

HHS Homecoming Events Set Friday

Parade, Crowning of Queen, Football Game On Schedule

By ALLISON RYAN
Women's Editor

The crowning of the Hereford High School Homecoming Queen Friday night will highlight this year's activities which range from school decorating and a pep rally to the parade and the Friday night clash between Hereford and the Tascosa Rebels.

Three queen candidates and two attendants make up the royal court this year including Shelley Simmons, Karen Compton and Mary-Jane Garcia as candidates and Brenda Strafass and Kari Walterscheid as attendants.

Miss Simmons is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Simmons. She is 17-years old and is an active member of the Leo Club. Her hobbies include attending sports events and playing the guitar.

Karen Compton is the 17-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kerr. Miss Compton is active in Leo Club, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Student Council, National Honor Society and serves as the Rotary Club

Sweetheart. She serves as the lieutenant in the HHS Drill Team.

Mary Jane Garcia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vencente Garcia. She is 17-years old and is the vice president for VOCT. Miss Garcia is involved with the drama department. Her hobbies include bike riding, swimming, dancing and listening to the radio.

Brenda Strafass, attendant, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Strafass and is a junior at HHS. She is a member of National Honor Society, Leo Club, Student Council and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Miss Strafass' hobbies include water skiing, snow skiing, basketball, track and swimming.

Kari Walterscheid is the 16-year old daughter of Leonard and Opal Walterscheid. She is a sophomore and is a member of Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Leo Club. Miss Walterscheid is also active in the high school band, basketball and track.

The Homecoming Court will be presented at the Friday pep rally, parade and before the football game.

Because of UIL regulations halftime festivities must be kept to 15 minutes. The queen candidates will be presented at the field Friday at 7:10 p.m. according to Robert Priet of HHS.

The Homecoming queen will then be crowned during half-time activities of the Hereford-Tascosa game.

Today's activities include the "Wild Wild West" dress up contest and the decorating the high school.

Best dressed boy and girl of the contest will be presented at the Friday pep rally.

Students began decorating hallways of the high school today with maroon and white "chain links" sold by the student council. Various classes will be responsible for decorating segments of the hallways and classrooms.

Decorating will continue Friday and judging of the decorations are scheduled for 8:45 Friday morning.

Iranian Planes Bomb Outskirts of Baghdad

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iranian warplanes bombed the outskirts of Baghdad, and Tehran claimed the Iraqis used ground-to-ground missiles for the first time in the war, killing 60 Iranian civilians and wounding 300. Iran also said Iraqi invaders threatening Ahwaz, capital of Khuzistan Province, were thrown back 13 miles.

Iraq claimed its forces "continued to destroy enemy installations and to strike at military and economic targets deep in Iranian territory, inflicting heavy losses in life and equipment." But there was no comment on the missile claim or word on the progress of its key offensive to complete the conquest of the Iranian port of Khorramshahr and move on to the neighboring refinery city of Abadan.

King Hussein of Jordan, brushing aside American and British warnings following his declaration of support for Iraq, said he would send Jordanian troops to fight alongside the Iraqis if they were needed. But he said that was not imminent yet.

The Jordanian port of Aqaba was crowded with about 40 ships, three times the normal number, as supplies for Iraq were diverted there to be moved overland to Baghdad.

In Washington, U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller reported that North Korea's communist government was selling ammunition and medical supplies to Iran. But he said spare parts and other equipment needed for Iran's U.S.-equipped military machine are unavailable on the world market.

The State Department said information gathered by the four U.S. electronic observation planes sent to Saudi Arabia last week was being made available to friendly countries in the war zone to lessen the threat of air attacks on them. The information was reported going to Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, both major oil pro-

Rotarians' Car Show Slated Here

The fourth annual Rotary Club Car Show is set for Saturday and Sunday with some 75 cars expected for the event.

The show will begin about noon Saturday at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn according to Gary Phipps, Rotary members.

Rotarians are selling tickets for the show at $2.50 for adults and $1 for children. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

The club is planning to award several door prizes during the weekend event including a trip to Dallas with tickets to a Dallas Cowboy football game.

Trophies and dash plaques will be awarded to car owners during the show.

Proceeds from the event will be used for charitable projects conducted by the Rotary Club during the year.

Defense Claims Key Witness In Brilab Case Habitual Liar

By SHARON HERBAUGH
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense attorneys paraded four witnesses across the stand to try to unveil the shady character of an FBI informant, portray a labor leader as a "dutiful stooge" and emphasize the "trusting" nature of Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton.

The defense opened its case in the Texas Brilab trial Wednesday, promising to show that Joseph Hauser, the government's key witness, was a habitual liar "who speaks only five percent of the truth."

A former legislative aide, Jack Gullahorn, was called as a character witness for Clayton.

Gullahorn described the speaker as "trusting ... probably the most honest, upfront, vulnerable person I've ever met" and acknowledged he told Clayton to hold unaccepted campaign contributions.

Clayton, Austin attorneys Randall Wood and Donald Ray and labor leader L.G. Moore are charged with extortion, racketeering, fraud and conspiracy in an alleged insurance kickback scheme.

Prosecutors have claimed Clayton accepted a $5,000 cash bribe from Moore, regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union.

Moore, who is to be tried separately, relayed the money from Hauser allegedly in exchange for Clayton's influence to reopen bidding on a $76 million-a-year state employees insurance contract.

Clayton, however, has said the money was a campaign contribution and he planned to return it.

Defense attorneys tried unsuccessfully to convince U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor the defendants were victims of government entrapment.

"The government says Moore's the leader of the pack," said defense attorney Ray Minton. But Hauser and two undercover FBI agents "put it all together" and Moore was their "dutiful stooge," Minton argued.

Gullahorn, an Austin attorney, told jurors he advised Clayton to keep the money locked and in a separate place so it would not be recorded as a campaign contribution.

"I told him to put it in a box and give it back, don't send it over (to his campaign treasurer)," Gullahorn said. U.S. Attorney J.A. "Tony" Canales asked Gullahorn, "How do you explain L.G. Moore's support?"

He replied, "He's not in the mainstream of organized labor. Moore was a personal friend of the speaker."

Earlier Wednesday, defense attorneys repeatedly attempted to discredit the Hauser's testimony.

Hauser, now serving a 30-month term in federal prison for insurance fraud, posed as a Prudential Life Insurance consultant during the FBI's 10-month undercover investigation.

During his appearance as a prosecution witness, Hauser said he had been instrumental in giving two youths an opportunity to attend Georgetown University Law School because of his close relationship with a faculty member.

Barbara King, the school's registrar, said the two people named by Hauser as law students never attended and the faculty member supposedly his friend never taught at the university.

The informant also said that although some of his insurance companies had been plagued by financial troubles in past years all claims had been paid and no one had lost a penny.

Rosemary Angrisani, of Orlando, Fla., told jurors her husband had purchased an $18,000 insurance policy with a Hauser company and had paid premiums of $102 a month for four years. At the death of her husband, she said, the Hauserassociated company had been placed in receivership and she did not receive any benefits.

G. Odell Turner, liquidation director of the Florida Department of Insurance, testified a firm in which Hauser and five other people owned 35 percent of the stock had to be placed in receivership and that policy holders would receive no more than 20 cents on the dollar for their investment.

Turner also noted a Justice Department strike force revealed Hauser had siphoned $11.7 million from the insurance company.

Clean-Up Drive Continues in City

Chamber of Commerce Women's Division Clean Up Campaign continues this week and committee members are asking all Hereford residents to get involved.

"We want visitors in our town to see how beautiful our city is, but we need the support of everyone to make this possible," said Bunny Anderson, beautification chairman.

To aid with the clean up, McDonalds Restaurant has donated about 300 barrel trash bags to the Chamber.

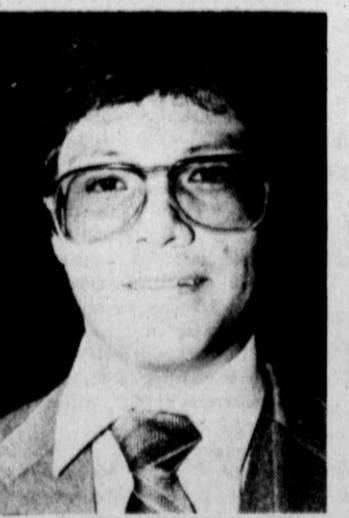

The bags are at the Chamber office and are available for everyone to use in assisting the campaign.

Saturday morning the Hereford High School Key Club will be at the Chamber Office to take calls to assist people in cleaning yards and alleys. Anyone needing help in cleaning should call the Chamber at 364-3333 or Bunny Anderson at 364-4901.

"We need all the support we can get to make this campaign work. Every little bit of cleaning can make it work," Anderson said.

UW Report Due Friday

The 1980-81 United Way of Deaf Smith County will conduct the first of four report meetings at 4:15 Friday afternoon at the chamber of commerce office. United Way president Mark Andrews will preside at the meeting, where division chairmen and their workers will report activities for the early stages of the campaign.

Following the meeting United Way officials will gather at the "tote board" in front of the post office to paint in the total pledged to date on the board's thermometer. The minimum needs goal established for this year's campaign is $130,000. Those funds will benefit 10 agencies serving Deaf Smith County and the area.

Breshnev Signs Treaty

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev signed a treaty that is said to give Syria, the longtime foe of Iraq, the status of virtual membership in the Warsaw Pact. But Brezhnev said the Soviet Union is not going to intervene in the Iran-Iraq war and warned the West to stay out also.

Brezhnev signed a treaty of friendship and cooperation with Syrian President Hafez Assad on Wednesday. Syrian sources said it committed the Kremlin to defend the Arab state from foreign attack.

In a dinner speech only hours after signing the treaty, Brezhnev said the Persian Gulf is the affair of the Persian Gulf states and "no one has a right to meddle from outside in their affairs."

Brezhnev clearly referred to President Carter's declaration that the United States will protect the vital Persian Gulf oil routes if they are threatened by the 18-day-old between the oil giants at the head of the gulf.

D'Estaing Attacks

Anti-Semitism

PARIS (AP) — Declaring that France is united in fighting "the hideous germs of intolerance, terrorism and racism," President

Valery Giscard d'Estaing ordered meetings and school lectures throughout France Friday to rally public opinion against the wage of resurgent anti-Semitism in which four persons have died.

The president, accused earlier of saying and doing too little about the bombing outside a Paris synagogue last Friday and attacks on other Jewish institutions, said in a five-minute television appearance Wednesday:

"I have instructed the Interior Minister to ask the prefects to summon local representatives of different religious organizations, unions and associations fighting for tolerance and against racism, so that they can testify their solidarity among themselves and examine security problems at the local level."

Anderson To Begin

Television Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Anderson will begin running his first television ads of the fall presidential campaign this week and they will be paid for by money borrowed from his hundreds of thousands of supporters nationwide.

The ads, which will emphasize Anderson's stand on various issues, will be aired on network television using $1 million in funds being raised by an unusual direct mail appeal.

Weeks ago, the independent presidential candidate's lawyers began trying to borrow between $10 million and $15 million from a group of banks in New York and Chicago. The money was to be paid back from retroactive federal funding for which Anderson will be eligible if he receives 5 per cent of the vote in the November 4 election.

Scrub Suits Become Fashion

NEW YORK (AP) — It's got all the pizzazz of high fashion and none of the outrages — it's cheap, comfortable and anyone can wear it. It's also probably stolen.

The trendy costume is the surgical scrub suit, and they're disappearing from hospital storerooms by the thousands.

You've probably seen the suit, with its slipover V-neck top and pull-on drawstring waist pants, during a hospital visit or on television doctors on "M-A-S-H," "General Hospital" or other shows.

The suits have become a smash on the beach, de rigueur for joggers, a must for sailors and a hoot at roller discos and rock clubs. And like jeans with scribbled names on the back pocket, what counts with the scrub suit is the sometimes stenciled, sometimes embroidered hospital logo.

Most of these comfy costumes making the fashion scene are being pilfered from hospitals across the country, and hospital administrators report losses in the thousands. They're beginning to look askance at anyone donning a scrub suit who is not sworn to the Hippocratic oath.

The thefts are so numerous that some hospitals have reported doctors standing around in their underwear waiting to operate.

Postal Service Inspects Fraud

Consumer complaints about work-at-home promotions that take money from those who can least afford it have prompted the Postal Service to assign 18 postal inspectors to spend all their time investigating that type of fraud, according to the postmaster.

The postmaster made the announcement in connection with Consumer Protection Week, Oct. 6-11.

Although reluctant to label all work-at-home promotions, fraudulent, the Postal Inspection Service has yet to find an envelope stuffing offer that is legitimate.

"Postal inspectors haven't been able to identify a single operation that produces anywhere near the kind of income claimed in most advertising," the postmaster said. "My advice is to avoid them all."

The goal of the nationwide assignment of postal inspectors concentrating all their efforts on work-at-home investigations is to shut down all operations that are fraudulent or misleading.

"It's an ambitious goal," the postmaster said, "but postal inspectors are a tenacious group." Since last October their efforts have resulted in stopping more than 500 questionable work-at-home promotions resulting in savings of thousands of dollars to the public.

"If you think you might be a victim, simply see an ad for a work-at-home scheme in a publication," the postmaster said, "let us know so that we can achieve our goal of eliminating these kinds of rip-offs."

The most common work-at-home promotion seeks people to stuff envelopes even though envelope-stuffing today is a highly mechanized operation. Literally thousands fall victim each year, the postmaster said, despite the fact that many people realize no company could afford to pay people to perform such a chore by hand.

"Unfortunately, it is the elderly or low income people who lose money to these con men," the postmaster said.

"and that makes this kind of scheme particularly disgusting."

The postmaster suggested the next time readers see an ad for a work-at-home scheme, they clip it out and send it to him so postal inspectors can be among the first to examine it.

Man Arrested For Truck Theft

Raymond Brown, 426 Ave. C, was arrested Wednesday for unauthorized use of vehicle, according to Hereford police.

Officers arrested Brown for driving a truck tractor belonging to T.H. Sosaman. Bond was set at Deaf Smith County Courthouse.

Hereford police answered a burglary report Wednesday at 110 E. Gracy. Mrs. Bill Kendall, Austin Road, reported the burglary in which a Zenith portable television, two jars of pennies and costume jewelry was taken. According to police no money value has been set on the stolen property. Intruders did some damage to the inside of the house in addition to the burglary.

Pacific Molasses, Progressive Road, reported to police that a 1974 Kenworth truck was removed from Trucker Diesel sometime Tuesday night.

According to a report from police, the truck was located Wednesday morning at the Tip Top Oil Company parking lot. Police do have a suspect. Officers answered seven non-offensive reports and issued one traffic citation.

SWPS Employees Awarded

Two employees of Southwestern Public Service Company in Hereford, will receive service awards at a dinner on Tuesday, October 21, at the Tascosa Country Club in Amarillo. The awards will be presented by Berl M. Springer, president and chief operating officer of the electric company.

A 30-year service award will be presented to Ted Gerald Higgins, and a 10-year award to Savas Celaya.

This is the first four service award dinners held throughout the company's territory. A total of 347 employees with a combined service of 5,360 years, will be honored.

Iranian

ducers, and Oman, as well as Saudi Arabia.

In Moscow, President Leonid I. Brezhnev and Syrian President Hafez Assad signed a treaty of friendship and cooperation that sources in Damascus said gave Syria, a longtime foe of Iraq, the status of virtual membership in the Warsaw Pact. But Brezhnev said the Soviet Union is not going to intervene in the Persian Gulf war and warned the West to stay out also.

At least three Iranian planes raided Baghdad, the Iraqi capital, about 8 p.m. Wednesday, and reporters in the center of the city could see large fires on the outskirts for about 10 minutes. The planes apparently slipped through the city's radar defenses undetected because there was no advance air raid alert.

There was an air raid alert in Tehran Wednesday evening, and an Iranian jumbo jet carrying Iranian passengers from London via Paris was diverted to Mashhad, 440 miles northeast of the Iranian capital, Tehran Radio said. It was not immediately known if Iraqi planes attacked the Tehran area, however.

Iraq also reported two Iranian air attacks on "residential areas and economic installations" in Kirkuk, the oil center in northeast Iraq that is a frequent target. A communique said a woman and two children were wounded, and there was "some damage to civilian installations."

The Iraqis claimed 27 Iranian tanks, three other vehicles, two boats and a missile base destroyed in operations Wednesday and one helicopter shot down. A communique said two Iraqis were killed and 11 were wounded.

Iran's official Pars news agency said Iranian forces pushed back Iraqi troops 13 miles from Ahwaz in fighting Wednesday after Iraqi artillery shelled the city, killing 33 people, most of them in a military hospital. Pars said the Iraqis also rocketed Dezful, 80 miles north of Ahwaz, destroying 40 houses and apparently killing or wounding "a high, though yet unknown number of civilians."

Reporters were barred Wednesday from the front lines at Khorramshahr, where Iraqi forces trying to take control of the Iranian side of the Shatt al-Arab estuary were blocked by revolutionary guards battling stubbornly in parts of the port city.

The Iraqis on Tuesday were reported in control of the city's port, with their artillery and air force pounding Abadan and its giant refinery 10 miles down the Shatt al-Arab. But neither Iraqi nor Iranian communiques reported any developments on the Khorramshahr-Abadan front Wednesday.

In Basra, the Iraqi port across the Shatt al-Arab, Valentin Medele, first engineer of the Romanian freighter Olanesti, said his ship was set afire by Iranian shells and abandoned Tuesday. He said five or six ships that left Khorramshahr to seek safety in the middle of the Shatt al-Arab were sunk or damaged and that when the crew of an Indian ship jumped into the water "Iranian machine guns opened up, hitting several of the Indians in the water."

In Tehran, militants

holding the 52 American hostages said the captives were "all right," and the Pars news agency said a special parliamentary committee held its third meeting on the hostage issue and would meet again. No other details were given. Today was the hostages' 341st day in captivity.

The war has halted Iran and Iraq's oil production, and to make up the shortfall Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Qatar and Bahrain are increasing production by nearly 3 million barrels a day, Treasury Secretary Miller told reporters in Washington.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which includes Iran and Iraq, was to hold its 20th anniversary meeting in Baghdad early next month, but the session has been postponed, the Iraqi Embassy in Vienna, Austria, announced. The embassy also said an oil ministers' meeting scheduled for Tuesday in London was postponed. No reason was given, but both postponements apparently were due to the war.

The Homecoming Queen will be crowned during halftime activities. Closing out Homecoming activities will be a get-together for ex-students Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

Ex students, particularly the 1980 graduates who would like to have their yearbooks signed by their classmates, are invited to attend the functions, which is sponsored jointly by the HHS Student Council and the annual staff.

Homecoming

rally will be one of the highlights of the Friday schedule as students will gather at the high school gymnasium at 2:15 p.m.

The public particularly ex-students, are invited to attend the pep rally.

The presentation of the 1980 Homecoming Queen candidates and attendants will highlight the pep rally.

The Homecoming parade will follow the pep rally at 3 p.m. with parade entries forming up on the east parking lot at HHS.

The parade will proceed down Ave. F past Stanton Junior High, west on Park Ave. to Main, then Southward to East Second.

The winning floats will not be on display at Whiteface Stadium Friday night as has been the past tradition.

However, floats will be available for public viewing on the east parking lot at the high school from 8:05 a.m. Friday until the parade begins that afternoon.

Each class will have a float entered in the parade in keeping with the western theme and Hereford's junior highs will also have parade entries.

High School entries will compete for top honors in the parade.

Additional parade entries will include the HHS "Big Red Band" plus the Stanton and La Plata junior high bands, HHS Drill Team, HHS cheerleaders and several small floats and cars entered by local clubs.

The Herd will then take to the field against Tascosa's Rebels at 7:30 p.m.

Iran-Iraq War May Present Chance for Hostage Release

NEW YORK (AP) — Former U.S. Atty.-Gen. Ramsey Clark, who has tried to help mediate the Iran hostage crisis, says the Iran-Iraq war presents the best opportunity yet for winning release of the American hostages.

Clark said if the United States makes the first move by relaxing its economic sanctions against Iran or taking similar conciliatory steps, the hostages might be released "fairly soon."

He also said he believes the Iranians do not expect a formal "apology" from Washington about past U.S.-Iranian dealings — a demand rejected repeatedly by President Carter — but would be satisfied by a full report on that relationship.

"I don't like to say war is the way to get the hostages, but the conflict with Iraq interposes a greater crisis, a greater threat and a greater enemy or evil for the Iranians," Clark said in an interview with The Associated Press at his Greenwich Village law office.

The resulting change in the Iranian national mood makes it "the best time that we've had for the hope of having the hostages released," Clark said.

He noted the Iranians are demanding that the U.S.

government release billions of dollars in frozen Iranian funds, return the wealth of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, pledge non-interference in Iranian affairs and give a full public accounting of the past U.S. role in Iran under the shah.

Some action on these items "could further improve conditions to where we could hope for release of the hostages, and I think fairly soon," he said.

Waiting for an overall deal to resolve the crisis would be a mistake, he said — "I think that has already greatly prolonged the holding of the hostages."

In the years before the shah fell, Clark was a leading U.S. critic of the Pahlavi regime and came to know a number of the shah's Iranian opponents. After the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran last Nov. 4, President Carter sent him to the Middle East to try to open negotiations, but the Iranians refused to allow him into the country.

Last June, he and nine other Americans took part in a "Crimes of America" conference in Tehran. The Carter administration threatened to prosecute them for violating the president's ban on travel to Iran. That possibility officially remains under study.

Obituaries

ARTHUR V. DETTMANN

Services are pending with Rix Funeral Home for Arthur V. Dettmann, 78, of 221 Douglas who died today at 3:05 a.m. at Parmer County Community Hospital in Friona.

Born Oct. 30, 1901 in Fredricksburg, Iowa, Mr. Dettmann attended school in Atlantic, Iowa. He later moved to Wagon Mound, N.M. and married Bertha Paltenghe in 1932.

Mr. Dettmann lived in Wagon Mound for 30 years before moving to Las Vegas, N.M. where he lived for 10 years. He had lived in Hereford for seven years.

Mr. Dettmann was a retired cattleman and rancher. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church in Hereford.

Survivors include the widow; a sister, Mrs. Fred Harman of Duncanville; a step-sister Mrs. Gigrig Allen of Phoenix, Ariz.; and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Emil Dettmann of Hereford.

Why are backward nations backward? Most of them had a head start by hundreds of years; why do they remain impoverished?

In recent generations, we in the industrious nations have been told that we should share our wealth with "underdeveloped" nations. We did — and most of them remained underdeveloped.

Now we are being urged to do more. Why doesn't somebody urge them to do more?

Robert McNamara retires next June from his presidency of the World Bank. We have already heard his valedictory address.

Choking on tears he spoke of the world's widening misery and of our disgraceful unwillingness to do more to help.

How much more? During the 13-year McNamara reign over the World Bank the contributions of enlightened nations to backward nations has increased 12 times over! In fiscal 1980, the World Bank and affiliates are contributing more than $12 billion — far beyond anything ever intended at Bretton Woods. Further, as McNamara leaves, the World Bank is seeking to double its capital, to $85 billion, is pushing for new open-ended programs, pressing for an end to all spending limits.

Yet there has been not one word from Mr. McNamara nor from any of the finance ministers who govern the World Bank — not one word of admonition to the Third World nations to get off their duffs and get to work and prosper themselves.

Rather, too often any Western money dumped in those countries is diverted by politicians to their own pockets — or they distribute the money and then take it back with increased taxes.

Taiwan is the exception which demonstrates that help from outside can assist bootstrap efforts at self-improvement and general prosperity.

On the other hand, there is little to show for multi-billion dollar World Bank boondoggles in Indonesia, India, Africa.

The McNamara type is familiar to anyone in public life. He's a genuinely nice guy. But tears come easily to him. He wept when he left the Pentagon during the Vietnam years. He weeps leaving the impoverished nations impoverished.

May the next president's choice for head of the World Bank — in addition to appropriate humanitarianism — also have enough iron in his gizzard to apply the spurs where appropriate.

Why are Backward Nations Backward?

The Newspaper Bible

ALL CREATION AWAITS THE GREAT EVENT
So, dear brothers, you have no obligations whatever to your old sinful nature to do what it begs you to do.
For if you keep on following it you are lost and will perish, but if through the power of the Holy Spirit you crush it and its evil deeds, you shall live.
For all who are led by the Spirit of God are sons of God. And so we should not be like cringing, fearful slaves, but we should behave like God's very own children, adopted into the bosom of His family, and calling to Him, "Father, Father."
For His Holy Spirit speaks to us deep in our hearts, and tells us that we really are God's children.
And since we are His children, we will share His treasures — for all God gives to His Son Jesus is now ours too. But if we are to share His glory, we must also share His suffering.
Yet what we suffer now is nothing compared to the glory He will give us later.
For all creation is waiting patiently and hopefully for that future day when God will resurrect His children.
For on that day thorns and thistles, sin, death, and decay — the things that overcame the world against its will at God's command — will all disappear, and the world around us will share in the glorious freedom from sin which God's children enjoy.
For we know that even the things of nature, like animals and plants, suffer in sickness and death as they await this great event.
And even we Christians, although we have the Holy Spirit within us as a foretaste of glory, also groan to be released from pain and suffering. We, too, wait anxiously for that day when God will give us our full rights as His children, including the new bodies He has promised us — bodies that will never be sick again and will never die.

'Guardian Angels' Look for Trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — In red berets and white T-shirts, the Guardian Angels ride the subways, buses and ferries looking for trouble. They've found it — in a surprising quarter.
These self-styled foes of the criminal element tightening its reign of terror in the nation's largest city carry no weapons and take no pay. They're armed with the martial arts — and expected a New York thanks would be their compensation.
It hasn't turned out that way.
Some transit police resent them, and others call them vigilantes bent on taking the law into their own hands. Mayor Edward Koch has advised the Angels — mostly blacks and Hispanics — "if you want to engage in paramilitary activity, join the auxiliary police."
It was a simmering feud until Sunday, when one of the Angels — 17-year-old Nelson Joga — allegedly ran afoul of the law in a Brooklyn subway station.
Joga was escorting 28-year-old Barbara Weissman to the platform about 8 p.m. when, according to police, officer Sheriff Ali, 32, spotted him smoking a cigarette — a violation of the law.
Officer Ray Montoro, a candidate for treasurer in the Transit Patrolmen's Benevolent Association's upcoming election, was among those involved in the incident. When confronted, he says, Joga "went into a spiel."
"I'm a Guardian Angel. I'm here to protect the public," he quoted Joga as saying. Then the youth turned abusive, police said, hurling obscenities and refusing to identify himself.
Five patrolmen responded to a radio call for assistance, and Joga was subdued in a struggle. Montoro was treated for a sprained right hand. Joga's head was cut and he required stitches.
The Angel was charged with assault, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and smoking in the subway. After a hearing several hours later, Joga was freed without bail.
But there is another side to this story. Miss Weissman says Joga was "accused unjustly." Joga says he wasn't smoking. And the leader of the Guardian Angels, 25-year-old Curtis "Rock" Sliwa, says the arrest was intended to enhance Montoro's union ambitions.
"The police officer was very abusive," Miss Weissman said Wednesday at a news conference. "He was nasty and he acted like he was looking for a fight. I didn't see any cigarette, but I can't say for sure."
"They just jumped him," she continued. "...The boy never started a fight. The police started it."
Sliwa blames Montoro. "I think he used it (the incident) as a platform for his campaign for union office," he said.
For more than a year, the Guardian Angels have been seeking and getting attention for their subway and parks patrols. The arrest of one of their members was news — and the man who called reporters was Montoro.
Union spokesman James Groark says it's not unusual for transit police officers to call reporters when they can't reach public relations people.
But Montoro makes no secret of his dislike for the young men.
"If they were out to help, we would be the first to welcome them," he declared at the time of the arrest. "They are vigilantes who have embarked on and committed shakedowns. I've never seen them help anyone in my nine years of service."
Crime has been on the rise for years in New York City's sprawling network of underground railways, and the Guardian Angels were conceived in February 1979 as a citizen's response to the problem.
The group began as "The Magnificent 13," headed by Sliwa, a former McDonald's restaurant manager from The Bronx. In September, patrols were expanded to Central Park, the Staten Island Ferry, buses and areas frequented by the elderly.
At the same time, the group — which now claims 500 members and chapters in New Jersey and Connecticut — took the name "Guardian Angels."
The Guardian Angels get no government or private subsidies, and each member pays his own fare for subway patrols, Sliwa says. But since Sept. 15, 1979, they have had one request: some recognition from New York City Mayor Edward Koch.

"If you're looking for a good buy on homeowners insurance... and great service too... see me."

Restrictions Would Cost Consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Federal Trade Commission official says proposed auto import restrictions would, if enacted, cost consumers between $3 billion and $5 billion a year.
Michael Lynch of the FTC's Bureau of Economics says the limits, now being considered by the U.S. International Trade Commission, would drive down competition and drive up prices.
Lynch testified before the ITC as it opened hearings Wednesday into a request by the Ford Motor Co. to limit imports to 1.7 million vehicles a year for the next five years.
The hearings continued today, with officials of Japanese automakers, the main object of Ford's complaint, stating their case.
Lynch said American carmakers, rather than seeking to limit foreign competition, should offer more autos appealing to potential buyers.
Ford and other American automakers say it will take five years and perhaps $80 billion to retool their assembly lines from large-car to small-car production.

Supporting the carmakers' plea to restrict foreign competition, United Auto Workers President Donald Fraser charged that Japanese producers have been determined to "exploit" the American market by increasing exports during "a period of panic-buying of small, high (mileage) cars."
The tide of Japanese vehicles "simply overwhelmed" U.S. automakers, he said, also charging that the Japanese had "turned a deaf ear" on repeated requests to limit car and truck sales in the United States.
Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., told the hearing: "We are seeing the ruthless exploitation of our current difficulties by a trading partner apparently determined to inflict deep and permanent damage on our people, our economy and our future."
The Japanese say, however, that more crucial reasons for slackening domestic sales are rising gasoline prices, the severe recession and American manufacturers' failure to adapt quickly to changing car-buying habits.

The ITC must decide by Nov. 24 whether imports have caused "substantial" injury to the domestic auto industry. Such a finding could lead to a recommendation to President Carter, who has the final decision on import limitations.
The domestic industry lost $1.5 billion during the second quarter of 1980 and could lose up to $8 billion for the year.
Three out of every 10 American autoworkers are laid off; at least 85 auto parts plants have been closed and about 1,000 dealerships have failed, Ford officials say.
Lynch said the quota would indeed create jobs in the U.S. auto industry — about 32,000 — but added that higher car prices would mean each job would cost $90,000.

Ailing Airline Cuts Back Salaries, Routes

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff Airways has launched a new plan that relies on pay cuts and route reductions to help pull the troubled airline out of its financial morass.

Beset with spiraling operations costs and second quarter losses totaling $47.7 million, the airline unveiled "Operation Turnaround" last week. That plan calls for a 10 percent, six-month employee pay cut, termination of the company's two remaining Pacific flights, other route reductions and more layoffs. Braniff Chairman Harding L. Lawrence has agreed to take a salary cut of "20 percent or more," according to airline spokesman Jere Cox.

"Braniff employees have been meeting with their respective union leadership to discuss the kind of things they could do to make Braniff even more competitive in today's economy," Cox said.

Cox insists Braniff is no worse off than other major carriers hit by rising fuel costs, inflation and reduced passenger traffic. And Lawrence said last month that Braniff's losses were in line with those of other major carriers.

But Sam Trotter, an industry analyst with the Dallas investment banking firm of Raucher Pierce Refsnes, Inc., said Braniff has had to take "more drastic measures than most."

"Braniff's problems ... have been more serious than those of the other major carriers because of their highly leveraged financial position and the fact that they became one of the most expansionist carriers early in the deregulation period," Trotter said.

"They set on a course of expansion that proved to be more than they could chew, and they wound up with a classic case of corporate indigestion," he said.

The Dallas Times Herald reported this week that Lawrence told union leaders

Friday that the financial problems plaguing Braniff warranted drastic reductions in operating costs.

The newspaper said the airline had laid off hundreds of workers in recent months and had negotiated a series of loans apparently designed to ease cash flow problems.

The latest of these moves includes a $39 million loan from a group of banks, and the future sale of nine planes for $72 million.

Braniff took out a $100 million loan in May.

Trotter said Braniff always has carried a "very heavy debt load in relation to shareholders equity."

"This enhances reported earnings during times of operating profitability, but it has a whiplash effect when the company has operating difficulties," he said.

Braniff began to take a beating when fuel costs and interest rates increased while passenger traffic declined, said Trotter. He said the situation became worse because the company was "stuck with a large increase in aircraft" ordered during the expansion period.

He said "vicious fare-cutting wars" on major routes hurt both Braniff and other major carriers.

The company's aggressive stance of the late '70s "very nearly dealt them a death blow," Trotter said, adding that "some still believe it may have."

Stock prices plummeted

from a high of $18.75 per share in September 1978 to recent lows of $5.75.

Trotter said much of the trading "clearly" has been carried out by speculators who imagine that either the airline will recover or will "pack it in through liquidation or a merger."

23-Year-Old Man Pursues Violin-Making Career

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — When you think of a violin maker you think, perhaps, of a wizened old master toiling in an ancient workshop in Cremona, quaintly mindless of time and technology. You certainly do not think of Paul Weiss.

You do not think of a 23-year-old American who believes that making violins by hand is as sensible a pursuit as any for a young man of the 20th century. Nothing quaint about Paul Weiss.

"I intend to make a go of it," he was saying the other day as he stroked a coat of varnish on a cello he had made.

He had made the varnish, too, from a formula he found in a 16th century manuscript. This was the 14th thin coat. He hung the cello on a clothesline to dry in the dappled autumn sun.

As a teenager, he had discovered an interest in woodworking. He also had an interest in music.

"I guess the two sort of came together, the violin and my wanting to learn to do highly skilled woodworking. Making violins seemed like an interesting combination of both. But where do you learn to make violins? I discovered there are only a handful of violin makers in America, none around here.

"I talked to some violin repairmen. They all told me about a school in England." So Paul Weiss left home for three years and returned last summer carrying two violins, a viola and a cello, all of his own making, and a diploma, with merit, from the Newark School of Violinmaking, Nottinghamshire, England.

"I was one of only 36

students, 12 in each grade, from all over the world: Australia, France, Switzerland, The Netherlands.

"We had four instructors. They were all professional violin makers and they were not easily satisfied. We worked nights. We worked weekends. We worked until the work felt right in our hands.

"Violin making is not simply precision woodworking. You have to have a complete sense of what you are doing. The sound you seek doesn't come simply from woodworking."

That all sounds mystical and complicated. The place where Paul Weiss goes about his work, though, is simple and direct.

His workshop, which he built, is out behind his family's 150-year-old house on the Byram River, out where a stable once stood, a properly idyllic setting for his patient art.

Now all he needs are customers. He isn't worried. "I can make nine or 10 instruments a year," he said. "I expect a serious student of music on a tight budget will gladly pay, say, $3,000 for one. Most hand-made instruments cost 10 times that much. I can't expect that at first. The time will come.

"Meanwhile, I suppose I'll have to do some repair work for my bread and butter. But," he said, "I am not a repairman. I am not just a woodworker."

His lean fingers caressed the aged maple of a violin he had made. His voice tightened, like a gut string.

"I am a violin maker."

Take 4 Game Winning Streak Into Battle

Whitefaces Meet Rebels in Homecoming Tilt

THE HEREFORD WHITEFACES had become nothing less than legitimate spoilers among other contenders clinging for a foothold during the grid season's first-half play.

They (to cop a few lyrics from some well known songs) were riding the backside of a 4-1 record - in a middle-aged pre-district craze - still trying to prove they were men capable of bidding for the crown - at the end of the long district maze.

season opener, the Whitefaces racked up a point spread of 30-7 over the length of two contests with Palo Duro and Berger. Contrary to those two massacres, the squad then squeaked out a total accumulative of 35-30 in narrow clashes with Canyon and most recent opponent Amarillo High.

AND THE INCH WORM WINS WERE just as good as the mile long advantages according to head coach Don Cumpton - the end justified the means in the Whitefaces domino theory (if one team falls, all the rest should follow).

"I don't care how we win our games, even if it's by just one point, as long as that point reads in our favor," Cump-ton said before the upcoming clash with Tascosa. "And this game with Tascosa will probably be as close as our last two have been because the Rebels are a very talented squad."

"And the fact that this game is our homecoming and the last contest before our district begins, should give us the momentum we need going into it. You know, we haven't won a homecoming game in the last few years and we need to win one - it will be a good test for us," he said.

THE REBELS, RETURNING THE ENTIRE backfield off a 4-6 team a year ago, have taken wins over the Clovis Wildcats 16-12 and Lubbock High 17-0, but have fallen prey to Plainview 21-20, Midland High 27-7 and Lubbock Cor-nado 15-6.

LEADING THE AMARILLO TEAM'S punch from that depth filled I formation backfield is junior fullback Wade

Hunt (6-0, 195) who garnered sophomore of the year honors at the conclusion of district 3-4A play a year ago, Hunt's brother Ricky who posts duty at the tailback position, wingback Mitch Johnson and (6-1, 190) quarterback Kevin Luethkahans.

which amounts to approximately 262 yards per outing. AND MUCH LIKE THE ABUNDANT and repeating mileage added up by his team, the head coach continued with exorbitant cliches in his appraisal of the crew.

"Our offense, like the rest of our attack, has continued to show progress every time it hits the field," said Cump-ton. "But this week we've got to be especially careful that we don't miss any of our assignments because Tascosa likes to stunt around a lot. Anytime go against a stunting defense you have the opportunity to break a play wide open, but at the same time, they have a chance to scramble up your blocking and we can't let that happen."

"ON DEFENSE WE'VE GOT to stop the big plays unlike we did against Amarillo," he said. "We played well, but we let the Sandies just line up and run over us on the ground. And we can't yield to Tascosa that way or the big boy - Wade Hunt will pop something open on us. He's got excellent speed and has been able to do that in the past. Unless I'm mistaken he has broken one long run on every team Tascosa has played against."

"Basically, we're going to go into this game and do what the situation dictates which is what we've always tried to do, whether it's on our passing or ground game - we'll take advantage of everything they give us and make the rest ourselves," he added.

THE HOMECOMING ENCOUNTER IS slated to kickoff at 7:30 p.m. following a float presentation in Whiteface Stadium. The HHS junior varsity is scheduled to pair off against Amarillo High at 6 p.m.

SPORTS

"Tascosa is an explosive offensive team that can score from just about anywhere on the field," Cump-ton said. "They prefer to run the ball, and even though they don't run a lot of different plays, they execute what little they do very well."

THOSE FACTS ALONE MADE the upcoming clash an interesting prospect because the Whiteface unit had managed to field a pretty fair offense itself.

Under the direction of junior signal-caller Alan Wartes, (who was tabbed the Lubbock Avalanche Journal's 5A player of the week following his completion on 11 of 21 passes for 138 yards in HHS's most recent victory over highly lauded Amarillo High) the Herd has shored-up a total of 1,356 yards over the course of five tilts

American League Roundup

Royals Whip Yankees

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Reminded that the home team has never before won the opening game in previous Kansas City-New York

American League playoff clashes, Royals pitcher Dennis Leonard smiled slyly and offered a prediction:

"That just might not be the only 'first' you see this time," Leonard said. "You know, there's something else that's never happened - us winning."

Leonard, a right-hander with a 20-11 record, will oppose the Yankees' Rudy May, 15-5, in the second AL championship match tonight.

Larry Gura regrouped after Rick Cerone and Lou Piniella slugged successive home runs on bad pitches in the second inning to outduel Ron Guidry and pitch the Royals to a 7-2 victory Wednesday in the opener of the best-of-five showdown.

The Royals, who lost the playoffs to the hated Yankees in 1976, 1977 and 1978, got unexpected performances from the lower part of their batting order and played the aggressive, fast and loose style that has characterized the team for four years.

Amos Otis opened the Kansas City second with a single off Guidry, who lasted only three innings. After Otis stole second and John Wathan walked, the runners moved up on a wild pitch and scored when Frank White hit a bloop double between shortstop Bucky Dent and Piniella in left field.

White, who batted ninth, went three-for-four with a double and two singles.

First baseman Willie Aikens lashed a two-run single in the third to put the Royals on top 4-2.

"When the count got to three-and-two, I thought I'd get a fastball," Aikens said. "Then I got a fastball in."

Yankee Manager Dick Howser replaced Guidry with right-hander Ron Davis starting the fourth inning.

Gura, handed a 4-2 lead, bore down with renewed confidence. "From the fourth inning on, I felt pretty good," he said.

Reggie Jackson, whose 41 home runs and 111 RBIs led the Yankees this year, stranded five baserunners and was hitless in four at-bats. Perhaps the best pitch Gura made was an easy groundout he coaxed from the Yankee slugger in the seventh after Dent and Bob Watson singled with two out. "If I didn't get Reggie out, I knew I'd be out of the game," Gura said. "That was the key pitch."

Brett, whose .390 average this season was the best in the major leagues since 1941, doubled in the first inning and muscled an opposite field home run in the seventh.

PASSING BY - Whiteface signal caller Alan Wartes, under the protection of offensive blockers Nieves Rodriguez (75) and Wayne High (2), cocks his passing arm and looks for a receiver down field during last week's 17-14 victory over the Amarillo High Sandies. Wartes was tabbed the 5A league's offensive player of the week by the Lubbock Avalanche Journal following his passing performance in the game. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

Teasippers, Okies Duel In Classic Grid Rivalry

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
The real World Series for most Texans (and Oklahomans) takes place Saturday in Dallas. It's the 75th football meeting of Texas and Oklahoma, a fierce rivalry that was first played in 1900.

It's not just another football game. It's more than what purists call a college gridiron classic. It's a rite. It stirs a religious fervor on both sides and leaves rival partisans limp from exhaustion and virtual basket cases after a full night of wild celebration or salem-drowning sorrow.

Always the day after, downtown Dallas looks like a disaster area.

"Hook 'em, Horns!"
"On, Okies, on!"
Bear Bryant hauls No.1 Alabama to New Jersey's Meadowlands for a waltz with Rutgers. Michigan-Michigan State and Stanford-UCLA promise bone-rockers in other areas of the country.

Last week: 37-17, .687. Season: 180-65, .734.

Oklahoma 27, Texas 20: The Sooners not as potent without Billy Sims but 82 points against Colorado last week ain't half-bad.

Alabama 44, Rutgers 14: Rutgers, which upset Tennessee a year, is reaching for high society. The Bear will give them a rude bump.

UCLA 29, Stanford 20: The shutout of Ohio State should have whetted the Bruins' appetite for more red meat.

Michigan 23, Michigan St. 20: The Wolverines lost to Notre Dame by two, the Spartans by five but computers don't win football games.

Southern California 37, Arizona 7: Marcus Allen, as USC's new ground threat, has some tough acts to follow — from O.J. to Charlie White.

Pittsburgh 17, Florida St. 7: Pitt hasn't shown the offensive power expected of a title contender, but guys in the trenches are tough.

Georgia 30, Mississippi 14:

Buck Belue is the hand you have to watch while Herschel Walker pulls rabbits out of the hat.

Notre Dame 21, Miami, Fla. 18: Good chance for upset here, but the Fighting Irish spirit continues to prevail at home.

North Carolina 15, Wake Forest 7: The Tar Heel defense has given up an average of 4.8 points a game. You gotta score to win.

Ohio St. 25, Northwestern 7: The Buckeyes are lucky to have this breather after their shutout by UCLA.

Nebraska 25, Kansas 10: Ditto for the Cornhuskers. When the balloon bursts, it's tough to get regenerated in seven days.

Penn St. 29, Maryland 13: The Nittany Lions should be fully recovered from consecutive defeats last month.

South Carolina 42, Duke 18: They say South Carolina's 6-2, 220-pound George Rogers is a truck who runs smoothly as a Cadillac.

Baylor 34, Southern Methodist 27: Southwest matchup of the 18th and 20th ranked teams. Home advantage to the Bears.

Louisiana St. 19, Auburn 15: Oh, those horn-blowing, shouting masses under the lights at Baton Rouge!

Houston Evens Mark With Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Houston Astros nickel-and-dime attack looked like a million dollars in the 10th inning Wednesday night as they evened their best-of-five National League Championship series against the Philadelphia Phillies at one game apiece.

Houston, recognized by many as the anonymous Astros, snapped a 3-3 tie with four 10th-inning runs for a 7-4 victory.

The Astros got what they came for, a split in the two games at Philadelphia, and now go home to their Astrodome where they were 55-26 in 1980. They'll have their best pitcher, Joe Niekro, 20-12, working the third game Friday.

But the home field advantage doesn't necessarily give the underdog Astros a big edge, since the Phillies this season were one of the best road clubs in baseball.

Philadelphia won 21 of its last 28 road games and posted a 48-33 away record enroute to the NL East Division title. They were 4-2 in the Dome while compiling a 9-3 regular-season record against Houston.

Larry Christenson, 5-1, is scheduled to pitch for the Phillies Friday in an effort to set up a potential pennant-winning situation for its 24-game winner, Steve Carlton, on Saturday.

The Astros had just five hits going to the 10th inning and still managed to hold tight in a 3-3 game. The Phillies had 12 hits at that point.

But in the 10th against reliever Ron Reed, Houston erupted for those four runs, and then turned back an abbreviated rally by the Phillies, who left 10 runners on base over the last four innings.

Terry Puhl, who drove in the first two Houston runs, opened the 10th with a single. He was sacrificed to second by Enos Cabell. Joe Morgan was intentionally walked loading the bases, bringing up Jose Cruz.

Cruz singled to right, scoring Puhl, and Morgan came home on a fielder's choice-grounder by Cesar Cedeño. Then Dave Bergman, who was inserted for defensive purposes in the eighth, drove a two-run triple in the right-center field gap for two more runs and it was all over.

The Phillies did throw a scare into Manager Bill Virdon and his Astros in the last of the 10th, scoring one run and bringing Mike Schmidt to the plate with two on and two out. The NL's home run-and RBI-leader, however, skied out to right field to end the game.

Asked if he considered it a must game, Virdon replied, "Not really. But it is a pleasure to go home with a victory."

Phillies Manager Dallas Green said he wasn't worried about having to win two in the Astrodome.

Old Pro Makes Bid in Tourney

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Old pro Miller Barber, 49 and in his 22nd year of PGA Tour activity, was beating golf balls under a broiling sun, sweat streaming off his face.

"I just don't understand it," he muttered to his caddy. "I can put this swing on it," he grunted as he laced one down the practice area with an iron, "with this club, but I can't do it with the driver."

"I just don't understand it."

It's been one of those years for Barber. "Last year was the worst I've ever had," said the man called "Mr. X" and-or "Precious," by his fellow tourists.

"And it looks like this is another just like it."

He has one last chance, in the $200,000 Pensacola Open that got underway today, to turn things around. The Pensacola event, with a top prize of $36,000, is the final individual tournament on the Tour's long, 10-month schedule.

"Sure, I'd like to. It's important to me to make the top 60 (money-winners). But it doesn't look like I'm gonna do it. I've got to make $7,000 or $8,000 to do it and that's not likely."

"It's a matter of pride with me."

He's missed the top 60 only once — last year — in the last 18 seasons.

Coach Says Returning Players Are Nucleus of Champ Squad

76ers Loaded for Season

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
It's time for the Philadelphia 76ers to pay their debts.

After losing to Portland in the 1977 playoff finals, the Sixers pledged to their fans, "We Owe You One." Since then they've lost in the semifinals in 1978, the quarterfinals in 1979 and the finals in 1980, so by now it should be, "We Owe You Four."

Fortunately, the Sixers have the manpower to wipe out all their obligations. In a word, they are loaded.

"We have the nucleus of a championship team since we have nine men back," said Coach Billy Cunningham. "Furthermore, there are some outstanding rookie prospects who could conceivably help us."

Cunningham's biggest problem right now is figuring out what to do with all the talent on hand.

All-pro forward Julius Erving is coming off the best of his four NBA seasons, when he averaged 26.9 points per game and displayed some of the magic of his ABA days. He joins the "Gruesome Twosome" on the front line — muscular Darryl Dawkins and defense-minded Caldwell Jones. Bobby Jones, a first-rate player at both ends of the court, heads a strong, deep bench.

Outside shooting was Philadelphia's biggest problem last year, and first-round draft choice Andrew Toney should provide the solution. He joins Maurice Cheeks, Lionel Hollins and Doug Collins.

The regular season opens with nine games Friday night, including a nationally televised match between the defending champion Los Angeles Lakers and Seattle SuperSonics. Twelve of the 23 teams will make the playoffs — the four division winners and the next four in each conference.

Here is a team-by-team look at the NBA East:

ATLANTIC DIVISION

Boston Celtics
Dave Cowens has retired, but veteran Robert Parish and rookie Kevin McHale should more than make up for his absence and give Boston the rebounding it needs to do battle with teams like Philadelphia. Swingman M.L. Carr figures to be used more often at guard, where he joins Nate Archibald, Chris Ford and Gerald Henderson. The Celtics sorely need one more solid all-around guard.

New Jersey Nets

How far can you go with a rookie center? The Nets will find out with Mike Gminski, although having veteran Maurice Lucas at power forward will help. Rookie Mike O'Koren should start at small forward, with Cliff Robinson and Jan van Breda Kolff providing depth. Fouts Walker, Mike Newlin and Eddie Jordan are the guards.

New York Knicks

Veteran Campy Russell and rookie Mike Woodson should more than make up for the knee injury that sidelined small forward Toby Knight for the season, but New York's problem is finding a power forward who can provide some rebounding. Centers Bill Cartwright and Marvin Webster may be used together in some situations. Rookie Reggie Carter backs up guards Michael Ray Richardson and Ray Williams.

Philadelphia 76ers

If Darryl Dawkins ever develops consistency and plays 40 minutes a game over the course of a full season the way he has played until now only in spurts, the Sixers will be awesome. Erving and Cheeks are among the best at their positions, the Joneses are both superb team players and there's plenty of depth. Toney, a long-range bomber, is a valuable addition.

Washington Bullets

Wes Unseld was the league's third-leading rebounder last season, but how much can you expect from a 34-year-old, 6-foot-7 center who can't jump? Elvin Hayes, Bobby Dandridge, Kevin Porter and John Williamson may all have seen their best days. Forward Greg Ballard and rookie guard Wes Matthews are good young players, but Mitch Kupchak and Kevin Grevey must stay healthy if the Bullets are to challenge for the playoffs.

CENTRAL DIVISION

Atlanta Hawks

Atlanta's two 7-foot centers, Wayne Rollins and Tom Burleson, are both hurting, so 6-10 outside shooter Steve Hawes will have to do the job in the meantime. Dan Roundfield may be the best all-around forward in the game and Eddie Johnson is a fine guard, if he's over the personal problems that marred his summer. Rookie Don Collins, 6-6 and quick, could challenge either small forward John Drew or guard Armond Hill, both of whom have been in and out of Coach Hubie Brown's doghouse.

Chicago Bulls

Center Artis Gilmore, coming off knee surgery, finally has some talent to work with. The question is whether the 31-year-old Gilmore will be fast enough to keep pace. Two years ago the Bulls got explosive guard Reggie Theus, last year they drafted 6-9 forward David Greenwood and this year they added rookie playmaker Ronnie Lester and free agent forward Larry Kenon. There is little depth, but the starting five can hold its own against any — and that alone could mean a playoff spot.

Cleveland Cavaliers

Cleveland is a hard team to figure because its personnel is almost constantly changing. Dave Robisch is an adequate center at best, but forward Bill Robinson should help the rebounding. He joins Mike Mitchell, who averaged 22.2 points per game last year, and Kenny Carr in the corners. The guards include Randy Smith, Roger Phegley and Mike Bratz, a preseason holdout.

Detroit Pistons

Bob McAdoo is still suffering from a groin injury, which leaves a front line of Kent Benson, Terry Tyler and Greg Kelsor.

Team Oriented Huddle

Hersford's huddled offensive unit demonstrates that a team effort doesn't always start when the ball is snapped, but beforehand as well. Team members are shown here tightening the huddle's bond with the team-oriented camaraderie of holding hands. The Whitefaces will use that team play ideal in hopes of furthering their existing 4-1 victory string here Friday night in a homecoming contest with Amarillo Tascosa. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

Astros Take Topsy-Turvy NL Battle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Houston Astros headed for home on the wing after manager Bill Virdon offered up a prayer.

The Astros had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the eighth on Jose Cruz's single in the second game of the National League championships against the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday, but the Phillies tied the game in the bottom of the eighth and left the bases loaded in the ninth.

The Astros exploded for four runs in the 10th, but the Phillies came back, getting a run in, two men on base and Mike Schmidt, the league home run and RBI champion, at the plate, representing the tying run.

"I wasn't thinking, I was praying," said Virdon, the NL's senior manager.

Schmidt flied to deep right on a 3-0 pitch to end the game.

The 7-4 victory gave the Astros a split in the best-of-five championship series, with the next three games, if needed, in the Astrodome.

"We accomplished what we came for," said Houston second baseman Joe Morgan.

"Of course we wanted to win both, but when you split you have to be satisfied," added Morgan, who knows about playoffs from his championship years in Cincinnati.

"It was typical that we kept battling," said Morgan of the three hour and 34 minute game, the longest league championship ever, that saw both teams use a total of 32 players.

"Before this series is over, everyone in America will know just who the Houston Astros are," added Morgan. Virdon was more cautious.

"It's a pleasure to go home with a victory. But as far as being in the driver's seat, you can never look at it like that when you're playing a good club."

Over in the Phillies' dressing room, manager Dallas Green wasn't any more disturbed than Virdon was confident. "It doesn't bother us to go on the road," Green said.

Miss Koelzer Feted With Bridal Shower

A bridal shower honoring Cathy Koelzer, bride-elect of Lt. (j.g.) Ray H. Gray III, was held recently at the E.B. Black House.

The registry table, located in the entry, was decorated with a fall floral arrangement and featured a folio of portraits of the engage couple.

Greeting guests were the honoree; her mother, Betty Koelzer; the honoree's grandmother, Mrs. C.E. Carney; and the prospective bridegrooms aunt, Mrs. John Gray of Amarillo.

Coffee, hot apple cider and a variety of coffee cakes and melon balls were served in the dining room on a table laid in a white lace tablecloth with a centerpiece of fall colored flowers. Silver and crystal serving arrangements were used.

Refreshments were served by Barbie Koelzer, the honoree's sister, and Bridget Williams, a former classmate of the bride-elect.

Gifts were displayed in one of the downstairs rooms.

Silk corsages, created by Mrs. F.A. Marnell and Mrs. Frank Wilhelm were presented to the receiving line.

The couple will be married Oct. 25 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. The couple will reside in Lemoore, Calif., where he will be stationed in the U.S. Navy as a jet pilot.

Hostesses for the morning shower were Meses Elmer Reinart, M.J. Koelzer, F.A. Marnell, Hollis Klett, J.N. Grady, John Warren, Leo Hoffman, George Schulte, Clarence Betzen, Edward Paetzold, Oskar Schwertner, Walter Hardin, S.F. Clements, and Bridget Williams.

aunt, Mrs. John Gray of Amarillo. Miss Koelzer is the bride-elect of Lt. (j.g.) Ray H. Gray III. The couple plan to exchange nuptial vows Oct. 25 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

The oldest letter is "o," unchanged in shape since its adoption in the Phoenician alphabet about 1300 B.C.

Friends Need Book Donations for Sale

Friends of the Library are asking for book donations for their annual sale Oct. 18 at Sugarland Mall. Proceeds from the sale will be used for special projects for Deaf Smith County Library according to Helen Eaves. Anyone wishing to donate books can place them in book barrels that are at several businesses in town including Sugarland Mall, Ideal Food Store, First National Bank and the library.

Hereford Young Mothers Plan Ladies' Night Out

The Young Mother's Study Club discussed plans for 'Ladies Night Out' at the Monday night meeting at the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room. The group plan to travel to Amarillo Oct. 20 where they will be given a program by Ethan Allen at the Concord House. From there the group will go to the Crystal Confectionery before returning home. Before the short business meeting, the members answered the roll call with "My Favorite Movie." The Study Club also planned the annual Halloween party during the business meeting. The party will be Oct. 27 at the Deaf Smith County Library at 6:00 p.m. Mary Wyly presented a program on handwriting analysis and refreshments were served following the program. Members present included Kathy Boyd, Debbie Holmes, Maureen Self, Jan Dudley, Leota Kelso, Kathy Haney, Sherry Wilson, Tracy Coker, Lisa Blakely, Dee Dee Coker, Darla Stone, Jody Josephson, Janie Street, Donna McGee and Kandy Castillo.

Trinity Baptist Plans Quarterly Song Program

Trinity Baptist Church will have its Quarterly Song Program and covered dish supper Sunday, Oct. 12 at 6 p.m. at the Odd Fellow Hall. The public is invited to attend the concert and supper.

New Officers Named For Chamber Singers

Officers and board of directors were elected at the Hereford Chamber Singers' business meeting this week. Dr. A.T. Mims, Gene Streun and Bera Boyd were elected to serve on the board of directors. Gene Campbell was re-elected president of the group with Betty Owen as secretary, Gene Streun, treasurer; and Carmen Flood public relations and publicity.

The group scheduled several concerts including a Christmas concert in December.

The term "curry" is often used to denote a process or method of cooking, though actually "curry" is synonymous with the word "massala," an Indian word that means a combination of herbs and-or spices freshly ground together, says Rose Tindall Postel.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

If your children are like mine, they have led sheltered lives. They have never seen a chicken naked without benefit of seasoning or dressing. They have never witnessed the birth of a casserole. They have never walked in unexpectedly and viewed the massaging of bread dough.

They have regarded the kitchen as an adult community that is not open for children or pets. Their visits have been limited to throwing open the freezer-frigerator doors and declaring, "There's nothing to eat in this house."

Now that they have their own apartments, I get a wonderful, warm, maternal feeling just knowing they are starving to death.

I cannot tell you the number of times I tried to lure them into the kitchen with teasers like, "Have you no curiosity as to how the cereal gets into the bowl?" Or, "Come. Stand by my side and together we will 'just add water.'" But they never took the bait.

Once when I made my son watch as I mixed a Caesar salad, he looked at the oil, bits of garlic, lemon juice, Worcestershire, parmesan and a raw egg floating in the bowl and said, "That's gross!" and walked away.

Now I have become the most important resource in their lives since Pampers. There is not a day goes by that one of them does not call long distance to ask, "How do you make spaghetti?"

"Put on a pan of water and add the spaghetti."

"Spell that."

"S-P-A-G..."

"Not that! The water!"

"What happened to all the fast foods you were going to choose from?"

"Mom! Man does not live by secret sauce alone. I have lived under the red warming light and found it wanting. Now tell me again, what does it mean when my potatoes begin to bush?"

In visiting one of their apartments the other night, I flung open the refrigerator door. On the first shelf was half a container of yogurt. On the second shelf was a roll of film and a hardened lime. A doggie bag in the egg keeper was later identified as Sweet & Sour Pork.

"There's nothing to eat in this house!" I announced.

Don't believe what you hear about revenge being empty and meaningless. It was wonderful!

Garden Club Slates Annual Flower Show

The 44th Annual Flower Show of the Hereford Garden Club has been scheduled for Friday from 3-5 p.m. at the Community Center.

Theme of this year's garden show is "October's Bounty."

Exhibits will be received from 9 until 11 a.m. and judging will begin at 12:30 p.m. Two sweepstakes awards in each standard show will be awarded...one in horticulture division and one in the artistic.

Annuals, perennials, and vegetables will be judged under Horticulture.

In Artistic, arrangements will be judged on October Morning, Natures Beauties, Fireside Memories, Homecoming, Halloween, and educational exhibit.

The public is invited to attend the flower show Friday, according to General Chairman Mrs. Ed Lemons. President of the Garden Club is Mrs. Jack Wilcox.

On Indonesia's island of Java, the mythical goddess of the South Seas — Njai Loro Kidul — is so important that a room with a bath is always kept reserved for her in one of the island's best hotels.

Arrangements To Be Exhibited

The Hereford Garden Club is in final preparation for their 44th Annual Flower Show to begin Friday at the Hereford Community Center. The public is invited to attend the show from 3-5 p.m. that afternoon. Exhibits will be received from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. and judging will take place at 12:30 p.m. From left, Mrs. Ed Lemons, general chairman; Mrs. Jack Wilcox, president; and Mrs. R.L. Wilson, schedule committee, discuss and look over a few of the arrangements to be exhibited Friday.

Ann Landers

Dampened Spirits

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Usually you tell people more than they want to know. Recently you told a woman a lot less—and I hope you will retrace your footsteps and right the wrong. I refer to the reader who wet her pants when she laughed hard and asked you where a person could buy adult-size rubber pants.

The problem is called "urinary stress incontinence," and it's a common one, especially among women who have had several children. Sometimes the wetting occurs when they sneeze or cough or walk up a flight of stairs.

Rubber pants will prevent embarrassment, but there is much more that can and should be done. A visit to a gynecologist is certainly in order. In many instances, the Kegel exercises will solve the problem. These exercises will strengthen the pubococcygeus muscle. (If your gynecologist doesn't know about the Kegel exercises, he's not up on things and you should switch to one who is.)

If the exercises don't work, a simple surgical procedure is the alternative. Tell those women with "dampened spirits," will you please?—Former Drifter in New Brunswick

DEAR FORMER: Sorry I dropped the ball on the 20-yard line. Thanks for the touchdown.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a college sophomore, engaged to a guy for almost a year. He was helping me move recently and noticed I kept a diary. I was surprised when he said, "I'd like to read it sometime."

In a kidding-yet-serious way, I said, "Never!" He looked stricken. My past has not been exactly sordid, but there are a few personal comments I've written that I would not care to have him read. Lately he has made a big deal out of the fact that I have not yet shown him my diary. He claims there is no room for secrecy in an honest and loving relationship. According to him, everything should be revealed and discussed.

I repeat: I don't want to show him my diary. Am I wrong?—Wisconsin Dilemma

DEAR DIL: No, you aren't wrong. Respect for privacy is as important as honesty. Giving one another breathing space is essential to a healthy relationship. His insistence is a violation of your integrity. Tell him to get off your case. I'm with you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope one day to be married in a church service with my family and friends present. I want the occasion to be one I will enjoy and remember with pleasure forever.

Unfortunately, I am extremely allergic to perfume. We both know that many women have a tendency to overuse it on special occasions. How can I politely get the point across that I would appreciate it if the wedding guests refrained from using colognes or perfume on that day?

I would hate to start sneezing halfway down the aisle and have my head open up like a faucet. Can a note be added to the wedding invitation? Or would it be considered bad taste?—Soap Is Enough In Fayetteville, N.C.

DEAR SOAP: Forget about adding a note. Pass the word to the women in the wedding party, plus friends and relatives. Ask them to mention it to others who are invited. A verbal campaign should do it.

CONFIDENTIAL to Embarrassed by the Showoff: Tell him he should never try to tell everything he knows in one evening. It might take an embarrassingly short time.

"Sexual freedom" presents a difficult decision for teenagers and their parents. Ann Landers offers down-to-earth advice in her new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It—A Guide for Teens and Their Parents." For each booklet, send 50 cents plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

McKinster, Threewit Attend Basin Safe Deposit Seminar

Irene McKinster and Vera Threewit attended a Safe Deposit Seminar in Midland recently for Hereford State Bank.

Mrs. Jessie Q. Hillyard conducted the seminar which was sponsored by the Texas Permian Basin Chapter of the American Safe Deposit Association.

The seminar included safe deposit operations, procedures and Texas law governing safe deposit departments. Marlin Smith, Mosler representative from San Antonio, presented a film to the group.

The one-day seminar included such topics as pricing, forms, renting the box, refusal to rent as well as management and personnel. Afternoon topics covered

Texas law governing safe deposit departments including legal counsel and the law, liability and representatives.

Mrs. Hillyard started to work in 1955 as a safe deposit clerk at the International Trust Company of Denver. She is now manager of the Safe Deposit Department for First of Denver, Colo.

Home Safety Tips Presented At Young Homemaker Meeting

Dean Butcher, Deaf Smith County deputy sheriff, spoke to the Hereford Young Homemakers about home safety at their Tuesday night meeting.

Butcher presented several ideas for keeping a home safe from burglary. He suggested dead bolt locks for doors, screws in windows and storm windows on top of regular windows. He also told the group shrubs should be trimmed away from the windows to prevent a hiding place for a buglar.

Common sense rules were outlined for families taking a vacation. Eye screening for children was discussed during the business meeting. The group decided to have the screening next week but did not set a definite time.

The group also made plans for a Halloween party and a Christmas money making project.

The Halloween party has been set for Oct. 25 at the home of Marilyn Culpepper.

For a Christmas project, the club voted to have a table at the West Way Extension Club Christmas Bazaar Dec. 6. The homemakers will sell pralene pecans for $3.50 a can and decorating cans of pralene pecans for $4. They will also offer to take pictures of children with Santa Claus.

In other business, the group voted to join Women's Forum.

New members present include Kathy Haney and Ann Kemp. Other members present were Gail Blain, Brenda Campbell, Marilyn Culpepper, Cara Dearing, Conni Gilbert, Bobbie Patzig, Diane Pierson, Karen Smith, Nelva Swopes, Barbara Weatherford, Mrs. M.T. Burelsmith, advisor; and Dana Barber, Future Young Homemaker.

Program Available To Help Inactive Registered Nurses

A new look at an old problem may help provide some relief to the nursing shortage in West Texas State University by helping inactive registered nurses get back into practice.

Surveys of hospitals in the 15 counties surrounding Lubbock (HSA II) show that 22 percent of the budgeted positions for registered nurses are vacant. Nursing surveys indicate that 33 percent of the registered nurses in the region currently are not practicing in nursing.

Top of Texas Federated Schedules Fall Meeting

The fall board meeting of the Top of Texas Federated Clubs will be held October 14, at the First United Methodist Church, 321, South Baylor St., in Perryton.

Mrs. Vester Smith, Top of Texas President, will preside with Mrs. Dale Naylor serving as General Chairman for the Board Meeting.

Federated Clubs in Perryton taking part in the arrangements include Jennie June, Serendipity, and Sosis.

The Serendipity Club is in charge of the registration and coffee which begin at 8:45 a.m. Advanced reservations of $1.50 plus $4.50 for the luncheon may be mailed to Mrs. Brodie Daniel, 1218 S. Grinnell St., Perryton, 79070.

A new program offered by the Office of Continuing Nursing Education (CNE) at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center (TTUHSC) has been developed to help nurses update their skills and to overcome other problems associated with reentering nursing practice.

The concept of updating nursing skills has been practiced for several years. However, many nurses, for a variety of reasons, have not entered practice again, even after completion of refresher programs.

For a nurse who has not practiced for even a few years, reentry into the field requires several adjustments. New techniques and technologies have been developed and must be learned. New medications and therapies must be learned. The basic adjustments of going to work in a hospital setting after working at home or in an eight to five job requires an adjustment of schedules and lifestyle for the individual nurse and for the nurse's family.

Coping with the pressures of readjustment, learning new skills and changing responsibilities is a key element of the new program at Tech.

The program includes the traditional reviews of human development, pathology, concepts of nursing practice, nursing intervention, management responsibilities and updates on medications common to most refresher courses.

While these critical areas are developing, the program also fosters abilities in communication skills and decision making skills which can help the individual adjust to new routines and responsibilities.

The final two weeks of the 8-week course are spent in a hospital setting. Adjustment to the hospital environment as a part of the course helps complete the transition from non-practice activities to classroom to work environment.

The approach of the course can help the non-practicing nurse come back into active practice and it can help nurses working in highly specialized areas to become "regenerated" so that they may move from one area of nursing to another.

The new program will begin in January and continue through early March. The enrollment will be limited to 15 individuals currently not in practice but holding current licenses to practice as registered nurses.

Participants in the program earn 22 Continuing Education Units. The CNE program at TTUHSC is accredited by the Western Regional Accrediting Committee of the American Nurses' Association as a provider of continuing nursing education. The program is the first of its kind in Texas to be accredited.

Program information is available through the Office of Continuing Nursing Education, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center, Lubbock, Texas 79430; phone (806) 743-2734.

Effects of Summer Heat Wave Continue; Tips Offered for Plant, Garden Care

ARLINGTON, Texas - The effects of the Great Summer Heat Wave of 1980 may continue for several years, says Richard Warner, landscape manager for Six Flags Over Texas.

Warner, who holds a degree in park administration and is a state licensed landscape architect, supervises about 35 gardeners at the theme park.

He says the landscape crew still is attempting to cope with the hottest, driest Texas summer in recent history.

Speaking of the effects of the heat and drought, Warner said, "Everything in this area is brown around the edges."

Warner warned that some plants, and particularly trees, in this area might not show damage from the heat wave until years later.

"There may be some tree damage in areas where there was severe water rationing," he said.

"In the next few years we may lose trees which could be attributed back to the heat wave."

However, Warner said his crew already is dealing with autumn foliage at Six Flags.

"Plants are a lot like people," Warner explained. "The first few days when the temperature reached over 100 degrees, we died. But, here it is September and it's still warm, but everyone says, 'So what?'"

Plants can accommodate themselves to the heat, just like we humans do."

But, Warner added that heat is not the major problem with plants. It's dehydration, the lack of water.

"Drought is something you just have to roll with," he said. "There are even some areas here at Six Flags that we have trouble getting water to and they are looking pretty brown."

"But, if we can get water to it, you will still see some excellent foliage."

"Don't give up on your yard," was the main piece of advice Warner had for homeowners and gardeners.

"In addition to the effects of the heat wave, many people think that as soon as school starts, fall is here and they turn off the water. It's the same thing that causes some people to begin wearing winter clothes the day after Labor Day, even though the temperature may be in the upper 90's. And, this is when they may lose their yard," he said.

Warner said water continues to be a critical factor in maintaining a good lawn even deep into the winter.

"When it's dry like it is here now, a yard could use a good soaking at least once a week, maybe more. And this should be continued right up until the first hard freeze."

Warner also warned against taking dead leaves as a sign that trees are dead.

"Many trees around here are dropping leaves now," he said. "They shed these leaves as a defense mechanism. When there is not enough water to support full foliage, they begin to throw off leaves.

"If the trees, or plants, are still showing some green, then they're still functioning and they'll probably be okay."

Warner also said that now is the time to begin planning and planting for the spring of 1981.

Even though people are still trying to cope with the heat and drought, spring bulbs are already going on sale at area stores. Warner said these bulbs may be planted on through November.

For procrastinators, Warner suggested buying spring bulbs now, chilling them in a refrigerator and then planting them just after the first of the year.

Among the bulb plants ready for planting now, Warner listed tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and crocus.

He also suggested that now is a good time to begin thinking of planting a winter garden. Vegetable plants such as lettuce, radishes, beets, onions, cabbage, broccoli and mustard greens can be planted immediately.

"This could provide a little winter greenery as well as cut the grocery bill," Warner said. "You can water such a garden as cheaply as watering grass. And, you don't have to mow it. However, you may have to watch a little closer for insects."

Deaf Smith County agents have information on how to maintain a producing winter garden. The office is located in the courthouse.

He said an individual must first decide what kind of garden they want and how much time they will be willing to devote to it.

"The more care you give, the more you will get back," said Warner.

Warner is a native of Tulsa, Oklahoma, but has lived in Texas for almost 20 years. He received his park administration degree from Texas Tech and has worked on landscaping at Six Flags for 11 years.

Woodrow Wilson. Ragtime. The Great Houdini. The year is 1913 and a new Bell telephone begins ringing throughout the land. Ah, those were the days...

Now you can relive those days with Southwestern Bell's new Country Junction* telephone — a happy blend of yesterday's spirit with today's technology.

Lovingly handcrafted in natural oak and antiqued nickel trim, the Country Junction phone is a classic that blends with period settings and makes an attractive statement with the crisp, cool lines of contemporary taste.

No matter where the telephone is placed — kitchen, den, family room, living area — this is a phone that will be seen and admired. Because it has modular components, installing it is as easy as hanging a picture.

In a busy, bustling world, the Country Junction telephone is a pleasant reminder of those times when all phone conversations began with the voice that smiled.

Will Housing Prices Collapse?

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to spill drinks, induce overindulgence, and eventually create hysteria at a suburban cocktail party, simply comment about "the coming collapse of real estate prices."

Just those few words are bound to halt levity more swiftly than saying "My broker is E.F. Hutton, and E.F. Hutton says..." They might dissolve the elegant into disheveled wrecks seeking the oblivion of martinis.

The reason, which is acutely present in millions of minds, is that a house is a bank. A family with few liquid assets might still feel rich, "you know, because we have enormous equity in our house."

That money in the bank, so to speak, is there to be tapped for college tuitions, for the big trip 'round the world, and for the retirement home and boat and all the other things that go with that way of life.

If the equity goes, so goes the life, and that provokes the question: Can it?

Some commentators think so, but they have a curiously homogenous background: Most, it seems, are or have been involved in the securities business. They have a tendency to view the home as just an investment.

Home costs, mortgage rates and upkeep expenses are pricing millions of first-time buyers out of the market. They do not have the down payments required. They cannot afford the monthly carrying charges.

They probably couldn't get the money anyway, because savings institutions can't find the money to lend. Government and business needs have reduced the money pool. There's not enough for all.

Nothing new about that; housing has been shut out before.

If there isn't that rates that buyers can afford, then the demand is obviously cut, and you cannot have a market made up only of sellers. But in the market described, even sellers might be affected when potential buyers back out because of increased costs.

But, there is, the matter of demographics. During the 1980s, a mortgage-lending group observes, some 40 million Americans will reach age 30. They will be seeking homes. They cannot be denied.

Well, on reflection, they could be denied. But can you imagine the uproar, the possible riots that might develop if a generation of young Americans was denied decent housing? Denied what they consider their birthright? Denied what has been popularized as the American ideal?

A house isn't a security, they say. Unlike stocks and bonds, which a person can do without, shelter is an essential of life. It will always be in demand; there is no choice but to demand it. It is necessary.

True, but what about that financial situation? And to that question the analysts who foresee housing prices not only holding their value but gaining even more say that somehow it must be made available.

Housing might not hold its priority in the present economic and political scheme, but, they say, it will. They foresee new types of mortgages and regulator changes that will funnel funds to housing.

There can be no other way they say, and they'll drink that.

THOUGHTS

In responding "amen," which means "truly" or "so let it be," the listener agrees with what he has heard. In the worship in the synagogue the benediction, "Blessed be the Lord" was answered by the congregation with "amen" (I Chron. 16:36). When the book of Psalms was divided into five books, a single "amen" was inserted at the end of chapter 106 and double "amens" at the end of chapters 41, 72, and 89. It ends prayers and doxologies and sometimes introduces doxologies in the New Testament. Most of the epistles end with "amen."

"Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity. Amen." — Eph. 6:24

The Hebrews divided the world into four parts and called the quarters "the four winds" or "the four corners of the earth," according to B.S. Childs. The rising sun was the basic direction so the east was called "front" or "place dawning." West was "rear north" was "left," so Hoba was on the left hand of Damascus (Gen. 14:15); south was "right." Local designations were used more frequently except east. Isaiah prophesied the assembling of the outcasts and the dispersed.

"And he shall ... assemble the outcasts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth." — Isa. 11:12

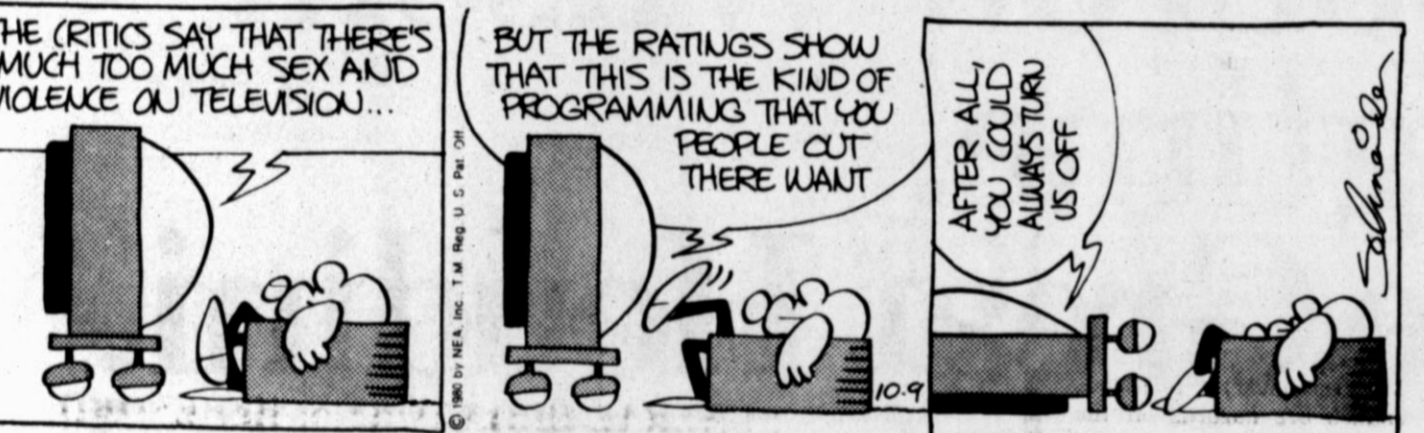

More attention was paid to Moses' time to the usefulness of trees than is paid some times at present. When the Hebrews besieged a city, they were not to destroy trees "for meat" (presumably fruit and nut trees), "for the fruit of the field is man's life."

"Only the trees which thou knowest that they be not trees for meat, thou shalt destroy and cut them down..." — Deut. 20:20

Poisoned Children Diagnosed After 14 Years

LOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Something terrible was happening to Mary White's children, one by one, nothing with no name. Johnny was the first. That was 14 years ago and he was 2.

Mrs. White took the boys to a doctor, who diagnosed them as retarded. Social agencies said they had behavioral problems. School officials told her the boys were hyperactive and undisciplined.

people acted like I should be quiet." Paul was next, then Michael. Her children were running around the house, slamming into walls, screaming at things that were invisible.

screening of welfare mothers by the McLean County Health Department found out what was wrong — lead poisoning.

tragedy" and acknowledged that had the discovery been made years ago, the family could have been moved to safe housing — as is now being done — and the younger children likely could have been saved.

Ben Boyd, county health director, called it "a terrible

Boyd said agencies tend to think of psychological or genetic reasons for problems in children, not medical reasons. And, he added, doctors simply just didn't expect to find lead poisoning — a familiar problem in urban ghettos — in a middle-sized Midwestern city surrounded by cornfields and fresh air.

vomiting and weight loss. "Those things could be attributed to so many things that in its early stages it is unreasonable for us to expect a physician to make a diagnosis" based on symptoms, Johnson said.

Homesteads Developing in Amazon

PORT FRANCISCO, ECUADOR (AP) — They arrive in road-buses, sweating and itching dust, everything they're packed in a cardboard box or two.

60-pound rodents called Guantas. "A 25-pound monkey provides a lot of good eating," he said.

As the oil road pushes south, drawing settlers from the mountains, it is also forcing primitive tribes deeper into the jungle.

Lead-based paint was used in houses constructed generally before 1950. Thousands still stand, in big cities and small.

As she talked, a low, steady moan intruded from the next room where the boys were, rocking back and forth on the floor, staring blankly at the television.

Other members present included Eva Gilliland, Tresa Hale, Alberta Higgins, Mary Williamson, Mary L. Whiteside, Emily Suggs, Pet Ott and Ailynne Johnson.

Texaco and the state-owned Cepe pump more than 200,000 barrels of crude oil a day out of the jungle, sending it 312 miles through the trans-Andean pipeline to Pacific coast oil refineries and tankers.

Ice cream carts on the gravel road to Lago Agrio tempt the barefoot pioneer children.

Not long ago, a Colombian road surveying team encountered crossed lances placed on a trail by Auca Indians. "When we saw the lances, we didn't go any farther," said contractor Ildefonso Munoz.

Nationwide testing between Oct. 1, 1978, and Sept. 30, 1979, found lead poisoning in about 7 percent of all children tested, showing up in such cities as Portland, Maine; Waterbury, Conn.; Lynchburg, Va.; Milwaukee, Wis.; New Orleans, La., and Davenport, Iowa.

LONDON (AP) — The Bee Gees are suing their longtime manager, Robert Stigwood, for $86.8 million, British newspapers reported today.

mummies to view is against "our religious concept." "I can't accept exposing the remains of Egypt's pharaohs in exhibitions for people to view," Sadat told a cultural gathering here Wednesday.

Texaco's roads wind through the jungle to scattered drilling sites. Along those roads, settlers have cleared away trees and vegetation to try to make the thin soil feed their families.

That's a real sign of progress," Gilbert said as he drove his pickup past a cart. "There weren't any people who could afford to buy ice cream at first. When a man can get his children an ice cream, it means he's over the first hurdle."

The Ukraine is the most densely populated of the Soviet republics.

Stigwood refuted the Bee Gees' claims, the reports added. "These ridiculous allegations are false, baseless and without foundation," the Daily Mail quoted the 46-year-old Australian impresario as saying.

"This is against our religious concept. And when I say that, I mean the commandments of the three religions," he said, referring to Islam, Christianity, and Judaism.

They start out planting bananas, yucca and other quick crops which require no plowing. Within two years, harvests drop off to nothing.

The soil is too thin, and rainfall — which averages 85 inches a year in the jungle, and can go as high as 200 inches — leaches nutrients from the soil, stripped of its natural vegetation.

Early signs are lethargy, vomiting and weight loss.

Having trouble drying sweaters? Try using a framed aluminum screen for a "drying tray" to dry small items that require blocking (shaping) instead of hanging so they won't stretch-such as sweaters, suggests Becky Saunders, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Did you ever feel that life's football game would have been easier for you if you'd been in the huddle when they called the signals?

HEALTH Causes for diarrhea

DEAR DR. LAMB - A year ago I began to have periodic bouts of severe diarrhea. These lasted about a week. I took Lomotil to help deal with the problem. The episodes became so frequent that I had them every three or four days and for five months. I went to a new doctor who gave me a lower GI X-ray and he said that everything was normal and he put me on 10 days of belladonna four times a day. Metamucil and Lomotil as needed. Also I was on a bland low-fiber diet.

Eventually I became "normal." He told me to stop the Metamucil but continue the belladonna and Lomotil when necessary.

He said to avoid salads, nuts, spices, whole grains or, in other words, bulk. The diagnosis was irritable colon. He said that these foods irritated my colon. I've continued to have this problem and I read in your column that you often recommend bulk diets for people with an irritable colon. I asked my doctor about this and he said no. I miss those good foods. Do you feel I could safely try your diet?

I'm 30 years old, 5 feet 2 and weigh 100 pounds. I've tried eliminating milk with no results and I take two grains of thyroid each day.

DEAR READER - There are many causes for diarrhea. I'm glad you tried eliminating milk. It's possible that you didn't follow this strictly enough or long enough to see what results you might get. You might eliminate all foods that contain milk or milk products entirely for a period of several weeks and see if it helps.

A rare cause for severe diarrhea episodes is an allergic-type reaction to gluten, celiac sprue. In the early stages it might not show anything on an X-ray. Gluten is found in almost all cereal products except rice and corn. If you want to test yourself for this you should eliminate all such foods from your diet. That will involve, during the test period especially, preparing all of your food at home from known products. Do not use any processed meat (cold cuts) which may contain cereal, ice cream, puddings or commercial soups which may contain flour. For thickeners you can use corn starch, rice flour and soybean products.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 13-8. What You Need to Know about Diarrhea. It explains in more detail a number of the different disorders that can cause this problem and what can be done about it. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Off-Network TV Swamped by British Comedy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — American off-network television has been swamped by a wave of British comedy, a circumstance to be welcomed or loathed, depending upon how you feel about anatomical jokes and guys in drag.

The crusader of British TV comedy is one Benny Hill, a round, innocent-looking pudgy whose humor is singularly off-color (and sexist, some insist), relying heavily on cleavage shots and puns employing the word "arse."

"The Benny Hill Show" has been surprisingly successful since its export to America three years ago, a phenomenon that the British television industry doesn't pretend to understand. "Benny's so English," says an executive of Thames Television, which produces "Benny."

Actually, viewers here don't really have to listen to Benny's jokes to get a chuckle out of the show. There is something about an Englishman doing silly things that strikes the American funny bone. And apparently, cleavage and short skirts still have their lure.

One of Hill's standard routines is a skit set on a beach in France. The doors to the men's and women's changing rooms, marked Hommes and Femmes, are positioned in such a way that Benny thinks he's going into the men's room when he's really walking in on the ladies. There's a scream, and Benny runs out with a dozen half-dressed women in pursuit.

When you think about it, comedic genius is not heavily present in that skit. But such has worked so far for Hill.

Hill's success has inspired other exports from Britain's TV comedy mainstream, "Dave Allen at Large" and, this season, "The Morecambe and Wise Show." "Morecambe and Wise" has long been Britain's favorite comedy team, a 20-year hit on the BBC. Recently, Eric Morecambe and Ernie Wise left the BBC for the Independent Television Network, and sold their old BBC shows to Time-Life Television for syndication in America.

Time-Life seems to be marketing "Morecambe-Wise" as a "Benny Hill" look-alike, a tactic deplored by Ernie Wise.

"Benny's blue, and we're not," Wise says with a faint scowl. "Eric and I are much more family oriented. It is much more American, too, only it's done in an English way."

Actually, it turns out that Ti-Life pretty much pegged "Morecambe-Wise" correctly, at least from an American perspective.

Morecambe and Wise are genuinely funny much of the time, in that peculiarly British way, and it's hard not to laugh at Benny.

In the case of Benny Hill, the fortunate among us have their wives at their sides to illuminate and identify the sexist stuff. Thus we avoid negating all that progress we made from watching American sitcoms.
