consumer beef prices.

Legislation is in Congress, supported by the cattle industry, that would establish a "counter-cyclical" formula for regulating the imports, which involve mostly beef used to make hamburger for American consumers.

The measure, which has passed the Senate and is waiting on action by the House, basically would allow more imported meat during times that U.S. cow slaughter - the major source of domestic hamburger - is declining and less when producers market more of their cows.

It also would limit the authority of the president to intervene in the import process, as in the case when Carter increased the foreign beef quota earlier this year. The administration opposes this feature of the bill.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said this week he doubted Congress will complete action on the measure before adjourning.

The U.S. Customs figures showed that Australia, the leading provider, accounted for about 510.6 million pounds of the eight-month import total, up 26.3 percent from a year earlier. New Zealand, second, accounted for 199 million pounds, up 6.6 percent.

Carter Requests Smaller Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is making a last-minute plea to Congress to hold down the size of next year's tax cut, as Republicans launch a final attempt to assure additional cuts in 1980 and beyond.

Tower Calls

Krueger

Wishy-Washy

By The Associated Press
Republicans seeking the state's top two political posts in the November election dished it out Wednesday while Democrats fought back in one instance and ate lunch in another.

Sen. John Tower, who will try to prevent Rep. Bob Krueger from taking his job, said the only thing that changes as often as Texas weather is "my opponent's position on the issues."

And Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements said the next four years are vital to the state.

Tower got in his licks at a campaign stop in Seymour. He told North Texans that Krueger frequently takes a stand "then takes the opposite when that appears politically more viable. Occasionally he makes that switch back and fourth more than once. For example, he has occupied all sides of the issue on having a national identification card for all workers and federal penalties for the employer who hires an undocumented

Carter arranged a meeting today with Sen. Russell B. Long and Rep. Al Ullman to spell out how their Senate-House conference committee could tailor the tax bill more to his liking.

Meanwhile, Republicans were asking the House to instruct its members on the conference committee to endorse a Senate provision that would reduce taxes in 1980 through 1983 by an extra $164.5 billion if the growth of government spending is limited.

When the House was debating next year's budget on Aug. 16, a similar proposal failed by only five votes.

Now, with the congressional elections less than four weeks away, outnumbered Republicans are hoping to gain enough strength from Democrats to ensure that the Senate measure - with its combination of tax cuts, spending cuts and promise of a balanced budget - will be retained by the conference committee.

United Way Orientation

Planned for Volunteers

The third and final orientation meeting for United Way workers will be at 6:30 a.m. Friday at Dickie's Restaurant, according to president Paul Sims, who said attendance is crucial for persons who were unable to make either of the first two meetings.

Meetings were held at 6:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. today.

"Every worker needs to make at least one of these meetings. I think most of those who attended this morning were pleased with the presentation and got a lot out of it."

United Way campaign committee member Lynton Allred explained to workers this morning how to solicit funds from a business. Raymond White, another campaign committee member, was scheduled to speak this afternoon at Southwestern Public Service.

The United Way drive officially will kick off Wednesday, Oct. 18. Volunteers are hoping to raise $199,815 by emphasizing that additional fund drives by the agencies are not necessary if the goal is reached.

"This is a very critical part of our drive. Businessmen should be made aware of the fact that this large amount of money was raised in Hereford last year, and we are just combining the efforts into one drive," Sims said.

The campaign, although it has not officially started, has raised $1,300. Santa Fe employees Wednesday presented a check for $300 to United Way.

Children's Rehabilitation Center of Amarillo, which provides help to afflicted Panhandle youngsters, relies solely on area United Ways for support, according to director Richard Balke.

"We do not have any government funds," said Balke, who has worked 17 years at the center, which is located in the Amarillo Medical Center. "We are dependent on Amarillo United Way and area United Ways for our support.

"United Way money pays our operational expenses. None of the money goes to purchase individual equipment or appliances or for capital expenditures."

Children's Rehabilitation Center is an outpatient organization for physically-disabled children. It provides-through a medical staff of 28 physicians-physical, occupational and speech therapy, along with special education.

The doctors comprising the medical staff receive no charges for their service.

"They serve as our medical supervisors," Balke said.

There are 300 area children, including 25 from Hereford, served through the center. Main ailments include cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy and congenital spinal deformity.

"All it takes for a child to be helped is a referral from the family physician," Balke said. "The child then is reviewed by the medical staff to determine treatability and treatment procedures. After that, the child is reviewed periodically by the medical staff."

Children's Rehabilitation Center has been allocated $1,000 by Deaf Smith County United Way.

McCroly To Testify

In Davis Pre-Trial

HOUSTON (AP) - David McCroly, the chief witness for the prosecution in the kill-for-hire trial of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis, is expected to be called to the stand today in the pretrial hearings before State District Judge Wallace Moore.

The defense attorneys have spent three days going through a few of some 90 motions, and McCroly is to be one of their witnesses in an effort to release more evidence prepared by prosecutors and to suppress other testimony.

Judge Moore told The Associated Press that he is no fortune teller and had no idea how many witnesses would be called to the stand but, "In my opinion now, I don't think the case can start Monday."

Moore had set Oct. 16 as the tentative date for the beginning of the trial.

"There is really no way of knowing now," the judge said, "but it doesn't look like a trial starting Monday."

The defense Wednesday continued to crack the credibility of tape recordings allegedly linking Davis to a plot to kill Fort Worth Judge Joe Eidsen. The judge had presided during the long and bitter divorce proceedings of Davis and his estranged wife Priscilla. Eidsen recently removed himself as the trial judge.

Seaman Described

As 'Jekyll-Hyde'

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) - Merchant seaman Larry Singleton, described as a "Jekyll and Hyde" by the former neighbor who turned him in, has been returned here from Nevada for arraignment on charges that he raped and chopped off the forearms of a runaway teen-ager.

Singleton, 51, was to face a judge today on charges of kidnap, rape, attempted murder and mayhem.

The victim's parents, Herbert and Lucy

Vincent of Las Vegas, said at a news conference Wednesday that their daughter ran away from home in April after finishing ninth grade.

"An adventure, that's the way she saw it," her father said.

Mary Bell Vincent, 15, wandered nearly two miles with her arms chopped off below the elbows before she was picked up by a passing motorist and rushed to a hospital two weeks ago.

"She's doing very well," said a spokeswoman at the hospital here. She said the girl is using artificial limbs to open packages, feed herself and write her name.

District Attorney Don Stahl of Stanislaus County said Wednesday there was "nothing to corroborate" Singleton's story that he picked up two male hitchhikers after picking up Ms. Vincent and that he paid the girl $60 for sex.

Traffic Avoids Crash

Of Crane from Building

DALLAS (AP) - A Lewisville, Texas, man was killed when a 10-ton construction crane toppled from a 30-story building into a busy downtown Dallas intersection Wednesday, missing the afternoon traffic rush by only an hour.

The 75-foot crane was lifting concrete to the top of One Dallas Centre, a high-rise building under construction, when it toppled and plunged to the ground, killing Kenneth Carl Branch, 37, its operator.

Witnesses said the massive apparatus tumbled end-over-end through the air before becoming entangled in a web of electrical wires. Firemen were unable to begin rescue efforts until Dallas Power & Light officials cut power to the lines.

Dallas Fire Department spokeswoman Janie Bryant said the falling crane caused some damage to the building, and flying debris knocked out windows in the Republic National Bank Building across the street.

The crumpled rigging fell within the construction site, but stretched across St. Paul Street, a busy thoroughfare during peak traffic periods. Ms. Bryant said a taxicab and a private automobile were in the block as the crane crashed to the ground, but both "miraculously" avoided being crushed.

Americans Awarded

Prize for Medicine

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - The 1978 Nobel Prize for medicine was awarded today to two Americans and a Swiss for research that developed a revolutionary new tool for studying the way in which genes determine heredity.

The winners are Daniel Nathans and Hamilton O. Smith, both of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, and microbiology professor Werner Arber of Basel, Switzerland. They will share a prize of $165,000.

It was the fifth year in a row that Americans have won the medicine prize.

The Nobel Committee of the Karolinska Institute of Medicine cited the three for the discovery of restriction enzymes and their application to problems of molecular genetics.

Restriction enzymes, discovered by the 49-year-old Arber, provide "chemical knives" to cut genes into defined fragments.

Smith, 47, a native of New York, verified Arber's hypothesis and the 49-year-old Nathans, born in Wilmington, Del., pioneered the application of restriction enzymes to genetics.

"Holy cow! Are you kidding?" Smith exclaimed when reached at his Baltimore home and informed of the prize.

He said it was totally unexpected. "I had so little idea that it was in that ... I just didn't imagine it would be considered in that light. I'm flabbergasted."

Police Report

Police have cleared two reported thefts, which actually weren't thefts at all and were actually cleared by the persons who reported them.

A set of drums supposedly stolen at Stanton Junior High School turned up this week--where the youth reporting the missing instrument had left it.

A pickup reportedly stolen from 107 Northwest Drive also turned up in a local garage where mechanics were overhauling the engine. The pickup apparently was mistaken for another vehicle which needed the overhaul.

Lions Speaker

Dub Harris, left, director of development for the Texas Tech School of Medicine, was guest speaker at the regular weekly luncheon meeting at the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday at Community Center. Bill Marquis, right, served as program chairman for the meeting. Harris discussed health-care problems and the Tech school's program to help find solutions. He said the school hopes to include School of Nursing and School of Pharmacy programs as soon as the funds are approved by the legislature.

Liability Suit

To Be Reviewed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday agreed to review a Pearlland man's $3 million products liability suit against General Motors Corp.

Robert Turner sued the motor company after his 1969 four-door Chevrolet Impala overturned in April 1971 crushing his spine and paralyzing him.

Turner alleged that the roof was designed defectively in that it was not strong enough to withstand the impact when his car rolled over as he swerved to avoid a dump truck that turned in front of him on Farm 1488 in Montgomery County.

A Brazoria County trial court ruled against General Motors and the dealer but granted the dealer indemnity against the motor company.

The Beaumont Court of Civil Appeals reversed the ruling, however, and returned the case for a new trial. It said the trial court had erred in its charge to the jury and in excluding evidence that federal car roof standards did not go in effect until Sept. 1, 1973.

Lions Hear Tech Speaker

Dub Harris, director of development for the Texas Tech School of Medicine, was guest speaker for the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Hereford Lions Club Wednesday at the Community Center.

Harris, director since 1972, outlined the goals and progress of the Health Services Center at Tech. Besides the School of Medicine, Harris pointed out the university hopes to include a School of Nursing and a School of Pharmacy in the near future. The two additional schools have been approved by the State Coordinating Board, but funds have not been voted by the state legislature.

The Tech school of medicine now has 186 undergraduate students, according to Harris, which includes 62 freshmen, 41 sophomores, 42 juniors and 41 seniors. The school also has 132 residency students and 44 graduate students.

About 1,000 students apply each year for admission, making it difficult to select students, said Harris. Tech hopes to enroll about 100 freshmen next year.

Harris said the greatest need in the health care field was for family practice doctors, formerly called G.P.'s or general practitioners. Tech's school is emphasizing the family practice with a program that puts senior students in the field with rural community physicians. Tech has also established residencies in family practice at Lubbock, Amarillo and El Paso.

The health-care problem is not unique to this area, according to Harris, but is particularly felt in small communities across the nation. There are 106 counties in the Tech area of health-care responsibility, and 17 do not currently have doctors, he added.

Harris reported that Tech is also involved in an "outreach program," which the school hopes to enlarge each year. The School of Medicine at Tech is now manning, on a parttime basis, a clinic at Crosbyton.

The problem of recruiting doctors to smaller communities is also felt across the country.

said Harris. This happens for various reasons, he added.

Some doctors don't want to be isolated from their profession and the best in equipment. Many doctors are influenced by their wives' decisions of not wanting to live in a small town.

Statistics show, however, that 65 percent of the doctors establish practices in the area where they take their residency programs. This should help towns in the area of Lubbock, Amarillo and El Paso, he added.

Harris was introduced by Bill Marquis, Lion program chairman for the month. A number of visitors were recognized at the club meeting. The Leo Club Golf Tournament has been scheduled for Oct. 21, it was announced during the meeting.

Wives Can Sue

For Rights Loss

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Wives have the same right as husbands to sue for loss of consortium rights and companionship, the Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday.

"Providing either spouse with a cause of action for loss of consortium would allow us to keep pace with modern society," the court said, "by recognizing that the emotional interests of the marriage relationship are as worthy of protection from negligent invasion as are other legally protected interests."

The landmark ruling affirmed a Tyler Court of Civil Appeals ruling that Ann P. Miller could sue David Whittlesey for damages after her husband, Stewart, was injured in a collision with Whittlesey's car.

A state district court in Dallas previously dismissed her claim, saying that wives did not have the same rights as husbands under common law.

The appeals court said that wives acquired those rights when Texas voters adopted the Equal Rights Amendment to the state constitution in 1972.

"The law is not static," the Supreme Court said in defense of the appeals court ruling.

'Kroeger', 'Kreeger' - He's Fighting Tower

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) - The challenger with the German name that Mexican-Americans have trouble pronouncing knows that the senator he wants to replace has a name that voters remember.

But U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger of New Braunfels says he is used to hearing his name mispronounced. His father did it half the time.

"When he answered the San Antonio line, he said, 'Kroeger.'" On the New Braunfels line it was, "Kree-ger." Actually, it should be about halfway between those," he said.

Name identification is the name of the game now as Krueger tries to unseat veteran Republican U.S. Sen. John Tower.

Krueger aides said "frankly" they are disappointed about the lack of enthusiasm they have found for the Senate race in important South Texas. They are looking for something to spark voter interest.

They think Krueger's quick-hitting helicopter whistlestop tours are helping.

Monday, the helicopter touched down in nine South Texas towns. Last week it hit 58 Texas cities in four days.

Krueger said a simple introduction and handshake can be as important as a vigorous campaign talk.

"It does have an effect. A majority of people in this country have never met a U.S. senator or congressman. I remember every senator I met before I went up there," the two-term representative said.

The day began at 7:30 a.m. in Alice. After a brief stop in Falfurrias, the Krueger copter touched down at Pan American University in Edinburg. The stop got off to a stumbling start when a campus campaign worker introduced Krueger as the "next congressman from Texas."

But Krueger quickly won the crowd's support - especially when he adeptly handled a question from a Tower supporter. Throughout the day Krueger chided Tower for claiming solidarity with the Mexican-American community.

"Un amigo con sincero," he said, mimicking a Tower slogan.

"Doesn't that make you feel good," he added sarcastically.

The Democrat also blasted Tower for being no more than a "losing vote" on Capitol Hill.

"It's like the Cowboys last week. Only a defense and no offense," he said, referring to a Dallas football loss to Washington.

Back in the copter, Krueger said he gets a sort of backstage enjoyment from campaigning.

"It's like when I did my doctoral dissertation. I liked doing it but I only did it so I could teach. I do this because I want to serve," he said.

As the candidate used a campus newspaper to fan himself, the noise chopper rumbled east to Harlingen. A wet field forced an impromptu landing in a hospital parking lot.

Fresh from a campus appearance where he convinced students he understood their problems, Krueger met with farmers at a Harlingen luncheon.

"I know what it is to raise cattle. Four days after the election we'll have a sale of Krueger brandus in Crockett," he said.

And, again the Cowboy analogy.

"They had a fair defense and almost no offense and they lost. Tower's been there to vote against some things but he's never been there to stand for anything," he said.

During the flight to Raymondville, aide David Wildman dozed. Krueger also appeared to sleep intermittently in the front seat.

"I like to sit in the front because I can sleep and it looks like I'm looking out the window," he joked.

A group of 25 diminutive, elderly Mexican-Americans greeted the copter in Raymondville.

"Should I say anything to this group? Can I speak in English?" he asked an aide.

He spoke mostly in English but delighted the group with his smug Spanish.

After handshaking at the courthouse and downtown I'm Bob Krueger, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate" the campaign was again airborne.

After quick stops in Port Isabel and San Benito the chopper headed for McAllen. While some 30 supporters munched nachos and sipped free drinks, aides talked about the campaign.

They are confident of gaining a high percentage of the "M-A" vote. What they worry about is the size of the Mexican-American voter turnout. One aide said he hopes for a 40 percent turnout. The mayor of a small area town said he is pushing for an almost unheard of 65 percent turnout in his Mexican-American city.

The name problem is real, aides said. But they feel the whirlwind tours will help generate interest in the man and the race.

Some aides see a need for a big spark - such as a tour by Sen. Edward Kennedy. One worker said Kennedy has already been contacted about such a campaign swing.

Krueger made his talk again in McAllen. "If you have an offense you'll fumble sometimes. With no offense you'll always lose" and headed for Brownsville.

The local businessmen hear heard Krueger again blast Tower's record.

"If you have only defense and no offense you lose," he said.

The final stop was in the lavish home of a local Jewish leader. A letter to members of a temple here said rumors of anti-semitic remarks by Krueger had been proven untrue.

Before heading into a late night strategy session after a 16-hour campaign day, Krueger talked about his race.

"The consciousness about the race isn't as high here as in other parts of the state," he said.

"We want a big voter turnout. Exactly what it will take... Who knows?"

worker."

Krueger, meanwhile, announced that he now has campaign committees organized in 83 Texas counties.

"My opponent prefers to try and reach people through pre-packaged, carefully planned radio, TV, magazine and newspaper advertising, a one-sided method which enables him to talk at people but gives them no opportunity for response," Krueger said.

Clements stumped through West Texas while his Democratic opponent John Hill attended a "John Hill Day" luncheon at his home town of Kilgore.

"By 1983 Texas can represent the best of America, in patriotism and opportunity," Clements said. "It can remain the place that we in against inflation and unemployment, is said to oppose any action that would lock in tax cuts beyond 1979.

Carter also says he thinks the Senate's proposed $29.3 billion tax cut for 1979 is too big. All of the tax cuts contained on the bill for 1979 would come into play on individual income tax returns filed in early 1980.

Carter says both the Senate measure and the $16.3 billion version passed by the House are much too generous to the high-income investors who would benefit most from a big cut in capital gains taxes. Republicans, who pressed hardest for a bigger tax cut and more for investors, have a different idea.

Their favorite tax-cut plan, the Kemp-Roth proposal for a one-third cut in individual tax rates over a three-year period, was rejected by the House and Senate.

Now they are claiming as their own the Senate amendment, sponsored by a bipartisan coalition headed by Democrat Sam Nunn of Georgia, which would allow multi-year tax cuts if, and only if, Congress can sharply reduce the growth of federal spending.

"The Senate has adopted the essential elements of Republican tax policy," Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker said Wednesday.

Treaty

involving Sinai oil rights, reparations each side says it is owed by the other and the specific terms of "normal relations," such as whether the two countries will immediately begin commercial airline flights between Cairo and Jerusalem.

"These things will have to be negotiated, but I'm confident neither side will allow them to block a treaty," one official said.

More problems could arise over what

Opponents of the Nunn proposal say it would tie the hands of Congress and make it more difficult to stimulate the economy in times of recession and slow it down when inflation threatens.

When coupled with the Senate-passed tax cuts for 1979, the Nunn amendment would provide individual reductions averaging about 25 percent over the next five years.

The Nunn amendment is only one of many problems facing the Senate and House conferees as they try to piece together a tax cut that will be acceptable to all sides and allow Congress to adjourn for the year on Saturday.

link exists between the Sinai agreement and the more difficult issues involving the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

As at Camp David, the administration is clamping a tight lid on news from the talks.

Businessmen Rip Washington

NEW YORK (AP) - With so many people today irritated about so many things, the cold fury of those with specialized, limited-interest gripes gets relatively little attention.

Businessmen generally have many sources of irritation, especially with Washington, but two of their complaints have not been widely expressed because, simply they are nearly speechless with frustration:

1. About elected officials, who seem constantly to seek higher pay and fringe benefits for themselves, lecturing executives on what corporate perquisites they should be ashamed to accept.

2. About the administration, which runs huge, inflation-producing budget deficits, telling them they will have to do more to control inflation, even if it means accepting some form of official restraints.

George Meany, meanwhile, is in a lather about the ingratitude of big business which, he says he has been seeking to ruin the union movement instead of declaiming unions for their defense of free enterprise.

"It is proper to ask some questions about the role of the captains of America industry," Meany commented in an article in the "American Federationist," an official AFL-CIO publication.

He described the captains as "those who pretend to be defenders of free enterprise, but who are seeking to destroy a labor movement that has always defended free enterprise."

Some individual investors think they are being ruined too.

And some presidents of so-called second- and third-tier companies - big concerns, but not the biggest - join them in their indignation.

They are upset about some of the big institutional investors, such as insurers, pension and mutual funds, and bank-administered trusts.

Some of these institutions have long followed a conservative policy of investing only in the top 50 or 100 companies, thus denying smaller companies the capital they need to grow.

Solar Dryers To Result In Federal Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farmers in designated states and counties, including two in the Texas Panhandle, will be able to get government loans on high-moisture corn and sorghum they store to be fed later to livestock, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland announced Wednesday.

Also, he said, farmers in the designated areas will be able to apply for other loans to install solar drying units in their storage facilities as part of a pilot project to help conserve energy on farms.

Castro and Moore counties in Texas are eligible for the loans.

Bergland, who was in Iowa, said in a statement issued here that details of the solar-drying loan program will be provided soon to local offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The price support loans on high-moisture grain, a separate program, will be available to farmers only in the designated counties. Also, the farmers must have complied with this year's feed grain set-aside requirements.

High-moisture grain stored in commercial elevators will not be eligible for price support loans, officials said.

United Way Contribution

Santa Fe Railway agent Don Daugherty, left, presents a $300 check from Santa Fe Railway Foundation to United Way president Paul Sims Wednesday. The Santa Fe donation brings this fall's United Way drive total to $1,300. The campaign officially starts Wednesday, Oct. 18.

Sects Spreading

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The Rev. Moon, Hare Krishna, Scientology, Children of God. The guru sects that earlier beguiled young Americans have spread to Western Europe, and government leaders are alarmed.

These fringe religions are active in Britain, West Germany, France, Holland, Denmark and Italy, an Associated Press survey shows.

Authorities have been disturbed by news reports from some of these countries linking several sects to allegations about "brain-wash" conversions, sexual abuse, fraud, visa violations and suicides.

Ten Hare Krishna monks were heavily fined in Frankfurt, West Germany, last April for begging $1.2 million under false pretense — claiming the money was destined for starving children in India, while it actually went to the sect's castle commune.

The Bonn government became worried about crime reports involving the cults that it launched a campaign this summer to warn young Germans. It estimated 150,000 persons, most in the 14 to 28 age group, have joined a dozen various sects.

"The common aim of these sects in West Germany is the pursuit of power and money. ... The leaders scarcely believe the ideals they proclaim," said the Ministry of Youth, Family and Health, which is leading the drive against the fringe religions.

Named in the warnings are the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church; the Society of Transcendental Meditation; Hare Krishna monks; the Divine Light Mission of Maharaj Ji; Mose David Berg's Children of God; and L. Ron Hubbard's Church of Scientology.

"All these groups share fixation on an authoritarian, patriarchal leader, total obedience, strictly regimented community life and uncompromising rejection of the 'old society,'" the ministry said.

German parents' groups are working with traditional churches to rescue their youngsters. "You get the impression the followers are bewitched, dazed and intoxicated," said one mother of a sect member.

The sects have been able to flourish in Western Europe — and the United States — under guarantees of freedom of religion. "Unless there is some evidence of criminal activity there is very little the government can do," said a British spokesman, summing up government policy.

Only Scientology is barred in Britain. In 1968, the Home Office found the sect "socially harmful," and foreign Scientologists were effectively barred from living in Britain.

A member of Parliament appealed for a clampdown on the Moonies and other sects in 1975, but Shirley Summerskill, undersecretary of state at the Home Office, replied:

"We may as individuals take the view that the doctrines advanced by Mr. Moon are lunatic. We may be particularly suspicious of the motives of people who, while claiming to benefit humanity, have substantially enriched themselves. But these are matters of opinion, and surely it is one of the principles of a free society that people may propagate ideas which the majority of us ... do not believe."

Moon is now resisting efforts to remove him from Britain, where some 3,000 Moonies are believed to be living on farms and in communes.

Transcendental Meditation followers of Maharishi Mahesh Yogi are said to number 80,000 in Britain, growing at 10,000 a year. This sect's country estate is an Elizabethan mansion in Kent.

The Hare Krishna movement has its mansion, bought for it by former Beatle George Harrison, in Hertfordshire, and the Divine Light Mission claims more than 6,000 followers in Britain.

The French Interior Ministry said the sects are "watched with a magnifying glass" and prosecuted when laws are broken. Hubbard, the American founder of Scientology, is appealing a conviction on fraud charges in France. Hubbard claims 1 million French followers, but membership in other groups is said to be small.

The newspaper Le Monde published an interview last month with a 16-year-old girl who admitted prostituting herself to lure men into the Children of God. The girl said of her acts: "I think of other things. And when it's finished I tell them about our faith."

The Interior Ministry said it has taken no action against the sect over prostitution because "we can't really distinguish whether it is a personal wish or an activity sanctioned by their church."

The fiery suicide of a 24-year-old Australian woman Oct. 2 in Switzerland, apparently to protest social injustice, was the latest sensational news report involving the fringe sects. The girl's father said she had joined the small Indian sect Ananda Marga, and he denounced its leaders for allegedly encouraging such acts.

Police said a West German couple from the same cult burned themselves to death last Feb. 8 in a similar protest.

The Dutch government said it is not overly worried, since members of fringe sects probably number only in the hundreds in Amsterdam and Rotterdam. However, Moonies are said to be a problem in Amsterdam, where they stand on street corners and try to recruit students.

Denmark is unofficially estimated to have at least 10,000 young cult members, ranging from Hare Krishna to Satanists. For the past few years, Lutheran church spokesmen and several newspapers have been campaigning against the activities of Scientology recruiters in the country, but no government action has been taken against the sects.

Outdoorsman Rebounds In Spite of Adversity

NISSWA, Minn. (AP) — Some people, not many, no matter what fate deals them, refuse to say, "I give up." One of these rarities is Bob Collette.

Bob Collette is an outdoorsman. "Indoors is where you have to wait until you can get outdoors again," he said.

He was raised on one of Minnesota's lakes, one of those jewels of creation where the pines that come down to the water's edge are so green they look black at dusk, a surrounding army of black spearpoints piercing the sky. No wonder the outdoorsman loved him.

At age 3 or thereabouts, as soon as he could hold a rod, he became an able fisherman. At 14 he was an expert, so skilled he became a summertime fishing guide at various resorts.

"I charged $1 a fish. I ran the boat, baited the hooks and cleaned the fish. The customer got all I caught, too. If I didn't catch more than anyone else something was wrong."

Four years ago, when Bob was a veteran guide of 21, he went for a cooling dip in a resort pool after a hot July day of fishing. Nobody had told him the pool had been filled with concrete and had become a wading pool. He dove in.

"There was no pain, but I knew something was wrong."

"Somehow I got to the side. A friend helped me out of the pool. I asked him to touch me. He touched me from my toes to my neck and I couldn't feel a thing. Well, I was scared."

He had shattered his sixth and seventh cervical vertebrae. "The doctors told me I would never walk again. They wouldn't say I would never use my arms, but that was the message I got. I never got a straight answer. Maybe it was just as well."

"After about six months I was sitting in a wheelchair looking at my right hand. My thumb moved."

"I worked at it hard. I wore myself out working at it. Two weeks later I got my fingers to move. Then I started working on my left hand. Finally I got it moving, then my arms."

After several operations and months of therapy, Bob could get around in a wheelchair, get in and out by himself.

On one visit home, before he was discharged, he asked his brothers to put him in a boat and take him fishing. "They taped a rod to my arm, and I fished. I don't know what I would have done without my fantastic brothers and all my friends."

Through it all, Bob never lost his confidence or good humor. He wanted to remain what he was, a fishing guide, and did. He is one of the best in this part of the northland, and if he ever has had a moment of selfpity he doesn't remember it.

"The way I am is the way I'm going to be. I accept that. I can do everything I need to do, I believe as well as you."

Just so. He can hitch his boat behind his van, back it down a lakeside ramp, launch it, heft himself inside with strong arms, leaving his wheelchair on shore, settle in, bait his hook, grin. "Let's go fishing."

Taylor County Court Ruled Authority in Liquor Turmoil

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Taylor County district court is the only one that can decide Abilene's liquor fess, the Texas Supreme Court said Wednesday.

The high court issued an opinion to back up its Sept. 20 decision overruling an Austin district court order that kept the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission from issuing liquor and beer permits.

Within hours after the decision alcoholic beverages were being sold legally in Abilene for the first time since Prohibition.

The statute the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Code confers original and exclusive jurisdiction on the district court of Taylor County for trial of any controversy governed by the statute arising out of the local option election on June 17, the Supreme Court opinion said. "A suit is an election contest when the validity of a local option election, or the correct ascertainment of the result thereof, is its subject matter."

"The statute conferred no jurisdiction of the subject matter pleaded in the cause upon the district court of Travis County and that court was without authority to entertain the suit or render judgment therein."

Following the June 17 local option selection a canvass by the Taylor County commissioners showed the "Drys" won by a narrow vote. However, on July 10 an Abilene district judge order another canvass because the first count did not include votes cast in voting Precinct 19.

The July 20 canvass showed the "Wets" winning. Applications were made to the TABC on the basis of the July 20 canvass. Then, the anti-liquor forces brought suit in Austin and District Judge Charles Mathews issued an order Aug. voiding the "Wets" victory and said the July 10 decision would stand.

The Alcoholic Beverage Commission then asked the Supreme Court to tell it what to do, specifically asking that Mathews' decision be cancelled, which the court did on Sept. 20.

NEW YORK (AP) — Who are the financial "experts" who so freely give their advice?

One is the financial counselor who tells readers this month in a national publication to exchange their Series E Savings Bonds for Series H bonds in order to obtain 7.5 percent interest instead of 6.

Series H bonds pay 6 percent, not 7.5. It's been that way for years.

Another is the stock market analyst who offers on the telephone an erudite explanation of why the price of gold has suddenly risen — only to realize that he has misread the ticker. The price had barely moved.

The expert is also the advisory firm that tells subscribers that if both husband and wife are eligible for Social Security benefits they will receive whichever is largest, the husband's or the wife's.

In fact, the benefits could be the total of the two.

The expert is the stock advisory service that forgets its poor selections but reminds you of the one in 10 that came out ahead, and even chides you for not having had faith enough to buy the stock.

And then insults you by at taching a cautionary warning to his report, advising that past results should not be taken as an indication of future profits.

Phony Experts...

The expert is the mutual fund that plugs its superiority — "Let us show you how our professional management and skilled research might enhance your estate" — and then produced a 10-year, no-gain record.

It is the popular economic analyst with the penchant for beginning his current reports with the words, "As I told you six months ago" knowing that few people will look through the record.

The expert is his cousin figuratively speaking who tosses names as easily as he gives advice, knowing that the important personalities he expatriates for his own uses aren't likely to squeal on him.

Are there really any experts at all?

An educator, Nicholas M. Butler, once said experts know more and more about less and less. But, weaving cosmic theories, financial experts sometimes claim to know more and more about more and more.

In personal finance there are authorities. But "expert" may have acquired a special meaning, at least to the many innocents who believe such people are endowed with superior intellectual powers.

There are responsible advisers, many of them, but peddlers too, and they aren't any more likely to offer guarantees than the automobile mechanic is. All the descriptions referred to involve real people.

Perhaps the problem with personal finance experts is that so many people listen to them. Such believers relieve themselves of personal responsibility and assign to others the job of thinking for them.

But, in spite of promises to look after your financial affairs with the same wisdom and dedication they apply to their own finances, no surrogate is likely to do so.

In the end, each individual is probably more informed and responsible to himself or herself than another possibly could be.

Substitute Compromise Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee agreed Wednesday on a compromise substitute for the public works bill President Carter vetoed, dropping some of the projects to which he objected most strongly.

Sen. J. Bennett Johnston Jr., D-La., handling the legislation, said, "The president will approve this plan. He will not veto it."

The compromise deletes six projects that were in the vetoed bill: Bayou Bodcau, La.

Yatesville Lake, Ky.; Lukfata Lake, Okla.; Narrows Unit, Colo.; Savery-Pot Hook in Colorado and Wyoming; and Fruitland Mesa, Colo.

Construction money also was deleted for 11 other projects, but Johnston said planning funds for them should be provided.

The Senate was expected to act quickly on the compromise.

Should I keep records accurately on the maintenance of my car? Like many other things in everyday life you should keep records on your car!

- (1) It first of all is good to keep fuel mileage checks at least every couple of months.
- (2) Keep records on oil changes and use your operations manual to determine when your oil should be changed.
- (3) Keep records on types of oil you are using.

It is important to record what has been done at any time to your car. Along with recording maintenance also include the mileage and date. Good records can make your car last much longer.

BACHELOR, NATURALLY

COMMENTARY The vanishing envelope-stuffer

Donald F. Graff

Item: In 1960, 38 percent of all women were employed. By 1977, the working percentage had risen to 48.

Item: The proportion of married women working has increased from 40.5 percent in 1970 to 46.4 percent in 1977.

Item: Volunteer agencies across the country are feeling the pinch of personnel shortages.

All of the above are aspects of the same demographic trend — the changing role of women from essentially homemaker to increasingly breadwinner. According to a recent Census Bureau study, women either married or postponing marriage for a career now account for 41 percent of the more than 100 million U.S. labor force. And the trend continues upward.

Women are entering the employment market in ever greater numbers for a variety of reasons — to supplement family incomes in inflationary times, to take advantage of expanding career opportunities in fields previously closed to them, for the intellectual stimulation of professional activity.

Whatever the individual reasons, one of the far-reaching consequences is the shrinking of the pool of volunteers which a host of agencies devoted to good causes long has been accustomed to drawing upon for the bulk of their personnel.

These were the women who rang the doorbells, handled the telephones, drove the cars. Almost always for free. As more and more of them turn their attentions to drawing paychecks rather than stuffing envelopes, many agencies which relied upon them are having to curtail their activities. The realistic among them, however, are restructuring their operations to adapt to the changed situation.

The Junior Leagues, for one notable example of the latter group, saw the change coming some years ago. In 1951, approximately 9 percent of League membership consisted of "professionals," either working women or students. Currently, this group is estimated to account for more than 30 percent of total membership.

Adapting to their new occupational profile, the Leagues have changed their emphasis from an outlet for the interests of a socially elite group of women and broadened the scope of activities. Some programs are structured to permit employed women to participate in nonworking hours. Volunteer activities are tailored to assist participants in career preparation. They are also pressing employers to adopt release-time — authorized time off the job — policies for women volunteers, an advantage male workers for good causes long have enjoyed.

There is also a trend toward tapping a new reservoir of volunteer help — retirees, both women and men. These are not only numerous and often eager to remain active, but bring special skills to volunteer work.

The organizations that seem to be hurting the most now, League spokeswomen note, are those which did not foresee the coming change and restructure to meet it. As it is turning out, the days of an unlimited supply of unpaid envelope stuffers would appear to be nearing an end. But volunteer work, once it adjusts to the change, is likely to be the healthier for it.

Chauvinism on the board

The increasing male role in volunteer work raises another point, a sore one.

A recent study by the Alliance for Volunteerism noted that while women traditionally have filled the unpaid ranks and files of agencies, the decision makers have been predominantly male. Of 100 nonprofit agencies in Boston surveyed in 1975-76, women held only 23 percent of the board and 19 percent of the officer posts. Many groups had no representation by women at the top levels.

This is a status that is not likely to remain quo as women increasingly enter volunteer activity from professional fields rather than straight from the home.

At Brownfield... Whitefaces Meet Cubs Friday

BY DON INGRAM
Sports Editor

Hereford hits the road Friday as they face Brownfield in Cub Stadium.

Both clubs are coming off a loss last week as the Herd lost a close one, 21-20, to Amarillo High while Brownfield got bombed 36-7 against Andrews.

The Cub loss was the third this season. They have lost to Andrews, Monahans and Leveland. They have won two, against Denver City and Seminole.

Against Andrews, the Cubs garnished nine first downs to the Ponies' 13; had 185 yards rushing to AHS's 367; and collected 44 yards passing to Andrews' 15.

An apparent major flaw in the Cub attack last week was the penalty bug. They had ten penalties for 110.

Hereford assistant coach Stacy Bixler told local boosters Tuesday night the Cubs are, "really a quick and alert team."

He said they use a flex defense like the Dallas Cowboys use against their pro opponents. On offense, they apparently like to use the Wish-bone attack, plus other variations off the Wish-bone.

HEREFORD ATTACK

Hereford meanwhile, has moved up in the District 4-AAAA statistics after their 20 points produced last week against Amarillo High.

The Herd has a rushing average of 4.0 after game five and 777 yards in 194 attempts.

Passing, the Whitefaces have a 6.9 average. They have gained 125 yards throwing after completing 18 of 51.

In all, Hereford has racked up 90 yards total offense this year for a play average of 3.7 and a total game average of 180.4.

The leader is Plainview, which Hereford faces in two weeks, with a play average of 5.9 and a game average of 331.0.

Hereford's Keith Adams leads the district in receiving with seven catches and 66 yards. He has an average of 9.4. Whiteface Paul Bell is 4th in rushing with a 5.5 average and 309 yards and three touchdowns. Joe Walker has a 3.1 average after accumulating 169 yards.

Jackie Mercer is 3rd in passing after five games with a 6.9 yard completion average. He has connected on 18 of 49 for 125 yards and a completion rate of 367. He has five interceptions.

Glen Yosten, who has an ankle injury and may not play against Brownfield, has recovered three fumbles, a district high.

Richard Olsen has grabbed two while Steve Sauter, Bud Hughes, Robbie Fish, Terry Huffaker, Adams and Cory Christie, all have one fumble recovery to their credit.

Christie and Adams also have one interception each to their credit.

Richard Olsen is 2nd in district in tackles with 54, followed by Christie with 46, Cory Springer 42, and Fish 42.

Mercer still leads the district in tackles with 46, Cory Springer 42, and Fish 42.

Mercer still leads the district in punting with a 39.0 average. He has gained 1,238 yards punting on 31 attempts. His nearest competitor is Larry Walker of Lubbock with 939 and a 34.8 average.

Key Club Relay Set Saturday

The Hereford Key Club is sponsoring a 25-mile run this weekend in conjunction with the Texas-Oklahoma District's program entitled "Together We Can Do More."

The program is for prevention and awareness/education toward mental retardation.

The local Key Club's run this Saturday is just a part of the district's TWCDM program to educate students and adults on the needs and potentials of mentally retarded people.

Locally, the 25-mile relay will occur at Whiteface Stadium at 1 p.m.

According to Key Club president Ronald Plummer, three teams made up of Senior, Junior and Sophomore classes will run for pledges gathered from local townspeople.

Plummer said the Key Club goal is $1,000.

The funds will be going toward mental retardation in Texas, said Plummer.

Anyone wishing to pledge money should contact Plummer at 364-3329 or club sponsor Gene Brock at 364-6991.

Things Could Be Worse for Bengals?

CINCINNATI (AP) - Unless in six starts and offensively awful, things could be worse for Cincinnati's "Bad News" Bengals. Take it from veteran lineman Rufus Mayes, who has been with the Bengals through the good, bad and ugly.

"At least the fans aren't throwing things - yet," said the veteran offensive guard.

"I'm wearing my helmet Sunday," chimed in injured linebacker Bo Harris, who hasn't suited up all season.

The Bengals, strictly bad news while tying a club record with seven straight losses, have lost everything but their sense of humor.

"It's a comedy," said all-pro wide receiver Isaac Curtis.

"We can't be as bad as we seem to be," insists fullback Boobie Clark.

A national television audience watched them hit rock bottom in Monday night's 21-0 loss to the Miami Dolphins.

General Manager Paul Brown had hoped a coaching change in the wake of Bill Johnson's resignation last week - would put some fight back into the Bengals. Instead, under new coach Homer Rice, Cincinnati suffered its first shutout since 1970.

"Everything bad that could happen, has happened," said Curtis. "We've had it all; bad breaks and bad bounces. I'm still waiting for something good to happen."

It could be a long wait.

The Bengals, who were 11-3 in 1975 and 10-4 in 1976, appeared headed for their worst season since the franchise was founded in 1968. An 0-and-16 disaster is not out of the question.

After hosting powerful New England Sunday, the Bengals play at Buffalo, then finish with a bruising schedule: Houston twice, San Diego, Oakland, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Cleveland.

One victory won't turn the season around, but "it would be like adrenalin when you're having a heart attack," said Harris, who will miss most of the season with a knee injury. He is among six 1977 starters, including three all-pro players.

LA Travels to NY Friday... Welch Turns Yanks Into Pumpkins, 4-3

NEW YORK (AP) - Young Bob Welch turned Mr. October into a pumpkin, tricking Reggie Jackson and treating the Los Angeles Dodgers to a cozy two-game lead as the 75th World Series jets here for Game 3 Friday night.

The Dodgers' pulsating 4-3 triumph Wednesday night gave them a 2-0 edge, and only five teams in history have come back from that kind of hole to win the best-of-seven Series. To a man, the Yankees think they can rise to the occasion. They hand the third-game ball to left-hander Ron Guidry, the best pitcher in baseball this year, and they know they have overcome worse adversity before. "I know where we're at," said Guidry, 25-3 in the regular season, plus a victory over Kansas City in the American League playoffs. "We've been against it before. We had to come back from 14 games out and then beat Boston and win a playoff against Kansas City. "We've been down all year and fought back," said third baseman Graig Nettles, "the main culprit in the Yanks' slow of missed opportunities in the heart-breaking second-game loss. "This is nothing new for us."

In one sequence, the poised rookie pitcher shook off catcher Steve Yeager in an effort to make Jackson think the fastball wasn't coming. "I told him to shake me off," said Yeager. "I touched my mask and shook my head. We did it to confuse Jackson."

Jones Ready To Play NY Jets

BALTIMORE (AP) - Quarterback Bert Jones of the Baltimore Colts can hardly contain his enthusiasm as he prepares for his first action in the National Football League season.

"I'm as excited as hell," Jones said. "I want to play, and I hope I perform well enough to help the team."

So far, it's been a frustrating year for Jones and the Colts, who have struggled to a 2-4 record since the quarterback suffered a shoulder separation in Baltimore's final preseason game.

"I was pretty concerned for awhile," Jones said. "I began to wonder how long it would take to get well. When I first started to throw, I developed some soreness in the back of my arm not related to the injury."

But Baltimore trainers theorized the soreness came from stretching muscles that had been constricted by a heavy weightlifting program during Jones' rehabilitation.

Jones has thrown without pain this week, and is expected to start in Sunday's home game against the New York Jets. "Bert should provide another lift for our club," said Coach Ted Marchibroda, "at a time when we're getting almost everybody back healthy."

Beer Cans, Whiskey Ban Set for Game

CLEVELAND (AP) - The man in charge of security for Cleveland Browns' games at Municipal Stadium says the ban on whiskey bottles and beer cans will be enforced Sunday when the Pittsburgh Steelers come to town, but "nobody will be touched and there will be no frisking."

Henry Doberstyn, Cleveland traffic commissioner, who doubles as head of security for the Browns' games, said: "I'm against any search-type thing where we lay our hands on anyone. We'll have police outside each gate to keep anyone from bringing in bottles or cans."

"If we see people carrying bags, we'll ask them what's inside. If they say they have a bottle or can, they won't be let into the game unless they get rid of them."

Cross County Meet Set For Saturday

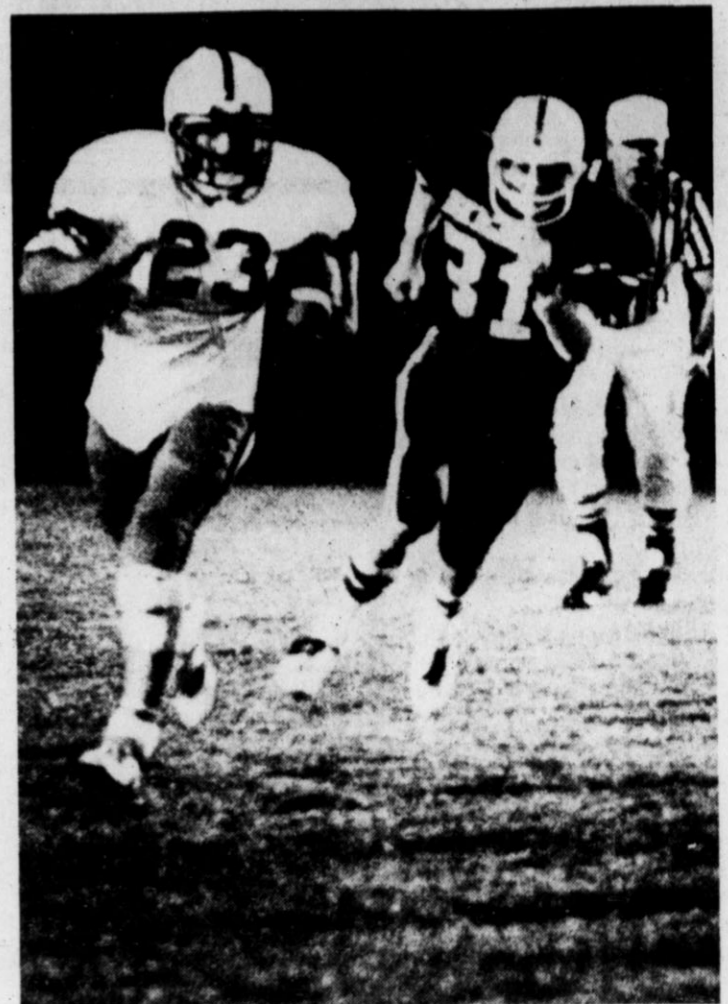

Eighteen high schools are scheduled to participate this weekend in the Hereford cross country meet.

The long-distance running takes place Saturday at Veterans Park, starting at 10 a.m.

In all, 54 different teams, including boys and girls varsity, plus JV teams, will be entered.

The last round of runners will start at 11 a.m.

Due to compete are teams from Hereford, Plainview, Amarillo High, Caprock, Palo Duro, Tascosa, Pampa, Lubbock High, Monterey, Coronado, Dunbar, Estacado, Crosbyton, Levelland, Christ The King, Nazareth, Kress and Slaton.

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Cincinnati Stingers have released defenseman John Schella and signed center Eddie Gilbert to a contract, according to a spokesman for the World Hockey Association club.

CHICAGO (AP) - Police say a 26-year-old Arlington Heights man was arrested over the weekend and charged with threatening the life of Chicago Bears running back Walter Payton.

Ronald Schons was arrested Sunday after the license number of a car that circled Payton's northwest suburban home was traced to him, police said.

Huntsville quarterback Lloyd Archie has been adjusting to position changes since the end of last season but so far opponents can't adjust to

Hornets Get No.1 Rating

Archie—no matter what position he plays. The Hornets, ranked No. 1 in Class 3A of The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll, trailed Houston Furr 7-0 until the final six minutes last week. Then it was Archie's turn. Archie engineered a two-play 66-yard drive with a 26-yard pass to Larry Mock and on the next play ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Archie missed the extra point kick and Huntsville still trailed 7-6. Moments later Archie returned a punt 42 yards and passed 23 yards to Charlie Williams for the winning touchdown and completed a two-point conversion pass to Mark Adams. Tailback Kenny Jones added a security touchdown with 2:11 left in the game and Archie kicked the extra point to complete the 21-point surge and earn mention this week in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

Archie, an all-state receiver last season, had been ticketed for a move to wingback or tailback in Huntsville's power-I offense. But when the starting quarterback suddenly moved to Houston, Coach Joe Clements didn't hesitate to fill the gap with Archie. "He had never worked a down at quarterback until Aug. 14," Clements said. "I'd talked to him all summer about moving to either tailback or wingback. He's had to make a super adjustment in a hurry but he's managed it. "I can't think of anyone I'd rather have back there than Archie."

Mrs. Mary Dean
... quilting goes well with babysitting

Let's Cook Quilter, Homemaker, Babysitter

By DENISE SMITH
Brand Staff Writer

Although Mary Dean of 226 Aspen is the mother of only one daughter, she can truthfully say she has mothered 70 local children in her home since she moved to Hereford in 1957.

Mrs. Dean has kept children in the age groups of infant up to pre-schoolers. For the last five years she has turned her attention to newborns. Mrs. Dean states joyously, "I really enjoy babysitting. I put my daughter through college that way!"

Mrs. Dean married in 1936 in Spanish Fort which is N.E. of Wichita Falls. She is the mother of Janis Dean, 27, of Midland. Her husband, Melton Dean, has been employed with REC now for 21 years. Janis attended Wayland College in Plainview and graduated with a masters in secretarial and bookkeeping skills. Along with Janis' interest in office work she shares her mother's favorite hobby of quilting.

Mrs. Dean started quilting when she was ten, getting her basics and ideas out of magazines. The homemaker states, "I enjoy making quilts, I've made them all my life." She is now working on an "Around The World" quilt which she says will take her about 6 weeks to finish because every stitch is made by hand.

Mrs. Dean's favorite quilts are the Grandma's Flower Garden, Around the World, and The Cathedral Window. Among other quilts she has made are the Log Cabin, and Bicentennial. Most of the quilts she has made have had a history behind them. The Cathedral Window was started in England by some church women. It gets its name from the brightly colored cathedral windows in the churches.

The Log Cabin goes back to George Washington. Mrs. Dean has also made a few historical quilts within her family. "When my daughter graduated from high school, I made her a friendship quilt. But instead of putting just her friends on it, I included the gifts each one gave her." "I used to make all of Janis' dresses for her during school. Starting the first day she went to school I saved scraps from her dresses and made miniature dolls out of them and quilted them."

"I've always combined my quilting and babysitting so I have a full day and night. If I get tired of piecing a quilt, I work on my puzzles, then sometimes I'll go to the stores and shop around while then go home and quilt some more."

In addition to quilting Mrs. Dean enjoys her jig saw puzzles. When she finishes one puzzle she puts them back into the box and rebuilds them later. "The largest puzzle I've put together was 2500 pieces."

In spite of her full schedule Mrs. Dean still finds time to cook and scout garage sales which is where she finds most of her scraps for quilting. Mrs. Dean states with a sigh, "I never was much of a club lady, we're just old home bodies."

Mrs. Dean was born in Seymour in 1919. She moved to Henrietta where she met her husband and married in 1936. "They had little of community spelling bees, and volleyball games at the school house. He lived at one end of the section and I lived at the other end, with the school house between us." While living in Henrietta, Mrs. Dean cooked on a Douthitt Ranch for 3 to 60 hands for 8 years. During her childhood, Mrs. Dean lived on a ranch. "We lived on a farm and worked on it. We raised our own meat and vegetables. We had a windmill for water and an outside bathroom. We had no phone and radio didn't come about till later."

"We had our own entertainment, a household full of kids. I would climb trees and our windmill and get a spanking. We always had something to do. We did our own washing on a scrub board. Then we would boil it in a wash kettle in the yard. We made a pot full of soap."

"After we would kill our hogs in the fall, and rendered the lard out of the rind and the fat part of the hog, we'd take those cracklings and put lye and water with them and boil them for so long and keep it stirred. When it got real thick the lye would eat up the rind and cracklings. Then we would let it (the fat) sit over night and it would be hard enough to cut out in blocks next morning."

"I like the open space of the country, but I like the modernization of town." After the Brand interview had ended, Mrs. Dean in a laughing manner stated, "If I find out who suggested me for this article, I'm going to kill them. I may not find out, but I'm going to try."

Even though Mrs. Dean was a little hesitant of the interview, she didn't mind sharing two recipes which she and her husband enjoy.

LOW-CALORIE SPONGE CAKE
½ cup reconstituted nonfat dry milk
1 cup sifted all purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder, dash salt
3 eggs, ¾ cup sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel

1. In small saucepan, heat milk until bubbles form around edge of pan. Remove from heat; set aside.
2. Preheat oven to 350F. Sift flour with baking powder, salt; set aside.
3. In small bowl of electric mixer, at high speed, beat eggs until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually add sugar, beating until mixture is smooth and well blended—about 5 minutes.

4. At low speed, blend in flour mixture just until smooth. Add warm milk and peel, beating just until combined.

5. Pour batter immediately into an ungreased 9-inch food pan. Bake 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Invert pan over neck of bottle. Let cool completely. Serve plain.

TOPS Clubs Join For 'Gun Night'

The four TOPS Clubs of Hereford met jointly on Monday evening for a "Gun Night" a time of fellowship and inspiration. Club 576, with Janelle Davison as leader, hosted the party. This is the first of a plan to have "Fun Night" for the local clubs each quarter. The Hereford Clubs have met with clubs from Amarillo and Canyon in the past.

The Clubs participating are 576, which meets on Tuesday mornings, Club 918, which meets Wednesday evenings, Club 941, meeting on Thursday mornings and Club 1011, meeting on Monday evenings. Guests came costumed for Halloween. Forty-eight women came for the party.

Arden Draper was mistress of ceremonies, welcoming the women and starting the evening's activities. Janelle Davison introduced leaders of the other clubs, 918-Mary Hamby, 941-Frances Zetsche and 1011-Hope Loerwald. Get-acquainted games were played and selected by Leaders as best costumed was Paula Breeding from 1011, dressed as a witch.

Honored especially were best losers for the quarter July, August and September from each club. Losing the most was Gennelle Ward from 941 with 16½ pounds. Close runner-up was Nina Walser from 576 with 16¼ pounds. Mrs. Ward had attended every meeting of her club since joining July 27, and had never failed to lose at a weekly weigh-in. Mrs. Walser only recorded one gain and no absence since joining her club on July 11.

Best loser in club 918 is Trini Longoria with 8½ pounds. Honored in Club 1011 as good loser was Earline Cook who lost 7¼ pounds to reach goal during this quarter. She had lost a total of 28½ pounds since joining April 17.

The highlight of the evening was presentation of a floating trophy to the club with the best average weight loss of the three month period. Receiving the honor was Club 918, whose ten active members lost an average of 4.5 lbs. each. Mary Hamby, leader, accepted the trophy for the club to keep until the January meeting, when best losing club again will be awarded.

To host the January meeting will be Club 1011, with Hope Loerwald, leader.

LA Travels to NY Friday... Welch Turns Yanks Into Pumpkins, 4-3

NEW YORK (AP) - Young Bob Welch turned Mr. October into a pumpkin, tricking Reggie Jackson and treating the Los Angeles Dodgers to a cozy two-game lead as the 75th World Series jets here for Game 3 Friday night.

The Dodgers' pulsating 4-3 triumph Wednesday night gave them a 2-0 edge, and only five teams in history have come back from that kind of hole to win the best-of-seven Series. To a man, the Yankees think they can rise to the occasion. They hand the third-game ball to left-hander Ron Guidry, the best pitcher in baseball this year, and they know they have overcome worse adversity before.

"I know where we're at," said Guidry, 25-3 in the regular season, plus a victory over Kansas City in the American League playoffs. "We've been against it before. We had to come back from 14 games out and then beat Boston and win a playoff against Kansas City.

"We've been down all year and fought back," said third baseman Graig Nettles, the main culprit in the Yanks' slow of missed opportunities in the heart-breaking second-game loss. "This is nothing new for us."

Right-hander Don Sutton, 2-0 in previous World Series decisions and 15-11 this season, admits he doesn't have Guidry's dominating power, but "on most game days I give a pretty good accounting of myself."

For the defending champion Yanks to regain the winning touch, they need a typical Guidry effort and some hitting from somebody besides Jackson. With starters Chris Chambliss, Mickey Rivers and Willie Randolph sidelined with injuries in Game 2, the burden falls heavier on Nettles.

The Yankee third baseman came through in the field, with two spectacular plays, but fell short at the plate, striking out feebly three times and leaving four New York runners on base, three of whom were in scoring position.

"Those two dives on his fielding gems on the cement infield really took it out of me," said the Yanks' leading home run hitter in the regular season, who is 1-for-8 in the Series. "I've never had dives like that wear me out so much."

"I lost all my energy. I felt like I got hit by a truck. This freeway here isn't even listed on the map."

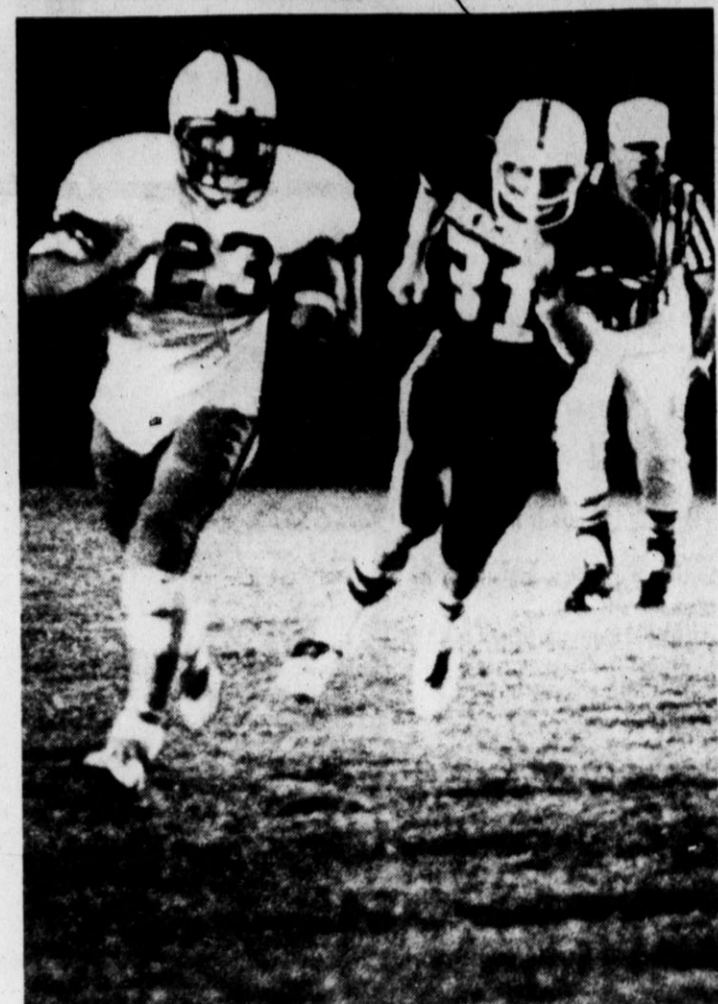

Jackson knocked in all three Yankee runs, and had a chance for more October heroics with two out and two on in the ninth.

Rookie Welch had just retired his first batter, Thurman Munson, when Jackson, the home run hero of last year's Series, strode to the plate. Welch fired nine fastballs, finally fanning the slugger on a 3-2 pitch.

In one sequence, the poised rookie pitcher shook off catcher Steve Yeager in an effort to make Jackson think the fastball wasn't coming.

"I told him to shake me off," said Yeager. "I touched my mask and shook my head. We did it to confuse Jackson."

Chase Scene

The Herd spent most of the night chasing Amarillo High's Larry Isaacsons (23) last Friday but did a good job most of the time keeping the big back untracked. Here, Whiteface defender Keith Finch chases Isaacson around left end for a short gain.

Shorts

CINCINNATI (AP) - The Cincinnati Stingers have released defenseman John Schella and signed center Eddie Gilbert to a contract, according to a spokesman for the World Hockey Association club.

CHICAGO (AP) - Police say a 26-year-old Arlington Heights man was arrested over the weekend and charged with threatening the life of Chicago Bears running back Walter Payton.

Ronald Schons was arrested Sunday after the license number of a car that circled Payton's northwest suburban home was traced to him, police said.

Hornets Get No.1 Rating

Huntsville quarterback Lloyd Archie has been adjusting to position changes since the end of last season but so far opponents can't adjust to Archie—no matter what position he plays.

The Hornets, ranked No. 1 in Class 3A of The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll, trailed Houston Furr 7-0 until the final six minutes last week.

Then it was Archie's turn. Archie engineered a two-play 66-yard drive with a 26-yard pass to Larry Mock and on the next play ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Archie missed the extra point kick and Huntsville still trailed 7-6.

Moments later Archie returned a punt 42 yards and passed 23 yards to Charlie Williams for the winning touchdown and completed a two-point conversion pass to Mark Adams.

Tailback Kenny Jones added a security touchdown with 2:11 left in the game and Archie kicked the extra point to complete the 21-point surge and earn mention this week in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

Archie, an all-state receiver last season, had been ticketed for a move to wingback or tailback in Huntsville's power-I offense. But when the starting quarterback suddenly moved to Houston, Coach Joe Clementis didn't hesitate to fill the gap with Archie.

"He had never worked a down at quarterback until Aug. 14," Clementis said. "I'd talked to him all summer about moving to either tailback or wingback. He's had to make a super adjustment in a hurry but he's managed it."

"I can't think of anyone I'd rather have back there than Archie."

Jones Ready To Play NY Jets

BALTIMORE (AP) - Quarterback Bert Jones of the Baltimore Colts can hardly contain his enthusiasm as he prepares for his first action in the National Football League season.

"I'm as excited as hell," Jones said. "I want to play, and I hope I perform well enough to help the team."

So far, it's been a frustrating year for Jones and the Colts, who have struggled to a 2-4 record since the quarterback suffered a shoulder separation in Baltimore's final preseason game.

"I was pretty concerned for awhile," Jones said. "I began to wonder how long it would take to get well. When I first started to throw, I developed some soreness in the back of my arm not related to the injury."

But Baltimore trainers theorized the soreness came from stretching muscles that had been constricted by a heavy weightlifting program during Jones' rehabilitation.

Jones has thrown without pain this week, and is expected to start in Sunday's home game

Cross County Meet Set For Saturday

Eighteen high schools are scheduled to participate this weekend in the Hereford cross country meet.

The long-distance running takes place Saturday at Veterans Park, starting at 10 a.m.

In all, 54 different teams, including boys and girls varsity, plus JV teams, will be entered. The last round of runners will start at 11 a.m.

Due to compete are teams from Hereford, Plainview, Amarillo High, Caprock, Palo Duro, Tascosa, Pampa, Lubbock High, Monterey, Coronado, Dunbar, Estacado, Crosbyton, Levelland, Christ The King, Nazareth, Kress and Slaton.

against the New York Jets. "Bert should provide another lift for our club," said Coach Ted Marchbroda. "at a time when we're getting almost everybody back healthy."

Beer Cans, Whiskey Ban Set for Game

CLEVELAND (AP) - The man in charge of security for Cleveland Browns' games at Municipal Stadium says the ban on whiskey bottles and beer cans will be enforced Sunday when the Pittsburgh Steelers come to town, but "nobody will be touched and there will be no frisking."

Henry Doberstyn, Cleveland traffic commissioner, who doubles as head of security for the Browns' games, said: "I'm against any search-type thing where we lay our hands on anyone. We'll have police outside each gate to keep anyone from bringing in bottles or cans."

"If we see people carrying bags, we'll ask them what's inside. If they say they have a bottle or can, they won't be let into the game unless they get rid of them."

Mrs. Mary Dean
... quilting goes well with babysitting

Let's Cook Quilter, Homemaker, Babysitter

By DENISE SMITH
Brand Staff Writer

Although Mary Dean of 226 Aspen is the mother of only one daughter, she can truthfully say she has mothered 70 local children in her home since she moved to Hereford in 1957.

Mrs. Dean has kept children in the age groups of infant-up to pre-schoolers. For the last five years she has turned her attention to newborns. Mrs. Dean states joyously, "I really enjoy babysitting. I put my daughter through college that way!"

Mrs. Dean married in 1936 in Spanish Fort which is N.E. of Wichita Falls. She is the mother of Janis Dean, 27, of Midland. Her husband, Melton Dean, has been employed with REC now for 21 years. Janis attended Wayland College in Plainview and graduated with a masters in secretarial and bookkeeping skills. Along with Janis' interest in office work she shares her mother's favorite hobby of quilting.

Mary Dean started quilting when she was ten, getting her basics and ideas out of magazines. The homemaker states, "I enjoy making quilts. I've made them all my life." She is now working on an "Around The World" quilt which she says will take her about 6 weeks to finish because every stitch is made by hand.

Mrs. Dean's favorite quilts are the Grandma's Flower Garden, Around the World, and The Cathedral Window. Among other quilts she has made are the Log Cabin, and Bicentennial. Most of the quilts she has made have had a history behind them. The Cathedral Window was started in England by some church women. It gets its name from the brightly colored cathedral windows in the churches.

The Log Cabin goes back to George Washington. Mrs. Dean has also made a few historical quilts within her family. "When my daughter graduated from high school, I made her a friendship quilt. But instead of putting just her friends on it, I included the gifts each one gave her."

"I used to make all of Janis's dresses for her during school. Starting the first day she went to school I saved scraps from her dresses and made miniature dolls out of them and quilted them."
"I've always combined my quilting and babysitting so I have a full day and night. If I get tired of piecing a quilt, I work on my puzzles, then sometimes I'll go to the stores and shop around awhile then go home and quilt some more."

In addition to quilting Mrs. Dean enjoys her jig saw puzzles. When she finishes one puzzle she puts them back into the box and rebuilds them later. "The largest puzzle I've put together was 2500 pieces."
Mrs. Dean still finds time to cook and scout garage sales which is where she finds most of her scraps for quilting. Mrs. Dean states with a sigh, "I never was much of a club lady, we're just old home bodies."

Mrs. Dean was born in Seymour in 1919. She moved to Henrietta where she met her husband and married in 1936. "They had little ol' community spelling bees, and volleyball games at the school house. He lived at one end of the section and I lived at the other end, with the school house between us." While living in Henrietta, Mrs. Dean cooked on a Douthitt Ranch for 3 to 60 hands for 8 years. During her childhood, Mrs. Dean lived on a ranch. "We lived on a farm and worked on it. We raised our own meat and vegetables. We had a windmill for water and an outside bathroom. We had no phone and radio didn't come about till later."

"We had our own entertainment, a household full of kids. I would climb trees and our windmill and get a spanking. We always had something to do. We did our own washing on a scrub board. Then we would boil it in a wash kettle in the yard. We made a pot full of soap."
"After we would kill our hogs in the fall, and rendered the lard out of the rind and the fat part of the hog, we'd take those cracklings and put lye and water with them and boil them for so long and keep it stirred. When it got real thick the lye would eat up the rind and cracklings. Then we would let it (the fat) sit overnight and it would be hard enough to cut out in blocks next morning.

"I like the open space of the country, but I like the modernization of town."
After the Brand interview had ended, Mrs. Dean in a laughing manner stated, "If I find out who suggested me for this article, I'm going to kill them. I may not find out, but I'm going to try."
Even though Mrs. Dean was a little hesitant of the interview, she didn't mind sharing two recipes which she and her husband enjoy.

LOW-CALORIE SPONGE CAKE
1/2 cup reconstituted nonfat dry milk
1 cup sifted all purpose flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, dash salt
3 eggs, 3/4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
1. In small saucepan, heat milk until bubbles form around edge of pan. Remove from heat; set aside.
2. Preheat oven to 350F. Sift flour with baking powder; salt; set aside.
3. In small bowl of electric mixer, at high speed, beat eggs until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually add sugar, beating until mixture is smooth and well blended-about 5 minutes.

4. At low speed, blend in flour mixture just until smooth. Add warm milk and peel, beating just until combined.
5. Pour batter immediately into an ungreased 9-inch food pan. Bake 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Invert pan over neck of bottle. Let cool completely. Serve plain.
Makes 10 servings (4 cents, 90 calories per serving)

TOPS Clubs Join For 'Gun Night'

The four TOPS Clubs of Hereford met jointly on Monday evening for a "Gun Night" a time of fellowship and inspiration. Club 576, with Janelle Davison as leader, hosted the party. This is the first of a plan to have "Fun Night" for the local clubs each quarter. The Hereford Clubs have met with clubs from Amarillo and Canyon in the past.

The Clubs participating are 576, which meets on Tuesday mornings, Club 918, which meets Wednesday evenings, Club 941, meeting on Thursday mornings and Club 1011, meeting on Monday evenings. Guests came costumed for Halloween. Forty-eight women came for the party.

Argen Draper was mistress of ceremonies, welcoming the women and starting the evening's activities. Janelle Davison introduced leaders of the other clubs, 918-Mary Hamby, 941-Frances Zetsche and 1011-Hope Loerwald. Get-acquainted games were played and selected by Leaders as best costumed was Paula Breeding from 1011, dressed as a witch.

Honored especially were best losers for the quarter July, August and September from each club. Losing the most was Gennelle Ward from 941 with 16 1/2 pounds. Close runner-up was Nina Walser from 576 with 16 1/4 pounds. Mrs. Ward had attended every meeting of her club since joining July 27, and had never failed to lose at a weekly weigh-in. Mrs. Walser only recorded one gain and no absence since joining her club on July 11.

Best loser in club 918 is Trini Longoria with 8 1/2 pounds. Honored in Club 1011 as good loser was Earline Cook who lost 7 1/2 pounds to reach goal during this quarter. She had lost a total of 28 1/2 pounds since joining April 17.

The highlight of the evening was presentation of a floating trophy to the club with the best average weight loss of the three month period. Receiving the honor was Club 918, whose ten active members lost an average of 4.5 lbs. each. Mary Hamby, leader, accepted the trophy for the club to keep until the January meeting, when best losing club again will be awarded.

To host the January meeting will be Club 1011, with Hope Loerwald, leader.

Oliver Cromwell, leader of the anti-Royalists in England, died in 1685 and was succeeded by his son.

Rebekah Projects Discussed Tuesday

A garage sale, concession stand and the Odd Fellow Circle supper were among the projects discussed Tuesday evening by 16 members of Hereford Rebekah Lodge #228 in IOOF Hall.

Noble Grand Blanche Williamson presided.

Anna Conklin was elected lodge deputy and will take office in March, 1979.

An invitation was read welcoming all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of District 5 to a salad supper honoring the Muleshoe Lodge which has recently joined the district. The event is planned at 8 p.m. Oct. 16 in Friona Lodge Hall.

Susie Curtsinger was selected to the spokesman for Hereford at the district meeting.

The Rebekahs expressed appreciation to Hereford, Canton and LAPM for the supper and "42" games Friday evening.

Verna Sowell was hostess to Blanche Williamson, Helen Sowell, Ursalee Jacobsen, Lydia Hopson, Ada Hollabaugh, Mary Flowers, Leona Sowell, Frances Parker, Faye Brownlow, Susie Curtsinger, Edna Mathes, Sally Parker, Karrol Rettman, Ann Conklin and Sadie Shaw.

Promoting Program

Joan Coupe, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division public affairs committee, is shown here issuing a reminder of Women's Emphasis Days, which concludes here today. Emphasis Days have consisted of a series of informative programs geared especially toward women. The public is urged to attend the remaining programs to be presented today at the Community Center.

Mrs. Newsom Hostess To Lone Star Club

Mrs. G.W. Newsom and Miss Mildred Elliott were co-hostesses Tuesday afternoon to members of Lone Star Study Club in the former's home, 130 Ave. C.

Margaret Ann Durham, president, called the business meeting to order and requested reports from standing committees.

Opal Bookout introduced the program, "Illegal Aliens--A Severe Problem in Texas," which was discussed by Grace Tinnin. Using the US News and World Report as a reference, she stated that 3 to 5 million illegal aliens are currently in the United States with 90 percent of that number entering from Mexico.

In addition to those members already mentioned, attending the meeting were Bertha Dettman, Jessie Vae Dodson, Wilma Goetsch, Sue Henslee, Ursalee Jacobsen, Bibby Morgan, Fay Williams, Zoe Williams, Winnie Wiseman, Ella Higgins, Dola Phillips, Britney McCathern and Emma Suit.

Garage Sale Planned Here

A giant garage sale is to be held Saturday from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. at 704 Plains as a fund-raising project of Delta Xi Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, an international society of women educators.

Proceeds of the sale will be used to finance projects endorsed by the society. These include local projects as well as scholarships for teachers.

Ann Landers

Unwanted Inlaws

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently gave birth to a beautiful baby boy. Since the day I arrived home from the hospital my mother and mother-in-law have been over to "help" me. I can't get near my baby. They want to take care of him "so I can rest." I appreciate their thoughtfulness but I'm getting enough rest. I want to take care of my own child.

My doctor warned me against relatives who would offer to help the first few weeks. He said that if they were sincere, they'd do the housework and cooking and let me take care of the baby.

How can I tell this to my mother and mother-in-law without hurting their feelings? Maybe if you print my letter it will help other mothers and mothers-in-law remember how it was when they brought their first-born home and wanted to be alone with him. -- Feeling Cheated

DEAR FEELING: They won't remember, so don't count on it. You'll have to tell your mother and mother-in-law in plain, unvarnished English exactly how you feel if you want results.

With the next baby I promise you it will be different. You'll be happy to have help from anyone who offers it. So don't spit in the well, dear. You might have to drink from it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago my husband asked me if I would go to work for him. He owns a small business. I am an experienced bookkeeper and typist. I turned him down because we have two children under seven years of age and I feel my place is at home with them.

Today he told me his former wife accepted the job and she will start next week. I'm sure nothing out-of-the-way will develop (he has told me too much about their life together -- and it was awful). I also understand she has a steady man she plans to marry as soon as his divorce is final.

Still, I don't like the idea of my husband working with his former wife. The job has suddenly begun to look awfully good to me. How do I handle this situation without coming off like an insecure woman -- which obviously I must be or I wouldn't be -- Worried In Waynesboro

DEAR W.I.W.: Tell your husband you trust him completely but you'd prefer that he hire someone else.

Offer to do the books at home. Come in on a part-time basis until he can replace her. P.S.: Start scouting around immediately for a less threatening type.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it permissible for a non-Jew to wear a "Star of David" necklace?

Please advise in your column. I never miss reading it. Thank you. -- Wondering In Fredericksburg

DEAR WONDERING: It's not only permissible, it's lovely. It expressed the Ecumenical spirit -- and the world can use more of that.

CONFIDENTIAL to All Readers: Hold everything. My endorsement of APRL (Alliance for the Preservation of Religious Liberty) needs a second look. Many prestigious religious leaders have written to inform me that I have been misled. Soon I shall print a signed letter from an unimpeachable source who will give us the last word on what parents should do when their children join religious cults. I've been assured that APRL is NOT the way to go.

Extension Programs Designed for Family

COLLEGE STATION — (Spl)...County Agents of The Texas Agricultural Extension Service have been working with families of the state since the early 1900's, when the first county home demonstration agent was named to work with girls' clubs in Milam County.

Edna W. Trigg was the first home demonstration agent to serve there. She organized and worked with Tomato Clubs for girls in 1912, two years before Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act which paved the way for Cooperative Extension Services in every state of the nation.

Today families continue to be a major audience for Extension specialists and county Extension agents as the Diamond Anniversary of Farm Demonstration work is observed this October. Extension home economists contacted more than 1 million homemakers and their families during the past year with timely information about family health and nutrition.

West Hereford HD Club Elects New Officers

West Hereford Home Demonstration Club elected a new slate of officers, to be installed in December, during a business meeting Tuesday afternoon in the home of Myrtle Allmon.

Selected to serve were Wilma Nell Pierce, president; Aleda Penman, vice president; Evelyn Bell, secretary; Edora Boyd, treasurer; Artie Frost, reporter; and Mrs. Allmon, council delegate. These women will assume office in January.

Carrie Mae Doak, club president, called the meeting to order and made several routine announcements concerning HD family stability, housing environment, family resource management, family clothing, and community environment and leadership.

The Extension educators also are working to teach vital nutrition facts and improve the diets of limited-income families. Within one month, paraprofessionals in the Expanded Nutrition Program worked with almost 30,000 homemakers in their own homes to improve nutrition, food buying practices and meal preparation.

Home care and maintenance programs are other popular Extension offerings today. Senior citizens are benefitting from a wide range of programs, and teens are studying a variety of projects--ranging from nutrition education to parent education--as part of Extension's effort to add to the quality of life for all citizens.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is a vital part of the Texas A&M University System.

activities during the coming weeks. It was agreed that West Hereford and North Hereford HD Clubs will merge for a joint meeting Oct. 24 in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

The method demonstration for the afternoon was a program on dishes to be substituted for meat at mealtime. Specific suggestions were these high-protein alternates: eggs, soybeans, dried peas, nuts and new foods.

Attending the meeting were Mmes. Boyd, Doak, Pierce, Frost, Penman, Mary Flowers, Alice Cox and Miss Bell.

Adult Sitter Clinic

Offered Free to Public

Persons who are or might be responsible for the care of a sickly individual are invited to enroll in an adult sitter clinic, to be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 17-18 at the local hospital. There is no charge for the two-day clinic, being sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAES).

The clinic, featuring authoritative speakers, will provide knowledge and skills for non-professional nursing.

The role and responsibility of the adult sitter will be discussed by County Extension Agent Joyce Shipp and the rudiments of physical care will be presented by three registered nurses, Doris Morgan, Marilyn Reed and Elaine Clark. The Rev. George Belford, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will discuss death and spiritual care. Also, Oldham County Extension Agent Louise Walker will review sitter adjustments. At the completion of the workshop, hospital administrator Jim Bullard will present certificates of completion to clinic participants.

TAES programs are open to the public without regard to age, socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Designers have rediscovered intricately patterned jacquard fabrics such as damask or brocade as a fashion item, a clothing specialist reports.

They're woven and knitted and most often soft--and lightweight, says Becky Culp with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

TiWaniLi Camp Fire group met last week.

Members elected new officers, including Amy Mason, president; Lisa Dirks, vice president and ceremonials chairman; Misti Hardin; secretary/reporter; and Georgia Collins, treasurer.

Members discussed the upcoming mini-tour to be held Oct. 21 or 28. Also, plans were made for the art show, slated Nov. 11.

Members reviewed Pack-O-Fun.

In addition to the officers, those present were Troyce Schuder, Don Ann Cummings and Naoma Flores.

The WaDiTaKa Adventure group is seeking new members. The girls meet at 3:30 p.m. each Monday in the big room of the Camp Fire Lodge.

Membership fees of $10 per person are required.

Daleine Springer is leader of the group and Charleine Springer is club president.

Asia Topic Of Program To Be Given

Lt. Charles Laakso, head of the military science department at West Texas State University, will be the guest speaker Monday evening in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room for the American Association of University Women (AAUW).

All interested persons are welcome to attend the meeting, which will commence at 7 p.m.

Lt. Laakso, who has been in the US Army for 26 years, will be discussing the situation in Southeast Asia.

Springlake Homecoming Scheduled

Interested persons are invited to attend Homecoming festivities at Springlake High School Oct. 20, when the classes of 1928, '38, '48, '58 and '68 will be honored.

Prior to the Homecoming football game, an enchilada supper will be held from 5-7 p.m. in the Springlake High School cafeteria. Gametime is 8 p.m.

Coffee will be served afterwards during a social in the school cafeteria.

Additional information can be secured by telephoning Kathy West at 986-2971.

Making Parson's Table Simple

COLLEGE STATION - A "parson's table" covered with fabric is fun and simple to make, according to Pat Seaman, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Only a few materials and a little time will do the job, says the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

MATERIAL LIST

1. flat surface hollow-core door
2. wood for legs
3. eight angle irons and screws
4. glue
5. fabric
6. scissors
7. upholster's tape or fusible webbing
8. brads
9. iron
10. saw
11. staples and gun
12. leg glides
13. needle and/or sewing machine and thread

HOW TO BUY

First, purchase a flat surfaced, hollow core door with the desired dimensions.

Also, buy square lumber for the legs. It must have the same dimensions as the thickness of the table top.

For example, if the door for the table top is 1 1/4 inches thick, then the wood for the legs must be 1 1/4 x 1 1/4 inches square. Next determine the height of the table and multiply that measurement by four to know how much lumber is needed for the legs.

Many lumber yards will cut the wood for customers.

HOW TO MAKE

To make the table, attach the legs to the top with glue and two angle irons on the insides of each leg. Make leg outside corners flush with table corners.

Next, cut four fabric strips for the legs. Each strip should be equal to the circumference measurement of a leg plus three inches—and the length of the leg plus three inches.

Also, cut the fabric for the top—making it equal to the length plus 10 inches and the width plus 10 inches.

TO COVER LEGS

1 Attach fabric to the inside corner of each leg up and down the leg with glue or staples.

Be sure to leave 1 1/2 inches of the extra fabric at the top and bottom of each leg. It will extend up onto the table underside and down under the leg bottom to make a neat finished look.

2 Wrap fabric around the leg. To allow the extra 1 1/2 inches at the leg top to fit neatly up onto the table underside, make three clips into this extra fabric.

First, clip down into the fabric just above the inside corner of the leg.

Then do the same just above the second corner, since it is the outside corner—and there is no table overhang for it to fit up under. The extra fabric at that corner will be hidden when the table top is covered later.

3 To complete the leg wrapping, turn the remaining inside edge of the leg fabric over upholster's cardbord and attach it to the cardbord with brads or fusible webbing. Next, attach it to the leg.

If brads are used, to hide their heads, lift some of the fabric threads over the heads. With a needle and pin, grasp some of the threads from beneath the brad head, and lift them over it.

4 To finish the bottom of the leg, fold the extra 1 1/2 inches of fabric underneath the bottom, and glue or staple fabric.

5 Attach glides to each leg.

TO COVER TABLE TOP

1 Center the fabric on the table top wrong side up.

2 Pin darts at each corner so top fits snugly.

3 Stitch darts by hand or machine. Cut excess fabric from dart, and turn top right-side out.

4 Place fabric on table top and clip in two places where the table sides (apron) meet legs—to allow the table cover to fold underneath the table top for a neat finish.

Considering the inside leg corner the "first" corner, go the next ("second") corner and clip into the table cover up to the bottom edge of the table top (about five inches deep). Then skip the "third" corner (which is the outside leg corner). Go to the "fourth" corner and clip.

5 Fold the fabric under just next to leg tops—and fuse, glue, tack or staple into place.

6 Fold remaining fabric edges under—all around the table—and fuse, glue, tack or staple in place.

DECORATION, PROTECTION
Decorative head tacks also can be used on the legs and apron of the table.

For protection, finish the top with a plastic coating, or cover it with glass.

Suitable Fashions for Fall

SUIT YOURSELF—The suit look takes on a new classic elegance when imaginative knits take over. For busy autumn days, there's nothing more practical. At left, wool dress and jacket ensemble, accented by a

Handbag holds odors

By Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — Recently I bought an oiled leather handbag that has a terrible odor. Is there any way of getting rid of this hideous aroma? — RHONDA

DEAR RHONDA — It may take a few tries because leather can have a lingering odor. You might put some charcoal in a box with the bag and close it up for a few weeks. I would crumple up some newspaper and add that, too. Do protect the bag so it does not touch the charcoal or newsprint. An open bar of scented soap could also be placed in a drawer or box with the bag. Baking soda is also a good deodorizer. I am sure if any of the readers have had success deodorizing leather they will share their remedy with you. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Most toilet bowl brush holders are flat on the bottom and open on one side. Drips can get on the floor. I solved this problem by setting a small plastic margarine container inside the holder to catch the drips. It works fine.

Also I discovered that suede spray cleaner will remove scuff marks from certain plastic shoes and heels. — MRS. M.S.

DEAR POLLY — For quite a few years I have used a thin piece of foam to keep my throw rugs and runners from slipping. Cut the foam about one inch smaller than the rug so the edges lay flat.

My Pet Peeve is that the manufacturers of travel clothes bags do not make the zippered openings on the side, which would make it much easier to see the contents and remove the desired garment. Also it seems that men's shirts should be cut fuller since most American men are of a heavier build than the men in Korea or Hong Kong, where so many of the shirts are made. A slim-cut shirt looks horrible on our average middle-aged male. — MRS. W.N.

DEAR POLLY — One of the readers wrote that she had trouble with stamps coming off of envelopes. I stamp the envelope before writing the letter and place it under a book while I write the letter. The stamp sticks perfectly. — RAY

Entrants Being Sought For Miss Teen Contest

Young women between 13 and 18 years of age are invited to participate in the 8th Annual Miss Texas National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held at Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, on June 1, 2, 3, 1979.

State Pageants were held in participation with 35 Colleges and Universities and more than $100,000 was awarded in cash and tuition scholarships to participants in 1978 State Pageants.

The 8th Annual Texas Pageant is the official State Preliminary to the Miss National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held in Atlanta, Georgia in August, 1979. The Texas winner will receive among other prizes a Cash Scholarship and an all expense paid trip to compete in the National Pageant in Atlanta. In the National Pageant all 50 States and the District of Columbia are represented by a winner selected in state-wide competition.

The 1979 National Pageant will award among other prizes $10,000 in Cash Scholarships for use at the college of the winner's choice; $2,000 personal appearance contract; 1979 MAZDA; trips; and a full tuition Fashion Merchandising Course Scholarship from Barbizoo International.

Fats have "staying power" in the diet because they stay in the stomach longer and take longer to digest than proteins and carbohydrates, reports Marilyn Haggard, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Vegetables Good Buys

COLLEGE STATION - Budget buys at Texas grocery markets include turkey parts, several fresh vegetables and items "on special" along grocery market aisles, according to Gwendolyn Clyatt.

Also, more beef features are available, she says. Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This week's price-quality trends are the following:

POULTRY - Turkey parts are the best value. Fryer chickens are a good value—with whole birds the better value. Medium-size eggs are the better egg buy.

FRESH VEGETABLES - Better-than-usual buys are cabbage and potatoes.

More plentiful items with more attractive prices are eggplant, broccoli, cauliflower, cooking greens and turnips. Also consider carrots, dry yellow onions, green peppers and squash.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

You have to feel sorry for the young kids buying new homes these days.

It's not the fact that the national average of a new home is close to $70,000, or that the interest rates are the highest in history. I have compassion for them because they have to endure the pain of listening to the "What-I-Paid-for-my-first-house" stories from the old-timers.

During the past year we have related the story of our first house at least a dozen times a month. Every time we tell it, the lot gets larger, there's another bathroom and the price falls off $500.

Last night, after a couple squealed ecstatically about their final loan approval on a $55,000 home, my husband mechanically launched into his "first home" story.

"$55,000 dollars! I don't believe it. Why, can you believe our first home was on an acre lot, had four large pillars on a veranda porch with a rolling lawn, five bedrooms, four baths, a sumptuous living room, glass-paneled wall, large entranceway, all-electric kitchen, family room, fireplace, two-car garage, landscaping, plastered walls and copper plumbing throughout and it only cost $12,900? I'll bet that sounds ridiculous to you, doesn't it? I leave anything out?" he asked me.

"Only the slave quarters and the polo field," I said irritably.

"Yep," he continued, "sold that little baby 15 years later at a $20,000 profit."

By the time he was finished, the new home owners were so depressed they could barely speak.

On the way home I exploded, "Is your brain in escrow? You made those kids feel rotten! Besides, I thought you were describing 'Tara' out of Gone With The Wind. That house only had three bedrooms and two baths, and remember the day we lost the entranceway and you were standing on it?"

"The garage only held one car, the landscaping was a packet of seeds and a holy picture of St. Francis of Assisi, and the lot was so small I could stand in the back yard and hear a phone ring eight houses down. Besides, we paid $21,000 for it."

The only consolation I have for young people buying homes today is that in 15 or 20 years, the house will get bigger and the price will get smaller and your margin of profit will be limited only by your imagination.

Human Rights Boomerang

A civilian airliner was shot down in Rhodesia by black nationalist guerrillas—using missiles furnished them by Soviet Russia. Then after the airliner was shot down the survivors were massacred—including women and children.

These are the black nationalist guerrillas who have been demanding their "rights."

President Carter probably had no idea that his protestations concerning "human rights" would boomerang. It seemed so safe—and so politically useful at home—to divert world attention to the suppression of "human rights" in southern Africa.

What the President overlooked was that "human rights" — by his definition "freedom for self-determination" — are not allowed in most of the countries of the world.

And from one after another of the family of nations our President is being told to shut up and mind his own business.

Argentina's president for one. Nicaragua's Somoza for another.

President Somoza has brought decades of stability to Nicaragua. Recently his rule was threatened by student demonstrations and agitation for a general strike.

President Somoza believes that our President's protests about "human rights" brought on this revolt by giving unrealistic encouragement to the troublemakers.

Somoza says he is "fed up" with our President's tub-thumping about "human rights" for people who have not yet learned respect for the rights of others.

Somoza told the Phoenix, Ariz., Republic that he is battling Castro Communists for control of his country, that their ultimate objective is the conquest of all South America—and so he will continue to round up and imprison agitators.

Somoza says he will allow orderly elections in 1981 if by then there is sufficient stability in his country to assure an orderly election process.

At Camp David I understand both Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin let our President know that allowing all of the human freedoms which he espouses is presently inappropriate in their countries.

From its beginning the United States has offered itself as a refuge for the "huddled masses yearning to breathe free..."

Yet government of, by and for the people is a good idea only if we are good people.

From the headlines it is beginning to appear that self-determination may not be workable even here.

President Carter, inevitably a product of his back-country Georgia upbringing, tends to equate human rights with the wholesale suppression of a minority.

More frequently, in many countries, a vicious, militant minority, in the name of "rights," commits bad wrongs!

Statistics indicate only two percent of all wives contribute 75 percent or more to the family income.

In most cases, employed wives contribute 20 to 40 percent of the family income, reports Debby Johnson, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

Assassination Plot Schemer Leaving Motel Job

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) - Kathi Wagner is leaving her job at the motel where she claims to have uncovered a possible presidential assassination plot. The Secret Service says Ms. Wagner was responsible for a hoax threat on President Carter's life, but Ms. Wagner is sticking by her story. She says her interrogation by the Secret Service following the Aug. 28 incident "was uncalled for because they assumed I was lying and guilty until proven innocent." Dennis Crandall, a Secret Service agent in Salt Lake City who took part in the investigation, said that "after what we consider a very thorough investigation, we concluded that the story was a fabrication." No arrests or charges were made, but Crandall said, "We are keeping apprised of what she is up to." He said Ms. Wagner "can appear very charming and lucid at times." Ms. Wagner, a 23-year-old divorced mother of two and a former mental patient, says an unidentified man in a tailored suit and flashy tie knocked her unconscious in a hotel room she had entered to clean. Ramada Inn employees said the room contained a mirror on which were the soap-scrawled words, "The president will die Thursday." Next to the mirror was a picture of Carter with an "X" etched over it and mattresses in the room had been burned. Ms. Wagner said the man told her, "You shouldn't have come in here," before hitting her on the head with a handgun, knocking her unconscious. She was hospitalized briefly for shock and smoke inhalation. Carter and his family were vacationing at the time in Wyoming's Grand Teton National Park, but made a brief stop in Idaho Falls two days after the incident. Described by authorities as "not very cooperative" during questioning, Ms. Wagner said she took a polygraph test administered by the Idaho Falls Police Department and was told she failed it. Crandall said he could not comment on the test or even confirm it was given. "They were really giving me a bad time," Ms. Wagner said of the Secret Service. "They stated to me that I had passed out and subconsciously done these things that the man did." She said she had experienced five blackouts during the previous year, but each lasted

"just seconds" and "I wouldn't do anything during them." She said she was told by authorities at a closed magistrate court hearing Sept. 6 that if she would voluntarily spend five days at the state mental hospital "to get over all I'd been through" - they would drop plans for a committal hearing. She agreed. While at the hospital, she said a psychiatrist

"told me that I was not mentally ill." It was her second stay at State Hospital South in Blackfoot. She said she entered the hospital last February suffering from depression brought on by her failing marriage. For the past five months she has lived with her foster parents in Idaho Falls - an arrangement set up by her Mormon Church bishop in Rexburg.

'European Pest Can Be Controlled'

Entomologist Claims SW Borer is Greater Threat

"The European Corn Borer, found recently in 15 Texas Panhandle counties, is no more of a threat to corn crops than the Southwestern Corn Borer, which farmers have battled successfully for years," claims a research entomologist with Pioneer Hi-Bred International Inc.

"Given an equal infestation of the European Corn Borer and the Southwestern, the Southwestern is more damaging to crops," said Dr. John Campbell, a research entomologist with Pioneer. "Since the same chemical applications can be used to control both insects, and since Texas farmers already keep a sharp eye out for the Southwestern borer, additional crop damage should be minimal."

Pioneer's research team has studied the European Corn Borer for 25 years, aiming toward developing hybrids strong enough to tolerate that insect as well as others. Dr. Campbell and Pioneer consultant Ferd Dicke have conducted research extensively in Des Moines, Iowa, which is in the heart of the nation's Midwest corn belt.

The Midwest has been plagued by the European Corn Borer for many years, but when infestation of crops in Moore County in the Panhandle was reported recently, it was the first indication of the insect in Texas since the mid-1960s.

A subsequent investigation by the Texas Department of Agriculture in 30 Panhandle counties revealed the European Corn Borer has already reached crops in 15 counties, including Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, Hutchinson, Roberts, Oldham, Potter, Carson, Gray, Deaf Smith and Randall along with the first known location in Moore County.

Because of the way it feeds on corn plants, the European Corn Borer is potentially less dangerous than the Southwestern variety, according to Dr. Campbell. The European is normally found throughout the stem of the plant, while the Southwestern concentrates on the lower parts of the plant near the base. Both insects cause some ear dropping and stalk breakage, but in the case of the European Corn Borer the package is usually above the ear and the corn is still harvestable.

The European borer also chews leaves, but while that action may inhibit plant function, it is generally not severe enough to kill the plant.

The best way to deal with the European Corn Borer is to try to control it chemically, Dr. Campbell said. "Any farmer accustomed to some degree of insect control should be able to control the European Corn Borer," he said.

"One way to avoid extensive damage is to plant as early as possible so the corn may mature before the second generation of European Corn Borers, the most dangerous, has a chance to do much damage," Dr. Campbell said. The damaging effects can also be reduced by planting faster maturing hybrids.

"Planting early and using chemicals to control the insects are the most successful ways of avoiding crop damage," he said. "You never get 100 percent control over an insect, but you try to minimize your losses. The farmer has to get back more than what it costs him to fight the insects."

Panhandle farmers should not be afraid to plant corn because of the threat of possible European Corn Borer infestation. The insect also feeds on other hosts, including beans, peppers, grain sorghum and certain weeds, so the Panhandle would still have to fight recurrent infestation even if the insect could be eradicated from the corn crops.

The severity of infestation varies from year to year, depending on the weather and other conditions. "It seems like the first year or two after the insects infest an area are the worst," Dr. Campbell said. He added that hot temperatures, such as the conditions in the Panhandle last June, promote large populations of European Corn Borers, just as they aid

Southwestern Corn Borers.

"I couldn't advocate a quarantine as an effective means to combat the spread of the insect on the High Plains of Texas, since the greatest danger of spread in that area is from moth flight," Dicke, a former research entomologist with the United States Department of Agriculture, said. Transmission of the European Corn Borer to other parts of Texas when corn is shipped out of the area could be reduced by a quarantine.

If the 15 affected Panhandle counties, which primarily provide corn for feedlots, were quarantined, crops would have to either be fumigated or screened before they were shipped out of the country. Sifting the corn through one-half inch mesh screens would eliminate most of the inch-long borers. The corn could still be shipped, but it could be quite expensive to fulfill the requirements of the quarantine.

Lubbock Will Host Water Inc. Member Meeting

LUBBOCK — The directors of Water, Inc., have selected Lubbock as the site of the organization's 12th Annual Membership Meeting in 1979. Attending the board meeting was Mrs. Argen Draper, Director from Hereford.

Water, Inc., directors also appointed committees to plan the meeting activities and to nominate individuals for director-at-large positions.

Named to the annual meeting committee were Russell Bean, Frank Gray, Clem Boverie, A.C. Verner, Jim Ed Waller, Terry Stark and Wayne Board, all of Lubbock.

Assigned to the nominating committee were Hoyt Pattison of Clovis, Bruce Rigler of Plainview, Bob Clark of Seminole, Felix Ryals of White Deer, E.H. Aderton of Amarillo, Russell Bean of Lubbock and Joe D. Unfred of New Home.

Due To European Corn Borer

Grainmen Hear Specifics on Quarantine

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

AMARILLO — A quarantine requiring the screening or fumigation of corn from 15 Texas Panhandle counties to prevent the spread of the European corn borer was discussed in detail during a special meeting of grain industry representatives at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center here Wednesday.

Both grainmen and representatives of the Texas Department of Agriculture agreed that such measures could delay the spread of the pest to other areas of the state, but pointed out that the quarantine will cost farmers in the affected counties more of the cash they are having a hard time earning in light of current corn prices.

David Ivie, TDA spokesman representing Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown explained that the proposed quarantine would include Deaf Smith, Moore, Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, Hutchinson, Roberts, Oldham, Potter, Carson, Gray and Randall counties.

"In order to maintain the credibility of our certified grain from borer-free areas, we need to set up some control over the grain moving from the 15 county area where the European corn borer has been found," stated Ivie. "If we don't take this step, the whole state may be labeled as European corn borer infested by those states free of the pest. There's no point in those areas to the south of the infested counties being penalized, when the problem can be held in check where it now stands," he added.

Proposed quarantine lines were drawn up by the TDA after a 30 county survey last month revealed 15 positive sample returns.

The pest was originally found in Moore County in August, and symptoms of its presence in the Panhandle have been noted for at least three years, according to local entomologists.

Dr. Carl Patrick, an entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, told the gathering that the borer is present in numerous states, and can be dealt with.

"The European borer burrows into corn stalks, but doesn't girdle the plant like the Southwestern borer with which we are all familiar. There are two generations of the pest in most areas, with the second generation hitting in late July and August. They feed in the ear region, weakening the stalk and the shank, and can cause ears of corn to fall off, or stalks to break over. The first generation feeds in the whorl, and is more damaging in this stage than the Southwestern. Up to 15 percent lodging has occurred in this stage in Kansas," Patrick reported.

"This pest can move into sorghum as well, although they don't overwinter in it very well. They do overwinter in smartweed as well as corn, and they are harder to control with cultural practices. The European borer survives better on top of the ground than the Southwestern, and is apparently less susceptible to cold weather. The adult stage of this pest is a moth, and could have flown into the northern Panhandle from Kansas, Nebraska or Oklahoma, or it could have been brought in with grain shipments," Patrick stated.

Ivie agreed that an actual movement of the insects from northern regions may have resulted in the Panhandle infestation.

According to Ivie, a quarantine in the affected counties would require either screening the grain by passing it through a half inch mesh screen to remove trash or debris large enough to contain larvae, or fumigation of the grain with methyl bromide, counties, verbal information from the farmer will be sufficient, provided the elevator in the borer-free area is approved to receive the grain, and takes the proper treatment steps," he continued.

Feedyards processing corn from the infested area will be allowed to receive the grain without special approval, provided they grind or process the grain in such a way as to get rid of the trash which could harbor ECB larvae, and silage would be allowed to move freely, according to Ivie.

Carl King and Bill Clark of Dimmitt, representing the Texas Corn Growers Association, pointed out that many elevators are equipped to handle the screening requirement with their present scalping equipment, but that such a process will cost farmers in the infested area an additional fee of 10 cents per cwt.

Ivie pointed out that grain moving to export elevators will be exempt from the treatment requirement, provided it receives treatment upon its arrival at port facilities.

"Our quarantine in the Panhandle area will be no good if Texas allows grain to come in from other infested states without the proper treatment certificates. I think our first priorities should be to find out just where this Panhandle infestation came from, and to determine if this problem was brought in with grain from previously infested states," King commented.

"I think the Agriculture Commissioner should first inform the railroads of the need for borer-free certificates with carloads of corn from other infested states, and then I think there should be some spot-checking of out-of-state trucks for certificates as well. Agriculture commissioners in other states should also be contacted to request their cooperation in enforcing certificate provisions. It's time we toughened up on some of the grain coming into this state. Lord knows, they're tough enough on ours when we try to ship it out," he added.

King expressed confidence that the presence of the European borer will not cripple the Panhandle's corn production industry.

"From everything I've heard and read, we should be able to control the European borer with the same practices we now use on the Southwestern borer. I feel like if farmers plant early and use a good pest control program, our problems should be minimal," he stated.

Ivie stressed that compliance agreements with elevators would be a crucial factor in any quarantine, and it would be the responsibility of the receiver to turn down improperly treated grain.

"Part of the quarantine is to satisfy the requirements of other states and maintain our markets, and part is proposed in an effort to halt any further spread of the European borer in Texas," Ivie explained.

"This quarantine will cause us some extra work, and we want to keep its provisions as reasonable as possible. We hope to keep the farmer's expense at a minimum, because the more a program like this costs the producer, the less effective it is going to be," he stated.

The inception of the European borer quarantine is still nearly three months distant, due to requirements for the publication of legal notices and the need for a public hearing on the proposed quarantine, according to Ivie.

Sugar crystals are piezoelectric, meaning that vibrations set up in the sugar bowl by dinner table conversation probably generate millions of volts of low-amperage — and harmless — electricity in the sugar.

An ounce of begonia seeds may sell for as much as $3,500. It takes more than a million of the minute seeds to make an ounce.

The first national political convention in the United States was held in 1831 by the short-lived Anti-Mason Party.

Offering Comments

Bill Clark, left, and Carl King of Dimmitt, representing the Texas Corn Growers Association, offer comments on a proposed quarantine on corn produced in a 15 county area of the Texas Panhandle which includes Deaf Smith County. The TCG representatives expressed their concern over the quarantine's additional cost to area farmers, due to the fact that corn produced in the affected area must be either screened or fumigated. The area men also called for a renewal of certification checks on corn coming into Texas from other states infested with the European corn borer, the pest responsible for the call for the area quarantine. [Brand photo by Jim Steiert] which could cost up to $500 per railroad car.

Grain industry spokesmen estimated that the cost of screening the corn could add another 10 cents per hundred-weight to the fees farmers pay their elevators, a blow in a time of already depressed corn prices.

Ivie explained that official certificates showing that the grain has been screened or fumigated will be required with grain shipments moving into borer-free areas.

"Grain processing and storing facilities will be allowed to sign compliance agreements to screen or fumigate the grain and keep the proper records, and shipments of grain from the infested area may be admitted to a free area for immediate treatment by an approved establishment if accompanied by proper information," said Ivie.

"In instances such as a farmer harvesting corn in Deaf Smith County and hauling it to an elevator across a county line, such as in Parmer or Castro

 --Installation of electric timing switch to turn a light on and off.
 --Personal inspection of interior and exterior of the home and surrounding grounds.
 --Indoor plants watered.
 --Pets fed.
 --Mail and newspapers brought into your house each day of vacation.
 All this--for a low daily fee.
 We are insured and promise to please you because we are a new, local business and wish to establish references. For more information, call 364-8082 or write Denise Sims, 701 Grand, Hereford, TX 79045. 1-270-tfc

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

No potassium in vitamin C

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - This is in response to an article that was written in our paper about the normal intake of vitamin C. The article said that the recommended daily allowance was 45 milligrams. My husband has started taking vitamin C to replace the potassium he loses due to a diuretic and Inderal for blood pressure and a tremor. My question is if the normal dosage is 45 mgs., why does it say you can take from one to four per day and each one is 250 mgs. Why are they in such large doses if you don't need it? He works outdoors in the summer and he perspires a lot. He also takes vitamin E to help his skin. I had a hysterectomy three years ago and my face, arms and hands are wrinkled terribly now and look dehydrated. Do you think vitamin E will help either of our skin problems?

DEAR READER - I hardly know where to start. Vitamin C has nothing to do with potassium. Potassium is a basic chemical element and, when it is combined with chloride, it forms potassium chloride salt. It combines with other chemicals to form other kinds of potassium salts. We usually think of these as being opposed to sodium chloride salt, which is normal table salt. Vitamin C is a vitamin and most animals can form vitamin C out of carbohydrates. Unfortunately, man cannot. No matter how much vitamin C your husband takes, if he is losing potassium for some reason, it can't replace the potassium loss.

It allows that the bottle of vitamin C tablets that you have, which are 250 mg. tablets, are simply large vitamin tablets. Unless he has some unusual condition which is causing a vitamin C deficiency, this excess intake of vitamin C is not particularly beneficial. I would like to caution people who are taking large doses of vitamin C and want to stop it, though, to withdraw gradually. There is some evidence of a rebound effect if you stop vitamin C suddenly to the point that you could actually be mildly deficient in vitamin C. If your husband needs to replace potassium loss, I suggest the way to do this would be to eat fruits and drink fruit juices. Fruits and fruit juices contain lots of vitamin C. That may be why you thought vitamin C contained potassium. It just happens that fruits and fruit juices are both rich in vitamin C and potassium, but that doesn't mean that vitamin C replaces potassium.

There are very few things that Vitamin E has been proved to do for man. I don't think a small amount is particularly going to harm you, but I am not optimistic that it will help you. For your wrinkled skins, I would suggest avoiding sun exposure and using a moisturizer. You can get some effect from oils, including baby oil, but one of the best moisturizers really is petrolatum, (which you may know as Vaseline). That's because it can form a thicker, more enduring film over the skin and helps to trap moisture in the skin better. As moisture is trapped in the skin, it will appear less dehydrated and wrinkled.

To give you more information about skin problems, I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-10, Your Skin: Sun, Aging, Spots and Cancer. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Carter Hot Spot Kept in Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's secrecy-cloaked fishing expeditions may be taking him as far afield as southern Pennsylvania. The White House, mindful of Carter's passion for privacy during weekend respites at Camp David, Md., won't say where he goes from there in search of fish.

But circumstantial evidence points to forays in both Maryland and nearby Pennsylvania. Until last Friday, reporters were unaware the president was leaving Camp David unannounced to go fishing. On that occasion, however, a newsman saw Carter leave his Catoctin Mountain hideaway in a motorcade that included a Maryland state police cruiser. Police from local jurisdictions normally participate in presidential motorcades in their area.

The next morning, after the White House press office had acknowledged that Carter had gone fishing for 2 1/2 hours, reporters who went to Camp David to witness the president's helicopter departure or a festival at Elkins, W. Va., saw signs that seemed to point to a second fishing expedition. At the camp gate were two unmarked Secret Service vehicles - the same ones used in Friday's motorcade - plus a Pennsylvania state police car.

Reporters leaped to a suspicion that Carter had gone fishing again, perhaps to Pennsylvania. This suspicion was reinforced minutes later when a government station wagon arrived at the gate: its cargo area was loaded with fishing gear. White House press secretary Jody Powell subsequently said Carter might indeed have gone fishing two days in a row. But where? "The president never reveals his favorite fishing spots," said Powell.

Generally a disease of young children, rickets is caused by a vitamin D deficiency.

Houston Safari?

HOUSTON (AP) - A safari in metropolitan Houston is a visit to the home of David Bayne. At first glance, the Bayne house, on the outskirts of the nation's fifth largest city, looks similar to the others in the neighborhood. Once in the backyard, it's a different world. A visitor must make his way through well-fertilized grounds, stepping over and around a variety of fowl while keeping a close eye on several horned animals ranging in size from small goats to deer to a buffalo. "You have to watch the ones with horns," advised one of Bayne's helpers. "They sometimes get a little feisty."

Then there's Mona, a 250-pound tiger named for the sound she makes. The Baynes' crew says Mona is friendly and harmless, like a big pet cat. A guest learned quickly while Mona was tethered on a long chain.

While looking at the tiger, the visitor found Mona had the unnerving habit of standing on her hind legs, grabbing a person around the neck with her front paws and giving him a big sandpaper lick on the face. "I thought she had stopped doing that," said one of the helpers as she shoed Mona away. Mona learned that when she was a cub.

Bayne also has several lions, cougars and a rather evil-looking black leopard. The 57-year-old native Houstonian's portly man whose red face grins out from underneath a straw cowboy hat. He likes to sit and talk with his trained chimpanzee, Sparky, on his knee.

As Bayne talked, Sparky sipped on a beer, smoked a cigarette, and regarded his audience with a disdainful air. "I have something like 125 to 130 animals," he said. "I've got a breeding program going here. Some of my animals I trade with zoos and ranches, and some I sell."

Bayne also hires his animals to advertising companies for billboards, commercials and promotional campaigns. He has worked most of his life catching and transporting animals. "When I was younger," he recalled, "I had all kinds of tranquilizing equipment. I took a lot of pride in going after animals when no one else could get them."

"They had some elk up in the Missouri mountains. They had been trying to get them for three years. I went up there at 8 one morning and by 1:30 that afternoon, I had them five elk loaded."

Bayne said he had no desire to kill animals. "It is hunting to me to go up into the mountains or into the woods and bring back different type of animals wanting. That's the only hunting I wanted."

A baby lion sleeping on a chair next to Bayne awoke with a squeal, which increased in volume until a helper stuck a baby bottle full of milk into its mouth.

Bayne said, "This one's name is Honey. When it gets a little older, we'll use it for something. Right now we take her to kids' birthday parties with a baby cougar we have."

Bayne's big project now is a festival at an airport north of Houston in early September he calls the "Animal Extravaganza."

Besides various animal acts and bands, Bayne plans to introduce the first sky-diving lion. "It sure looks like it is gonna happen," he said. "We got a plane, a pilot and the chutes, and we checked with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and they don't foresee no problems."

Bayne said he has been training the lion to jump with a human skydiver at a local jump school. "The highest she's been is 100 feet and she seems to be handling it real well. We plan to take her up to 1,000 feet for the show," he said.
